Americans Hit Kiel, Munster In Record Blow

Nuisance Raid On Berlin Made By British Forces

BY PHIL AULT
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 5 — Strong Allied bomber formations, stepping up the pre-invasion softening of Axis Europe, smashed anew at the French "second front" coast today in the wake of a British nuisance raid on Berlin and a record American blow at Kiel and Munster.

Early reports of the daylight attack said Allied medium bombers escorted by Royal Air force and Allied fighters raided military objectives in north France.

RAF Fighter Escort

The daylight raiders, with an escort of RAF fighters, swept out across the English channel only a few hours after other British bombers attacked northern France and twin-engined Mosquitoes hit Berlin and western Germany last night.

The Mosquito attack on Berlin probably was designed to keep German defenses on edge and to assess, if possible, any additional destruction wrought in the two heavy raids Saturday and Sunday nights. It was probable fires still were burning in the German capital. All planes returned safely from the night operations, which included mine-laying.

Upwards of 1,300 American bombers and fighters spearheaded yesterday's 3,000-plane attacks on Axis Europe with devastating raids on shipyards at Kiel and railway yards at Munster, both in northwest Germany.

"Good Results" Reported

"Good results were reported despite heavy clouds over the targets," a joint 8th Air force-British Air ministry communique said.

Huge fires and a heavy pall of smoke were observed after the attack on Kiel, one of Germany's principal submarine and warship building centers, the communique said, while fires and explosives also were touched off at Munster, junction through which most reinforcement and supply trains for the French, Belgian and Dutch invasion coasts must pass.

Nazi Fighter Force Boosted

BY GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 5—The Germans' frontline fighter force—most of it concentrated in western Europe—is 1,000 planes larger than a year ago, and the Nazis still have enough bombers to give Britain some "nasty smacks," an RAF commentator said today.

This commentator, whose name cannot be used, added that the Germans are not attacking Britain in force because of their traditional policy of risking their forces only if there is possibility of substantial gain.

The Germans might attempt a raid in force for political and propaganda reasons, he said, and "we'd be lunatics to assume we are not going to get a nasty smack one of these nights."

"Remarkable Achievement"

The commentator said Allied fighters' qualitative superiority over German bombers probably was just as great as in 1940. He noted that the 1,000 increase in German fighters, while it did not sound like a great deal, was "a very remarkable achievement" considering the constant drain on the German air force and blows against its productive capacity.

The increase was achieved by a production drive and a shift in emphasis from an offensive bomber force to the more easily-made defensive fighter, he continued.

Airmen Pound Nazis' Balkan Supply Lines

Allies Seize Two Important Points On Italian Front

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 5—Allied armies in Italy have seized two commanding positions against fierce Nazi opposition, it was announced today, and bomber fleets reaching into Bulgaria and Yugoslavia dealt three hard blows to German Balkan communications.

Fifth army troops advancing a little more than a mile west of Venafro stormed a 2,300-foot height in Sammucro ridge two miles northeast of San Vittore, gaining complete dominance of that bastion of the German winter line on the Rome road.

Indian units of the Eighth army seized a spur on a mountain ridge in pushing forward several hundred yards against enemy machinegun fire southwest of Tommaso near the Adraitic.

Bulgarian Areas Hit

U. S. 15th Air force Flying Fortresses meanwhile smashed railway yards and a bridge at Dupnitsa, 50 miles south of Sofia, capital of war-weary Bulgaria.

American Mitchells scored five hits on railway yards and the station at Doboj, 55 miles north of Sarajevo in Yugoslavia, and pounded barracks and troop concentrations at Travnik 30 miles northwest of Sarajevo, tinder box on the first world war.

All Allied planes returned, after bagging two enemy aircraft.

Indian troops were reported yesterday to have seized a hill a mile and a half southeast of recently captured San Tommaso and to have advanced up the Ortona—Migliamico road almost to Tello in support of the push by Canadian troops up the Adriatic coast toward the strategic port of Pescara.

Leese Is Commander Of 8th Army In Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 5 (AP) — Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese is the new commander of the British Eighth Army fighting in Italy, succeeding Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, it was disclosed today.

Leese commanded a corps in the Eighth Army during the march from El Alamein in Egypt to Tunis that drove the Germans from North Africa.

Actually, Leese has been in command of the Eighth Army for several days, but the announcement was withheld until today.

Leese, 49, is a tank expert. He led the 30th corps in the north African campaign.

A six-footer, Leese was formerly a battalion commander of the Coldstream Guards, with whom he served in World War I. He was wounded three times in that conflict, was awarded the DSO, and twice was mentioned in dispatches.

After the war he served at the staff college at Camberly, and in the war office. He is a graduate of Eton and Oxford.

One-Half Of Greater Berlin Said Destroyed

BERN, Switzerland, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Basler National Zeitung said today that Allied bombings so far had destroyed 50 per cent of greater Berlin, with another 25 per cent badly damaged.

Much of the remainder of the city is without windows, and in many cases without roofs, the dispatch said, adding that an area of several square kilometers had been wiped out.

MASS EVACUATION OF BERLIN SAID UNDERWAY

ZURICH, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — Travelers from Berlin said today that a mass evacuation of the capital was underway and that the population was taking in dead earnest the Allied threat to wipe the city off the map.

Since Monday overcrowded trains have been leaving Berlin in an unbroken procession, most of them headed for central and south Germany, the travelers said.

New Landings Indicated By Allied Raids On Jap Bases

BY MORRIE LANDSBERG
Associated Press War Editor

Far-ranging Allied planes are smashing at Japanese positions in every sector of the Pacific battle front in what appeared likely today as the forerunner of new landing assaults on the enemy's ocean bases.

American and Australian fliers peppered the Japanese in the Southwest-Central Pacific area where they still have positions to impede the Allied drive to the north and west in the direction of the richest holdings of the Nippinese empire.

Air Force Units Active

From bases in China, potential jumping off place for future raids on Japan itself, U. S. 14th Air force units struck into Thailand Monday, bombing the Japanese base at Lampang, while other fighter-bombers hit the enemy-occupied town of Pingka in western Yunnan province of China.

The Japanese are putting up stiffer resistance in the Marshalls. Latest raids, announced yesterday, brought out 30 Zeros over Taroa and an equal number rose to defend Wotje. Without loss, American Army bombers shot down a total of ten Japanese planes and probably seven more.

Enemy Base Weakened

Another continuing air offensive has weakened the enemy at its main New Britain base of Rabaul. Australian Beauforts dropped 32 tons on the Lakunai airdrome Sunday night and South Pacific fighters returned the next day. The American fliers destroyed 11 of 30 interceptors.

In current ground fighting, American Marines shook off a sharp counterattack at Cape Gloucester; the Sixth Army task force at Saidor, on the north coast of New Guinea, occupied a position three miles wide and three miles deep; and Australians who advanced 15 miles in three days

Attorney Pressing Dr. Newton's Appeal Says Trial Court Erred In Not Granting Continuance

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 5 (AP)—An attorney for Dr. William R. Newton contended in court of criminal appeals today the trial court erred in not granting a continuance so that the defense could produce witnesses to testify Dr. Newton and his wife were in Houston the night Dr. Roy Hunt of Littlefield was wounded.

Dr. Newton was convicted of assault to murder the Littlefield physciian on May 21, 1942 and sentenced to seven years.

Dr. Hunt and his wife were slain Oct. 26, 1943, and a convict is being held for questioning in the slaying.

Says No Motive Shown

Attorney E. A. Camp, appealing the assault to murder charge, asserted no motive has been shown for the alleged attempt on Dr. Hunt's life in 1942. Mrs. Newton also was indicted on the assault to murder charge but has not been tried.

Camp told the appeals court that numerous witnesses established through uncontroverted testimony that Dr. and Mrs. Newton were at their home in Cameron until 6 p. m. on May 20, 1942, and that other witnesses testified they stopped at Caldwell, Burleson county, en route to Houston.

The trial court failed to grant a continuance, he said, so that the defense could present witnesses to

Tax Proposals Being Opposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Opponents of war contract renegotiation law liberalization gathered their forces today in a drive to overturn new tax bill amendments and insisted that Congress must decide between renegotiation and war profiteering.

The fight is currently on the Senate side where Senators La-Follette (Prog-Wis), Connally (D-Tex), Walsh (D-Mass) and Lucas (D-Ill) have signed a minority report scoring five amendments in the $2,275,000,000 added revenues bill which would revise the contract review statutes.

Outspoken In Criticism

LaFollette was outspoken in his criticism, asserting that "powerful influences are endeavoring to scuttle" the law which he says has brought about refunds and price reductions amounting to more than five billion dollars.

"Yet in the face of this record," he said, "a powerful minority of short-sighted business leaders who can not see beyond the dollar signs on the ends of their noses, are trying to put over on Congress a series of amendments that will open up disastrous loopholes and ultimately sweep away the whole structure in an uncontrolled wave of war profiteering."

The report, according to Senator Walsh, will list 200 examples of excessive profits after taxes, including one company which in 1942 earned 965 per cent, after taxes, on the net value of the company as shown by its books.

Deficit In General Fund Shrinks Low

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—The deficit in the state's feneral fund shrunk to $18,364,965, lowest since June, 1939.

The decrease since Dec. 5 was from $20,185,061, and since Jan. 5, 1943, was from $28,381,526. The shrinkage was attributed in part to an increasing flow of tax collections, and in part to the state's general economy program.

FDR Recalls Wage Board To Study Claims

Group Asked To Report Not Later Than Thirty Days

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 — President Roosevelt has ordered the reconvening of an emergency board to consider the unsettled wage claims of the 1,100,000 non-operating railroad employes. These claims were not before the board when it recommended sliding scale increases of 4 to 10 cents an hour.

The board, headed by Judge Elwyn R. Shaw, of Springfield, Ill., will consider the claims for additional pay, either for or in lieu of overtime.

Refuse President's Offer

The non-operating employes refused to accept the President's offer to arbitrate the additional claims except on conditions to which the carriers disagreed. The President and the carriers held that arbitration should consider the sliding scale increases as well as the additional claims, and the employes wanted arbitration limited to the overtime claims.

A White House statement said:

To Consider Claims

"The Shaw board has been reconvened to consider the unsettled claims for wage adjustments of the non-operating employes which were not presented to them when they made their last report.

"The board is requested to make its report as soon as practicable, but not later than 30 days from date. Their recommendations will become effective 15 days after their report is filed, unless and except to the extent that the economic stabilization director otherwise directs."

The executive order, dated January 4, was made public today.

Refused Scale At First

A review of the case by the White House said the non-operating employes at first refused to accept the sliding scale increases as recommended by the Shaw board and approved by Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson, and invoked the services of the national mediation board to enjoin the carriers from putting them into effect.

On December 27, however, the employes informed the President that they had abandoned their objections to the sliding scale, but made additional claims with respect to payment for overtime or in lieu of overtime, particularly in view of wage increases granted to operative employes.

Increase Termed Insult

An emergency board has awarded the operating workers a 4-cent-an-hour increase. The workers termed this an insult. The President, in arbitrating the case for the locomotive engineers and the trainmen, two of the five operating unions, granted an additional 5 cents an hour in lieu of overtime and a week's vacation with pay at the basic hourly rate. The three other operating unions refused to accept the President's offer of arbitration and thus far have not modified their position.

Three Occupations Listed As Critical

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — The essential activities committee of the War Manpower commission today added to the list of critical occupations the jobs of repairmen of electric motor equipment and repairmen and installation men of oil burner equipment.

The committee also added to the list of essential activities the production of paint spraying equipment, the production of "bentonite," and the recovery of brewery yeast.

Navy Gives Names Of Lost Destroyers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Navy has disclosed that the destroyer which blew up off Sandy Hook Monday was the 1,700-ton USS Turner, and that the destroyer lost in the Atlantic after being torpedoed on Christmas Eve was the 1,090-ton USS Leary.

The Turner blew up in New York harbor with such violence that men and guns were hurled into the sea. Coast Guard cutters rescued 152 enlisted men and two officers. Normal complement of the ship was more than 160 men and officers, but the names of those missing have been withheld by the Navy pending notification of next of kin.

The Leary, which was commissioned Dec. 5, 1919, was armed with four 4-inch guns and one 1-inch gun. Her normal complement was 145 men but would be higher in wartimee.

