

Olton Mustangs Begin Workouts

Emiliano Marquez. Back row, Billy Gary, Curt Gregory, Marlos May, Keith Workman, Jim Key, Alfred Garcia, Steve Stockdale, Mike Parsons, Johnny Arroyas, James Cross and Kenny Spain.

32 Hopefuls Make Appearance

Gridiron hopefuls were busy this week as two-a-day workouts began. The annual attack of fall-fever--footballitis--affected others too as numerous fans stopped to watch 32 Mustangs pop the leather.

Head coach Jerry Blakely said Wednesday that "their attitude and spirit is great, which is no surprise. It's a thing we've grown to expect since we've been here in Olton."

"We hope to pick up where we left off last year," he continued. "We think we have a stronger team but we know we have a stronger district --- and it was tough enough last year."

Cautious about predicting the coming season, Blakely said, "We'll get a real good test in our first game with Tulia."

Returning starters, defensively or offensively or both, include Steve Stockdale, qb, 6' 1", 170 lbs. sr.; Gary Durham, guard, 5'9", 168 lbs., sr.; Luis Rey, sb, 5'10", 165 lbs. sr.; Alfred Garcia, tackle, 6'1", 185 lbs. sr.; Jim Key, center, 6' 1", 195 lbs. sr.; and Johnny Arroyas, guard, 5' 11", 175 lb. sr.

Also Mike Parsons, end, 6' 155 lb. sr.; Alonzo Springer, end, 5' 8", 140 lbs. sr.; Luis Jimenez, tackle, 5' 10", 185 lbs., jr.; Marlos May, fb, 5'11 175 lbs. jr.; David Turner, fb, 5' 10", 188 lbs., sr.; and Emiliano Marquez, end, 5' 9", 145 lb. sr.

Goodlooking newcomers to the field of action are Jimmy Cannon, guard, 5' 7", 145 lbs., sr.; Gary Kelley, th, 5'11", 152 lbs. sr.; James Cross, tackle, 5'11", 160 lbs., sr.; Billy Gary, end, 5' 10", 145 lbs., sr.; Kurt Lewis, guard, 5' 8", 150 lb. soph.

The '70 squad also includes the three Mustangs named to All-District, Stockdale, Rey and Durham from the '69 team which finished with a 5-3-1 record.

Key positions, not yet decided, are offensive tailback. Primary prospect for that spot is Keith Workman who has better than average speed and ability to catch the ball. Workman, Blakely said, has looked exceptionally well in workouts the first two days this week.

Another position not filled is fullback. Marlos May and David Turner are battling for that spot. One will be named to the position and the other will play defensive end.

Picked pre-season as outstanding players to watch were Stockdale, Durham, Rey, Garcia, Parsons, Key, Arroyas and Jiminez.

"Our strong suit has to be our passing game," Blakely said.

"We'll run basically, a pro I formation, offensively. Defensively mostly Arkansas monster with variations -- and many stunts."

Weak points, Blakely feels, are speed and depth. Unproven players at key positions may or may not prove to be another weakness.

On the opposite side of the scales, the Mustangs' strong points are tradition, experience and attitude.

"This year our district is definitely one of the strongest districts (in our class) in Texas. An exceptionally strong district," Blakely said.

The winner, he believes, will have a "very good chance" in the play-offs.

The winner? "They'll definitely have to beat Floydada," he predicts.

Lunchroom Staff Complete, Lunch Prices Remain Same

Olton School Lunch Staff members expect to serve 900 lunches daily to students at 17-year-old prices, according to Mrs. Ray Slatten, supervisor. In making this comment she wonders if anywhere else an item can be found which has not advanced in price since 1953.

The lunch will be planned around the Type A pattern, says Mrs. Slatten, which includes meat, fish or meat substitute, vegetables, fruits, bread, butter and milk in proper amounts set by the United States Department of Agriculture which is a sponsoring agency. Great effort is made to serve a lunch nutritious, attractive and appetizing and she says "hot breads will be featured often and also desserts, which are not a requirement to meet the standard."

First lunches will be served Thursday, Aug. 27, the first full day of school.

