Girl, Age 18, Died In Hospital Here Monday Afternoon

20-Year-Old Husband, A Farmer Near Brownfield, Tells Officers of Shooting Sunday Night.

SAYS PISTOL TRIGGER PULLED UNCONSCIOUSLY

Coy Abbott Taken Back To Brownfield By Officers; Wife Made No Statement To Officers.

Coy Abbott, 20-year-old farmer living near Brownfield, yesterday afternoon made a statement to local officers in which he said that he accidentally shot his 18-year-old wife at their home Sunday night. Mrs. Abbott died of the wound yesterday afternoon at the Lubbock sanitarium.

Abbott was arrested here by Deputy Sheriff Vernice Ford and Sheriff F. M. Ellington of Terry County after the death of Mrs. Abbott. Abbott at first said that his wife had shot herself accidentally, but after being questioned for four hours by Deputy Ford and Sheriff Ellington, he said that he had shot her.

Shooting Near Brownfield. Abbott said that the shooting took place "between sundown and dark" on his farm about 16 miles from Brownfield. His first story was that he was cleaning out a bureau drawer and asked his wife to hand him a 38 calibre pistol that was lying on the table. When she was doing this, he said the trigger of the gun caught in her dress and the gun was discharged, the bullet striking her in the abdomen.

He later admitted that he had borrowed the gun from a neighbor, and had been playfully snapping the hammer while the gas was unloaded. Later he loaded it, he said, and had it pointed toward his wife when he unconsciously pulled the trigger. He then rushed out and called a neighbor, a Mr. Pollock, and the wounded girl was brought to this city.

Officers said that Mrs. Abbott did not make any statement to them regarding the shooting, though she

Fumes of Truck's Exhaust Kill Two Children Die When Asphyxiated While Riding In Rear Part of Truck, Under Blanket.

(By The Associated Press) HARLINGEN, March 19.—While they slept in the bed of a truck in which they were returning home with their parents from Piatt, two children, about one and four years of age, met death early today, presumably from fumes of the truck's exhaust pipe.

The young victims were children, Manuel Corda, who resides near the Honda, about nine miles from here, and were taken to San Benito for medical attention when their parents could not arouse them.

Although investigators were puzzled at first to find the cause of death, explanations of the parents that the children had been covered by a tarpaulin on account of the cold led them to believe that fumes from the exhaust had gathered under the covering and had asphyxiated the children.

A physician from this city was summoned but efforts to resuscitate the children proved unavailing. An expert of inquiry was added to the case upon the disappearance.

Bloodhounds Join Hunt For "Frame-up" Suspect

MIDLAND, March 19.—Bloodhounds tonight were aiding sheriffs of many West Texas counties in their search for C. C. Blaz, a fugitive from justice. Blaz, who escaped from the jail here yesterday after they had overpowered a guard who brought them some food, Blaz was being held on a complaint charging murder in the shooting in death of two Mexicans in an alleged bank robbery attempt at Stanton, Texas, on December 23.

The trio, after overpowering Deputy Sheriff D. E. Conington, forced him to walk about two miles north of Midland with them. There they trusted him and left him.

Dismal Torpedo Room Of S-4 Gives Up Its Tragic Story Monday

(By The Associated Press) BOSTON, March 19.—The torpedo room of the submarine S-4 in which 23 men lived for 72 hours after the vessel was sent to the bottom in collision off Provincetown, December 17, gave up its story today.

Naval officers entered the compartment after the submarine, raised from the ocean bed on Saturday, had been dry docked at the Boston navy yard, and from the limited evidence found therein, pieced together a tragedy on which the interest of a nation was centered for three days last winter.

Story Filled Together. The six bodies were found and "no other" that of Lieut. Graham Nevill Fitch of Washington, D. C. was identified. In other parts of the ship two other bodies were recovered, completing the roster of death. The entire company of 40 men perished when the constricted destroyer Paulding rammed and sank the S-4. During the salvage operations 32 bodies were taken from the hull.

Evidence of a desperate fight for life was seen in devices by which the imprisoned men had striven to shut out the water leaking into their chamber from the battery room adjoining. The watertight door between the compartments had been closed and dogged tight. A lead mass had been used to better down the dogs, and a large

Direct Marketing Of Cattle Talked At Amarillo Meet

More Than 5000 Ranchers Are Expected When Session Is Opened Today; 94 New Members Received.

AMARILLO, March 19.—The problem of direct marketing of live stock as it affects the producers of the southwest was the principal topic discussed at the meeting of the executive committee of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association here Thursday afternoon.

No definite action was taken by the committee, but it was understood that a resolution would be presented before the convention stating the position of the association in this matter.

Ninety-four new members, rendering more than 30,000 head of cattle, were elected to membership. Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico, Colorado and Texas were represented in the new members.

Attendance on the eve of the convention was said to be the greatest in history, and Amarillo is preparing to entertain more than 5,000 cattlemen during the next three days.

The cattlemen are most optimistic and all declare that the long-predicted cattle shortage is now a reality.

RAIL MERGER RUMOR Loree Denies Proposal Combine Failed

NEW YORK, March 19.—Rumors that his plan for a merger of the Kansas City Southern, St. Louis Southwestern, and Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroads had been abandoned were denied today by Lester F. Loree, a new plan, he reiterated, will be ready for submission to the interstate commerce commission April 2.

Mr. Loree declined to comment on reports that stock of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, which was acquired as part of the original consolidation program, had been sold.

Negro Confesses To Fatal Shooting Of School Teacher

Black Overpowered After Fight With Detectives; Murder Was In Brooklyn Apartment.

(By The Associated Press) PATERSON, N. J., March 19.—Police Captain Joseph Mooley announced late tonight that Martin L. Miller, negro, apprehended here this evening, had confessed to firing the shot that killed Mrs. Helen G. Kimball, Brooklyn school teacher.

The confession, Captain Mooley said, came after a two hour grilling during which Miller told how he had summoned his victim to the door, and told her he had come to fix her gas stove.

Miller, according to Mooley, said the purpose of his visit was robbery but when he found that Mrs. Kimball had no money on hand, threatened her life.

Miller then chased his victim, the police said, into a bedroom of the house and when she retreated that she had no money to give him, he fired the two shots, the first of which was believed to, have killed her.

PATERSON, N. J., March 19.—Martin L. Miller, negro, alleged slayer of Mrs. Helen G. Kimball, a Brooklyn school teacher, in her apartment in Brooklyn this morning, was captured here tonight after a desperate encounter with Paterson and Brooklyn detectives.

Miller was blackjacked when he sought to turn a 45 calibre revolver with steel-jacketed bullets on the detectives, and now is under the care of general hospital physicians here Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Kimball was shot to death in her Brooklyn home by an assailant who police believed was a black man. He was very badly wounded and is now in the Park Place building.

GRAIN HEARING Officers Installed At Session In Dallas

CHICAGO, March 19.—Bulfinch, one of the important grain markets in the United States, today placed its proposed changes in transportation rates on export grain before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

These included a restoration of the three-cent a hundredweight advance over Toledo on grain destined for Baltimore and Philadelphia; a reduction of three cents on bushels from New York and Boston, and a parity on grain and grain products.

R. C. Craig, traffic authority of the Buffalo corn exchange, presented the New York City case.

MARINES FIGHT REBELS Meager Dispatches Tell About Combat

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 19.—A sharp fight between two U. S. marine corps airplanes and a band of Sandinistas estimated at from 30 to 200, occurred early this afternoon near an abandoned mine about twenty miles northeast of Jinotepe, and twenty miles southeast of Jalapa.

Captain Francis E. Pierce, an observer in one of the planes, was wounded in one foot.

Machine headquarters declined to estimate the possible number of casualties among the rebels, but the aviators who engaged them were sure that some of their machine gun fire and bombs was effective.

Wild 'Black-Tan' Orgy Reported by Force After Raid

White Men and Women Mixed With Negroes At Gaudy House-Saloon At Wharton, Texas.

HOUSTON, March 19.—Federal prohibition agents returning to Houston today from a raid on a Wharton Sunday brought back a story of wild gambling and drinking orgies in which white men and women mingled with negroes.

The federal dry officers, assisted by a squadron of state rangers, descended suddenly on the place and surprised the alleged operators. Gambling games were running freely and white men and women were drinking with negroes, they said.

Three men and a woman were arrested and lodged in jail at Wharton and charges are to be filed against them here before United States Commissioner Winston McMahon.

Twenty four men and two white women were in the place when the raid was made, the federal officers said. Thousands of bottles of beer, a considerable quantity of whiskey and several automobile loads of gambling paraphernalia were seized.

The raid followed persistent complaints on the part of Wharton residents who informed the officers that high school girls and white women were drinking with negroes in the resort.

Lindbergh Presented Woodrow Wilson Award of Medal and $25,000 Cash

Work As "Private Citizen" In Extending Good Will And Thereby Working for Preservation of Peace Is Praised by John W. Davis and Others

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, March 19.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh tonight received the Woodrow Wilson award, consisting of a medal and $25,000 for "his services for the cause of international friendship" during his good will flight to Central and South America.

The presentation was made at a dinner of the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Foundation. Col. Lindbergh was the third recipient of the award, which was given in 1924 to Viscount Cecil of Chelmsford for his services to the League of Nations and in 1925 to Edwin Reek for his part in the inception of the permanent court of international justice, or "World Court."

John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, in an address explained that Lindbergh was selected as a recipient of the award, not as a victorious soldier, nor as a noted poet or orator, but as a "mere individual" who had "the great fortune to serve peace in most effective ways."

The preservation of lasting international peace is as much a personal as a national responsibility, Mr. Davis said.

Suggesting the preservation of peace had been regarded as too entirely the function of governments and officials, he said Lindbergh had made international friendship a personal thing and moved by his flights to Paris and Latin America.

Furious Political Exchange About Whole Affair Takes Place In Senate; Resignation Asked.

(By The Associated Press) ALBANY, N. Y., March 19.—Records at the capitol here show that Governor Smith appointed Harry F. Sinclair a member of the racing commission early in 1925.

The governor late today declined to comment when informed that Senator Robinson of Indiana, had demanded he be summoned before the Teapot Dome investigating committee.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 19.—Before closing its inquiry into the disposition of the Liberty bond profits of the Continental Trading company, the Senate Teapot Dome committee is to investigate the records of the late President Harding.