Solon Suggests Sweeping 10-Point Program For Reconversion To Civilian Production

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—A sweeping 10-point program for shifting the nation's industrial machinery from war to civilian production under the direction of a "reconversion czar" was advanced today by Rep. Tolan (D-Calif.) to prevent post-war "chaos and confusion."

His plan:

1. Immediate appointment of a single administrator to coordinate federal, state, local and civilian agencies.

Board Of Directors

2. Creation of a central "board of directors" composed of three members of the House, three of the Senate, and a representative each from agriculture, labor and industry.

3. An advisory council appointed by the governors of the 48 states to balance sectional needs and to furnish the central agency with information on possible channels for relieving unemployment.

4. Appropriation of sufficient funds to retain a staff of skilled technical experts to chart the steps necessary for conversion to peacetime production as war needs slacken.

Congressional Committee

5. Formation of a congressional committee to draft any necessary reconversion legislation.

6. Institution of immediate surveys by local communities and by the states to determine their own employment potentialities and post-war labor prospect.

7. Creation of a new agency—similar to the small war plants corporation—to aid little industries in reconversion.

8. Use of local draft boards as community employment centers for returning soldiers.

Study Of New Products

9. A long range study of new products, new materials and new inventions in the "back-to-work" program.

10. Determination of what disposition should be made of government owned industries.

"All this," said Tolan, "adds up to a tremendous task. But it is perhaps the most serious economic problem the country has confronted in its history, and it is one which must be answered."

Russians Enter Former Nazi Key Base In Ukraine

Enemy Admits Hitler's Winter Defense Line Split In Two; Great Kiev Bulge Being Pushed South Toward Rumania

BY RICHARD McMURRAY
Associated Press War Editor

The Germans said today that the eastern half of Berdichev, once the fortress headquarters of Nazi armies in the Ukraine, has been lost to the Russians who had split Hitler's winter defense line into two fronts of 360 and 480 miles with "a very deep penetration."

Berdichev is an important rail junction 25 miles south of Zhitomir. It is on the edge of the great Kiev bulge which was being pushed south toward Rumania after a westward penetration into the Polish Ukraine.

A German military spokesman told Swedish correspondents that the Nazi winter line had been severed and expressed doubt that the army could restore its position by counterattacks.

SPANIARDS WITH GERMANS

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Spanish soldiers are fighting side by side with the Germans on the Volkhov front in northern Russia despite assertions by Gen. Francisco Franco's government that all Spaniards have been called home, a Russian communique asserted today.

"deep penetration" is the great Kiev bulge thrust into the Polish Ukraine just south of the Pripet marshes separating upwards of 500,000 Germans in the south from other Nazi forces of the center and north.

The impact of the Russian offensive struck the Germans in the south of the Kiev bulge when Vatutin's Ukrainian army captured the Nazi stronghold of Belaya Tserkov and 40 other towns and drove on toward Vinnitsa and the Odessa-Warsaw railroad. Another 4,000 Germans were slain as Vatutin pressed his drive to isolate enemy armies between the lower Dnieper and Bug rivers.

Peace Movements Spread In Balkans

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Jan. 5—Rumania has ordered all civilians to evacuate Bessarabia because of the approach of the Red army, an Ankara dispatch said today, and peace demonstrations were reported spreading through Adolf Hitler's Balkan satellites.

The exchange telegraph agency, reporting the Rumanian evacuation order, said German troops were hurriedly throwing up fortifications along the southwestern bank of the Dniester river. At last reports the Russians were only 85 miles from the Dniester.

Travelers arriving in Istanbul from Sofia following restoration of railway communications between the two countries said the Bulgarian political crisis had reached a climax with the failure of all efforts to form a coalition government.

Coalition Refused

Opposition members, particularly former Premier Nicholas Mushanov, have refused to join any coalition government, the travelers said. They either did not or could not confirm European reports that a pro-Allied coup led by Mushanov has overthrown Premier Dobri Bojilov and his pro-Axis government.

Best-informed Bulgarian circles in Istanbul cautioned that no change could be expected in Bulgaria's pro-Axis policy for the moment, though the Russian advance may bring an eruption.

Radio broadcasts from Ankara and France said parachutists were dropped in Rumania yesterday.

Coup Not Confirmed

There still was no confirmation of a Stockholm report that a purportedly pro-Allied coup d'etat overthrew Premier Dobri Bojilov and his cabinet in Bulgaria. An unconfirmed report from Madrid said that a government crisis had led to the resignation of the premier and that a new cabinet was being formed.

Street fighting was reported on Sofia and a state of siege was said to have been proclaimed.

Soldiers throughout Bulgaria were reported openly demonstrating against the possibility of war with Russia, whose armies were thrusting rapidly toward the Nazi satellite nations.

The Hungarian government, facing growing peace demonstrations, was said to have issued an appeal for calm, assuring the people that troops were being withdrawn from the Russian front to defend the country's vital interests.

Willkie Attacked For Article On Russia

MOSCOW, Jan. 5 (AP)—Pravda, the official Communist party newspaper, attacked Wendell Willkie today because of an article he wrote for the New York Times dealing with Russia and the status of Poland and the Pravda writer accused the U. S. presidential nominee of 1940 of "muddying the waters" in an effort to entice presidential support from persons who do not trust the Soviet Union as well as to win sympathy from those who do.

"Such a political gambler destroys confidence," the Pravda comment said. The newspaper added that the Baltic question was the business of the Soviet union and one in which "Mr. Willkie should not interfere."

"As to Finland and Poland, without mentioning the Balkans," Pravda said, "the Soviet Union knows how to deal with them and does not need the help of Mr. Willkie."

Poles Told To Resist Nazis

LONDON, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — The Polish government-in-exile announced today that members of the Polish underground had been ordered to "continue and intensify their resistance to the German invaders and avoid all conflicts with the Soviet armies entering Poland."

The underground, it added, has been instructed to cooperate fully with the Soviet military commanders "in the event of a resumption of Polish-Soviet relations."

Hands-Off Attitude

It indicated that Polish guerrilla bands operating in the eastern half of Poland would maintain a hands-off attitude toward Russian troops entering that section until they receive new instructions from the emigre government here.

"Poland naturally is entitled to expect full justice and redress as soon as it is liberated from the enemy occupation," the government statement said.

"The first condition of such justice is the earliest re-establishment of the Polish sovereign administration in the liberated territories of the republic of Poland and the protection of life and property for Polish citizens."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — The Office of Price administration, in a move against the black market in gasoline, ruled today that it is illegal for any person to remove coupons from the gummed sheet to which they are attached by filling station operators.

It also ruled that any local ration board or special hearing officer, after proper steps to determine violation of tire or gasoline regulations, may revoke not only gasoline rations, but prohibit use of any gasoline in possession of the violator.

Plans for spring activities were discussed at a monthly meeting of City Parent-Teacher council Tuesday afternoon at Senior High school auditorium with Mrs. L. L. Miller presiding.

Mrs. S. W. Brunson led a parent-teacher prayer and was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ivy Savage who played "I Need Thee Every Hour." Miss Stella Thurman presented information she obtained at the state convention at Austin concerning health and a summer roundup for students.

Further business included the announcements that hours spent at the local Red Cross by unit members may be recorded on a special parent-teacher report sheet. Mrs. George Lemon reported that nine persons had enrolled in the procedure course. In the recent clothing salvage campaign, the council, in cooperation with the city federated clubs, collected 5,000 pounds of articles.

Announcement was made of the second Clare Tree Major play, "King of the Golden River" to be staged here Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Senior High school auditorium. The council voted to cancel the regular March meeting in order to hear Dr. Bernice Moore of the Hogg Foundation speak on March 7 at 3:45 p. m. She will appear under the auspices of Senior High P-TA. In conclusion Mrs. Miller read an article on the function of the city council that was written by Mrs. Meade F. Griffin of Plainview, state chairman of councils.

Mrs. Bickley Presides For Candlelight Hour

Officers were installed in the Asbury Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guild in a candlelight service at the church Monday night with Mrs. C. A. Bickley, wife of the pastor and president of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference, in charge.

Mrs. J. E. Walter, program chairman, gave the Bible history of the theme of the new year's work, "Singing the Lord's song in a strange land." Her discussion was followed by a solo by Mrs. E. L. Lansford accompanied by Mrs. W. E. Hamilton.

After stressing the importance of the work of the church in the present day, Mrs. Bickley called the newly elected officers to the altar for installation. She explained to each the nature of her work and charged her with specific duties by presenting her with a symbol of the work to be done. These officers were elected in previous meetings but will assume duties at the next regular meetings. Mrs. Lansford sang "The Voice of God is Calling" and Rev. Bickley lead the prayer of consecration.

Mrs. J. H. Williamson and Mrs. B. M. Keese, newly-elected presidents, presided over the pledge service for the new year. The installing officer was hostess for a social hour and served refreshments to approximately 50 members.

Farm Officials Reject Pork "Holiday" Idea

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Despite pleas by farm state congressmen, government food officials today rejected a proposed two-week "holiday" in the rationing of pork products.

The Office of Price administration (OPA) and the War Food administration (WFA) declared in a joint report that a survey showed there is no country-wide pork surplus, and that a temporary lifting of rationing might result in "chaotic conditions of supply and distribution."

New York May Invite Political Conventions

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — The possibility appeared today that New York interests may bid for the Republican and Democratic 1944 national conventions.

Officials of several of the city's larger hotels said they would welcome the conventions and Martin Sweeny, president of the Hotel association of New York, said that the group's convention bureau had discussed extending formal invitations.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

Some writers may be doing a great deal of harm with the beautiful word pictures they are painting of our life after the war.

"You'll have this luxury and that convenience" they promise. And they always say YOU.

They don't say, "Some people will live like this." Or, "If you have the money you can do so and so."

They just come right out and tell you that this and that will be yours as soon as the war is over.

But we aren't all going to have houses free of dust particles. All of our kitchens aren't going to be equipped with electric dish washers and stoves with glass ovens.

All of us aren't going to have our own small airplanes.

In short, we aren't all going to live in ease and luxury when the war is over.

Many couples will have tough going for years while the husband, who went straight from school into the service, gets job training and experience.

Many couples will have a hard time for a while because the husband, who gave up the practice of his profession, or sold his small business to go into the Army, or to take a war plant job, has to make another start.

PERIOD OF TRANSITION

Others will face a period of transition when they no longer have fat war wages to spend, or when the wife has to give up her job to a returning soldier, cutting the family income in half.

No, we won't all be sitting around in air-conditioned homes when the war is over. For many of us the going will be slow—at least for awhile.

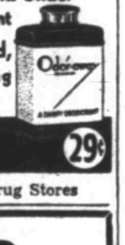

So let's not take these "world-of-tomorrow" word pictures we see on every hand too seriously. We may be washing dishes and dusting for a long time.

The shortest tenure of the presidency was that of William Henry Harrison, who died one month after taking office.

Order To Use Negro Workers Is Defied

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (AP)—A government order to accept negroes as fellow workers on the city's buses and trolleys was defied today by the employe's union of the Philadelphia Transportation company.

Malcolm Ross, chairman of the President's fair employment practices committee, was informed in a letter signed by union leaders that "we cannot comply with the terms" of teh committee's directive.

Union officials said the employment of negroes would violate the union's contract with the PTC and result in "strikes and picketing." Company officials offered no objections to the directive other than that the union contends compliance would violate the contract.

. . . but what has this automobile to do with your ELECTRIC SERVICE?

FRANKLY, it has nothing to do with your electric service. We use it here to illustrate a point.

Automobiles were "rich man's toy," not so many years ago. They cost a lot of money and they cost a lot to run. They were gas-eaters and oil-eaters. The hills they could climb in high were few and far between. If you got them up to fifty miles an hour, the noise and vibration were terrific.

Today millions of American families have beautiful, powerful cars that outsmart, outshine and outperform the best models of the Twenties in every way, yet cost less than half as much.

This progress has not been confined to the automobile. Time was when electric service provided only your light. Today you can use more lights, a radio, refrigerator, vacuum cleaner, washing machine and many other appliances, and the electricity to operate all of these costs very little more than you used to pay for light alone.

Like the automobile, your electric service improves steadily year after year. At the same time, its price comes down. This is possible because of the constant effort of the people of your electric company to improve service and reduce rates. It's an effort that goes on and on. In the last 10 to 25 years, the engineering improvements and operating economies of your electric company have made it possible to cut the average price of household electricity just about in half. Because of it, your electric service will be better and cheaper in the future than it is today. The credit belongs to a group of people who are never content to rest on their laurels, who strive to do their job just a little better today than they did it yesterday. They're the people of your electric company.