Milk breaks designed for students grades one through three cannot be offered at this time because no Federal Government money has been appropriated.

Milk may be purchased at the lunch period at 8¢ per carton. Chocolate milk will be offered each Thursday noon.

Daily lunch prices are set at 35¢ for grades one through five; 40¢ for grades six through twelve and for teachers; visitors are charged 50¢.

Five day lunch tickets, grades one through five, are $1.75; 20 day tickets in these grades are $7.00.

Five day lunch tickets, grades six through twelve, are $2.00; and 20 day tickets, $8.00.

Mrs. Slatten states "Patrons who wish to have drafts drawn for lunch tickets should come by during student registration and make these arrangements. Lunch tickets will be available to all students at this time."

Other than Mrs. Slatten operating personnel includes Mmes. Lanora Dennis, Florence Frazier, Margaret Gallagher, Jewel Huggins, Pauline Jones, Norma Lively, Jewel Long, Oleta Priest, Alice Sherry and Winnie Sweat also J. D. Lively.

Part time workers include Mmes. Merle Sharp, Maudie Stephens, Betty Hackler; Substitute workers, Janice Walters, Mabel May and Lois Hunt. Mrs. Slatten and her staff invite all school patrons to come by at any time to visit or to have lunch with students.

Pioneer Natural Gas Company Asks For Increase In Rates

Pioneer Natural Gas Company today made application to the city officials of the cities on its West Texas system, which includes Olton, for an adjustment in the company's general service rate charged for gas delivered to domestic and commercial customers in those cities.

The application stated that, if the cities acted affirmatively within the sixty-day period provided by law, the company would accept a rate increase of 16.2 per cent rather than the 19.4 per cent requested.

In announcing the rate request, K. B. Watson, Executive vice president of Pioneer said, "With the rising costs the company has sustained, it is in immediate need of additional revenue. To avoid any further delay and expense, an increase of 16.2 per cent would be acceptable although a rate increase of 19.4 per cent would yield less than a 7 - 3/8 per cent return on the fair value of the company's investment. As an indication of the problem," Watson continued, "the company was forced to pay an interest rate of 9 - 1/2 per cent on its recent borrowing of $20 million."

It was further pointed out that the Texas Railroad Commission had determined the proper charge for gas at the edge of the cities to be 32¢ effective July 1, 1970 up from 28¢. "This gate rate adjustment will not result in increased revenue until the burner tip rate is changed. The gate rate increase was allowed in recognition of the company's increased cost in getting the gas to the communities through its transmission system. It does not include any consideration for the higher costs of distributing the gas within the cities," Watson said.

The company pointed out that either of the proposed rates would keep the consumer cost of gas on its West Texas system considerably below the state average for domestic and commercial use. The general service rate is applicable to this type service.

In the letter transmitting the application, the company referred to the current national publicity concerning the imminent nation-wide gas supply shortage and assured the city officials that Pioneer has maintained an excellent gas supply and is capable of supplying new customers and increased requests for service.

"With the cooperation of the area we serve, this position can be maintained in the foreseeable future. The company has recently connected two new areas of large potential gas supply which places us in a good position to meet the increased competition for future gas production," the letter stated.

Company officials have recently met with the committee that represented the cities in the gate rate proceedings before the Railroad Commission and with some of the city officials to advise them of the rate request. "We are inviting and anticipate, immediate studies of our records and other information supporting this application," Watson said.

GUEST EDITORIAL

After the closing of the Granbury General Hospital June 1, Texas Congressman W. R. Poage wrote to Dr. R. N. Rawls, Dr. L. G. Ballard and Dr. E. R. Haley, the physician-owners of the hospital, as follows:

"A day or so ago I had a letter from Miss Karen Thrash of Granbury in which she deplored the effect that Medicare was having on her community. About the same time I read your statement in the Hood County News Tablet as to why you were closing the hospital. These were both such fine statements that I thought they were worthy of being inserted in the Congressional Record so that others would have the benefit of reading them...."

