JIM'S BROTHER OPPOSES 'FERGUSONISM'

PRIMARY COST IS $3,000,000 SENATE HEARS

Expenses of Pennsylvania Republican Nomination Mount.

TOTALS INCOMPLETE

Expenditures Not Made Public by Candidates for Governor.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 18.—(AP)—Expenses of the republican primary in Pennsylvania last month approached the $3,000,000 mark in figures compiled here today from accounts filed with the state bureau of elections.

The senatorial contest in which Representative William S. Vare defeated Senator George Wharton epper and Governer Gifford Pinchot showed a total close to $2,500,000 to this sum.

Expnditures in behalf of the Vare candidacy which had been elected at $505,000 in testimony before the United States senate committee investigating campaign funds were boosted $16,806 by an account filed for the Ralph Beaver Strassburger modification committee for William S. Vare senator. The Vare campaign committee's account has not been filed.

Expenses totalled $1,631,242 were shown in reports filed by the larger committees which spent money in support of the ticket headed by Senator Pepper.

The expenditures of Governor Pinchot's campaign including these of county committees were estimated at $195,000 in testimony before the senatorial investigators in Washington.

How Much Is Beauty Worth?

A Belgian court recently awarded a 17-year-old girl $800, who had been disfigured in an accident. Evelyn Lave, English musical comedy star, and one of the most beautiful actresses in Great Britain, says that amount is not nearly enough for a marred countenance as the damage might ruin a girl's chance for both happiness and matrimony. She says neither $800 nor even $4,000 would be enough.

Age Profits Two, From Milk And Ice Fund Old Man Learns Here

MILK AND ICE FUND
Already subscribed	$166.00
L. A. Raines	5.00
George G. Golden	2.00
William G. Machechney	1.00
Total	$174.00

If he were your father would you like for him to have nourishing, cool milk in the summer. A case of an elderly man has been added to the recipients of the Record News Milk and Ice Fund, and if you hear his story, you will, perhaps, believe a worthy service has been done.

He has passed the age of being young and able to do heavy work, but during his earlier days had toiled long and hard. Now, at 75, he is able to make only a pittance from his labor at working yards and similar duties. He has no family to support and he lives alone. It is all he can do to care for himself and keep neat and clean. It is hard for him to prepare the foods exactly suitable for one of his age, and milk is one of the things that he has denied himself in order to make possible the other things.

Yesterday he tottered up the steps of the city hall to the office of Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, secretary of the Municipal Welfare board. In the course of his conversation, he mentioned the milk and ice fund. Inquiringly he asked if it were used for children alone. If it were at all possible, he if he might be allowed to have a small quantity of milk during the summer.

Mothers and babies who need it, sick persons who find it necessary to have milk and ice, and others who are worthy may be benefitted by the fund. Should the reader know of such cases, they are asked to report to the secretary, by telephoning 7645.

DALLAS, June 18.—(AP)—No trace of A. A. DeMond and Mike Vavutus, Dallas musician and dancer, who left here ten days ago for Chicago to attend school, has been found by Dallas and Chicago police asked to investigate their disappearance.

The automobile in which they traveled has been found at a home in a Chicago addition.

DeMond had $600, two valuable diamonds and a violin valued at $1,000 in his possession when he left here. The auto bore no evidence of foul play, but it is believed the men may be victics of robbers or accident.

Eastland Streets Are Under Water

For more than an hour rain pelted Eastland. Cellars are being filled and automobiles are marooned in the streets.

Streets were flooded at Ranger, tying up traffic.

SEVERE STORM CAUSES HEAVY LOSS IN TEXAS

Entire Northwest and East Portion Hit by Rain and Hail.

HIGH WINDS BLOW

One Killed by Lightning; Another Hurt Near Abilene.

(By The Associated Press.)

Rainfall, ranging in volume from thunder showers to clour-bursts, blanketed north Texas from far west in the Panhandle almost to the Louisiana line on the east, advices to the Associated Press said Friday night.

One man killed by lightning near Abilene, a child injured in similar manner at Hamlin, crops torn down by hail described as being "as large as baseballs, or washed away by cloud-bursts, train service interrupted, passenger trains marooned, and telephone lines down was the toll of damage reported, practically all from Taylor and Jones counties, where the precipitation apparently centered.

In other sections, lighter downpours fell, bringing benefit to crops and interrupting the most severe heat wave thus far this summer which has held north Texas in its grip for nearly a week.

Clear in South.

While the northern part of the state was driven to the shelter of umbrellas and in some cases to storm cellars, typically clear June weather prevailed in south and the extreme west of Texas. Galveston reported a "typical clear June day, with the thermometer about 80 degrees." Houston, Beaumont and Corpus Christi, in south Texas and El Paso in west Texas, made somewhat similar reports.

The rain that fell apparently ranged northward from such southern points as San Angelo, where nearly an inch fell, and Waco and Corsicana. At Waco .76 inch fell. Dallas and Fort Worth were visited by occasional showers through the day, precipitation in each city measuring less than a half inch. A rise in the Trinity river within 48 hours was forecast following the rain. Rains of about the same volume were reported from all directions to Fort Worth and Dallas.

Uncle Sam Plans To Play Tag With School of Halibut

SEATTLE, June 18.—It might sound childish, but dignified representatives of the government are going to play tag with halibut in North Pacific water this summer.

Henry O'Malley, of Washington, D. C., United States commissioner of fisheries, says so.

"In order to scientifically check the growth and migration of halibut it is necessary to tag them in their native waters," explained Commissioner O'Malley yesterday. "So our representatives are going to catch hundreds of halibut in the North Pacific this season and tag them. Then, when we re-catch them in later years, we will know what they have been doing."

Heavy Rain Stops Jim In Abilene Talk

Husband of Governor Unable to Make Appearance on Schedule

ABILENE, June 18.—(AP)—James E. Ferguson's speaking date here in the interest of his wife's candidacy for governor has been postponed from 8 o'clock tonight to the night of July 15. The reason given by J. F. Cunningham, local attorney, who is handling the Ferguson campaign in this section, was that heavy rains have prevented the country people from attending.

Mr. Ferguson arrived here at 11 a. m. Friday and spent the entire day at his hotel conferring with friends and resting. He is to spend the night here before leaving for Cisco, where he is scheduled to speak Saturday afternoon.

WURZBACH IS BACK IN TEXAS

Republican Congressman Expresses Self as Confident of Victory

SAN ANTONIO, June 18.—(AP)—Confident that he will defeat his opponent, Fred E. Knetsch, "ten to one," for the republican nomination for congress from the 14th district, provided the primary is fairly conducted, Harry M. Wurzbach, three timee elected to a seat in the lower house, arrived Friday from Washington. He is here "to see the race through" he said. After spending several hours here he left for his home in Seguin. He will return Sunday and attend the Bexar county republican executive committee meeting Monday, when plans for the primary will be made.

Congressman Wauzbach said that reports that the executive committee would assess him $7,500 as his share of the expenses of holding the primary in the district, could hardly be accurate, as the corrupt practice act limits the campaign expeditures of a candidate for congress to $2,500.

"As I interpret the Terrell election law, my assessment should be $100, the amount it is stipulated 'candidates for United States senator or for congressman-at-large and all those candidates for state offices shall pay.'

"Rumors that I plan to withdraw from the primary and make the race independently in the general election are unfounded, for nothing further from my intentions, if I can get a square deal by the executive committee of the various counties in the district, and I am assuming that I shall be treated fairly.

BODY RECOVERED

Companions Do Not Miss Him Until Half Hour After Accident

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, June 18.—Joseph William Cubine, aged 9, was drowned at 1:30 Friday afternoon in a swimming pool eight miles south of Vernon when he apparently became entangled in something in the bottom of the tank and was unable to come to the surface after a dive. The body was recovered about 30 minutes later.

Cubine and a number of playmates had gone to the pool early in the afternoon for a swim. They had been in the water but a short time when it was noticed that Cubine was missing and a search for him was started immediately. A half hour's diving located the body stretched quietly on the floor of the pool and in about eight or 10 feet of water.

The victim was the son of W. E. Cubine, an employe of the Empire Gas and Fuel company operating in section 83, block 14. He is survived by his father and step-mother, his mother having died when he was an infant.

Calles Likened To Soviet Chief By de la Huerta

SAN ANTONIO, June 18.—(AP) The Calles administration in Mexico is enforcing the will of a minority of the people and the president of the republic is following the examples of soviet Russia instead of patterning after the government of the United States, Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico, declared today in an address before the Conopus club. It was his only public speech since he left Mexico.

"I am a simple citizen, who is a refugee from my native land," he said. "I am merely interested in the liberty and welfare of my countrymen. I much preferred to remain here, incognito, away from the world, but your able newspapermen found me and got my views on the political and economic problems confronting Mexico."

De la Huerta was given an ovation, both when he arose to speak and when he concluded his address. He spoke in Spanish, his address being interpreted to the audience.

KATY CHANGES REQUEST

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP) The Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad filed an amended application with the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to issue $9,018,438 of prior lien 5 percent gold bonds. The proceeds would be used to reimburse the road for expenditures.

It previously had asked for permission to issue $18,217,726 of such bonds at six percent.

'TEXAS DEBTS MUST BE MET'

—LYNCH DAVIDSON.

Houston Man Denounces Ferguson Repudiation Suggestion.

"Texas debts are worth 100 cents on the dollar," Lynch Davidson, former lieutenant governor and candidate to succeed Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson as governor of Texas, declared in his address at Bellevue park Friday night. "They are worth their full value any day or any time and when the people of Texas are given the opportunity they will remove the legal technicality that Jim Ferguson says has nullified $100,000,000 worth of their road bonds, and made them bonds 'you don't owe'.

It was thus that Mr. Davidson answered the repudiation of the road district bonds suggested by former Governor James E. Ferguson in a speech made in behalf of his wife's candidacy Tuesday night. "I understand," he said, "that from this rostrum the proxy governor of Texas placed in the ears of the world at large that Texas stood ready to repudiate the securities which it had voted, had received and expended the proceeds from, and was under every moral obligation to pay. Denunciation of the former governor for his statement that we 'don't owe the bonds' is superfluous. Texas will validate every single one of those bonds, no matter who is elected as its next governor."

Congress to Quit Work on June 30

WASHINGTON, June 18—(AP)—The date for adjournment of congress was changed today by republican leaders from June 26 to June 30 with varying explanations of the reason.

On the house side it was said additional time would be required for consideration of the second deficiency bill which carry funds for beginning work this summer on a number of postoffices and buildings throughout the country.

Senate leaders explained the delay was due to the demand for a senate vote on the controversial rivers and harbors bill. It has been approved by the house and for some days has been the subject of hearings held by the senate commerce committee.

SHERMAN KIN WIRES LYNCH HIS SUPPORT

Prominent Seed Breeder Comes Out Against 'Pa' and 'Ma.'

CALLS HIM 'PROXY'

Characterizes Blood Relative as Money Mad, Unworthy of Support.

Lynch Davidson, candidate for governor, received a pledge of support Friday night from A. M. Ferguson, brother of James E. Ferguson, when a telegram sent by the former from his home in Sherman denounced the political activity of the ex-governor and voiced a plea for "getting government on a business basis."

The wire, dated at Sherman at 7:25 Friday night and addressed to Hon. Lynch Davidson, Wichita Falls, Texas was as follows:

"Wish you success and hope the voters who want more business efficiency in public affairs will give active support to your campaign. When men become so money mad that their sense of right and wrong is questioned in private and public affairs they should not be trusted with large responsibilities. I cannot support Jim Ferguson proxy candidate. He is my brother and I know him. Let's get government on a business basis.

(signed) "A. M. FERGUSON."

Delivered at Park.

The message was delivered to Davidson while he was speaking to a large crowd at Bellevue park. It was taken to the speaker's stand by a Western Union messenger and handed to J. S. Dickey, one of Davidson's campaign managers here. He handed it to Davidson who read it.

"Read it to them," Dickey advised, referring to the crowd.

"I don't like that name at the bottom," Davidson answered, "it looks like it might be some more politics."

He read it to the crowd, however.

Later in the evening the Record News verified the authenticity of the wire in a long-distance telephone conversation with A. M. Ferguson at Sherman. "Sure I sent it," he declared, "the telegram speaks for itself. What else is there to say?"

The Sherman man said he had been at political "outs" with his brother for a "long time." However, he added, "this is the first inkling of an open break."

Following his address at the park, Davidson was questioned by reporters and still later visited the Record News office where he declared "I never heard of anything like it before in my life. When Dickey shoved it under my nose and said 'read it' I had some misgivings right then.

Recalls Statement.

"This wire recalls a statement of Jim Ferguson at Arlington recently when he said that 'Davidson is a good man,' and advised the voters 'if you are so prejudiced against my wife that you can't vote for Ferguson, vote for Davidson'."

Devidson said he appreciated the compliment, the "Sherman gentleman has paid me. I am sorry I cannot return it, for I would advise the people of Texas to vote for anybody before they vote for Jim Ferguson."

Still further, Davidson said he hated to question the Sherman man's telegram, but that "he knew old Jim's political trickery so well" he couldn't feel safe about it.

A. M. Ferguson has lived in Sherman for some time and is a farmer and seed breeder there. He actively supported the Fergusons two years ago, he stated.

Another brother, J. L. Ferguson, lives at Haskell and is supporting James E., so far as the Sherman relative knows, he stated last night in answer to queries.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 18.—(AP)—Mustapha Kemal Pasha, president of Turkey narrowly escaped death at the hands of plotters on his arrival at Smyrna today, for just before he came into the city the authorities learned of the conspiracy. Fail to Identify Suspect in Robbery

DALLAS, June 18.—(AP)—Defense attorneys jumped to their feet and demanded that their client be released today when its habeas corpus hearing failed to identify Ira M. Akers, one-legged youth, charged with participation in the $20,000 Jefferson bank robbery here.

Akers however, was remanded to jail in default of $2,500 bond set following the hearing.

Other of the officials of the bank testifying could identify Akers as one of the four men who locked them in the vault and looted tellers' cage June 25.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters

John Parrish has left the home of his rich young wife, Audrey, in anger at her tactless references to her wealth and his poverty. Shortafterward she also leaves to go to Bitter Springs, a mountain resort, to await her father, who is hurrying home from Europe. She leaves Marcie Allen, young, beautiful and very advanced in her views, in charge of the Parrish household. Marcie's father has ordered her from home and closed and locked the house. Marcie makes open love to Parrish, and then teases him when he begins to respond. He calls her an "infernal flirt." She waits for him to come back to her, and when he fails to do so she breaks into her father's dwelling, and telephones a message to the clerk at Parrish's hotel that "Miss Allen has left the house."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

(Names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XXII

Marcie found it difficult next day to gather the materials for a breakfast. There was no bread in the kitchen, nor any eggs nor butter. After a long search, though, she found cans of peaches and other fruits stacked in a bin in the cellar, and a tin box of English biscuits that had not been opened.