You give the enemy a swat each time you save a kilowatt

Allies Hit Targets On Invasion Coast

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Day after day the American and British air forces based on Britain are drenching the coast along the English channel with bombs directed at a multitude of objectives which are described mysteriously as "invasion targets," that is, targets which must be reduced before the Anglo-American land forces can be put ashore for their drive on Berlin.

Yesterday, for instance, Yankee medium bombers slashed at Nazi installations in the French coastal zone for long hours. Authorities are silent as to the exact objectives, but unofficially it's suggested that our men were hunting emplacements for rocket-guns—Germany's new "secret" weapon.

Aren't Taking Chances

The Allies aren't taking chances on this rocket-gun, for the experts of all countries know that such weapons can be constructed to throw shells containing terrific explosive power over long distances.

The rocket-gun, however, is only one of our problems. The spade-work now being carried on by the daring and uncanny skillful Anglo-American air fleets, in the face of fierce enemy counter-blows, is a labor which will save untold thousands of our men when the day of invasion finally arrives.

We can have the satisfaction, however, of knowing that the Allied high command is doing all possible to lessen the dangers. As remarked the other day by General H. H. Arnold, chief of U. S. Army Air forces, the primary aim of his command "is to make the coming invasion of Germany as economical as possible by drastically reducing the war potential of the third reich and its satellites."

Among the targets on the invasion coast are railway communications and rolling-stock, which can move Nazi supplies and troops up to the battle line. Airfields and grounded warplanes are constant objectives, for invasion will be accompanied by a titanic conflict in the air.

Heavy artillery emplacements are a particular menace. Even one battery of guns could easily destroy a warship, one could play havoc with a great and closely packed fleet of transports carrying troops and equipment.

Tank bases also are prime targets.

One of the greatest threats our invasion forces will go up against will be mines—both of the sea and land variety—which are all the more dreadful because they are hidden dangers.

Mine-Sweepers Are Praised

Dare-devil mine-sweepers are the unsung heroes of the sea—will run their noses up into the fields of floating explosives and clean out many of the mines—in fact, these little vessels are constantly at this dangerous work.

The land mines are dealt with largely by bombing and shelling from warships in the pre-landing stage of invasion. However, most of the mines are small and easily replaceable so that the task of detonating them is never ending.

All this Allied preparation is serving a double purpose right now: It's paving the way for the invasion, and it's holding German troops and warplanes in western Europe, thus aiding the Russians in their mighty new drive.

Former Gunner To Be On LAAF Broadcast

An interview with Cadet Philip J. Kuhn of Santa Barbara, Calif., a former Flying Fortress gunner in the Southwest Pacific, will feature the weekly broadcast sponsored by Lubbock Army Air field over KFYO tonight at 7:30 o'clock, according to announcement of post officials.

Another high spot of the program will be a tribute to 1st Lt. Edwin L. Baxley, LAAF graduate, Class 42-G, who was awarded the Air Medal and two Oak Leaf cluster for 19 bombardment missions over Germany territory in western Europe. Baxley was shot down during a raid on submarine pens at Kiel, Germany, May 19, 1943. He is now a prisoner of war.

Musical portion of the program will feature numbers by the military band, the swing symphony and the dance band.

Fortress Riddled By Anti-Aircraft Fire, But Returns To Base

By COLLIE SMALL
United Press Staff Writer

USAAF BOMBER STATION, England, Jan. 5—With one crewman dead and eight others blinded by lack of oxygen, an American Flying Fortress returned to base after being riddled by anti-aircraft fire during a raid deep into southern Germany, official reports revealed today.

The reports, brief and to the point, were made by 1st Lt. John P. Keelan, of Navasota, Texas, the pilot. His personal version, however, was something else again.

"Over the target," he said, "we caught a burst of flak outside the right waist window that killed our waist gunner.

Severs Oxygen Lines

"The burst severed half our control cables and knocked out the oxygen supply in the tail and punctured the skin of the ship in other spots.

"The next burst caught us near the nose and knocked out the oxygen in the front—and made some more holes. We started down for the deck, but then we saw some German fighters and decided to stay in formation and do our best without oxygen.

"We had only about 100 pounds of stuff in two or three bottles for eight men. The ball turret man had his own supply.

"I put all the men in the nose. The co-pilot had some oxygen left and he handled the ship. The rest of us shared what little oxygen we had and we all were only half conscious and there was a funny red mist in front of our eyes and we couldn't see anything—not even the planes in our own formation.

Kept Rolling Along

"But we kept rolling along.

"When we finally went down after crossing the coast, we tried to get our radio bearings, but found our entire radio had gone, too. We came across the water and the navigator plotted the course home from the coast of England.

"The tail wheel was flat but we got her down safely.

"After what happened that landing was an anti-climax."

Other crewmen included 2nd Lt. Harry O'Neill, jr., of Williams, Ariz., co-pilot.

Presidential Veto Of Revenue Bill Object Of Speculation

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 — Will President Roosevelt veto the revenue bill Congress has been working on for months?

That question came to the fore after Treasury Secretary Morgenthau exclaimed that as the bill now stands, "the Treasury would be better off with no tax bill—but on that basis we'd be awfully bad off."

President Roosevelt has declined to say whether he shares Morgenthau's view of the bill.

There are two principal points of argument:

1. Is the bill worthwhile as a revenue-raiser?

2. Would it, as Morgenthau contended, by changing the law respecting renegotiation of war contracts to recapture excessive profits, open the door to "truly extortionate profits?"

Goal Still 10½ Billions

Secretary Morgenthau still sets his goal at 10½ billions of additional revenue next year.

The bill, as polished off by the Senate finance committee, is designed to raise an additional $2,275,600,000.

Morgenthau says this figure on prospective revenue must be considered in the light of the fact that postponement of the automatic doubling of the social security tax (now 1 per cent each on employe and employer) would deprive the Treasury of an estimated $1,400,000,000 next year.

Depends On Renegotiation

The question of a presidential veto probably depends primarily on the proposed changes in renegotiation.

The changes, if enacted, would narrow considerably the field of contracts subject to renegotiation.

At present, any contract for more than $100,000 is subject to revision by the Army, Navy or Maritime commission. The bill as it now stands would ban renegotiation of any contract involving less than $500,000 a year.

One of the prime points of argument is a provision that would exempt from renegotiation any contract or sub-contract for "standard commercial articles"—defined generally as articles identical to those sold for civilian or commercial use prior to Jan. 1, 1940. This phrase apparently would cover a vast amount of war purchases.

OWI Puts Damper On Over-Optimism

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — OWI, in a sobering report on the war, reminded the nation today "we are still 3,000 miles from Tokyo" in the Pacific and there are no signs that either Japan or Germany lacks the weapons or the morale to fight a long time.

Taking nothing away from "the string of victories" piled up this year by the United Nations, the Office of War information asserted, however, it is time to face three facts:

1—Germany has lost only a fifth of the territory she held a year ago; Japan has lost only a twentieth.

2—Germany: has a powerful air force, now principally fighter planes; its steel position is "excellent;" its coal production, "tremendous;" it is almost self-sufficient in rubber; has more oil than it needs and enough high octane gasoline for the luftwaffe; the German people are getting enough to eat, far more than in 1918 and the harvest this year was the best since 1939.

3—Japan: is protected by a 3,000-mile outer rim of defense bastions and has to maintain communications only for that distance while we must transport men and materials 9,000 miles to get at them.

Penicillin Production Is Being Increased

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical journal, said today that penicillin, the outstanding medical discovery of the war, will be available for civilian needs next June.

"Twenty-two companies are engaged currently in production of penicillin," Dr. Fishbein said, "and it is expected by June that it will be available in sufficient quantity for civilian needs."

Dr. Fishbein said that American industry has developed tactics of mass production which two years ago were thought impossible.

"Medicine in the United States has reached its highest point in scientific development attained any place, any time in the world," Dr. Fishbein said.

Flu Epidemic Fairly General Over Texas

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—The influenza epidemic in Texas is now "fairly general," the state health department said in reporting 13,330 new cases.

While the infection is described as being mild in form, a spokesman said incidence was not leveling off nor had its peak yet been reached. Seven-year median for the week was 1,254 cases.

The new figure, including all cases reported for the week ending Jan. 1, is considerably larger than the 9,397 cases reported for the week before.

At least 16 counties reported 200 or more cases each.

Handball was introduced into the U. S. from Ireland about 1840.

Maj. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, New 8th Air Force Head, Flies Own Plane, Surprises Lieutenant

BY HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

EN ROUTE TO ITALY BY AIR, Dec. 29 (Delayed) — When you take off with Jimmy Doolittle as pilot, your head is in the clouds before your stomach leaves sea level.

The new head of America's Britain-based 8th Air force still flies with the same zip that once made him the Army's premier speed pilot. He handles his big ship as easily as if it were a Spitfire and he isn't stingy about picking up aerial hitchhikers.

DOOLITTLE

There were six of us in the Martin Marauder as it warmed up on a North African field for the takeoff — Major General Doolittle; his co-pilot, Col. Reuber Kyle, of Columbus, Ga.; his navigator, Lt. Gilbert Lawson, of Hot Springs, Ark.; his crew chief staff, Sgt. H. M. Lazarus, of New York City; Col. Tim Manning, of Oakland, Calif.; a west coast transportation executive, and myself.

Two More Passengers

Just as Doolittle started to taxi over to the runway, a jeep drove up with a colonel and two lieutenants.

"Got room for a couple more passengers?" the colonel asked.

"Sure, have them climb on in," the general answered.

The crew chief quickly closed the door, Doolittle spun the big plane carefully across the taxi strip to the runway. He raced the motors a moment, then called out "all set." It was a statement rather than a question.

Lunged Down Runway

The next instant, like an unleashed hound, the B-26 lunged down the runway. The mud-streaked roadway outside was a blur. Inside the fuselage, nothing could be heard above the straining motors.

Before we could straighten ourselves out, the Marauder rose from the ground and headed skyward like a lark late for choir practice.

At 3,000 feet, Doolittle leveled off and the roll of muscle along the back of his neck relaxed above the edge of his brown leather flying jacket.

Jimmy is like a wild bird at the cockpit controls. His chunky, powerful body is never still. His head moves in quick jerks as he peers out the side windows or glances up through the canopy. His eyes, except when he smiles, have the bright, hard look of a hawk.

Headed Across Mediterranean

After buzzing across a few mountain tops, the general headed across the Mediterranean. Later he turned the controls over to Col. Kyle.

"My book," Doolittle said to Lazarus, who got a paper backed volume of modern short-stories out of the musette bag. The general put on a pair of silver rimmed glasses.

A few hours before we reached our landing field, Doolittle shut his book and took over the controls again. He circled the field once and then the big plane suddenly glided down like a great feathery owl about to strike. The descent was so swift we had to swallow several times to keep our stomachs out of our tonsils. Then Doolittle put the wheels down so lightly there was scarcely a jar although a B-26 hits the runway at well over a hundred miles an hour. The general braked down the bomber, swung it off the runway on to a hard spot, and the trip was over.

Identity Was Surprise

"Some pilot," said Brady.

"You know who he is, don't you?" he was asked.

"No."

"You are riding with General Doolittle."

"My lord, you mean Jimmy Doolittle! Are we hitching with him? That's the first time I ever heard of a major general driving for a lieutenant."

When the two lieutenants tried to thank the general, he gave them one of his famous grins then jumped into a waiting motorcar.

Semester Finals At Tech Start Monday

Texas Technological college students will be given final examinations for the first semester Monday through Saturday of next week, according to college authorities. Certain schedule changes in conducting the examinations will be necessary because of the military facilities at the college, they added.

This week has been designated as traditional "dead week," always the week before final examinations are given, when students are supposed to cram and study for coming finals. Traditions of dead week will be carried out this year—no shaves or haircuts for the men students, and no dances or entertainments scheduled for dead week or final examination week.

Germans Admit Grave Setbacks

in the plains south of liberated Belaya Tskerkov today while Marshal Fritz von Mannstein's troops battled desperately to hold back the Russians from seizing their badly-needed lines of communication.

