Wheat harvest looks optimistic

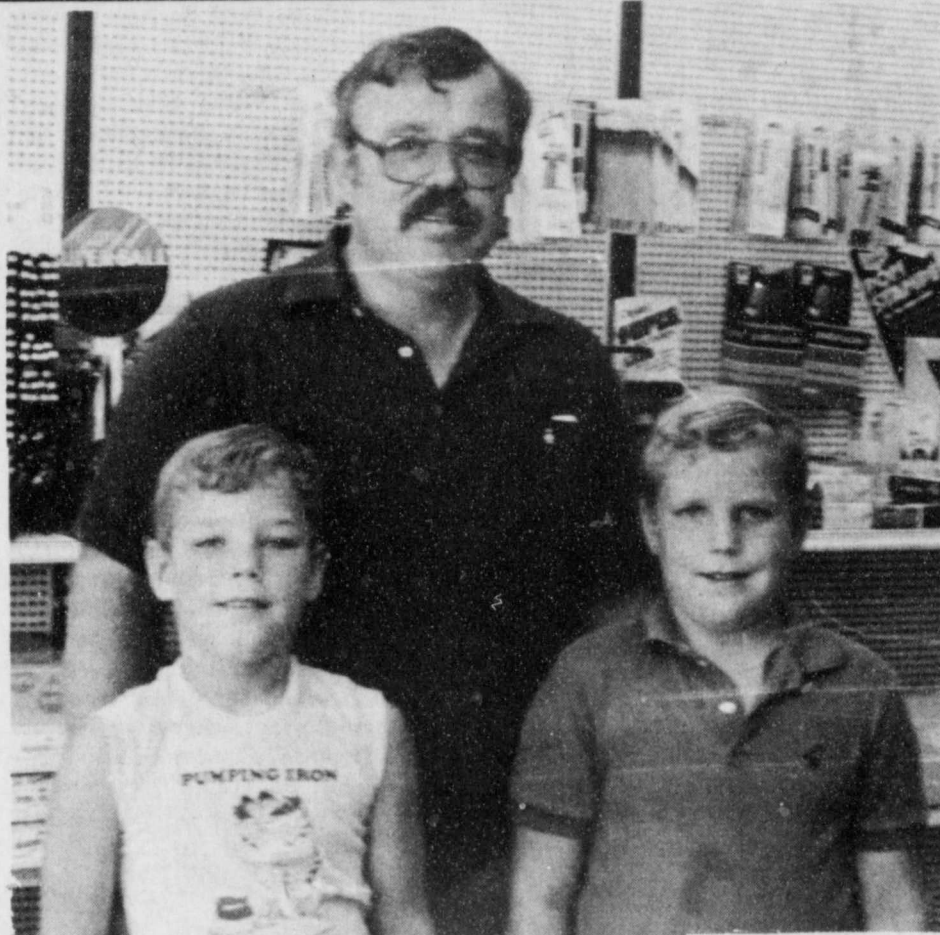

Wheat harvest is in full swing one more season. Bill Cagle, of Producers Cooperative Elevator in Floydada, is very optimistic because "the yield have been above what was expected with the amount of moisture that did not occur." The first load of wheat from Floyd County was delivered to Producers from the Leslie Nixon farms at 2:00 p.m. on June 6. It was yielding approximately 18 bushels per acre. The test weight was 59 pounds and moisture content was 12.5. "However," Cagle added, "the test weight has been as high as 64. I believe we are about 65-70% finished."

Around the area, the Lockney Co-op reports that Eugene Beedy brought in the first load of Floyd County wheat on June 6. Herman Graham, of the Muncy Elevator stated that "Elmer Griffith delivered their first load of wheat in on June 6 and predicts that 50 or 60 percent more of their wheat is still in the fields."

Bill Shurbet, of the Sandhill Elevator, said, "We are just getting started with Bucky Jeffress bringing in the first load on June 7."

Roger Poage reports that D and P Grain at the Lakeview Elevator received the first load of Floyd County grain on Tuesday, June 5, from the Max Harrison farms. The test weight was 60 pounds and moisture content, 13.7. Regarding the 1984 wheat harvest, Poage was also optimistic and agreed with Cagle that this year's harvest was much better than expected.

BRANDON, 7, and Micheal, 9, will celebrate Father's Day with their dad, Bobby Gilliland, by giving him "a big hug and a kiss." Brandon piped in, "He's smart too - because he is a printer."

The wire services carried a report the other day that was as startling as it was promising.

Midland and Odessa have had enough of feuding and fighting, and now will try, and we emphasize try, to work together for the good of both cities.

The competition, indeed the animosity, between the two neighbors is legendary, surpassing in some ways the former battles between Dallas, and Fort Worth. There was a time, you may remember, when Dallas and Fort Worth fought like cats and dogs. Amon Carter, the crusty, battling Publisher of the Fort-Worth Star-Telegram, was said during his lifetime to carry his lunch in a paper bag when he had to visit Dallas, refusing even to buy his meals in that city. Eventually Carter, and some of his worthy opponents, passed from the scene, and newer leaders took over the reigns. They saw the possibility of a different world, where their energy would be spent in effort toward cooperation, rather than confrontation. The result of their handiwork is now there for all the world to see. The two cities still have their distinct personality and identity, but the spirit of cooperation in large ventures that might benefit both has resulted in just that, the benefit of both. It is now the booming Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex, with booming smaller towns and cities in the area sharing in their good fortune.

