Yanks Take Ridge In Steady Biak Advance

Pipeline Project Rejected By PAW

West Texas To California Line Ruled Unnecessary And Supply Insufficient

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 2—The Petroleum Administration for War (PAW) today rejected the application of a group of Texans to construct an oil pipeline from the Permian Basin in West Texas to California.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex) was told by the PAW that the action was being taken on the grounds that there were other available methods of transporting oil from Texas to the Pacific coast. A PAW official added that oil available in West Texas would be insufficient to meet the pipeline's capacity.

A group of Dallas men, headed by Angus C. Wynne applied for authority to build the line. A 20-inch pipeline to move 200,000 barrels daily was proposed. It would cost approximately $47,000,000.

Letter To Dallas Man

Interior Secretary Ickes, in his capacity as petroleum administrator, denied the request in a letter to L. M. Glasco, secretary-treasurer of Pacific War Emergency Pipelines, Inc., of Dallas, a company formed to build the line from the Permian Basin of West Texas to Beaumont, Calif.

Ickes told the company that requirements for additional crude oil to supply existing refineries in the east, midwest and southwest are increasing and that, according to the best available estimates, "by the fourth quarter of 1945 these requirements will absorb the entire crude oil productive capacity east of the Rocky Mountains."

Ickes said under such conditions there would not be sufficient crude oil in the West Texas area to sustain the pipeline. He added that the line could not be completed before the second quarter of 1945 and therefore would be of no use during the present period when tankers are not available for equivalent movements.

CULBERSON ASSAILS DELAY AND CITES NEED

HOUSTON, June 2 (U.P.)—Texas Railroad Commissioner Olin Culberson, declaring there is an "urgent need" for more crude oil on the west coast for Navy operations in the Pacific, today demanded from the Petroleum Administration for War an explanation for its failure to begin construction of a pipeline linking West Texas fields with California. The plea was made prior to announcement of a decision at Washington rejecting the project as not necessary.

Positions Gained For Main Thrust Against Airfield

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Saturday, June 3—American jungle troopers fought to the top of a heavily wooded ridge overlooking the Bosnek-Mokmer road to increase their pressure Thursday on the desperate Japanese defenders of Biak, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Enemy resistance atop the vital heights was shattered by the tough Sixth Army Yanks who invaded the largest of the Schouten islands a week ago today.

Others Just Beyond

Storming of the ridge was achieved near Ibdi and Mandom, villages just off the main route between Bosnek and Mokmer airdrome which is only 880 miles from the southern Phillippines. The Sorido and Borokoe airfields are just beyond Mokmer.

Possession of the cliffs poises the Americans for their main thrust for the three airfields. The Japanese positions enabled them to threaten the Yanks' flanks and commanders ordered the advance slowed until the enemy could be driven from the heights, which parallel the road about 200 yards inshore.

Ground troops received the aid of big Liberators bombers which skimmed the trees on the ridge and tore apart the enemy strong points with 80 tons of bombs.

Savage small-scale jungle fighting flared also in British New Guinea, more than 450 miles southeast of the Biak battleground, as by-passed Japanese ambushed one of the Allied carrier lines 20 miles southeast of Aitape.

Japs Pushing On In Bloody Hunan

Allies Score On All Other Fronts

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

Fierce fighting raged on two widely separated Asiatic war fronts yesterday, with the Japanese suffering setbacks in Burma and India while pressing ahead toward their main objective in China's bloody Hunan province.

American and Chinese forces made progress at the big Japanese base at Myitkyina, in Burma. Attacking from three sides, the Allies gained 400 yards in the southern part of the town and advanced nearly a mile from the northwest against severe opposition. The Japanese sustained heavy casualties.

Chindits Kill 700

It was disclosed that British Chindit troops killed 700 Japanese prior to their recent withdrawal from a road block between Mogaung and Myitkyina.

The Chinese high command announced 20,000 American-trained Chinese troops, seeking to make juncture with the Allies in the Myitkyina sector, advanced through rain, mud and mist. These Chinese, driving from the Salween river area of Yunnan, steam-rollered some strongly defended Japanese positions north of the Burma road. The fighting was bitter. In another Salween sector the Chinese occupied two towns. The Chinese said the Yank sky fighters hold total superiority in the Salween region where they are constantly strafing Japanese reinforcements.

Mopping Up Operations

(In the Kohima area on the Burma-India border, Allied forces captured hill positions in continued successful mopping up operations. Tanks were thrown against the invaders in that sector. Infiltrating Japanese were driven back with heavy losses. At an-

Nazis Hammer Russian Lines

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—Nazi troops, attacking savagely with large forces of tanks and infantry through the fourth day of their battles in the Moldavian province of Romania, have driven another dent into Russian lines northwest of Iasi, Moscow acknowledged tonight.

"An insignificant wedge" was accomplished by the Germans at the cost of heavy losses in manpower and equipment in a series of blows northwest of the town, the Russians said in their broadcast communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

The Germans continued to attack today north of Iasi in the same area as the original blows, but Moscow said all of these thrusts were repulsed.

No Changes Elsewhere

On other sectors of the front, Moscow said there were no essential changes.

Moscow made no mention of air action in the communique, but earlier the German radio had said that at least 1,000 Nazi planes were in action over the Romanian front and even so conceded that the Russians held air superiority there.

One Berlin broadcast called the fighting in the Iasi area "exceptionally violent" and declared that the Russians were making strong counterattacks in an effort to regain heights taken previously by the Germans.

Soviet counterattacks in the Kolomea area of the Carpathian foothills and near Vitebsk in White Russia also were related by the German radio.

Flip Corkin's Model Returns From China

WASHINGTON, June 2. (U.P.) — Col. Philip G. Cochran, commander of the First Air Commando force in Burma which flew British Chindit forces deep behind enemy lines by glider, has returned to this country to report to Gen. H. H. Arnold, Army Air forces commander, the War department announced today.

Dozen Labor Rows Remain Unsettled

(By The Associated Press)

Street car and bus operators whose two-day strike had crippled transportation in St. Louis decided yesterday (Friday) to resume their work, but a dozen other labor disputes remained unsettled and 11,000 men and women were idle.

The St. Louis strikers voted to return to their jobs after Paul Nachtman, regional director of the War Labor board, urged them to submit their controversy over interpretation of overtime pay provisions to the WLB. Draft board chairman there had ordered reclassification of the strikers. The walkout involved 3,500 men, but 600,000 residents of the city were affected by the tieup of trolleys and buses.

Indications were that virtually all the workers in the Pacific northwest lumber industry would be back at their tasks Monday in response to calls from CIO and AFL leaders.

Another Overcoming Strikes Brooklyn

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Another mass overcoming—the second in two days—struck in Brooklyn today but again there were no fatalities.

While all but 26 of 1,000 pedestrians and subway riders felled or otherwise affected by escaping chlorine gas yesterday were reported out of danger, 25 workmen in the hold of a ship were overcome by foul air stirred up when ballast was shifted.

Fifteen other men on the same ship also were overcome by fumes from a fluid being used in disinfecting a refrigerating plant aboard ship.

Five of them, along with 10 of the others overcome in the ship's hold, were taken to a hospital and the others were treated at the pier where the ship was tied. None was believed in serious condition.

New Job Controls Instituted By WMC

Priority Referral Plan Provides USES Must Clear All Men Except Farm Help

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP) — Practically all the nation's male workers were placed under strict new job controls today as the War Manpower commission moved to channel more labor into war industries.

Extending its "priority referral" plan to blanket the country, WMC ordered that beginning July 1 all men except farm workers must clear through the United States Employment service in seeking jobs. Only men referred by the employment service may be hired, although businesses with eight or less employes are not affected.

Job applicants will be assigned to top priority war jobs, wherever they exist.

"The plan will make it possible for a worker anywhere in the country to take his most useful place on the industrial firing line," Paul V. McNutt, war manpower chairman, said.

Already in effect in about a dozen "critical labor shortage areas," the referral program was extended by McNutt under President Roosevelt's executive order establishing the War Manpower commission. It authorizes the recruitment of workers and referral to jobs in which they are most needed.

McNutt emphasized that while the referral program is on a voluntary basis, it will be difficult for workers to get jobs unless they clear through the employment ser-

First Shuttle Raid To Russia Completed

Romania Targets Are Battered In Historic Assault

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 2. — Forging a powerful new link in Allied air superiority, U. S. Flying Fortresses and escorting Mustangs made an historic shuttle raid on Romania today and landed in Russia as part of a massive two-way aerial assault in which more than 5,000 Allied planes dropped nearly 7,000 tons of explosives on Hitler's Europe.

The shuttle-bombers, first Allied planes to attack enemy soil and then make planned landings in the Soviet Union, apparently flew from bases in Italy. Their landings were made on bases previously prepared by American ground crews.

Eighth Also Active

While the Mediterranean Air force's blow was the more spectacular, heavy bombers of the Eighth Air force in Britain added their own one-two punch to the 15th consecutive day of Allied aerial assaults on Europe.

Flying Fortresses and Liberators swept into France twice during the day to hit prime military targets. The first raid, made against the invasion coast of Pas De Calais, was accomplished without loss either to bombers or escorts, but in the second, seven Fortresses were missing.

The latter strike was delivered against a variety of military targets west and southwest of Paris, air force headquarters said including railway junctions and bridges. No enemy air opposition was encountered, but flak was heavy over some targets.

Medium, light and fighter-bombers of the Allied Expeditionary Air forces also stabbed into France and the Low Countries at

Red Planes Escort Raiders To Bases

New Bases In Soviet Built And Manned By Americans Open New Phase Of War

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN RUSSIA, June 2 —American Flying Fortresses escorted by American Mustangs and Russian Yak fighters landed at new United States bases in the Soviet Union today after bombing Axis targets in Romania in an inauguration of shuttle bombing between Britain, Italy, North Africa and Russia.

(The planes apparently flew from bases in Italy, although their place of departure was not announced.)

This dream of American military and airmen which came true today found not one but many American bases on Russian soil with which American bombers have brought the war even closer home to Hitler. The effect on Romania and Hungary in particular was expected to be tremendous.

Crews Work Together

Soviet and American ground crews who have worked side by side for months to establish the bases, raced out to greet the first American planes as they rolled onto the landing strips.

Maj. Gen. John R. Deane, head of the U. S. military mission to Russia, described it as "a brief but happy celebration before servicing the aircraft with fuel and ammunition for another call on the Axis en route to their home bases in England, Italy and Africa."

(Indicating the possibility that the second leg of the shuttle operation might already be in operation, the Budapest radio left the air late Friday night).

Unable to speak Russian, the American airmen gaily hailed the Russians as "Ivan." The grinning Soviet mechanics, chosen from throughout the Union on the basis of skill, replied jovially in kind.

High Officials On Hand

The bombers and fighters were preceded by American photographic reconnaissance planes. It was learned that the first of these was piloted by Col. Paul T. Cullen.

High American and Russian officials and military men were on hand to witness the arrivals, vast significance of which was pointed out by General Deane, who said in a statement:

"This is shuttle bombing — bombing that makes vulnerable all the industrial facilities of eastern Germany—bombing that can be carried out when weather prohibits returning to British or Mediterranean bases — and bombing that will require redistribution of

Americans Spear Closer To Rome

Fall Of Capital Is Believed Imminent

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, June 2—Powerful American armored and infantry forces smashed through the key German strongholds of Valmontone and Velletri in the Alban hills before Rome today, shattering the enemy's last-ditch defenses and foreshadowing the beginning of the end of the battle for the Eternal City.

Valmontone, 20 airline miles from Rome on the Via Casilinia, main escape route for the mauled German 10th Army retreating from the Hitler line, and Velletri, 18 miles southeast of the Italian capital, fell after days of vicious assault and flaming resistance.

Fighting Is Fierce

Early tonight fierce fighting was reported still in progress as Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's victorious forces continued to pound back the stubbornly struggling Hermann Goering armored division and other crack Nazi units. The Allies held three miles of the Via Casilina.

Capture of Valmontone and severance of the Via Casilina drew the Allied sack tighter on the remnants of what once were 12 German divisions holding the Gustav and Hitler lines. Less than 18 miles separated Clark's troops from Canadian forces who pounded up the Via Casilina and seized Ferentgni. Caught between the two Allied wings, Marshal Albert Kesselring's battered forces were streaming northward on several secondary roads toward the temporary safety of a new defense

Officers Use Planes In McEachern Hunt

SANTA FE, N. M., June 2 (AP)—Civil Air patrol planes entered the hunt today for James E. Ray and Robert McEachern, life-term convicts who escaped the New Mexico state penitentiary amid a hail of bullets Wednesday.

Assistant State Police Chief A. B. Martinez said he took to the air with Civil Air patrol pilots and scanned mountainous country in all directions, trying to locate the taxi in which the men made their getaway after scaling the 22-foot prison wall.

Martinez said authorities still were without tangible clue in the extensive hunt.

Ray, 27, was serving a life sentence for murder; and McEachern, 23, who three times escaped from the Texas penitentiary, was sentenced to life imprisonment in New Mexico recently as an habitual criminal.

Oklahoma Woman Defies OPA Order

TULSA, June 2 (AP)—The only way district OPA officials can get Mrs. John Catlett, Democratic national committee-woman, to attend their June 9 hearing into an alleged irregularity farm auction sale is to carry her bodily, she said today.

"And I don't believe they can get away with that," she added.

The Democratic leader said she was firm in her determination to ignore a summons requiring her to tell what she knows of the sale at a Rogers county farm last March.

She was quoted in a newspaper at the time as relating that a friend who attended, told her that a Persian cat was auctioned off for $1,300 and that a tractor was thrown in free to circumvent an $850 ceiling which had been set on the tractor.

Plans For Feeder Airline Service Start Here; Amarillo Is Urged To Co-Operate

Dunn Speaks To Lorenzo Grads

(By Staff Correspondent)

LORENZO, May 2.—This Crosby county community tonight paid honor to the 19 members of the 1944 graduating class of Lorenzo High school as approximately 200 persons heard Dr. Sam G. Dunn deliver the commencement address.

Doctor Dunn, a Lubbock surgeon who was a Lorenzo favorite a quarter century ago when, as a boy, he lived here during his father's pastorate, spoke on the subject of "Free Enterprise and Recent Trends in Government." He counselled graduates to oppose federal encroachment on blood-won American liberty and rapped "unnecessary bureaucracy fostered by the New Deal."

Superintendent Presides

X. R. Banks, superintendent of schools, presided at the commencement and introduced the speaker. Principal B. K Baldwin introduced the honor students, Evelyn Bowers, valedictorian, and Alice Barrett, salutatorian, both of whom spoke briefly. Diplomas were given the graduates by A. C. Johnson, secretary of the school board. Miss Dorothy Poulson, at the piano played both recessional and processional music and Rev. H. J. West, newly arrived Baptist pastor, offered Divine blessing.

James M. Rankin, of near Ralls, who currently is commander of the Crosbyton American Legion post, presented awards, based upon "courage, leadership honor, scholarship and service," to Leon Williams and Margaret Ruth Hudson, chosen for the honors by a faculty committee.

List Of Graduates

Graduates, in addition to Misses Bowers and Barrett, included:

Bobby Wharton, in absentia, now serving in the armed forces; Weldon Greer, Billy Joe Jenkins, Dayton Marricle, B. J. Vaught, Norma Lou Brisco, Sonny Cates, Mary Anne Bedink, Jo Ann Catching, Doris Hargrove, Dorothy Lackey, Billye Mercer, Ellen McKenzie, Jean Onstott, Jenny Reynolds, Nola Roce and Billie Smith.

