TWO ARRESTS MADE IN NEGRO BURNINGS

So This Is Texas

By H. N. Fitzgerald

umped Again— What's the Weather?— 8,000,000 Bales— ertain to Reduce.

HOW the federal crop experts have jumped the yield for 1926 more than 646,000 bales eater than the estimate made two weeks' earlier. Thus placing or rather forecasting a total yield of 17,918,000 bales. It is admitted by the federal department of agriculture that there is still some uncertainty with regard to the quantity of cotton that will be left unpicked as many of the reports received by the Bureau of Cotton Statistics indicate some disposition to leave the lower grades in the field.

IT ALL depends upon the weather. In West Texas there is a tremendous quantity of cotton unpicked. In many counties the fields are white with cotton and if picked, the yield would be large. November is slipping by. Frost and ice and snow have appeared in the west. Winter weather has made its appearance. It is certain that in the fields of West Texas the pickers will be busy until the rigorous blast of December drives them to shelter.

EUROPEAN mills are buying They are buying on the continent of Europe. Russian agents are buying. It is very dull in the textile industry in the manufacturing centers of England, more on account of the coal strike than anything else. Advices from London indicate that the strike may be settled before the going of the holiday season. This is one reason why ocean freight rates are so heavy.

ALL THE ships that can be chartered are carrying American coal to England. Now the American shipping board promises to place at the disposal of the South Atlantic and Gulf cotton ports a large number of wooden vessels that were used in war time, and then taken out of commission for the reason that there was no freight for them to carry. Economists and others familiar with the cotton trade declare that the English millers are going to take advantage of the situation, buy largely and fill their warehouses of the crop of 1926 as reserves for 1927 and perhaps for 1928. They look for tremendous increase in the sale of cotton goods in the near future. And they are wise to buy when the price is low.

AN 18,000,000-bale crop does not mean that a 18,000,000-bale crop will be picked and ginned and placed on the market. There is certain to be a lot of cotton left unpicked in the fields of the cotton belt states and in Texas and Oklahoma winter weather is certain to drive the pickers from the field long before the holiday season comes.

* * *

COL. HENRY HESTER is of the opinion that the home millers and the millers of the world will take from fourteen to sixteen million bales of American cotton if the market is orderly and the price does not go above 16 cents. One thing certan: the panic has been broken. Farmers are not rushing their cotton madly or wildly to the marketing centers of the south. If the panic had been checked at an earlier date, it would have been worth millions to the cotton growers, but the working machinery in existence in the cotton belt of the south, it is as difficult to prevent a panic on the part of a vast army of cotton producers as it is to prevent the stampede of a herd of wild steers when their leaders break away.

THIS is for the want of organization, a marketing system, a warehouse system which will care for all and real leaders in the ranks of those who produce the fleecy staple. Those who follow the one-crop plan and habitual land renters or croppers are as easily stampeded as wild steers and when they lose their heads or are told to sell by those who carry them in a financial way they are as helpless as a lot of sheep in a crashing storm.

ACREAGE reduction is certain to come in 1927. If it isn't prevented by law, it will be prevented by the wise bankers and land owners who realize that abject poverty will be the reward of two-thirds of those who grow cotton and that the purchasing power of the south will be lowered by one-half if another bumper crop of cotton is given to the world the coming year.

IT IS the mission of the farmer to make a living. He cannot make a living by growing cotton alone and the land owners and bankers and merchants who advise or permit him to grow cotton alone, are as responsible for the conditions of things as the large army of unfortunates who are tenants who live from hand to mouth, who are carried from year to year and who are as poverty stricken at the end of a long life as they are when they begin to function as tillers of the soil.

CHILDREN FETE JUDGE BARWISE WHO'S 97 TODAY

"Father of Wichita Falls" To Be Honor Guest At Dinner Party

LIVES HERE 48 YEARS

He Takes Keenest Interest In All Affairs Of Modern Life

The "Father of Wichita Falls," Judge J. H. Barwise, will celebrate his ninety-seventh birthday Saturday after spending 48 years in this city watching the settlement grow from a hamlet into the thriving city that it now is. Judge Barwise will be entertained at dinner at his home which he makes with his daughter, Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, 1100 Austin, when his children, grand children and great grandchildren will gather for the birthday celebration which is an annual event in the life of the aged man.

He is rather feeble this year, which finds him less strong than it did a year ago. His eyesight is largely gone and his hearing has failed, but he can hear with his ear trumphet and is keenly alive to happenings in events of today just as he was a score of years ago.

Children Honor Him

At the birthday feast which will be composed of old fashioned dishes relished by natives of the old south, will be the Barwise children, the five sons and the one daughter of Judge Barwise: Thomas H. Barwise and family of Electra; Frank H. Barwise and family of Iowa Park; Myron H. Barwise and wife of Wichita Falls; Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Wichita Falls; Judge J. H. Barwise of Fort Worth, his wife and son; and M. A. Barwise of Electra, the only single member of the family.

Little Patsy Sue McGregor, great granddaughter of Judge Barwise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter McGregor, will celebrate her birthday with her great grandfather when she reaches her eighth year. Another member of the family who is to celegrate with the group for the first time is little Howard DeMare, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence DeMare who will be a year old December 4. He is the youngest of all the great grandchildren.

He Likes 'Old Hugh'

Judge Barwise is particularly interested in state affairs and every day has to have read to him events from the daily papers. He likes the Record News and it is read to him every morning. Especially does he like the Record News editorials written by Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald. A common expression of appreciation is "Old Hugh Nugent surely does tell the people about things."

The family dinner will be served at 1 o'clock at the home of Judge and Mrs. Carrigan.

Governor After Three Fugitives

Requisitions Issued Friday For Two Men Held In Mississippi

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.(AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson Friday issued requisitions on the governor of Mississippi for the rendition of Ed Rose and Jeff Rose, wanted in Morris county to answer indictments charging they sold intoxicating liquors.

Both are in custody in Tate county, Mississippi.

TEXAN IN CALIFORNIA ALSO REQUISITIONED

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—Requisition on the governor of California for the rendition of E. P. Jersig, charged by indictment with swindling in El Paso county, Texas, was issued by governor Miriam A. Ferguson Friday. Jersig is in custody in San Francisco.

SEEK STRANGLER

Los Angeles Woman Garroted With Apron Strings.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12. (AP)—Finger prints on several pieces of furniture and the imprint of a rubber heel near the back door were the first clues obtained today by police detectives in their search for the slayer of Mrs. Mariana Corcoran, 24, found strargled to death last night in her bungalow in Hollywood.

Investigators said the woman had been garroted with an apron string.

SHOTGUN BANDITS

Four Armed Men Get Away With $24,000 Loot.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.(AP)—Four robbers, one armed with a sawed off shotgun seized cashiers checks totalling $24,000 from a manufacturing company's bank messenger late today and escaped. The bandits accosted John Fisher, the messenger as he was enroute from a bank to the Barrett Manufacturing company's plant, grabbed a satchel containing the checks and escaped in an automobile.

1000 Attend C-C Banquet Meet

'Father of Wichita Falls,' 97 Years Old Today, Is Hailed By His Friends As 'The Grand Old Man of Texas'

Judge J. H. Barwise, Born in 1829, and Husky Lad in Days Of Texas Republic's Birth, Came to Wichita Falls In 1878, Nearly Half-Century Ago

BY HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

All hail J. H. Barwise, the "Father of Wichita Falls" on his 97th birthday. All hail this remarkable pioneer and builder who was the first settler of a community in a wilderness that now is a city of 65,000 in the fast growing section of this imperial leader of American commonwealths. All hail this patriarch of the open spaces, not because he has passed his 97th mile post or is the father of Wichita Falls, but because he is one of the rugged and high minded land marks of this section of a state that was a wilderness when he came and he had the vision to foretell the coming of a magnificant city in the heart of a mighty civilization.

Born In 1829

He was born in 1829, not many years after old Hickory Jackson had won the battle of New Orleans. He was a sturdy lad when the patriots of Texas won their independence at San Jacinto. He was a man grown when Texas became a state. He was 30 when the war between the states convulsed the North American hemisphere. He saw the passing of James Buchanan and the coming of Abraham Lincoln.

He read the proclamation that emancipated the slave. He was thrilled when Lee handed his sword to Grant at Appamattox. His heart throbbed when Lincoln died, and he saw the clouds gather over a stricken section of his country.

Always a Democrat.

He began a Jackson democrat and he has been a Jackson democrat all his life. He is not a native Texan, but he dreamed of Texas in his boyhood days and his early manhood. He knew it was the land of heroes and he felt that it would never become the land of slaves.

He journeyed from the upper Ohio across the bounding west to the mighty Missouri and thence across Arkansas and the Indian territory to the land of Austin, Bowie, Fannin, Sam Houston and others who had fought for liberty or who had died for the institutions of government that we so proudly acclaim today.

Came Here In 1878.

He landed at Wichita Falls or where Wichita Falls happens to be, in June 1878 or more than 48 years ago. He was a pioneer builder. He had the vision of the prophet of old.

He saw in the distance cities and towns and a large rural population where vast herds of cattle roamed on a free range, where thousands of buffalo fed upon the rich grasses, where deer and antelope were ever within range of the eye, where all the wild feathered game was found in profusion, wild mustangs defied the lariats of the wild horse and the Indian had not surrendered entire control of an empire to the lordly sons of the Caucasian race.

All these years he has been a citizen and builder of community and state. All these years or until recently he has been an active and intelligent worker on the firing line of civilization. All these years since his voting manhood came, he has been a sturdy champion of constitutional government, civil and religious liberty, the bill of rights, equal justice for all and special privilege for none.

Fights for Schools.

All these years he has battled for the education of all the children of all the people, for the uplift of the underdog, for laws which will protect American freemen in their constitutional rights and mete out exact justice to the

SLUG BOUNCES OFF NEGRO'S HEAD WHEN WIFE SHOOTS PISTOL

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12. (AP) The credulity of the police here today was strained when it was reported that Edward Behn, a negro, escaped with only a bruise on the head after having been struck by a bullet fired from a revolver. According to the report, the bullet ricocheted after striking Behn's head and went through a two-inch partition.

Behn went home early today, he said, and told Mrs. Behn he had been out "seeing the president." Mrs. Behn had heard of the president's departure from Kansas City at 3:30 o'clock yesterday and an argument followed.

C-C SELECTS 5 DIRECTORS

Lee, M'Cutcheon, Perkins, Clark and Martin Named For Year

Five new directors of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce were elected at the annual banquet held last night. The new directors are Dr. Q. B. Lee, C. E. McCutcheon, J. J. Perkins, N. H. Martin and C. H. Clark. These five were selected from a field of 20 nominees previously picked by a nominating committee.

In announcing the new directors, J. C. Mytinger, president of the chamber of commerce, stated he had expected the committee to select about five good men and then put down 15 other men that they could all vote against, but instead they had named 20 of the best men of the city and this had made the voting rather hard for everybody.

Wright.

L. J. Tyson has been appointed to succeed Ganzaullas at Dallas.

CITY'S LEADERS 'BREAK BREAD' AT CIVIC FEST

Clarence Ousley Principal Speaker Heard on Big Program

OUT-OF-TOWN VISITORS

Many From Other Cities Take Part in Big Festival

Wichita Falls passed another milestone along the highway of civic progress Friday night when its business and professional leaders broke bread over the banquet tablo and reviewed a year gone by of achievement and success.

The occassion was the annual banquet of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce that, as had been predicted, smashed all records in more ways than one. The crowd was larger, the program more instructive, the entertainment more attractive than ever before; yet these were merely incidentals. The big, outstanding, noteworthy factor of the whole evening was the unalloyed enthusiasm engendered of a year of successful enterprise and, what was more, an impending year of even greater promise.

1,000 Men Present.

Over a thousand business men of the city, augmented by scores of out-of-town visitors packed the Junior college cafeteria to overflowing. Several hundred were accommodated in the gymnasium which was converted into a temporary banquet hall to provide for the throng.

Some time was spent at the meeting in reviewing the past; but the major portion was spent in planning on the future. The idea of looking ahead and forging ahead was the dominant note in the inspiring address of Clarence Ousley, agricultural expert of nation-wide repute who was the principal speaker; it was the underlying thought in the address of Frank Kell, veteran business executive of the city who for years past has practiced as well as preached the gospel of sound and progressive business development, and it was the plea of Joe Leopold, manager of the southern division of the United States

TUSSLE COSTS WOMAN'S LIFE

Fort Worth Girl Killed In Scuffle With Man For Pistol

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12.(AP)—Death claimed Mrs. Doris Moore, 17, here today following the discharge of a pistol for whose possession she scuffled with J. M. Pillow, 19-year-old garage attendant at his establishment shortly after midnight Friday.

County officials said Pillow claimed the girl seized the weapon from a desk drawer and that she was shot while he was trying to wrest the gun away from her. Statements of two other youths and the girl who came with them to the garage agreed in general effect with Pillow's statement, officials said.

Charges of negligent homicide will be filed against Pillow, it was said, at the district attorney's office.

Compel Pastors To Prove Faith

Childress Methodist Meet Adopts Resolution After Debate

CHILDRESS, Nov. 12.(AP)—Resolutions requiring Methodist college presidents to exact from teachers articles of faith were adopted by the annual district conference here Friday.

The requirement was opposed by Bishop John T. Moore and every presiding elder, but without visible effect. Some of the presiding elders expressed the opinion that it was a matter to be threshed out in other quarters, but the ministers apparently believed otherwise and thought it advisable that teachers make known their beliefs, that the college presidents might inform church officials in the matter.

DAN SPENT $9,000

Moody Files Report of Campaign Cost.

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.(AP)—Attorney General Dan Moody spent $9,052.70 in being elected governor of Texas, his final report of campaign expenditures filed Friday with F. D. Love, Williamson county judge, showed. Of this about $42.85 was spent in the general election campaign, $7,833.44 in the first primary campaign and $1,126.41 in the second primary.

Methodist Conference Forces Young Pastor To 'Swear Off' Tobacco Use

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 12. (AP)—Ministers applying for membership in the North Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, must take a solemn pledge to abstain from tobacco in all of its forms before their applications will be considered, according to a ruling yesterday by ministers of the conference in session here.

The decision was handed down in connection with the application for admittance to membership by a young minister who admitted he used tobacco. Asked if he could give it up he said he would "try."

This answer, however, was not sufficient with several of the conference members and the young man finally promised to obstain from the use of tobacco.

The ruling is an enforcement of a church law enacted some years ago providing that Methodist ministers shall refrain from the smoking habit.

'Uncle Joe' Cannon, 90, Patriarch Of U. S. Congress, Dies In Home He Built 65 Years Ago For His Pretty Bride

DANVILLE, Ills., Nov. 12. (AP)—The fiery spirit of Joseph Gurney Cannon, dimmed to an ember by the weight of ninety years was quenched today by death.

In the home from which he went to congress 53 years ago and amid walls laden with the trophies of his public life, the patriarch died at high noon in the midst of a deep sleep.

Weakening of the heart muscles caused his death but the general depredation of old age had warned his family several months ago that the end was near. He told comrades in the national house when he quit its hall in 1922 that he was going home to die, home to the rambling brown brick mansion which he built 65 years ago for his bride who preceded him to the grave.

Face Most Cartooned

After his retirement from congress he continued his daily walks down town beneath the elms of Vermillion street and the most cartooned face in America was daily visible behind the brown curtains of the Second National Bank which he helped found. But several months ago he was forced to forego his walks and he turned to a daily motor outing which he continued until a few weeks ago.

His mind faded with his body and he could recall but dimly after his 90 birthday last May the scenes with which long congressional service was vivid. Waning memory, however, could not keep him inactive and his last public act four months ago was to turn the sod for a new church for the St. James Methodist Episcopal congregation.

Born a Quaker.

Born a Quaker he joined the Methodist church after leaving congress and each Sunday until recent weeks found him in the pew his wife had occupied throughout her lifetime in Danville.

A funeral air and one of reverence settled over the city as news of his death spread. Danville had known for months that its foremost citizen had not long to live and it had filled with honor his declining days.

His 90th birthday was made a civic holiday and he was a guest of the Kiwanis club to which he belonged at a birthday party. He did not try to speak, but he stood behind the mammoth birthday cake, tilted his picturesque hat at the accustomed angle and smiled genially above his chin whiskers while photographers made a record of the occasion.

Final plans for the funeral await the arrival from San Francisco and Washington of two granddaughters, Mrs. William Houghteling and Mrs. Dorsey Richardson. Cannon's two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Leseure and Miss Helen Cannon were with their father when he died.

Funeral Tuesday.

Funeral services will be held here and interment will be in the Danville cemetery. It is believed that Tuesday may be selected for the last rites.

America knew Cannon as "Uncle Joe" the stalwart leader of the lower house, the fire-eating debater, the genial whiskered policeman clinching a cigar in his teeth under a broad brimmed hat.

