Court-Martial May Be Reprisal

Yablonki Funerals

Miners Ignore Zero Weather

CLARKSVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — The miners came, many dressed in unaccustomed white shirts and neck ties. They ignored temperatures hovering just above zero, the dirty slush in the narrow streets, the snow on the long, long lawn of the funeral home.

In life some had supported Jock Yablonski, some had opposed him. In death, all felt that —political friend or foe, whichever he had been to them —he should not have died the way he did.

As they marched by the three simple brown coffins end to end along the wall of the funeral home chapel, one phrase was heard again and again, almost like an incantation:

It's such a shame. . .what a shame. . . a shame."

Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and his 25-year-old daughter were shot to death in their Clarksville home the night of Dec. 30. Their bodies were not found until Monday.

Yablonski had recently lost an election for the presidency of the United Mine Workers Union (UMW) and his sons, Kenneth and Joseph, are convinced the execution-style slayings are related to their father's defiance of the union hierarchy.

The Yablonskis will be buried Friday. Wednesday evening and this evening the Burkus Funeral Home in nearby Millsboro opened its doors to the public. Friends, miners, the curious, paid their last respects.

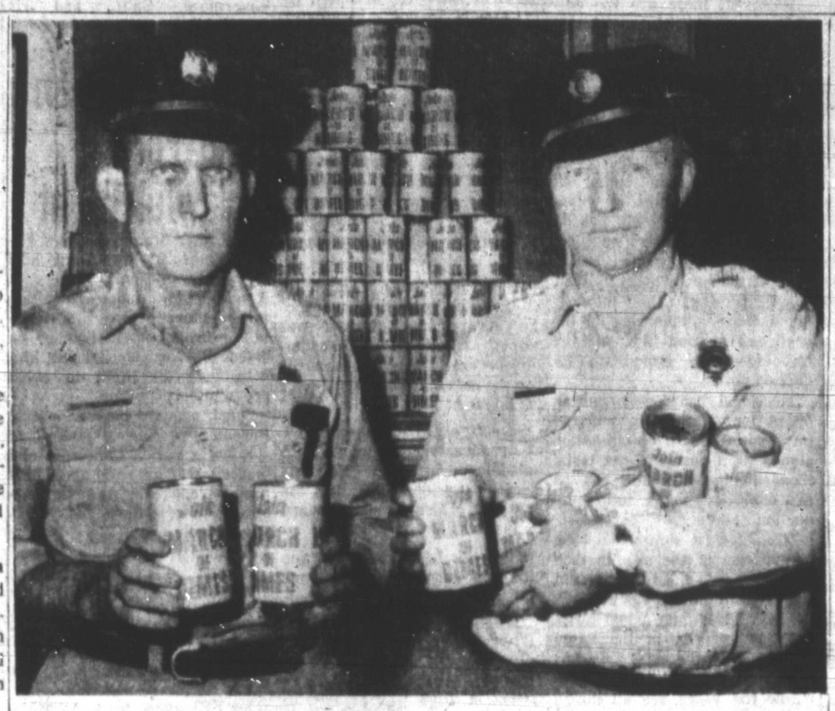

Noticeably absent from the mourners were officials of the UMW, including President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, who won re-election against Yablonski. The dead man's sons said they did not want them there.

Each coffin was topped by a spray of flowers and red ribbons with the words "Father," "Mother," "Sister" written in gold. A single devotional candle flickered in front of each coffin.

FBI agents and state police, in their effort to find the killers, are carrying out what they said is probably the most intensive manhunt since the April 4, 1968 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. But police admitted today they still had no substantial leads in the case.

They expected ballistics tests of 11 bullets to indicate how many persons were involved in the murder. Police said at least two different calibers of bullets were involved.

An FBI spokesman said agents would question hundreds of UMW members, including Boyle.

TODAY'S the day city firemen will be working hand in hand with the Gray County Foundation, March of Dimes, in distributing canisters throughout the business district. City firemen, Leo Tyrell, left and Charles Elliott and their fellow firemen have more than 250 canisters that will be left on counters and desks for the convenience of making contributions to the March of Dimes drive now in progress. New Time Element Introduced

Kopechne Inquest To End Hearings Today

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI) —A witness at the secret inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne contradicted a crucial time element in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's account of the auto accident which took her life, UPI learned today.

Christopher S. Look Jr., an Edgartown deputy sheriff, stuck to his guns Wednesday during 45 minutes of questioning at the inquest. Kennedy had denied Look's account in his appearance Monday.

Nineteen witnesses have been questioned so far in the three-day-old proceeding, but Look's testimony, more than that of anyone else, has turned the investigation into a battle of truth between the glamorous senior senator from Massachusetts and a local fuel oil dealer who has been a deputy for Dukes County since 1953.

The inquest was expected to wind up today following testimony by five young women who, along with Kennedy, Miss Kopechne and five male friends, attended a party the night of her death July 18.

The 28-year-old Washington secretary died when a car Kennedy said he was driving plunged off a bridge on nearby Chappaquiddick Island into a tidal pond.

Look was among nine witnesses to testify Wednesday before Judge James A. Boyle. The testimony of the other witnesses added nothing to what is already known of the accident which clouded the political future of the surviving Kennedy brother.

Look mainfained Wednesday —as he has adamantly since the accident —that he saw the Kennedy car with two and possibly three persons in it at 12:40 or 12:45 a.m., more than an hour after Kennedy said the accident happened. Kennedy said he had been trying to catch the last ferry, which leaves at midnight.

The driver of the car, whom Look could not identify, appeared confused as the uniformed deputy sheriff, who was driving to his Chappaquiddick home after work, approached to offer help.

When he was 20 or 30 feet away, Look said, the car sped off down the dirt road toward the bridge. He said he was certain it was the same car pulled from the pond the following morning with Miss Kopechne's body in it.

Asked how he knew this, Look replied that he was certain that it was a black sedan with a Massachusetts registration plate beginning with "L" and containing the number "7". Kennedy's car was a 1967 black Oldsmobile sedan with registrationL78207. The only other car at the cottage that night was a rented white Valiant.

Pampa To Be Asked To Join Group

A request to have Pampa join with cities and towns in ten eastern Panhandle counties for the formation of a "self-help" organization will be made to the Pampa City Commission when it meets in regular session next Tuesday at City Hall.

Mayor Milo Carlson said today R.L. Roberts of Shamrock had asked to appear at Tuesday's meeting to explain the proposition to Pampa officials.

Mayor Carlson said he was not fully familiar with the plan but it was his understanding that its backers hope to form a more solid organization to assist rural areas in obtaining state and federal aid for soil conservation and erosion projects.

The Pampa mayor said, as he understood the proposal, it's somewhat similar to but not the same as the Regional Planning Commission organized recently in Amarillo to cover a number of Panhandle counties.

"We don't know much about it yet," Carlson said, "and will not know the details until the proposition is presented to us Tuesday."

The mayor was told by Roberts, he said, that the group felt it could not be effective unless Pampa and Gray County gave their support to the movement.

Army Getting Even US Newsman Alleges

SAIGON (UPI) — An Army newscaster said today the U.S. Command's decision to courtmartial him for an incident in December may be reprisal for his allegation last week it was censoring news to GIs in the field.

Spec. 5 Robert Lawrence, 27, of Atlanta, Ga., told a news conference he has been informed that he will be tried for refusing to obey an order from his noncommissioned superior at the Armed Forces Vietnam Network (AFVN) in December.

The network suspended Lawrence from his newscaster's job after he told his television audience Saturday the U.S. Military Command was censoring network news.

"It would be safe for me to assume there is some tie-in" between the two developments, Lawrence said. "MACV (the command) may be seeking some reprisal against me for my allegation against them."

Spokesmen for the U.S. Command said the charges against the newscaster were drawn up Dec. 30, four days before his on-the-air censorship allegation Jan. 3.

Lawrence said he was trying to enlist the aid of such prominent attorneys as F. Lee Bailey, Melvin Belli, William Kunstler and Edward Bennett Williams in his defense.

Lawrence has been charged with using disrespectful language to his AFVN superior, Sgt. 1.C. Robert E. McArthur, on Dec. 28 and with failing to appear before McArthur as ordered the next day.

"Sergeant McArthur vowed twice that he would see me in Long Binh Jail the Army stockade) if it's the last thing he ever did, for refusing his request to drive a truck," Lawrence said.

He disobeyed the truck-driving order, he said, because he was preparing his newcast and thought the driving task would be put off. He said if he had failed to prepare the newscast, he would have been charged with negligence.

The charge of using disrespectful language carries a maximum penalty of one month at hard labor and forfeiture of two-thirds pay for a month. The charge of failing to report for duty calls for a maximum penalty of three months at hard labor and forfeiture of pay for the same period of time. No date was set for the trial.

Treasure Belongs To Texas

BROWNSVILLE (UPI)— U.S. District Court Judge Reynaldo Garza told an Indiana salvage firm Wednesday treasure it helped recover belonged to the State of Texas.

But Garza postponed a hearing, scheduled to begin Wednesday, for 30 days to give attorneys additional time to prepare briefs arguing whether Platoro Ltd., Inc., of Gary, Ind., actually conducted a salvage operation when it recovered the treasure.

State attorneys said Platoro's operations did not fit into the legal category of a salvage.

Platoro attorney Thomas Sharpe Jr. said the treasure was not taken from the ruins of Spanish ships sunk in the Gulf of Mexico. Sharpe said the loot was dug from under 15 to 20 feet of silt.

"It was an exploratory operation on lands belonging to the State of Texas," said state attorney Gilbert T. Adams.

Platoro filed the suit to recover the treasure valued at $600,000. Platoro recovered the treasure, under a contract from Texas Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler. Sadler agreed to split the treasure with Platoro, but later voided the contract.

A court ordered Platoro to return all the treasure to Texas. It has since been placed in an Austin museum.

General Declines To Discuss My Lai Findings

SAIGON (UPI)—Lt. Gen. William R. Peers left for the United States today, declining to say whether his 10-day on-the-spot investigation had found evidence of any Army coverup in the alleged My Lai massacre.

Peers did disclose his inquiry uncovered "some things that will have a bearing" on current court-martial proceedings in connection with the alleged March, 1968, incident. He did not elaborate.

"The ground reconnaissance of My Lai was very productive," he told a news conference. He said he and two civilian assistants would submit a report on findings to Army Secretary Stanley R. Reser.

Asked if he found evidence of an attempted Army coverup, Peers said, "Well, I'd like to be able to respond to that, but very frankly, at this stage of the inquiry I'd feel remiss to make a statement covering that."

Reser and the Army chief of staff, Sen. William C. Westmoreland, named Peers on Nov. 24 to "explore the nature and scope" of the original Army inquiry into the incident and "determine the adequacy of both the investigation and its subsequent review."

IN VIETNAM WAR

Number Of Slain Americans Passes 40,000 In 9th Year

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command made it official today —the number of American killed in Vietnam passed 40,000 last week in the final days of the war's ninth year.

Military spokesmen said 65 GIs died last week, the lowest number in three months, and 477 were wounded as both sides observed truces for the new year —the Communists three days and the Allies one.

This brought the number of U.S. servicemen killed in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, to 40,044 and the number wounded to 263,003. Another 1,356 are listed as missing or captured.

Military spokesmen said South Vietnamese losses for last week were 304 killed and 796 wounded. Communists deaths were put at 1,999.

Headquarters said the latest fighting in the northern war zone below Da Nang included an ambush against a U.S. Marine truck and a six-hour battle between U.S. Army troops and North Vietnamese soldiers.

The clashes left six U.S. servicemen dead and 23 wounded. Guerrilla losses were put at 39 dead in the battling Wednesday.

South Vietnamese headquarters said at the same time its troops fought three battles in the Mekong Delta and killed 42 Viet Cong against light losses of their own.

The latest fighting saw guerrillas detonate a mine beneath a U.S. Marine truck 16 miles below Da Nang, then open up with automatic weapons fire, killing one Leatherneck and wounding seven. The attackers escaped.

Military spokesmen said five Americans were killed and 16 wounded in a six-hour battle 23 miles south of Dan Nang. The GIs used air strikes and artillery to account for most of the 39 North Vietnamese they later found dead.

U.S. B52 bombers went after the Ho Chi Minh Trail outlet feeding the Communist troops in the area, dropping 180 tons of bombs into the A Shau Valley during the night, headquarters said.