In making this announcement today, Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, chairman of the committee, said he did not believe any of the Continental bonds would be found in the estate, but added:

"There would be a lack of satisfaction if this committee submits a report to the Senate without it determines whether there were any."

Reward Sticks Hamer's Charges Are Discounted

PORT WORTH, March 19.—So long as its members so desire, the $3,000 reward for dead-bank bandits will be continued, according to W. M. Masie, president of the Texas Bankers' Association, which he had read news dispatches from Austin which quoted Ranger Captain Frank Hamer as saying that killings are being planned to collect the reward.

"The Texas Bankers' association is thoroughly satisfied with the results obtained and the reward has done more to stop bank robbing in Texas than anything I know of," Masie said.

Masie declared that he had nothing to say in regard to Hamer's charge regarding "framed" killings, other than to state that if Hamer has any information in regard to such conspiracies, it is his sworn duty to present such information to the proper law-enforcing authorities.

Intrepid Pair Off On First Part Of Flight Over Pole

Intend to Pass Arctic's "Over Spot" and Explore Over Vast Region Never Seen by Man.

(By Associated Press) FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 19.—On the hop of their projected flight to the other side of the world over the Arctic "blind spot," Captain George H. Wilkins and Lieut. C. Ben Eielson, his pilot, took off for Point Barrow from the Fairbanks airport today.

The singlemotored plane picked up its heavy load of gasoline without difficulty and after circling the field for about five minutes, headed north in the direction of Barrow. Presentation of a flag by the local post of the American Legion before a small gathering was the only ceremony marking the departure.

The sky was clear and the weather calm and cold. Point Barrow, about 500 miles to the northwest, is the Arctic base of the expedition, where a supply of fuel has been laid down. After a few exploratory flights from Point Barrow, the aviators planned to fly to Spitzbergen, a distance of about 2,100 miles over portions of the Polar sea never before witnessed by the eye of man.

The meeting is to be held at the court house here.

CLAYTON ACCUSED "Manipulation and Effort to Mislead Senate"

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—Alleged charges of cotton market manipulation, violation of antitrust laws in dealings on the New York exchange, and efforts to "mislead" the Senate cotton slump inquiry committee, were laid against William L. Clayton, Houston, Texas, cotton dealer, today by Arthur R. Marsh, New York exchange member in concluding his direct testimony which has taken up three days of the committee's hearing.

Marsh is to be questioned tomorrow by committee members and the two cotton state members of the House, Rankin, of Mississippi, and Vinson, of Georgia, who have figured as joint prosecutors of his charges before the Senate body. He will then be turned over to counsel for Clayton for cross-examination.

Favorable Action On Buchanan Bill To Create Non-Cotton Zones, With Government Bearing Burden, Looms

$2,500,000 Would Be Appropriated by Congress To Combat Pest, Termed An "Emergency."

JARDINE SEES MENACE TO ENTIRE INDUSTRY

Favors Eradication Rather Than Control, Fearing Ultimate Spread of Pest Over Cotton Belt.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 19.—Enactment of the Buchanan resolution to provide for establishment of non-cotton growing zones in Texas to stamp out the pink boll worm was recommended to congress today by Secretary Jardine.

He said, however, in a letter to Chairman Hugen of the house agricultural committee, that the bug get bureau had recommended that the proposed $5,000,000 to carry out the eradication plan be reduced to $2,500,000 and that a proviso be added to limit the cost to the federal government to "not exceed one-half of the actual and necessary losses sustained by any farmer due to the enforced non-production of cotton within the non-cotton zones."

The secretary said that the emergency for the measure arose as a result of a "serious outbreak of the pink boll worm involving some seven counties in the western section of cotton in Texas." This threatens one of the primary industries of the nation he added, and demands immediate action.

"The fact that this outbreak brings the pink boll worm into connection with continuous cotton export," he continued, "is the emergency feature. Under such circumstances can be promptly undertaken to see BOLL WORM Page 6.

Coolidge Wants More Dirigibles

Advocates Appropriation of Funds Up to Eight Million for Two More Lighter Than Air Craft.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—President Coolidge today recommended to congress that funds be provided for the construction of two dirigibles, authorization for which already has been granted. Congress last year made $200,000 available to begin work on one of the rigid airships, but the money was not spent because the navy department could not obtain bids which came within the statute forbidding government construction on a cost plus basis.

The suggestion of the president was that the secretary of the navy be authorized to contract for the construction of the two ships to cost not more than $8,000,000. The budget this year recommended an addition of $1,800,000, to the $600,000 already available.

The recommendation today would enable the navy to use this money to start on both ships as it has been advised that one ship would cost $5,000,000 but two could be constructed at the same time at a cost of $8,000,000.

THE
By Allene Sumner

Among other comments on woman's beauty, Harrison Fisher, pretty girl artist, says that the Venus de Milo, standard of feminine beauty for ages, has a stupid, sullen, unintelligent face. Today's man, he says, is irritated by stupid women—that the simper has gone out, and that the purring female is obsolete. Very interesting, but just watch the stage line congregate about the stupid one, the simperer, and the purrer, if she has blue eyes and golden curls and a shapely leg!

"BASQUERIE"
If you want a romantic, colorful story of escape from this workaday world, read "Basquerie" by Eleanor Mercein Kelly. You'll especially note in chapter one how—on the ocean, the Basque lover, takes Emily, the American girl, up into the mountains to visit the matriarch of their tribe.

"Basques are wanderers," he tells her, "but Basques always return. The etchondra is our home, our abiding place, no matter from how far we come to it."
"The etchondra?"
"In Germany it is called the Staminhaus; in America—it is not called at all. He smiled gravely. 'The etchondra is the home to which one of our families belongs from generation to generation, where all the sons may bring their wives to live when they are done with roving; to whose shelter every member of the family has his right, and to which all pay tribute.'"
"No," said Emily thoughtfully, "in America it is not called at all. Because it does not exist. With most of us nearest approach to an etchondra would be an apartment building, changed every few years. Which is perhaps why we do so much family wandering."

"Doubtless, mademoiselle," he agreed.

MAKE MORNING CALLS

Baptist Women In All-Day Session Monday

After visits had been made during the morning and lunch yesterday at noon at the church, members of the First Baptist W. M. S. assembled yesterday afternoon for a missionary program conducted by Circle 6 and led by Mrs. J. H. Jenkins, the chairman.

The making of calls is a regular third Monday occasion in the society. Women gathered at the church at 9 o'clock yesterday and made 16 calls before noon, visiting the sick and soliciting new members. Each one brought a dish of prepared food for lunch.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock Mrs. T. W. Sawyer, president, conducted an executive meeting of the missionary program beginning at 2 o'clock. The resignation of Mrs. Minnie Pullen as personal service chairman was accepted. About forty women attended the afternoon meeting.

Marian Elizabeth Phipps Has Party On Saturday

Friends of Marian Elizabeth, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Phipps, 2015 5th street, were invited into her home Saturday afternoon in celebrating the little girl's birthday. Games and contests were diversions and prizes went to Barbara Jane Phipps and Ernestine Sumner.

The birthday cake, which was decked with candles, was served with sandwiches, fruits and candies to Barbara Jane Phipps, Dorothy Allen, Ernestine Sumner, Hubert Allen, Willie Merle Sumner and Anderson Phipps. Easter egg baskets filled with candies were favors.

TO BEAUTIFY GROUNDS
Episcopalians Prepare To Plant Shrubs and Trees

Preparatory to beautifying the church grounds, a committee has been appointed in Saint Paul's Episcopal church, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Wilson, Mrs. Joe Penny and Mrs. B. C. Rix, the rector. Rev. L. G. H. Williams, has announced.

Mrs. Penny is to receive donations of shrubs, trees and other plants for the church grounds, he said, and may be phoned at 111. This church has recently been moved to Avenue Q and was remodeled and enlarged.

Little girl's challs dresses. It merely reminds one that dressing a child nowadays is a most complicated and expensive project quite different from the days when little girls took it for granted that they had to be "grown up" before they had the things mama did.

Nowadays you can't tell mama from her 10-year-old, as far as the nude silk stockings and black patent leather pumps and costume jewelry and bob and shoulder boutonnieres go. As our visiting critics say, no wonder American husbands aren't romantic figures. Their noses are kept to the grindstone in order to maintain "the queen complex" of their women.

The Morning-Avalanche

Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST — Orange juice, cereal, butter, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1-8 teaspoon salt.

LUNCHEON — Scalloped oyster plant, lettuce and cottage cheese sandwiches, dried apple pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER — Pilaf of fish with lemon butter, boiled rice, in cheese sauce, beet greens, rye bread, rhubarb pie, milk, coffee.

Dried Apple Pudding
One cup dried apples, 1 cup molasses, 1-1/2 cups flour, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1-8 teaspoon salt.

Wash apples through several waters. Cover with cold water and let stand overnight. In the morning cut into small pieces and simmer in the water in which they were soaked until tender. Remove from fire and add molasses with soda dissolved in it. Mix and sift flour, spices and salt and stir into first mixture. Add butter and beat well. Add eggs well beaten and turn into a well buttered baking dish. Bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve warm with hard sauce. (Copyright 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)

PLAN FOR CAMP

140 Local Youths Will Go To Palficous

Plans are already being formulated for the participation of local national guardsmen in the Palficous national guard encampment this summer. It was announced yesterday that 140 Lubbock youths, members of various local military units, will leave on July 6 for encampment, which lasts from July 6 to 23.

Adventure Calls

Teeth Youth Is Off On Trip

The lure of the open road and the call of the boundless sea have been too much for Maynard Robinson. Maynard is the Tech sophomore from Cleburne who returned to school for the winter term after three months spent in tramping the world over.

And now, after one term in the classroom, Maynard has left again. He gave no definite destination but associates believe he is headed for the Olympic games in Antwerp. The trip is the third for young Robinson. He made his first in the summer of 1925. He has promised to send back stories of his journeys to the Tech student paper.

Accompanying Robinson this time will be Gene Merrill of White Deer. They expect to be back in time to go to school next fall.

BOURSE TURNOVER DOUBLES

STOCKHOLM — The 1927 turnover on the Stockholm Stock Exchange was double that of 1926, stocks making the greatest gain.

