Summit Opens Divided

LIBREVILLE, Gabon (AP)—African leaders open a four-day summit here today, sharply divided along ideological lines and agreeing only that white minority rule must be driven from the continent.

The 49-nation Organization of African Unity is split between a moderate pro-Western majority and a militant "anti-imperialist" minority, and is plagued by local territorial disputes.

Trooper Slain

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—State police say a trooper was shot to death early Saturday when he stopped a car for a traffic violation near here.

The occupants of the car sped away, troopers said, but a car fitting the description was found a short time later abandoned in Lafayette.

Several occupants of the car fled on foot into a wooded area, and a search was under way.

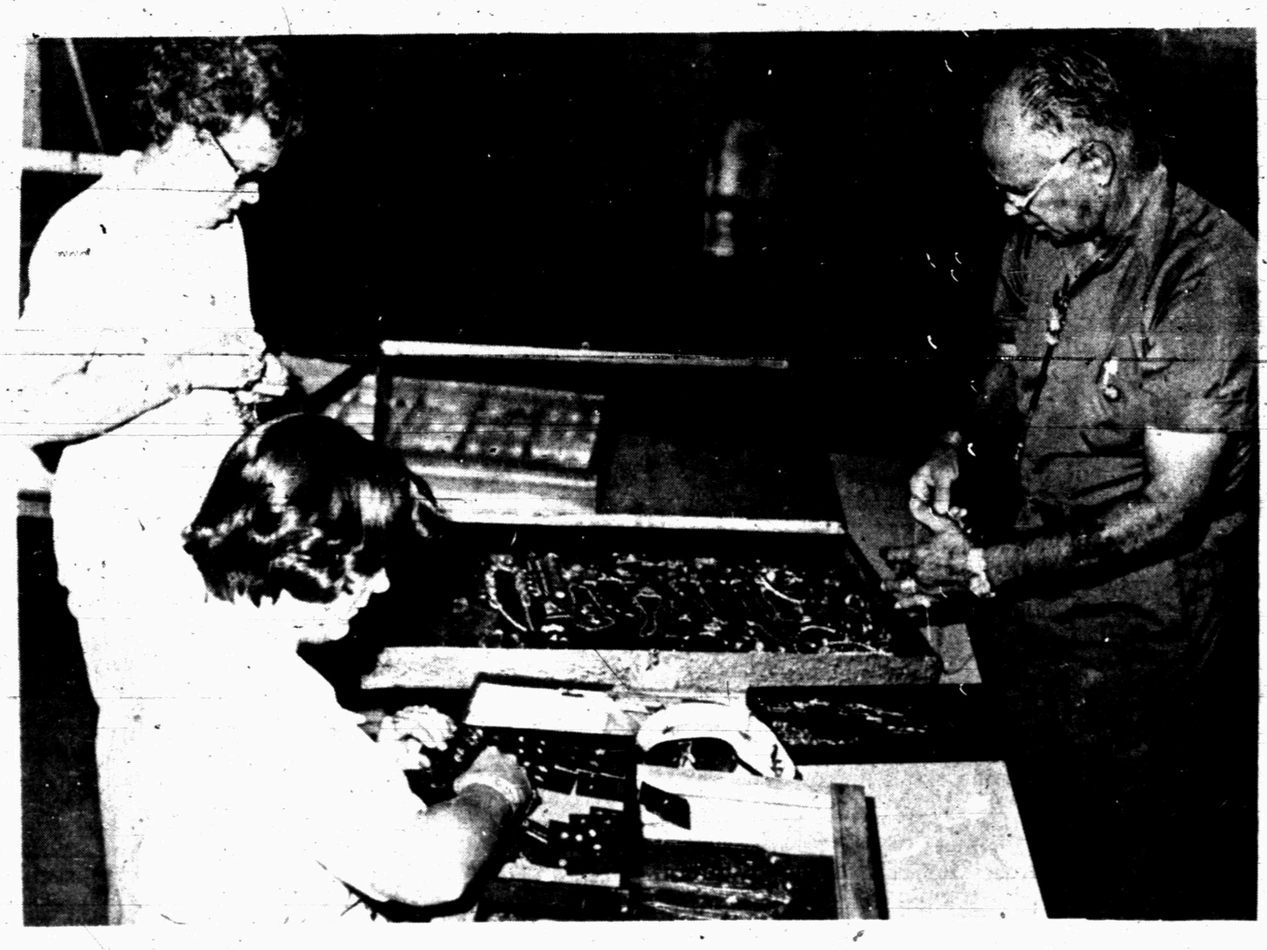

Gunmen Hunted

By The Associated Press

Authorities in several states were searching today for the gunmen who killed two men, may have killed two others, wounded a fifth and possibly kidnaped a sixth.

All points bulletins were issued in Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana.

The two gunmen were wanted in the slayings of Marvin E. Richie, 42, town marshall at Magazine, Ark., and Opal James, 58, Havana, Ark., a ranger for the Army Corps of Engineers. They also had wounded David Small, 27, a part-time ranger for the Corps.

Step Aside, Hill Urges Yarbrough

AUSTIN (AP)-Atty. Gen. John Hill called on Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough to "step aside" Saturday pending disposition of forgery and aggravated perjury indictments against him.

Hill made his statement immediately before entering a closed hearing on Yarbrough by the Judicial Qualifications Commission.

Hill said the meeting might take only an hour, unless the commission wishes to hear all 3½ hours of secret tape recordings of alleged conversations between Yarbrough and Bill Rothkopf.

Yarbrough allegedly told Rothkopf he wanted former business associate Doug Ford and Victoria banker Bill Kemp "wiped away."

The Travis County grand jury returned the indictments against Yarbrough Thursday.

Hill said Yarbrough could announce simply that he would not participate in cases before the high court. He would not have to resign, Hill said.

The case is "highly unusual," Hill said, because "the words of the judge are already a matter of public record in the newspapers. I've never seen anything like it."

By law, the commission's hearings are secret.

The Supreme Court appoints four of the commission's nine members, the governor names three and the State Bar names two. It takes five votes to file charges.

If the commission chooses, it could send Yarbrough a letter informing him of the charges, giving him an opportunity to appear before the commission, Hill said.

2nd Session Set At WTC

Registration for the second summer session at Western Texas College will open at 9 a.m. Wednesday with classes starting at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Students will register in the Administration Building from 9-12 noon and from 1-4 p.m. All classes will meet during morning hours for the six-week session.

Classes scheduled are Accounting 232, Business Law 232, Economics 232, English 132, English 232, History 132, Reading 131 and Typing 130.

The SDN Column

Sixteen years ago, Snyder Chamber of Commerce officials were wondering if local residents would prefer to stay at home and hold their own celebration rather than hit the highways to seek out recreation spots on the Fourth of July Holiday.

In fact, the July 4th celebration was proposed in the first place for the purpose of trying to reduce highway traffic because traffic deaths had reached alarming totals. There were those who felt that, if something was planned locally, many Snyderites would just as soon remain in their home town for the Fourth. But nobody knew for certain.

That first celebration was billed as an "old-fashioned, family-type event," and heavy emphasis was put on families going to the park and visiting. Clubs and organizations were encouraged to plan activities and to set up concession stands. There was an art show, a swimming tournament, ball games, a parade and the closing fireworks display.

To say that the event attained its original objective would be an understatement. In fact, it not only kept most Snyder residents in town, but after a couple or three years, it began to attract visitors from other cities and towns. Now, there probably is as much or more traffic coming into Snyder for the July 4th celebration as there was going out of town before the celebration here was started.

A lot of former residents make it a point to return on July 4, and there are numerous reunions going on among families and former neighbors. If you have lived here for several years and have friends and acquaintances who have moved away, chances are good that you will find some of them in Towle Memorial Park this weekend.

The second cutting of hay on the city wastewater farm project was coming out of the field the past week. City Engineer Jim Dower said it appeared to be a good one, and it grew to maturity in about a month. It got an extra boost by June rains, despite the fact that it was irrigated liberally with water from the city wastewater treatment plant.

The major objective, or course, is to make use of the water from the plant and eventually keep all of the water out of Deep Creek. But the hay has turned out to be a commodity of some value. At this stage it appears that four crops of alfalfa are assured this season and possibly five, depending on when the first cold spell hits this fall.

Weather Research Inspection Made

Top officials connected with weather modification research in this area inspected operations at Big Spring and Snyder Friday.

For Dr. Archie M. Kahan, director of the division of Atmospheric water resource management for the Bureau of Reclamation, and Dr. Bernard Silverman, director of the Bureau's HIPLEX (High Plains research) program, it was an annual inspection of the project. With them from the Denver, Colo. office were Bennie Girardo, director of the coordinators for the three field operations in Montana, Kansas and Texas: and Lloyd Steubinger, Texas Coordinator.

Conferring with them were John Carr Jr., director of weather modification and technology division of the Texas Water Development Board, and Bob Reggio, assistant division director and who is in charge of the board's participation in the HIPLEX project. Both are from Austin.

Dr. Kahan and Dr. Silverman checked on operation of bureau radar facilities by MRI at Snyder where an analysis of cloud seeding operations is being undertaken. They spent several hours in the facilities at Howard County airport where the Colorado River Municipal Water District is conducting seeding operations on the basis of meteorological data collected and supplied by the Bureau. They also conferred with

Crowds Arrive For July 4th

The thermometer was soaring and the crowds were congregating Saturday for the 17th Annual July 4th Celebration in Snyder.

Two major competitive events were underway and the big Arts and Crafts show opened Saturday afternoon in the National Guard Armory in Towle Memorial Park. And the carnival was in operation at its usual location adjacent to the Towle Park Barn.

First session of the tractor pull was to be unreeled Saturday night at the Scurry County Rodeo Grounds on West 30th Street, and the tennis tournament was in its second day. The country music jamboree also held its first session in the Armory area of the park.

Highlighting today's activity are the opening of the annual July 4th Art Show in the Towle Park Barn at 1 p.m., an old fiddler's contest at 2 p.m., a community worship service at 7:30 p.m., followed by a Community Choir concert. The tennis tournament will continue and the tractor pull will have its second session at 8 p.m. at the rodeo grounds.

Barbering And Baseball Found To Be Compatible

By JOHN LONG

Barbering and baseball may seem unrelated, but to the perspective of Eva Bartley, the two occupattions are akin.

During the summer of 1976, Miss Bartley was a pitcher for the New York Breskis, one of 10 fledgling teams in the International Women's Professional Softball Association. Now a Snyder resident, Miss Bartley is a barber at Thornhill's Hair Designers in Cogdell Center.

"Everybody is a somebody. I don't care what they do. Everyone is special in his own way," said Miss Bartley of her twin talents.

Miss Bartley's emergence into women's professional athletics last summer came after playing semi-professional softball for about eight years in Lubbock and Plainview.

A native of Haskell, Miss Bartley journeyed to Lubbock after graduation from high school. There, she attended a barber school and entered the semi-professional softball ranks by joining the Lubbock Bandits, a women's softball team.

Leaving Lubbock in 1974, Miss Bartley then moved to Plainview where she met a woman who had lived in New York. Her acquaintance told her of the women's teams back East.

Miss Bartley learned of the International Women's Professional Softball Association, a fledgling women's league still in the process of organizing in 1976. Among the people helping to organize the league was Billie Jean King, noted woman tennis player and athlete.

Miss Bartley tried out for the team and was accepted. The summer of 1976 was the league's first season. Miss Bartley joined the New York-based Breskis, a team named after the owner, Henry Breski.

During a 120-game season for the Breskis, Miss Bartley played in games stretching from the East Coast to the West Coast. When not pitching for the team, she played first-baseman, not firstbase-woman.

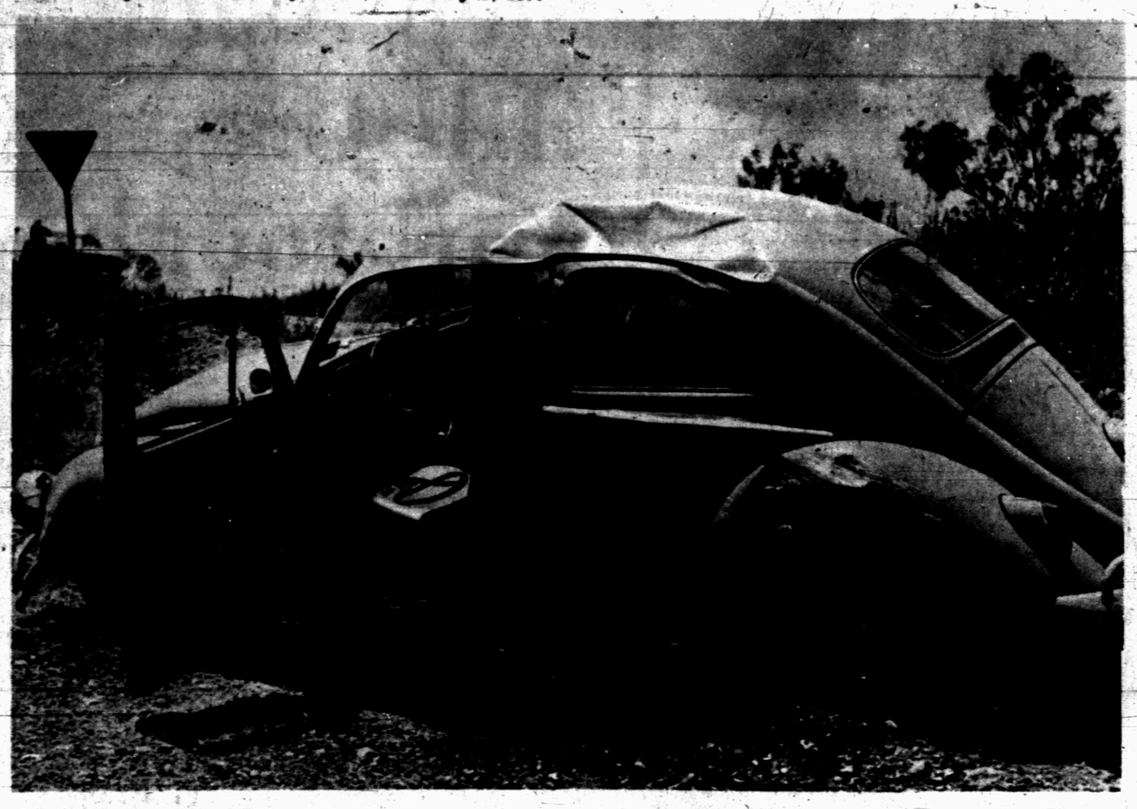

Admitting she is a bit aggressive, the 31-year-old Miss Bartley said she does not consider herself to a women's liberationist.

"I would not trade the

ONE INJURED—Highway patrolmen reported that Judy Bowlin of Snyder, driver of this Volkswagen, suffered a cut on the head when she lost control of the vehicle and it crashed Friday afternoon. Two small children in the car were reported uninjured. The mishap occurred at about 2 p.m. Friday on a country road 11 miles southwest of Snyder. (SDN Staff Photo)

Revised Reports On Economy Optimistic

NEW YORK (AP)- Economists, reassessing 1977 at its midway point, have been issuing a spate of optimistic reports during the past week about the near-term course of the economy.

The Carter administration, in its mid-year budget review, said the nation's economy would grow at a slightly faster rate than it has projected previously and the unemployment rate, on average, would fall for the year.