There was coffee on a pantry shelf, and after deliberation, Marcie poured some of this into a pan, covered it with water, and set it on the gas stove to boil.

She was more familiar with the operation of opening the cans, and she set out a dish of yellow peaches and another of pineapple on the kitchen table. After considering the biscuit she decided to eat them without heating, and nibbled at them while she waited for the coffee to be done.

The drink that she had brewed proved very strong and bitter. She made a little face as she tasted it but with resolution finished one cupful and even poured another—which she did not touch.

The peaches consumed and a number of the biscuits, she piled her dishes in the sink, let water run over them briefly and left them there to dry.

These things accomplished, she went to the telephone and called a caterer.

"I want a nice hot luncheon delivered today and tomorrow, at one o'clock, and dinner tonight at seven," she directed. "Something with roast beef, I think for dinner. Charge it to Mr. Allen."

She gave the address, and contentedly turned to an exploration of the house.

The day of her departure from it was not far in the past, but she went from object to object with little squeals of delight, as if returning to them after many years. She even unearthed

"Have your man come to the kitchen door," said Marcie. "Not under any circumstances to the front door."

some of her childhood dolls, and carried them with her to her room.

The shades in the rest of the dwelling were down, and she left them so. Her bedroom windows, however, were protected by a tall tree that stood in the side yard, so she ventured to raise the blinds and illuminate the room.

At a sudden thought she sped to the telephone and called the caterer again.

"Have your man come to the kitchen door," she ordered. "Not under any circumstances to the front door."

Returning to the upper part of the house, she disrobed for a bath. Patient waiting failed to bring any hot water from the faucet, and she went to the basement to investigate. The pilot light of the water heater was out.

She found a match, experimentally opened a turncock and applied a light. A great puff of flame burst from the heater, sending her backward to the cement floor with a shriek. Then she shrieked a second time—Marcie had not stopped to put on any clothes, and the floor was rough and cold.

With patience, and many false trials she finally got the heater into operation and ascended to her bath.

Only an old bathrobe remained in the house, as a change from the apparel she had worn the night before, and in this she lounged until the man with the luncheon arrived.

Put it on the floor—I'll get it" she told him through a crack of the door.

He obeyed and she waited until he was gone before she brought in the tray. Lifting off the great nickeled cover, she sniffed at the various dishes as she set them out on a flower table. They proved to be appetizing, and hot, except the sealed decanter of iced tea, which was satisfactorily chilled.

In huge content she ate standing up, moving from dish to dish.

After she had eaten, she slept. A night gown that she had found in her mother's room proved useful, and in it she nestled between the disordered sheets of her own bed.

Awakening, she put on the bathrobe, with her underclothing beneath it this time. The dust that had settled heavily over the furniture disturbed her, and she moved around with an old cloth, rubbing the table tops and the arms of the chairs.

Coming to her father's room, she found his dress clothes hanging in a closet. Mischeviously, she sewed shut the ends of the coat sleeves and the trousers, with needle and thread brought from her mother's room. She also doctored his evening shirts, which she discovered in a drawer.

With the delight of a child she went from apartment to apartment, moving furniture and pictures, straightening hangings, changing lamps from one room to another. She was still playing when the caterer's man came with dinner.

This meal she took at the dining table, in state. After it was over, she heaped the dishes together with those from her luncheon tray, and piled the whole collection on the top of the rear steps.

Then she put on her dress and hat, and as soon as it was dark went for a stroll.

The next day passed in much the same fashion, except that she called up divers of her friends, and chatted, without telling where she was.

In the evening she waited, dressed and ready, until night fell. When it was quite dark, she called for a taxicab and rode to Ninth street, a block from the Parrish home. Alighting, she paid the driver and turned to walk past Audrey's house.

From the street she could see the lights at the rear where the servants were, but the windows at the front of the dwelling were blank and black.

She was peering in through the gate when a hand seized her by the arm.

"Where the devil have you been?" said Parrish's voice, roughly.

She turned. "Hello, John," she said. "But don't pinch my arm."

He dropped his hand, and fell into step beside her as she walked on.

"Aren't you going in the house?" he demanded.

"Why, no! Why should I?" she asked indifferently.

"But your clothes are there," he said. "I've been looking everywhere for you the last two days."

"That's sweet of you," she said. "I thought you were out of town."

He halted, and put his hand on her shoulder. "You've been calling my hotel," he accused. She did not answer, and he went on: "I haven't been out of town at all. But when I first went to the hotel, I told them always to say I had gone away—I thought Audrey might call." He laughed shortly. "But, I guess she didn't trouble herself."

They walked on again. "Of course, I called your hotel to say I wasn't at your house any more," Marcie said. "They told me you had left town."

"What did you leave for?" he asked. "And where have you been?"

She laughed gently. "Shall I tell you the truth? Well, I wanted to see if you would follow me—if you were interested enough to hunt for me."

With a common impulse they turned and started back toward Audrey's house. She slipped her hand in his arm, and they walked a few paces in silence.

"Did you really do it for that reason?" he inquired.

"Of course." She laughed again. "And you DID hunt for me, sweet boy!"

"But where were you?"

"I won't tell."

They went a dozen steps more. "I want you to tell me where you've been," he said, with emphasis.

"Won't."

He shook her hand from his arm. "You were with somebody else! You were gadding around with those lounge lizards!"

They were at the gate now, and Marcie turned and took his lapels in her hands. "Old jealous!" Her voice was soft. "I love you to be jealous." She slid her hand to his arm again, and drew him toward the house. "Shall we sit on the steps again?"

He followed her chrestingly, and they took their seats as before, she on an upper step, he on the lowest. "I wish," he said, "that you wouldn't keep me upset all the time."

The girl ran her fingers through his hair, as he continued: "I was finding so much peace and contentment in your company, and then—Marcie, I believe you pester me on purpose, running away, and everything!"

Marcie laughed. "Of course I do it on purpose, old silly! That's the way I keep you interested."

Her hand dropped to his shoulder. "When a girl courts a man, you know, she makes love to him as hard as she can until he gets started making love to her—and then she runs away. That's the way the game is played, dear boy," she told him.

The handle on the door behind them turned, and at the sound the man and girl drew apart. The housemaid came out.

"A telegram came for you yesterday, Miss Allen," she said.

FOOD PRICES DOWN

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP) Retail food prices showed a slight decline during the month ending May 15, the bureau of labor statistics today reported. The index figure for the month was 161.1, a decline of three-fourths of one point from the month ending April 15, but an increase of more than six per cent since May, 1925.

Of the 51 cities for which figures were collected, 30 reported decreases in the average food cost and 11 increases.

MEXICO CITY, June 18.—(AP) It is announced that General Francisco Serrano, former minister of war, has accepted from President Calles the appointment of governor of the federal district. He is expected to take office next Monday.

This post has been in charge of an under secretary since Senor Tejda was transferred to the department of the interior.

Bailiff Is Unable To Kill Dogs; He Keeps All Strays

SAN ANTONIO, June 18.—(AP)—F. C. Scharfenberg, corporation court bailiff likes dogs and he has a kind heart.

Since he assumed his post several weeks ago, it has been his duty to execute stray dogs. But not a great many have been killed.

Judge J. F. Onion, pinned his bailiff's residence, was startled by many barks, yelps and howls. He investigated and found Scharfenberg's backyard full of all kinds of canines.

"How come?" the judge asked the bailiff Friday.

"I just couldn't kill the little harmless dogs," said the bailiff. "So I took home all I could care for and placed the others with friends."

Judge Onion said he would relieve Scharfenberg of his disagreeable duty.

Pershing Warmly Greeted in France

CHERBOURG, France, June 18.—(AP)—An unusually cordial reception greeted General John J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary forces during the world war, when he landed from the Leviathan here today.

General Pershing affirmed the strength of the comradeship among the allied veterans in his reply to the welcome. Veteran French soldiers and Admiral De Marguerie, commanding the port, received General Pershing officially, while the 15-year-old daughter of one of the leading war heroes of Cherbourg presented him with a bouquet. The flowers were in a trench helmet which was decorated with French and American colors.

"I am very deeply touched by this unexpected and cordial greeting," General Pershing told his former comrades in arms. "I am especially pleased to receive this symbolic bouquet, mingling our national colors as our dear brothers in arms mingled the wound was self inflicted. The veterans exists and will remain unshakeable."

The entire city was decorated with American flags and everywhere large crowds turned out to see the general.

AGED RECLUSE ENJOYING LIFE

After Nine Years Confinement, Old Fellow Is Fed and Warmed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 18.—(AP) The first good food in nine years and the comforts of a modern hospital were enjoyed today by John Montague, 72 years old, former well-to-do Iowa farmer, found in a dark, damp basement where he had spent most of the last nine years.

Although he was still weak and weary from his long self-imposed exile, Montague will recover, physicians said.

More than 20 years ago he was a prosperous farmer at Cresco, Iowa, with holdings worth $20,000. He sold them to seek new lands in Texas.

Things did not go well in the Lone Star state and Montague's money was soon gone. His wife became ill and later insane. His four children left him.

Penniless and friendless, he came here to his sister, Mrs. R. H. Bowell, a widow.

Broken in spirit and discouraged Montague decided to hide himself from the rest of the world. He chose the basement for his quarters. That was nine years ago.

A neighbor yesterday received permission to store a trunk in the basement. He heard someone coughing and discovered Montague in a corner. The health department was notified and an ambulance called.

1 Dead, 1 Wounded In Port Arthur Row

BEAUMONT, June 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Frank Kahmfield of Portacres, six miles from Port Arhur, is dead and her husband is in a Port Arthur hospital seriously injured as a result of a shooting today, after an argument over a line fence.

T. B. Fountain has been arrested by deputy sheriffs in connection with the killing.

The argument which resulted in the shooting is said to have grown out of a difference of opinion as to the line between the lots. Two fences had been built about three feet apart, one by each of the property owners.

SEARCH FOR BODIES

BOISE, Idaho, June 18.—(AP)—Water has been turned out of an irrigating canal here in an effort to find the bodies of Miss Sadie Carrier and John Keenan both of this city, believed drowned when an automobile went off a bridge over the stream late last night.

Orange Woman, 101 Has Anniversary

ORANGE, Texas, June 18.—(AP) Mrs. Zilphia Hayes Berwick, celebrated her 101st birthday Wednesday here at the home of Mrs. Frances E. Nance. The aged woman has made her home in this vicinity for a number of years.

Despite her advanced age, she is able to see well with glasses and does a great deal of knitting. Mrs. Berwick was born near Orange in what is known as the Johnson's Bayou settlement in Cameron Parish, the daughter of the late Rudolph Hayes. She has 30 grandchildren and 12 great-great grandchildren.

Robstown Girl, 12, Youngest Graduate

ROBSTOWN, Texas, June 18.—(AP)—Augusta Stockton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Stockton, who graduated from the Robstown high school this year at the age of 12 years is the state's youngest high school graduate, it is believed.

Miss Stockton will enter Baylor college in September and her thirteenth birthday will be December 3. Dr. J. Hardy, president of Baylor college, said that she would be the youngest student ever enrolled in that school or any other Texas college.

CREAGER AND WURZBACH

RENE B. CREAGER is the boss of the republican party of Texas. He is a native Texan and has been all powerful in recent years. He is the national committeeman of his party, and since the passing of the Wilson administration he has had the ear of two republican presidents, Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge.

Harry M. Wurzbach is the only republican congressman from Texas. He is a native Texan, and he has swept a democratic district, the fourteenth, three times in six years. He is a candidate for a fourth term. Wurzbach comes from a democratic family. His father was a gallant Confederate soldier. His brother, William B. Wurzbach, is a leading democrat of San Antonio and a member of the board of regents of the A. and M. college.

National Committeeman Creager and Congressman Wurzbach are bitter political and personal enemies. Creager says Wurzbachism is dead in Texas; Wurzbach says Creagerism is dead in Texas. There is to be a republican primary in July, a state-wide primary, for the first time in the history of Texas. Wurzbach is running a candidate for governor; Creager is running a candidate for governor.

Wurzbach is running for re-election; Creager is running a candidate against Wurzbach, all this for the nomination. Wurzbach is a resident of Guadalupe; his rival for congressional honors is a resident of Guadalupe. In other years Guadalupe and Comal and Bexar have been Wurzbach strongholds. There is a pretty kettle of political fish in the fourteenth district.

Senator A. J. Wirtz, democrat, of Guadalupe county has offered for re-election. Wurzbach is the head of the law firm of Wurzbach, Weinert and Wirtz. If the voters of Comal and Guadalupe counties enter the republican primary to give Wurzbach a big boost, then what is going to happen to Senator Wirtz in the two counties?

These are wet counties. If the voters enter the democratic primary to give a lift to the Fergusons, then what is to happen to the republican congressman who has swept a democratic district three times in six years. If Wurzbach is nominated, the politicians in the Alamo district say the Creager republicans will bury their knives in his back. If Wurzbach is defeated, the politicians say that the knives of the Wurzbach followers will be buried in the back of the candidate who defeats him.

And the democrats are having their own troubles. Hon A. D. Rodgers of San Antonio had been slated for the nomination by many of the democratic leaders when into the ring jumped John P. Pfeiffer, a prominent democrat of Germanic ancestry, a member of the Catholic church, well known in the ranks of the Sons of Herman and said to be an excellent vote getter.

If Pfeiffer wins the nomination and Wurzbach loses to the Creagerites, there are going to be new faces in the political picture gallery of the fourteenth congressional district of Texas. This Creager-Wurzbach fued is a very nasty row for the republicans. Creager has a powerful state organization and the federal office holders in Texas are backing him to a finish.

TINKHAM ON THEIR TRAIL

MEMBERS of congress would be prohibited from accepting fees for making speeches on any legislation pending in congress or expected to be presented in congress in the immediate future under a bill drafted by Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts.

Representative Tinkham is a republican. Now what is wrong about the Tinkham bill.

A member of congress is paid $10,000 a year and many members have nothing to do and two secretaries to do it. Why should they be permitted to accept fees from outside sources, why should they accept pay for making speeches from the backers of bills which are to come before congress?

Not many years ago in Texas, it was said that a public servant was recreant to his oath of office if he attempted to serve two masters. That is, if he accepted a salary from the people as their representative and then accepted fees for speech making or law giving or law advising to outside interests.

If the practice was reprehensible at that time, isn't it reprehensible today?

HOW THE OLD THING WORKED

PENNSYLVANIA has a direct primary law. It was enacted for the purification of politics, the uplift of the voter and in order to place the people in control. It cost $2,000,000 to hold the recent primary in that state. That is, outside of the cost of conducting the election, more than $2,000,000 was spent by the organizations or friends of certain candidates.

