

Nicaragua, Honduras said on verge of war

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The leftist Sandinista government says it verges on war with neighboring Honduras because of escalating fighting between army troops and Honduran-based rebels that has killed 270 people since February. "Our troops, planes, tanks, artillery and our entire armament are ready to take action against the anti-Sandinistas and the puppet armies of any country," Defense Minister Humberto Ortega told a news conference late Monday. "The situation is serious, not from the threat of the (rebel) bands, but from a danger of war with Honduras because of the support that the Honduran army gives these groups."

The government identified one of the rebel organizers as Adolfo Calero Portocarrero, a businessman who owned a Coca-Cola bottling concession in Nicaragua until he left the country in December for exile in Costa Rica.

Two hours after the news conference, 20 policemen took over the bottling plant, telling workers that they were "intervening" because the plant's earnings had been used to support the "counter-revolution."

It was not immediately clear if the government intended to close the plant, which employs an estimated 1,000 Nicaraguans.

Ortega said Nicaraguan soldiers and militias were battling at least 1,200 rebels backed by "Yankee imperialism" — an apparent reference to the U.S.-backed Honduran military — in areas of Matagalpa and Jinotega provinces.

He said 205 rebels, 57 Nicaraguan troops and eight civilians have been killed in the intensified fighting that began last month. At least 104 anti-government guerrillas, 40 Nicaraguan soldiers and 20 civilians had been reported wounded or missing, Ortega said.

A state of military emergency has been in effect since March 1982 in Jinotega and four other provinces along the Honduran border because of frequent clashes between rebels and government troops. But Monday was the first time officials acknowledged fighting as far south as Matagalpa, in central Nicaragua about 60 miles from the Honduran border.

The rebel Nicaraguan

Democratic Force claimed late Sunday its forces controlled the towns of San Ramon, Muy Muy, Los Llanos and San Dionisio in the northern part of Matagalpa.

But Ortega said rebel at-

Telling Why

Four candidates vying for Hereford Independent School District board positions told members of the Classroom Teachers Association Tuesday why they wanted the job. Paul Mason, left, is seeking the remaining two years of a term left open by Bobby Griego's resignation. Also at Tuesday's meeting were candidates for another board position, Cal Jones, Paul Ramirez and Marilyn Culpepper. Candidates James Gentry and Dale Pierson were out of town and Trini Gamez did not attend. The school board election is April 2.

Waste program at 8 tonight

A representative of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council will discuss the state's role in the decision-making process when he addresses a meeting of People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories (POWER) at 8 p.m. tonight at the HHS cafeteria.

Steve Frishman of Austin will speak to the newly-formed group, which was organized to resist efforts to place a nuclear waste dump in this county.

POWER invites all area residents who are interested in learning more about nuclear waste disposal to come to the meeting. The group will be meeting each Tuesday night.

Included in Frishman's remarks will be the timetable for the Department of Energy's search for the nation's first high-level nuclear waste repository. His hour-long program will include a slide presentation, titled "Don't Waste America," narrated by John Houseman, and will explore several of the issues involved isolating radioactive wastes from the environment.

A.L. Jordan has a blood debt of 22 pints, while 16 pints are needed by Retha Fry and Allen Shire. Ramona Garza also needs 12 pints.

Several persons need eight pints credit, including Manual Barba, Leona Calhoun, G.A. Brown, C.J. Marchman, Eunice Peterson, Carmen Salinas, Joan Rodriguez, and William Clark.

Also, Norma Cervantez, Ann Combs, Tootsie Hankins, Tiny Lee Roberson, Hollis Shipman, Urbano Esqueda, Pauline Martinez, and Terry J. Long.

And, six pints are needed for Jewel May.

Meet candidates night March 29

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Legislative Affairs Committee will sponsor and conduct a "Meet the Candidates Night" March 29 at the Hereford Community Center, beginning at 7 p.m. according to Dr. Milton Adams, chairman.

"The public is invited to attend this meeting to become better informed about the candidates who will be seeking position in the upcoming election," Dr. Adams said.

All candidates for the school board, city commission, and hospital board have been invited to attend. Each person will be allowed to make statements concerning their qualifications and plans if elected.

City will spend $213,000 to repair streets

The City of Hereford will spend over $200,000 for street repair this year, about $40,000 more than normally, thanks to heavy snowstorms this winter.

Jake Diel won the contract with a bid of $213,077 and an alternate bid (with river rock specifications) of $200,048. Diel's bid gives a 90-day completion date.

City manager Dudley Bayne said the removal and replacement of several intersections will start after April 1 and resurfacing will be done later.

Commissioners accepted the resignation of Betty Davis as the alternate Municipal Judge and will make an appointment later. Mrs. Davis, who serves as the daytime police dispatcher, will continue to fill in as municipal judge until an appointment is named.

Charles Lyles announced Town and Country Jubilee plans to the commissioners and invited the officials to ride in the Jubilee Parade on Aug. 13. The Jubilee will run from Aug. 6 through 13. The Jubilee of Arts will be in the east side of the community center and the Jubilee Fair in the west side. The All-Girl Rodeo will be Aug. 11-13.

The YMCA approached the commissioners with a request for a plot of city land at Avenue C and Fifteenth for construction of a gymnasium complex. The Red Cross has withdrawn a request for city land and the Y is waiting for the same action from Hereford Day Care. The request was not on the agenda and no action was taken.

Bayne also brought up a potential problem in a piece of land, south of the alley behind Nineteenth Street, which is not city property. Bayne said there is no city control over what industry could be built there, although part is surrounded by city limits on three sides and one lot on four sides. No action was taken.

All commissioners were present.

400 left homeless after Dallas fire

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas firefighters say it was a miracle no one was seriously hurt in a ferocious five-alarm blaze that destroyed about 170 apartments and left 400 people homeless.

The fire — the fifth multi-alarm blaze here in the past week — caused at least $6 million in damage Monday and was declared the most expensive fire in Dallas history.

Many of residents of the 824-unit Willow Creek Apartments had left for work when the fire broke out about 8:30 a.m., officials said.

Three firefighters were injured while battling the blaze in the north-side complex. Two residents who suffered minor injuries were taken in private vehicles to area hospitals, officials said.

"It was a miracle of God," said Lt. Kent Miller, a Dallas Fire Department arson investigator.

"If this had been 3 a.m. on a Saturday, we would have had a lot of ambulances out there," Miller said. The firefighters were

School days changes listed

Due to the Hereford Independent School District's loss of four days of instruction due to bad weather, the Texas Education Agency has allowed the district to operate 174 days of instruction and six days of teacher inservice.

In order to meet the new requirements, the HSD will hold regular days of instruction on Friday, April 1, which was originally scheduled as a holiday, and on Friday, May 27, which was scheduled as an inservice day. The district will not hold any additional inservice days.

The TEA normally requires 175 days of instruction and eight days of teacher inservice.

Reagan labels program 'tonic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says his economic programs are a spring tonic that will help farmers along with the rest of the country.

Reagan said Monday that while many farmers have undergone some hard times recently, the U.S. agricultural system is "a national treasure" that the rest of the world holds in awe.

Speaking at the Agriculture Department, Reagan predicted that farmers will share in a "long and strong" national economic recovery he said is under way.

It was also National Agriculture Day, a tribute to the nation's 5.6 million farm people. Although they represent only 2.5 percent of the nation's population, Reagan said their output has increased 89 percent since 1950.

But the financial crunch of the past few years have caused some farmers to lose their land and their homes because of heavy debt and low incomes.

"Surviving has been a job in itself, but I think it is fair to say that although the winter's been harsh, it is going to be a beautiful spring," Reagan said.

"We've planted the right seeds, and now economic recovery is popping up all over the country — and America's farmers aren't going to be left out."

The president promised that his administration will work to promote U.S. agricultural exports — "not by increasing subsidies or federal controls, but instead by opening markets and introducing creative alternatives" to overcome price-depressing commodity surpluses.