The government's revisions were not dramatic, but they underscored general confidence about the course of 1977 largely because the economy made a stronger recovery in the first half than expected.

The administration said the average unemployment rate for the year would be 7 per cent, an improvement of .2 per cent from its earlier forecast.

Real Gross National Product, the GNP adjusted for inflation, will grow at an annual rate of 5.1 per cent this year, up from the 4.9 per cent projected in April, the report said.

GNP, which represents the total value of all goods and services produced in the nation, is a broad measure of economic health.

By comparison, real GNP grew at a rate of 6.1 per cent in a comeback from the recession between 1976 and 1975 but declined 1.8 per cent between 1975 and 1974.

For 1978, however, the administration reduced its estimate of growth in the GNP from 5.6 to 5.3 per cent, reflecting a widely held belief that there will be a gradual slow-down by then.

The Commerce Department's composite index of leading economic indicators, also released this past week, indicated some probable slowdown in growth in the near future. The May composite index showed a .2 per cent decline after three consecutive months of increases.

Both private and government economists generally have been predicting that the second half of this year will not equal the pace of the first six months. But the consensus still remains upbeat for the short-range future.

In other business developments this past week:

-President Carter, in a surprise decision, announced his opposition to production of the B1 strategic bomber, a program estimated to cost $24.8 billion. He said it represented an unnecessary cost and that the United States could depend on other weapons systems.

-The Interstate Commerce Commission rejected tariff rates of $6.04 to $6.44 a barrel sought by the owners of the new trans-Alaska pipeline.

Vandalism, Three Mishaps Are Reported

Ah act of criminal mischief and three minor traffic accidents were reported to city police Friday.

Officers were told of an act of criminal mischief that occurred about 11 p.m. Friday. A window beside a front door at Stanfield Elementary was reportedly broken, resulting in about $200 damage.

A minor mishap occurred at 12:31 p.m. in the 1900 block of 25th St. A 1976 Mars truck driven by Church E. Mariweau of Bedford was in collision with a 1977 Ford driven by Billy Sam Houston.

A hit and run was reported in the 2100 block of 25th St. at 3:16 p.m. A parked 1975 Dodge pickup owned by Odell Cox was struck by another vehicle which reportedly left the scene of the mishap.

A two-car collision occurred in the 1900 block of 26th St. at 4:06 p.m. Involved in the mishap were a 1968 Chrysler driven by Edith Glover Evans and a 1968 Ford driven by Sarah Baitz Carter.

experiences I received last summer for anything," Miss Bartley declared. "We were pioneers of the organization," she said adding, "It was a super summer."

The New York Breskis finished third last summer in league competition. Despite its recent emergence, the league is viable and this summer marks the league's second season.

Miss Bartley said she decided to retire from softball this season to be nearer her ailing father. She said she may re-enter professional athletics next summer.

Following last summer's baseball stint, Miss Bartley moved to Snyder in November, 1976 and is employed as a barber at Thornhill's Hair Designers. She was not, however, unfamiliar with Snyder when she moved here. She remembers playing numerous games here while still in the semi-professional ranks.

Miss Bartley credits Guy Sullivan of Snyder, a former physical education teacher, with teaching her a pitch called the slider-ball. She also recalls playing games with the Snyder Flames, managed by Albert Lewis.

While living in Snyder, Miss Bartley also has been involved in the Miss Softball America Association. Noting that when she was a youngster and athletic programs for girls were very limited, Miss Bartley said Snyder has a very good baseball program for girls.

Miss Bartley said she is not sure when she will re-enter professional athletics. But now, she is responding to another call.

She and Jan Cook, a sister of Glen Polk, an announcer for KSNY radio, will be opening their own barber-hairstyling shop in Midland. Miss Bartley was scheduled to leave Snyder this weekend.

Equally well versed in baseball as in barbering, Miss Bartley said she is eager to open hr own hairstyling shop. "Life is out there to discover and experience," she said, vivaciously.

Bomb Fight To Resume

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Senate battle over the neutron bomb will continue after the July 4th recess, but backers of the weapon, which would kill people but leave buildings standing, are confident of victory.

After a secret session that lasted almost three hours, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., predicted Friday that the Senate will approve money for the bomb but will give Congress veto power over any presidential decision to use it.

That was the compromise Stennis and his allies are fighting for.

Supporters of the bomb won two key votes by narrow margins, but decided in the face of a threatened filibuster that they would not press for final action.

Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said he did not expect the filibuster to resume when the recess ends July 11.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., who led the fight against appropriating any money in the 1978 fiscal year for the weapon, said the five-hour debate "made history" despite its inconclusive outcome.

"Most new weapons systems have been approved in the past by rather rapid action," Hatfield said. "But the magnitude of this system and this warhead were of such great concern to the Senate that it could not reach a final decision."

The weapon, known as the enhanced radiation neutron warhead, relies mainly on radiation for its effect. It is designed to produce relatively little blast and heat.

Its supporters say this means its lethal effect can be concentrated on enemy soldiers, sparing buildings and other weapons.

Car Fire Is Extinguished

A car fire was extinguished Friday afternoon by Snyder firemen.

The fire developed in the motor of a 1965 Chevrolet at the intersection of Smith St. and Ave. P.

Preliminary reports show the car is owned by Edith Lovett. The fire was reported at 4:35 p.m.

Scholarship Awarded To Snyderite

Benny Ellington of Snyder, a senior journalism major at Angelo State University, has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the Scripps-Howard Journalism Foundation in New York.

The foundation gives the awards to selected students across the nation to promote interest in the journalism field.

This is Ellington's second year to receive a Scripps-Howard scholarship. At ASU he has been active in the journalism program, serving as associate editor of the campus newspaper, The Ram Page, and is a member of the Angelo Press Society. This past spring he was selected for the Wayland G. Yates Memorial Scholarship given annually to the outstanding senior journalism student at ASU.

Ellington is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B.C. Ellington of Snyder.

Anti-ERA Forces Ask Probe On Balloting

DALLAS (AP)-A coalition of anti-Equal Rights Amendment Texas women have asked for an investigation of the balloting in last weekend's Texas women's meeting, which they claim was dominated by "militant libbers and lesbians."

At a Friday news conference, Wilma Cawthon, spokesman for the coalition of "pro-family, pro-life and anti-ERA groups," said the request has been filed with International Women's Year officials.

The anti-ERA forces came away from the Austin meeting with only six of the 58 delegates who will represent Texas at a November national meeting in Houston.

"We request that the ballots be turned over to a specified CPA to determine the number of ballots casts, the number thrown out, and the tally of votes for each of the nominees -with members of the pro-family group present," Mrs. Cawthon said.

The request stemmed, she said, from sworn affadavits of voting irregularities, newspaper accounts stating that the pro-family slate had apparently won in Austin, conversation with a Texas IWY official who indicated the anti-ERA delegates were winning and the lack of vote tallies at a Monday press conference.

"I still think we represent more women in the state of Texas," Mrs. Cawthon said.

"But the pro-family people are usually not involved in a sophisticated effort like the pro ERA people."

Paulette Standefer of Dallas, another coalition spokesman said, "The militant libbers and lesbians were in control, not the grassroots Texas woman as it was billed."

The coalition said it may take its case to court if no relief is granted by the IWY officials.

The Austin IWY meeting was funded with $100,000 allocated by Congress. Resolutions and recommendations approved at the session are to be forwarded to President Carter and Congress.

"We feel the entire conference was pro-ERA planned and executed. We have no representation on the co-ordinating committee," Mrs. Cawthon said.

The women also complained that anti-abortion resolutions, although approved in workshops, were never brought to the floor for a vote.

"There was no shred of morality from the platform," Mrs. Cawthon added.

Mrs. Cawthon said the anti-ERA women are not "sore lossers."

"We're not against equal pay for equal work. In fact, in a lot of cases women are more intelligent than men," she said.

Baptists Oppose SOAP

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-A proposed ABC television series is "based on twisted sexual attitudes" and should not be aired, say leaders of the 13 million -member Southern Baptist Convention.

Dr. Jimmy R. Allen, president of the organization, said Friday that the proposed series, SOAP, is "not worthy to be brought into the living rooms of the homes of our country."

"I am not going to mount a campaign," added Allen, pastor of a San Antonio Baptist church. "When the people see this, the campaign will mount itself."

Allen said initial episodes of SOAP, which he said have been circulated across the country for consideration by local stations, portray a family whose members are involved in adultery, murder, homosexuality and organized crime.

"The fact that the show is well done and sophisticated does not cover the fact that it is based on twisted sexual attitudes," said Allen.

"The challenge flung at us by ABC's proposed series is absolutely reprehensible and I'm confident Southern Baptists across the nation will rise up in righteous indignation to oppose this move," said Dr. Foy Valentine, executive secretary of the SBC's Christian Life Commission. "I hope the network will have the wisdom not to carry it."

Mary Hemingway Back To Cuba

NEW YORK (AP)—Mary Hemingway is returning to Cuba to research - and remember - her late husband's life.

The widow of Ernest Hemingway said Friday that she will leave for Havana next week to help prepare a movie based on the life of the Nobel-prize winning author.

Mrs. Hemingway last visited Cuba in 1961, soon after Hemingway's suicide. At that time she surrendered the Hemingway home to President Fidel Castro's communist government.

With her for this trip will be Jay Weston, who is producing the film for MGM, director Sydney Pollack and screenwriter Waldo Salt.

HIGHWAY CRASH—There were no injuries, but two vehicles sustained heavy damage in a two-car collision shortly after 2 p.m. Friday on U.S. Highway 180 two miles east of Snyder. This vehicle, driven by Louis Speedon of Snyder, was hit by another driven by Johnny Lee of Midland. The vehicles wound up on opposite sides of the road following the rear-end collision. Lee said his brakes failed. E.M. Ramirez of Snyder was a passenger in the car driven by Speedon. (SDN Staff Photo)

Texas Politicians To Test Campaigns On 4th

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - July 4th has been a traditional date for politicians to try out their campaigns on Texas voters and this Independence Day will be no exception.

Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex, has invited one and all to his home place near New Braunfels for an announcement that most think they already know - that Krueger is going to challenge Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

Krueger, who already has a campaign staff hard at work, is making the first announcement but he is far from being alone in the 1978 Senatorial race.

Tower has made no formal announcement but he makes it plain he has no other plans than to run for another six-year term as Texas senior Senator. Tower has served since winning a special election in 1961 that made him successor in the Senate to Lyndon B. Johnson.

Tower also has a campaign staff hard at work.

Another Democrat who is unannounced but already writing campaign checks is State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie. He has already said he plans to resign the insurance job in September.

Dallas attorney Barefoot Sanders, who lost to Tower by 300,000 votes out of 2.3 million cast in 1972, is another likely entry.

Still others who have indicated interest in the race are Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz and former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, now an Austin attorney, who was retired by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex. in 1972.

The Senate campaign, which promises a hot Democratic primary race climaxed by extensive general election campaigning, may be a double feature on the 1978 election schedule with the gubernatorial race.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe has already announced, saying he wants to serve another four years and make it 10 years, the longest service of any Texas governor.

As soon as the July 11 special legislative session ends, several of Briscoe's top aides will resign their government jobs and set up a well-financed campaign headquarters.

Briscoe's main opponent appears to be Atty. Gen. John Hill who says he wants the governor's job and has been campaigning hard but has not made a formal campaign announcement. Hill said recently he will take another look at his fund-raising machinery and at latest voter polls before making an announcement in late September or early October.

State Republican Chairman Ray Hutchison likely will be the GOP candidate, if he can get guarantees of adequate financing from Texas Republicans who will be devoting most of their campaign cash to Tower.

And former Gov. Preston Smith, now a Lubbock business man, claims he is thinking about a comeback campaign.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Democrat, who would have liked to run for governor if Briscoe had other plans, apparently has a clear road in both parties for re-election as lieutenant governor.

Comptroller Bob Bullock, who also would have liked to run for governor without Briscoe in the race, is seeking re-election without visible opponents.

The 1978 Democratic primary could turn into a three-ring attraction if a hot race develops for attorney general, should Hill take himself out of the office.

Considered sure Democratic candidates are Secretary of State Mark White and former House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. Houston Dist. Atty. Carroll Vance has expressed his interest in the race also.

On the Republican side, considerable interest is shown in Jimmy Baker, Houston attorney who was former President Gerald Ford's campaign manager.

A big question mark in Texas politics is the state treasurer's race. Treasurer Jesse James, 72, Democrat, had his left foot amputated earlier this year but has not said yet if he plans to run for re-election.

Former Austin city council member Lowell Leberman, Democrat, is poised and ready for campaign action, with a well-filled campaign treasury.

Don H. Johnson, Houston oil engineer, has already announced as a Republican candidate.

Sen. Don Adams, D-Jasper, and George Cowden, a member of the Public Utility Commission, are possible Democratic candidates.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, Democrat, who was appointed when Commissioner John White became the No. 2 agriculture man in Washington, is considered a sure bet for re-election campaigning.

Possible opponents are Deputy State Commissioner Bill Pieratt and Rep. Joe Hubenak, D-Rosenberg.

Summer Youth Classes Scheduled At Museum

Summer Youth Classes have been scheduled at the Scurry County Museum rom July 11-22, Sharon Sutton, museum director, has announced.

Classes will meet one hour daily Monday through Friday in the museum. Fees will be $15 per person, and three scholarships have been made available. Registration will begin on Tuesday in the museum, and persons wishing further information about the classes may inquire there.

Classes scheduled are as follow:

Beginning Art (Kindergarten-Grade 2) - 10-11 a.m.; Karen Sears, instructor.

Scurry County Archaeology (Grades 3-5) - 10-11 a.m.; John Portis, instructor

Rocks and Gems of Scurry County (Grades 5-7) - 11-12 noon; John Portis, instructor

Beginning Art (Grades 3-5) - 11-12 noon; Mike Thornton, instructor

Storytelling and Games (Kindergarten-Grade 2) - 1-2 p.m.; Karen Sears, instructor

Colonial Crafts (Grades 5-7) - 2-3 p.m.; Sharon Sutton, instructor.

Miss Sears' art class for the youngest students will emphasize two-dimensional art using supplies found in the home. Thornton's art students will be studying pottery and jewelry making.

Portis will limit his archaeology and rocks and gems classes to 10 students each because of the activities involved. The archaeology students will take a field trip at the conclusion of their study. Students in the rocks and gems class will study identification of rocks common in this area and learn basic skills of rock polishing.

In storytelling and games class, Miss Sears will feature colonial and Indian games and folklore. Students will make puppets for a puppet show as well.

Quilting, soap making, embroidery, taffy pulling and silhouette cutting will be included in Miss Sutton's colonial crafts class.

This is the first time the museum has offered Youth Classes, and the program has been arranged in cooperation with the Community Services department of Western Texas College.

Bible Camp Set At WTC

A week-long Bible Camp for students in grades 7-12 is scheduled July 10-16 at Western Texas College.

Activities will include daily Bible classes and devotionals along with team sports, crafts and swimming. The indoor pool in the H-PE Building and nearby tennis courts will be available for use by the campers, along with the newly opened 9-hole golf course.

Campers will stay in the air conditioned dormitories and eat in the Student Center cafeteria.

Fees for the camp are $40 per person, which includes housing, meals and recreational materials. Reservations may be made by writing or calling Gary Lowe, Director of the Christian Student Center at Western Texas College, AC 915-573-8242.