Gifford Pinchot, dryest of the drys, spent $200,000. George Wharton pepper's friends $1,200,000. He stood for the dry law and its enforcement. William S. Vare and his friends spent $400,000. They stood for a modification of the Volstead act.

Is it a crime to buy voters? No, not buy voters, hire watchers is what they call the method in Pennsylvania. This has lead the many newspapers and many leading citizens in Pennsylvania to reunite in an repeal of the primary election law.

They say no poor man can be elected to office in Pennsylvania, under the workings of the law, unless he has wealthy friends or powerful combinations of wealthy friends who need rubber stamps in high places. The Dallas News, most conservative of Texas newspapers, is of the opinion that the primary election system is all wrong, full of blowholes and has outlived its usefulness.

Well, the voters did not have the Terrell election law when Richard Coke was in power or when James Stephen Hogg, Charles A. Culberson, S. T. W. Lanham or Joseph D. Sayers held forth on Capital Hill. All these were men of high standing, not rich men, but close to the heart of the voting public.

Would The News champion a movement for the repeal of the Terrell election law? Would it do it now?

A WORK WELL PLANNED

SCIENCE, art and sentiment will combine to raise from its ruins and sender as beautiful as ever the revered mission church at Santa Barbara, Cal. The structure was the most valuable and by far the most regretted victim of the Santa Barbara trembler a year ago, and the intervening time has been fully occupied by planning means of reconstructing the demolished parts of the structure and with collecting funds for California has an immense pride. As the needed sum ran high into the hundreds of thousands, it has taken constant and widely extended efforts to reach the full quota.

From the architectual and scientific side the task has been no easy one. The greatest care had to be taken to make measurements of the fractional parts remaining and to reproduce with exactness the irregularities as well as the regularities of construction, for some of the former personality to the architectual whole that would have been impossible if geometric perfection of line and curve had been introduced.

One entire tower will have to be rebuilt, but the staircase within it will be preserved uninjured. Reinforced concrete will be employed where possible and in an endeavor to save adobe walls that have been jeopardized by the earthquake, cement will be shot into cavities in a manner, we are told, similar to that used in dentistry. The remaining parts of the building will be braced and shored, and it is believed the structure, when the engineers are through their work, will be better able to withstand a second "quake," should that misfortune arrive, than it was on the first occasion.

The rest of the world will look with sympathetic approval on efforts of the pretty littie seacoast town to repair its valued shrine.

WHAT BALASCO SAYS

DAVID BALASCO says jazz is dying and sweetness and the better things are returning. Is David a prophet or the son of a prophet? He knows more about the stag than any producer in the land of the living. His verdict is that the jazz age is passing. If so, flowers for the dead and be cheerful in the giving.

WHY NOT NAME THE MAN

A PALESTINE newspaper says a certain instruuctor of a certain Texas state school teaches there is no heaven, no hell, no God. Why not name the man? Why not submit the evidence? Why not make it a paramount issue? Why not a public trial and a public crucifixion? And lastly is Palestine the habitat of this dangerous menace. If so, does he powder his nose, or wear corsets, or roll 'em?

The Message From the Golf Club

(Copyright, 1926, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

FIRE —by— Arthur B. Reeve

Outside Craig observed to me, Oakley Davids is in love with her—I wonder if anyone else is in love?"

It was the following morning that Craig and I were crossing Longacre Square when we heard a familiar voice in the crowd.

"Did you get the information you wanted, Mr. Kennedy?"

We turned to look into the smiling face of Irrita Millard.

"Do you still feel mad, Irrita?" countered Craig.

"I'm over it." She laughed again. "Ask Mr. Asche. He will tell you I am very agreeable this morning."

Then I saw it was Gaston Asche, a few feet away, unlocking a roadster.

"Not only agreeable, Irrita, but very beautiful," returned Craig, and it seemed to please Irrita.

Asche heard it and was annoyed. At the seeming good terms between Craig and Irrita his hospitality of the other night vanished completely into sullenness.

"Come, Irrita," he called brusquely. 'I have many things to attend to." He stepped on his starter.

I wondered if it were meant to cut short the chat with us. I thought Irrita would have liked to wait.

9bout the middle of the afternoon Kennedy and Leslie completed their autopsy. It was not many moments before Craig had Asche on the wire and the funeral was fixed by Asche for noon the following day.

Next day Kennedy telephoned to Irrita. 'I promised you, Irrita, that I would let you know as soon as I could. If you will go up to Gamble's you may perform the last offices of beautification for Mrs. Asche. Tell me when you can be there, so that I can see that you have no difficulty."

"I'll go right away, just as soon as I can get a few things together."

At Gamble's we did not have to wait long for her. Irrita came with a little handbag filled with the accessories of her profession. At once she proceeded to lay them out.

"Not with those, Irrita,' 'cautioned Kennedy. She looked at him, startled, but said nothing. "I have some of her own things that she used at home. First I want you to see this beauty clay."

"Beauty clay—on a dead woman?" the girl exclaimed.

Kennedy nodded. "Yes, and when it is removed I want you to use this powder, her own, as well as this lip stick, and other things. Er-Marie has sent them over."

"Well, this is the strangest thing! I'll do it. I suppose you have some mere man's reason!"

In an incredibly short time the girl had finished. The face of the dead woman had taken on a new beauty. The cheeks glowed with an artifical color of health. The head had been arranged a little more elaborately. In spite of the artificality it seemed the beautification of the vain old lady.

Irrita had scarcely finished and we had taken leave of her when Kennedy telephoned to Doctor Davids.

"I called up Doctor, to let you know that Mr. Asche has decided to hold the funeral services at noon tomorrow. I thought you would like to know."

I could almost hear the resonant voice in reply, a bit angry, somewhat blustering.

"It's very kind to let me know! I'll surely be there—if for no other reason than to have one real member of her family present at the public funeral parlor. She's the first in the family to be buried like that! By the way, has everything been attended to? Did you let Miss Millard help? She told me you refused her offer."

"Miss Millard assisted," replied Craig, briefly.

"Another thing, Kennedy, I don't like the way you hound that poor girl. She was just a friend and adviser, had nothing to do with the case, whatever it is. It's an outrage to drag her into the mess.....How's that?.....Well, all I have to say is that detection of crime does not consist in dragging the name of an innocent girl into the thing!"

As Kennedy repeated it to me I wondered if Irrita did know something that he was afraid she might tell. One thing was now sufficiently evident. Both Gaston Asche and Oakley Davids were "rushing" Irrita.

I shall not even describe the simple rervices in the Gamble Funeral church on the forenoon of the third day after the strange death of Mrs. Asche. There were two incidents, however, which I cannot possibly pass by.

The service had proceeded to the prayer when over our bowed heads the lights suddenly winked out. It was then that I noticed that Craig, who had been next to me, was not in his seat. The prayer proceeded to the end. Then, as we raised our heads, I saw again that strange, mysterious, awesome glow on the face and hands of the body in the rich casket, banked with overpowering lilies. It was a shock, even to me.

I heard an audible gasp from some one. Then the lights came up as suddenly as they had darkened. I watched them all, Asche, Davids, Irrita. There was not a quiver. Were they all good actors? Or had it been an accident? What did that impassiveness mean?

Then a second time. It was when the relatives were asked to take the final parting look that Doctor Davids and Gaston Asche met. They were the only relatives present. Irrita Millard rose with the men. I fancy she feared a clash and thought her presence might avert it.

Asche went first and tried to make way for Irrita next. But Doctor Davids insisted on being second. Leaning over, he quickly took Irrita by the arm. With a challenge in his eyes he accompanied her to the bier. Asche was furious. Doctor Davids was ready even for a clash, only for the place and the occasion. For once Irrita was frightened.

She turned down the aisle, trembling. Her face was white with emotion. As she reached us, she almost gasped: "Please, Craig, take me home! I don't know what to do—which way to turn."

To me it seemed now that Irrita was turning to Craig—from both of them. She had called him "Craig," by his first name, as he had called hers. Was she falling in love with Kennedy? It worried me, as it always did when I saw a girl scheming to fascinate my friend. Craig was only human. Was it a game on her part?

I saw that the anger of Asche against Kennedy now was bitter and genuine. Davids made no concealment of his jealousy, either. Was it to involve Kennedy, to pull the wool over his eyes?

I did not see Kennedy much during the rest of the day, nor in the evening. When I came into our apartment I found him seated before our piano, slowly running his fingers through what I thought was a curious selection. It was the "Glowworm."

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

The Spoiled Child of a Wealthy Family Who Ran Home When Her Marriage Ceased to Be a Romance. Six Questions About Boys Answered for High School Girls.

Dear Miss Dix—I am from a wealthy family and am the baby. Am 20 years old, college educated and have been greatly indulged. Several months ago I married a man of wonderful character. He was very good to me, but he lacked many qualities I longed for, and somehow something was lacking in our married life. He could not give me what I was used to at home, but he did all in his power to make me happy. However, I left him and am getting a divorce from him, but he begs me to come back to him, withdraw the divorce and start over again. I seem to love him, although I am greatly afraid it is more sympathy than love. My people would be disappointed and disgusted if I went back to him.

Do you think we are intended for each other? WORRIED.

Answer: Possibly there are some marriages made in heaven between men and women who are predestined mates and intended for each other, but most of us make our own matches, and a poor, jungling job we turn out in the great majority of cases. Evidently your marriage was one of these home-brewed ones and it has gone flat on you, and whether you can make it over with any better results another time no one can tell.

You see, the trouble with you is that you are a poor weak, spoiled child and you hadn't the grit to stand the gaff when you found out that matrimony wasn't all roses and posies, and that husbands were just ordinary human beings instead of sighing poets and lovers. So when you came up against marriage as a fact instead of as a romance you didn't even try to make a go of it. You just threw up your hands and quit cold.

You didn't even attempt to adapt yourself to your new life or to fulfill any of the duties of a wife. You did the cry-baby act and ran back home to mother. Pretty cowardly of you, wasn't it?"

You say that your husband is a good man and that he did all he could to make you happy, but that he lacks many of the qualities you long for. So would any other man in the world, because every girl dreams of an impossible husband who is compounded of all the virtues and charms and fascinations of all the heroes of all the novels she has ever read and of all the sheiks she has ever seen on the stage or in the movies.

A composite portrait of the average girl's ideal of a husband would be a blending of Valentino, Otis Skinner, John D. Rockefeller and Job—a man who was a living picture, a romantic lover, a wizard at money-making and who would put up with all of her vagaries without a word of protest. Needless to say, no such creature ever lived.

You also say that there was somehow something lacking in your married life. That also is inevitable. It always happens. There is no marriage that is not full of disillusion, disappointments, of trials and tribulations. It is only in fairy stories that they are married and live happily ever afterward.

But right-thinking men and women put their dreams behind them, screw up their courage to the sticking point and make the best of the bargain they have made. They are too honorable to default on the contract they have entered into. They are too just to expect the impossible from the men and women they have married and so with philosophy and humor they carry on and build up the homes that are the bulwarks of the nation.

I think the real reason that you left your husband was because he could not give you the luxuries to which you were accustomed, and as long as you feel that pretty clothes and soft living are more necessary to you than a good man's love I think, for his sake, you had better go on with your divorce.

Evidently you haven't the stuff in you that would make you a desirable wife for a poor man.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE BEAUTIFUL.

Who are the bautiful? I know
That strangers often call her so,
And then we turn and look again.
"Why, yes," we say, "she is"—and then
Remember little things she said
That hurt her friends. Her lips are red
But we see only lips unkind;
Whatever loveliness they find,
Remember her unlovely mind.

They call her beautiful. "Why, yes—"
But we remember selfishness,
So busy with her beauty she
Had little time for sympathy,
The words and deeds that we recall
Are only ugly, after all.
Although the lady is as fair
As any lady anywhere,
We can not see the beauty there.

Who are the beautiful? I know
A woman not accounted so,
And yet how lovely she appears
To those who knew her through the years.
Yes, how her beauty is revealed
To other hearts that she has healed.
Upon her breast no jewel gleams,
But in her eyes are gentle dreams,
And, oh, how beautiful she seems!

What Do You Know About It?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX

1. Does water contract or expand when temperature is lowered?
2. What is liquid air?
3. What is absolute zero?
4. Why does it take longer to boil an egg on a mountaintop?
5. Can water get colder than the freezing point 32 degrees F., and yet not turn to ice?
6. Why does the ocean not freeze over in winter?

Answers to these questions in Monday's Record News.

WATER SPOUTS.

The most dreadful looking phenomenon at sea is the water-spout which consists in a slender spiral reaching from a low cloud to the surface of the sea, which whirls rapidly and at the same time moves forward in a generally erratic course. The surface of the sea beneath the spout boils violently and it is popularly supposed that the cloud is sucking the sea water up, but the water in the spout consists only of a spray of the waves, and when a water spout passes over a ship a terrific wetting is all the damage that it actually suffers from water, though the wind may do great damage. There are no real whirlpools accompanying a water spout. In the days when vessels sailed more slowly and might not escape a water-spout easily it was customary to fire a cannon shot into the water spout in the hope of breaking it. By the force of the explosion the air currents of the water spouts were indeed sometimes so interrupted as temporarily to break the spout in this way.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. A drumlin is a large lens-shaped glacial hill of unstratified glacial drift and boulder clay.
2. A crique is a small lake left in a depression formed by a glacier, generally a mountain glacier.
3. An esker is a serpentine ridge running across hills and valleys, of glacial formation, but the complete explanation of its strange form is unknown.
4. An estuary is a broad mouth of a river without deposits of earth from the stream, at least not above water.
5. A delta is a triangular deposit of earth where a river enters the sea or a lake, and is generally crossed by numerous mouths of the river.
6. A morain is a deposit of rock and earth left by a melting glacier.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE.

Gemini.

Today's planetary aspects are adverse until a little after noon. They then undergo a decided change, and become stimulatingly favorable, and will react in a very stirring manner on the emotions. Nothing out of the ordinary should be assayed during the morning, nor should anything that involves change be attempted. The policy of doing only those things that are essential should be pursued. The afternoon and evening are not only good opportunity for recreation, but they argue more than usually well for marriage. The signs indicate that a wedding celebrated today, while these influences are in evidence, will be productive of much love and happiness.

Children born today will be more than usually subject to the vicissitudes of early infancy, and much care must be exercised in the regulation of their alimentation. They will, according to the signs, quickly overcome these weaknesses, and will, during their 'teens, attain physical normalcy, and this condition will be maintained until adulthood. They will be fired with ambition, and will be rather prone to disregard others in order to achieve their ends. They will possess great determination, and a will-power that bows no opposition. Their love will be of the violent, possessive type, and they will always try to take what they want.