Now Midland and Odessa have decided to follow suit, or at least try. The animosity between the two cities has run so deep that the effort will be difficult, but we can all watch with interest and wish them well.

There is a lesson here for all towns similarly situated and similarly afflicted. An individual does not give up his identity when he decides to cooperate with his neighbor in an effort that benefits both. Indeed, he generally enhances that identity, if for no reason other than proving to others that he has enough wisdom to look after his own interests.

If it is possible for Midland and Odessa, it is possible anywhere.

On a completely different subject: It has been brought to our attention, gently of course, that we dropped the letter "g" from a word in a story recently about the Whirlwind Sams, and their trip to church campgrounds in New Mexico. In so doing, we changed, ever so slightly, the thrust of the group's activities on the morning of Memorial Day, 1984.

According to our story, "A Memorial Day tribute was presented by Bill and Dell Gray, and old fashioned Sin-Along was enjoyed by the Club." You can probably figure out where the "g" should have been, but wasn't.

In certain quarters the error has caused consternation. We've even heard rumors that there was a rush to apply for membership, but that can't be verified, for obvious reasons.

But please be assured, gentle reader, the sin was ours, not their's.

Thoughts from Floydada children

Why is Father's Day special ?

The fragrant smell of tobacco, rough whiskers at the end of the day, shirts stiffly starched smelling faintly of sunshine; everyone has his own special memories of Dad.

A father is one of a unique breed of people, always appearing bigger than life to pint-sized admirers. A father is the first hero a child knows - "the person he wants to grow up to be just like, the person who can do anything." Memories often dim, but somehow Dad always retains that magical, dependable, loving quality.

Sunday, June 17, is Father's Day, a day set aside to honor Dad whether it is with the presentation of a lopsided clay ashtray or the promise to mow the yard for a "zillion years".

Several Floydada children have been asked to speak about Fathers and Father's Day. Their remarks at times are comical, sincere and always tempered with love.

Troy Peel, 11, son of Gary Peel, said, "I like to go rabbit hunting with my Dad because he lets me shoot a gun. I especially like to go fishing with him. He coaches my baseball team. He is very patient, but sometimes he does get excited. Troy's brother, Cory, 9, thoughtfully stated, "Dad helped me learn how to ride my bike and do a lot of things. I think he is the best dad because he make stuff for my mom - like jewelry boxes."

Jennifer Cartledge, 6½ year old daughter of Steve Cartledge, remarked, "My father is special 'cause he sings to me, plays the piano and the guitar."

"My dad is special because he cares for me. Father's Day means love to me," said Krystal Wilson, 9, daughter of Phillip Wilson.

Manuel Ochoa's daughter, Laura, age 7, said that her father was "one of kind" because he takes her to the Dairy Queen to eat.

Heather Henderson, 12, believes her father, Bud Henderson, is special because he "spends time with me and often takes me fishing."

Adam Gonzales, 8, and the son of Gonzalo Gonzales, thought a minute and said, "My dad practices baseball with me and helps fix my bike. He is also handsome."

Lupe Gonzales, 11, daughter of Mario Gonzales said, "Father's Day to me means children showing respect for their fathers."

Eddie Smith's son, Eric, who is eight, considered what Father's Day meant: "Father's Day means giving your dad something. My dad farms and he takes me with him sometimes. We also take trips, just the two of us. He helps me when I need him. When I sprained my ankle, he came home early."

"My dad always supports me in everything I do. He is interested in me and helps me with my homework," Shannon Pay, 12, the daughter of Joe Paty.

Stephanie Zimmerman, age 12, and daughter of Fred Zimmerman believes, "Father's Day is a time to thank the Lord for my father and to tell him how much we love him."

Andy Hale's daughter, Laura, who is four, concentrated hard on the question and finally said, "We play together outside and play dollhouse and he helps me practice T-ball. This is why my dad is special."

In summing up this tribute to fathers, it is appropriate to close with comments from Amy McCormick who is twelve. In speaking of her father, Delmas, Amy stressed that he works hard so that "we can have the things we need in life. I always know that he loves and cares for me. Father's Day is a time of giving thanks for fathers."

Crime Call proclaimed a service to entire County

"A reduction in neighborhood crime has been attributed to citizen awareness to organizations such as the Neighborhood Watch and Crime Call," reported Bill Gray, president of the Floyd County Crime Call at the annual director's meeting held Tuesday, June 12 in the community room at Lighthouse Electric.

A brief review of the past year's budget and success brought varied comments from those attending the meeting. District Attorney, Randy Hollums, recalled the outbreak of tire slashing throughout Floydada at the beginning of the year and the success in solving and bringing the perpetrators to justice. "As a result of Crime Call, not only do offenders have to worry if they police are there, but they have to worry if anyone is there watching."

Gray also stressed that "Crime Call is a service for the entire county." Hollums wondered if the people of Lockney were aware that reward money is available to aid in solving crimes.

Gray emphasized that help, support and money is available to the citizens of the Lockney Police Department, Floydada Police Department and Sheriff's Department in putting a halt to crime.