Plea Is Heard In County Court

One guilty plea was entered Friday in county court.

Steven Charles Roland pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of less than two ounces of marijuana. He was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail and fined $200.

Roland had been arrested by city police officers April 1.

The Great Wall of China is about 1,500 miles long.

'Flexitime' Effective

WASHINGTON (AP)-An increasing number of government agencies and private industries are allowing their employes to work when they want to, National Geographic says.

The new system, called "flexitime," doesn't cut back the number of hours a person spends on the job. It just lets people decide, within limits, when to start and stop. Those that come in early quit early, and employes can chose to work more than eight hours a day in order to have a three-day weekend.

The idea grew out of a Munich aircraft plant's effort in 1968 to end tie-ups when shifts changed. The concept spread and by the end of 1976 corporations in Britain, France, the Netherlands, Japan and the Scandinavian countries had instituted flexitime.

Advocates of the plan say it reduces absenteeism and tardiness and boosts morale as well as eases traffic. Paul Dickson, in his book "The Future Of The Workplace," reported that flexitime saved the Munich plant $40,000 a month.

Reading Course Being Offered

Students who will be beginning college work this fall are invited to enroll for the three-hour reading course to be offered during the second summer session at Western Texas College.

Reading 131 is planned to help the student improve study skills as well as comprehension and speed in reading. Persons wishing further information about the course may contact Gerald M. Corkran, instructor.

Enrollment for the second summer session is scheduled July 6, with classes beginning July 7.

The Beef Referendum

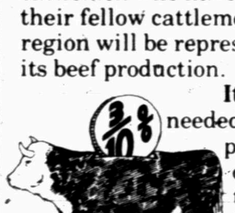

What it is.

Soon you'll have an opportunity to vote on the beef research and information plan. Here are some facts to consider.

It's a self-help program. If the beef business is going to get more profitable, producers themselves are going to have to make it more profitable. The beef referendum provides the tools—promotion, research, foreign market development, marketing information—to do the job.

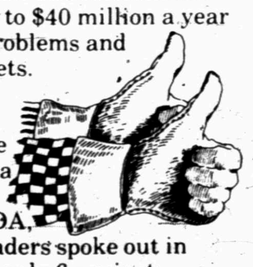

It's producer-controlled. The plan will be run by a Beef Board made up of cattlemen who have been recommended by their fellow cattlemen. Every state or region will be represented in proportion to its beef production.

It's fair. The investment needed for the program is provided by a collection of just 3/10's of 1% on the sale of each animal. It's based on a "value added" system that guarantees each person pays only his fair share.

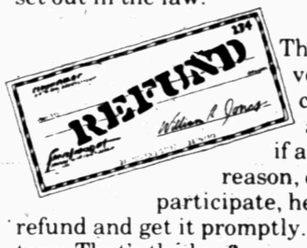

It's needed. The beef industry's present research and information effort is inadequate by any standard. We spend a small fraction of what many other, smaller commodity groups spend (e.g. cotton, citrus, dairy, soybeans). The referendum will generate the $30 to $40 million a year needed to solve our problems and strengthen our markets.

It's accepted. Nearly 90 producer organizations endorse the program. During a series of six public hearings held by USDA, 150 beef and dairy leaders spoke out in favor of the program; only 6 against.

What it isn't.

It's not a government program. This is a producer program. Producers wrote the law. Producers are paying for the referendum through voluntary donations. And producers will run the program from day one, once the referendum passes. The government's involvement is limited: The Secretary of Agriculture formally appoints the Beef Board members, who are nominated by producer organizations; he is also responsible for seeing that the money is spent according to producer wishes, as set out in the law.

It's not a tax. The program is voluntary. The collection is automatic. But if anyone, for any reason, doesn't want to participate, he can ask for a refund and get it promptly. With no red tape. That's the law.

It's not just an advertising program. The program is comprehensive. Some of the money will go for consumer education. Some for foreign market development. Some for production research. Some for new product development. Some for improving marketing and distribution. And some for advertising and promotion—whatever producers, through the Beef Board, decide they need.

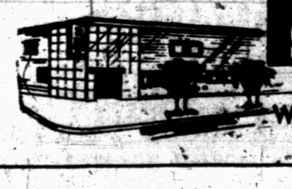

It's not just for the big guy. Beef Board members will be both big producers and small, from all across the country. Cow-calf operators. Farmer-feeders. Stocker operators. Feedlot people. Dairymen (dairy cattle account for 20% of beef production). This program will help everybody.

Now, it's up to you. Register at your ASCS office. Then, vote "yes" in the beef referendum.

This Fourth Won't Have Glitter of Bicentennial

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The drums seem muffled this year, the trumpets muted. The Tall Ships are scattered to the ports of the world.

Only in memory now is that touch of glory, that rare sense of family, the thrill, the pride, the surprise at finding us one again.

To be sure, this July Fourth the church bells will peal, the colors unfurl, the bands parade, the clam-fires kindle as America celebrates the first birthday of its third century.

But not with the glitter, the rapture, the pure unabashed joy of 215 million voices singing one grand song.

"Same time next year?" We should have known it wouldn't be. Times like those are rare, and rightly so.

Remember New York, where parades thundered up and down the granite avenues, where the tall ships fluttered sail and glided along the Hudson River with eye-watering majesty, where the warships of 22 nations, all flying the American flag, stood by at salute, where people jammed the waterfronts and riverview apartments and carpeted the feet of the Lady of the Harbor?

Well, this Fourth of July, only the Shriners will march in parade. Seven ocean liners will make a brief foray into the Hudson, and fleet of small sailboats will race around Long Island.

Remember Washington, where a mammoth fireworks display lit the night sky, where 9,000 special Bicentennial flags fluttered from spires and rooftops, where the National Archives stayed open around the clock so that thousands who lined up could see the nation's birth certificate?

This year the archives are back on "a normal summer schedule" and the firepower of the fireworks is back to normal, too. The flags were unfurled on Flag Day in June, and the Folk Festival that added spice to last July Fourth is scheduled for September this year.

Remember San Francisco, where last year one big happy parade celebrated the disparate causes of modern American life -Puerto Ricans, Palestinians, Latinos, women, blacks? This year the city will dedicate a statue of Francis Scott Key in Golden Gate Park and plant a 100-year time capsule at his feet.

Remember Philadelphia, Philadelphia? Independence Hall, where they rang the Liberty Bell and President Ford said, "The world knows where we stand...The world may or may not follow, but we lead because our whole history says we must...we still show the way."

This year President Carter will spend the Fourth quietly at Camp David. Attendance at the Independence National Historical Park, which reached seven million in 1976, may hit four millin in 1977.

Remember Boston, where 400,000 wild and cheering, dancing Americans heard Arthur Fielder lead the Boston Pops in thrilling American medley capped by "The Stars and Stripes Forever?" Well, this year some 200,000 are expected on the banks of the Charles River to hear him conduct the Pops in Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture."

In Miramar, Fla., last year, Betty Kapchuk and her children festonned their home in red, white and blue bunting. This year she has no special plans.

In Lake City, Pa., they stored the red-white-and-blue park benches indoors for the winter so the paint would still be bright this year. The landing pad for unidentified flying objects ringed in star-spangled lights is still operational, but "we haven't had any activity there yet."

The American Legion this year will stage "the world's largest fireworks extravaganza" over Chicago. In the Mojave Desert of California, Bob Older will raise again the 52-by-100 foot flag over his Ore Grande ranch for all who want to see.

There were many things we didn't get to see last July Fourth. We didn't see Vernon Moens' hog farm where he plowed up ten acres of oats to plant ten acres of petunias in a red, white and blue replica of the Betsy Ross flag. We didn't see the Bicentennial kite flown from Mt. Kilimanjaro, the largest pancake-76 inches in diameter-cooked up by Glenwood Springs, Colo., the world's largest ice cream social in Minneapolis, the world's largest birthday cake-69,000 pounds -served up in Baltimore. We didn't get to meet Christopher Columbus XVIII, a Spanish sailor given leave to man the helm of he replica of the Santa Maria, one of the Tall Ships. Nor did we get to taste the 60-square-foot cherry pie in George, Wash.

But we won't forget them anyway.

The Bicentennial Commission officially went out of business last Thursday and most of the state commissions disbanded by today or sooner. But under their guidance, at least 12,566 communities had gone through formal Bicentennial activities, as the commission's five-volume report to Congress shows. There were than 66,000 separate functions, "and that's only the tip of the iceberg, the ones we know about," says Jean McKee, who was the acting director.

"I sometimes wish we had the resources to continue the Bicentennial celebration into 1977," says Jean McClatchy, who headed the San Francisco commission. "That was such a special time, the whole city getting involved. I have very warm memories of that year."

"It made a lot of people stop and think," said a Kansas bicentennial official. "I think they'll remember what they thought about."

But many more things, tangible things, were born of the Bicentennial. Long Beach, Calif., has a new city hall. There ae countless parks from Lake City, Pa., east and west with 200th Birthday inscriptions. Maybe the Battle of Blue Licks, in Kentucky, the last skirmish of the Revolution, has been "fought" for the last time this century.

But in Los Angeles a thousand cherry trees, bestowed by the people of Japan, survive and promise bloom. Kansas City, Mo., has its Bicentennial Mall. The fertile American top-soil guards no-one-knows-how-many time capsules for today's children's children's children, 99 years hence. San Pedro, Calif., has its own Liberty Bell, courtesy Korea.

The U.S. Bicentennial Commission will return to the Federal treasury more than $1 million of the $23 million it was allotted. The Public Broadcasting Service will telecast on July Fourth evening a film, produced by the Pennsylvania commission, entitl- "Legacy: The Year Of The Bicentennial."

Pride and memory of pride are the legacies of that bicentennial Fourth a year ago, of the day when 200 years of nationhood with all its diverse themes came together in a celebration that seemed to say it all with one voice.

When it came to summing it up, Americans used simple addition.

A North Dakota farmwife, setting her outdoor banquet, said, "We certainly have covered a lot of territory."

A Kansas City visitor to Valley Forge, lifting his 50-cent cup of crushed ice, said, "Darned if they ain't doing it right."

When it was over, a reporter asked in a dispatch, "Didn't it feel good, feeling good?"

Maybe that is why 1977 can't tread on 1976.

Live Souvenirs Are Dangerous

NEW YORK (AP)-A live souvenir from abroad can be dangerous, warns the Air Transport Association.

Bringing forbidden plants or animals into the United States may seem innocuous at the time, but even a couple of destructive parasites can multiply to epidemic numbers in a new environment that contains none of their natural enemies, said the ATA.

In 1966, two African snails brought into Florida from Hawaii multiplied into more than 100,000 vegetable and housepaint-eating mollusks that took six years to eradicate. In 1971, a sick parakeet brought into southern California started an epidemic of Newcastle disease, and resulted in the death of 12 million infected or exposed pet birds and poultry.

Even a simple little Bonsai tree might contain destructive insects and grubs or dangerous plant diseases, said the ATA. To find out which plants and animals from abroad may be brought into the United States and which not, travelers can write for the booklet "Travelers Tips" available from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In summer, a house stays cooler when windows are covered during the hot part of the day--window shades, draperies and venetian blinds all help, suggests Pat Seaman, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M System.

MAD Warned Of Clayton Plan

EL PASO (AP)-Two state representatives fear that a compromise school finance measure supported by House Speaker Bill Clayton will not give balanced financial aid to Texas school districts if enacted by the upcoming special legislative session.

Rep. Ben Reyes, D-Houston, told a statewide gathering of Mexican-American Democrats MAD here Friday night that the compromise measure supported by Clayton falls short of equalizing benefits among rich and poor school districts.

He was joined by Rep. Ronald Coleman, D-El Paso. Both were praised by Calvin Guest, chairman of the State Democratic Party, and State District Court Judge Edward Marquez for their work against an earlier proposed school finance bill which Mexican-Americans contend favored wealthy school districts.

About 200 MAD supporters gathered for the downhome rally in the backyard of El Paso county clerk Alicia Chacon, who is vice-chairman of the Democratic group.

Guest told the gathering over a microphone brought by a specially-hired mariachi band that he was proud to be among Mexican-American Democrats and asked for their continued support.

Judge Marquez, whose appointment to the bench was cited as an example of Gov. Dolph Briscoe's intention to place Mexican-Americans in state positions of leadership, echoed Guest's sentiments.

Among the early arrivals were Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, and Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso.

A few recent federal appointees were also on hand, including Tony Canales, U.S. attorney-designate for the Southern District of Texas; Rick Hernandez, associate administrator of the Small Business Administration and former executive director of MAD; and Rudy A. Garza, U.S. Marshal for the Western District of Texas.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW...

Did you know there was once a man who, during one part of his life was a famous Hollywood actor and won an Academy Award -- and in another part of his life was a boxer and fought the heavyweight champion of the world!...Do you have any idea who this was?...Remember movie star Victor McLaglen?...Most people don't know that in the early 1900s he was a top boxer and had a bout against Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion of the world... Then, McLaglen turned to acting and won the Academy Award for Best Actor in 1935 for his performance in "The Informer"

How long does it take you to change a tire on your car?...Did you know that during the Indianapolis 500-mile race, pit crews are trained to change all four tires on a car in the phenomomenal time of 20 seconds!

Ever wonder why a left-hand pitcher in baseball is called a "southpaw"?...Ball parks are usually laid out so the batter faces east to avoid a setting sun shining in his eyes...So, if center-field is east, the south end of ball parks parallels the first base line...A left-hand pitcher's throwing hand is on the first base side of the diamond...Thus, he's a "southpaw".

Boy's Leagues

Little League

Giants 9, Cubs 8

The Giants broke two runs in the bottom of the sixth Friday night to cut the Cubs out of a Little League playoff berth. The Giants, winners of round-one play, will face the Indians, round-two champs, at 7 p.m. Tuesday for the playoff and city championship.

Barry Davis scattered five hits, including a double, to lead his teammates over the Cubs. Marty Gutierrez and Brent Roemich both powered home runs for the Giants, and Davis and Kevin Tate knocked a double each. Davis also collected two singles, and Mark Lyon got one.

Britt Vincent, losing pitcher, slapped a double for the Cubs. Single-hitting were Chris Hicks, John Overton and James Caldwell.

Yankees 20, Braves 9

Paul Erwin blasted a homer and a single, and Johnny Welch powered a homer to elelvate the Yankees over the Braves. Jerry Garza knocked a double and two singles, and Keven Holmesly rapped a double andd one single. Trey McWilliams and Bobby Valasquez each grabbed one single.

Whitt Parks belted a pair of singles for the Braves, and Vance Williams and Jay Eiland had one each. Lee Minyard took the loss. Holmsly chalked the win.

Farm League

Braves 10, Yankees 8

G.L. Wells relieved starter Pat Kohl in the fourth to earn a slim, final game of the season-win over the Yankees Friday night.

Michael Keener slapped a triple and a single, and Kohl knocked a double to tally the Braves hitting.

Sammy Lovett led the Yanks from the batting box with his double. James Powell cracked a pair of singles, and Pat Malone and Herb Ashley sliced one apiece. Raymond Valadez took the loss.

Cubs 9, Giants 5

Jerry Comstock, winning pitcher, blasted a home run and a single to lead the Cubs offensively and defensively over the Farm League Giants Friday night.