FRANK CONVERSE

New Candidate For JP Post

The first Republican candidate to file in Gray County, Frank Converse, today announced his candidacy for Justice of the Peace Precinct 2, Place 2, the office now held by Democrat E.L. Anderson who seeks re-election.

Born in Wheeler County, the candidate has been a resident of Pampa for 52 years and graduated Pampa High School in 1926.

In announcing his candidacy Converse stated that he believes in a two-party system. In his relationship with people over the years, he said he has come to believe that an individual case should be handled on its own merit and that each can't be handled like another.

He resides at 100 S. Faulkner and is the father of four married children, all of whom attended Pampa schools.

He will retire from the Industrial Relations Dept. of Celanese in July. He has been associated with the company since 1957.

Paris Peace Talks Open In Deadlock

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnam peace talks opened 1970 as deadlocked as they closed 1969. Both Communist delegation chiefs boycotted today's 49th session and South Vietnam's man was in Saigon.

The North Vietnamese kept up their attacks on the United States, however, suggesting in an interview published in the newspaper Le Figaro this morning that peace could have come to Vietnam in 1969 but for U.S. aggression.

U.S. Ambassador Philip C. Habib was the only chief negotiator to show up at the former Hotel Majestic conference site. He brushed aside the Communists' boycott.

"That's up to them," he said. "We are fully empowered to discuss anything serious which the other side wishes to raise."

"We enter the new year with the readiness to negotiate seriously," Habib said. "We are making certain suggestions today and restating our position in a way to make clear that readiness."

It's Cold, Going To Stay Cold And Get Colder

Texas blew its cool today from Dalhart to Brownsville.

"Lots and lots of areas are having either record-tying or record - breaking low temperatures," said a chilly voice in the Amarillo Weather Bureau.

"It's going to be in the low or mid-teens tonight in Dalhart and there's not going to be much change through Friday."

The Weather Bureau blamed the cold front that enveloped all of Texas for the fourth day on a huge mass of frigid air.

"This arctic air mass is so big it covers the entire mid-section of the country, not just Texas," said the Amarillo weatherman.

The situation was not much different nearly 1,000 miles south of the Texas Panhandle, in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

"We're down to 27 degrees. It's been cold all yesterday and last night," Mrs. Carl Schuster of the Schuster Farms near McAllen, Tex., said today.

She said the cold snap has killed some of the tender vegetables growing in the Rio Grande Valley.

"The peppers and the tomatoes ... those are gone of course. We had some carrots and cabbages, but I don't think those were hurt. It's hard to tell yet. Some vegetables are stronger than others," she said.

Frank Schuster, Carl's brother, located several miles away and the grower of green vegetables, said his crops were not damaged.

"This is the season for us to have a frost if we are going to have it. The real tender vegetables are out of the ground (harvested) and the spring vegetables are just planted. Most (of the spring vegetables) are at the stage when they can stand quite a bit of cold weather.

Hawaii was the only state not touched by freezing temperatures this morning. Sub-zero readings reached across the Lower Plains states, eastward to New England and westward to the Central Rockies.

Tourists in Miami saw the thermometer drop near the 30s Dallas had early-morning readings in the 20s. The East Coast had readings in the lower teens and even California had freezing temperatures at higher elevatic

Lebanon, N.H., reported 10 below zero, Burlington, Vt., 15 below, Houlton, Maine, 8 below, and Springfield, Mass., 8 below. Pennsylvania reported readings as low as 6 below.

Chicago had an official temperature of 4 below zero at 2 a.m. But the wind, at 15 miles an hour, sent the apparent temperature called the "chill factor" —plummeting to about minus 40 degrees. Minneapolis, Minn., had a 14-below temperature, St. Louis, Mo., 2 below and Denver reported 3 below.

Havre, Mont., had the nation's lowest 2 a.m. reading — 23 below zero. The highest in the 48 adjacent states was 57 at Key West, Fla.

The weather bureau said the chill could be expected to last at least through Friday and possibly into the weekend.

Florida faced the weather with tourists in mink instead bikinis. Fruit pickers raced the frost and citrus growers used smudge pots to protect their crop.

Four trainloads of Chicago commuters were stranded for two hours Wednesday in 12-below-zero temperatures when a power line snapped in the cold.

A Gary, Ind., mother of three accepted a radio station's offer of a $25 prize for anyone willing to walk through its front door clad in a bikini. When Mrs. Irene Wallace shivered through the portals it was 4 below zero. She said she performed the stunt "for the money, of course."

Clear skies covered most of the nation. Snow or snow flurries were noted in the Great Lakes region and a storm spinning off Oregon caused gale force winds along the coast from Northern California to Washington. Light rain fell in the same areas.

Four inches of new snow fell at Muskegon, Mich., bringing the total on the ground to 18 inches. Three inches fell at Buffalo, N.Y.

Pampan Counts Blessings Today

A retired construction manager received a "h— — of a jolt" but was otherwise not injured Wednesday night when his camper pickup was struck by a train six miles west of Pampa.

"I'm very lucky. I didn't have time to think about anything it was just a hell of a jolt," said 67-year-old Paul Rittenhouse, 1200 Garland.

Rittenhouse, who retired three years ago as a manager of construction at Cabot, said he didn't see or hear the train, a 63-car Santa Fe freight headed for Chicago.

"Just as I got on the crossing I heard it whistle. Another two feet and I would have been across the tracks," Rittenhouse said.

Investigating Texas Highway Patrolman Larry Dunham said the left front of the train engine caught the right rear of Rittenhouse's pickup and spun the camper completely around.

Rittenhouse was going north, just off highway 60, and when he stopped he was headed back south.

Rittenhouse was on his way to see the Clyde E. Fry family, who live about three blocks from where the accident happened.

"I just got out and walked on up to their house and asked that the highway patrol be called. It happened too quick for me to be scared," said the father of three grown children.

An ambulance was called but not needed.

"I was very lucky. This is the first accident I've ever had," said a smiling but shaken Rittenhouse.

MAX R. SHERMAN
. . . seeks senate seat

Amarillo Lawyer Tells Candidacy

Amarillo Attorney Max R. Sherman is expected to announce his candidacy today, for the State Senate seat for the 31st Senatorial District, which includes the top twenty counties of the Texas Panhandle.

During the past several weeks, Sherman has been visiting in these twenty counties and talking with people from all walks of life. He believes that being a life-long resident of the Panhandle makes him keenly aware of the assets as well as the needs of this area.

Senator Grady Hazelwood has held this seat for many years, but has indicated to many people that he will not seek reelection.

Sherman was graduated from Baylor University and Law School at the University of Texas. After graduation, he entered the service as a recruit, but later received a commiss' in the Judge Advocate Gener' Corps.

Since completing military service, he has been practicing law with an Amarillo firm.

He and his wife Gene Alice, a former Borger High School teacher, have two children, Lynn Ray, 7 and Holly Ruth, 5.

New Draft System Changes Filings

By ALETHA DAVIS
News Staff Writer

The Selective Service Board headquartered in Pampa's Post Office has been the scene of much activity as Mrs. Brunetta Stewart, clerk, has changed over the old method of filing draft registrants in order to comply with the new random selection law which became effective Jan. 1.

The Pampa board's first call-up has been announced under the new system, and four area men will be inducted into the service on Jan. 19.

Inducted by the new system or volunteering are Richard D. Jones, McLean; Larry Mac Foster and Gene Stanley Groves, both of Pampa; and Ray Dudley Brown, White Deer.

The new random sequence law has entailed a great deal of change in filing and call-up method, according to Mrs. Stewart.

However, these are the only changes as far as registering laws are concerned, she pointed out.

Any male citizen of the United States, no matter where he is residing, must register for the draft within five days of his 18th birthday.

Mrs. Stewart also pointed out that a young man who volunteers for the draft, whether on student deferment or not automatically, is placed at the head of the list. When the draft board receives the monthly quota, those volunteering for the draft are notified first and the remainder are issued an induction notice.

The local board received an order for 10 men to undergo physicals. If a 1-A classification stands as a result of the tests, these 10 men will be put on the draft list for a future induction call-up.

Mrs. Stewart summed up the explanation of the new method in stating that the filing system was so different it was a shock to see a 1949 and a 1951 birthdate on records in the same file since in the past this has been the major factor in filing. "Now the years are all mixed up," she states.

Houstonian Appeals Speed Ticket

AUSTIN (UPI) — A Houston traffic court fined Glenn Carlton Parsons $25 for speeding on Houston's Gulf Freeway.

Parsons not only appealed the decision, but he won the first round. The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ordered a new trial for Parsons Wednesday on the grounds prosecutors relied on testimony of a city secretary to establish the speed limit on the freeway.

Parsons, of Houston, claimed the city of Houston has set no maximum speed limit for the section of the Gulf Freeway in which he was ticketed.

The court also granted Parsons a new trial on the grounds there was no provision in the municipal speed limit ordinance establishing a "per-ima facie speed limit of 50 miles an hour on the Gulf Freeway between South Wayside Drive and Telephone Road."

Former Borgan To Face Kidnap Charge

AUSTIN (UPI)— Jerry L. Wilson of Dallas, formerly of Borger, has been ordered extradited to New Mexico to face charges of kidnaping his former wife, Sue Fischer, and remarrying her in Juarez, Mexoco.

Wilson allegedly abducted the girl off an Albuquerque street on the day she planned to wed another man. The Mexican marriage was voided after the girl said Wilson forced her into it.

Wilson is a former Southern Methodist University football player.

The extradition order was mailed Wednesday to Potter County, Tex., sheriff Paul Gaither after Gov. Preston Smith granted the order Tuesday.

The secretary of state scheduled hearings on the extradition requests on three separate occasions, but got no response from Wilson or his attorney.

Sarnoff Resigns As RCA Chief

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff resigned Wednesday as chairman of the board of RCA Corp., ending 60 years as an executive of the giant communications company he helped launch in 1919.

He was succeded by his son, Robert W. Sarnoff, president since 1966 who will now serve as chairman and president.

RCA Corp., which recently changed its name from Radio Corp. of America, accepted the 79-year-old Sarnoff's resignation "with regret" and elected him the first honorary chairman in RCA's history.

Sarnoff was associated in one way or another with communications since his early teens when, as the eldest of five children in an immigrant family in a New York tenement district he went to work as a newsboy for a Yiddish language paper.

When RCA was formed in 1919, at the request of the U.S. government, Sarnoff was named commercial manager. He became general manager two years later and vice president in 1922.

Sarnoff organized the National Broadcasting Co. as an RCA subsidiary in 1929. He was elected president of RCA in 1930 and chairman of the board in 1947.

His work in military communications earned him the rank of brigadier general on Dec. 6, 1944.

In 1963 President Sylvanus Olympio of the west African nation of Togo was assassinated.

Father Fights For Daughter's Right To Wear Slacks To Class

HOUSTON (UPI)— The father of a junior high school girl, who was told she could not wear slacks to school regardless of the weather, said Wednesday he planned to seek legal advice on the matter.

"We're prepared to fight this all the way," said Ernest Williams.

Debra Williams, 12, wore the slacks to school Wednesday because her mother told her it was too cold to wear a dress. School officials told Debra she could not attend school in slacks and so her mother took the girl home.

"Just because she is a girl doesn't mean she can't dress to properly protect her from the weather," Williams said. "The boys bundle up and I don't know why my daughter can't do the same thing. She dresses properly all the time."

"It was 20 degrees (Wednesday) morning and Debra almost froze to death getting to school Tuesday," Mrs. Williams said. "So I told her to wear slacks, a sweater and a coat over that. I didn't want her to catch cold."

In order to get to school, Debra has to wait for one bus, transfer and wait for another bus that eventually takes her to class.

Pampa Girl In Surgery Today

Mary Kathryn Doom, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Doom, 1100 Crane Rd., underwent open heart surgery today in Texas Children's Hospital in Houston.

The young girl, who was born a heart bluebaby, went through the catherization procedure Wednesday, where doctors probed the heart to check it out.

Famed heart surgeon Dr. Denton Cooley was to perform the surgery.

MRS. E.B. DALEY

Funeral services for Mrs. E.B. Daley, 1217 Christine, are pending with Duenkel Funeral Home Directors.

Mrs. Daley died at 7 a.m. today in her home after suffering a heart attack.

She was born in Montpilier, Ind., April 7, 1902, and had lived here the past 40 years. Before moving here she lived in Sapulpa, Okla., about 20 years.

