(Q) Why was the starting time of the Christmas Parade moved from 4 to 5 p.m. Saturday?

(A) According to Chamber of Commerce Manager Linda McCombs, the parade was moved back one hour because of the large number of people working at the play-off game and also participating in the Parade. The game starts at 2 p.m. and it would be very difficult for participants to make the parade also.

Mother confesses to murder

Pearl Lee Dering and Rocky Joe Dering, both aged 25, of 625 Locust St., were charged Tuesday afternoon in the death of their 14-month-old son, Shawn Joe.

Colorado City Chief of Police Ed Wheat said that a call was received from the Root Memorial Hospital Emergency Room at 9:13 Tuesday morning reporting a dead infant.

Officer Charles Goins talked with Dr. Bill Jones who stated that there appeared to be foul play, Wheat said.

Goins called Wheat to the hospital and, according to Wheat, the couple "volunteered to go to the police department for questioning."

Wheat stated that, after several hours of investigation, "the mother admitted to killing her child by throwing or dropping it into a bathtub of hot, scalding water."

Wheat reported that Mrs. Dering stated that this occurred about 10 or 10:30 Monday night and that after taking the baby out of the tub, she dried it off, changed its diaper and put it in bed, then sat and watched television until the father arrived home, at approximately 11:30 p.m.

After Mr. Dering came in, they watched television for awhile and then went to bed, Wheat continued, discovering the dead baby at about 8 or 8:30 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Both the Derings were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Charles Watlington; Mrs. Dering is charged with murder and being held under $100,000 bond, while Mr. Dering is charged with failure to obtain proper medical attention and is being held in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Wheat said that District Attorney Rusty Carroll has ordered an autopsy to be done on the infant.

The Derings have one other child, 4-year-old Dawn Michelle, who is staying with Mrs. Dering's sister, Wheat noted.

Christmas parade slated Saturday

The annual Mitchell County Christmas Parade will be held this Saturday at 5 p.m. starting at the East Hill by J. O. Dockrey Motor Company and Hutchins Ford.

The theme of the parade is "Country Christmas" and according to Chamber of Commerce Manager Linda McCombs there are 34 entrants in the parade line-up. There will be 11 float entries competing for the $150 first place prize in the float contest. Second place will receive $75, and third place will be awarded $50.

Mrs. McCombs said that all parade entrants should meet at the East Hill no later than 4:15 p.m. The judging of the floats will take place before the parade begins. Also the bicycle contest will be judged before the parade, with

Caution urged in answering poll

Several Colorado City residents have received a questionnaire in the mail from American Testing Institute in Miami, Florida requesting the recipient to answer some questions about their TV viewing habits.

The accompanying literature also states that if you fill out the card and return it with $14.80, you will be given one of the prizes listed, including a microwave oven, video recorder, color television set or a trip to Acapulco, among other prizes.

Postmaster Charles Greer and Chief of Police Ed Wheat both warn citizens to be wary of this seemingly "to good to be true" offer and to check the company with the Better Business Bureau or Miami Chamber of Commerce before responding.

Although neither has had any complaints about the company, they urge caution.

Better grades given on county's cotton

So far this year, farmers have been getting better grades on their cotton than in some years past, but this is just one bit of good news in a year that has brought mostly bad news to the county's agriculture producers.

From the awful spring, when farmers were trying to get crops in the ground in spite of hail and floods, through the severe storms which wiped out most South Plains crops, and then on through summer and fall drought and finally to one of the latest freeze dates remembered here, this just has not been a good crop year, perhaps a monumental understatement.

Most producers were not ready to spend more money on a crop not bringing anything which had already been planted over (in some cases several times) and so did not chemically kill their crops early. They elected to just wait for a freeze.

So, the cotton which has been ginned, mostly the early cotton not planted over or which escaped the disaster, has

Ginning increases in county

Cotton ginning is still going strong in Mitchell County, with 11,970 bales ginned to date.

Producers Co-Op Gin is still in the lead, having ginned 3,580 so far. Buford Gin more than tripled last week's bale count—250 bales as of Monday.

Tax District to meet

A meeting of the Mitchell County Tax Appraisal District has been called for Thursday, December 2 at 7 p.m. in the Curriculum Room of the CISD Administration Building.

Among the items to be discussed are salaries for 1983, an order pertaining to retirement and the Valero Transmission Company delinquent taxes.

Voting begun for ASCS committee

Voting is currently underway for the ASCS Community Committee. Voted ballots are to be mailed or delivered to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office in the G-Kell building by Dec. 6.

Public counting of the ballots will be at the Mitchell County ASCS office on Dec. 8.

Agriculture producers and their wives have received ballots in the mail. The slate of candidates is divided into three geographical areas within the county, according to the following list:

—Community A, Jim Dockrey, Rodney Dockrey, Jimmy Glasscock, Rex McKenney, Eliodoro Reyes.

—Community B, Danny Butler, Frank Garcia, Jimmy Trulock, Johnny Trulock, Dee Whitson.

—Community C, Billy Cornutt, Dwayne Harris, Robert Holman, Perry Mitchell, Stanley Moore.

Community boundaries are set by the ASCS county committee as follows:

—Community A, from the west county line to the Colorado River.