In addressing the U. S. House of Representatives, Congressman Poage said, "...just today I received a letter from a young lady in my district which I think gives a clear picture of how the Medicare program has miserably failed in the small towns of America. This young lady worked as a volunteer in a hospital in Granbury, Texas, and has seen firsthand the great benefit that hospitals are to small towns. Unfortunately, the Medicare program has contributed to the closing of this and dozens of similar small hospitals. I think it is time that we took a close look at small communities. I am inserting the text of this letter. I think every Member should see it. In addition, I am inserting the advertisement which was placed in the Hood County News Tablet by three prominent physicians expressing their strong contention that Medicare has been a failure. The opinions of these physicians should not be taken lightly. They should be heard. I think it is a shame that the citizens of Hood County and of other counties now find themselves without hospital facilities. This is not a good recommendation for the Medicare program. Those in charge of this program should not try to apply the same rules in our rural communities which may fit New York...."

Miss Thrash's letter which was rather lengthy, but well-written, followed Congressman Poage's remarks. A 16-year-old student, she concludes her letter by saying, "I think we've handled our illnesses and needs of loved ones just fine without the government's controlling concern. Please help in this merciless situation."

The next insertion in the June 3 Congressional Record is a copy of a full-page newspaper announcement inserted in the Hood County News Tablet by Drs. Rawls, Ballard and Haley, explaining their reasons for closing Granbury General.

The doctors, addressing themselves to the citizens of Hood County, said, "After much study, considerable thought and consultation with experts in hospitalization, the owners of the Granbury General Hospital have decided to close the hospital (not clinic) effective May 31.

"The physician-owners of the hospital have provided hospital facilities for Hood County since 1945 at no cost to the taxpayers. Due to the increasing costs and demands of Medicare, we feel that we can no longer operate the hospital at a deficit.

"During each of the four years of the existence of Medicare, we have spent large sums of money complying with their requests. Medicare now requires that we spend an additional large sum of money to provide an automatic sprinkler system for the building and a standby power plant for the hospital. If this were done in approximately six months time, Medicare states that we will have to employ four additional registered nurses to provide continuous R.N. coverage. We have exhausted every means in attempting to locate additional nurses and have not been able to employ them.