If today is your birthday, you are sensitive, retiring, sympathetic and loving. You afford more happiness than you receive, and are easily hurt by actions or words of others, even when no injury was intended. This, of course, is induced by an excessive self consciousness. You understand your own powers and never attempt to capitalize your inherent abilities. In order for you to achieve success, it is necessary for some outsider to discover and exploit your many talents. You never advertise them, and if they are lost in the struggle, your timidity is alone to blame. Although your friends are relatively few, those that you have hold you in very high regard, as your affection, distinterestedness, and solicitude for the welfare and comfort of others, endears you to those who know you well.

You love with gentleness, but enduringly. You idealize the object of your affection, and think no service too onerous, if thereby the "chosen one" is pleased. Very little success will attend you if you attempt to go through life alone.

A CLASH OF WILLS
By Charles S. Zerner

I hailed a taxi, but the lady said,
'We'll walk!"
Just why she took it in her lovely head
To balk
I couldn't figure; so I said. "Aw, gee!
Let's ride;
'Twill be so cozy there for you and me,
Inside!"
"I know it would," said she, "and, sir,
I know
You, too!
I understand exactly what you'd do,
And do.
Two hours with my face and hair I've toiled
And fussed,
And so we'll walk! I WILL NOT have it spoiled,
Or mussed!"

A BULLETIN FROM DR. TRAP. ROCK FUN SHOP RADIO STATION MFJ.

Lat. 95 pc't. Long. 0.

Here I am back at the old Pole, which I know well enough by now to call by its first name.

Spring is opening up nice. I have made-three trips since last writing and the big flapper-blimp is working great. Our twin-wheeze, Weasel-engines, operating on condensed milk, are the sweetest bits of mechanism I have ever seen. Found my crew eating some of the cakes of solid alcohol yesterday and had to discipline them severely.

Plans for FUN SHOP Hotel and Cottages are complete and we will break ground shortly. Slightly annoyed by the actions of our building site. 200 acres, more or less. Being part of the great floe, it keeps moving. Fortunately the last shift brought us two miles nearer the Pole. I have now moored the whole works to the Pole itself. If that gives way we will have it with us. If we're not at the Pole the Pole will be at us. Keep up advertising and sell all the stock you can.

The big berg, see last dispatch, sank at its mooring night before last due to overcrowding by red-cross seals which infect it during the mating season. It tipped over and went down with all on board. The whales evidently felt badly about this for their blubbering could be heard for miles and their oily tears covered all open water. Very affecting.

The Aurora Borealis is now in full flower and the whole countryside is a mass of color. The natives are getting in the summer ice-crop. As I write I hear them singing in their quaint fur-bearing dialect. "Eilskede, eilskede, togvrod gebrout." (Ice is nice, ice is nice, cutaway, Brother, cut away.)

Speaking of ice, shoot me up a couple of good-sized shakers. I have all the other ingredients. More anon.

The Modern Way.

Gregory: "I suppose you're glad that your son's graduating from college. You won't have to send him any more money."

Sanders: "On the contrary, I'm sorry he's graduating. He was an athletic star and he sent me money."

THREE DROWNED

Light Fishing Skiff Capsizes in Lake Michigan

HONOR, Mich., June 18.—(AP) Three men were drowned and a fourth was washed ashore and revived when a light skiff in which the men had set out to gather their fish nets capsized in Lake Michigan off Otter Beach early today.

Those who drowned were Harry Sheriff, 32; Harold Cox, 25, and Harry Farquhar, 30. Farquhar's body has not been recovered. George Sheriff clung to the overturned boat and was washed ashore.

TEXAS HARBOR WORK STARTS

Government Begins Dredging of Deep Channel at Point Isabel.

BROWNSVILLE, June 18.—(AP) Actual construction of the harbor at Brazos Santiago Pass, off Point Isabel, has begun, Major J. L. Schley, Galveston, United States district engineer, said here today.

Unofficial estimates of the expenditure are placed at $500,000. The work is to be done by government engineers and government dredges, no contracts being awarded.

Several years ago citizens of this section financed the construction of a 400-foot turning basin at Point Isabel, and a 16-foot channel 14,000 feet long in the LaGuna Madre, much of which has been completed. The immediate work calls for an 18-foot channel across the bar, connecting the inner channel with 48 feet of water. Jetties 1,300 feet long will be constructed seaward from the north end of Brazos Island and the south end of Padre Island.

The work will require a year to complete.

Governor Grants Pardon to Porter At State Capitol

AUSTIN, June 18.—(AP)—Another "Juneteenth" pardon was granted today by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, making a total of 17. This clemency goes to Will Valentine, negro, sentenced 50 years in Galveston county for a felony. For nearly six years, Valentine has been a porter in the governor's office.

Valentine served 17 years in the penitentiary and two years in jail. He was paroled by Governor W. P. Hobby, his parole being revoked later by Governor Pat M. Neff, who granted him a furlough and later a conditional pardon.

The negro has been an important clerk for detail work in the governor's office. He made promises to Governor Ferguson to do right.

Plea for Mercy Has 'Backfire'

KANSAS CITY, June 18.—(AP) A unique plea for mercy backfired here today when Judge Thad B. Landon sentenced Carl Keen, 23-year-old bandit, to 35 years in the penitentiary for a seven dollar robbery. Keen had pleaded guilty.

Keen was arrested recently after taking part in a $20 grocery store robbery with his 13-year-old brother, George. George Keen told police that Carl was teaching him to be a bandit and that the grocery store robbery was the first lesson.

Carl Keen pleaded guilty today to robbing a street car conductor of $7 and then presented his own plea for mercy.

"Your honor," he said, "I was doing the best I could for my brother. I wanted to see him amount to something. I wanted to take him out of the ordinary house-looter class and make a real stick-up man out of him."

"Thirty-five years," said the judge.

The brother was sentenced to three years in the Boonville reformatory.

HONOR REQUISITION

AUSTIN, June 18.—(AP)—Requisition of the governor of Pennsylvania for the extradition of Robert Earl Duvall, indicted in Philadelphia county for forgery, uttering and sending forged telegrahs, was honored by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and becomes effective January 24, 1927, when Duvall completes a two-year sentence for forgery at the Texas prison at Huntsville.

Seattle Aroused Over Girl's Death

SEATTLE, June 18.—(AP)—Search for the person who brutally strangled and beat to death with a rock Sylvia H. Gaines, 22, Smith college graduate, here late Wednesday night, widened today as an appeal was forwarded to Governor Roland H. Hartley to authorize a state reward for the slayer's capture.

The body of Miss aGines, niece of The body of Miss Gaines, niece of commissioners, was found early yesterday. It was unrecognizably mangled and was identified only by shreds of clothing.

Ralph H. Douglas, state representative, urged the governor to offer a reward for the capture of the slayer. "Until this brute suffers the full penalty for his action," Douglas said in a telegram to the governor, "Seattle mothers will be afraid to let their daughters go out on the streets.

REQUEST EXTRADITION

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 18. (AP)—A requisition upon Governor Miriam A. Ferguson of Texas for the return to Kansas City of Evelyn Lindsey Adler, on a charge of sale of intoxicating liquor, was issued today by Governor Sam A. Baker.

The woman is under arrest in Fort Worth, the extradition papers show.

BROOKS FIELD IS ENLARGED

Medical Personnel Ordered to Texas From Post in New York.

SAN ANTONIO, June 18.—(AP) The most important step toward making San Antonio the flying center of the army air service made since the transfer of the primary flying school to Brooks Field, comes with the announcement from Washington that the school of aviation medicine has been ordered moved from Mitchell Field, New York, to Brooks Field.

Approximately 30 medical officers including flight surgeon instructors and students in the aviation medicine school will be transferred to the local field together with 50 enlisted men.

Recommendation that the school be transferred to San Antonio was made by Lieutenant Colonel C. C. Culver and other local air service officers to Lieutenant Colonel William R. Davis, chief flight surgeon of the air service and Major Francis H. Poole, commandant of the school, during their visit to local fields a few weeks ago.

After making a close study of local flying conditions, the surgeons recommended that the transfer of the school be made to enable it to make use of the large "personnel laboratory" that the primary and advanced flying schools will furnish.

EUOLOGIZE MARSHALL

Congressman Praises Late Vice-President for Cheerfulness

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Thomas R. Marshall, the late vice-president, was eulogized in the house today by Representative McSweeney, democrat, Ohio, as one who obtained "by his kindness and love for 'fellow man'" concerted action in the senate in the stormy days of the World war.

"He was a genial man-loving man," he said. "As Stonewall Jackson was to Robert E. Lee, so was Marshall to Wilson. Marshall was always faithful to hi scommander."

Women Walkers Nearing London

LONDON, June 18.—(AP)—Eight great columns of women who have been walking for five weeks today were nearing London. They comprise the peace pilgrims who from all parts of Great Britain have been stopping in villages and towns on the way to the capital delivering speeches on making war impossible.

The eights columns will merge into four Saturday morning and in that formation enter London. The long march will end at Hyde park where from 22 platforms speakers will denounce war and plead for universal conciliation and arbitration.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 18.—(AP)—Tons of steel, concrete and iron, forming 100 feet of the Thirteenth street vehicular viaduct through the Erie railroad storage yards crashed 20 feet into the yards today, blocking six trucks and destroying two coaches and a box car.

The viaduct collapsed when a string of passenger cars broke a restrain bumper and swept away a steel alee supporting the viaduct. Failure of the airbrakes on the last car was given as the cause.

ENTERTAIN AT BRIDGE

Mrs. M. P. Walsh and Mrs. J. L. Vertrees were hostesses Friday night in the home of the former when they entertained with six tables of bridge. The house was filled with the beauty and perfume of garden flowers which were used most effectively in baskets and crystal vases. In the games Mrs. Gail Durham had high score and was rewarded with a pair of silk hose. Mrs. P. F. Dawson had honors and was given a lovely silk and velvet corsage. Mrs. L. G. Jones of Bickneel, Ind., who is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. E. C. Clark, was given a pair of silk hose, and the cut prize, a clever little purse memorandum, went to Mrs. C. G. Stuard. The hostesses served delicious iced refreshments to Mesdames Robert N. Dunn, A. E. Landon, O. E. Heacock, Fred Pittman, E. B. Ellis, P. F. Dawson, J. N. Johnston, Jean Dorothy Brown, W. T. Dilley, Gail Durham, Jack Jasper, Earl Morris, W. H. Lemons, Miles Murphy, A. D. Cummings, D. M. Bridges, J. L. T. Sneed, G. A. Nelson, W. T. F. Bush, W. G. Turnage, E. C. Clark.

COMPLIMENT BRIDE

Complimentary to Mrs. Herschel Alexander, a bride of the last fortnight, Mrs. C. G. Stuard, assisted by Misses Marjory Sneed and Hazel Turnage, entertained with a most enjoyable shower Tuesday night at the Stuard home which was festive with garden flowers.

A number of interesting games were enjoyed, recipes were written for the bride (the greater number of them being tried ones for making fudge and divinity) each guest told of five tried and true ways to hold a husband's affection, and there was a musical program, Miss Geneva Ketchen favoring the guests with a number of pleasing vocal selections, and Misses Fae Pepin giving a number of piano numbers.

The gifts were brought in in a little wagon which was decorated in white and which was very attractive and bridal in appearance. Little Miss Katherine Wright, a winsome blonde attired in fairy costume, presented the gifts which were many and beautiful. The honoree expressed her appreciation of the lovely courtesy in a few well chosen remarks. MOODY ASSAILS TEXT CONTRACT

Tells Canyon Audience What He Thinks of Book Deal.

CANYON, Texas, June 18.—That the state text book commission, acting under Jim Ferguson's direction, had awarded the contract for spellers to the American Book company on the basis of a price per copy in excess of the price that any local board of school trustees could buy a single copy for without a contract was charged by Dan Moody, candidate for governor, in a speech delivered here this morning.

"The American Book company was the highest bidder," declared Moody, "and yet it got the contract. But that is not all. Without a contract the state could have purchased the same book from the same company at a lower price per copy than the price fixed in that contract, and any local board of school trustees could have bought it at the lower price if that contract had not been made. And yet the state will buy several hundred thousand copies of that book at the higher price.

Bacon and Bananas

"Two years ago Jim told the people in his campaign speeches that if they would stick with him he would bring home the bacon and the bananas too. I don't know whether he brought home the bananas, but if he brought home the bacon, it doesn't look to me like he brought it to the people's smoke house. It looks like he brought it to the American Book company's smoke house."

Moody made this charge, which he said is backed up by the record, while attacking Ferguson's record on education.

"Jim Ferguson has declared that he has built more school houses in Texas than all the other governors put together," said Moody. "There is only one man in public life in Texas that would make a statement like that and that man is Jim Ferguson. Jim Ferguson hasn't built any school houses. It is the taxpayers who built the school houses."

Moody spoke at Tulia in the afternoon and then went to Lubbock for a night address.

Attorneys for Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Grant said the action was based upon the inability of the husband to summon medical aid by telephone at the birth of the child.

PROBE WRECK

PITTSBURGH, June 18.—(AP)—Four separate investigations today were under way to determine responsibility for the wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad at Blairsville intersection yesterday in which 15 were killed and many injured. Twelve of those hurt remained at hospitals today, but the condition of all was reported improved.

Ligon, first vice president; Mrs. O. M. Waters, secretary, and Mrs. C. R. Troxel, news reporter.

PROGRAM GIVEN BY BAND

A very splendid program and entertainment was given at the Grand theatre Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Electra Municipal band, with the proceeds of the entertainment to be used in paying the expenses of the band with the chamber of commerce delegation to the west Texas chamber of corremce convention in Amarillo June 22.

This entertainment will pay sufficient dividends in the way of publicity for the band, and will boost the city.

When the curtain rose at 8:15 o'clock all the characters came out and sang, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginy." After which the Hughes trio, violin, saxophone and piano, with Maxine, Vyrle and Haldane Hughes, gave several selections. Bob Wallace gave a very entertaining monologue, "A Hen-Pecked Coon," followed by a dialogue, "Coon Creek Courtship," by Misses Inez Igou and Nana Kilpatrick, as "Cooness and Coon" respectively. The next number was a vocal solo, "Mellow Moon," by Bob Wallace with the conclusion of the introductory program being three numbers on the violin by Master John Elliott Smith, six-year-old son of Band Master Paul Smith, with Mr. Smith accompanying the young man with his guitar.

The real entertainment however, was the play, "Good Morning Judge," which showed the best home talent in the city. The curtain for the play rose to find the officers of the police court, Officer Bilkins, by Johnny Brown; Officer Cornfed, by Paul Jones, and Sergeant Muchworn, by Bob Wallace, discussing the affairs of the day before, Detective Pineapple by Sam McBride, and Judge Lukewarm, by Malcolm Kelly arrive on the scene. Other characters are: Come on Wherewith, by Haldaine Hughes; Alabama Screwloose, by Travis Walton; Percy Pin Feathers, by Edgar Walker; Zeke Whitehead, by Brewer Smith, and Lilly White, Inez Igou and Samantha, by Nana Kilpatrick. The end of the play was all of the "colored folk" singing "Good Night Ladies."

