Six Jonestown survivors shun press

NEW YORK (AP) — Six members of the Peoples Temple cult arrived here from Guyana on Saturday, and decided to stay in the city overnight when their departure for California was delayed by government officials' questioning.

The six are the second group of survivors of the mass suicide-murder at the Peoples Temple settlement in Jonestown, Guyana, to be brought to the United States.

When they arrived at Kennedy International Airport they were examined by doctors, and found to be in good health. Then other government officials, including FBI agents, questioned them.

The six had planned to fly to Los Angeles late Saturday, but they missed the plane. New York City's Department of Social Services said it was arranging for lodging for the survivors at an unidentified hotel.

The six were given the option of meeting with the press, but they refused, said FBI officials, who added they did not know when the cult members would leave New York. Thirty-one others were to arrive in New York from Guyana on Sunday.

"It will be enough just to be there for Christmas," said Edith Parks, 64, of Ukiah, Calif., before boarding a Pan Am flight to New York. Most of the cult members were from California.

Mrs. Parks' daughter-in-law, Patricia, was shot and killed along with California Congressman Leo J. Ryan and three journalists Nov. 18 as the group prepared to fly out from an airstrip near Jonestown.

Ryan had visited the settlement and its leader, the Rev. Jim Jones, to investigate charges that cult members were being held against their will. The airstrip attack occurred shortly before Jones ordered the mass suicide-murder in which he and more than 900 of his followers died, most by drinking a fruit drink laced with

Boat jammed with Vietnamese refugees sink, toll is high

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A boat packed with Vietnamese refugees sank in rough seas Saturday after being denied permission to land in Malaysia, drowning as many as 143 people, police said. The disaster pushed the number of similar refugee deaths in recent weeks past 330.

Police said 148 refugees were rescued, 44 bodies were recovered and 99 others were missing and feared drowned after the boat sank in the South China Sea off Pasir Puteh, 195 miles northeast of here.

The Malaysian Foreign Ministry announced, meanwhile, that the refugees still aboard the freighter Hai Hong, anchored off Port Klang west of here, will be allowed to leave the ship and settle temporarily in camps because the United States has promised to accept those who cannot find homes elsewhere.

The Hai Hong sailed into Port Klang Nov. 9 carrying about 2,500 people, mostly ethnic Chinese, looking for asylum. They were turned down by the Malaysians on the grounds that they had bought their way out of Vietnam and thus were not true refugees.

They sweltered for days on the tiny, rusty ship until Western nations, including Canada, West Germany and France, agreed to take some of them. The United States now is expected to end up with more than 1,000 of them.

Defense claims conspiratorial frame-up

Tapes may send Davis to prison

HOUSTON (AP) — After four stormy weeks, prosecutors are poised to rest a murder conspiracy case they insist should send a rich and powerful Texan to prison for life.

The target: Cullen Davis, 45, the millionaire czar of a worldwide business empire who fully intends to spend Christmas on Colorado ski slopes.

The charge: that Davis plotted the murder of the judge presiding over his

Fun Breakfast due to lure big crowd

A banner crowd, probably topping the first one, is expected to be in attendance Tuesday morning in the Howard College Cafeteria when another in a series of Fun Breakfasts will be served.

Although the event is co-sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and the Citizen's Federal Credit Union, those attending do not have to be members of the Chamber.

Over 200 persons attended the first Fun Breakfast, which was sponsored by Big Spring Savings and Loan Association.

Cash prizes will be offered both to Chamber members and those who are not affiliated with the organization. Games and music will keep the proceedings lively.

Harry Spannaus, a retired Air Force colonel who is now manager of the Big Spring Industrial Park, won the first Big Spring Award for service performed on behalf of the community. A second award will be made at the breakfast.

Reservations can be made at the Fun Breakfast by dialing 263-7641 no later than noon Monday.

divorce case.

The evidence: tape recordings of two summertime meetings between Davis and an FBI informant with suspicious memory lapses.

The defense: a conspiratorial frame-up orchestrated from within a $6 million mansion by a vindictive wife.

"I don't think this jury is going to be swayed by some defense conspiracy theory that depends on innuendo and happenstance and character assassination," said prosecutor Jack Strickland.

"I think jurors expected solid evidence from the state and we have given them solid evidence ..."

"I would think that a reasonable, intelligent, conscientious jury would not have any hesitation finding Mr. Davis guilty based on what they've seen over the past four weeks."

Mostly what they've seen and heard was testimony supporting audio and video tapes of the Aug. 20 parking lot rendezvous between Davis and a one-time pool-shooting crony named David McCrory.

But first ...

On that hot, muggy Saturday morning, the state contends, Davis drove from the home of his girlfriend to his Fort Worth office, opened the safe and removed an envelope containing $25,000.

Unaware of an FBI surveillance plane circling overhead, he drove a zig-zag route to the meeting with McCrory, who was wired for sound and armed with a .38 caliber pistol.

Beneath the McCrory car seat, wrapped in a white towel was a .22 Ruger pistol with a silencer attached. The mere possession of such a sound-muffling device is punishable in Texas by two-to-20 years in prison.

As Davis arrived at the parking lot, he spotted an unmarked van parked beside a building adjacent to the restaurant rendezvous point with McCrory.

He drove up and climbed from his Cadillac. He circled the suspicious vehicle, rapping on it once and attempting to look through the windows.

Blackout curtains concealed four FBI agents huddled inside the van. Their surveillance equipment included a videotape camera.

As he sat waiting to betray his one-time friend, McCrory watched with alarm while Davis inspected the undercover van. The burly informant pulled his pistol from his waistband and cocked it.

"He was scared to death," prosecutor Tolly Wilson disclosed late last week. "McCrory really thought he was going to have to kill Davis when Davis looked in the van."

"He thought Davis had caught him."

STAIRWAY TO HEAVEN? — A street sign next to the 300-acre Salt Lake City Cemetery points heavenward, calling to mind the words of English poet William Blake: "The cyanide.

An assistant police commissioner in Georgetown, Cecil A. Roberts, said Saturday some of the sect survivors — there are 72 in all — would have to remain in this South American nation because "we need people as witnesses."

"Some of them will be asked to assist us in the investigation. I don't have a figure. We are reviewing some that we will ask to stay on as witnesses," Roberts said.

Two men have been charged with murder in Jonestown-related slayings. Larry Layton, 32, of San Francisco is charged in the airstrip attack, and Charles F. Beikman, 43, of Indianapolis is charged with killing a sect member and her three children in Georgetown on the day of the mass poisonings.

Among the 31 people granted permission to leave Guyana Sunday was Thomas Beikman, Charles Beikman's 17-year-old son.

Those who left Saturday with Mrs. Parks were identified as Julius and Sandra Evans, both 30, and their children, Sonya, 11, Sharla, 7, and Shirella, 6, of San Francisco.

The Evans family walked out of the Jonestown settlement before the poisoning occurred. They refused to comment on why they decided to leave the camp that day. Evans said "persistence" led them to take a "long walk down the railroad track" to get out of the jungle settlement, 150 miles northwest of here.

Evans said he and his family intended to have "one of the best" Christmas celebrations ever.

'Ballad of the Green Berets'

Barry Sadler shoots, kills country-music songwriter

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Barry Sadler, who in 1966 recorded the "Ballad of the Green berets," fatally shot a country-music songwriter in apparent self-defense outside an apartment complex, police said Saturday.

Jim Sledge, a Metro Homicide detective, said no charges were filed against Sadler, 37, pending further investigation of the shooting Friday night.

Lee Emerson Bellamy, about 50, died in St. Thomas Hospital at Saturday morning about seven hours after the shooting, authorities said. Bellamy had been shot in the head, according to police.

The shooting occurred in the parking lot of an apartment complex in west Nashville, where Sadler was visiting an unidentified woman, Sledge said.

"It appears that Mr. Bellamy over the last two years had been harassing a young female," Sledge said. "It appears he may have gone to the apartment complex to continue the harassment."

He said that Bellamy took a gun from a van and that Sadler shot him one time. Bellamy possibly shot himself once in the head when he fell after being shot by Sadler, Sledge said.

"It appears self-defense," the detective said.

Homicide Sgt. Barry Touchstone said that detectives would confer with the district attorney's office and that the case would be presented to a grand jury, probably on Monday.

"Ballad of the Green Berets" a song about the U.S. Special Forces, sold 9 million singles and albums.

Sadler, an ex-paratrooper and former Green Beret, has turned from music to writing and recently completed a book on how to be successful in the music business.

Bellamy, who went by several names, including Lee Emerson Emery, wrote several country and western songs. Among his credits is "I Thought I Heard You Calling My Name," most recently recorded by Jessi Colter.

It's party time: Disloyal Democrats may feel boot

By WALT FINLEY
"Expulsion of disloyal precinct and county chairmen" was discussed by Texas Democrats in a special meeting in Austin.

Jane Ray, state committeewoman of the 30th Senatorial District, who attended the meeting, noted that Dallas and Galveston counties had already ousted precinct and county chairmen because they did not support the Democratic nominees in the general election.

D.A. Brazel, Howard

County Democratic "war-horse" pushed through a "party purity" resolution at the state convention in Fort Worth earlier this year.

Mrs. Ray says Texas Democrats think they have as much right to celebrate the Nov. 7 election as the Republicans.

"Let Bill Clements have his day because he is going to have an inauguration only one time," said Sandra Davis, member of the State Democratic Executive Committee. She moved that Democrats hold a "victory" reception on the day the legislature opens, Jan. 9, instead of competing with Clements' supporters at the Jan. 16 inauguration. Excess profits from the $25-per-couple Democratic affair will go into the state party treasury.

"This is still a Democratic state," said Travis County Commissioner Ann Richards. "Lots of Democrats want to celebrate the election of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Attorney General Mark White and the election of the majority of the officials of Texas."

"I wonder how many Democrats will come to the inauguration anyway," said committee member Carrin Patman, Ganado. "It will be a readymade crew at the inauguration balls."

Attorney General John Hill, who lost to Clements by about 16,000 votes, warned the state Democratic committee in its special session that Clements would try to exploit the governor's office for the benefit of the Republican Party.

Hill noted that Clements has said he was dedicated to the defeat of President Carter in 1980.

"This is a clear warning you can expect the governor office to be used the next two years to fight the national Democratic ticket," Hill said. "That's why we need to fight harder and stick together closer over the next two years."

Later, at the urging of State Democratic Chairman Billy Goldberg, the committee approved the creation of a watchdog or "Monitoring" committee.

"One of the things we want to watch for is to see where the millions of dollars come from to pay off Clements' campaign loans and how this relates to state business ... He's in the drilling business and this committee needs to examine drilling permits closely and what his company is doing."

Television reportage of the election had its humorous moments.

Dan Rather, of all people told us: "The United States Senate will not be without a woman when it convenes next January."

Even Walter Cronkite got mixed up and forgot the name of a candidate. He recovered nicely by kidding referring to a colleague as "What's-his-name on my left."

The candidates themselves were bone-tired when the results finally were in and they showed it.

A reporter asked Mike Synar, who snared a Congressional seat in the second district in Oklahoma, a question and he said: "In response to that, I'd just like to say..." stopped, turned to the reporter and asked, "What was the question?"

Sen. Charles Percy told the viewers: "This has been a humbling experience. When you're 17 points behind with eight days to go, believe me, that's humbling."

Cronkite and his new team related some funny incidents concerning the candidates.

Gov. Lamm of Colorado was re-elected after repeatedly telling the voters:

"It is better to bear the ills we have than to fly to what we know not of."

The elected governor of Wisconsin, who resembles the Great Gildersleeve, redid a bus to look like a locomotive and toured the state with a college band.

Former mayor of Tulsa, George E. Norvell, asks:

"Was the dirtiest campaign in the country conducted in Texas?"

"Did one candidate circulate a paper that said his opponent was a boozier and a womanizer?"

"And did the opponent retaliate by saying his opponent was a draft-dodger, a 'Little Lord Fauntleroy' who should have toured the USOs and read poetry?"

And I once thought Okie politics was rough. My reply to George: No comment.

As for me, now that we've elected all these candidates to office, I'm looking forward to all my troubles being over.

They're going to cure inflation, lower our taxes, reduce the crime rate and stop wars. How do I know? They told me so. Ever since Nov. 7, I've been going around singing:

They all love me, this I know, Just because they told me so.

Yeah man, they love me, Yeah man, they love...

I'm going to have to think of an ending. The only thing that occurs to me is a little cynical:

But more than that, They love my dough.

Former Herald carrier now delivers news on TV

By MARJ CARPENTER

Jack Bowen was a Big Spring Herald newspaper carrier when he grew up in Big Spring. In fact he delivered Big Spring Herald for more than eight years.

This may have been his first contact in the field of mass communications, but he's gone a long way from there. He recently has supplied numerous stories that have been used on ABC television Good Morning America and on the evening news with Reasoner and Walters.

Jack began his television career at KWAB as a cameraman and working as a sportscaster. He also worked at KLBK in Lubbock.

He was on the dean's list at both Howard College and Texas Tech. Back in Big Spring High, he was a photographer for the high school annual, member of the Key Club, Bible Club, Latin Club and also served as a delegate to the American Legion Boys State where he was elected State Land Commissioner.

Back in those days, he piled honors on top of honors as he was president of the National Honor Society at Big Spring High and in the Who's Who. He was also selected Young Texan of the month by the Hi Noon Optimist club at that time because of his 93 academic average and his qualities of leadership.

Those qualities have led him into quite a television career thus far.

While at Texas Tech, he also was youth director at Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church. When he finished at Tech in 1971, he took off for El Paso where he again was in television at KJLP and on the side was director of a high school group at the First Baptist Church.

Then he went to Oklahoma City where he became morning anchorman and reporter for KOCO.

During the past year, he has had a lot of success, and won a first in Oklahoma in Associated Press for the best television feature on a new type eye surgery. He won a United Press International best television documentary about federal and private efforts to kill coyotes. He won a spot news award from the esteemed Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity and won a citation from the governor of Oklahoma and the Department of Energy for his energy-saving series of reports.

He was also selected one of the outstanding Young Men of America for 1977 for demonstrating excellence in professional and civic endeavors.

Jack, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Bowen, 1714 Purdue, married the former Linda Darlene Fenley, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.I. Fenley, 624 Settles. They have a three-year-old daughter, Rhonda and reside at 7304 Norman Road in Oklahoma City.

Jack has come a long way since the days when he worked on the Goliad Junior High annual staff and stuck Big Spring Herald in the front doors of his customers. Watch for his name on television specials in ABC.

School grades hassle

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, wants to stop Texas schools from automatically promoting pupils from one grade to the other, regardless of their grades.

The pre-filed bill would require basic proficiency tests in reading, writing, mathematics, social science and natural science for each grade level. No student could be promoted or given a diploma without demonstrating a minimum level of achievement on the tests.

"A large number of students graduating from high school have shown a lack of even a very basic knowledge of the three Rs," Mengden said. "While some people have suggested that the fault may be with incompetent teachers, I think the real blame needs to be laid at the doorsteps of those school districts that automatically promote all or most students."

Mengden said he had no statewide figures, but he knew that the Goose Creek district in Baytown passes 99 percent of all pupils in grades one through eight, "even with poor academic performance."

DISCUSSING HERITAGE — Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reid, Joe Sullivan, Mrs. Glenn Brown and Mr. Brown are shown at the Stanton civic barbecue Saturday when the two museums were being dedicated in a special day of history and West Texas heritage.

New museum opens in Martin County

By MARJ CARPENTER
Martin County is enthused about preserving their history.

This was obvious Saturday as they held an opening for the new Martin County Historical Museum, a civic luncheon and a ribbon-cutting at the Old Jail Museum, which had become overcrowded.

At the luncheon, Mrs. Glenn Brown, long active in Martin County Historical preservation, served as the mistress of ceremonies.

She spoke briefly on the importance of heritage and history and pointed out, "A successful life is when one has something to do, someone to love and something to hope for. We need to think and plan as though we are going to live forever but live each day as though it might be our last."

Also speaking were Mrs. Stanley (June) Reid, curator, and Mrs. Alex Haggard, chairman of the Martin County Historical Commission.

Fireman killed

BORGER, Texas (AP) — A 33-year-old fireman died Saturday morning while fighting a multi-alarm blaze at the Elks Lodge in Borger. Three other firemen were burned trying to rescue their comrade.

The victim was Billy Sanders. Other firemen said the building collapsed on him about two hours after the fire was reported.

Shortly after the fire broke out, a fireman said, a liquor cabinet "exploded like a blow torch" out the front door. Officials estimated the damage at $100,000 and were trying to determine what started the fire.

Sanders is survived by his wife and a six-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Mondale will deliver key address

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The wife of Vice President Walter Mondale will deliver the keynote address Sunday night for a national symposium on government and the Humanities.

Her topic will be "A Time for Thinking Things Over." Other speakers during the three-day event sponsored by the University of Texas and the Lyndon B. Johnson Library include Charles Frankel, director and president of the National Humanities Center, and Joseph D. Duffey, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Joan Mondale was named last winter by President Carter as honorary chairman of the Federal Council on Arts and the Humanities. In her travels since then she has advocated direct government grants and subsidies to artists and craftsmen and a larger budget for the National Endowment for the Arts. She also has called for tax breaks for artists, including reinstating deductions for studios and donations of their works to museums.

Income tax deadline

Corporations operating on a calendar year basis must make their fourth quarterly installment payment of 1978 income tax by Friday, Dec. 15, if the corporations have expected tax liabilities of at least $40 for the year.

These payments must be accompanied by FTD Form 503 and deposited in authorized commercial banks or Federal Reserve Banks, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The estimated tax and the amount of each installment can be computed on a Form 1120-W which is a worksheet for computing corporation estimated income tax. This form is not filed with the IRS but is retained in the corporation's records.

Supplies of Form 1120-W and a helpful pamphlet, IRS Publication 542, "Corporations and the Federal Income Tax," are available free from local IRS offices.