Gray also pointed out that "Crime Call will pay rewards for any unsolved felony and most misdemeanor crimes committed in Floyd County where an arrest results. Additional money is paid to people who will come forward and testify."

The procedure followed in calling Crime Call is to call the toll free number, 1-800-252-8477, or 983-5200 in Floydada or 652-2416 in Lockney. Report the information anonymously and a number will be assigned. The caller is instructed to call back in two days and give the assigned number. If an arrest has been made, the caller will be asked how he wants the reward disbursed.

Elections were held and the following officers were elected by acclamation: Billy Gray, president; Lawson Rowell, vice-president; and Fred Thayer as secretary-treasurer.

Those serving on the Board of Directors for Crime Call during the 84-85 term are as follows: from Floydada, William Bradshaw, Gordon Kirtley, Louis Anderson, Ken Poole, Fred Zimmerman, Stan McClendon, Bud Crump, David Cates, Earl Blair, Deryl Evans, Bud Rainey, H.C. McElyea, Adolpho Garcia, Gary Brown, and Don L. Gowens; from Lockney, Cindy Smith, Lawson Rowell and Carroll Anderson; and from South Plains, Sara Probasco.

Amon Carter, the crusty, battling Publisher of the Fort-Worth Star-Telegram, was said during his lifetime to carry his lunch in a paper bag when he had to visit Dallas, refusing even to buy his meals in that city. Eventually Carter, and some of his worthy opponents, passed from the scene, and newer leaders took over the reigns. They saw the possibility of a different world, where their energy would be spent in effort toward cooperation, rather than confrontation. The result of their handiwork is now there for all the world to see. The two cities still have their distinct personality and identity, but the spirit of cooperation in large ventures that might benefit both has resulted in just that, the benefit of both. Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed a tariff with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to make end user common line charges associated with Centrex CO service equal to those to be billed to Private Branch Exchange service. The Commission has suspended the proposed tariff until October 1, 1984, or before, and assigned the matter to Docket No. 5686.

The equalization of end user common line charges for Centrex CO service is to be accomplished by a reduction in Centrex service charges. The net effect of the Centrex service charge adjustment and an interstate end user common line charge will be an increase in total billing.

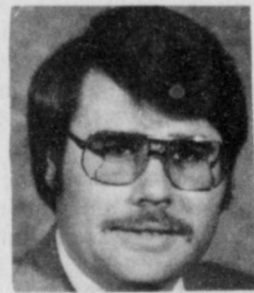

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Workman's compensation bill

By Cindy Smith

Foster Whaley, state representative from Pampa, disclosed in an interview with the Hesperian last Thursday that a worker's compensation bill will probably be included in the current special session of the Texas Legislature.

This bill which will be submitted by Austin attorney, Tony Korioto, chairman of the governor's select committee on Farm Workers Insurance. This bill will call for immediate worker's compensation coverage of all migrant workers and employees who live on a farm or ranch.

Seasonal workers - those laborers who are non-traveling, part-time employees - will be included gradually in the bill. Initially, only those farmers who have an annual payroll of more than $100,000 will be required to pay coverage. That ceiling eventually will dwindle to $25,000 annually.

However, key lawmakers, Reps. Juan Hinojosa and Foster Whaley and Senators Hector Uribe, Bill Sarpius and Ray Farabee agreed Thursday in Austin to an amendment that will exempt small farmers from insuring full-time employees. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Tony Korioto apparently worked on the compromise as well.

This agreement exempts small farmer who employ a limited number of full-time workers from providing worker's compensation to their employees. Such an amendment has been pushed by Whaley and Farabee since the special session convened last Monday, June 4.

Controversy has risen as to the actual wording of the amendment. Whaley wants the amendment to permanently exempt small farmers from paying the insurance if their annual payroll for full-time workers is less than $25,000. He also would like that $25,000 exemption ceiling to have an escalator clause tied to inflation.

Uribe, however, wants the amendment to include no monetary clause. He apparently would support a clause that instead exempted farmers with two or fewer full-time employees, and would like that clause to make no mention of a salary ceiling.

White and Hobby both want the controversy out before submitting it before the legislature. In the interview, Whaley expressed optimism for the bill passing with the additional amendment which he states will eliminate 95% of the farmers included in his legislative district.

James Race, local Farm Bureau agent, reported that "this additional insurance will cost the farmers $59 million in Texas alone. This area depends and revolves around agriculture." Personally Race "would like to see farmers affluent because it generates more money throughout the community." Race pointed out that "many farmers are economically drained and are selling out, especially the younger ones. The average age of the farmer is high and if the younger farmers continue leaving, a gap will result which cannot be filled."

Race emphasizes that "he is not against employee coverage. He is convinced that most farmers have liability coverage which pays the actual medical expense to a set limit. Worker's Compensation has unlimited medical disability and death benefits."

Race suggested that "the Texas Farm Bureau is against the Worker's Compensation law because they are anticipating more fraudulent claims which will result in additional money coming out of the farmer's pocket."

Randall Marshall, attorney for Texas Rural Legal Aid stated in an interview with the Hesperian, that "the film has been very supportive of the Worker's Compensation bill. Virtually all workers are covered by Worker's Compensation in Texas, with the exception of farm workers. All laborers should be protected by the same basic guarantees. Farm workers are made to feel like second or third class citizens."