Chile Guarding American Envoy

ARICA, Chile, June 18.—(AP)—Chilean army and navy contingents were guarding the residence of General William Lassiter today following yesterday's demonstrations in which the plebiscitary chairman was the object of hisses and anti-American cries. The residences of the Peruvian delegates were also under guard.

The demonstrations were staged by Chileans in disapproval of General Lassiter's course in moving that a plebiscite to decide the soverignty of Tacna and Arica as between Peru and Chile would be fruitless in view of Chile's alleged unfair tactics. The motion was carried at a recent meeting.

American's Ranch Object of Dispute

MEXICO CITY, June 18.—(AP)—A renewal of the controversy over the famous San Pedro Coxtocan ranch in the state of Puebla seems probable. The previous owner of the ranch was Mrs. Rosalie Evans, an American-born woman, who was the wife of a British subject. She was assassinated some time ago by Agrarians after a long and sensational fight to prevent them from seizing her property.

The American embassy is preparing a note to the Mexican government on the basis of complaints by Mrs. W. J. Pettus of California, a sister of Mrs. Evans, who inherited the ranch. Mrs. Pettus says the Puebla authorities again are preparing to seize a portion of the ranch and divide it among the Indians of the locality. The embassy's note to the foreign office will request an investigation and action if necessary.

Webb Opposed To U. S. Liquor Sales

DALLAS, June 18.—(AP)—The anti-saloon league of Texas, its superintendent, Rev. Atticus Webb, today voted "nay" on government dispensation of liquor proposed by Texas druggists.

The druggists, closing their convention here yesterday, adopted a report condemning the present system of drug-store prescriptions and urging that the government alone sell whiskey and manufacture it.

In a statement today, however, the Rev. Mr. Webb declares government whiskey selling "a failure" and calls to witness the experience of Oklahoma in particular.

"Unless our druggists and doctors," he added, "are willing to handle the trade in medicinal liquor in the spirit and letter of the law, restricting it solely to medicinal purposes, there is only one thing to be done—forbid liquor being sold on prescriptions."

1,191 Locomotives Manufactured in '25

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP) Eighteen establishments turned out last year a total of 1,191 locomotives valued at $42,241,284, together with other products, including repair work, worth $23,147,850, making a grand output value of $65,389,134.

The total production, the commerce department announced today, was smaller than any previous census year since 1914, when it was $43,374,141. Allowing for the reduction in the purchasing power of the dollar, it said, the actual comparable value of the output last year fell below that of any year since 1909, with the single exception of 1909.

HE LACKED STORAGE SPACE

Congressman John K. Hendrick of Kentucky, now deceased, was notoriously soft-hearted. He was sitting in a courtroom one day when a young and struggling member of the local bar, who was not especially renowned for mental brilliancy, undertook to read a petition in a divorce suit and speedily got himself badly tangled up in a confused maze of legal phrases. The judge undertook to set the young lawyer right, but the only result was to tangle him worse than ever. The judge was showing signs of losing his temper when Colonel Hendrick arose.

"I hope, your honor," he said, in his courtly speaking voice, "that you will bear patiently with our young friend here. He is doing his best."

"I know that, Col. Hendrick," said the judge, somewhat testily, "and I intend to bear patiently with him. I am merely trying to give Mr. So-and-So an idea."

"Your honor," said Col. Hendrick, "don't do it. He's got no place to put it."

French Dancer Is Dead From Wound In London Theatre

LONDON, June 18.—(AP)—Regina Flory, a French revue actress and dancer of some celebrity both in Paris and London, is dead from a bullet wound in the head, fired yesterday evening while she was in the office of one of the officials of the Drury Lane theatre.

Police are said to be satisfied that the wound was self inflictde. The American musical comedy "Rose Marie" was being played on the stage at the time of the tragedy, but no one among the big audience heard the shot.

Full details had not been made public early this morning. It was said, however, that Mlle. Flory arrived in London two days ago, anxious to obtain a part in a forthcoming production.

ELEMENTS OF KNOCKOUT PUNCH HARD TO DEFINE

What are the elements that go to make a knockout punch and how many of the present-day crop of boxers can be properly described as one-punch knockers out? Who are they? The first part of question No. 1 has never, to the complete satisfaction of the writer, been answered. The second part of the first interrogation is simple enough, as is the second question.

Without thinking deeply, the average boxing fan will imediately state categorically that the elements contained in the punch that knocks out without further mauling or accuracy, power, speed and—er—er, that's all. We will come right back at him and ask why it is that Harry Greb, a strong middleweight with a fast, accurate punch, is not feared as a knocker out? Why Pancho Villa—may his soul rest in peace—who hit rapidly, accurately and who was as strong as a little bull, never acquired the reputation of being able to sink an opponent with a single wallop? We could cite Mickey Walker, Jack Dempsey and a horde of others. We believe we could successfully refute any argument he would advance.

Langford Had Lethal Punch

In return we would mention Benny Leonard, a master boxer, whose build would not necessarily indicate great punching power, Terris, a slender lad not yet fully developed; Jimmy Slattery, another slim one, and Jack Delaney, who is of the rangy, sinewy type and, true enough, expresses power in his physical make-up, but who shoots, short, snappy punches rather than sweeping hooks or uppercuts to accomplish his knockouts.

* * *

Perhaps the most striking example of the devastating punch was that displayed by Sam Langford in his prime. He once hit John Lester Johnson on the base of the spine and knocked him as cold as a Bismarck herring.

* * *

Now what was it and what is it that these men possess that cause their punches to accomplish in a single effort what it takes just as powerful boxers many minutes of steady walloping to do? Why, for instance, could not Gene Tunney knock out Georges Carpentier in that memorable eleventh round at the Polo grounds? Gene had the Frenchman helpless for a whole round and a half a round, his hands hanging at his sides. Carp staggered about the ring, a free target for the rain of lefts and rights that Tunney showered on him, and was able to come up for the twelfth and fight back. We maintained at the time, and still do, that Benny Leonard, having Carpentier in the same condition, would have knocked him out with a wallop. Jack Delaney would have done the same, and Sam Langford, with the first opening at the Kaul's weak chin that was granted to the ex-marine would have ended it then and there had he so elected.

K. O. Impact of Explosive Quality

In our opinion, the only way to describe the quality that makes a single punch a lethal one is its explosiveness. We saw Harry Wills snap a six-inch right jab at Louis Firpo and drop him like a felled steer. Had he doubled the distance the punch travelled he would surely have knocked out the Argentinian. There was an explosion at the end of his punch. There is also the quality of perfectly-timed speed.

* * *

Why it is that lanky Francis Ouimet gets the same yardage out of a drive off the tee that many big-powerful men with low handicaps would give their very souls to duplicate? Why is it that skinny little Billy Johnson with his forehand drive, gets the same or greater speed with a tennis ball than bulky, powerful Gerald Patterson with the same stroke? Timing. The greatest speed of the clubhead or racquet is applied just as it contacts with the ball. The same condition exists with the punch.

* * *

Many boxing fans are going to take issue with us for including Sid Terris among those with devastating punches. Sid had not used it much of late. Yet we sat in the ringside at Henderson's bowl, in Brooklyn, one night and saw Sid knock Andy Chaney out in the second round with a single punch, delivered when both of Terris' feet were off the floor! Here was perfect timing, deadly accuracy and the explosive quality in their most perfect combination and raised to the nth degree.

Dempsey Punishing Hitter

Firpo possessed it, and had he known how and when to hit, what a heavyweight champion he would have been! As it was, he was lucky he did not break a hand or wrist every time he hit a man. A man less marvelously equipped with wrists and fists would have. Leonard did not discover his punch until he finished Joe Mandot in 1915. He knocked over a lot of round-heels previous to that, but Mandot was the first foeman worthy of his leather to take the long count.

Greb is woefully lacking in explosiveness. Perhaps it is fortunate. If he could bring to bear his strength and speed, plus the missing quality in that overhand right of his, he would be barred from the ring—he would kill every man he hit. Mickey Walker lacks it. Frank Moran had it; his Mary Ann, the old right haymaker, when it landed, spelled chloroform.

Jack Dempsey, in our opinion, does not always pack it, though he is always a cruelly punishing hitter. Remember how often he had to hit Firpo to stop him, and how often he landed on Jess Willard without actually stopping him.

* * *

Paul Berlenbach lacks it. He is the mauler type. Tunney certainly has failed to show it. Throw out the Madden thing and he has not decisively stopped a good man with a single punch. Wills has it when he cares to risk his brittle right hand on a hard jaw. Goodrich, Mandell, Seeman, Kansas and Tendler fail to qualify, while Terris and George Chaney have demonstrated the elusive quality on more than one occasion—especially the latter.

Freeze Faces Kiefer In Belated Series Opener Today At Athletic Park

Entire Texas League Rained Out Friday, Rest Helps Locals' Crippled Box Staff

The Texas League took the afternoon off yesterday due to excess moisture all over the loop, so the Spudders weren't given a chance to overhaul Fort Worth in the percentage column at Waco's expense.

Hostilities are to be resumed this afternoon with Wichita Falls playing Waco, Beaumont at Fort Worth, Houston at Dallas and San Antonio at Shreveport.

Great chance there for the Spudders to slip up on the rest of the league, because Pratt's Cubs are but little stronger, if any, than in the past two Spud-Waco series which were copped by the Brainard outfit.

Pratt plans to start Jake Freese, former Baylor university mound star, on the hurling eminence this afternoon. Harlem Joe Kiefer, stocky righthander, who is leading the home staff in effectiveness so far, is Brainard's pitching pick.

A double-header is on the cards Sunday afternoon for Wichita Falls fandom. It is more than likely, Waco will use Young Hudlin, the much-talked of kid pitcher, in one of the two games. Barring accidents this afternoon, Sunday Brainard will have Estell, Roberts and Fussell from which to choose his flingers.

Friday's lay-off proved profitable to the Spudders. Kiefer, under doctor's treatment the past two days for strained ligaments, would not have been ready to go yesterday and a pitcher would have had to be shoved in out of turn and without sufficient rest. The off-day also gave Roberts a longer time in which to rest his arm before getting into the game again. Jim has been hampered the past week or so with, first a kink in the elbow and then stiff shoulder.

Carl Williams and Paddy Martin both are suspended at the moment. Williams, if an ankle injury received two days back has recuperated sufficiently, will be ready to go Monday in Fort Worth. Paddy is eligible Tuesday.

Corsairs Halt Giants Again Behind Rookie

McGraw Uses Collegians When He Sees Game Hopelessly Gone.

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Pittsburgh stopped New York's rush here today, defeating the Giants 3 to 2. It was the eighth successive Friday the Giants have lost. Songer, a Pittsburgh pitching rookie, hurled brilliantly for the victors, keeping New York's nine hits well scattered. After the game was lost, McGraw tried out several of his newly acquired collegians, Cote of Holy Cross and Pitcher Al Smith of Villanova. Third baseman Traynor of Pittsburgh was out of the game with an injured right knee. Score:

Reds Retain Lead

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—(AP)—Cincinnati retained the lead over the Pirates today by trouncing the Phillies in a long tedious game, 13 to 5. The wildness of the Phillies' pitchers, who issued ten bases on balls helped the Reds count almost as many runs as hits. Pete Donahue of Cincinnati, was sent from the bench by Umpire Reardon for protesting against a first base decision. Score:

Hagen Trailing Mitchell 4 Down

VIRGINIA WATER, Sussex, Eng., June 18.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, American star, tonight was trailing Abe Mitchell, ace of the British golf professionals after the first day's play of their long heralded 72-hole match for the unofficial world's match play championship.

With 36 holes played, Hagen was four down to the British star in his fight for the championship and the largest stake money in the history of golf—500 pounds a side and other wagers. But Hagen and his retinue which includes an imported caddie, were anything but downcast. The American star's followers were least of all dismayed. They cited Hagen's last encounter with Mitchel in America when the British was four up with eight to play and still Hagen pulled through victoriously.

Top 'O Morn Stuff

By "Blondy" Cross

Motto: "RAZZ THE RAZZERS"

SAD, BUT LAUGHABLE

Dallas sports writer displays a lot of sythetic nerve in riding Cecil Griggs the other day when the Bears pawed the Herd, 12 to 7. No man can sit in the grandstand and call strikes and balls correctly. Some of you woofing fans may think you can, but you can't. Umpires boot 'em every now and then. No argument there, but your fan in stand is foolish for trying to pit his judgment with the indicator's. Your catcher and your batter are more than likely to miss one than the umphs behind the plate.

* * *

That's on balls and strikes only. The Wichita Falls press box is so situated that 99 out of 100 plays at the plate for a runner can be seen perfectly, but even there it's difficult to catechise balls and strikes. And this particular vantage point is far better than any other in the park with the exception of the catcher, batter and umpire stance at the pan.

GO GET HIM, DOAK

Mile Saul, the Dallas News Scrivener, has the gall to comment, "In the eighth inning, Jim Lindsey and Rhino Williams fanned on a perfect strike down the middle and Griggs called it a ball." She may have been a perfect strike and down the middie, but the chances are 10 to 1 she wasn't. "Your umphs make their mistakes, but how many do you think are going to miscall "one down the middle?" If the pitch had taken a corner, Griggs might have missed it. But regardless of whether Griggs was right or wrong, the presumptions Dallas scribe certainly is not in a position to judge. You cannot perch in the Dallas press box, which is a mile up in the grandstand, and guess 'em correctly even with the aid of a pair of field glasses. And nowhere in any ball park can any man call balls and strikes correctly unless he's behind the plate and right on top of the catcher. Some of you fans who sit in box seats directly behind the catcher at Spudder park, a scant 20 feet or so back, think you know when they are and are not over, but you're wrong, all wet. Take it or leave it. Whether you like it or not makes no diff!

* * *

Incidently, Jim Lindsey was pinched by the cops for bursting into a vociferous string of epithets over that "down the middle strike." Fem fans in the stands didn't appreciate the cussing. If they arrested ball players in Wichita Falls for popping off profanely it wouldn't be long until the ranks would be so diminished the game would have to be stopped for lack of sufficient athletes to make up a team.

DON'T SHOOT, MISTER

The fact remains, that Dallas sports writer does NOT know whether that "down the middle strike" was high, low, inside, outside or a combination of any other of these circumstances. Yet he carried a cut and dried declaration that the pitch traveled none of the eight routes by which it could be called a ball instead of a strike.

Your Move, Mr. Roberts

If Doak Roberts in his recent tirade against me, the essence of which was carried in this column, labored under the impression that I ever had taken such an uncalled for crack against his umpires as the aDllas writer, then the league pres owes me an apology. And if the apology is not forthcoming immediately, I shall fine the Wichita Falls ball club.

Gene's Irish Descent Will Keep Him in Ring Many Years, Says Gib

BY ROBERT EDGREN

Anyone wanting the dope on Gene Tunney can get it from Mr. William Gibson, the eminent educator of champions.