"We believe in fair trade," Reagan said, "but we are no longer going to play patsy for those who would use this commitment as leverage against us. Free trade means access for those trading with us and it also means access for Americans to their markets. It's got to be a two-way street or not deal."

After increasing for 12 consecutive years, the value of farm exports declined in the fiscal year which ended last Sept. 30 and is expected to drop again in 1982-83.

CowBelles busy promoting National Ag Week here

With the theme of "Agriculture, America's Heartbeat", the observance of National Ag Week, March 18-24, is being promoted by Hereford CowBelles this week.

Monday had been proclaimed as "Ag Day" and CowBelles were to highlight the day by presenting a beef certificate to the first baby born on March 21. However, no baby was born here Monday.

CowBelles last week distributed beef placemats to be used during the week at local restaurants and cafes. The organization is also making beef cookbooks available this week, and a beef casserole sale at Sugarland Mall Saturday will conclude the promotion of Ag Week.

Those interested in obtaining a copy of the beef cookbook should contact Ruth Newsom. Charmaine Klett is president of the Hereford CowBelles, and Glenda Hansen is Ag Week chairperson.

From blimps to babies, Ag Day focused on community

Police Honor Citizen

Troy Waddell, center, was commended for assisting Hereford Police in cracking a burglary case earlier this month with presentations by Lt. Vernon Hope, left, and patrolman Ted Campos, right. Waddell, office manager of Southwestern Public Service, informed police of a suspicious illegal hook-up of service. At the site of the hook-up, police found property which had been stolen in a burglary of Soundstage One. The discovery led to the arrest of a Washington man. Waddell received a letter of commendation and a certificate for two dinners at K-Bob's. Hope said the department hopes to be able to recognize a Citizen of the Month each month.

Container bill clears committee

AUSTIN (AP) — Beer-drinking boat drivers should be treated differently than motorists who take a sip while driving, a Senate committee has decided.

The Senate Affairs Committee voted 7-2 Monday to send to the full Senate a controversial bill that would outlaw open alcoholic beverage containers in a passenger car.

The bill was approved after the committee refused 6-3 to attach an amendment that would make the measure apply to motor boats.

"We all know that people drink beer in boats just as they do in motor vehicles and a lot of accidents happen on the water," said Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston. "I assume you want the same protection for people in boats."

Sen. Bill Sarpaullis, D-Hereford, said he did not know if boats were considered "motor vehicles," and after studying the matter he might accept such an amendment when it comes up for debate in the full Senate.

Washington pressed for a vote on boat drinking in committee.

Sarpaullis' bill would make a misdemeanor punishable by fines up to $200 to operate a motor vehicle with an open beverage container within the passenger compartment or within five feet of the driver. It also would be a violation for a passenger to have an open container in his immediate possession.

"This means you could ride in the back of the bus and drink," Sarpaullis said.

Snow greets spring here

Spring arrived Monday and snow flurries greeted Hereford and area residents again this morning. KPAN Radio recorded an inch of snow here Saturday.

The official weather station recorded a high of 43 degrees Monday, and the low was 28 this morning.

The snowfall stopped during the morning, but the forecast called for chances of rain mixed with snow in the Panhandle tonight. Wednesday's forecast was for cloudy skies and warmer temperatures.

Mattox drops PUC intervention case

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox says he is giving up — for now — his attempt to intervene in General Telephone's rate case before the Public Utility Commission.

Mattox had charged no one was adequately representing consumers at the PUC. But he said Monday, "We're trying to give this PUC a chance to show they are consumer oriented."

He referred to a recent two-thirds turnover in membership at the commission, which had been accused of siding with utility companies too much.

In February, commission members George Cowden and T.G. Smith quit. Gov. Mark White replaced them with Alan Erwin, a former PUC member, and El Paso housewife Peggy Rosson.

Erwin was elected the new chairman, replacing Moak Rollins, who has stayed on the panel although he has hinted he will step down soon.

After his unanimous election, Erwin promised consumers they would not pay "a penny more" than they should for electricity or telephone service.

Mattox had sought to convince the PUC that he has authority to represent consumers before the panel. But even the new White appointees voted against him when he appealed a hearing examiner's decision to keep him out of the rate case.

Three bills approved to raise state fees

AUSTIN (AP) — Three bills that would raise various state fees by nearly $74 million over the next two years have cleared the Senate on voice vote and will be sent to the House.

The increase in fees was recommended by a special committee suggested by Sen. John Leedom, which began its work after the 1981 Legislature adjourned. The committee noted that one fee had not been changed since 1911, and many were set in the 1930s and 1940s.

One of Leedom's proposals approved Monday would increase licensing and other fees for 18 state agencies and would raise an additional $48.2 million.

Another bill raising alcoholic beverage fees would bring in $25.1 million. For example, the fee for private clubs of 500 or fewer members, which was set at $500 in 1961, would rise to $1,250. The brewer's permit set at $1,000 in 1935 would go up to $5,800.

The Senate rejected 18-12 an amendment that would have set aside a portion of the increased alcoholic beverage fees for rehabilitating alcoholics.

A third bill would impose higher fees on trade schools and would result in $162,880 in additional revenue over the next two years.

Proposed higher hunting and fishing licenses are part of another bill that is pending.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, asked Leedom, R-Dallas, if he would oppose any amendment to his proposals that would raise college tuition, and Leedom said he would.

If the House should put on an amendment raising tuition, Leedom said, he would ask for a conference committee to eliminate the amendment.

Senate votes to revise mental health code

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators have voted to revise the Texas Mental Health Code, which was praised as a model for the nation when it went into effect in 1957 but apparently has not kept up with the times.

Sen. Ray Farabee said Monday the proposed new code included a provision that would guarantee people in protective custody a hearing within 72 hours.

The guarantee was part of emergency legislation passed earlier this session, but the temporary law expires Aug. 31.

"Despite numerous amendments during the past 25 years, the code has been strongly criticized as being ambiguous, outdated, and in conflict with court decisions," according to background information made available to senators.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, said then-state Rep. Barefoot Sanders, Dallas, had sponsored the 1957 mental health code, but later, as a federal judge, had ruled portions of the code unconstitutional.

Provisions in the proposed code would allow children 16 or older to obtain mental health services on their own and would authorize law officers to apprehend, without a warrant, people who appear to be mentally ill and present a substantial imminent risk of serious harm to themselves or others.

Two types of court-ordered mental health services are proposed — temporary, which could not exceed 90 days, and extended, which could not exceed 12 months.

The proposed revisions also would clarify criteria justifying court-ordered mental health services, duties of attorneys and the procedures for furlough, return and discharge of patients.

Parliament elects opposition candidate

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's Parliament today rebuffed Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government by electing the opposition's candidate for the largely ceremonial post of president.

Labor Party legislator Chaim Herzog, a former general and diplomat, defeated Supreme Court Justice Menachem Elon, a member of Begin's ruling coalition. The vote was 61-57.

The new president will take office May 5, replacing Yitzhak Navon, elected five years ago as the Labor candidate after Begin's coalition did not front a credible candidate.

Navon stepped down after he in effect opposed Begin's government by calling for a commission to investigate Israel's role in the Sept. 16-18 massacre of Palestinians in Beirut by Lebanese Christian militiamen. The Lebanese capital was then under the control of Israeli forces.

The presidency has no political power and is supposed to avoid expressing opinions on political issues.

Flexible nursing schedules give hospitals edge in nurse hiring

By RUTH BONAPACE
Associated Press Writer
LIVINGSTON, N.J. (AP)

— There were times, Harriet Rowand says, when all she wanted to do was eat supper and find out what had happened to her two children.

But for 10 years, hospitals around the country offered no help to Mrs. Rowand, or to others like her — nurses looking for steady hours.

While Mrs. Rowand stuck it out at St. Barnabas Hospital here, a quarter of the nation's 1.4 million registered nurses abandoned active practice and almost one-third of the remaining nurses now work only part time, according to the American Nurses Association.

