Council Takes Action On Airport, Renewal

City councilmen took Colorado City one step farther along the road to obtaining a municipal airport and a slum clearance program this week.

At the council's regular meeting Monday night, councilmen heard a report from City Manager R. K. Snethen on prospects for construction of an airport for Colorado City.

Snethen, who traveled to Fort Worth last month to confer with officials of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, said that the city could take one of two choices on the airport question.

It would be possible, Snethen said, for the city to use part of the Jet Strip maintained here by the U. S. Air Force.

But the city manager added that a large amount of money would have to be spent on the city airport, even if part of the Jet Strip were used.

Snethen said that he did not believe that joint use of the Jet Strip with the Air Force would be sufficient to satisfy the needs of Colorado City.

In recounting his talk with CAA officials, the city manager said that he got "a very sympathetic ear" from the CAA and that the airport site which had been picked by the city was approved by the CAA.

Although the exact location of the tentative airport site has not been revealed, it will probably be located northeast of the city and east of the Snyder highway.

This would be the logical location to keep the airport out of the air pattern of the Jet Strip which extends for four miles off the ends of the runway and for three miles on either side of the strip.

Snethen said that if the city should have to build its airport within the pattern of the Jet Strip certain arrangements would have to be worked out with the Air Force and certain restrictions observed.

He said that the airport should be built as close to the city as possible, but that it should be constructed so that planes would not land and take off over the city itself.

The next major step in obtaining a local airport will be gaining approval of the city's plans from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

If CAB approval is obtained, then the city will proceed with definite planning for the airport.

According to Snethen, it does not appear likely that funds for the airport could be obtained before the end of the current fiscal year July 1.

At present, CAA funds for airport construction are exhausted and no more money will be available until after July 1, unless money already appropriated should be returned, Snethen said.

The CAB will give Colorado City an air space allocation if it approves the proposed airport.

All necessary data for submission to the government agencies has been obtained except for an estimate of the funds needed, Snethen said.

Colorado City will be placed on the CAA's air activities map in December.

Snethen said that he learned from CAA officials that the city is in a definite air lane, which will be an advantage for a future airport.

If an airport is built here according to CAA specifications, a total of 5,700 feet of runways and approaches will have to be built.

At least five planes will be based here, Snethen said.

In action on a proposed urban renewal program of slum clearance and low rent housing, R. W. Akridge, representing the Houston firm of Matkin and Firth, appeared before the council.

Akridge asked the council to pass two resolutions, which were passed unanimously after discussion.

The first resolution declared the need for a Housing Authority of the City of Colorado City, and the second resolution provided for the estab-

DAMAGE EXTENSIVE

Pair Injured in Accident Spree

A rash of auto accidents in Colorado City which injured two persons and caused extensive damage this week have been partially attributed to damp weather and slick streets.

In one of four accidents, Carl Edward Howk, 21, of 895 E. Sixth St. here, was taken to Root Memorial Hospital after his 1951 Ford struck a highline pole in the 1100 block of College Ave. at about 10:40 p.m. Sunday.

Police reported that the pole was broken and knocked over in the crash.

Howk was not seriously injured in the smashup.

The accident resulted in an estimated $200 loss to the automobile.

Also taken to Root Hospital for treatment Sunday was Mrs. Sibyl Holder Walding, 39, of 1452 Austin St.

Mrs. Walding's vehicle, a 1953 Chevrolet, was involved in a collision at the intersection of Sixth and Chestnut with a 1953 Mercury driven by Mrs. Annie Thomas Watkins, 63, also of Colorado City.

Police set damage to the two cars at $750.

In a Friday collision at the intersection of U. S. Highway 80 and Cypress St., a 1951 Chevrolet pickup driven by Charlie William Holman, 32, of Dunn community, was involved in a smashup with a 1956 Ford.

The driver of the Ford was Rosalio Terrez Topez, 48, of Colorado City.

Damage to the Ford was placed at $100 and loss to the pickup was set at $75.

In another minor accident Tuesday at the corner of Fifth and Hickory, L. A. Ashley, Route 3, Snyder, and Floyd Owens of Colorado City were involved in a collision.

Damage to the Ashley vehicle, a 1951 Chevrolet, and to the Owens car, a 1953 Mercury, was set at $100 by police.

WHOSE IS IT?

Money Causes Problem

Colorado High Ex-Student Association is approximately $600 richer.

The association which is busily preparing for its annual homecoming gained the cash through somewhat of an inheritance.

School board members Monday night cleared the way for the financial gain.

The money was left in an unused deposit account at City National Bank under the name of Colorado High Senior Class of 1950.

School officials reported that the money was originally raised by the Class of '51 for a senior class trip, but the trip was never made.

Jimmy Harrison, ex-student president, learned of the unused money and asked school officials if the association could transfer the cash into its account.

The $600 could be used for purchase of a lasting gift for the school and also to assist with financing the 1957 homecoming this month, school officials quoted Harrison.

Bank executives said they would quickly transfer the money to the ex-student association account if the school board submitted approval for the transfer to the bank.

"I believe some one besides me should decide this," Supt. Frank Wilson told board members Monday night.

Dr. H. Jene Steakley said it looked like the money didn't belong to the school, in the first place, since it was raised apparently by the 1951 seniors.

"I personally," said Willie Landau, "will be for turning it over to the ex-students."

"It is their money," added Lon Strain, "let them spend it. If they don't spend it wisely, it is not our fault."

Supt. Wilson told the board members that the school would be a part of any program under taken by the ex-student association.

"Then if agreeable," said Dr. Oscar Rhode, school board president, "let's get a letter down to the bank."

And the association inherited the $600 of the Class of '51.

Injured Man Said Showing Improvement

Floyd Ritchey of Westbrook was reported in satisfactory condition this week at Root Memorial Hospital here.

He was hospitalized with a back injury late last week when a portion of an old building which he was helping to wreck collapsed on him.

Four persons from Mitchell County are attending an irrigation conference scheduled for the Lubbock Hotel in Lubbock Thursday and Friday.

The conference, the first statewide meeting on irrigation in Texas, features some of the top irrigation authorities in the nation.

One of the highlights of the conference will be an address by Jack Z. Anderson, administrative assistant to President Eisenhower.

Anderson will speak on "Irrigation Farming—A Key to Better Living." The speech will follow a banquet slated for 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

A number of other national authorities on various phases and problems of irrigation will also speak at the meeting.

All interested persons were invited to attend the conference, according to Mitchell County Agent Jack Burkhalter.

Attending from Mitchell County are Burkhalter, Assistant County Agent Al Byrd and James Hull and Ed Rich, both connected with the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative here.

Two Guilty Of Burglary, DWI Charges

Two local men have been found guilty of felony charges involving driving while intoxicated and burglary, according to District Attorney Eldon Mahon.

Samuel Loyd Stephen found guilty on two counts of burglary was given two four-year terms in the state penitentiary in Judge A. S. Mauzy's 32nd District Court.