Woman Is Held In Amarillo Slaying

AMARILLO, June 2. (AP) — A woman was held tonight as a possible material witness in the slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Snelson last Sunday. A man who had been held was released.

Officers had failed to develop anything from two clues—a long knife in the possession of a transient and some blood-stained clothing in a cleaning establishment.

Mrs. Snelson, 22, mother of two children, was buried at Clarendon yesterday. Her husband is in the Navy. She had attended a dance the night before her body, almost decapitated, was found.

City Ready To Join Panhandle Capital On Basis Of Fair, Equitable Proposal

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

Lubbock business leaders put their cash behind a movement to provide feeder airline service for towns and cities of this entire area Friday afternoon.

They agreed that it is desirable for Lubbock and Amarillo to work together in the effort to obtain Civil Aeronautics Board authorization for lines serving the two cities and their respective trade areas on a basis that would be fair and equitable to all concerned.

But if Amarillo should decline a Lubbock offer of cooperation in a joint effort of mutual interest and benefit, then Lubbock will go "on its own" in its attempt to provide feeder airlines for this territory.

34 Attend Luncheon

These were the decisions resulting from a luncheon attended by 34 of Lubbock's business and civic leaders in Aztec room of Hilton hotel Friday at which Charles Z. Beard, executive vice president of Braniff Airways, inc., was the principal speaker.

Braniff recently was granted CAB permission to serve Lubbock on its Dallas-Denver airline, and this fact provided one of the reasons for Beard's visit here.

Another reason, and the more important one, was to discuss feeder airlines.

In connection with the Denver-Dallas service, the official could make no estimate of date as to when this particular operation might be started. He explained that it cannot be before Braniff is able to obtain new equipment. He did not attempt to say when that might be.

Few Being Released

He did say, however, that a few planes are being released through the Army to civilian airlines. Braniff has obtained one. If and when it is allocated another, Beard said that he intends to recommend to his board of directors that it be used to establish service through Lubbock from Dallas to Denver via Amarillo and intermediate points.

Beard emphasized that, even if his directors should approve his recommendation, the final decision still would rest with the Army as to the use to which any plane it allocates may be put.

"Let me assure you that we are anxious to start this service as soon as we can," Beard declared.

The official said that the service, when started, probably will not consist of more than one plane per day in each direction. He added, however, that this will be increased in "a minimum" of two planes each way daily as soon as conditions will permit.

Feeder Airline Service

In connection with feeder airline services, Beard's discussions were detailed. He explained that Braniff is encouraging the ogranization of local corporations in key cities along its routes to sponsor the development of feeder services. Such corporations already have been formed in Kansas City, Denver, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and San Antonio. Another is in process of formation at Amarillo.

Braniff's policy, as based on five years of experience and study, is to take up to 25 per cent of the stock in these local corporations, Beard continued. Local capital is expected for the remainder of the financing. It is desirable, the executive continued, that local capital be in control of such corporations, because local capital is likely to be most familiar with the problems of its own territory.

Nazis Swarm In But Tito Escapes

By JOSEPH MORTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

BARI, Italy, May 29 (Delayed) German paratroopers, supported by glider-borne infantry swarmed down and captured the Bosnian headquarters of Marshal Tito May 25 but failed to catch the wily Yugoslav leader, Partisan sources disclosed today.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, whose whereabouts had been a mystery for weeks, was said to have directed the attack personally.

Tito escaped to the mountains along with Maj. Randolph Churchill, son of the British prime minister. Virtually all Allied officers attached to Tito's staff also escaped.

Two Reporters Captured

Two Allied correspondents, Stoyan Pribichevich of Time, Life and Fortune magazines; John Talbot of Reuters, and two photographers were captured in the Nazi stroke, but Pribichevich escaped later during a Paritsan attack on the Nazis.

(The Moscow radio, in a dispatch from Sairo, said an attempt by two battalions of German paratroops to capture Tito in his Yugoslav headquarters three days ago had been frustrated by the alert Partisans. The broadcast, recorded in London by the Soviet monitor, said "due to measures previously taken the attempt was abortive and several hundred parachutists were killed or taken prisoner.")

Stukas Lead Attack

A blistering Stuka dive-bombing attack at 6 a. m. preceded the airborne assault on the headquarters, situated in a vast grotto near Drvar, 70 miles north of Split. Paratroopers and gliders followed quickly, coordinating their attack with a powerful ground assault in which tanks led the way.

With bitter fighting raging over wide area and vantage points changing hands numerous times, German transports and additional gliders poured in more men, field pieces and supplies throughout the afternoon, night and following day.

Partisans Overpowered

Tito's Partisans regained much ground the first night but on the second day the enemy managed to push an armored column into Drvar, meanwhile taking the important airport of Petrovac, 14 miles north, and bombing several Partisan towns in the vicinity.

Planes of the U. S. Fifteenth Air force and the RAF went to the aid of Tito's men. Fortresses pounded the big German supply operations center at Bihac on May 26, Liberators roared across the Adriatic twice, and plastered troop concentrations at nine different points.

Price Controls Extension Voted

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP)—A one-year extension of wartime price controls, to June 30, 1945, was approved unanimously today in the house Banking committee, after it voted to permit present food subsidies, but no more, and passed up a modified "Bankhead amendment" for special price treatment of the cotton textile industry."

The committee action, if sustained by the House and Senate, would permit subsidies on meat, butter and flour to continue but would ban any extension of subsidies to other commodities.

Promises Floor Battle

Rep. Brown (D-Ga.), author of a modified form of the textile Amendment by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala), announced he would take this battle to the House floor, and Rep. Patman (D-Tex), another committee member, announced "we are going to try to work out something on the floor to assure the farmer 100 per cent of parity for cotton."

The House committee worte into the price law an unusual amendment providing for checkups on OPA operations by the Senate and House banking groups. Chairman Spence said OPA Administrator Chester Bowles approved the idea.

The Gallup Poll, In Survey, Discovers:

Majority Favors Law To Draft War Job Quitters

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 2. — Further proof of the public's desire to take sterner measures to correct wartime manpower shortages and labor turnover is revealed in the reaction of the country toward the Bailey-Brewster "work or be drafted" bill.

This proposal, regarded as a substitute for the Austin-Wadsworth national service bill, would make it necessary for a man of draft age in a war job to get permission from his draft board to quit his job. Failure to do so would, under the terms of the bill, make him subject to the draft.

GALLUP

The purpose of the legislaion is, of course, to try to reduce the phenomenal amount of labor turnover which still exists in war production areas in spite of War Manpower commission regulations. Senators Bailey and Brewster feel that legislation is needed to supplement those regulations.

The attitude of the public is in marked contrast to the apathy which is reported in Congress toward the work-or-fight proposal. National sentiment was measured by the Institute on the following issue:

"A law has been proposed which would require every man of draft age in a war job to get permission from his draft board before he can quit his present job. If he quits without permission, he would be subject to draft into the Army. Do you think this

The Woman's Angle

(A letter of news notes for you to clip and send to that man in the service.)

June 2, 1944.

DEAR—

Lubbock is becoming more air-minded each day and early post-war days, perhaps before, will see us with transcontinental service. This week word came that examiners of the Civil Aeronautics board have recommended approval of the applications of American Airlines, Inc., to complete the links of a trunk thanscontinental airline to be operated through Lubbock.

No one will venture a guess as to when CAB action on the recommendation might be taken, or, if the action should be favorable, as to when it might be possible for American to start service.

Announcement concerning the American applications was the third of vital interest to Lubbock within recent months. Application of Braniff Airways to make Lubbock an intermediate stop between Wichita Falls and Amarillo on its Dallas-Denver line was approved a few weeks ago. Several months before that the board granted Essair, Inc., a permit to establish service from Lubbock southward through San Antonio and Austin to Houston.

Charles E. Beard, vice president of the Braniff Airways, Inc., discussed the subject of feeder airline services at a luncheon Friday attended by approximately 40 Lubbock business men. Braniff is proposing to join with local capital at various central points, such as Lubbock, to establish feeder services into trade areas. Mr. Beard expressed the opinion that Lubbock and Amarillo probably will have more chance of success if they work out a plan together.

Bob Walker is manager of Lubbock Aero field, which is the airport formerly known as Dagley field, and from which flights are chartered. The field is located on West Thirty-fourth street, near the Brownfield highway.

At a semi-monthly meeting of the city commission this week, a new city bus line was asked unanimously, to be routed through northeast Lubbock. The proposed line would be within short walking distance of City swimming pool, and picnic areas at Mackenzie State park.

Five athletes of this section have been invited to take part in the National A.A.U. track and field championships at Randall Island, N. Y., June 17-18. They include Burl Gene Moore of Lubbock High school in the quarter-mile run.

The other day over at Roswell, N. M., veteran polo players, headed by Maj. Gen. Terry Allen of Camp Carson, Colo., took to the field against their sons in a feature of commencement ceremonies at New Mexico Military institute, winning five to three.

Included in the oldsters' team was Tom Mather of Lubbock, and his son, John, was in the NMMI team.

Ray F. Red, chief of the commercial branch of the Eighth Service command signal office, has been promoted to major.

Lubbock visitors the last week included Maj. William Cherry, who was pilot of the plane that went down at sea last year with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker aboard. He was accompanied by his wife and child and was en route to California where he is to be reassigned.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon for Maj. Jack Walton, who died of a heart attack at his home near Wolfforth Tuesday. He was home on a 60-day leave. Major Walton had been stationed at Camp Ruston, La. He had been with the 131st field artillery when it was stationed at Camp Bowie and at Camp Edwards, Mass.

S/Sgt. Billy Joe Louder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Louler, 1802 Avenue J, is missing in action in a raid over Yugoslavia on May 10. He was an aerial gunner on the Liberator bomber named "Lucky Strike."

Bays Bryant of San Antonio, former Lubbockite, was killed last Sunday afternoon in San Antonio in an accident involving a horse. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Bays, jr., and Billy. When he lived here several years ago, Mr. Bryant often sang at church services and civic clubs.

A state-wide hunt is being made in New Mexico for Robert McEschern, who escaped from the state penitentiary at Santa Fe after scaling the prison wall with another convict. "Slippery Bob" boasts that he can break out of any confine. He has escaped three times from Texas penitentiaries and recently figured in several burglaries and armed robberies in this section. McEschern's sentences total more than 400 years for murder, armed robbery, habitual criminal bent and other offenses. He is 23.

Texas Technological college summer school has gotten off to a good start with an enrollment of 901 students.

That's all for this week. Good luck to you.

Altrusa Club Has Election, Speech

Altrusa club elected officers and heard a discussion on possibilities of youth centers and youth clubs given by Mrs. Grace Dyess, city superintendent of recreation, at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Allie M. Dyer, 2020 Seventeenth street, Thursday night.

Elected were: Mrs. Dyer, president; Mrs. Gladys Holden, vice president; Miss Clara Pratt, secretary; Mrs. Elsie Bennett, treasurer (re-election). Directors elected to serve for two years were Miss Ella May Butler and Mrs. Lottie Hilton.

Officers gave reports for the past year.

Mrs. Dyess told of successful youth centers in the United States which were organized by youth themselves with strong adult groups as advisors.

Miss Effie Puryear discussed Altrusa's ideals of patriotism, efficiency and service.

Others present were Mesdames Leona Roffey, Grace Morris, Jessie C. Walker, Vera Chapman, Agnes Chapman, Misses Gertrude Brent, Esther Sorensen and Mabel Erwin.

Garden Pilgrimage Is Made By Club

Bud-to-Blossom club members made a garden pilgrimage Thursday afternoon after they had gathered in the home of Miss Zera Dopson, 1714 Twenty-ninth street, for a social hour. Refreshments were served and corsages were given as favors.

Visits were made to yards at the homes of Mesdames J. C. Anderson, John Fry, Claude Key and Alex McDonald. At the close of the pilgrimage, the group went to Luby's for supper.

A backyard party has been planned in the near future at the home of Mrs. Acie Cope, 1505 Twenty-sixth street.

Mesdames Ira Owens and Clarence McGhee were guests and members present were Mesdames Bob Pendergrass, Melvis Flake, Cope, Charlie Jones, C. H. Burton, Frances Batsell, Foy Johnson and E. E. Sullivent.

Baptist Class Meets For Social, Program

Mesdames George Moore, Walter Nichols and J. V. Crow were hostesses at a social and musical program given in the Moore home Thursday afternoon for First Baptist Mary Martha class.

Jim Moore played guitar numbers, Mrs. W. D. Biggers, piano solos and Mesdames T. L. Landis and E. F. Hunsaker sang. Readings were given by Mrs. Pat Muckleroy.

Homemade ice cream and cake were served to Mrs. J. H. McCloud, a guest, and Mesdames Robert Miller, W. D. Biggers, W. H. Floyd, Hunsaker, J. L. Watson, W. H. Trice, W. C. Henly, S. R. McKennon, C. A. Lawrence, Lillian Slay, T. O. Douglas, Muckelroy, Landis, W. B. Chiles, W. C. Fry, A. H. Brooks, G. P. Howell and Carl Owens.

Fraud Probe Reveals Heavy Bank Deposits

BOSTON, June 2. (U.P.)—Federal agents checking the bank accounts of the 143 employes involved in the alleged $500,000 payroll fraud at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Hingham yard disclosed today they found one worker banked $8,000 in a year, although his legitimate pay for that period was only $4,000.

Another shipyard man reportedly vacationed in Florida while on sick leave, it was revealed as the agents examined the financial statements, gasoline rations, tax payments, draft status, and bonus receipts of the 143 defendants.

Rear Admiral E. L. Cochrane, in behalf of Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal cited the yard for having "well and smartly" exceeded its quota in the building of LST's.

A federal grand jury investigated reports that illegal bonus payments also were made to the workers who allegedly received more credits than they performed. One defendant complained to officials, "Why don't you get the higher ups who are making the real money?"

Supplementary gasoline rations were being recalled, and draft boards began reclassifying the draft-deferred employes. Income tax officials attempted to determine whether there was evasion of tax payments.

The case, described by E. A. Soucy, FBI agent in charge at Boston, as "one of the most widespread war fraud rackets since the war began," was allegedly based on the recording of false credits by counters for welders' extra production.

South Texas Federal Court Work Divided

HOUSTON, June 2. (A.P.)—A division of work in the South Texas federal district court was announced today by Judges T. M. Kennerly and Allen B. Hanaway of Houston.

LAAF GI's Investing Heavily In Bonds

Pay day at Lubbock Army Air field was more than just a day on which cash jingled in GI pockets. This time, with their buddies invading enemy territory in many parts of the world, LAAF GIs dug down and came up with $5,043.75 in cash for war bonds.

Each organization on the field has been assigned a share of the field's quota and a spirited race to meet those quotas was in prospect. The first day's results show the aviation cadets of Section H with cash purchases of $3,281.25 or an average of $5.47 each. That effort was not good enough for first place honors, however. The medics of Section E held a pay day edge with $5.85 per man and the WAC detachment was in third place with average cash purchases of $3.28.

Civilian and officer purchases were not expected to get under way for a few more days since the officers are paid by check and pay day for the civilians was still two days away. Neither could bond allotments be figured although they are expected to run around $70,000 for the Fifth War Loan drive. Based on last month's figures, Section F (colored enlisted men) are expected to lead in allotments. They are now putting almost 20% of their pay back into war bonds and will probably increase this figure materially during the drive.

The field quota is $180,000 and is figured on the maturity value of the bonds.