Inflation may trim Christmas gift lists

By the Associated Press
Dec. 3, 1977. Twenty-two days until Christmas. Why not get Dad a silk tie? Only $5.50 at Brooks Brothers. People are talking about protests and Vietnam. The rate of inflation? What's that?

Dec. 3, 1978. Again, 22 days until Christmas. A Brooks Brothers silk tie is $12.50. People are talking about prices and value. The rate of inflation? Almost 10 percent a year.

1977 was the year the government decided to use as a base for the Consumer Price Index. Make 1977 equal to 100. We will measure inflation against that standard.

Last week came the announcement: The Consumer Price Index for October was 200.9. Things cost twice as much as they did in 1967.

"God awful," said Alfred Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability and President Carter's chief inflation fighter.

"I'm cutting my Christmas card list down and holding my gifts to a limit," said Emelie Snyder of Overland Park, Kan. "I'm trying to find gifts that people need or can use... I'm going to make some clothes for my granddaughter's Christmas gift rather than buy them. You have to look for value for your dollar...."

People like Mrs. Snyder make it hard for the experts to predict what will happen to retail sales. "I think everybody is up in the air about Christmas," said Suzanne Holmes, a retail analyst at Loeb Rhoades Hornblower & Co.

The president said Thursday that he believes his administration "will be successful in leveling off the rate of inflation and then in bringing it down." He also said that if he had to make a choice between continuing the fight against inflation and a second term in the White House, he would continue the fight.

Inflation does not flower overnight. It creeps up on you. Wages rise along with prices. You get a promotion or a new job. Move ahead one step. You have a new baby. Back to juggling the budget.

A government survey released about a month ago showed that while wages for the typical full-time worker increased 43 percent from 1973 to May 1978, prices went up even faster. The average worker's buying power actually went down 3 percent.

James and Angie Peters of Dallas, Ga., interviewed by The Associated Press six months ago and again late in November, know how inflation can eat up a raise. Six months ago, Peters, 27, a truck operator for Georgia Power Co., and his wife, an eighth-grade math teacher, also 27, had an annual income of $20,000. Now, their earnings total $21,000 — about a third more than the U.S. median family income.

But the extra money has not made it easier for Mrs. Peters to balance the family budget. "I buy just the bare minimum," she said. "In winter, I spend about $20 a week on food. I split the food with the heat bill and I have to have money left over for the gas bill...."

The food segment of the Consumer Price Index is higher than the index as a whole; it stood at 217.3 in October. The automobile segment, in contrast, was only 154.7.

But knowing the statistics does little to lessen the blow when you go out to buy a new car. You don't shop for an automobile every week the way you do for food. You don't keep track of the prices.

WELCOME SIGNS — The flags and the windmill outside the new Martin County Museum denote welcome to West Texans who can take a few moments to review the history of Stanton and the surrounding area. The facility was officially opened Saturday.

Christmas concert by school kids will be presented today

A Christmas concert by elementary school children, assisted by other groups, will be presented at 3 p.m. today in the city auditorium.

The four elementary music teachers directing the event are Mrs. Joyce Bradley, Mrs. Jo Hazel Dawson, Mrs. Linda Mason and Mrs. Kathleen Tedesco.

Ken Sorinkle, Howard

College, will present a vocal solo and a puppet show will be presented by Kelly Draper and Charles Parham. The public is invited to attend.

Chances to slow inflation rated poor

The chances for the anti-inflation program instituted by the Carter Administration to succeed are rated poor.

Labor and the captains of industry are ignoring Carter's appeal for voluntary wage and price controls, doubtlessly because each questions the sincerity of the other.

Carter's proposals, when unveiled, carried with them his admission that the plan "can work, but will take time."

EVEN HIS anti-inflation captain, Alfred Kahn, concedes that the game plan is off to an unusually slow start. "I'm still learning the names and numbers of all the players," is the way Kahn puts it.

Carter's critics, of course, have always been vocal. They've predicted from the start Carter's proposal is a plane that won't fly.

Some economists say Carter's credit-tightening and dollar-propping moves are much more significant because they are legitimate rules. Guidelines without proper implementation, they remind us, won't work.

On all levels, organized labor has berated the plan, suspicious that the teeth within the guidelines would only serve to chew it up.

Some labor leaders within Texas contend management will use the seven per cent wage increase limit to restrict labor salaries. At least one representative of the Teamsters urged his people to exercise caution before demanding a proposed 43 per cent wage boost in 1979, a figure not even close to the seven per cent level.

Nationally, labor chieftains are talking about ten per cent wage increases, which would, in effect, ignore Carter's proposals.

MANAGEMENT DOESN'T see much hope of living within the plan. A 45-page "fact book" issued to business leaders is a remote cry from the simplified voluntary plan Carter talks about.

Carter hasn't exactly been shooting straight. He tells of a voluntary plan, but also warns of the punishments which can be incurred if business fails to abide by the limitations.

There is no doubt but that the people who are responsible for living within the various limitations either have no intentions of conforming or are uncertain of how to go about it.

Carter's grand design may not be doomed but it has a suspicious look about it.

Evans, Novak

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Without lifting a finger, Ronald Reagan was a weighty presence with surprising credibility as the party's presumptive 1980 presidential nominee at the soporific meeting here of the Republican governors.

Reagan's credibility was starkly evident from the meekness — a derivative of self-defense — of non-Reaganite governors, here in profusion from the politically-centrist band of industrial states running from Pennsylvania across the Great Lakes to Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa.

That, self-defense, rooted in political reality, was comprised of two elements in roughly equal parts: Reagan's in-place organizational strength, which now reaches deep into Republican soil with a few conspicuous exceptions like Pennsylvania; and the lack of any practical, even visible anti-Reagan strategy by moderate governors. Lacking an alternative, many of these governors as of today look on the nomination as Reagan's to win — or to lose.

"Reagan got a handful of delegates in my state in 1976," one Midwest Republican moderate told us here. "Today he'd get 75 percent of them."

AN EASTERN MODERATE agreed. "Reagan's got the non-primary states wired," he told us. "Show me a horse we can back and we might make a race of it, but you can't name the horse."

During a confidential chat at breakfast Monday, four governors analyzed the party's 1980 nomination. Govs. Pete DuPont of Delaware, and two newly-elected governors, Reps. Al Quie of Minnesota and Charles Thone of Nebraska, agreed that if the 67-year-old Reagan can maneuver through the 1979 minefields undamaged and enter the 1980 primary season with something like his present strength, his momentum may be irresistible. The holdout was the respected Gov.-elect Richard Thornburgh of Pennsylvania — but not even Thornburgh suggested the outline of any strategic plan for stopping Reagan.

To exploit his credibility as 1980 nominee from the always vulnerable front-runner position, Reagan operatives have been assiduously courting both the old and the new among the current crop of Republican governors, expanded from 12 to 18 in the November election, as well as the titular party leader, former President Gerald Ford. At lunch in Palm Springs Oct. 4, Reagan informed Ford that he definitely will be a candidate.

That followed Reagan's courtship of Ford — in an effort to end their 1976 feud — during two joint appearances in Texas on Sept. 12, when both campaigned for William Clements, now the Texas governor-elect. Party insiders say that Ford accepted the unsurprising news about Reagan's candidacy quietly, making no effort to change his mind.

But Reagan's private word to Ford that he will definitely run ended all pretense by the former president that he and Reagan would both renounce 1980 ambitions and pool their resources to find a "fresh, new face" (to quote a Ford intimate) to lead a unified Republican party. Ford had hinted at just such a joint effort in a handwritten note to Reagan on Sept. 14, two days after Reagan's peace bid, in which he praised Reagan's 1978 campaign effort and spoke of a "common cause" between Ford and Reagan to fortify and unite the party together.

The next move in the unequal Ford-Reagan rivalry, with Reagan having the whip hand, is now up to Ford.

REAGAN'S CREDIBILITY WAS STARKLY EVIDENT FROM THE MEENESS — A DERIVATIVE OF SELF-DEFENSE — OF NON-REAGANITE GOVERNORS, HERE IN PROFUSION FROM THE POLITICALLY-CENTRIST BAND OF INDUSTRIAL STATES RUNNING FROM PENNSYLVANIA ACROSS THE GREAT LAKES TO WISCONSIN, MINNESOTA AND IOWA.

Emergency room medicine has limitations

By the late George C. Thosteson, M.D., in collaboration with Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A month ago, I was awakened at about 2 a.m. by a terrible pain in my knee. It felt like it was being hit by a hammer. I had to be taken to the emergency room. X-rays showed no injury, but my knee was swollen, tender, and reddened. Tests for arthritis were negative. The doctor gave me penicillin and a medication to take called Butazolidin. So far I've taken it and the knee still bothers me. I will be 58 soon. What do you make of this? What can I do to help? — R.C.

I'll get to your specific questions later, but first I'd like to comment on what I suspect is a common error — that of failing to follow up on emergency medicine. Yours seems a classic case. Often, many questions remain after the emergency is over. Then it is time to see the private physician to try to find the answers. That usually is not the role of emergency room medicine.

What you had sounds very much like an attack of gout — the sudden painful attack and night, the soreness and the redness of the joint. The Butazolidin is a brand of phenylbutazone, which besides being anti-inflammatory has mild uric acid lowering effects. Uric acid is the substance which in excess may cause gout.

If it is gout, the present program will not help greatly. You may need blood tests to determine the acid level and most likely other drugs more effective in keeping it under control. Nor can the possibility of arthritis be discounted. You may have developing gouty arthritis, which can affect a single joint this way. Emergency rooms at 2 a.m. in the morning are not places to expect thorough diagnosis.

Dear Doctor: How long does one have shingles before knowing it? And how does one know? And how does one know if one does have it? You have mentioned the need to know early and to get treatment soon. — Mrs. G. T.

You have hit on one of the unfortunate aspects of shingles — the fact that diagnosis often comes too late for effective treatment. Too bad, especially since recent research has led to effective drug combinations.

Brought into play soon enough they can prevent long months, sometimes years of post-shingles pain. As anyone who has had it can tell you, the pain can be intense, especially among elderly victims.

An early symptom is fever, along with chills and general malaise that precede the actual breaking out of blisters, which are like tiny blisters. There may be vague pain along the line of the nerve involved. This is usually in the chest area, but is by no means limited to that. It may appear on the face or the legs even.

The drugs (combinations of tranquilizers) may help even after the blisters appear and shingles is definitely diagnosed, but the earlier the better. Then it is important to stay in general good health with proper diet and rest, even after the shingles blisters have disappeared. Not doing so can make a reappearance of the shingles pain more likely. I talk about this all too common and most unpleasant ailment in the booklet, "Facts About Shingles." If you'd like a copy, send 20 cents to cover printing and handling to me in care of The Big Spring Herald. I still have copies available. Enclose a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am on the Pill. I've been told it is wise to use a contraceptive foam to be absolutely sure. Is the Pill alone enough protection? — M.A.

The Pill is enough. Taken properly (on schedule) failures are practically nonexistent. If you are careless about the Pill I'm afraid the foams won't be a sufficient back-up contraceptive anyway. It is way down in the list of alternatives. If you need a back-up, the condom is best.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a relative who has had three-fourths of each ovary removed. She claims she can still have children. I say she can't.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: The Christian life seems to me to be a continuous fight against evil. How can I be strong enough to win this fight? — H. S.

DEAR H. S.: The victory that David experienced in his fight against Goliath was made possible by the faith he expressed when he said: "The battle is the Lord's" (I Samuel 17:47). Once David realized that he did not have to fight in his own strength, then he knew that any kind of weapon would do — even a shepherd's sling.

The same is true today in the Christian's fight against the forces of evil in the world. The battle is still the Lord's and must be fought in His strength. That is why Paul refers to

Who is correct? — L. H. She is. She may still be able to ovulate (produce eggs) from the remaining sections of ovaries providing they and the tubes are healthy.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of The Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 62. I recently developed a numbness in my right hand. I complained to my husband about it, but he shrugged and said he thinks it is just poor circulation. My blood pressure is fine or at least it was at a checkup a few months ago. Do you feel it is just poor circulation? — M.V.

Could be, but I rather doubt it. Numbness of this kind is more often a matter of nerve disturbance, specifically of something pressing against a nerve and closing off supply to the wrist. You need X-rays of the wrist and neck areas to find out if it is a local nerve problem.

Dear Dr. T.: A dermatologist gave me an antihistamine pill prescription for my hives. I took one pill and was unable to see for a short period, and I was dizzy. Please advise about such reactions and whether this means one cannot use such pills. — C.C.M.

Antihistamines can disturb eyesight, particularly depth perception. They may also cause dizziness. It is well to be extra careful.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

the battle in the words: "Fight the good fight of faith" (I Timothy 6:12). Always see the battle as a fight of faith. Your strength lies in the strength of your faith. When Paul lists the armor that the Christian is to wear in the fight, he says: "Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked" (Ephesians 6:16). If you want to be a strong Christian in God's battle, then, strengthen your faith. Bring your mind to bear on the teaching of Scripture and believe it with all your heart. Learn to pray the prayer of faith — the prayer that expects answers and has no trace of doubt lurking behind it.

Looked other way

Around the rim

Walt Finley

I'm just sitting here eating oranges and recalling the time Oklahoma beat Texas 52-13 in 1973 in the Cotton Bowl.

That was the day Marj Carpenter was at the State Fair of Texas but reported she opted to see a play in the Music Hall and thereby, avoided witnessing the massacre.

It was also the year the Dallas-Times Herald headlined the event thusly: "Big Tex Was So Embarrassed Today He Looked The Other Way!"

Apparently enthused by an enthusiastic reception, former President Nixon flew to Florida Sunday.

Where he was met with enthusiasm by Bebe Rebozo?

PSYCHOLOGY TODAY says almost half of clinical psychologists surveyed would choose a different career if they had their lives to live over again.

"I wonder how many of their patients would choose a different psychologist if they had it to do over again?" asked the Herald's good-with-the-figures Kay Bradford.

A friend, whose wife was in the hospital, says it's the noisiest place she's ever been.

Her room was outside the nurses' station and the loud conversations, laughter and clatter could be clearly heard in her room even when the door was closed. At night and in the wee hours of morning when the patients were trying to sleep, the cleaning crews came in with their power vacuums and waxers.

I have an additional observation. The medical profession is always preaching about the dangers of smoking but when my wife was in the hospital, we couldn't help but notice how many doctors and nurses smoke. Also there is no ban on visitors smoking and the smell of all that smoke can't help but be obnoxious to a patient who doesn't want to breathe it.

Hospitals are no place for sick people.

DAVID BATTERSON WROTE an article for TV News entitled "Pilots In Holding Pattern." It's too long to rerun the whole thing but here are two of them and I'll get to the others later — maybe.

The first idea for a TV program is called "Directory."

This gigantic undertaking is a 427-hour maxi-series based on the complete New York directory. It will include stories, vignettes and mini-documentaries on every listing in the Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island directories, not including Yellow Pages.

"With the cost estimated at $550 million, this massive project will make the 'Centennial' series look like the daytime 'Gong Show.'"

"The first episode will start with Aardvark, Anthony A., a Candlewick maker at Consolidated Candles of Brooklyn, and the series will end with Zzyze, Zachariah Z., a Bowery bum who dabbles in Zen."

The second pilot is called "On Your Toes."

"This toe-tappin' tale stars, Jose Greco as Fob Bossy, a dancer in a carabret troupe who moonlights as a private gunshoe. It's ideal work for him since it involves lots of legwork, provides a few kicks and keeps him ankle-deep in excitement."

"Greco usually solves the case with little violence but in the case of a real mean character, he simply does the Mexican hat dance on his face. Costarring is Marge Champion as Irma D. Iscoer, his distaff dancin' partner."

Don't put all the blame on me folks. The article was mailed to me by my hippie son, Kim Finley, from Santa Barbara, Calif.

TODAY'S JOKE is supplied by intrepid reporter, John Edwards, former courthouse reporter for the Herald, now slaving as city hall reporter for the El Paso Herald-Post:

The lawyer for a gangster on trial for murder somehow gained access to one juror and promised him $5,000 if he would hold out for a verdict of manslaughter. After being out a long time, the jury brought in the desired verdict. As he made the payout, the lawyer said, "You must have had a hard time."

"You'd better believe it," replied the juror. "The others wanted to acquit him and I had to talk them out of it."

My wife, Velma, who celebrated her birthday Friday with John Edwards and this paste-pot man, has a friend who teaches a reading clinic and she asked one of her students a synonym for "support."

His prompt reply was "Alimony."

ANDY FURMAN, Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, sports publicist, tells this on Kevin Sherb, the school's new assistant volleyball coach.

Sherb was sent to St. Louis to scout a tournament there, got lost and ended up at the wrong school.

That's one scout who should have had a little old lady help him across the street.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

In the interest of the people of Big Spring, we would like to inform the public of the many varied learning activities that are done in the Big Spring public schools' kindergarten.

This kindergarten operates on the theory that there are major areas of learning. These are social, psychological and academic development. Each area is equally important.

While much is known of the social development and interaction achieved by the kindergarten child, much less is known by the public of the psychological and academic goals set for the five-year-old.

There are three primary psychological goals. The first is to provide an environment that helps develop a child's identity or his self-confidence and self image. The second goal is to give a child stimulation or to teach him that learning is fun and is a rewarding thing to do. The third is security. This starts in the home. It is the warm comfortable feeling where new adventures are not frightening things. We try to branch that security out into being comfortable in new school adventures as well.

The psychological and social activities used in our kindergarten work together to build a competent and healthy individual. We feel that this is the base on which all academic learning stands. Statistics show that 85 per cent of all people who lose their jobs don't lose them because of the lack of education or ability, but due to poor social behavior as shown by frequent absences, tardiness and inability to get along with fellow workers.

After the psychological and social goals have been met, then the academic learning can take place. This process of learning and the actual learning is proved at the end of the school year, when most of the children can read words and simple sentences by learning phonics.

This is accomplished with the help of the J.B. Lippencott 'Beginning to Read' series. Most of the children are afraid to state the very facts that our forefathers started our nation on, Religious Freedom. Freedom not just for the ones who wish to brain wash our people with suicidal worship of a (man)? but freedom to once again be bold, and faithful to tell it like it is, faithful to proclaim Christ as the risen Savior of a lost and dying world, faith to proclaim His unfailing love and mercy to all who believe and call upon His name.