"Gene will beat Dempsey sure if Dempsey can't get him in the first six rounds," said Gibson at lunch in the Biltmore yesterday.

"There isn't a chance that Dempsey can get Gene in the first six," Gibson went on, making it unanimous.

"Don't understand me as saying anything against Dempsey," continued Bill. "I have a lot of respect for Dempsey and he's a nice fellow. He's a great fighter and he can knock out all of those big guys without any trouble, but he won't knock out Gene.

"Tunney is Irish, both sides of the family. He's pure Irish by descent. Both his parents were born in Ireland. All Irish fighters and athletes develop late, the Irish being a sturdy, longlived race. An Irish girl of twenty looks about fifeen, while an Italian girl of fifteen, for example, looks like a mature woman of twenty. Irish athletes never develop to their best form until they're over thirty. Bob Fitzsimmons did his best fighting after thirty. He was of pure Irish stock. Take Jim Coffey, my Irish heavyweight a few years ago. Jim started growing again when he was 26. That year he grew an inch and a half, and growing so fast made his legs weak—which was all that was the matter with him when he lost to Frank Moran. If he'd laid off until he stopped growing he might have become a champion four or five years later. You take the Irish weight throwers. John Flanagan was breaking hammer records when he was over 40. Matt McGrath is 48 and can throw the hammer as far as ever. Pat McDonald is still winning championships after twenty years of competition, though the job he had for ten years or so as traffic officer at 43rd street and Broadway would take the jump out of the legs of any man but an Irishman."

Tunney Still Growing.

"Gene Tunney is 27, which is boyhood for an Irish athlete. He is still growing. Right now he's Dempsey's equal in weight and height. In a few months he'll be going into the ring at 190 pounds and he'll be better than he is now. He's twice as good right now as when he knocked out Tommy Gibbons.

"Dempsey may knock Gene down two or three times. But he can't hit Gene hard enough to keep him down. Gene's game and full of confidence, and he's rugged. Dempsey has been beating the giants by outspeeding them. He won't be as fast as Tunney. He won't hit any harder than Tunney, and I don't think he can hit as hard. Dempsey's best punch is a body punch. Tunney has a better body punch than Dempsey has. He's a better boxer. He can come back from a punch better than Dempsey can now. Gene never broke training in any way. He never had a drink or a smoke in his life, and he hasn't fallen for anything else. That all gives him the power to fight without tiring, and to come back if he's hurt. When he puts Dempsey down, Dempsey will have a harder time getting up.

"I'll tell you a funny one. You remember how it was the night Gene fought Tommy Gibbons. I guess where you sat in the front press row it was about 125 degrees under the glare of those picture lights, and it was hotter up with Tunney and Gibbons.

"I told Tunney I was going to have a big cake of ice in his corner that night. He said he wouldn't need it. I got hold of an iceman and asked what he'd charge to get a big cake of ice and take it down to the ring early in the day, and crawl under the ring with it and guard it until the fight started. He said he'd do it for $10. I promised him $25. I showed him what corner to get under with his cake of ice and gave him a big galvanized bucket and some towels and told him to crack a lot of ice as soon as the fight started and keep the towels soaked in ice water. I took a chance on the corner. If Gibbons had got in and grabbed that corner first we wouldn't have had any ice, because it couldn't be shifted around in that crowd. I got it in early so Tommy's seconds wouldn't know we had it. It would have been a joke on us if Tommy had grabbed our ice."

An Unfamed Iceman Helps Tunney.

"In the eighth round Tommy was desperate and he managed to get one over on Gene's chin. Tommy knocked out a lot of men with that same punch. Gene was groggy for a moment and he wabbled a bit. Tom hit him with a left, a right and another left, and the bell rang. Gene came back to his corner and I jumped up and looked at his eyes to see how he was, and his eyes were glassy. He sat down. I signalled for the towels in the bucket of cracked ice, clapped one on the back of Gene's neck and slapped him in the face with the other. The glassy look went right out of his eyes and he straightened up, perfectly fresh. I kept the cold towel on his neck until the bell, and he went out strong and finished Tommy in a hurry. Gene is twice as strong today as he was when he beat Gibbons. The heavier Gene grows the stronger he is. At 190 to 195 he'll be stronger than Dempsey, alble to take more punishment, box better and hit harder. The way I figure Gene, as an Irish athlete who has taken great care of himself, he'll be better every year for five or six years more, at least. Imaging how he'll be able to fight when he's about 32 and coming into his best days!

"Dempsey is of Irish descent, but only on one side of the family. He came up faster than Gene, and he'll drop back sooner, because he's got only half of that Irish trick of not reaching full development until over 30. When Gene gets into a ring with Dempsey it'll be a case of Tunney coming and Dempsey going.

"Gene likes to study everything out and improve, no matter what he's doing. He's always studying boxing. Every time I see him fight I find he's developed something new. Jim Corbett says Gene ought to move around more to avoid being hit. I'll leave that to Gene's judgment. He's studied out his most effective fighting style. His way is to let the other fellow attack and then step in and beat him to it. He'll beat any man who comes to him, and Dempsey always comes at top speed.

"Whatever Gene does, he tries to do it better than the other fellow. A couple of years ago I picked up a pretty fair game of golf. Gene was playing a little and I trimmed him. We were going down to Florida that winter and Gene went down a few weeks ahead. Without saying a word to anybody he got a good professional to coach him, played 36 holes every day, and when I got down there he took me out on the course and handed me the trimming of my life. If I'd gone on playing with Gene I'd be managing him for nothing. There wouldn't be any manager's end left.

"But don't forget I'm Irish too," whispered Gibson. "I played 18 holes yesterday and I'm going out to Westchester on the 2:45 today for another round, and tomorrow I may get in 36 holes. Just wait till Gene gets back from Hollywood."

"It won't do you any good," I said. "There are ninety-two of the finest golf courses in the world right around Hollywood, and by this time Tunney has probably all of them."

Macks Score Ten In One Frame To Beat Tigers, 12-2

Detroit, June 18.—(AP)—A wild sixth inning marked by an argument between Manager Cobb and Umpire Rowland, and by the scoring of 10 runs by the Athletics featured today's 12 to 2 victory of Philadelphia over Detroit. Te half inning in which the excitement occurred required 40 minutes to play, part of which was taken up by the dispute which ended in Cobb being chased from the field. It started over a decision at first base. The Athletics made eight hits in this inning, two men walked and there was an error by Blue which ran the count up. Every Athletic scored in the sixth. It was the second game in two days that Sammy Gray started and the second which he failed to finish. Score:

Yanks Even Series

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—The league leading Yankees evened up the series with Chicago today by pounding out a 10 to 2 victory. The visitors landed hard on Thomas in the first four innings, scoring five times before he gave way to Thurston. Thurston was unable to check the attack. Combs led the attack for the visitors with four hits, including two doubles. Chicago batted Pennock freely but he managed to keep the hits scattered and was given perfect support. Ruth walked twice and drove in two runs with singles and filed out once when the bases were loaded. Score:

Hull Unable To Hook With White Monday

Walter Varner Substitutes for Minnesota Boxer.

Inability of Clyde Hull to meet Tommy White in return match Monday night at the legion arena because of earlier arrangement with an El Paso promoter for a boot few days later with White in the border city caused cancellation of the match yesterday by Promoter D. M. Wofford. Hull had agreed to meet White in El Paso June 29, it was said. An offer was made and accepted for the bout here the 21st, but the El Paso matchmaker refused to relinquish his end of the match, said Wofford.

Walter Varner of Fort Worth has been substituted for Hull here and the card will be staged Monday regardless, according to the promoter.

Buckshot Peoples and Spike Flanagan probably will appear on the program said Wofford.

ox Beats Anderson In 2 of 3 Under Marquis Of Packing House Rules

ntell Gets Stuck in Mud, So Kendall Wrestles Great One-Fall Match With Yaqui Joe

wrestling" under the Marquis of Packing House rules, as George Hodgkins, the famous sportsman, puts it, Charley Fox, late of New York, but at the moment from Dallas, defeated Otis Anderson, iron-sinewed and leather-thighed Mississippi Dutchman, in two falls out of three last night at the Eighth and Ohio arena under the auspices of the Wichita Falls wrestling association. The men are light heavyweights.

Fox, following the Marquis of Packing House edicts, the object apparently to hit 'em in the head and kill 'em. And so did Fox and Anderson in the last night, only neither registered his punches to points above the shoulder. Blows delivered with the knees, elbows and fists landed indiscriminously, ranging from the belt to the top of each gussy dome.

The idea in this type of contest seems to be cool cock your man and then pin him, but don't put his shoulders to the canvas until after you've dealt gobs of physical punishment which doesn't halt at kicking and clawing but includes hair-pulling jiu jitsu thumb-jabs besides all the torture holds known to so-called legitimate wrestling.

Anderson put up a game fight but got away with more of the dirty stuff than did Fox, therefore startled fandom shouted lusty acclaim when the New Yorker was returned the victor. But last night developed almost as much popularity as Ad Santel has among Wichita Falls sports lovers.

The first fall was a comparatively clean and scientific exhibition. After wrestling on practically even terms for 22 minutes Fox suddenly worked into a pin fall to cop initial honors.

They went at it hammer and tongs for the next fall, Anderson winning in 10 minutes with a kick to the midriff. Gus on his feet with Charley on the mat made a sudden jump and landed in the pit of Fox's stomach on one foot. The New Yorker flattened out, the wind knocked from him, and Anderson quickly applied a head lock and pinned both shoulders.

Anderson worked out of several damaging leg splits during the third encounter, but after seven minutes of furious milling was forced to give in to one of these punishing holds.

Dutch Mantell, driving through from Amarillo to meet Yaqui Joe in a finish match, got stuck up somewhere in the mud around Quanah and failed to arrive in time to fill the date. Rain Thursday night and most of Friday made the roads almost impassable.

Wild Bill Kendall, Los Angeles welterweight, substituted for Dutch and put over a great match with the Indian. The scrap was fairly even all the way with both grapplers stepping at a speedy clip. Because of the evenness of the encounter it had to be curtailed at one fall in order to make way for the Fox-Anderson melee. Yaqui won the fall in 40 minutes with a series of flying headlocks, but was pushed to the limit to do it.

The match was one of the cleanest and fastest ever staged here. Many fans expressed doubt that Joe might win a two-fall finish affair with the Californian. The fact remains, Yaqui won for the night.

Kendall was traveling through Wichita Falls on his way to Chicago. He stopped over to see last night's card and was put on immediately when it was discovered Dutch could not arrive. He expects to be back this way early in July and wishes another match with Joe or any other first class welterweight, he says.

TEXAS DEBTS'

'8 o'clock to hear Mr. Davidson speak. The assembly was variously estimated to include between 3,000 and 4,000 people at the outset.

Mr. Davidson arrived in Wichita Falls at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon following a series of delays at Seymour and Dundee where a train wreck and a washout threatened for a time to prevent altogether his reaching here in time for the rally. He went immediately to his room at the Kemp hotel. At 6 o'clck he was guest of honor at a dinner at the Wichita club, appearing at Bellevue park promptly at 8 o'clock.

He was introduced then by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court who termed the former lieutenant governor the successor to James Stephen Hogg. In his introductory remarks Judge Martin quoted a rhyme he said he had learned in his boyhood days from an old Irishman:

"There was once two cats in Kilkenny;
And each though there was one too many,
So they clawed and they bit
And they fought and they fit,
Till at last of cats there weren't any."

Speech Unique

Mr. Davidson's speech was in many ways unique among the political expositions heard thus far this week in Wichita Falls. Occasional humorous quips at the expense of his opponents were always in the best of taste. There was no lessening what he termed his "condemnation of Fergusonism" tactics and policies in his failure to apply a variety of epithets to the husband of the governor. Dan Moody, attorney general, he termed a "good boy," but declared that he did not know "whither he was being led," charging that he was being unwittingly made the tool of various large Texas newspaper, oil and liquor interests.

"I realize," he declared at the outset, "that you are not here to hear me. I'm not an orator, neither do I offer a vaudeville show. You are here because you are interested in the perpetuation of the principles on which your citizenship and your liberties are founded. I'm going to discuss problems of state, and the problems that have been presented through the rule of the Fergusons of the state.

"A year and a half ago after seeing myself eliminated from the run-off primary election by Mrs. Ferguson I made the people of Texas the promise that I would run again in 1926. The Fergusons had promised if elected in 1924 they were through, but I knew then that by all the rules of Ferguson political ethics that that promise really meant that they would run again. And then Dan just got in the way and muddied the water.

"My attempt will be to present the real issues of the campaign, putting the government on a business basis, elimination of waste. Of the governmental and political policies of my opponents I will have nothing to say, except that thus far they have exhibited none. Their only excuse for running is each other. Moody is Ferguson's platform, Ferguson is Moody's. In my judgment both have mighty poor platforms."

Mr. Davidson then drew a verbal picture of a "tenderfoot" from the east who came to West Texas, watched a rancher shear a sheep, decided to try it himself but made the mistake of picking a razor-back hog for the subject of his experiment. According to Mr. Davidson, the "tenderfoot" finished his task and then remarked, "lots of squeal but not much wool."

"Let's make our reconsecration to democratic ideals in government heard above the screechings of that hog," he said.

He compared the state to a gigantic corporation with each citizen a stockholder by virtue of his being a tax payer. He then listed the assets of the corporation, terming as such the penitentiary system, the school system, the judiciary system, the road-building system, and other departments of the state government which its officials were paid to maintain in an orderly and efficient manner.

The penitentiary system, he cited especially as a subject for re-organization, declaring that it represented a $8,000,000 investment with 80,000 acres of land, and 14 plants extending from Red River to the Rio Grande. "And," he said, "there were 4,000 convicts located within its walls when last I left Houston."

He stated that it "was sucking the tax money of the state at an incredible rate," whereas, "there is no real reason why it cannot be made self-supporting. He outlined then a system whereby, he stated, he could make the penitentiaries pay for themselves, and make them an institution of reform rather than purely a penal affair.

He cited as an example of what business administration of state affairs had done his own handling of the problems of the state railway between Rusk and Palestine during the past five years.

Talks of Railroads

Upon his opposition to a line of proposals to junk that line five years ago, he stated, it was perhaps thrust "upon his neck" by "political opponents" who saw in it a chance to "ruin him politically." An allotment of $25,000 was obtained from the legislature for its rejuvenation. An audit showed that $330,000 was needed for this purpose, $200,000 for steel rails, $90,000 for ties, $40,000 for labor. Rails were ernment's supply of unused war material, he ralted, a deal consummated with the Morgan lines whereby transportation from the east to Rusk secured on credit, $100,000 obtained by selling the old rails, and another $25,000 obtained by selling other "junk." The "rejuvenation" was effected, he declared without the expenditure of any of the original $25,000 except a $2,500 loading charge paid at Washington, and in addition through the manner of financing another $15,000 was placed to the credit of the road. The road since that time, he declared, has operted at a profit, and is now worth a million dollars of 'anybody's money." The initial investment, he stated, was $650,000, with operating expenses over the ten years preceding his control to $800,000 more.