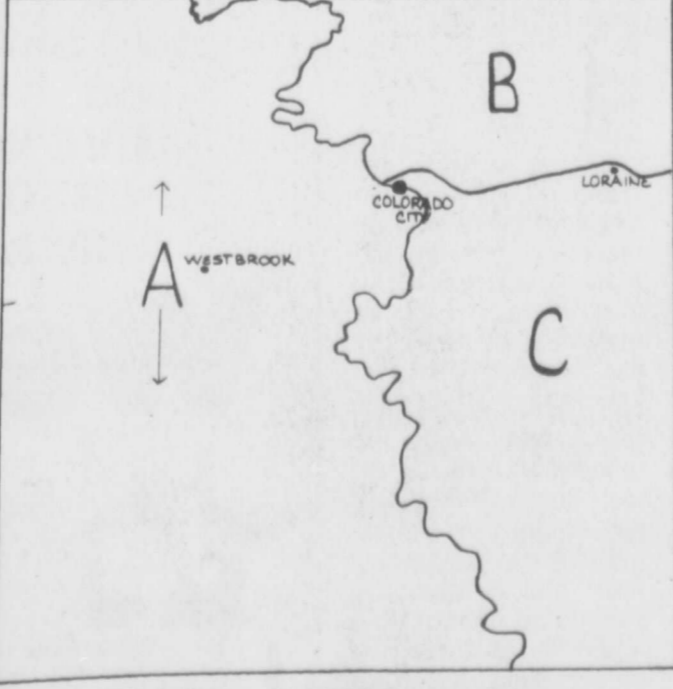

—Community B, north of I-20 and east of the Colorado River to the east county line.

—Community C, south of I-20 and east of the Colorado River to the east county line.

Producers may vote for one, two or three candidates or write in as many as three names on the space provided on the ballot. Candidates receiving the first through fifth highest number of votes will be elected to positions of Chairperson, Vice Chairperson, Regular Member, First Alternate and Second Alternate on the Community Committee, in that order. They will then be delegates to the ASCS County Convention to be held later in December.

Don Stewart, ASCS executive director, reminds everyone that ASCS committee elections are open to all eligible voters without regard to race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.

County attorney issues statement following acquittal

After the trial of Jimmy Roundtree and Jesse Dominguez last Tuesday, November 24 at which time both men were acquitted of charges of official oppression, County Attorney Pat Barber issued the following statement:

"I have been asked to comment on the Roundtree and Dominguez criminal trial in the Mitchell County Court this week.

"The jury returned 'not guilty' verdicts on indictments handed down by the Mitchell County Grand Jury for the offense of Official Oppression.

"The State does not have the right to appeal, so these indictments cannot be retried even though some improper events occurred during the trial.

"One such event occurred when Defendant Jimmy Roundtree blurted out while testifying, that he had been cleared by the FBI. I contacted the FBI office in Dallas the day after the trial and was told that the FBI had no record of any investigation whatsoever by their department concerning the alleged incident for which Mr. Roundtree was being tried. Roundtree's statement was clearly an attempt to mislead the jury.

"I realize that there are valid reasons for the rules that apply to the trial of a criminal case, but in this case, I regret that it was not possible to inform the jury of the fact that all of the State's witnesses (two complaining witnesses and two certified peace officers) had passed a polygraph-lie detector test on the incident at trial, and that two peace officers who were in a position to view the alleged offenses had refused to take a polygraph test, and further, that two other peace officers who were in the jail on the night in question, had proved deceptive (untruthful) concerning statements they had given to their superior officers about the incident at the jail in polygraph tests conducted by or through the Internal Affairs Division of the Texas Department of Public Safety. (DPS) Had the jury been able to know these facts, the verdict might have been otherwise.

"Still pending against Roundtree and Dominguez are Mitchell County Grand Jury Indictments for Class A Assault arising out of the same incident at the jail that brought forward the Indictments for Official Oppression.

"I have conferred with George Thompson, the Special Prosecutor hired by the Prosecutors' Council to try these cases, and we both feel that there may be a Constitutional law question of 'double jeopardy' in trying the defendants on these remaining indictments in that the elements of each offense are similar. We will brief the law on this question before deciding whether to proceed to trial. I expect that we will reach a decision in three weeks.

"I would like to comment on the attempt by the defense attorney during the trial and the defendants after the trial, to convey the impression to the public that the County Attorney's Office is 'anti-cop." That is a false impression. Mr. Roundtree's replacement, current Chief of Police Ed Wheat, is an excellent peace officer who has gone a long way toward building a police department that the people of Colorado City can take pride in.

"In closing, I am trying to do my duty as I see it, as County Attorney, regardless of the obstacles, and will continue to do so as long as I am in office."

In response to Roundtree's statement that he was planning on suing Barber in federal court, Barber stated that he had "prosecutorial immunity," meaning that "I can't be sued for doing my job; otherwise I couldn't do my job."

Another factor Barber felt was important was the fact that the polygraph results he mentioned would be admissible in a civil suit.

Addressing the possibility of Roundtree being able to get reinstated with the police department as Roundtree's wife had said they were going to try to do, Barber said "The only way he can force the city to rehire him is by suing the city in federal court," adding that it was "extremely unlikely" that Roundtree would be able to win such a suit.