This kind of freedom must once again be a daily, weekly, monthly, constant practice in America if we do not wish to see mass suicides, brainwashed and misguided people of all ages following after some power-crazed self appointed (idol) who only wants self gain, and could care less about the lives and misery that he causes any who might be gullible enough to follow him. If we would once again proclaim the Truths of God's promises in His Word, things like this would not be nearly so apt to happen. True the devil will constantly have his followers busy about his business, all the more reason we should not rest to carry on the Truth that this great nation was founded upon.

If we once again truly had, and practiced the religious freedom that our country was founded upon, a love for our fellowmen and people everywhere would not just be a seasonal thing, but it would be in fashion all the time, anywhere, and everywhere. Let us truly consider how much freedom we have left, and how much we have lost, let us try to preserve what we have left, and through prayer and practice, with God's help regain that which we have lost in America. This Christmas season let us truly put Christ back in Christmas, and in our hearts, lives, and back in our nation, then let us spread His love throughout the universe.

I am a member of old Co. D 117th Supply Train of the Rainbow Division of 1917 that was organized in Big Spring and assigned to the division at the outset of WWI and remained with it until the end of the conflict.

Are there any of the boys still around? I last heard from Red Steel at Midland and he said he and I are the only two left of the 100 men that composed Co. D.

SAYRE, Okla. (AP) — Ted Estes was so angry at getting a speeding ticket that he donated $500 to buy the town's police new uniforms.

Estes, a local businessman, was cited a week ago by officer Charles Midkiff for driving 42 mph in a 25 mph zone. He tried to talk Midkiff out of the ticket, and accused him of writing citations only to generate city revenue.

"I said, 'If that's the case, we wouldn't be going around buying our own uniforms,'" Midkiff said he told Estes.

ITALIAN COURT FINES SOPHIA — A Rome prosecutor demanded Saturday, fines of almost $20 million against actress Sophia Loren and $35 million against her film-producer husband, Carlo Ponti, for alleged illegal transfer of money abroad. A law passed in 1976 forbids export of capital or other valuable from Italy, and provides prison terms for violators. The Pontis' are resident citizens of France, and French law does not allow extradition of citizens from France.

Agency decentralization will aid traveling Texans

COLLEGE STATION — The chairman of the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission said agency decentralization will best serve future needs of traveling Texans.

"In my opinion, the principal thrust should not be at Brazos and 11th streets in Austin, but in district offices," remarked Chairman Reagan Houston. "It will require strengthening of our field forces."

Houston said that with the statewide system of highways "virtually complete," future efforts will center on maintenance and restoration. "These are basically problems that are local in nature," he observed.

Vieira draws duty in Florida

MARK VIEIRA

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Mark C. Vieira, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelino R. Vieira of 2504 Broadway, Big Spring, has been assigned to Corry Field, Fla., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland AFB, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Vieira will now receive specialized training in the communications analysis field. The airman is a 1977 graduate of Big Spring High School.

Weatherman ends cruise

Navy Airman Terry W. Weatherman, whose wife, Teela, is the daughter of Jerry O. and Eddie M. McCormick of 3234 Drexel, Big Spring, recently returned from an extended deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

He is a crew member aboard the aircraft carrier USS Forrestal, homeported in Mayport, Fla., and operated as a unit of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

During the six and one-half month cruise, his ship participated in various training exercises with other Sixth Fleet units and those of allied nations, including the major NATO exercises "National Week XXV," "Open Gate" and "Display Determination." Port visits were made in several Mediterranean coastal cities.

The Forrestal is 990 feet long and displaces 78,000 tons fully loaded. She carries a crew of 2,790 officers and enlisted men, plus 2,150 personnel assigned to an attack aircraft wing. She has the capability of carrying 85 jet aircraft and can travel at speeds to 33 knots. Weatherman joined the Navy in May 1976.

Jonestown papers

Cult leader blocked police investigation

JONESTOWN, Guyana (AP) — Suicide cult leader Jim Jones and his senior aides had Guyana's top law enforcement official stop an impending police investigation of the Jonestown settlement earlier this year, according to material contained in 120 pages of Jones' personal papers acquired by The Associated Press.

Jones helped repay this and other favors from the Guyanese government by having his Peoples Temple followers become deeply involved in local party politics. He even agreed to have his more than 1,000 followers vote illegally on the side of the ruling People's National Congress party in an important referendum last July, according to the papers.

The wheeling and dealing by Jones' aides amongst senior government ministers and officials in socialist, tightly-controlled Guyana was an echo of his activities in San Francisco where for a time the cult leader was a valued ally, able to bring disciplined forces to vote as a bloc in political campaigns.

But the documents discovered by one of the first to reach Jones' jungle settlement after the mass suicide-murder that took more than 900 lives indicate his ambitions grew and he attempted to manipulate national policy in Guyana.

One memo to Jones dated March 7 this year said that at the request of the Peoples Temple, the Cuban embassy asked Prime Minister Forbes Burnham to reinstate fired Foreign Minister Fred Wills, who was a cult confidant. Burnham didn't do it, but an official told Jones' aides that he was not upset by their gesture.

The Associated Press tried for one week without success to get comment from the Guyanese officials mentioned in the Jonestown papers.

The documents show that the major recurring concern of Jones' people was the possibility of a police investigation prompted by newspaper probes in the United States.

When the demand for an investigation was first taken up in Guyana by former cabinet minister Brindley Benn last Christmas, Jones' top aide in Georgetown, Sharon Amos, personally demanded he retract the request. When Benn stubbornly persevered in his probe demands in the pages of his party newspaper, Mrs. Amos started spreading the Word that Benn had asked the U.S. Embassy "for CIA aid to overthrow the government of Guyana."

The official spearheading the investigation drive was Police Commissioner Lloyd Barker. In April this year Barker told Mrs. Amos and other aides that he intended traveling to the Jonestown settlement to investigate it.

Unable to dissuade Barker, the Peoples Temple aides sought help from former foreign minister Frederick R. Wills, whose name frequently crops up in the documents as an adviser on political, legal and social matters. He was removed from office in January this year.

The Jones aides took this information to another apparent confidant, Barker's superior Home Affairs Minister Claude V. Mingo, responsible for police and national security. They told him of the explosive incident and also, according to Miss Touchette, "we told him what Barker had said about coming up to investigate us. We were tired of investigations, could he do something about this?"

Midland gains highway funds

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State funds are available for a public transportation capital improvement grant for Midland, the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission said Friday.

The state will provide $24,024 or 13 percent of the cost of a project that involves the purchase of seven new 15-passenger vans. Local funding will be $12,936 while the federal government will furnish $147,840.

Local man nominated for administrative plum

Dr. Earnest S. Morgan has been nominated by the local Texas Classroom Teachers Association (TCTA) for the TCTA Administrator of the Year honor. The award will be presented in Galveston at the TCTA Convention on Feb. 15-17. He was chosen over five other local nominees.

Morgan has been principal of Lakeview Elementary since 1958 and is currently director of Head Start for this area. He is also an instructor at Howard College evening school.

Morgan is a life member of the Texas State Teachers Association and the National Education Association. He is also past president of District 18 Elementary Principals' Association, Vice-President of the West Texas Head Start Directors Association, Consultant for Early Childhood Education with the Regional Training Office at Texas Tech and a volunteer on the Public Responsibility Committee at the Big Spring State Hospital.

His first principal position was the DePriest School in Hamlin, Texas from 1949 to

DR. EARNEST S. MORGAN

1959. The purpose of the Administrator of the Year Award is to honor outstanding school administrators and to project a clear picture of what classroom teachers feel typifies a good administrator. Big Spring is in the B category of the contest with a school system enrollment of 5,044.

The award winner will be selected by the TCTA Committee of Judge Awards appointed by the president.

Americans to pay more for fuel?

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans will pay more to fuel their cars and furnaces next year if the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries votes as expected later this month to raise the price of crude oil.

But the increase will probably be spread out over the next year, observers say, to soften the effect of a price rise on the struggling U.S. dollar — the currency the cartel does business in.

"If their rise affects the dollar negatively, they may lose whatever gain they had from the price increase," said John Lichtblau, executive director of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, an industry group. "If the dollar declines they can buy less with their dollars in other countries."

An OPEC increase would mean a further rise in the prices of gasoline and heating oil in the United States. Prices of these products are already rising as a result of supply shortages caused by high gasoline demand this year.

The 13 OPEC nations are scheduled to meet Dec. 16 in Abu Dhabi to discuss the price increase, which, if approved, would be the first since a 5 percent boost in 1976. A proposal to raise the price a year ago fell through unexpectedly when Saudi Arabia and Iran, OPEC's two largest members, raised opposition.

But those two nations are now believed willing to go along with an increase to make up what OPEC nations have lost in the past 18 months as a result of the dollar's tumble in foreign exchange markets.

A usually well-informed Kuwaiti newspaper reported last week that the price increase would come in four increments of 2 percent each, one in each quarter of 1979.

That ties in with a statement by Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani earlier this year, who said a series of small increases now would be necessary to avoid huge increases in the next decade.

Yamani last week reiterated that statement and hinted he might favor a freeze in prices, which most experts doubt will be approved.

The report in the Kuwaiti newspaper, Al Watan, also generally agreed with a prediction Nov. 22 by U.S. Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal that the increase would total no more than 8 percent.

The current rise in prices has the cost of premium leaded gasoline up to 76.5 cents a gallon in Los Angeles, for example, and 70.9 cents a gallon in Boston. Local prices are affected by individual supply problems and other factors. The national average is about 72.6 cents a gallon. And heating-oil prices are as high as 55 cents a gallon in some parts of the Northeast.

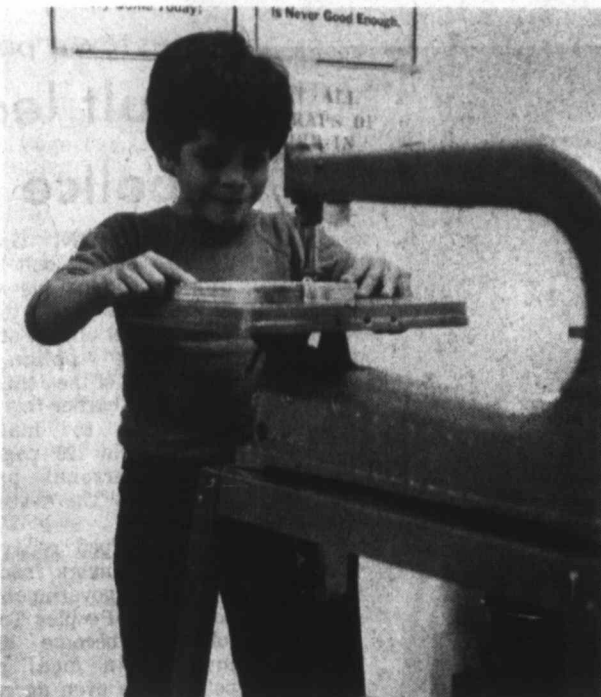

Deceptive ads banned

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A New Jersey-based vending machine company operating in Nueces and Hidalgo counties agreed Friday to abide by the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

Attorney General John Hill said the order was issued by Nueces County District Judge Harold Thomas and involved Uniserv International Corp., Larry E. Thornton and Charles Rubio.

Hill said the defendants were enjoined from representing through advertisements that no investment or purchase is necessary to participate in Uniserv's distributorship; and from representing through advertisements and oral presentations that a consumer can expect a guaranteed income.

Midland firm to drill Howard County venture

Florida Gas Exploration Co., Midland, will drill the No. 1-32 Stella Petty, a 10,500-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Howard County.

The site is 3/4-mile south of the Moore (San Andres) field, but separated by failures, 1 1/4 miles north and slightly west of a 10,125-foot failure and four miles south-west of Big Spring.

Location is 2,080 feet from the north and 660 feet from the west lines of 33-33-15-T&P.

The failure, Amerada Petroleum Corp. No. Blanche Lester, abandoned

Sept. 16, 1958, picked the following tops on ground elevation of 2,541 feet; Strawn, 9,360 feet; Mississippian, 9,684 feet; Siluro-Devonian, 9,958 feet; and Ellenburger, 10,110 feet.

Knox Industries Inc., announced plans to plug and abandon No. 1 Waddell, Waddell, Strawn and Ellenburger, a wildcat, in Borden County.

The well is located 1,800 feet from the north and 660 feet from the west lines of 23-30 on T & P, 15 miles north of Gail.

U.S. will invite nations of world to Tulsa oil show

The United States government will officially invite all nations of the world to attend and participate in the International Petroleum Exposition at Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 10-13, 1979.

A resolution passed by Congress and signed by President Carter authorizes the president and State Department to issue such invitations to participate in and attend the Tulsa Oil Show, according to John M. Houchin, president.

The Tulsa event founded in 1923, has had United States Government recognition nearly every show since 1928, when President Calvin Coolidge pressed a button in Washington to start a simulated gusher to open the exposition in Tulsa.

"The IPE, now billed as an onshore exposition, will be an international event, with attendance of oil men from every state in the Union and over 60 nations of the world, if past history repeats itself," said Houchin.

Sixty-five per cent of drilling-production budgets are onshore; 90 per cent of drilling rigs running in the United States are onshore; the majority of production is onshore, including enhanced production; most of the pipelines and refineries are onshore."

Ray never received payoff, panel says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Louis Stokes' assessment is that his House assassinations committee found "the outlines of a conspiracy" in which James Earl Ray killed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. for a $50,000 bounty.

But Stokes, the committee's chairman, conceded to reporters as the committee concluded its public hearings Friday that it had not filled in those outlines with proof.

The committee did not corroborate a St. Louis man's story that a prominent patent attorney offered $50,000 for King's murder.

It produced no proof for its theory that Ray's brothers may have been involved in the conspiracy or that they at least unknowingly helped Ray escape.

And the committee concluded that if Ray did assassinate King in Memphis on April 4, 1968, for $50,000, he never got the payoff.

The committee's inability to either prove or disprove a conspiracy was not from lack of trying. Chief counsel G. Robert Blakey said 31 staff investigators conducted 2,686 interviews, heard 168 witnesses and issued 260 subpoenas.

Now, Blakey said, there is little hope that further evidence will be found. "In candor," he said, "the realistic expectation of a major breakthrough in this area is small."

With the King hearings finished, the committee's two-year, $5.8 million investigation of the assassinations of King and President John Kennedy is nearly completed.

Earlier hearings found no conspiracy in Kennedy's assassination. The committee plans to issue final conclusions on both cases in a report at the end of the month.

The final stage of King inquiry was displayed in four weeks of public hearings exploring the possibility of a conspiracy, the evidence against Ray and the conduct of the King investigation. Besides sketching the outlines of a possible conspiracy, the committee:

—Produced no new proof that Ray in fact assassinated King, although witnesses said Ray implied to them that he was the assassin.

—Demolished Ray's alibi that he was blocks away in a service station when King was assassinated.

—Concluded the FBI's investigation of King's assassination was flawed by not making "a concerted effort to check the possibility of a Ray family conspiracy in the assassination."

—Concluded there is no substance to speculation the FBI was directly or indirectly involved in King's murder, even though the FBI admits harassing the civil rights leader.

Ray, who pleaded guilty to King's assassination and was sentenced to 99 years in prison, now says he was framed.

'The Jesus Factor'

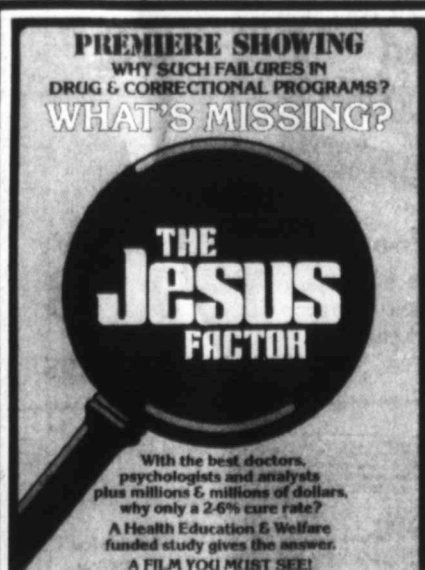

A film detailing the success story of the most successful drug treatment program in the United States.

WILL BE SHOWN AT—

CHRIST'S FELLOWSHIP CENTER

CORNER OF FM 700 AND 11th. PLACE

At 7 P.M. Dec. 3

The 45-minute documentary film is introduced by Charles Colson, convicted former advisor to President Richard M. Nixon, and tells the story of a government sponsored research project into the effectiveness of the Teen Challenge program for drug-addicts and alcoholics. Dr. Catherine Hess, who relates the results of the research, tells of her own skepticism of Teen Challenge up until the time that the study showed what she called "startling" results.

"The Jesus Factor" was filmed at the Teen Challenge Training Center in Rehoboth and shows the young men going through the program, in their classrooms, work areas, the chapel and during a graduation exercise. In addition, some of the students share on film how Teen Challenge's Christ-centered focus has made the difference in their lives.

The government study spoken of in the film was conducted by National Opinion Research Center in 1975 under the direction of Dr. Hess. The movie contrasts the 2 to 5 per cent success rates of government sponsored projects with the 70 per cent success rate of Teen Challenge as disclosed by the study.

The pastor Phil Thurmond said the showing of the film is free to the public. Nursery provided.

Lone Star Boy Scout leaders honored

The reward for working with boys comes from knowing you have helped a lad, not from special recognition. Bob Hurt, chairman of the Lone Star Boy Scout district told the annual district banquet group Friday evening. Nevertheless, it is well to acknowledge special achievement and service, he said.

Thus, top honors went to young men who attained the highest rank of Eagle during the past year, and to Clem Jones and Jeannine Lewis for the Certificate of Merit.

The affair was held in the Cactus Room of Howard College, and served as the installation for new officers including Hurt; Oren Lewis, program; Larry Speck, membership; and Jerry Phillips, commissioner.

