Jerry Baird...

Longtime staffer at college to head senior center here

Jerry Baird, one of the original faculty members at Western Texas College, was announced at noon Tuesday as the new director for the Scurry County Senior Center.

His selection was reported at the center's regular noon luncheon. Making the announcement was Gay Hickman, Western Texas College business manager who serves as the college's representative on the center advisory board.

Baird's employment was recommended by a screening committee comprised of representatives from the center, the city, school and college.

He was chosen from an initial list of some 18 candidates, a field narrowed to six last Friday during interviews conducted here.

Since the center director is technically a college-employed staffer, Baird's appointment will also see the consolidation of some of his current responsibilities, noted WTC President Dr. Harry Krenek.

He currently serves as director for both adult vocational and continuing education. Also, he is in charge of student recruitment chores at WTC, a job which he will no longer be responsible for due to the time involved in travel.

"My fulltime job will be at the senior center," Baird said Monday afternoon.

He will continue his role related to continuing education and adult vocational education, but he is expected to be assisted to a greater degree by WTC staffer Wanda Falls.

In line with this, she will be promoted to assistant director for both

Clements sees 'new Texas' in future

AUSTIN (AP) — Dallas oilman William P. Clements, the only Republican governor of Texas this century, today headed back to that office with a declaration that it's time to create a new Texas.

"These are, indeed, the best of times and the worst of times. If we seize this moment of opportunity, we can move in a different direction, set new goals and achieve new heights of prosperity," Clements said in his prepared inaugural address.

Clements, who gained revenge for his 1982 election loss by defeating Democratic Gov. Mark White in November, was scheduled to take the oath of office from Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice John Hill shortly after noon.

Clements noted the state's severe economic problems, but said the crisis also could be an opportunity.

"Now is the season and time for us in Texas to take advantage of our opportunity and create a new Texas. We must move on to a higher plateau. We must improve the quality of life for all Texans," he said.

"Our problems are not insurmountable. Our salvation doesn't depend on some magic cure. It depends on us. On what your leaders in state government do. On what the men and women who run Texas businesses and farms and ranches do. On the quality, spirit and determination of our working people."

Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby, a Democrat beginning his fifth term, also was to take the oath of office at that time.

Airport grant on new board's slate

Airport board members will meet Wednesday to discuss the grant proposal currently pending with the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to renovate the county airport.

During the session, set for 1:30 p.m. in the terminal, new board members will also be sworn in to begin two-year terms. They include Wayland Huddleston, Roy Idom and Lynn McLarty.

County officials have been waiting several months for word from the FAA regarding some $1.7 million in renovations at the airfield. The original request for funding was filed in 1983 on the 30-plus year old facility.

If the county's application is approved, the federal government will absorb 90 percent of the project's total cost. The remaining 10 percent will come from revenue sharing funds already received and set aside by county commissioners.

Once the work is completed, the county will continue to maintain the facility.

Plans call for the complete renovation of the north-south runway with an 800 ft. extension. This extension would increase the runway's length to the mark required to accomodate larger aircraft such as jets.

In the original proposal, the county also requested monies for a parallel taxiway; for resurfacing of the east-west runway and the ramp area; and reconstruction of the airport beacon.

Siblings score well at Hermleigh show

While the grand champion pig of the Hermleigh FFA chapter livestock show was shown by Rodney Foster, the other top animals in the two divisions were shown by the brother-sister team of Ben and Andrea Smith, children of Hermleigh ag teacher Richard Smith.

Andrea Smith claimed two of the top four prizes in the show held Monday in the coliseum ag annex.

She entered hogs and lambs and claimed the reserve champion's trophy in both divisions.

In addition, her older brother Ben exhibited a crossbred lamb chosen grand champion of the lamb division by show judge Kenneth Dudensen of Sweetwater.

Hermleigh FFA members showed a total of 26 lambs divided into two divisions based on breed — crossbred and black faced — and 36 hogs in three classes based on weight.

Class winners included Ben Smith in crossbred lambs, Andrea Smith in the black faced lambs, Rodney Foster in the lightweight hogs, Amy Anderson in the mediumweight hogs and Andrea Smith in the heavyweight hogs.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Nostalgia is what turns the past tense into the past perfect."

Last weekend's weather packed an icy wallop, resulting in the cancellation of many activities--including the majority of church services in the county.

Despite the weather, there was a Biblical message in the weather that forced everybody to stay indoors. Although it was just slightly over 24 hours--being locked up with ole what's-her-name all weekend was a lesson in eternity.

Chevron's G. A. Parks was listening to the police scanner Saturday night. The dispatcher sent officers to a local residence to quell a domestic disturbance. Parks said he almost called to see if it was us.

Later in the evening, the same police radio broadcast the fact police had stopped a man, with light jacket, out walking in the sleet and snow.

Upon investigation, the man told officers he had a bad case of "cabin fever" complicated by a nagging wife. He had gone for a walk to "cool off."

We checked the temperature several times Saturday and Sunday, but never were we so hot that we needed any extended time out of doors.

One thing we did learn from the marathon weekend of staying home with nothing to do--forget retirement.

Some unofficial political researcher has discovered that the average resident of Washington, D. C. drinks 5.5 gallons of liquor each year.

No wonder the government is so shaky.

With regard to the proposed pay raises for top federal officials--including senators and congressmen--we favor the supply and demand formula.

When we get to the point that there's no longer any applicants for the jobs--then look at raising the pay.

Blanche's Bernina relocated to new site

Blanche's Bernina reopened Tuesday after moving to a new location at 2503 College Ave., the former site of the Carriage Wheel.