The Nazis were counter-attacking repeatedly, seeking to keep control of the railway running from Belaya Tserkov and Tcvetokovo westward to the Odessa-Lwow line. They also were fighting hard in the Smela area to hold the railroad running south to Novo Ukrainkka and westward to a junction with the Odessa road. Another communications line which the Nazis battled desperately to retain was the highway connecting Belaya Tserkov with Zvenigordka, 60 miles to the southeast.

Through this entire network of rail and road communications in the tower middle Ukraine it became a race between Von Mannstein's harassed forces to get out of untenable positions before they are completely encircled by fast moving Russian spearheads driving in from the southwest and west.

Reds Pushing South

Front dispatches reported the Russians were pushing south from captured Delaya Tserkov along a front 40 miles wide in hot pursuit of the retreating Germans.

Far to the north Gen. Ivan Bagramian kept up his incessant battering against the northern wing of the German armies guarding the Baltic front. Another 1,100 Nazis were killed north of Nevel, 100 enemy-held villages were liberated and the 40-mile Nevel-Velikie Luki rail line cleared of Germans, the Soviet war bulletin declared. Izocha, 10 miles north of Nevel, and Pleshkova, 20 miles to the northeast, were among the strongpoints listed as overrun.

Great Battle Has Begun

The great battle to drive the Germans from the Dnieper bend has begun.

The military question for the moment is whether Von Mannstein has waited tob long. Already Vatutin has swung deeply beneath his positions and generally, the Germans are badly outflanked from the west. The enemy is running the risk of a major military disaster if Vatutin can close the trap on Germans strung out from the plains south of Belaya Tserkov to Nikopol. These Nazi forces presumably total at least 500,000. They presented a fairly solid front from the steppe south of Belaya Tserkov southeastward to Smela, Kirovograd, Krivoi Rog and Nikopol. The main German weakness is on the flanks.

On Von Mannstein's left flank, the Russians have cut behind him south of Pliskov in Vinnista province. Now on his right flank, he faces the danger of having the Red army surge across the lower Dnieper and place between Nikopol and Kherson at the mouth of the river.

JAPS ON DEFENSIVE IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC

BY WILLIAM F. BONI

Associated Press War Writer

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 5 — On the basis of eyewitness observation of all three amphibious landings which Sixth Army forces have made — at Arawe, New Britain, Dec. 15, Cape Gloucester, New Britain, Dec. 26, and Saidor, New Guinea, Jan. 2 — it is safe to say the Japanese are on the defensive throughout the Southwest Pacific. In fact, they're almost on the run.

With the exception of one small diversionary raid at Arawe which suffered heavy losses, all three invasions were accomplished virtually without opposition.

Little Opposition

Since those landings, only the opposition at Cape Gloucester has been worth mentioning. There, today's advices from headquarters of General MacArthur told of Marines, attached to the Sixth army, killing 200 enemy soldiers Monday in shattering a counter-attack made in the Borgen bay area. Approximately 1,500 Japanese have been slain at Cape Gloucester since the invasion.

The character of the opposition on the whole reflects credit on the intelligence sections of the various services which chose the sites where the Japanese were expected to be weak.

The smoothness with which each landing was executed—they constituted almost letter perfect teamwork between the Navy, Army and Air forces — left the definite impression, however, that each would have been successful even against a substantial defending force.

Firemen Lose Plea In Supreme Court

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Texas Supreme court in two opinions today ruled against contentions of Amarillo and Wichita Falls city firemen that they are entitled to a calendar day off each week under terms of the state law limiting work periods of city firemen.

The cities represented that the firemen had been given the required rest, though the time off periods did not run from one midnight to another.

The court ruling was that the purpose of the statute was accomplished if the firemen had one 24-hour day off in each seven, and that the rest period need not correspond to a calendar day.

Stock Market

BEST AVERAGE LEVEL

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Continuing the rise of the previous session the stock market today reached the best average levels since the start of November, with various leaders adding fractions to more than a point.

A number of issues backed down from the highs after a brisk runup in the first two hours but other pivotals approached the close holding top gains. Early turnover was heavy and despite the market's more moderate pace in the later proceedings dealings were around the largest of recent months at approximately 1,100,000 shares.

Market leadership was a bit mixed. Steels were favored for a time, but gold mines and specialties received principal attention near the finish.

Postwar Rationing, Price Control Seen

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — A ranking Office of Price administration official said today price and rationing controls would not be dropped at the end of the war, asserting that "OPA is going to go on for a long time."

"We are going to have inflation if we don't watch prices, and a depression would be certain to follow," Daniel P. Woolley, region two director of the OPA, told 300 members of Maryland's 39 war price and rationing boards at a dinner celebrating the second anniversary of OPA work.

"You must remember," he continued, "that soaring costs started after, and not during, the last war."

Local Ration Board Members Honored

Members of Lubbock county's War Price and Rationing board and panels were honored today noon in a luncheon program at the Hilton hotel by the Lubbock Rotary club. H. L. Allen, chairman of the Lubbock Defense council, presided and introduced the various members and speakers.

Brief talks which paid tribute to the board members and the efforts to 'hold the line' on the home front were given by Mayor Carl E. Slaton, County Judge G. V. Pardue and Walter S. Posey, pioneer banker.

Posey reviewed the rationing program and said the program was being given "so that the Rotary club could show appreciation in a small way for the work of these men and women."

Those honored at the luncheon, ten of whom were not present, were: Roy Furr, general chairman; gasoline, J. Ben Cole, chairman, Sam Henry, John Spikes, Geo. R. Bean, Rev. Floyd Dawson, W. P. Clement, J. B. Maxey, H. H. Van Aken and Fred H. Childress; Tech, J. William Davis, Geo. C. Long and M. B. Harrison, Slaton, A. J. Payne and M. Klassner; price panel, J. O. Jenkins, chairman; J. H. Lamb; past chairmen, Robert J. Allen and J. D. Hassell, jr.; past tire board members, Chas. Read and Edgar Pace. Several other past members could not be contacted for the luncheon.

Retha Martin was introduced as a new Rotarian.

Dr. Newton's Appeal

prove that the couple reached Houston at 10 p. m. that evening and spent the night in the apartment of a friend.

Distances Cited

He pointed out that Cameron is more than 500 miles from Littlefield and Houston is more than 700 miles from Littlefield.

Camp also contended the trial court failed to charge the jury properly as to the issue of guilt or innocence; did not properly explain the meaning of alibi; and did not instruct the jury as to the definition of assault to murder.

The state was given an additional week to prepare arguments in the appeal since the new state's attorney, Ernest Goens, has been on duty only a few days.

Presiding Judge F. L. Hawkins asked that Goens give special attention to the issue of continuance in preparing the state's brief, explaining:

"I am frank to say that this member of the court is disturbed by the issue of continuance.

Informed By Telephone

Camp said Dr. Newton's first knowledge of the assault upon Dr. Hunt was when Dr. Newton telephoned Cameron from Houston on the morning of May 21, to learn that he had been accused of a crime. The attempt on Dr. Hunt's life occurred between midnight of May 20 and 1 a. m. of May 21, he said.

Trial testimony was that Dr. Hunt who was at home with a party of friends on the night of May 20 received several phone calls from a person he said was Mrs. Newton.

A state witness testified over objection of the defense that Mrs. Newton was seen to telephone from a Littlefield filling station that night.

One of the bills of exception filed by Camp was that the trial court permitted Dr. Hunt and his friends to testify that Dr. Hunt told the friends the telephone calls were from Mrs. Newton and that the statements were made out of the hearing and presence of Dr. Newton. His point was that none of the conversations showed any connection with Dr. Newton.

Testimony Recalled

In the trial of the assault to murder indictment against Dr. Newton Dr. Hunt testified he was called to the outskirts of Littlefield at midnight by a couple whom he identified as Dr. and Mrs. Newton. A shooting followed with a man using a light-calibered pistol while a woman remained in a car, Dr. Hunt said. The wounded physician further testified he escaped into a nearby field.

Dr. Hunt testified also that he and Dr. Newton were classmates at the University of Texas medical school at Galveston; that when Dr. Hunt was an interne at Jefferson Davis hospital in Houston in 1935, Mrs. Newton, then unmarried, was a nurse there and that the two were friends. Dr. Hunt's wife also was a nurse there. According to Dr. Hunt's testimony, he had not seen Dr. Newton since 1933 and Mrs. Newton since 1935.

Balkan Areas Hit

Allies will "knock out" the luftwaffe.

Doolittle will assume command of the 8th Air Force in England, the largest concentration of American planes in any war theater.

Twining, former commander of the 13th Air force in the Pacific, took over his new post as the 5th Air force Flying Fortresses were bombing targets in the Turin area of northern Italy.

"We are certainly going ahead with the war from here," Twining told newsmen. "We are going to put the heat on them and keep pouring it on."

Both Doolittle and Twining will be under the command of Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, who has been put in charge of the strategic bombing of German from both the west and the south.

Chinese Prepared For Counter-Offensive

CHUNGKING, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Chinese armies are prepared to launch a general counter-offensive this year, Minister of Information Liang Han-Chao told a press conference today, but he added that launching of such a drive would be contingent upon Allied operations in other theaters.

Liang said augmentation of Allied air strength in China would be particularly helpful in facilitating any extensive Chinese ground action.

ing one of their deepest penetrations of northwest Germany, effectively drove off weak enemy fighter opposition on the Kiel raid and destroyed eight intercepting planes, while the four-engined Flying Fortresses and Liberators destroyed four more.

18 American Planes Lost

British fighters contributed to the route of the enemy fighters by shooting down five in supporting sweeps that diverted and tied down enemy aircraft. Eighteen American heavy bombers were lost, but one was known to have made a forced landing in Sweden and another in Norway. Three American and British fighters were missing.

While American heavy bombers concentrated on Germany, 1,250 American medium bombers and other Allied aircraft gave the Pas de Calais area of the French invasion coast its heaviest pounding of the war yesterday.

More than 200 U. S. Marauders opened the attack at dawn with "good results," RAF Typhoons, Hurricanes, Bostons, Mitchells and Mosquitoes followed through, and 200 more Marauders wound up what the Allied Air forces regarded as a highly satisfactory day.

Targets Not Announced

The targets were not announced but they were believed to include gun installations, army barracks, supply dumps, airdromes and supply installations. With the afternoon raid, the Marauders completed their 1,500th sortie against the Pas de Calais area since Dec. 20 without loss.

Still other Allied planes attacked unidentified targets in, and made offensive sweeps over, France, Belgium and Holland.

News Briefs

C. Douglas, 1016 Sixteenth street, has returned from Waco where he attended funeral services Monday for his brother-in-law, Claude Miller, widely known lawyer, who died of heart attack last Thursday in the waiting room of a doctor's office. Miller, a few minutes before his death, had accepted a post as assistant district attorney of McClellan county. Burial was in Whiterock cemetery with Masonic services.

Granville Routh of Amarillo, field representative of the veteran's state service office, will be at the American Legion home, 910 Texas avenue, Thursday to confer with veterans or their dependents of any branch of the Armed Forces regarding claims they may have against the government, according to an announcement received here today.

Police said, "it looks like a calculated course to strip that car," after Lt. Wesley Hathaway had reported to them this morning that his car had been moved a block down the street from 2016 Tenth street Tuesday night, unlocked and stripped of two spotlights. Only Sunday, someone had taken two fender skirts from the vehicle.

Police this afternoon continued to hold a 23-year-old man arrested Tuesday afternoon in connection with forgery and passing of a $32.45 check to which had been signed the unauthorized name of S. E. Cone Grain & Seed Co. Charges likely will be filed this afternoon, it was indicated.

Sgt. Lewis Kittrell of the police traffic department filed a charge of "vision obscured by ice and frost" this morning after an automobile driven by Cpl. Harvey Gatewood, 22, of Lubbock Army Air field allegedly struck a machine driven by Mrs. E. C. Burns, 53, of 1320 Twenty-sixth street, at Broadway and Avenue N. The corporal pleaded guilty and paid a $5 fine. A Leftwich Food market pickup type automobile, parked, was struck by an automobile driven by a person whose identity had not been established by police early this afternoon.

A motion for rehearing was overruled this morning by the court of criminal appeals in connection with the case of Charlie Walker, Lubbock negro convicted of liquor law violation. The court recently had affirmed the conviction, a $150 fine, returned in Lubbock county court.

Court Hearing For Two Negroes Held

A habeas corpus hearing convened this morning by Judge Dan Blair of 72nd district court, involving two negroes, Robert Clayton and Robert Johnson, was resumed at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon.