Survivors are her husband, E.B. Daley, of the home; one son, Eddie, Las Vegas, Nev.; one sister, Mrs. Helen Link, Livermore, Calif., and six grandchildren.

Former Pampan Held For Unlawful Flight

A former Pampan, Troy Eugene Searl, 22, was being held in Potter County jail in Amarillo today awaiting arrangement before U.S. Commissioner Robert R. Sanders on a federal warrant charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Searl, accused by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of stealing a car in California and forgery, was arrested about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the intersection of Brown and Starkweather Sts. by Pampa policeman Roy Denman.

Pampa officers had been alerted Wednesday afternoon by the FBI to be on the lookout for Searl, supposidly driving a 1962 blue Chevrolet with California license plates. The car is reportedly stolen.

An FBI agent from Amarillo, assistant police chief George Wallace and police Lt. John Thomas, searched for Searl Wednesday afternoon but could not find the man.

Denman said in his report he first observed the car Searl was driving on S. Cuyler, then stopped him a few blocks later.

Searl was taken to Gray County jail and transferred to Amarillo this morning by Texas Ranger Bill Baten.

An FBI agent said the car Searl was driving was reported stolen in Imperial City, Calif. and that Searl was wanted in El Centro, Calif. for passing $50 to $70 worth of forged checks.

EMPLOYMENT FALLS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The number of new workers hired by the nation's factories in November fell to its lowest level since June of 1968, according to the Labor Department.

The trend, the department said, indicates a cooling of the economy. The factories were hiring at a rate of 34 new employes for every 1,100 workers last November, compared with a rate of 36 per 1,000 the previous month.

Monday Night Club playing 6-table Howell: Ruth Goodwyn and Betty Garren, first; Lola Roach and Dee Patterson, second; Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Hampton, third; Mr. and Mrs. George Philpott, fourth.

INCREASE IN APRIL

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Social Security recipients should not expect their 15 per cent benefit increase until the first week in April, according to Commissioner Robert M. Ball.

Although President Nixon has signed the increase the paperwork will hold up the actual increase in paychecks until April, when checks covering the month of March are issued. A separate catchup check, covering the increase for the months of January and February, will be sent out later in April, Ball said.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—I suppose it's not very chic to like a television situation comedy. Sue me. I have developed a genuine liking for CBS-TV's "The Governor and J.J.," the best new series the network has put on this season.

Admittedly, that doesn't say much for the season as a whole, or make it seem that television is marching onward and upward determinedly. But there is no harm in a series that is crafted strictly for light entertainment. And there is certainly pleasure in watching professionals race through a weekly, frothy farce with style and good humor, and generally favorable results.

The half-hour series is, simply, about the governor of a state —a widower —and his grown young daughter who lives with him in the guvernatorial mansion. There is a basic underlying suggestion of a natural generation gap that has been resolved to the satisfaction of both the governor and his daughter (J.J.) —but, thankfully, there are no big social statements about their differnces or agreements. Thank heaven for small statements.

What makes the series come across with warm good nature and charming frivolity is, chiefly, the shrewd ability of the production heads, the directors and writers to make the shows move with real zip. The pace is consistently fast, and the frequently pungent punch lines are there for punctuation.

In the end, though, it is up to the performers. And here is where "The Governor and J.J." shines most visibly —with a comedy cast that may well be the best and most attractive, from top to bottom, on television.

Dan Dailey plays the governor —and his old ability to give charm and likability to even the most banal project is on display again. He shows you again how he saved movie after movie for years and years.

Julie Sommars plays his daughter —and if there is a lovelier bit of femininity on television, I haven't seen it. She is wholesome, talented, humorous, bright and quietly sensual.

The timing and teamwork of the cast as a whole give the final polish. James Callahan, as the governor's press aide, and Neva Patterson, as a secretary, are the two other principal regulars. And they are expert and a pleasure to watch.

SKELTON IN HOSPITAL

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Red Skelton was in satisfactory condition today at Desert Hospital, where he is being treated for an upper respiratory ailment and bronchitis.

Skelton entered the hospital Monday and was expected to remain there until next week. A spokesman for the television star said Skelton's illness forced cancellation of taping his comedy hour.

POPE CRITICAL

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI, who has often praised science for bettering man's welfare, criticized it Tuesday, saying it had weakened and deadened man's spiritual sense.

"It even dares to say God is dead," the pontiff told several thousand persons gathered in St Peters Square for an Epiphany Day blessing. "No, God is not dead. The sun has not been extinguished."

Man has been blinded by an awareness of science, the Pope said. "Our eyes are closed and do not see the divine dawn which come over the rational horizon."

OFFICERS TO MEET

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Staff military officers from Washington and Saigon will meet in Honolulu Jan. 12 to 16 to work out plans for a further withdrawal of 50,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam.

The withdrawal, announced last month and set for completion by April 15.

Angry White Parents Refuse To Obey HEW

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Angry white parents, shouting "hell no, we won't go," defied the U.S. Supreme Court's "instant desegregation" order Tuesday and refused to transfer children to a previously all-black school.

It was the first outward show of hostility in three days as Mississippi officials continued implementation of the court order which affected 30 school districts.

The outburst occurerd in teh Forrest County school district, which includes schools outside Hattiesburg in southeast Mississippi.

The parents of 280 white children, jammed into the auditorium of Petal Junior High School, began shouting as a school official attempted to explain the court order, which would have transferred the pupils to Earl Travillion school, formerly all-black.

"Say what you've got to say and let's go," one parent yelled as Superintendent Milton Evans took the podium.

Evans began, "The school board has no choice..." and another parent yelled, "We do, though!"

"Take your kids," shouted another parent.

Evans tried to explain again that "there is nothing else we can do at this time," but the parents drowned him out with a chant of "hell no, we won't go," and stormed out of the auditorium.

It was uncertain what the parents would do. Presumably many would send their children to all-white private schools, a course taken by a large number of Mississippians to get around the court order.

The principal of Petal junior high, Roland Loper, said the white students would not be expelled although they did not register. "We'll be nice to them," he said.

The Forrest County school system has a three-to-one majority of black students. The Petal school was the focal point for much of the desegregation called for in Forrest County.

When the order was announced 10 weeks ago, parents formed an organization which urged whites to oppose the plan.

The parents and their children, bundled up against freezing temperatures, showed up at the Petal school early this morning to hear the plan explained.

Three other districts with black majorities also began classes this morning, but there were no incidents. The pattern has been that whites abandon schools in which they find themselves a minority, seeking private education. Most whites have returned to schools in which they hold a majority.

Desegregation was carried out quietly this morning in the Holmes County district, the largest outside Jackson.

The Supreme Court ordered 30 of Mississippi's 148 districts in October to "desegregate now," ending the "all deliberate speed" concept.

Classes also began this morning in Natchez-Adams schools and Hinds County schools, where Negroes outnumber white students by at least 1,000.

Sadler Announces For Sixth Term, 'Doesn't Have Time For Politics'

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, who announced Tuesday for re-electiin, said he doesn't "have time for politics." But that doesn't bother the 62-year-old, snuff-dipping East Texan in the least.

In announcing for his sixth term, Sadler issued a three-page statement defending his role in the controversy over treasure recovered fron sunken Spanish galleons off Texas' Padre Island. He blasted critics who have raised accusations of absenteeism against him.

Sadler's role in the controversy drew an official reprimand from the Texas House of Representatives in September, the first such censure of a top state official by legislators in Texas history.

Just three hours before he announced for re-election, Sadler was served a subpoena in a $1.5 million libel suit by Jeff Burke, a diver from Rio Hondo, Tex., who was employed by Platoro Ltd., Inc., in salvaging 400-year-old treasure.

Sadler said in his statement, in answer to critics, he is frequently away from his office because "I have not been content to accept second-hand, hearsay evidence about operations and conditions on state lands under my office's charge, and I have spent a good deal of time in traveling all over the state on personal inspection tours of these lands."

Pennsylvania Has High Tax

HARRISBURG (UPI)—Pennsylvania soon will have the nation's highest cigarette tax.

Legislation raising the state cigarette levy from 13 to 18 cents per pack was given final approval in the senate Tuesday night and sent to Gov. Raymond P. Shafer for his signature.

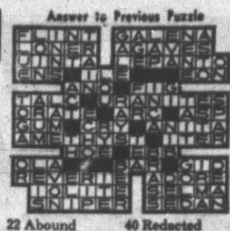

Budget officials expect the higher cigarette levy will provide the state treasury with an additional $21 million for the balance of the current fiscal year and with $60 million for the full 1970-71 fiscal period.

Texas Banks Reflect Decreased Deposits

By United Press International

Financial experts see decreasing Texas bank deposits as a sign of a tight money policy by the Nixon administration.

"I would say the impact of the Federal Reserve's restrictive money policies are being felt throughout the banking system," a Dallas banker said.

An Austin banker said the tight money trend has its greatest effect on big city banks.

Federal and state regulatory authorities asked Texas banks for a statement of their conditions as of Dec. 31, 1969. Many big city banks showed smaller deposits than at the same time in 1968. But smaller cities and towns showed normal growth.

Gains in Harris

Harris County (Houston) banks broke with the trend and set a record for deposits with $5,228,314,763, a 4.2 per cent rise over $5,015,790,575 a year ago.

Dallas deposits decreased from $5,204,007,070 Dec. 31, 1968 to $5,154,768,770 at the end of 1969.

Fort Worth and Tarrant County banks registered a drop of more than $73,000 from 1968. Their total deposits at the end of 1969 were $1,472,726,902.

Austin banks reported $500,000 less than in 1968, but all Travis County banks combined reported $677,609,111 in 1969, up $1 million.

Other Losses Noted

Other Texas cities showing decreases included: Tyler, $170,203,116, down more than $10 million; and Abilene, $183,272,361, down more than $7 million.

San Antonio banks reported a gain of more than $31 million, from $1,302,990,11 to $1,334,572,445.

Waco reported an increase of $16.7 million.

Both Lubbock and Longview set new highs. Lubbock broke the $400 million mark

School Lunch Treats

Readin', writin' and 'rithmetic won't be half as painful for the junior generation if they can anticipate a special treat in that lunch box mother packed in the morning. And, can you imagine anything that could possibly taste better than sandwiches made with Honey Almond Cranberry Bread!

But don't stop there. Add an extra dividend with one of the following fillings: cream cheese and jelly, deviled ham and thinly sliced apple or peanut butter and sliced bananas. Yum!

HONEY ALMOND CRANBERRY BREA
(Makes 2 9x5x3-inch loaves)

6 cups biscuit mix
1 teaspoon ground allspice
2 cups fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 cup chopped blanched almonds
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup honey
½ cup milk
½ cup orange juice

Combine biscuit mix, allspice, cranberries, orange rind and almonds. Add eggs, honey, milk and orange juice and beat until well blended. Spoon mixture into 2 greased and floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pans. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 50 to 55 minutes or until top springs back when touched. Unmold and cool thoroughly on a rack. Slice thinly to make sandwiches. Suggested fillings: cream cheese and jelly, deviled ham and thinly sliced apple or peanut butter and sliced bananas.

Fruits In Dessert Lower Food Costs

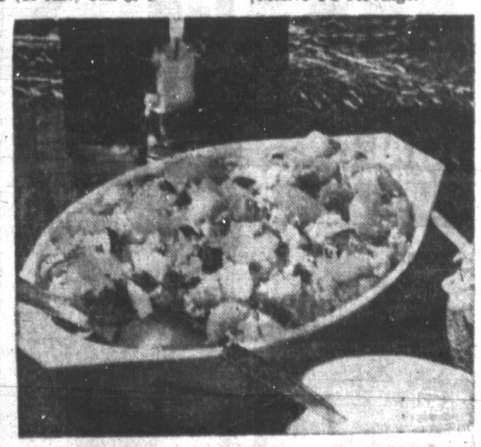

Homemade desserts come under the wing of pleasing, inexpensive foods to serve family or friends.

Key to stretching the food budget are dishes made of plentiful foods. Prices will be lower. During January, apples and oranges are on the list of economical items. Use these for an apple and orange betty that'll inspire calls for seconds. Traditionally a "betty" is a baked pudding made with layers of fruit, buttered bread crumbs, sugar and spices and served hot with a hard sauce or cream. When made with apples and brown sugar, it's called a "brown betty."