Teammate Billy Newton added a double and a single, and Darryl Boone, Jerry Bowen and Todd Dunnam collected a single each.

Doyle Phipps bounded a triple and a double to set the Giants in motion. Mike McKinney knocked a double and a single, and Dude Jones hit a double. Single-hitting for the Giants were Kyle Layne, Todd Odom and Mike Bass. Jones was tagged with the loss.

Girl's Leagues

Rangerettes 8, Giants 6

Rosie Rios and Christy Ballard both knocked a double and a single to led the Rangerettes Friday night. Carmen Rios collected a trio of singles, and Lisa McNew, Vickie Glasscock, Teresa Zamora and Audra Blackard all grabbed a single apiece.

For the Giants, Connie Zamora and Lisa Welch each battered a pair of singles, and Cynthia Alarcon, Dawn Brown, losing pitcher Criss Natividad, Kenee Fulford and Rachel Ramero each got a single.

Winning pitcher was Christy Ballard.

Seniors 7, Blues 1

Sharon Halford, Holly Green and Kathy Dever each slapped a double for the Hotshots Friday. Single-hitting were Eva Rich, Karen Gonzales, Gloria Rios, Josie Rios and Trudy Hataway. Winning pitcher was Karen Gonzales.

Gonzales gave up only three hits; a single each to Suzanne Fisher (losing pitcher), Norma Garcia and Teresa Smith.

HONORED--Ira Riggs was honored in a brief ceremony Friday night for his 17 years of work and dedicatino with the local boy's baseball leagues. Above, left to right, are G.A. Parks, coach of the Little League Braves; Mrs. Riggs; Ira; and Woody Newton, manager of the Farm League Cubs.

Riggs Recognized

by ALINE PARKS

Ira Riggs, president of Snyder's Little League since 1974, got a partial payment for his years of service Friday night.

Coaches and managers from Little League and Farm Leauge teams, along with officers of the Auxiliaries, teamed up to present Riggs a wrist watch in a brief ceremony just before the start of the evening's games.

Mrs. Riggs was also presented a gift in recognition of her constributions, both directly and indirectly, to the League through the years.

Making the presentations were G.A. Parks, Jr., coach of the Little League Braves, Woody Newton, manager of the Farm League Cubs, and Mrs. Barney Tate, Auxiliary secretary-treasurer.

Riggs got involved with Little League in 1960 when he began coaching the Little League Cubs. He had played football and basketball at Snyder High School and played intramural baseball at Texas Tech, and it didn't take too much persuasion to get him started working with the Little Leaguers.

He stayed with the Cubs through the 1961 season, then moved to Farm League to manage the Braves when his older son, Dwayne joined that team. Both he and Dwayne moved up to the Little League Braves the following year.

Dwayne stayed with the team through the 1965 season and was followed by his brother, Randy, in 1966. Randy "graduated" from Little League in 1969, but his father stayed with the Braves until he was elected League president.

Riggs hasn't limited his interests to baseball. He did a brief stint with Peewee football while Dwayne was in that program and also began coaching Little Dribbler basketball about that time.

He is president of Little Dribblers and served as manager for this year's Little Dribbler All-Star team which finished second in the regional tournament.

During the Little League season, which runs from mid-May through early July, Riggs spends an average of 20 hours per week at the adjoining Farm and Little League diamonds. He unlocks the equipment storage room for the first comers and is on hand to see that everything is put away when the second game ends, often around 11 p.m.

In the course of a typical evening, he may pinch hit for a base umpire who didn't show up, help a novice with the operation of the electric socreboard, give a hand in the concession stand and pass the donation bucket. When he's not busy, he appears relaxed as he talks with coaches, managers, ex-Little Leaguers and the spectators of all ages who stop at the favorite meeting place at the east corner of the concession stand.

BARBARA HOPPER

Next to Buck Logan, dean of the Little League coaches, Riggs probably has given more time to the program than any other single individual in the county.

Dwayne has been umpire for the Little League this season, and his wife, Kathy, and their son, now two months old, have missed very few of the games.

Kathy asked Riggs recently if he would still be working with Little League when their son was old enough to play.

"Probably," was Riggs smiling reply. People who know him would agree it's a good possibility.

Mrs. Riggs is often asked how she feels about her husband giving so much of his time to sports, and she says with honesty that she has no objections. She attends many of the games throughout the season, and shares her husband's belief that youngsters engaged in a well-run sports program learn the give and take that can help them in many ways throughout their life.

Riggs, an employe of Chevron, USA, Inc., since 1957, is a draftsman for SACROC.

Only one player in football history made 2,000 points -George Blanda, who retired with 2,002.

Women's Golf Posts Results

Eleven West Texas cities were represented at the Ladies Invitational Tournament sponsored by the Snyder Women's Golf Association held Thursday at the Snyder Country Club.

The Championship Flight was won by Wilma Dillard and Joyce Dow of Snyder with a score of 57. Second place went to Nita Spurgess and Ruby Williams of Abilene with 59 and third place was won by Esther Guelker and La Nell Guelker of Colorado City and Andrews with a 62. Finnie Seale and Gertrude League of Snyder won fourth place with a 64.

The First Flight was won by Mina Cooper and Barbara Hardin of Plainview and Crosbyton with a score of 59. Second place winners were Francis Guinn and Lela Swinney of Lubbock with a 60 and third place went to Bobbie Hargrove and Evelyn Thomas of Snyder with a 63. Fourth place was won by Pat Gallagher and Norma Thompson of Snyder with a 65.

The Second Flight was won by Kaye Cypert and Betty Hildreth of Snyder with a score of 58. Second place winners were Bernice Parker and Retha Pickering of Snyder with 58, also. Since there was a tie in this flight for first place, there was a card playoff with Cypert and Hildreth taking first. Third place winners were Jo Biehler and Juanita Smith of Lubbock with a 61 and fourth place went to Maxine Galloway and Dixie Robertson of Spur with a 62.

The Longest Drive Award was won by Barbara Moffett of Snyder and Barbara Hopper of Snyder won the Closest to the Pin Award. The longest drive was scored on the No. 6 hole and and closest to the pin was scored on the No. 5 hole.

A buffet luncheon and awards presentation followed the tournament play. The Women's Golf Association acknowledged several groups at the luncheon for their help and participation. Thanks was given to Snyder Men's Golf Association for their help as marshals during the tournament. Also recognized, was the social committee of Gertrude League, Dena Ellis, Nona Morrison, and Libby Wilson for their preparation and work done for the luncheon. Also, a special thanks to Mrs. Rachel Tosser for the beautiful piano music she provided during the luncheon.

The eleven cities represented during the tournament were Abilene, Andrews, Big Spring, Crosbyton, Hamlin, Lamesa, Lubbock, Merkel, Midland, Plainview and Spur.

Rebels Take Victory As Season Ends

It's a hard way to end the '77 season, but the Buffs apparently called it quits in mid-sixth inning Friday night and let the Rebels have the season's final win, 7-0.

According to the books, the Rebels were already ahead 11-3 when they cannoned six straight runs in the sixth inning with no outs to make the total 17-3. The Buffs called a halt to the stampede, throwing into the effect the forfeit rule: one run to the winners per scheduled inning.

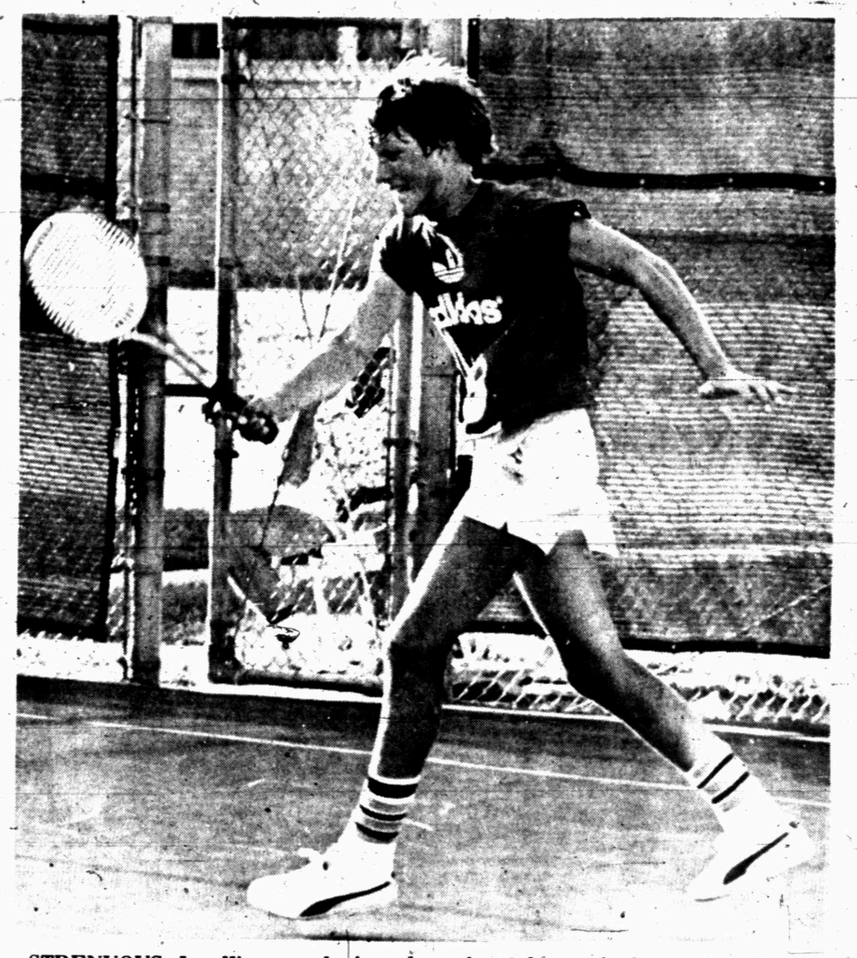

Bart Moran relieved starting hurler John Goodwin in the fourth period. Between the two, they gave up four hits; a single apiece to the Buff's Devin Donelson, Gary Atwood, Neal Paige and Mark McClure.

Hitting for the Rebels were Ricky Gambol with a double and a single, Dale Jenkins with three singles, Toby Neves with two, and Kris Seale, Tony Degrate and Goodwin with one each.

Tommy Gressett took the loss.

Gallardo Transfers For WTC Basketball

Western Texas men's basketball coach, Nolan Richardson, has announced the signing of Julio Gallardo, a 6-9 standout who is transferring from Western New Mexico University.

"Julio is very intelligent and smooth as silk as a player. He feels he can play major college basketball and called me about transferring to Western Texas College. Needless to say, I was overjoyed to aquire a player of Julio's skill," said Coach Richardson.

Julio had an outstanding freshman year at WNMU where he led the team in scoring (17.5 per game) and rebounding (9.5) and was selected to the first team All-Conference squad. He was also chosen most valuable player on the team.

While playing at Ysleta High School in El Paso, Julio led his team to its first Conference Championship in 35 years by scoring 28 points a game.

A near 4.0 student, Gallardo will study pre-engineering at Western Texas.

"I wanted to transfer to WTC for two reasons," explained Gallardo. "Western New Mexico did not offer a major in my chosen field of study and I felt I was capable of playing in a faster league than the small-college NAIA setup. I knew of WTC's fine record and when Coach Richardson was hired to coach, that cinched it for me."

The 6-9 athlete will probably be used at forward because of his shooting and ball-handling abilities. He is also described as a good passer with fair defensive ability.

"Getting a skilled, experienced player such as Gallardo should enhance the chances of any already strong team. We are also glad to get a student of his abilities," commented WTC athletic director, Sid Simpson.

Officers Enforce Life Jacket Rule At Lake

Lake patrolmen are serious about enforcing the life jacket rule for youngsters boating at Lake E.V. Spence.

Within the past 10 days, about a dozen Citations have been issued to adults for transporting children 12 years of age and under without the children wearing life jackets. State law requires this, said Schooling, and he pointed to district rules requiring preservers for all occupants of boats upon the waters.

Frank Mashburn, Big Spring, landed a 19½-lb. striped bass to lead the field in numerous catches of this specie of fish at Lake E.V. Spence during the week. There were several others in the 10-lb. range. The largest fish of the week, however, was a yellow cat that nosed out Mashburn's catch by weighing 20 pounds. Other reports included white bass and many channel catfish. Included were:

Y.J.'s Marina--Wallace and Danny Langley, Monahans, and H.A. Spell, four stripers to 10 lbs.; Jerry Antry, Lubbock, 9½-lb striper; Wanema Howard, Odessa, five stripers to 12½-lbs.; Mary and Cecil Cherry, Odessa, six stripers totaling 37 ½ lbs.; Clay Black, Stanton, five white bass; Jim Newton, Brownfield, and Roy Worden, Brownfield, two stripers to 6 lbs.; Leslie Reeves, Shallowater, 42 channel catfish to 8½ lbs., and a 4-lb. striper.

Wildcat Fish A Rama--Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bain and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Turner and family, Turkey, 18 stripers to 8½ lbs.; Frank Mashburn, Big Spring, 19½ lb. striper; Bill Emerson and Gil Seelmeyer, Big Spring, six striped bass to 8½ lbs.

Hillside Grocery and Bait --Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wasson, Odessa, four stripers to 5 lbs, and five white bass to 1 lb.; Dennis Cox, Hobbs, N.M. 20-lb. yellow cat, and 20 channel cats to 5 lbs.; H.M. Davis, two channel catfish to 6 lbs.

Although Lake E.V. Spence is one of the most prolific reservoirs in the state for striped bass fishing, stocking of the specie continues.

Bill Follis, in charge of the San Angelo base for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, said that 30,000 striped bass fingerlings were turned loose in the open waters of the lake recently. This pattern of introduction in the lake appears to produce better results than in proximity to the shore.

In recent years Lake E.V. Spence has been the source of much of the striped bass population supplied to other lakes. About 7,500,000 fries were hatched and delivered to hatcheries for care until fingerling size this year, Follis estimated.

He also commented on the black bass spawning at Lake Spence this year. Results were excellent on the heels of a similar pattern last year, he said.

America Celebrates the 4th with Pride

"We hold these Truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness...". Our founding fathers had the foresight and wisdom to create a document which clearly defines our American ideals. For the past 201 years, we've upheld these values set forth in the Declaration of Independence and in so doing have become a strong nation of people... from all backgrounds, races and religions... working, growing and prospering together with one goal... a better America... a better world. This July 4th let's celebrate the birth of our heritage with renewed spirit, unity and pride.

Applauds Lady Who Called To Cancel

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y.News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Something touched me deeply this morning, and I hope you will find this worthy of publishing. I am a hairdresser. For more than a year, a little lady has had a standing appointment with me at 3 p.m. every Saturday.

Today (at 9 a.m.) this lady telephoned the shop and said, "My husband's brother passed away very suddenly last night, and I won't be able to come in today. Knowing that appointments are at a premium on a Saturday afternoon, please fill in my time."

Abby, if this lady could find the time under those circumstances to cancel her appointment, why can't women who know weeks ahead of time that they are going to be out of town do the same?

ROSE

DEAR ROSE: Because they lack the qualities of thoughtfulness, consideration and kindness that makes this "lady" a lady.

DEAR ABBY: There is an old guy in our town who is driving everybody nuts. He's about 75 years old, and he can't keep his paws off women. No waitress will get within six feet of him. When he comes into the restaurant, the cashier has to take his order, and the cook comes out of the kitchen to serve it to him!