After entering a plea of guilty to charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol, Robert W. Sparks was sentenced to 25 days in jail and fined $100.

The drunk driving offense was Sparks' second ...

Charges against Stephen named him in the burglary of Walton Motor Co. at Loraine in March, 1956, and in the burglary of the Vaught Service Station in Colorado City in April, 1956, Mahon said.

Bureau Delegates to Attend Dallas Meet

Members of Mitchell County's Farm Bureau will have four voting delegates in Dallas next week for the annual convention of the Texas Farm Bureau.

County Farm Bureau directors met here Tuesday night to elect a new slate of officers for the county, including a county president who will automatically serve as a voting delegate at the convention, according to Mrs. Ivan Barber, local Farm Bureau office manager.

New county officers elected Tuesday night include T. C. (Tom) Moore of Spade, president; J. D. Hill Jr., vice president; and Willie Brooks, secretary-treasurer.

Heading a list of outstanding speakers scheduled to address the annual convention which begins Sunday at Dallas' Hotel Adolphus will be Texas Governor Price Daniel.

Convention activities will get under way with registration at the Adolphus Sunday afternoon.

Other delegates to the convention besides Moore will be Johnny Tiller, Jimmy Henderson, W. A. Lindsey Jr. and Odell Fuller.

Moore replaced Murrell Blassingame as county Bureau president.

Local delegates will probably leave Colorado City Sunday for the convention, Mrs. Barber said Thursday.

In addition to major addresses and discussion of various problems, the convention will also feature the coronation of the state Farm Bureau Queen.

This area will be represented in the contest by Patricia Iden of Big Spring. Gaylene Taylor of Loraine was the winner of the Mitchell County contest, but was eliminated by Miss Iden in area competition.

ENROLLMENT NEAR 1,800 STUDENTS

Enrollment at four Colorado City public schools neared the 1,800 mark this week.

Total number of students in Primary School, Hutchinson Elementary, Junior High and Senior High was reported at 1,779.

Supt. Frank Wilson said the figure was more than 100 above enrollment for the four schools at the same time last year.

Breakdown of students by schools was reported by Wilson as follows: Primary, 566; Hutchinson, 188; Junior High, 405; Senior High, 620.

Prize Money Offered for Decorations

Jaycees will sponsor the Christmas home decoration contests again this year.

The club has also voted to participate in the Christmas basket program for needy families.

The home decoration contests will be divided in several different divisions with prize money for winners in each division. A new chairman is to be named for the Christmas and Religious Activities committee since the former chairman, Benton Cain, has resigned.

The club has also voted to attend the community-wide Thanksgiving Services as a group and to encourage attendance to the services.

Fifteen boxes of Christmas cards have been purchased by the club from the State Jaycees. The cards will be given free to a Boy Scout Troop to sell for the Scouts' benefit.

WITH 1,500 LETTERS

TB Association to Begin Drive Here

Mitchell County's Tuberculosis Association will mail 1,500 letters Friday to residents of the county as the organization's annual Christmas seal sale gets underway.

Seals for this Christmas will be enclosed in the letters, according to Dr. John Chinn, seal sale chairman for Mitchell County.

Local persons who want more seals than the amount enclosed in the letters may obtain extra ones from TB Association headquarters at 544 Chestnut or phone RA 8-3097.

Volunteer FHA girls from Loraine prepared the seals and letters for mailing. Helping in the project were Fran Griffin, Beverly Johnson, Virginia Templeton and Wanda Moore.

All four are working toward state FHA degrees. Aiding with the TB drive will help them earn the degrees.

Volunteer workers who assisted in typing the letters were Mrs. J. C. Womack of Cuthbert and Mrs. Roy Messimer of Westbrook.

Three sheets of seals will be enclosed in each letter.

County citizens are asked to give $1 per sheet.

Money gathered in the sale will go toward education, rehabilitation and research work in the battle against tuberculosis.

Funds gathered in the county are responsible for enabling the TB Association to offer free x-rays to persons who otherwise could not afford them.

In addition every school child in this area is receiving a patch test during November. Expenses will be paid by the TB Association.

President of the Mitchell County TB Association is Mrs. Bruce Johnson of Loraine.

Dr. Chinn said that the association can use any deer hides which local hunters may have.

$795,023.20 GOES TO LOCAL FARMERS

Mitchell County farmers collected more than three quarters of a million dollars from the federal government this year.

The last of soil bank checks to county farmers totaling $795,023.20 have been mailed by the local Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office, according to Allen W. Worley, ASC office manager.

The soil bank payments included 25,594 acres of cotton land and 5,705.4 acres of wheat land, Worley said Thursday.

Payments went to 809 Mitchell County farmers under the soil bank's 1957 acreage reserve program.

Worley said that chairman of the county ASC committee, A. L. Young of Westbrook, has warned farmers who have received payments for 1957 that the designated land cannot be used for crops or grazing until the end of the year.

Farmers who wish to plant small grains for harvest next spring may do so, however, Worley said.

But Young cautioned county farmers that payment for 1957 does not end the agreement between the farmer and the government.

No crops are to be planted on the land designated for acreage reserve if they are to be harvested before the end of the year, Worley said.

Grazing is not permitted on the designated acres until the first of next year, he added.

The first of the soil bank checks were mailed to county farmers early last summer.

Quimby Listed As Director

Bill Quimby, manager of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce, has been named a director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, it was announced this week.

Quimby was named to the director's position at a three-day convention of the WTCC in Brownwood.

Officers elected at the convention include John Killough of Graham, president; W. W. Gilson of Grand Prairie, vice president; Rex Felkner of Haskell, secretary-treasurer, and Bill Thompson of Childress, editor of the WTCC newsletter.

Three other directors were named along with Quimby.

Levelland was chosen as the group's 1958 convention site.

SATURDAY AT COUNTRY CLUB

Golfing Count to Stage Trick Shot Exhibition

Golf's most noted ambassador of trick shooting and hocus pocus will display his gifted wares here Saturday at Colorado Country Club.

Yogi, who headquarters in Hollywood in between his tour of the nation's best golf courses, will play a match with three members of Colorado Country Club.

And then he will follow with a dazzling exhibition of his golfing trickery and accuracy.

Starting time for the match will be 2 p. m. at the club.

The one-hour trick shot show will begin at 4 p. m.

The count will team with Mrs. Joe Moser in the special nine-hole match. Opponents will be Bill Craig, local titlist, and Pete Ainsworth.

The show Saturday at the club will be for the general public and geared to interest not only for the golfers, but the entire family.

Despite his fragile frame, 137 pounds, five foot eight inches, the count is a most fabulous and fancy shooter, with straight and trick shots alike going "pow" right down the alley.

Yogi's show is the only one in existence where the balls are all set up before the show starts, which means in short, that Yogi's margin of error on each shot is minus zero (or none at all).

During his performance the Count demonstrates all manner of improbable shots.

He hits the ball 86 yards down the middle with the club held securely in his teeth. He hits six balls at one time and balls from out of holes in cement, troughs of wood.