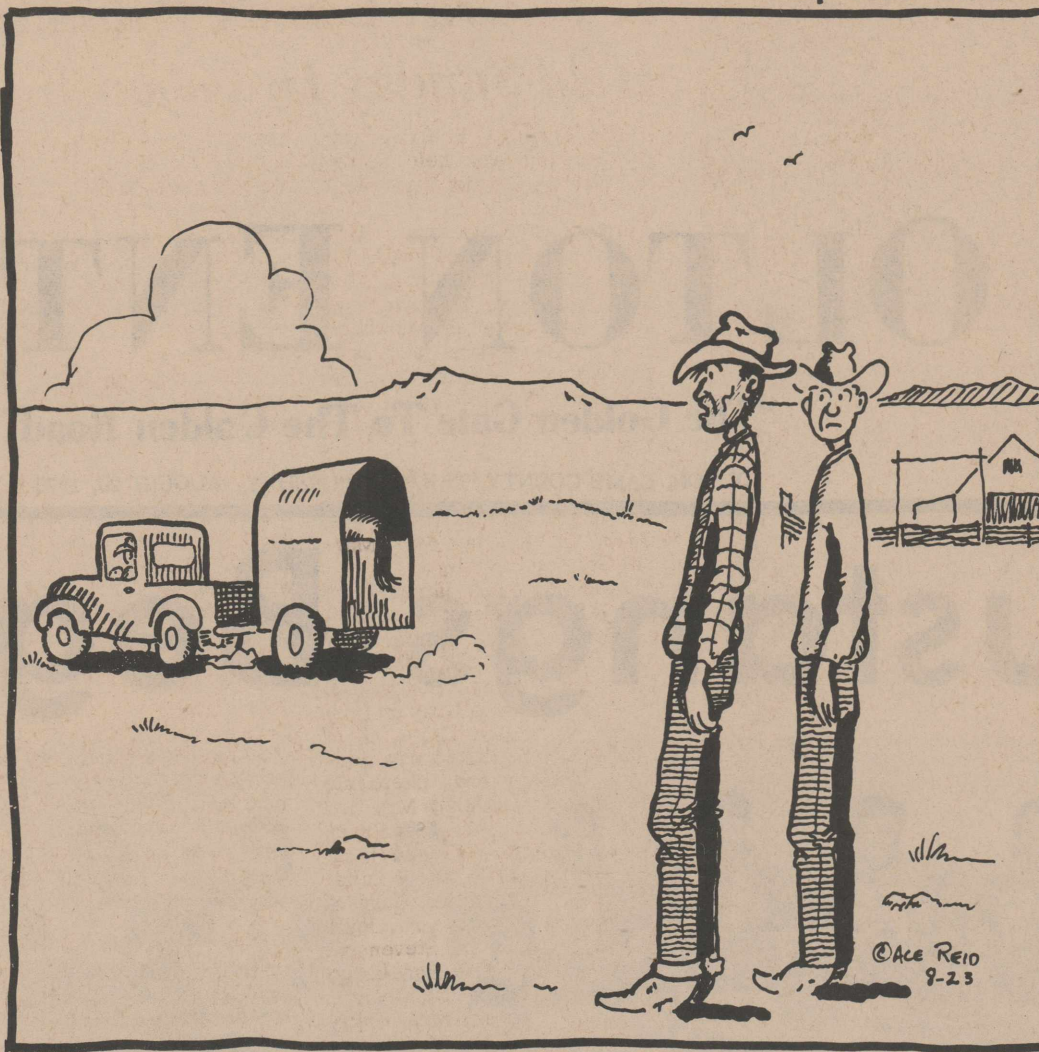

"In the face of these difficulties, Medicare has not given us a final settlement for the years of 1967-68-69. Inasmuch as the hospital can be paid by Medicare only the operating costs, we cannot continue to subsidize Medicare.

"We would like to take this opportunity to thank the people of Hood County for their confidence, trust and support during the 25 years existence of Granbury General Hospital. It has been a pleasure to be of service to you.

"We will continue to operate the clinic and provide for our patients' hospitalization in Fort Worth or other area facilities."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Bully On a Bus

Bus driver Hawkins noticed that one of his passengers, obviously drunk, was getting belligerent toward a young woman. Hoping things would calm down, Hawkins did not interfere.

But things did not calm down. On the contrary, the man climaxed his outburst by giving the woman a vicious kick in the shins.

In due course, she filed a damage suit against the bus company. And a court ruled that the company was indeed liable. The judge said Hawkins had failed to live up to his legal responsibility.

ties as the "man in charge" of the bus.

As a rule, a bus driver has the duty to do some basic policing of his vehicle. When one passenger menaces another, the driver cannot just take refuge in the role of a neutral bystander.

In fact, he may have to take affirmative action not only against grown-up bullies but also against youthful rascals. In another case several teenagers, armed with rubber bands, began firing paper clips around the interior of their school bus.

Again, the driver followed a hands-off policy. But when a girl was struck in the eye and injured, the bus company was held liable in court. The judge said the driver had an affirmative duty to halt this dangerous game.

Nevertheless, since he is not really a policeman, he does not have to go out of his way to search for trouble. Thus:

An intoxicated passenger jabbed a large pin into another man's hip. The indignant victim later demanded damages from the bus company, pointing out that his attacker had been quarrelsome and profane even before thrusting the pin.

But it also appeared that the fellow had been sitting far back in the bus, and that the driver had simply not been aware of his misbehavior. Accordingly, the court found no grounds for placing blame upon the driver.

"His primary duty," said the judge, "is to give his full attention to the operation of the bus. If he concentrates upon this all-important duty, he cannot give attention to the actions of the passengers unless so unusual as to demand it."

FACT & OPINION
The Association of Western Railways, in its publication "Competitive Transportation", commented, with the nation's railroads leading the way, containerization was developed as a variant of the "piggyback" concept. Most containers look like truck trailers without wheels. As much as 30 times faster than conventional handling, containerization speeds up the loading and unloading of freight and protects it against repeated handling.

In Remembrance

(Editor's note: An original poem from the pen of Stella Cowart, published in these pages once before, has been requested by friends for this issue.)