"General liability costs 4-5% of the payroll and Worker's Compensation will only be an additional 3% increase. The workers payroll is not the farmer's major expense, especially when one considers that some farmers spend thousands of dollars monthly for irrigation costs."

Race, in considering Marshall's comments, stated that "Marshall is looking at the situation from the legal aid standpoint. Evidently, Marshall and his associates do not understand farmers."

Paul Westbrook granted request

At a regular meeting of the City Council, Tuesday night, board members Leroy Burns, Frank Breed, and Don Green accepted a request made by Paul Westbrook for water to his property outside the city limits. Westbrook would dig the line and install a 4" waterline with city inspector assisting. He would also pay charge for tapping the City's main and the customary 2 1/2 times the city rate for the first 2,000 gallon minimum fee. The City will bury the electricity line.

The council amended the electric, water, sewer, and sanitation ordinances to coordinate all areas for bookkeeping and billing purposes rescinding a previously imposed 5% penalty.

It was agreed that the oldest corrugated metal warehouse which is used for storage of the sewer machine, the sweeper, backhoe, and other equipment be insulated at a cost of approximately $6-700. Last winter the sewer machine froze, in spite of some heat.

A letter had been received from Floyd County Central Appraisal District stating the 1984 estimated tax value of $45,996,418 compared to that of $45,771,756 last year. Because of the absence of members, Wayne Russell and Gary Carthel, the matter was tabled until a later meeting. The deadline for setting the tax rate is August 14.

City manager Bill Feuerbacher reported that according to recent response from Federal Aviation Administration "we are very close." He indicated that the final revisions could possibly go smoothly. According to that timetable, bids would be let in July. But Feuerbacher continued, "It would be close for the runway to be finished before cold weather."

Eight demolition projects of deteriorating buildings in town were reviewed and the council authorized the proper people to proceed with the necessary paperwork to contact property owners. Another building may be added to the list by next month's meeting. A total of $5,000 is budgeted for the project.

The purchase of 30 new two-way radio units for all phases of city employees including police, fire, and all municipal radios was discussed to replace 20-year-old equipment. A bid of $25,454 had been secured from Motorola. The issue was tabled due to the absence of council members.

Ricky Gonzales, the owner of a new residence of 4th and Kentucky Streets had requested the city to do some street repair in front of his house in order to control excessive watershed. The council approved the sharing on a 50-50 basis the hauling of sand and gravel with a two load maximum for that purpose.

The city had received complaints from the owners of four cars and a mailbox damage received by seal coating or equipment. The council agreed that the $140.15 expenses they had incurred in reckoning with the citizens be withheld from their final check to High Plains Pavers of Plainview, contractors.

Mayor Parnell Powell reported a "ballpark" figure of $40,000 to the council on the paving of Menefee and Crockett Streets which was "excessive for the times." The matter was delayed until a later date.

Connie Galloway petitioned the council for standby pay. Previously department heads had not been allowed any standby pay because of the rare occasions it was incurred. It was explained that Galloway's department had been cut to one other employee; therefore Galloway had been out on standby duty every other weekend. The non-budgeted item was deferred until all the members were present.

An request was also made for the city float which won first place in the Old Settlers parade to be exhibited in Lubbock at their July 4 parade.

Cannery opens July 1

"Old courthouses across Texas will eventually have to undergo structural changes to comply with the handicapped regulations," Judge Choise Smith told Commissioners Court, Monday, June 11.

"Minor changes can be made without a major costs to the taxpayers, such as handicapped parking signs," Bob Jarrett added, "but there is a need for something to be done." A motion was made by Jarrett and seconded by Thomas Warren that Jack Lackey be the chairman to coordinate efforts to comply with the handicapped regulations. Voting for the measure were Jarrett, Warren and Smith. Sam Spence and Lackey (tentative chairman) voted against the motion.

The requests and contracts for the use of county equipment and machinery for private farm work for Mrs. J.W. Day and James L. Hale were approved by all the commissioners.

Mr. Felix C. Martinez, accompanied by his daughter-in-law, asked the Commissioners Court for air fare to M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston for his wife. The court voted in favor to allow the payment of $110.00.

A motion made by Lackey and seconded by Warren that $160,000 be transferred from the Road and Bridge Fund to the precincts for each of the four precincts to receive $40,000. All of the commissioners were in favor of this proposal.

The Floyd County Cannery in Lockney will be officially opened July 1, 1984, barring any unforeseen circumstances. There was discussion as to whether the sealer would meet government requirements.

The Commissioners Court and District Attorney, Randy Hollums, journeyed to the second floor of the Courthouse to determine a feasible relocation of the offices of District Attorney. Two suites of offices were considered, however, Judge Smith requested that Hollums proceed with tentative plans and these would be discussed at the next meeting.

Members attending Commissioners Court were: Choise Smith, Floyd County judge; Sam Spence, commissioner of precinct #1; Bob Jarrett, commissioner of precinct #2; Thomas Warren, commissioner of precinct #3; and Jack Lackey, commissioner of precinct #4.

Jones descendants gather at Quanah

Descendants of seven of the 13 children of Charles and Rebecca Norman Jones met at the Reagan School Cafeteria in Quanah on Saturday and Sunday, May 26 and 27 for a reunion. It was a "first-time meeting" for most of these descendants.