He demonstrates blanketed ball shots, all types of grips and stances, and this sans the backswings and follow thru. But he hits every ball well — and what's more "straight down the pipe" as the true golfer would say after smacking one right down the middle of the fairway.

Yogi's show is three hours of amazing shots with unequaled skill and patter.

The count will merely drive up to the golf course approximately one hour before the scheduled nine-hole special match which precedes his special one-hour trick shot show, unpack his conglomeration of clubs, equipment, props, etc. which goes to make up his fantastic presentation; set the show up himself; play the nine holes against stellar local opponents, stage his tremendous, thrilling and often dangerous trick-shot show — all this without changing a bit of clothing except his shoes.

And to boot, wearing (nine times out of ten) a stiff collar with his tie tucked into his shirt front and cuff links of an oversized and fantastic nature adorning his long sleeves!

COUNT AND BAG OF TRICKS — Count Yogi is shown with some of the clubs he will use in his amazing exhibition of trick golf Saturday at Colorado Country Club.

Mmes. Craddock and Ratliff Present 1921 Club Program

Mrs. J. S. Craddock and Mrs. R. H. Ratliff presented an art program Friday afternoon for the 1921 Study Club in the Ratliff home.

Mrs. Craddock was program leader.

She spoke about Arthur Ames and his wife, Jean, who are noted as California craftsmen.

"Their chief interests are in exploring together all methods for mural decorations," the group heard.

"They turned to the long-ten methods of the ceramic realm, reviving the technique of painting into glaze and of working out architectural decorations by using ceramic materials for mosaics."

Mr. and Mrs. Ames are represented in national ceramic and decorative exhibits, local shows and in any good art gallery will display enamel as a work of art.

Mr. Ames teaches at Los Angeles County Art Institute. His wife is a teacher at Scripps College and Claremont Graduate School.

Mrs. Ratliff told of two artists, Doris Lee and her husband, Arnold Blanch, and Robert Strong Woodward, who is prominent in the school of realists.

The speaker explained that Doris Lee and her husband gave up a Victorian farmhouse for a basic work studio. She described their living room as having a 25 foot mantel shelf where their paintings and ceramic pieces, as well as their collection of African primitive art, are displayed.

Mrs. Ratliff reported that Woodward was confined to a wheelchair for his entire professional life. He now has a studio where he can look from his window and paint the Deerfield Valley of Massachusetts.

At first, she explained, Woodward painted in a wheelbarrow, then in a buggy and for 15 years he set up his easel in a large touring car.

After museums began to acquire his paintings he moved to his studio-home.

Mrs. Ratliff displayed some of her recent paintings during the program hour.

Those attending were Mrs. B. B. Broaddus, Mrs. Glen Craddock, Mrs. M. J. Dawson, Mrs. W. H. Dees, Mrs. U. G. Hardison, Mrs. A. O. Hickman, Mrs. Ed Jones, Mrs. Lee Lavendera, Mrs. J. T. Pritchett, Mrs. W. W. Rhode, Mrs. C. L. Root and Mrs. Ratliff.

Informal Open House to Honor Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Henderson

An informal open house fete Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Palmer will honor Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Henderson on their golden wedding anniversary.

In addition to their five children, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson have seven grandchildren and one great grandchild, all of whom will be present except Grady Beach, Donald Henderson and James E. Henderson, sons of Colorado City, and Jack V. Henderson of Santa Rosa, Cal.

All friends are invited to visit with the anniversary couple between 3 o'clock and 6 and Mrs. W. S. Justice, about o'clock.

Mrs. Walter Stonehaus of Abilene, in whose home the couple was married Nov. 7, 1907, is expected to attend the celebration.

They settled in Colorado City where her father operated the Rendebrook Hotel.

Mr. Henderson, who was born in Milam County Oct. 1, 1886, came to Mitchell County with his widowed mother, Mrs. Mary Henderson, six brothers and one sister in 1887, settling on land which his mother had purchased south of town.

The couple was married in the Stonehaus home in Colorado City. Rev. Nickolls, who was pastor of the First Baptist Church here at that time, officiated in the ceremony.

After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson lived in Colorado City.

The Hendersons, who now reside on their farm in the Plainview Community, are active members of the First Baptist Church.

Local Visitors

Visiting Monday with Mrs. T. L. Welch, who is very ill, were Mrs. O. D. Welch and son, Rev. Sherman Welch, of Wichita Falls; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bennett of Loraine, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Welch of the Lowe Community.

Tech to Lose Against HSU

Texas Tech and Hardin-Simmons conclude the Red Raider's home football schedule with a game starting at 2 p.m. Saturday.

After Saturday afternoon's contest, the Red Raiders will have one contest remaining with University of Arkansas at Little Rock Nov. 23. Hardin-Simmons still must meet Oklahoma State and New Mexico A&M.

Tech's hopes of avenging last year's 41-14 victory by the Cowboys are slim. The Red Raiders have won only one game while losing seven. Hardin-Simmons, 4-3 for the season, has a decision over Texas Western, the team that defeated Tech earlier in the year, as well as one over Tulsa, 3-0 victor in Tech's Homecoming last week.

Hardin-Simmons downed Arizona 26-20 last Saturday. Tech out-gained Tulsa but had one long scoring drive nullified by a penalty and a potential touchdown wiped out by a fumble on the Tulsa 11.

Hesperian Club Hears Program On International Affairs

A program on international affairs Friday afternoon highlighted a regular meeting of the Hesperian Study Club in the home of Mrs. E. H. Winn.

Mrs. Bennett Scott was program leader.

Mrs. J. D. White spoke on the Asian-African Bloc. Mrs. John Hale discussed Ghana, the world's newest nation.

Mrs. White explained that the Asian-African Bloc is now spoken of as the "Afro-Asian Bloc".

In summing up her talk, Mrs. White said, "The Great continents of Africa and Asia are face to face with the problem of catching up with a world that is centuries ahead of them in technology and material progress.

"They have to learn to become 'nations' in a world that has passed on to area and regional interdependence for survival."

They cherish the dream that Africa and Asia, which was the cradle of the world's great religions and civilizations, might have a renaissance of cultural influence on the world so as to enhance mutual understanding and enrich the lives of all men of good will.

"And, thirdly," Mrs. White concluded, "the Afro-Asian Bloc has brought the free world face to face with changing economic and political realities."

Mrs. John Hale said that on March 6 there came into being a new state, Ghana, an independent member of the commonwealth recognizing Queen Elizabeth as its queen.

"For 60 years the country was a British colony called the Gold Coast," the group heard.

The speaker explained that Ghana is a country of tribes each with a chief, language, tradition and an identity that is becoming insignificance.

She discussed the farming methods, cattle raising and foods.

Mrs. Hale described Accra, the capital city of Ghana.

"Although Ghana is now an independent nation," she continued, "it has elected to remain in the family of the British commonwealth. The former governor of Gold Coast, Sir Charles Arden Clarke, remains as governor general and representative."