Both negroes are being held without bail in connection with charges of murder of C. A. Spears, a negro, Dec. 19 in the Flats district of Lubbock. Both also were charged with pistol carrying as result of the shooting.

Several other witnesses were to be heard this afternoon, it was indicated by Burton S. Burns, district attorney, and Roy Carpenter, special prosecutor. Gene Mathis and Jimmie Cunningham are counsel for the negroes.

State holds it is proper to deny bail to the blacks, particularly since one of them, Johnson, is under 5-year suspended sentence for murder of another negro recently. The defense says it will take the case to the court of criminal appeals should Judge Blair rule adversely for that side.

Sinatra Will Aid In March Of Dimes Drive

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) —Frank Sinatra has been given the job of enlisting the support of the nation's youth in the 1944 march of dimes program.

Announcing appointment of the singer as chairman of the campaign's youth division, Basil O'Connor, president of the national foundation for infantile paralysis, said today the appeal to youngsters would be made primarily through radio.

Film Rights Sold On Best Seller

GREENUP, Ky., Jan. 5 (AP) — Jesse Stuart, author of the best-seller, "Taps for Private Tussie," said today he had sold the motion picture rights to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and that he was preparing to enter the Army.

Stuart said he was not at liberty to disclose the purchase price.

Prohibitionists On Sidelines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Anti-Saloon league of America, representing the organized forces against liquor, kept on the sidelines today in a congressional fight over prohibition.

Dr. George W. Crabbe, general superintendent of the league, said he believed the objectives of legislation introduced by representative Bryson (D-SC) could be accomplished by a presidential order.

Hearings Next Week

A House judiciary subcommittee will start hearings next week on the Bryson bill, which would outlaw for the war's duration all beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol by volume.

Interviewed in his old-fashioned second-floor office sandwiched in between several tap-rooms within a stone's throw of the capitol, Crabbe said his forces would continue to importune the president to order national prohibition as a war measure.

"At any time the president finds that drinking is interfering with the war effort, he may put an end to it by decree," he declared. "He has told us to take the ruffles off our pants and he has said how much coffee and sugar we can use."

Law On Creation Of Courts Is Attacked

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP) — Constitutionality of the state law creating administrative court districts with a presiding judge to assign judges within the district was attacked in the court of criminal appeals here today in an appeal of Robert M. Pierson of Dallas from a death-verdict murder case.

The brief for Pierson contended that the assignments of District Judges Henry King and W. L. Thornton to the court of the late Judge Grover Adams were void, and that because Gov. Coke R. Stevenson had failed to appoint a successor to Judge Adams, there was no judge legally qualified to approve bills of exceptions for appeal of the case.

Pierson was convicted of killing Thomas Joseph Vittrup with a pistol on Feb. 12, 1942.

Retired Rail Official Dies In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Jan. 5 (AP) — Claude J. Brown, 63, former general manager of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway system, died early today of a heart attack.

A veteran of World War I, Brown was a native of Denison, Tex., and advanced steadily from the position of a yard clerk at Denison to the top rnak of railroad men in the nation. He retired in 1941.

NEGRO IS ARRESTED

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 5 (AP)—Memphis police said today that Alonzo Curlee, a Fort Worth negro who had been sought by Texas police since May 9, 1937, for the slaying of Mrs. Gladys Harper, of Fort Worth, will be turned over to Texas authorities. He was arrested here by city officers and FBI men.

PREDICTS WINNER

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Daniel J. Tobin, international president of the brotherhood of teamsters (AFL), predicts that Wendell L. Willkie will win the 1944 Republican presidential nomination and will defeat the New Deal if the war is ended by election day.

Forces Behind Anonymity In Many Important Statements In Washington Are Discussed

BY JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 — A high source, a prominent official, an informed official, a well-informed official . . . Recognize them? Washington is full of them, anonymous people who usually know what they're talking about making statements without their names attached.

Now one of those anonymous persons has caused an explosion and General George C. Marshall's name has been linked to it.

You may gag, seeing unnamed people quoted repeatedly in Washington dispatches, but it's that way because they want it that way. Yet the chances are that as soon as they've made an anonymous statement their name as author of it will spread quickly around town and out into the country. So why be anonymous?

Sometimes Used By Habit

Sometimes that cloak of anonymity is a hand-me-down garment worn by an official only because he has fallen into the Washington habit of using it.

For special unselfish reasons of his own — or occasionally because he is genuinely publicity-shy — an official may desire to give important information while remaining unnamed. Much background material is given that way.

But the reasons for anonymity are not always that simple. What may appear to be a statement of honest fact or opinion may later prove to have had a special purpose unperceived at the time.

No Easy Path

There is no easy path through this jungle of words. When a responsible official makes an important statement it may be necessary to report it because of the position of the speaker and the newsworthy nature of the statement, even though his name can not be used.

On New Year's eve one of the highest officials in Washington called a press conference. He told the assembled newspapermen — for publication — that the rail and steel strikes were a "great tragedy" helping the Axis.

He said his name could not be used. His statement was attributed to a high source. Yet his position was so prominent and his public statements so few that, if his name had been used, what he had to say undoubtedly would have been far better publicized than it was.

Reasoning Was His Own

He wished publicity for his views or he would not have talked for publication. Then why didn't he assure for himself the widest possible publicity for his statement through use of his name? That's his secret. His reasoning was his own.

Labor was quick to resent not only the statement and its implications but its anonymous character, since labor was involved in it. Labor asked a Senate committee to smoke out the person responsible for it. Senator Truman (D-Mo), head of the committee, declined to investigate but regretted the statement ever had been made.

Finally AFL President William Green said General Marshall was "reported" to be the statement's author and asked proof of its various charges.

Casualties Predicted

Only about two weeks ago another official, also one of the highest in Washington, suddenly and unexpectedly predicted that within 90 days American casualties would triple those in the first two years of this country's war.

He, too, made the statement for publication but for some reason of his own would not permit use of his name.

So all of this brings up a final question:

Should statements from officials, no matter how high, be ignored if they insist on anonymity?

If that happened then the public would not know what their top officials were saying and thinking even if those officials did not want their names linked with their ideas and words.

The only ones who would know, in such an arrangement, would be a handful of Washington newspapermen who are responsible for keeping the public informed on Washington developments but who could not then do so.

New Mustering-Out Pay Plan Is Shaped

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — A new mustering-out pay plan to guarantee discharged service men an average minimum of $85 monthly for at least 12 months after their release was whipped into legislative form today by Rep. Ploeser (R-Mo).

Ploeser revealed details of his proposal as Chairman May (D-Ky) announced that the House military committee would meet next Tuesday to take final action on a mustering-out pay bill.

Intense European Diplomatic Activity In Prospect In 1944

BY WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 5 — Diplomatic activity possibly even more intense than that which characterized the closing months of 1943 is in prospect for 1944 — the "year of decision" in the calendar of World War II.

Already there is talk of another meeting of President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill in 1944 to follow the historic Middle East conferences where, it is understood, actual settlement of multiple detailed problems was left for future discussion.

In any case, here are some of the tasks confronting statesmen and diplomats:

1. Clarification of the status of refugee governments with respect to new leadership arising among patriot forces fighting inside occupied countries, with the aim of co-ordinating all efforts toward liberation.

Increased Diplomatic Pressure

2. Increased diplomatic pressure — parallel with military action such as the bombing of Sofia —to jolt out of the war the Axis satellites whose wagons still are hitched to Hitler's falling star.

3. Encouragements of neutrals such as Sweden to take a tougher attitude toward Germany, and further cultivation of Turkey's newly-declared trend toward closer collaboration with the United Nations.

4. Stabilization of political and economic conditions in liberated areas such as southern Italy.

5. Finally, the pivotal problem of what to do with defeated Germany, how to reorganize her bomb-wrecked industries to serve in rehabilitation, how to carry through the trial and punishment of war criminals, how to impress homeless people of obliterated cities that they have lost the war and at the same time mobilize their energies for the reconstruction of Europe, and how to liquidate completely German's armed strength and at the same time garrison and police the country well enough to forestall anarchy.

Outlined Broadly

All those questions undoubtedly have been dealt with in broad outline by the Big Three and other Allied statesmen, but the actual post-war treatment of the Germans is likely to depend largely on how much of their productive capacity remains and how much their cooperation is needed in the rehabilitation of Europe.

6. Only after the questoin of Germany's future status is decided are Europe's future frontiers likely to be discussed seriously.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull pointed in that direction when he told a news conference after his return from Moscow that frontier questions would have to wait until the war is won.

Mussolini's Flying Boat Used By Allies

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Northwest African Air force coastal command announced today that a luxurious Cant flying boat which had been built especially for Benito Mussolini is being used on special missions by the Allies.

A considerable force of Italian flying boats is being used by the Allies for sea rescue work. Recently the flying boats rescued a P-38 pilot, Lt. Robert T. Miller, of Washington, D. C., after he had been in the water for three and one-half hours.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have headaches?	☐	☐
Do you lack pep or vim?	☐	☐
Do you get irritable easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel depressed—nervous?	☐	☐

Everybody knows that poorly digested food often causes a headachy, sluggish condition.

But you may not know that Nature must produce each day about two pints of the vital digestive juice—liver bile—to help digest your food.

If Nature fails—food doesn't digest properly—you may get irregular. And the amount of this vital digestive juice may be still further reduced. Thus, digestive upset and sluggishness can follow each other in a vicious circle that keeps you feeling rotten. Therefore, take Carter's Little Liver Pills because they start bile flowing quickly—often within thirty minutes. When bile flow increases—you may help your digestion. You're on your way to feeling grand all over again. Remember—you can't get these same results from laxatives that fail to stimulate the flow of bile.

If you feel headachy, listless, irritable or depressed, get a 25¢ package of Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drugstore today. Take as directed. Tomorrow see how fit and alive you'll feel!

Texas Election Of Legislature Members Is Highly Important In View Of Wartime Problems

BY WILLIAM E. KEYS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 — Texans choose a new legislature this year and the elections to fill 150 House and 16 Senate seats will be highly important.

If the war ends in Europe in 1944 the new legislature — which meets in January 1945 — will have many unusual problems added to a normally big list. State participation in rehabilitation and readjustment of war veterans, conversion to peace-time economy and continued development of inter-American understanding are but a few items facing the post-war legislature.

Every two years the terms of all 150 House members expire. In the Senate which has 31 members, 16 terms expire this year.

Early For Campaigning

And while it's a bit early for campaigning for the Democratic primaries (which normally determine the general election winners of legislative places) numerous contested races are in prospect.

Rep. James A. Stanford of Travis county started the ball rolling by announcing for the Senate against Houghton Brownlee whose district comprises Travis, Williamson, Burnet, Lampasas, San Saba and Llano counties. The veteran Brownlee is chairman of the Senate's general investigating committee.

The new year will bring many other announcements.

Special Session Possible

There remains a possibility that the present legislature, the 48th, may meet in special session before the year ends.

Governor Coke R. Stevenson is not committed to an extraordinary session but neither has he ruled out the possibility. Fundamentally he looks upon special sessions as a last resort.

It may become necessary to call one to facilitate soldier voting in the primaries and general election. The picture will not clear until Congress — in recess until January 10 — acts finally on soldier vote legislation.

Voting Changes Seen

If Congress assigns administration of soldier voting to the states some alterations to the absentee balloting and poll tax statutes may be necessary in Texas if many Texans in the armed forces are to vote in 1944. Present law requires them to pay a poll tax or obtain an exemption and gives only a limited period in which applications for ballots may be made for state elections.

High on the list of priorities for special session consideration are two proposals of the governor: a method of stopping exportation of natural gas from Texas and a plan for putting the state's general fund in balance without new taxes or bond issues.

If an extraordinary session is ordered for any purpose it is not likely to come before spring.

The plans for the U. S. Capitol were submitted in 1793 by William Thornton, a physician of Tortola, West Indies.

AUSTRALIAN CASUALTIES

SYDNEY, Jan. 3 (AP)—Australian army casualties since the outbreak of war total 29,995, Army Minister Frank Forde announced today. In addition to 10,884 killed, 15,332 wounded and 3,779 missing, 25,895 Australians have been taken prisoners.