Charles Jones was born in Union County, South Carolina, in 1777. In 1794 he married Rebecca Norman, born February 2, 1781 in Union County, South Carolina. About 1812 the family moved to the area of Flat Creek in Bedford County, Tennessee, where he died on July 25, 1833.

In 1848 a large caravan of about 40 families from this area began the long trek to Pike County, Arkansas, in search of new homes. They settled on "The Ridge" or Corinth. Most of these families were related. Rebecca Norman Jones with her 13 children and their families were among those in the caravan. Rebecca died December 19, 1859 and is buried in the Corinth Cemetery.

Registration began at 10 a.m. Saturday. A history of the Jones family which contained family sheets for all known descendants of the family was prepared by Mrs. Jack Powell.

At a business meeting chaired by Mrs. Joyce Jones Williams of Floydada, plans were made and committees appointed for a reunion to be held in 1986. Plans were also made to erect an appropriate marker on Rebecca Norman Jones' grave.

All military service veterans present were given miniature American flags for their buttonholes. A red white and blue wall chart displayed names of

Luncheon held

Sunday, June 10, Otis and Dorothy Anderson had a luncheon in their home for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson of Lodi, California. Those attending the lunch were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Anderson of Floydada and Dorothy Thompson of Lubbock. The group celebrated the birthday of Floyd Anderson.

Moore-Aufill pledge vows

Marriage vows uniting Katherine Ann Moore and Steven Craig Aufill were recited during a 7:30 p.m. wedding ceremony June 9 in the First Baptist Church of Lockney. Robert Moore, brother of bride of Houston, performed the ceremony.

The couple are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Abb Thomas Moore of Lockney and Mr. and Mrs. Don Peyton Aufill of Lockney.

A lacy arch adorned the altar area and two 15-point arches were on the floor. All were entwined with greenery.

Musical selections were performed by Marjorie Ferguson of Lockney as organist; Fred Wilmer of Lubbock and Ben King of New York, soloists; and Brent McWilliams of Lubbock, pianist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an ivory lace and chiffon gown designed by Galina of New York. The high neckline was covered in French Alencon lace and seed pearls. The bodice featured a "V" shaped illusion yoke and a moulded bodice that was covered in beaded French Alencon lace. The bodice fell to a front and back basque waist, with covered buttons down the back. The Gibson girl sleeves were French Alencon lace and seed pearls and came to a point over each wrist.

The softly gathered skirt fell to floor length and swept to back fullness with a double layer of chiffon extending the chapel length train.

To complete her ensemble, the bride chose an ivory veil designed by Priscilla of Boston. The capulet featured small Venice lace and illusion that fell to cathedral length with Venice lace trim encircling the entire veil.

She carried a cascading bouquet of orchids. Serving her sister as maid of honor was Barbara Moore of Lockney. Bridesmaids were Lisa Moore, sister-in-law of the bride of Lubbock; Gay Terrell of Lockney; Melody Wiley of Lubbock; and Jo Ann Skelton of Lubbock.

Bridal attendants wore tea length dresses of ivory lace over pink. They featured short puffed sleeves and dropped waists. Their skirts fell to a scalloped hem. Ivory straw hats with pink tulle net streamers were worn. They each carried a single orchid arranged with greenery and pink ribbon.

Acting as best man was Craig Ellison of Lockney. Other male attendants were John Scale of Dallas, Jeff Fudge of Waco, Bill McCarter of Lockney and Donn Enroth of Amarillo. Don Aufill, Jr., of Houston and Jeff Aufill of Amarillo, both brothers of the groom, escorted guests.

Ronee Thornton presided at the register.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

After guests were received, they passed through to the garden room which was adorned with tables laden with fruits, cheeses, vegetables, croissants, and continental beef, and oriental shrimp hors d'oeuvres. The lovely linen and lace tables were graced by two stunning pink swan ice sculptures. A fountain flowed with a pink lemonade punch.

Guests mingled on the grounds which were beautified by quartet table with pink carnation and candlelight centerpieces.

The bride and groom continues the traditions of cutting the three-tiered wedding cake and throwing the bride's garter and cascading orchids bouquet.

As the newlyweds departed for their honeymoon in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, guests wished them well by throwing rice from homemade pink satin rosebuds.

Following the trip the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

The bride, a graduate of Lockney High School and Texas Tech University, is a teacher of O.L. Slaton Jr. High in Lubbock.

The groom is employed with the Nowak Group in Lubbock. He is a graduate of Lockney High School and a senior architect and civil engineering major at Texas Tech University. His club connections include Phi Eta Sigma and Tau Beta Phi.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Don Peyton Aufill at the Plainview Country Club.

The bridesmaid's luncheon was given by Mrs. Andy Ford and Mrs. Clara Beedy in the Ford home.

South Plains News

By Mrs. Murray Julian
Monday, June 11, South Plains:

Clouds have been threatening and the winds still blow, but we did not get any of the rain which fell up towards Amarillo and Claude Sunday afternoon. Leighton Teeple, Johnny West and Sylvan Kinnibrugh were in the process of cutting wheat here last week. The McClure and Sanders farms have been wheat harvesting. I am sure wheat in other places is being cut, or will soon be ripe and ready. Some of the dryland wheat is making around 20 bushels an acre.