The government is headed by Prime Minister N. Prumah, a 47-year-old Negro who was educated in the United States.

In closing Mrs. Hale said, "Leaders of Ghana have the tremendous responsibility of proving to the world in general, and Africans in particular, that they can develop their country in the freedom and prosperity that the people expect."

Mrs. B. P. Watts said the opening prayer. Committee chairmen presented reports in answering the roll call.

Mrs. J. L. Pidgeon was welcomed as a guest.

Mrs. Russell Visits

Mrs. T. B. Russell of Woodson is visiting here with friends.

IN DISTRICT 3-AAA FOOTBALL

Wolves Host Snyder In Battle For Second Spot

The battle for second place in District 3-AAA takes place in Wolf Stadium Friday, 7:30 p. m. when the Colorado High Wolves host the Snyder Tigers.

The injury riddled Wolves stick licking their wounds from the 34-7 defeat last Friday at Sweetwater, will be underdogs against the big and swift Tigers.

Wolf Coach Bob Reily said Wednesday that ace linebacker Bobby Caffey has been lost for the season and two other Wolves are doubtful starters Friday.

Caffey has a blood clot in his knee and was placed in Root Hospital Tuesday.

Kenny Simmons, starting offensive and defensive tackle has been ill with flu all week and stands a good chance of not being ready Friday.

Fullback Dickie Richardson was still favoring a swollen ankle this week, result of a vicious clip by a Sweetwater lineman last week. Incidentally, the clip took place after the play had stopped and went unnoticed by the officials.

Dickie's brother, end Jimmy Richardson, missed several practices this week, but was expected to be ready.

Reily said he would probably start Marion Flippin if Simmons isn't ready and center Gene Blassingame or quarterback Richard Compton on defense to fill in for Caffey.

Wolves will be facing the same type club as Sweetwater when they go up against the Tigers.

Snyder boasts some strong linemen and even faster backs than Sweetwater.

But their overall team play isn't as vicious as the Mustangs.

Snyder, the district titlist last year, whipped the Wolves 49-0 at Snyder in '56.

Snyder lost heavily from that '56 team, but the Wolves practically retain the same team.

Comparative scores show the Tigers to be a couple of touchdowns better. Sweetwater whipped the Tigers 21-7 while they licked the Wolves 41-7.

Snyder has one of the finest tackles in the district in Bill Phillips, 190-pound regular from 1956.

He is part of a line that averages 176½ pounds. Opposite Phillips will be Larry Mullins, 191. Arguards will be Bill Jennings, 182 and Gene Williamson, 186.

Bill Reinhart, 176, will play center while John Ward, 155, and Bill Dubose, start at ends.

Mickey McGrew, 200-pound pile-driving fullback, and Bud Morgan, 145-pound ace-high spearhead the Snyder attack.

Coach John Conley can call on several backfields to handle the Tiger attack. In reserve on the big Snyder roster are halfbacks Jimmy Allen, Gary Vee, Israel Hinojos, Jerry Miller, John Drake and Dick Hayes.

Hayes, the only sophomore on the team, is one of the fastest Snyder backs and occasionally starts at halfback.

McGrew, built on a stocky 5-9 frame, charges the line like a tank.

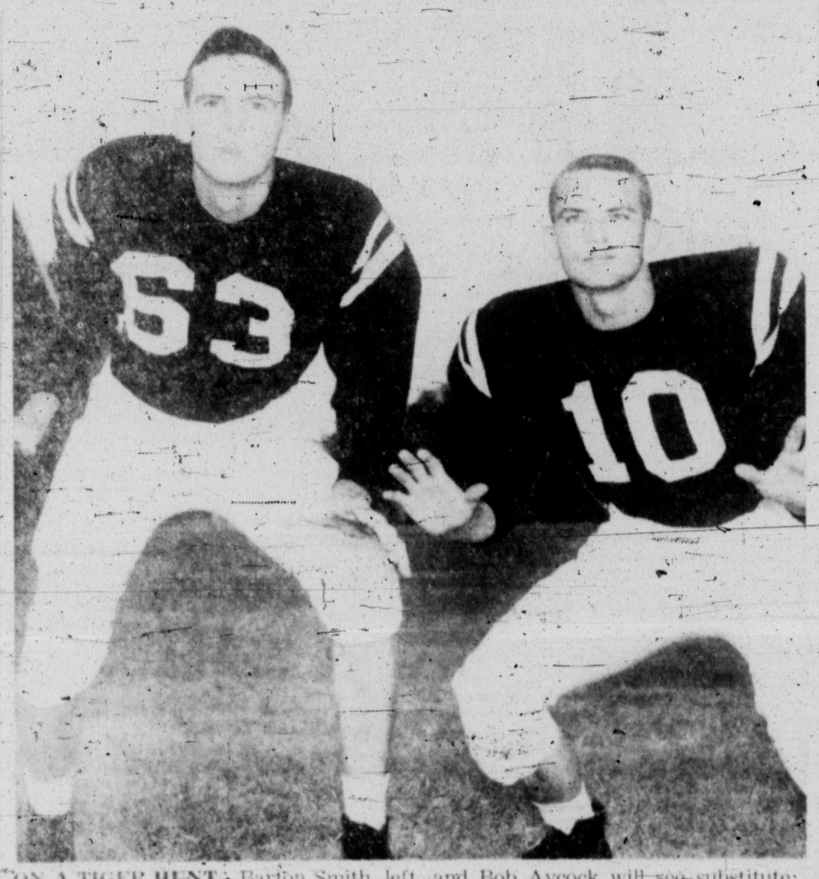

Morgan, the state finalist in the hurdles, has reeled off numerous long runs.

Since losing their season opener 33-0 to Class AAAA Borger, the Tigers have rolled over Dumas, Big Spring, Levelland, Breckenridge, Midland and last week, Lake View 40-7. Sweetwater eliminated the Tigers 21-7 following the Midland game.

Wolves have an identical record with wins over Seminole, Monahans, Kermit, Brownfield, Littlefield and Lamesa while losing to Ballinger and Sweetwater.

Tigers will be trying to stop the Wolves' brilliant quarterback Richard Compton Friday. Compton has led the Wolves scoring and ground gaining all season long.

Joining Compton in the backfield will be Don Black, Sancker Cade, Lucky Merket or Fred Womack.

JACK BURKHALTER

County Agent Picks Winners, Takes College Grid Tickets

County Agent Jack Burkhalter took first place in last week's Record football guessing contest.

Burkhalter, a faithful contestant for the past several seasons, finally found the winning combination with 10 correct picks out of 12 games.

One game, the Texas vs. Baylor tilt which ended in a tie, was missed by every contestant.

Burkhalter miscued on Tulsa's win over Texas Tech. And he picked a key score of Sweetwater 20, C-City 6.

He wins two reserve seat tickets to the Texas Tech vs. Hardin-Simmons game at Tubbock Saturday.