This guy went to a doctor for a checkup, and the nurse told me that if he ever came back, she was going to have a pair of handcuffs ready. Everybody in town knows about him. I can't understand why they let a man like that run loose. Isn't he dangerous?

PASO ROBLES

DEAR PASO: Probably not. If everybody in town knows about him, they're safe. It's the ones they DON'T know about who are dangerous.

DEAR ABBY: We have one child, 17, I'll call "Brenda." She is a normal, average child, and a little spoiled, but she's never given us any trouble.

Brenda has never washed a pair of hosiery or ironed a blouse because her mother wouldn't let her. She's never even made her own bed. My wife was a personal maid for this child. Brenda was never allowed to spend a night at a girlfriend's house or a week at summer camp.

Now the subject of college is at hand, and Brenda has applied to several.

My wife says, "Brenda doesn't have to go out of town. The local college is good enough." Brenda wants to go away to college, and I think she should, but her mother can't hear of it without bursting into tears. What should be done?

BRENDA'S DAD

DEAR DAD: You appear to have one neurotic female on your hands. Do you want to try for two? Ask your clergyman, family doctor or someone whose opinion your wife values to speak to her.

She must be made to realize that her attachment to her daughter is unhealthy. Brenda needs freedom to develop some self-reliance, and her mother desperately needs to develop some outside interests.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "EAGER TO LEARN": To paraphrase an ancient Chinese Proverb: "A single conversation across the table with a wise man (or woman) is worth a month's study of books."

DEAR ABBY: I was disturbed by your approval of boy babysitters. They may be all right for little boys, but not for little girls. Maybe I'm overly cautious, but as the mother of three daughters I would never leave my children with a teenage boy babysitter. The reason, I think, is obvious. And no, I don't have an evil mind.

CONSCIENTIOUS MOM

DEAR MOM: Please read on for another view:

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for saying it wasn't "sissy" for a boy to babysit. I'm a young woman who did a lot of babysitting during my high school years. When I was asked to babysit, and had a date, I'd recommend my brother who was two years younger than me. He soon ended up getting more jobs than I. The word got around that he was very entertaining, and the kids always behaved perfectly with him.

Now my brother is married and has a 2-year-old daughter. He's an exceptional father, and I feel it was because of all the time he spent around children.

I have no children yet, but when I do, I hope I can raise them as well as my brother is raising his.

BONNIE

DEAR ABBY: Recently you had a letter from a young man whose fiancee's father told him he hoped he would get some "experience" before marrying his daughter.

You answered in your usual witty way: "Do fish have to be taught to swim?"

Unfortunately, Abby, fish don't swim for pleasure, but husband and wife do.

The bride's father was concerned about his daughter, and felt that "experience" was the answer.

Later you wrote, "There are no 'frigid-dears'—only clumsy men." I'm sure the father felt the same way, and was hoping for something better for his daughter.

What a shame you didn't tell the young man there are some excellent books that could tell him all he needs to know.

I married a man who like myself had had no previous sexual experience, but, thank God, he could read.

MISSING NOTHING

DEAR MISSING: I hope you didn't miss the column in which I recommended premarital counseling as well as getting some good books on the subject.

DEAR ABBY: This may come under the heading of etiquette, but what does a woman say when a man says, "Thank you," after having intimate relations?

Last week this happened to me and I was dumbfounded. Should I have said, "You're welcome"? Or should I have thanked HIM in return? After all, I got as much out of it as he did. What should I say if this comes up again?

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: If it comes up again, say, "Don't mention it."

CONFIDENTIAL TO READERS: For a fascinating novel get Abigail McCarthy's "Circles: A Washington Story." You won't be able to put it down. It's published by Doubleday, and available in bookstores.

Meant To Boost Cattle Market

Consignment Of Roasts Bought For Cafeterias

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Agriculture Department has bought its first consignment of high-quality beef roasts for distribution to school cafeterias this fall in a program aimed at giving at least a psychological lift to the depressed cattle market.

Officials said the first purchases included 342,000 pounds of frozen boneless beef roasts at a cost of $380,000, at prices ranging from about $1.09 a pound to almost $1.13 a pound.

Bids will be considered on a weekly basis until further notice, a spokesman said Friday. The plan to buy beef roasts was announced by Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman on June 14.

The decision to buy premium roasts - they must come from cattle graded Choice or Prime - is a departure from the usual practice of buying mostly ground beef for donation to schools and other USDA -subsidized programs. Officials have not ruled out purchases of hamburger later on, however.

According to figures supplied by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the beef roasts bought by USDA on a wholesale basis in lots of 38,000 pounds cost substantially more than hamburger and some roasts sold in retail stores.

For example, BLS said Friday that hamburger sold nationally at an average of 86.5 cents a pound in May, while chuck roasts were 91.6 cents a pound. Rump and rib roasts, however, cost consumers an average of $1.69 and $1.79 a pound, respectively, in May.

Last school year, USDA bought about 198.7 million pounds of beef - mostly hamburger - for around $145 million at an average cost of about 73 cents a pound.

The specification that the roasts come from Choice or Prime beef carcasses means that the purchases are designed to help the "fed" cattle market. Hamburger can come from leaner grass-fed cattle or from cows and bulls sent to slaughter when farmers and ranchers reduce their herds.

Prices of feedlot cattle have not recuperated greatly, although for a time in recent months they were up considerably from the low levels of last winter.

The department's monthly price report this week put the June 15 average of all cattle sold as beef at $34.10 per 100 pounds, down $2 from mid-May. Steers and heifers averaged $36.80 against $39 on May 15.

Department experts say that the cattle market is still expected to recover at least partly this year because producers cutting back on inventories sharply, but so far this has not materialized to the extent farmers and feedlot operators desire.

WASHINGTON (AP)— Charles B. Jennings, former president of the Kansas City stockyards Co., has been officially named head of the government's Packers and Stockyards Administration.

EARLY SEASON INSECT

We talk a lot about early season insect control and how important it is to set an early crop. Early insect control we talk about is when there are economic infestations in the field, not just as a general practice. The only way to know if there are damaging infestations in the field is to be out in that crop every two or three days and watch it.

Dr. Lavon Ray, Cotton Breeder with the Lubbock Research and Extension Center, did research that will point up some of the important reasons for early setting of fruit, thus early insect control if needed.

During the first week of fruiting 8.5 per cent of the crop production is set. The second week, 28.8 per cent, the third week, 27.8 per cent and the fourth week 17.9 per cent. This means that at the end of the fourth week over 80 per cent of crop production can be set.

Also it takes 78 bolls of the first week's cotton to make one pound of seed cotton. 77 bolls of the second week's fruiting to make a pound of seed cotton, but it takes 94 bolls of cotton produced during the seventh week of fruiting to make a pound of seed cotton.

One other thought is that during the 5th to the 8th of fruiting the plant is also subject to more pressure from insects than earlier due to the length of time insects have had to increase in numbers.

But again we must base insect control on infestations found in the crop.

SCREWWORMS:

Screwworm cases are beginning to spread across new areas of Texas and livestock producers are reminded to double their efforts in the current battle against the costly livestock pest.

The total numbers of screwworms cases are still low when compared to previous years, the worst part of the screwworm season is still ahead and all precautions should be taken.

Texas entered June with just 22 screwworm cases reported in 10 counties during the first five months of 1977. By June 15, nine more cases were added. Although many of these cases have been confirmed in Hidalgo County, others have moved up from South Texas into the Central Texas county of San Saba and into Brewster and Terrell Counties in Big Bend-Pecos areas.

Arizona's cases had climbed to 15 by June 15. New Mexico had recorded four cases by that date, and California one to bring the nation's total to 29 by mid-June.

This compares to 1,968 by the same date last year. Producer cooperation is really needed in the next four months to hold the line on screworm cases this year, and make the 'Mission '77: Stamp Out Screwworms' program a success.

Postal Service Still Planning Rate Increase

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Postal Service still plans to raise rates next year, even though it's in its best financial shape ever.

Next week, the Postal Service board of governors is expected to propose increasing the first-class letter rate from 13 cents to 15 or 16 cents early in 1978.

The agency, while making "real progress," still lost $50 million in the last 12 months, says Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar.

Bailar said Friday that the operating loss was drastically lower than the previous year's record $1.2 billion and below the Postal Service's $500 million average annual deficit.

The postmaster general said the agency's financial condition is better than at any time since the 1971 reorganization made it substantially independent of Congress and the president.

But he added that because "inflation continues to plague the Postal Service," steps must be taken soon to increase rates next year.

Bailar said the agency, under existing labor agreements, must soon grant raises to most of its workers. And other cost increases, such as for fuel, are inevitable, he said.

Last year Bailar testified before the Senate committee that the Postal Service was in such financial peril that it could become insolvent within a year.

He said that when the new rates take effect early next year, over two years will have passed since the last increase in first-class rates.

Postage increases, once proposed by the board of governors, need be approved only by the Postal Rate Commission.

At one time officials had expected to lose about $1 billion in the year ended June 30.

The financial picture improved after Bailar ordered many job vacancies be filled by transferring workers not needed in their present posts, rather than by hiring new employes. This policy which has sparked controversy with the postal unions, has reduced the work force to 657,000 people, some 84,000 less than before the 1971 reorganization.

The postmaster general contended this reduction has not hurt service, a view disputed by the unions, many congressmen and others.

Bailar said Postal Service statistics show that on-time delivery was as frequent in the last 12 months as at any time during the six years.

"The Postal Service delivered 96 per cent of mail eligible for overnight delivery on time and 94 per cent of mail designated for second-and third-day delivery," he said.

Rhodes Still Bargain For American Tourists

EDITOR'S NOTE-A surge in prices at one of the world's favorite Mediterranean playgrounds has taken its toll. But Rhodes is still economical for the U.S. visitors the island hopes to attract.

By Paul Anastasiades
Associated Press Writer

RHODES, Greece (AP)- Rising fuel and labor costs have turned into higher hotel and meal prices on Rhodes, and many tourists have turned elsewhere.

Hoteliers here say their price increases of up to 50 per cent are necessary, but they have brought a corresponding 50 per cent drop in bookings.

And different people are coming-fewer Scandinavians and other Europeans seeking economy class accomodations, but more of the wealthier Americans and Japanese.

The problem is not limited to Rhodes, but has spread to other favorite holiday centers in Greece, such as Crete - a result of the government's decision to limit the increase in numbers and aim for the wealthier visitor.

Rhodes, however, is the No. 1 resort in the eastern Mediterranean, attracting last year just under half a million tourists who spent $85 million, or 10 per cent of Greece's entire tourist income.

Rhodes has become a self-sufficient holiday unit, comparable to Spring's Majorca. It is served directly by charters from Europe and North America, basing its fortunes on its weather, beaches and natural beauty, and its combination of cosmopolitan and cultural life.

While super-luxury hotels parallel the Casino, the island also boasts ancient Greek sites, a Venetian castle surrounding a bustling medieval city, and minimum priced package holidays which make it cheaper for the European or American then staying at home.

The price increases have reduced the Scandinavian presence from 80 to 50 percent of the tourist population. Hopes are now being pinned on Americans and Japanese, and the International Airport which goes into operation at the country, Rhodes officials say.

The new airport, a $30-million investment considered necessary since 95 per cent of the tourists fly in, boasts a runway capable of taking the Concorde or any other plane. It can handle one incoming and outgoing flight per minute and up to 4,000 passengers at any one time. With landing and take-off over the sea, the noise problem has been eliminated.

Tzannis Geronikolas president of the Rhodes Travel Association, said that, despite the price increases, it only costs an American or Japanese $500 for a package two-week holiday. About 10,600 Americans visited the island last year, and only 1,600 Japanese, compared to 140,000 Swedes.

One thing has remained unchanged: the sunshine. Known as the "all-year sunshine island," the Weather Bureau lists Rhodes as averaging 133 sunshine hours in the lowest month of December, and 388 hours in the July peak.

The sunshine was mentioned in mythology: when Zeus, god of gods, defeated his opponents and started sharing out the world, he forgot to give a share to the sun. The sun angrily retorted that it was taking for itself a rocky islet then emerging from the sea. It came to be Rhodes.

Traveling Rapist Is Charged

AMARILLO (AP)—Panhandle authorities say the man they call "the traveling rapist" may have had an accomplice in some of 13 rapes that stretched over six counties during the last two years.

The lengthy investigation has already resulted in charges of capital murder, murder and aggravate assault against a 33-year-old Amarillo butcher in connection with assaults in three Panhandle cities over the past 24 months.

Samuel Christopher Hawkins was being held without bond late Friday, charged with capital murder in the February 1976 abduction and death of 12-year-old Rhonda Ann Keys of Amarillo.

Hawkins was also charged with murder in the stabbing death of a pregnant Borger housewife, Abbe Hamilton, 19, in May. Earlier Friday, Hawkins was charged with aggravated rape in connection with a September assault on a Hereford woman.

Amarillo Police Chief Lee Spradlin said Hawkins was arrested shortly before noon Thursday following an investigation of a reported burglary attempt.

Spradlin said, however, that officials have not ruled out the possibility that two men may have been involved in the assaults.

Justice of the Peace Cliff Roberts of Amarillo denied bond on Hawkins' capital murder charge, set $500,000 bond on the murder charge and $100,000 on the rape count.

Police noted similarities between attacks that were reported in several Panhandle cities.

The body of the Keys girl was found in a culvert six days after she disappeared from her home on Feb. 3. Mrs. Hamilton's slashed body was discovered in her bedroom in May. Both victims had been bound by their assailant.

"Officers have discovered evidence to link the suspect with the two murders and 13 rapes in this area," Spradlin said.

Earlier this year, residents of Borger offered a monetary reward for information leading to the arrest of a suspect in the Hamilton slaying.

The investigation so far was conducted by sheriff's departments from Deaf Smith, Randall, Potter, Carson, Hutchinson and Gray Counties. Police departments from Amarillo, Canyon and Borger also assisted.

Navy's First Pin-Up Girl Still Proud At 80

SEQUIM, Wash. (AP)—She was the Navy's first pin-up girl, a lass of 20, who in 1917 donned a blue jacket and jaunty sailor's cap to pose for a winsome recruiting poster.

"Gee!! I Wish I Were a Man. I'd Join the Navy," read the poster, and thousands of young men responded.

Ten days after she posed, Bernice Smith joined the Navy herself, keeping alive the unbroken string of wars - starting with the Revolutionary War - in which members of her family had served. Others have since served through Vietnam.

"Things have changed so much now," said Bernice Tongate, now a widow, as she looked forward to Independence Day.

"Things don't mean what they used to. I think our country is the only one I'd like to live in, but we make mistakes. None of us is perfect.

"If you don't make mistakes, then you're six feet under and pushing up the daisies," she said in an interview Friday.

But in 1917, her only thoughts were of helping the country defend itself in a foreign war. The historic recruiting poster is her pride.

"I would have liked it better if the artist had put that cap on my head in a different manner," said Mrs. Tongate, 80, of the drawing by Howard Chandler Christy.

"That certainly was not regulation. I wouldn't have worn it to the office like that, I'll tell you."

Mrs. Tongate was a Los Angeles office worker riding to work on a streetcar when she read in a newspaper about the Navy's recruiting women.

She rushed to the nearest recruiting office. Presenting the newspaper, she demanded enlistment.