APPLE AND ORANGE BETTY

½ cup melted butter or margarine
1 quart lightly toasted (½-inch) bread cubes
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup bown sugar
2 cups chopped fresh apples; peel if preferred
1 (11-ozs.) can or 1 cup drained mandarin or fresh orange sections
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup orange juice
½ cup medium-fine soft bread crumbs
1 cup whipped cream. . . .

Drizzle butter over toasted bread cubes; toss to blend. Combine cinnamon, salt and sugar; add to apples. Reserve a few orange sections for garnish. Add remaining orange sections to apple mixture. Place half the toasted bread cubes in a greased (1½-quart) baking dish, top with half the apple mixture. Repeat layers, using all the toasted bread cubes and fruit mixture. Combine lemon juice and orange juice; pour over pudding. Scatter bread crumbs over top. Cover and bake in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking for another 15 minutes or until topping is brown. Serve with sour or whipped cream and garnish with reserved orange sections. Makes 6-8 servings.

Who can resist an apple and orange Betty?

FOOD QUESTIONS

Q —Could you please tell me what is the best way to defrost frozen foods?

A—Many frozen foods are better cooked or heated without defrosting. These include vegetables and many prepared or partially prepared foods. Diercctions for cooking, without defrosting, are given on the various packages.

For foods to be partially or wholly defrosted before using, the ideal method is to move the product in its unopened container from freezer to refrigerator. To speed thawing, the package can be held at room temperature until defrosted. Or, for even faster defrosting, the package can be immersed in or held under running water until thawed. Some baked goods may also be defrosted by heating slightly in a moderate oven. The refrigerator method is best for those foods which are normally eaten chilled, such as fruits, cream pies, cooked shrimp, because the foods are kept cold after complete defrosting, according to the National Association of Frozen Food Packers.

Q — How do I tell whether a lemon is ripe or not?

A — Look for lemons with a rich yellow color, reasonably smooth textured skin with a slight gloss, and those which are firm and heavy.

A Circus Party—Fun For All

Why not give a Circus Party as a special treat for the teen-age set, an evening of gaiety for grown-ups, or for the not-too small fry. Good fun anytime of the year!

This is a circus you make, from the parade of funny little bean bag clowns to the rings which house their acts. Even the animals may be fashioned of foods. Dried fruits are turned into ferocious leopards and lions; oranges become plump elephants; animal crackers fill little cages. It's a circus for even the maker!

When your church or club group needs gifts for the Annual Bazaar, get out your scrap bag of fabrics and trimmings and a bag of dry beans to whip up little bean-filled clowns. This is a perfect time to plan on a pot of beans to slow-bake, unattended, while you stitch. Plan a Circus Party before you make your contribution.

For your Circus Party Buffet Supper, here's your basic menu, to be varied according to age group and their tastes. It is easy to do, as everything is ready beforehand. Plan on hot Mulled Cider with bags of Buttered Popcorn, Pinto Baked Beans and bacon wrapped, cheese-stuffed "Hot Dogs" in toasted buns, with a make-your-own Salad Lazy Susan for grown-ups. For dessert, have orange sherbet, frosted cup cakes. Add cold bottled beverages and coffee.

Pinto Baked Beans

2 pounds (4 and ⅔ cups) Pinto Beans, cooked
2 medium onions, chopped (1 cup)
¾ pound salt pork
½ cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 cup molasses

Cook beans until tender but firm, following package directions. Using a slotted spoon, place beans in heavy pot or casserole of about 4-quart capacity. Stir in chopped onion; scrape and wash salt off the salt pork. Cut nearly through the skin in 1-inch squares. Bury salt pork, cut side up, in center of beans. Mix together remaining ingredients with 2 cups of the bean liquid. Pour over beans, adding enough of the boiling liquid to cover. Put on tight-fitting lid or foil and lid. Bake in a 250°F. (slow) oven for 6 to 8 hours, adding some boiling liquid if beans are not quite covered. Just before serving, remove lid. With a wooden spoon, gently bring pork to surface. Raise oven heat to brown pork. Makes 12 hearty servings.

Yours for the asking: if you would like a pattern for the Clown Bean Bag, sent with a bean recipe booklet, mail a postcard to Idaho Bean Commission Kitchens; P.O. Box 177; Ontario, Oregon 97914.

Try Banana Upside-Down Cake For A Change

Instead of the usual pineapple upside-down cake, try making one with bananas.

This recipe uses mashed bananas in the batter and covers the bottom of the pan with sliced bananas (which, of course, become the top layer of the upside-down cake). Serve with whipped cream or peanut butter fluff

UPSIDE-DOWN BANANA CAKE

¾ cup margarine
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2½ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1½ cups mashed ripe bananas (about 4 medium)
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
2 medium bananas, sliced. . . .

Grease 9x9x2-inch baking pan. Blend ¼-cup of the margarine and brown sugar; spread in prepared pan. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda together; set aside. Stir lemon juice into mashed bananas. Blend together the other ½-cup margarine and sugar. Add eggs 1 at a time, blending until smooth. Stir in sifted flour mixture alternately with banana lemon mixture, mixing until smooth after each addition. Arrange banana slices on top of sugar and margarine mixture in pan. Pour batter over sliced bananas. Bake in 350-degree oven 45 to 50 minutes or until cake springs back when touched lightly with finger. Cool 5 minutes, then remove from pan. Serve with Peanut Butter Fluff.

NOTE: Plan to serve cake the same day it is baked since the bananas will darken on standing.

PEANUT BUTTER FLUFF

2 tablespoons peanut butter
¼ cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, chilled. . . .

Mix peanut butter, light corn syrup, sugar and salt together. Stir in heavy cream. Whip with rotary beater until mixture forms soft peaks when beater is raised. Use as frosting, topping or filling for cake or refrigerator dessert. Makes about 2 cups.

If you have the space in which to store them, save jewelry boxes and the like for use later in gift wrapping. To conserve space, put the smaller ones inside the large ones.

Your age is a favorite subject when other women whisper behind your back

When facial lines start the gossip, 2nd Debut is definitely indicated. It's applied at night before retiring and in the morning before make-up. As it rehydrates the stratum corneum layer of your facial skin, lines seem to fill in—many of them disappear, others reduce to near nothingness. 2nd Debut contains CEF, the only substance known that can enter the facial skin, take water-moisture in with it and retain it there. That's 2nd Debut's secret. Try it.

Money Running Low For 'Vet' Land Loans

AUSTIN (UPI) — More than 4,000 Texas veterans have purchased land with loans from the Veterans Land Board since 1967.

But because the state constitution imposes a 4.5 per cent ceiling on the bonds for these loans the bonds can not compete on the same market with corporate bonds giving a 9 per cent interest rate.

Voters rejected an amendment last August to raise the ceiling. Therefore, it appears the Texas Veterans Land Program may run out of money before Septempber.

Dim Sales Outlook

"It just doesn't look like we'll sell any bonds in the near future," Texas Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler said Tuesday.

If the money runs out, the state will just have to quit accepting applications from veterans seeking the low interest loans for land purchases.

Although the veterans program may be the first of its kind to fold, several other agencies are facing money problems because of the bond ceiling. The Texas Water Development Board, for one example, has not sold a single bond since Jan. 29, 1968. Board officials said the agency has "no cash money or assets to finance any new programs."

Waiting For Money

When local water districts and other government agencies seek financial aid, they are told the best that can be done for them is to approve their applications for "whenever the money becomes available."

The College Coordinating Board fared somewhat better. It also was running into difficulty trying to sell bonds for student loans. But voters, in the same election in which the constitutionally imposed ceiling on most bonds was reafirmed, permitted the College Coordinating Board's bond to go at an interrest rate of 6.5 per cent.

"We're all right now, but the way the bond market is going up we don't know what we're going to be able to sell six months from now," said Billy Ira Taylor a student loan officer.

Ag Department Will Withhold Food From Poor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department will go to court to try to keep from beginning food distribution programs for the poor in 109 Texas counties.

A spokesman for the Department said Tuesday he is aware of the problems of the poor, but federal officials feel the ruling by U.S. District Judge William Taylor Dec. 30 in Dallas to begin programs immediately narrowed the Agriculture Department's options.

Texas has more counties not on any type of food assitance program than any other state. Kansas is second with 58 counties.

The Agriculture Department has not yet asked the Justice Department to appeal the case. When it does, the Justice Department must decide whether it would be feasible.

Agriculture lawyers believe the current law gives the secretary board discretion on how he protects farm produce prices. One of the things he can do is distribute commodities. But the Taylor ruling forces him to that step in the 109 Texas counties, thus taking away his discretionary power, a spokesman said.

The administration and the department intend that programs should be set up in Texas as rapidly as possible," the spokesman said. "Even without the court order, we had plans to go ahead with programs with the cooperation of the state of Texas."

A meeting of agriculture officials in Texas was planned before the court hearing and "its purpose fulfills the order," the spokesman said. "I expect some definitive action in the next few weeks."

OUR CAPSULE POLICY

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TEXAS PANHANDLE TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me!

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

(Permission is hereby granted to reproduce in whole or in part any editorials originated by the News and appearing in these columns, provided proper credit is given.)

Truth About M. L. King

(A Guest Editorial)

It now appears that the government was listening in on the telephone conversations of Martin Luther King. It appears also that the wire-tapping of this supposedly "non-violent" black "martyr" was authorized by none other than Robert F. Kennedy, then attorney general.

So far, this is of no particular interest because this newspaper long ago told its readers that M.L. King was not what he purported to be and that neither was Bobby Kennedy. That ruthless individual was quite capable of putting a wiretap on his own mother's phone.

What is interesting is that partial disclosures reveal that King was in direct contact with some of the most influential Communist contacts in the U.S. as reported by our Washington columnist, Paul Scott, the FBI has been able to confirm that Kremlin agents whose influence extends into the highest ranks of the Communist Party were King's ghost writers and chief advisers on protest strategy.

Martin Luther King well understood with whom he was dealing, because several pictures taken by the FBI show King meeting Communist operators at one of the major U.S. airports instead of at his office or home.

The FBI, according to Scott, ran into the King connection while investigating another national security case. When King's name was mentioned several times by persons under surveillance, it was decided to put the civil rights leader under close observation.

So alarming was what was learned about King that House Speaker John McCormack was informed. This briefing caused Speaker McCormack to make extensive preparations to defend Washington against King's plans to cause massive disruption.

Those who heard the playing of the tapes were shocked at the gutter-type language King used in private conversations about the late President John F. Kennedy. Yet, King's leadership task was to give the overall movement an acceptable "image" that would attract millions of Negroes, young people, the poor, the clergy, and those disenchanted with the Vietnam War.

Thus has been confirmed completely the concept of Martin Luther King which this newspaper has relayed to its readers.

In view of this partial disclosure, this newspaper feels that it is high time the FBI be ordered by the proper authorities to release the entire context of the King conversations. They should exclude only those parts which would compromise our national security.

It is pathetic to see the people, both black and white, misled by the publicity and propaganda surrounding M.L. King into believing him to be something he was not. Such delusions are dangerous to the national security.

It is time for the public to be told the truth!

—Manchester (N.H.) Union Leader

Students' Right To Learn

To our way of thinking, dissent can be limited in scope so that the great majority of students, hungering for higher learning, will not be deprived of their rights so that a minority can exercise the privilege to revolt. The backlash from violence among collegians has struck at the heart of Americans. If university presidents and the professors can not hear the alarm, the U.S. Congress soon will.

WIT AND WHIMSY

Two ministers were in a cab driving to the station to catch a train. Fearful that they were late, one pulled out his watch to consult it, but found it had stopped.

Rev. Price (in annoyance) — How vexing. And I've always put such faith in this watch.

Rev. Rice — In this instance, good works would probably have served better.

A lank, disconsolate - looking farmer stood on the steps of the town hall during the progress of a political meeting.

Mr. Lee (a stranger briskly pausing for a moment beside the farmer) — Do you know who's talking in there now? Or are you just going in?

Farmer Long (passing a knotted hand across his forehead) — Well, he didn't say.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the 1970s this country among others will face a vast reclamation project. It will need to try to reclaim as useful citizens of society a sizable share of the potentially capable young people who today are deliberately restricting their minds.

Obviously, an immense number of young Americans are not only packing in the greater volume of information made possible by the knowledge explosion, but are developing the judgment and character required to use it wisely.