"I can do the same thing with the penitentiary system," he declared. "Sell out its assets, build a model system, and have a million dollars left over.

"Go to any Wichita Falls' banker who knows my business reputation and he'll vouch for the fact that I can take the Texas government and operate it at 75 per cent of what it costs now," he challenged.

"There are a thousand other men in Texas who can do so, too," he declared. "Wichita Falls has any number of men who might do it. But I'm the only one in this race."

Other Comparisons

He drew similar other comparisons with other branches of the state government. "It takes $60,000,000 a year to operate the state institutions," he declared. "It is not a boy's job, especially when that boy is just a short time ago plucked from the branches of a law school. With all due respect to the law the governor's office does not represent a lawyer's job. Much less does it represent a political lawyer's job.

"My announcing my candidacy for the supreme bench of Texas would be comparable in its absurdity to Dan Moody's announcing as candidate for governor."

He stated that he wished to compliment Mr. Moody for his success in breaking up the "unconscionable conspiracy" at Austin in the matter of the road contracts. "He rendered the state a valuable service there. But it's the truth that after he caught them he didn't know what to do with them."

He scored Moody's judgment with the American Road company on the ground that it was a "compromise with fraud."

Both Moody and Ferguson were scored for their attitude on prohibition. Mr. Davidson charged that Dr. Cranfill at Dallas was parading a "dry Dan" while O. B. Colquitt and others in south Texas were holding him forth as equally "wet." Ferguson's liquor record, he charged, was well known to all.

Raps Oil Bill.

The senate bill 180 he claimed was the blackest mark on the Ferguson administration, adding that it was intended to do more than nullify the Hogg anti-trust laws. He declared that the bill was passed as the culmination of 30 years fighting to return the Standard Oil companies to their old place in Texas, and that it declared that it shall not be unlawful to the same things which the Hogg laws declared it should be unlawful to do.

He stated that he had no fight against the smaller oil companies. Rather, he declared, he was for them. He is against the "octopus that wants all and won't be satisfied with less."

"Retain that bill and give them as it will what is underground, and you might as well give them what is on top the earth too and go to work for them. The oil and mineral lands, once obtained by that octopus are gone to the people of Texas, whose birthright they are, forever."

Mr. Davidson cited a sevent-cent gasoline increase in some parts of the state as an example of what is in store if the bill is allowed to remain in force. "Last year Texas used 513,000,000 gallons of gasoline. Seven cents additional on the price of that gasoline means $35,000,000 additional paid into the coffers of a concern which paid 120 per cent dividend on its capital stock this last year."

The opposition of the Houston Post-Dispatch, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the Houston Chronicle to his candidacy, he declared, was influenced by their ownership, which he traced to various officials of the Standard and its subsidiaries.

These, he declared, after obtaining the signature of the governor to senate bill 180 found Ferguson "too much to swallow" and switched to Moody as the best candidate to defeat me with my known antipathy toward the bill."

He charged that Moody had been unwittingly made a tool of this group, and that they were expending more money in his behalf than had ever been expended in a Texas political campaign. "Moody is a nice clean cut young man," he stated. "He is honest now, but he is in the hands of some awful big boys down at Houston, and some awful bad boys at Dallas. The first are going to get awful rough with him and the last are sure to lead him astray. But he doesn't even know what is happening. I know, because I know all of those I have named.

A conversation with Moody some time ago on business problems of government, Mr. Davidson declared, was similar in many respects to a conversation on the same topic with his two sons-in-law at Houston. "He knows not whither he is going."

Mr. Davidson closed his address with a promise to remain free and unfettered in the office of governor if elected. He declared that he did not seek the office for the name, for the honor, or for the fame, but simply because it offered an opportunity to serve the state in which he had made himself and his family.

NO TOWEL TOSSING.

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Promiscuous towel tossing by boxing managers or seconds will not be tolerated in New York state rings in the future. The state athletic commission today adopted a ruling abolishing the right of a boxer's handler to terminate a contest by throwing in a towel and established the referee as the sole judge of a fighter's ability to continue under severe punishment.

PITCHER JOINS SHIPPERS

FORT WORTH, June 18.—(AP) Leland "Bull" Smith, right-hander, recommended by the same authority who recommended young Willis Hudlin, Waco pitching ace, joined the Beaumont club of the Texas League here Friday. He was recently in Terrell high school.

OFFICERS GRADUATED.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 18. (AP)—Diplomas of graduation were presented to 241 regular army officers, three officers of the United States marine corps and a captain of the Cuban army, members of the command and general staff, general service schools, at exercises today on the main parade at Fort Leavenworth.

CATS BUY COMPTON

FORT WORTH, June 19.—(AP)—Pete Compton, outfield, has been purchased by the Cats from the Wichita, Kan., club of the Western league and will report immediately. Compton, a .300 hitter, played left field for Houston last season.

TWO GREATEST PATES OF THE DAY

The well-known and much talked of "Bald" Pate now has a rival right in his family, according to American league fans and scribes.

The rival is Joe, also a Pate, but not bald one.

Joe is the old "rookie" whose relief hurling has been in no small way responsible for the success of the Philadelphia Athletics in recent weeks.

Joe's success in the majors comes after serving a term in the minors that would indicate, on the face of it, that he was too old to make the grade in the big show.

For eight straight years Pate hurled regularly for the Fort Worth club. A good job he did, too, most the team to victory in the little he won 30 games and then pitched the tea nto victory in the little world's series against Dixie champions, the Memphis club of the Southern association. He has won at least 25 games every season for the Panthers, according to the dope at hand.

The Mackmen grabbed him last winter. Some folks laughed at Connie. Said he was stealing Stanley Harris' stuff. Joe's age is given as 33 in the club' roster lists, which means that Joe is that old at least.

When the Mackmen gathered together last spring Pate was given some consideration, but the enthusiasm over the probable showing of Grove, Gray, Rommel and Slim Harriss, to say nothing of Walberg and possibly Beaumgartner, sort of set Joe on the outside. Connie, however, apparently knew his beaded bag work, for he tuned Joe up for relief duty right off the bat.

We saw Joe go into the closing innings of two games recently and his coolness, deliberation and apparent ability to outguess the batters was glorious to watch.

Joseph of the Pate is a left-hander by trade. Perhaps that accounts for his decision when he was offered a chance to go into the big show two years ago. Ty Cobb bought Joseph from the Texas outfit early in the 1924 campaign but the southpaw refused to join the club. Cobb was frank enough to say that the failure to land Pate just about cost him a chance at the world's series gravy that fall.

Pate was sufficiently interested in the world's series partly because of Ty's remark, to attend it that fall and watch the Giants and Washington clubs battle it out.

Just wanted to see what pitching in a world's series would be like.

SEVERE STORM

rillo said, also was the beneficiary of needed precipitation. A general rain, extending into Oklahoma, was reported Friday, following downpours on Thursday. Grain crops and grazing prospects have improved as result.

Tracks Washed Out.

But in the general section extending southward from Wichita Falls about 150 miles to Abilene, there was a different story. All was clear in Wichita Falls Friday night, after the section had been blanketed during the preceding 48 hours by rains reported as much as 3.20 inches in sections. Some trackage was washed out on the Wichita Valley railroad, which connects Wichita Falls with Abilene, and two passenger trains were marooned as result. Passengers on one of the trains adapted themselves to conditions, and converted one car into a nursery where babies would be comfortable and undisturbed.

Hamlin, Jones county, northwest of Abilene, reported the heaviest rain recorded in the state—3 inches. At Anson, county seat of Jones county, hail "as large as baseballs" was reported, levelling crops. Abilene, Taylor county seat ,was visited by its second rain storm of the day late Friday, increasing precipitation for the 24 hours to 3.76 inches. O. A. Lightsey, farmer living near Abilene, was killed by lightning, and crops were heavily damaged. Cisco and Eastland, east of Abilene, reported more than a needed share of water.

CROPS DESTROYED BY RAIN AND HAIL

ABILENE, June 18.—(AP)—The second deluge within 15 hours, coming in the form of a cloud-burst over much of Jones and Taylor counties, Friday afternoon increased the heavy damage done to crops and property Thursday by hail, wind and rain.

Rain began falling here at 11:30 a. m. and in less than 10 minutes one inch had fallen. The total precipitation for today was 2.72 inches bringing the total for the past 24 hours to 3.76 inches. Similar downpours were reported from Anson, Stamford and Hamlin, where heavy rains of the preceding evening had done much damage.

Creeks, already bank-full, overflowed into the low lands in many districts. Crops in these sections are virtually destroyed, reports indicate. Hail at Anson Thursday and five inches of rainfall, a high wind and hail at Hamlin practically ruined crops in those localities.

Only one fatality resulted, so far as could be learned here.

O. A. Lightsey, farmer, was struck by lightning and instantly killed during the storm at his home in the southwestern part of Taylor county. A child was injured at Stamford when lightning struck and wrecked a concrete cellar in which a family had sought refuge.

Clear skies greeted farmers late today, the slow drizzle that had followed the deluge at noon ceasing altogether about 5 o'clock. Creeks and other streams were raging torrents, however, and showed no signs of receding. Old residents expressed the opinion that they would rise no higher.

Services Held In Tabernacle With Good Enthusiasm

The revival services for the Southern Presbyterian church were held in the tabernacle last night instead of in the tent. A good crowd was present and splendid interest manifested.

Dr. Trigg Thomas, noted evangellist of Atlanta, Ga., who is conducting the revival, delivered a strong sermon and Miss Young of the First Christian church, rendered a vocal solo. Dr. Thomas took his text from Genesis 42:21, "We are verily guilty concerning our brother," and said in part:

"We are guilty because we have permitted the cares of this life, the deceitfulness of sin, and the subtlety of the devil to deaden our consciences to the point that we do not feel the guilt.

"We are guilty because we have failed to realize our brother's need of God. We are guilty because we have not prayed for our brother as we should. We are guilty because we failed to do personal work and speak to our brother as we should. We are guilty because we have not lived before our brother and set the good example as we should.

"We are guilty because we have not displayed sufficient zeal and earnestness for the salvation of our brother. When we, as true Christians and church members, sincerely and honestly do these things, people will be saved and the church will prosper and become a power for good in the world."

There will be no Saturday services in connection with the revival, but special services will be held under the big tent Sunday morning and evening and each morning and evening next week, to which the general public is cordially invited.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—An early decline in the cotton market today was checked by a denewal of covering, but rallies were not maintained and after selling from 16.36 to 16.54, October closed at 16.40 compared with 16.45 at the close yesterday. The general market closed steady at net declines of two to five points.

The market opened steady at a decline of four to 10 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and favorable crop advices. Active months showed net losses of nine to 15 points after the call under liquidation around 17.76 for July and 16.37 for December. These prices seemed to bring in further covering by both old and new crop shorts and the midday rally probably was promoted by failure of the detailed weather reports to show any relief for drouthy areas in the eastern belt.

There also appeared to be nervousness over rain reports from the southwest but some traders believed the wet weather there would do no harm and after net advances of about seven to 11 points, demand tapered off.

This rally carried July up to 17.95. Private reports of showers in the eastern belt also were a factor on the late reactions of some 10 to 15 points from the best.

One private report estimated the condition of the crop as of June 11 at 75.3, compared with a report of 71 as of May 25. This showed about the same improvement as the private report issued earlier in the week and was not generally discussed as an important factor in the day's fluctuations.

Exports today 11,127 bales, making 7,741,507 so far this season. Port receipts today 4,984. U. S. port stocks 732,165.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—(AP)—The cotton market experienced a fair volume of trading today and prices fluctuated freely but with na moderate range. Prices lack definite trend, in fact the market was more two sided than it has been of late. After opening lower on disappointing cables, prices eased off further in the early trading on private reports of rains in the drouth section of the eastern belt and on a private condition report making the average 75.3 against 71 a month ago. This early decline carried values down eight to 12 points. The market then rallied on the failure of the weather map to show the reported rains in the drouth district of the east and on a minus collection of 40,000 bales inthe Houston stock. This rally carried prices up 18 to 20 points from the lows. Most of this improvement was lost in the afternoon on reports of good rains in both the western and eastern belts and the close showed no change on July and net losses for the day of five to seven months.

As Liverpool was lower than due at the start first trades showed losses of three to seven points and prices gradually eased off in the early trading until July sold at 17.02, October at 16.06 and December at 16.30, or eight to 12 points below the previous close. These prices proved to be the lows of the day.

Later the market rallied on the lack of rains in the east and on the reduction in the Houston stock until July traded up to 17.21, October to 16.24 and December to 16.22, or 18 to 20 poins up from the lows. These levels were the high points. The market eased off 18 to 15 points in the afternoon on reports of good rains in the belt.

Exports for the day totaled 8,127 bales and for the week 132,494 bales.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—Heavy rains over parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas likely to delay harvesting, gave wheat a firm undertone on the board of trade today. At the finish the bread grain showed a net gain of ⅜ to 1⅛c over yesterday's finish. Corn, weak in the absence of buying power, suffered a loss of ¼ to 1⅛c, oats were unchanged to ⅛c down and provisions irregular, with lard 5c lower to 7½c higher, ribs 5c to 20c down and bellies 2½c off to 5c advance.

Oats were easier with corn. There was some hedging by cash interests and some buying by commission houses. Concerns with eastern connections were said to be selling December and buying September at a 2c difference.

Provisions attained higher levels due to light offerings and a good demand from commission houses apparently for investment account.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Stock prices underwent a sharp reversal of form in today's market, moving up steadily throughout the greater part of the session and then toppling with startling suddenness just before the close, under an avalanche of selling. Closing quotations disclosed considerable irregularity, a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 7 points being offset by a longer list of net losses running as high as 9 points. Total sales aggregated 2,320,000 shares, compared with 2,426,100 yesterday.

In the absence of adverse news developments the reaction was generally regarded as a natural correction of a temporarily over-bought condition resulting from the sustained advance of the past few weeks. Banks called loans freely during the day, keeping the renewal rate at 4 per cent, but the stiffer rate was believed to be only temporary.

Profit taking sales were unusually heavy in some of the recent leaders, U. S. Steel common, which has advanced about 16 points since the first of the month, closed 4½ points lower at 134½. General Motors dropped from 148½, a new high record for the year, to 142 and then rallied to 143½, off 3⅝ net. General Electric dropped from 350 to 338½.

Sharp recessions also took place in Coca Cola, Dupont, Fisher Body and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, all of which closed 4 to 9 points lower.