BANDITS KILL BANK CASHIER

But Robber-Slayers Fail To Get Any Loot For Trouble.

MINOT, N. D., Nov. 12.(AP)—The bandits who shot and killed Cashier H. N. Peterson in a fruitless holdup of the Citizen's State bank of Wheelock today were sought by authorities of northwestern North Dakota tonight.

Reports of a closed automobile bearing three men speeding through several towns in Williams county caused sheriffs and deputies in that direction to be on the alert.

Alone in Bank.

Just what occurred in the bank is a matter for conjecture, Peterson, who was 45 years old was alone at the time. He was found by a customer, shot twice in the head. He died soon afterward.

Bank officials reported $100 in silver on the bank counter had not been touched. They believe Peterson was shot when he refused to open a compartment of the vault containing $3,000 in currency.

One of the men that fled from the bank in the automobile appeared t obe wounded, several Wheelock residents said.

Keeps Vault Keys.

Peterson died without regaining consciousness. In his pockets were found the keys to the vault compartments including the one containing $3,000.

POLICE POSSES TRACE TRAIL OF NIGHT RIDERS

Clues to Solution After Slaying of Three Negroes Slim

PRISONERS QUIZZED

Hearing for Negro Man As White's Killer Is Postponed

HOUSTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Sheriff T. A. Binford of Houston and Sheriff-elect H. W. Collins of Fort Bend county were busy Friday evening questioning a man arrested by Deputy Sheriff Frank Neville of Humble, believed to have been implicated in the killing and burning of three negroes on the Blakely ranch, 25 miles from Houston, near the Fort Bend county line.

H. B. Crowder, Jr., son of H. B. Crowder, Katy farmer, held in the Fort Bend county jail on a triple murder charge, refused to break his silence Friday. He surrendered to Sheriff R. A. Hagan at Richmond Thursday and the murder charges were filed before Justice of Peace Charles Holmans by County Attorney, F. M. O. Fenn.

Hearing Called Off.

Following almost on the heels of the arrest of the second man, Justice of the Peace Campbell R. Overstreet called off the examining hearing in Houston of Tanner, or Tanna Ivans, negro, charged with the murder last Sunday of Wallace Crowder, a brother of the man held in Fort Bend county, because of "serious threats made on the life of Ivans."

Justice Overstreet said his action was "to protect the life of Ivans and not because of threats also to shoot up the court room and kill any negro witnesses in the case." Ivans' case will now go directly to the grand jury.

Overstreet's action is said to have grown out of information received from Bassett Blakely, owner of the ranch where the three negroes were killed Wednsday night, that negro tenant farmers in that vicinity had reported to him wholesale threats had been made in connection with the Ivans case.

Crowder Death Cause.

The killing of Wallace Crowder near a negro farmer's house in the Katy section last Sunday night was the forerunner of the wholesale slaying on the Blakely ranch Wednesday. Ivans was charged with murder in connection with Wallace Crowder's death. Crowder was shot through the head. Tanner Ivans had been employed on the Blakely ranch.

Wednesday night a posse of unmasked white men wearing cowboy hats, shot Scott Evans, negro foreman of the Blakely ranch, and Robert and Sylvia Brown, negro man and wife working on the place. The Evans home, containing the bodies of Brown and his wife was burned to the ground. Evans body was found at the rear of the homesite. More than 75 bullet and buckshot wounds were in his body and a large gash which had the appearance of having been inflicted with an ax was found in Evans' head.

Two shotguns and an ax with a handle were brought in by Sheriff Binford after the second man's arrest Friday. It is believed they will be used in the chain of evidence being formed by the sheriff's department to place the blame on the persons who committed the crimes.

Few Clues Held.

With prolonged silence of H. B. Crowder Jr., officers of Fort Bend, Waller and Harris counties redoubled their efforts to run down others believed to have been connected with the ranch killing and fire. With the exception of the arrest of the second suspect no new clues to the identity of the other night riders were found Friday, Sheriff Binford said.

However, it is known that the sheriff held a long conference with a woman Friday afternoon who came here apparently to aid in their investigation of the killing. Sheriff Binford was silent on his conference with the woman, at which officials of Fort Bend county were present.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

MARLIN, Texas, Nov. 12.(AP)—Lyman Duke, 16, Port Arthur, Texas, was fatally wounded by the accidental discharge of a shotgun while hunting on a lake near Bremondy. He died in a hospital here today.

JURY TOLD OF PHONE CALLS

Maid Testifies on Details In Hall-Mills Case Prior To Killing

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 12. (AP)—A telephone conversation between the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, slain in a double murder four years ago, was described today in the trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the minister's widow, and her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens. The testimony was given by Louise Geist Riehl, a former maid in the Hall household.

Mrs. Riehl, who was Louise Geist when she was employed in the Hall home told of answering a ring of the telephone i nthe late afternoon of September 14, 1922. The murders were committed on the night of September 14. The former maid said she recognized the voice of Mrs. Mills inquiring for Mr. Hall. Mrs. Hall, said the witness also started to answer the call at another telephone on the floor below but replaced the received and walked away when informed that the call wos for Mr. Hall and that he had called from a bath room that he would answer it.

Dialogue Quotes Hall.

The state submitted that at a grand jury investigation in 1922, the witness had said she did not know whether Mrs. Hall heard the conversation.

The one-sided dialogue as repeataed today quoted Mr. Hall:

"Yes, yes, yes, that's too bad. I was going to the church a little later. Can't we make an arrangement, for about a quarter to eight?"

Mrs. Riehl said that the minister later went out with the explanation to Mrs. Hall that he was going to "see about Mrs. Mills' hospital bill,' 'with the added assurance that he would not return late.

During the examination as to possible conflict between her testimony of 1922 and that of today, Mrs. Riehl lost her previous calm assurance on the stand. She was plainly annoyed as she pounded her gloved hands against the side of the witness box and almost shouted in reply to the questions of Special Prosecutor Simpson.

She said that when she retired between 9:30 and 10 o'clock the night of September 14, she left Mrs. Hall playing solitaire in the library. Early next morning she said that she saw Willie Stevens in the dining room and that when she asked the reason for his unusually early arising, he replied:

"I would rather not tell you. I would rather Mrs. Hall told you. Something terrible had happened. Mr. Hall had not come home all night."

His Death Feared.

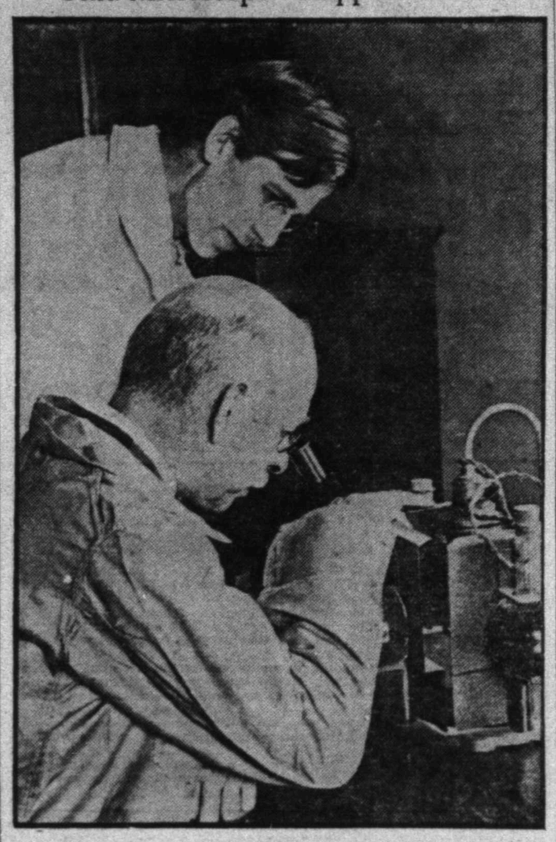

She quoted Mrs. Hall as saying that night in bidding her brother, Willie Stevens, good night, that "I thought he would come last night but he won't come tonight. I know he must be dead or he would have communicated with me."

The witness quoted her employer again, in a conversation developed by the maid's question as to whether she should keep Mr.. Hall's breakfast warm the morning after the killing.

She said that Mrs. Hall, with her eyes red from weeping replied: "No Mr. Hall hasn't been home all night, I don't know where he is and I can't imagine what has happened to him."

An effort at one telephone conversation which failed to materialize was described by Miss Millie Opie, dressmaker and neighbor of Mrs. Mills at the time of the singer's death. She said that on the day o fthe slaying she was asked by a person who said he was "Mr. Hall, and whose voice she recognized as that of the minister, to summon Mrs. Mills who had no telephone Miss Opie said she did not succeed in reaching Mrs. Mills then, but saw her that evening about 7:30 o'clock and told her of the attempt to communicate with her. Miss Opie also said that Mr. Hall visited Mrs. Mills often "too frequently," in the opinion of the neighborhood.

PLANE BOMBS BIRGER FORT

New Outbreak Staged By Novel Method in Gang War

MARION, Ills., Nov. 12. (AP) The airplane and aerial bomb today were added to armored cars, machine guns and other novel weapons used in the southern Illinois gang warfare between the rival Shelton and Birger liquor factions.

Flying low over Shady Rest, a roadhouse operated by Charley Birger, gang leader, 10 miles east of Marion, an unidentified aviator dropped a bomb which failed to explode.

Seven of eight gangsters then ran out of the place and began firing at the plane with rifles and machine guns as it circled around again and dropped two more bombs. One was a dud. The other exploded in the woods 100 yards from the roadhouse.

Aviator Escapes.

The gun fire did not find its mark but the aviator flew away rapidly to the north. The attacking plane bore no marks of identification and the pilot could not be seen clearly from the ground. One witness said he believed a second man was in the cockpit.

No damage was done by the explosion, but Birger who was at his home at Harrisburg at the time was wrought up over the new method of waging war gainst him.

"There'll be something popping off here now," he told newspaper correspondents. "They can't try that stuff on me,I'l get an airplane if I can and I'll use it, too."

Retaliatory Raid.

The air raid apparently was in reply to an early morning visit by alleged Birger gangsters at West City near Benton, 20 miles north of Marion where they poured a heavy machine gun and rifle fire into two houses in a neighborhood frequented by the Sheltonite.

One of the houses is occupied by Gus Adams, brother of the 300 pound mayor of the town, Joe Adams, and the other is the home of Mrs. Mary Loughran an elderly widow. Both houses have been described by Birger as Shelton hangouts and Mayor Adams who lives nearby has admitted that some time ago he enlisted the Sheltons' aid to protect himself from Birger, who, he declared had threatened his life.

Sheltons Arrested.

Shortly after the shooting Carl and Bernie Shelton, gang leaders, were arrested on the streets of Benton by six postoffice inspectors assisted by the sheriff of Franklin county, a deputy sheriff, a deputy United States marshal. The Sheltons did not resist.

Their arrest disclosed that they and another man whose name is withheld had been indicted by a federal grand jury at Springfield, Ills., last Tuesday for alleged complicity in the $15,000 robbery of a 64-year-old postoffice messenger

VERNON WILL BUILD STATUE

Monument to Valor of War Dead Will Be Put Up by Legion

VERNON, Nov. 12.—Brief but impressive services in memory of the honored dead of the World war from Wilbarger county were held at 1:30 o'clock Thursday morning at the American Legion hall on Main street attended by approximately 50 veterans of the World war, survivors of the Civil war and civilians.

Frank Hood as post commander had charge of the program. America was sung by the audience followed by a prayer for continuance of peace and safety of the nation, by Dr. E. L. Moore, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

The remainder of the program, the plan for the erection of the Doughboy statue to the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice, to be unveiled at Allingham park, December 5, was discussed.

Members of the legion will make a canvass of the business houses, Friday and Saturday for funds. It was announced.

At 10:58 o'clock, the audience were asked to face west and remain in silent prayer for two minutes. The prayer and services were brought to an end by Dr. E. L. Moore dismissing the audience with a benediction, in which he spoke of the many million hearts being lifted in silent prayer all over the world at that time.

EX-ELECTRAN BURIED FRIDAY

Charlie Adams, 22, Paid Final Respects At Electra

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 12.—Funeral services for Charlie Adams, 22,, of Bristol, Okla., were conducted at the Fist Baptist church at 10:30 Friday morning with Rev. E. M. Francis, pastor of the First Baptist church in charge.

Mr. Adams, who formerly lived in Electra until about a year ago, has been employed in Bristol, Okla., for the past few weeks in the oil fields and the accident occurred just a week ago, November 5, when he fell 40 feet from a derrick near Bristol, breaking his neck. Workers said he never said one word, after falling. He was formerly employed as a teamster for the Vaught Teaming contractors in Electra.

He is survived by his father, J. Adams, formerly of Electra, but now making his home in Oklahoma, and two sisters, Mrs. J. T. Darter and Mrs. A. E. Robertson, both of Electra and one brother, J. B. Adams of Childress.

The Trotten Brothers' hearse left Tuesday morning for Bristol and returned with the remains late Thursday, making the overland trip.

Wives Must Not Neglect Husbands For Children

Wives, Don't Let Motherhood Crowd Out Your Love for Your Husband, for Nothing Will Separate him from you More Quickly han to Regard Him Merely as "The Childrens' Father."

We have a theory that children form the strongest tie that binds a married couple together. Sometimes this is true spiritually and baby hands wield a magic that makes an indissouble bond between a husband and wife. Very often it is true physically, for many a man and women endure a misery of an unhappy marriage for the sake the helpless young creatures that they have brought into the world.

But children separate their parents just as often as they unite them, and if the true corespondent in many a divorce case was named, it would be neither a camp in clinky clothes and long jade earrings nor a varnished haired jazz hound, but a bald-headed, pink infant with its fist in its mouth, and whose seductions were carried on by means of gurgles and goos and other inarticulate sounds.

For in many a marriage the first rift within the lute comes with the first baby. he first cloud on many a domestic horizon is the size and the shape of a feeding bottle. Many a man finds in the cradle the fatal rival who steals his wife's heart away from him. Many a man is driven from his own fireside and into the company of gay ladies by a smallatom of humanity that yet is, sowehom, big enough to fill the whole house and crowd him out.

Up to the time of the baby's arrival, everything had been happy and peaceful and joyous. The man had been cock of the walk, with the household revolving around him. He had been the center of the universe to his wife. She had dressed herself to look beautiful in his eyes. She had striven to please him. She had been pail and lover to hom.

But with the advent of the baby all was changed. The man found himself deposed as king, with noe so poor as to do him reverence. His wife no longer considered his taste, or his happiness, or his pleasure. The baby was her sole thought.

She no longer dolled herself up, because baby tore at her chiffons. She was never willing to go anywhere of an evening because she couldn't leave baby. She answered at random when he talked to her because she was listning for baby's cry, and she was frankly glad when he would go out by himself because that left her free to indulge in her child worship.

What wonder that a man so circumstanced takes his hurt vanity for consolation to some woman who lets him see that she considers his conversation more interesting than the babbling of a babe? What wonder that he finad other playmates when his wife prefers nursery games to going to places of amusement with him? How inevitable that he should grow ipdifferent to a wife who shows him every days in every way what a secondary place he occupies in her heart!

Thousands of men who would have been good, loving, faithful husbands to the end are alienated from their wives and literally pushed into other women's arms by their wives' obsessing passion of motherhood.

For many women their husbands are merely their children's father. They do not exist as either man or husbands, with any rights as such. Still less do their wives feel that there is any necessity of cajoling, charming, amusing or considering them.

Their business in life is to work and provide the children with food and clothes and college educations and automobils and whatver else their extravagant youthful fancy may ask. Thy are ruthless in their demands. They are pitiless in the sacrifices they exact.

Because fresh country air is good for children, thousands of women shut up their homes every summer and take their broods of youngsters to mountains or sea, leaving husbands to toil through a hot summer alone in the city, with no comfortable home to come to at night, no good dinner awaiting him. Because the children want fine clothes, and to go to fashionable schools, and live in a smarter neighborhood, many a woman works her husband to death.

Cruelest of all the wrongs that these women, who are all mother and no wife, do their husbands is the way that they monopolize their children, and make a sort of close corporation which excludes their father from them. In some indefinable way it is always mother and the children against father. Mother who is always trying to get things out of father for them. Mother, who always sides with them against father. Often mother criticizes father to the children and cheapens him in their eyes.

Surely life holds no bitterer situation for a man than this: To have toiled like a slave for his family; to have worked while they playe; to have gone shabby while theye were respendent, and then to be robbed of his wife's affection by his children and defrauded of his children's love by his wife. To get neither love, nor gratitude, nor appreciation. To be just the human cash register that they punch for all they can get.

It is a wicked thing that a woman does when she permits herself to love her children more than she does her husband, and to put them above him. She cheats him when she does it and fails in her duty as a wife. And it is a foolish thing she does and short-sighted, because in a little while her children grow up and marry and go about their business, and then she is left desolate if she has lost her husband's love.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Women Commit Sin When They Trim Locks, He Asserts

ASSEN, Holland, Nov. 12. (AP)—Is it sinful for a fundamentalist hair dresser to bob or shingle a woman's hair?