Inferno Entered To Save Two RAF Fliers

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, June 2. (U.P.)—A rescue party led by Lt. Feno Monaco, Cecil, Pa., plunged three times into an inferno of exploding ammunition and blazing gasoline to save two of six RAF fliers trapped in a bomber that crashed in flames on a Bengal airdrome.

The bomber, piloted by Warrant Officer R. Mitchell, Adelaide, Australia, caught fire as it smashed down on the runway and witnesses said Monaco and his rescue crew fought to reach the trapped men until the intense heat forced them to give up. But before they quit, they managed to drag out Mitchell and his flight engineer, both of whom are recovering in a military hospital.

Monaco's rescue squad included Staff Sgt. Dudley T. Gilmore, Houston, Tex.

Autoists In Houston Area Due More Tires

HOUSTON, June 2. (A.P.)—Motorists in the 40-county Houston OPA district will receive 12,000 more tires in June than in May, Harvey Smith, district rationing executive announced today.

June quotas are 29,450 passenger tires—all grades one quality—compared with 17,693 for May. Truck tire quotas are 9,014 for June against 6,899 for May.

The district includes Orange, Galveston and Jefferson counties.

Bloody Fighting In Italy Is Recounted By 55 Wounded Vets Returned To Texas

McKINNEY, June 2. (A.P.)—Fifty-five wounded veterans of the Italian campaign, men of the 36th and 45th divisions, have arrived at Ashburn General hospital, Col. James B. Anderson, commanding officer of the hospital, said today.

Included in the group were soldiers who stormed the beachhead at Salerno; crossed the bloody waters of the Rapido; dueled with the Germans at Cassino, and held the beachhead at Anzio. Today they are following with sharp interest the Allied successes in Italy.

There was Staff Sgt. Harold L. Galloway, 22, a tall, calm, boy whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Galloway, live at Mission, Tex. Sgt. Galloway had a stormy time in the Italian campaign and emerged from action with a recommendation for the Silver Star.

Wounded By Shrapnel

After Salerno, he was wounded by shrapnel in the right hand and right leg when his battalion took a mountain north of Naples but he recovered quickly and believes he was one of the first doughboys to get a glimpse of the Rapido river.

He crossed the river in the first crossing on January 19, but was forced back. He crossed it again two days later.

"We set out in a rubber boat at 3 o'clock in the afternoon," he related. "There was plenty of German machine-gun fire. Some of the boats got hit: the full packs the men had on would drag them to the bottom like stones and they didn't come up. One man was lucky. He had his pack shot off and he didn't drown. When we got to the German side we ran into barbed wire and artillery fire. That was a bad combination. I came across with 47 men. I don't know what happened to 41 of them.

Figured Number Was Up

"About 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, I got mine. A mortar shell in the leg and shoulder. I took a look at my leg and figured my number was up. I figured I would be wasting my time to try to patch it up so I didn't do anything about it. My buddy, Sgt. Roy Croft of Rusk, Tex., was there with me and I asked him to give me a shot of morphine. The guy had killed nine Germans that I knew of, but he didn't give me any morphine because he didn't have the heart to stick a needle in me. I lay there all that night and the next day until about noon when they got me back across the river. They saved my life with blood plasma. It's some stuff."

Staff Sgt. James W. McClintic, 25, member of the 36th division and son of Mr. and Mrs. John McClintic of Groesbeck, Tex., also crossed the Rapido:

"We crossed in a fog at 11 o'clock one night. On the other side there were 21 of us together; the fog was so thick we had to stay close together to keep from getting lost. Then an enemy shell hit in our midst. More than a dozen of us were wounded; three were killed. I couldn't walk because I had got it in the knee. Our company aid man had been killed so I fixed my own tourniquet. That night and until 9:30 the next morning I lay in a shallow drainage canal that afforded some protection. They got me out under fire, rigging up a stretcher with a couple of rifles and a blanket."

Pfc. Vernon W. Baker, 30, of the 36th division, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Baker of Lockhart, Tex., hauled a lot of the ammunition used in shelling Cassino:

"I was driving this truck loaded with ammunition in a flat valley, two miles south of Cassino, that soldiers call Purple Heart valley. That's because so many of us got it there. The Germans started shelling and I stopped the truck and ran across the road to get behind a wall for cover. On the way I heard a shell coming. I slammed myself down on the ground. The shell hit between me and my truck and I got it in nine places—both arms and my right leg."

Many Write Opinions On Cohabitation Cases

SALT LAKE CITY, June 2. (A.P.)—To one writer District Judge Ray Van Cott's conviction of 15 Salt Lake City men for unlawful cohabitation with 55 women was "an excellent termination of so frightful an insult to the sacred institution of marriage."

To another the prosecution of "fundamentalists," members of a cult which advocates plural marriage as a religious principle, is "ridiculous."

Since he began consideration of charges against 35 cult members; Van Cott has received numerous letters from many sections of the United States. Most have been commendatory; a few critical.

One Texas woman wrote:

"I believe Solomon had a thousand wives, which was sanctioned by the Lord God, so it can't be immoral—and he is considered to be the 'wiest man that ever lived.' Maybe it is the rest of us that are on the 'wrong track!'"

Control Of Gas By Racketeers Feared

NEW YORK, June 2. (A.P.)—Racketers may get control of the gasoline industry if the black market in gas is not eliminated, A. Clarke Bedford, chairman of the petroleum industry committee of rationing of the Petroleum Industry War council, asserted today.

Speaking at a meeting of 150 members of the council, Bedford said racketeers once gained a foothold in the garage business in many parts of the country.

The meeting was held to announce a campaign of education against black market operations in gas. Bedford said in four of the country's five petroleum administration districts, $430,000 would be spent. Starting Sunday, in a vigorous drive to educate people against using black markets and against all abuses of rationing of gasoline.

City Group Studies Wage, Hour Situation

At a special meeting of the city commission Friday morning City Commissioners Hub Jones and J. Ray Dickey and City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., were appointed on a special committee to study wages and hours in various city departments.

The appointments were made by Mayor O. W. Ribble by the unanimous authorization of the full commision. Other commissioners present were W. B. Price and Fred Childress.

Firemen's Request Considered

The special meeting was called, specifically, to consider a request from members of the fire department for changes in their working schedules. the request contained in a letter from John Nugent, assistant chief, proposed that the working schedule be changed from the present arrangement of 48 hours on duty followed by 24 hours off duty to a straight 24 hours on and 24 hours off.

This matter was referred to the special committee for investigation and report. At the same time, the committee was asked to make a general investigation into wages paid in all departments with the view of ascertaining whether adjustments are desirable and practical. Such an inquiry had been discussed on previous occasions by members of the commission.

Members of the special committee started work immediately. Mayor Ribble said another special meeting of the commission will be called to receive the report when it is ready.

No Wild Buying Rush Is Seen When Appliances Released

By EULALIE McDOWELL
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The postwar plans of most housewives call for washing machines, electric irons and mechanical refrigerators, in that order, but a large number prefer to build or buy a house before shopping for appliances, a nationwide survey of consumer requirements showed today.

Conducted by the Office of Civilian Requirements, the survey, embracing 11 major household appliances, concluded that contrary to mose expectations there will not be a wild buying rush when things are available and that the public is willing to wait.

"Frills Are Out"

Release of the survey coincided with these developments:

1. William Y. Elliott, newly-appointed director of the civilian requirements office, said he and his associates were "looking to the production of only those items which are necessary to the civilian economy. . . . So that the need for the ordinary decencies in human living can be met." He made it clear that frills were out and would stay out for the duration.

2. The War Production board announced that resumption of manufacture of sewing machines—No. 7 on the public's list of wants—must be postponed indefinitely because of shortages of manpower and parts.

No Buying Rush Seen

The OCR's survey showed that after washing machines, electric irons and mechanical refrigerators, the public wants cooking stoves, electric toasters, radios, sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, heating stoves, electric fans and water heaters—in that order.

Indicating that there will be no general buying rush when civilian goods are available again, 56 per cent of those interviewed said they would not buy immediately even if there were plenty of all items in the stores. The others said they would.

Want One Of 3 Items

Forty-two per cent of the 4,488 families interviewed said they wanted one of the three items most in demand because the old one was unsatisfactory; 56 per cent just don't have one now. Difficulties with commercial laundry service were the main reason for wanting a washing machine.

Elliott declared that providing radio tubes and batteries for farm radios was now a major concern to the requirements committee because of "overwhelming" military demands for the facilities needed to manufacture them.

"Ground Gaining" Seen

He reported "ground gaining" on production of infant's and other essential clothing, short for many months.

Substantial gains, he said, have been made in getting production of laundry and dry cleaning equipment. He agreed that further deterioration of these services would "breed absenteeism" in war plants, particularly among women workers who are also home makers.

One out of every ten families interviewed planned to acquire a home after the war before buying appliances, with 71 per cent already saving their money for this purpose.

Four per cent of the potential home owners planned to spend $9,000 or more; nine per cent will spend less than $1,000; 14 per cent will spend between $3,000 and $4,000.

Pipeline Rejected

ton Press, Culbertson declared "there is an urgent need for 60,000 more barrels of crude oil daily on the west coast for our Navy's warships operating against Japan" and "the Permian Basin (of West Texas) can produce 180,000 more barrels daily than it is now allowed."

Standard Oil "Protection"

He asked if PAW was delaying construction "to protect" a trade area of Standard Oil of California.

The proposed pipeline would transport 175,000 barrels of crude oil daily from the Permian basin to Los Angeles.

"If construction is being delayed to protect the interests of the Standard Oil company of California, which has always dominated west coast trade, then let's make a trade," said Culbertson.

"Let's agree to rip up the pipeline the day the war ends and cut it into 10-foot lengths to sell to farmers and ranchers for use as feed and water troughs. Right now, we need oil on the west coast to win the war. That's more important than monopoly . . ."

Railroad freight charges on oil from Texas to California are $2.93 per barrel. The proposed pipeline, Culbertson said, would save approximately $1 per barrel on transportation and "would pay for itself within nine months."

ing on widespread bombing attacks meanwhile, with Liberators again hitting the approaches to Truk, enemy bastion in the Carolines. They hit Stawan, 189 miles southeast of Truk, and Woleai, 525 miles west of Truk.

(These assaults were made Wednesday, Truk time—the same day that Central Pacific bombers set fires on Truk atoll visible 150 miles.)

The Japanese hit back in the air Thursday with a five-bomber stab at the Biak invaders but these were driven off by antiaircraft with one plane, possibly two, shot down. The enemy came back again the same day with three planes and dropped five bombs which fell harmlessly near the Yank beachhead.

Feeder Airlines

Amarillo corporation, it was explained, is $500,000, of which $100,000 is to be pledged by subscribers, who would be required to put up 10 per cent of their subscriptions immediately.

It was Beard's suggestion that both Lubbock and Amarillo might get further if they will work together and can reach some agreement whereby one corporation would operate feeder services into both cities.

In line with this thought, Lubbock men immediately pledged $37,500 toward the first $100,000 in the capitalization. This was done in the expectation that Amarillo would put up $37,500, with Braniff subscribing the additional $25,000 to complete $100,000. Of these sums, all would pay 10 per cent in immediately to be used in financing the effort to obtain CAB permission to establish the feeder services.

Pre-Hearings Set

Pre-hearing conferences on southwestern feeder applications are set for hearing in Washington on June 7. Applications for such services out of Amarillo already have been filed. If those applications can be adjusted in a manner satisfactory to Lubbock interests, then Lubbock will join in urging that they be granted.

However, if Amarillo, should insist upon pressing applications as they were announced Thursday afternoon, then separate applications will be prepared immediately for Lubbock in time for filing with CAB before June 7.

The feeder services as now proposed out of Amarillo virtually isolate Lubbock so far as that type of airline service would be concerned.

One-Way Advantage

Two of the proposed feeder lines from Amarillo would be routed through Lubbock, but the schedules would be operated in such a way that all the advantage would be with Amarillo, even in the distinctly Lubbock territories.

Passengers from any point on the proposed routes could fly into Amarillo and return to their homes the same day. But if they wanted to come to Lubbock, they would have to fly here one day and return to their homes the next.

Furthermore, a great many towns, even in this immediate territory, would be provided convenient schedules to Amarillo, but either none, or virtually none, into Lubbock. Hopes are that these inequities will be ironed out so the cities can work together.

Beard emphasized that the formation of a corporation would not insure that CAB would grant the feeder airline certificates sought. On the contrary, it was made clear that the competition for those certificates is "terrific." But it was his opinion that the chances are better of getting a certificate if the two cities cooperate than if they are in competition.

No Profit Guaranteed

The official also made clear too, that no guarantees can be made that the feeder lines, if established, would be profitable to investors. He added, however, that Braniff considers the business risk a good one.

But, regardless of this, it was the concensus of those present that, if feeder services are to be provided to towns and cities of Lubbock territory, then it is up to people of Lubbock to do all they can to provide it.

Arrangements for the luncheon were made by the chamber of commerce. Jack M. Randal, chamber president, presided and introduced Beard.

Others present were C. E. Maedgen, Dr. Clifford B. Jones, Fred Childress, J. D. Jenkins, A. B. Davis, Bob Walker, M. D. Fanning, Mayor O. W. Ribble, City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., George P. Livermore, Robert H. Bean, Earl Collins, C. H. (Brownie) Hamilton, Dr. Fred W. Standefer, W. G. Alderson, Ray F. Hinchey, G. A. Simmons, S. C. Arnett, Dr. Olan Key, J. A. Fortenberry, Chas. A. Guy, Aetha Martin, Marion Sanford, L. D. Thomas, Ray Farmer, DeWitt Landis, C. W. Ratliff, George P. Kuykendall, Col. Ralph E. Heimes, Walter S. Posey, A. F. Holt, W. C. O'Mara and Al Finnell.

law should be passed?

The vote:

Think law should be passed	56%
Think law should not be passed	32
No Opinion	12

In contrast to the vote throughout the country as a whole, two groups which would be especially affected by the law are about evenly divided in their opinion on the issue. These labor union members and all men under 38 years of age. In each of the two groups, approximately as many oppose the bill as favor it.

DRAFT 4-F's?

There is substantial sentiment also for another proposal recently made which would draft 4-F's for jobs in war plants in order to release able-bodied men in those plants for military service. A recent survey found 78 per cent of the nation's voters in favor of that proposal—evidence again of the desire for stern measures to cope with manpower problems.

The present findings are consistent with the public's attitude all along toward the question of a national service law. Since as far back as March, 1942, the majority of voters have time and again been found in favor of such legislation, in the event of need.

There is no such thing as a horizontal level, because the earth is round.

WLB Ruled Not Subject To Court

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—A broad ruling that no statute authorizes court review of War Labor board orders came today from the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

A government attorney promptly interpreted it as placing the government in position to ask dismissal of every action brought against the board. Among these are five suits in U. S. District court here by Montgomery Ward & company for injunctions against enforcement of WLB orders.

In a statement, Attorney General Biddle called the decision "of first importance regarding the whole War Lazor board controversy." Biddle declared, too, that in the light of the decision some criticism in the McCarran report appeared "a somewhat hazardous jurgment."

Senator McCarran (D-Nev) headed a Senate Judiciary sub-committee whose majority report sharply critisized Biddle's rulings leading up to the seizure of Montgomery Ward's Chicago properties by the government.

In another action, the appeals court dismissed a government petition for a special appeal from the district court's refusal to dismiss one of Ward's injunction suits.

In its major decision, the appeals court held that the President's power to take property to help the war effort does not depend upon any action by the board, and any board action in notifying the chief executive of noncompliance with its orders is "informatory and at most, advisory."