Close behind Burkhalter in second place was Mrs. J. V. Bolin Jr., a telephone company employe who missed the same game Tech vs. Tulsa and picked a key score of Sweetwater, 20, C-City 13.

Mrs. Bolin wins a one year subscription to the Record.

John Russell, FHA supervisor here, took third place, missing only the key game. He picked the Wolves to whip Sweetwater 12-6. Russell wins two passes to the theatres.

Several contestants missed only two games (in addition to the before-mentioned tie game), but Janet Earle McMullen had the best key score in that group.

Miss McMullen missed the Graham-Breck plus the Tech-Tulsa game. Her key score was Sweetwater 30, C-City 6.

She wins two movie passes for fourth place.

Other persons missing only two games, but further off on the key score, were Lawrence Feaster, Mrs. Charles Nuckolls, Mrs. D. M. Costlow, Kent Womack, Luke Thomas, Mrs. Floyd Higgins, Alfred Byrd, Toby Deares, Jay Craddock, Jess Bolin, J. D. Baker, Joe D. Burk, and J. H. Forrester.

Missing three game were James E. McMullen, Shana Noble, Lee Summers, Jess Bolin Jr., W. F. Stone, Mrs. Ira Uttz, Bobby Butler, Henry Hoyle, Mrs. Al Byrd, Steve Smith, Floyd Higgins, Maberry Willbanks, Clyde Feaster, Mrs. Maberry Willbanks, T. D. Harper, Mrs. Joe D. Burk, Lester Biggs, George Womack, Mrs. E. J. Lelek, Mrs. Philip Betman, Arthur Millsap, Mrs. Joe Bryan, Bob Ratliff, Mrs. Earl Taylor, Earl D. Taylor, Robert Tracy, Mrs. J. H. Forrester, Clovis Hall and Jackie Burkhalter.

This week's contest is probably one of the easiest of the year. When you say "that" watch for the upsets.

Key game is Colorado City vs. Snyder. Top college game pits Texas A&M against Rice while Arkansas comes to SMU for another top tilt.

Notre Dame at Oklahoma will be televised nationally while Minnesota at Michigan offers another top battle.

Two tickets to the Hardin-Simmons vs. New Mexico A&M game will be the first prize.

Globetrotters Slated For Abilene Nov. 26

Salt Water

Texas farmers may possibly use water that is slightly salty for irrigating without damage to crop production, University of Texas Engineering Dean W. R. Woolrich reported to a Saline Water Convention Symposium.

Dean Woolrich told of his research on desalting water by freezing methods before the symposium sponsored by the Interior Department's office of saline water and other science research agencies. The symposium was held in Washington, D. C.

Woolrich suggested that the freezing process at its present stage of development might be used as a separate approach to irrigation needs in Texas, since a slightly more brackish water can be tolerated for agricultural use, though not for city and industrial purposes.

On Molokai, Hawaii, research workers conducted extensive irrigation experiments using water with 96 grains of salt per gallon on corn, egg plant, head lettuce, carrots and beets. Production results were "very good." Range grasses irrigated with brackish waters also yielded satisfactory production.

In the Netherlands, some of the experiences in reclamation of ocean and sea bottoms indicate that certain crops can withstand a much higher salt percentage than was previously expected, he added.

Exploring Irrigation

Irrigation as a means of producing more profitable crops for this area is becoming an increasingly important factor in Mitchell County.

If put to proper use, irrigation may not only vastly increase our cotton yield, but may also make possible new and profitable crops for this area.

This week in Lubbock, a large group of top irrigation authorities from all over the nation are meeting with interested agriculture minded persons from this area.

The object of the meeting is to attempt to deal with all phases of irrigation farming and with the problems of irrigation in West Texas.

This meeting called an Irrigation Conference is the first of its kind to be held for farmers in this area. It was planned and is being sponsored by the Texas Inter-Industry Council, a state organization.

The meeting is drawing national attention to the possibilities of irrigation.

A Colorado City delegation attending the conference may return with interesting new ideas for Mitchell County agriculture.

Mice and Men

If you want to base your notions about lung cancer on statistics, Dr. Ian MacDonald, of the University of Southern California, has some new ones for you.

The increase in the miles of tarred roads, he told a Nebraska chapter of the American Cancer Society, "correlates more closely to the increase in lung cancer than cigarette smoking."

Observing that the cancer-from-smoking theory is widely based on experiments with mice that develop skin cancer when painted with cigarette tars, Dr. MacDonald said: "But common, everyday Los Angeles smog, painted on the backs of mice, produced greater skin cancers."

This shows, he believes, that "if mice are going to use tobacco, they ought to smoke it and not paint it on their backs".

Dr. MacDonald smokes it.

Horn of Plenty

Behind Front Page

By Bill Sloan

PEOPLE IN ANY TOWN, no matter where it is, generally travel thousands of miles each year, on their vacations.

Strangely enough, many of these annual tourists make their yearly pilgrimages in search of things historical as well as things recreational.

Places with historical backgrounds—the Alamo, San Jacinto, Vicksburg and other Civil War battle scenes, old Spanish missions and New Mexico towns where Billy the Kid was killed all draw their yearly quota of tourists.

This lure of things historical is not too easy to explain, but the fact remains that residents of San Antonio will forsake their Alamo, their missions and other points of historical interest to travel 1,500 miles to see a slave dock or the crumbling ruins of a planter's home in the old South.

EACH TOWN HAS ITS own noteworthy, important points of historical interest. The only difference is that some towns play up what they have while other towns seem scarcely aware of the dusty pages of the past which they encounter every morning on their way to work.

Colorado City is one of these historical towns, the history of which nobody is particularly interested in.

In leafing through some of the most ancient available copies of the Record and its ancestor, the Weekly Clipper, we recently ran across some information which may be news to a good many Colorado City people.

For instance, we found that the population of Colorado City in 1885 was in the neighborhood of 10,000. And in case you haven't heard, that is roughly 1,000 more than the present population figures.

AS NEARLY AS THE DATE can be set, our town was incorporated as a city in 1883. Its growth, between the years of 1880 and 1885 must have been something unbelievable in the days when white men were about as scarce as cold water springs in the hot, sandy expanse of West Texas.

The town grew from an estimated population of 500 in 1880 to the 10,00 figure in 1885.

We had street cars here in those days, too. The route was approximately two miles in length and the cars were drawn by horses.

Although we would not ask you to take our word for it, the story goes that in the roaring cattle days of the 1880's the sidewalk between the St. James Hotel (long since removed from our scene) to the old Opera House (rated one of the finest in the Southwest) was paved with the plushest type of red carpet.

WHO KNOWS WHERE reality ends and fancy starts, but there are also stories of solid gold spurs on the heels of some of the town's sharper dressers with rowels made of $20 gold pieces.

This was "end of track" for the pioneer Texas and Pacific Railway and trail herds from all over the almost limitless reaches of West Texas found their way to market through the saloon sprinkled streets of Colorado City.