Store owner Blanche Chisum says an official grand opening is planned next month.

Blanche's Bernina formerly operated at 1910 26th St. for almost five years.

Along with the move, the store will add an expanded merchandise line and more sewing classes. It will also begin opening each Saturday.

Weekday hours are from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. and the store will now be open Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Even though the new location has "three times the space as the previous site," Mrs. Chisum said they will not lose their "down home feeling." Customers are invited to drop in, browse and have a cup of coffee.

Blanche's Bernina's expanded inventory will now include a complete line of hoops, additional laces, ribbons and buttons, the out-of-Africa look, and a complete line of top of the line denim.

In addition, they will also be able to stock sewing machine cabinets and Bernina sewing machines. Private quarters are now also available for the expanded sewing classes which will be offered soon, Mrs. Chisum said.

Ask Us

Q. — Is it true that with the five cent addition, Texas is one of the highest taxing states for gasoline?

A. — The nickle addition, at this point temporary, now brings the state tax to 15 cents per gallon. There are 19 states which charge more and three others which charge 15 cents. This ranks Texas among the top 23 states. Also, 39 of the 50 states charge 12 cents or more.

Two employees were at the office Tuesday, "tying up loose ends." The building contractor had been in business in Snyder for 30 years and, for 20 years prior to that, in Hamlin.

Horsley said company officials were talking to banks and creditors with regard to liquidation of the firm's assets.

Illegal dump spoils first look at Texas

ORANGE, Texas (AP) — A sign on Interstate 10 welcoming motorists driving west is soon followed by a less inviting site — a heap of garbage.

A five-acre illegal dump containing old tires, discarded furniture, scrap lumber, used roofing and thousands of other items is one of the first things motorists see when they enter Texas.

"It's not the kind of thing we like for people to see," said Bill Naiver, manager of the nearby Texas tourist information center, which hosts 452,102 visitors annually. "We think that first impression is important."

The Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation has put up "no dumping" signs, but they've been stolen twice, he said.

Developer Henry Houseman of Lakeview, owner of the wooded property, says he is powerless to stop the dumping.

"I can't be everywhere at once," said the 76-year-old Houseman, who owns about 12,000 acres in Orange County. "What am I supposed to do, stand guard out there 24 hours a day?"

Houseman said he would erect a fence around the site if he thought that would stop the dumping. He built such a fence around another illegal dump but people broke through it to leave their garbage, he said.

"I blame the city," Houseman said. "They could catch some of those people if they wanted to."

Assistant Orange City Manager Karen Johnson said that although the city is increasing police patrols in the isolated area, located inside city limits, it is still difficult to catch people dumping there.

Ms. Johnson speculated that people living outside the city are the culprits.

Orange residents receive regular trash pickup while those who live outside the limits have to go several miles to the only authorized dump site in the county and then pay to unload, she said.

City officials have ordered Houseman to clean up the dump, like he did several years ago. But Houseman refuses.

"What am I supposed to do, just wait for people to fill it up and then haul all the stuff off so they can fill it up again?" he said.

Group fighting tort reform

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas needs insurance reform, not tort reform, to solve the liability coverage crisis, according to the director of a group that says insurance companies are responsible for their own problems.

"What the insurance companies have gone out and done in Texas is they went out and bought buildings all over our urban landscape," said Billy Rogers, director of the Texans for Civil Justice.

He said at a Monday news conference that those investments have gone sour in many cases.

"They've been taking your premium dollars and investing them in empty buildings all across Texas," Rogers said.

Insurance industry officials say the liability coverage crisis is the result of too many lawsuits and excessive awards to people who file the suits. The industry is seeking an overhaul of the state's tort system.

A tort is a civil wrong for which the wronged party can sue for damages, such as medical malpractice.

The Texans for Civil Justice (not to be confused with the rival Texans Civil Justice League) says it favors "insurance reform," not a change in state laws concerning tort trials. The Texas Trial Lawyers Association is a member of the Texans for Civil Justice.

The Texas Civil Justice League, which represents insurance customers such as banks and doctors, refers to the situation as a "lawsuit crisis." The league is pushing several reforms, including a limit on damage awards.

At a Capitol news conference, Rogers blasted a report recently issued by the staff of a House-Senate joint committee that reviewed the problem in recent months.

"In this 245-page, 50,000-word report ... there's not one sentence devoted to the key question in this whole tort reform controversy. Will any one of the 30 recommendations in this report lower your insurance rates. The clear answer to that question is no," Rogers said.

He said tort reform is "a plan by the insurance companies to take away your right to a fair jury trial (in civil cases), and it will raise your rates at the same time."

Tort reform approved by Florida lawmakers has not solved any of that state's insurance problems, according to Rogers.

"There is no lawsuit crisis. The crisis lies with the insurance companies' bad management. And we're not going to pay the price in Texas for their bad management," he said.

Clements, Hobby declared winners

AUSTIN (AP) — State lawmakers have made official what Texans have thought since Nov. 4: Republican Bill Clements beat Democrat Mark White in the gubernatorial election.

The state Constitution gives the Legislature the exclusive power to decide who is governor and who is lieutenant governor. The official canvass took place Monday during a joint House-Senate session.

It ended at 3:36 p.m. with Speaker Gib Lewis proclaiming Clements the governor and Bill Hobby the lieutenant governor. The Legislature's action cleared the way for today's inauguration ceremonies for Clements and Hobby.

"I don't think there's any suspense," Karl Johnson of the state auditor's office said as he helped a committee of lawmakers check the official returns from the Nov. 4 election.