The court's finding was on an appeal by the employers group of Motor Freight Carriers, Inc., and others representing some 300 trucking companies in Boston and throughout New England. The board ordered among other things that they give their employes a pay increase of $2.75 per week and pay time and one-half for work over eight hours daily.

the German fighter defenses."

Idea for the Russian bases was credited to Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander-in-chief of the American Army Air forces, but it first took fruit during the Moscow conference of Secretary of State Hull last October 19-November 1.

Subsequently it was discussed at the Teheran conference of President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill, and the tremendous task of creating, manning and supplying the bases got underway in February.

General Deane did the actual spadework of discussions with Soviet military authorities while U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman handled the diplomatic end.

Now the bases are fully equipped with spare parts, spare planes, food, fuel, medical supplies and even their own transport and field hospitals. American doctors and medical corps men are on hand, and American nurses are expected shortly.

High in praise of the Russian assistance in establishing the system, Deane said, "the operations carried out today mark the first large-scale physical cooperation of the air forces of Britain, Russia and America."

(The extent of British participation, if any, in the Russian side of the operations, was not disclosed, but Deane's reference to Britain apparently was explained when he added that without British aid the American planes could not take off from their original bases.)

Number and location of the bases were not disclosed, but the fact that Russia gave them was described by one veteran Russian observer as "certainly the greatest accomplishment in Soviet cooperation." He said this should quiet critics who had predicted that Russia never would allow Allied forces to operate on her soil.

The bases, already named ECUSSA, or Eastern Command, United States Strategic Air force, were believed to open the way for many new possibilities of Allied cooperation.

New Job Controls

vice. On the other hand, workers will not be referred to employers who do not cooperate, he said.

The new program provides that job seekers will be offered assignments in the order of importance of the job to the war. Workers will be given the widest choice "consistent with the war effort" in the acceptance of jobs.

An applicant may be referred to a non-essential job under these conditions:

If he is not needed for an essential job in the area; if he is not adaptable to an essential job outside the area; or if there is undue hardship, special emergency circumstances, or other good cause.

WMC also ordered the establishment of employment ceiling programs and manpower priority committees in all the 184 group one and two areas of serious labor shortage.

The purpose of ceiling programs is to fix the number of men a specific plant or business may employ, while priority committees determine which business are entitled to priorities in the referral of labor.

ELK HILLS CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—A unanimous House voice vote sent to the Senate today legislation authorizing the Navy department to enter into a new contract with the Standard Oil company of California for use of petroleum in the Elk Hills reserve of California.

Advances In Italy

line hinged on Avezzano.

It was disclosed that the crack American First Armored division and other strong American reinforcements had been thrown into the battle now raging within sight of Rome. The first armored division played a conspicuous part in the Tunisian victory last year.

Tonight a front dispatch reported Fifth Army vanguards were fanning out in a wide arc through the Alban hills above Velletri, advancing on a mountain front extending from the Appian way to the Via Casilina—the two principal highways into Rome.

German prisoners captured since the Allied offensive began May 11 approached the 20,000 mark.

Escape Routes Closed

Street fighting raged in Velletri for several days before its fall. American armor and infantry penetrated to the hill town's central square yesterday, rooting "clusters of shuddering Germans" out of backyards and wine cellars, but the remainder of the doomed garrison continued to give desperate opposition. Their every avenue of escape had been cut by American forces pushing through the mountains north and northwest upon Rome.

Today's communique said American infantrymen fighting on Monte Atemisio, 2,600-foot peak two miles northwest of Velletri, were meeting "very obstinate opposition." Lariano, a highway village midway between Velletri and Valmontone, fell to other American troops.

(A German high command communique declared that a dent achieved by the Allies northwest of Velletri had been "sealed off" and heavy casualties inflicted on Clark's forces, who scaled Monte Artemisio in a "sneak" advance Tuesday night. It described the fighting in the area as of "very great fierceness.")

Fighters Show Briefly

For the second straight day a number of the Nazis' hoarded fighter planes appeared over the field, diving to strafe Allied shock troops. Every yard of Allied advance was made through a hurricane of artillery fire from the hills, the enemy even using anti-aircraft guns to sweep the dusty terrain.

Allied warships added their salvoes to the struggle as they shelled enemy gun positions opposing the British advance northward from Ardea in the coastal sector. The naval guns set several large fires.

The busy Allied air force destroyed another 100 German transport vehicles, bringing to more than 4,800 the number they have wiped out or damaged since the offensive began May 11.

News Briefs

In connection with the discovery by liquor control board officers of 80 quarts of whisky, Jack Pierce Friday pleaded guilty to a liquor law violation charge and paid a fine of $200 and costs, according to County Judge G. V. Pardue.

A. L. Perkins, former driver for City bus, has been added to the police department as patrolman, it was announced Friday night by Chief of Police Don Reeder. Perkins lives at 1607 Avenue F.

Firemen at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon extinguished a brush fire at 128 Avenue P.

A total of 331 men students have passed through the dean of men's office at Texas Technological college enrolling for the first term of the summer school, and 570 women students have passed through the dean of women's office, bringing the total enrollment up to date to 901, just 79 students short of the enrollment of last year's summer school. Registrar W. P. Clement said that 867 students had finished registration. Students registering now will carry a reduced load and pay a late registration fee.

Services Set Today For O'Donnell Man

Funeral services for Albert G. Stokes, 85, who died at his home in O'Donnell Thursday night will be held at the residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. Tyne Smith officiating. Burial will be in O'Donnell cemetery with Plains Funeral home directing. Stokes had been a resident of O'Donnell for 27 years.

Survivors are his wife; six sons, Walton Stokes of Westbrook, Tex., John Stokes of Post, Arthur and Robert Stokes of Hale Center, Elbert Stokes, jr., of Pampa, Jim Stokes of O'Donnell; four daughters, Mrs. Ethel Cozart of Lamesa, Mrs. Birdie Childers of Hale Center, Mrs. Lucy Archer of O'Donnell, Mrs. Leona Nelson of Hollywood, Calif.; 28 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

Straits Of Dover Calm During Night

FOLKESTONE, June 2 (AP)—The straits of Dover were calm tonight with broken banks of clouds flecking a moonlit sky. Visibility increased as an early evening haze dissipated.

Long sunny intervals marked the day and by nightfall a brisk northwesterly breeze had died away. The temperature fell from a midafternoon high of seventy degrees to fifty-nine at 10 p. m. The barometer climbed steadily during th day.

other point the Japanese were encircled.

The fighting on the 120-mile front in Hunan province was described as fierce with both sides losing heavily. The Chinese recaptured Kweiyi, 42 miles north of Changsha, main objective of the Japanese. The town changed hands several times before the Chinese won it from the invaders.

Advance Near Changsha

The Japanese thok Pingkiang, 50 miles northeast of Changsha, and advanced to a point 22 miles east of Changteh.

A Chinese Army spokesman estimated the Japanese have massed 280,000 troops for their attempt to cut China in two by taking complete control of the Canton-Hankow railway. He predicted new Nippon blows in China as the Allies apply greater presure against the Japanese elsewhere.

J. L. Hilton Funeral Plans Incomplete

Funeral arrangements were still pending Friday night for J. L. Hilton, 66, farmer near Levelland for 16 years, who died in a local hospital at 6:30 a. m. Friday following an illness of two weeks.

Survivors are his wife, one sister, Mrs. S. L. Smith of the New Home community, eight brothers, Joe, Henry and T. B. Hilton of Lubbock, J. B. Hilton of Santa Monica, Calif., Fred and Charlie Hilton of Claremore, Okla., A. M. Hilton of Carbon Hill, Ala., and Will Hilton of Tulsa, and two step-children, Mrs. Guy Lowery and Q. Neal of Levelland; 12 grand children and one great-grand child.

A Levelland funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Cliff Elliott Named Masonic Lodge Head

Cliff Elliott, who has served the past year as junior warden, was elected worshipful master of Yellowhouse Masonic lodge in annual election of officers in the lodge hall, third floor of the Citizens National bank building Friday night.

Elliott is to succeed Burl Ham, retiring master. C. C. Sherrod was elected senior warden; Frank B. Herring, junior warden; L. C. Ellis, re-elected treasurer; H. J. McClellan, re-elected secretary; Burl Ham, tiler; and Neil H. Wright, re-elected trustee for a three-year term.

The new officers will be installed later this month.

dusk, bombing and strafing railroad yards, bridges, fuel dumps, road transport and coastal objectives. It was announced that none of the more than 300 Marauders and Havocs participating was lost.

An indication that the assaults on the Axis were being carried into the night came as the Budapest radio again left the air tonight shortly after 10 p. m.

The American shuttle planes after dropping their loads on important junctions on rail lines supplying the Germans at the Russian front were met by American Mustang and Soviet Yak fighters which escorted them to the newly-made bases in Russia.

Invasion Coast Pounded

From Britain a fleet of 1,000 British-based Fortresses and Liberators, with half as many escorting fighters, slammed inot the Pas De Calais area with some 3,000 tons of explosives for their heaviest assault thus far on the Nazi anti-invasion targets. They were unchallenged by German fighters.

The blow from Italy was by a force of up to 750 heavy bombers with an escort of probably equal strength which unloaded at least 500 tons of exploding steel.

"All our bombers and fighters returned safely from the attack on German military installations along the coast of France today," the U. S. Strategic Air forces communique said.

Only Light Flak

The Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by medium-sized forces of P51 Mustangs, P-38 Lightning and P-47 Thunderbolts, all from the Eighth Air force, encountered only light flak. A few ground rockets were sent up, the communique said.

This 15th consecutive day of bombing of Nazi Europe got off to an early start when RAF heavy bombers struck in the first hours after midnight at objectives over a 2,000-mile front, all the way from Scandinavia to France, Hungary, Germany and the Mediterranean.

Young Men of 17

May again join the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve

ENLISTMENT in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve is once more open to qualified young Americans . . . who want to win their wings as the "greatest team in the world"—an AAF air combat crew.

In April, thanks to the air-mindedness of America's youth, the AAF's personnel program was well ahead of schedule. More than enough men were in training, and in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, to meet scheduled quotas for combat crews. At the same time, the need for men in other branches of the army was urgent. Therefore, opportunities to join the AAF—including the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve—were suspended.

As the Commanding General pointed out, the suspension of enlistments in the Reserve was intended only as a temporary measure. Accordingly, effective June 1, enlistments have again been opened in the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve in order to insure a sufficient number of qualified individuals for training this fall.

The AAF is a Team

Today, the AAF is the largest, most powerful air force in the world. Fighting side by side with the planes of our Navy and our Allies, it has won control of the air in every theatre—and has carried the war to the military and industrial hearts of Germany and Japan. It is daring the enemy to "come up and fight." Yet its losses have been less than anyone had anticipated or even dared to hope.

That all this has been accomplished is due, in large measure, to the fact that the AAF air combat crew is more than just planes and men. The combat crew is a team . . . the greatest fighting team the world has ever seen . . . with Gunners, Bombardiers, Navigators and Pilots flying and fighting together, to win.

And any young man who wants AAF wings should keep this ideal of teamwork uppermost in his mind. It is the key to AAF successes in battle. It will be the key to his own success in the AAF.

If you want to fly with the AAF, you may apply at any AAF Examining Board for enrollment in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. Upon passing the preliminary qualifying physical and mental tests, you will become a member of the U. S. Army Air Forces—on inactive duty. This means that you will not be called for training until you have reached your 18th birthday. If you are at work you may remain on the job until you are 18. If you are in high school, you may elect to finish the semester you are in when you become 18. If you are a high school graduate, not over 17 years and 9 months, you may elect to take advantage of the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program, which provides free college training for men approaching military age.

When called, you will first be given "basic" training. During this period, you will take "aptitude" tests to determine whether you will be classified for training as Gunner, Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot.

Your Place on the AAF Team

If you have an outstandingly high aptitude rating for a particular position, you may be given an opportunity to compete for the classification that you prefer. But it is important to remember that all jobs on the AAF team are vitally important . . . that air combat crews not only are chosen from the very cream of the nation's young men, but that each seat in every plane must be filled by the man best qualified to fill it.

Gunners go into actual combat as non-commissioned officers. In addition to being the world's best aerial marksmen, gunners may qualify as trained technicians—in radio, armament or airplane mechanics. Pilots, Navigators, and Bombardiers are graduated from training as 2nd Lieutenants or Flight Officers.

Your job, and your rank, in the AAF will depend upon your own demonstrated abilities. For full information as to qualifying for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, see your nearest AAF Examining Board or local Army Recruiting Station.

For Pre-Aviation Training

Whether or not you have yet reached 17, you can begin now to prepare yourself to qualify for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. See your local Civil Air Patrol officers about C.A.P. Cadet Training . . . also see your High School principal or adviser about recommended courses in the Air Service Division of the High School Victory Corps. Both offer excellent pre-aviation training . . . and help point the way to AAF wings.

Out Of Bounds Kickoff Banned

DALLAS, June 2. (AP)—Whether or not the National Rules committee does anything about the out-of-bounds kick-off, there will be no intentional booting outside in Southwest conference football next fall, says James H. Stewart, president of the conference business managers, athletic directors and coaches association.

Stewart, returning from the meeting of the National Collegiate Coaches association in New York, revealed that conference mentors have decided to enter a gentleman's agreement when they gather in September for the annual rules interpretation session if the rules committee in the meantime has failed to act.

Second To Agree

Thus two major gridiron conferences are lined up on this question, the Western conference having taken such action just before the coaches meeting in New York.

Unanimously Southwestern mentors have decided the existing rule giving the receiving side the ball on its own 35-yard line after a kick-off out of bounds is lopsided in favor of the kicking side.

"In view of this sentiment we will agree in September not to intentionally send any kick-off out of bounds," said Stewart, athletic director-business manager coach of Southern university. "Some penalty for accidental violation will have to be decided upon and it doubtless will be the same that has been adopted by the National Professional league — giving the receiving team the ball on its own 45-yard line."

Won't Change Passing

The coaches meeting in New York requested another change—one that would follow the pro leagues in permitting a forward pass from any point behind the line of scrimmage.

Stewart said Southwest conference coaches also had discussed the proposal but that sentiment was not so strong for this change as for the kick-off revision, and there would be no agreement on a change, the conference following the rule in the books when the gridiron campaign opens.

Under the present rule, the passer is required to be at least five yards behind the line of scrimmage when he throws the ball.

Stewart said no meeting of the National rules group had as yet been scheduled and he did not know whether one would be. The chairman of the committee, Lt. Col. W. J. Bingham, athletic director on leave from Harvard, already has gone on record publicly as being opposed to changing the code in any way for the duration.

Golf Tourney Dates Announced At Orange

ORANGE, Texas, June 2. (AP)—A $1,000 War Bond Open golf tournament will be held here June 25 to July 2 with the Sunset Grove Country club as sponsor.

The tournament will be a 36-hole medal affair with $200 in bonds going to the low scoring pro and a $50 war bond to the low amateur. There will be as many flights as necessary to accommodate all entries and prizes have been equalized.

Qualifying rounds may be shot any time from June 25 to July 1, these being 18 holes. The final 18 holes will be played July 2.

Burl Gene Moore Assured Trip To National AAU Meet

Burl Gene Moore, Lubbock's Blonde Comet, has been assured a place in the National AAU track and field meet June 17 and 18 in New York, and announced Friday that he planned to travel to New York with the Texas party. No date has been set for his departure, but they will likely leave next week.

Moore is awaiting word from the San Antonio party regarding the date for starting for New York, and where Moore will meet the party.

Five names were certified from Texas, including Moore, and each man will enter the meet and compete under the banner of their own school instead of as a Texas team. Three of the five are high school trackmen.