As most television fans know, gunfights are not unusual in a brawling frontier cowtown.

BUT THEN CAME THE slump. Progress is inevitable and the railroad pushed on to the west, leaving Colorado City alone to dwindle in the sweltering sun.

That doesn't quite end the story, however.

In 1920, Colorado City gave birth to the vast oil area now known as the Permian Basin, one of the richest petroleum regions in the world.

The discovery well of the Permian Basin is still producing oil and it is located in Mitchell County, only a few miles from Colorado City.

And so, first through cattle, then through oil, our town can justly claim the title of "Mother City of West Texas."

At present, however, we aren't giving New Orleans or Las Vegas much of a race as a tourist capital of the United States.

But we're loaded with the "raw materials."

BIBLE COMMENT:

Man's Principles Must Be His Own

The motives that strengthen family life are the motives that strengthen personal and social life. Family relationships, because of their intimacy, are more conducive to good and true motives when they have the uppermost place. A person feels the urge to do and be his best when he has the right attitude toward the home and family.

A profound danger for many of us today is that we shall allow our motives and conduct to be determined by what others are doing. Or by what others are failing to do.

In a time when people are called on to make some sacrifices and when a mild self-discipline is demanded from us all, there is danger we may resent others. When we see those who display no spirit of sacrifice, we may resent the fact that they have more or have it "easier" than we.

The motorist who drives a low priced car may be aroused by the fact that his neighbor, whose situation is somewhat the same, can afford a more expensive make. He may be tempted to say, "Why should it I have the same?"

The one who is scrimping and saving while others make large salaries may easily become dissatisfied with his situation.

These are minor illustrations of temptations toward something other than our best. They could be on a large scale.

In the presence of such temptations to let our conduct be influenced by the actions of others, it is a good time to remember the words of Joshua, successor of Moses, who was leading a disgruntled people away from the bondage of Egypt. The Israelites were discontented and almost ready to return to the fleshpots of Egypt. Joshua left the decision up to them, but he said:

FIRST TIME IN YEARS

Lawmakers Launch Second Session as First One Ends

State Capitol NEWS

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Days of old seem to have dawned over Texas lawmakers. They ended their first called session this week and launched into number two.

It's the first time in more than a decade that a governor has convened a legislature in two rapid-fire special sessions.

Many topic for the second session is a bill to authorize closing of public schools threatened by occupation by federal troops.

Gov. Price Daniel issued the second call when it became apparent that this issue couldn't be squeezed into the final days of the first session.

House and Senate had difficulty coming to agreement on details of the first session's five-point program: water planning, lobby control, crime study, practice before state agencies and money for an Insurance Department building.

Delay Spotlighted

Senate Investigating Committee is continuing its drive to establish whether the Insurance Commission dilly-dallied with reports of irregularities in a Dallas firm.

Former Insurance Department Examiner Wayne Tinkler told the committee that he began an examination of Preferred Life last March. He ran into difficulties, and asked for help from the department's legal counsel. He didn't get it, said Tinkler, and finally turned in a report in June.

His audit indicated that Preferred's president owed the company some $191,000 due to stock manipulations, Tinkler reported. "But no action was taken in the department until September, when a brief conference was held."

Road Program

At least one phase of Texas water conservation program now has the official go-ahead.

By approving a constitutional amendment, voters cleared the way for issuance of $200,000,000 in bonds to finance local water projects.

Though only about one-tenth of the electorate (185,000) turned out, all three proposed amendments received approximately 3-to-1 majorities.

Other two will provide increased retirement benefits for state employes and authorize higher old age pensions.

Footing The Bill

Texans depend on severance taxes, mainly on oil and gas, for nearly one out of every three state tax dollars.

Tax Analyst John F. Sly of Princeton said this reliance on natural resource taxes has been increasing over the years. Sly, in addressing a meeting of the Texas Research League in Austin, gave what may be a preview of the searching study of Texas' tax structure being undertaken by the League.

Some Sly statistics: State taxes increased from $123,000,000 in 1940 to 625,000,000 in 1957. Severance taxes jumped from 16 per cent to 30 per cent of the total in that period. Texas' state and local taxes are $130 per capita compared to the national average of $158.

The Rains Came

Combination of late spring rains and early fall rains has aught many Texas farmers in a squeeze.

There wasn't enough time in between to raise a crop and get it out of the fields. Agriculture agents in North Texas reported that farmers there stood to loose millions from ruined cotton.

Some ranchers, according to the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, have "a very unusual situation: more grass than stock to eat it." This time last year those same ranchers were selling off stock at a sacrifice because they had no feed.

Small grain and winter legume prospects are extremely good, says USDA, though dry weather is needed for additional planting.

Acreage Tussle

For the third straight year East Texas and West Texas cotton farmers are at odds over acreage allotments.

State and county allotments are to be announced by USDA before Dec. 14, when cotton farmers will vote on whether they want a market quota program for 1958.

West Texas farmers contend that their area has been penalized. They say an undue portion of the state's cotton acreage is allotted to the older cotton-growing counties of east and central Texas. One group of West Texans went to federal court last year to try to get the allotments changed.

Opposing them is the Old Cotton Belt Association, whose spokesman, if will fight new efforts to wrest acreage from its area.

New Speed Law?

Governor Daniel has been requested to ask the Legislature to rewrite the automobile speed limit law.

A recent opinion from the Court of Criminal Appeals called the law "vague and indefinite and therefor invalid." Involved was a conviction for driving 90 miles an hour.

If this law is too shaky for court tests, the Harris County district attorney told the governor in effect, a new and stronger one should be written immediately.

Water Plan

Texas Society of Professional Engineers had added its voice to those urging an offensive long-range water program.

Importance of water to Texas' future justifies an annual expenditure of $100,000,000 in the opinion of TSPE's special water study committee.

TSPE's report recommended: (1) adoption of the governor's proposed legislation, (2) salary increases for the Water Board members, (3) planning on the lowest level possible to allow proper development of an over all program, (4) sale of water storage acquired by the state in federal reservoirs to any qualified political subdivision as quickly as possible.

EFFECTIVE IN FEBRUARY

Egg Law to Check Misleading Claims

By JOHN C. WHITE
Agriculture Commissioner

The new Texas egg law which goes into effect in February, 1958, will seek to check misleading advertising on cartons and containers.

A nine member board of directors was appointed by Governor Price Daniel to formulate and administer the rules and regulations of the law. At the board's first meeting in Austin recently, one of the first concerns was to protect the consumer from confusing claims on egg cartons in the market place.

Under the law, all egg cartons must be plainly labeled as to grade of the eggs or the word "ungraded" and must be clearly visible. In addition, no misleading claims such as "fresh" or similar wording can be printed on cartons containing eggs below the Grade A. The board contends that certain types of descriptive advertising on the carton can make the customer think the eggs are something more than they actually are.

The board members do not intend to hamstring commerce by unfair prohibitive measures, but the consensus of the nine men was that a line should be drawn between harmless descriptive phrases and outright misleading wordage on the package.