Clearing a path to 10 tricks

By James Jacoby

Four spades was certainly playable as a final contract, but three no-trump would have been a far easier game to make. However, the game was rubber bridge and South liked his 100 honors in spades. He also liked the fun of playing the hand. Although he missed the mark in the bidding, he was up to the winning play in his 10-trick contract. Declarer was familiar with an important principle of bridge play — it's worth the risk of going set an extra trick to make a game.

Declarer played low from dummy on the heart lead and East won the king. As usual, the play to trick one was crucial on the deal, and South correctly jettisoned his heart queen. Back came a diamond, won by declarer's ace. Declarer played his spade king to West's ace, and West continued with the diamond queen. Declarer took the king and drew trumps. His only chance to make the contract now rested with West's holding the heart jack. So he played a heart and finessed the 10. When that held, he had 10 tricks. But that chance would not have existed had declarer carelessly failed to unblock the heart queen at the first trick.

Lesson: Even with a good six-card major suit, the best game contract can frequently be three no-trump when your hand is balanced and you have strength in the other suits.

Heaven-sent cake is for chocolate lovers

Think back to the chocolatiest-tasting chocolate dessert you've ever eaten. Then try to imagine one even richer in flavor and you might come close to the luscious taste of this cake. Created by New York chef Martin Johner, it has a moist, dense texture almost like that of brownies.

You won't need all the Cocoa Mirror Glaze to "frost" the cake. Refrigerate what's left in a sealed container for up to one week. Reheated, it makes a fantastic dessert sauce.

For directions for variations to the basic cake, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to 1001 Cocoa Bundt Cake, P.O. Box 800, Hershey, PA 17033-0800.

1001 COCOA BUNDT CAKE

2 cups sugar
1¾ cups all-purpose flour
1 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 beaten eggs
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup strong coffee or 2 teaspoons instant coffee crystals dissolved in 1 cup boiling water, cooled to room temperature
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
2 teaspoons vanilla
Cocoa Mirror Glaze or powdered sugar

Grease a 12-cup non-stick fluted tube pan lightly and dust with cocoa; set aside.

Sift sugar, flour, cocoa powder, soda and baking powder into a large mixer bowl. In a small bowl combine eggs, buttermilk, coffee, butter and vanilla. Add egg mixture to cocoa powder mixture. Beat with electric mixer on low speed for 30 seconds or until blended; beat on medium speed for 2 minutes. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 40 to 50 minutes or until cake pulls away from the sides of the pan and the top springs back lightly when touched (the center of the cake will still be slightly moist). Cool in pan 15 minutes on wire rack. Remove from pan; cool completely. Frost with Cocoa Mirror Glaze or dust with powdered sugar. Makes 20 servings.

Cocoa Mirror Glaze: In a heavy saucepan combine 1½ cups whipping cream and 1½ tablespoons honey or corn syrup. Add 1½ cups sugar, 1½ cups unsweetened cocoa powder and 3 tablespoons butter or margarine. Cook and stir over low heat for about 10 minutes or until smooth. Do not boil. Stir in 2 tablespoons vanilla. Strain glaze.

Cut a cardboard base to fit cake, including hole in center. Place cake on base on wire rack over baking sheet. Pour warm chocolate glaze generously over cake to coat completely. Chill cake 30 minutes or until glaze is set. Reheat remaining glaze and repeat, using enough glaze to coat cake completely. Store cake in refrigerator until 30 minutes before serving.

Giving help is a tricky business for in-laws

NEW YORK (AP) — Should a grandmother advise a daughter-in-law on how to raise her teenage children?

Tread carefully, says clinical psychologist Judith Kuriansky in Family Circle magazine.

"Grandparents have experience and have the right — even the responsibility — to share what they've learned," explains Kuriansky. "But it's a tricky business. You don't want to appear to be meddling or to risk rejection."

You'll know you're meddling, instead of helping, if your suggestions are always critical of the daughter-in-law. It could be you're feeling an emptiness in your life or are experiencing guilt about your own child-rearing practices.

"Speaking up shows you care," says Kuriansky, "and you may have a positive impact. Apply the rule: 'It's not what you say but how you say it.' Be sure not to indicate that yours is the only or 'right' way."

B&PW gives birthday tea to honor members

Nellie Smith was honored in her home with an afternoon tea Wednesday to celebrate her 90th birthday. Lee Weaver, Business and Professional Women's Club president, and Ethel Mae Sturdivant were hostesses for the event with Nellie greeting her guests at the door.

A retired teacher, Nellie has received much recognition for her contributions to the community. The Humble-Smith School was named in honor of her work with exceptional children.

Serving as a volunteer in such organizations as the Hospital Auxiliary, Snyder Garden Club, Scurry County Fair and West Texas Rehabilitation Center, Nellie has been active in fund-raisers and any other area where she was needed.

Nellie served for sixty years as a Bible teacher in the Church of Christ.

Also given birthday honors was Faye McCollum. Both women have been recipients of the Outstanding Woman of the Year Award in the B&PW Club.

Both ladies are also known for their outstanding needlework. Nellie is noted for crocheted Uncle Sam dolls which she designed and creates. Quilts, afghans, velvet pillows and embroidery have also occupied her time.

Faye has received recognition for her skills in candlewicking as well as pillows, afghans, embroidery and sequined tablecloths.

Also extending congratulations were President and Mrs. Reagan, Senior Center friends, Delta Kappa Gamma where Nellie is also a member, and the Becomer's Bible Class for women.