This question recently was placed before Rev. Dr. K. Fernhout, president of the Dutch Reformed church synod which sometime ago expelled the Rev. Dr. J. G. Geelkerken of Amsterdam for casting doubt upon the story of Adam and Eve and the serpent in the Garden of Eden.

The applicant for spiritual advice said he felt burdened in mind as to how as a true believer he could cut off a woman's hair in the light of Paul's first epistle to the Corninthians, chapter II, verse 15, to the effect that a woman's hair is her glory.

The Rev. Dr. Fernhout, in a religious journal, has replied to the extent of five columns. He leaves no one in doubt as to his conviction that woman is man's inferior. If a woman cuts off her hair to assert her independence or merely to follow a silly fashion, she undoubtedly commits a sinful action, says the fundamentalist pastor. He further asserts that long hair is symbolical of the divinely pre-ordained subjection of woman to man.

Certain exceptions, however, are allowed and it is suggested that Christian women who want to be bobbed or shingled shall apply for a permit to their pastor or chief elder who will certify whether the reasons for the proposed step are theologically admissible or not.

Pastor Fernhout wears a full beard because, he says, he has conscientious objections to shaving.

TO SAN ANTONIO

Miss Katherine Henricle Leaves On Inspection

Miss Katherine Henricle, superintendent of the Children's Aid society of West Texas left Friday for San Antonio on a trip of investigation. She will visit wards of the society in the San Antonio (Methodist) Mission Home and Training school where six girls from Wichita Falls and one from Montague county are being cared for.

These girls are being taught domestic science, one is taking a business course, and one educated in music is instructing the other girls in the art. Two of the young girls, unmarried mothers have their babies with them, and are studying to be good mothers. Mrs. Sarah Xulbertson is matron of the home.

TO TELL OF TOUR

Miss Irene Davidson Will Address Club Here.

Members and visitors to the University club meeting today will be given a rare treat in the program scheduled for the evening. Miss Irene Davidson, who has recently returned from an extensive tour of the principal countries of Europe, will give some interesting accounts of her observations and experiences.

There has also been a very fine musical program arranged and an interesting evening is promised to everybody who attends.

MEETING POSTPONED

Social Workers Meeting Is Sidetracked By Reports

The Social Worker's club scheduled to meet Saturday noon at the Y. W. C. A. has been postponed, according to the president, Frank B. Creighton. Social workers are preparing their reports to be turned in to the executive committee of the Municipal welfare board which meets Tuesday.

Beading Used In Tiered Effect

BY MME. LISBETH.

Black and silver beading arranged in tiered effect is the outstanding feature of this gleaming frock. The tiers are finished with scallops and a slit directly in front reveals the underslip of silver cloth.

The top of the straight line front is silver cloth with a deep V cut down to the waist in front. The silver slip forms the vest of this V. Kathleen Key posed.

Among the chief features of the latest mode are the silver or gold lame gowns, the deeply cut back and the importance of sequins, jewels, embroidery and fringe. Georgette velvet in black or color and the harness strap decolletage are also noticeable features.

Fabrics of a rich nature are outstanding in the groups. Velvet and satin are two important mediums, with the former in extremely soft, supple versions, and with black registering definitely.

There are also several examples of the combination of velvet and a sheer medium in contrasting colors; as, for instance, in an evening frock showing a skirt of black velvet and a bodice of pink georgette. Added contrast is afforded in frocks of this type in scintillating embellishment, with rhinestones having an effective blue cast decorating the bodice.

PLAN FOR SERVICE

Annual Recognition Meeting Will Be Held Sunday.

Plans for the annual recognition service to be held at the First Christian church Sunday night for the thousand Girl Reserves of the city were made at the regular weekly meeting of the Junior College and High School Girl Reserves Friday morning at the school. Songs to be used in the service and the Girl Reserve code were practiced, after which the program, with Opal Longan in charge, was given. Edwards, whose musical talent has been hidden under a bushel so far as college programs are concerned, gave a delightful surprise in the form of a piano solo, and Miss Elizabeth Brown, much-traveled faculty member, gave a short talk on European customs.

ALL ATTEND

One Hundred Per Cent Record Is Hung Up By Writers' Club.

Perfect attendance was the boast of the Junior College Writers' club Friday morning at the second of its regular meetings. Mary Peters and Joyce Samuels were unanimously voted to membership in the club in the short business session, over which Ruth Turner, president, presided. Isla Cothran, program chairman, was in charge of the program, and the subject studied was "How to Write Feature Stories For Newspapers." Eleanor Fleming made a short talk, and articles were read by Harriet Roe and Ruth Turner. Plans for a financial campaign for the Wai-Kun were discussed by Miss Eva Weber, club sponsor.

GIN IS SUED FOR $10,000

Iowa Park Woman Asks Large Amount For Alleged Injury

A damage suit asking $10,000 from the Valley Gin Company of Wichita Falls was filed in 78th district court yesterday by Mrs. T. W. Payne of Iowa Park.

Mrs. Payne, who is a widow, 60 years of age, is the owner of a residence adjoining the gin property of the company at Iowa Park. She states in her petition that she purchased the place for her home and has resided there several years.

In the fall of 1925 the company bought the adjoining lots and proceeded to build a gin there. At that time she remonstrated, saying it would ruin her property as a home, and later she asked the company to buy her home at a reasonable figure.

The gin was built and since that time Mrs. Payne claims that dust and lint from the gin has affected her eyesight, that she has developed a cough and throat trouble, and that the noise of the gin disturbs her rest at night.

The property of the gin is approximately 100 feet from the front door of the cottage and the bedroom is also very close to the gin house, the petition recites.

Damages in the sum of $10,000 is asked by the plaintiff; $2,500 for damage to residence property; $2,500 for damages to her eyes, and $5,000 for damages from throat and lung trouble and impaired health.

The plaintiff also seeks a permanent injunction against the gin company in operating a gin at that place.

$1,000 ASKED AS DAMAGES

Files Suit Against His Landlord after being Locked Out

H. D. Ward and family filed suit in 89th district court yesterday against Mrs. M. E. Lynskey for damages alleged to have been suffered from the forcibly locking out of he and his family from some rent property belonging to Mrs. Lynskey.

Ward alleges that he was renting the property from Mrs. Lynskey and that on a certain date she caused the premises to be locked against him and his family, and that they had at that time several hundred dollars worth of furniture and household belongings in the house.

He claims that his family were deprived from the use of the property and thereby suffered damages to the extent of $1,000.

Canned Foods Prove Themselves A Valuable Factor In Nation's Living

In the columns and even pages of advice printed for housewives in daily papers, weekly journals, and magazines, there is sometimes a conflict in the suggestions, if not the advice offered for their guidance and assistance.

Says one writer: "When you open a can of food immediately pour its contents into an earthenware or glass dish."

Says another: "Food left in the open can is in no more danger of spoiling than if it is emptied into a vessel of another kind."

No wonder the women who have the care and preparation of the family's food in their hands are sometimes at a loss to know just what should be done. The real answer to their quandary is simply the application of common-sense; that is, doing what is the right thing to insure that the food is kept from contamination and the spoilage resulting from such contamination.

Caused by Bacteria.

Spoilage is caused by bacteria, yeast, molds, etc., everywhere present in the air and often carried on the hands of those handling the foods. So long as food is in a can that is sealed air-tight, it can not be contaminated. Open the can and the food is at once exposed to contamination from the air and from the handling it receives. Putting the food in an open earthenware, glass or enamel vessel, even though that vessel is thoroughly cleansed, does not protect it against the spoilage organisms in the air. Such food in open vessels will spoil just as quickly as if it were left in the open can.

There is nothing in the can, or in the tin on the can, that causes food to spoil any more quickly than does the glass or earthenware vessel, or the enamel on an iron pot. The bacteria, yeasts, or molds may find lodging on the vessels and get into the foods, particularly if the vessels are not properly cleansed or are handled by hands that are not thoroughly clean, but that is not the fault of the container but of the person who takes care of the food.

Of course, the open can is usually not so neat looking as other vessels in which the food may be placed, and with the label on the can it is not so easy to keep clean. Hence neat housekeepers usually do empty the contents of the can especially if they are to be used only in part, so that some other more convenient dish can be used, one easily kept clean, easily covered so as to exclude air, and easily placed in the refrigerator.

Foods to Blame.

Housewives who have become confused about the subject need only keep in mind this simple fact: It is not the food container itself that causes spoilage, but the condition of the container, the care exercised in handling the foods, and the exposure of the food to the air, flies, etc.

On general principles, the storage of food in an open can is not good housekeeping. When a dish in which food is served is removed from the table, the food remaining is, as a matter of course, transferred to a smaller dish. This is done partly so that it will occupy less space in the refrigerator and partly because it looks better. When a can of food is opened, its contents should be treated in the same manner, for food adhering to the upper portion is not an appetizing sight. The ragged edges of the opening detract still further from its appearance. For these reasons and for no other a can should be emptied when it is opened, and what remains after the removal of a portion sufficient for a meal should be placed in a dish of suitable size.

DEVELOPMENT OF WICHITA VALLEY'S IRRIGATED FARMS UGRED

OUSLEY LIMNS GREAT FUTURE FOR THIS CITY

Diversification of Planting By Farmers Called Essential Aid

Great accomplishments for Wichita Falls in the future were predicted Thursday night in the feature address before the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce at its annual banquet in the Junior college auditorium by Clarence Ousley, director of the Texas Safe Farming association.

Development of the Wichita valley irrigation project was listed by Ousley as the greatest past accomplishment of Wichita Falls enterprise.

The text of Ousley's address is as follows:

Sees Wonderful Future.

"It is a great pleasure to sit with this body of far-seeing, daring and successful business men and take pride as a Texan in the wonderful accomplishments of this fine young city raised up in this great Wichita county. I heartily wish that we had many more such groups of citizens with the vision to see the possibilities of development and with the courage to risk fortune and life in making the vision real.

"Wichita Falls has done some big things, and I am sure will do more big things. The greatest of your accomplishments, in my judgment, is the irrigation enterprise, which has insured bountiful crops in seasons of deficient rainfall. I hope that nothing that I may further say will seem in the slightest degree to under-value this great accomplishment. My purpose is only to suggest how you may insure returns upon the investment.

Credit System Established.

"Much has been done by communities, by states and by the nation to promote agricultural production, to furnish facilities of credit and to conserve the resources of the soil and to resist the depredations of animal and plant diseases and pests. And yet, in spite of these wise measures, agriculture languishes. In the cotton belt we are now in the midst of a periodical panic due to overproduction. It does not help us, though it gives us some consolation of sympathy, to remember that the corn belt is in a similar condition due to over-production. In the cotton belt we are making vigorous efforts to salvage some of the loss upon our cotton crop by retiring a part of it and merging the surplus in the reduced production next year. That is the obvious and the necessary measure of relief. I believe it will be accomplished. I am sure it will if all of us who are affected by agricultural depression will give our best energies to the work as it has been seriously planned by the Texas Bankers association.

South Will Recover.

"We will recover from this cotton panic as we have recovered from others, but the question that I wish to raise tonight is: How long will the south continue an agricultural practice that brings periodical panic every few years? We had similar panics in the early 90's, in 1914, in 1920 and now again in 1926. Is over-production and the consequent panic a necessary consequence, or a necessary incident, in the business of producing cotton? I do not believe it is. I think there is a better way and a safer way to conduct the business of agriculture, and I ask you seriously to consider this vital problem. Let me remind you that your oil resources in due course will be exhausted. The permanent prosperity of this city and of this region depends upon the industries you develop and those industries depend in the largest part upon your agriculture, which is the fundamental, the most important, the ever-continuing source of the major success, prosperity and wealth of all the cities and communities of Texas.

Other Problems Solved.

"I remind you that a generation or so ago we had a great railroad problem. There was a period of railroad buccaneering, when many master minds of the industry played fast and loose and used their powers to build up favored industries and favored communities to the very great injustice of other industries and other communities. They did not hesitate to plunge railroad properties into bankruptcy for private gain. They shamefully misused the great power when they wielded and they paid the penalty of all such abuse of power by bringing the whole railroad industry into popular antipathy and adherence. They furnished campaign material for the political demagogue who did not fail to improce the opportunity to ride into power and to precipitate confusion and to raise up hatred in the body politic. That unhappy condition of exploitation on the one hand and demoralization on the other, has passed. The American people, over the protests of the master minds of the railroad industry, resolved to be rid of railroad turmoil and instability and set up state commissions and the interstate commerce commission, by which and from which has come a transportation system, dependable, efficient and prosperous. The business mind of the United States and the true statesmen of the nation contrived, through much laborious experiment and many errors of judgment, in working out a system which functions with the greatest degree of satisfaction to both the railroad investor and the public interests. Our railways were never so well conducted and were never so prosperous.

Bank Panics in Past.

"In like manner, from the beginning of the republic until a recent period, we suffered periodical money and bank panics. We had convulsions of political upheaval over theories of monetary reform. We suffered incalculable loss and distress in business until finally the people of the United States resolved to be rid of bank panics, and over the protest of many of the best banking minds they set up the Federal Reserve system, and we no longer have bank panics.

"In like manner, throughout the history of the republic we suffered from labor contentions, strikes and walk-outs. Finally, as a people we came to recognize two new factors in the relation between capital and labor; one is the factor of organization to give bargaining power to the laborer who otherwise is helpless against the avarice of the employer; the other is, that contrary to the traditional view of employers in all the ages past, it is good business to pay good wages and to maintain high standards of living by all the people in order that all the people may prosper and be able to purchase the commodities that are produced and manufactured. In addition to these changes in traditional view, the nation has seen fit to enact immigration laws which insured continued prosperity of the laboring classes.

American Mind Capable.

"The object of these recitals is to show that the American business mind, the mind of the average business man as distinguished from the mind of the leaders of particular industries, is capable of solving the great economic problems of the nation. That common business mind has solved three of our greatest problems, and we all enjoy the stable conditions growing out of the solution of those problems, but that common business mind has not yet addressed itself seriously to the agricultural problems, which is the greatest of all our problems. nl the midst of the widest prosperity the nation has even known, agriculture alone, the most important of all industries, languishes.

"For reasons which the limitations of time will not permit me to recite, I believe that the farmers themselves, alone, cannot solve their own problem. The bankers did not solve their problem and the railroad managers did not solve their problem. Their problems were solved for them. We can solve the farmers' problem if we have the will to undertake the task and if we have the patience to persevere until it is accomplished. I submit that it is a task well worth undertaking, because the distress of agriculture is distressing all of us, and to the extent that we suffer from the distress of agriculture the agricultural problem is our problem. We are not called upon here tonight to solve the national problem, but we are called upon here tonight to solve the problem in Wichita county and in the trade territory of the Wichita Falls. Therefore, I ask you to consider the essential factors of this local and regional problem.

New Farming Region.

"This is a comparatively new agricultural region. You are still enjoying the production fruits of a comparatively virgin soil, but I make bold to warn you that your soil will not long remain virgin.

"I came to Texas 45 years ago and settled in one of the richest of our blackland counties. The soil there was more fertile than the soil of this region is now. I have seen that soil deteriorate. Forty-five years ago Texas boasted the largest acre yield of corn, cotton, oats and wheat of any state in the south. Mark the contrast between 1881 and 1926. The United States department of agriculture, on Monday, October 25, reported the estimated yield of cotton in all the states as of October 15. The acre yield of the south this year averaged 176.7 pounds of lint. The state of highest production is North Carolina, with 282 pounds of lint to the acre; the next is Missouri with 237, the next Mississippi with 206 and the lowest is Florida with 122, and next is Texas with 145. Arizona and California beat the cotton belt, not only in yield per acre but in the quality of the staple. California's yield is 349 pounds of lint per acre and Arizona's is 299. Texas has fallen from the high state of first in the cotton belt to next to lowest, in spite of the fact that 45 years ago the soil of Texas was more fertile than any other southern state at that time.

Must Keep Soil Fertile.

"If you are not taking steps in Wichita county to preserve the fertility of your soil, then you are headed on the downward direction of the blacklands of Texas. The deterioration is almost imperceptible from one year to another and occasionally there is the appearance of recovery due to exceptionally favorable seasons, but the deterioration over the range of years is as certain as the decay and death of the plants that grow upon the soil. The owner of land who does not replenish the plant food which he extracts from the soil in his yearly crops, is drawing dividends from his capital stock, and it is only a question of time when his soil will be totally depleted and himself bankrupt.

"In many regions, in fact in most regions, particularly in the cotton belt, soil fertility is replenished by the use of commercial fertilizers, which supply in direct form the particular constituents of the soil which the plants of the year absorb. So far in our experience in the black lands and the western area, the soil chemists have been unable to find or to compound commercial fertilizers which will assimilate and serve the purpose, because the texture of our black lands and the lack of uniformity in rainfall prevent or arrest or defeat the mechanical processes necessary to produce the correct chemical results.