Westerners Defeat LAAF Five 31-24

Cope Top Scorer For High School

Staging a last half drive that refused to be halted, Dixie White's Lubbock Westerners roared to a 31 to 24 victory over the 498th Squadron cage team from Lubbock Army Air field Tuesday night at the high school gym. It was the second win of the season for the Westerners, and only the second loss for the soldiers.

It was almost a personal victory for Bill Cope, Westerner forward, who piled up 15 points, within one point of half the points scored by his mates. The Westerners really started clicking in the last half, and it was in the final period that Cope accounted for most of his points.

The game started slowly with the first quarter ending with the score knotted 6 to 6. The Westerners took a lead in the second period with Manderson and Cope accounting for eight points between them, and a lead of 12 to 8 was enjoyed at the halftime.

Last Half Drive

The Westerners came out for the last half filled with fire, and at once settled down to the business of building up a comfortable lead, and at the end of the third period were enjoying a 20-10 advantage over the Army five.

The lead was never threatened in the final period as the Westerners coasted in with the victory, although it was reduced slightly by the Army lads who staged a game battle to overhaul the civilians.

Robert Sellers, a blond topped star from Concordia, Kansas, was the star of the Army five, dropping five goals through the mesh for a total of ten points, second only to Cope on the scorebook.

Revis Harris, top scorer of the team, was covered by the Westerners all the way and one good shot at the basket was all he could get. Norman Volz, former Texas Tech star and coach of the Army club, rushed into the game in the third period in an effort to stave off the defeat, but was never able to muster an attack that would check the Westerners.

Good Defense

The high school boys showed some great defensive play during the game, and bottled up the veteran Army cagers most of the night, and once they had the advantage they refused, to give it up.

The Army five held Marion Manderson well in check for the last half but could never find a defense that would stop Cope. George Brewer was the second high man for the Westerners, getting three field goals for six points.

The Westerners will clash with Lamesa High School here Thursday night at the high school gym for the best test against other high school foes for Coach Dixie White's hustling youngsters.

Grid Moguls Protest Fines

Playoff Incident Inspires Action

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP) — The $500 fines assessed by Commissioner Elmer Layden of the National Football league against two of the circuit's ranking officials for their alleged altercation at the pro championship playoff game here Dec. 26 will be protested.

Disapproval of Layden's disciplinary action was expressed by the principals, George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, and Ralph Brizzolara, Chicago Bears' general manager, shortly after the commissioner's announcement yesterday.

Ruling Said "Assinine"

Brizzolara described Layden's ruling "assinine," and denied that he had engaged in an altercation with Marshall.

The bit of unscheduled performance at the title game occurred near the end of the first half when Marshall came over to the Bears bench. Brizzolara told newspapermen last night that he had told the Redskins' owner to leave, but "at no time was I nearer than five or six feet of Marshall."

The Bears' boss added that Jack Goldie, Bear equipment manager, "of his own volition forcibly tried to eject Marshall," and that he was escorted from the bench by Goldie and police.

Layden termed the action of Marshall and Brizzolara as "harmful to the public confidence in the National league," and asserted they did not promote the interest of professional football.

George Strickler, league public relations director, said Marshall confirmed receipt of Layden's notice and advised him that he would protest the fine.

The matter probably will be given a thorough airing at the league's winter meeting. In the meantime, the fines have not been paid.

Two More Entered In Golden Gloves

Two new names were added to the entry list of the district Golden Gloves tournament scheduled for Texas Tech gym Jan. 14, 15 and 17 to bring the list to eight. Both entries Tuesday were middleweights.

Wayne Kaney, 165, and F. Cox, 160, sent in entries to Golden Glove headquarters Tuesday. Both men have had Golden Glove experience and reported to be in top shape and ready for the bell.

Tournament headquarters announced Tuesday that hopes were held out for "at least" 28 entries by tournament time, and added that the meet would go on as scheduled if that many were received. This means that tournament officials are beating the bushes for at least another 20 leather pushers.

Northward Expansion Of Big Leagues Seen

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (AP)—Northward into Canada, not westward, is the logical direction for major league baseball to expand, contends Bob Carpenter, jr., youthful president of the National league Phillies.

The youngest major league president in the game turned thumbs down on the proposed westward expansion of big league baseball yesterday when he said:

"The expansion program of the majors westward to the Pacific coast is at least 15 years off because it will take that long to perfect safety in air travel."

By that Carpenter said he meant westward expansion would be sidetracked until air travel is made as safe as "sitting in your office." "In the meantime," he said, "why not give Canada a chance to get big league baseball?"

Pro Football Winter Meet Set Jan. 12-13

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — National professional football league Commissioner Elmer Layden today set Jan. 12-13 for the league's annual midwinter meeting.

Owners of all of the league teams and several coaches were expected to attend the meeting, which originally was scheduled for Dec. 20-21, but was postponed because of the lateness of the playoff game and the imminence of the Christmas holidays.

Stagg Believes Many Colleges To Resume Football This Fall

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP) — Amos Alonzo Stagg the "young" man who went west and found a new coaching career at 71, believes that some colleges which abandoned football last year will resume it next fall.

Voted coach of the year by the National Association of Football writers, Stagg was back here today receiving plaudits from old friends of his University of Chicago days.

The "grand old man of the midway," coach of the Maroons for 41 years before he took over the football situation at little College of the Pacific 10 years ago, turned out one of the nation's strongest teams last fall.

At 81 he retains the enthusiasm and vigor of a man half his age. He sees the game as a splendid physical and mental conditioner, believes it should not be abandoned because of the war.

"We coaches who decided to carry on in 1943 made no mistake," he said. "The educators who discontinued the sport are the ones who made a mistake. However, some of the schools on the West coast which discontinued athletics last year apparently are ready to resume next fall. I think Stanford will be one and several others up north also are ready to return."

Golfers Square Off In Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP) — For the first time since the war began, major golf competition returned to the Pacific coast today as a field of 180 pros and amateurs, including seven former titleholders, squared off over rain-soaked fairways in the $12,500 Los Angeles open.

Often a champion of other events but never successful here, Byron Nelson served strong pre-tournament notice that he's back in stride and expects to break into the winner's column at last to lay claim to the $4,375 first pro prize.

In a preliminary round yesterday, the big Toledo, Ohio, pro and Ike Greenberg, Los Angeles amateur, tied with Lloyd Mangrum and Al Behrstock, another local simon pure, for a pro-amateur best ball of 64 over a par 72 course. Mangrum had 67, while Nelson shot 65.

Former titleholders entered are Harry Cooper, who won the first tournament here in 1926; Macdonald Smith, a four-times winner; Jimmy Thomson, Johnny Bulla, Ed Dudley, Craig Wood and Jimmy Hines.

Not present to defend his title is Ben Hogan, who won the last tournament in 1942 with a 72 in an 18-hole play-off of a tie with Thomson.

National League President Says Aim Is To Keep Baseball Going During 1944 Season

BY FORD C. FRICK
(President of the National Baseball League)
Written For Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 5—No one knows how the developments of 1944 will shape the programs of baseball.

We faced 1943 with the determination to carry through a pennant race as near like peace-time as could be done while giving full cooperation to the high command in war economics, transportation emergencies, drives for war funds and war bonds, and the various other contingencies as they came up.

The testimony from all fronts was that baseball fans now in the Army and Navy found the news from the baseball leagues as popular a topic of interest and argument as in their civilian days.

We played our scheduled last year with teams composed mainly of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, some 4-F's, some plus-38's, some sub-19's. We face a season coming up in which the outlook is for fewer of the family men in our lineups, more of the other groups.

President Roosevelt wrote to Judge Landis Jan. 15, 1942, a month after Pearl Harbor:

"I honestly feel that it would be best for the country to keep baseball going."

The National league's aim for 1944 is to carry through on the commander-in-chief's assignment.

Jimmy Bivins Passes Induction Physical

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — Jimmy Bivins, the nation's No. 1 heavyweight outside the armed forces, underwent his pre-induction physical examination Monday and has been pronounced physically fit for military duty, it was learned today.

The 23-year-old Cleveland negro boxer, who currently is on a 90-day deferment which started Dec. 1, is expected to be included in his selective service board's next call, probably within a month.

Bivins is scheduled to fight Lee Q. Murray, Norwalk, Conn., negro, in a return 10-round bout Feb. 29. Murray almost beat Bivins in the first bout here early last month.

What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say—
The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 300 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them).

Dear Plainsman: This is the first time in my life I have seen small business close to avoid business, and the larger stores to look askance upon the customers and seem to be annoyed by them. Sink or swim, now is a good time, as always, to be friendly to the customer. Barring accidents, it will pay dividends in the future.

Sincerely,
A Reader.

SEEKS USO ENTRE

Dear Plainsman: This letter will probably be an unusual one, but I am writing with regard to a little information I desire.

I've been living in Lubbock for about four months and ever since coming here I have wished that I might join your local USO. I've asked countless people just whom I should see to become a member, but all of them shake their heads and say, "don't know."

I am a rather attractive girl, dance, go in for all types of sports and would enjoy very much meeting some of your local young people

Lubbock is, after four months, where I would like to make my home, and of course, my family is willing. We are members of one of your local churches, and have met some very nice people through church socials.

However, every time I pick up a paper and see the many activities that are being held at the USO club, my eyes are green with envy.

Won't you please tell me just whom I should see about becoming a member?

Sincerely,
A Reader.

(Dear Reader: Thanks for your letter. I assume when you refer to joining the USO, you mean joining the Hubettes, that group of fine young ladies who have done and are doing so much to make pleasant the stays of service men here. All applicants for membership in the Hubettes must make formal application, give references, etc. You, or any other young lady falling into the age bracket, may make application at your convenience. Blanks are procurable from Miss Leona Gelin, hostess at the USO, or from members of her staff; or from chamber of commerce offices, on the second floor of the City hall. Cordially yours, The Plainsman.)

FOR some reason or other, members of the negro community have not been generally interested in sending in suggestions of names for their section of the city.

The Plainsman knows there is widespread hope among local negroes that the term "The Flats" can be junked and a better name selected. Yet when this column invited negroes to send in suggestions to be turned over to a committee of negroes headed by Ed Struggs, the colored schools principal, only two responded. Others may be forthcoming, but only two have arrived.

One of the letters received (it is signed by the writer's name but he prefers to be known simply as "A Citizen in The Flats" suggests "Carver Place," or "Carver Addition," in honor of the late, great Dr. George Washington Carver, scientist and former president of Tuskegee Institute. Either of these suggestions has merit, because George Carver undoubtedly was the greatest member of his race produced in this country.

The second suggestion is anonymous. It is "East End."

Ed Struggs advises The Plainsman that he will circulate among his people and dig up some other suggestions. They will be printed here when received.

Meanwhile, other negro residents having suggestions are urged to turn them over to Ed Struggs, or send them in on a postcard to The Plainsman, care The Avalanche-Journal.

Well, shoe rationing has done one good thing, anyhow. It has caused people to buy shoes to fit their feet, rather than to fit the occasion.

* * *

IN connection with the campaign for knives and scabbards for South Plains fighting men, carried on jointly by Klaus McCraw, George Moore and The Plainsman, we recently were tendered, for "Jap sticking" purposes, an unusual type of knife.

It was brought to us by Mrs. Cora J. Foy, 2912 Thirty-sixth street, and is the property of her brother, a resident of Cheyenne, Wyo.

Mrs. Foy's brother took the knife off a German prisoner in World War 1. It is a handsome thing, with decorations on the blade.

We declined the gift from Mrs. Foy for two reasons:

In the first place, it is not quite rugged enough for "Jap sticking" purposes; and in the second place, it is so valuable to Mrs. Foy as a keepsake that we couldn't bring ourself about to take advantage of her generosity.

* * *

However, Klaus McCraw, who makes the serviceable daggers, is still in the market for more cotton knives; and Mr. Moore, who makes the scabbards to go with them, still needs thick, tough, serviceable leather. Both Mr. McCraw and Mr. Moore do their work free and The Plainsman passes out the finished sets, free, to relatives of fighting men in the Pacific.

Recent gifts of leather have come from Mrs. Maple Wilson, of Lubbock; Mrs. C. C. Copeland, of Plains, and Mrs. W. R. Slaton, (mother of Lubbock's Mayor Carl Claton) of Seminole.

R. D. McDonald, of Levelland, sent in three knives, and Roy Furr, of Lubbock, contributed one.

Lubbock and South Plains people having knives and leather suitable for making the daggers and scabbards are urged to bring or send either to The Plainsman, care of The Avalanche-Journal. He'll see that they're finished and passed out where they'll do the most harm to the Japs.