What is Quality?

Quality cannot be defined as being merely the fineness of the raw material used in the production of a commodity. The equipment and the facilities for production largely determine the quality. And all these things are included in the products made in this plant—raw materials of finest quality—ample facilities for manufacture—and sanitation carried out to the highest degree.

What Makes A Business Great?

GREAT businesses are but the lengthened shadows of the personalities that guide them!

Grollman's store in this community reflects nothing more accurately than the aims, ideals and ambition of the personal organization that operate it!

If we grow it is because we work hard to deserve growth. If our merchandise proves trustworthy it is because we wish, above all things, to have your confidence.

The fact that we feature popular prices does NOT INDICATE we don't have, at all times, the BETTER QUALITIES TOO! It doesn't at all! It only indicates that Grollman's store SEEKS TO SERVE THE GREATEST NUMBER!

We have popular priced merchandise and we have similar merchandise in better qualities. REGARDLESS OF INCOME we seek to please everyone. If you seek better qualities of goods, we have it for you. If you happen to be one of the many thousands who find it a real problem and task to comfortably and stylishly clothe your family, our medium and lower priced merchandise fills a great need and in every instance gives to the buyer full value for the money paid.

Certainly we do have the desire to serve the greatest number in the best possible manner—EXTENDING COURTESIES, EQUALLY TO ALL REGARDLESS OF INCOME—these are policies guiding the building of Grollman's Store—lengthened shadows of the personality behind it.

Serving all alike has proved very successful in the first year of our business—a year that goes into history as one with a striking example of modern aggressive merchandising—one that has served—helped—pleased thousands!

Tunney To Defend Title In July, Tex Rickard Announces

Opponent for Bout Not Yet Selected; Site Also Unknown

Will Be Only Heavy Championship Match for Year; Other Promoters Warned to "Lay Off."

(By The Associated Press) MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 19.—Gene Tunney will defend his heavyweight championship next July in a bout against an opponent not yet selected. It will be the only title fight in that class for 1928.

That much came out of a conference here today between the champion and Tex Rickard, New York promoter, together with a sharp warning from Rickard that other promoters "lickering for Tunney's services haven't a chance and an expression from the latter of his willingness to "fight any man in the world."

To Rickard has been left the task of picking a suitable antagonist for the champion. Tunney announced his "retirement" statement with the comment that "every contender so far has had his chance and it seems to me that any further talk of elimination is idle." Rickard contributed the statement, he would make the opponent at an early date.

Place Not Selected
A place for the bout also is to be selected.

The definite retirement of Jack Dempsey from the ring closed a hitch in their previous tentative plans for a fight in June and another champion and the survivor of Rickard's elimination tournament were to have fought as opponents for Tunney, they declared. Both agreed in separate statements that with Dempsey having left the picture only one match this year was possible, and that "it would be all that would be expected because of the lack of a second opponent."

Tunney said he had entertained hopes of meeting Dempsey in a return engagement and the best available man in a second contest this year, but that Dempsey's retirement "kills the chance of two matches this year."

Mullens' Offer Is Tossed Into Discard

CHICAGO, March 19. (AP)—Promoter Jim Mullens' $400,000 offer to Gene Tunney for a title contest here in July was tossed into the discard tonight. Tunney advised from Miami Beach that his contract with Tex Rickard precluded any possibility of entering into negotiations with the Chicago promoter.

Four Birdies and Eagle Are Made In Final Round of Tournament By New York Golfer.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 19. (AP)—Counting four birdies and an eagle, on the last nine for a day's 36 hole total of 139, Gene Sarazen, New York, winner of Florida's golf tournaments this year, gained a lead on a fast field in the $15,000 La Gorce open tournament today. Spectacular shooting was not unusual all along the course, especially in late play. Harry Cooper of Buffalo, who was in a tie for qualifying medal on Sunday, knocked down five birdies himself, on the last nine.

Behind Sarazen came Bobby Cruikshank of New York, tied with Johnny Farrell, last year's most consistent winner in the metropolitan area, at 142; Henry Cull, New York, joint holder with Cooper on the qualifying medal honor, at par 142; and Cooper, Joe Kirkwood of Albany, Ga., and Harry Hampton of Chicago, with 143.

George Vogt, Washington, D. C., was leading amateur at 148.

Cooper's five birdies brought him home in the afternoon with 21, best nine hole score of the day. The score netted him a $200 special prize.

Sarazen drew the gallery through both of today's rounds. He will shoot tomorrow's 36 holes with Al Watrous and Joe Kirkwood. Farrell, another gallery favorite, will play with Eddie Held, St. Louis, and Billy Burke, New York. Cruikshank drew Al Epstein and Jim Foulis.

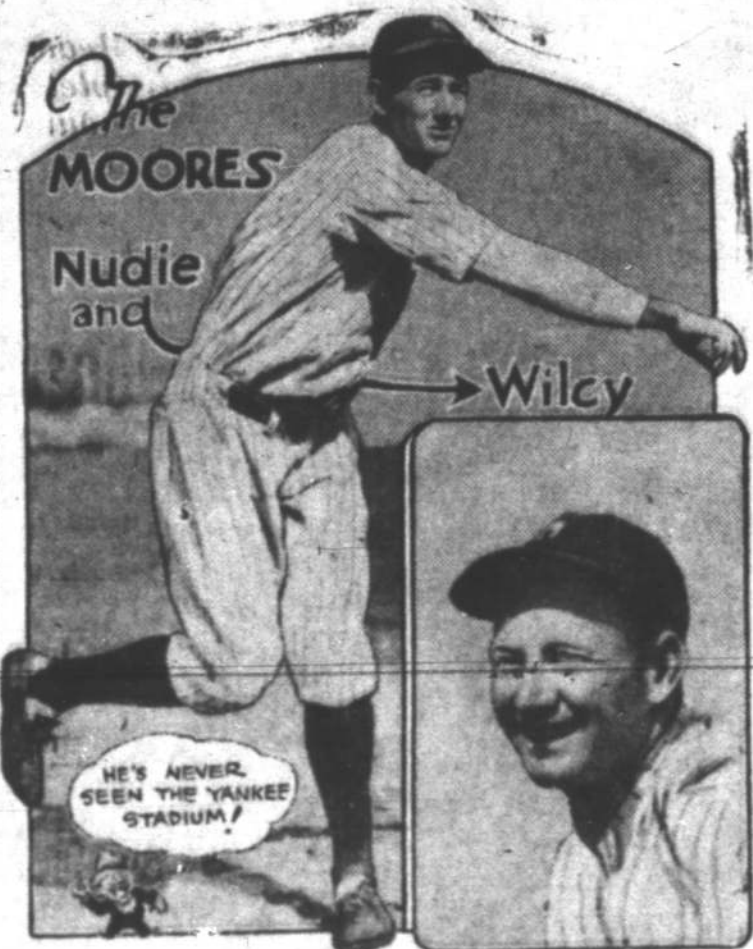

Bootlegger Tax 200 Men Convicted Must Pay Levy

HOUSTON, March 19. (AP)—H. E. Snodgrass, connected with prohibition headquarters at Washington, today cited 200 bootleggers convicted in federal court here to appear and pay internal revenue taxes either for operating stills or retailing intoxicating liquor, even though both businesses are outlawed by the Volstead act.

Under the internal revenue laws recently made operative by act of Congress, Mr. Snodgrass said, the tax for operating stills is $1,000 a year to the state of Texas, and $1,000 a year to the federal government.

Bootleggers of liquor are required to pay a tax of $500 to the federal government in addition to the regular internal revenue taxes.

Country Club Golf Tournament Won By Henry McLarty

Interesting Match Features Final Play Sunday; Summarized Account of Play Shows Progress.

The finals in the first division of the annual spring golf tournament went to L. Henry McLarty, veteran of the Lubbock Country club, as he was all on and caught E. T. Daniels, the contender, off his putt shots. McLarty won the match 6 up and 5 to go.

No. 1.—Both McLarty and Daniels got off good tee shots, however, short. Daniels' approach ran over green while McLarty held his chip shot on the green. Daniels pitched on and sunk his putt, McLarty laid dead to the pin. The hole was halved both making a four.

No. 2.—Daniels got away with good drive while McLarty rolled within 10 yards of the green. Daniels again rolled over the green on his approach shot while McLarty barely got on. Daniels pitched dead to the pin for a par but McLarty got a great break by sinking his putt for a birdie.

No. 3.—The wind had to be handled in the drive to this hole as a hard northerly wind was blowing in the face of the drive but McLarty made a good drive while Daniels' drive was short. McLarty failed to get enough on his second as Daniels' second neared the green. It was a great brassie shot in the wind. McLarty played a high iron shot dead to the cup but Daniels was away missing his putt for a half with McLarty's par.

No. 4.—McLarty sliced to the rough and Daniels drove into the wind which carried for only 175 yards. McLarty second from the rough well down the fairway while Daniels' brassie carried within 20 yards of the green. McLarty chipped to the green while Daniels' approach barely reached the green.

No. 5.—McLarty's drive was low and a little to the right for about 200 yards. Daniels' tee shot was straight down the middle for about 175 yards. Daniels' approach rolled within 20 yards of the green and McLarty's second was short but on. McLarty's third pitched within 4 feet of the pin. Daniels' approach was perfect but rolled 8 feet past cup. Daniels drove over the bunker on this hole into the cup. Daniels' drive was somewhat similar both having hard lies. Both came out with good recovery. Daniels' chip shot going within six feet of the cup while McLarty hit dead leaving Daniels a six foot for a half, which he missed.

No. 6.—McLarty's drive was a beauty to the right; Daniels' too, made a good tee shot. Daniels pitched on and McLarty also hit on the green but was near the edge of the green. McLarty sunk a 16 foot putt for a par while Daniels missed.

No. 7.—McLarty teed off with a mighty drive on this long hole but his drive hit the wire. Here Daniels displayed great sportsmanship requesting McLarty to take another drive which he did and rolled to the foot of the hill. Daniels' tee shot was about the same. Daniels' brassie shot was great and McLarty too, made a great Brassie shot. Daniels' iron shot was bad, he took too much turf. On McLarty's third stroke he elected to use a wooden club, which caused plenty of criticism among the gallery. It was long and crossed the green. Daniels' approach hit on the green and McLarty missed.