But the rotating schedules that drove away thousands of Mrs. Rowand's fellow professionals and played a part in the 100,000 current vacancies in nursing positions, are beginning to change.

For Mrs. Rowand, her days of dinner on the run are over. She now works two 12-hour weekend shifts and gets paid for a full 35-hour week under an innovative scheduling program here.

The new schedule is one of many designed recently by hospital officials looking for ways to keep nurses on the job and to attract others to the field.

"You have a recruiting war going on, where they (nurses) can go to the highest bidder," said Ronald Del Mauro, the St. Barnabas vice president for personnel. "It's happening all over the country."

"The staff nurse today can go anywhere to work," said Grace Guidera, acting vice president for nursing at St. Barnabas, which patterned its program on a similar one devised by Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas. "You have to make it inviting."

Hospitals with flexible schedules hold an edge, even when competitors pay higher wages, Del Mauro said. Many are responding to the nursing shortage by offering counseling services, self-help programs and day-care facilities.

"There were days when I was standing in my white uniform at the stove," said Mrs. Rowand.

"When I started nursing there was nothing for us," said Mary Jo Truskowski, a nurse at St. Barnabas for 15 years. "The hospitals still have a way to go. You'll see even more changes in the next five years."

Mrs. Truskowski is the single parent of a 9-year-old son, Alex. Another new program — the "night incentive plan" — allows her to work from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. Sunday through Wednesday, be paid for five nights of work, and have Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays free.

"Working a night shift is very tiring and it disrupts your sleeping pattern, so having three nights off in a row really makes a difference," said Mrs. Truskowski, who now has more energy for her son and time for twice a week college studies toward a bachelor's degree.

"Nursing professionals are looking for a relatively sound lifestyle. Rotating schedules and working weekends are burdensome," Del Mauro said.

Hospital administrators say they have not computed the extra cost created by innovative schedules. But they note the tab is reduced by lower turnover rates and decreased absenteeism.

And nurses working regular schedules can plan their personal activities around their work, reducing their need for unscheduled days off and the resultant overtime costs to the hospital, administrators said.

Mrs. Rowand said she is much happier with her new schedule, even though the 12-hour weekend shifts in the emergency room are arduous.

"It's good my children know longer need to ask, 'Do you have to work tonight?' They like to tell me what happened to them during the day and now, I'm not too tired to listen," said Mrs. Rowand.

At Baylor, where the two 12-hour weekend shifts are used in every unit except the emergency room, hospital officials reported cuts in the turnover rate of 32 percent in 1980, the first year of the program, and of 25 percent in 1981.

They also noted a decrease of 15 percent and 5 percent in vacancy for 1980 and 1981, respectively, even though Baylor increased its staff from 700 nurses to 1,100 nurses to accommodate the new scheduling.

"It's worked out wonderfully," said Joyce Ross, a Baylor spokeswoman. "We've had hundreds of calls, though we don't know how many other hospitals have implemented this. We actually stopped counting inquiries because they were too numerous."

"We got the idea from a tire company," Ms. Ross said. "General Tire of Akron, Ohio, had a weekend work force and someone in our management development people read about it in trade magazine. We looked at it and modified it."

Cisco mayor pro tem released

EASTLAND, Texas (AP) — Cisco Mayor Pro Tem Loyal Lundstrom, who disappeared for 13 days after his wife was found shot to death, was free today after a family friend posted a $200,000 property bond, authorities said.

Lundstrom, accused of murder in the slaying of his 27-year-old wife Doris, had been in custody since his arrest Wednesday at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport. He was released from jail Monday.

Justice of the Peace A.C. Holder last week set bond for Lundstrom, $9, at $100,000, but Morren said the bond amount automatically doubles when property is substituted for cash.

Records show the property posted as bond was Wise County ranchland owned by Coke Gage of Fort Worth.

Gage could not be reached for comment.

Woman fakes pregnancy, kidnaps baby, shoots self

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A woman wanted a baby so desperately that she faked being pregnant, abducted a month-old boy from a mother she had befriended, then killed herself with a hidden gun when the FBI tracked her down, authorities said.

When two agents showed up Monday to ask Mary Ann Boynton where she got the baby at her side, the 26-year-old housewife became agitated and excused herself to go to the bathroom. There she shot herself in the head with a .357-caliber Magnum revolver, the FBI said.

She was pronounced dead at a hospital.

The child, Michael Williamson, later was reunited with his stunned mother, Christine Williamson, 18, and her husband, 23-year-old Elidieu, at the Coconut Creek police station.

"I'm so happy, because before I found my baby I couldn't sleep, I couldn't eat," said Mrs. Williamson, a Haitian woman who came to the United States two years ago and speaks little English.

When police first showed Michael to his mother, she displayed little emotion. Police speculated the mother was in shock. But a few minutes later she embraced the child and said, "He seems OK. He's not dead."

Mrs. Williamson told police last week that a woman she had met at Broward General Medical Center offered her and the boy a ride to a clinic when told the child wasn't feeling well, then forced her from the car at gunpoint and sped away with the baby.

Jim Freeman, the FBI agent directing the investigation, would say only that a "routine" lead brought them to Mrs. Boynton's home.

withholding from interest and dividends six months past the present July 1 schedule — to Jan. 1, 1984.

Dole, who has become the biggest champion of withholding, assailed Melcher's effort as a new attempt by the American Bankers Association to get its way. He accused ABA, which has led the drive to repeal withholding, of "an underhanded, heavy-handed campaign... a disgraceful, shameful campaign."

After the Senate voted 58-37 to keep Melcher's amendment alive, Dole struck back. He offered an amendment to delay withholding only if the prime interest rate charged by the nation's 10 largest banks is below 6 percent on June 30. The prime rate, which is generally the rate offered a bank's best corporate customers, is at 10.5 percent.

In addition, Dole's amendment would have required banks to allow savers with as little as $300 to invest in their high-yielding money-market accounts. The present minimum is $2,500.

The amendment failed, 57-35. But Dole said he will offer more amendments in an attempt to water down Melcher's proposal so that the Senate would let it die and return to consideration of Social Security amendments.

Police make five arrests

Five arrests were made by Hereford police through the weekend and Monday. Three were for public intoxication and two were for shoplifting.

Police are still investigating an assault with a motor vehicle which occurred on a parking lot at Park and 25-Mile Avenue.

A burglary was reported at 600 Avenue K where 10 shirts and several pairs of boots and shoes were missing.

Patrolmen issued 12 citations.

Bitter tax battle snags Social Security rescue

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increasingly bitter battle over withholding taxes from interest and dividends is trapping a $165 billion bill to shore up the troubled Social Security system.

Senators who want to repeal withholding "may win but not on this bill," vowed Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., manager of the Social Security ty legislation. "If we are going to have a Social Security bill, it's not going to have this amendment on it."

It thus appears unlikely Congress will be able to meet its deadline of completing work before Easter on the big Social Security measure. Lawmakers plan to recess all next week.

While there is no pressure to pass the Social Security provisions immediately, unless the bill is passed by March 31 supplemental jobless benefits for many of the nation's unemployed workers would lapse. A provision extending the benefits for up to eight weeks is attached to the bill.

Accusing the banking lobby of misleading the public about withholding, Dole drew an angry response from Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. "You are losing this for yourself," said Goldwater. "The American people don't like this and they don't care where (on what bill) you put this amendment."

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, the Banking Committee chairman, wants to repeal withholding but not as part of the Social Security bill. "We've seen Senate demagoguery at its worst tonight," Garn said.

This is the second time this month that the withholding fight has blocked Senate action on major legislation. A package of relief for the unemployed and others hit hardest by the recession was stalled for a week until an accommodation was reached with opponents of withholding.

The Senate was moving steadily Monday toward final action on Social Security when Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., offered an amendment to delay the start of

Though military sources have estimated as many as 5,000 rebels have penetrated Nicaraguan territory from Honduras, Ortega denied the invaders represent a military threat to Nicaragua — which has a standing army of between 25,000 and 30,000 men and a militia of 100,000-150,000 men.

activities in observance of the special week. For the second year, the sides of three of the Goodyear "Night Sign" blimps were decorated in lights depicting the national Ag Day logo — a U.S. map made of an electrocardiogram strip, with a barn and silo in the center, symbolizing agriculture as "America's Heartbeat."