Ernest Smitherman came home from Central Plains Hospital in Plainview on Tuesday. He is convalescing from hernia surgery, and doing fine at his home. Mrs. Ruth Smitherman, who has been at the Floydada Convalescent Home while Ernest was away, will soon get to be back home, we do hope.

We offer our sympathy to friends Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Cummings in the death of her father, Earl Norman, 77, who had been in the Dimmitt Nursing Home for a long time. Mr. Norman died Wednesday afternoon and his services were held in Crowell at the Womack-Manard Funeral Home at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday afternoon, June 9th. The Cummings and most of their families were there for the services and the sisters of Gleyenn Earle and their families were here Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Cummings at their home.

Mrs. Ruby Higginbotham and Mrs. Cecil Osborne went to the home of Sterling and Gleyenn Earle Cummings to oversee the serving of the evening meal to the Cummings and their guests, as they came home from the services of Mr. Norman in Crowell Saturday afternoon. Many of the community and Baptist Church members sent dishes to have for the family meals. Sisters of Gleyenn Earle who were there were: Mrs. Lynn Preston of Austin, Mrs. Beverly Hollifield of Piggott, Arkansas, Mrs. Kay Hall of Hereford and Mr.

Norman's sister, Mrs. Thola Knox of Crowell was also present. Mr. Norman had passed away on Wednesday, June 6.

The annual Holland family reunion was held at Thompson Park in Amarillo Sunday, June 10. Mrs. Letha Mulder attended from here. There were around thirty who came for the gathering, but the wind came up so strong that chairs were even overturned, and the get-together had to be disbanded. Some of the family had come as far as Fort Worth.

Cindy Mulder and Mitzi Julian left here Sunday morning to stay through Tuesday at Texas Tech University where they were taking some work connected with college, preparatory to the fall term when they will be entering college at Texas Tech.

Elaine Hardy presented Mitzi Julian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kendis Julian, in a senior piano recital on Friday, June 8 at 7:00 p.m. at the South Plains Baptist Church.

Students of Mitzi Julian who performed in the recital were Josh Thayer, Amber Poole and Jayna Dunn. Kristi Julian joined Mitzi in a piano duet and a lovely organ-piano duet was played with Janis Julian.

A delightful reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. There were approximately sixty guests in attendance. Guests were registered by Miss Cindy Mulder and Miss Kristi Julian presided at the refreshment table.

Mrs. Lori Bradford and son, Shiloh from Lone Star, were visitors Sunday morning at the South Plains Baptist Church for Sunday School and church services.

Mr. Ennis Bishop of Stamford died Saturday night in the hospital there following a heart attack. He was only sixty years old. His wife, Charlene, is the niece of Mrs. Ruth Smitherman, and the daughter of Ruth's sister Stella, who once lived here at South Plains. Mr. Bishop was with an air conditioner firm in Stamford.

Moosebergs take cotton tour

Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Mooseberg, accompanied by a "hybrid" cotton breeder from the Gro-Agri Seed Co. in Lubbock recently visited the "winter nursery" cotton fields in the Colima Valley of Southwest Mexico sponsored by the National Cotton Council at the export station there. This is the third crop grown in this area and has had an exceptionally good yield.

Local students to attend seminar

The Texas Farm Bureau 22nd annual Citizenship Seminar for junior and senior high school students will be June 18-22 on the campus of Angelo State University in San Angelo.

Attending from Floyd County will be: Jill Willson, Floydada daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Willson, Stacey Smith, Floydada son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy R. Smith, Ritchie Don Thornton, Lockney son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Thornton, and Betty Kay Cates, Lockney daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benny Cates.

"They were chosen to represent Floyd County because of their leadership ability, scholastic achievement and character," said Warren Mitchell, Floyd County Farm Bureau President.

The seminar, which runs for three gull days, is designed to give these selected high school students a better understanding of the various forms of government and their responsibilities as citizens. Comparisons of the different kinds of economic systems are outlined in lectures, history and economics.

Students attending the citizenship seminar will be eligible to enter the Texas Farm Bureau Young Speakers for Free Enterprise contest.

LANDSCAPE AND GARDENING

by Benny Butler

COMMON TOMATO PROBLEMS

Without a doubt, home vegetable gardening is on the increase in Texas. Conservative estimates indicate that over 50 percent of our population is involved in growing vegetables in their yards, flower beds, patios, and even in hanging baskets.

It should come as no surprise that tomatoes are the most popular garden vegetable. Approximately 92 percent of the Texas gardens include tomatoes. For many, a good crop of home grown tomatoes means a successful and productive garden. They are the one vegetable that gardeners brag about most and look forward to with great anticipation for that first vine-ripe, tasty homegrown tomato.

It is safe to say that if a majority of Texans grow tomatoes in their garden, then one hundred percent of them, even the so-called experts have problems of one kind or another. Invariably, these problems with growing tomatoes are the same from one year to the next. The severity of these problems change, but their occurrence can almost be guaranteed.

If you are a relatively new gardener, the following information could well serve as a warning to what's possibly ahead for you and help you avoid some first time mistakes. If you have been at it for awhile, perhaps this will recall some past bad experiences and jolt you into trying to prevent losses of valuable produce from Texas' number 1 garden vegetable.