Donation funds raised by Lubbock fans and expenses paid by the Southwestern AAU combined to assure the local track star the chance to enter the meet in New York.

Moore's time of 49.5 seconds at the state meet in Austin last month was the best time set in the nation for this event, either high school or university.

DALLAS, June 2. (AP) — Dan Ferris, secretary of the National A. A. U., today certified five entries from Texas in the annual track and field meet scheduled June 17 and 18 at New York.

These entries were sent in by Graham Pierce of Dallas, Southwestern A. A. U. president who said all five had announced they would make the trip. They are:

Charles Parker, Thomas Jefferson High school, San Antonio, 100 and 220-yard dashes; Burl Gene Moore, Lubbock High school, 440-yard dash; August Erfurth, Brackenridge High school, San Antonio, 120-yard high hurdles and 220-yard low hurdles; Bob Umstattd, University of Texas, 880-yard run, and Edgar Guice, Prairie View college, 880-yard run.

Pierce said these men would not compete under the banner of one team but individually for their respective schools.

New Orleans Hurler Works With Tigers

DETROIT, June 2. (AP) — Dick Callahan, 19-year-old producer of a double not-hit game in New Orleans High school baseball, displayed a blazing fast ball today in a workout with the Detroit Tigers, and Manager Steve O'Neill said he was considerably impressed.

Callahan, who holds a medical discharge from the Navy, made his first visit to a major league park with his coach, George Digby. A strong right-hander, Callahan won 17 successive games while pitching Holy Cross High to the Louisiana state title.

The New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers also are reported to be interested, and Callahan said he would make no decision until he returned home next week.

Pensive Favored In Belmont Stake Romp

NEW YORK, June 2. (AP)—Pensive gets his chance tomorrow to join that select group of six horses who have won the American turf's triple crown of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

With victories in the Derby and Preakness already safely tucked away, the stretch-running chestnut from Warren Wright's Calumet farm is the favorite to whip seven other three-year olds in the 76th Belmont Stakes — mile and one-half counterpart of the English Derby which is expected to draw more than 40,000 fans to the Long Island racing plant for another $3,500,000 betting day.

Only George D. Widener's Platter of Pensive's Derby and Preakness victims will be back for another shot at the son of Hyperion, 1933 English Derby winner. And from Platter is expected to come Pensive's most serious challenge.

Platter also will have a capable running mate in Who Goes There, easy winner of the Withers mile.

The others are strictly outsiders. They are, Crispin Oglebay's Boy Knight, Mrs. Donald H. Peters' Bull Dandy, Free Lance from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley stable, William Ziegler, jr.'s Bounding Home and Kaytee from Royce G. Martin's Woodvale farm.

Athletic Fields Is Second Seabee Task

NEW YORK, June 2. (AP)—Sports fields are constructed immediately after the Seabees have built airports and landing strips on the ground from which U. S. forces drive the Japanese in the Pacific, Lt. Cmdr. James Crowley said today.

The former Fordham football coach, who said he would take over the Sampson Naval Training Center's grid destines on June 22, was interviewed in the Navy's press bureau.

Crowley served as fleet recreations officer in the South Pacific for 15 months.

"As soon as an area was secure," he related, "Sports fields were set up. These fields were built by the Seabees as soon as they would finish the construction of air strips."

In the New Hebrides, Crowley's first assignment after leaving the United States, servicemen constructed nine baseball fields, two football fields, three tennis courts, five handball courts and three boxing rings.

Later in the day Crowley signed a contract as coach of the Boston entry in the National Football League, effective when the war is over.

Crowley was granted a leave of absence by Fordham in March, 1942, and when his contract there expired recently he agreed to join the pro team. Fordham, which gave up the sports in 1943, has not signed a new coach.

BEAU JACK SWORN IN

FORT BENNING, Ga., June 2. (AP)—Negro boxer Beau Jack, former holder of the world's lightweight championship, has been sworn in as an Army private, the Public Relations office announced today.

Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts was a member of the Harvard crew which rowed to victory in the Henley Regetta on the Thames in England 30 years ago.

Cincinnati used Outfielder Estel Crabtree in 95 games last season. It was the most action he had seen since 1939 when he played 133 games for Rochester and batted .337.

Joyce Decisions Henry Armstrong

CHICAGO, June 2. (AP)—Willie Joyce, Gary, Ind., negro, checked the comeback winning streak of Hammerin' Henry Armstrong in a blistering ten round battle fought in stifling heat in the Chicago stadium tonight. Armstrong was seeking his 11th straight victory but the decision went to Joyce.

Armstrong weighed in at 140¼ and Joyce at 139.

The decision of the two judges and Referee Norman Garrity was unanimous, but the balloting was close. The verdict was mingled with boos and cheers.

Previously Joyce and Armstrong had met twice, with each chalking up a decision.

The terrific heat kept the attendance down to 10,387 sweltering, shirt-sleeved spectators, who paid $35,522 to witness Armstrong's setback.

Pete Gray Wants To Play In Major Loop

ATLANTA, June 2. (AP) — The gangling, one-armed ball player looked straight ahead with steely eyes and said tersely:

"I can make it. All I want is a chance."

The ball player was 26-year-old Pete Gray of the Southern association Memphis Chicks, and the chance he was speaking of was one with a major league team.

Third Year As Pro

Gray—born Peter Weisner of Nanticoke, Pa. — is playing his third year of organized baseball. In opinion of Memphis Manager Doc Prothro, former pilot of the Philadelphia Nationals, the colorful center fielder is equal to most major league talent today, despite his handicap. Prothro thinks he's ready for the big time. So does Billy Evans, president of the Southern, who formerly headed the Red Sox farm system.

Back in Nanticoke, when he was 6, Gray jumped off an auto and fell beneath a back wheel. It was necessary to amputate his right arm about six inches from the shoulder. Determined to be like other boys, he learned to throw with his left hand, eventually began playing baseball. He began his professional career with Three Rivers, in the Canadian-American league, in 1942, leading the league in hitting at .381.

Last year, with Memphis, he hit .289, finished fourth in fielding for regular outfielders. This year he is hitting .336—including two homers—and leads the league in stolen bases.

In the field, Gray tucks his glove swiftly under the stump of his right arm while rolling the ball across his chest with the left. With the return motion he grips the ball and throws it.

Dallas Teams Battle For Baseball Crown

DALLAS, June 2. (AP)—W. H. Adamson and Crozier Tech High schools, both of Dallas, will meet for the state high school baseball championship here tomorrow night.

Adamson won its second victory in the preliminaries tonight when the Leopards defeated the St. Thomas nine of Houston, 3 to 2.

Unconditional Surrender

NO reasons exist for the belief that there has been any material weakening of the determination of the United Nations, to fight the present war until all enemies have been compelled to surrender unconditionally.

The realization, and the determination, seems general among all the Allied peoples that the future safety of mankinds and civilization demand that the defeat of the Axis shall be complete.

However, incidents have occurred—some very recently—which seem to indicate that a constructive purpose would be served if Allied leaders could make clead just what they mean when they refer to "unconditional surrender."

A good deal of confusion and very considerable differences of opinion unquestionably exist concerning the correct definition of the term. The words, "unconditional surrender," mean different things to different people and to different nations.

The Axis warlords naturally try to give the term its worst possible meaning. They try to make their people believe—apparently with more than a little success—that a fate worse than death will be theirs if they surrender unconditionally. The Japanese are told—and presumably they believe—that they would be tortured and then murdered. Inevitably such things must strengthen the enemy's will to resist. If he is convinced that death, or worse than death, will be his fate if he surrenders, then he is likely to conclude that he might as well die fighting.

Naturally, it would be ridiculous to try to tell the enemy that his lot is going to be a bed of roses if he surrenders. He knows better than that. He knows that a day of returning awaits him. Probably he knows that he deserves anything that might happen to him. But it also is virtually certain that the fate awiating the masses of Germany and Japan wouldn't be anything like as bad as their leaders now pretend.

Certainly it is inconceivable that there could be any softening in the Allied determination that victory must be total and complete. No worse tragedy than that would be possible to imagine because it would be the prelude to World War II. But there would be no suggestion of softening if enemy peoples should be given some definite hints as to what they might expect in case they surrender unconditionally.

Possibly such an explanation might convince them that unconditional surrender would not be as terrible as they now imagine, or as pictured by their leaders. Possibly they might decide that unconditional surrender would be preferable to further sacrifices in a hopeless war. Possibly a celar-out definition of the term might hasten the return of peace.

Bureaucratic Immunity

A NEW YORK housewife hired a young woman as partime maid through the United States Employment service. A few minutes after the maid reported for work the housewife went up to the roof for a sun bath. When she returned both the maid and a purse containing $18 were gone.

The housewife, who had forgotten the maid's name, called the USES. She was told that it would be against regulations to tell either the name or address. Only in the event of an infraction of the Social Security act, violation of the Federal Income Tax law, forging a Social Security benefit check, or illegal action by a Social Security employe could that information be given out. Not even the FBI could budge USES from that firm stand, which was backed up by the War Manpower commission.

Mayor LaGuardia called the regulation "cock-eyed." We agree, and then some. We also think that the regulation should be amended before someone, tempted by this bureaucratic immunity, commits a more serious crime than the theft of $18.

A scientist says there's no such thing as a perfect climate. We're withholding his name to protect him from chambers of commerce in California and Florida.

The One Minute Sermon

Behold, I have taught you statutes and judgments, even as the Lord my God commanded me, that ye should do so in the land whither ye go to possess it.

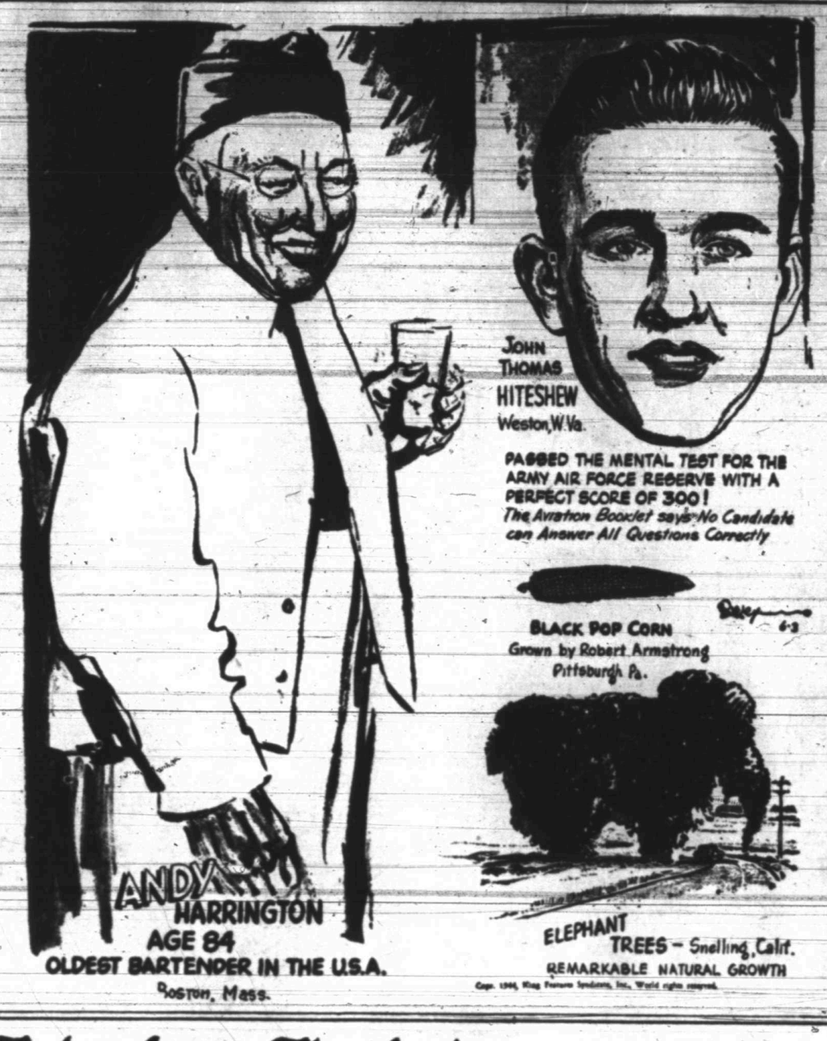

Keep therefore and do them; for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes, and say, Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.

For what nation is there so great, who hath God so nigh unto them, as the Lord our God is in all things that we call upon him for?

And what nation is there so great, that hath statutes and judgments so righteous as all this law, which I set before you this day?

Only take heed to thyself, and keep thy soul diligently, lest thou forget the things which thine eyes have seen, and lest they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life: but teach them thy sons, and thy sons' sons.—Deuteronomy 4:5 through 9.

XXX

THE ROAD was winding. Link did not drive fast enough to arouse an alarm. When they had gone about a hundred yards a Japanese soldier appeared in the headlight glow, aiming his rifle at them.

"Stop," said Courtright hoarsely. "I have to pay him the rest."

Link halted the car. He wished he had a gun. There had been no pistol on Azaraski.

The Jap sentry approached. He pushed his rifle muzzle into the back of the car. "Hayaku!" he said.

Link didn't trust the sentry. Cautiously, he unscrewed the gearshift ball. The gearshift was the old-fashioned type which stuck up from the floorboards. The ball was heavy.

He saw Courtright fumbling with her stocking. It was like an old maid schoolma'am to keep her money in her sock, he thought grimly.

But the sentry took the money, counted it, then stepped back. He was smiling. He was going to let them through.

They drove on. The road twisted and turned. Dimout shades on the headlights made the driving difficult.

"Courtright," Link said. "Do you know this country? Where will we go?"

"Maybe we can get to Monk's boat," Courtright said.

"Monk's boat!" Link exclaimed. "What do you mean?" It was the first time he had heard of Monk's boat.

"I hired a fishing boat," Courtright told him. "Monk is the Japanese who operates it."

"Show me what road to take," Link said.

They drove about 30 miles. Nothing happened. Leaving the car, they followed a worn footpath down to an overpowering smell of fish. Link distinguished a stilt-like dock, and a small vessel.

"There," Courtright said.

THE Japanese fishing boat was not at all romantic. Short and dumpy, a small hag of the sea, but a practical looking craft.

"Monk," Courtright called.

Monk and three other startled Japanese popped out. "Ai!" Monk gasped, and he hauled them down into the cabin. The other three Japanese were fat and pleasant, like Monk.

Monk and Courtright conferred in Japanese too rapid for Link's knowledge. Then one of the other Japanese left in a hurry.

"He is going to drive Azaraski's car into the sea," Courtright told Link. "Then they are going to take us to the Russian mainland."

"You had this all fixed?" Link asked.

Courtright nodded. "I didn't tell you, I didn't think we could all escape. I was afraid, if you knew about the boat, you would try, and be killed."

Later Monk and his men cast off the lines, and the boat headed out to sea. The chugging motor, it seemed to Link, drove them with agonizing slowness. They reached open water, and the small vessel began an endless struggle with the waves.

Link sat in the cabin, feeling the motion. The boat would rise up and up, then slide sickeningly into the wave trough. Link began to feel very depressed.

But he felt he should say something bright, cheerful, something fitting the occasion. Because, after all, they were well on their way to a successful escape.

What he finally said was: "Boy, do I feel bad!"

LINK made quite a recovery on the fourth day. He felt fine, in fact. He went out on deck, and told Tilda Courtright cheerfully, "I didn't expect our advantage to put me flat on my back like that."

Courtright laughed. "You're some doctor," she said. "You've been seasick, and didn't know it."