Nellie has recently returned home from a mountain visit with her daughter. She is also the mother of three sons.

Children of alcoholics give aid

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Ellen, 37, had an excessive need to please others. She felt guilty if anyone was dissatisfied with her.

Brian, 32, inflated his accomplishments so people would like him.

Patty, 32, always took the blame for anything that went wrong.

Ellen, Brian and Patty were well into adulthood before they pinpointed the root of their problems. Each had grown up with an alcoholic parent.

Only in the last five years has attention been turned to the grown children of alcoholics. Adult Children of Alcoholics (ACOA) self-help groups have sprung up to help people overcome the problems caused by growing up in alcoholic homes.

Before, adult children of alcoholics often spent years in therapy with negligible results because the role of alcohol in their problems was overlooked.

"He never focused on alcohol," Patty says of the therapist she saw for five years. "He thought we should focus on the emotional problems and the symptoms would go away. It was a falsehood."

Patty was not able to progress until she understood the cause of her problems.

Today, there is an awareness that children in alcoholic homes tend to take on the emotional symptoms of the disease. They tend to feel isolated and uneasy with other people, mistrust and repress their feelings and have trouble being intimate.

Keeping a secret about a parent taught them to pretend and deceive. They fear abandonment, seek approval, blame themselves for everything that goes wrong and feel guilty if they stand up for themselves. They may be overly responsible. Often they become alcoholics or marry alcoholics.

"My father's drinking gave me disabilities as an adult," says Patty.

Patty's father drank a fifth a day. But since he never seemed drunk, Patty did not have anything to blame for his coldness and disapproval except herself. Her mother's frequent admonition to "leave daddy alone" made Patty feel at fault if her father seemed angry.

Her mother always acted happy when the father was there and unhappy when he left. "I always interpreted that as she wasn't happy being alone with me, instead of she could only stop pretending when he wasn't there," Patty says.

Her mother started drinking heavily, too, and the parents neglected Patty and forbade her from bringing companions home.

She felt lonely and isolated, but from her mother's example had learned to hide her feelings. By high school, she was drinking herself. She "acted out" in other ways also — sex, drugs, running away, a suicide attempt.

Finally, after therapy was unsuccessful, she confided in a priest, who referred her to Alcoholics Anonymous.

Thanks to AA's 12-step recovery program, Patty is sober and able to see how her father's alcoholism not only contributed to her own, but also to her emotional disabilites.

Ellen did not become an alcoholic, but she married one — a course not unusual for a daughter of an alcoholic seeking the perverse security of continuing the kind of home life she knows.

When Ellen's husband confronted his own problem and went to AA, he wanted her to go to Al-Anon, the self-help group for spouses. Ellen had trouble relating to some of the wives' stories, but when she heard testimonies from children of alcoholics, a light came on in her head.

"Suddenly I saw the effects on me of my mother's drinking," she says.

Brian, whose father is an alcoholic, also had trouble with relationships.

"I had real problems with trust and initmacy," Brian says. "I could never get my father's approval as a child. As an adult I tried to create a facade of being more accomplished than I am in order to impress people. We all have issues of self-image that are caused by a lot of things, but in my case the link was an alcoholic parent."

Both Ellen and Brian have been helped by their ACOA groups. "I don't think I'll ever get rid of it (the alcohol-caused problems), but I'm doing a lot better," says Ellen.

After six years of private therapy and participation in an ACOA group, Brian feels "more whole and fun" than he's ever been.

Students change outlook

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The college graduating class of 1990 is more money-conscious than the students of some 20 years earlier, according to a survey made by UCLA's Higher Education Research Institute and the American Council on Education.

Of 280,000 college freshmen from 550 campuses surveyed, 71 percent said "being very well off financially" was their primary goal as opposed to 83 percent of the freshmen of 1967 who named "developing a meaningful philosophy of life." One in four wants a business career and fewer than 1 percent will be English majors (down 80 percent in 20 years).

Politically, college freshmen have moved towards the center. Middle-of-the-roaders grew to 56.7 percent, up from 45.4 percent. Liberals shrank from 36.6 percent to 22.4 percent, while freshmen on the right stayed at 15 to 20 percent of the total.

The people of the Saar voted to rejoin Germany in 1935.

SHS cagers challenge Chiefs of San Angelo this evening

Snyder varsity basketball teams are in action tonight against San Angelo Lake View.

The boys will play in San Angelo while the girls take the host role into Snyder High School Gym.

Varsity games are slated for 7:30 p.m. starts. Both will be preceded by junior varsity games at 6 o'clock.

Snyder girls defeated Monahans in a makeup game Monday, 62-55, and take records of 13-8 for the season and 5-4 in district play into the game. Lake View is 14-8 overall and 6-3 in 2-4A competition.

Snyder's boys, trying to regroup after three straight losses, are 10-10 and 3-3. Lake View is 10-12 and 1-6.

The boys have tentatively scheduled their makeup game with Monahans for Thursday, though no definite time has been set. Makeups were necessary when the games - originally scheduled for last Friday - were postponed because of weather.

This Friday, Snyder will play Fort Stockton with the boys playing at Scurry County Coliseum and the girls boarding the bus.

Lady Tigers rip Monahans, 62-55

Snyder's Lady Tigers jumped out to a 20-12 first-quarter lead and went on to defeat Monahans here Monday night in a District 2-4A varsity makeup game.

The 62-55 victory was Snyder's third straight win in district play and leaves the squad with a 5-4 record heading into tonight's 7:30 ballgame with San Angelo Lake View.