"In a lovely garden in a quiet place,
I ponder God's word and His marvelous grace.
It bids me look on the beauty of life,
And not to give all my thoughts to the world and its strife,

Singing His praises, not forgetting to pray.
Smiling and serving, even using our hands,
This my friends, is a part of God's plan.
Abundant life He promised to us,
If only we give Him our love and our trust.
Yes, life can be a miracle if lived God's way;
Let's claim this miracle, right now, today."

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

In a number of American cities the problem of hippies and drug-users is worsening. So much attention has been lavished on the hippie life style by some of the major national magazines and networks and so many influential "intellectuals" have defended the use of marijuana that a considerable number of young people have been misled into becoming drop-outs from society. They are congregating in cities which adopt a permissive attitude towards those who break with society's basic rules of behavior.

Thus it is time that responsible citizens in every American city address themselves to the issue of hippie and drug-using groups infiltrating communities. It is a very serious issue -- actually a part of the great law and order issue of our time.

San Francisco was the first large American city to be confronted with a separate underground culture. Today, this great city, considered one of the most beautiful in the land, is the home of a large hippie and drug-using population. Visitors to the West Coast metropolis frequently complain that the character of the city is threatened by the underground groups.

But San Francisco is not the only city to become a target of hippie groups. Atlanta, the metropolis of the South, is rapidly becoming a favorite of the social drop-outs and misfits. For months, concerned citizens of Atlanta have expressed alarm at the emergence of a hippie area in the Peachtree-10th Street vicinity. It has become a magnet for elements generally described as "street people." Merchants and shoppers have found themselves harassed by the hippies.

The situation became so serious in the late spring that Mayor Sam Massell appeared on television to discuss the problem with the citizenry and to set forth his approach to the problem. He sent a large contingent of police into the hippie area and warned that "those who violate our laws, including possession of illegal drugs and loitering in a manner impeding passage of others, will be arrested."

But Mayor Massell coupled this-much-needed warning with an appeal for toleration of hippies -- a permissive attitude that could cost Atlanta community peace and well-being in the months and years ahead. The mayor, who was elected by a liberal coalition, urged toleration of "street people." He recommended that citizens set up "lines of communication" with hippies. This is the approach generally favored by liberals throughout the nation.

Indeed this soft approach to social misfits already has been utilized in Atlanta, where a "community center" for hippies already is functioning. Negotiations also are in progress to establish hotels for hippies. If this is the approach adopted by a city, it will do no good to warn, as Mayor Massell did, that youths should not come to the city without means of support and accommodation. Toleration of "street people" on the part of a city government is a green light to hippies to invade that community.

The problem of hippies cannot be divorced from the problem of drug use. The "street people" are people wedded to the use of marijuana, a drug that is the prelude to hard drugs and which, in any case, induces a breakdown of an individual's personal and social discipline.

The public should be aware, of course, that there is a drive on to legalize marijuana in the United States. If legalization ever were allowed, it would be a disaster for the United States; it would constitute approval of a drugged culture. No doubt the enemies of the United States would like nothing better than for marijuana to be legalized, for they know it would lead to a massive weakening of the moral fiber of the nation.

Nowadays, liberal elements are urging establishment of so-called "halfway houses" in cities -- places where drug users may meet with community representatives and discuss the drug problem. These halfway houses are an extremely undesirable development. Those who are planning them often announce that they won't take a stand on use of marijuana; they won't say whether it is good or bad. Such a morally neutral attitude towards drug use, which is the same thing as drug abuse, is unconscionable. It appears that the drug users want to use halfway houses for defending drug use, not for rehabilitation.

The evidence strongly suggests that permissiveness toward hippies and drug users is destructive of community order and well-being. If a city wants to be rid of disorderly "street people" and drug users, the way to proceed is with strict enforcement of state laws and city ordinances on vagrancy, loitering, and disorderly conduct. "Communication" with hippies only encourages them to stay around.

Coupons Needed To Help Teen

For the second time within a year a Plainview resident has fallen victim to a blood disease that requires the use of a kidney machine and hopefully a kidney transplant. Both are very expensive.

Nancy Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wall, a 15-year-old Plainview High School sophomore has been a patient of Parklawn Hospital in Dallas since May 15. Presently she and her mother are undergoing a 12-week course to learn how to use a kidney machine.