City Attorney Pete McKinney did not comment on the situation, saying that he felt that any comments at this time would be pointless.

been getting good grades from the cotton classing office in Abilene.

Later in the ginning season, when the late planted cotton comes in to the gins, grades will probably drop some because it did not mature.

"You may not get the quantity, but you get better quality in a year with less rainfall," said Roy Petty, manager of the gin at Westbrook.

He explained that this is due to several factors: no rain in the late summer means less stalk, not as much foliage, and cotton bolls all mature together so that there's not the usual foliage and large stalk nor the less mature bolls mixed in with mature ones. Also, cotton is very white and gets a good micronaire reading.

Both Loraine and Colorado City gins report a similar situation, grad-baum's, and third place receiving $10, donated by Costin Implement.

The parade will be highlighted by the Color Guard from San Angelo and the marching bands from Colorado High School and Colorado Middle School. Also the high school and middle school cheerleaders along with their pep squads will perform during the parade. Topping the festivities off will be the appearance of Santa Claus in a fire truck.

Floater entered in the parade are Brownie Troop No. 250, Westbrook Golden Age Club, Colorado Middle School Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Girl Scout No. 182 and Brownie Fleet.

Also entered are Girl Scout No. 21 and Business and Professional Women, Girl Scout Troop, Catholic Youth Organization and Mitchell County Day Care. Mrs. McCombs says the parade will run from the East Hill down Second Street, to the courthouse.

McCombs stated that a deadline has not been put on the house lighting contest, but the prize money is $50 for first, $25 for second and $15 for third place. To enter, call the Chamber office and give the address of the house, and the name of the residents. She also stated that the house can be some one elses. Just call it in and give the needed information, and judges will come by and take a look at the house. McCombs also explained that a business lighting contest will not be held this year. She said that the Chamber had been getting good response from merchants contributing to the Merchant's Fund. Contributions can be mailed in or taken by the Chamber office.

McCombs stated that the Chamber would like to thank Dale McCombs and Steve Morris for putting up the Christmas decorations around town, and reminds the public that Santa Claus would be at the Civic Center next Saturday from 5-7 p.m. during the Lions Club chili supper.

es good so far but a fear that they will drop off in the next few weeks. Rain in the county over the Thanksgiving holiday will also cause a slight drop in grades.

In spite of the good grades, cotton isn't selling for much. The market is weak and most producers have adopted a wait-and-see attitude until after the first of the year. Most people are predicting that much of this year's crop will go into the Commodity Credit Corporation loan program.

Samples are taken at the compress except at the coop gin in Loraine where an expensive Universal Density press operates and then the automatic sampling machine cuts the samples.

These samples are then sent to the Abilene USDA classing office and given a grade, staple and mike number. This information is then returned to the gin where the bale started.

On the key punch class card, or green card, all information has to match with that on the sample: gin code number, gin bale number, farm account number, warehouse bale number and date of classing, along with grade, staple and mike.

Grade is the quality or color of the cotton. The average grade here is from 42 to 31 but ranges from 31 to 52.

Staple is the length of fibers and ranges from 29 to 34.

A mike reading between 3.5 to 4.9 is premium but a reading below or above this range is docked in price. Micronaire ratings measure tensile strength of fibers. Between 48 cents to 53 cents is the selling price now. Any reduction in grade, staple or mike affects the total price paid for a bale of cotton, sometimes as much as 10 cents a pound or $50 less per bale.

Then when turnout is so much less, as many farmers report it has been this year, that loss per bale can really hurt a producer. Turnout refers to the number of pounds of cotton it takes to make a bale. Turnout has been about 18-19 percent on the hauled on cotton but this compares to 22-25 percent turnout on other cotton.

Net weight goes to the ASCS office and is used to determine yield of a farm. Disaster and deficiency payments are figured on the basis of the farm's yield.

Cotton samples used to be taken at gins but very few gins are bonded to take samples nowadays. The automatic sample cutters are expensive to operate and maintain. Except at Loraine Coop, samples are cut at the compress, either Sweetwater Compress or Rolling Plains Cooperative Compress. Classification is completed and cards back at the gins in about ten days.

Technical innovations, such as module ginning and computer marketing devices, have made it easier and quicker for many farmers to see that there's not much money in farming these days.

Hidden costs arise during home buying

The Veterans Administration advises that a common error made by veterans when buying a home with a VA loan guarantee is to think that the only cost will be a small down payment if required by the lender plus monthly payments of principal and interest on the mortgage.

Potential home buyers should keep in mind the following additional costs, said the Director, Waco VA Regional Office, since they must be paid and can add up to a substantial outlay of cash.

-Closing Costs: Have sufficient cash to make the down payment, which is the difference between the purchase price and the amount of the loan. A buyer also may be required to pay for the title search, title insurance, survey, credit report, appraisal fee, recording fee, transfer taxes and a lender's origination fee. Distribution of closing costs may be agreed to in the contract of purchase.

-Prepaid Items: Although these are part of the regular or recurring costs of home ownership, they must be paid at the loan-closing time. They include the buyer's share of the current year's real property taxes and the initial hazard-insurance premium.