"This is not a matter of theory; it is a matter of fact, as is aboundantly demonstrated b ythe figures which I have just furnished.

Diversification Urged.

"Another vital factor in the agricultural problem of Wichita county and the trade territory of Wichita Falls, is the unwisdom of depending upon a single crop or upon one or two major crops to furnish the sale or subsistence of the producer and to be the means of his accumulations. The major crops in this region are cotton and wheat. Some of your farmers are all-cotton farmers and some are all-wheat farmers. The producer who depends upon a single crop not only violates the fundamentals of soil conservation, but he violates the very first rule of safe business investment, in that he ventures his whole year's income upon the sale of a single commodity and upon the weather necessary to produce that commodity or that crop. The wheat farmer and the cotton farmer violate another fundamental rule of all safe business, and that is the full utilization of the operator's time. Wheat farming consists in three simple operations, to-wit, breaking and harvesting, which occupy a very small part of the 365 days of the year. The remainder of the operator's time is unoccupied, unless he seeks other employment apart from his farm operations, and few such operators have the opportunity or the qualifications for other occupations. The cotton farmer's operations are more numerous and extend over a greater period, but the cotton farmer is engaged in his cotton crop fewer than one-half the working days of the year and the remainder of his time is lost. No commercial, industrial or financial business can be conducted upon such a working schedule. Such farming is uneconomical and it is destined sooner or later to bring distress. At the very best the farmer's efforts fail of maximum results half the year of his life by reason of unfavorable weather or depredations of pests. Hence, of all men, of all vocations, the farmer should be most careful to take insurance against the natural hazards of his business.

Single Crop Can't Last.

This is not theory; it is fact. It is proved by experience of all the centuries in all the agricultural regions in all the world. There is no region anywhere, which devote to a single crop over a term of years brings prosperity. When we depend for prosperity upon the single crop of wheat or the single crop of cotton or upon both these crops, we simply defy the human experience of all the centuries. Depending upon cotton brought disaster to the south in the early 90's. It has brought disaster a half a dozen times in the present century. It will continue to bring disaster periodically as long as we depend upon it. It is one of God's best gifts to mankind, but our use of it has made it a curse to the south. It was cotton that perpetuated slavery long after the whole world had abandoned that institution as uneconomic. It was slavery that caused the war between the states. It was the war between the states which brought the agonies of reconstruction and the fierce race conflict that continues to vex our social organism.

"The cotton states had as fine soil as there is upon the face of the earth, and a climate more conducive to agricultural purposes than any part of this nation, and yet these cotton states are the poorest part of the nation and contribute but 15 per cent of its total national income.

Why Continue Gambling?

"How much longer, I beg you seriously to consider, are we to continue to gamble, to go broke, to struggle to recover and then to gamble again in cotton? How much longer will the business men of the south endure the periodical panics that cotton production brings?

"You grappled with railroad demoralization and brought order out of chaos. Haven't you the courage, as I know you have, and the wisdom to grapple with agricultural conditions and bring order out of chaos? Railroads and banking are purely human institutions; the present state of their order and their stability is the result of human contrivance. Agriculture on the other hand, is an institution of divine or natural order. Therefore, agriculture should be and agriculture is, the more amenable to rational management, because the very laws of its being are the very laws of nature, and all that we need to do is to observe the law in its conduct. But strange to say, we repeatedly violate its laws or permit its laws to be violated, and we suffer the penalty that always ensues from law violation. We have violated so many man made laws in the United States that we seem to be under the delusion that we can violate the law of nature and get away with it, but we cannot. Texas is paying the penalty of the violation of its laws of nature by having its cotton production reduced from 260 pounds to the acre to 143 pounds to the acre with a corresponding increase in the pound cost and corresponding loss upon the cost of production.

Nature's Laws Simple.

"The law of nature is as simple as it is inexorable. If we sit in this room for many hours without ventilation we will suffocate, because we will exhaust the oxygen in the air, but if we ventilate we will survive in health and vigor, because the plants on the outside will furnish the oxygen which they reject from the air which they inhale and will absorb the carbon which we reject from the air which we inhale. This is the same air which man and plants have breathed since the first man was made and the first blade of grass grew, and it is just as good now as it was then. Nature was just as provident and just as exact in providing for the preservation of the soil as in providing for the preservation of the air. The plants absorb certain constituents of the plant for conversion into flesh, wool, milk and butter and return the residue to the soil to furnish more food for plants. Thus the plants and animals conserve the soil as plants and animals conserve the air. Either plants or animals would suffocate in the air if either attempted to live alone, because either would exhaust the constituent parts of the air necessary for its own life. And so it is with the soil. The soil that constantly gives its constituent parts to plants and does not receive in return the same constituent parts which animals reject, will starve. The soils of Texas are starving for lack of animals.

Easier To Be Lazy, But—.

"It is much easier to produce wheat by working a few days in the year, or to produce cotton by working less than half the year than it is to milk cows or feed hogs every day in the year, but producing wheat or cotton alone is a mere gamble against weather and world conditions over which not even the whole south, much less a single producer, has the slightest control or influence. Such farming is a vain attempt to get easy money and all experience proves that efforts to get easy money end sooner or later in disaster. As I have already shown in the case of cotton, it brings periodical panic. Since we cannot use commercial fertilizers economically or profitably to restore our soil fertility, there is but one remedy in Texas, and that is the remedy of stock-farming, of balanced agriculture, of a farming program that raises all the food and feed needed by the family and the work animals and furnishes supplemental income to the uncertain income from wheat or cotton. This is a very simple remedy. It is so simple that those producers who think themselves smart despite it and we must contrive some means to persuade such producers to observe the laws of nature and thereby insure their own prosperity and our prosperity.

Must Obey Natural Laws.

"We are constantly raising our voices against lawlessness, against the contempt for the statutes of our state and our nation. I submit that it is high time for us to raise our voices and to use our influence against the lawlessness that despises and spurns the laws of nature. We abhor the criminal who steals other men's property or takes other men's lives. In the name of nature and nature's God, I appeal for a sentiment which will abhor the criminal who robs the soil, who starves the plants and who denies life to the animals whose home is the field and whose covert is the barn. I cannot think that such a man believes in his God. He may profess to be a Christian, but by all the appraisel of nature, which is God ordained, he is an infidel.

"What can business men do about it? In the present crisis they can do much. Indeed, they have it in their power to do nearly all that needs to be done. The business men of Wichita Falls possess a power of credit which if wisely exercised will make all-cotton farming and all-wheat farming practically impossible in this region. It should not be necessary, in the light of the present situation, to remind the bankers that a loan on cotton raised in the ground with no better security than some cotton mules and the yield of the land is not a liquid asset. Intelligent and industrious farmers are following the teachings of the scientists and economists, but unfortunately, there are many farmers who despise the teachings of the scientists or the economists and prefer to gamble in cotton or wheat. Such farmers are amenable only to the persuasion of the limitation of credit. What is a safe rule for banking credit is also a safe rule for merchandising credit. The farmers who are robbing the soil and who are precipitating these periodical disasters, are for the most part borrowers of money and buy their supplies on time. Hence, bankers and merchants in the present situation have an obvious opportunity to insure better credits next year.

Must Correct Error.

"But this is all merely to apply a palliative to a chronic disease. We will escape from the present disaster as have escaped from others, but unless we correct the fundamental errors of our agriculture, we are certain to suffer another disaster in a few years. I appeal to the business leaders here to the business minds of Wichita Falls to see to it that the natural resources of this region are safeguarded and that they exercise with diligence, prudence and firm resolution the influence which their talents give them and be true to the obligation that leadership imposes.

"I am not here to prescribe an agricultural program for Wichita Falls. You have a county agent representing the United States department of agriculture and the state A. M. college of Texas, which are the greatest agencies for agricultural education in the world, and you have a business faculty which can give applications to these teachings. You are the custodians of the material welfare of this region. You are the trustees of future generations.

"I urge you to be faithful."

ELECTRA GETS MANY TURKEYS

Fowls are Dressed and Shipped to Eastern Markets Daily

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 12.—The turkey market is equally as good this year as ever before, local poultrymen announced Thursday, for the two wholesale poultry houses in the city, a total of approximately 25 boys are employed each afternoon after school to pick turkeys for the market, while the E. C. Wilson Poultry company has four men employed regularly and the W. E. Addison company has put on one additional man during the rush. Each house has shipped approximately 500 pounds of turkeys out so far, in addition a great number being local for local consumption.

The turkeys from the Wilson poultry house are shipped to Frederick, Okla., and Wichita Falls, in trucks each afternoon after the picking is finished and then sent to the eastern markets, while those from the Addison poultry company are only sent to Frederick.

Mr. Wilson feels confident that his concern will handle as many as they did last season, which totaled 25,000 pounds of turkeys. Each business reports that the farmers are responding nicely with the turkeys from the range and that they are bringing exceptionally good prices.

NO. 2 FARMER EXTENDS POOL

Panhandle's Test Makes Fifth Wild Cat Well Being Completed

Covering the slush pit with oil with 500 feet of mud in the hole, the Panhandle Refining company's No. 1, Farmer in northwest Young county is considered a sure extensioner of the Prideaux shallow pool in northeast Young and southeast Archer counties.

The well, which is located one and one-half miles northwest of the Prideaux production and in the Taylor Rose survey, has just touched the sand at 786 feet. Final completion is being delayed by casing trouble, but Panhandle officials declared that it would be a commercial well when completed.

This well, when completed, will mark the fifth wildcat or semi-wildcat completed by the Panhandle as producers in that vicinity since last August. It is east of the discovery in the A. McMullen survey, R. O. Prideaux farm, and northeast of recently discovered productive territory in the A. Rohus survey on the O. W. Matthews lands.

Panhandle's No. 3 Matthews is nearing the 812 foot pay and should be completed early next week.

Animals Believed To Be Living On Mars

Mars is inhabited by some forms of animals, declares Dr. U. W. Campbell, president of the University of California and one of the foremost astronomers in the world. Dr. Campbell bases his conclusions from observations made while Mars was only 42,000,000 miles or more from earth. Above picture of main building, Lick Observatory, California, at which Dr. Campbell makes his observations, below, Dr. Campbell at the 36-inch refractor of the observatory, studying the neighbor-planet. That Mars takes on a dark hue in spring and a lighter color in the autumn, comparable to seasonal changes on earth, Dr. Campbell believes is evidence of plant and animal life. Presence of water vapor and oxygen, necessary for the existence of life, also are indicated.

MEXICO BUYS U. S. CARS

Exports Show Heavy Shipments of New Models There

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 12.—(AP)—American made automobiles of all types and models continue to hold their popularity with the people of Mexico.

A monthly report issued by a local firm of customs brokers shows that in October 69 carloads of automobiles made in the United States were exported into Mexico through this place of entry. Figuring seven automobiles to the car load, there were 483 automobiles shipped through here in October.

Automobile exports always show a large decline in the summer months, with Mexican buyers waiting for new models.

The shipments increase in the fall, however, and it is expected that from nine to ten thousand automobiles of all makes and models will be shipped into Mexico in 1926 through Laredo.

SARTORIAL FREEDOM

A MOVEMENT is under way in Paris to free the male neck from the thrall of the stiff white collar.

"Women the world over have discarded corsets," moan the Frenchmen. "Why should man remain bound to the tyranny of the stiff collar?"

The plight of the boulevardiers is indeed a sad one. Paul of Paree is by nature a barber hater. He goes in strong for whiskers; and as anyone who has ever tried it is aware, whiskers and stiff collars do not fraternize.

When one of the Gastrings becomes wrapped round a man's collar button he ceases at once to be a kind father and loyal husband.

Over here a man wears whiskers for advertising purposes, like the Smith Brothers, or because he has bronchitis or desires to cut down on his necktie bills. It's the easiest thing for one of the brothers with a full set of face fringe to appear at prayer meeting without a collar. It isn't honest, of course, but it can be accomplished without fear of detection.

In France they don't do that. They take their whiskers seriously. They may be loose in other ways, but the ethics back of whisker wearing is brass bound.

One of the most touching sights imaginable is to watch Gaston's missus standing in the middle of the bedroom floor in the morning, holding up his whiskers with both hands while he buttons on his stiff collar.

It's perfectly legitimate, in view of the facts in the case, for Gaston to rebel against the collar. The trouble is, he has to "organize" before he can effect emancipation. If he motors to the bourse in the morning without a collar everyone else has to appear with a bare neck. If not, he'll be kicked off the exchange and ostracized socially.

Over here we do things differently. If a stiff collar bores us we yank it off, throw it behind the bedroom door and the following day it adorns the aesthetic and gracile neck of the ash man.

We don't have to "organize" to be in style. Style, so far as the average American male is concerned, is a matter of preference. Years ago there went to the United States senate from somewhere in the west, a virile gent whose proud boast was that his great, big, broad, earnest feet had never found their way into the shady coverts of a pair of socks. Four out of five of our congressmen go to bed in their underwear, and the late lamented Mark Twain used to appear at banquets in a white flannel dress suit.

Freedom in dress is a personal matter so far as we are concerned. We maintain the polite fiction of being dictated to by a lot of eager-eyed style makers; but it doesn't mean anything. Sometime ago the announcement was broadcast that "fashion" dictated reptile skin shoes for women. "Since the flesh of a new-born sun first fell on Eden's green and gold," women have entertained a conservative prejudice against reptiles and the lizard, and snake skin shoes still repose on the shelves of the "fashionable" booteries.

All of which comprises another little lesson that the brothers and sisters may absorb from the land of the free and the home of the Eighteenth amendment. There can be no sartorial freedom without courage and a sane and healthy disregard for someone's else opinion.

HOLDING THE COTTON

"NOW the rush of cotton to the market is over," editoralizes the Dallas News. But the picking season is not over. In West Texas there is a million bales of unpicked cotton in the field, and the blizzards and snow storms and crusts of ice are coming.

Indeed, the blizzards and the snow storms and the frost waves have inundated West Texas.

In some sections tenants have deserted their holdings, leaving the landowners and the bankers to hold the bag. If the landowners and bankers insist that the cotton must be picked, it will be up to them to engage the pickers, to pay for the pickers, and to warehouse or sell the cotton gathered by those who did not produce it, but who furnished the land or the coin to the one crop tenants who are ever in debt and who are getting to be the gypsies of this modern civilization.

COTTON AND ITS CONSERVATOR

GEORGIA produced a huge crop of cotton this year. What did the banks of Atlanta do? They underwrote a fund of $12,000,000 to withhold 300,000 bales of cotton from the market, and the cotton to be marketed through the Georgia Co-Operative Cotton Growers' association. Aaron Sapiro and the followers of his gospel of marketing appear to be making heavy inroads in the banks of Georgia cotton growers.

It is announced from Washington that the farm loan board and presidents of the Federal Intermediate Credit banks have approved loans to co-operative marketing associations for the present emergency totaling $38,500,000. Furthermore, it is announced that no limit has been fixed as to the amount which will be loaned to sound co-operative marketing associations to assist in marketing the 1926 crop.

One of the large advances has been made to the Texas Co-Operative Marketing association. And the amount of Texas cotton to be taken from the market is something more than one million bales. It is said the plans are designed to make loans to farmers who are not members of the co-operative associations as well as member farmers and the pledge of the Texas Financing organization is $5,000,000.

It is the contention of Joseph F. Leopold of Dallas, manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce, that Texas can look for no relief in the cotton depression from Washington or from legislation, but must settle the question on an acreage basis for itself.

Holding cotton for a better price is not a solution according to this chamber of commerce economist and advisor. Holding cotton, he says, just delays the evil day until next year. A diversified plant program in his opinion is the best solution.

Speaking of the present, he says, the cotton situation works a hardship on the farmers and the country bankers, otherwise the large cotton crop has helped business for the reason it has given more people employment and kept more money in circulation.

If the bankers and the big landowners would present a united front and tell it from the shoulder to the tenants that the acreage must be reduced the coming year thirty or thirty-five per cent perhaps there would be no carry-over of the crop to be raised in 1927.

Whenever there is a famine crop, high price cotton rewards the grower. Whenever there is a bumper crop, the little fellows are pinched and broken.

This is the record of 50 years. It will continue to be the record in the cotton belt while the land tenacy system prevails and the antiquated credit system, which is covered with moss and almost as old as the Rock of Ages, retains its vice like grip on the throats and the hands and the souls of a vast army of cotton producers.

PUBLICITY IS THE THING

THERE is more money in pecan culture than the slow thinker can conceive. Texas is getting to be the great pecan producing state of the union. A little story from Stephens county is interesting. The pecan crop of that county is estimated this year at 200,000 pounds, or one-fourth of normal production from 147,000 trees.