Link grinned sheepishly. Norma was sunning herself on a padded quit on deck. Link stretched out beside her and said, "I seem to recall you as a ministering angel with tea and things, the last four days. Also I have an impression that I was not as appreciative as I should have been."

Norma smiled at him.

"You swore at me," she announced. "You accused me of being the only thing that had more influence on your life than a race horse named Jones."

"Well, that proves I wasn't delirious. And that was a very sweet thing for me to say, if you only knew it. Did you give me a kiss for saying that?"

"I gave you castor oil," she confessed.

Link discovered a low dark smear on the horizon. He sat up and pointed, demanding, "Is that land?"

"That," Norma said, 'is Russia."

"Then we're safe," Link said happily.

Norma nodded. "As safe," she said, "as if we were on Main street in Broken Arrow, Okla."

Link grinned at her. "Look here, you had better make that Grand avenue, Kansas City, Mo. Because that's where I am going to have my office, and we might have to live in the back of it until I get a patient."

Waiting for her answer, he was frightened. He even held his breath.

But Norma smiled, and turned her face up to be kissed.

"Sure Link," she said.

Within a few hours, a Soviet naval patrol boat, neat in the sunlight, put out from a cove and approached. The patrol craft came close. The Soviet sailors did some talking to Monk, whom they seemed to know, and then broke out in grins. Link got the idea they were grinning mostly at Norma and himself, and he was embarrassed. But he grinned, too. Everybody had something to grin about, didn't they?

Blue Chain Programs Go On KFYO Sunday

KFYO, the Avalanche-Journal radio station, beginning Sunday will begin broadcasting a "heavy percentage" of Blue Network programs, said DeWitt Landis, station manager, yesterday.

Several "sustaining" programs of the Blue Network have been heard over KFYO since Thursday, when a newly-executed contract became effective, "but we were not able to revise our week-day schedules to accommodate more programs then," Landis said.

"We have scheduled some of the finest Blue Network programs, and plan arranging to broadcast many others."

KFYO also will broadcast Mutual programs, as in the past.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

COMING down to work on my commuters' train this morning, a very intelligent looking girl, apparently a secretary, was reading the palm of another intelligent looking girl.

Almost every evening, when I go home, I see women study the Horoscopes and other newspaper features that claim to tell the future and which are published because there is a tremendous demand for them.

The Gypsy tea rooms in every city are crowded with women who are satisfied to pay a good price for a mediocre luncheon just so that they may have a tea-leaf reading by waitresses dressed as gypsies, and fortune tellers everywhere are doing a land-office business.

Whenever I plan to do something important, my wife consults the horoscrope and insists on reading its predictions to me.

And while I don't believe in any of that stuff, I confess that when the horoscope prognosticates a bad day for me, I go easy and approach my problem with a bit of misgiving.

Why is it that so many of us—and doesn't it include you?—laugh condescendingly at what we call that stuff and nonsense, and yet we have a great curiosity to know the future and a sneaking awe of the supernatural?

Women, I believe, are much more susceptible to that sort of thing, but men fall for it, too.

I know positively that some of the country's greatest business men would never go into a new enterprise or do anything important without consulting their favorite astrologer.

I know of motion picture stars who had their names made to order by numerologists.

I know that a book called "Mysteries of Life" and consisting of 600 pages of bunk sold more than a million copies.

SOME years ago, Arthur Brisbane said that if anyone could foretell the future, he wouldn't be fool enough to sell his knowledge at a modest price.

He would keep his knowledge to himself and become a millionaire in short order.

And when I look around me and see the trouble most people have in just eking out a living, I think they should be darn glad that they didn't know about it ahead of time.

It's bad enough to stew over the foolish things you did yesterday. Why worry about what may happen tomorrow?

Living, like any other habit, grows on one. It's harder to die at 80 than at 18.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE War Production board's Office of Production Research and Development is supposed to be staffed by technical experts imbued with a wholly unselfish, patriotic and scientific spirit. It is this organization which passes upon new processes that might contribute to the shortening and winning of the war.

But the Senate subcommittee investigating the centralization of industry, together with systems for demobilizing great manufacturing centers, believes that its inquiry has shown OPRD, as it is generally known in Washington, to be a helpful subsidiary of industrialists who will brook no competition.

Chairman Guy Gillette of Iowa has not yet submitted even a preliminary report, but at several hearings he has indicated his utter dissatisfaction with the conduct of this unit and numerous other $1-a-year WPB-ers who still draw fancy salaries from their peacetime employers.

The Gillette inestigators, as the writer has revealed, have already uncovered evidence tending to show that former officials of the International Nickel company of Canada, now on the WPB pay roll, blocked government aid to firms seeking to manufacture nickel alloys (a key material for construction of armor plate) with operations developed by the Cascade Alloy corporation of Canton, Ohio.

The United States firm has found ore deposits near Blewett's Pass in the State of Washington, described as satisfactory and plentiful. Donald's Nelson's experts have conceded that Cascade's process is entirely feasible. Nevertheless, its application for WPB approval and a Defense Plant loan of almost $10,000,000 has been held up here for more than two years.

Meanwhile, the Canadian company, which has a virtual monopoly on nickel, is practically the only source of that mineral for the Allies' war machine. Its profits amount to around 20 per cent, as against less than 4 per cent for such American corporations as U. S. Steel and Republic Steel.

REJECTED: More than a year ago, WPB's Steel division, whose International Nickel employes had even then shown their prejudice against the Ohio concern, asked OPRD to "examine the merits of the technical process involved (that is, the Canton company's) pending the result of the ore investigation."

Other federal group were then making engineering tests of the deposits in Washington, although for some strange reason they conducted them dilatorily and inefficiently, according to previous testimony.

Head of OPRD is Dr. Harvey Davis, president of Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J. Within five days after the request from Nelson's unit, his assistant announced that the Cascade Alloy corporation's application had been thrown out because there was no proof that the Washington mineral supply would justify large-scale production and federal underwriting.

COMPETITION: Davis admitted that his only function was to "examine the merits of the process," not to go into collateral questions such as the possible supply of ore.

Yet it was on the basis of a lack of sufficient raw materials that he turned down the Cascade proposal. Naturally, his report resulted in a WPB rejection of the whole project. The Davis findings, he added, were "satisfactory" to Nelson's experts.

Chairman Gillette, who maintained that the question of the ore sufficiently was not a matter for OPRD's jurisdiction, snapped, "I may add that it is not satisfactory to the chairman of this committee!"

Subsequently it was brought out that the chairman of the Board of Trustees of Stevens Institute, which Davis heads, is Robert Walker. Oddly enough, Walker happens to be president of the International Nickel company of Canada. Davis, however, denied that he had discussed the Cascade matter with his collegiate board chairman.

As one Senate committee member said off the record, "He didn't have to! He knew that Walker wants no American competition, now or after the war!"

QUESTION: The Judge Advocate General's office of the War department recently made one of the strangest purchases in the history of an embattled world. Although the amount involved, between $500,000 and $1,000,000, is only "chicken feed" in these days of global spending, the beneficiaries are stunned by the windfall.

The JAG paid for 1,000 elaborate sets of law books "for use at advance posts." The volumes consist of annotated lists of all Supreme court decisions, the Federal Reporter and many other encyclopedic legal studies.

No lawyer can hang out a shingle without possessing these works for research and study, and he usually buys the originals and succeeding fill-ins on time. But Uncle Sam paid cash. The total will crowd any barrister's large-sized office. How a front-line post can accommodate them is a question.

JAG has given no satisfactory explanation of its need for these books especially as American law and precedent will not be followed in our occupation of foreign countries. We shall, of course, temper our rule to the jurisprudence and customs of the liberated and vanquished areas.

Nor have the authorities made clear why, in view of the shortages of white paper and shipping space, they are sending tons of legal tomes to North Africa, Italy, Burma, England and wherever exlegalites are stationed.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

MILLERS warn that a number of flour mills may shut down this month because they cannot get wheat.

Although a new crop will be ready in early July, farmers, dissatisfied with price ceilings, are reluctant to part with their diminished stocks.

By the end of June the nation will have consumed last year's wheat harvest of 836,000,000 bushels and 300,000,000 carry-overs, leaving only about 300,000,000 in our reserve pile—too narrow a margin for comfort. Shrinkage is also noted in other grains.

The OWI recently announced that food prospects in general are good. But there are many ifs and buts to be considered.

Two disturbing factors are disclosed by leading grain authorities: 1. Possibility of bad weather after several fine seasons. 2. Lack of accurate statistics on available amounts.

RISKS: Urbanites can better understand the problems which affect their dinner tables if the facts connected with corn, our biggest crop, are analyzed.

Before the war the average annual harvest was two-and-a-half billion bushels. By dint of hard work and favorable weather, around three billion bushels were gathered last year. Strange as it seems to those unfamiliar with agriculture, only about 600,000,000 bushels were sold to manufacturers, Victory plants, distillers, grocers, etc. The rest remained on the farms and was fed to cattle and hogs.

Most of the corn for market is raised in Iowa, Missouri, Illinois and, to a lesser extent, in Ohio and Indiana—the corn belt.

Our stocks of wheat can be listed fairly easily as they are sent to granaries. But checking up on corn is more difficult as the bulk remains in the cribs of individual growers. Lately wide discrepancies have been discovered between government estimates and those of large private firms and institutions, whose figures are much lower than those calculated by Washington. If the businessmen are correct in their accounting, serious shortages are in the offing.

Several excellent growing years preceded 1944. But a cold, wet spring—in the corn belt the worst in a quarter-century—delayed planting more than a month. This ominous start convinced some farmers that the spell of good weather was broken and now they are not sowing, to avoid risking damage by frost and a bad harvest.

Post-War Refrigeration To Aid Commercial Fishermen

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Fishing boats from Texas coastal cities may go far out in the Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean sea after the war, fitted with processing and freezing equipment that will permit them to stay out days or even weeks and get back with their catch in a perfect state of preservation.

A. W. Anderson, chief of the Division of Fishery Industries in the Fish and Wildlife service, says new methods of processing fish at sea and refrigeration should lead to a great expansion of the industry. A large and relatively undeveloped market throughout Texas, Oklahoma and the Rocky Mountain states exists for fresh and frozen fishery products.

"A trend toward the performance on shipboard of certain processing functions, now carried out on shore, seems inevitable," he reported to Interior Secretary Ickes, coordinator of fisheries.

"It may follow the pattern of the large factory ships used in some of our other fisheries, like the floating salmon canneries and crab canneries on the Pacific coast. California tuna clippers have long frozen their catches taken off Latin America.

Water Treaty Hangs Fire

There's little prospect the Mexican water treaty, which provides for three dams across the Rio Grande and a division of the waters between Mexico and Texas, will be considered in Congress before the November elections.

Reason for the delay: politics got injected into the subject, and it's the considered judgement of those favoring the treaty that their cause can best be served by holding up on senate ratification proceedings.

California legislators in both the senate and house leaped on the treaty as a subject they could discuss publicly, loud and long and from a point of view that could meet only with approval of the voters of that state. They attacked the treaty—opposition arose from no other quarter—contending that its provision concerning a division of the waters of the Colorado River would deprive them of supplies on which their state had made plans for future development.

THERE'S no restriction on gasoline consumption by small private airplanes using below 86 octane fuel, approximately the same as the best automobile grades.

OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, in a letter to Rep. Ewing Thomason of El Paso, points out that since there is a limitation on the use of gasoline for automobiles and motorboats, "it would seem that there are very strong arguments for limiting unnecessary flying."

Bowles observes that the OPA has control of rationing only of gasoline below 86 octane, and that other government agencies control the higher grades, which are used by the Army and Navy and commercial airlines. Referring to the possible rationing of gasoline for small planes, the OPA chief added:

"While we have been discussing this matter with other government agencies and representatives of aviation associations, no decision has yet been reached as to the exact nature of the restriction. I can assure you, however, that there is no intention on the part of this office to curtail the use of private planes performing any important function or to bring about a situation which would close airports or prevent the training of students."

Thanks Passed On

The Gulf Southwest Agricultural and Industrial conference won its first big time recognition when Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., directed to the organization, through its president, John W. Carpenter of Dallas, a message of thanks for cooperation in the Fifth War Loan drive.

W. W. LYNCH, vice president of the Lone Star Steel company, and Judge F. M. Ryburn, attorney, both of Dallas, were here recently for conferences regarding the company's blast iron furnace works at Daingerfield.

With Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana, they saw Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones and War Production Board Boss Donald Nelson. It was a continuation of other conferences held regarding financing and obtaining of priorities for construction.

As plans now stand, full production of pig iron is to get underway before there is any further expansion. Next would come construction of a cast iron pipe plant, and finally a rolling steel mill.

Status of the Daingerfield plant, as furnished by Patman after the conferences:

Half the 78 coke ovens are already in operation and foundry coke is being produced at the rate of 450 tons a day. By July all ovens are expected to be in production. It is shipped to practically all states west of the Mississippi.

Other by-products, such as ammonium sulphate (fertilizer) is now being produced at the rate of seven tons a day. The plant recently sold 200,000 gallons of coal tar used for creosoting, and produced some toluol, benzol, xylol and sodium phemolate. Although the blast furnace isn't expected to turn out pig iron until all coke ovens are in operation, 2,500 tons of ore weekly now is being washed and crushed in the Daingerfield beneficiation plant and sent to the Sheffield Steel Company at Houston.

USE SEA POWER TO GET
HOGS IN A HURRY
FEED STANTON'S
20% PIG RATION

Today, more than ever before, it is extremely important to speed up growth and keep mortality down in young pigs. Feed is too precious to waste on the laggards and pork is too valuable to lose before it goes to market. Stanton's 20% pig ration provides extra protection against both. In hundreds of hog lots, it is working consistently to improve pig health, speed up growth and reduce mortality because it gives little pigs the same kind of boost that chick starter gives to baby chicks. It is being fed widely to sows before farrowing and through creep feeding—to pigs from 2-3 weeks of age on up.

MANAMAR
In Stanton's 20% pig ration supplies the hard-to-get feeding essentials—fish proteins, feed minerals and vitamins, including the important Vitamin B "complex."

B-G PLUS
is a patented vacuum concentrated extract from fish. This new and potent product, resulting from ten years of ceaseless research and experiment, supplies extra trace minerals and vitamins in Stanton's 20% pig ration.

PROFITS STALL LEADERS

NEW YORK, June 2 —Selected stocks, including specialties, amusements and motors, continued to populate the "new high" division in today's market although further profit cashing stalled numerous leaders.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .1 of a point at 53.2. Dealings dwindling as trends wavered and transfers fell to 819,300 shares compared with 1,193,020 the day before.

In front were Gamewell, American Rosch, Manati Sugar, Chicago and Northwestern preferred (when issued), Allied Chemical, U. S. Gypsum, Dow Chemical and Union Pacific. Among losers were Laclede Gas preferred, down 4⅝, Douglas Aircraft, U. S. Steel, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Kennecott, Goodrich, Westinghouse and American Telephone. Bonds were ragged.

In the curb, modest plus marks were attached to American Cynamid "B," Glen Alden Coal and Republic Aviation.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP) — The cotton market moved lower today as scattered trade and commission house selling, influenced by uncertainty over price control legislation and the foreign picture, met only scale down mill price fixing support.

Private advices reported fair buying of new crop cotton by mills, but no demand for current shipment cotton. Spain was reported purchaser of more than 50,000 bales of cotton in the open market.

Futures closed 10 to 30 cents a bale lower.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP) — All wheat futures were lower in quiet trading today with the deferred contracts showing the greatest declines. The weak undertone was attributed to ideal weather for both the spring and winter crops and to indications there would not be a great demand for flour during the next 30 days.