No. 8.—Daniels' tee was a mighty drive on this long hole but his drive hit the wire. Here Daniels displayed great sportsmanship requesting McLarty to take another drive which he did and rolled to the foot of the hill. Daniels' tee shot was about the same. Daniels' brassie shot was great and McLarty too, made a great Brassie shot. Daniels' iron shot was bad, he took too much turf. On McLarty's third stroke he elected to use a wooden club, which caused plenty of criticism among the gallery. It was long and crossed the green. Daniels' approach hit on the green and McLarty missed.

"I don't guess it would have made much difference, though," he said. "They do things differently in the big leagues than they do in Texas. I am holding the ball in a different way now and until I get onto it, I'll have to be a little wild, I suppose."

Nudie L. Moore is the youngest's real name. In Texas the players and fans called him "Nudie." Wilcy refers to him as "my brother Jack" and the Yankee players call him "Nick."

"Nick's all right," Nudie says. "I'll answer to it. I sound pretty good, at that."

There is another pitching Moore in Oklahoma, Lee Moore, 15, who weighs 178 pounds and promises to stand well over six feet when he grows up.

"He's a pretty good kid pitcher," the brothers Moore agree. The Yankees will have him on the 1928 team now in process of construction.

PHIL SCOTT WINS Decisively Defeats Belgian Titleholder

NEW YORK, March 19. (AP)—Despite a short knockdown in the third round from a wild left hook to the chin, Phil Scott, British champion, tonight decisively whipped Pierre Charles, Belgian titleholder in a ten round match at the St. Nicholas arena. Scott scored 201; Charles, 211.

Cincinnati Downs Baltimore

AUBURNDALE, Fla., March 19. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds pounded three Baltimore pitchers for nine hits and won an exhibition game from the International leagues 8 to 5, here today. The Orioles took advantage of the four errors by the Reds but were unable to solve the offerings of three Cincinnati hurlers who allowed only six scattered hits.

Larty's also landed on the green but nearer the cup than Daniels'. Daniels sunk his putt and McLarty missed.

No. 9.—Daniels' tee was a good one into the wind but McLarty bettered him about 10 yards. Both took good brassie shots. Daniels' third was up to the green a little to the right and 10 yards short. McLarty's iron was within 3 feet of the green. McLarty blew under his approach but rolled out, McLarty repeated. At the turn McLarty was five up.

No. 10.—McLarty rolled over the green on his tee shot while Daniels was 10 yards short. McLarty went over again on the approach about 8 feet. Daniels' approach hit McLarty's ball. Daniels rimmed while McLarty pitched to the cup. Daniels sunk his two foot putt.

No. 11.—McLarty's drive was low but good and Daniels' tee barely crossed the lake hitting into the rough. Daniels made a wonderful recovery shot on his second shot, which laid in the mud and high reed grass near the water. He took plenty of turf with his recovery and went a short way over the green. McLarty approached to the edge of the green. Daniels pitched on the green about four feet from the cup. McLarty's putt was short but sunk on the next while Daniels missed.

No. 12.—McLarty sliced to the rough as he took too much turf. Daniels was good for 200 yards into the wind. McLarty chipped out of the rough to the fairway getting about 75 yards. Daniels' brassie was short. McLarty's iron shot hit on the green but rolled over. Daniels took the hole in a five as McLarty missed a long putt.

No. 13.—Daniels' tee was short and into the rough. McLarty's tee was short and only got about 75 yards. Daniels brassie out of the rough making a great recovery. Daniels' approach hit short but rolled on the edge of the green. McLarty chipped to the green. Daniels gave his putt plenty roll but went past the cup. McLarty missed a 10 foot putt but laid dead to the men. Daniels missed his putt. McLarty sunk it to win the match 6 up and 5 to go.

Cardinals Best Indianapolis

AVON PARK, Fla., March 19. (AP)—Rallying to score three runs in the ninth inning, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated Indianapolis of the American Association today, 9 to 8. Three errors by Warbler, Indianapolis shortstop, in the ninth helped the Cardinals.

SPORTS DEFEAT CENTENARY

SHREVEPORT, March 19. (AP)—The Sports won a 7-inning game from the Centenary College blue here Monday, 3 to 0. It was a game of fast fielding with little hitting by either side. The Texas League club loaned the collegians two pitchers, who worked well against their regular teammates.

ROBINS TRIUMPH OVER PHILS

WINTERHAVEN, Fla., March 19. (AP)—The Brooklyn Robins made a few hits go a long way today and achieved their second win of the spring training season by downing Burt Shotton's Phils, 3 to 1, in a pitchers' battle.

are in better accord than ever before, but still far from agreement on armament reduction. France maintains a large force in the Rhineland, and Germany considers this unnecessary since the Rhine security compact—negotiated at Locarno (Switzerland) in October, 1925—became effective.

Premier Poincare asserts that the French troops are kept in the Rhineland to guarantee German observance of the Versailles Treaty. It is an open secret that Foreign Minister Briand favors a heavy reduction, and probably would be willing that these forces be withdrawn.

France still adheres to its idea that a formula may be found whereby all nations' forces could be set at defensive minimum. The United States admits that a general agreement is practicable for navies, but holds that reduction in armies and airforces can be obtained best through regional understandings.

Great Britain is set against further commitments on the European continent, and has announced that its defense forces cannot be reduced at present. Even now it is threatened with a war in the Persian Gulf region, which may move it to increase its air establishment.

The United States has reduced its army and navy below the safety mark. Ambassador Gibson cannot well offer a decrease in either branch, but doubtless will strive to inspire the delegates with more confidence in one another's proposals.

THE REFORMATION IN INDIANA

There is a notion floating about that since Indiana started sending her political miscreants to jail a great reformation has been taking place in her politics. Among other things, it is said, the ancient boss rule of her parties is nowhere in evidence.

Those who advance this point to the candidacy of Frank C. Daily for governor as proof. Mr. Daily, they remind us, started out as district attorney by sending election corruptionists to jail, and he was chief prosecutor in the notorious Newberry case. Thus he offers Hoosiers just what they need at present. When a man of his sort can be regarded as a sure bet for the governorship over all others regardless of party, bossism must surely be slipping.

That, of course, sounds lovely. But it is only half the story. Thomas Taggart, for years pooh-hab of Indiana democracy, is still present. Just now he is out to have the Indiana delegation to the Houston convention pledged to an Indianapolis banker whose entire political distinction is that he was defeated for the Senate by a republican. Mr. Taggart, that is, wants to tie up the delegation, as he has been doing since anyone can recall, and trade it to the highest bidder when opportunity opens its magic portals.

If the democrats of Indiana permit Mr. Taggart to do this, and they see their state ticket go down to defeat because another weak sister gets the presidential nomination, they will, of course, have nobody to blame, but themselves. But that is only one point. The big problem, it seems, is how to persuade Hoosiers that they are being offered a reformation in government so long as political bosses of the old school are able to perform their ancient tricks.

HEROES OF THE SEA

The rescue of every passenger on the Robert E. Lee, stranded on the rocks in a heavy sea off Manomet Point, Mass., nevertheless exacted its toll of human lives—of lives as gallant and heroic as ever went out upon the sea in boats. The peril of the passengers was great as the angry waters surged about, and it required both resourcefulness and supreme daring to undertake a rescue. And there was no hesitation. The Coast Guardsmen of Manomet were equal to their duty. The deadly danger they knew, but they did not pause to count the possible cost. Out upon the rocks were men, women and children, and theirs was the problem of bringing them in. The passengers are in safe and well; and three guardsmen gave their lives with a heroism that makes humanity seem nobler and finer.

Others as gallant but more fortunate played their part, but it is before the heroism of the three dead guardsmen that the living stand in salute. They placed duty above all else, and there is mourning in the little town of Manomet. But there is a sense of pride as well. The nation owes a duty to the families of the dead.

Nothing appeals so strongly to the imagination as the heroism of the sea. There is something awe-inspiring in the spectacle of man battling with the ocean. Man against nature is a conflict always impressive and thrilling. And the most frequent scene of conflict is the wide waste of waters where men and waves have battled through the ages. The three dead coast guardsmen have taken their places with the vast army of their kind who have given their lives to the saving of their fellowmen.

Groaning in the agony of ignominious defeat, Mr. Littleton of Fort Worth, who seems to represent the minority faction of the Texas republican party, called on the spirit of Abraham Lincoln to turn his face from the "humiliating spectacle of an American citizen being denied the right to be heard." The gentleman need not worry. The spirits of the immortal founders of both parties no doubt have long since lost all interest in what their alleged followers on earth are doing or even trying to do.

OUT OUR WAY—

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that Texas had the biggest sand storm that it has experienced for several years, last Thursday. It covered most of the west half of the state and then fell into the Gulf of Mexico, before the brakes could be put on to stop it.

It is reported that some of the people of Dawson county are very much up in their air about the cotton business. They did not want to be put in the regulated zone. We did not want to be quarantined when the children had the scarlet fever, but we were just the same. Its best to stop a contagion as soon as possible, and if it can be stamped out in a year or two by using the regulatory precautions we should abide by the wishes of the power and cooperate with them in every way possible.

It is reported that newspaper men are fast becoming prominent in the building program of the west. Recently the editor of the Littlefield Leader was elected mayor of that city without salary, the editor of the Amherst paper was elected to like office on the same pay, and the editor of the Odessa News-Times is president of the Chamber of Commerce on a stated salary of one dollar per year. Editors can live on less salary than most any other class of people, and for that reason they are put in responsible positions without pay because they are not accustomed to receiving much of the coin of the realm and take to their duties without murmuring.

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Among the most widely used of human foods is the potato. Few people realize, however, that under some circumstances poisonous products may develop in the potato and cause severe symptoms in persons who eat them.

In one series of cases mentioned by Dr. Samuel R. Damon in a recent consideration of food infections and poisons, four members of a family of seven were attacked. In an outbreak reported in 1880, 101 soldiers in a garrison were affected and in a series of outbreaks, occurring in Germany, 718 soldiers distributed among four garrisons were poisoned by eating bad potatoes.