-Mortgage Payments: Monthly mortgage payments cover principal and interest on the mortgage. It is the biggest monthly expense, but not the only one.

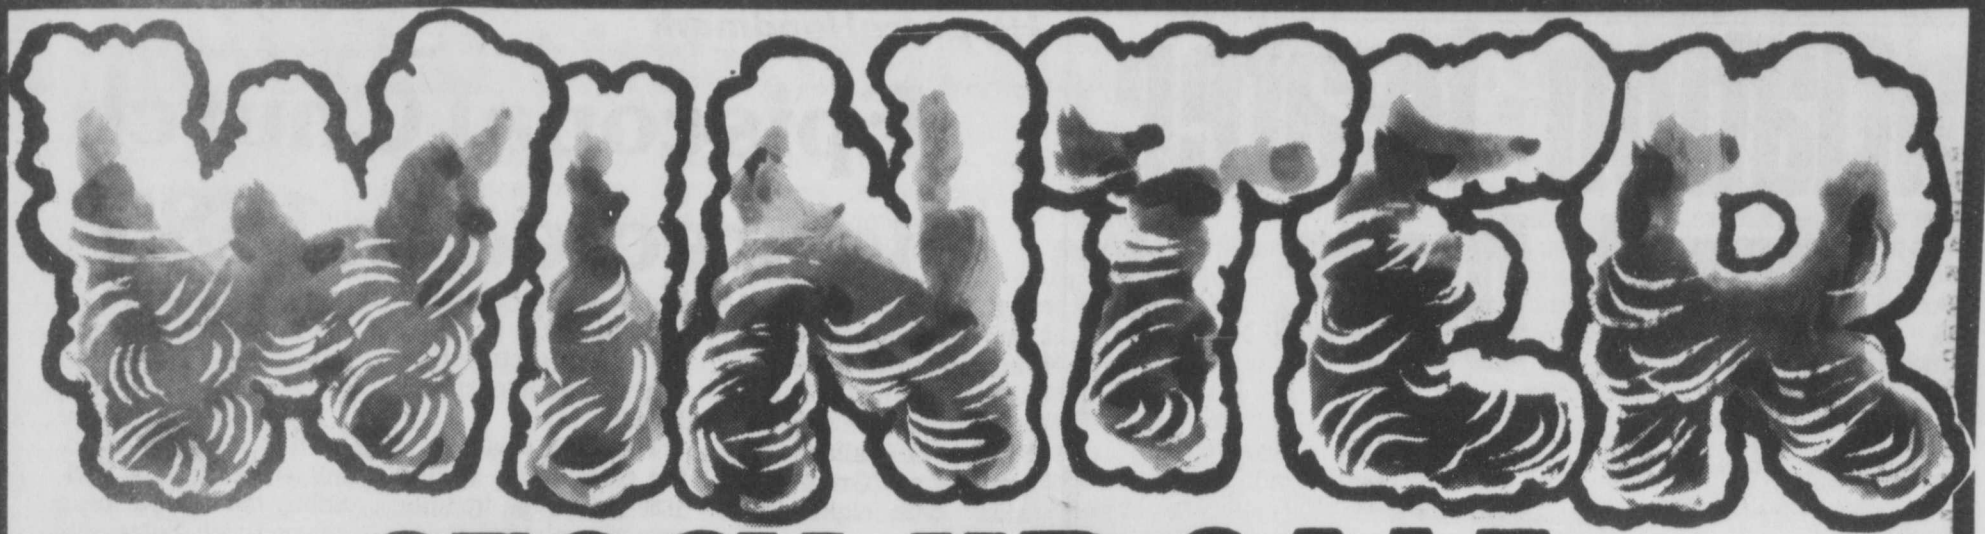

-Taxes - Insurance: Payment of future real estate taxes, assessments and insurance on the property.

-Utilities: Bills for electricity, water and gas.

-Maintenance: The house will deteriorate as it gets older. Such costs include painting, repairing heating and electrical systems and replacing equipment.

Veterans with other debts such as furniture or automobile payments, or who are considering installment purchases for the homes, should be sure they can afford to meet those payments as well.

There is no fixed rule to determine how much an individual family can afford in total monthly housing expenses. However, it usually is considered desirable that the total estimated monthly housing expenses not be much higher than the family's weekly take-home pay.

Historical landmark

Episcopal Church is erected in 1885

Colorado City's All Saints Episcopal Church was organized in 1883 by the Rt. Rev. A. C. Garrett, pioneer Episcopal Bishop of Dallas, who listed it as "Grace Mission" with eight communicants.

The cornerstone was set during a duststorm in March of 1885 and the name was changed to "All Saints" in 1886, the same name as a church in England where the father of Mrs. Allen (Emily) Maclean was rector; Mrs. Maclean had been very active in the church.

The first rector of the church was George H. Higgins.

The first wedding in the church was held in 1886 before the building was completely finished. Charles Houston Earnest and Frances Craig, the parents of local attorney Joe Earnest, were married on April 27, 1886. The second marriage held there was that of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Adams, grandparents of Betty Howell and Frances Sweat of Colorado City.

A few changes have been made in the building over the years, including the adding of a stucco finish, buttresses, choir room and mission house, but the stained glass in the front and back of the church are original, and the bell that rings every Sunday at 9 a.m. is the one that was installed when the church was first erected.