Snyder, which plays host to the Maidens at the local high school gym, is 13-8 on the 1986-87 season.

"We got off to a good start today and that really helped," said Snyder Coach Ken Housden. "Monahans has a lot better team than their record indicates. They've played everybody pretty decent. They gave us some trouble with their height and they had good quickness."

Snyder's Teri Sue Henry landed in double figures for the fourth straight outing - bagging 28 this time to lead all scorers. She also pulled down nine rebounds.

Stephanie McKnight canned 14 points, Christi Comer scored 8 and Angie Housden added 7. Melody Pickering pitched in 4 points and led on the boards with 10 rebounds. In other individual efforts for the Lady Tigers, McKnight had five assists and Angie Housden four steals.

Snyder led 30-26 at halftime and added six points worth of cushion in the third quarter for a 44-34 advantage. Monahans refused to give in, however. Baskets by Lori Arndt and Mery Jo Montgomery helped pull the Loboettes within seven early in the fourth period.

Snyder retaliated on buckets from Comer and Angie Housden. Stephanie McKnight bagged two free throws moments later, and a single free shot from Pickering made it a 53-39 ballgame with 4:43 left to play. Snyder had little trouble wrapping up the victory from there. Lake View scored the final five points of the game to give the outcome a closer look than it actually was.

"I feel like we're playing as well as we have all year," said Coach Housden. "We weren't consistent early in the season and maybe we're finding more consistency now. I think the girls realize that if they keep winning they have a chance to be in the playoffs but if they lose, they are probably out of it."

Arndt led the Loboettes, now 4-13 and 1-8, with 15 points. Mery Jo Montgomery and Cheryl Montgomery bagged 10 points each. Shannon Jones, a 6-1 freshman just recently moved up to the varsity, added 6.

The game had originally been scheduled for last Friday, but icy roads between Snyder and Monahans forced officials to postpone it until Monday.

Dusters run past Lady Buccaneers

STEPHENVILLE -- Western Texas College's Dusters disposed of their final non-conference game and Blinn College with one swoop here Monday, defeating the Lady Buccaneers 63-52.

The victory puts the highly-touted Dusters at 18-3 on the season. They are idle Thursday, then entertain Western Junior College Athletic Conference foe Clarendon next Monday.

"It's good to be going to straight conference ballgames now, not worrying about non-conference games, anymore," said Coach Kelly Chadwick. "We have two home games next week, and as much as we've played on the road, we're really looking forward to being at home for awhile."

The Dusters, 4-1 in conference play, also entertain South Plains on Thursday, Jan. 29.

Western defeated Blinn without sophomore Wendy Milner, who missed the game with a stomach virus. Everybody else played and four found double figures, led by GiGi Robinson's 16 points. Brenda Welch nabbed 15 while Dee Ann Marr scored 12 and Lisa Thompson added 10.

"GiGi shot real well," said Coach Chadwick. "Brenda didn't have her usual point output but she did go to the boards strong and played good defense. I thought we had too many turnovers, but we played really good team defense."

Chadwick had urged leadership after a 68-66 loss to Odessa last week, and it came through Monday night.

"We had leaders everywhere last night," he laughed. "They were all over the court. Really, the girls did a good job. They were talking out on the floor and they provided good leadership. I think we accomplished some of the things we talked about after the Odessa game."

The Dusters committed a number of turnovers, but Chadwick hopes to work on that this week.

"It may be that we just need to get in the gym and practice. It seems like our ball handling skills aren't what they were before the holidays. Not playing Thursday will give us a chance to get in some good, hard workouts," he said. "We'll come back and play Monday and (the following) Thursday at home. It's a good situation for us."

Get out to quick start...

Chaps chop Western, 108-87

Seventh-ranked Midland College scored the first eight points of the ballgame here Monday and went on to defeat Western Texas' Westerners 108-87 in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference contest.

"They jumped out on us real quick and it seemed like we could never get it going," said Western Texas Coach Phil Spradling. "We got down by about 15 points and couldn't ever get over the hump. Midland has a good team and they deserved to win."

Lincoln Minor's 20 first-half points got the Chaparrals off to a a quick start. Western was down by eight before Alvin Lee scored two minutes into the ballgame. The hosts eventually pulled within two points, 12-10, at the 13:24 mark.

That was as close as WTC could manage, however. Alex Stanwood, Minor and Mookie Blaylock all tallied as Midland raced in front 22-14 midway through the first half. Back-to-back baskets by Blaylock gave the Chaps an 11-point, 27-16 advantage just 30 seconds later.

The halftime score was 50-35 and Minor made it a 20-point advantage, 69-49, with 15:42 still to play in the ballgame.

"We go in spurts. We aren't playing consistent ball," said Spradling, who saw some bright spots, despite a sixth straight loss that has left the Westerners 6-12 on the season and 1-5 in conference play.

"We needed somebody to hit the boards and I thought Igor Gojanovic and Darrell Nelson did a pretty good job of that. We need more help than just those two guys, though," he said.

No rebound totals were available, but Gojanovic and Nelson also had a good night from the field. Gojanovic, a 6-7 freshman from Switzerland, scored 20 points. Nelson, also a freshman, 6-4 from Richmond, Va., bagged 19.

The Westerners were led in scoring by 6-1 sophomore guard Alvin Lee, who had 26 points. John Lewis added 16.

Midland, 18-1 now and 5-1 in the WJCAC, got 32 from Minor and 24 from Blaylock - an all-conference, all-region pick last season. Todd Duncan scored 14 points and Billy Smith and Herman Henry added 12 points apiece.