Recruiters went to their commanding officer, paper in hand. Mrs. Tongate followed behind a civilian, Christy, who was in the office.

"Captain, there's a girl here who wants to join the Navy. If you will get a hat, blouse and a pair of pants, I'll make a poster that will turn this town upside down," Christy told the officer.

"If I was a man, I would join the Navy," Mrs. Tongate remembers telling the men. "This is the first time our family has never been represented in a war, and you've just got to take me.

"I was a nervy little brat," she added.

The poster was drawn the same day and Bernice Smith soon afterwards became the first woman in California to enlist. She served until May 1920, earning chief petty officer's stripes as a yeoman.

Rejected by the Navy and Marines for service during World War II - "They said I was too old" - Mrs. Tongate joined the Army, serving in military postal facilities at Battle Creek, Mich., and Riverside, Calif.

Two grandsons served in Vietnam, one in the Army and one in the Navy.

Bess Truman Out Of Hospital

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Bess Truman is back home in Independence.

The widow of president Harry Truman was released from Research Medical Center here Friday. She had been hospitalized for two weeks, just for observation, after falling at her home June 16.

Mrs. Truman, 92, fell in the downstairs bathroom of the 17-room Victorian-style house. She suffered no fractures.

5 Graduate Level Courses Offered

Five graduate level courses are to be offered at the Western Texas College extension center of Sul Ross State University in a summer session scheduled July 7-Aug. 11.

Registration will be held July 5 and 6 in the WTC Administration Building during regular office hours.

This is the last time Sul Ross will be offering courses at the WTC extension center, Dr. Bob Pannell, Director of Off-Campus Study Programs for Sul Ross, has announced.

Courses scheduled for the new session are Ed. 5312 (Advanced Survey, Exceptional Children), Ed. 6310 (Advanced Kindergarten Techniques and Materials), Ed. 7305 (Workshop in Education: Communication and Small Group Process for Educators), Ed. 7307 (Theories in Administration), and History 5309 (Seminar in Southwestern History: Range Cattle Industry of the Southwest).

Persons wishing further information may contact Mary Pinkston, Sul Ross coordinator, at WTC or may call her at 573-0012.

Cleavers File Damage Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Listing a host of cabinet members and FBI officials as defendants, former Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and his wife Kathleen have filed a $4.5 million damage suit.

The Cleavers told a news conference Friday that a conspiracy, intended to destroy them politically and socially, involved the late FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, former U.S. Attorneys General John Mitchell and Richard Kleindienst, former CIA director Richard Helms, former Postmaster General Winton Blount and several FBI agents.

According to the suit, the conspiracy strived to break up the Black Panthers through a false letter-writing campaign.

Cleaver, who is accused of attempted murder in connection with a Black Panther shootout with Oakland police, jumped bail in 1968. He voluntarily returned to the United States in November 1975, after living in Algeria and France. He is free on $100,000 bail.

Directory Expels Republic

NEW YORK (AP)-The Republic of Montmartre has been expelled from Manhattan-at least the Manhattan telephone directory.

Theatrical promoter Barry Allan Richmond had done a little freelance promoting of himself, listing his home and office numbers under 16 entries, such as the "ambassadorial residence" and "chancery" of the Republic of Montmartre.

When the mythical midtown republic was discovered, the New York Telephone Co. was not amused. It took Richmond to court for deceit.

That didn't amuse U.S. District Court Judge Whitman Knapp.

Technically, he refused to intervene on Richmond's behalf because the case was not a federal matter. What he said was, "What a lot of nonsense."

He castigated the company for "wasting company assets" on the suit and "losing revenue besides" by giving up the listings.

County Pageant Set Here Thursday

Five Are Seeking FB Queen Crown

Five beauties are candidates for the Scurry County Farm Bureau Queen's Crown this year.

The annual Farm Bureau Queen's Pageant is set for Thursday night in the Scurry County Coliseum, beginning around 8:30 p.m. It will follow the annual Scurry County Farm Bureau Barbecue, which will begin at 7 p.m.

Hal Kemp of KTXS-TV in Abilene will be the master of ceremonies for the queen's pageant.

Candidates for queen are Pam Burrus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Burrus of Snyder; Tori Dennis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dennis of Snyder; Cathy Hess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hess of Hermleigh; Alice Hollis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.B. Hollis of Snyder, and Gina Willman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tilbert Willman of Inadale.

Miss Burrus, 18, is a recent graduate of Snyder High School and will attend Western Texas College this fall. She plans to work toward a degree in sociology. She enjoys reading, interior designing and playing the piano. She was on the Snyder High School tennis team for four years, was a member of the Student Council, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and the Future Homemakers Association.

Miss Dennis, 17, will graduate at SHS in 1978. Her hobbies include snow skiing, water skiing, watching mortorcycle races, car races and football games. At present, she is a member of the Gay 20 Social Club and holds the office of treasurer. She also is working as a nurses aide at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Miss Hollis, 19, is a 1976 graduate of Snyder High School and now attends WTC. While in SHS, she was a class reporter and was involved in gymnastics. She also was a member of the band and was band sweetheart her senior year. She also was vice president of her senior class and was a Miss SHS nominee. At WTC, she has been a member of the Student Senate. She is a certified scuba diver and works as a legal secretary for a local attorney.

Miss Willman, 16, is a junior at Roscoe High School. She is a cheerleader and plays basketball and is on the track team. She has been in the band for five years, is a member of the drama club, Future Homemakers, Future Teachers Association and Beta Club. She was elected favorite of her freshman class and vice president of FHA. She is now a Sunday School teacher at Salem Lutheran Church at Roscoe.

Members of the Farm Bureau Queen Committee are Mrs. C.D. Gray Jr. Mrs. Morris Light, Mrs. Emmit Hataway, Mrs. Don Franklin and Mrs. John Richardson.

New Water Legislation Discussed At Session

Directors of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District were in Ballinger, Monday, attending a meeting of the West Texas Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. Attending were W.C. Wilson, Jr., Chairman, Big Spring: Walter Stirl, Vice Chairman, Loraine; Carl Williams, Secretary-Treasurer, Hermleigh; and Leon Sterling, Director, Snyder. Also attending was Soil Conservation Service Range Conservationist, Charles Anderson of the Snyder Field Office.

Kenneth Krueger, district supervisor with the Texas Water Quality Board, discussed the new legislation which consolidates the Texas Water Rights Commission, Texas Water Quality Board, and Texas Water Development Board into a new agency called the Texas Department of Water Resources. Krueger stated, that this was a good move because now all the district offices would be able to answer any question on water that pertains to rights, quality, or any similar questions.

He also covered some of the problems which caused them to go back to requiring permits for all feedlots except swine.

State Representative Tom Massey of San Angelo, told the Directors about the problems they have faced in trying to work up a suitable proposal for the Minimum Foundation Program.

The 65th District Representatives who heads the House Education Committee in Austin explained how he was labled one of the "10 worst legislators" by the Texas Monthly.

Massey stated his main objection to the bill was the taxation of agricultural land on its market value. He feels that agricultural land should be taxed on its productivity. A recent survey showed that productivity at agricultural land in Texas was 9 billion dollars as compared to 49 billion dollars for market value. Rep. Massey said he didn't believe in putting the burden of the taxes on the farmer. Instead they should be more evenly spread among all the people of Texas.

Joe Antilley, of Abilene, Chairman of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board told everyone present that they needed to keep an eye on the legislation not only out of Washington but also out of Austin.

Kenneth Kuykendall, President, Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts discussed information he had picked up at a recent meeting of the National Watershed Congress in Washington D.C.

President J.M. Sterling of Colorado City presided over the business meeting. The next meeting of the West Texas Association will be at Big Spring on August 23.

Following the business session, soil and water district directors and guests were taken on a tour of Mueller Supply Company.

Defense Driving Course Popular

CHICAGO (AP)-More than one million drivers took the National Safety Council's defensive driving course during 1976, the largest number to take the course since it was begun in 1965. In the past 11 years nearly eight million persons have completed the course at one of the 1,405 local training agencies, the council said.

Council president Vincent Tofany cites research which showed that persons who had taken the course had 32.8 per cent fewer accidents in the year after completion, and because of this many insurance companies offer lower premiums to its graduates he said.

Art Center Names Curators

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn (AP)-Graham W.J. Beal and Lisa Lyons have been named curator and assistant curator at Walker Art Center in Minneapolis. Prior to his appointment, Beal was director of the art gallery of Washington University, St. Louis. Miss Lyons was a Rockefeller Foundation Fellow Prior to her appointment.

The Egyptians used cosmetics for religious purposes and for embalming the dead as well as for personal embellishment.

Snyder's only Ice Cream Parlor

OPEN JULY 4th

THE SUNSHINE SHOPPE

Snyder Shopping Center (Next to Munden's)

In the late 1800's, one of the most popular places for friends to gather was the ice cream parlor. In small towns, where no fashionable ice cream parlor existed many trips to the "county seat" were highlighted by a visit to the local parlor to treat the family to ice cream, America's most popular confection.

Now we have tried to recapture for you & your family, a bit of that nostalgic atmosphere by proudly bringing the "Sunshine Shoppe" to Snyder.

We will be providing you with 44 rotating flavors of exceptionally rich, highest quality ice cream, fresh daily home-made pies, various types of floats, sundies, & other ice cream delights with a salad bar and sandwiches to be added to our line in the fall.

We would like to invite you to come by July 4th to try our cream, but pardon our mess because we're moving into our new home but we will have our store open, and a cool place for you to come by for the first sample of our confections.

We think you will agree with us, that the "Sunshine Shoppe" will be a delightful experience found exclusively in the West Texas area.

See you on the 4th!

MRS. CLINTON DAVID MORGAN

Whitson, Morgan Recite Vows In Abilene Church

Deborah Whitson became the bride of Clinton David Morgan in a double ring ceremony in the Belmont Baptist Church in Abilene July 2nd, 3 p.m. Rev. Bob Stuckey, pastor of the Belmont Baptist Church officiated.

The couple's parents are Rev. and Mrs. C.D. Whitson of Windhock, South West Africa, and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Morgan, 3728 Austin.

A letter was read from the bride's father giving the bride in marriage. She wore a full length white dress with a cathedral length train and veil. Her jewelry consisted of pearl drop earrings and a pearl drop necklace which were wedding gifts from the groom. Her bouquet of white silk roses, dogwood, baby's breath and pink silk leaves was a gift of the groom's sister.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Melvin Cole of Abilene, was matron of honor. She wore a full length, pink knit dress with matching cape and carried white fireside basket filled with pink daisies.

Miss Christy Cole of Abilene, the bride's niece, was flower girl and her dress was fashioned after that of the matron of honor.

Mr. Clinton E. Morgan, groom's father, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Bill Page of El Paso, and Mr. Roy Webb of Arlington, the groom's brother-in-law.

The couple repeated vows before a gold arch with ivy containing two white doves. Two gold candelabra and unity candles accented the decor.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. John Odom of Abilene, organist and Mr. Pete Simmons of Colemen, soloist. Selections were "The Lord's Prayer." "Ode To Joy" and "May The God Of Love."

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The table was covered with a pink and white lace cloth holding a pewter candelabrum and bouquet of daisies. The three layered white cake was decorated with pink roses, and was served by Mrs. Don Pesnell and Miss Luann Morgan.

Mrs. Roy Webb presided at the registry.

After the wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will reside in Abilene where the groom is employed by Hardin-Simmons University Research Center. The bride chose for the trip a cream colored pant ensemble with pink and green accessories.

The bride and groom are graduates of Hardin-Simmons University in 1976 with BS degrees.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Miss Barbara Huckaby and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taube of Alabama, relatives of the bride.

To Each His Or Her Own

STANTON, Mo. (AP)- Men make better cave guides than women, but women are better than men in souvenir shops, says Robert Hudson, manager of Meramec Caverns here.

"The men seem to have more patience with tourists when conducting tours," he explains.

South's six-club contract was of the optimistic variety, because it depended on a successful spade finesse in addition to reasonable breaks in other suits. Still, the finesse was on, the reasonable breaks were there and under normal circumstances, South would have wrapped up his contract and taken it home.

What happened to South was that West led the five of diamonds against the club slam. This lead away from a king and into a suit bid strongly by dummy is not really unusual in expert circles. The idea is to give declarer a problem at trick one.

Declarer had no problem at trick one. He rose with dummy's ace. Then he took the spade finesse, cashed his ace of spades, ruffed his last spade, cashed dummy's ace of trumps and looked around for a way to get back to his hand.

The way was to ruff a diamond. He thought a while. He finally decided that the five of diamonds lead had been a singleton, ruffed the diamond high and had to lose a trump trick to West's 10, plus the heart he had to lose all the time.

Ask the Jacobys

An Ohio reader wants to know what she should bid in response to partner's one-spade opening with: ♠ x x ♥ A 8 7 6 4 3 2 ♦ x x ♣ x x.

This is a really tough one. The correct response is to pass because any bid is too likely to lead to trouble, but if you do pass you may well be missing a heart game. Bridge is still not an exact science.

Students Analyze Whistling Bottles

LOS ANGELES (AP)- Dan Stat of the University of California at Los Angeles Museum of Cultural History, and Steven Garrett, a UCLA graduate student in physics, have analyzed 73 ancient Peruvian Indian whistling bottles with a battery of modern acoustical equipment and reached the following conclusion:

The Peruvian Indians used them to alter consciousness, not, as was believed by many archeologists, as containers for water or some other liquid.

The two discovered that the bottles could be grouped by their acoustic properties and these groupings correlated with specific Peruvian Indian cultures.

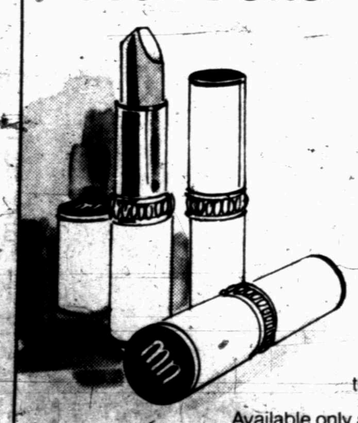

The Salinar tribe made their bottles all with the same average frequency, and the Gallinazo, the Vicus, the Moche, the Recuay, the Huari, the Chancay, the Chimu and the Inca had their own characteristic average whistle frequency, Stat said.

When buying a used boat, exercise the same cautions for buying a used car--if possible, have a test drive, cautions Claudia Kerkbel, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension, The Texas A&M University System.

Use spices sparingly, since they can overpower rather than enhance vegetables' natural flavors. One-fourth to one-half teaspoon of most dried spices and herbs is enough for two cups of vegetables, advises Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Consumers Demand, Get 'Freezers-At-Their-Feet'

COLLEGE STATION--Victory for consumers demanding "freezers-at-their-feet" is on the appliance-market horizon, a Texas home economist reports.

Refrigerators with a bottom-mounted freezer compartment are making a comeback--after a 10-year absence from the market, and consumer demand is responsible, Mrs. Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist, says.

"Industry had thought the side-by-side refrigerator-freezer would be a better design than bottom-mounted freezers, which they phased out in the late 1960s.

"However, recent market research shows that nearly 50 per cent of bottom-mount owners want to replace old units with the same style," she explains.

Mrs. McCormack is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Looking at reasons for the returning design's popularity, she said a bottom-mount freezer puts all other refrigerator contents at an easy-to-reach level--without the need for bending, and many consumers like that, since most use the refrigerator compartment five times more often than the freezer section.