Pecan growers of Stephens will furnish 100 pounds of pecans to be planted in half-pound bags at 200 of the 1,500 plates which will be laid for the boys and girls who will attend the national convention of representatives of agriculture clubs in Chicago this month.

There are millions of pecan trees in Texas. Additional millions of trees should be planted. Pecan trees are dividend makers. They are magnificent shade trees. They are aristocrats of the tree family.

This for a lot of people who never think and for a lot of others who do their reading and let others do their thinking.

Publicity is the thing. Advertising tells the story. These Texas pecan growers who are sending 200 bags of pecans to Chicago for advertising purposes know just how to place their community and their product on the map.

Did you ever stop to think it might make a monkey mad if you called him a distant kinsman of a hyena?

ENOUGH IS SUFFICIENT
By Wallace M. Bayliss

George Godfrey, always jolly,
Had longed, since childhood days,
To own a talking Polly.
Somehow, through winding ways,
A dealer who was selling
Such pets, of this got word
And called up George's dwelling
To try to sell a bird.

In any conversation
George always holds his own;
In fact, his reputation
Wherever his is known
It that, although loquacious,
He's not inclined to sloth;
His wife, sweet, quiet, gracious,
Let's George talk for them both.

But, friends, no parrot's squawking
Is heard in George's hall;
He still does all the talking
For self and wife and all,
When she heard what was brewing
His wife flew up in a huff
And cried, "George! Nothing doing
ONE talking bird's enough!"

LOST AND FOUND DEPARTMENT

ALBERT LEACH . . In my youth there was a sentimental ditty starting,

"Darling I am growing old . . ."

Being eager to get evidence of such a curious confession, coming from a woman, I seek your help.

Dear Al: It does sound remarkable until you see the finish, which is:

Ah! Darling, I am growing old,
However, I'm not rebelling,
But thanking Fate I'm not as old
As the jokes you're always telling!

Horace Jeffrey. . . . . How about that eternal question,

"Where are the snows of yesteryear?"

Can you get a line on it?

Dear Horace: No only one, but three others—

Where are the snows of yesteryear?
I do not give a darn, old dear!
Instead, the whereabouts I seek
Of the ten you borrowed yesterweek!

Fate, you see, plays a shifty hand to some folks and what appears to be on the moment, a "bad break" often turns out to be the lucky break! In association with George White's "Scandals" we want to get the funniest lucky day incidents you have had in your life!

NOW WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT IT?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX.

1. Is raw starch digestible?
2. What is a test for the presence of starch?
3. What is glycogen?
4. What are the chief practical differences between cane sugar and grape sugar.
5. Is there anything unhealthy about butter substitutes?
6. What is the difference between hard and soft water?

Answers to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.

Sugar.

Most people cannot imagine what they would do without sugar and our granadmothers speak of horror of the price of sugar in the Civil war—60 cents a pound. But sugar is really very recent in the diet of the white man. It was unknown, except as it occurs in honey and some sweetish fruits, in Europe before the middle ages, when sugar was brought by the Arabs from Cambodia. Then a German chemist discovered sugar in the sugar beet, and sugar beets prevent the tropics from putting the price of cane sugar up to any high figure. Yet though so common, few people know about the sugar beet, and in spite of the fact that sugar beets are white, Amy Lowell in a famous poem compares someone's face to the redness of a sugar beet.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. The land is not washed to ocean level by the rivers because of slow uplifting and buckling of the rocks, and volcanic action.
2. The ocean bed is such a deep hole in the earth that the load of land wash dumped in to it does not amount to anything, so the ocean never fills up.
3. Sinking coasts permit water to invade river mouths, thus forming better harbors than rising coasts where mouths have intricate sandy deltas.
4. The Pacific coast has disturbances of coast level.
5. Norway is sinking.
6. A fjord is a drowned river mouth among mountains.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch.

WHILE YOU CAN

My Uncle George once built a boat,
when George was but a boy,
And when the world was all afloat,
he found a lot of joy
In pushing that old punt around with paddle, oar or pole;
The splashing waters' lapping sound brought pleasure to his soul.

'Twas only in the early spring the creek was deep enough
To ever really float the thing, to tack and steer and luff;
The little creek would quickly dry,
myfi uncle knew it would;
But uncle, when the creek was high, enjoyed it while he could.

Life isn't always at the flood, or or fortune at the peak,
The stream becomes a bed of mud,
whatever joy we seek,
But when the world is all agleam
with waters bright and gay,
Then launch your boat upon the stream, and laugh, and sail away.

You've had a lot of cares and woes,
you'll have a plenty more,
But when the sparkling river flows don't mope upon the shore.
When trouble comes, don't sit and whine, but bear it like a man,
And when the world is fair and fine enjoy it while you can.

For men their sorrow will survive,
their grief of other years,
If men are happy when they thrive,
when happiness appears.
I even think we love it more, this life of tear and smil,
Because of shadows on the shore
that linger for awhile.

My Uncle George could only row
this rowboat in the spring.
But then the journeys he would go,
the songs that he would sing!
I know a lot of fine, old men who thought that life was good
Because they frolicked now and then, enjoyed it while they could.

"I'M THE GINK"

I'm the gink who breaks engagements with ease and abandon. Any little excuse is enough for me. I just let them slide and trot off on something else that has caught my fancy. Of course I cause no end of inconvenience. Other people have arranged their plans to fit in with my engegement. That's all right, I let them make others. Business or social, it matters not to me. I break them with some sort of trumped up excuse or none at all. I'm not put out and that's all I care about.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

JUDGE BARWISE

Once in awhile the career of a man stands out above the level of his fellows like a beacon light along the pathway of the world. Not for one big, transcendant feat he has accomplished; nor for a series of outstanding affairs in which he has played a leading part; but for something about him, some little trait that has been manifest throughout his entire life does he loom out as a character different from the usual.

Judge Barwise who today passes a milestone in life to which few men reach, is and has been a figure. The fact that 97 summers have heaped themselves upon his head is not the main reason for the tributes and congratulations that will pour in on him today from far and near. True, to have lived for 97 years is an accomplishment in itself; but to have life for 97 years and at the end of that time to still command the respect, the homage and the love that this venerable patriarch commands is an accomplishment far more noteworthy.

Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, elsewhere in this morning's edition of the Record News, has told a few of the things Judge Barwise has done to make his long and fruitful career one of achievement. He has, Mr. Fitzgerald points out, ever stood for the principles of an untrammeled democracy; he has ever fought for constitutional government, civil and religious liberty, the bill of rights and equal justice for all. He has done this, of course, and is honored for it; but greater, even, than these specific cases, have been the qualities of fairness, of progressiveness and intelligence which he has evinced, perhaps unconsciously, that have endeared him to the hearts of Wichitans and Texans.

As Fitzgerald says, we may in truth today hail with acclaim this grand old man of Texas.

Can You Take A Bath With Your Clothes On?

That would be a ridiculous attempt, wouldn't it? You might get your face and hands clean, but that's about all.

Yet, it is just as sensible as to try to stop constipation with ordinary laxatives and purgatives that ONLY CLEAN OUT PART OF YOUR INTESTINES! You just can't do it that way!

There's a twenty-eight foot drainage canal, including your stomach, upper and lower intestines, that has got to be thoroughly cleared and washed out clean and pure before you are right again. That's why you only get temporary relief from salts, cascaras, oils and such things. They don't reach all this canal.

The thing to do is take KLOK-LAX. It's the new, improved method to STOP CONSTIPATION. Everybody's taking KLOK-LAX now. These little tablets are wonderful! Contain ingredients now recognized the world over to completely cleanse your system of all poisonous wastes that breed disease.

Take KLOK-LAX tonight at9—in the morning you'll feel fine! When you are washed out clean inside, you'll be refreshed. All that old dull, heavy feeling will be gone. You'll feel alive, with a hearty appetite—full of "pep" and energy.

It is easy ot take—just KLOK-LAX with a swallow of water. No nausea—no griping—not a minute lost from work or play. KLOK-LAX is Nature's greatest aid to keep your system clean, sweet and active.

COTTON NETS 30-POINT GAIN DURING ACTIVE DAY OF TRADING

STATISTICS BY HESTER BOOST MARKET'S TONE

Mill Takings of Past Week Exceed Similar Total For Last Year

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12. (AP) The cotton market showed somewhat more activity today and the trend of prices was upward, due to higher Liverpool cables and to the prospect for the immediate settlement of the British coal strike. The advance was also aided by the rather better weekly statistics than looked for especially Secretary Hester's mill takings of 528,000 bales against 493,000 last year. The market opened five to nine points up and by noon the advance had been increased to 14 to 15 points. The market continued to improve during the afternoon on a rumor that the coal strike had been actually settled and by an announcement that the October consumption report, expected to be very bullish, would be issued at the opening tomorrow. The highest levels of the day were made at the end with the close showing net gains for the day of 28 to 31 points.

First trades showed gains of five to nine points. The market improved right after the call, December soon trading up to 12.51, January to 12.56 and March to 12.73, or 11 to 12 points above the previous close. At noon December traded up to 12.54, January to 12.59 and March to 12.75. The market continued to improve after noon, making new highs right at the end with December at 12.72, January at 12.76 and March at 12.92, or 31 to 32 points above the previous close. The market closed at the top.

Exports for the day totaled 23,631 bales and for the week 197,475.

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.(AP)—The cotton market was decidedly more active today prices advancing on covering by recent sellers and increased demand attributed to trade or investment interests. This may have been promoted by talk of a quick settlement of the British coal strike or reports of continued steadiness in the southern spot situation. Very little southern selling was reported on the advance which extended from 12.49 to 12.71 for January contracts. That delivery closed at 12.70, the general market closing firm, at net advances of 25 to 33 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 10 to 44 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. Some overnight selling from the south was readily absorbed, and while business tapered off somewhat after initial offerings had been absorbed, it became decidedly more active in late trading. A good part of the early buying was attributed to trade interests and belief that contracts were going into strong hands may have contributed to the firmer tone noted later in the day.

Liverpool buying here at the opening and again during the forenoon was supposed to be partly against sales in the English market and the later advance here was accompanied by reports that ocean rates on cotton in high density bales had been reduced from $1.00 to 75 cents per bale for shipment from New York to Liverpool supposedly in anticitpation of a fiual British coal strike settlement. December sold up to 12.65 and March to 12.95 in late trading or 29 to 34 points net higher. The closee was within a point or two of the best.

There was further December liquidation during the day, but it seemed to be readily absorbed by the buying of spot house brokers who were credited with selling later deliveries. The relative firmness of the near month was considered a reflection of the continued steady spot situation in the south.

Exports today 25,632, making 3,020,988 so far this season. Port receipts 70,753; U. S. port stocks 2,651,040 bales.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.(AP)—Resumption of the upward movement in today's stock market was checked just before the close by the marking up of call money rates. With the exception of General Motors, which showed a net loss of nearly a point at 148¾, the reaction was only of technical proportions, final quotations disclosing a long list of net gains ranging from one to over five points. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, which was construed in some quarters as an indication of increased public participation.

General Motors rallied nearly three points in the early trading on buying presumably influenced by the declaration of an extra cash dividend of $4, but lost all its gain on a combination of profit-taking and bear selling influenced by the belief tha tthe last quarter will show a material falling off in earnings and that stockholders can not hope to continue to receive such generous dividend distributions as have taken place this year. Mack Trucks sold off over a point and Jordan touched another new low, but some of the other motors, particularly Chrysler and Hudson, received excellent buying support.

The weekly mercantile reviews continued to report irregularity in the busines ssituation, but stressed the fact that there was as yet no definite sign of a general let-down in business. Mill operations in the plants of the United States Steel corporation are reported to have increased slightly during the past week, and the Baldwin Locomotive company announced a couple of substantial orders during the day. U. S. Steel common closed two points higher at 150⅝, after having sold at a point above that figure and Baldwin was run up over five points to 136¾, or just below the record high price of the year.

The marking up of the call money rate from 4¼ to 4½ per cent was regarded as incidental to the withdrawal of funds for mid-month payments. Indications that there was no strain on the credit situation were seen in the increase from 80.1 to 84.6 per cent in the reserve ratio of the New York Federal Reserve bank this week and the shading of time money rates, making the shorter maturities available as low as 4⅜ per cent. The prompt sale of about $50,000,000 in new bond offerings and the heavy advance inquiries for the prospective issue of debentures of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey in connection with the plan to retire the preferred stock indicated the presence of a huge investment demand. Standard of New Jersey directors took no action to retire the preferred at their meeting today, but admitted the plan was still under discussion.

More than a score issues attained new peak prices for the year the list including Kennecott, Coca Cola and Commercial Solvents B.

Heaviness of Chesapeake and Ohio, which sold down 3⅛ points to 162½, was inspired by the belief that coal shipments would show a sharp falling off on the settlement of the British coal strike, which appears imminent. Most of the other rails pointed upward, Rock Island 6 per cent, preferred, touching another new high.

A rally of about 10 points in French francs which again sold above 3.30 cents, and a further rise in demand sterling to just below $4.84¾ featured the firm foreign exchange market.

DUN'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.(AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say

It has been a week without especially significant movements in financial and commercial cricles. The further easing of money rates makes a somewhat unusual phase for this season, but demands from spevculative sources have lessened, and relatively low prices for different commodities tend to reduce the amount of funds required for trade uses. The price element also partly accounts for the decreased bank clearings at a number of important cities, yet the losses in the south apparently result largely from the abnormal cotton situation which has had a repressing effect on mercantile operations in tha tsection. Wit hthe very low price for that staple, however, production of cotton goods has been stimulated and employment of workers in that field increased. Broadly viewed, the textile division has shown improvement in recent months and this is also true of leather and foot wear markets. Irregularities still appear in those lines as in most other channels but the business of the country is so diversified that uniformity of conditions is not to be expected.

Weekly bank clearings $8,535,088,000.

Oil Field Fire Takes Lives, Does $500,000 Damage

Three men were killed, a score were injured and oil and equipment to the value of $500,000 were consumed in a fire that virtually destroyed the Sour Lake oil field in Hardin county, Texas. The fire was caused by friction brought about by the lowering of tubing into the casing of a well. Photo shows the fire at its height.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.(AP) —Wheat values underwent a decided tumble here today in concert with lower quotations at Liverpool and because of fresh breaks in the corn market. General selling of wheat took place notwithstanding that Liverpool weakness was associated with reports of the British coal strike having practically been settled. Corn reached all-around new low price records for the season.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 2⅝ to 3⅛c net lower, corn 1⅝ to 2⅛c down, oats ⅛ to ⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 25c.

Corn trades construed the United States government corn crop report as bearish, the report showing a 14,000,000 bushel yield in excess of October fgures. It appeared to be overlooked that the percentage of merchantable corn is only 72.6, the lowest with three exceptions in more than 40 years. Oats sympathized with corn.

Despite higher prices on hogs most of the day, provisions were responsive chiefly to corn weakness.

The business of R. H. Macy and company was established in 1858 and it now operates one of the largest department stores in New York. Sales are made solely for cash. The company owns the entire stocks of the W. & E. Realty company and Cowie and Company and has an interest in the La Salle and Koch company of Louisville, and the Davidson-Paxon-Stokes company operating a department store in Atlanta.

The company owns its building in New York which is erected on land covered by long leases. It also owns other real estate, either directly or through the W. & E. Realty company and operates storerooms, warehouses, garages and other property in New York and a summer camp in Sullivan county. The company has 150 selling departments and about 7,500 employes.

Funded debt consists of $7,500,000, of which $750,000 is due annually beginning in 1927, and on January 30, 1926 there were mortgages on the company's property amounting to $304,800. Capital stock consists of $9,099,000 outstanding in preferred shares of $100 per and 350,000 shares of common stock of no par value. The voting power is vested in the common stock.

Net sales in the fiscal years ending January 31 have risen from $35,828,515 in 1920 to 66,505,459 in 1926. Net profits reached $4,163,315 in the latter year or equal after preferred dividends and sinking fund requirements to $9.20 per share on the common shares. For the six months ended July 31, net sales were about 15 per cent higher than the previous year.

As of January 31, 1926, current assets were $12,032,848; current liabilities $3,750,644 and net working capital $8,282,204. Dividends have been paid on the preferred at the full rate since 1920. No dividends have as yet ben paid on the common.

JIM PAID FEE BY RAILROAD

Ferguson Employed to Aid Extension of Line In Rio Grande

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.(AP)—James E. Ferguson was employed by him as general counsel for a year at $10,000 to make speeches in the Rio Grande Valley in favor of a proposed extension of the San Antonio Uvalde and Gulf railway from Fowlerton to Brownsville, W. T. Eldridge, Sugaarlanad capitalist, testified Friday before the house investigating committee.

He said the proposed extension would have passed through 179 miles of practically virgin territory.

"The Missouri Pacific later made me such an attractive offer for certain lines, including the San Antonio Uvaalde and Gulf, that I felt I could not afford to carary out my plans for the extension, but Ferguson was worth every dollar I paid him because of his able assistance in the negotiations that led to the sale of the properties t othe Missouri Pacific," Eldridge stated.