In most instances, the cases do not result fatally, but some deaths are reported due to the fact that the retching and vomiting were so severe that secondary symptoms caused death. Poisoning from the potato will appear within a few hours after the meal and is likely to affect a considerable number of persons who may have partaken of the food.

The potato belongs botanically to a series of plants which contain a substance known as solanine. The plant known as the "deadly nightshade" is of the same family.

In certain cases the method of growth of the potato in relation to the light seems to increase the amount of solanine, the poisonous substance that it contains. Thus it is known that the content of the poison in potatoes varies with the season, much more appearing in summer than in winter. In sprout potatoes the content of the poison is considerably increased.

Severe Symptoms
There are other conditions in which the eating of potatoes may result in serious gastro-intestinal symptoms, these being those in which potato salad or other forms of poorly cooked material become secondarily infected with germs and are allowed to stand for long periods of time before being used.

The symptoms of poisoning by potatoes are so severe that a physician should be called immediately so that he may administer remedies of importance for sustaining the patient's heart and breathing, as well as for the relief of the pains in the stomach and intestines.

FIGHTING WEST TEXANS
The Daily Index has made the assertion on two or three occasions that one of the greatest influences to bear upon a change in the quota of Mexicans permitted to come into the United States, which is now under consideration by a committee in Congress, was based upon the proposition that too much cotton was being produced in West Texas and that the proposed change in the immigration laws were seeking that one particular effect and no other.

Wednesday Charles McKamey, Texas state labor commissioner, was before a congressional committee investigating the matter, and in his testimony it was finally brought out that because of the Mexican labor too much cotton was being produced, but if this labor could be prohibited entering the United States, Texas farmers, that is West Texas farmers, would be compelled to quit producing so much cotton. A paragraph in his testimony reads as follows:

Overproduction of cotton in Texas for the last few years, which resulted in lower prices, was attributed in part by the commission to the large number of cheap Mexican laborers employed. If this cheap labor were not available the commissioner believes less area would be planted to cotton and a corresponding better price received for that grown.

If that paragraph does not carry out the statements of the Daily Index we are badly mistaken. There has been a cry going up from the older section of Texas for several years against the production of cotton in West Texas. In some instances force has been used to prevent negro labor leaving the lower part of the state to come to West and northwest Texas to pick cotton. But those people have not been able to prevent the negro laborer coming to the west to pick cotton.

At the beginning of the production of cotton in this section in great amounts the farmers would have none but white laborers to pick their cotton. But this labor was so unreliable that the farmers of West Texas were forced to secure the negro help. At this time there is but little trouble in securing negro help as better wages are paid in West Texas and as a rule the cotton is better and more money can be made.

In this particular section but few Mexican laborers are employed, and these mostly in clearing lands to be placed in cultivation. It has been found that negro labor will not do this kind of work, and it is often refused by white labor, and consequently the land owners were forced to use this labor. There is no desire to use Mexican labor in this section of West Texas but there is a demand upon the part of the farmers that they be permitted to have plenty of labor to pick their cotton crops. If the labor conditions are made such that the negro labor cannot be brought in, and it is entirely likely such a measure will

ROAD MAKERS

With regard to this project which has been announced by Robert Condit, who is now at Ormond Beach, Fla., preparing to have himself shot to Venus in a rocket, it must be admitted that many points can be urged in favor of it. Venus is a very interesting planet. Her mean distance from the sun is 67,200,000 miles; she makes her sidereal revolution in 224.7 days and her synodical revolution in 584 days; she has the additional recommendation that between inferior conjunctions and the next superior conjunction she is a morning star, whereas between superior conjunctions she is an evening star. Furthermore, it is thought that she may be uninhabited, and it would be nice to know whether the Venusians are similar to our own Venusians.

Yet we tell we would be remiss in our duty if we did not point out to Mr. Condit that his trip will be attended by certain dangers. It will be a simple matter, no doubt, to depart from this earth by means of a rocket; it will be a simple matter too, to cut loose a parachute when approaching Venus and alight in a graceful manner. But does Mr. Condit realize that Venus is a very small mark to shoot at? Her diameter of 7,690 miles, while impressive on paper, is almost nothing at all when the size of the welkin is reckoned into consideration. Suppose, after he is several million miles on his way, he discovers that he is off his course, and then goes whizzing past Venus into space? His position will be most unenviable. In fact, so far as the million dollar game is concerned, he will have eliminated himself.

On the whole, we believe that Mr. Condit would do well to use extreme caution. At the very least, he should arrange to have a competent marksmen from the Coast Artillery to aim his rocket for him.—New York World.

National Foreign Trade Convention

All the Southwest should be deeply interested in the Fifteenth National Foreign Trade Convention, which will be held at Houston, April 23 to 27. This gathering is sponsored by the National Foreign Trade Council, that is quartered in historic India House, New York.

In this nation's early days American merchants—often armed with protection against foreign goods—were in almost every far East or Mediterranean port open to foreigners. When the railroad-building began, the country's energies largely turned away from international trade, and this attitude persisted until the Spanish-American War.

After that struggle, the United States found itself in an unprecedented political position. It has acquired overseas possessions, and a little later it faced the problem of maintaining its rights in China.

The rehabilitation of American trade with distant lands dates from the time when President McKinley and John Hay, Secretary of State, "opened the door" to China. They demanded that every country maintaining treaty relations with that land be on an equal footing so far as its trade was concerned, and that the other great powers refrain from appropriating China in to spheres of influence, to the exclusion of American business.

No other private agency has done more to promote this country's commerce during the past ten years than the National Foreign Trade Council. It has collaborated with the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and with businessmen generally.

The Council's chairman, James A. Farrell of New York, is president of the United States Steel Corporation. In 1919, when 14 years

SAINT PATRICK'S DAY

Saint Patrick was a soul devout,
Also a man of action!
In putting evil's imps to rout,
He found great satisfaction!
He gave his life to doing good,
And no man ever fought harder!
He warred on all of Satan's brood,
And ousted them with ardor!

He had no fear of men, or kings,
And bravely did his duty!
His vision mounted on swift wings
To realms of saintly beauty!
He strove to make old Ireland void
Of earthly tribulations,
By no heathen gods annoyed—
Jew among the nations!

The snakes were thick on Erin's Isle—
And sinning Saint Patrick's priest!
The Irish celebrate his birth,
And sing Saint Patrick's priest!

In fact, they overran it!
To rout them was a task worth-while,
And brave St. Pat began it!
He clutched his staff, with mighty hand,
In duty's deep devotion,
And chased the reptiles from the land,
And straight into the ocean!

The sons of Erin praise his deeds,
In phrases loud and ringing!
And poets have united accents
To him, in stanzas singing:
March Seventeenth, around the earth,
With speeches, songs and stories,
The Irish celebrate his birth,
And sing Saint Patrick's priest!

Supreme Court Upholds De-

Violating Laws.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 19.—Swift and company, Armour and company, Wilson and company, Inc., Morris and company, and the Cudahy packing company, composed of the big five packers, must hereafter confine their activities strictly to the meat packing industry, as the Supreme Court today has agreed to do in a consent decree entered February 27, 1920, when the government began anti-trust law suits against them. That decree was sustained today by the supreme court.

The decision restores an injunction restraining them from monopolizing the meat packing industry arising from engaging in other lines of business which was suspended in May, 1925, pending the outcome of proceedings started by Swift and company, and Armour and company to vacate the consent decree.

In 1921 the Southern Wholesale Grocers Association and the National Wholesale Grocers association were permitted to intervene to oppose and modification of the decree, and in 1922 the California cooperative groceries were permitted to intervene for the purpose of having the decree vacated.

The opinion handed down today by Justice Brandeis, Justices Sutherland and Stone not participating, to which there was no dissent, held the decree binding in meeting the technical objections urged by the packers the court broadly held they were foreclosed from attacking the decree because of their consent.

It is pointed out whatever substance there might have been to the numerous objections urged to the decree these had been waived when the packers agreed to it.

The Swift and Armour groups on November 5, 1924 had challenged the jurisdiction of the courts here to enter the decree contending that they could not lawfully restrain from entering this certain lines of business, and could not be enjoined from owning stock, yard, market companies, stockyard terminal, railroads and newspapers. They objected also to being prohibited from using their private cars, branches

"Santa Claus" was incarcerated in the city jail yesterday. Now, before the local battle is stormed by an army of youngsters let us explain that this particular Santa Claus had altogether no similarity in appearance to the bewhiskered old gentleman who slides down the chimney on Christmas Eve.

"Santa Claus" was the appellation designated by the police department to a Mexican hailed into the jail over the week-end on a charge of inebriety.

"Santa Claus" was the only name he would give and we had to take his word for it" was the police explanation.

Victims in a two weeks' feud with influenza, A. B. Davis was back at the multifarious duties incumbent on a chamber of commerce manager yesterday. An extensive program of work has been mapped out for the organization during the weeks ahead. One of the principal features is to be concentration on the South Plains advertising campaign.

Slight damage resulted yesterday afternoon from a blaze in a servants' home at 2223 Thirteenth street. The fire was extinguished by the department before it had gained much headway.

Jefferson's Gavel May Be Used By Houston Demos

HOUSTON, March 19 (AP)—Thomas Jefferson's gavel presented to him in 1796 after he had been elected vice president of the United States, probably will be used to run the democratic national convention to order here next June.

The gavel, oak and worm-eaten, which Jefferson used in the senate, was given to Jesse H. Jones, democratic national committee chairman at a simple ceremony on the site of the convention auditorium here Sunday.

The presentation was made by Miss Lee Taylor, vaudeville actress who asserted the gavel had been handed down from Zachary Taylor, twelfth president of the United States, and had been in possession of her family ever since.

"We hope," she told Mr. Jones, "that in giving it to the democratic convention here in Houston, it will serve in early Americanism."

Mr. Jones said he would turn the gavel over to the convention authorities.

Unsanitary Thoroughfares to Be Cleared Up

Open season against unsightly and trash-laden alleys and thoroughfares was declared yesterday by City Fire Marshall J. A. Pressley and Fire Chief W. E. Teachers Appoint Nominating Group
Will Also Plan Program for Meeting to Be Held On April 21; Session Saturday At Monroe.

A committee to nominate officers for the Lubbock County Teachers' association and to plan a program for a meeting to be held April 21 was appointed when the county teachers met Saturday at Monroe.