Still, family lifestyle and budget and space limits should be the major factors in shopping for refrigerators, the specialist advises.

Trimming outside fat from meats before grilling will eliminate some of the flaming of coals that burns the outside of meat, says Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

A 13-year study has turned up some apparent keys to longevity (a long life). One is satisfaction in one's work; another is general happiness - followed by abstinence from tobacco. Not mentioned is the necessity for a clean environment, the lack of which seriously threatens not only our quality and length of live, but the very survival of the human species.

independent and free

Each year one hears old-timers remark that Independence Day isn't what it used to be. The slogan, "Hurray for the great and glorious Fourth," now brings a nostalgic smile.

The all-day booming of firecrackers and rockets, oratory and parades seems to have passed into limbo to be replaced by quiet family gatherings and private pursuits. Yet this new mood is not due to patriotism going out of style. Perhaps it is because we are beginning to realize that "independence" is no longer an adequate word to describe the great event we celebrate.

Just who is independent today and what are they independent of? Not of government bureaucracy – sometimes good and sometimes bad. Not of foreign entanglements and responsibilities - which years of isolationism have proved to be inevitable, if not vitally necessary to the preservation of our nation.

Just how many of us would want to be independent today, if we could - independent of strong central government, allies, taxes and all the services that taxes pay for?

We must remember that the Continental Congress asserted that the colonies should be not only independent but free. There is a difference.

The founders of this nation believed that governments exist to make men free and to help them enjoy their freedom. Their tie to Britain was a bar to this goal so they wrote a Declaration of Idnependence.

Yes, it is freedom that we really celebrate today. But it was not secured to us by the men of '76 for all time to come. It is something that each generation must earn and preserve for itself.

Are we bartering away our freedom for a little security, both individually and nationally? Or are we putting the meaning of freedom into the broader context of a decent life for all, achieved through national and international cooperation, even though it may limit a certain kind of rugged individualism?

There's room for argument on both sides. And it's certainly worth thinking about, not only on this July 4th but every day of the year.

"That's the spirit!"

defending the penny

What to do about the copper penny may turn out to be the numismatic hot potato of 1977.

Should we get rid of the penny because it costs too much to make?

Or should we save the penny, even if it means building a new mint in Denver to keep up with the demand?

The Carter administration hasn't made up its mind, but it seems obivious that life without pennies would be dismal indeed.

What would you put in gumball machines?

How could you have a one-cent sale?

Or fill up a jar with copper coins for a rainy day?

Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal says he's in favor of phasing out the half-dollar piece.

No argument there.

Two quarters will do just as well.

He also wants Congress to replace the silver dollar with something smaller.

Why not go the whole way and eliminate the dollar piece entirely?

But the penny let's keep. It's worth a lot more to us jingle-janglers than most people think.

decontrol essential

If I were one of the big gas companies I'd be trying to raise the price of natural gas.

I'd be trying to convince members of Congress that I can't afford to explore for more gas because exploration costs have increased 19 percent per year since 1973 while I'm still required by law to sell what gas I find at 1955 prices.

President Carter shows he knows I need higher prices. He proposes an increase from the present 52 cents per thousand cubic feet to $1.75 on any new gas I find.

But if I were one of the big gas companies I'd insist that's not enough. That I need $2.25 per thousand or I can't afford to go down to where the big reserves are.

This is embarrassing.

I'm not a big gas company.

I'm fed up with everybody demanding higher prices for everything.

Yet the economic facts of life are incontrovertible.

Unless I'm willing to pay our gas companies $2.25 I'll have no alternative but to continue paying foreign suppliers $3.20. It's as simple as that.

Oklahoma is a big producer and a big consumer of natural gas. Oklahoma knows first-hand that the way to grow is not to curtail demand but to increase supply.

Carter Administration energy planning has tended to focus more on conservation than on production, more on husbanding our resources than on enhancing them, more on using less rather than developing more.

While it is right and proper and timely for us to stop wasting energy, it is also high time we encourage, rather than discourage, domestic development of more energy.

The American people have always been willing to pay the price of victory.

But we rebel at a philosophy of retreat -- in war or peace.

Show us the goal -- tell us what it'll cost -- we'll pay.

But don't try to inspire us with pulled-punches wars or with a homefront philosophy of slowdown.

President Carter wrote a campaign promise letter to oil states governors Oct. 19, 1976, in which he said, "I will work with the Congress. . . to deregulate natural gas."

He recognized this decontrol as essential to new exploration. That gas producers need more capital to pay the higher costs of production.

Yet now his Administration is proposing another wellhead price limit -- and far below what we are presently paying Mexican and other foreign producers.

Prices for new gas under the new Carter ceiling are well below projected "free market" intrastate prices until early 1990.

Inevitably this will mean less stateside production, increased dependency on foreign supplies and, in the long run, higher prices for the United States.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The lack of something to feel important about is almost the greatest tragedy a man may have."

On a ranch near New Braunfels Monday a group of Texans have been invited for a special 4th of July celebration.

It will be like many observed throughout the nation, but one major thing is expected to happen to make this particular get-together a little different.

Rumor has it that Rep. Bob Krueger will announce his intentions to challenge U.S. Sen. John Tower for his seat in Washington.

If indeed he does decide to run for the U.S. Senate, we'd like to be the first or among the first newspapers in the state to endorse the articulate congressman who has taken up the torch in behalf of the oil and gas industry.

While attending the Texas Press Association meeting in Galveston last weekend, we had the opportunity to hear Rep. Krueger in person.

For the past several months we have been following news accounts of his efforts on behalf of Texas oil and gas interests. We had already decided that his candiddancy had merit, but now we're convinced that Texas needs Bob Krueger in the Senate.

Rep. Kruegar called federal regulations of the petroleum industry "domestic colonialism" which he says forces Texans to subsidize energy users in the nothern part of the nation.

The congressman said that Texas produces 40 per cent of the nation's gas supply and uses 20 per cent of the nation's supply. Because gas going out of Texas is regulated by federal authorities, Texans are paying substantially more for the gas than those outside.

He described the situation of the government forcing producers to sell natural gas outside the state at a price below the world market as a subsidy and grossly unfair. "All we are asking for is equality," Krueger said. "We're not asking coal or steel to be sold lower in Texas than that up north."

Last week Krueger was leading the fight in Congress to block a bill that would allow the government to allocate fuel in the case of national emergencies. In other words, if we had a repeat of last winter, Texas fuels could be allocated up north. Krueger has been telling the folks that the reason Texans were warm and Texans were on the job last winter is because Texans were paying the world price.

An allocation of fuels would have an adverse economic impact on Texas as the petroleum industry in Texas makes up one third of the state's gross national product.

We liked what we heard from Rep. Krueger, and we liked even more the fact that Krueger is doing just exactly what he was elected to do--represent the best interests of the people of Texas. We wish we could say the same for some of the other folks sent to Washington.

We suspect we'll be hearing a lot more from the tall Texan.

Museum Offers Thrills Of Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)-If you want to fly in an open cockpit biplane, drift in the gondola of a hot air balloon, or land on the moon, visit the National Air and Space Museum in Washington, D.C.

The 118 audio-visual displays at the branch of the Smithsonian Institution spare no effort to give visitors the feeling of flight.

Spectators look through the narrow triangular windows of an Apollo command module at film shot during the Appollo II lunar landing.

A huge screen nearly five stories high, multiple projectors and quadrophonic sound provide the backdrop for the balloon's open gondola, and a filmed ride in a barnstormer's biplane.

WASHINGTON -(NEA)- Jimmy Carter's 5-month honeymoon with the American people, a romance built more around style than substance, may be rapidly drawing to a close.

For the first time since he took office, nearly every major pollster in the country is now picking up evidence of a mounting disenchantment with Carter's substantive performance as president.

Highlighting the shift in sentiment is a growing public concern about Carter's handling of the economy-especially his failure to halt inflation, which has become the nation's number one problem as far as the average citizen is concerned.

Although Carter's personal popularity remains high-61 per cent according to a June survey by Louis Harris-it has plummeted sharply from a peak approval rating of 75 per cent in late March.

That sort of drop, by itself, is disconcerting enough. Even though both Carter and his political advisers have been expecting a decline in his popularity, no president likes to see the proof in cold, hard figures.

For Carter, the slide is even more troubling because his phenomenal personal popularity-no matter how amorphous-has been his sole source of leverage on Capitol Hill. The members of Congress, who never shared the public's affection for the new president, nonetheless hesitated to cross him as long as he was riding high in the polls.

The real danger signals for Carter lie in the public's perception that inflation is once again threatening both the security of the average consumer and the economic recovery of the nation.

In testimony before the Joint Economic Committee, five leading pollsters this month warned that the surging consumer confidence of early 1977 is rapidly collapsing in the face of continuing inflation. And Carter is getting low marks for his handling of the problem, they said.

The Yankelovich, Skelly and White, Inc. firm, for instance, found only 25 per cent now approve of Carter's handling of the economy. On keeping down the cost of living, the Harris survey gave Carter a 60-34 negative rating.

Carter's economic advisers insist inflation is moderating now. They claim the fall-off in consumer spending anticipated in the second half of 1977 will be offset by increased business investment, sustaining the economic recovery.

They may be right, but the American people are deeply skeptical, if the pollsters are reading the mood accurately. "In the past few months, pessimism about the future of the economy has begun to take hold again," Harris reported.

In April, for the first time in five years, a narrow plurality of the public felt the country would not be in a recession 12 months later. By June, a discouraging 45-36 plurality once again felt we will have a recession a year from now.

Public opinion surveys also indicate Carter has failed to educate the American people on the significance of the import oil from foreign countries to meet our needs.

And Gallup also discovered widespread public confusion about Carter's emphasis on raising energy prices as a means of "solving" the energy problem.

"In the minds of many people, higher energy prices ARE the energy problem," a Gallup survey official explained. "Therefore, when the President or Congress talks about solving the energy problem by raising energy prices, many people are simply baffled."

With readings like that from the grassroots, it is obvious that Carter is in for a rough time on Capitol Hill on his economic policy and his ambitious energy program as well. The real test of his leadership lies ahead.

no two alike

In February of 1974, during Mardi Gras in New Orleans, two police officers were called to a neighborhood ruckus in which a young man reportedly had fired a gun several times. When the officers cut off the fleeing suspect in their patrol car, he shot and wounded one and shot and killed the other.

The suspect, Harry Roberts, 19, was convicted of first degree murder. He then was sentenced to die under a Louisiana law requiring the death penalty for anyone who purposely kills "a fireman or a peace officer who was engaged in the performance of his lawful duties."

Now, three years later, the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled (in a 5 to 4 decision) that automatic execution of Harry Roberts for killing a police officer would be "cruel and unusual punishment" and therefore unconstitutional under the Bill of Rights.

The five justices who joined in the decision said the courts must consider "mitigating circumstances" before passing sentence. The defendant's age, for example. His past record. Whether he's been drinking or taking drugs. Whether he was emotionally disturbed. Whether he "reasonably believed" he was morally justified in doing what he did.

This may sound, to some, like sociological nonsense. Justice William H. Rehnquist pointed out in his dissenting opinion that "John Wilkes Booth may well have thought he was morally justified in murdering Abraham Lincoln."

Nevertheless, there are two good reasons for opposing mandatory executions. The first is that no two cases- and no two defendants-are exactly alike. The second is that the death penalty, because of its severity, should not be imposed automatically even for killing a police officer.

Back in 1972 the Supreme Court ruled that executions in this country were too random and too arbitrary. They followed no pattern. Being sentenced to death, Justice Potter Stewart wrote, was like being struck by lightning.

Last year the court went a step further. It said capital punishment was constitutional-but only if judges and juries were given some guidelines and some discretion on whether it should be imposed.

There is nothing simple or easy about any of this. It requires more caution, and more judicial soul-searching, than many law-and-order advocates would prefer.

It seems to us, though, that if the death penalty is to be imposed it should be limited to cases in which such extreme punishment can be justified by the circumstances of the crime itself.

it's possible

By Robert Schuller

After spending 40 years in China, Henry Poppen was called into the main city square for a public trial. Over ten thousand people jammed the streets as accusation after accusation was read against him. Finally, he was declared guilty on all counts and was told he must leave the country.

He and his wife were put on a bus and sent to Swatow. They were hoping to board a steamer and leave for freedom in Hong Kong and then head back to America. But in Swatow he was pulled off the bus, placed in solitary confinement in a little cell that measured only six feet by eight feet. The ceiling was so low, he could not stand up. He didn't know what was going to happen to him, but he did know that most missionaries who were declared the political prisoners of Mao Tse-tung never lived to tell about it.

His wife was put on a train, then a boat and finally found herself in Hong Kong. She waited anxiously in a hotel not knowing where her husband was. Meanwhile, Dr. Poppen spent hour after hour and day after day in this small cell. He kept his sanity by singing and reciting, "I will lift mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help; my help cometh from the Lord, who made the heaven and the earth."

Finally, he could stand the blackness and the mental torture no longer. At midnight he got on his hands and knees by his small wooden cot and prayed, "Oh, God, you know I am not St. Paul, or the Apostle John or St. Peter. I am only Henry Poppen, and Henry Poppen can take no more. Lord, deliver me or take my life."

He fell asleep on his hands and knees only to be awakened about an hour later by the squeaking hinges on the door of his cell. The guards came in and tied a rope around his neck with a slipknot, ran it down his backbone and bound his arms behind him so tightly that if he struggled at all he would strangle himself. Then they led him down a dark, winding, cobblestone street. He was certain he was headed for his execution until he saw the reflection of light in the rippling water and heard the hum and chunking of an engine. Then he saw the dark outline of an ocean steamer, waiting, with its gangplank down. The guards shoved him onto the deck and said, "Now get out of our country!"

The gangplank was raised and the steamer blew the whistle. The captain took the rope off his neck and cut it loose from his hands. Then he directed Poppen to his private quarters and told him to stay there. When the captain returned for him, Henry asked, "Where are we?" Through the open door, he could see the dawn breaking over the city of Hong Kong.

The captain told him that as soon as the ship was tied up at the dock, he was to run down the crowded streets and get lost. His heart jumped with joy as he realized he was free! God had heard his cry and given him THE GIFT OF THE OPEN DOOR!

What greater gift can God give to anyone than the gift of the open door. God looks at your past, at your weaknesses and failures and He offers you an open door to freedom. Where you have tried and failed in the past, you can believe God today! By faith, walk through the open door for with God, all things are possible.

Britain Replaces US As Top Offshore Producer

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)-Great Britain has replaced the United States as the world's top producer of offshore natural gas.

While the United States was increasing its offshore output by only 1.72 per cent last year, the United Kingdom saw its North Sea production soar by more than 286 per cent.

The british surge pushed production to 13.9 cubic feet a day. The United States dropped back to second place despite posting a record offshore average of 11.8 billion cubic feet daily.

A 437 per cent increase also permitted the United Kingdom to move from No. 19 to No. 6 in world rankings among offshore crude oil producers with output averaging 446,000 barrels a day.

The British sector crude output is now exceeded only by that of Saudi Arabia, Venezuela, the United States, Abu Dhabi, and Nigeria.

The new rankings have been published in Offshore, a trade publication, in its annual midyear report on worldwide drilling and production operations.