"We've still got some guys who haven't given up. We've got 10 more games to play and we've got to come out and play each one," stressed Coach Spradling.

Thursday, the Westerners travel to Roswell, N.M., to play New Mexico Military Institute. They entertain Clarendon next Monday.

TCU loses player but bombs Texas

by The Associated Press

When the smoke had cleared in Monday's Southwest Conference Basketball action, Texas Christian remained on top in the nip and tuck race to finish as the regular season champion.

TCU steamrolled over Texas 52-37 even without star guard Carl Lott, who will remain sidelined for at least six weeks with a broken hand.

Jamie Dixon scored 13 in Lott's place as the No. 19 Horned Frogs extended their winning streak to 10, the school's longest in 35 years.

Meanwhile, Texas A&M, now 4-1, ruined a Houston five game winning streak to continue its pursuit of undefeated TCU.

Aggie forward Winston Crite led all players with 15 points and 14 rebounds to lead A&M to its eighth straight home victory in a 57-45 decision over the Cougars.

In another Southwest Conference contest, Texas Tech got back on the winning track with a 75-64 win over Southern Methodist which continued its slide of six straight losses.

Residency proof may be needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is proposing tentative immigration rules requiring every citizen or alien hired for a new job to prove residency and eligibility to work in the United States, an administration source says.
It would be the first time the rules, which are aimed at slowing down illegal immigration, are applied to all U.S. citizens.
The rules, which were being released today by the Immigration and Naturalization Service, provide the first glimpse into administration plans for enforcement of the landmark immigration law passed by Congress in 1986 after years of unsuccessful efforts.
Under the proposed rules, evidence of eligibility for work could be shown with a passport or a naturalization certificate or a combination of documents such as a Social Security card and a driver's license with a photo.
These would have to be shown to an employer within 24 hours of employment, said the source, who spoke Monday only on condition of anonymity. Forms showing the employer has verified eligibility must be available in the workplace in case of an inspection by immigration agents.
The INS followed an unusual procedure making the tentative rules public before they normally would be released. Formal release usually comes when rules are printed in the Federal Register — a procedure which is scheduled for Feb. 25. A 30-day period for public comment begins on that day.
The immigration service decided to circulate in advance what amounts to a draft copy to Congress, other government agencies and interest groups that have been following the immigration law.
"This is a unique opportunity to solicit a broad range of public comment by allowing working drafts" to be distributed, said Mark W. Everson, executive associate INS commissioner.
Under the proposed rules, aliens may show any of a number of different types of work authorization documents issued by the INS.
The immigration law has two cornerstones: penalties for employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens and amnesty for those people who have lived in the country illegally since before Jan. 1, 1982.
The legalization program takes effect May 5. The employers' sanctions begin June 1. For a one-year period, only warnings will be issued to employers for their first offense.
Those seeking amnesty will be allowed to use a number of documents to prove continuous residency dating back to the legalization date. The documents may include car registration, mortgage payments, deeds, bank records, rent receipts, utility bills, school records or medical reports.
Following a requirement of the law, the legalization applicants must also show that the applicant is not on welfare.

Anonymity protects new Air Force One

WASHINGTON (AP) — Somewhere on the production line of the Boeing Co.'s manufacturing plant in Everett, Wash., a collection of 747 aircraft parts is moving toward the "body join" area, waiting to be assembled into the next Air Force One.
By May, the parts will have been fashioned into what Boeing calls a "green" plane: flyable, but without any interior. It will then be flown to the Boeing Military Airplane Co. in Wichita, Kan., for outfitting, where it will begin its life as one of the most closely guarded airplanes in the world.
Until May, though, there is no overt security to mark the new presidential plane; no guards standing by, no security clearances for workers, no special inspectors constantly standing watch.
Rather, Boeing and the Air Force are relying on anonymity.
"The airframes are going down the production line in an unidentified manner," explains Boeing spokesman Pete Dakan, noting a second, backup Air Force One will emerge as a green plane in March 1988.
"The first Air Force One replacement is now mixed in among other unidentified planes moving down the line. That airplane is on the line and probably next month will go into body join (for the attachment of the wings to the fuselage) and then into final assembly."
There are normally 12 fledgling 747s on the line at any one time, and Boeing has limited the number of employees who actually know which plane will be turned into Air Force One, Dakan says.
But in Wichita, says Dakan, things will be different.
"Everyone will be required to have a security clearance and everything will be in a guarded area."
The Boeing facility in Wichita, because it already works on military planes, has long been physically secured by a guard force.
To outfit the new plane with office and sleeping spaces, communications gear and all the trappings of the presidency, Boeing will use only employees with military clearances and pay special attention to their work.
Boeing has experience in the process — but it's dated experience. The primary and backup planes now used by the president are Boeing 707s, manufactured 14 and 24 years ago, respectively.
Boeing won a $249.8 million contract to build the two planes last summer, beating out the McDonnell Douglas Corp. and its DC-10.
Boeing is expected to begin flight testing the first replacement in summer 1988 and deliver it to the Air Force by November 1988.
It should be available to ferry President Reagan home to California and retirement two months later.
The term Air Force One actually is a radio call sign applied to any airplane that is carrying a president. But the term has become synonymous with the two Boeing 707s now maintained by the 89th Military Airlift Wing at Andrews.
The new 747s are being constructed in such a way as to carry about 70 passengers and 23 crew members, compared with the 400 passengers that can be carried by the commercial version of the four-engine jet.
The Air Force has said the new planes will have state-of-the-art communications equipment, an emergency medical facility and special work and rest areas for the president, his staff, the Secret Service and the news media.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