The result was that a resolution was passed which gives the board the right to approve or disapprove cartons in which eggs are sold. The buyers will not be distracted by fancy claims on the package and the producer will be protected from unfair competition.

Egg packers and carton manufacturers are invited to submit their packages to the board for approval if they feel some inspection may be necessary.

Cartons should be sent to: Texas Department of Agriculture, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas. The board will meet once a month to consider current business matters and approve or disapprove carton designs.

Members of the board are: Tom Booth, San Antonio; F. L. Seiber, Burton; Dewey Stringer, Houston; D. W. Reneau, Seguin; George Eells, Jr., Robstown; T. D. Craddock, Hamilton; Frank Ehrle, Childress; Marvin Gilbreath, Weimar, and Jim H Whitaker of Paris.

New Ford Tractors To Be Shown Here

Ford tractors for 1958 will be introduced in Colorado City Friday at Costin Bros. Farm Implement Co.

In the six most powerful models for 1958, those in the "three-four plow" Powermaster class, drawbar horsepower has been increased 10 per cent. The six models of "two three plow" Workmaster tractors have 8 per cent more power.

In addition to these higher power ratings, the new Ford tractors feature a newly designed front end, new color styling, slimmer fender design, brighter headlights for field work and highway safety, greater gas tank capacity, and restyled instrument panel with an electric fuel gauge.

The Workmaster plants has been given to Ford tractors with the short-stroke 134 cu. in. engine. Five models in the Workmaster series of utility and all-purpose tractors and one model of "501" row-crop tractor carry the new design.

The 172 cu. in. engine is used in the six Powermaster tractor models, four of which are "601" utility and all-purpose models and two are "801" row-crop types.

Standard fuel for the 12 models is gasoline, with factory-installed liquefied petroleum (LP) gas engines in both sizes available as options.

The familiar red and gray colors of Ford tractors have given way to brighter shades of these colors and to two-tone treatments for better highway and field visibility.

New fenders with rolled edge for strength and safety are gray on all models. Wheels, hubs and grille, and chassis and engine are red.

On the Workmaster tractors the sheet metal is a brilliant red, contrasted by a gray vertical-barred grille.

The Powermaster models present a new look in tractors beginning at their red protective and massive outer grille, with its gray perforated metal inner screen, the vermillion red color sweeps along the top of the hood to include the new instrument cluster, which is angled for maximum visibility from the operator's seat.

On the Series "801" tractors a red metal panel below the grille is removable to permit mounting of supplemental hydraulic pumps.

New features in all models of these tractors are found on the instrument panel. Since the operator is interested in knowing when the battery is discharging, a red warning light now replaces the conventional ammeter gauge.

Also new in the instrument cluster is an electric fuel gauge which gives a reading of the fuel level. The "Dynamotor" is standard equipment on all except utility models.

Farmers May Qualify for SS Benefits

Farm landlords over the age of 65 have started filing claims for their social security benefits, according to R. R. Tuley, district manager of the Abilene social security district office.

The number of such claims will reach a peak early in 1958, after farmers have filed their 1957 tax returns, he declared.

The 1954 law which covered self-employed farmers beginning with 1956, did not provide coverage for any landlord receiving rental income from farm land, according to Tuley.

This meant that many landlords whose sole business was farming and who actually took part in the farming operations were denied the protection of Social Security Act.

To remedy this, Congress in 1956, changed the law so that a landlord who by arrangement with the tenant or share farmer, takes part in producing a crop and whose activity significantly affect the amount of the crop, will have his net income from this activity credited to his social security account.

This means that the farm landlord over the age of 65 who has been helping his tenant in the production of a crop is getting the work contributing machinery during 1956 and 1957, may be money and actively managing qualified for a social security some of the operations, due benefit.

ALL-DAY SERVICES

400 Gather at Loraine for Church's 65th Anniversary

By Mrs. C. C. Hamilton
Record Correspondent

LORAINE — A crowd of around 400 persons were present Sunday at Loraine's First Baptist Church for a homecoming celebration held in commemoration of the church's 65th anniversary.

The morning services opened with regular Sunday School classes meeting at 9:45 a.m. and the morning worship service held at 10:55 a.m.

Mrs. W. R. Coon, a member of the church for more than 40 years, gave a report on the church work in a testimonial talk.

Moody Richardson, choir director, was in charge of the song service during the day; Mrs. A. R. Miles was organist and Mrs. J. C. Hall Jr., pianist.

Rev. Bobby Rine, church pastor, recognized all former members at the morning service and Ray Preston, Sunday School superintendent, recognized former pastors.

Former pastors present for the activities included Rev. M. F. Richardson, now of Abilene, pastor here from 1919-23; Rev. N. E. McGuire, pastor here from 1927-29, now living near Hico; Rev. A. C. Hardin, now of Kermit, pastor here from 1936-36, and Rev. Leonard Hartley, pastor here from 1953-55.

Former superintendents were also given recognition by Preston.

Contributions to a building fund offering during services cleared the church of all debt.

Rev. Hardin delivered the morning sermon, using "Keys of the Kingdom" as his subject and reading from Matthew 13:13-28.

The benediction and invocation were given by Rev. Bill Arnett of Big Spring, district missionary.

A covered dish luncheon was served at noon in the Fellowship Hall of the church by members of the Women's Missionary Union.

The afternoon program was directed by Dexter Taylor, a former superintendent.

Rev. Hartley read scripture and led the opening prayer.

Special music was by Mrs. George Mahoney, who sang "When Jesus Comes."

Presentation of the early history of the church was given by Mrs. B. W. Tartt, who read that the church was organized on Aug. 15, 1892 under a brush arbor south of the one-room Loraine school house.

Rev. J. A. Lee was the first pastor.

Sam Pond of Colorado City, a member of the church for 65 years, was recognized during the program.

Pond, 88, still holds membership with the Loraine church.

FOR HOG RAISERS

Study to Provide Gauge for Profit

By JOHN C. WHITE
State Agriculture Commissioner

The price a farmer can afford to pay for feeder pigs depends on the value of the finished hogs, cost of raising them, and death loss.

Recent studies on midwestern hog raising has produced a gauge for estimating in advance the possibilities of profit and loss.

To determine the finished value, a farmer first estimates the prices at the time he will sell the hogs, and their probable weight. For example, if farmer Jones wants to buy 35-pound feeder pigs in late May to sell in October, he may estimate their ultimate weight at 225, the price at $16.

The weight is based on experience with rate of gain, and the price is a forecast. His expected income or net value at the farm is 225 pounds times $16 per hundred weight or $36 altogether.

Probably costs should be estimated next. Figures vary from year to year and farm to farm but experimental results show the average midwestern farmer uses 350 lbs of protien supplement to add 100 lbs. weight.

This would be a total of 665 pounds (about 12 bushels) of corn and 100 pounds of supplement to increase the 35 pounders to 225 pounds.

With corn at $1.15, the cost for 12 bushels would be $13.80. And with supplement at $5 a hundredweight, total cost would be $18.