"Living Christmas Tree" performs in Big Spring

Last year, the "Living Christmas Tree" performance at First United Methodist Church in Big Spring drew so many visitors that people had to be turned away at the door both nights.

This year, the performance has been expanded to three nights. Although admission is still free, this year tickets will be issued in an effort to control the crowd.

The church can seat only 1,000 persons each night.

The Living Tree, now in its fourth year, features 85 singers who are stacked on a 35-foot-high tree, completely decorated with all the trimmings, including lights. The choir is accompanied by a 35-piece orchestra, including 21 professionals from the Midland-Odessa Symphony.

Spectacular lighting and sound effects make this a thrilling performance to behold. Charles Parham, minister of music at the church, is director. This is a community event and singers and behind-the-scenes workers from all denominations participate.

This year's Living Tree performances will be at 7:30 p.m. on Dec. 18, 19 and 20.

To obtain free tickets, send a self-addressed stamped envelope with a note telling how many tickets you desire and which date you prefer to: Living Christmas Tree, First United Methodist Church, P.O. Box 1229, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

"Living Christmas Tree"

"Magic of Christmas" presented

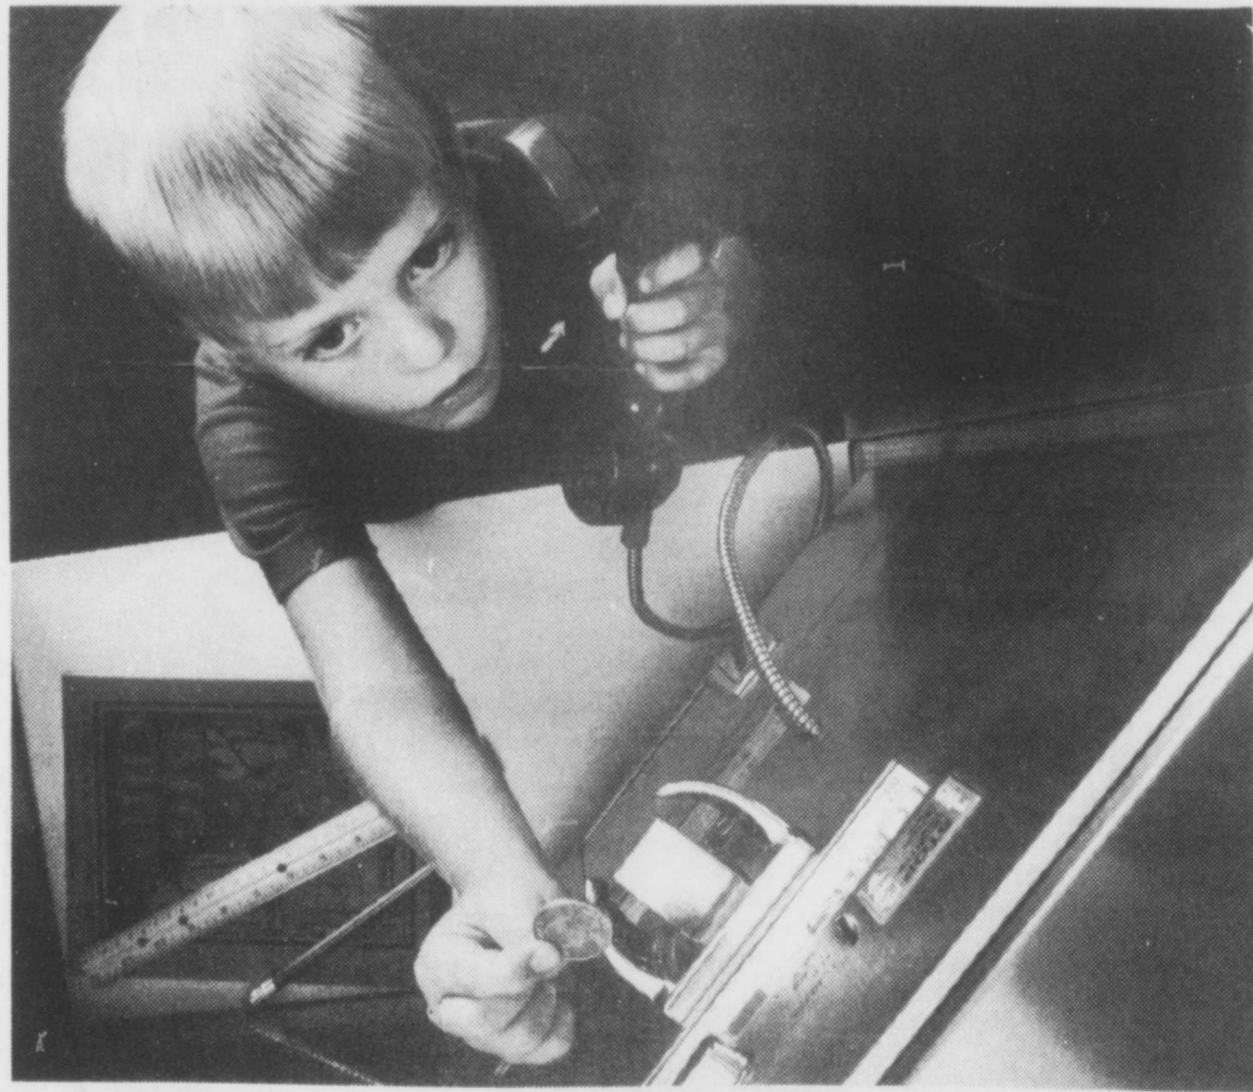

The "Magic of Christmas" is in the air and that also just happens to be the name of the show the Opti-Ms. are bringing to town on December 10 at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Ann Gregory and Doris Jones, project chairmen, said "we are excited about the show and feel it will be one of the better shows ever to come to our town and are proud to be a part of it."