In several states, organizers watched for the first baby born on Monday and presented him or her with a beef certificate.

Parades were held in some cities, and, agriculture-related exhibits were on display in others. Ag Day is sponsored as a tribute to American agriculture's achievements and a time when a solid cross-section of ag interests join in educational efforts aimed at the general population.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block later told a National Press Club audience that "we're all working together to hold our own in world trade."

Block said that while the Reagan administration will

Group gives poison safety tips

The Texas Safety Association, in connection with National Poison Prevention week, March 20-26, advised parents to follow these tips to prevent children from accidental poisonings.

1. Put away all household cleaners, solvents, paints and medicines in upper cabinets.

2. Keep household chemicals in their original containers. Never store them in containers which children might associate with food.

3. Purchase medicines with childproof safety caps. Never refer to medicine as candy.

4. Children learn by imitating adult behavior. Let them know medicine is serious business.

5. Keep household plants out of the reach of children. Use hanging pots or high shelves to store them.

6. Syrup of Ipecac should be kept at home for poison emergencies. Purchase it at a local pharmacy and use it only on the advice of your doctor or poison control center. It will help induce vomiting.

7. Keep the telephone numbers of your family doctor and local poison control center near the phone. Have the poison container in hand when you call so you can describe what your child ingested.

Don't let a poisoning interfere in your child's life, Texas Safety Association says. Keep hazardous materials out of a child's reach.

The fire was "just spreading all over" before it was contained, Ms. Smith said.

Investigators had not yet determined what caused the fire, Jernigan said.

"It will be some time before all the witnesses are interviewed ... The point of origin was in a three-story building that has collapsed," he added.

The apartment complex, in an upper middle class section of North Dallas, includes a shopping center in one of the buildings and is next to an area of expensive homes.

Later Monday, firefighters were called to another Dallas apartment complex to extinguish a three-alarm blaze. A vacant 16-unit block of the Windscape Apartments was damaged, officials said. A fire had been reported in the complex last month.

Collecting cookbooks can be enjoyable hobby

BY LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

Collecting cookbooks and all kinds of recipes is something that Carol Whitlow thoroughly enjoys.

"I like to cook," smiles the young homemaker, "and am always looking for the 'best' recipe for a certain dish. I clip a lot of recipes out of magazines and newspapers and paste them in a big spiral notebook.

"I can sit down and read cookbooks like I'm reading a novel, which may sound kind of silly to some people, but I enjoy it that much."

Carol adds that she has a whole encyclopedia of microwave cookery, and that she tries to use her microwave oven as much as possible, especially in the summer to avoid heating up the kitchen. "It's also handy for reheating leftovers," she comments.

Carol is on the cookbook committee at her church, and the group is putting together a cookbook to be ready in a month or so.

She and her husband, Jim, and their two small children moved here from Canyon a little over a year ago. "We lived in Hereford a couple of months just after we were married, and have lived in Canyon since then," says Carol. The two met while they were both working in Friona.

Jim, a native of this area, is originally from Happy. Carol was born in New Mexico, but as her father was in the Air Force, she has lived in many different places, as far away as Okinawa and Cape Cod.

Though she says she sometimes envies people who've lived in one place a long time because of their sense of security and feeling a part of one place, she also comments that moving around a lot has been interesting and enjoyable.

She finds it very easy to get acquainted and make friends in a new place, and so has made the adjustment to Hereford quite easily.

"I really do like it here," she smiles. "It's small enough that you can really get to know a lot of people, and yet it is close enough to Amarillo that you can go there when you want to visit a larger city."

"Also, in Hereford, there are a lot of church people and that's an accepted way of life. It was a little harder to fit in in that sense up north."

The Whitlows attend the Church of the Nazarene, where Carol is involved in a ladies Bible study which was started recently. She plays volleyball on one of the church YMCA teams, and says that Jim will probably get involved on a team too.

Jim, who owns a truck and leases to Lawrence Ward Trucking, earned a degree in animal science from West Texas State University. He and Carol have two children, 4-year-old Austin, and Jake, who is 2 years old.

"We plan to start Austin in the First Baptist Kindergarten program next year," says Carol. "He enjoys his children's church and is looking forward to starting the Kingdom Kids choir at the Nazarene Church."

Carol has attended Hereford Newcomers Club and says that she'd like to get more involved in that.

Besides cooking and collecting recipes, other hobbies include collecting cookie cutters and thimbles, doing counted cross-stitch, and sewing.

Carol says that most of the counted cross-stitch she has done has been for gifts, but that just recently she has made several things for her own home. "In the summer, I like to sew for myself and make things for the house," she comments.

Identity of professor at two colleges still a mystery

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)

— At one college he was economics professor Peter H. Pearce; at the other he was computer science professor John Byron Hext. At home his landlady knew him as Anthony S. Williams. On the arrest warrant he was "John Doe."

Police, who even had trouble getting the man's fingerprints because they were so faint, were still trying to determine his identity as the man sat in Lancaster County Prison in lieu of $40,000 bail.

He asked to be arraigned as Anthony S. Williams at his appearance Monday before District Justice Doris James.

Meanwhile, academic committees at Millersville State College and Shippensburg State College are reviewing classes taught by the professor, to decide if students should be given credit.

"Whatever else they discover, this man was bright and capable — and burning the candle at both ends," said Dr. Keith Lovin, provost at Millersville.

"He must have been a master to teach at two schools at the same time," said Lancaster Police Captain Luther Henry.

The bearded man, in his 50s, faces charges of theft by deception, tampering with public records and false swearing for posing as Hext at Shippensburg, police said.

He could face additional charges for his employment at Millersville, where he taught business and economics using the name of Pearce, claiming he had a Ph.D. from the University of Edinburgh in Scotland.

The colleges are about 75 miles apart. The man began working at both schools last fall, holding classes on staggered days.

At Shippensburg, "Hext" taught a graduate course in Hardware-Software Systems and Computer Programming II, a sophomore course. He was paid $30,000 a year.

At Millersville, "Pearce" taught Introduction to Quantitative Concepts, a freshman statistics course, and Managerial Finance and Investment Analysis, two sophomore-level courses. He earned $28,000 a year there, the criminal complaint said.

Shippensburg officials fired him March 10, after learning about an article written by Professor John B. Hext, of MacQuarie University in New South Wales, Australia. The real Hext, contacted Monday by telephone, said he never applied to work at the school.

"They said there had been complaints at the school that he was incompetent," Hext said. "That's what started the investigation, apparently."

Texans must meet challenges to thrive

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The year 2000 will see staggering economic and population changes in Texas but "cocky ... self confident ... can do" Texans can meet the challenge, a University of Texas researcher says.

Victor Arnold, director of UT's Bureau of Business Research, told newspaper executives Monday the fate of Texas 2000 lies solely in the hands of Texans past, present and future.

"Nobody else is going to do it for them," Arnold said in a speech before the convention of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association.

He said water looms as the most serious threat to economic growth and a population that will reach 22.5 million in the next 17 years.

But he also touched on such problem areas as energy, transportation, education, economic diversity and the state's relationship with financially embattled Mexico.

"The outlook for Texas is rather bright provided we meet all these challenges," he said.

"My picture of the year 2000 is as cloudy as anyone's, but we can and must understand the trends that move us forward and anticipate and adjust and not react to problems only when they become crises."

Arnold said the 1970 Texas population of 11.2 million will double by 2000 and with the increase will come changes and challenges and a new economy based on diversity rather than oil, gas and agriculture.

"By 2000, one of every 12 citizens in this country will be living in Texas," he predicted.

He said the state population increased by 3 million from 1970 to 1980 and jumped another million, to 15.2 million, in the last two years alone.

"Texas is like a developing country in terms of population growth," he said.