Blossom End Rot—This is a "physiological" disorder of tomato fruit. It generally begins with the appearance of small, irregular, water-soaked areas near the base of the fruit which darken and eventually can become leathery in appearance. Although it generally occurs at the blossom end, it can occur anywhere on the fruit. Conditions which favor its occurrence are those which result in water stress of the plant.

These could be soils which are too wet, soils that are too dry, or drying winds which increase water loss from the foliage. Whenever these conditions occur, it is thought that the plants lose more water to the atmosphere through their foliage than they can absorb through their roots. This puts a water stress on the cells of the fruit causing them to break down and darken. The result is blossom end rot.

Losses from blossom end rot can be reduced by maintaining uniform soil moisture around your growing tomato plants. A good mulching program will also help as it reduces water loss from the soil and makes it more available to the plants during dry periods. Locating your garden in a well-drained soil will also help prevent this problem.

Bird Damage—Various methods have been used by home gardeners in an attempt to prevent bird damage to ripening tomatoes. Scarecrows, aluminum pie plates, strings of brightly colored ribbon and various types of noisemakers are used with varying degrees of success, or more likely, varying degrees of failure.

One method that does work is to make use of old stockings or pantyhose. Cut the stockings or pantyhose into 15-20 inch lengths. Then, tie one end shut. Next, slip the resulting "tube" over a cluster of tomatoes. Close the open end using a twistie or short piece of string. If the tomato fruits are not full sized the elastic nature of the pantyhose or stocking will expand as the fruits enlarge. When the fruit ripens, they can easily be removed by untying the closed end removing the vine ripe tomatoes. The birds will not be able to peck through the stocking material. The result will be more tasty tomatoes for your dinner table.

Spider Mites—Spider mites have been identified by Texas gardeners as the number one insect pest of tomatoes. These troublesome pests are not really insects, but are closely related to ticks and spiders. They are about 1/60 of an inch long and vary in color from whitish to red.

The occurrence of hot, dry weather is the time to be on the lookout for spider mites on your tomato plants. Initial symptoms include tiny, white spots on the undersides of the tomato leaves. Heavy infestations can cause bleaching or yellowing, first along the main leaf veins, then throughout the main leaf.

Leaves often begin to curl, turn brown, and may drop from the plant. Heavy infestations may cause buds and small fruit to shed. Spider mites, if left uncontrolled can completely defoliate a plant and cause death.

It is important to remember that spider mites build up large population very rapidly. Therefore, control of mites may be difficult. Applications of the miticide Kelthane made at 5-day intervals for 3-4 applications will generally result in good control of mites. However, waiting too late to begin control measures can result in disaster.

Cracked Fruit—Believe it or not cracks on tomatoes have names. If they extend from the stem end toward the blossom end of the fruit they are called radia cracks and if they encircle the stem end of the fruit they are called concentric cracks.

There are many reported reasons why tomatoes crack, but the one of primary concern is moisture. Cracking is primarily caused by fluctuations in the moisture content of your garden soil. When the tomato fruit reaches what is termed the mature green state, which is just before it begins to show color, movement of water and nutrients into the fruit decreases and the tomato begins the ripening process. At this time a cellophane-like wrapper around the outer surface of the tomato becomes thicker and more rigid. If due to your watering practices or weather condition the soil becomes dry and then becomes too wet, the fruit will crack. This is especially true as the fruit starts to mature.

Blossom Drop—Although tomatoes will drop their blooms due to several causes, the most common is high temperature. Generally speaking, nighttime temperatures above 72°F in combination with daytime temperatures above about 90°F often results in blossom drop of tomatoes. As you might expect, the problem of blossom drop due to high temperatures is most prevalent in the most popular type of garden tomatoes, those which produce large fruit. The small, cherry type tomatoes have the ability to set under higher temperatures and do not exhibit the degree of blossom drop down by the larger fruited varieties.

Unfortunately, there is not a lot that can be done about blossom drop of tomatoes due to the high temperatures common in most areas of Texas. Planting early maturing, recommended varieties such as Spring Giant, Jackpot and Celebrity at the right time of the year so that they will bloom during favorable conditions is the best bet toward insuring the bumper crop of tomatoes for your garden.

Anticipating problems is the best way to avoid this, especially in growing garden tomatoes. Knowing the cause of these problems and being aware that they can, and more than likely will occur if given the chance, may make you the best tomato grower on the block.

Educational program conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

HARVEST CREWS, local and out-of-town, are a familiar sight with wheat harvest in full swing. Farmers are keeping late hours with their harvesting, planting, and plowing operations being carried on simultaneously.

TEXANS SAY "YES" TO MARRIAGE

Almost 200,000 Texans will say "yes" to the institution of marriage this year. Yet according to family educators, only 2,000 of those commitments will naturally result in highly successful marriages. The rest will require a conscious effort to produce a strong relationship. And if current rates continue, some 80,000 marriages will end in divorce.

Most couples recognize that solid marriages require developing the skills necessary to create a rewarding relationship. The wedding is just the beginning of a growth process that should last the lifetime of a marriage.

An essential skill is the ability to make a commitment to the marriage relationship and make a conscious effort to enrich it.

Communication skills are also important to a strong marriage. What frequently appear as difficulties in a marriage -- money, in-law relations, sex, parenting difficulties -- are often signals that the couple does not communicate well.