Sugar Cane Contract.

When his contract with Ferguson was entered December 31, 1924, the state prison system had a contract to furnish sugar cane to the Sugarland industries at Sugarland, Eldridge said. He explained that several years ago he deeded his interest in the Sugarland industries to his son and daughters.

"When you employed Jim Ferguson as your attorney did you know he was going to exercize practically all the functions of the governor's office, and in effect be the real governor?" Richard Critz, committee attorney, asked.

"I did not. Had I known it, I never would have employed him. I felt kindly toward the administration and was much disappointed. When the contract was made, I thought I'd occupy his time and keep him away from Austin," Eldridge replied.

Jim's Aid Sought.

Mr. Eldridge said he felt no other man in Texas could do him as much good as Ferguson by making speeches in the Rio Grande Valley, and using his influence in that section to awaken interest in the proposed extension. "Judge Garwood of Houston, my personal and company attorney for many years, concurred in this opinion."

$10,000 Fee Paid.

Ferguson was paid $10,000 by check, December 31, 1924, when he signed the contract to serve as general counsel and advisor in the "extension of railways," and render such service as may be required. The contract, which was read into the record, stipulated that Ferguson was to receive $10,000 and all traveling expenses when on business for Mr. Eldridge, and that he was to devote not more than five days of each month to working for his employer.

Eldridge said he was interested in the S. A. U. and G., the Asherton and Gulf, The Rio Grande City and the Sugarland railway, when the contract was made with Ferguson, but since that time he had disposed of his interests in all and turned them over to the new owners, except the Rio Grande City, which would be turned over January 1.

He said the Sugarland Industries operated sugar refineries and a general mercantile business, handling "everything from a sewing machine needle to a steam engine in the general mercantile business."

Prison Adjoins Plant.

The Imperial State prison farm joins the lands of the Sugarland industries, he said. "The state bought the 5,635 acres of the Imperial farm from me and my associates during Governor Campbell's administration. "We were paid $160,000 for the improvement and personal property on the farm, but the land was to be paid for over ten years by the cane taken from 2,250 acres.

"Governor Colquitt took no more notice of the contract than if it were a scrap of paper, and a suit was brought to enforce the contract.

"A compromise was effected during Governor Jim Ferguson's administration, with practically the same terms as in the original contract agreed on. I contend the contract has two more years to run, though the prison system is not now living up to the contract."

Mr. Eldridge said he approached Ferguson on the proposition of becoming his lawyer and that the reason he paid the $10,000 in advance was because Ferguson told him that he needed some money. The late Judge Tom Love of Houston prepared the contract, he said. "I don't believe that James E. Ferguson ever dreamed of it until I spoke to him at San Antonio. He said he would take it under consideration. Later at Houston I spoke to him and he said he would discuss it with friends."

The capitalist said that he did not know whether the Sugarland Industries had advertised in the Ferguson Forum, and stated that he understood a $10,000 fund was to have been made up from the railroads to advertise in the Ferguson Forum but did not know whether it was done.

Rail Ads Solicited.

Judge Richard Critz read a letter from Frank Kell, Wichita Falls, capitalist, in which Kell stated that at the meeting of the Railroad General Managers association of Texas at Laredo, April 9, 1925, a Ferguson Forum representative suggested a proposition of the roads to advertise in the Ferguson Forum and that a fund of $10,000 was to be raised from a mileage pro-rata on the lines. A bill for $150 for the Wichita Falls and Southern line, and another for $700 or $800 for the S. A. U. in which Kell was interested, were presented but were not paid, Kell's letter said.

Eldridge said he knew nothing about that proposition. He said Ferguson helped him in his conferences with President Baldwin in St. Louis on the sale of his railroad interests to the Missouri Pacific lines and that though his plans for railroad extensions in the Rio Grande valley did not materialize that he got his money's worth out of Ferguson.

Mr. Eldridge made this statement in answer to the question by Judge Critz if he knew that James E. Ferguson "was going to exercise the rights of the governor."

Opposed Pen Change.

Asked if he took any interest in the bill passed by the 39th legislature and vetoed by the governor to move the penitentiary, Mr. Eldridge said he talked to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and told her that from the state's standpoint it would be a mistake to move the penitentiary units from the farms at Sugarland but that personally he would like to see it moved because "I consider it a detriment to that section." He said that section would suffer temporarily on the removal of those efit to that section. He said from the state's standpoint the prison that eventually it would be a benunits of the prison system, but system should be centralized on the Imperial Prison farm, but that he would hate to see it.

Asked by Representative Claude Teer if he offered to sell the Sugarland industries farm to the prison system, Eldridge said, "I'll sell it and everything else I've got down there." Eldridge said the labor conditions there made it impractical to get a reasonable return off the plantation in that section unless it was done by free labor.

Representative A. P. C. Petsch, asked if Eldridge knew that it would be necessary for the next legislature to appropriate $1,000,000 to pay the debts of the prison system, Eldridge said, "Well, I know I'll like to get my money out of it. The system owes the Sugarland industries $20,000."

T. C. U. may find Arkansas tough sledding at Fayetteville, but the Frogs should turn back the Porkers by at least one touchdown margin. Should the heavily ballyhooed Razorbacks really come through for a victory over Matty Bell's sturdy eleven it will be an upset indeed.

Lots of margin for a kick-over at Dallas. S. M. U. has been weakened by injuries and ineligibilities. The game looks very much like an even-Stephen affair but Jennings' suprising Bears stand in a fair way of fooling the conference again. Pre-game statistics, however, give the Ponies a small advantage, however small it may be.

Army, Navy and Brown will buck what looms as very mean opposition in Notre Dame, Georgetown and Harvard. Brown possibly stands the best show of the three favorites selected. Wherever Rockne is concerned there's room for doubt. Probably will be a riotous argument at New York when Knute's Micks storm the Cadet trenches.

In early season dope Yale was given a decided edge over Princeton, but as the drive wore on Eli faltered while the Tiger seems to have found itself at last.

The spotlight along the middle western front turns on the Michigan invasion of Columbus today. The Wolverines are rated second choice by a slight margin against Wilce's Buckeyes.

Dennis Flashes In Memphis Win

Cyclone Runs Over Quanah Indians by 47 to 6 Score

MEMPHIS, Nov. 12. — The Quanah Indians proved easy prey for the Memphis Cyclone here Thursday, when they took the short end of a 47-6 score. Dennis, Cyclone backfield flash, scored three touchdowns in the first five minutes of play, one a 12-yard plunge, after a Quanah fumble was recovered on the Memphis 35-yard line and Hammond ripped off 23 yards around left end.

The other two were 35 and 40-yard broken field runs, one a returned punt, and the other a long end run through the entire field. Dennis was chased from the game in the first period for roughing and was replaced by Crawford, miniature fullback, who played a brilliant game and accounted for substantial gains.

The long touchdown for the Indians came after a 32-yard pass put the ball on Memphis' 11-yard line. Cox plunged the Cyclone line for the counter. He kicked wide by inches in his try for the extra point.

Hammond, star Cyclone halfback, was carried from the field with a broken leg in the third period after gaining fifteen yards on an end run, when he tripped after sidestepping an Indian tackler. He will be out of the game the remainder of the season. The Memphis Cyclones will meet the Childress Bobcats at Childress next Friday in a conference game.

SPORT BRIEFS

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Open Season for Spats.

It seems to be the open season for breaking off gridiron relations. Two rivalries, Harvard-Princeton and Army-Syracuse—have been snapped because they seemed to generate more heat than the average football game requires. A third, LaFayette-Pittsburgh, has ended at least for 1927 by refusal of the Panthers to play the game on LaFayette's home grounds at Easton, Pa.

If Australia will accept Bill Tilden in the dual role of actor-racquesteer the famous national tennis champion may visit the antipodes after his contemplated invasion of Europe next year. Booking for Tilden's show is required to pave the way for the trip, his friends explain.

Ernie Cuts Up.

Ernie Nevers, the blonde giant who gained all-American honors last year as Stanford's fullback is cutting a wide swarth through professional ranks. In his latest exploit he scored two touchdowns, virtually single handed against the New York Giants, the second coming after the ex-Stanford star knocked "cold" earlier in the game, had returned to lead an 80-yard charge.

CONFLICT ALONG EAST'S GRID FRONT REACHES ITS CLIMAX TODAY IN COLORFUL CLASHES

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—The conflict along the eastern football front reaches its grand climax tomorrow. Nine outstanding games will be witnessed by close to 400,000 spectators.

No group or gridirons in any sector has held forth prospects of more stirring or colorful strife than that which finds Princeton fighting against Yale for the last championship of the "Big Three," Army's stalwarts meeting the flashy Notre Dame eleven in a battle of unbeaten teams involving national honors; Navy and Brown fighting to keep undefeated records intact against Georgetown and Harvard and such traditional rivals battling as Cornell and Dartmouth, Colgate and Syracuse, Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson, Columbia and Pennsylvania, Williams and Amherst.

More than 70,000 are expected to pack the Yankee stadium for the Army-Notre Dame battle, intersectional classic of the year while crowds of from 50,000 to 60,000 each likely will witness the Harvard-Brown, Princeton-Yale, Pennsylvania-Columbia and Pitt-W. and J. contests in widely scattered stadiums.

These combats hold the major share of interest but there will be no lack of enthusiasm over a host of other games, five of which will see unbeaten teams in action. Of these, Boston college facing the invasion of the Haskell Indians figures to encounter the strongest opposition. The others find Maine favored to whip New Hampshire, LaFayette facing secondary opposition in Susquehanna, New York university expected to trim Davis-Elkins and Holy Cross rated superior to Catholic university.

Looks Bad for Micks

Army has the same veterans who overwhelmed the Hoosiers last year, 27 to 0, re-inforced by two new back field stars, Cagle and Murrell but Rockne has bought east a much more experienced and resoureful outfit than he directed in 1925. Army's seasoned brawn, well handled and versatile, is conceded an edge but Notre Dame's speed and passing attack may offset the driving power in the Cadet machine.

The well-knit Princeton forward wall supported by the all-around work of Jake Slagle appears too strong a combination for the Elis who have been handicapped by injuries from the start of the season and lost their last three games without scoring a point.

The Navy like the Army, is anxious to keep its slate clean preparatory to the annual service battle in Chicago but it probably will take a full strength of the Midshipmen to overcome Georgetown. Brown's rugged cast, having conquered Yale and Dartmouth in a march that has placed the Providence team around the top of the eastern heap, expects to take Harvard's measure. If the Criminson employes its full forces with the Yale game only a week off it figures to give the Bruins their stiffest test.

Last Year's Scores

Principal games tomorrow and last year's scores:

Army-Notre Dame at New York, 27-0.
Yale at Princeton, 12-25.
Dartmouth at Cornell, 62-15.
Brown at Harvard, 0-3.
Colgate at Syracuse, 19-6.
Georgetown at Navy, no game.
Williams at Amherst, 7-13.
Haskell Indians at Boston College, 6-7.
Maine at New Hampshire, 0-0.
Bowdoin at Wesleyan, 14-6.
Catholic Universit yat Holy Cross no game.
Columbia at Pennsylvania, no game.
Susquehanna at LaFayette, 0-47.
Dickinson Muhlenberg at Wilkesbarre, 0-0.
Rutgers at Lehigh, 0-7.
Washington and Jefferson at Pittsburgh, 0-6.
Bucknell at Penn State, no game.
Centre at West Virginia, no game
Davis Elkins at New York University, no game.

Childress Slams Shamrock, 20-7

Bobcats Come From Behind And Launch Victory Drive

CHILDRESS, Nov. 12.—Following their defeat last week at the hands of Wellington, 32 to 0, the Childress Bobcats opened up an offensive Thursday that would not be stopped and played the Shamrock Irishmen off their feet, winning the game by a 20 to 7 score. Shamrock scored first early in the first quarter and it looked like she would carry away the honors. However, in the latter part of the same period the Bobcats opened up after taking the ball from kickoff on their 35-yard line and by straight football, principally off tackle plays, marched down the field. Sport went over for a touchdown. It was primeval football with a vengeance and that began to take the sap of the Shamrock players. They realized they were up against a team that could play football when it wanted to.

Newberry Cops Fumble.

Early in the second period Y. Nichols punted from his own 25-yard line to the Shamrock five-yard line and the safety returned it about ten yards. When he was tackled he lost the ball and Pat Newberry, Childress halfback, picked it up and raced for a touchdown, one of the lucky kind. Sport missed the try for place kick goal.

The third quarter was scoreless, the first half of it being played in the middle of the field and the last few minutes in Childress' end of the field with the Shamrock Irishers on the defensive.

Sport Passes to Score.

At the opening of the final period Childress took the ball on downs and after being penalized five yards for offside and losing five on an end run, started on the 35-yard line with a series of passes. The first one, Spo. to Y. Nichols, made eight yards. The second, Sport to Bybee, made ten yards and the third, Sport to Bybee, coupled with Bybee's run, was good for 80 yards, putting the ball on the Shamrock 18-yard line. Sport made two at center and Shamrock was offside. Sport shot through tackle for the last score made, though Childress was on the 10-yard line of Shamrock when the final histle blew and Y. Nichols had just missed, by inches a pass that would have scored another six points.

Bybee, Sport and Dowls were the stars of the Childress team, while Close and Holmes played well for Shamrock and were a passing pair, passer and receiver, respectively.

The game was made more interesting by a number of fights on the sideline that kept coming up intermittently during the game.

Eastern Football League Planned

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP) The break-up of the historic "big three" brought about by Princeton's decision to snap all athletic ties with Harvard because of ill-feeling surrounding their gridiron relations, may lead to a shake-up all along the eastern football front and the formation of an eastern conference of major colleges.

The ground work for such realignment of college athletic interests already has been laid to such an extent that many close observers with Princeton to be invited without delay to join a group that would embrace Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth and Pennsylvania with Brown, Army, Navy and possibly Yale also sought as members.

The possibility of such an association, already known to be under discussion was outstanding development today as eastern eyes focused on the results of the swift Tiger stroke that put an end overnight to the oldest of all football rivalries.

PITTSBURGH-LAFAYETTE GRID RELATIONS CEASE.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 12. (AP)—Football relations between the University of Pittsburgh and Lafayette have been discontinued, for a year at least, after seven successive meetings on the gridiron. Authorities at Lafayette announced that Pitt had refused to come to Easton for a game next year and that Lafayette was unwilling to go to Pittsburgh again as six of the seven games since 1919 had been played there. No ill feeling exists between the institutions, it was said.

WELL, THAT'S JUST TOO BAD!

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—All signed up and no place to go appears to be the situation of Jack Sharkey, conqueror of Harry Wills. In a splash of gratitude for the opportunity Humbert J. Fugazy gave him to reach the pugilistic summit through the medium of the Wills fight, Sharkey entered into an agreement binding him to box for the Brooklyn promoter this winter. Fugazy, however, has been unable to obtain an indoor arena thus far.

HOD DAWG!

LONDON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Englishmen at sporting events during the cold weather have adopted a habit of Americans. "Hot Dog, Limited," has been organized and registered "to manufacture and deal in comestible known in the U. S. A. under the name of 'hot dog.'"

Jupe Menaces Valley Contests

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12. (AP)—Overcast skies throughout the conference region tonight gave promise of wet fields and heavy going tomorrow when four Missouri valley gridirons will see important clashes.

A 16-ton rubber blanket covering the memorial stadium field at Columbia will eliminate that problem from the worries of Coaches Henry and Higgens when their charges representing Missouri and Washington meet tomorrow.

A merry field at Lincoln should hinder the fast passing attack of the Kansas Aggies when they meet the heavier Cornhuskers.

The battle should be a classic of the gridiron. Slowly throughout the season events have transpired to bring the championship test to this one game and now the stage is so set that the winner of the contest will possibly be the 1926 champion of the Missouri valley conference.

Rain was probable at Stillwater tomorrow, according to government forecasts. The heavier Oklahoma Aggies should profit by this turn of affairs when they meet Grinnell.

Iowa was also threatened by the rain jinx and the Iowa State Cyclones who have played their best games this year in the water, may benefit when they settle their annual rivalry with the Drake Bulldogs.

Kansas university's bewildering comeback in defeating the much touted Oklahoma Sooners yesterday probably will cause Coach Henry of Missouri to save his first team strength as much as possible tomorrow against the often beaten Washington Bears in anticipation of an epic battle with Kansas, the Tiger's ancient foe a week hence.

SPEAKING OF GRIT!

LUBBOCK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Bearing the brunt of Texas Tech's offense for ten minutes in spite of a broken shoulder, which was unknown to his teammates, Edgar "Bu" Cappleman, Honey Grove sophomore, gained 35 yards and scored a touchdown against the Abilene Christian college eleven in the Armistice day grid tilt here yesterday. Cappleman opened the final quarter for Tech and although he received his injury in the first play, continued to answer signals for two-thirds of the quarter until the excruciating pain drove him to the bench.