Of the 3 million increase between 1970 and 1980, he said 1.7 million, or 58 percent, were newcomers rather than native born Texans.

A bureau study showed that eight percent of the immigrants migrated here from the 11 northeastern states, 25 percent from the upper midwest, 25 percent from the Rocky Mountain region, 28 percent from the four surrounding states and 10 percent from California.

Arnold said the influx included a large number of young, single women in the "prime child-bearing age" and that a baby boom has begun.

"In 1982, there were 65,000 more babies born in Texas than 1981," he said, and that a 3,000 shortfall of kindergarten teachers can be expected in five years.

"There will be 45 percent more children in elementary and secondary schools by 2000," he added.

He noted also that his figures do not reflect the "undocumented guests" from Mexico, whose numbers range today from 300,000 to 3 million.

"Your guess on that is as good as mine," he said.

Regarding the labor force, he said Texas must create 190,000 jobs annually "just to break even" by 2000 and that 3 million more housing units will be required.

Economically, Texas has been the "crown jewel" of the entire nation, a leader in the rate of growth of manufacturing, capital investment and bank deposits.

"But the Texas economy in 1993 will not be the same as in 1983," he said.

He predicted that a state economy once based almost solely on oil and agriculture will become even more diversified in the areas of energy development, finance, insurance, real estate and both wholesale and retail trade.

"Diversity is a blessing in that it provides lots of job opportunities," he said. "But it also may be a curse in that we will be more susceptible to fluctuations in the national economy."

He said petrochemicals will continue to be a growth industry but at a decidedly slower rate.

"Without question, the most critical issue is water," he said, "and if we don't do something about it it will become a crisis."

The water shortage is not a regional but a statewide problem, he said, adding:

"It is an absolute myth that we can move water from East Texas to West Texas. There are not sufficient sources."

Big 10 basketball stock drops

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

The Big Ten's stock dropped a bit in the National Invitation Tournament when the Minnesota Gophers lost last week.

Monday night, the bottom dropped out completely for one of the nation's strongest basketball leagues as both Northwestern and Michigan State were eliminated.

DePaul rallied to pull out a dramatic 65-63 victory over Northwestern and Fresno State upset Michigan State 72-58 in two of eight NIT games Monday night, leaving the Big Ten without a team to compete in the nation's oldest post-season basketball tournament. It was the second close victory over a Big Ten team in this tourney for DePaul, which beat Minnesota 76-73 in a first-round game last Tuesday night.

Also advancing to quarter-final games later this week were Wake Forest, Texas Christian, Mississippi, South Carolina, Nebraska and Oregon State. Wake Forest beat Vanderbilt 75-58, TCU tripped Arizona State 78-76, Mississippi defeated South Florida 65-57, South Carolina stopped Virginia Tech 75-68, Nebraska trimmed Iowa 85-73 and Oregon State walloped New Orleans 88-71.

Monday night's results set up quarterfinal pairings for Thursday and Friday nights.

On Thursday, TCU plays at Nebraska, Wake Forest meets South Carolina at Greensboro, N.C., and Fresno State travels to Oregon State. On Friday, Mississippi meets DePaul at Rosemont, Ill.

Kenny Patterson's 35-foot shot at the buzzer capped an 11-point comeback for DePaul as the Blue Demons caught Northwestern at the end. Patterson took the inbounds pass from Tyrone Corbin and let fly for the winning basket.

DePaul held a 52-49 lead when Jim Stack tied it with a three-point play and Northwestern, led by Stack and Gaddis Rathel, shot the Wildcats into a 59-52 lead and then 63-54 before the rally by DePaul.

Coach (Ray Meyer) wanted Tyrone (Corbin) or Bernard (Randolph) to take the final shot," said Patterson, explaining that he was the "third choice."

"But they overloaded on both of them so they threw the ball back to me figuring the worst it could be would be a tie."

Although Northwestern had taken a 63-54 lead with less than four minutes to play and the shot clock turned off, Meyer said, "We still thought we could win it, even when we were nine points down, really. It was one of the few times this season that we retained our poise. Northwestern played a terrific game and took us out of our offense. We got by with a very poor shooting night."

Ron Anderson and Desi Barmore scored 16 points apiece to lead Fresno State over Michigan State. The Spartans maintained a five-point lead throughout most of the second half, but the Bulldogs rallied to outscore Michigan State 8-2 and grab a 53-52 lead.

Darrell Browder scored 29 points and Doug Arnold had 20 of his 26 in the second half as TCU held on to beat Arizona State. The host Sun Devils were kept in the game throughout by the 33-point effort of Byron Scott.

"TCU played a solid, error-free game," Arizona State Coach Bob Weinbauer said. "They maintained their composure even after Browder fouled out and Arnold took over the game from there. It's a tribute to them that they didn't get flustered."

Carlos Clark's 30 points led Mississippi over South Florida. Clark keyed a 10-0 scoring spurt that gave Ole Miss a 21-11 lead it never relinquished. It demoralized South Florida, which got no closer than six points in the second half.

Stan Cloudy's 24 points lifted Nebraska past Iowa. It was the second consecutive game in which the 6-4 junior had a season-high point total. In a first-round NIT game, Cloudy had 20 to lead the Huskers past Tulane.

Oregon State forward A.C. Green had 18 points and the Beavers led all the way to down visiting New Orleans. The Beavers had five players in double figures.

Favorites still alive, too

Dream continues for Wolfpack, Iowa

BY LES GILES Sports Editor

The 'dream' continues ... for North Carolina State and Utah State, and for Iowa as well.

It's still alive for Virginia, Houston, Louisville and St. John's.

And, North Carolina's dream of a second straight NCAA championship are also alive and well.

But, things will change Thursday and Friday when the list of 16 teams in this year's spectacle becomes a list of eight.

Can N.C. State keep it going, and perhaps be the darkhorse in the eventual Final Four at Albuquerque, April 2 and 4?

Can the top four seeds — Houston, Louisville, Virginia and St. John's — escape the upset bug, and make it?

It's almost incredible how many close games have already been played.

Of the 36 games played thus far, including the four preliminary round contests just to make the field of 48, eight have been decided by one, or two points. Six have been settled by three to five points, and a dozen contests have been decided by a margin of six to 10 points.

Eight games have been 11 to 15-point contests, and only two have been blowouts — 15 or more points.

It's amazing how many games are decided on last-second shots.

But, that speaks for the tournament itself, and 1983 in particular. The teams appear that closely matched, and with 16 remaining anyone still could win it all.

North Carolina might be peaking. The Tar Heels blew out James Madison, 68-49. Saturday. Remember, that's the same team that played last year's national champions to within two points in a similar situation.

Only three of the 12 teams which received first-round byes failed to make it to the list of 16 which play this week. They include Missouri, which went down to Iowa, 77-63; UNLV, which fell to North Carolina State, 71-70 and UCLA, which bowed to Utah, 67-61.

Virginia struggled, before downing Washington State by five points (54-49). Houston survived Maryland's stall tactic to defeat the Terps by 10 (60-50).

Dick Vitale, an ESPN analyst, says Houston can't make it to the Final Four, because it doesn't have an experienced point guard. The Cougar's next opponent is Memphis State and talented sophomore Keith Lee, which knocked off last year's runnerup Georgetown by nine points this past weekend.

Indiana had little difficulty in ousting Oklahoma (63-49), but likely will have much more trouble Thursday against Kentucky, a team it defeated earlier this season.

Last week, my Final Four picks were Villanova, Louisville, UCLA and North Carolina. Only UCLA is gone, but by Friday night they may all be.

Third-round games (in games which will be played Thursday and Friday) go to Villanova, Houston, Louisville, Kentucky, Virginia, Utah, North Carolina and St. John's.

Jury remains out

Landry, Phillips wish USFL well

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Because of what it would mean to others in their profession, two of the best-known head coaches in the National Football League hope the fledgling United States Football League is a success.