The "Magic of Christmas" is a fun-filled 90 minutes. A clown will get things rolling with crazy antics. "Santas Sleigh Belles" will sing Christmas carols and lead the audience in a 'Sing-along.' Next we have the world famous Fred Cowan puppeteers with a fantastic puppet "Circus Showcase" extravaganza. Sebastian, the Magician, will astound you with spell-binding illusions and 'Magically' produce Santa Claus who will conduct a drawing to give some lucky boy or girl a bicycle or one of the other prizes.

As the kids leave the auditorium, every child under the age of 13 will receive a special souvenir Christmas coloring book and candy.

Proceeds from the show will be used for scholarship fund for Mitchell County Seniors and other youth projects. Plan now to attend this great show!!! "Christmas may never be more magical!"

Local people important in attracting new industry

If communities expect to attract industry, it will depend on the local people.

That message came through loud and clear at a recent Rural Industrial Development Workshop at Texas A&M University.

About 80 percent of all industrial development and growth is due to the efforts of local community leaders, said Jack Jones, community development specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, which sponsored the workshop.

Industrial development can generate jobs, increase personal income and the local economic base, and improve the environment and quality of life, Jones said.

Yet, many communities really don't want to grow and will block any efforts toward development, said Dr. James Copp, professor of sociology and rural sociology at Texas A&M.

"Small communities are surprisingly self-directing; they control their own fate," Copp said. "Many communities don't grow because local leaders don't have their 'act' together. Sometimes community leadership consists of the 'good ole' boys' who don't want 'new blood' in their group."

"What happens or doesn't happen in a community hinges around local leaders," Copp emphasized. "Community attitudes and the direction taken by community leaders must be in general agreement if a community is to prosper."

Copp listed these indicators of a good or bad climate for industrial development in a community: the Chamber of Commerce office, the C.

of C. manager or executive, interlocking memberships (community leaders serving in various capacities), make-up of the Industrial Development Foundation, and the number of absentee leaders. An overabundance of absentee leaders can be the "kiss of death" to community efforts in industrial expansion, said Copp.

Communities with an Industrial Development Foundation usually grow and develop at a faster rate and often reflect a more single-minded attitude toward growth, he added.

Another speaker, Raymond Bost with Delta Steel Buildings of Dallas, offered several guidelines for community leaders interested in constructing speculative buildings to attract industry.

"Don't build a building smaller than 20,000 square feet and make sure it has an eave height of at least 20 feet," Bost said. "And don't add a lot of extras. Make sure the building will accommodate a sprinkler system for fire safety and to cut insurance costs. Of course, you need a water supply system to support the sprinkler system." Bost added that the entire building should be insulated.

He said that his company could construct such a building for about $8 per square foot (without a concrete slab).

Bost pointed out that most speculative buildings are usually occu-pled within six or seven months after completion.

Dr. Charles Madden with the Texas Engineering Experiment Station at Texas A&M University told workshop participants that both communities and businesses have various needs that must be considered in an industrial development program. He cited community needs as employment, tax base, consumers, economic activity, amenities and stability, and listed business or industry needs as labor, markets, transportation, utilities, buildings, financing and stability of rules.

"Local communities usually cannot provide every need of a business or industry, and no single firm can give a community everything it needs," he emphasized. Community leaders must analyze supply and demand factors and assess market opportunities before implementing marketing plans to attract an industry, he said.

Madden also encouraged community leaders to take the initiative in attracting a new business or industry. "If your phone hasn't rung in three years, maybe it's time for you to start calling prospects," he said.

SWCD is sponsoring essay, poster contest

The Mitchell Soil and Water Conservation District is sponsoring a Conservation Essay and Poster Contest according to Jimmy Harrison, Chairman of the board.

The poster contest is for boys and girls 12 years of age and under. The subject for the contest is "Resource Conservation." The individual may choose any phase of resource conservation that relates to the role of their local soil and water conservation district. The Mitchell SWCD is concerned with erosion control practices, fish and wildlife management, and promoting the involvement of all citizens in conserving soil, water, and related resources.

Out of the 92 entries in the poster contest last year, the district had to choose the top three which were awarded trophies. The top three entries in each class will receive ribbon awards.

The subject of the conservation essay contest is "Soil and Water Conservation." This essay contest is open to boys and girls 18 years and younger. The winners will receive $20 for first, $15 for second and $10 for third.

Because this is an open contest, it will not jeopardize Texas Inter-scholastic League eligibility, stated Harrison.