'TENSHUN, ARMY! Here's Star Who Eats 60-Yard Runs for Rockne

Knute Rockne will introduce 60 football players to the members of the Army grid team and the spectators when he lines up his men on the sidelines for the annual game with the service team at the Yankee stadium today. And the probabilities are that in the hubbub and furors of the afternoon not all of the boys will come in for a close scrutiny by the Army officials and players.

There is one modest youth with the South Benders, for instance, who probably won't draw much attention in a crowd.

But he doesn't like crowds. That's why he finally demands attention and may get it today. He hates crowded street cars benches and even football fields so badly that whenever he gets a chance he steps away by himself.

In the first game the Notre Dame team played this season he found the crowd on the field bothersome and ran 80 yards to get a nice quiet open space behind the Beloit goal line—with the ball.

The very next game—against the Wisconsin Badgers—he wanted to be alone—and ran 65 yards to find another cozy spot at the foot of the goal posts. Took the ball along again.

When the Rockmen faced Penn State, Danham had has exclusive complex on again and had to wait for the crowd to catch up most of the time.

Danham is but one of the 30 backfield men Rockne uses in his games and is tossed into the game usually, with his three mates, when he won't hurt the team's chances by running 50 to 60 yards for a touchdown.

Against the Army team Danham will be playing a team of veterans —football daddies—who were playing college football when Danham and his mates were waiting longingly for the day when they would be sophomores or juniors in high school. Capt. Harry Wilson, leader of the Soldiers, is playing his seventh year, for instance.

It may be that Danham may tire of the older crowd of players and get the wanderlust again.

Golding Tackles Schaeffer Today

Semi-Finalists in All-City Forced to Postpone Match

Dudley Golding and H. A. Schaeffer, semi-finalists in the all-city golf tournament under way over the Muny course, plan to play their match this afternoon, it was announced last night. The pair had scheduled the titular tussle for Friday afternoon, but were forced to call off hostilities because of a high wind.

The winner meets J. H. S. Bonner next week for the championship . Bonner eased out on the famous southpaw, H. F. Weldon, one up, in a warm set-to Armistice day.

FREDERICK WINS

Frederick High school nosed out Electra Thursday, 6 to 0, in a bitterly waged grid battle, Jim Reese's Tigers gained more ground than Frederick, but could not negotiate the goal line. Cloninger was the leading performer.

MORGAN OVERWEIGHT.

Tod Morgan has three pounds to work off before he enters the ring at Madison Square garden, November 19, to defend his junior lightweight crown against Carl Duane of New York. Morgan now tips the scales at 133 pounds, or three above the junior lightweight mark.

THEY'RE ONLY AMATEURS.

The Yale Buildog and the Princeton Tiger will receive about $5,000 per minute for each of the 60 minutes of the annual scrap Saturday. The seating capacity of Palmer stadium is 60,000; the price of each ticket is $5.

SCHOOL FOR COACHES.

Notre Dame, home of mighty football teams, also has become a school for coaches. Twenty-seven products of Knute Rockne's genius are acting as mentors at various universities this season.

WILLS PLANS COMEBACK.

Harry Wills, his injured right arm on the mend, has decided to make a comeback, says Tex Rickard. A fight between the veteran negro and Harry Persson, Swedish heavyweight, is planned by Rickard.

Bouquets for Clean-Fighting Grandfield Eleven Tossed By Followers of Defeated Tribe

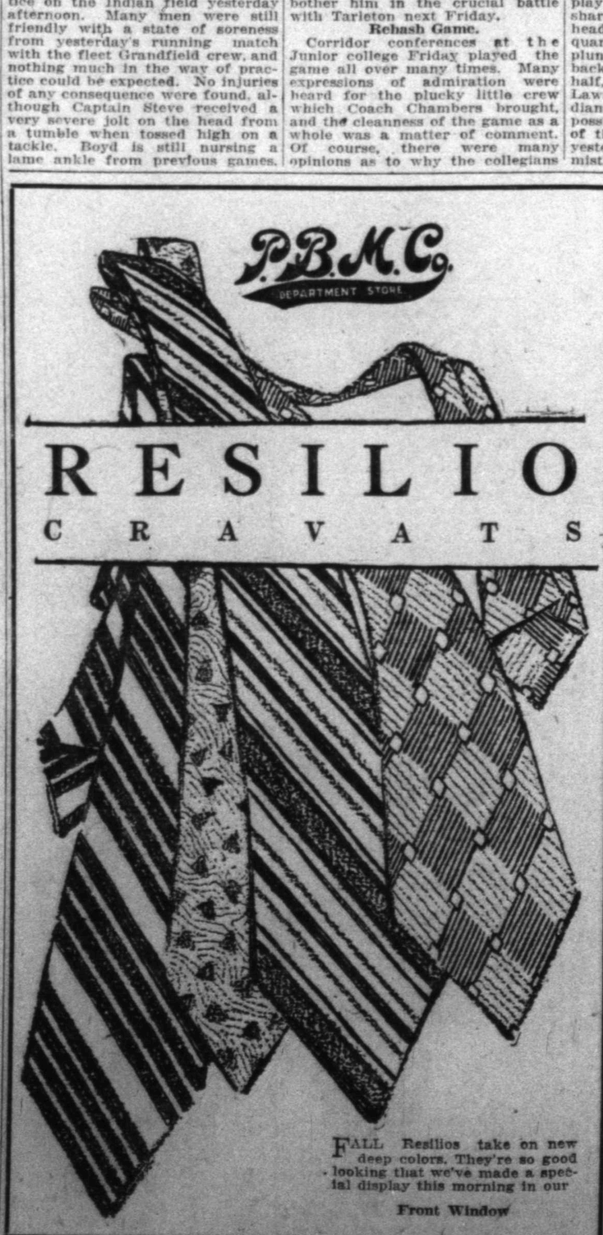

"Eight laps around the field sometime today"—that was the order of Coach Ludgate for practice on the Indian field yesterday afternoon. Many men were still friendly with a state of soreness from yesterday's running match with the fleet Grandfield crew, and nothing much in the way of practice could be expected. No injuries of any consequence were found, although Captain Steve received a very severe jolt on the head from a tumble when tossed high on a tackle. Boyd is still nursing a lame ankle from previous games, an injury that kept him out of the melee with the Grandfield lads Armistice day and which may bother him in the crucial battle with Tarleton next Friday.

Rehash Game.

Corridor conferences at the Junior college Friday played the game all over many times. Many expressions of admiration were heard for the plucky little crew which Coach Chambers brought, and the cleanness of the game as a whole was a matter of comment. Of course, there were many opinions as to why the collegians were forced to take the little end of the 7 to 0 score even though outgaining Grandfield three to one in yardage made during the fray. Some thought that the last play on the three-yard line should have been a plunge; others averred that Patterson, signal caller, had done the only sensible thing in calling Steve back for the end run which didn't quite get there. Some bemoaned the unfortunate break when the college boys, with the ball almost on the goal, were given the technical penalty of 15 yards which also took away the gain made and thus set the Indians back 22 yards from where they should have been. McAninch let his forgetter get to work and gave Rugeley a little push to help him along on the plunge, something that is against the technical rules of the game now. And then groups dispersed with the consoling agreement that a great game had been played by all and that there should be nothing to grieve about.

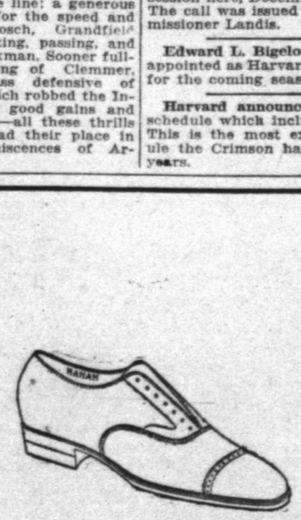

Lots of Stars.

Steve's great plunging and running, his sensational passes to Thompson, and his own great snaring of Rugeley's passes; the much improved game of Rugeley, just his second time in the Maroon and Gold uniform; the effectiveness of McAninch's line plugging; the blocking of a punt by Ricks, with the reward of the Will Rogers autographed football, the airtight play of the entire line; a generous share of praise for the speed and headiness of Hosch, Grandfield quarter, the kicking, passing, and plunging of Speckman. Sooner fullback, the plunging of Clemmer half, and the pass defensive of Lawson, half, which robbed the Indians of several good gains and possibly a score,—all these thrills of the contest had their place in yesterday's reminiscences of Armistice day.

EASTERN GRID LOOP FAVORED

Penn, Dartmouth, Columbia, Brown, Cornell Willing To Join

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Expressions of approval from two leading universities and a receptive attitude prevailing at three others today gave added impetus to agitation for the launching of an eastern football conference as an outgrowth of the Princeton-Harvard break.

Taking the lead in the movement, Pennsylvania and Brown lined up in favor of organization. The position of the Philadelphia university was described to the Associated Press in a canvass of sentiment as approving the conference idea "provided all members have the same scholastic and athletic standards."

Undergraduate feeling at Columbia, Cornell and Dartmouth was described as favorable to the conference plan. This trio together with Pennsylvania already are committed to the organization idea in virtually all the other college sports.

Army and Navy athletic authorities while indicating their readiness to discuss the projected league were unwilling to express opinions.

West Point officials announced that "if such a proposal were made Army would of course take up the matter for discussion."

AMATEUR FOOTBALL SAFE.

College football has nothing to fear from the professional gambler, in the view of Wall street, bankers explaining that the game is too complicated to "dope out." One firm estimated week-end wagers at only $300,000 as compared with $3,000,000 bet on the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Record Crowd For Columbus

Heavy Interest Centers On Michigan-Ohio State Game

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. AP)—A crowd which may turn out to be the largest in American football history will watch Ohio State battle Michigan tomorrow in the most important game of the western conference season and Northwestern's biggest crowd will watch the Wildcat-Chicago tilt which is the other featured contest.

More than 80,000 spectators have been provided for at the Wolverine-Buckeye spectacle and there is a possibility that the figures will show an attendance greater than the 85,000 who saw Red Grange play his farewell college game in the Ohio State stadium a year ago.

The Michigan-Ohio battle will eliminate one of three surviving contenders for conference honors unless it ends a tie while Northwestern must conquer Chicago to keep its record clear. Northwestern is a heavy favorite against the much beaten Chicago team though it has won only a single game from the Maroons in a dozen years.

Another big crowd will see Iowa meet Wisconsin at Madison but the title race will not be affected by the outcome for both teams are trailing the pack.

Other games though well attended will lack the drawing power of close rivalry. Illinois meets Wabash; Minnesota plays Butler and Purdue takes on Franklin. Indiana meets Mississippi A. and M., a new intersectional foe, and hopes to win despite its poor showing in the conference.

NO DECISION YET

Dispute Over Memphis Player Has Not Been Settled

MEMPHIS, Nov. 12.—S. C. Miles superintendent of the Memphis schools, made a trip to Childress yesterday in connection with the protest against the eligibility of Bob Henderson, star quarterback of the Cyclone football squad of Memphis high school, and in consultation with Superintendent Burgess, chairman of the district committee of the Inter-scholastic league, the fact developed that only one of the four committeemen had submitted his opinion in regard to the question. Mr. Miles stated that the worst Memphis could expect, in his opinion, would be the loss of Henderson from the squad.

A ruling was made two years ago in regard to Bob, by Roy Henderson at Austin, which declared him eligible to participate in high school athletics here. With this information at hand, Henderson has been used on the Cyclone squad the past two seasons in good faith by the Memphis high school athletic directors, and with no intent to play men who were not eligible.

AGGIE AERIAL GAME QUELLS RICE, 20 TO 0

Hunt-to-Petty Combination Puts Two Touchdowns Across

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 12. (AP)—The Texas A. and M. college football eleven recorded its first southwest conference victory of the season here Friday afternoon in defeating the Rice Institute Owls, 20 to 0. The game was played before one of the largest crowds of the season on Kyle field. More than 1,000 Rice students and fans from Houston attended, having arrived on three special trains.

Coach Dana A. Bible's warriors broke into the winners' column through the use of aerial tactics in the second quarter, scoring two touchdowns through long passes by Joel Hunt, Aggie quarter, to Petty, left end. Having advanced the ball to the Owls' 40-yard line in the early part of the period, Hunt passed to Petty for a 30-yard gain and the receiver ran the remaining ten yards for touchdown. Woodman failed to kick goal.

The second touchdown followed closely on the first. With the ball on the institute 20-yard line, Hunt passed 25 yards to Petty, who sprinted the remaining five yards across the goal line. Woodman connected for the extra point.

The third period was scoreless, ending with the ball in A. and M.'s possession on the Rice 10-yard line.

It was near the end of the final period that the Aggies scored their third touchdown, moving with precision from their own 10-yard line straight down the field. When about 25 yards from the Owl goal, Hunt by an end run, advanced the ball 22 yards. Line plunges failed to register until Hunt took the ball again and hit left tackle for the touchdown.

A. and M. took full advantage of a strong wind in punting. Rice was poor in punting and seldom pierced the line to any extent.

Scoring: Touchdowns, Petty 2, Hunt 1. Goals, Woodman, Hunt.

Score by periods:

A. and M.	0	13	0	7—20
Rice	0	0	0	0— 0

SPORTS

VICTOR DAVIS,
(Dallas Sports Writer.)

After bowling over Texas and A. and M. and spending a fairly restful afternoon plucking a few feathers from a ruffled Rice Owl, Coach Ray Morrison's S. M. U. Mustangs have about come to the conclusion life is just one darn thing after another.

Earlier in the season critics informed the world at large a victory over Texas A. and M. would give the Ponies free claims to a conference title. Then Texas came to life and the experts opined a triumph over Doc Stewart's men would certainly put the Mustangs over.

Out of a clear sky came Baylor's smashing triumph over Texas A. and M. A week later the Bruins kept up the merry pace by knocking the pins from under Stewart's tottering Longhorns. Now the experts are chirping in unison to the effect a victory Saturday will assure the championship for the Red and Blue stalwarts.

All of which seems very true, with reservations.

Matty Bell's T. C. U. Horned Frogs didn't look so puny holding A. and M. to a 13-13 tie. Any gentleman who is figuring the Christians as a set-up is off in his accounting. S. M. U. will find the Frogs just about as hard to subdue as any other team.

There are a few circumstances anent Saturday's game that are worth considering. Many critics have been using comparative scores on S. M. U.'s and Baylor's games to point to the fact the Bruins have scored more impressive victories over Texas and the Aggies.

The fact that Baylor quashed Texas and A. and M. more easily than S. M. U. is very true, but as Rube Goldberg once had the habit of remarking, "It doesn't mean anything."

Baylor caught A. and M. weakened by injuries and suffering from a let-down following their hard game the preceding week with S. M. U. Baylor was undoubtedly deserving of victory. According to many who saw the clash Baylor uncovered enough power that day to beat the best team in the conference. But, if A. and M. had played the game against Baylor that they put up against S. M. U., the Bears wouldn't have been riding a gravy train by any means.

This week finds Baylor with two hard games just behind them and an even more gruelling contest a few days off. The Mustangs' let-up during their hard grind. Baylor has not done so as yet. Whether the Bruins can hold their dizzy pace remains for Saturday to answer.

Yale Has Strong Backs But Weak Line

Yale, they say, ranks as the most powerful of the erstwhile Big Three elevens, but the team is lacking in an important department. Old Eli has no impregnable line and Tiger backs may work havoc with those forwards this afternoon. Dartmouth and Brown poked their way through that line. Yale is strong in the secondary defense, however. Photo shows four of the backfield stars who will tackle Princeton.

SPORT a la CARTE

BY ROY GROVE

What's going on at Harvard and Yale?

At Harvard there is an excuse for Horween, but—at Yale Princeton can tell you the answer next Saturday.

Yale started off in a most impressive manner, winning over Boston university 51 to 0. Next they took the long end of the score with Georgia at 19 to 0, then slapped Dartmouth around for 17 to 7.

Beating Dartmouth was an achievement, Yale was well on her way to swamp the Big Three. Dartmouth had not been beaten in three years.

Yale's fourth game was with Brown. These well-drilled eleven men sent Yale down to a 7 to 4 defeat. Something happened. Army came along the following Saturday and razzed them at 33 to 0, a riot.

The climax came at Yale last Saturday when Jones deliberately sat on the bench and calmly saw his team go down to a 15 to 0 loss at the hands of little Maryland. It's not in the books, comparatively, the Brown should ever beat Yale, except through the breaks.

Also Jones is not supposed to sit and watch his team lose when he could have sent in other men to stop the onslaught and even win the contest.

Now the whole affair is answerable to Yale. It is the coaching system. Injuries, or the lack of co-operating material? Yale wants to know.

It is also rumored there is a certain favoritism among the coaches and the captains and the plays are badly executed and carried out also with a certain amount of listlessness and indifference.