Tom Landry, the only head coach the Dallas Cowboys have ever had, and Bum Phillips, who coaches the New Orleans Saints, have been associated with the established NFL for many years.

Nevertheless, both put in a good word for the new kid on the block, even though that new kid is on the other side of the street.

"My feeling is I like to see coaches and players working," said Landry, who has guided the Cowboys into the National Conference championship game each of the past three years. "That's a great thing about the USFL."

"I haven't watched them yet. It's going to be a tough thing. They've got a shot. They've got to have the following, the big TV following, if they're going to make it."

Phillips expressed similar sentiments. "I'm not smart enough to tell what's going to happen, there are so many ifs," he said. "At a time when the economy needs help, it's going to help a lot of people if the USFL makes it. That's a lot of coaches and players getting a chance."

Landry and Phillips are among those who have gathered in this Palm Springs suburb this week for the annual NFL meetings.

"The jury is still out," said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said of the USFL. "They play 18 weeks. So far they've played only three. You have to find out how the public is going to receive it at the games and on television."

"I've watched a few games," said Cincinnati Coach Forrest Gregg. "Since I don't know many of the players, it's hard to get an impression."

"I haven't seen enough of it to comment on the play," said Billy Bidwell, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals. "I think they've done a very good marketing job on the product."

"I think they're off to a very good start," said Hank Stram, a former NFL coach at Kansas City and New Orleans who has been a broadcaster for CBS in recent years. "I think they have a good chance if they're patient. And the competitive balance of the league is very important."

"I'm not high on the quality of the players," said Jim Hanifan, coach of the Cardinals. "I think the coaches are doing a great job. It's up to the public to decide if the league will succeed."

"They have some very good people," said Billy Sullivan, owner of the New England Patriots. "Philadelphia's coach, Jim Mora, was our defensive coordinator. And he's not the only one."

"Competition is part of the American way. If the USFL makes it, it might make our league more efficient. Maybe the USFL will be the best thing that has happened to the NFL."

"The next six or eight weeks will be critical," said Gil Brandt, the master builder of the Cowboys. "There's a lot of novelty early on. We'll see how they do against baseball, the NCAA Tournament, the NBA playoffs and good weather."

"They've had some pretty good results so far," said Rankin Smith, owner of the Atlanta Falcons. "The crunch will probably come next year. Things might change if they start losing a lot of money. They've got a tough road, but it's not something you can just brush aside."

"If they don't get greedy and stay with their constitution and by-laws, they'll do all right," said Joe Foss, the Commissioner of the old American Football League from its beginning in 1959 until April 1966. "If they can provide a good, competitive game, like a Triple-A baseball league, they'll be all right."

Bryant sparks Stars past Birmingham, 17-10

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Kelvin Bryant carried 27 times for 177 yards and one touchdown Monday night in leading the Philadelphia Stars to a 17-10 United States Football League victory over the Birmingham Stallions.

Bryant scored the Stars' second touchdown on a 1-yard run with 12:23 to play in the third quarter. He carried all five plays in the drive that was set up by a 67-yard return by Allen Harvin of the second-half kickoff.

Harvin scored the Stars' other touchdown on a 2-yard run around left end in the first quarter. The score capped a 73-yard, 10-play drive which came after Birmingham took the opening kickoff but was forced to punt.

The Stallions answered after swapping interceptions. Reggie Collier was intercepted by Mike Lush, but Philadelphia's Chuck Fusina was intercepted on first down by Frank Reed.

Collier then took the Stallions 58 yards in five plays for a touchdown, keeping the ball and sprinting around left end for the final 4 yards.

Scott Norwood tied the score with 1:13 to play in the first quarter with the extra point.

David Trout booted a 23-yard field goal for the Stars with 13:16 to play in the half to put Philadelphia up 10-7. The field goal followed a 51-yard, seven-play drive.

Birmingham's Sylvester Moy came off the developmental squad Monday and caught eight passes for 115 yards. Birmingham was driving at the end of the game and had a first down at the Stars' 12-yard line. But the Stallions lost two yards and then gave up the ball with 1:09 left after three incomplete passes by Bob Lane.

Baseball game postponed

Spring blew in last weekend like an angry lion, and hasn't let up one bit.

As a result of cold weather and blowing snow today's District 3-5a baseball opener between Hereford and Lubbock Monterey, scheduled for the Whiteface diamond, has been postponed.

Bad weather, in fact, has plagued the Herd of late.

They were scheduled to play in a three-day tournament at Pampa last week, but foul weather cancelled the event altogether.

As a result, the Whitefaces have played only six games thus far (they are 3-3), and haven't played since March 12.

Monterey, on the other hand, has enjoyed better weather to the South, and has played 14 games to date — being 11-3.

If weather permits later in the week, Hereford will travel to Lubbock Friday for a district encounter with the Westerners, then return home Saturday to face Palo Duro in a game set to begin at 4 p.m.

Houston eyes Tigers

HOUSTON (AP) — The No. 1 ranked Houston Cougars solved the stall tactics used by the Maryland Terrapins last weekend but they may have an even bigger problem awaiting in Kansas City, Mo., this week — Keith Lee and the Memphis State Tigers.

The Cougars dispatched Maryland 60-50 Saturday in NCAA Midwest Regional second-round action. Sunday, Lee scored 28 points and got 15 rebounds as the Tigers outplayed Georgetown.

Now Houston Coach Guy Lewis is back at the drawing board trying to solve the latest roadblock to a return to the NCAA Championship tournament. Lewis got a hint of his problem after watching Lee's performance against Georgetown.

"He certainly hasn't gotten any worse since last year when they voted him an All-American as a freshman," Lewis said Monday after an abbreviated workout.

"It's so hard to say what you can do against him. He can score inside and outside and he shoots 80 percent at the free throw line," he said.

"I really don't think you can stop Keith Lee unless you let everyone else on the team go. You have to do a good job on him and try to contain the rest too."

Memphis State's coaching staff should have little problem finding locker room speech material in inspire the Tigers. Houston will carry a 23-game winning streak into the game and has the No. 1 national rank that Memphis State held for one week during the regular season.

Houston guard David Rose doesn't anticipate any problem for UH in getting ready to play the Tigers.

The Cougars, protected from stall tactics during the regular season by a 45-second shot clock, broke Maryland's passing game Saturday and Lewis doesn't think UH will have to worry about such strategy again.

"We are down to the final 16 teams now and I think most of the coaches involved feels his team can win on its own merits," Lewis said. "I don't think there's any doubt that Memphis State thinks they're as good as we are."

The Houston-Memphis State winner will play the winner of the Villanova-Iowa game for the right to advance to the NCAA's Final Four tournament in Albuquerque, N.M. April 2-4.

Monterey cage coach Michalka resigns

LUBBOCK — Joe Michalka, head basketball coach at Monterey the past 16 years and a coach for 23 years altogether, resigned Monday.

Michalka, who guided Monterey to 338 victories over the past 16 seasons, including 14 straight winning campaigns, said he will continue to teach.

During his tenure as head coach, Monterey captured eight district boys' basketball championships, and advanced to the regional tournament on five occasions.

Monterey was 12-18 this past season, after logging a 9-21 mark during the 1981-82 campaign. However, 13 of Monterey's 18 losses this past season were by five points, or less.

Redmon wins 200 meter dash

Herd gals 4th at Snyder

Competing with 10 girls, Hereford finished a solid fourth last weekend in the Canyon Reef Relays at Snyder.

Sweetwater won the meet with 113 points, while Lubbock Estacado was next with 105 points. Midland garnered 84 points to place third, while Hereford was next with 76 points. Monterey and Levelland followed with 33 points, then it was Colorado City (30 points), Clyde (27), Snyder (26), San Angelo Lake View (22), Seminole (6) and Floydada (5).

Seven Hereford girls were either home nursing injuries, or out of town for the Spring Break, according to coach Martha Emerson.

But, the ones who made the trip to Snyder performed well.

Lisa Redmon won the 200 meter dash in a time of 26.88 and was second in the 100 with a time of 12.42.