A fund drive to help purchase an artificial kidney machine for use at Central Plains General Hospital is being conducted by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Plainview Fire Department. Nancy's father is a captain in that organization.

Goal for the fund drive has been set at $30,000. Cash donations are being accepted as are trading stamps, and Betty Crocker coupons. Receiving canisters have been placed in several Olton business houses.

General Mills, sponsors of the "Betty Crocker Coupons", will not redeem them to purchase a machine for individuals, but will redeem them to purchase the machine for a hospital.

Wall has said that the new Central Plains General Hospital could certainly use such a machine and he would like to see it placed there for everyone who needs it.

Thus an opportunity presents itself to let those hoarded coupons, stamps (or even cash) meet a desperate humane need.

Those wishing to mail in their donations may mail them to The Enterprise, Drawer E, Olton, Texas 79064 and we will see that they are delivered to the proper places.

MRS. DALE DE BERRY

De Berry-Polk Vows Pledged Saturday In Baptist Church

Vows were solemnized Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church between Miss Deborah Polk and Dale DeBerry.

The Rev. John E. Lewis, pastor, directed the double ring vows before an altar decorated with an arch candelabra and greenery flanked by spiral candelabras with pink cathedral tapers. White satin wedding roping marked the nuptial setting and a white wrought iron and satin prie dieu completed the decor.

Harold Dean Carson, organist, presented traditional selections and accompanied Miss Sunya Sorley as she sang "More" and the "Wedding Prayer."

Candles were lighted by Miss Rhonda Parsons and Darrell DeBerry, brother of the bridegroom. Chris and Craig De Berry, cousins of the groom, lighted pink candles marking the bride's aisle.

Escorted by her uncle, H.G. Franklin of Tahoka, the bride wore a formal length gown of white satin, mira-mist and lace, fashioned with an empire bodice featuring a scooped neckline and leg-of-mutton sleeves. Satin bows accented the front and back waistline and sleeves. Wide bands of Chantilly lace enhanced the bodice and skirt and edged the chapel length train.

Her bouffant shoulder length veil of illusion was held by a coil of lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gladiolus and pink sweetheart roses atop a white satin covered Bible "borrowed" from Mrs. Percy Parsons.

For "something old", she carried a ring belonging to the groom's great-great-grandmother. Tied in her bouquet was a charm engraved with their wedding date, a gift of the groom. She carried pennies in her shoe coined in the year of her birth, the groom's birth-year and a 1970 for luck. She also wore the traditional blue garter, a gift fashioned by Mrs. Willie Gene Green.

The bride presented her mother a long-stemmed pink rose prior to the exchange of vows and a rose to the mother of the groom at the close of the ceremony.

Denise Polk of Levelland, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Deena DeBerry, sister of the groom and Carmen Robertson, Rhonda Parsons was junior bridesmaid.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

If you can't beat 'em, join 'em! I'm beginning to succumb to the fever of football.

It all started when I went to school this week to get some shots of the 1970 edition of the Olton Mustangs. The enthusiasm is contagious.

Ignorance isn't always bliss. If I just knew what was going on, I might be the biggest football fan around. As it is, I'm afraid I'm like the Frenchmen on that ancient movie seen on T.V. Sunday.

See it? American boys had gone to France (during World War I) to serve with the French air force (only they didn't call it that). Anyway, during a lull in the fighting, the Americans got up a game of baseball.

The French watched for a while bewildered. Then one said to the others, something to this effect: "One player stands up there while another one throws balls at him. They have to stand there while the one with the ball gets several chances to try to hit him."

The bat was explained away with simple reasoning: "Of course, they do give the player a stick to try to defend himself and he uses it to try to keep the balls from hitting him."

That's about how knowledgeable I am about football.

I used to think the players got in a huddle to decide who they wanted to mail next.

And it seemed that when one player got the ball he tried to run like everything so he could get away from that rough bunch and go play with that ball himself.

Really, I wasn't quite that dumb - just almost.

Another of my misconceptions was that people took binoculars to football games so they could see what the women on the other side were wearing - or to watch the majorettes and cheerleaders. Never have I learned if that was the real reason!