All entries must be mailed to Mitchell Soil and Water Conservation District, P.O. Box 910, Colorado City, Texas, 79512 or delivered to the SCS office in the G-Kell building on the Snyder Highway by January 21, 1983.

If additional information is needed contact one of the "strict directors or the Soil Conservation Service in the G-Kell building. The present directors are George Martin, Warren Anderson, D. M. Smith, Travis Turner and Jimmy Harrison.

Flu shots recommended

Arrival of cold weather and the "flu season" call attention to the need for influenza vaccinations for people at greatest risk of serious illness or death from flu and its complications.

Influenza virus infections occur every year in the United States, reminds Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Texas

A&M University System.

Three dominant strains anticipated during the 1982-83 flu season, Shirer adds, are A-Bangkok, A-Brazil, and B-Singapore.

"The antigens in this year's vaccine reduce the likelihood of infection and the severity of disease if a vaccinated individual contracts influenza," she explains. People considered to be in the "high risk" category are those 65 years of age or more, and people of any age who are chronically ill with heart disease, lung or kidney disorders, diabetes, severe anemia such as sickle cell disease; and conditions that affect the immune (disease fighting) mechanisms such as certain malignancies and immuno-suppressive therapy.

Influenza and pneumonia have averaged more than 2,600 deaths per year, according to a report covering the past three years issued by the Texas Department of Health.

Flu vaccine generally is available through the winter months, with November an ideal time for the vaccination, Shirer adds.

State and local health officials will be conducting the immunization programs, and the vaccine will also be available from private physicians.

Dr. Kenneth Cowan, County Health Officer, wants to "encourage everybody" to take the vaccine, especially those mentioned above.

If there are questions relating to the need for vaccine, check with your local physician, advises Shirer.

Deer hunters fined

A federal judge has fined five West Texas residents $21,000 for their part in the killing of 10 white-tailed deer from a helicopter in 1981.

The five were convicted after pleading guilty to violations of the federal Airborne Hunting Act. Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens arrested the men on Nov. 21, 1981, after receiving calls from two hunters and a neighboring farmer that a helicopter was being used to "haze" deer into the range of hunters.

After the arrest, game wardens found untaged or improperly tagged deer in a barn near the scene of the shooting. Some of the deer had been shot from above with buckshot, officials said. Skeletons of three other deer also were recovered.

Four of the men received $5,000 fines, the maximum penalty prescribed under the Airborne Hunting Act. The fifth man, who cooperated with officials during the investigation, was fined $1,000.

Parks and Wildlife Department officials cooperated with law enforcement officials of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in the investigation.

Knowles speaks on water resources

Continuing expected declines in Texas groundwater were pinpointed in discussions at Texas A&M University recently by Tommy R. Knowles of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

For the first time since the devastating drought of the 1950s, pumping of water in the 1980s is exceeding the recharge ability of the state's aquifers, Knowles said.

Current groundwater use is about 10.8 million acre feet a year, while the recharge capability is approximately 5.1 million acre feet. At this rate, the wells will be dry someday in the not-too-distant future, or the water will be unfit for use since some salt is creeping into the water supply at present, he warned.

Knowles added that water usage in the future should be geared to the rate of recharge, and the quality of the water should be monitored.

He listed as largest sources of underground water the seven major aquifers of Texas, which produce large quantities in large areas. These are supplemented, he said, by 17 minor aquifers, which produce large water quantities in small areas.

The major aquifers, he added, include the Ogallala Formation which serves the High Plains, extends into other states, and has an extremely limited recharge; the Trinity Sands Group; Edwards Limestone and Trinity; Edwards-Balcones Fault Zone; Carrizo-Wilcox Sands; Gulf Coast Sands and Alluvial and Bolson Deposits.

Many areas have been experiencing declines in groundwater, Knowles said, calling attention to the need for more comprehensive surface water management. Projections indicate that by the year 2030, groundwater availability will be about 7.6 million acre feet, with more surface water being needed to assure a sufficient amount of water for population and industry growth in Texas, and for agriculture.

Groundwater declines are being experienced in the El Paso area; the Winter Garden area; Southeast Texas, especially in Harris County where subsidence is also a major concern; Angelina, Trinity, Erath and Kleberg Counties; the High Plains; and the area around Dallas-Fort Worth, as well as other areas, Knowles reported.

Knowles was lead-off speaker for a program segment on "Managing Groundwater Resources" at the 1982 Water for Texas Conference. The conference was sponsored by the Texas Water Resources Institute, a special unit of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dr. Neville P. Clark, director of the Experiment Station, said more than 250 people registered for the conference. Included were 50 representatives of river authorities; 30 legislators; 40 business leaders; 20 officials of city government; 25 media representatives, League of Women Voters officials. State Soil and Water Conservation District Boards, Texas Department of Water Resources personnel, along with federal water authorities.

Dr. Jack R. Runkels is director of the Texas Water Resources Institute.

Wildcat boys win, girls lose

The Westbrook junior high boys and girls basketball teams split victories with Hermleigh Monday night in the season opener for the Westbrook squads.

The boys, behind Frankie Puentes' 14 point performance got the best of Hermleigh 38-33. It was a close game throughout the first half, as the Wildcats took a 14-3 lead into intermission.