Bullian demonstrations were successfully conducted, however, in a wide variety of issues. Gotham Silk Hosiery and Commercial Solvents B each soared about 6 points to new high records for the year at 52¼ and 166, respectively, closing within a point ofthe high levels. Woolworth rallied from 163 to 173⅜ and then fell back to 167½ for a net gain of over 4 points on the day. The Kelly-Springfield preferred issues, Loose Wiles Biscuit, McCrory Stores B, National Tea and U. S. Distributing all showed net gains of 3 points or more.

Rails eased with the industrials, but the net losses were not as large. Reading touched a new high for the year at 93 and the neased to 91⅝ and Baltimore and Ohio slid back to 94⅛ after duplicating the year's high of 96½. Atchison showed a net decline of more than 2 points at 133⅜. Atlantic Coast Line closed fractionally higher at 217½ after having touched 217⅜.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were heavy with the exception of demand sterling, which ruled steady around $4.86 3-16 and Spanish pesetas which rallied about 15 points to around 16.25 cents. French francs ruled 5 points lower lower around 2.76½ cents and slight recessions took place in the other leading continental currencies.

TEXAS VEGETABLES.

SAN ANTONIO, June 18.—Tomato shipments yesterday were 82 cars while the Texas water melon movement amounted to 86 cars (incomplete). Pick ups of 25 and 41 Texas cars respectively were also listed for the 16th. Other Texas shipments of the day were 11 cars of onions, four of potatoes.

Shipping point trading in water melons yesterday was fairly active at Texas points. Prices were only slightly changed from the preceding day, cash buyers at San Antonio points, including Pleasanton, Poteet and Jourdanton paying mostly 50@60c cwt. for 24-26 pound average Watsons; 75@85c for 28-30's, and upward of $1.00 for 32-34's. A few sales of 35's at $1.10 were also recorded. Practically no change was noted in Sandia melon quotations.

BOSTON WOOL.

BOSTON, June 18.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The past week has witnessed further distinct improvement in the wool market. Sales to the domestic mills have increased especially for domestic wools, and while prices are not quotably dearer as a general proposition, it can be said that the decline in values has been halted and that the market is now against the buyer. The better feeling seems to be reflected in slightly increased activity in the west.

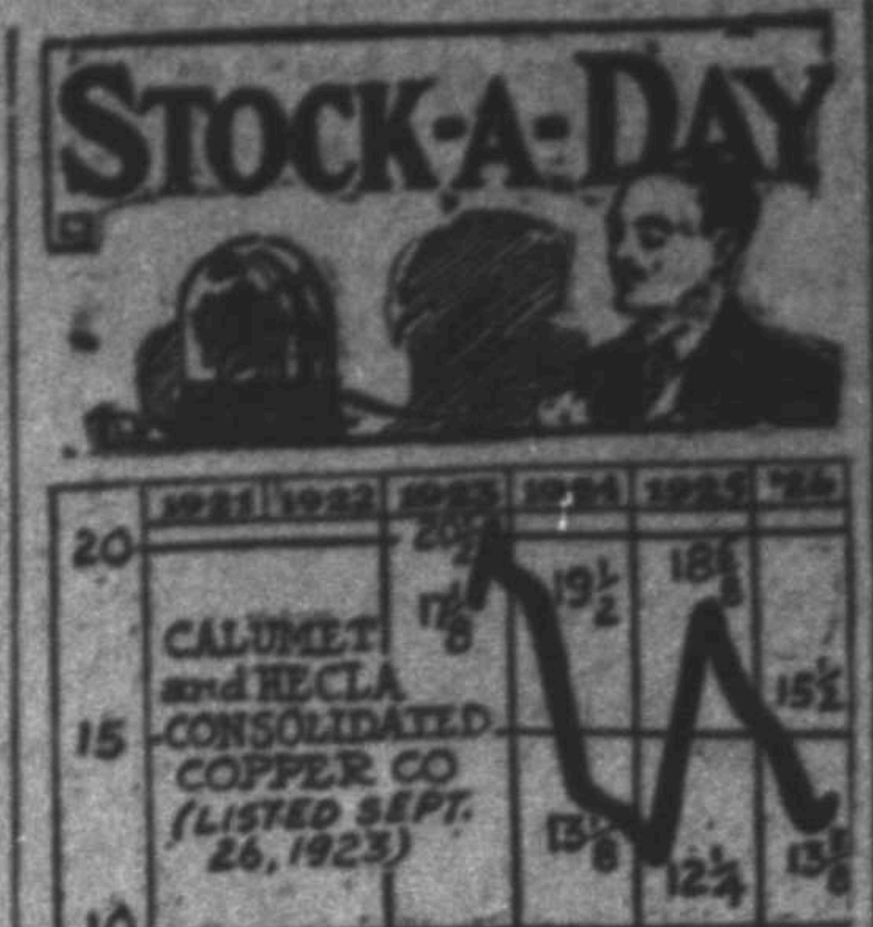

The foreign markets are quiet with prices hardly changed.

Mohair, while not especially active, is firm. Wool quotations:

Scoured basis, Texas fine 12 months (selected) $1.10; fine 8 months 98c@$1.00.

STOCK-A-DAY

For many years the Calumet and Hecla company was the leading copper producer of the country and it still is the most important of the lake region copper mining companies, although its volume of output has been surpassed by newer mines in other sections. The company is a rather high cost producer. In 1923 the old Calumet and Hecla merged four of its leading subsidiaries and formed the present company, the charter of which expires in 1953 but which may be renewed by two-thirds vote of the stock.

The properties of the company are located in Michigan. In addition to the 7 mines included in the consolidation with huge land and timber holdings, smelters, mills and other equipment the company is interested to a greater or less extent in some 13 other corporations engaged in mining, transportation, lumbering and power development.

Operations in 1924 resulted in a loss of $1,634,440 and in 1925 were $436,675 on the wrong side of the ledger. A net loss of $54,332 was shown in the first quarter of 1926. Capital stock outstanding consists of $50,137,550 in shares of $25 par. There is no funded debt and on Jan. 1, 1926, current assets were $14,748,725, current liabilities $1,468,392 and net working capital $13,280,333 with no bank loans. Book value of investments in other Michigan companies on that date was $1,816,572.

As a dividend payer, the old Calumet and Hecla held the record among the copper companies. Its first dividend disbursement was in 1871 and payments were made in each year until 1921. The new company has paid 50 cents a share at irregular intervals, the last payment being Dec. 15, 1925. The mines turn out from 60,000,000 to 65,000,000 pounds of copper a year. The Calumet Conglomerate mine first worked in 1865 has produced about 3,200,000,000 pounds of copper.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Cool weather is still retarding distributive lines, but trade sentiment has been helped by the improvement produced in crop conditions by good rains over a great part o fthe country. A somewhat better tone is noted, although current buying is rather quiet, with collections sluggish. Textiles and wearing apparel are particularly difficult to move, automobile sales have fallen off and the furniture trade is rather quiet. In the southeast, the cotton crop needs further rains, and in parts of the naorthwest it is not yet known whether the spring wheat will be able to recover from the damage caused by the drouth. The trade outlook in these sections in therefore not assured. In the other cotton growing states the crop is in very fair condition, with few reports of insect damage. A little wheat is already moving to market from the southwest and bringing good prices. The railroads are said to be in excellent shape for handling the crops.

Harry H. Rogers, San Antonio, president; Rufus F. Chapin, Chicago, treasurer, and Chesley R. Perry, Chicago, secretary.

Announcement by the registration committee showed a total of 8,883 delegates, wives and guests registered at the convention. Overseas delegates numbered 313.

Ah, Help at Last For Pedestrians

PORTLAND, Ore., June 18.—(AP)—A flexible automobile bumper designed to ease the shock to the unfortunate pedestrian who gets bumped is among the 300 new contrivances on display at the National Inventors' exposition which opened here yesterday in connection with the second annual convention of the National Association of Inventors.

Inventions exhibited range all the way from dainty lingerie straps to saw mill machinery and include a folding Christmas tree, adjustable card board slippers, new style automobile transmission which operates without gears and a rimless tractor wheel.

118 READY FOR AMARILLO TRIP

Others Expected to Join Special Leaving Here Monday.

One hundred and eighteen members have already signed up to go on the Wichita Falls special train to Amarillo to the west Texas chamber of commerce convention next week it was announced at the business council luncheon Friday noon at the Kemp. Four other men said they would go, bringing the total to 122.

R. E. Penick, chairman of the On-to-Amarillo committee, expressed a feeling of disappointment that others had not planned to go. He mentioned several smaller towns of the western portion of the state that plan to send several hundred delegates to the convention.

The special train to Amarillo will leave Wichita Falls Monday night at 11 o'clock and will arrive in Amarillo at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, it was announced at the meeting. Hubert M. Harrison, manager of the chamber of commerce, told the body the offices would remain open Saturday afternoon and a great part of the day Sunday in order that those who are making the trip may be supplied with uniforms to be provided for delegates.

Registration badges may be secured at the chamber of commerce and all those who are going by automobile to Amarillo are asked to call at the offices for the badges, Mr. Harrison said.

The Fort Worth special train to the convention will be in Wichita Falls Monday morning, arriving at 5 o'clock and leaving at 7:45. Wichitans are planning to meet the train at 7 o'clock and give the visitors a welcome to Wichita Falls.

Following the custom of discontinuing the meetings of the business council during the summer months, concluding with the meeting held the last Friday in June will be observed again this year, according to a vote taken at the meeting Friday. Next week's meeting will be the final one before the first Friday in September, it was decided.

Mr. Harrison gave a brief report on the work of the chamber which is now doing cooperative work on the new gas line; is attempting to establish a fish hatchery at the diversion dam through the fish and game commissioner, Turner Hubby who was in the city this week and appeared favorable to the interest.

City Made for Congress Awaits Coming of Pilgrims

The city of Mundelein, not far from Chicago, is the scene of many of the major ceremonies of the Eucharistic Congress. Herewith are two views of the town which has been virtually built to order for the Congress, although Mundelein University is to make use of the permanent buildings. The photos show a perspective view from the shore of the Lake-of-St. Mary's looking toward the central group of buildings, and, above, a glimpse of the formal pier. In the insert is one of the stations of the cross in the Valley of the Grotto, built at Mundelein.

Year's Biggest Rain Is Result Of Thursday's Storm In Local Area

Northwest Texas, including Wichita Falls and vicinity, and southern Oklahoma, were visted Thursday night and Friday with one of the biggest rains of the year, when a total of 3.20 inches fell in this city. The rain was accompanied with high wind Thursday night, but a steady downpour continued Friday until noon, completely saturating the earth.

At intervals Friday afternoon the sun shone, and the barometer was high, indicating fair weather. A maximum temperature of 93 degrees was reached Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock, but it had dropped to 79 at 5 o'clock. The relief from the heat of the preceding day which reached 102 was appreciated, but Friday's record has made a period of three weeks when the thermometer stood at 90 or above.

The Wichita Falls and Southern reported big rains on the line, varying from an inch to more than an inch and a half near Breckenridge and Graham.

Rain in the Wichita valley was approximately that in Wichita Falls, and more than 200 feet of track on the Wichita Valley was washed out between Dundee and Seymour as result of the downpour, and two trains that were delayed were late in reaching this city, but the break was mended during yesterday afternoon.

Rains along the M. K. & T. were reported on the line into Oklahoma.

To Move Point Breeze Hotel To Quiet Waters

A need of more quiet anchorage has prompted operators of the Point Breeze hotel on Lake Kemp to move the big floating bostelry from its present moorings into Moonshine canyon, a half a mile or so away from the road. The change will be made the first of next week, it has been announced.

Recent severe storms on the lake have damaged the hotel somewhat and a few nights ago the wind and waves were so high some fear was felt for its safety. The waters in the canyon offer a protected point for the mooring, while at the same time they give the lake breezes full access to the building.

The law requires that such applications be received up until midnight tonight. Drawing for places on the ballot and other routine matters will not be settled until the first part of next week with the meeting of the republican and democratic county committees.

Asks Damages

Damages to the amount of $10,000 are asked of A. D. Winsor, formerly of Frederick by M. S. Grant in a petition filed in the 89th district court Friday. Grant in his petition alleges that in the early part of the year he rented a place of business from Winsor in Burkburnett with the proviso that certain repairs were to be made, and that in compliance with that proviso when the repairs were not paid he failed to pay the rent in April and May. The defendant thereupon, it is alleged, obtained an attachment of certain property, to the plaintiff's real damage of $5,000. Exemplary damages in the sum of $5,000 are asked also.

The fire broke out in the supply room, the loss including only supplies. The building was not damaged.

ELECTRA LIONS HAVE BANQUET

Despite Rain and Storm 75 Attend Annual Frolic of Club.

ELECTRA, June 18.—In spite of the heavy rain storm Thursday evening, there were 75 present at the Electra Lions club annual banquet and ladies night program, at which time the officers for the coming year were installed.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church served a novelty banquet in the main auditorium of the Presbyterian church, with the menu consisting of Orchard Product with side kick; Red Ball salad; blood turnips; Japanese persimmons; wild prairie fowl; brown Irish food; buckshot pancakes; Jersey Bill foster paste; Parker House hand grenades; axle grease; whoda thot it; cold paving blocks; creosote puffs and black jack.

After the dinner was served, the group engaged in singing "America," with Lion H. C. Hill acting as toastmaster. Rev. T. N. Weeks of Sayre, Okla., conducted the invocation. A surprise stunt was given in which six ladies were invited to come to the platform and each were given a package, with these containing such things as a pair of sox to be darned, an inner tube to be patched, and other very masculine occupations which the ladies attempted to perform to the amusement of the remainder of the crowd.

Glee Club Sings.

The Southern Ramblers orchestra played several selections, after which the glee club, composed of Misses Madeline and Doll Williams, Lavene Taylor, and Laura V. Lebus, sang three selections, the first being an especially prepared number which was dedicated to the Lions club; the second "My Banner Jimmy," and the last "Bachelor Lion," with Miss Letrice Wofford ,the Lion club musican, at the piano. Cloyde Smith sang "Tie Me to Your Apron Strings Again," and "Are You Sorry," accompanied by Miss Wofford. "A Snappy Snapper" was a very amusing monologue, delightfully rendered by W. A. Asbill, treasurer of the club. Miss Eva Williamson of Pittsburgh, Penn., read "The Wild White Rose," and "Why Aunt Sally Never Married," the last selection being dedicated to Rev. E. V. Cole, the only single minister in the city.

After the program came the introduction and installation of the officers, with speeches being made according to their ranks. Those installed were F. M. Baker, president; William Calvert, first vice-president; Ben W. Tipton, second vice-president; H. A. Decker, third vice-president; Rollo Davidson, secretary; W. A. Asbill, treasurer; E. V. Cole, Lion tamer; George D. Esell, Lion tail twister; and the two directors, R. B. Magee and S. B. Marchant were introduced.

Rev. T. N. Weeks dismissed in prayer and the meeting adjourned.