One thing I've learned. Football fans are as different as snowflakes. There's the one who goes to the game and "enjoys the view" - catching up on the latest gossip, current events, newest fashions or how the cotton is doing.

Another really gets with the game and, when it's over, is as physically exhausted as number 11 in the football jersey.

There's the nature - he really enjoys getting out in the fresh air. Only trouble is - his "gen-u-wine", hand-crafted briar pipe sends its aromatic-choke-fragrant-cough-mellow-ugh nose of a smoke-hater.

Thus it goes - on and on - just like the army of little bodies squeezing down the crowded aisle managing somehow to arrive just in front of your eyes when number 85 makes that terrific interception!

So, let's play ball - even if it is football!

County Cotton Growers To Elect Producer-Director

Lamb County cotton producers and agribusiness men will elect a producer-director to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. in a breakfast meeting called for that purpose at 7 a.m., Aug. 27 in the Crescent House Restaurant, Littlefield.

Announcement of the meeting comes from Paul Bennett, businessman director to the 25-county commodity organization, and J. D. Smith, current producer director. Both farmers and businessmen are eligible to participate in the election of PCG directors. Each of the counties in PCG territory has two directors, one a cotton producer and the other a businessman. They serve two year terms, with businessmen-directors elected on odd years and producer-directors on even years.

In addition to the election, the meeting will include a report from the PCG staff on the status of the farm legislation in Washington. "There is nothing on cotton's horizon right now of greater importance than getting a cotton program passed," Smith stated, "and every cotton-minded person in Lamb County should be vitally interested in what his cotton organization on the Plains is doing in that regard."

Acapulco Trip For Two To Be Given Away Sept. 10

An expense-paid vacation trip for two to Acapulco, Mexico plus $500 in cash will be awarded to the lucky High Plains Research Foundation member who wins the door prize drawing during opening activities of the 14th Annual Field Day, September 10.

Sponsors making the trip available are Plainview Co-op Compress, City National Bank, and Hale County State Bank.

The drawing will be made during the evening program. Merchandise door prizes also will be awarded.

The Annual Field Day will feature three field stops on the guided tour of Foundation research plots. As an added feature, Dr. Tom Longnecker has announced that Dennis Mooney, Foundation agronomist, will conduct the Foundation's popular slide program of minimum tillage studies. The slide presentation has been acclaimed by farmers who have viewed the program as stimulating and informative.

This slide presentation will be presented during the afternoon in the Moody building. "The minimum tillage program has been viewed by approximately 50 different groups and organizations this past year and continues to hold interest as minimum tillage studies prove to be adaptable to the High Plains", Dr. Longnecker said.

In addition to the Field Day activities, a special Farm Equipment Show begins a three-day run at the Foundation on September 10. Some of the latest modern farm equipment will be on display during this special showing.

For Field Day activities, members of area civic clubs have been asked to act as greeters for Foundation visitors.

Texas Electric Cooperative, as in many years past, will provide the speakers roster and public address system for the guest speaker and the Field Day evening program. Baldrige Bread Company will provide the sound truck for tour dispatcher, Ollie Liner, Hale County Agent.

Governor Approves Grant For Law Officer Training

Governor Preston Smith today approved a grant of $12,016 to the South Plains Association of Governments, Lubbock, for use in regional law enforcement officer training.

The grant was made on recommendation of the Texas Criminal Justice Council, which administers funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, U.S. Department of Justice.

It is one of 30 action grants recommended by the Council at its regular monthly meeting. The 30 grants totaled $1,533,575.

Judge Joe Frazier Brown, executive director of the Council, said the South Plains Association will employ a law enforcement training coordinator on a half-time basis and will purchase training equipment and materials for the training program. Classroom space in the Lubbock County Sheriff's Office, at Wayland College in Plainview and at South Plains Junior College, Levelland, will be used to conduct three classes of 160 hours each in the basic police science course.

Accent on Health

A deadly lady bore down on the Texas Gulf Coast with surprising fury to initiate the month of August. But the residents there would tell you "Celia" was no lady.