It is true there has been an undue amount of injuries at Yale. This is coupled with the fact that there is little playing material to back these men up.

Noble went out of the game with Dartmouth. His loss is felt; likewise Caldwell, Yale's best-looking back, was hurt in the Georgia game and Richards, Sturhahn and Webster, three of the best linesmen, have been on the hospital list most of the time.

In fact, there hasn't been a game since Dartmouth where few of the players have been able to walk around the lot in a natural position. Yale isn't getting the breaks. In every game the men used are injured or have been, and the whole team plays and limps throughout a game, putting up the best they have under the conditions.

Is Tad Jones to be questioned in his coaching ability? If so, the chances are 10 to one he can answer any one of them.

Jones has yet to play Princeton and the story is there. The Big Three wants nothing else but to beat the Big Three and after Maryland's contest it was obvious to all in the stands that Tad Jones was only thinking of Princeton if Yale wallops them. After that Yale will be Yale again.

Harvard has a different story to tell. It has a new system, not a revamp of the old. Harvard has a whole new game of football to play. Harvard's defeat by Princeton Saturday seems only the outcome of the new system at Harvard. Next season will tell of its perfection.

Horween has no record on which to base his coaching ability. He must make that at Harvard. Arnold took it upon himself when he consented to tackle the job for the Crimson.

There is no doubt that he is as safe and sane as the president himself. It was a tough job for Horween. To begin with, he absolutely threw out the Haughton system. It was great while Haughton ran it, but not for Arnold.

Also Horween did the most startling thing at Harvard when he enlisted the services of men outside of the Harvard school to assist him. His aides are Brader, of Wisconsin, as a line coach; Carey, of Illinois, as end coach, and Ralph Horween's brother, a Harvard man.

But Horween will make good at Harvard. There is nothing the matter with that school. Horween plays right along with the lads and it wasn't so long ago that he played the professional game and can still take it.

Moriarty, One of Game's Best Authorities, Expected to Shove Tigers to Top of Baseball Heap

New Detroit Pilot Has Managed Before And Knows National Pastime, Both Going And Coming.

Ty Cobb is gone. George Moriarty will take his place as manager of the Detroit Tygers and in Ty's passing there will never be another player like him, or to equal his records.

Cobb is verging on his thirty-ninth year, and his twenty-first as an active baseball player. His career has been one of a gruelling storm. In retiring the might Georgian, 10 years beyond his prime as an athlete, is still hitting at a merry clip of nearly .400.

Cobb possesses more offensive records than any man living. Capt. Anson played major league baseball for more than 20 years—that's the record, and Cobb equaled that mark through the 1926 season.

By playing in 1927 he could have beaten Wagoner's record for the number of times at bat and most games played by a major leaguer.

Cobb already holds the record for the most runs scored, most hits made and most total bases. He also has hit for .300 or better for 19 consecutive years. His life-time average is close to .360.

In 1920 Cobb slipped off to .334 at bat and the baseball fans sighed that "he was through." He returned in 1921 to hit for .389, followed by a .401 average in 1922.

It is singular that George Moriarty goes to a baseball club and succeeds the man he used to work for. He was captain of the Detroit team for three years under Cobb. He joined the Tygers in 1909 and played through inclusively until 1915.

Moriarty knows the Detroit club as probably no other player, outside of Ty himself.

George, as manager, knows the game from all points. He has managed clubs before. As a professional ball player he started his career with the Joliet, Ill., club and the Springfield, Ill., club, both of the Three-Eye league, back in 1903. In 1904 he went to the Chicago Nationals under Frank Sellee.

George was also a member of the Little Rock, Southern league club, for a short while that year.

He joined the Toledo club and played with them through the year of 1905. That year he led the league in stolen bases with a total of 51.

Moriarty was sold to the New York Yankees in the fall of 1905 and he played with them during the years of 1906-7-8. He joined the Detroit Tygers in 1909 and played with them until 1915.

Moriarty started as an umpire in the American league in 1917 and has been going ever since.

His playing record, umpiring and successful management of the Memphis club in 1916 qualifies him to know much of the inside workings of a club. There is not a man in organized baseball who can lead as Moriarty.

He has the knack of making every man in the game work his head off. While with Detroit as captain, he enjoyed marvelous success as a leader on the field, in keeping his men pepped up for any occasion.

George's experience in the American league as an umpire has taught him many things in baseball.

"I thought I knew something about baseball and that stepping into the field as an ump would be an easy job, but after the first few days around the field I fould that I knew as little about the workings of the 'National Fault' as any living man."

Knowing the inside as does George, from a player and student, puts him down as one of the best authorities of the game and by applying these years of experience to an active ball club will no doubt put Detroit on the top of the baseball heap.

No club could have a more substantial foundation than Detroit tutored by George Moriarty.

MARTY VERSUS BENNY ON GRID

Ancient Rivals Meet Again In Wolverine Buckeye Melee

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.(AP)—The football honors of Cleveland, Ohio, will be a minor stake when Ohio State entertains Michigan at Columbus Saturday, before a crowd which will rank among the largest gridiron throngs in the game's history.

It will mark the sixth meeting of Captain Bennie Friedman of the Wolverines and Captain Marty Karow of the Buckeyes, who began a grid feud when Marty went to West Tech and Benny to East Tech in Cleveland. They met thrice in high school and are meeting for the third time as college players.

The game will be the 23rd clash between Michigan and Ohio State and the sixth between the two coaches, Yost and Wilce. Ohio State's home coming ceremonies and the fact that it will be the last home game for a dozen members of the Buckeye squad have added importance to an occasion which many weeks ago loomed as the turning point of the season for two teams both romping toward a conference title.

Purple Slight Favorite.

The other featured battle on Saturday is the Chicago-Northwestern game, an annual civil war which will bring 47,000 spectators to Dyche field. Northwestern's much better record has made it only a slight favorite, for Chicago has beaten the Purple consistently in recent years. The Maroons are heartened by the return of Kyle Anderson, injured halfback, to the line-up, and by the condition of Rouse and McKinney, backs, who have spent much time nursing bruises.

Against Chicago's defensive play the Wildcats plan to unleash all the fury of an attack in which Baker and Lewis play star roles.

Iowa Ready for Badgers.

Iowa went through its last practice for Wisconsin on an icy field, and again Kutsch, Hawkeye ace, was inactive. He has been out all week with injuries resultant from the Minnesota game and will play the Badgers without preliminary workouts.

Indiana turned back thrice by big ten opponents took heart at reports of scouts that Mississippi A. and M. while a worthy foe, was not too good to succumb before good football.

Minnesota, Illinois and Purdue have easier foes in the trio of minor Indiana colleges who will engage their attention, and the coaches are keeping the men in condition for important conference games which will conclude the season.

Cheered by the monster pep meeting which each year precedes departure for the Army game, Notre Dame's cohorts set out for New York, determined to make the engagement yield them a place in the national championship sun.

LOST EVERYTHING

At the Royal and Ancient Golf club, at St. Andrews, a young lady in a stroke competition did a short hole in one, but as the hole is out of sight from the tee she did not know it. Not finding the ball she played another. In holing out her second ball she discovered it. However, the rules committee would not count the first ball, because after the reach for it was abandoned it became a "lost ball," the second ball was the ball in play.

Any time the navy team begins to look slow, Coach Bill Ingram playes his ponies, Shapley, Caldwell and Goudge, just a nod or crook of the finger of this great coach and these boys get ready for action.

Coach Herb McCracken, at Lafayette, warned his boys against over-confidence as he put them through a long signal drill and dummy scrimmage.

Al Panek, halfback on the Denver university team, works his way through school by being a mailman. From 6 in the morning until noon he peddles the mail, goes to classes through the early afternoon and goes out for practice right after 3:30.

Coach Stagg, Chicago, thinks it may be necessary to abolish the shift in football. There have been reports from all over the country of the difficulty in keeping shifts within the law.

$45,000 Violin

—IUT LINES . . . . . .
Paul Kochanski, violinist, is refusing offers of as high as $45,000 for the "Spanish" Stradivarius he now owns. This instrument inspired a poe mby Henry W. Longfellow, has been heard by countless persons since it was created in 1687 by the master violin-maker.

MARSHALL MURDER CASE TO GO TO JURY SOMETIME SATURDAY

ARGUMENT IN MURDER TRIAL OPENS FRIDAY

Defendant Accused of Having Killed His Cousin, Is Put Back On Stand

Henry Marshall, on trial before a jury and Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court on charges of slaying his cousin, Charlie Marshall, may know his fate by Saturday evening. Testimony in the case was concluded Friday afternoon and considerable argument of counsel was given. This will be continued and concluded Saturday, with indications the jury may begin its deliberations before the day is over.

Charlie Marshall was shot to death on the night of July 18 in a gun fight involving himself, Henry Marshall and J. F. Lindley. Henry Marshall reported to the police that two men who later turned out to be Lindley and his cousin attempted to hi-jack him as he drove into his garage.

On the witness stand, Lindley declared Henry Marshall had offered him $500 to bring Charlie Marshall to the garage and there simulate a hold-up so that Henry could "bump-off" his cousin. Henry Marshall later denied this.

City's Leaders

Chamber of Commerce. Too, it was the admonition of J. C. Mytinger, president of the local chamber who threw in a dash of optimism for the future while he recounted the accomplishments of the past.

On other pages of this issue will be found the detailed address of the speakers.

Municipal Band Plays.

Entertainment of high order was provided for the evening. As has been the custom in the past, the banqueters assembled in the auditorium where a short musical program was given. The Wichita Falls Municipal band under the direction of R. A. Brollier provided band music; the Girls Glee club of the high school and Junior college, directed by Miss Adele Ray and with Miss Francis Phillips as soloist, provided some excellent choral work; duet and solo numbers were given by Marion Mills and Victor Hunter, two of the headliners on this week's Majestic vaudeville circuit; and a Spanish dance was given by Miss Ora Arnold.

Community Singing.

While the dinner was being held music was provided by the high school orchestra. Community singing was led by Alva Willgus who also gave a solo. Instrumental numbers were provided by a trio composed of Mrs. T. B. Greenwood, Mrs. Harwood Stacey and M. A. Ellis. The invocation was said by Rev. Paul Henry Packard, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church.

Joseph Leopold, manager of the southern division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was introduced and facetiously deplored the fact that he was slated for a little funny stuff instead of the 18-karat speech he had prepared. He blamed Hubert Harrison for putting him on the tail end of the program where nothing but light stuff was permissable.

Leopold paid a high tribute to Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth, chairman of the pie committee, stating that he had done away with no less than five whole pieces of this popular part of the menu. However, Mr. Leopold's talk was not altogether of the lighter vein, for he became serious enough to state that the Wichita Falls body was one of the best organized and most efficient in the entire nation and had but one competitor, Dallas, which was not so far ahead of this chamber of commerce, even if it did represent a town three times our size.

Handles Tries

W. D. (Dale) REEVES

Dale Reeves, who until recently conducted a tire store on Travis street, is now connected with the Wood Rubber company, wholesale and retail distributors for Michelin tires and tubes.

Mr. Reeves needs no introduction to the motor trade of Wichita Falls, having been reared here and associated with his father in business for a number of years and for himself for the past two years. He is thoroughly familiar with the tire business and the Woods Rubber company feels fortunate in securing his connection.

The Woods Rubber company, Incorporated, is another addition to the tire business of this city. It contemplates handling Michelin tires on a large scale. It has already opened a number of branch stores in surrounding towns.

RESERVES STUDY

40 Girls Attend Meeting Held Friday Afternoon

About 40 Girl Reserves were present at the meeting of the Sam Houston Girl Reserve club Friday afternoon. Talks on the three sides of the Girl Reserve triangle were given by three of the members, and plans were made for the recognition service to be held at the First Christian church Sunday night. A story "The Broken Sword" was told by Otera Chiltriss, and a short talk was made by Evelyn Hardeman, Girl Reserve secretary.

Uninterrupted Prosperity For Next Year Predicted Here By Frank Kell

The people of this entire nation and more especially the people of the Wichita Falls trade territory, need have little fear of the future nor many qualms as to prosperity.

Cuch was the assurance Frank Kell gave more than 1,000 business men at the Junior High school last night for the annual banquet of the chamber of commerce.

"I am just as certain of prosperity for another 12 or 18 months as I was a year ago when I predicted prosperity and increased business for this section," Mr. Kell stated, adding that while cotton raisers were actually in the throes of bankruptcy, the real effect on the country has amounted to nothing and that it was purely a matter of psycological or mental depression rather than actual conditions.

In opening his address Mr. Kell apologized for the schedule which called for a talk from him on business conditions, when it was, in his opinion, more a time for geleral social and carefree association rather than a business meeting.

A Wave Of Activity

The entire country is enjoying a wave of activity and prosperity far ahead of anything of its kind in history. Shops and factories throughout the United States are running full time, paying better salaries and doing better work than ever before, he said. Mr. Kell cited his visit recently to the great steel mills in Birmingham, Ala. There were 35,000 men employed, all running ful ltime as a veritable army of industry and one which belied the idea of hard times, the speaker said.

Mr. Kell also spoke to the young men's civic organization of Birmingham and complimented it on the magnificent city. He told of the vast stores of iron ore, coal and limestone in that vicinity, all of which are used in the smeltering business. He told of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce and when it was disclosed that a large treasury was not maintained here, he explained that the treasury of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce was the hundreds of young, live energetic men being groomed to carry on the work of building this section of the country.

The causes for such unusual prosperity, Mr. Kell stated, are the enormous wheat, oat and other grain crops produced this season as well as the stock and ranching successes. All industries and all agricultural pursuits, with the exception of cotton, have prospered and the whole country is well abreast of financial conditions.

"We will survive the cotton trouble of today," and prosperity will continue, Mr. Kell declared, "wheat, corn, oats and cattle will hold up where cotton has fallen down and we will soon repair the cotton damage. The proposition of Texas bankers to hold a portion of the crop over as surplus and cut acreage next year is the right move and we are going to do it."

Father Of

lordliest as well as the most humble accused of crime.

Nearing his 100th mile post he is as rock rooted in the democracy or fundamentals of the early fathers as he was when he started on his journey through life after school days were over and the world before him was a world in which he determined to win by noble endeavor, intelligent effort and the merit that goes with high integrity and a love of justice and fair play.

He Has Achieved.

It goes without saying that he has lived a long life well. It goes without saying that his career would fill a book and on every page would be written worthy achievement.

It goes without saying that he saw Wichita Falls evolute from a small hamlet into a proud city and a vast territory that was wilderness become gridironed with steam railways, its prairies dotted with the homes of progressive stockmen and farmers and cities and towns covered the broad spaces where erstwhile the buffalo and the wirld horse and the Indian roamed.

A Grand Old Man.

It goes without saying that this grand old man of Texas keeps in close touch with the world and not a day passes over his head that the daily newspapers do not carry to him all the current news, all the happenings and all the stirring events that the wires of the universe transmit to newspaper offices for the edification of the reading public.

His children and grandchildren love him; his neighbors love him; his friends wherever he is known, love him and in far away places there are men and women who will send greetings today to this sturdy, straight talking, Rock of Ages, who is known as the Father of Wichita Falls, because he was the first settler, who has never done a small thing in his life and who is one of the remaining connecting links between that Texas of historic yesteryear and the Texas of amazing promise of today.

Again, all hail this first of pioneers and an ideal American who passes his 97th milepost this morning.

Bleach Your Skin This New Way

"Keep old age behind you. It's easy to stay young," says Mme. Chernoff.

UNTIL I perfected my new and different A and B Astringent Bleach, women sought in vain for a harmless method for whitening a sallow skin instantly. I know because in the course of my travels I lectured and talked to thousands of such women.

A and B Astringent Bleach is an indispensable toilet requisite. Why? Because every skin will turn sallow at times and must be bleached to give it beauty and pearly luster.

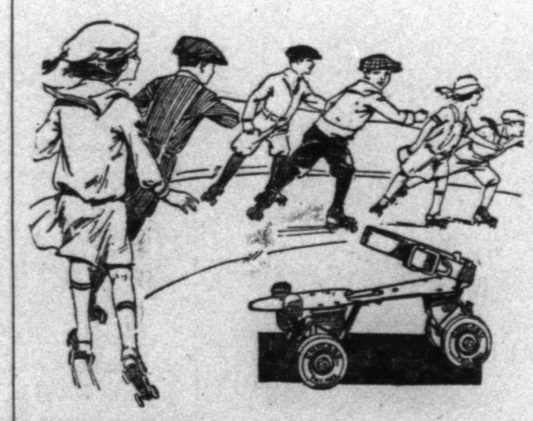

Chernoff A&B Astringent Bleach

takes away that Mongolian tinge and banishes wrinkles and flabbiness. To apply it to the skin is to protect it perfectly against hot sun or wind and to rid your face of pimples, blackheads and excess oil. Obtainable at all the better toilet goods counters.