Feed is the largest cost item, but labor shelter, equipment and veterinary count too. Usually, these amount to one fifth of the costs. This is $3.76, bringing total production costs to $23.56.

Difference between income and total costs is the first estimate of the price a farmer can afford to pay for a feeder pig. This figure is $13.44. But the amount should be adjusted for death loss. Probable survival rate is multiplied by the margin over cost per pig.

For example, Jones expects a death rate of 5 percent. Multiplying margin per pig ($13.44) by 0.95 gives price per pig: $12.77 in this case. If Jones pay this price for a feeder pig, he can expect to get market price for his feed and average wages for his labor. In addition, he will cover all his costs for shelter, equipment, and other items. When a pig may be purchased for less than $12.77, the difference constitutes profit.

AT FRANK MOTOR CO

1958 GMC Line On Display Here

A one-half ton 1958 GMC pickup is now on display at Frank Motor Co., according to Frank Deregibus, owner of the firm.

The new pickup is the first of the 1958 GMC line of trucks to arrive for display in Colorado City.

The new line of GMC's features dual headlamps blending with new grille, hood and fenders to shape an exterior counterpart equal in significance to the new V-8 engine beneath.

One new model has been introduced to the GMC line which ranges from half-ton units on up to highway tractors capable of hauling 90,000 lbs. gross combination weight. It is a package delivery chassis of 16,000 lbs. gross vehicle weight, a new companion for the popular 7,000 lb. and 10,000 lb. GVW package delivery models.

A new transmission, the Allison Torqmatic, designed specifically to meet the needs of truckers, has been placed in the new GMC models 370 and up through the 600, which cover weight ranges from 32,000 to 55,000 lbs. GCW. The Torqmatic, succeeding the Hydra-Matic for these models, is basically a torque converter in series with a planetary gear train operated through a hydraulic control system.

The Hydra-Matic transmission is remaining on the one-half through 2-ton GMC models.

A new GMC 336 cubic inch V-8 gasoline engine with unusual long-life features heads up a group of 9 gas and Diesel engines used through the GMC line. A valve-in-head 90 degree V type, it develops 200 gross horsepower at 4400 RPM and a gross torque of 307 pounds feet at 2,000 to 2,400 RPM. It has a compression ratio of 7.5 to 1.

The 336 engine, available in all models up through the [illegible] series, has a [illegible] cylinder block and upper crankcase of nickel chromium alloy cast iron.

Full-length water jacket completely surround each cylinder and the [illegible] crankshaft is drop-forged from heat-treated steel.

Tin-plated, cam-ground aluminum pistons combine light weight, fast heat conductivity and controlled expansion without [illegible] lube on bearings.

See Grid Game

Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett of Loraine were in Lubbock Saturday where they attended the football game between Texas Tech and Tulsa.

Cold Weather Aids Hunters

By VERN SANFORD

It was bluebird weather when duck season got under way this year. Nevertheless many hunters shot their limits from the Red River to the Gulf.

Then came a good norther. And now the weather is better for duck and goose shooting.

This type of hunting is about the hardest and most difficult gunning in Texas. So much depends, not on what is done in Texas, but on conditions in Canada throughout the early part of the spring and summer.

If conditions are right north of the border, and there is a big hatch, Canada will send more ducks down the various flyways into the United States. Many will stop before they get to Texas. But countless numbers have wintered on the Texas coast for so long that it is family tradition for them to return to the Lone Star State. And here they head.

More and more ducks remain in Texas waters every year, in order to produce their families in the South.

However, they represent but a small amount of the total duck population. And, this number is reduced considerably after the first few days of shooting.

Good Shooting

Most duck and goose hunters think of the Texas coast as the best hunting place in the state. That isn't necessarily true. There are thousands of ducks killed each year on the streams and farm tanks of Texas. Excellent hunting exists on all the major impoundments in the state and in the grain fields of the Texas Panhandle.

Grain field hunting is about the easiest on the gunner. He hides behind a shock of grain or in a hurriedly thrown-up blind.

Duck hunting under most conditions is hard work. Usually the worse the weather the better the shooting. It usually takes a cold drizzle to get the ducks and the old honkers to come down close to the ground. That is, close enough to reach them with a blast from the shotgun.

Of course the ammunition manufacturers have learned to load the standard length shells with a little more powder and shot. But the duck and geese are smart, too. They just fly a little higher.

No Motor Boat

Most waterfowl shooting is done on water. For this reason it is necessary to have a good boat and or waders.

Boat hunters can use outboard motors to take them to blinds or bring them back to the shore. They also can be used to pick up dead ducks, providing the gun isn't used. But, the law is strict on the use of any kind of power boat for hunting ducks.

There was a time when most hunters had well trained dogs to retrieve their birds. But the growth of cities has slowed down the raising of good duck retrievers. Now it's largely a do-it-yourself job.

Duck hunters have to get up early, as the season opens a half hour before sunrise. Usually a hunter will want to have his decoys spread out on the water a half hour earlier than that. Then he crawls into his blind and starts tooting on a duck call.

Frankly, more ducks are frightened off by callers than ever come in. However, many won't believe this.

There are a few hunters who really can talk to the ducks on these wooden callers. Too many of us, however, don't have the proper ear. We have not been around ducks long enough to know their language or to understand them.

One of the most disconcerting things that can happen is for the man in the next blind to blast away on his duck call when a flock is coming down to your decoys. They take to wing and that's the last you ever see of them.

It may be helpful for a hunter on a large body of water to have a call. But only if he uses it in a very limited manner. Just one or two quick quacks will be heard by the flying ducks. If they are interested in the decoys no more calling is necessary. On the other hand, many hunters achieve the same results by whistling or by barking like a dog. This is a common practice on the coast.

Gun Care

It must be remembered that duck hunting usually is hard on the gun too. Especially is this true when hunting around salt water. It doesn't do much good to carry a gun onto the water in a soft lined case, then let the gun get wet and put it back into the case. That salt water remains and the gun soon is covered with rust.

Perhaps one of the simplest ways is to use one of those plastic bags that your cleaning comes in, nowadays. You can haul your gun onto the water and bring it back in this plastic bag, and then throw the bag away. Then, as soon as you can, wipe the gun off with some good rust inhibitor or oil. In that way you can keep from having a badly pitted gun.

Tell your wife to save these plastic bags for you. You can use them to save your feathers in when you return from a hunt. Then make some nice feather pillows.

Another way to do yourself a good turn is to keep a record of the ducks you kill. Then send the information to the Game & Fish Commission. Also be sure and send in any bands you find on the birds you kill. These bands provide valuable information. They help the boys in the commission office select the season dates next year.

Fishing Good

Just because it is duck season you don't have to neglect fishing. Fact of the matter is that some of the finest strings of fish are caught by duck hunters after the flight has gone on for the day.

If you have your waders along, try some in-the-water fishing. You may find a new thrill there that you have been overlooking.