The committee is composed of A. J. Ammons of Canyon, E. R. Lewis of El Paso, R. E. Hooten of Acuff, E. Henderson of Pecos, H. O. Robinson of Carlsbad, H. D. Bentley of Hardy, and B. A. Myers of Union.

This group will meet March 31 in the office of County Superintendent V. M. Pevehouse to plan a program for the meeting of April 21, at which time officers will be elected.

County Judge Charles Nordyke, Dean J. M. Gordon and Professor Evans of Texas Tech, and Warren Powers, principal of the Cone school north of Ralls, were speakers at the Monroe meeting last Saturday. J. C. Shaw of Carlsbad, a trustee for the last seventeen years, also spoke, as did county school principals who were present. Professor Washburne of Texas Tech presented pupils in musical renditions, and Professor Washburne and Superintendent W. M. Pevehouse rendered violin numbers.

Thirty-four teachers, 17 trustees, and one county board member were in attendance. A dinner was served by patroness of the Monroe school.

Airplane Service Pennsylvania Line May Start Route

ST. LOUIS, March 19 (AP)—

The Post-Dispatch says a plan for combination airplane and railroad service between New York, St. Louis and Southwestern points with an air terminal at Dallas, is being discussed today in Philadelphia among officials of the Pennsylvania railroad and representatives of New York and St. Louis interests.

The newspaper says the plan calls for carrying passengers in railroad pullmans at night and in the cabins of trimmored airplanes by day, so the trip from New York to Dallas, which now takes between forty and forty-five hours, could be made in slightly more than 24 hours.

No insect can live in your home
if you spray

FLIT

Flies everywhere on a hot day. Flies nowhere if you spray Flit. Flit spray clears the house in a few minutes of disease-bearing flies and mosquitoes. It searches out the cracks where roaches, bed bugs and ants hide and breed, destroying their eggs. Fatal to insects, harmless to you. Will not stain.

Don't confuse Flit with ordinary insecticides. Greater killing power insures satisfaction with Flit. One of the largest corporations in the world guarantees Flit to kill insects, or money back. Buy Flit and a Flit sprayer today.

Terracing Value Told to Farmers

Methods For This Work are Told at "School" Held On Pat Nix Farm Near Here Yesterday.

How to terrace land, and the value of terracing, were learned yesterday by a large group of farmers who attended a terracing school conducted on the Pat Nix farm, four miles east of Lubbock, all day yesterday.

R. E. Dickson, superintendent of the Spur agricultural experiment station, acted as director general of the demonstration. Following a luncheon served by L. C. Ellis, N. H. Payne, Frank McClelland, George Moore, and others, Mr. Dickson told of the results of experimenting done in terracing work at the Spur station. He said that equipment valued at $1,000 has been installed at the station, and that results show that terraced land produces fifteen per cent more cotton than land where the water is allowed to run off and wash the soil with it.

The objects of terracing, he said, are conservation of moisture, and preservation of the soil. The demonstration included laying off terrace lines, and the construction of a terrace.

A large number of machinery representatives had farm machinery to add in the demonstrations. N. P. Eaton, county agent, and Don L. Jones, superintendent of the Lubbock experiment station, aided Mr. Dickson.

DALLAS, March 19. (AP)—Grand Master James D. Buxton of Sherman and other officers of the Grand Lodge of Texas, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, were installed Monday at the first day's session of the three-day meeting of the Grand Lodge here. Some 500 Odd Fellows and members of the Roshah assembly, auxiliary order, have arrived for the gathering.

that "America was not a far-off country, but a near neighbor of Europe, that courage and high adventure were still dear to the American heart; that great risks would be taken and great deeds done without boasting over the results."

Dr. Orestes Ferrara, Cuban ambassador, said only Colonel Lindbergh "could have made the people of the various countries that he visited so fully conscious of the fact that nothing divides the Americas, neither traditions, nor ideals, nor interests, nor aspirations."

Messages from Governor Alfred Smith, Dwight Morrow, American ambassador to Mexico, and Manuel O. Teles, Mexican ambassador to the United States, were read.

Teapot Case

Continental bonds involved in the estate of President Harding.

"If they are there we are going to tell the world. If they are not there we are going to tell the world. I don't think they are there."

Senator Nye said the present plan was to send an investigator to Marion to check up on the securities which may now be or may have been in the Harding estate. He added this probably would not be done until early next month, indicating the investigation is to be continued at least for several weeks more.

President Harding signed the executive order under which Albert B. Fall, ex interior secretary, took charge of the naval oil reserves which he leased to Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair early in 1922. After the government recovered the reserves through court action, this order was rescinded by President Coolidge.

During the early days of the Senate oil investigation, the committee inquired into the sale of the Marion (Ohio) Star by the late president after there had been sensational reports some of the profits in the oil deals had been represented in the price paid for the paper. This was vigorously denied by the purchasers and there was no evidence to support the charges.

NO VOICE RAISED
WASHINGTON, March 19. (AP)—Recent disclosures in the Teapot Dome scandal touched off a furious political exchange in the Senate today with demands for the resignation of high administration officials and the calling of Governor Smith of New York as a witness before the oil investigating committee.

Robinson, an Indiana Republican, brought Smith's name into the debate. He sought to develop that Harry F. Sinclair was a heavy contributor to Smith's gubernatorial campaign in 1920, and subsequently was appointed to the New York state revenue commission but it was said later that the New York governor would not be called.

Six Counties to Benefit from Action of State Commission Yesterday; No Delegations Heard.

AUSTIN, March 19. Eight road contracts, to cost $533,211 for six counties, were let Monday by the State highway commission.

The commission heard no delegations seeking aid, having announced some time ago that the next meeting of that sort would be in April.

Counties benefiting in awards included: Archer, grading and drainage structures from Baylor county line northeast to Wichita county line, 18 miles on No. 3, McChung Construction company, Fort Worth, $11,518.

Young, grading and drainage from Olney to Archer county line, 15 miles on No. 78, Womack Construction company, Sherman, $6,418.

was conscious until a few minutes before death. She was brought to the Lubbock sanitarium at about 12:30 a. m. yesterday.

The couple have one child, a girl, about two years old. Shortly before Mrs. Abbott died she called her husband in the room and asked him if he would care for their daughter. Upon being assured that he would, she kissed him, dying a few minutes later.

Abbott was taken to Brownfield last night by Sheriff Ellington. Legal arrangements for Mrs. Abbott had not been completed, but she will probably be buried here today. Powell undertakers have charge of the body.

"WHIPPING" SENTENCE

Beat Nine-Year-Old Son With Razor Strop, Charge

DALLAS, March 19. (AP)—On testimony that he beat his 9-year-old son for 30 minutes with a razor strop for neglecting to cook some beans, A. B. Stagg, former deputy constable, was found guilty of aggravated assault on his child, A. B. Jr., and was sentenced to 30 days in jail here Monday. The boy testified that his father made him sleep on the floor that night with little cover.

Stagg was taken to an isolated spot a few days ago and flogged by men, whose identity has not been revealed. The grand jury is investigating the flogging.

STUDENTS KILLED

Two Austin Youths Die In Auto Accidents

AUSTIN, March 19. (AP)—Austin school officials and friends of George Reynolds, St. Edward's student, and J. E. Ryan, Jr., student at Texas University, killed in separate automobile accidents Sunday night, will attend their funerals Tuesday.

Torpedo Room

pinchlar was wedged against the door.

A glass daylight in the door apparently had let water in and to stop this leakage the men had placed a piece of rubber above the glass and secured it with a wooden block.

No Diaries Found.
The preliminary search of the torpedo room today revealed no written records or diaries. Further search will be made by a naval board of investigation when the bodies of the vessel is in better condition.

The bodies of Lieut. Fitch and his five men were found on deck, which was covered with gray mud and four inches of water. Investigating officers said it was apparent all of the men but one had awaited death quietly in their bunks, conserving their energy that they might consume as little as possible of the precious air. The exception was one man found at the foot of the torpedo hatch ladder gripping the ladder with his right hand. The body of another man lay against this one, with the head resting on his chest.

Lieut. Fitch's body was lying on his back on the deck under the work bench, which is on the starboard side forward, just off the torpedo tubes. The head was pointing aft and the feet forward. The officer was identified by his naval academy class ring and sweater and his cap. He had wearing blue wearing khaki trousers and a summer coat. One of his arctic shoes was still on a foot; the other lay near the body.

Three other bodies lay under the bunks in the after part of the torpedo room.

Soon after dark tonight the eight bodies were taken from the submarine. Each body had been placed in a casket draped with a United States flag.

Guards and naval officers, at the dry dock stood at attention and saluted as each body was brought ashore.

There's a lot of satisfaction in owning your home, and more yet in building it to suit your own convenience and according to your own ideas.

And you can put that money that now goes for rent, and make an investment out of it that will pay big dividends in happiness and the economic future.

FOR YOU—A HOME

Simple, Happy

CLEAN, simple lines and the absence of garish decoration give a pleasant aspect to "The Westhaven."

The severity of this rather sizable home is mitigated by a charming window arrangement—the broad front ones, widely spaced, do much to break up the extreme width of the house.

Particularly happy in its proportions is the living room, with a deep fireplace surrounded by built-in bookcases, and a long wall space on one side of it for a davenport and cozy corner.

For the big family, there are bedrooms enough to go around and some to spare. One downstairs, three up, an extra sewing room that might be converted and a sleeping porch that would house several children and allow great space besides are all supplied.

Each room, incidentally, takes its own clothes closet and with an extra linen closet there can be no doubt about storing space. This spacious home, with so many unusual features, costs from $8,000 to $10,000.

DAILY MARKETS

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, March 19. (AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary today, on selling inspired by rumors, later confirmed, that the E. I. DuPont de Nemours company had sold the block of 114,000 shares of U. S. Steel common stock acquired for temporary investment last June.

Earlier in the day the market had moved irregularly higher under the leadership of the Public Utilities and Rubbers, but there was rather persistent liquidation throughout the session of radio, American Linseed and some of the other recent pool favorites.

Trading crossed the 3,000,000-share mark for the seventh consecutive full session, but was well below the Friday figures. Total sales of 1928 to date are above 150,000,000 shares, as against 105,000,000 in the corresponding period of last year, and 110,000,000 in 1926.