The 1600 meter relay team (Lisa Redmon, Sarah Martinez, Lina Esqueda and Teresa Phibbs) ran a 4:30.94 to place second.

Marty Valdez and Belinda Warren ran second and third, respectively, in the 1600 meter run. Miss Valdez was clocked at 6:15.4 and Miss Warren 6:19.1.

Miss Esqueda took fourth in the 800 meters with a time of 2:38.02.

The 800 and 400 meter relay teams also grabbed some points. The teams, comprised of Teresa Phibbs, Sarah Martinez, Jana Morgan and Dede Dobbins, ran fourth and fifth, respectively.

Bernice Thomas, who won the discus event in the Deaf Smith County Girls' Meet a week earlier, took third in her specialty at Snyder with a toss of 110-7. She also was fourth in the shot put with a heave of 33-2.

'Future' Mets show instant results

By The Associated Press

Some of the New York Mets' "players of the future" are showing results now in spring training.

Brent Gaff and Jeff Bittinger, a couple of pitchers the Mets expect big things from, and Darryl Strawberry, an outfielder who was the Texas League player of the year last season, stood out Monday as a Mets' split squad defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 3-1 in exhibition baseball.

Gaff and Bittinger combined to pitch eight shutout innings and Strawberry blasted a home run in the contest, one of two Met victories Monday. Another Met split squad defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-6. The Mets had only won three games since the start of spring training before Monday's two-game sweep which gave them a 5-8 record. Strawberry cracked his second homer of the spring, off veteran Randy Moffitt in the eighth inning of the game with Toronto in Dunedin, Fla. In St. Petersburg, Fla., Dave Kingman, Tom Verzyer and Dave Cochrane hit two-run homers and George Foster and Mike Bishop added solo shots for the Mets in their victory over the Pirates.

Winner Craig Swann gave up five runs and 11 hits in six innings, including a win-blown homer to Gene Tenace.

In other action Monday, Los Angeles shortstop Dave Anderson's throwing error allowed the winning run to score in the 10th inning as Montreal beat the Dodgers 7-6. Fernando Valenzuela pitched six innings for the Dodgers, allowing six hits and three runs.

German Barranca singled home the tie-breaking run in the 10th inning, leading Detroit to a 10-8 victory over the Boston Red Sox. In Clearwater, Fla., Gary Matthews hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-3 victory over the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

In Tampa, Fla., Bill Scherrer walked Ray Knight with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning to give Houston a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati.

In Pompano Beach, Fla., Texas scored two runs on Kansas City catcher Don Slaught's throwing error in the eighth inning and Larry Parrish added a run-scoring double as the Rangers beat the Royals 3-1.

In Palm Springs, Calif., Daryl Sconiers tripled home the tying and winning runs to cap a six-run eighth-inning rally that gave California a 10-9 victory over Cleveland.

In night action at San Juan, P.R., seventh-inning home runs by Gary Ward and Gary Gaetti carried the Minnesota Twins to an 8-7 comeback victory over the rest of the White Sox.

Three games were rained out — San Francisco-Oakland, San Diego-Seattle and Chicago-Cubs-Milwaukee.

4-H First Hand

4-H beef program in action at judging events, exhibits

BY BRAD MORRISON
County Extension Agent

Beyond souvenir stands, commercial and carnival attractions on the midway lie what many young people might call the "real action" at the fair: the junior livestock judging events and beef cattle exhibits.

Last year's fairs are only a memory now to many of the boys and girls in the 4-H beef program. To others, the experience is to come in the next month or two. Regardless of time, 4-H'ers who take part in judging contests get a real-life workout in decision making and confidence building that perhaps can never be duplicated.

Learn-by-doing experiences like judging and showmanship events are only part of the 4-H beef project. In a variety of projects supervised by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, 4-H members from 9 to 19 acquire breeding, feeding and management skills they can apply to caring for one or more beef animals.

4-H'ers also can earn awards and scholarships through the Texas 4-H Foundation, sponsored by the Independent Cattleman's Association of Texas.

A beginning beef project may involve raising one or more feeder calves to market weight, then selling them for a relatively quick return. More advanced 4-H cattlemen can undertake beef breeding and stocker-feeder projects. Whatever activity they choose, program members keep up to date on current trends in beef production and marketing.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Ann Landers

Deserve better treatment

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There has been so much written about herpes that I hope you don't toss this letter in the wastebasket the minute you see the word.

I've had herpes since I was six years of age. They were simple cold sores but herpes, nevertheless. Unfortunately, because of my ignorance, I spread it genitally, which you know can be done by touching the genitals with fingers that have come in contact with the cold sores around the mouth. But believe it or not, I am still a decent, worthwhile person.

The media have hyped the herpes virus to the point where I want to explode whenever I see yet another article or TV special that makes us look like a bunch of untouchables akin to the lepers of Biblical times. No one has mentioned that many herpes sufferers (like me) have outbreaks about three times a year during which we abstain from sexual activity. It is no different that being considerate enough not to kiss anyone when you have a cold sore.

I see no reason to announce that you have the disease unless that person might be affected by it. With the current hysteria, such information would label you a social outcast. There would be no chance to develop a solid relationship.

I have never infected anyone nor do I intend to take that chance, and if I hear one more herpes joke, I will scream. Please print this letter for those who have herpes and are living a fairly normal life. We deserve better than we have been getting. — Everytown, U.S.A.

DEAR U.S.A. (and may I include Canada?): I agree with your assessment of the media's treatment of herpes and hope your letter will put it in a more realistic context. Some herpes victims have written to say they have had only one attack, over two years ago, and are in perfect health. So let's take that scarlet letter off the backs of these people who may be thoroughly decent and want to play fair.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of an organization that awards as sale prizes trips to Florida, Hawaii or the Bahamas for just one person — no spouses

Chapter receives eight certificates

Los Ciboleros Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Alfred Smith, with Mrs. Charles Holt and D.D. Henslee as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Stanford Knox reported on the Texas State DAR Conference held in Galveston March 13-15. Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Luther Novell, and Mrs. Joe Reinauer Sr. attended the conference, at which the local chapter received eight certificates of award.

Mrs. Leroy Williamson, regent, presided at the meeting, opening with the DAR Ritual. Mrs. J.P. Jones led the pledge to the U.S. flag and the reading of the American's creed. Mrs. Merlin Kaul led the singing of the national anthem.

Mrs. Austin Rose Jr. gave the national defense report and recommended that members read the article, "REAL Security" in the March DAR magazine.

Mrs. Abel Ruga received the book, "Washington Walked Here" by Mollie Somerville, which is a history of Alexandria, Va. The chapter voted to donate the book to the Deaf Smith County Library.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to those already named and Mrs. Sue James, Jack Gilliland, T.J. Carter, Norville, Allo Reeve, Willo Ellison, and Garth Thomas.

The next meeting, on April 14, will be held at the Deaf Smith County Museum. The Hereford High School O.R.A.T.O.R.S. will present the program.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, March 22, the 81st day of 1983. There are 274 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On March 22, 1756, the English Parliament passed the Stamp Act to raise revenue in the American colonies.

On this date: In 1622, About 35 Virginians were killed in the first Indian massacre of European colonists in North America.

In 1794, Congress passed a law prohibiting American vessels from supplying slaves to another country.

In 1917, the United States became the first nation to recognize the provisional government in Russia — a government that would fall later in the year in the Bolshevik Revolution.

And, in 1945, the Arab League was founded in Cairo.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union agreed to cooperate in an American deep sea diving project by contributing $1 billion dollars a year and providing technical assistance.

Five years ago: High-wire expert Karl Wallenda was killed in a fall from a wire strung between two beachfront hotels in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

One year ago: The space shuttle Columbia blasted off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., in its third mission, this time with astronauts Jack Lousma and Gordon Fullerton aboard.

Today's birthdays: Former Commerce Secretary and Watergate figure Maurice Stans is 75. Utah Sen. Orrin Hatch is 49.