At the close wheat was 1⅝ to 2 cents lower than yesterday's finish, July $1.61⅞-¾. Oats were ½ to 1 cent lower, July 76⅝. Rye was 3⅛ to 3⅛ lower, July $1.09⅝-1.10. Barley was unchanged to ½ lower, July $1.22.

War Vengeance Decried By Pope

By PUGH MOORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 2.—Pope Pius declared today that the idea that the war must end in complete victory or complete destruction is "a stimulant towards prolonging the war," and, expressing hope for an early peace, he praised "the heralds of wisdom and moderation" as against those "who openly espouse vengeance."

Addressing the college of cardinals on his name day, the Pontiff said, as Allied armies approached Rome, that "whoever dared raise a hand" against the city "would be guilty of matricide," and in a discussion of christianity's current influence in world affairs he decried "cleavages from the church" and the "vast division and dispersal of religious confessions."

Recent Repudiation

Speaking less than two months after the patriarch of Russia and the archbishop of York had repudiated the Pope in his role as Christ's vicar on earth, Pius declared that those who so contended "are ignoring and misinterpreting the profound meaning of papal primacy."

Leading into his discussion of the prolongation of the war the Pope declared that "while the instruments of destruction have reached a potency never before known, and while the world finds itself on the eve of still more dramatic and, according to some, decisive events, the discussion of the fundamental outlook and of the detailed guiding principles of the future peace attracts more and more participants."

Hopes For Early Peace

The Pontiff closed "with the most fervent wish that the grace of Almighty God may cause to break soon over the hills of the Eternal City and over the whole world, the dawn of . . . peace."

Regarding the approach of battle toward Rome, the Pope noted that "the threat of air raids on districts not beyond the outer parts of Rome has given way in fact to conduct that shows greater regard," and added:

"We nourish the hope that this more equitable and moderate trend will prevail over the opposing considerations of seeming utility and so-called military exigencies or needs, and that the Eternal City in every eventuality and at all costs, may be saved from becoming a theater of war."

Pros Taking Up Petition Plan

HOUSTON, June 2. — (UP) A move to put on the Democratic party's primary election ballot a demand that presidential electors of Texas take a written pledge to support the party's nominee, had the backing today of former Gov. James V. Allred, who conceded that enforcement of the order might be difficult, or even impossible.

Petitions, needing 90,000 signatures, were being circulated over the entire state with the aim of forcing inclusion of the elector-pledge question on the primary ballot.

(Signature of 90,000 voters would represent 10 per cent of the total votes cast in the last party primary.)

While conceding that it might be difficult to force observance of such a pledge, Allred said "I believe the legislature could provide that a written pledge must be taken and could draw a law so that any elector refusing to do so could be disqualified."

Expression From People

"But the law is unimportant," he continued. "The big thing is to get an expression from the people. Whether they are for or against a fourth term, the people want this vote taken, I think. It is not purely a matter of law. It is based on a question of party government and is a matter of morals."

Circulators of the petitions have 10 days in which to secure the required signatures. Rolland Bradley, Houston attorney who attended the pro-Roosevelt convention in Austin but who was not a delegate to the state convention, is chairman of the committee circulating the petitions, which are to be mailed to Mayor Tom Miller of Austin, reaching him no later than June 11.

Harris Man Files For Governor's Office

AUSTIN, June 2. (UP)—Secretary Chas. E. Simons of the state democratic executive committee said today that Edward L. (Doc) Carey of Harris county, 82-year-old real estate dealer, had filed as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, paying the $100 filing fee.

The application came by mail.

APPLICATION REFUSED

MELBOURNE, June 2. (UP) — The application of the Chicago Tribune for permission to publish a tabloid edition here for circulation among American forces in Australia has been refused, Senator R. V. Keane, customs minister, announced today. No reason was given for the refusal.

Maj. Andrew Chilton Is Killed In Action

CORSICANA, Tex., June 2. (AP) —Maj. Andrew L. Chilton, 25, Fort Worth, was killed in action over Germany May 21, his wife, Mrs. Jane Jester Chilton, Corsicana, was advised today by the War department.

A graduate of the University of Texas, Chilton became an aviation cadet in 1940. In England he was an opperations officer for a group of P-38 Lightnings. He had been awarded the Air medal decoration. He recently destroyed a ME109 while escorting B-24 Liberator bombers deep into Germany.

SAN ANTONIO, June 2. (AP)—Major Gen. John P. Lucas, former commander at the Anzio beachhead in Italy, has been assigned as deputy commader of the Fourth army at Fort Sam Houston, it was announced today by the Fourth army public relations office.

Gen. Lucas, a native of Kearneysville, W. Va., was succeded in Italy by Major Gen. Lucien Truscott.

ELECTRICITY IN HOMES

NEW YORK, June 2. (UP) —The electric light has replaced gas, candles and kerosene lamps in more than 84 per cent of American homes over the past four decades. A survey reported by the Twentieth Century Fund reveals further that of those electricity wired homes, 95 per cent are equipped with electric irons, 63 per cent with electric refrigerators, 49 per cent with vacuum cleaners, and 35 per cent with electric coffee percolators. And 54 per cent of those electrified house-holds awake each workday morning to the musical notes of an electric clock.

PARTY WINS MAJORITY

DUBLIN, June 2. (AP)—Final returns from Eire's general election last Tuesday disclosed today that Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail party had established a clear majority in the Dail (parliament) by winning 76 of the 138 seats—or 14 more than all the other parties combined.

U. S. Builds 175,000 War Planes, 33,000 For Allies

By EDWARD S. EISENHART
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Timing disclosure to coincide with House committee approval of a $3,920,070,000 appropriation for foreign economic operations during the coming years, President Roosevelt revealed today that this country produced 175,000 planes in the last three years and sent 33,000 to Allied nations.

As Mr. Roosevelt met with press and radio correspondents, the house Appropriations committee voted favorably on a bill to provide funds for fiscal 1945 operations of government agencies dealing with foreign economic operations.

Funds For Agencies

The bill carried $3,450,575,000 for lend-lease, $45,000,000 as the first American contribution to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration and $12,500,000 for other phases of the Foreign Economic administration's program during the year beginning July 1.

Of the 33,000 planes sent to other countries, Mr. Roosevelt said cash was paid for 7,000 while 26,000 were sent under lend-lease. He said 4,400 planes were sent to our Allies during the first three months of this year—an average of 338 a week.

"We thus retained for our own part of the combined United Nations war effort more than four-fifths of the planes we produced, while sending very large numbers to our Allies," Mr. Roosevelt said.

Extra Striking Power

"Through lend-lease," he said, "we have seen to it that the men who fight beside Americans, in the offensives already under way and in the still greater offensives that are ahead, have the extra striking power they need to deliver the most damaging possible blows against our enemies — the Germans and the Japanese."

The President spoke from a memorandum prepared for him by Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley. He said that while the memorandum was not very exciting, he thought it certainly was one for the record.

Over Original Goals

Mr. Roosevelt halted in his review of plane production and shipments to recall—with obvious relish—that there had been those who in speeches and stories in 1940, were Doubting Thomases, when he asked Congress for a 50,000 plane program.

Critics, he said, at that time called his request for 50,000 planes a political gesture that could not be carried out. He seemed happy to report that this figure had been far exceeded with production in the past year running over 100,000.

More Than 5,200,000 Men Of U. S. Forces Abroad And At Sea

WASHINGTON, June 2. (UP)—More than 5,200,000 men of the U. S. armed forces are now on duty abroad or at sea and by the end of the year the total is expected to exceed 7,000,000. Total strength of the armed forces is now approximately 11,000,000.

The figures were based on announcements by the Navy department and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson. This is what they reported on American forces now deployed outside continental United States:

Army—3,657,000 soldiers now overseas; the total is expected to be 5,000,000 by the end of the year.

Navy—1,566,000 Navy, Marine and Coast Guard personnel are now on duty afloat or at foreign stations; in addition, 900,000 men of the navy alone are in a transit status or in training for duty at sea or on foreign stations. The Navy's figures were as of April 1.

The Army's total strength at present is in excess of 7,700,000. The Naval services—Navy, Coast Guard and Marines—now have a total of 3,277,000.

Line In Arabia Now Is Doubtful

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP) — President Roosevelt raised doubt today that this government will go through with its project of constructing a 1,250-mile oil pipeline across Arabia.

At his news conference, Mr. Roosevelt said that the project was now in an "iffy" stage and that this government was still talking with the British about the pipeline, about who is to build it and how.

Elsewhere, it was learned that the present plan, based on exploratory talks already held with the British, favors dropping the pipeline as a wartime measure and leaving its construction to private companies after the war.

Original Proposal

The original proposal was for the government to build the line from American-controlled fields in Kuwait and eastern Arabia to Egypt or Palestine. Secretary of Interior Ickes, as petroleum administrator for war, announced last Feb. 5 that it would be done. He estimated the cost at $130,000,000 to $165,000,000 and said the oil companies would repay the government, with interest, within 25 years.

The companies involved are the Arabian American Oil company, owned by the Standard Oil company of California and the Texas company, and the Gulf Exploration company, owned by the Gulf Oil corporation. Oil experts said that if construction of the pipeline is left to private interests in the postwar period, it would probably be somewhat smaller than the government-planned 24 inches with a 300,000 barrel daily capacity.

British experts have indicated they are well disposed to an agreement which would assure respect for concessions of both countries.

The Anglo-American oil talks began two months ago at the technical level, and word is expected from London at any moment on when a high ranking British group will come to Washington to continue the policy discussions.

Flier Lost, But He Downs Three Krauts

U. S. FIGHTER BASE, England, June 2. (UP) — 1st. Lt. Ralph K. Hofer of Salem, Mo., a former Golden Gloves champion "got lost" over Germany the other day and before he found his way home he destroyed three enemy planes, increasing his total to 30 which tied him for the top spot among American aces.

Fifteen of his planes were shot down in aerial combat and the rest destroyed on the ground. He brought his red-nosed Mustang back two and a half hours after the others of his group put down.

"We went into a cloud bank on our way to Germany and when we emerged we couldn't find the squadron anywhere," he said, grinning. "So I just tagged along with another group that was escorting the bombers to their airfield targets.

"The bombers accomplished their mission okay and then I spotted a German airfield with 15 trainers lined up. I went down and made a couple of passes and shot them up pretty well."

Hofer's total tied that of his group mate, Major James Goodson, Toronto, Canada. The Mustang group is commanded by Col. Don Blakeslee, Fairport Harbor, Ohio.

Hosts Of Younger Men Wed Older Women, Insurance Survey Says

NEW YORK, June 2. (AP)—Wartime statistics show hosts of young men marrying women older than they are, Metropolitan Life Insurance company researchers said today.

More than three times as many boys and young men under 20 here married in 1942 as in 1939, the statisticians reported, and during those four years "more than half of the boys marrying at the extremely young ages of 16 and 17 took brides who were their seniors."

"At age 18 the proportion was about one-third; and at age 19 it was still more than one quarter," they continued.

The statisticians also recorded a 65 per cent increase in marriages of men over 35 in 1942 as compared with 1939, and a 73 per cent increase in marriages of women over 35.

Russia mobilized a total of 12 million men during World War 1.

Gillette Would Curb Spending

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP) — Asserting $30,000,000 was spent in the 1940 campaigns, Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) today urged tighter restrictions on spending to prevent the 1944 elections from "going on the auction block."

Gillette asked a Senate elections subcommittee to enact proposals limiting expenditures in behalf of presidential candidates to $2,000,000, vice presidential candidates to $1,000,000 and individual contributions to campaigns to $10,000.

Limit Is Intended

Gillette testified that while existing law is intended to limit expenditures to those figures, it is so drawn as to permit expenditures in that amount by any number of committees supporting a presidential candidate.

"In other words," Gillette said, "it was possible in the 1940 campaign for $3,000,000 to be spent by the 'cock-eyed men for the Democrats' and by the 'red-haired women for Willkie'"

Gillette's proposal would require each candidate to designate a committee to act as his fiscal agent.

"Square Deal" Asked For Post-War Italy

NAPLES, June 2. (UP) — The venerable philosopher Benedetto Croce, addressing the liberal party congress, dramatically appealed to world statesmen today to give Italy a square deal in postwar Europe.

"Europe cannot do without the spiritual power of Italy or the civilization that is in her blood," he said.

Today's meeting was the first of three at which the Italian liberals intend to formulate their program for post war Italy.

The liberals will seek the amalgamation of all right wing parties, to form a counterweight to the leftist parties. The powerful christian democrat party would constitute the center of Italian political life.

Croce said Italy was "regarded with hatred and suspicion" in many places and some people harbor a desire for revenge because of erstwhile facsict policies. He thought this situation could be overcome by industry and patience.

He paid tribute to Allied leaders "who mean will by Italy. They deserve our gratitude but they are probably hindered in their work by the unfriendly attitude of their peoples towards Italy."

OPA Bill May Delay Congressional Recess

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP) — House Republican Leader Martin, of Massachusetts, declared today "there will be no adjournment of Congress for the conventions," unless Congress acts with dispatch on a bill prolonging the life of the wartime price control program.

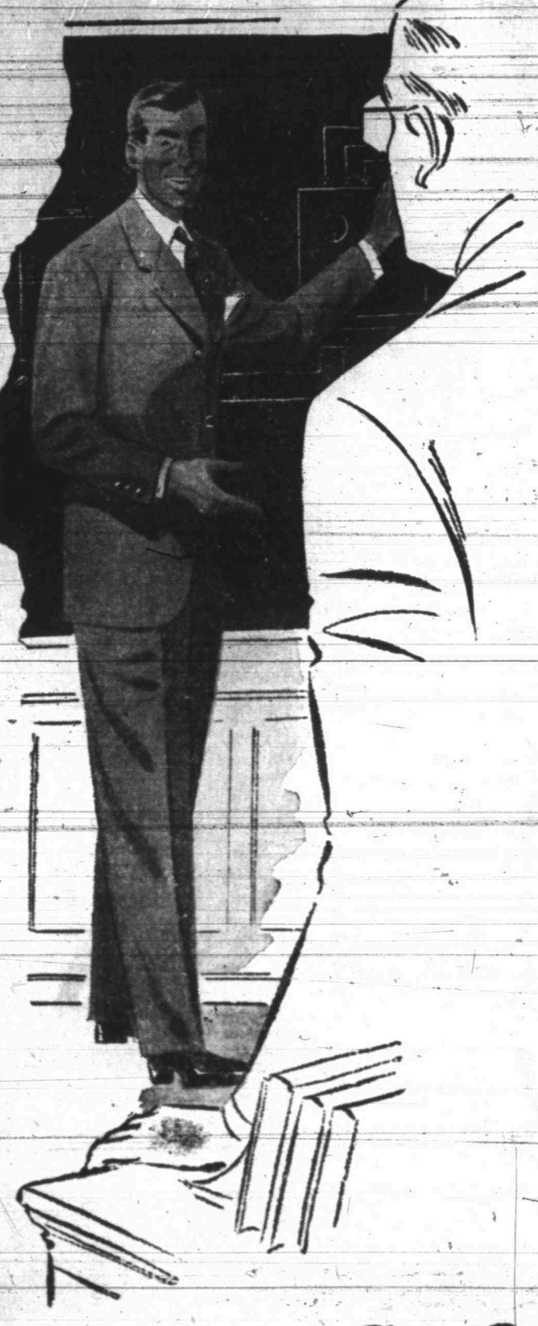

While not accusing administration leaders of purposely delaying action on Office of Price administration extension bills, he told newspapermen "they seem to be in no hurry about it."