Spotlighted for having attained the Eagle rank were Allen Bristol, Troop No. 5 (Bill Bradford, scoutmaster), now at Air Force Academy; Mike McDonald and Kim Long, Troop No. 16, (Bill Mims, scoutmaster); Tim Freeze, Jim Freeze, Charles Burk and Dave Hamill, Troop No. 401 (Charles Burks and Bill Priebe, scoutmasters); Bill Little and Mark Garrett, Troop No. 1776 (Austin Ferguson, scoutmaster). Each was presented a Scout mug.

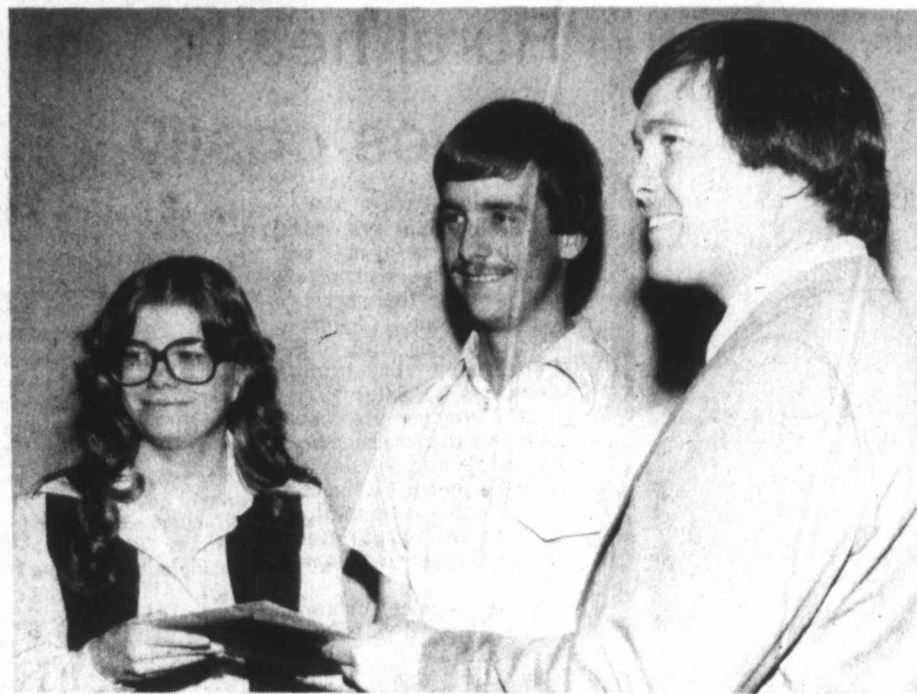

The merit awards went to Jones and Mrs. Lewis for extra service. Jones is a past chairman of deacons, teacher and superintendent in his church, served on troop committees, two years as district chairman and assistant district chairman, is in Order of Arrow. Mrs. Lewis, veteran of 12 years in scouting, holds den mother's, Scouter's training award and the Scouting Wood Badge, has served as dean mother and Cub training leader, as well as being active in the PTA and in her church.

Recognized for project or special achievement were Bill Priebe, exposition; Mike McCracken, Cub Pinewood Derby; Nancy Doolin and Jeannine Lewis, Cub training and day camp; Loren Lewis, Roundtable and O.A. advisor; Larry Speck, Scout chairman; Hayes Stripling, finance; Mike Brunner, Indian seminar; Frances Ferguson, health and safety. Training awards went to Nancy Doolin, Dave Reynolds and Bob Doolin. Dr. Akin Simpson, who organized an Explorer veterinary medicine post with 15 members, and Bill McCree received Lamplighter awards for new units. Mrs. Doolin and Mrs. Lewis lived the program with costumed, fun awards.

Loren Lewis, 4712 Parkway, in charge of program for the Lone Star District of Scouting, is looking for adults who want to make an investment in boys.

Men are needed in the monthly Roundtable sessions where Scout leaders are given information and program helps. Adults (as well as boys) are needed in the projected Indian Dance team project; women are needed in Cubbing and in Exploring units.

WING SCHOLARSHIPS — Debra Watkins and John K. Wolf are receiving their Ricky Klahr Scholarships to Howard College from Terry Newman, dean of students. The fund is for students taking courses in the law enforcement program and is named for the young police dispatcher who died in 1977.

Wolf, Watkins win Klahr scholarships at HC

John K. Wolf and Debra Watkins have been named as recipients of scholarships from the Ricky Klahr Scholarship Fund at Howard College.

John K. Wolf, a 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School, is enrolled as a freshman in the Howard College Law Enforcement program. He is the son of Lt. and Mrs. John A. Wolf, Jr. of Big Spring.

Debra Watkins graduated from McCamey High School in 1977. She is currently enrolled in the Law Enforcement program and has maintained a 3.5 grade point average. Debra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Watkins of McCamey.

The Ricky Klahr Memorial Scholarship Fund was established at Howard College on August 3, 1977, to honor the memory of Ricky Klahr and to aid worthy students in furthering their college education. Klahr died at age 24 on August 3, 1977, after a seven year battle with Hodgkin's disease. He was a police dispatcher and former patrolman with the Big Spring Police Department until his death. He attended Howard College under the Law Enforcement program.

Donations for this fund will be accepted from any interested citizen or group who wish to honor the memory of Ricky Klahr. Donations should be made through the Howard College Financial Aid Office.

Cathey places in rodeo

Wacey Cathey, professional cowboy from Coahoma, earned third place in Friday's opening night of the bull riding in the 20th National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City, Okla., according to his mother, Mrs. Bobby Cathey. Quail Dobbs, Coahoma clown is also working the rodeo as barrel clown.

"Wacey took third in the first go-round, behind Monty Taylor and Butch Kirby," said Mrs. Cathey. "He will ride every night, and said when he called Friday that his Saturday night bull was a good draw."

Cathey is competing in his second National Finals Rodeo, the first being in 1976.

The World Champion Cowboy in each event will be determined by the points contestants earn in the 11 nights of the rodeo.

Cathey qualified as the 12th of 15 bull riders competing in the prestigious rodeo, as a result of the money earnings racked up by Cathey during the year.

Dobbs was voted by rodeo contestants to be the barrel clown for the NFR. Although he has clowning the rodeo several different years, this will be his first year as barrel clown.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Fort Worth banker has been indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with a $45,000 loan that prosecutors claim was used to "aid and abet" the distribution of cocaine.

George Thompson III, who resigned Wednesday as chairman of Ridglea Bank on the city's affluent west side, was named in the indictment returned Friday by the grand jury in Dallas.

The indictment accuses Thompson of approving a $45,000 loan on March 9, 1977, to Michael E. Welch and alleges that Thompson "knowingly aided and abetted Michael E. Welch in knowingly and intentionally possessing with the intent to distribute and in distributing cocaine."

U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon will arraign Thompson Dec. 8.

Thompson caused the bank to fail to file a report of payment of currency in excess of $10,000 to the Internal Revenue Service as required by federal law, according to the indictment.

Failure to file the report, when done in connection with further violations of federal law, carries a maximum punishment of $500,000 fine and/or five years in prison.

Welch was sentenced Nov. 3 to three years in prison by Mahon plus three years parole for conspiracy to distribute marijuana, a controlled substance.

Ridglea Bank announced Thompson's resignation was "for personal reasons" and he has been unavailable for comment.

He had served as chairman of the bank since 1974 and is a former Fort Worth city councilman.

Three bank executives appeared before the grand jury earlier this week and some bank records were subpoenaed.

Rural health clinics costly

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Federally approved rural health clinics could cost Texas taxpayers about $25 million over the next two years, Jerome Chapman, commissioner of the Department of Human Resources said Saturday.

"The cost per unit would be higher than we have been paying for medical services to the indigent," Chapman told a Senate subcommittee studying the federal Rural Health Clinic Services Act of 1977.

Eddie Bernice Johnson, Dallas, regional director of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, also told the committee that in order for rural patients in Texas to receive full benefits there would have to be a change in state law concerning the supervision of nurses and doctor's assistants by Texas physicians.

Chapman said he would like to receive specific authorization from the 1979 Legislature before implementing the federal authorization for rural health clinics.

"In the past the legislature has questioned if we have authority to start broad new programs without a legislative mandate," he said.

The federal act provides for ambulatory clinics in rural areas. It proposes that many of the services would be performed by nurse practitioners and physician assistants who would be reimbursed by federal and state funds.

Staff members of the Department of Human Resources presented figures to show that only 12,636 of Texas' 20,259 physicians now take part in the medical services program for the indigent (Medicaid).

"In other words your statistics show that private physicians are not taking care of those who need medical attention," said Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, who conducted Saturday's hearing. "That's why we need rural health clinics."

Earlier, Dr. Mario E. Ramirez, Rio Grande City, president-elect of the Texas Medical Association, testified that the TMA was not opposed to establishment of rural health clinics but "we insist that proper medical supervision be mandatory." He said the TMA felt a licensed physician needed to be "reasonably available at all times to see that the acts are properly performed and he has to remain legally responsible for the care of patients."

Ms. Johnson said Saturday that under present Texas laws physician assistants and nurses may function only under "the direct over-the-shoulder supervision of a physician due to very restrictive state laws governing the practice of medicine... because of these limitations, the intent of the Rural Health Clinic Service Act largely has not been realized in Texas."

She said there was great need for the clinics with a total of 173 counties classified as "fully medically underserved areas" with another 55 counties classified as partially medically underserved.

"That is a tremendous need which surely this great state of Texas can manage to accommodate," she said.

Texas freshmen receive tips

Carter congratulates Stenholm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas' newly-elected congressmen began making their presence felt in Capitol Hill this week, electing one of their own — Lubbock's Kent Hance — as temporary chairman of the Freshman Democratic Caucus.

Hance, who will replace the retiring dean of the House, George Mahon, will hold the leadership post only through Feb. 1 and agreed not to pursue the position after that date.

The 35-year-old Hance, with the solid backing of the six other freshman Democrats from Texas, was elected unanimously by the 42-member caucus late Friday night.

"We just needed someone to organize the meetings we'll be having during the next few days with the other caucuses and the leadership," explained Marvin Leath, one of only three Texas representatives-elect with previous Washington experience. Leath served as an aide to the man he replaced, Rep. W.R. "Bob" Poage.

By chairing the caucus until February, Hance will serve as spokesman for the freshmen during the crucial Democratic Caucus that begins Monday. All-important committee assignments will be determined by the caucus.

The freshman Democrats began orientation sessions Friday.

After a morning session on Washington real estate, the group was bused to the White House for afternoon meetings with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, Secretary of Defense Harold Brown and national security advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski.

President Carter capped the session by meeting with the group.

"I came away from the White House convinced that the President is serious about doing something about inflation and cutting the budget deficit," said Rep-elect Charles Stenholm of Stamford.

The President congratulated me on my election... And he said he thought we did some damage to someone's presidential hopes," said Hance referring to his defeat of George Bush's son in the general election.

Concerning the fifty price tags attached to Washington real estate, Stenholm said, "They tell you the fire is hot but you've still got to stick your finger in and find out."

"It's shocking," noted Rep-elect Joe Wyatt of Corpus Christi, who was more interested in finding a dentist than a realtor.

"This is the first tooth ache I've had in two years," he added before attending a noon luncheon Saturday hosted by House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill.

On Friday, Rep. Jim Mattox of Dallas, who chaired the freshman caucus last session, gave advice on fund-raising techniques and how to organize a freshman caucus.

Rep. Tom Foley of Washington, the current chairman of the Democratic Caucus, explained that while the caucus cannot bind a member to a floor vote, it can — and will — throw its weight around in regard to committee assignments.

"Your constituents gave you the right to vote on the floor, but the caucus gives you the right to sit on a committee," he said.

Saturday, the freshmen met in closed sessions with the House leadership including O'Neill, Foley, Majority Leader Jim Wright and whips John Brademas of Indiana and Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois.

While the Democrats met on Capitol Hill, the Republicans held their orientation at a hotel about 25 miles away.

Texas Tom Loeffler and Ron Paul were among the group.

Like most of his fellow Texas freshmen, Loeffler said he was trying to hire a staff and set up his office during breaks in the orientation sessions.

The Republicans brought in the accounting firm of Peat Marwick Mitchell and Co. to lecture on "maximizing your time and energies" along with two psychologists to discuss "adjusting to the demands of the new job" and "family considerations."

The orientations for Democrats and Republicans alike were put into context by a congressman from Maryland who said: "We all come up here thinking we're going to change the world but our reelection depends more on whether Aunt Tillie gets her Social Security check back home than anything else."

Moslem zealots machine-gunned

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Dressed like the dead and chanting "Allah is Great!", anti-shah protesters poured through the streets of downtown Tehran Saturday, but were scattered by heavily armed soldiers in a bloody start to Moharram, the Moslem holy month chosen by the opposition as the time of reckoning in Iran.

The government said seven people were killed Friday night and two others Saturday, mostly in the city's bazaar area. But diplomatic sources said 20 people died Friday night when soldiers machine-gunned Moslem zealots as they poured from a mosque after curfew. And opposition sources put the total number of dead at 70.

Many more were injured in the street battles. Tanker trucks were washing blood from downtown streets Saturday morning.

The rioting, which erupted after dusk Friday, resumed shortly after dawn Saturday. Troops with bayonets clashed with thousands of young protesters who waved clenched fists and black Islamic banners and shouted, "Murderers! Murderers!"

Some wore "kafan," the white sheets in which the dead are buried in Moslem

Iran, to show they were not afraid to die.

There were no reports of clashes in provincial cities Saturday, but the official Pars news agency said one person was killed and 12 were wounded by army gunfire in the Persian Gulf port of Bushehr Friday night. In the southern industrial city of Isfahan, reliable sources said protesters clashed with troops Friday night.

Widespread violence has been predicted for Moharram, a month of mourning. The orthodox Moslem opposition to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's rule has called for strikes and giant street demonstrations.

The military government, fearing religious zeal during Moharram will be whipped into the kind of anti-government rioting that already has claimed more than 1,100 lives this year, banned religious processions during the holiday and said it would crush street disorders "mercilessly."

The exiled Ayatullah Rohollah Khomeini, spiritual leader of Iran's 32 million Shiite Moslems and symbol of the antishah movement, had called for a general strike starting Saturday.

Wildcats located in Borden, Howard, Sterling, Martin

Wildcats were scheduled in Borden county and confirmers in Howard, Sterling and Martin Counties this week.

Davis Oil Co., Houston, will drill the No. 1 A, Mardes Clayton, a 10,000-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Borden County, 1 1/2 miles southwest of the depleted Gail, North (Spraberry) and AP (Ellenburger) field, 2 1/2 miles east of the one-well Lamb (Spraberry) field 1/2 mile north of a 99,306-foot failure and nine miles northwest of Gail.

Location is 1,320 feet from the north and 660 feet from the west lines of 28-31-6N-T&P. Ground elevation is 2,685 feet.

The AP opener, Anderson-Prichard No. 1 Clayton, et al was finished Oct. 21, 1958 to pump 136 barrels of 39 gravity oil, no water, through perforations at 9,048-9,064 feet.

The Gail, North opener, H.L. Hunt No. 1-B Clayton and Johnson was finished Dec. 3, 1948 to pump 40 barrels of 41 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 400-1, through perforations at 5,730-45 feet.

The failure, Hunt No. 1 Clayton, was abandoned Dec. 31, 1958. The following tops were picked on elevation of 2,730 feet; Strawn 5,414 feet; Mississippi, 8,414 feet and Ellenburger, 9,228 feet.

Cotton Petroleum Corp., Midland, will drill the No. 1-B Clayton, as a 9,990-foot Fusselman wildcat in Borden County, 1/2 miles southeast of Fusselman production in the Good, Southeast (Fusselman and Canyon reef) field, but separated by depleted producers and 11 1/2 miles southwest of Gail.

Location is 660 feet from the north and 990 feet from the east lines of 28-32-4N-T&P. Ground elevation is 2,530 feet.

The Good, Southeast field produces from the Fusselman at 9,892 feet and from the Canyon reef at 8,123 feet.

IN HOWARD COUNTY, the Vincent multipay field gained its eighth lower Clearford producer with completion of Harper & Lawless, Midland, No. 5 W.S. Cole, surrounded by that pay and 22 miles northeast of Big Spring, to pump 111 barrels of 26 gravity oil, plus one barrel of water, with gas-oil ratio of 298-1.

Production was through 4,341-400 feet, which had been acidized with 3,000 gallons. It was drilled to 4,415 where 44 inch casing was set.

Location is 1,067 feet from the north and 2,665 feet from the west lines of 14-26-H&T.C. The field has one Canyon well on schedule which shows not to be producing at the present.

IN MARTIN COUNTY, BTA Oil Producers, Midland, will drill the No. 11-F 7422 JV-S Mustang as a 1/2-mile southwest outpost to the three-well Wolfcamp area of the portion of the Lacoff multipay field, 20 miles northwest of Lenora.

Location is 1,320 feet from the south and 467 feet from the east lines of 3-7-University Lands. Contract depth is 10,100 feet.

Dean production was extended one mile south-southeast in the Martin County portion of the Hutex (Dean, Devonian and Bend) field with completion of Rial Oil Co., Midland, No. 1-40 University, 27 miles northwest of Stanton for a daily pumping potential of 48 barrels of 40 gravity oil, plus 32 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 750-1.

Production was through perforations at 8,472-497 feet, which had been acidized with 1,500 gallons and fractured with 467 barrels of oil and 40,000 pounds of sand.

Drilled to 10,150 feet, with 4 1/2-inch casing set at 9,824 feet, it is plugged back to 9,270 feet.

Location is 660 feet from the north and 1,980 feet from the east lines of 40-7 University.

IN STERLING COUNTY, THE Deck (Cisco oil and gas) field gained its current fifth oil producer and a 1/2-mile south extension to that pay with completion of Ike Lovelady, Inc., Midland, No. 2 Mahaffey, 19 miles southwest of Sterling City, to pump 111 barrels of 43.2 gravity oil, plus 14 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 2,520-1.