Thought for today: "A man's true wealth is the good he does in this world." — Mohammed, Arab prophet (570-632)

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Surgery for hemorrhoids?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've had a hemorrhoid since I was 15. Recently I had my first baby and it made the hemorrhoid much worse. It's not so painful now as it is an annoyance and uncomfortable, it is so large. I would like to know how you feel about surgical removal. I am dreading any more children.

Also, should I use stool softeners? Are they as harmful as laxatives? Sometimes I have a bowel movement only once a week and I have gone as long as a month with only one. Is this harmful to your system?

DEAR READER — Hemorrhoids are really varicose veins of the rectal area. Anything that compresses the veins above the area involved will cause the veins to become distended because they cannot empty properly. It is just like placing a constricting watchband around your wrist and watching the veins pop out over the back of your hand.

When a woman has a baby the pressure in the pelvic canal puts pressure on the veins above the hemorrhoid area. They can't drain and will pop out. Having children definitely does contribute to hemorrhoids and can make those already present worse.

If the hemorrhoid is small and not too troublesome the doctor usually prefers to wait to do surgery until a woman has completed her family. He gets better results that way, making both him and his patient happier.

When the hemorrhoid is unusually large or associated with other problems, then it might be well to correct the hemorrhoid even though future pregnancies are expected. Whether surgery, injections or even rubber bands are used to eliminate the hemorrhoid depends entirely on whether it is internal or external and any associated abnormalities.

Constipation can contribute to hemorrhoids, particularly if it leads to straining during a bowel movement. Stool softeners may indeed be helpful and are not the same as chemical stimulating laxatives. However, you do have an abnormal function of your bowels and should see a doctor for an examination and management program.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I thought I had hemorrhoids but the doctor said it was a fissure. He gave me some cortisone suppositories which helped the irritation. I had two refills and now he tells me there is no help for me, to take sitz baths as often as I can. I'm doing so, but it's been a month and the pain is still there. Is there any help for me that you know of? I am 70 years old and have had no bleeding.

DEAR READER — A fissure in the anal area is often thought by the patient to be hemorrhoids. It causes pain and itching and can cause some bleeding. The fissure is literally a crack or tear in the skin. It can be associated with painful bowel movements.

Some fissures can be successfully treated with conservative measures, usually used to reduce pain and spasm of the anal sphincter. Superficial fissures often heal during such treatment.

Registration will be held at the Community Center on Sat., March 26 from 10 am to 3 pm. Bring either this clipping or the one handed out at school.

DEAR POLLY — I have trouble with spray cans of things like starch, room freshener, etc. When the can is about three-fourths empty, I am not able to get the spray to work anymore. — MRS. A.L.B.

DEAR MRS. A.L.B. — I'm afraid this one has me stumped. I usually don't have this problem until the can is almost empty; then I try shaking the can before spraying, turning it upside down, etc. All these machinations seem to help a little bit, but I know there's always a little spray left anyway. Does anyone know of a surefire, foolproof way to get these cans to cough up the rest of their goods? Maybe this is a good reason to use pump sprays (which can be opened to empty the last little bit) and other nonaerosol containers! Help us out, readers. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have taped a number of favorite short stories and little books for my three-and-a-half-year-old grandson to listen to while I'm busy with other chores. They hold his attention and keep him busy, and he's fascinated at hearing grandma's voice telling his favorite stories on the tape. — BETTY

DEAR BETTY — I think this is a super way to fill in with a little personal contact during those moments when you're just too busy to sit down with the little ones and their favorite books. Your Pointer of the Week earns you an autographed copy of Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When turning out the light, close your eyes first. When you open them after turning off the light, you'll be able to see more easily, without experiencing that initial inky blackness. — MATTIE ANN

The Newspaper BIBLE

ARE YOU WILLING TO PAY THE PRICE?

Great crowds were following Jesus. He turned around and addressed them as follows:

"Anyone who wants to be My follower must love Me far more than he does his own father, mother, wife, children, brothers, or sisters—yes, more than his own life—otherwise He cannot be My disciple. And no one can be My disciple who does not carry his own cross and follow Me.

"But don't begin until you count the cost. For who would begin construction of a building without first getting estimates and then checking to see if he has enough money to pay the bills? Otherwise he might complete only the foundation before running out of funds. And then how everyone would laugh!

"See that fellow there?" they would mock. "He started that building and ran out of money before it was finished!"

"Or what king would ever dream of going to war without first sitting down with his counselors and discussing whether his army of 10,000 is strong enough to defeat the 20,000 men who are marching against him? If the decision is negative, then while the enemy troops are still far away, he will send a truce team to discuss terms of peace.

"So no one becomes My disciple unless he first sits down and counts his blessings—and then renounces them for Me!

"What good is salt that has lost its saltiness? Flavorless salt is fit for nothing—not even for fertilizer. It is worthless and must be thrown out. Listen well, if you would understand My meaning." Luke 14:25-35

Reagan aide admits politics talk with EPA official changing earlier story

WASHINGTON (AP) — The admission by a presidential aide that he held an extensive discussion on political races with an Environmental Protection Agency official will likely drive a House probe of the agency into a sharp turn toward the White House.

James M. Medas, White House special assistant for intergovernmental affairs, changed his earlier story and late Monday admitted that on July 13 he and then-EPA Assistant Administrator Rita M. Lavelle talked about several governors up for reelection.

Earlier in the day, he had said he and Ms. Lavelle held a discussion but discussed no campaigns except one in California.

Members of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on investigations were ready Monday to question Lavelle about her meeting with Medas, but the former EPA official defied a committee subpoena and failed to appear. The panel voted 8-0 to cite her for contempt, an action which could lead to criminal prosecution.

The committee members have been looking for evidence that the White House and the EPA used the $1.6 billion toxic waste "superfund" for political purposes.

Even before Medas' statement, several panel members said handwritten notes from the meeting taken by a Lavelle aide, confirmed political manipulation of the fund.

Medas gave his version of the meeting in a memorandum to White House spokesman Larry Speakes.

"At no time did I say, suggest or imply that EPA policies ought to be shaped to meet political considerations," Medas said. "As I discussed the procedures for dealing with governors and their staff, Lavelle would make political comments about individual governors."

"Although we discussed a number of races, the only race I recall we discussed in any detail was the California governor's race because of our mutual California background."

He said Ms. Lavelle requested the meeting, which lasted about 15 minutes.

Rep. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., who introduced the contempt resolution against Ms. Lavelle, said the July 13 meeting showed the White House was using the toxic dump cleanup program "to influence the outcome" of political campaigns.

A packet of documents made public by the panel included handwritten notes from the meeting taken by Susan Baldyga, the Lavelle assistant who was fired along with her boss last February. She was scheduled to testify, but was excused to obtain an attorney.

Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., told subcommittee members and a crowded hearing room that he had wanted to have Ms. Lavelle present at the hearing to explain why copies of his official 1982 campaign contributors list were found on her desk when her office was secured after her dismissal.

Ms. Lavelle was fired by President Reagan after she refused a request from EPA Administrator Anne McGill Burford to resign. The action followed sharp criticism by Ms. Lavelle of the agency's general counsel, Robert Perry.

Ms. Baldyga's notes of the Medas-Lavelle meeting included these references: —New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean, a Republican elected in 1981: "Help him all we can — new 'guy'."

—Bend over backwards" for Republican Gov. Richard Snelling of Vermont, re-elected last year; and for conservative Democrat Edward King, former Massachusetts governor defeated in his state's 1982 primary.

—Democratic Gov. Bob Graham of Florida, "very wary; takes shots all the time."

—Former Texas Gov. Bill Clements, a Republican defeated in 1982, "tough fight."

—Gov. Dick Thornburgh of Pennsylvania, re-elected last year: "real solid; only media market Republican."

—James Thompson, re-elected Illinois governor last year in a close race, "tough, very important."

—Lamar Alexander, re-elected Republican governor of Tennessee last year, "terrific; very important, former chief to Baker." Alexander once was an aide to Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn.