Seeming to pick up speed and fury as she approached the land, Celia left a path of destruction and death in her wake. But in so doing, she proved the value of advanced planning. The Department of Health was on the scene even before Celia made her landfall, preparing aid for what became one of the most devastating natural disasters to ever strike the State of Texas.

The Department's Division of Disaster Health and Medical Services, under the direction of Charles E. King, worked with other state agencies and organizations in coordinating disaster aid efforts in the stricken area. Staffers Odell Griffith and Andy Woodward, both wise in the ways of big storms and working from a button up base in Corpus Christi, immediately began fielding requests for emergency hospital units, medical supplies, food, water, sanitation equipment, and mosquito control.

A 200-bed "Packaged Disaster Hospital", a complete field army hospital, was put into operation in a church at Aransas Pass, where the community hospital has been completely demolished. A 50-bed "Natural Disaster Hospital" was rushed to Corpus Christi from Austin. Five babies were delivered by Health Department personnel while the state and local health experts worked around the clock to help restore vital services especially hospital, medical, and water supplies. They manned the Emergency operations Center at all times, to coordinate all requests for aid. All hospitals were contacted immediately to determine their needs. An emergency communications system was put into service with the help of local ham operators, who had organized the Radio Amateur Communications Emergency Service. A 24-hour telephone connection between the stricken area and the State Health Department in Austin was kept open a full eight days.

Some requests for aid were fairly routine --- emergency medical supplies, electric power generators, portable hospitals, ice for hospital use, control of mosquitoes, emergency water and sewer service, and food and shelter.

Other requests were not so routine---gas masks for use in Aransas Pass to help dispose of dead animals, hand bells for hospital use for patients to page nurses, help in locating two escaped elephants!

Whatever the request, the State Health Department was prepared to provide the service, or make contact with the agency that could.

Repeal All Laws On Pornography?

An 18-member commission was created by the U.S. Congress three years ago to study — at a cost of $2,000,000 — the extent and effects of pornography and to recommend legislation in the area of pornography control.

Seventeen members of the commission were named by President Lyndon Johnson, one by President Nixon.

A draft of the report — released in advance of the final report, and not yet approved by the commission — presents a finding that pornography does not cause "crime, juvenile delinquency, other antisocial acts, sexual or non-sexual deviancy, character disorders, or significant emotional disturbances."

Basing the recommendation on these findings, the commission report proposes the repeal of all federal, state, and local laws against showing and selling pornographic films, books and other material to adults.

However, the report has been attacked as unscientific by a prominent Utah psychologist.

"Report Rigged"

Dr. Victor B. Cline of Salt Lake City, testifying before the House Postal Operations subcommittee, said flatly, "The report has been rigged—that is the only word I can use."

"While this report presents itself on the surface as a fairly thoughtful rational review of the scientific evidence," Dr. Cline stated, "it, in fact, is a gross mixture of truth and error."

Dr. Cline said that the commission staff used statistics selectively to produce a "distortion of the actual evidence."

Is it really possible for anyone seriously to believe that continual exposure to demoralizing influences will have no effect on a person's character or actions?

The Bible asks the pertinent question, "Can a man take fire in his bosom and not be burned?"

In another place, the Scripture warns that "It is as sport to a fool to do mischief."

How much of this should we tolerate in our nation? How much more of it can we tolerate and avoid the consequences which have befallen other permissive societies in the past?

Recently, Ralph Graves, the managing editor of "Life," wrote, "An appalling minor event happened to me: I attended the premiere of a new movie."

Naming the film, he continued, "I have seen a number of current movies specializing in all the new freedoms, and my shock level isn't what it used to be. But I know what I hate."

"Exercise in Vulgarity"

Naming the film again—which I prefer not to do—he described it as "an unforgivable movie, a consummate exercise in vulgarity . . . the longest 94-minute movie ever made. . . ."

"I feel," Graves continued, "that at some point we should make an effort to draw the line—not in censorship but in disgust."

Most of us are seeing and hearing things—on radio and television, in magazines and books and elsewhere—which can fairly be described as disgusting.

But when a government commission, after spending $2,000,000 of our money, produces a report like this, I don't know whether "disgusting" is a strong enough word. Where will we draw the line?