Failure of the U. S. Steel common to make more of a response to the recent sensational advances in General Motors and Radio and the increased offerings of the stock on rallies, had aroused fears in some quarters that Steel was under liquidation by a large interest. Today Wall street heard stories that stock certificates previously held in the names of nominees of J. P. Morgan and company, who are believed to have purchased the DuPont holdings, had reappeared in "street names," indicating the stock had been sold.

BLUE-BONNET CLUB

Mrs. L. W. Smith was charming hostess to the Blue-Bonnet club at the club house Wednesday afternoon. The time was spent in quilting a quilt to be sent to the orphan club in supporting in the Agavillo orphanage. Mrs. Smith served a lovely lunch to the regular members and three guests: Mesdames B. Carpenter, R. G. Kilpatrick, and Mrs. Hattie White.

BRIDGE CLUB

Miss Josephine McHugh was hostess to the Thursday Night Bridge club at her home on Eleventh street. Lovely refreshments were served to the regular members and guests: Mrs. E. A. Taylor, Misses Lola Bell McRae and Grace L. Bailey.

IMPRESSIVE SLATON WEDDING
At high noon Sunday, March 11, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ziemer of Slaton, Mr. Charles Culp and Mrs. Mora Hall were united in marriage. Rev. B. G. Holloway, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated.

The home was beautifully decorated after the simplest and most impressive manner: roses, carnations and sweet peas artistically arranged in the living room and the dining room.

The bride was attractively attired in a gray ensemble and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations. She is a sister of Mrs. Kinsner in whose home the wedding occurred.

Following the ceremony a five-course breakfast was served to the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Culp, Big Spring; Mrs. Shannon, sister of the bride; Clovis, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. Sinton Alley, brother of the bride; Clovis, N. M.; Mrs. Hattie Hodges, sister of the bride; Slaton; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kinsner, Mr. and Mrs. David Tudor, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Tazart, Mr. Tom Blair, Rev. B. G. Holloway, all of Slaton.

TREE CAMPAIGN

Brownfield Rotarians For Home Beautification

BROWNFIELD, March 19.—The Brownfield Rotary club is sponsoring a tree and shrubbery planting campaign and committees have been appointed to cover different districts of the town and are busily engaged in securing the consent of property owners to plant trees along property lines, whether shrubbery is planted or not. As an incentive they are offering a free tree to each one planting on property lines. The club has also appointed committees to work on a cleanup and paint up campaign and as soon as corn and maize shellers have completed their operations, the cleanup work will be actively engaged upon.

steady at net declines of 14 to 20 points.

The opening was barely steady at declines of 5 to 12 points, active months showing net losses of 14 to 20 points in response to the decline and covering caused rallies of 5 or 6 points, but demand soon tapered off and the market weakened under renewed liquidation combined with selling supposed to be for Wall street, local or Southern account.

Prices sold off to 18.97 for March, and 18.54 for October, net declines of 18 to 21 points, and a few spot orders were uncovered around the 18-cent level for May. These offerings were not heavy, and the market was a little steadier late in the afternoon on covering. Closing prices were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest on most positions.

Reports of light snow in parts of the Southwest seemed to have little effect on the market, which was mainly influenced by the better weather east of the Mississippi river, and perhaps by a disposition to even up commitments in preparation for the report on earnings from the crop of 1927. This will be issued by the census bureau at the opening of the market tomorrow, and an opinion was expressed in some quarters that the total gain might prove somewhat in excess of the crop estimate of last December.

PORT WORTH LIVESTOCK
The cattle trade here today was generally steady with a fair demand. Steers ranged from 9.75 to 10.25, bulls 5.50 to 7.00, cows 7.00 to 8.50, canners 4.50 to 4.75 and cutters 5.00 to 5.50. Choice calves sold 25c higher with the bulk of selling from 11.00 to 11.75.

Sheep receipts were light and prices about steady. A few wethers sold at 10.00, and some woolled yearlings at 12.00. Woolled feeder lambs brought 14.50.

The hog trade was slow and about 10c lower. The bulk of receipts sold from 7.75 to 7.85.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 19. (AP)—After declining over $1 a bale, mainly on uncertainty as to the census bureau's final ginnings report to be issued tomorrow, the cotton market rallied in final trading today and closed at a net decline of 11 to 16 points.

May contracts eased off to 19.55, during the morning and early afternoon or 20 points under the previous close. The subsequent rally caused it to close at 18.59 16 points net down.

The market opened easy in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables and first trades showed losses of 7 to 9 points. The market continued to ease off after the start under selling promoted by the favorable weather shown by the weather map and fears that the census bureau's ginnings figures may prove larger than the final crop total issued last December. Although there was a rally of 7 to 8 points at one time, prices at noon showed losses of 16 points compared with Saturday's close, with July contracts selling for 18.49 and October 18.21.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 19. (AP)—The cotton market was lowered today under realizing and liquidation, by recent buyers together with local and Southern selling, promoted by reports of better weather in the eastern or central belts, and relatively easy Liverpool cables. May contracts sold off to 18.99, or 24 points net lower, and closed at 19.03. The general market closed

Need of Training Ships Is Stressed

Wilbur Says Only Best Of Vessels Are Needed As Place Where Young Men Receive Training.

PITTSBURGH, March 19. (AP)—Taking a different tack in his appeal for a potential navy, Secretary Wilbur today stressed the need of good ships as homes of men under training for national defense.

Comparing the navy to the home in an address before the Century club at luncheon here today, the secretary said that it must be kept clean and shipshape and in good order for service.

He pointed out the need of target practice, maneuvers and naval problems and said they were investments in brain power.

"The real problem of the navy," he declared, "is the men—their physical, moral and spiritual training for the tasks that lie before them."

"I do not desire to belittle the importance of speed and gunfire or torpedo and aircraft and submarines, for those are important, and in time of war would be vital," he continued. "But in the everyday peacetime efforts of the navy, out expenditures for all these things focus upon the individual man. They are the instruments by which he is trained. In order to be trained in the use we must constantly use

GIRL ALONE

ANNE AUSTIN

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SALLY FORD, 16, lives in the state orphanage, the only home Sally has known since she was four. It is rumored that the matron, Mrs. Stone, has selfishly frustrated several proposed adoptions of Sally, wanting to keep her there where her understanding and sympathy with the small children make her a valuable helper.

She is summoned to the matron's office where a man, a farmer, judging from his clothes, awaits her. Sally is suddenly paralyzed with fear. She wonders what it all means. Then brightening with the hope that perhaps it is a father come to claim a long-lost daughter, she hurries to the office door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

When Sally Ford opened the door of the office of the orphan asylum, radiance was wiped instantly from her delicate face, as if she had been stricken with sudden illness. For her worst fear was realized—the fear that had kept her awake many nights on her narrow cot, since her 16th birthday had passed. She covered against the door, clinging to the knob as if she were trying to screw up her courage, to flee from the disaster which fate, in bringing about her 16th birthday, had pitilessly planned for her. Instead of the boon of long-lost relatives for which she had never entirely ceased to hope.

"Sally!" Mrs. Stone seated at the big roll-top desk, called sharply. "Say 'How do you do?' to the gentleman." The girls are taught the finest of manners here, Mr. Carson, but they are always a little shy with strangers.

"Howdy-do, Mr. Carson," Sally gasped in a whisper.

"I believe this is the girl you asked for, Mr. Carson," Mrs. Stone went on briskly, in her pleasant "company voice," which every orphan could imitate with bitter accuracy.

The man, a tall, gaunt, middle-aged farmer, nodded, struggled to speak, then hastily bent over to brass cuspidor and spat. That necessary act performed, he eyed Sally with a keen, speculative gaze. His lean face was tanned to a rich color and texture of brown leather against which a coating of talcum powder, applied after a close shave, his black beard, showed ludicrously.

"Yes, mum, that's the girl, all right. Seen her when I was here last June. Wouldn't it be her then, mum, you may recollect."

Mrs. Stone smiled graciously. "Yes, I remember, Mr. Carson, and I was very sorry to disappoint you, but we have an unbreakable rule here not to board out one of our dear little girls until she is 18 years old. Sally was 16 last week, and now that school is out, I see no reason why she shouldn't make her home with your family for the summer—or longer if you like. The law doesn't compel us to send the girls to school after they are 16, you know."

"Yes, I've looked into the law," the farmer admitted. "Then he turned his shrewd, screwed-up black eyes upon Sally again. "Strong, healthy girl, I reckon? No sickness, no bad faults, willing to work for her board and keep?" He rose, lifting his great length in sections, and slouched over to the girl who still cowered against the door. His big-knuckled brown hands fastened on her forearms, and when she shrank from his touch he nodded with satisfaction. "Good big muscles, even if she is a skinny little runt. I always say these 'skinny' little women can beat the fat ones all hollow."

"Sally is strong and she's marvelous with children. We've never had a better worker than Sally, and since she's been raised in the Home, she's used to work. Mr. Carson, although no one could say we are not good to our girls, I'm sure you'll find her a willing helper on the farm. Did your wife come into town with you this afternoon?"

"Her? In berry-picking time?" Mr. Carson was plainly amazed. "No, mum, I come in alone. My daughter's laid up today with a summer cold, or she'd be in with me, nagging me for money for her finery. But you know how girls are, mum. Now, seeing as how my wife's near crazy with work, what with the field hands to feed and all, and my daughter laid up with a cold, I'd like to take this girl here along with me. You know me, mum. Reckon I don't have to wait to be investigated no more."

Mrs. Stone was already reaching for a pen. "Perfectly an right, Mr. Carson. Though it does put me in rather a tight place, Sally has been taking care of a dormitory of 19 of the small girls, and it is going to upset things a bit, for tonight anyway. But I understand how it is with you. You're going to be in town attending to business for an hour or so—I suppose, Mr. Carson? Sally will have to get her things together. You could call for her about five, I suppose?"

"Yes, Mum, five it is!" The farmer spat again, rubbed his hand on his trousers, then offered it to Mrs. Stone. "And thank you, mum, I'll take good care of the young'un. I guess she thinks she's a young lady now, eh, miss?" And he tweaked Sally's ear, his fingers feeling like sandpaper against her delicate skin.