Honesty is a skill that many people feel they have, only to discover that in the closeness of marriage they retreat to "cover-ups" and "hidden feelings". The game of make-believe can weaken a relationship while honesty and confrontation can result in negotiation and problem-solving.

Sensitivity to habits that annoy your spouse can bring personal as well as marital benefits. People bring many habits they have acquired through the years into a marriage relationship. Not all of those habits may be worth keeping. Putting the top back on the toothpaste tube, for example, is really a small price to pay for harmony.

Self-confidence is necessary to let a marriage breathe. Too much togetherness can be as damaging as too much separation. A good marriage seems to have two individuals who successfully interact. Times of togetherness and separation to pursue individual interests need to be balanced.

Romantic skills are also needed in marriage. In a healthy marriage, the initial flames of romantic excitement mellow into an expanding glow of gratified love. Yet the couple does not take the relationship for granted, and they continue to enhance it through expressions of tenderness and affection.

A happy marriage is one of the most rewarding human experiences and a foundation for strong family relationships. Saying "yes" doesn't guarantee a successful marriage, but developing your marriage skills is at least a "good bet".

LAKEVIEW NEWS

By Joyce Williams

June 14, 1984

Light showers dotted our community last week and this weekend, but barely enough to settle the dust.

Wheat harvest is going on all over Lakeview. Much of the wheat was baled green or plowed up as not worth the cost of cutting. Some irrigated cotton is being grown, tiny green plants brought up by the rains on Old Settler's weekend or since. Most cotton is dry land this year. Milo is up several inches now.

Miss Laura Kendricks of Collinsville, visited her grandparents last week, the Bobby Kendricks and W.R. Daniels. Laura's father, Byron Kendricks, owns the only full service station in Collinsville. Laura attended Vacation Bible School at the Victory Baptist Church and camped at Roaring Springs with the Daniels. Austin and Ashleigh Williams and their grandmother camped at Roaring Springs last weekend also.

Mrs. Bird Oats, mother of Mrs. Flukie Smith, grandmother of Judge Choise Smith, died in a Lubbock rest home Friday. She was buried in Lubbock Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davis of Vernon were here last Monday visiting her sister, Mrs. Weldon Hammonds, and family. Also visiting was Scott Bradford, eleven year old son of Koy and Conley Bradford.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bishop served Friday night supper to a houseful of kinfolks, including Mr. and Mrs. Jim Peggram and Kimberly of Nazareth, Mrs. Lula Teague, home from her grandson's wedding in Kansas, Mike and Rozanne Bishop, and Holt Bishop.

The Wayne McHams are kept on the road these evenings taking their son, Andy to baseball practice. He plays on the Thayer-Bowers team.

Janell and Onell Breed visited with her parents, the W.M. Hambrights, Thursday evening of last week. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hambricht of Alvine, near Houston, who used to live in Floydada.

Q.D. Williams, James, Monte and Austin Williams moved cattle to pastures at Roaring Springs last week where some rainfall has greened things up.

Ronald Bertrand and daughter, Shelly, of Vernon, visited Mr. and Mrs. Williams Bertrand over the weekend. Mrs. Betty Sue Bertrand attended at teacher's meeting in Wichita Falls.

CENTER NEWS

By Mrs. J.E. Green
 June 11, 1984:
 Sunday when we came out of church we felt that summer had come, but too cool for me inside without a coat, and I had one.
 I had company Saturday afternoon from Plainview, son, Victor and wife Sue visited. Also coming was their son Steve, a professor in Economics, a PhD of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee. His first year and he is happy with it. He is on a short vacation.
 Vic mowed my lawn. Looks better.
 I have just enjoyed a phone visit with my son, Don Clark of Big Spring. They are OK.

 It is cloudy and windy. Good "stay at home" weather in the afternoon.
 Some of these were Mrs. Ola Warren, Mrs. Fred Battey, Mrs. Elmer Warren, Mrs. Jones is out of town. So is Mrs. Wiley Rogers and others. The Thomas Warrens went to Muleshoe after church to visit a daughter and family. Mrs. Plumlee is home.
 Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mayfield and granddaughter Paulette Mayfield from Tech went to Henrietta and joined the Kenneth Mayfields and great grandson and all attended the pinning ceremony at Midwestern State Fine Arts Theatre.

33 nurses graduated. Among them the Mayfields grandson, William Gordon Mayfield got his R.N.
 Then at 8:00 the Mayfields went to the Ligon Coliseum at Midwestern where William Gordon Mayfield was a candidate for his associate of science nursing degree. Paulette has spent a great deal of time with the Mayfields due to her grandfather who is not doing so well.
 William Gordon is the young man who is making a Dr. of himself and will get another degree in a short while.
 The Rev. and Mrs. Frank Roberson were dinner guests in the Mayfield home last week.

 Gordon Mayfield received a birthday card from the White House and Nancy and Ronald Reagan.
 Next weekend Gene and family from Henrietta and Paulette from Tech will spend Father's Day and Gordon's birthday together.
 Calvary Baptist and many more regret the passing of a long time faithful member, Alma Ruth Nelson! How we have missed her during her long illness. Gone but not forgotten!
 Let us remember the loved ones in our prayers.
 Services were at Calvary Baptist June 12, 1984 at 10:30.