Production was through perforations at 8,041-274 feet, which had been acidized with 2,500 gallons and fractured with 51,000 gallons and 82,000 pounds of sand.

Drilled to 8,350 feet, where 5 1/2-inch casing was set, it is plugged back to 8,312 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from the south and east lines of 34-2-T&P.

$2.4 billion spending hike voted

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Legislative Budget Board approved a 1980-81 budget recommendation Friday that would increase spending of state taxes by $2.4 billion and leave little room for further tax cuts.

Despite the magnitude of the increases, they mainly cover inflation in the cost of government and growth in programs that swell as the population rises, a board staffer said.

The $2.4 billion accounts for nearly all the state's anticipated growth revenue and, if approved by the Legislature in 1979, would leave almost nothing for the tax cuts proposed by Gov.-elect Bill Clements.

A board staff member said only about $80 million would be left over, while Clements wants $1 billion in tax cuts.

Speaker Bill Clayton said it might be possible to milk $300 million to $400 million from the budget for tax relief.

Legislative action on appropriations always uses the board's recommendation as its starting point. Board recommendations carry considerable weight because its members include the speaker, lieutenant governor and chairmen of key committees dealing with state finances.

Final budget figures will be issued after the board's staff completes its work product, but preliminary estimates indicate the budget proposal will total $19 billion for two years, counting federal funds.

Bill Wells, assistant director of the board staff, said the budget is basically a stand-pat document.

"I think you can say we have not expanded into new areas," Wells said. "We have provided for the necessary growth of existing programs."

Last-minute decisions by the board concerning public education piled $1 billion onto decisions previously made and, evidently, sent messages both to Clements and the Texas State Teachers Association.

The board recommended: —Holding local shares of Foundation School Program costs — the "Local Fund Assignment" — at current levels, which added $269 million to the bill.

—Teacher pay raises of 5.1 percent per year, the same as those recommended for state employees, which added $330 million.

—Appropriation of $450 million to cover the losses school districts will suffer from tax cuts mandated by the "Tax Relief Amendment." The money had been promised during the 1978 special legislative session.

Clayton said, however, only about $330 million probably will be required for this.

Religious film to be offered

The Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church will host a film "Jesus if Lord" on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the school cafeteria south of the church at 1009 Hearn.

The title of the film was the theme of the 1977 Kansas City Conference, which was the largest ecumenical gathering in many years.

The public is invited to view the film here Thursday.

Council meets again Tuesday

STANTON — The Stanton city council will meet with Gordon Stone and Sam Baker Tuesday evening on matters concerning access to the Stanton airport property and construction on that property. The meeting gets under way at 7:30 p.m.

The councilman will also open bids on surplus city vehicles and various urban renewal lots after approving bills and reports for November.

Santa to stop at Coahoma

In a message to the Coahoma Fire Department, Santa Claus informed them that he will be making a stop at the Coahoma Fire Station Monday, Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m. Santa has also made arrangements with Coahoma Fire Chief Brian Jensen for all the kids to get a ride on the fire truck while Santa is in Coahoma. Santa reminds Coahoma children to be especially good and he will see them at the Coahoma Fire Station.

Jury convicts honor Bible student of rape in Abilene

ABILENE — William Ted Wilhoit, 25, was convicted here Friday in 104th District Court of raping a 26-year-old Abilene housewife and sentenced to a 40-year prison term.

The jury deliberated 3½ hours before returning the verdict. The alleged act occurred Sept. 20 in the woman's home.

At the time of the alleged crime, Wilhoit was an honor Bible student at Abilene Christian University and was scheduled to preach the following Sunday in an Abilene church.

Judge Neil Daniel said he did not say when Wilhoit might be eligible for parole.

The Big Spring State Hospital will conduct its 36th alcoholism seminar on Friday, Dec. 8. It will be held in the auditorium at the Big Spring State Hospital.

These seminars are made possible through the Big Spring State Hospital and are being held in conjunction with Howard College.

James Olson, Ph.D., Chairman of Psychology, and Drug Consultant, Odessa, will be the consultant for this day-long seminar.

This seminar will be of interest to those working in the field of alcoholism and to those of the general public, who are interested in learning more about the problem.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m., and the general session at 9 a.m. A registration fee of $1 will be charged with an additional charge of $1 for those wishing to receive Continuing Education Units from Howard College. The persons wishing to receive credit for attendance will be expected to remain the entire day.

The theme for the day will be "Alternative Approach and its Use in Treating Adolescent Drug Misuse." Additional information may be obtained from Clyde J. Alsop, training officer, Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Program, Big Spring State Hospital.

Rusty O'Donnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Poe, Northeast Second, is recuperating from internal injuries he incurred during a two-vehicle accident in Midland, Wednesday.

O'Donnell, who was a passenger in one of the vehicles, is in Midland Memorial Hospital. The accident occurred at the intersection of Florida and Big Spring Streets.

Blood drive scheduled

Howard College will hold a blood drive from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Student Union Building.

The students have taken the day as their responsibility to help meet blood needs for patients in area hospitals.

"Why should you give?" one college student asked. They point out, "Ask yourself this, if your life depended on someone taking 30 minutes to give a pint of blood, would you understand when your neighbor says, 'I would, but I just don't have time right now.'"

The students at Howard college invite the public to attend their blood drive day.

Mandatory retirement age changed by regents

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — University of Texas System employees can continue working until age 70, the UT Board of Regents has decided.

The regents changed the mandatory retirement age from 65 during their Friday meeting. The age limit applies to fulltime officers, administrators, faculty members and employees at the system's 12 institutions.

Persons older than 70 may qualify for modified service on individual review. Modified employment means no more than one-half the employee's regular workload.

The regents also named James W. Wagener president of the University of Texas at San Antonio. He has been acting president since Jan. 1.

Wagener replaces Peter T. Flawn, who returned to UT-Austin after five years as president of the San Antonio campus. The new administrator is a native of Edgewood and holds a Ph.D. in history and philosophy of education from UT-Austin.

In other matters, the governing board:

—Authorized a study of renovating Battle Hall on the UT-Austin campus. The 1911 building was designed by architect Cass Gilbert.

—Approved preliminary plans for a $1.65 million preservation project on the "Custer House" at UT-Austin's Little Campus. The building was occupied for a few months after the Civil War by General George Custer.

Let me count the ways with Marj Carpenter

When Elizabeth Barrett Browning wrote the poem, "How do I love thee? Let me count the ways," she was talking about a man, not a town — but that's the way I feel about Big Spring today.

There is no way I can start to thank the people who did so much for me this week with a reception at Citizen's Credit Union, a reception at the Big Spring Country Club hosted by so many good friends, the wonderful friends who are giving me such a good send-off full of love... what can I say?

Equally important to me are the many people who have called, sent notes of remembrance or dropped by. I'll be here until Christmas and hope to get around to seeing everybody before I go.

The honors from the kids — such as the band award and a floral arrangement from the Big Spring High Student Council are appreciated so much. Since I've been made both an honorary member of the band and the Big Spring High exes association, I'll have to come back.

All of us have ups and downs in our life, and I've had a bunch of those downs. And it's a wonderful feeling to have such an up, an emotional high about a wonderful bunch of friends and folks.

I've been thinking a lot the last few days about the little things I will miss about Big Spring.

I will miss the Herald and the people there. I will miss Danny Valdes and his Volkswagen. I will miss my church and the teen-aged Sunday School group. Very much. They are the best in the West.

I will miss the chimes at First United Methodist Church. Some people hate them, but I love them and set my watch by them. I probably will never know what time it is in Atlanta.

I will miss the friendly joshing I take from the Aggies and Red Raiders because I'm a Longhorn fan. And I may have people here who believe I am a rambling wreck but I might have a hard time becoming a Rambling Wreck from Georgia Tech.

I will miss the bright sunny autumn days, the tingle of the first northers and the way spring battles to survive. I will miss the small rural areas and their intense pride and history and wonderful people.

I will miss the police, sheriff's office deputies and state troopers, the liquor control office, the Texas ranger and all the others who fight a lonely battle out there to keep us folks safe. You have been so kind to me, even if you did once report to one of my superiors that I said an earthy word in the police station.

I will miss the city, county, industrial park, school, chamber and college officials, who give endlessly of their time and receive endlessly of people's complaints. If you can find it in your heart to get off their backs now and then, do it — just to save wear and tear on some nice folks.

I will miss the informality, the ability to make a party out of any occasion, the friendly smiles, the waves, and the friendly toot of a horn as a friend passes by.

I will miss the Christmases because I never saw a town enjoy a Christmas season like Big Springers do, full of surprises and joy.

Thank you is a very small word when you are feeling so choked up that you could easily spill over like Niagara Falls.

I'll look at that fence post with the broken wire that Virginia Whitten painted, the seascape and the hill country that Dalmar painted and Mary Jennings's little fence and remember you all.

Back in the old days, when the old cowpokes rode off into strange territory, they always stayed as close to the fence as they could. So I'll be back checking on the fence line.

Coneway selected 'Outstanding Young Engineer of the Year'

Houston engineer C. Rick Coneway, P.E. was recently named the "Outstanding Young Engineer of the Year" for 1978 by the Texas Society of Professional Engineers (TSPE). Coneway, a civil engineer employed by Lockwood, Andrews & Newnam of Houston, will receive the statewide award in January during a special TSPE luncheon in Austin.

TSPE, headquartered in Austin with a membership of approximately 7,000 professional engineers, established the award in 1970. It is presented annually to a "Young Engineer" (age 35 or under) in recognition of technical ability, professional achievements, civic and humanitarian activities.

A special committee selected Coneway for the award from among nominees submitted by various TSPE chapters in the state. He was nominated by the Sam Houston Chapter, located in Houston.

Coneway, presently assigned to the Environmental Division of Lockwood, Andrews & Newnam, was a design and process engineer on the City of Houston 69th Street Wastewater Treatment Complex—the largest two-step high purity oxygen activated sludge plant in the world. He has been employed with the firm since his graduation from the University of Houston in 1973 and earned his Master's degree in 1976 by attending evening classes. He currently serves as chairman of the firm's professional development committee.

Active professionally, Coneway is chairman of the Sam Houston Chapter Education Committee and will serve as a Chapter Director in '79. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Texas Water Pollution Control Association, and is also active in church and civic affairs.

As Texas' winner, Coneway was nominated by TSPE for the national Young Engineer of the Year award presented annually by the National Society of Professional Engineers.

Proposed refinery tax would not be double-taxation in Texas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A proposed refinery tax would not be double-taxation under the state constitution, the attorney general said Friday.

Sen. Peyton McKnight, head of the Senate study committee to replace ad valorem taxes, asked if a tax on the market value of refinery products, prior to their sale or use, would be considered a motor fuels tax under the constitution.

The constitution says the motor fuel taxes, on the first sale or use of motor and special fuels, shall be in lieu of any other excise or occupation tax imposed.

"The proposed tax on refinery production would be before any sale, use, transfer or other disposition of the motor fuels and therefore would not be a transaction which is taxable" under the constitutional provision, the attorney general said.

The opinion said that revenue from a tax on crude oil received by a refinery for processing would not be subject to the constitutional provision because "crude oil does not meet the definition of motor or special fuel and therefore is not taxed."

Citizens Credit Union announces Money Rate Certificates

Citizens Federal Credit Union is now offering Money Rate Certificates to credit union members at rates up to .25% above the current discount rate on Treasury Bills. These new certificates are issued three business days after auction of the T-Bills, which is usually Monday of each week.

The minimum investment amount for the new Money Rate Certificates is $10,000.00 and is negotiated for a period of exactly 26 weeks (six months). A member's shares are also protected up to $40,000.00 by the National Credit Union Administration, an agency of the federal government.

As with all investment certificates, there is a substantial penalty for early withdrawal and dividends are paid from available earnings. Dividends are also compounded on the basis of actual value.

Currently offering Money Rate Certificates at 9.5% thru Wednesday, December 6, 1978.

RECORD SETTER — University of Arkansas running back Ben Cowins set two records Saturday and the Razorbacks went on to destroy Texas Tech 49-25. Cowins became the first Razorback in history to rush for 1,000 yards for three years and he broke Dickey Morton's record of 100-yard games with his 16th 100-yard effort.

Razorbacks romp on Red Raiders

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas running back Ben Cowins scored two touchdowns and topped 1,000 yards rushing for the third straight year as the Razorbacks crushed Texas Tech 49-25 Saturday.

The eighth-ranked Razorbacks scored on six of their first seven possessions and led 42-0 at the half, while winning their fifth straight and stopping the Raiders' winning streak at six.

After two quarters, Arkansas had 379 yards total offense, 19 first downs and had put together scoring drives of 80, 15, 76, 76, 80 and 56 yards. Tech, on the other hand, had four first downs — including two by penalty — and a total offense of 76 yards.

Arkansas, bound for a Dec. 25 Fiesta Bowl meeting with UCLA, finished the regular season at 9-2 and is 6-2 in the Southwest Conference.

Arkansas would tie Texas and Houston for the league title should Rice upset Houston Saturday night. If Houston wins, Arkansas and Texas would tie for second.

Tech wound up 7-4 for the season and 5-3 in the Southwest Conference.

Cowins, a senior, entered the game needing 142 yards to get 1,000. He wound up

Saturday with 148 yards on 19 carries.

His last carry was a 5-yard scoring run that made it 42-0 with 90 seconds left in the half. He also scored the Razorbacks' fifth touchdown on an 8-yard run midway through the second quarter.

Tech won the coin toss and elected to take the wind, which was gusting to 30 mph.

Arkansas promptly drove 80 yards in 10 plays. Cowins gained 35 yards on five carries, and quarterback Ron Calcagni accounted for 41 yards on the drive.

Michael Forrest went the final 4 yards.

Tech fumbled on first down, and Marty Mitcham recovered at the Raiders' 15. Three plays later, Jerry Eckwood covered the final 3 yards on a power sweep.

A holding penalty against Tech on an Arkansas punt kept the Razorbacks' next drive alive. It ended with Eckwood going the final 2 yards. That made it 21-0 Arkansas, all against the wind.

Arkansas went 76 yards in six plays the next time it had the ball. Cowins got the drive started on a 23-yard run, and Forrest covered the final 48 yards when he popped clean over left tackle on third and five.

The only time the Razorbacks didn't score in the first half was early in the second quarter when they took over on their own 10 with the second unit in the game.

Ish Ordenez made all seven extra points, giving him 39 straight and the Southwest Conference scoring title. He finished the season with 78 points, and Tech kicker Bill Adams wound up with 74 points.

The 49 points was the most Arkansas had scored all year and tied the Razorbacks' high against a conference opponent. Arkansas reached that figure three times previously—all against Texas Christian University.

UH outscores Rice, 49-25

HOUSTON (AP) — Eleventh-ranked Houston, flirting with disaster with five first-half fumbles, got a second-half transfusion from backup quarterback Delrick Brown Saturday as the Cougars beat Rice 49-25 and advanced to the Cotton Bowl on a winning note.

The Cougars, 9-2, clinched the host berth in the New Year's Day classic against 10th-ranked Notre Dame earlier Saturday when Arkansas defeated Texas Tech, 49-7.

Rice, which finished with a 2-9 record, nonetheless ignited behind the passing of sophomore quarterback Randy Hertel and trailed by only 14-13 early in the third quarter on Wes Hansen's 31-yard field goal.

Houston's starting quarterback Danny Davis, who lost two of Houston's first half fumbles, then directed the Cougars to the Rice five-yard line and slipped to the sideline as Brown came into the game and ran for a touchdown on his first play.

Brown stayed in the game on Houston's next series and climaxed a brief 48-yard drive in 57 seconds with a 19-yard touchdown pass to Hubert Miller to complete the 14-point third quarter.

The Cougars added an insurance touchdown with 10:38 left in the game on Terald Clark's two-yard run.

Despite their drive-killing fumbles, Houston managed a 14-10 halftime lead on Emmett King's 80-yard run and a 17-yard pass play from Davis to Willis Adams.

Hansen started the scoring with a 43-yard field goal for the Owls in the first quarter. Hertel hit senior receiver Doug Cunningham with a four-yard touchdown pass late in the second quarter. Rice's final TD came with 6:58 to play when Hertel hit Joe DiQuinzio with a 15-yard pass.

King and running mate Randy Love both went over 1,000 yards for the season, marking the first time two runners on the same SWC team have accomplished that feat.

Hertel, the No. 2 passer in the SWC, completed 27 of 51 passes for 368 yards.

King, an Associated Press first-team SWC selection, rushed 11 times for 147 yards in the game and finished the year with 1,095 yards. Love, named to second-team all-SWC, finished the year with 1,019 yards after gaining 90 yards on 17 carries against the Owls.

Georgia rallies by Georgia Tech

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Sophomore Anthony Arnold caught a 42-yard touchdown pass and then ran for a two-point conversion with only 2:24 remaining as 11th-ranked Georgia edged Georgia Tech 29-28 Saturday in a nationally televised college football game.

Arnold caught the pass on a fourth-down gamble from freshman quarterback Buck Belue at the Tech 20 and raced to the end zone without a defender in sight.

Belue, who kept the 84-yard drive alive, ran for 6 yards on fourth-and-two at his own 24, was under heavy pressure when he lofted the game-winning pass to Arnold.

It enabled Georgia to stage a remarkable comeback from a 20-0 deficit that Tech, 7-4, built by cashing in on two fumble recoveries, the recovery of an onside kick and a pass interference call in the end zone.

Willie McClendon scored the first two touchdowns for Georgia, 9-1-1.

NBA Roundup

By The Associated Press

Not even a smoking Pistol could stop the red-hot Washington Bullets.

Pete Maravich fired in 19 of his 37 points in the fourth quarter for New Orleans Friday night, but in the end it was old reliable Wes Unseld who came up with the basket that gave the Bullets a 117-115 National Basketball Association victory over the Jazz.

Unseld converted a pass from Bobby Dandridge for a layup with five seconds left for the winning points as the Bullets won their ninth in a row to equal the longest winning streak in the franchise's history.