Leaders of both parties agree that OPA will be extended in some form. Under present law it expires June 30.

SAWDUST MAKES PLASTIC

NORMAN, Okla., May — (UP) —Save that sawdust the next time you're puttering around your carpenter bench, advises Dr. Robert A. Hardin, associate professor of Industrial education at the University of Oklahoma. The sawdust may be valuable as a plastic molding compound. Hardin has made a plastic, wit han average tensile strength of 8,100 pounds per square inch, by cooking sawdust and shavings in a steam digester with acids. Wood waste from state sawmills may be used to a good advantage in this way, the professor says.

Nazi Defenses Crumbling, Decision At Rome Is Near

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

The fate of Rome must be decided within hours. Nazi defenses south of the city were swiftly crumbling as darkness fell in Italy to indicate a German night retreat in progress along the whole 25-mile front to the Tiber delta; but whether into Rome itself or beyond it to spare the Eternal City was uncertain.

SIMPSON

Until that is know there can be no assurance that Rome may not become another Rotterdam, or Warsaw or Stalingrad or another Cassino. Allied commanders hardly dare by-pass it to leave a powerful enemy force in their rear.

Heavy And Costly Task

To outflank it across the 35 mile plain between the Appeninnes and the sea it dominates in the center would be a heavy and costly task to the advancing armies. Nor is there any hint of a disorderly German rout. Bitter rearguard action all along the line despite Nazi loss of the Valmontone and Velletri, main anchors of the shattered enemy defense line is officially noted from Naples.

Eighth Army occupation of Frosine and Ferentino, down the main Rome-Naples highroad below Valmontone, snapped the next to last escape hatch for German divisions in flight from the Sacco valley trap. A cross road leads north through Anagni about midway of the Valmontone-Ferentino span of the Via Casilina to connect to the subsidiary highway up the valley lying close under the impassable Simoruini range beyond.

Clark Exploiting Break

It seems certain that General Clark's Fifth Army is smashing hard to exploit its Valmontone break-through quickly and reach that enemy gateway route also. A three-mile advance north of Valmontone over flat ground would render the situation of Nazi forces falling back up the Sacco still desperate.

At this stage of the battle, entrapment and destruction of enemy forces well may be deemed by the Allied supreme field commander in Italy, General Alexander, more important than immediate investment or occupation of Rome. There can be little doubt that Alexander's directives call upon him to avoid turning his guns or bombers against Rome if there is any way to avoid it.

Wheat Harvest In Area Starts Soon

Richard E. Wood, manager of the Lubbock district Office of Defense transportation, announced Friday morning that plans are now underway to begin harvesting wheat in the northeastern part of the district, the harvest beginning "probably next week." The first car of wheat was loaded and moved at Crowell, in the eastern part of the district, Wednesday.

"We are doing everything possible to keep every pound of grain from going to waste," he said. "Through the efforts of the Texas Extension service combines are being moved into the areas which are ready for the harvest and the situation is well in hand."

However, he pointed out, the situation is critical in the "oat country" to the south. Equipment for harvesting the oat crop is badly needed at this time, Wood said.

He added, "we are getting ready to move fresh vegetables from various points in the district, thanks to the help of farmers and truckers in pooling their vehicles. We are also looking forward to the successful handling of cotton seed throughout the district."

In speaking of the truck situation, Wood said no new equipment is available at this time and operators of trucks will have to make their vehicles last as nothing "can be done about it at the present time."

Film From Tarawa Shown At Luncheon

Featured on the program at the luncheon of the American Business club Friday noon in the Hilton hotel was the showing of a technicolor sound film, "With the Marines at Tarawa," presented by S/Sgt. Vernon Larsen of the Marine recruiting office here.

Also on the program was a talk by Walter Switzer on the campaign instituted here last week toward eradication of Johnson grass. The club went on record as endorsing the campaign in voting to adopt a resolution which was read by the speaker.

C. L. Harris was chairman of the program committee, with J. Ray Dickey, club president, presiding.

News Briefs

The War department made public Friday the names of 591 United States soldiers killed in action, including 2nd Lt. T. R. Aycock, son of Mrs. Fred Aycock of Crosbyton; Cpl. Joe T. Howell son of Robert B. Howell of Plainview (European area); and Pfc. Chester A. Dillard, son of Mrs. Dovie L. Dillard of Tahoka (Mediterranean area). The announcement also listed names of 857 soldiers missing in action and included in the list were: S/Sgt. Donald E. McGlaun, son of O. D. McGlaun of Snyder, and Flight Officer Rogers I. Thomas, son of Mrs. J. L. Thomas of Muleshoe. Both were in the Mediterranean area.

Dr. D. N. Jackson of Laurel, Miss., who is conducting a revival at Central Baptist church, 1311 Eighteenth street, will preach this morning at 10:30 o'clock and tonight at 8:30, according to Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor. Dr. Jackson's subjects Sunday will be, "God's Secret Place," at the 11 a. m. service, and "Blackouts of the Bible," at 8 p. m., the pastor announced.

Eugene Jackson, 32, a negro, was in county jail late Friday in lieu of $300 bond set by County Judge G. V. Pardue in connection with a plea of innocent of a charge of aggravated assault on Fannie Jackson. Judge Pardue fined R. B. Davis, agent for Plains Cooperative Oil mill, $100 and court costs after a plea of guilty of violation of Texas food law.

Chief of Police Don Reeder said Friday William S. Bell had been named a captain of night police to replace S. O. Boyd, resigned. J. D. Holcomb, night patrolman, has been transferred to the day traffic department. Bell has served as a policeman three years, and was a chief guard when U. S. Army engineers constructed South Plains Army Air field.

Sam W. Fort, son of the late Rev. G. R. Fort of Lubbock, is "over-age" but is heading back for the wars he quit in 1933 after service with the Marines in the Nicaraguan insurrection. He left for Naval service, resigning his job with the state highway patrol at Perryman, where Mrs. Fort and their two sons, 5 and 3, will remain. Fort was police identifications officer here two years, up to 1937.

WFA To Divert Eggs Into Feed Products

War Food Administrator Marvin Jones has announced a shell egg feed diversion program will be put into effect in order that WFA will be able to continue supporting egg prices, according to Peter F. Murray, area marketing supervisor.

Jones, said, "Purchases of eggs by the WFA to support the producer price levels have reached such volume that suitable cold storage space is inadequate. WFA intends to carry out the pledge of the U. S. government to farmers to support egg prices. For that reason this administration is, to a limited extent, converting eggs into animal feed which is in short supply and is needed by farmers. These conversions will be made in such volume and for such time as is necessary to carry out price support commitments."

E. L. Upshaw, state representative, said Friday the program had not been started in Texas.

Unused Army Camp May Be Converted Into Refugee Haven

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP)—President Roosevelt indicated today that an unused Army camp in this country may be converted into a temporary haven for war refugees from abroad.

The President said nothing definite has been done on the problem but that the humanitarian thing to do is to give assistance to helpless people anywhere in the world.

He said officials have been studying taking one camp which the Army does not need and maybe turning it into a refugee camp.

He emphasized that the refugees would be given only temporary haven and that they would be expected to go home as soon as conditions permit, after the war.

Government Car Usage Assailed

By ALLEN DRURY
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 2—The joint congressional economy committee today assailed the federal government for failing to make "conscientious" efforts to conserve automobiles and gasoline, charging that its savings thus far were "neither substantial nor impressive in comparison with sacrifices of ordinary citizens."

In its third report on operating costs of government autos, the committee, headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D., Va., severely criticized the government for constantly urging the public to save autos, gasoline and tires "while its own record is not as good as it might be."

States Do Better

It said state governments had done considerably better than the federal government, with New Hampshire cutting official mileage by 64 per cent, North Dakota, 48 per cent; South Dakota, 47 per cent; Nevada, 45 per cent; New Mexico, 42 per cent; Idaho, 41 per cent and Washington, 41 per cent.

The report showed that at the close of fiscal 1943, the government owned 19,161 passenger automobiles excluding those operated by the War and Navy departments and also excluding trucks and motorcycles.

The figures represented an increase of 1856 vehicles over the 1942 total of 17,305. In 1942, the report said, government autos were driven a total of 202,550,280 miles, a figure which dropped to 190,778,000 miles in 1943. Gasoline used in 1943 went down to 11,981,477 gallons from 13,793,594 gallons used in 1942.

Expenses Drop Slightly

But despite decreases in mileage and gasoline, the committee said, operating expenses only dropped from $4,243,602 in 1942 to $3,941,776 in 1943, which it termed "a reduction, but not a substantial one."

"The commtitee finds," the report said, "that there is nothing special about the work of the federal government agencies which are not engaged in law enforcement or war activities that would not permit drastic reduction in the number of miles traveled in government automobiles owned and operated by such agencies."

Recommendation Renewed

The committee renewed its earlier recommendation for summary dismissal and possible one-year prison sentences and $1,000 fines for any government employe who uses "or authorizes the use of a government vehicle on non-government business."

Other recommendations:

Congress should reduce appropriations for automobiles wherever possible.

Federal agencies should give merit raises to employes who suggest ways to conserve government autos and gasoline.

Agencies not specifically engaged in war work should make the same 40 per cent reduction in use as OPA has requested of the civilian population and the state governments.

Police Co-Operate In Manpower Need

City police have put into use a new method of relieving skilled manpower shortage.

At city jail Friday morning a man showed up.

"I've got a machine broken down and can't get anybody, anywhere to repair it," he said to Chief of Police Don Reeder. "I don't know but one fellow, and he's back there . . . ."

The caller jerked his thumb in direction of the city jail.

"If I could borrow him 15 minutes. . . ."

The caller proved his necessity and, since he obligated himself to return the prisoner or pay the prisoner's misdemeanor fine in the alternative, the request was granted—after much deliberation.

"It may be a precedent, and one we rather hesitate to form, but we couldn't seem to turn the man down," Reeder said. "Anyway, the machine was repaired and the prisoner got back on schedule. The man with the machine was happy, and the prisoner got a breath of fresh air."

Yanks Care Well For Dogtags When In Goum Territory

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

ON THE ITALIAN FRONT, May 26. (Delayed)—The wild and fanatical fighting Goums of the Fifth Army may not be the best men in the world when it comes to using modern mechanized equipment but they are almost unbeatable in the business of stealth and surprise.

However, in the night they sometimes have difficulty distinguishing between Nazis and Allies without giving away their own positions, since they speak neither German nor English, so they have developed an eerie, nerve-shaking system all their own.

Many an American soldier, slipping along in the darkness, has suddenly been seized from behind by a steely hand around his throat.

Then, while he is held dangling there unable to breath or make a sound, the grim Goum will grope at his cheat, unbotton his shirt and feel for his dogtags. If they are of proper shape for an American soldier he is released and his captor slips away into the night as silently as he came.

As to what would happen otherwise—well a lot of Germans with slit throats are found in the hill country these mornings. Which is one reason why the frontline doughboys are taking a great deal more than customary care of their dogtags.

Careful Drivers

A lesson in fast and slow driving can be learned from the French girl ambulance drivers.

Going back to the hospital with a load of wounded, these girls will slow their ambulances down to a crawl regardless of how much shell fire is splattering up the road. They aren't going to jar the wounded, and that's that.

But you should see the transformation when they unload at the hospitals and start the return trip to the front. Then they flatten the foot feed to the floor and skitter in and out of traffic like New York taxi drivers looking for a big tip.

Voice From The Sky

This conversation was picked up on a front line radio set tuned in on the fighter plane wavelength:

First voice (apparently a Mustang pilot) "Hey, Joe, see that plane way down there. Looks like a Jerry."

Second voice (obviously from another fighter) "Yeah, sure does, doesn't it?"

First voice: "Well, let's go down and clobber him."

Second voice: "Roger."

Third voice suddenly butting in: "Hey, hold it. That ain't no Jerry. It's a P-47."

First and second voices in unison: "How do you know?"

Third voice heatedly: "Damn it, because I'm flying it."

Session Set Today By 4-H Club Boys

A meeting will be held in the district court room of the Lubbock county courthouse this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the 34 4-H club boys in the county who produced enough food to feed a fighter in 1943, Jason O. Gordon, Lubbock county agricultural agent, announced Friday.

Plans will be developed at the meeting to help in handling the crowd of 4-H club boys who will be guests at South Plains Army Air field on June 8-9. Club leaders and sponsors will also be guests.

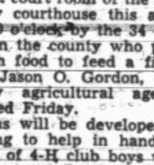

Gordon added that L. L. Johnson, state 4-H club agent, will visit in Lubbock county on June 8-9.

Governor Candidates Invited To Session

AUSTIN, June 2. (U.P.)—All candidates for governor of Texas will be invited to address the state convention of the League of Women Voters here June 13-14, it was announced today.

Headquarters for Mrs. Minnie Fischer Cunningham immediately announced that she had accepted and would be glad to comment on any issue.

Three Officers At SPAAF Promoted

Three officers promotions, one to major and two to captains, have been received at South Plains Army Air field, it was announced at the field Thursday.

Major John W. Kline of Zanesville, Ohio, commanding officer of a training group at the field, was promoted from the rank of captain. He is a veteran at SPAAF, having been on duty at the field for more than a year. He is a graduate of Zanesville High school and was a student at Ohio State university, where he was an outstanding basketball star.

Capt. Wilburn M. O'Brien of Gilmer, Texas, adjutant at post hospital, was boosted from the rank of first lieutenant. He also is a veteran officer at the field, having been on duty since July, 1942, after having been stationed at Lubbock Army Air field. He is a graduate of Central High school in Oklahoma City and was a student at the University of Oklahoma.

The other promotion to captain was that of Capt. Robert N. Smiley of Williamsburg, Mass., finance officer. He formerly was on duty at LAAF and has been at SPAAF for several months. He is a graduate of Helen E. James High school in Williamsburg.

Mrs. Charlie Lemons Is To Be Buried Today

Funeral services will be held for Mrs. Charlie O. Lemons, 31, in Nocona, Tex., this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Lemons, who has lived in Lubbock nine months, died at the family residence, 610 Fifth street, early Friday morning. Bryan McDonald Funeral home is the director in charge.

Survivors are her husband, four daughters, Charlene, Peggy Jo, Martha Jean and Earline; two sons, Kenneth Roy and Welton Carl, and one step-daughter, Mary Joyce.

Youth's Air Service Enlistment Resumed

Capt. R. T. Hammond, aviation cadet recruiting officer here, announced Friday the Army has resumed enlisting of 17-year-old boys in the Army Air Forces Enlisted reserve. These boys will be enlisted for air combat crew training, he said.

The same qualifications will govern enlistments. Boys must be 17 years old and not yet 18, be a citizen of the United States, be of good moral character, pass mental qualification and physical tests.

Capt. Hammond said that full information and application blanks may be secured at the West Texas recruiting and induction station, Avenue K and Tenth street.

Pre-Flighters At Tech Exceed Bond Quota

Eleven days before the Fifth War Loan Drive officially opens, officers and men of the Tech Pre-Flight detachment purchased war bonds Thursday totaling $16,000. The purchase is in excess of their regular bond buying. The War loan drive opens June 12.

Maj. John N. Huttig, commanding the 3086th AAF Base unit (College Training Aircrew) said Friday that today's out-going class gave Lubbock a special farewell salute by topping, in three hours time, their quota of $4,650. Complete figure for that group climbed to $5,300, he said, and "members of that class want Lubbock citizens to know that their particular part of the campaign was in the form of a 'thank-you' for courtesies extended them while here."

Ceremony Scheduled On Big Bend Transfer