The concern is not for these, but for the haughty militants who simply refuse to be educated, who have — sometimes with shortsighted academic co-operation — acquired no more than the ritualistic concepts of what amounts to a narrow-minded cult.

This reporter has had extensive conversations recently with young people involved in constructive efforts to improve this society. What stuns them is the severe limit within which the "turned off" militants operate mentally.

These involved young folk have nearly as bad a gap with the self-limiting types as is celebrated by the phrase, "generation gap."

They find no way to argue or persuade or impart fresh knowledge to the young cultists. The latter cling fanatically to their shallow, one-sided view of America and the world, rejecting history, rejecting even current experience which does not fit their little religion.

One of their vogue words, of course, is "relevance." A more foolish notion was never introduced into the educational realm. As author Irving Kristol privately pointed out, the cultists keep redefining "relevance" almost daily. Right now, it rules out virtually everything that happened before 1960.

An earnest, bright young lawyer who has tried to talk to young militants about sensible means of improving American political life says he quickly loses them. He told me:

"I will be discussing some prospective reform, when one of them will say: 'You are talking about the Republican Convention.' The words are uttered as if there were never going to be another Republican convention, because they have decided that society must change radically."

What most disturbs this young man and others like him is the crippling rigidity of the cultists' outlook. They do not really think at all. They live by placard slogans, by vogue words and ideas, with minds closed to the crowding realities which do not fit.

It is commonly said today that the young are more "aware" than their predecessors because television hes shown them clearly what war, poverty, discrimination, pollution and other problems are like.

That is all fine as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough by a great measure. It does not help much for the cultists to blame "society" in the abstract, or even to be somewhat more specific and lay the charge of transgression at the door of their immediate elders.

Some ars who seem determined to treat with reverence almost any utterance of the young fall into the cultists' errors and accept the latter's renunciation of the "world their elders built."

Did they, now, really? This nation, the primer properly says, took a lot longer to build than the time the kids' elders have been around. And its faults and flaws, as well as its many high qualities, are deeply embedded in the history the cultists so furiously reject.

Their call for revolution is really a demand for instant, sweeping revision of human behavior. But people are stubbornly imperfect, and if the young cultists took over tomorrow they would find they had the same clay to work with. Inevitably they will find, too, as reality dawns upon them, that they themselves suffer the same imperfections which give them such pain when seen in others on television.

Solution For Earth's Ills May Come From The Moon

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

BOSTON (NEA) — By one of those ironies of history, new developments make it likely the billions spent on going to the moon (which many think had been better spent on fighting hunger, illiteracy and poverty) may prove to be the one means by which we can make significant gains in our lifetime toward realizing those aims in the world's underdeveloped nations.

For example: it now appears that stemming the death of millions in India from starvation, which, it had seemed, would take generations to achieve, now appears possible within our own lifetime.

There are many who believe the rapid elimination of illiteracy is necessary if the developing countries of Africa, Latin America and Asia are to achieve reasonable governments, viable economies and a growth sufficient to keep their peoples from despair.

Normally it would take decades to achieve universal education and wipe out illiteracy in all but the smallest of such countries, even with massive infusions of U.S. aid and cost requirements can be cut to a fraction of what they were.

To see how this may be possible, consider this development, now in the planning stage:

India has requested and the U.S. approved a joint venture by which this country would assign one or more channels in a stationary satellite to make possible television broadcasts to 5,000 Indian villages. The receivers (one or more for each village) would be provided by India. The programs would be designed by India.

These broadcasts would have a variety of themes. Somewhat like the county agents in America, they would give farmers information on new and better types of rice and other crops, on better farming techniques, on sanitation, on drilling wells, on proven irrigation methods, on improved fertilizing and on nutrition.

Other programs would provide basic education for tens of millions who can neither read nor write.

This first attempt experimental. As bugs are eliminated and experience gained, the concept will be expanded to cover India's other 45,000 villages.

What will work for India hopefully will work for scores of other countries in Asia, Latin America and Africa whose problems are illiteracy, backward farming techniques and a lack of sanitation which makes widespread disease inevitable.

But this revolution, made possible by space developments, is not limited to such programs.

Brazil and Mexico have proposed joint projects with the United States space agency for using aerial and space studies of crop potential and agricultural resources for boosting food output and rural development. Presumably this program would eventually be expanded to report on crop diseases and weather conditions early enough so that disasters could be fought early.

The Western European community has been having discussions with this country for a joint air traffic management and control through satellites project.

Japan has approached the United States for a joint program on weather prediction as an aid to shipping and agriculture.

These programs are aid in the best sense. That is, they help these nations help themselves. They are joint programs in which the national officials and national scientists play important roles and in which the national governments share the costs.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials report the nations asking for these joint projects want it this way. It preserves their pride and trains their own technicians.

It may be noted that for years the U.S. attempted to solve India's recurring starvation by shipping huge stocks of food annually. The attempt failed because this aid did nothing to raise India's own food output, and her population growth increased the number of starving people faster than our aid programs could supply the food.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The World Almanac says that there were several 19th-century thinkers who foresaw travel to the moon, and not all of them were scientists. French novelist Jules Verne's "From the Earth to the Moon," written in 1865, was the tale of three 19th-century astronauts aboard a huge artillery-shell-type spacecraft named Columbiad, rocketed to the moon from a Florida launch site.

A young matron in whom the shopping - instinct was strong asked a German butcher the price of a Hamburger steak.

Otto — Seventy-five cents a pound.

Mrs. Blank—But, the price at the corner store is only fifty cents.

Otto — Vel, vy don't you buy it down there?

Mrs. Blank — They haven't any.

Otto — Oh, I see, Ven I don't have it I sell it for forty cents.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Menopause's Onset Occurs Gradually

Q — How can a woman know when the menopause starts and when it is completed?

A — The onset of the change, usually between the ages 45 and 50, is gradual. The interval between menstrual periods becomes longer and the periods themselves are of shorter duration. It is complete when there are no more periods.

Q —I am going through the change and my doctor has prescribed Premarin. What does this drug do? Are there any side effects?

A — By replacing the female hormones no longer produced by the ovaries, this drug relieves menopausal symptoms when taken daily for three weeks, then discontinued the one week, there should be no side effects. Too large a dosage may cause soreness of the breasts and pelvic discomfort.

Q — What is surgical menopause? What effect would it have on the natural aging process?

A — Surgical removal of the uterus, ovaries or both during the childbearing period brings on a sudden and complete menopause. This does not affect the aging process, even if you don't take any female hormones.

Q — I have heard that there is a test that tells whether a woman has started her change of life and whether it is complete. Is this true?

A — A chemical test that determines the amount of estrogen in your blood is an index of ovarian activity and, thus, of the stage of your menopause.

Q — What would cause a woman, 76, to have hot flushes and weats? What can I do for them?

A — Although these symptoms usually start with the onset of the menopause, they often persist long after it is complete. They are caused by instability of the nervous control of the blood vessels of the skin and are aggravated by hot weather, hot baths, alcohol, spicy foods, excessive coffee drinking and nervous excitement. They are helped by avoiding these precipitating factors and keeping your weight within the normal range. Female hormones, vitamin E, or a short course of tranquilizer may also be helpful.

Q— I have been told that during and after the menopause a woman should not have sexual relations, as it will cause cancer. Is this true?

A — No. Someone is playing a cruel joke on you.

Fear Budget Safeguards On Nuclear Testing

WASHINGTON — Some uneasiness is being generated here by a Pentagon proposal which would downgrade one of the "safeguards" which helped to assure ratification of the nuclear test ban treaty in 1963.

Caught in the Defense Department's economy net is the very expensive program which keeps the United States ready to conduct nuclear tests in the atmosphere, on short notice, if Russia should abrogate the treaty. The Pentagon's proposed cutback would delay the U.S. reaction time.

Four safeguards were recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff before the Senate radified the test ban treaty in 1963. In addition to atmospheric testing readiness, they called for aggressive underground testing, maintenance of modern nuclear laboratories and improvement of monitoring ability for detection of foreign weapons tests.

Development of the safeguards and their approval by President Kennedy quieted some of the concern about the treaty's impact on the development of weapons for U.S. strategic forces. In the end, the 1963 ratification vote was overwhelming, 80 to 19.

Cost data is classified on the present program for maintaining facilities and resources necessary to resume atmospheric tests promptly. The present program was revised late in 1968 and approved by the White House in March 1969.

Now the Pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission are proposing that, beginning with the budget year which starts in July, the testing readiness program be cut to about one-third of its previous level. The revision is proposed for reasons of economy.

Experts say the funds reduction would be reflected in the time necessary to respond — to start U.S. weapons tests after the Russians had started, or had announced that they would do so. All essential tests could still be conducted, the experts say, and could be compressed into the presently contemplated testing period.

"SOME CONCERN" — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of a Senate sub-committee assigned to follow-up on the safeguards, reported before the congressional recess, that the proposed revision in testing readiness is "a matter of some concern to me."

In addition to the safeguards subcommittee, Jackson heads the weapons subcommittee of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy. He is a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and its Intelligence and Preparedness subcommittees. He is, in short, one of the best informed men in Congress on nuclear weapons.

Jackson plans to call Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission, probably in February, for a closed-door session to consider "possibe technological and political impacts" of the proposed downgrading of testing readiness.

Both technological and political problems are involved in weighing the advisability of a change. It is quite clear, for example, that much more has been accomplished, technologically, with underground nuclear tests than was anticipated when the treaty banned tests in the atmosphere.

"The underground test program is providing substantially more information than was expected when the safeguards were formulated in 1963. There has been a continued development in our capability to conduct a variety of full-scale underground nuclear tests," said Jackson in his report.

"THE NARROW WINDOW" — On the other hand, some political factors tend to suggest continued readiness for a quick response to Russian tests. Jackson has raised the question "How long would the 'test window' stay open if testing were resumed by the Soviets."

In other words, how long would world opinion tolerate nuclear blasts by any nation before a test ban, treaty-imposed or ostensibly unilateral, was lowered on all nuclear powers once again?

After the Russians broke a so-called moratorium with atmospheric tests in 1961 it took about eight months before the United States was ready to resume testing. Weapons experts have been saying ever since that the six months U.S. test series which ensued did not adequately explore certain areas of weapons technology.

Are Political Parties About To Disintegrate?

By PAUL HARVEY

In the continuing evolution of the American political system very exciting things are happening.

Seven Southern states now have Republican governors. New York City has elected a "man without a party" and everywhere voters are polarizing along racial lines.

Does this mean Republican and Democratic parties are destined to disintegrate? Does it mean that hereafter a candidate will be able to run and win without the support of a traditional party organization?

You and I called it "political sophistication" or "being practical" when we excused compromises in the name of political expediency.

Only half facetiously, party politicians would say "sometimes a man must rise above principle."

Our enlightened young people, impatient with hypocrisy, simplistic in their evaluation of rightness and wrongness, are rejecting these old credos, denying that they are either proper or necessary.

Disillusioned with what they've seen in person or on TV of political conventions and party machinations, the new breed of voters (Half our population is now under 26) are throwing their support to individuals and specific ideals, rather than to parties and obtusely worded platforms.

Dramatic political realignment is frequent in American partisan politics. Many times our two parties have moved over to make room for a hybrid.

Just a dozen years ago big-city political machines appeared entrenched forever. Today only one remains intact, Chicago's, and it is unlikely to survive Mayor Richard Daley.

If President Nixon should hold or expand Republican inroads into Dixie, this further political homogenization could have far-reaching effects.

Spoils harvested by members of the majority party in Washington have done most to keep the Solid South solid. For the first time in history, Southern Republicans might argue next year that they can harvest the committee chairmanships which are so properly prized.

The 1969 off-year elections indicated (except in New York City) widespread support for President Nixon's policies. Clean sweeps for his personal political friends in New Jersey and Virginia especially underscored that fact.

Historically the big industrial states have been strongholds for Democrats. As of this month all the big industrial states except Texas are controlled by Republicans.

As black Americans emerge as candidates for high public office there will be a further fracturing of historic party lines. This month we watched a mostly white community, Glasgow, Ky., re-elect its Negro mayor.

We saw, on the other hand, blacks in Buffalo give black candidate Ambrose Lane only a handful of votes.

Old walls came tumbling down last year, new ones are going up, but this conclusion is inescapable: Voters, more genuinely sophisticated than ever heretofore, are drifting away from party allegiance. They've decided "You can, too, fight City Hall!"