The Bullets are now 2-0 under interim coach Bernie Bickerstaff, the assistant who took over the club this week after Head Coach Dick Motta underwent knee surgery on Monday.

Truck Robinson had tied the score at 115 with a basket for New Orleans with 21 seconds to play. But instead of calling a timeout, which is the customary strategy in order to set up a play, the Bullets brought the ball upcourt immediately. Unseld — not known for his offense — rolled to the basket, took the pass from Dandridge and laid it in for the winning basket.

"We run plays automatically at the end of every quarter," explained Bickerstaff, when asked why no timeout was called. "We decided to run the play whenever we got the ball back."

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Boston Celtics beat the Seattle SuperSonics 87-80, the Denver Nuggets defeated the Detroit Pistons 125-120, the Milwaukee Bucks edged the Indiana Pacers 111-107, the New Jersey Nets topped the Golden State Warriors 120-110 and the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Phoenix Suns 130-122.

Dandridge scored 20 of his 27 points in the first half as Washington built a 69-52 lead before Maravich brought the Jazz back, finally tying the game at 113 with a long jumper with 46 seconds left. Dandridge put Washington back in front before Robinson tied it once again to set the stage for Unseld.

"Washington is playing great, but we didn't give up when we got 17 down," said Jazz coach Elgin Baylor. "We showed a lot of character and poise, coming back against the hottest team in the NBA."

Bama gets 'Sugar' taste

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Jeff Rutledge broke Joe Namath's school record for career touchdown passes, throwing two to Bruce Bolton and one to Rick Neal, as second-ranked Alabama defeated Auburn 34-16 Saturday. The victory set up a Jan. 1 Sugar Bowl showdown with top-rated Penn State for college football's national championship.

AAU rejects female boxers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The membership committee of the Amateur Athletic Union refused Friday to approve the application of the International Women's Boxing Association, thus denying the association an AAU sanction for another year.

The decision was made at the AAU national convention here.

Jay-Ehret Mahoney of New York said the rejection came because the committee had not received a report on medical safety, an alliance agreement or a proper application.

Mahoney said no one representing the IWBA appeared at the hearing.

The men's boxing committee had previously given its approval of the application.

TIDE TD — Alabama's Steadman Shealy (10) cuts away from a last-chance tackle of Auburn's Zac Hardy (93) to go 20 yards for Alabama's final touchdown in the Saturday game in Birmingham. The Tide's John Turpin (35) looks for someone to block. Alabama won the game 34-16, assuring their New Year's Day Sugar Bowl match-up with Penn State.

Crucial day in NFL

By the Associated Press

A year ago the Denver Broncos and Oakland Raiders lost five games between them. This year they've each lost five — and one of them faces the prospect of elimination from the National Football League playoffs before the playoffs even begin.

They meet Sunday night in Oakland with the American Conference West lead at stake. And with the way things are going in the AFC, the loser probably won't have much of a chance at a conference wildcard berth.

Sunday's afternoon games are Cleveland at Seattle, Pittsburgh at Houston, Los

Permian wins

The Odessa Permian Panthers, District 5-4A champions, breezed to a 17-0 halftime lead, then shut off an Arlington Heights rally in the second half by scoring three touchdowns on their way to a 38-12 win.

After a scoreless first stanza, tailback Greg Lambert dove over from the one for the first Mojo score. Robert Orosco added the PAT.

Following an Orosco field goal, Permian scored another touchdown on a 28-yard pass from quarterback Vic Vines to wide receiver David Loper. Orosco converted the PAT.

Arlington Heights, who actually had 11 yards more total offense than Permian, scored twice in the second half to make the contest close at 17-12.

But Permian quickly put the game away through the airways, as Vines twice connected with the elusive Loper on scoring strikes to put the game out of reach.

Mojo linebacker intercepted a pass and returned it 27 yards to paydirt to finalize the fourth quarter scoring bonanza.

Permian played in its usual opportunistic and fundamental fashion, as they forced five Arlington Heights turnovers while committing none themselves.

Erxleben, Longhorns kick back Aggies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — It was the final Southwest Conference game of Russell Erxleben's career. It was on national television. It was against bitter rival Texas A&M.

And Erxleben's big toe throbbed like a bad toothache.

Earlier in the week, the right toe of the Longhorns' punter and place kicker was black and green and it hurt Friday morning.

But Friday night, Erxleben went out and drilled two field goals, including a 59-yarder, and punted eight times for an average of 48 yards, including a 74-yarder.

GAINS GROUND — University of Texas offensive back A.J. (Jam) Jones gains ground in this first period action from their game with Texas A&M Friday night at Austin. Making a dive for Jones is Texas A&M linebacker Doug Carr (93), and defensive end Lynn Maughmer (95) moves in at right.

Kunumera favored at Sunland

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — A year ago, Bradley's Kunumera was named "Horse of the Meet" at the Sunland Park fall season.

He's in line to pick up the crown once again, providing he wins Sunday's 5th running of the Herald-Post Handicap. The event, which looms as the top handicap test of the fall season, will cover a demanding 1 1/16 miles. The gross purse is $5,705.

But Bradley's Kunumera will have his hands full. In the first place, he'll be hauling 128 pounds — the stiffest load dished out at Sunland in recent years. Secondly, the gelding will cross paths with the sensational sophomore, Petty Theft. The latter goes into the Herald-Post 'cap with a stunning seasonal record of four wins against no defeats.

Here's the way they'll line up: 1 — Barbijay (Darrell Blevins), 116; 2 — Rushing Silver (Gary Sumpter), 117; 3 — Fiftieth Star (Grady Overton), 122; 4 — Barrister Sib (Gilbert Villacas), 115; 5 — Petty Theft (Carlos Rivas), 124; 6 — Bradley's Kunumera (Richard Bickel), 128.

Barrister Sib and Barbijay will be coupled in the betting.

Despite the stiff payload, Bradley's Kunumera could be picked as the betting choice. He'll enter the battle with a '78 money line of over $37,000, and that makes him one of the year's top handicap stars in New Mexico. If there's any question mark, it's whether or not Bradley's Kunumera can handle the mile-and-sixteenth.

During the summer, he padded his bankroll by taking a fourth in the Governor's Handicap (6 1/2 furlongs), a close second in the Billy The Kid Handicap (seven furlongs), an allowance win (5 1/2 furlongs), a four-length conquest of the Sprint Championship, (six furlongs), and a fourth in the Ruidoso Mile.

Stanton garners nine spots on 5-A All District

The Stanton Buffaloes, runners up in District 5-A, placed a total of seven performers in nine places on the All-District squad.

Two of the players, Miles Tollison and Keith Hull, made the team both offensively. Tollison (6', 205), was placed as an offensive center and defensive tackle, and Hull (5'11", 195), made the team as an offensive guard and linebacker on defense.

Other Buffaloes making the All-District team were end Paul Sparks (6'0", 165), quarterback Tommy Morrow (6'2", 175), running back Todd Smith (6'2", 175), defensive end Mitch Elmore (6'2", 175), and Bobby Mims (5'10", 145), a defensive back.

GARDEN CITY — The Water Valley and Rankin girls and the Westbrook and Sterling City boys have made it to the finals of the Garden City Tournament that will be concluded Saturday night.

The Water Valley girls decided host Garden City by a score of 24-22. Connie Weeks was the high scorer in the game with 12 points, while Trudy Hoelscher had eight for the Bearkats.

Rankin's girls took an easy 38-21 victory over Miles in the other semifinal match. Rankin was led by Darla Byrd's 17 points, while Marla Schniers had eight for the losers.

In the consolation bracket of the girl's division, Iraan beat Sterling City by a score of 32-28. Sharon Hight led Iraan with eight points, while Rosa Fitchett led the losers with the same number.

Grady stayed alive in the tourney with a 44-38 victory over Westbrook. Grady was led by Margaret Rodriguez's 14 points, while Rollins led Westbrook with

10. In the men's division, Sterling City made it to the finals by beating Rankin by a score of 36-33. Roger Medina led Sterling City with 15 points, with Rankin's Sam Cobbs and Robert Eyres scoring eight each for the losers.

Westbrook beat Grady by a score of 60-42 to advance to finals in the other bracket. Daryl Rich led Westbrook with 18 points, while Alex Perez was high point man for the Grady Wildcats with 17.

Miles won a consolation game by a 43-40 score over Iraan. Paul Coppenger had the high game for the day in the tournament with 25 points, while John Curry led Iraan with 12.

The Garden City boys stayed in their own tourney by beating Water Valley by a score of 54-43. Jorge Patino led the Bearkat charge with 19 points, while McWilliams stopped Water Valley with 11.

Coupled with a key safety and a swarming defense that held 1,000-yard rusher Dickey to a career low 11 yards, the 14th-ranked Texas Longhorns throttled the Texas Aggies 22-7 in a nationally televised SWC game.

Erxleben injured the toe a week ago against Baylor and didn't practice all week.

"Man, I couldn't have drawn it up any better," said Erxleben, who is almost certain to be a first-round draft choice in the National Football League. "That was the way I wanted to go out, and my career here."

Erxleben said of the heavily taped toe, "I guess I was psyched up or something, but it didn't bother me at all. On the 59-yard field goal I owe a lot to Coach Akers. He had the confidence in me to try one from that position."

Erxleben said, "It was the best I've ever punted in my life. I wanted to play real bad. I guess it was mind over matter."

Third-string quarterback Mark McBath, earning his first start of the year, scored on a three-yard touchdown run and had two key passes that set up other Longhorn scores.

But it was a key defensive play by linebacker Bruce Scholtz that turned a tight game around in the third period.

With the Aggies trailing 10-7 after quarterback Mike Mosley had scored on a nine-yard run, Scholtz tackled Dickey in the Aggie end zone for a safety. Just 49 seconds later, the Longhorns scored again on Johnny Ham Jones' five-yard touchdown run to put the Aggies away.

Erxleben later added a 22-yard field goal as Texas, which will play Maryland Dec. 23 in the Sun Bowl, upped its overall record to 8-3 and 6-2 in SWC play.

The Aggies, who will play in the Hall of Fame Bowl game Dec. 23 against Iowa State, are 7-4 and 4-4.

Texas Coach Fred Akers said, "I've never had so much fun."

He told his team after the game: "This is the type of game you should play every time."

McBath, a junior who last started 18 games ago, said he wasn't certain why he was selected to start ahead of fifty-year senior Randy McEachern, who did not play.

"You're getting your chance this week," Akers said to McBath.

UT honors exes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Three former Texas Longhorn sports figures will be honored with Plaques of Honor, the University of Texas System Board of Regents decided Friday.

The honorees are Dana X. Bible, former football coach; Clyde Littlefield, former track coach; and the late Ed Olle, former athletics department business manager and director of athletics.

Bronze busts of each will be placed in the classroom portion of Memorial Stadium.

Bible, now 87, came to Texas in 1937 from Texas A&M and Nebraska. Before retiring in 1946, he took his teams to three Cotton Bowl appearances and a close race for the national championship in 1941. His career coaching record was 209, 64 losses and 19 ties.

Littlefield coached Longhorn track teams for 41 years, from 1920 to 1961. He won 25 conference titles. Between 1927 and 1933, the now 86-year-old honoree was the Texas football coach in addition to track duties.

Olle died in 1964 after 35 years as athletic business manager.

Dent enjoying sudden stardom

NEW YORK (AP) — "Isn't he cute?" gushed the lady in the leg-hugging blue jeans and knee-high boots. "Gorgeous!" responded her attractive companion, looking through dark glasses with lenses as big as saucers. "I think I'll take him home and put him on my mantle." Bucky Dent paid little mind to the oohs and ahs that rustled through the fashionable Emilio Gucci Fur Salon as he pranced around in ankle-length raccoon, fox and luxurious mink — joining his wife, Karen Lynn, in modeling the latest in cold weather fashions. It's a long way from the corner lots of Savannah, Ga., to featured model at one of Manhattan's swankiest emporiums, but Bucky made it, emerging as probably the hottest commercial property in sports for the year 1978. It's been a dizzying experience for the bandy-legged shortstop of the New York Yankees since he lashed 10 hits in 24 times at bat and won the Most Valuable Player Award in the World Series. He won a car. He rushed off to Dallas to make a television movie with the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders. He was grabbed by Playboy Magazine for a men's fashion spread — with all of his clothes on. He upstaged Snoopy and Mickey Mouse in Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. He did an auto commercial. He has been so busy he can hardly catch his breath — but he loves it.

"It wasn't an instant thing — we have had Bucky more than a year, seeing in him tremendous potential beyond his baseball career," said Jim Griffin of the William Morris Agency.

William Morris doesn't deal in small fry. Rarely does a sports figure catch its fancy. One of its clients is Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin. It caters to the Hollywood crowd, top political, literary and jet set personalities, whose talents can be peddled for figures of six digits and up.

A good-looking, personable young man of 27, Dent suddenly has become the newest male sex symbol in sports.

GERULAITIS WINS MATCH AND TOURNAMENT — Vitas Gerulaitis (R), Howard Beach, N.Y., in action against Adriano Panatta (L) of Italy, whom he defeated 6-7, 6-2, 6-2 in a round-robin four-player tennis tournament in Milan Thursday night. With two victories Gerulaitis has already got enough points to be declared the winner of the tournament ending Friday night.

Red River reports good skiing

RED RIVER, N.M. — Some of the best early snow conditions anyone can remember has triggered the opening of the winter fun season in this northern New Mexico resort town.

Both of the local ski areas, cross country ski tour operators and snowmobile tours are all operating on a full-scale, daily basis, with accumulations of more than three feet of snow reported in some of the high valley areas.

With a combination of nightly machine snowmaking since early November, and a near record of early natural snow, both downhill ski areas report some of the best early skiing conditions they've ever had.

Tom Veale, spokesman for Red River Ski Area, measured a 24 inch base with 20 inches of new snow. All lifts are running and daytime temperatures are in the low to mid-30's.

John Miller at nearby Powder Puff Mountain agrees that skiing is excellent. "We started making snow in October and opened the first week in November. We had a good base of man made snow down before the first natural snowfall, and we've been building on it ever since," he said. Both areas make snow every night to increase their pack.

Some six miles of new cross country ski trails have been set, with guided tours available for level land ski touring. Average depth is 12 inches of packed snow or from 18-24 inches of powder.

Snowmobile tours are also getting an early start this year, with more than 30 inches of snow in the high country area.

Helpful in planning a trip to the area is a new "Winter Fun Guide to Red River", a 32-page information book that is available without charge from the Red River Chamber of Commerce, Box 868, Red River, N.M. 87558.

Colorado City dominates 6-AA stars

District 6-AA champion Colorado City dominated the league's All-District team, placing eleven players on the 27 spots on the first team.

Colorado City Head Coach Mike Ferda added to the Wolves dominance, as he was selected as Coach of the Year.

The Wolves placed five players on both offense and defense, with place-kicker Gary Hulme garnering that spot. Hulme also made the first team All-District squad on both offense and defense.

Hulme was the only performer to make it both ways on the first team. Hulme made the team as a running back and linebacker.

Other Colorado City players making first team include center Tommy Deloera, guard Jimmy Shoemaker, tackle Martin Molina, tight end Jay Feaster, Britt Chaney, and defensive backs Ricky Sanchez, Tony Truelove and David Rivera.

Coahoma Bulldogs making the first team include tackle

Gary Bayes, running back Ronald Sunday, quarterback Gary Gee, punter Gary Paige, linebacker Cecil Walker and defensive lineman James Devers.

All-SWC reflection of wild year

DALLAS (AP) — The Associated Press 1978 All-Southwest Conference football team is a mirror of one of the wildest seasons in the league's long history with a converted tight end, James Hadnot of Texas Tech, incredibly taking Offensive Player of the Year honors.

As selected by the SWC coaches, the team has firepower and a seasoned defensive unit that would rival any in America.

There are 1,000-yard gainers galore in the backfield led by the powerful Hadnot, a junior, Texas A&M's Curtis Dickey and Ben Cowins of Arkansas and Emmett King of Houston, who tied in the balloting. Danny Davis, the slick senior quarterback from Houston who delivered in the clutch in vital games against Texas and Arkansas, wrestled the No. 1 signal caller honors away from the likes of Southern Methodist's Mike Ford and Texas Tech freshman sensation Ron Reeves.

Reeves, who only a year ago was leading Lubbock Monterey High School, was named The Newcomer of the Year.

The first team receivers were a part of "Mustang Mania," fleet wide receiver Emanuel Tolbert and tight end Elton Garrett.

The tackles were Greg Kolenka of Arkansas and rangy Cody Risien of Texas A&N. The guards were Dennis Greenawalt of Houston and David Sledge of Baylor.

The center went to steady Chuck Brown of Houston. No mythical offensive team is complete without the kickers. In this case, there are two dandies — placekicker Tony Franklin of Texas A&M and punter Russell Erxleben of Texas.

Texas' ball-hawk Johnnie Johnson and linemen Dan Hampton and Jimmy Walker, both of Arkansas, anchor a rugged defense.

Up front with Hampton and Walker there's Texas A&M's Jacob Green, Houston's Hosea Taylor and Texas' Steve McMichael.

The linebackers included David Hodge of Houston, Baylor's Mike Singletary, Putt Choate of SMU and Don Kelly of Texas Tech.

The other defensive backs were Vaughn Lusby of Arkansas and SMU's David Hill.

Johnson earned Defensive Player of the Year honors and Tech's Rex Dockery was Coach of the Year.

The big surprise of the year was Dockery's gamble that Hadnot could produce at running back.

Lake Whitney Reports

LAKE WHITNEY, Tex. — Lake Whitney Association will hold its annual Christmas dinner on Tuesday, December 5, at Mr. V's Restaurant in Hillsboro. Reservations are $4.50 per person and must be made by Monday, December 4, by calling the Lake Whitney Association office, 694-2300.

The meeting will begin at 7:00 p.m. with a program by the Hill Junior College choir, led by Leland Jungren. A standup buffet dinner will be served followed by a few short business reports to up-date members on LWA activities and plans for the 1979 promotional year. The rest of the evening will allow time for members to become better acquainted and enjoy the holiday spirit.