"Tell Mr. Carson, Sally, that you'll appreciate having a nice home for the summer—a nice country home," Mrs. Stone prompted, her eyes stern and commanding.

And Sally, taught all her life to conceal her feelings from those in authority and to obey implicitly, gulped against the lump in her throat so that she could utter the lie in the language which Mrs. Stone had chosen.

The matron closed the door upon herself and the farmer, leaving Sally a quivering, sobbing little thing, huddled against the wall, her nails digging into the flesh of her palms. If anyone had asked her: "Sally, why is your heart broken? Why do you cry like that?" she could not have answered intelligently. She would have groped for words to express that quality within her that burned a steady flame all these years unquenchable, even under the soul-stifling, damp blanket of charity. She knew dimly that it was pride—a fierce, arrogant pride, that told her that Sally Ford, by birth, was entitled to the best that life had to offer.

And now—her body quivered with an agony which had no name, and which was the more terrible for its namelessness—she was to be thrust out into the world, or that part of the world represented by Clem Carson and his family. To eat the bitter bread of charity, to slave for the food she put into her stomach, which craved delicacies she had never tasted; to be treated as a servant, to have the shame of being an orphan, a child nobody wanted, continuously held up before her shrinking, hunted eyes—that was the fate which being 16 had brought upon Sally Ford.

Every June they came—farmers like Clem Carson, seeking "hired girls" whom they would not have to pay. Carson himself had taken three girls from the orphanage. Rena Cooper, who had gone to the Carson farm when Sally was 13, had come back to the Home in September, a broken, dispirited thing—Rena, who had been so gay and bright and saucy. Annie Sprinny had been his choice the next year, and Annie had never come back. The story that drifted into the orphanage by some mysterious grapevine had it that Annie had found a "fellow" on the farm, a hired man, with whom she had wandered away without the formality of a marriage ceremony.

The third summer, when he could not have Sally, he had taken Ruby Presser, pretty, sweet little Ruby who had been in love with Eddie Cobb, one of the orphaned boys, since she was 13 or 14 years old. Eddie had run away from the Home, after promising Ruby to come back for her and marry her when he was grown-up and making enough money for two to live on. Ruby had gotten into mysterious

That Constant Backache

Too Often This Warns of Sluggish Kidneys.

I AM? Stiff? Achy? Every day I bring constant, nagging backache? Sure your kidneys are working right? Sluggish kidneys allow waste impurities to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. A common warning is too frequent, scanty or burning secretions.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's is a stimulant diuretic, increases the secretion of the kidneys and thus aids in the elimination of waste impurities. Are endorsed by users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

trouble on the Carson farm—the "grapevine" never supplied concrete details—and Ruby had run away from the farm, only to be caught by the police and sent to the reformatory, the particular hell with which every orphan was threatened of she dared disobey even a minor rule of the home. Delicate, sweet, little Ruby in the reformatory—that evil place where "incorrigibles" poisoned the minds of good girls like Ruby Presser, made criminals of them, too.

Sally, remembering, as she cowered against the door of the orphanage office, was suddenly fiercely glad that Ruby had thrown herself from a fifth-floor window of the reformatory. Ruby, dead, was safe now from charity and evil and from queer, warped, ugly girls who whispered terrible things as they huddled in the coats of their cells.

"Oh, Sally, dear, what is the matter?" A soft, sighing voice broke in on Sally's grief and fear, a boy's hand was laid comfortingly on Sally's dark head.

"Mr. Carson, that farmer who takes a girl every summer, is going to take me home with him tonight," Sally gulped.

"But that will be nice, Sally," Miss Pond gushed. "You will have a real home, with plenty to eat and maybe some nice little dresses to wear, and make new friends."

"Yes, Miss Pond," Sally nodded, held thrill of 12 years of enforced adolescence. "But, oh, Miss Pond, I'd been hoping it was my father—or my mother, or somebody I belonged to—"

"Why, Sally, you haven't a father, dear, and your mother—But, mefey me, I mustn't be running on like this," Miss Pond caught herself up hastily, a fearful eye on the closed door.

"Miss Pond," Sally pleaded "won't you please, please tell me something about myself before I go away?" I know you're not allowed to, but oh, Miss Pond, please! It's so cruel not to know anything! Please, Miss Pond! You've always been so sweet to me—"

The little touch of flattery did it, or maybe it was the pathos in those wide, blue eyes.

"It's against the rules," Miss Pond wavered. "But—I know how you feel, Sally dear, I was raised in the Home myself, not knowing—I can't get your card out of the files now; Mrs. Stone might come and catch me. But I'll make some excuse to come up to the locker room when you're getting your things together. Oh—" she broke off. "I was just telling Sally how nice it will be for her to have a real home. Mrs. Stone."

Mrs. Stone closed the door firmly, her eyes stern upon Sally. "Of course it will be nice. And Sally must be properly appreciative. I did not at all like your manner to Mr. Carson, Sally. But run along now and pack. You may take your Sunday dress and shoes, and one of your every-day gingham. Mr. Carson will provide your clothes. His daughter is about your age, and he says her last year's dresses will be nicer than anything you've ever had."

"Yes, Mrs. Stone," Sally ducked her head and sidled out of the door, but before it closed she exchanged a fleet, meaningful look with Miss Pond.

"I'm going to know," Sally whispered to herself, as she ran down the long, narrow corridor. "I'm go-

Greenville Man Gets Church Call

Rev. W. R. White Will Arrive Tuesday to Survey the Situation; Call Made Unanimously.

Rev. W. R. White, pastor of the First Baptist church of Greenville, has been called as pastor of the First Baptist church here. The call was extended Sunday and the vote of the congregation was unanimous. In response to the call Rev. Mr. White notified J. L. Ratliff of the Baptist congregation, that he would arrive in Lubbock Tuesday and would spend several days considering the offer. He will talk at the church Wednesday night and efforts will be made to have him deliver a sermon next Sunday.

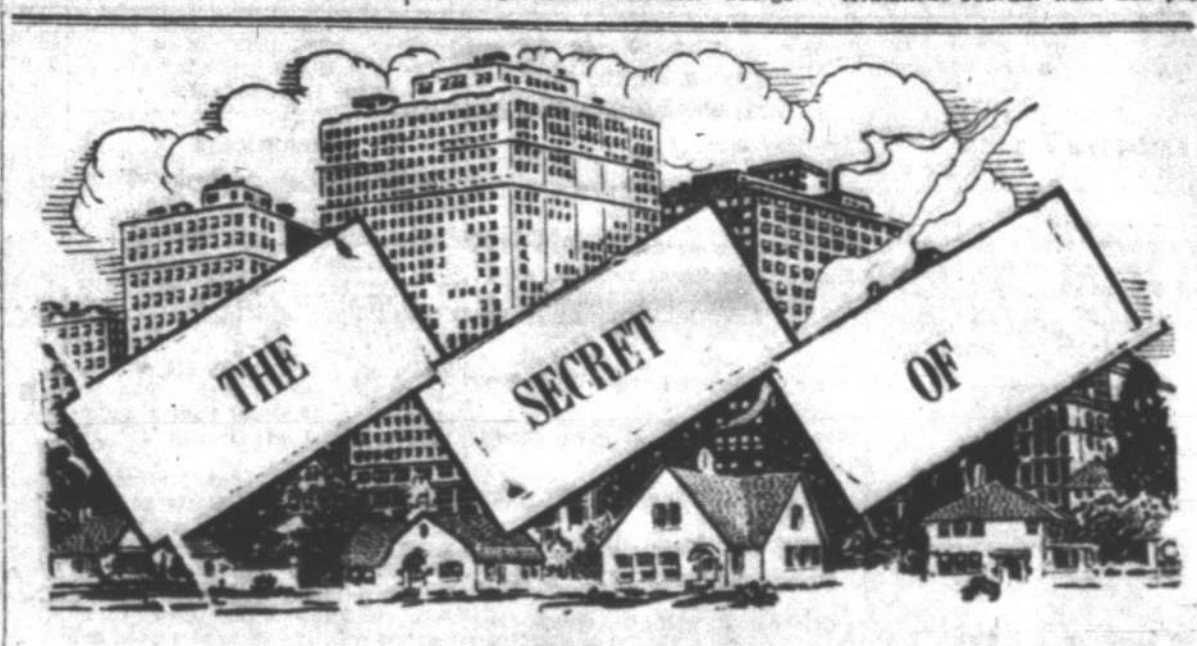

Rev. Mr. White has been at Greenville about a year, before that time being a member of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth. He received his education at Howard Payne, Rust Academy and Baylor university. He is about 35 years of age, is married and has one child.

In the next chapter Sally departs on her great adventure.

OUR PROSPERITY IS ELECTRIC POWER

Nationally we have attained a degree of economic leadership surpassing that of every other country in the world. The millions who work in American factories are paid far more than are those in Europe, and the conveniences which the average American regards as every-day necessities represent unheard-of-luxuries in the eyes of his neighbor across the sea. Foreign observers are seeking to discover the secret of our prosperity. Many contributing factors have been disclosed, but the investigations of expert authorities lead to one outstanding fact:

The economic welfare of the United States surpasses that of other nations in approximate proportion to the consumption of electric power.

But the contribution of electricity to our prosperity is not confined to the industrial field. The comfort and conveniences of the American home amazes the average stranger within our gates. Everything is being done, or can be done with the aid of electricity.

The flick of a switch or the pressing of a button—and instantaneously you have limitless power at hand to do your bidding. The cost of this commodity is computed in cents, but the time and drudgery it saves can be figured in dollars.

Help the Family Budget

You can help the family budget by buying and serving our bakery products. You know, even though you may never check kitchen expenses, that a great waste results from guessing at recipes, from under-baking, as well as from burning and baking more than the family can eat.

When you buy our bakery products we take all the losses and you all the gains. You can get just what you need when you need it, and get it fresh every day. You cannot "run out" of bakers' goods, and you do not have the waste of over-baking and foods dried up before they can be used up.

If you consider the cost of materials and the time, energy, work and worry you spend in baking, you will agree that it is much cheaper to let us do your baking for you. Baking to suit particular housewives and mothers is our specialty. We can save you costly failures and we guarantee to give you uniform, nutritious, appetizing bread and other products to suit your convenience.

...we take all the losses on over Baking!