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our 20-year-old daughter who attends a college in another state rang us up this morning to tell us that she and her boyfriend got married last night. They had planned to get married when they both finished college, but I guess they couldn't wait that long.

I want to send our relatives and friends formal announcements of their marriage, but something just occurred to me. What if they "had to" get married in a hurry?

COLORADO MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In that case, send them airmail.

DEAR ABBY: After being married for 28 years to a dear, sweet, lovely little woman, several months ago she was hit with something called "change of life."

I found myself living with a complete stranger who only wanted to pick a row with me and go into a tantrum over the most trivial matters.

She refused to go on a holiday with me this year for the first time, so I went alone, and I must confess I had the best holiday of my life. When I came home after 12 days she was not the least bit glad to see me.

We hardly speak now, and are in separate bedrooms for the first time. I consulted our family doctor and he said my wife would not improve unless she visited him for treatments, which she absolutely refuses to do. Do you recommend a permenant separation? I am seriously considering it.

BELFAST, IRELAND

DEAR BELFAST: You took this woman "in sickness and health." This is sickness. Are you sure the memory of your holiday, without her isn't influencing your decision? Talk to your doctor again and ask for some suggestions on how to get this once dear, sweet, lovely woman to go for the treatment she so desperately needs. Don't desert her in her hour of need. Her condition may be temporary.

DEAR ABBY: Our ex-daughter-inlaw has refused us the privilege of seeing our grandchildren. She claims that she has spoken to a psychiatrist, the school authorities, and even to her clergyman and they all agree that it would be in the best interests of the children if they were not to see us anymore.

The children are 8, 10, and 11. Our ex-daughter-in-law recently remarried, and our son agreed to let her new husband legally adopt the boys. We love these children, Abby, and this is breaking our hearts. It's true, our son was not the best husband and father in the world, but why should we be punished for his misdeeds?

Tell me, Abby, do you think it is in the best interests of the children to deny them seeing us?

GRANDPARENTS

DEAR GRANDPARENTS: Knowing nothing of how your visits affect the children, I cannot say. Obviously the girl is punishing you along with your son, which seems unfair. But there are no "rights" for grandparents, and your former daughter-in-law is now holding all the trumps.

DEAR ABBY: I was amused at the letters you published from some of those women who remarked on the impotency of men of advanced age. They brought to mind a neighbor of mine who at age 90 announced that he had married! When talking to his son, I asked, "Why did your dad want to get married again at his age?" The son replied, "He didn't want to. He had to."

Yours truly,

Las Pampas Chapter, DAR Hears Program On Revolutionary Methods

Las Pampas Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution met recently for lunch at Furr's Cafeteria. Mrs. Leldon Hudson gave the invacation and after leading in the "Pledge to the Flag" and the "American's Creed," Mrs. Henry Merrick, regent, presided over the business meeting.

It was announced the State Conference is scheduled in the Sheraton Dallas Hotel, in Dallas March 26-27 for election of new state officers.

Mrs. J.S. Skelly gave the defense program and used a part of a taped address titled, "More Deadly Than War" by G. Edward Griffin. Griffin and his family live in California where he is engaged in research, writing, public relations and documentary film production.

In his address, Griffin discussed the communists' plan for revolution in the United States, and said "their plans are both violent and non-violent. Among those who subscribe to the violent overthrow of the government are members of the National Liberation Front. They are using minority groups to fight their cause by fostering hate and violence between the races. They advocate a proleterian revolution and the overthrow of capitalism. The only way to accomplish this is to expropriate the capitalists. Some of the measures used are to disrupt electrical power and water supply, interfer in the transportation system and otherwise cripple the normal flow of commerce. Fire is also one of their chief weapons," he said.

Aim of the militants is to weaken effectiveness of policemen and National Guard and let uprisings set the stage for the final take over" he said. "Non-violent methods are more subtle and more to be feared. Creeping socialism is the first step. Communists are in our educational institutions—the youth are their tools. They foster unrest and rebellion among them. They take every opportunity to place members of the communist party in positions of importance and influence. Since their aims are more under-handed, to ignore their strategy is national suicide," Griffin said in the taped address.

Guests present were Mrs. Twla Anderson, member of Boxwood Hall Chapter, Oakland, Calif. and Jane Hudson, Groom.

Other members present were Mmes. Doyle Osborne, Lois Young, Paul Bowers, J. Byron White, W.S. Dixon, Bryant Clark, John McKnerney, Vernon Hobbs, A.D. Hills, Miss Mellie Bird Richey and Miss Carolyn Stephenson.

Model Swithes Career For Camera

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — For several years now, Sue Houle has been a pretty face in front of a camera, viewed by millions of Americans. But she'd prefer to work behind a camera.

She's on the way to having her way about that.

With her blonde, blue-eyed advantages and feminine determination, the petite Bostonian model is quietly crashing the traditionally male world of serious photography.

She is gambling lucrative careers in cosmetics and television commercials on the theory that men will turn to a pretty photographer for an important portrait just as quickly as they will accept a cute barber.

Like makeup, a career must fit the individual woman, the 28-year cosmetics expert says. And after doing national commercials for everything from cars to pizza sticks and from ceiling materials to bathing suits, Miss Houle finds photography most satisfying to her.

"There's nothing quite like capturing a fleeting expression that will never come back quite the same way," she says.

Right now Miss Houle is concentrating her cameras on California men. But she's looking forward to a safari during which she can photograph blue elephants in Africa.

She was surprised by the way executives and actors accepted a female photographer.

"I thought men would insist on being photographed by other men. I would," she said. "But some of them think it is chic to be able to tell their friends their portrait was done by a girl."

It probably helps when the girl is a curvesome 110 pounds, has long blonde hair, has appeared in more than 30 television commercials, stars in a cosmetics film and knows what she's doing with a complicated camera.

Miss Houle started out doing portraits of women for the same studio that photographed Marilyn Monroe, but she switched to men because she spent too much time touching up mistakes she found in the women's makeup.

"Too many women," she says "try to follow fads and fashions in makeup. The only rule today is use what is good for you," she said.

For the safari Miss Houle will join 25 other men and women for a month. The safari is sponsored by the Los Angeles Zoo Association. She plans to photograph the animals in infrared color, which she says will produce some fabulously blue elephants.

She also wants to shoot some of those fleeting expressions she expects to find when California men move to the African jungles.

It adds lots of atmosphere to day or evening fashions. Pull together a "this-year" look (right) via a long, floating Isadora scarf. In chiffon, it is tied tight at the neck. The ends drift freely and dramatically. It's a great way to dramatize a daytime ensemble. And it comes in lush tones of cerise and purple.

Twentieth Century Allegro Group Studies Origin Of Jewish Nation

"Israel" was the topic Mrs. R.E. Reid chose to present to the Twentieth Century Allegro Club recently. She was also the hostess for the firs. meeting of the New Year.

"The Holy Land has for more than 3,000 years borne the clash of political forces and destructive armies, bringing devastation to her cities and tragedy to her people," Mrs. Reid said.

She said four faiths that look to the Holy Land for their spiritual heritage are Judaism, Catholic Christianity, Islam and Protestant Christianity.

"It was in the 1880's that young idealistic Jews, because of religious massacres, started returning to their homeland," she said. "Many walked most of the way from Russia."

"It was in this decade that an Austrian journalist, Theodore Herzl, started the Zionist political movement. He reasoned that the Jews needed a nation of their own where they would not be 'second-class' citizens.

"The Zionists purchased land from the Arabs and turned swamps and rocky hills and barren stretches into flourishing orange groves and farms. They were farmed by the kibutz system of collective farming," Mrs. Reid said.

"To protect themselves from the Arabs, the Jews organized an underground army called the Haganah, which means "defense" in Hebrew. There is universal military training for all Israeli men and for unmarried women. They are drafted at 18, the men for two and one-half years and the women for two years. In addition, every man who is fit must serve up to four weeks a year in the active reserves until age 49. Unmarried women and wives with no children serve in the reserves until they are 34," she said.

"More than military tactics are taught in the army. A common language, geography, history of Israel, health and hygiene and basic arithmetic. Compulsory courses are given in citizenship and democracy and vocational training to equip each soldier for earning his living in civilian life.

"On Nov. 29, 1947, the United Nations decreed that the land was to be divided into two nations, one for Palestinian Jews, the other for Palestinian Arabs. Ideally the two nations would be politically independent but economically interdependent. Jerusalem and the surrounding area was to be an international zone," she said.

Mrs. Reid explained during the war for independence the immigration laws were lifted. Jewish people came from the four corners of the world. "Any Jew who goes to Israel to live acquires his citizenship automatically," she said.

"Israel is a true democracy and in all aspects of government, is based on the words of Prime Minister Ben Gurion, "Our country's greatest asset is — The People", she said.

Allegro members attending this meeting were Mmes. John McCausland, Thomas A. Morgan, Curt Beck, Juan de Leon, George McCarroll.

The coat-and-dress combo remains a spring favorite. The belted coat shown here is teamed with brown, black and white cotton plaid skimmer. This ensemble is from the Spring 1970 collection by Bronell.

JEANE DIXON

FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 9

YOUR BIRTHDAY FRIDAY: In the coming year it is not so much what you do as how you do it. This is the time to unload outworn belongings and personal habits. You'll find many relationships waning, but not many new ones coming on. Simplifying your whole way of life is much more important than starting new ventures now.

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19): — Take another look at what you have and what you offer. Many problems resolve themselves readily if seen from a constructive perspective.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — You are promised encouragement and, for some, vindication. People you'd never expect to help will be tacitly backing your side of the issues. Just avoid overdoing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Entertaining visitors may be your most important activity. There should be news, letters from friends, too. Preliminary sketches are solid subjects for discussion, but decisions or agreements should wait a while yet.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — Promises, contracts made are almost certain to need reconsideration later. Find hidden flaws and get corrections started. Expect minor surprises in people's behavior.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Your coincidences, perhaps lead you into odd places before the day is out. Follow your intuition; be willing to break habits and precedents. An unusual career opportunity may appear but get more details before you respond.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — You should speak up loud and clear if you have checked your facts thoroughly. Take the initiative; be prepared to adjust where others may have some of the story that you have not seen.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — This is one of those wild days when you feel just fine but get swamped with swarms of confused people, mostly young ones.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — You are apt to trade one sort of advantage for another supposedly better, without results. Legal matters, group interests clamor for your attention; for the moment, however, there's little to be done. Seek light entertainment in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec 21): — There is no point in argument at this time since soon the pressure of events probably will support your side of the issue. Study and research are strongly favored, but not final decisions or contracts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — Even with an early start, schedules become scrambled. Permanent arrangements are not made easy; what seems settled only appears that way. Noted and respected for patience, you are helpful to all.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — Take the initiative, advertise, but do not settle now. Emotional situations pop up and must be met wisely. The evening requires change to a lighter frame of mind.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): — Nothing is quite what you expected it to be.

Worn powderpuffs make efficient erasers for a child's blackboard. First, wash them well in hot soap or detergent suds. Then, wash them out again when they become saturated with chalk dust.

Seeks Methods To Remove Stains On Antiqued Piano

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. C.A.F. there are many small tasks a person confined to a wheelchair can do and so feel useful. My brother was so confined for many years. When he could move the chair about and use his hands, he'd take the clean ashtrays from the kitchen counter and put them where they belonged. He also had a tray to hold the silverware so he could separate it and put it away in proper spaces in the drawer. He took old newspapers, folded several sheets together and stacked them neatly in a basket to have ready to start a fire in the fireplace. Mrs. C.A.F. could pass lots of time knitting and crocheting small articles, such as gloves, scarves and bed socks.

—MRS. K.F.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — Do you know of any way to remove stains left by soft drinks being spilled on an antiqued piano? When I try to wash them off, the top coat of antiquing comes off, also. The underneath coat is yellow gold and the top coat is brown.

—KATE

DEAR KATE — Your letter sounds as if there was no protective finish coat put on top the antiquing, when your piano was refinished. I am afraid if water removes the antiquing, anything else will do the same.

—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—I find a long hat pin is an invaluable sewing aid. With care, this pin can be used to pull out the final tip of collars with the new, long apered look; it can serve as a tiny finger in working with fabric under the needle and reach where fingers can't. Also, I use a large, magnetized clip to hold pattern instructions at eye level, fastening the sheet on a lamp or metal picture frame so my hands are free as I work.