All members and interested persons are welcome to attend. Members — why not take this opportunity to bring a fellow business colleague and introduce him to the benefits of the Lake Whitney Association!!!

Pheasant hunting appears normal

LUBBOCK, Texas — Pheasant hunting should find about the same number of ring-necked pheasants during the Dec. 9-24 season as last year according to surveys and comments from Texas Parks and Wildlife Department personnel in the Panhandle.

A slight decrease in the number of birds counted on survey lines could be the results of heavy rains, hail storms, or failure of some hens to nest twice.

The daily bag limit of two cock (male) birds will be strictly enforced as will the restriction on pheasant hens. Hunters are reminded to leave the head and feet attached to the pheasant carcass until the bird is delivered to its final destination.

The three areas of high pheasant populations including the Hereford-Dimmitt-Fiona region; Stratford-Dumas region; and the Plainview-Kress region, are again expecting large numbers of hunters.

The best reported catches follow — Don's General Store — Fort Worth — Scott Hundemer and Johnny Brigrman, 2 strippers to 16 lbs. 10 ozs. — Whitney — Bruce and Kicia Barton and Don Bohne, 30 sand bass and strippers on running baits.

Cheyne's Texaco — Mesquite — Thomas R. Hickman one 30 lb. yellowcat and goldfish baited trotline — Fish Hook Lodge — Garland — David Moore, one black bass and 2 crappie on minnows — Dallas — C.P. Hughes, one catfish and 2 crappie just below the dam.

King Creek Lodge — Dallas — Rex Armour, one 10 lb. stripper on perch bait — Edmond, Oklahoma — Eddie Lane, 3 strippers to 4 lbs. 15 ozs. trolling with Hellbenders.

Lake Spence Reports

Fisherman at Lake Spence continue to report good catches of striped bass, the largest for the week a 10-pounder.

Reports from concessionaire points included: Paint Creek Marina — Ronnie Parson and Harold Kerry of Sweetwater, a 4-lb. stripper and a 5 lb. 4-oz. black bass; Tom Allred and Bob Carley of Midland, five strippers to 10 lbs.

Paul and Juanita Vaughner, Odessa, four strippers; Speedy Braswell, Odessa, three strippers.

Hillside Groc. — Willie Amis, Abilene, seven strippers to 8 lbs., 6-lb. channel catfish and a string of 25 others. Striped bass fishing continued good at Lake E.V. Spence during the past week. A pair of 11-pounders was included in the reports from various concession points.

Among the reports were these: Paint Creek Marina — Steve Bailey and Tony Gutierrez, Pecos, three striped bass to 11 lbs.; Vergil Little and Curtis Hood, Big Spring, a 9 1/2-lb. yellow catfish and a 3 1/2-lb. striped; I.A. Scott, W.H. Lemeley and J.C. Peary, Odessa, 10 strippers to 10 lbs.; Meador Braswell and Waunema Howard, Odessa, four strippers to 9 lbs.; Paul and Jreanita Vaughn, Odessa, four strippers to 5 lbs.

Rams head Lone Star list

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Jerry Aldridge of Angelo State, the leading ground-gainer, and Sam Houston State split end Clay Lowry headline the 1978 All-Lone Star Conference football team.

Aldridge, a 6-2, 210-pound senior, led the Rams to their first LSC crown and finished as the top ground-gainer in the conference with 1,474 yards. He rushed for more than 100 yards in all 11 regular season games and set a LSC record of 14 consecutive 100-yard plus efforts dating back to 1977.

Lowry, a 5-11, 167-pound junior, hauled in 45 passes for a LSC-record 1,203 yards for the Sam Houston State University Bearcats, who enjoyed their first winning season in eight years. Aldridge was the unanimous choice for the J.W. "Dough" Rollins Award as Back of the Year, and Lowry nosed out linebacker Kelvin Smith of Angelo State for the J.V. "Siki" Sikes Award as Lineman of the Year.

Tight end Kirby Jones, 6-2, 215-pound, a senior from Abilene Christian, joined Aldridge and Lowry on the first offensive team as a unanimous pick. Jones is a repeater from 1977.

Texas A&I offensive tackle

Billy John, a 6-4, 245-pound, senior, made the elite squad for the second time.

Both champion Angelo State and Abilene Christian placed four players on the first offensive unit.

John Mayes, the junior quarterback from Abilene Christian who led the NAIA Division I in total offense, joins Aldridge and Bobby Mitchell, senior from Stephen F. Austin, in the backfield.

Mitchell finished second to Aldridge with more than 900 yards rushing.

Running back Tony January of Sam Houston State and quarterback Mike

Miller of Southwest Texas State share Freshman of the Year honors.

Smith, the leader of Angelo State's rugged defense at linebacker, and Sam Houston State linebacker Stanley Blinka are repeaters on the first defensive team. Both were unanimous choices.

Angelo State landed four other first team selections in end Marvin Williams, and defensive backs Wylie Turner, John Nunley and David Knowles.

Turner, a 9-4 sprinter, was also first team in 1977. Freshman Mike Taylor of Southwest Texas State was punter of the year and Vance Jenkins of Angelo State was named the top place kicker.

Ogallala Aquifer in Dawson

AUSTIN — And series of reports Ogallala Aquifer case in Dawson counties — published by the Department of Water Resources Report No. "Analytical Study Ogallala Aquifer and Borden Texas," is available charge from the Office Box 1308 78711.

The report shows aquifer in the town contained approximately 3,800,000 acre-feet 1974, with history page exceeding 9 feet annually — twice the rate recharge. That overdraft to continue, the with some adequate water while others currently are in short supply.

Farm Wet Weather nips harvesting

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Small grains have benefited from recent rains over much of Texas, but the wet weather has kept cotton harvesting at a standstill in western areas and the plains.

The rains were especially helpful in central and eastern areas that have been dry for a long period of time, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Small grains there were suffering severely from lack of moisture.

Small grains were providing little grazing for cattle, and many stockmen whose hay supplies already were low were forced to begin the early feeding they had hoped to avoid.

About 75 percent of the cotton crop in the South Plains, the state's major cotton producing area, still remains to be harvested, Pfannstiel said. The wet weather has kept harvest operations at a standstill for the past several weeks and has caused some damage to the grade and staple of the crop. Much cotton also remains to be harvested in the Rolling Plains and Far West and West Central Texas.

Other harvest operations include sugar beets in the High Plains; vegetables, citrus and sugar cane in the Rio Grande Valley; a few peanuts in central and coastal areas and pecans in most counties. The citrus crop generally looks good and fruit is of good size. But pecan yields are generally low throughout the state. The nuts, though of good quality, are small, said Pfannstiel.

Many ranchers are busy catering to deer hunters. Deer in West Texas are in good condition, but those in southern and eastern areas are poor shape due to the season-long drought.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Some sorghum and cotton remain to be harvested because of rain delays. Sugar beets are still being harvested as weather permits. Wheat looks good where rains have fallen. Cattle are in good condition, with many stockers grazing wheat and crop stubble.

SOUTH PLAINS: About 25 percent of the cotton crop is still out, and wet weather is causing some grade and staple damage. Wheat is growing well; most fields are being grazed. Some sugar beets are still being harvested.

ROLLING PLAINS: Harvesting has been limited by rain. Much of the cotton crop still is out, with farmers waiting for frost. Some peanuts still remain to be harvested, with yields generally good but below average. Small grains are growing well and providing livestock grazing.

NORTH CENTRAL: Most crops are in but some cotton, soybeans and peanuts still remain to be harvested. A short pecan crop is about 50 percent harvested. More rain is needed due to extreme dry conditions. Cattle feeding continues.

NORTHEAST: Good rains boosted small grains; some are still being planted. Harvesting of all crops except pecans is virtually complete. Most pastures and ranges are in poor condition due to over-grazing. Cattle feeding is active.

FAR WEST: Harvesting has been slowed by wet weather. Most of the cotton crop is still out. The pecan harvest is active and cabbage, turnips and red chile are being harvested in the El Paso Valley. Range and livestock conditions are good. Deer hunting is active, with deer in good to excellent condition.

WEST CENTRAL: Wet weather continues to hamper harvesting, and cotton is still in the field. Sorghum is 85 percent harvested, and the pecan harvest is active. Small grains are growing well after rainfall. Deer hunting is active.

CENTRAL: A few counties are still dry despite recent rains. Some peanuts still remain to be harvested, and harvesting of a short pecan crop continues. Most livestock are in good shape despite poor forage conditions.

EAST: Good rains over the area will be a big help to small grains for winter pasture. Grazing conditions have been short, so many cattlemen have been feeding their stock. Harvesting of a short pecan crop continues.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Moisture is good due to recent rains. Most small grains are growing well but armyworms are damaging some fields. Pecan harvesting continues. Cattle are generally in good shape, with feeding active in most counties.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Despite recent rains, a few spots are dry. More rain is needed for stock water in some locations. Small grains are growing well and some fields are providing grazing. Harvesting of a short pecan crop continues.

SOUTHWEST: Wet weather halted farming and ranching activities but helped small grain crops. Some vegetables have been damaged by disease problems as a result of the wet weather, including white rust in spinach, downy mildew in cabbage and purple blotch in onions. Pecan harvesting continues, with yields down from a year ago. Deer hunting has been heavy, with most deer in good to excellent condition.

COASTAL BEND: Rain continues to delay the peanut harvest; yields are down due to the extended wetness. Most of the pecans have been harvested but yields are light. Small grains and flax are growing well but need sunshine. Livestock are in good shape although grazing is limited.

SOUTH: Harvesting of fall vegetables, citrus and sugarcane continues. Peppers are in good supply. Oranges and grapefruit are of good size. Some late corn and soybeans are beginning to mature. Range and livestock conditions are good. Deer hunting is active.

Ogallala Aquifer in Dawson

AUSTIN — Another in the series of reports on the Ogallala Aquifer — in this case in Dawson and Borden counties — has been published by the Department of Water Resources.

Report No. 225, "Analytical Study of the Ogallala Aquifer in Dawson and Borden counties, Texas," is available without charge from the DWR, Post Office Box 13087, Austin 78711.

The report shows that the aquifer in the two counties contained approximately 3,800,000 acre-feet of water in 1974, with historical pumping exceeding 90,000 acre-feet annually — more than twice the rate of natural recharge.

That overdraft is expected to continue, the report says, with some areas having adequate water through 1990 — while other areas currently are experiencing short supply.

Bright outlook for housing through at least 1985

COLLEGE STATION — The number of new households in the United States is expected to increase by 12.5 million between 1977 and 1985, according to a Texas A&M demographer.

The projections mean a bright outlook for the housing industry through at least 1985, according to Dr.

R. L. Skrabanek of the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A&M. Skrabanek says changing age mixes in the population could affect the nature of the nation's housing demand.

Because of an anticipated increase in the number of young adults — people in their 20s, 30s and early 40s — household formation will outstrip nationwide population growth by nearly 10 per cent, Skrabanek says. This predicted expansion of 33 per cent higher, on annual basis, than household growth between 1970 and 1977. It represents an increase from 74.7 million households in 1977 to 87.2 million in 1985, a jump of 16.7 per cent.

The population growth for the same period is expected to be only 7.4 per cent. Skrabanek says home-buying patterns have remained consistent for certain United States age groups over long periods: young adults move first into apartments and mobile homes and later into single-family homes and townhouses; middle-agers, people 45 years to 59 years of age, normally upgrade the quality of their housing as income rises, and older people seek mostly apartments, mobile homes and smaller houses.

With these home-buying patterns in mind, says Skrabanek, these trends can be expected over the next eight years:

— People in their 20s will increase by 3.3 million.
— People in their 30s and early 40s will increase by 8.8 million.
— Middle-age people will decline by 857,000.
— The elderly will increase by more than 5 million.

The increase in numbers of young adults should spawn a vigorous market for apartments, mobile homes and single-family residences. The increase in the number of elderly should do the same for the retirement home market, including apartments, mobile homes and small houses.

The decline in numbers of middle-aged people could mean demand for high-cost, quality housing will drop.

Stanton High FHA plans busy month

By LYNDON MARQUEZ
The FHA organization has planned its activities for the month. On December 4, the group will entertain a Stanton View Manor with a sing-a-long for the residents at 4:00 p.m. December 11, is the date set for the Granny banquet when each FHA member honors their secret granny. December 18 was the date for a sing-a-long for the patients at the Big Spring State Hospital.

On November 28, The Sound System entertained for the residents at Stanton View Manor. The group is made up of Natalie Mitchell, Michelle Fisher, Stella Pierce, Lisa Culp, and Randy Koonce. The sponsor of this group is Mrs. Natha Mitchell who is also a sponsor for FHA. Stella Pierce was elected girl of the month for November. Stella sold the most magazines during one of their money-making projects.

The FHA girls sold Christmas card notes and to motivate them to sell the most notes the winners were to be treated to a pizza party. The winning team's members were Mandy Swinson, Natalie Mitchell, Kristi Turner, Jennifer Jones and Rosandrea Marquez, Nancy McAlister, Frances Rosa, Jennifer Luna, Jonama Cox, Leticia Mendez, and Virginia Smith. The captains of the teams were Leah Johnson and Rosandrea Marquez.

Liz Schuman, SHS cheerleader, and basketball player has currently had knee surgery. Every one wishes her a speedy recovery and hope to see her back on the court soon. Two other students have been hospitalized they are Derekken Looney and Lana McKenzie we all hope to see you all back at school soon.

On November 18, the SHS band traveled to Andrews to compete in marching contest. The Big Red band attained a three rating. Other bands in our district, Forsan, 1, McCamey, 1, Irran, 2, Reagan County, 2, Rankin, 2, Marfa, 2, Clint, 1.

The band's schedule for the rest of the year were posted this week. December 9, Saturday — All region tryouts in Forsan at 10:30. December 16, Saturday — All Region band concert — Monahans. December 18, Monday — Howard County tryouts — Coahoma at 3:30 p.m. January 4, Solo-Ensemble deadline. January 12, Friday — Howard County Rehearsal at 2:00 p.m. February 23, January 13, Saturday Howard County (9:00) and Concert at 7:30. — Solo and Ensemble contest in Monahans. February 4, Concert Contest Deadline. March 6-7 Tuesday and Wednesday, Concert contest at Midland (Bulldog) High. March 19-23 spring vacation.

As basketball season starts again there are many questions formed on the Buffalo head that hangs in the foyer of the gymnasium. The Buffalo Head was presented to the Stanton High School Football team on May 24, 1929 by the Businessmen of Stanton.

SHS Twirlers, Cindy Herzog and Natalie Mitchell attained a two rating at twirling contest in Andrews. Natalie Mitchell has been twirling for the band for the past three years while Cindy Herzog has been twirling for the past two years. Both of these girls have done a superb job during their stay at SHS.

Powder Puff go slated for Dec. 5

By SCOTT CAMPBELL
On December 5, the student council will sponsor their annual powder puff football game for the March of Dimes. The upperclass vs. the underclass game will be held at Blakenship Stadium at 7:30 p.m.; admission will be one dollar per person. The Key Club will also help with the flag football game and award players for the best offensive and defensive player.

Monday, the student council will participate in a student exchange program with Colorado City. The main purpose is to evaluate and compare the two schools and their programs. "We will learn what programs we have that are good and where we can improve," commented vice principal Fischer. Colorado City will visit here for their part in the experiment in spring.

These people have been named by the journalism department as the 1979 Who's Who winners. These students were voted and named by the faculty. Congratulations to these people. Seniors: Jan Whittington, Jennifer Smith, Selena Jones, Kathy Birdwell, Brenda Bell, David Manley, Mike Evans, Kevin McLaughlin, Jan Hoover, Shannon Koger, Barry Rosson, Lorinda Lee, Cindy Cowan, and Pat Hamilton.

The juniors that are honored are: Carrie Little, Glenn Margolis, Tresa Hohertz, Brent Pearce, Karen Kimble, Missy Baker, Wendy Pegan, Cindy Knight, Karen Smith, and Ismael Bihl.

All Area Choir tryouts were held yesterday at Midland Lee High School. Russell Burchett, Charlotte Bell, Farley Hayworth, Lorinda Lee, Edward Kayser, Rhonda Wilbanks,

The Rodeo Club met Wednesday, November 29, during activity period to discuss plans for the school rodeo which will probably be held in the spring. Any member wishing to enter the Brownwood rodeo needs to contact Paul Gibbs.

The juniors and seniors met in the high school auditorium Tuesday morning at 9:45. A representative from Bell and Howell came to give a talk and showed film strips on different job occupations.

The high school band went to U.I.L. marching contest at Andrews November 18. They received a II in marching and in concert. The band will hold their annual banquet Thursday, December 7, at the Brass Nail. The banquet will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The Industrial Arts Club held a meeting during activity period Wednesday, in the woodworking shop. They discussed rules and regulations for the Industrial Arts Students Association. They also discussed a set Larry Wheat, Mark Warren and Cindy Cowan were able to attend tryouts. The All-Region concert will be held at night at Midland Lee High Auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

Garden City High

By NIKKI TIDWELL
The Annual Garden City Tournament was held last week. Teams participating were Rankin, Mertzon, Water Valley, Westbrook, Grady, Miles, and Sterling City. The tournament always means a busy week for everyone. The coaches especially put in extra work getting it together. Everyone has something to contribute. Miss Horton's art class made the wall decorations and there was fun and good competition all three nights.

Many thanks go to the people who donated the beautiful trophies this year. First Place was donated by the Co-op Gin. Batla Bin donated the Second Place, and the Third Place was donated by Royce Pruitt. Consolation and Sportsman-ship were donated by Wheat's Gulf and Mr. and Mrs. Overton and family. The All Tournament trophy was donated by C&W Butane.

Thursday night the basketball teams played Grady. The girls won with a score of 45-26. Trudy Hoelscher made the most points. The boys played a very close and exciting game but were defeated 58-55. High scorer was Wesley Overton.