In the second half, it was all Westbrook, as the Wildcats got into their zone defense and outscored their opponents 16-3 in the third quarter, as they cruised in for the victory.

Neil Gostinger had five points for the Wildcats. He was followed by Gilbert Testerman, J. J. Elliot and Ruben Jantz who all had four points.

Wildcat coach Jerry Tucker was pleased with the hustle of his team, and their play in the second half. "We looked good at times, but we didn't put the ball in the hole, and we didn't play as a team. But we started making our layups in the second half, and we played better in the same defense," stated Tucker.

In the girls' contest, Hermleigh edged out the Wildcats by a score of 27-25. Hermleigh took a 14-4 lead into the half, and never relinquished it.

Stephanie Pierce led the 'Cats with 12 points. She was followed by Amy Bradshaw's six points. Lisa Lamb added four points and Elizabeth Burnett tallied one point.

Westbrook coach

Keith Bundas said his team played a lot better in the second half. "We weren't aggressive and did not get on the boards well, we made a lot of mental mistakes. I think we had first game jitters. We would bring down the rebound and lose the ball," commented Bundas. But Bundas says that he is overall pleased with his team's performance.

"We just have to correct those little errors," he said.

Both teams' next game will be Monday at Wildcat Gym against the Trent Gorillas.

Wolves travel to San Angelo for a weekend tournament

The Colorado City boys and girls varsity basketball teams will be competing in their first basketball tournament of the year this Thursday, Friday and Saturday when they compete in the Tenth Annual North Angelo Lions Lake View Invitational in San Angelo.

The girls will be pitted against Monahans at 3 p.m. Thursday. If they win they will play the winner of the Sweetwater-San Angelo Central contest at 6 p.m. Friday. Other girl teams entered are Brownfield, Water Valley and Lamesa.

In the boys bracket, the Wolves will face Water Valley at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. If they win, they will face the winner of the Ft. Stockton-San Angelo Lake View tilt Friday at noon. Other teams entered are Brownwood, Sweetwater, Brownfield and Monahans.

Lorraine junior high teams capture win

Both the Lorraine junior high boys and girls basketball teams came away with victories Monday night at Bulldog Gym as they downed the Trent Gorillas.

In the boys contest, the home team jumped out to a 24-4 halftime lead, and cruised in for a 36-27 win as Bulldog coach Ronald James emptied his bench.

The Bulldogs 1-2-2 game press gave the Gorillas fits, as Eddie Benitez and Freddie Benitez stole the ball numerous times and turned the steals into baskets. Tracy Rose led the 'Dogs in scoring with 14 points. He was followed by Freddie Benitez with 12. Terry Woodson added 10, and Eddie Benitez scored six points. Rose led the team in rebounds with eight, and F. Benitez added seven rebounds.

Bulldog coach Jimmy Fine said that the team's fundamentals, shooting and rebounding were starting to pick up, and that he was pleased with the win.

The victory evens the Bulldogs girls record to 1-1. Both teams next game will be against Highland, next Monday in Highland.

What does a clean filter have to do with saving money?

There are lots of ways to save money. One is to check the filter in your heating and cooling unit once a month.

The filter is there to collect dust and lint. But when it's dirty, your unit has to work longer and harder to heat and cool your home. And that leads to higher electric bills.

If your filter is permanent, clean it; if it's disposable, replace it. A clean filter can help you save money all year long.

And those other ways to save? You'll find them in "The Unhandy Person's Guide" from Texas Electric. If you need one, call us — or ask for one on the comments portion of your bill.

New grass is good for forage

Verde Kleingrass, a good forage producer with larger seed, will be released in early 1983 through the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas A&M's Department of Soil and Crop Sciences. "The larger seed size will make the grass more valuable as a feed source for quail and other game birds and will improve seedling vigor and establishment."

Holt noted that forage yields and quality of Verde Kleingrass are about the same as from Kleingrass 75. "Verde Kleingrass will be registered as a variety under the Plant Variety Protection Law and will be sold only as certified seed," Holt said. "Individuals interested in producing seed will have to become licensed certified seed growers and will require certification inspections by the Texas Department of Agriculture."

Individuals interested in obtaining Verde Kleingrass seed should contact the Foundation Seed Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture, said Holt. Seed requests must be made by Jan. 15, 1983, to the Foundation Seed Service, Texas A&M University, College Station, Tex. 77843, which will provide information on the time and arrangements for seed sale. Certification procedures will be provided by the Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Capitol Station, Austin, Tex. 78711.

Verde Kleingrass was developed by the TAES and A&M's Department of Soil and Crop Sciences and Department of Animal Science. It will be released jointly with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Research Service and Soil Conservation Service.

CC Lions Clubs hold chili supper

The Colorado City Lions Clubs will be holding its annual Chili Supper on Saturday, December 4 from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Civic Center.

The price of the meal is $3 for adults and $2 for children and includes not only the chili, but also tea or coffee and homemade pie.

Advance tickets can be purchased from any Lions Club member or can be bought at the door, so you can stop by either before or after the Christmas parade and enjoy a bowl of homemade chili.

Lions Club President Monte Jones said that proceeds from the Chili supper will be used to buy eyeglasses for needy children in Mitchell County.