Offshore described the North Sea as the brightest spot on the globe and said the impressive British sector gains were made despite only a modest 2.9 per cent increase in the number of wells drilled last year.

Worldwide offshore natural gas production was placed at a record 29.7 billion cubic feet a day, up 73 per cent from the 1975 average of 17.1 billion.

Crude output had a worldwide offshore average of 9.4 million barrels a day, an increase over 1976 levels, but below the record 10 million barrel level set in 1973.

Offshore production accounted for 21.6 per cent of combined onshore and offshore crude output by all non-communist areas and 16.5 per cent of total world production. A year earlier the figures were 19.6 and 15.4 per cent, respectively.

The only downward trend reported involved drilling operations. A total of 2,044 wells were drilled last year, compared with 2,128 a year earlier and 2,616 in 1972.

An editorial in Offshore's worldwide report edition commented on the offshore gains but asked the question "Will they prove illusory?"

The editorial said all of last year's production gains came from four countries, Saudi Arabia, the United States, the United Kingdom, and Indonesia.

The four accounted for all but 100,000 barrels of the 1.1 million barrels a day increase in crude production while the United States and the United Kingdom produced all but 4 billion cubic feet of the worldwide 29.7 billion average for daily natural gas output.

Despite such gains, exploratory or wildcat well completions totaled only 751, compared with 757 a year earlier.

"There is such a long lead time in moving an offshore field from discovery to production this lack of wildcatting is going to have an impact in the next four or five years on worldwide marine production," the editorial said.

"And this lack of wildcatting in practically all cases, can be traced to political disruptions and enforced delays in drilling plans by governments."

The North Sea was said to have provided 7.4 per cent of total world offshore crude production last year and an astounding 49.6 per cent of natural gas output.

In other North Sea sectors, Norway was credited with a 28 per cent increase in production to 242,610 barrels a day and an incredible 3,293 per cent increase in natural gas to 560 million cubic feet a day.

Saudi Arabia replaced Venezuela as the No. 1 offshore producer of crude oil with a 1,694,000 barrels daily average that was well below its 2024,590-barrel average of 97.

Venezuela posted a third consecutive year of decline with an average of 1,677,220 barrels a day compared with 2,700,000 barrels daily in 1973.

The United States followed at No. 3 with 1,064,000 barrels a day, compared with 1,697,460 in 1973.

Russia dropped from No. 11 to No. 14 in the rankings with an estimated output of 220,000 barrels daily compared with 228,000 a year earlier.

Outpost Is Staked To Scurry County Field

Coronado Minerals Co., of Houston will drill No. 1 Newman Unit as a ¾-mile east outpost to the Earnest (6,500) field of Scurry, four miles southwest of Hermleigh.

Location is 2,196 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 12, block 3, H&GN survey, planned dept is 7,000 feet.

Estoril Producing Corp., Midland, has suggested field designation of EPC (Spraberry) for its No. 1-3-1 Miller Borden County oil discovery, 11-4 mile southwest of Spraberry production in the Hood field.

The well had a daily potential of 91 barrels of 37.2-gravity oil and 10 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 2,234-1, producing through perforations at 5,228-5,238 feet. The pay had been acidized with 1,000 gallons and fractured with 1,500 gallons and 2,500 pounds of sand.

Drilled to 8,500 feet, it has 5½-inch casing set at 5,560 feet. Top of the Spraberry was picked at 4,044 feet, under ground elevation of 2,599.7 feet. It earlier had been reported that the Strawn was topped at 4,940 feet and that the well finaled as a Strawn opener in the Hood pool, in which it originally was slated to drill.

Location is 467 feet from north and 2,550 feet from east lines of section 3, L.V. Hood survey, 10 miles west of Fluvanna.

WES-TEX Drilling Co., Abilene, accounted for the 10,400-foot venture in Howard, 17-8 mile southwest of the Knott, West (Pennsylvanian reef) field. It is No. 1 Roy M. Phillips.

Location is 1,700 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 20, block 33, T-2-N T&P survey, five miles east of Knott.

Resources Investment Corp. No. 2 Flanagan has been staked as a ½-mile south outpost to No. 1 Flanagan, which has completed as a seven mile southwest extension to the Howard part of the Spraberry Trend Area in Howard.

Survey Set On Weather

WASHINGTON (AP) - Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it, Mark Twain is said to have said.

Next year the United Nations' Global Atmospheric Research Programme is going to do something. It will conduct the most detailed survey ever made of the earth's atmosphere, attempting to track air and moisture movements and temperature variations over the earth's surface.

Since 1940 the average global temperature has fallen about half a degree Fahrenheit and some scientists are predicting the return of the Ice Age.

On the other hand, other studies have shown a warming process, says National Geographic. In a recent report on climate change, Geographic writer Samuel W. Matthews concludes, "man still does not really know what controls and changes his climate, his daily weather, his seasonal comfort."

Francisco Coronado died in Mexico City in November 1554 at the age of 44.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

After ulcer surgery

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is cutting the vagus nerve a cure for ulcers? I'm 67 and had an operation for the removal of an ulcer and 70 per cent of my stomach five years ago.

I developed another ulcer and finally had another operation with a little more of my stomach being removed and they cut the vagus nerve.

It's nine weeks after the operation and I feel fairly good with a little soreness in the stomach. The problem is I have diarrhea. I have tried Lomotil to slow it down and it helps some. And I have been following a low residue diet.

Is this normal after an operation of this sort? I have a paper that says there is positively no evidence of any malignancy in any part of my intestines or bowels. Could you give me your opinion in regard to this diarrhea?

DEAR READER — Yes, you are in a bit of a hurry. That small stomach cannot store food as it once did and the food is "dumped" too soon into the small intestine. This is called a dumping syndrome. As many as 80 per cent of patients may have similar problems in the immediate post operative period after such surgery. The symptoms gradually disappear, in most cases.

Two tips you can use to help you are to either eat lying down or lie down immediately after eating, and avoid carbohydrates. Some patients have temporary milk intolerance after surgery. You'll do better on a high protein diet of frequent small meals.

You'll need to arrange your life to prevent ulcers as much as you can despite your operation. Of course you should not smoke or use coffee in any form. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-5 (Ulcers — Duodenal, Stomach) to give you more information on this. Usually people who have stressful situations will not respond well unless they do something about their life situations. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband and I are in our 20s and we have been trying to have a baby for about a year now. My husband had his sperm count taken and the doctor informed us that half of the sperm cells were abnormal and half of the sperm cells were not motile. What causes this and can it be corrected?

Is there any hope for us to ever have a baby? We would appreciate any information you can give us as we would really like to have a child.

DEAR READER — Some men with low sperm counts are helped a great deal with thyroid hormone. There is some work now on the use of the fertility pill commonly used for women in men with low sperm counts. Some success has been reported by reputable scientists. Your doctor may want to try this for your husband.

The causes of low sperm counts or abnormal cells are many and varied, including damage to the testicles from an attack of mumps to having just been born that way. Often no one is able to say for certain what the cause really is.

Dr Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Nineteen days ago I ate some undercooked pork at a party. It was ground sausage meat stuffed into mushroom caps and cooked in the oven about 30 minutes. The sausage was dark brown on top and I didn't notice it was pink on the inside until I had eaten some. I am concerned about trichinosis.

Is trichinosis a dangerous disease? In this day and age should I be concerned? If so, what would the symptoms be? Within what time period? What tests can be utilized to determine if one has the disease?

If trichinosis is present, what procedures are available to rid the body of this parasite?

DEAR READER — Unfortunately, "in this day and age" trichinosis is still a problem and everyone needs to be concerned about it. About 30 years ago you could find the cysts of trichinosis in the diaphragm of more than 16 per cent of the people who were examined by autopsy. Now the figure is down to about 4 per cent.

The main cause is from eating underdone pork. To protect yourself from trichinosis you need to be sure that the pork has been cooked to a temperature of 60 degrees C (140 degrees F for 30 minutes for each pound of pork — or until all parts of the meat held this temperature for at least 30 minutes.) The pork should be well done and never pink — except for the natural pink color of ham. If pork is frozen to minus 15 degrees C (-59 degrees F) for 20 days that will also kill the cysts that cause the disease.

Proper smoking and pickling of pork products will destroy trichinosis but you must be careful about home prepared items or those that have not been inspected. You can also get trichinosis from eating hamburger. The beef may be ground in the same grinder used to grind sausage or sausage may be added to the hamburger. The only way to completely safeguard yourself from this is to grind your own hamburger — which you do from lean cuts to avoid fat as well — or cook your hamburger very well.

There is no way to inspect or test pigs to be sure they do not have trichinosis and the safe approach is to assume they do. Prevention of trichinosis in pigs — by not feeding them raw garbage among other things — has helped immeasurably to decrease the incidence of trichinosis. New York used to have a lot of it because of garbage fed pigs.

The symptoms may begin within two days — nausea, diarrhea, abdominal pain — similar to food poisoning. Invasion of the muscles begins in about a week and may take six weeks. Fever, swelling of the eyes and muscle pain is common. Inflammation of the heart muscle may also occur. The diagnosis is made by blood tests and particularly the use of muscle biopsy techniques. The muscle is examined under a microscope to find the trichinosis.

Yes, it is a dangerous disease. About 5 per cent of those who have it die in spite of treatment. If the nervous system is involved the death rate is about twice that high. If a person has trichinosis there are good medicines that your doctor can use but there is little you can do for yourself. Your best bet is prevention.

For information on "Food Poisoning of Infectious Origin" send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 6-2. Send your letter to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Man's Activities Affect Weather

WASHINGTON (AP)- There's a new factor in climate change, reports National Geographic. For the first time, say scientists, man and his activities may be beginning to affect the weather.

One expert, Dr. Reid A. Bryson of the University of Wisconsin, says man may even be the decisive factor in the climate equation. He calls the over-all effect of man's activities "the human volcano," citing his smoke, tractor dust, jet exhaust and smog.

Many scientific efforts are under way to assess man's impact on the climate.

It's possible this coming year that you'll be involved in more joint ventures than ever before. If you allocate your time wisely and are very selective, some could be highly beneficial.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Injecting yourself into someone else's affairs today could cause some future grief. You may sow a breeze and reap a whirlwind. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Pass up situations where you have to rub elbows with people you're not comfortable with. There's a strong possibility some unpleasantries would result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Pace yourself today. Shun activities you know are mentally or physically taxing or where you might have to extend your limits beyond normal endurance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's true you're lucky today, but not in all areas. The long-shots you're pulling for could prove they earned their classification.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This could be one of those days when everything starts out wrong. Don't be dismayed. Somehow, you'll be smelling like a rose in the final stanza.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) When driving today, don't be in too big a hurry. Above all, keep a weather eye peeled for the other guy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) It will take a herculean effort to stick to your budget today because of demands on your wallet made by you, your family and friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Early today you tend to buck city hall and do things the hard way. Later you'll relax. That's when things begin to go your way.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It may appear you're being taken advantage of today. You're acting in accord with your highest ideals. You'll win. The scoffers won't.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The day will be more enjoyable if you try to limit your involvements. Too many irons in the fire will bring expenses and remorse.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Instead of relaxing today, you could be chomping at the bit for some action. Don't be irritated if the gang won't go along.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're fortunate today in things you do by yourself. However, your luck is considerably diluted if others get into the act.

Your Birthday

July 4, 1977

This year, you could make some very valuable contacts through social situations. It's best to become friends before you consider being business associates.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to commit yourself to too rigid a schedule today. Spontaneous happenings are the ones which will ultimately prove most enjoyable. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You should not be too attentive to one person today while virtually ignoring others in the gathering. This is no way to chalk up points.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Without intending to today, you could offend someone who is fond of you. Should this occur, bend over backward to make amends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could profit from something you're a party to today, but not as you anticipated. The change will be unique and increase your return.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone close to you may be difficult to please today. You're clever enough to go around problems with a different approach.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Make the day more relaxing for your family if you volunteer for little chores you normally wouldn't do. They'll appreciate your thoughtfulness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Should you have something special planned for today, do call a friend who is often excluded. This person will remember your kindness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something could suddenly pop up today that would be advantageous to your career or financial status. Be alert for the unusual.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may meet someone today whose views and customs are quite different from yours. Each could learn a great deal from the other.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your holiday will be more enjoyable if you avoid large crowds. Mingle with a small group which tries different fun activities.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't set yourself up as social director today. Let go of the reins. Someone will likely come up with better ideas than you would.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you have an important career matter to take care of, do it before you seek pleasurable pursuits today. The fun and games will wait.

Overlook no opportunities to add to your font of knowledge this coming year. The more education you have and the greater expertise, the better your chances for future financial independence.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your plans are above reproach today but you are inclined to leave implementation to those who are incompetent. If you do, failure will result. Having trouble selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The possibilities of putting a profitable business deal together today are excellent. Success depends on not leaving anything to chance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) For the sake of your image, it's essential that you be a person of your word today. Don't alter your position even if something better presents itself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An important goal is well within your grasp today, provided you don't go off on a tangent or postpone action till manana.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Subdue inclinations you may have today to jump into speculative ventures, regardless of how enticing they appear on the surface.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep what you hope to accomplish constantly before you today. Above all, don't depend on people who have been ineffectual allies in the past.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be charming and complimentary today to those who deserve it, but don't flatter persons who haven't earned your praise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If there's something you hope to gain today, expect it through a logical sequence of events. Don't look for a chance to shorten the process.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Entertaining an important person in hopes of gaining a career advantage is futile today. Business and pleasure, like oil and water, don't mix.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Charity should begin at home today. This doesn't mean to overlook others, but keep your priorities in order and don't give away the store.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In involvements with friends today where something of value is at stake, be sure your understanding is well-defined.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Promising conditions for personal accumulation exist today. However, you could lose the advantage through your poor judgment or that of an associate.

A Claim... A CONTRADICTION

If a man should say, "I love life," and at the same time raise a gun to his head with the intent of ending his life, his action would contradict his claim. In exactly the same way, if a person should say, "I accept Christ as my Lord," and then fail to submit wholly to Christ, his behavior would contradict his claim.

Jesus asks, "Why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6:46). Can you answer this question? If Christ is your Lord, you are his servant and must submit to his commands. If you call Christ "Lord" but do not obey him, are you not contradicting your claim?

In the mind of man, worshipping God is synonymous with being a Christian. But to acknowledge Jesus as the Christ, to call him Lord, is in reality far more than this. On this very point Jesus declares: "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven" (Matthew 7:21). Jesus recognized that there is a vast difference between calling him Lord, and obeying his will.

Christianity, far from being merely a way of doing certain things, becomes a way of doing everything — a realization that one is no longer "the captain of his soul," no longer free to do as he pleases in religion: ". . . whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do these things that are pleasing in his sight" (1 John 3:22). There is now purpose and order and direction to his whole life — secular and spiritual. He is led by the King Eternal.

If the Lord, through one of his apostles, says, "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of your sins" (Acts 2:38), this presents no problem — it is instantly obeyed.

Or if the Lord, through another apostle, admonishes his saints to be steadfast in worship, "not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together . . ." (Hebrews 10:25), this is joyously received.

When he instructs, "Walk in spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh" (Galatians 5:16), the servant complies and becomes more like the Master.

So also with all the Lord's commands. They are accepted, revered, and applied, because the Christian knows that "this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not grievous" (1 John 5:3). Thus the child of God implies complete submission to the will of Christ when he says, "Lord, Lord."