Tascosa Rebs Are Tough As Ever

The District 4-AAAA basketball race is far from over but if Pampa hopes to make a run for the conference title then the Harvesters couldn't pick a better place to start then in Amarillo Friday night.

Tascosa's once-beaten-in-district Rebels play host to Pampa in an 8 p.m. game in the Rebs gym.

If just playing Tascosa isn't enough the Harvesters might remember that it was the Rebels who knocked them out of the district championship last season.

Pampa lost all three of its games to Tascosa, the regular season games by two points each and the affair for the conference championship by a scant, 65-60.

Both teams were supposed to be weaker this season but Tascosa sports a 11-7 season record and 4-1 league mark, same as Amarillo, Monterey and Plainview.

Pampa, winners now of three straight, is 9-6 for the season and 2-3 in conference play.

"We're expecting the same type game from them that we both played last year, work for the good shot and a good defensive game," said Pampa coach Sterling Gibson.

Although Tascosa has a better scoring average than the Harvesters Pampa owns a slightly better defensive mark. The Rebels are averaging 61 points per game and have given up 53.4 per contest. Pampa sports a 52.6 offensive district mark and 52.2 defensive mean.

But Reb coach David Camfield, who is always upsetting the pollsters, returned only one starter and another parttime starter this season.

Les Cundiff, a 6'7 senior is enjoying a fine year and will give Pampa a lot of competition on the boards as will 6'2 senior Gary Bogan, who beat Pampa in the championship game last season.

Camfield has been playing Jim Austin, 6'2 senior at forward with Bogan and has used 6'0 senior Donnell Fuller and 5'10 senior Jimmy Truitt at guards.

Pampa, as usual, will be at a height disadvantage against the Rebels but the way Jim Gallman, Richard Bunton and Mike Edgar have been rebounding it might matter little.

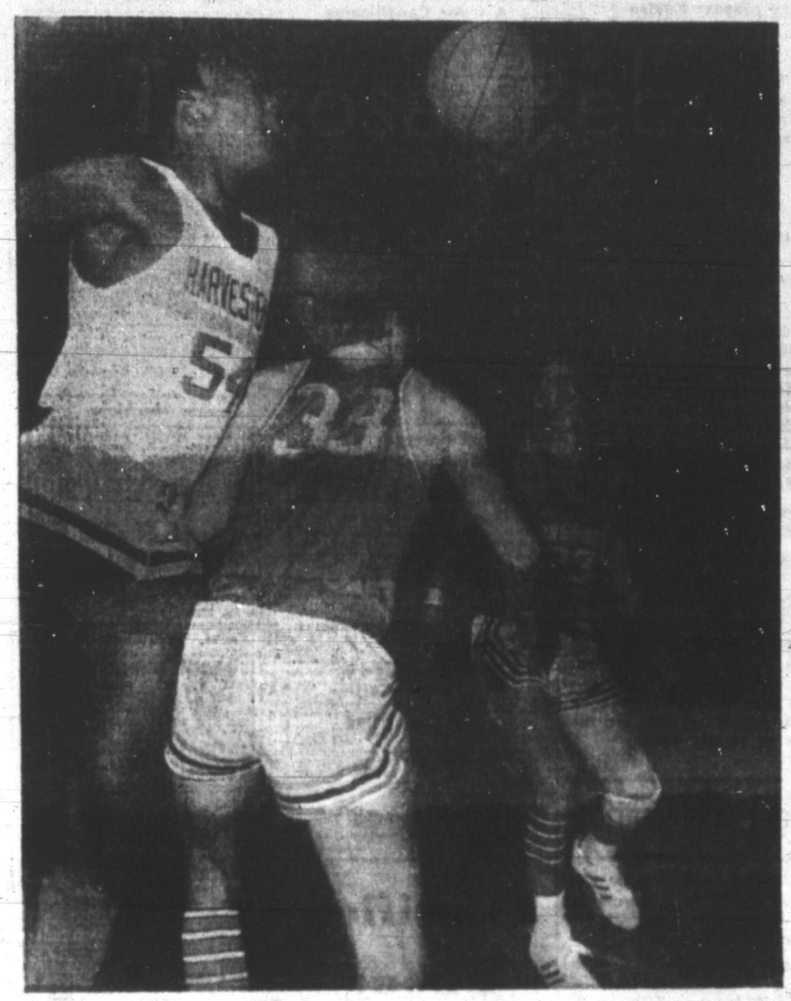

The Harvesters opened district play with a come from behind, 49-46 victory over Palo Duro then dropped consectutive games to Plainview, Monterey and Amarillo before downing Caprock Tuesday night.

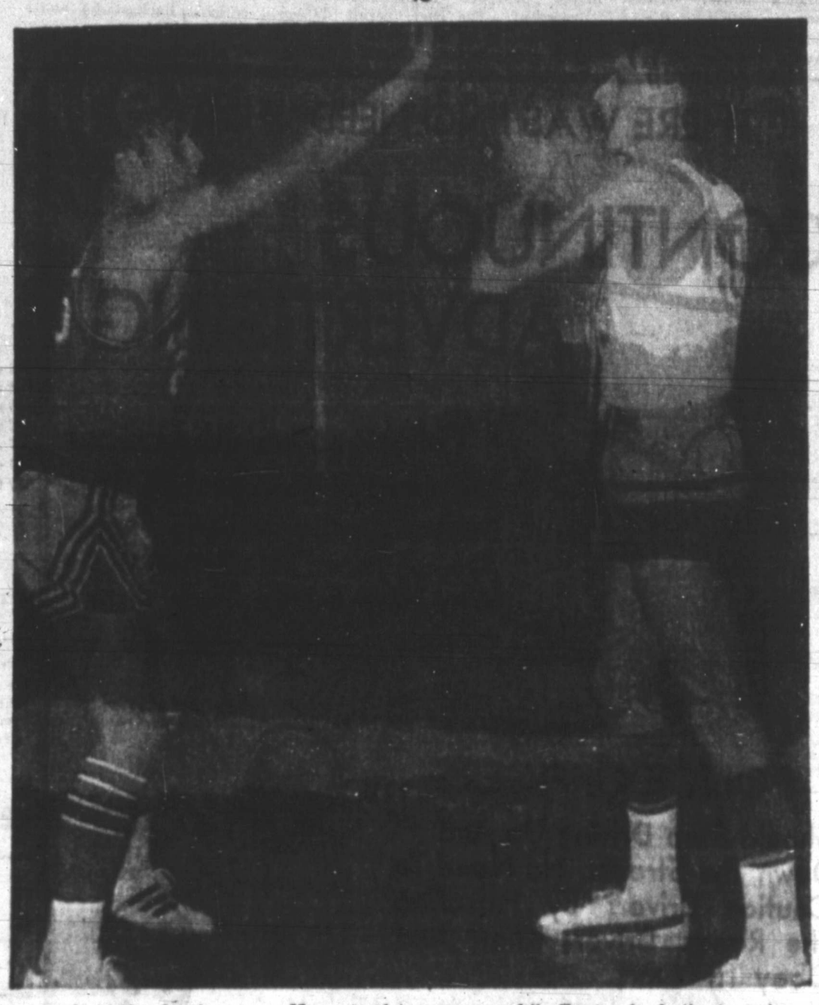

"We're still getting experience and I think improving each game. We've only been beaten soundly once, against Monterey, so I think we'll be heard from before its all over," Gibson said.

Tascosa had downed four straight league foes before losing to Borger Tuesday night, 62-50. The Rebels had downed Caprock, 58-54; Palo Duro, 76-67; Lubbock, 75-50 and Coronado, 46-34.

Pampa Jim Gallman's 19 points against Caprock kept him near the top in the district scoring race but the 6'6 center is now the only Harvester averaging in double figures in league competition.

THE SOPHOMORE story at Pampa High School is being told by athletes Richard Bunton (54) and Mike Edgar (50), both of whom have earned starting berths on the Harvester basketball team. Edgar is one of the Harvesters' top scorers while Bunton leads the team in rebounding and is scoring in double figures.

Viking Defense Against Chiefs' Offense In Super

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The slick tricks of the '70s against the meat-and-potatoes of the '60s—that's the way Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs views Sunday's Super Bowl clash between his squad and the tough Minnesota Vikings.

The Chiefs, champions of the American Football League, feature "maybe 30 or 40" different sets in their offense, in the estimation of quarterback Lennie Dawson.

On the other hand the Vikings, National Football League champions who will be two touchdown favorites, rely on just a few formations in which execution is the important thing. Simple things done in a simple way, but done so perfectly that they are irresistable.

"There is no doubt that the trend in recent years has been a simplicity trend—a 4-3 defense and one or two formations," said Stram. "I believe that the trend in the '60s will be a variety trend. In our league, more and more teams have a variety offense and after the merger next year, more teams in the NFL will turn to variety because they'll be playing against us."

On Sunday Stram and Dawson will throw an intricate offense at the Vikings, featuring even such things as an "I" formation, Against them the Vikings will pit a zone defense, but that doesn't bother Stram because "although the Oakland Raiders, whom we beat last week, do not use a zone, most of the other AFL teams do so we're used to it."

But Vikings' Coach Bud Grant also is quite willing to match zone-against-variety.

"We think it is the best defense for this type of offense," explained Grant. "It is a team defense and basically relieves individuals of individual opponents."

Although there was some excitement at the training camps over Dawson's involvement with a figure in the current gambling investigation, attention switched to game preparations. Just as Dawson had been hoping it would. "I hope my statement the other night put an end to this situation," the Chiefs' quarterback said. "Now I want to block it out of my mind because I've got a lot of other things to worry about—namely the Minnesota Vikings."

Lefty Has Maryland In Groove

By United Press International

Leave it to Lefty.

That's the battlecry at the University of Maryland whose attempts at reviving its bruised and battered basketball fortunes began last March when the Terrapins hired head Coach Charles "Lefty" Driesell away from Davidson College.

Driesell inherited a team that won only eight of 24 games last season but slow and steady improvement in the current varsity was much in evidence Wednesday night when Maryland beat West Virginia, 83-76.

Rod Horst, a bulky 6-foot-6, 225-pounder, led the Terrapins' attack with 26 points as Driesell used only five players for the entire game and each scored in double figures, to raise their season record to 6-8.

West Virginia outscored Maryland, 34-32, in field goals but the Terrapins committed only eight fouls, allowing the Mountaineers eight points from the free throw line compared to 19 for the winners.

North Carolina, the defending ACC champion, showed it is not about to give up its title without a fight as the fifth-ranked Tar Heels knocked off 12th-ranked and previously unbeaten North Carolina State, 78-69. The victory was the 10th for North Carolina against two losses.

Charlie Scott, who paced the Tar Heels with 23 points, scored four straight field goals late in the second half to give North Carolina the lead which it protected with a stall in the closing minutes. Vann Williford topped the Wolfpack with 20 points.

Bob Lanier tossed in 29 points and hauled down 24 rebounds in helping fourth-ranked St. Bonaventure past outclassed Loyola of Baltimore, 96-52; Austin Carr's 29 points spurred Notre Dame to a 91-78 triumph over Fordham; Rick Katherman tallied 24 points for Duke as the Blue Devils edged Wake Forest, 78-72, in overtime; and Florida used Earl Findley's 20 points to defeat Alabama, 79-70.

Elsewhere, Villanova whipped Fairfield, 87-59; LaSalle outlasted Syracuse, 108-101; Miami of Ohio topped Kent State, 61-47; Dan McLemore's field goal with 12 seconds left gave Bowling Green a 68-67 victory over Wittenberg; Hofstra knocked off Temple, 67-63;

Tyler Coach Named JUCO Coach Of Year

DALLAS (UPI)— Billy Wayne Andrews, whose first Tyler Junior College football team won a state championship, was named today the Texas Sports Writers Association's 1969 Texas Junior College Coach of the Year.

Andrews' Apaches broke a four-year domination by Henderson County JC of the Texas Junior College Federation grid title with a 37-7 win over Henderson. It gave Tyler its first winning season since the federation was organized.

Andrews polled 147 points in the preferential balloting to 215 points for D. E. "Buddy" Travis of Howard County JC, who piloted a freshman-dominated basketball team to win the state's western juco title and then beat heavily-favored Christian Colleg of the Southwest in the Region 5 finals.