They're similar — but not the same

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is it true that men can develop a condition in their penis similar to fibrocystic breast disease in women? What can be done to treat it?
DEAR READER — There is no exact male counterpart to fibrocystic breast disease in women. However, men can develop a condition called Peyronie's disease, which is a growth of fibrous material in one of the two erectile cylinders of the penis. This affliction is somewhat similar to fibrocystic disease, since it causes discomfort and results in gristle-like replacement of normal tissue. It may be helped by vitamin E or cortisone, but, like fibrocystic disease, it has no recognized cure. Although the two conditions share certain elements, they are distinctly different.
DEAR DR. GOTT — A friend had 58 gallstones removed during surgery. Is this an abnormal number? He still has vomiting and diarrhea.
DEAR READER — Fifty-eight gallstones is a lot — unusual, but not any more abnormal than two or three. Since he had that many gallstones, one might have become wedged in the bile duct and could be causing continuing symptoms. Your friend might be more comfortable if the surgeon had removed 59 gallstones. Perhaps an ultrasound exam could identify the presence of a remaining stone.
DEAR DR. GOTT — My granddaughter, 8, swells up on her right side — arm, thigh, leg and foot — during the day. It goes away at night. One doctor said it was fallen arches. Another said it was because she has an undeveloped vein on that side. Support hose used to help, but no more. She's had this since she was 1 year old and has not outgrown it yet. What could be causing this?
DEAR READER — I don't know — but I'm sure it has nothing to do with fallen arches. The type of swelling you describe may be due to an unusual congenital condition that impedes the return of lymph fluid or blood from one side of your granddaughter's body. She should be examined by pediatric specialists at a medical center.
DEAR DR. GOTT — I had villous adenoma removed from the lower part of my colon. Every six months, my doctor does a complete colonoscopy. Just what is this condition?
DEAR READER — Villous adenoma is a slow-growing, spongy tumor of the large intestine. Although most adenomas are benign, some are premalignant (that is, they can lead to cancer). Once a patient has had a villous adenoma removed, he or she must be periodically checked to make sure that no new growths have appeared. Your doctor's approach is appropriate in order to save you from more serious trouble in the future.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report, ABOUT GOUT, explains the cause and treatment of this disease. For your copy, Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

'Christian cross' is really sword in coat of arms

AUSTIN (AP) — City officials say the "Christian cross" that an atheist group wants removed from the seal of the city is actually a sword handle honoring the family of Texas founder Stephen F. Austin.
Activist Jon Murray, president of American Atheists and son of longtime atheist activist Madalyn Murray O'Hair, sent a letter to Mayor Frank Cooksey saying that recent court cases have said the display of the cross in a governmental symbol is a violation of constitutional requirements of separation of church and state.
"At this critical time in our history, when radical, right-wing religionists are attempting to Christianize the country, it is important that they know they have opposition to these nefarious schemes," said Murray, who threatened legal action to remove the cross.
His mother was active during the early 1960s in pursuing a case that resulted in the U.S. Supreme Court's banning of prayer in public schools.
Glen Cootes, city public information officer, said that the cross is patterned after the "Cross of St. Augustine" found in European heraldry.
Austin led American colonists into Texas territory, then owned by Mexico, in 1821. He was carrying out the wishes of his father, Moses Austin, a Connecticut resident who died soon after receiving permission from Mexico for the colonization.

County treasurer gives finance report for '86

The county ended the last quarter of 1986 with over $5.1 million in its coffers according to a report presented by County Treasurer Billy Wayne Thompson to commissioners Monday.

The county's general fund holds the largest portion of those monies at just over $2.5 million with the hospital's depreciation fund containing some $1.2 million.

The road and bridge fund closed the quarter at some $584,728 with the revenue sharing fund reported at $413,825.

Thompson also noted the county earned nearly $123,162 for the final quarter in combined money market investments and Super NOW accounts. The county earned some $106,866 in its money market with the Cogdell money market adding almost $1,463. The Super NOW account earned the county an additional $14,833.

areas.

Krenek said Baird's recruitment responsibility will be divided among other college staffers.

He said Bettie McQueen, dean of instruction, will be coordinating recruitment assignments for now.

The net effect of the change will see no new personnel added to the WTC staff roll.

Baird said his association with the senior citizens center actually dates to its beginnings, when he helped plan and coordinate the RSVP program for seniors offered at the college.

That forerunner of the present program met in the WTC Learning Resources Center. As the meals program and other expanded activities were added, local seniors gained their own center at its present location, 2603 Ave. M.

"I had a lot of fun with it before, and when I moved into an administrative job, that was one of the things I missed--working directly with people," Baird said.

Regarding the center, he said, "We've got a super program now, and I only hope to continue it. You don't kick a winner."

Baird earned both a BS degree in range management and a masters degree in guidance and counseling from Sul Ross State University in Alpine.

In addition, he has earned some 50 hours of graduate work from the University of Texas in special education, adult education and junior college administration.

His wife Mickey is director of student activities at WTC.

wearing apparel, Webb said they also have in stock crochet collars for sweat shirts. Also on order is sterling silver jewelry which can be worn with sweat shirts.

Athletic equipment...

"We intend to concentrate on wholesale school business and walk-in retail sales," he said.

Janene Patterson and Lynda Murphy will help manage Snyder Athletic Supply, Webb said.