OUR recent discussion of Lubbock oldtimers still on the same jobs they were on 20 years ago brought forth a list of school teachers who have taught in the local system for two decades, or longer.

The list is made up of the following, with their years of service in parentheses behind their names:

G. N. Atkinson, (33); Miss Stella Thurman, (26); Mrs. J. T. Trigg, (25); Mrs. Josephine Ballenger, (23); J. W. Reid, (22); Carroll Thompson, E. J. Lowrey and Ella Illes, (21 years each); R. W. Matthews, H. C. Bowlin and Miss Beulah Starnes, (20 years each). All those in the foregoing list will have added another full year of service to their totals at the close of school next spring.

Others who will complete 20 consecutive years here next spring are Mrs. Guy L. Trow, R. T. Groves, Mrs. Ruth Carter.

Ella Illes, who completes 22 years of good teaching service is the only negro among the "oldtimers."

MAJ. Ross McWhorter, whose pressing Army business takes him over a considerable portion of Italy, writes his brother, Owen, that we cannot realize here at home the awful conditions under which the Italian civilians are living. He says things in Naples, normally a beautiful port city, are little short of horrible. Sanitation facilities are practically nil; there is a terrible shortage of drinking water; the people are underfed, dirty and ragged.

From still another source, we learn that black markets are flourishing in that unhappy land and that the people are at the mercy of the racketeers.

For instance: long bread lines form in front of bakeries before daylight. Ragged, shivering housewives stand for long hours with ration cards clutched in their hands, each hopeful of buying at least one loaf of bread for her hungry bambinos. But the odds are stacked heavily against them.

By the time the average housewife's turn comes, she will probably be told that the supply is gone for the day. An attendant says, "finito," but usually gives her a knowing wink. She knows what that means. It means that if she will go to the alley entrance she will be permitted to buy bread at as much as 20 times the legal price.

Naturally the people do not like this sort of thing, but there is little they can do. If someone files a complaint and the bootlegger goes to jail, there will be no bread—not even on the black market.

It certainly is a sorry state of affairs.

TEMPORARY INTEREST

CHAPTER XVI

The Club was gay, the lights danced over the water, the orchestra was smooth and good. Emily, revolving in Frank's competent arms thought every now and again, with utmost astonishment, why, I'm having a good time. The little frock she had bought on her way home Saturday noon was simple and effective, a dotted swiss, red and blue dots on a white ground, with a soft navy blue belt. The skirt was full and the bodice tight. She looked enchanting and did not need Frank's eyes or comments to tell her so.

He warned, spinning her around a corner:

"I'm falling in love with you, Emily."

"Please don't," she said, gravely. Then she laughed. "It's my red, white and blue, it's the night and the music. Tomorrow you'll feel quite differently.

She hoped she spoke true prophesy for every now and again she forgot she was having a good time. She remembered Millicent's eyes, her unhappy mouth and the anxious, triangular frown between her brows. And later, walking out on the big veranda, which faced the water, feeling Frank's hand possessively on her arm, she was miserable and lonely. Nancy was home, alone. Jim was home. . . .

"A triumphal return to the social whirl," Frank suggested, "I've not had one full dance with you."

She said:

"I'm having a grand time. I'll have to do it more often, I suppose . . . I'd forgotten the Club could be such fun."

"If you do it more often," he said, "it will have to be with me. Look, Emily, don't you like me at all?"

* * *

He looked and spoke like an overgrown and very sulky boy.

She said mildly:

"I like you very much, I always have."

"Hell," he said, unapologetic, "I hoped you'd say you didn't, and that you couldn't stand me. Dislike is something you can fight, get your teeth in—even hatred's a pretty good sign. But indifference . . . Liking is indifference . . . as far as I'm concerned."

"You asked me," she said, unmoved, "and I answered. Frank, don't be idiotic. Why spoil such a very pleasant evening?"

"I'm not giving up," he said. "I wish you'd take yourself seriously," she told him, and then felt sorry she had said anything. Two years in the Army had taken care of his personal debt to society.

He stiffened.

"Meaning what?"

Emily felt she might as well finish what she'd begun.

"I mean your work at the mill," she said. "The responsibility of the job you've taken on. Oh, I know it probably doesn't seem very important to you right now that you're still so close to the other side of the war. But, believe me, it is important. I don't mean just making money for yourself and your stockholders, naturally. I mean the responsibility of fair dealing with the people who work for you, Frank. . . . I wish some time you'd find a legitimate excuse to go into some of the homes."

He turned and looked at her sharply.

"What's the matter with them? I thought we had a pretty good setup."

"You have," she agreed, "on the surface. It's none of my business but—"

"You could make it your business."

She said, slowly:

"Perhaps. And then I could say that the means were justified by the result. I suppose I could take advantage of your temporary interest in me—"

"Who says it's temporary?"

"I do," she answered calmly. She faced him, smiling a little, her hair soft and cloudy around her face, the full skirts stirred by the fresh breeze from the bay. "Temporary in the extreme. You're home and you're bored. Most of the girls are—or could be—responsive to you. You've been away a long time, you're new to them now, and there is very little competition for you. Which does not mean that you are not one of the most eligible men in town by any count as well as one of the most attractive. You've been here a few weeks and it's all been very easy for you. And fun, I've no doubt. Then I come along, and I haven't the time to give you, I've a job I like, work which means a great deal to me. I don't flutter when you approach. You're not used to that. So you think that—"

"For heaven's sake," he asked helplessly, "is this a course in psychology?"

She laughed.

"I'm sorry," she told him, "forgive me. I meant only that I might use your sudden, if evanescent, attention, blackmail you into doing more for your father's employees than has been done in a great many years. Well, I won't. I like you too well for that, I think too highly of the intelligence you go out of your way to hide. All I ask is that you investigate for yourself. I don't think, I'll have to say another word."

Dan Graham came out on the porch and grinned at Frank. "Devastated to interrupt," he said mendaciously, "but the music's started and I want a dance with Emily."

He put his arm around her and moved toward the dance floor. Frank stared after them. She was probably right. He was bored, she was new, different, and, as she had said, indifferent. That had piqued him, aroused his interest. Nancy . . . all quick answers and provocative allurement . . . he'd met a thousand girls like Nancy, but none like Emily. Temporary, was it? He'd show her!

Structural Faults In Liberty Ships Aired

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Structural faults in Liberty ships, which have caused some of them to break up, can not be entirely corrected, says Chairman Emory S. Land, of the Maritime commission.

As Senator Truman (D-Mo) chairman of the war investigating committee disclosed he has asked for a report on Liberty ship performance, Land said the structural faults are susceptible to from 75 to 80 per cent correction, but not 100 per cent.

THE PROBLEMS OF LABOR TURNOVER

While there may be doubt as to their bearing on the general manpower problem, some figures reported recently by the Aircraft War Production council are illuminating. Eight leading western aircraft manufacturers support the council.

The report shows that, of every 100 men and women employed in those eight factories a year ago, less than 15 remain on the job. Eight worked less than 15 days, 21 less than a month and 31 less than three months. At the start, 96 were without previous experience in an aircraft plant. They received their training—with pay—then they quit.

Just what happened isn't clear, though the report said that few who quit went to other aircraft plants. Many simply decided they didn't care to work and others that they didn't like airplane plants.

But regardless of causes, the figures are evidence that something fundamental must be wrong. Perhaps it is the employer, or the employe, or, more probably, a combination of both, together with problems that inevitably arise—such as transportation and housing—in any overcrowded boom center.

But, from the report, it would seem evident that the labor for a solution of a big part of any manpower problem that exists is available at the scene. Let the problem of labor turnover be solved, and the whole manpower may be solved—and without the necessity of a national labor draft which administration spokesmen still are urging.

Curvy WAC Musical Is Hit In Algiers

ALGIERS, Jan. 5 (U.P.)—"Swing, Sister WAC, Swing," the first Army overseas musical, held its world premiere on the Algiers opera house stage last night before a receptive audience of GI's and officers.

A smooth-stepping chorus of 50 flimsy-dressed WAC beauties drew applause dwarfing that previously accorded to visiting stars from Hollywood.

Several catchy tunes—including the title song and the new hit of Algiers, "It Doesn't Matter, It's the War"—and dances planned and directed by Sgt. Art Crafa, Brooklyn, N. Y., gave the show prospects for a long run in the Army camps and possibly on Broadway.

The plot revolves about the amusing misadventures of Sad Sack, the Army cartoon character, as he seeks his first stripe and gets mixed up with the harem beauties of Algiers.

But for the homesick North African soldiers, it was the WAC chorus that stole the show. Attired in sequined brassieres and panties and copious sashes, they showed the GI's that all the curves were not left back on the home front.

Residents of Grand Rapids, Minn., are helping the city clear the site of a proposed new park and bathing beach.

Artillerymen In Italy Dream About Visiting Homefolks

No Comfort, Only Deadly Monotony At Front

By ERNIE PYLE
Journal War Correspondent

AT The Front Lines In Italy, Jan. 5, (By Wireless)—The cannoneers of an artillery battery lead a life that is deadly with monotony and devoid of any comfort or diversity or hope of diversity.

Ordinarily they are firing only a small part of any one day. The rest of the time they either play poker, do their washing, sew buttons, write letters on their knees or just sit around doing absolutely nothing and talking the same kind of small talk day after day after day.

ERNIE PYLE

If they had a comfortable place to loaf in it wouldn't be so bad, but there's never anything but a water can or a sandbag to sit on, and a little straw on the ground to lie on. There's no place to put anything, and the cramped confines of your puptent are your castle.

And yet the average cannoneer that I was with was in good spirits and seemingly resigned without bitterness to going on and on that way indefinitely.

The regiment recently began a rotation system of letting a few men in each battery off on leave to go to Naples for five days. Naples is a nice city and the boys can get a bath and a good bed, go sightseeing, drink some vino, and maybe even have a date.

* * *

Look Forward To Furloughs

Little Corp. Peewee Graham recently got back from Naples and he still has to undergo constant kidding about the hell he possibly raised in the big city.

The rotation plan of sending one per cent per month of each outfit back to America also comes in for a lot of discussion. It isn't working very well so far, and the quota has been cut to half of one per cent. It's an optimist indeed who figures the quota will ever get around to him personally.

Sergt. Jack McCray has his own chances all figured out. He says the way things are going now he will get his five days in Naples around next July and will get to go back to America 17 years from now.

The boys, incidentally, cut cards to see who goes on the Naples junkets.

* * *

THE shell they fire from these 155-mm. howitzers has a single metal band around it. Two or three times a day in every battery one of these bands will fly off as a shell leaves the gun, and the band will go careening and screaming through the air on its own. These are called "rotating bands." They're liable to go in any direction, and they make a variety of noises, one of which sounds like a whipped dog yowling in terror.

I was standing one morning with a bunch of cannoneers when a rotating band of the whipped-dog type cut loose from another battery, whereupon one of the soldiers said:

"We've run out of ammunition so we're shooting dogs at 'em now."

* * *

Dogs Figure In Conversation

Dogs also figure in the conversation about food. Every day or so somebody jokingly brings up the suggestion that the cook is putting Italian dogs in the chow. One of the boys said:

"As soon as I don't see no more dogs around I'm gonna quit eatin'."

One day an ammunition truck drove past and it had a little black-and-white dog standing on top of the hood with his ears up and tail up, looking so damned important you almost had to laugh. When the truck came back the little dog was running ahead of it, nosing around into everything, still acting awfully important. When he saw us he came bounding into the gun pit, walked right across a row of shells lying there, and continued busily on his way.

I don't know why that struck the soldiers as so odd, but they kept talking about the dog walking right across those shells, as though there might have been some danger of his setting them off, which of course there wasn't. In fact the men themselves walk and sit on them all the time.

* * *

LOTS of soldiers have picked up local dogs as pets. The dogs here are better and healthier looking than those in Africa.

Some dogs are absolutely indifferent to a blast from the heavy guns, while it scares others to death. At night, after a salvo, you can hear the farmers' dogs all around yelling in fright as though they had been kicked. And the cannoneers say that sometimes a dog will just stand and shake all over with fright after a big gun has gone off.

In that respect there is a lot of similarity between a dog and me.