De Moss Eyes Purdue Spot

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)— Bob De Moss, the "dean" of the Purdue assistant football coaches, appears to be the leading candidate to succeed Jack Mollenkopf, who announced Wednesday he was retiring as head coach after 14 seasons.

Purdue Athletic Director Guy "Red" Mackey said shortly after Mollenkopf announced his redirement in Honolulu that present staff members will be given "careful consideration" in the appointment of a successor

Len Dawson Talks To Teammates

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—This was the moment.

The one the poets always write about. The moment of truth.

Len Dawson, Kansas City's cited quarterback, already had done what he had to by offering his side of the story to the public through the press and other news media.

Now came what he considered a more important function. Explaining to his own teammates, some of whom he had lived, played and worked with the past eight years.

This wasn't anything he had to do, rather it was something he wished to do.

A Little Like Vaudeville

Len Dawson got up to speak and his teammates, trying to sandpaper some of the edge off the situation, treated the whole thing a little like a small piece of vaudeville.

They applauded Dawson loudly. Too loudly in fact, as if he were the principle speaker at a banquet.

He knew he was being kidded and took it well.

Then he read the very same 145-word statement to the Chiefs that he had read the night before to the media, saying he was innocent of any wrongdoing despite the fact his name had been linked to a gambling investigation.

"Any questions about this?" asked Hank Stram, Kansas City's coach, when Dawson was through.

SPORTS PARADE

Dead silence.

"Any questions about anything?" Stram added, employing a favorite expression of his.

"Yeah," boomed a voice in the back of the room, belonging to E. J. Holub, the Chiefs' 240-pound center. "When are we gonna get our ticket to the game?"

Establishes Feeling

Holub's query did a lot more than break up the meeting. It clearly established, without bothering to put into words, the way the Kansas City players felt about their 34 year-old quarterback.

They believed him. Completely and implicitly.

Jerry Mays, the veteran defenrive end, put it best.

"Nobody on the ball club has the slightest question about Lennis," he said.

Jerry Mays says Len Dawson is a world champion now—and always will be with him—no matter what happens against the Minnesota Vikings this super Sunday.

LONG, HARD CLIMB

James Had No Easy Street

DALLAS (UPI) — James Street, the "bell cow" of the University of Texas national champion Longhorns football team, is a champion pitcher in both football and baseball. But, it wasn't always that way.

Street, an effervescent youngster whose personality should be a tremendous asset in public relations or any other venture he tackles as a business major, never managed to pilot or pitch a winner until he left home and went to college.

The 5-11, 175-pounder, who baffled Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl game just as he had 19 opponents in a row prior to New Year's Day, actually was rated only the third best quarterback in his district during his senior year at Longview, Tex., High School.

He was rated behind Joe Norwood of Texarkana and Mike Beane of Marshall. Norwood went to Texas but did not star, while Beans became a defensive back at Baylor.

Street blossomed once he got on a college campus, but did not hit full bloom until he became a junior.

As a freshman team quarterback, he hit 19 of 49 passes for 49 yards and ran 51 times for 219 more steps. As a sophomore, he saw limited action, throwing 13 times and hitting five for 47 yards and rushing 14 times for 63 yards.

In baseball, he posted a 9 record with a 2.58 earned run average as a sophomore.

But, that was good enough to help Texas get to the college World Series. Street lost his only start.

Street tied a school record for victories with a 12-2 pitching mark as a junior last spring and had a 1.34 ERA.

Again, Texas went to Omaha and the college World Series. Again, Street lost his only start.

"I just choke in the clutch," he said with a grin the other day in telling Cotton Bowl sports writers about his baseball career, which still has one season to go.

The writers knew he was joking, even if he had not grinned. For, Street's record on the football field is the antithesis of choke. He got his starting chance in the third game of his junior season and Texas hasn't lost since, including two bowl victories.

He runs coach Darrell Royal's wishbone-T offense with almost flawless execution, using the forward pass only in clutch situations and normally with sensational success.

Royal sends in plays by alternating his offensive guards, but they often "spin their wheels" because Street already has called the play before they deliver their message.

"Often before I can say anything, James will look at me and say, '49 flip right, Bobby?' and you'd be surprised the number of times he calls the exact play coach has in mind," says one of the messengers, Bobby Mitchell.

Street insists that "all of the Texas plays are called from the bench.

"But, I usually can guess what coach is going to call," he says.

To most observers, the wishbone - T is an intricate offense. But Street says "it is really very simple," despite its options and pitchouts.

"Whenever you feel like you're going to get hit, just pitch it to someone else," he said. "It's that simple."

Street admits that size is against him as a pro football prospect and that baseball would provide his best pro future.

"But, I'll have to improve a lot ot make it there," he said.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) —Bobby Jackson, a linebacker coach at Florida State, has resigned to become an assistant coach under Vince Gibson at Kansas State.

Curtice Calls It Quits As Football Coach

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—Jack Curtice, one of the nation's best known football coaches, announced his retirement today as head coach at the University of California, Santa Barbara. 5

The 62-year-old Curtice wrapped up a 40-year coaching career but he will remain at USCB as the director of athletics.

Curtice will be succeeded as head football coach by Andy Everest, the Gauchos' head defensive coach who played under Curtice at Texas Western in the late 1940s and came to USCB as assistant athletic director in 1965.

During his career, Curtice coached at West Texas State, Texas Western, Utah and Stanford before taking the Santa Barbara post in 1963.

Harvesters Kotara On All-State Team

Larry Kotara, who is much tougher than his 5'10 by 205 pound frame would indicate, was named today to the second team AAAA school-boy All-State foodball team, picked by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Kotara, a senior was named at a guard position, according to United Press International, and was the only Pampa player named. Writers picked a first and second team offense and defense.

The "Mighty Mite," who was an outstanding defensive player for the Harvesters this past season, is a two-year starter and letterman. He played tackle on offense for Pampa and was one of their most consistent blockers.

Division Champion Wichita Falls High won four of the 22 spots on the Texas Sports Writers Association's 1969 Class AAAA all-state football team announced today.

San Antonio Lee, the team beaten by the Coyotes in the finals, and Abilene Cooper, the team which played Wichita Falls to a 0-0 tie in the playoffs, each placed two men on the mythical team.

Joey Aboussie, the only junior to crash the offensive first team, was the key man in the Coyotes' drive to the championship. He gained 1,458 yards in 265 carries and scored 21 touchdowns.

The other Coyotes to make the first units were center Charles Holley and a pair of defensive stars — end Monte Moore and interior lineman Steve Newmon.

Tim Trimmier, who quarterbacked Lee to a perfect record going into the finals, won the signal calling spot over the Coyotes' Lawrence Williams. Trimmier rushed for 894 yards and hit 96 of 167 passes for 1,896 yards, ran for 13 touchdowns and passed for 21 others.

The remainder of the AAAA honor backfield were Seguin's Cleveland Vann, who piled up 202 points on 25 touchdowns and 52 extra points while rushing for 1,144 yards, and Houston Kashmere's Delvin Williams, who ran for 1,806 yards and scored 126 points despite missing two games because of injuries.

Story That Lead To Break In Sharon Tate Killings

Suzan Atkins, the girl who missed Hinman.

By DALLAS CRABSTREET

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — The parade swung down Santa Monica's palm-lined Ocean Avenue that Sunday, July 27. I watched eagerly for my boys — the Bag Pipers of the Nicherin Shoshu, the American Buddhist movement in which I am a leader known as Chikubucho.

They came down the street but there was a gap. One man was missing and his absence was strange. And, as the weeks went by, it would become stranger.

His name was Gary Hinman. As it turned out, he was missing from the parade ranks because he was dead. His death — murder — was barely noted at the time. After all, he was an ex-hippie, an ex-drug-taker, a piano teacher, a musician, a student. A nobody.

But it would be through the apprehension of his alleged killers that the police would eventually find the accused murderers of Sharon Tate and (at least) six others.

My friend and I worried about Gary that Sunday and for several days later. He lived, we knew, in an isolated house in an isolated part of Topanga Canyon. Several of us telephoned him during that period.

One such call, made the night of the parade, Sunday, July 27, was answered by a girl's voice with a heavy English accent. She told the caller that Gary had been called back to Colorado, where he came from originally, because his parents had been in an automobile accident.

The call satisfied our group, but only temporarily. By the following Thursday, our worry had increased. And three young men— Mike Erwin, Glen Giardinelli and John Nicks — were asked to drive up to Hinman's house and look around.

Even before they were near the house, they knew something was wrong. There was an unbelievable smell. There were millions of black flies streaming into an open window, their buzzing audible for yards.

The three never went into the house. They called the sheriff. The police found the body — bloated beyond recognition. Eventually the coroner established the time of death.

Late Friday night, July 25, or early Saturday morning, July 26.

If that was true-- who was the girl with the English accent who answered the phone Sunday? Hinman was dead, on the floor in the living room.

There were, surprisingly, very few clues around the house. But the evidence pointed strongly to the fact that Hinman had been the victim of robbers, who had tortured him — to find his money? — before they ultimately killed him. Three people, probably, the police said. A man and two women.

One clue was a negative one. Hinman's two cars were missing. One was a Volkswagen bus. The other was a Fiat which would be easy to spot — it had a larger-than-normal engine which stuck out the front end of the car.

On Aug. 7, the Fiat was spotted near San Luis Obispo. The police closed in. The driver was named Robert Beausoleil. He had blood stains on his trousers. In the tire well of the car was a knife, with dried blood on the blade.

Beausoleil — whose good looks and effectiveness with giris had earned hi m the nickname "Cupid" — was arrested. Through him, they arrested a girl named Susan Denise Atkins, alias Sadie Glutz, who often affected an English accent. But her arrest came later.

(NOTE: the first trial of Robert Beausoleil ended in a hung jury. He is scheduled to be tried again in Los Angeles on Jan. 16. Susan Atkins is scheduled to go on trial in February in connection with the same case.)

The Hinman case attracted very little attention at first. Our group, because we knew and loved Hinman, grabbed at every detail we could find. We were particularly curious about the writing, in blood of the words "politically piggy" on the wall over Hinman's head.

The term "pig" or 'Piggy" is used by the hippies against the establishment, the police, the conservatives. Hinman was none of these things. It didn't make sense.

Two days after Beausoleil's arrest, the news of the Tate massacre reached a shocked world. And, the next day, the seemingly unconnected killing of another couple. But what shocked our group into action was the fact that the word 'Pig" was on the front door of Sharon Tate's home, and the words "Death To Pigs" in the LaBianca house. Written in blood.

This was the connection.

Foreign News Commentary

Communist Hungary has taken another step toward expanding relations with the West.

It is a cautious step because, with the August, 1968, invasion of Czechoslovakia in mind, the Hungarians always must keep a nervous eye on the suspicious Russians.

During the weekend the government announced a plan to liberalize its passport laws to give the individual the right to appeal to higher authorites if his passport application is rejected. The net result is expected to be an increase over the approximately 150,000 Hungarians permitted to travel to the West in 1969.

Socialist Democracy

It is part of what Janos Kadar, Hungarian Communist party leader calls "socialist democracy," which in some of its aspects is not unlike Czech party leader Alexander Dubcek's efforts to put a "human face" on Communism.

"Everyone," Kadar said in a recent interview, "is entitled to equal rights and respect, regardless of his party position, world outlook, background and occupation, if he participates in the work of building socialism."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices already are reflecting the expectation of a significant decline in corporate profits, Shearson, Hammill & Co. notes. If disappointing corporate profits do not materialize, the market will compensate for it quickly it adds.

Since security prices tend to lead swings in corporate profits and a recovery in profit should develop in the latter part of hte year, "commitments made now in selected issues should be rewarding," the firm says.

The economy will be faced simultaneously with inflation and recession in 1970 and labor strikes will be longer and more widespread, Paine, Mebber, Jackson & Curtis says. Profits in the stock market "will be harder to come by," it adds. The firm, however, does not anticipate any further market drop of substantial proportions, and says that only favorable news about Vietnam or easier money could trigger a "meaningful" rally.

The second half of 1972, along with 1971 and 1972, "should look a lot better" as the impact of recent fiscal developments, most notably the tax bill becomes apparent Filor, Bullard & Smyth says. Possible relief from the financial burden of the Vietnam War or any change in military spending should reduce interest rates, the firm says. While the first half of 1970 probably will be difficult for the stock market, declining stocks should be in the minority and "many appear to have good values at their current depressed levels."