Yogurt & Stuff is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Several items have been added to the menu including ice cream, homemade pies and daily luncheon specials. Future plans call for introducing a hot cinnamon roll for breakfast.

Soviets add two more submarines

Jackie Riley

ANDERSON, S. C.—Services for Jackie Dean Riley, 47, of Anderson, S. C., former Snyder resident, will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday. He died Monday morning following a short illness.

He is survived by his mother and step-father, Mavis Gill and Leslie Gill, both of Snyder; a brother, Renison Riley of Abilene; a sister, Saundra Kukendahl of Midland; and several aunts and cousins in Snyder.

Self-defense class for women slated

A 12 hour self-defense course for women has been scheduled by the Continuing Education Department of Western Texas College to begin Jan. 27.

Classes will meet from 9:30-10:30 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays through March 5 with Donna Gafford as instructor. Fees will be $35 per person.

Women wishing to enroll are to call 573-8511, ext. 240.

Automobile fire doused Monday

Snyder firemen responded to two calls Monday including a car fire and a report of smoke.

At 7:25 p.m., firefighters were dispatched to a location just over 3 miles south of Snyder on Round Top road where they extinguished a car fire.

According to reports, a 1980 Chrysler owned and driven by Dale Dodson of 1906 Coleman Ave. sustained extensive damage. The blaze apparently ignited under the dash.

Earlier in the day, at 1:22 p.m., firemen were dispatched to a reported structure fire near the intersection of 37th St. and Crocket Ave.

It was discovered, however, that smoke from a meat smoker had prompted neighbors to report a fire in a storage building.

Local gas pump said hit Monday

Police are investigating a hit-and-run accident report filed Monday afternoon.

Employees of the Taylor Food Mart on College Ave. reported at 2:50 p.m. that an unidentified vehicle had struck a pole and gas pump at the store and then fled the scene.

City officers also jailed one man on a charge of public intoxication Monday evening.

Hike sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, relishing his new committee chairmanship after six years in the minority, wants to raise the federal minimum wage by at least $1.25 an hour, to $4.60, and extend catastrophic health insurance to Medicare recipients.

Kennedy, D-Mass., also said he will use his chairmanship of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee to fight President Reagan's proposed cuts in education programs, to raise funding for AIDS research and to enhance job-training programs.

Dear Abby

Dad's 'Personal Shopper' Is Ignored in Children's Thanks

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who has two children by a previous marriage. The children are 13 and 16 years old, and live with their mother in another state.

Here's the problem: My husband is quite remiss about sending gifts to his children on their birthdays and holidays, so I have always done the shopping. I try to select tasteful, appropriate gifts for each child. I even buy lovely cards that my husband signs: "With love from Dad."

I find myself feeling very resentful when the children write and express thanks to him, seldom thanking me unless instructed to do so — which is even worse.

Should I quit spending my time selecting gifts for them? Or do you think I am being selfish and expecting too much? I should add that my relationship with his children is an amiable one.

RESENTFUL IN TEXAS

DEAR RESENTFUL: His children have no way of knowing their gifts were selected by you when the cards are signed, "With love from Dad" — unless, that is, "Dad" tells them. You say the children seldom thank you unless instructed to do so. Who instructs them? If the "instructor" is Dad, then it would be much more generous and straightforward if the cards read: "With love from Dad and ( )" (whatever they call you). Settle this now to ensure that the relationship with your husband is also an amiable one.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to "Heidi in Paulding, Ohio" brought back some precious memories. Heidi complained that nobody ever answered her letters, so you advised her to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I had a younger brother I used to write to, but he would never answer my letters, so I sent him an SASE and even enclosed some paper to write on. With it I sent a note: "Please write back and at least say 'Hi'!"

Well, he did. His letter read: "Dear Sis: Hi. I'm fine. Bye, Love, Wayne."

Eighteen months ago, the day before his 29th birthday, my beloved brother died of cancer.

My little joke of sending him an SASE envelope worked because after that he wrote more often and we talked on the phone a lot. But that first letter is one of my most cherished possessions.

By the way I tried the same thing with my older brother, but it didn't work. He still writes only once a year — at Christmastime.

SUSAN IN GOSHEN, CALIF.

DEAR SUSAN: I send my heartfelt sympathy at the loss of your beloved brother. Maybe your older brother will see this and send you a Valentine.

DEAR ABBY: After you printed that letter from "Paul in La Mirada," who enrolled in law school at age 42 and is soon to graduate, I had to write.

I served 30 years as a naval officer. After that I had two businesses — real estate in Florida and buffalo raising in South Dakota.

Then I entered law school at age 61. I am now 70 and have a thriving law practice.

E.K. HALSEY,
VERO BEACH, FLA.

DEAR MR. HALSEY: Congratulations. It's too late to fulfill your dream only if you think it is.

Now for an encouraging word from a neighboring state:

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the boost to older college students. At Kennesaw College in Marietta, Ga., there is even a name, SOTA (Students Over the Traditional Age), for students who are over 25 years old.

With a fall quarter enrollment of 7,297, 1,712 students were 30 or over. Of these, 526 were 40 or over; 92 were 50 or over; and 14 were between 65 and 72!

With such a dynamic campus, there's certainly no generation gap here!

A HAPPY SOTA

King praised in San Antonio event

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Rosa Parks was tired and cold on that winter day 31 years ago when she refused to give up her seat on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Ala.

Her refusal led to her arrest, which led to a boycott of the bus system and the civil rights movement.

On Monday, Mrs. Parks rode in a bus similar to the one in which she made history as she joined 10,000 others honoring the memory of Martin Luther King Jr.