Slav Partisans Capture Towns

LONDON, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — Reinforced Jugoslav partisan armies in a sudden burst of strength have captured three strategic inland towns and the offshore island of Pag, have crushed a German offensive in eastern Bosnia, and now threaten to envelop part of the Nazi second tank army, a communique reported today.

Marshal Josip (Tito) Brozovich's headquarters announced the occupation of Vlasenica, 35 miles northeast of Sarajevo, and the towns of Novovaros and Pacina in an upsurge of fighting all along the Jugoslav front.

Heavy Fighting Continues

The heaviest battles were in progress along a 30-mile front in western Bosnia, while other units of the partisan mountain fighters flailed out at the Nazis in a number of sectors.

The partisans were holding a line running from Novi through Projedor and beyond Banja Luka, key stronghold where the Germans established armored headquarters. The Jugoslavs were reported battling through Banja Luka in bloody street fighting.

Smashing the German offensive in eastern Bosnia, the partisans went over to the attack and recaptured all the territory they had lost in the last two weeks.

The new offensive operations appeared to signalize a general partisan offensive, designed in part to offset German attempts to launch large scale attacks in central and western Bosnia.

Connally Urges Unity In Coming Campaign

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate foreign relations committee today threw his support behind efforts to keep post-war policy issues out of the 1944 presidential campaign.

"The time has come for all responsible elements in the United States to unite in support of a thoroughly American foreign policy," Connally said in an interview.

"That policy embraces the determination to prosecute the war to complete and crushing victory over our enemies.

"It embraces the intention to establish thereafter an international organization for the stabilization of peace, and for its preservation.

"It calls for the use of that organization in the suppression of aggression, by peaceful means, if that course proves effective, and if not, then by force of arms."

Two Babies Found Alone In Flat

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 —A police hunt was underway today for the parents of two babies found alone in a chilly, windswept East Side flat—frostbitten, hungry and too weak to do more than whimper.

The children, a 9-months-old boy and a girl about two, were discovered yesterday when a patrolman entered the locked apartment through a window to investigate the source of water leaking into a flat below.

The boy, clad only in a shirt and sweater, was tied by his feet to a daybed. The girl had no clothes. She was lying in her crib with only a thin blanket as a cover.

Aluminum Program Faces More Study

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Members of the Washington and Oregon congressional delegation obtained today what they accepted as a promise from the War Production board that no aluminum plant in the Pacific Northwest would be shut down until after further study of the nation's entire aluminum program.

"No aluminum plant in the Pacific Northwest is to be shut down by the War Production board pending further study and a later meeting between the WPB officials and members of Congress from Washington and Oregon," Senator Bone (D-Wash) said after a conference between the delegations and Philip Wilson, chief of the WPB light metals division.

CIVILIAN NEEDS SAID IGNORED BY WPB

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5 (AP) — N. A. Zonarich, international president of the CIO-Aluminum workers of America, today charged the War Production board with ignoring civilian needs and possible future military needs in closing a number of aluminum plants in the nation.

Pilot-Father Killed Before Son's Birth

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — Just before the birth of his son, a message was received here late yesterday telling of the death in an airplane crash of Lt. John Henry Smith, 28-year-old Austin airforce pilot. Word of her husband's death was kept from Mrs. Smith temporarily.

Lt. Smith was killed in a transport plane crash near Macon, Ga. He trained for his army service at Marfa, Fort Stockton and Pecos, Tex. and at Santa Ana, Calif.

Dallas Transportation Slowed By Influenza

DALLAS, Jan. 5 (U.P.)—Dallasites had an idea today of how helpless they would be should the city's transportation system break down for any reason.

Would-be passengers waited and waited for buses that didn't come, and then half the time they couldn't get on those that did arrive because of the crowds.

Forty per cent of the Dallas Railway company's rolling stock, most of it in buses, was tied up because influenza struck 18 per cent of its drivers and repairmen.

News Briefs

Occupants escaped injury when a towplane and glider were forced down in the vicinity of Lorenzo Tuesday afternoon, according to information released by officials of South Plains Army Air field.

Ted Cox, former motor company operator in Lubbock, has been employed as a price specialist in the durable goods branch of OPA in the El Paso district office, according to notice received at Lubbock district office Tuesday.

Fire Tuesday night damaged a negro residence at 2312 Avenue B, after an oil stove had "flared up."

A nine-pound son was born Monday in Corpus Christi to Seaman and Mrs. Duward Bowers of Corpus Christi. The parents formerly lived in Lubbock.

The Becton Red Cross realized $80 from a dinner served Monday in the community. The money will be deposited in the 1944 War Fund drive.

Lt. and Mrs. W. V. (Bill) Tolbert are parents of a son weighing eight pounds born at the Stork's Nest in Los Angeles Monday night. The infant was named Steven Vance. Lt. Tolbert is a bombardier in England. Mrs. Frances Lee Tolbert of 2119 Twenty-seventh street is the paternal grandmother.

Four men have been added to the night police force: Richard Green, William Ball, J. D. Holcomb and Mark V. McCurry. It was announced that Dee Brogden and Charlie Street had been designated a night traffic detail.

Police said a suspect had been described to them in connection with the theft Tuesday of a $300 diamond ring from Claudia Spencer of 2015 Fourteenth street. Pigeons valued at $37.50 were stolen from J. A. Dean of 1820 Nineteenth street, chickens from 908 Third street, from Mrs. L. W. Maynard. Five gambling fines were paid, $20 each.

Cold Wave Moving Slowly Into State

(By The United Press)

Sub-freezing temperatures gripped the Panhandle and South Plains sections of Texas today, with a minimum of 13 degrees reported at Dalhart, as a new cold wave moved slowly into the state.

Little snow or rain was accompanying the fresh wintry weather, however, as clearing skies were reported over much of that area.

The freezing temperatures were reported as far south as El Paso, Big Spring and Abilene and at Wichita Falls, southeast of the Panhandle, while at Dallas the mercury stood at 35 at 6:30 a. m.

Other 6:30 a. m. readings reported by the Dallas weather bureau included Pampa 18 degrees, Amarillo 21, Lubbock 24, Clarendon 26, El Paso 29, Big Spring 30 and Abilene and Wichita Falls 31.

Forecasts for today predicted partly cloudy and cooler weather for West Texas with Thursday being partly cloudy and colder in the Del Rio-Eagle Pass areas.

Shoe Clerk, Aged But Agile, Foils Robbery Attempt

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP)—The two gunmen who entered a west side shoe store last night paid scant attention to the aged man behind the counter, proceeded about their apparent larcenous business.

One bandit approached the clerk, John Heyduk, flourished a revolver and told him to put up his hands. Heyduk, who is 80 years old but agile, knocked the gun from the robber's hand.

When he stooped to retrieve it, Heyduk reached under the counter, grabbed a baseball bat and clubbed the bandit. The second robber helped his dazed companion from the store.

Heyduk, who had been watching the store for his son, John, was telephoning police to report the attempted holdup when his son returned.

Liberty Ship Breaks Three Times On Trip

SEATTLE, Jan. 5 (AP) — Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash) reported last night that the liberty ship S. S. Chief Washakie had sustained breaks in its structure three times on the same Alaskan voyage a month ago.

"On the nine liberty ships known to have split at sea," the member of the House naval affairs committee said in an interview, "the story of the Chief Washakie is second only to that of the John P. Gaines, from which 10 men are still missing."

In his on-the-spot investigation for congressional committees, Magnuson reported the ship bore numerous patches, had cracked almost in half and carried heavy chains as support between the ship's sections upon arrival here.

More Appeal Board Panels Established

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Additional appeal board panels are being established in five Texas cities to facilitate review of cases, state selective service headquarters announced today.

The cities are San Antonio, Houston, Beaumont, Fort Worth and Dallas.

Pointing out that the amended selective service act provides transmittal of appeal to the area where the registrant is working, a spokesman said thousands of employes from other states must have their appeals reviewed by Texas boards.

"The number of appeals in the industrial centers will become too great for the boards to handle without undue delay, so additional panels have been recommended by Gov. Coke Stevenson to the President," the spokesman added.

New Vote Bill To Be Offered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Senator Lucas (D-Ill) offered a new absentee vote bill for service personnel today in place of the leave-it-to-the-states resolution which the Senate substituted for his original measure.

Announcing he would formally introduce his revised proposal Monday, while the Senate substitute still dangles in the House elections committee, Lucas said:

Necessity For Ballot

"If a man can stop a bullet he ought to have the opportunity to cast a ballot . . . There's nothing the states can do that will take away the necessity for a federal ballot."

The Illinois senator still wants a federal ballot commission, as was provided in the original bill drafted by himself and Senator Green (D-RI), but its powers would be sharply pruned so that its duties would be almost entirely administrative. The four-man, bi-partisan commission would prepare the war ballots, turn them over to the Army and Navy, and after they had been filled out, transmit them to the 48 secretaries of state.

STUDENT BODY INDUCTED

GALVESTON, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — The entire student body of Kirwin High school, about 200 boys, was inducted into the Civil Air patrol at ceremonies yesterday afternoon.

Prisoner Is Shot In Attempt To Escape

BEAUMONT, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sheriff Sam Scherer of Anahuac said James O. Pearson, 34, was shot to death yesterday at Conroe after he had disarmed an officer and attempted to escape.

Sheriff Scherer said he and Deputy Sheriff Bob Thornton were transferring Pearson and two other prisoners from the Chambers county jail at Anahuac to the penitentiary at Huntsville and stopped at Conroe on the way.

Scherer said that Pearson grabbed Thornton's pistol from the scabbard while Thornton was returning from a men's lounge to the car with Pearson and one of the other prisoners. The sheriff added that:

Pearson, holding the pistol on Thornton and the prisoner returning with them, backed them to the car and pushed the gun against Scherer, who had remained in the car with the third prisoner. As Scherer backed from under the steering wheel, Thornton obtained another pistol from the glove compartment of the car and fired one shot.

The other two prisoners were delivered to Huntsville.

Sharp Rift Develops In Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — A sharp division has developed among three Roosevelt appointees to the Supreme court over interpretations of law relating to economic questions.

Brought to light in formally filed opinions which employed the bluntest of language, the rift showed Justices Hugo L. Black and Frank Murphy arrayed against positions taken by Justice Felix Frankfurter, long-time adviser to President Roosevelt.

Black and Murphy, taking issue with Frankfurter's doctrines, asserted that he proposed in one case to interpret the patent laws on the basis of his "personal views on 'morals' and 'ethics'" and that in another case involving a utility firm he made "what is patently a whole gratuitous assertion as to constitutional law."

Dissenter In Both Cases

In both cases, Frankfurter was a dissenter, and Black wrote opinions concurring with the court's majority which he devoted entirely to taking issue with the reasons given by Frankfurter for dissenting. Murphy signed these opinions by Black, one of which stated:

"For judges to rest their interpretations of statutes on nothing but their own conceptions of 'morals' and 'ethics' is, to say the least, dangerous business."

"We feel compelled," Black and Murphy said with respect to the utility case, "to say that we do not understand that Congress has voluntarily acquiesced in a constitutional principle of government that courts, rather than legislative bodies, possess final authority over regulation of economic affairs."

In this case, the court held 5 to 3 Monday that the Federal Power commission's rate orders are not subject to federal court interference unless their "total effect" is "unjust and unreasonable." Justices Jackson, Frankfurter and Reed dissented and Justice Rutledge did not participate.

In the other case, the court ruled 5 to 4 in favor of the Mercoid corporation which was defendant in a suit brought by the Midcontinent Corporation and Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company for alleged contributory infringement of patents for a domestic heating system.

Canadian Wheat To Be Bought For Feed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — The War Food administration reported today that it had arranged for the purchase of more than 100,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat for use as livestock feed.

Part of the wheat already has been brought into eastern Great Lake ports by boat, and railroad cars will be sent into the interior of Canada for additional large quantities this winter.

The Canadian wheat purchases were disclosed after the Office of Price administration announced new domestic price ceilings under which wheat at all markets will bring prices that OPA said would reflect 100 per cent parity to the grower, exclusive of any government payments.

The new wheat ceilings, expanding price control to all types, established a price of $1.63 a bushel for No. 1 hard winter wheat at Kansas City; $1.64 7-8 a bushel for No. 1 heavy dark northern spring wheat at Minneapolis; and increased the basic soft wheat price to $1.72 7-8 a bushel for No. 1 soft red at terminal markets of Chicago and St. Louis. Prices for those types at specified markets included the 1½ cent charge by commission men.