Report cards were distributed Monday. Students need to have these signed and brought back as soon as possible. The coaches ordered the football and volleyball jackets and patches this week also.

Next week on Monday the 4th there will be a Beta Club meeting and the Jr. High will play Greenwood here at 4:30. Tuesday the FTA will meet and Wednesday will be an FHA meeting. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday the boys and girls basketball teams will be playing in the Sterling City Tournament, the Sterling City Tournament. Also next week the Library will be closed for inventory.

The Seniors got their pictures and Tom Watt items in. They had a class meeting Monday where they drew names for Christmas gifts. They all worked hard during the tournament to keep the concession stand working. The Sophomores should be getting their sausage and cheese the first or second week in December. The Freshmen are still selling candy. If anyone would like to buy Muscular Dystrophy Christmas Cards they can contact Judy Kingston.

Christmas Holidays will begin December 20 at 2:30.

By JOANNA GRAHAM
The Grady student body elected the personalities for the 1978-1979 school year. Jimmy Mitchell, senior, and Shirilla Sawyer, senior were elected Mr. and Miss GHS. Voted Most Friendly was Margrete Rodriguez, sophomore, and Eli Silva, senior. Elected Most Spirited was Shirilla Sawyer, senior and Ruben Gutierrez, senior. Most Attractive is Judith Yates, junior and Brad Tunnell, junior. Tamra Williams, senior and Alex Perez, senior were voted most likely to Succeed. Taking Best All Around was Debbie Romine, junior and Jimmy Mitchell.

Grady is now well into the basketball season. Monday the 20, Grady traveled to Sands. The JV boys were defeated in their first game of the season 38-54. The girls faced defeat at 19-54. The varsity boys also lost their first game of the season by 53-77. Tuesday the 21, Grady hosted Grandfalls. The girls celebrated their first victory 42-27, but the boys met defeat 45-50. Tuesday the 28 Grady hasted Sands. Again the Grady teams were put down by Sands. The girls were topped 37-66 and boys 58-74. Even though the Grady teams have been defeated we are sure that their turn at winning is coming. We hope that our teams do good in the Garden City tourney this weekend. Grady plays Garden City in their first game.

Monday the 27, Ira traveled to Grady for Jr. Hi. Action. The boys' B team topped Ira 42-2. The girls were topped by Ira's girls by a score of 18-26. The A boys were edged out in their game 24-28.

Pom Pom Girls promote excitement at Tech

LUBBOCK — Excitement, color and competition — welded together by spirit — abound at Texas Tech University basketball games. And Texas Tech's official basketball spirit squad, the Pom Pom Girls, contribute to that atmosphere.

The ten-member organization, which combines talents of a cheerleading squad and drill team, cooperates with the Texas Tech cheerleaders and the Court Jesters musical group in promoting spirit at the games. They perform regularly during fight songs and time-outs and entertain during half-times.

The squad was conceived four years ago by basketball coach Gerald Myers, who wanted to add color and excitement to basketball games and possibly increase the home-court advantage.

The squad was selected during tryouts in October, which attracted almost 50 Pom-Pom hopefuls. Six women selected are returnees from last year's squad, including Tamara Start of Amarillo, Kathy Williams, Plano, Sherri Chapman, Richardson, Toya Fikes, Lubbock, Ann Marguerite Moody, Longview, and Patti Rountree, Richardson. New members include Vicki Beth Williams, Conroe, Margie Toso and Susan O'Quinn, El Paso and Janice Hodge, Mount Pleasant. All members have experience in dance and choreograph their own material. They have a repertoire of approximately 15 dance routines which they perfect in three weekly practice sessions, each lasting from two to three hours.

Head pom pom girl Tamara Start said the group's dance repertoire consists of a variety of routines. "We do straight dancing, disco and jazz, novelty routines and some drill team arrangements," she said. "We also use props, including basketballs and pom poms."

The squad is sponsored by Dr. David K. Northington and his wife Pat. Northington is an associate professor of biological sciences and also sponsor of the Saddle Tramp spirit organization.

Endowment made to Texas Tech

LUBBOCK — The Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, committed to funding scholarships amounting to $1.24 million for 248 college and university students, has made an endowment of $100,000 to support new scholarships in the Texas Tech University College of Agricultural Sciences.

Allan H. Carruth, president, came to Lubbock to make the presentation at banquet sponsored by the Lubbock Ag Club on Monday (Nov. 27) at Texas Tech University.

Financial need is a prime requisite for students receiving scholarships from the fund.

"We want this money to be used to get kids over the hump when they might otherwise have to drop out of school," Carruth said.

The scholarships will be awarded usually in the amount of $500 annually, and some of the funding will be held for emergency situations for students who start a year with financial stability but later face unexpected reversals, according to Interim Dean William F. Bennett of the college.

The Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, operated annually by 3,000 volunteers, currently is funding $22,000 in research at Texas Tech.

Runnels Jr. High

Computer is named 'XLR8'

By ROBIN SNODGRASS
The new computer at Runnels was named this week. The name was sent in by Mrs. Donna Clark's advisory class. They received $10.00, and the name they chose was XLR8 (which is a play on words). The machine will be used to "accelerate" the students learning abilities, so "XLR8" seemed the perfect choice.

The school is holding a contest to see which advisory class is the best behaved.

The teachers will decide and the students will not know when the contest is over. The advisory classes will be judged on their behavior in the hall coming to and from assemblies and lunch, and their conduct once inside. So far, the first advisory is ahead of the second.

During the last period Friday, a sock hop was held in the boys' gym to help collect canned food for needy families. Admission into the dance was one can, and admission to enter the dance contest was $50 cents. The winner received all of the entry fee money.

Besides getting cans of food from the dance project, Runnels also held canned food challenges between first period classes. The winner received nothing but the sweet smell of victory. All first period classes averaging five cans per member or more by December 15 will earn $10.00 to be spent as the class desires. You will probably find that in most of the grocery stores in Big Spring there are few canned food items left that are marked "5 for $1.00".

A new six weeks project for the English classes is to make a holiday newspaper. Each group chooses a subject and writes news stories, editorials, special columns, etc. Projects such as this help students learn more about newspaper makeup, as well as help them develop English skills and originality.

In basketball, the annual Hoop Shoot contest was held Friday in the boys' gym. All students who will not have reached their 14 birthday by April 1979, was eligible to enter. The girls' winner was Shirin Newsome and the boys' winner was Pete (Jinx) Valenzuela.

Coaches of the boys basketball team are Rudy Montes and Robbin Wall. Montes coaches the White team which consists of: Jessie Woodruff, Pernel Parker, Kenny Hart, Fred Rubio, Reggie Dawson, Gerald Wrightsil, James Strowd, Jamie Phillips, Billy Thompson, Jamie Thompson, Patrick Parras, Alan Trevino, Adam Rodriguez, J. B. Casillas, Kelly Rogers, Tony Shortes, Managers are Benny Rodriguez and Gregg Harmsfield. Wall will coach the Red team which consists of: Tom Cudd, Cliff Baker, Skeeter Randle, Kevin Watson, Gerry Hamilton, Doug Cowling, Scott Nelson, Tommy Raphael, Steve Lewis, Mike Dutchover, Julio Cerda, Walter Williams, Keat Wilkins, Jinx Valenzuela, Dean Gartman, Jeff Whiteside. Managers are Rodney Faulkner and Scott Eggleston.

The first basketball game will be on Wednesday, December 6. We hope the boys will have as successful a season in basketball as they did in football.

Goliad Jr. High

Advanced choir will sing for elementary schools

By MELINDA CORWIN
BRONWYN ALLEN
A contest was held to name the new computer that has been installed at Goliad. All students in Language Arts and Math classes on the north wing were eligible to enter. Donnie Hale won $15 for giving the computer the name "Blue Max." Other names submitted were "GEEC," by David Juarez; "Cosmo," by Teresa Schmidt; "Cal Qm Lator," by Toby Roemer; and "Namatat," by Debbie Earnest.

The choirs have been and will be very busy for the next few weeks. On Wednesday, the advanced choirs sang for the Lions' Club; on Thursday they went to College Heights, and on Friday to Kentwood. Next week they will go to Bauer, Marcy, and Moss. The following week they will sing at Washington School. On December 14, all choirs will have their Christmas concert at 7 p.m. in the High School Auditorium.

The band has scheduled their Christmas concert for December 12, 1978, at 7:30 p.m. At the Band Banquet on Tuesday night at the Brass Nail, Melinda Corwin was named as the "Most Outstanding Band Student" of the Goliad Band and Lisa Ausmus was recognized as runner-up.

The homemaking classes, under the instruction of Mrs. Lambeth, made their first meal on Tuesday. The menu included Sloppy Joes, French fries, and coke or cool-aid. Students will start sewing in a few weeks.

Sad and happy faces were shown as both school pictures and report cards were issued last week. The Honor Rolls will be listed in a few weeks.

Hershey, Junior, Chocolate, and Snowball were discovered missing from the Goliad campus on Tuesday morning. They are hamsters under observation in Mrs. Rhoton's science lab. Mrs. Rhoton, the sixth grade science teacher, said they apparently were let out of their cage or they escaped.

The first basketball game will be on Wednesday, December 6. We hope the boys will have as successful a season in basketball as they did in football.

Forsan High

Band receives first place at contest

By LUCY THIXTON
The Forsan Buffalo Marching Band, under the field direction of Drum Major Carrie Poyner, received a first division rating at contest last week. Melissa Frank, Kathy Harrell, and Rhonda Shoults also earned top honors in the twirling division, with each girl bringing home a first division rating. The band has now begun work on music for the Concert-Sight Reading contest.

Home-economist Sandra Killough was a guest of the homecoming classes Thursday afternoon. She spoke on the use of microwave ovens.

Report cards were issued to students this past week. If anyone did not receive theirs, they owe a breakfast lunch, or library fine. These fines must be paid in order to pick up your report cards.

This weeks feature senior are Kim Long and Kevin Low. Kim has played tennis since the Freshman year, and he played football this year. Kim is a band member, having won Outstanding Marcher his sophomore year and band favorite this year. He has competed at Solo-Ensemble Contest for several years. He is now serving as vice president of the Industrial Arts Club.

Keven Low has served as class president for the past three years, also being selected as class favorite his Freshman and Sophomore years. Keven has played football since his Freshman year. This year he became a member of the Black Mamba Club.

GOLIAD CHEERLEADERS — These seventh grade girls have cheered their team. They include Misti Meyers, Hilda Hernandez, Laura Baum, Kerri Chan-der, Kim Jones, Marci Eastman and Kay Pollard at Goliad Junior High.

Library inventory set to begin here Dec. 16

By CATHY McCracken
Children's Librarian

Inventory? Yuck! Beginning Saturday, Dec. 16, the Howard County Library will be closed for the purpose of inventory.

It will remain closed for the remainder of that week and will not open again until Tuesday, Dec. 26. What's so exciting about the inventory of over 38,252 books? The fact that we have over 38,252 books! Therefore, all books will be due on December 15, so watch your due date card!

In the Children's section of the library, we are always adding new and different types of material for your children. One of our newest additions is a World Newsmap of the Week. Each week, this map is updated with current news summaries highlighted with visual pinpoints on the map as to the location of the news. On the reverse side, a specific news item is featured and goes into deeper detail on the subject. If you find it difficult to interest your child in current events around the world, bring him in and he'll be sure to find this a fun way to become well informed. For teachers, these weekly newsmaps, which can be checked out, could be invaluable as a visual aid.

As we approach the Christmas season, get your child in the spirit of things with some of our Christmas books and records. Try "On Christmas Day" by Mervyn Horder and help your child learn roles to sing around the tree. Jean DeBrunhoff's "Babar and Father Christmas" will delight your child as he follows the further adventures of Babar the elephant. For older readers, Marjorie Holmes' beautiful story of Mary and Joseph in "Two From Galilee" will surely make the true meaning of Christmas more endearing. Turn on "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" or "Frosty the Snowman" and let them sing their way into the holidays.

The Children's section has a large assortment of games and puzzles for you to check out. Some new additions are pre-school puzzles by Playschool featuring "Goofy," "Farm Animals," and "Grover" from Sesame Street. Remember playing "Candyland" and the "Uncle Wiggly Game"? Check these out for your child and see who has the most fun playing them!

Don't forget our Story Hour from 10:00 until 11:00

Child care good reason for discharge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army doesn't want its soldiers home babysitting when the time comes to move out.

Following that reasoning, the Army gave its commanders authority Wednesday to discharge men or women — married or unmarried — if their child-caring responsibilities interfere with military duties. Army sources indicated the move was triggered largely by concern about pregnancy among women soldiers and follow-up problems of caring for their children. Last May, Lt. Gen. DeWitt Smith Jr., then the Army's personnel chief, said: "If a bugle is blown they (military mothers) can't be baby-sitting."

CRMWD attorneys take pot shots

Colorado River Municipal Water District attorneys this week took pot shots of the engineering report of the Lower Colorado River Authority, chief protestant to the District's application for a 554,000-acre foot lake on the Colorado River 26 miles southeast of Ballinger.

LCRA countered with its final principal witness, Dr. Mames-R. Vinson, Austin, consulting economist, who testified in effect that the upper basin area doesn't need any more water and won't for the next 50 years. He sought to refute a study by S. W. Freese of Freese and Nichols, the District's consulting engineers, who said that the upper basin area had to have the 113,000-acre foot annual yield of the Stacy project.

The hearing ground through its 40th day Thursday, considerably eclipsing hearing time on any other before the Texas Water Commission, and is due to resume Dec. 12 for the first of six days in December. If they are needed, six days have been set for next month — Jan. 16, 17, 18 and 23, 24 and 25. O.H. Ivie, general manager of the CRMWD, expressed hope that most of these dates will not be required because the hearings have been continuing actively since July 11. The exhibits file now has bulged to 125 for LCRA and 65 for CRMWD, and the TWC expressed concern for the huge bulk of the record.

Jim Wilson, CRMWD attorney, attacked that he called numerous errors in the engineering report of Lockwood, Andrews and Newman, Houston, engineers for LCRA and which was introduced in an effort to rebut CRMWD claims. Not only did the report contain mathematical errors, Wilson said, but the base figures were switched conveniently for different parts of the study. He even accused LAN of having one engineer, who had shown a minimum impact of the Stacy project on LCRA's Highland Lakes, taken off the project and assigning another with tacit understanding not to use the previous work.

Wilson charged that "you have a maximizer and a minimizer in the same firm" representing LCRA.

Where a computation by R. S. Gooch, CRMWD hydrologist, had shown 116,800 acre feet annual flow past the Winchell gauge (just below the Stacy site), LAN came up with 89,700. "We think you made a 30,000-acre-foot error, when you measured the curve you plotted," Wilson told Steve Dennis, representing the LCRA. He also battered at a transmission loss figure between Stacy and Lake Buchanan, the uppermost of the LCRA lake chain, which showed a lesser volume of flow loss at 7,000 cubic feet per second than at 250 cfs. Dennis said he would stand on the report, but Wilson quipped: "I don't see how you can stand when the result shows something is wrong." He also challenged a section which reflected an inconsistency in water travel time on the river above Stacy at 98 miles for one day as opposed to only 73 miles for two days on another section.

Another point of attack was the LCRA's contention that the impact of Stacy in reduced water for the Highland Lakes could be translated into $20,455,000 in lost electric power value over 25 years. Wilson cited what he said was an error in one year which would have reduced the so-called loss from $1,500,000 to $500,000. LCRA estimates included numerous spills over 25 years, Wilson argued, "yet you put every last drop of that through every last generator."

Dennis declared that LCRA had a policy of spilling only through electric generators but Wilson contended this would be impossible because some of the constant-level LCRA lakes had small generators and could not handle maximum flood releases from upper lakes without spilling. He hammered at LCRA computations of reduced yields by reason of continuous fixed-rate releases from Stacy reservoir rather than merely passing through normal river inflow. "You do this for any lake and you would reduce its yield by 40,000 acre feet a year, wouldn't you?" he asked.

Dr. Vinson painted a picture of West Texas as geared mostly to a declining petroleum resource and claimed the region would not benefit from the "Sunbelt phenomenon" of industrial migration of Texas. In fact, he declared that gains of the upper basin and the Permian Basin were a fluke almost wholly due to an increase in crude oil and natural gas prices.

On this basis, Dr. Vinson projected population trends which he said could be translated into water requirements with the result that the "service area of the CRMWD" would have plenty of water to the year 2020, and only a 4,758-acre-foot deficit in the year 2030. Assuming that ground water in the area would be developed, there would be a surplus of 5,241 acre feet through the year 2030, he claimed. Dr. Vinson's figures did not include industrial water demands, which he claimed would be met coincidentally with municipal deliveries.

He had based his assumptions on a six-county area, he said, and not on the 17 counties which the CRMWD lists as its general service responsibility now and over a 50-year span. Whereas Dr. Vinson had used an April 1976 base in his population projections, both Ivie and Freese, in previous testimony, had used the latest (September 1978) projections of the Texas Department of Water Resources, which were 28.7 per cent higher than those used by Dr. Vinson. Ivie and Freese also both testified that CRMWD had no additional ground water to develop, and even if it did, such a supply would be depleted over the long haul, leaving a chaotic shortage. Cross examination of the witness had barely begun at recess time Tuesday.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Louisiana National Guardsmen have been called out to man fire stations here as this tense city begins its third day facing a firemen's strike.

Mayor William Boyer announced Friday night that the Guard agreed to send in 60 men to help the one city fireman and 40 volunteers left manning the stations.

The city's 110 firemen walked off the job Thursday, demanding more money, but until Friday afternoon, a dozen supervisory personnel remained on the job.

"The supervisors we had walked out on us so we're virtually without fire protection," Boyer said Friday night.

"We only have the chief and the volunteers. And the chief is the only one who can drive a truck. . . We have 80,000 people looking at one fire truck," he said.

The striking firemen have been told they will be fired if they do not show up for work by Sunday.

"I gave them three days to report for duty," Boyer said. "I wanted to give them some time to think about it."

He said many of the men would lose benefits such as retirement credit if they were fired.

Notices that firings were pending were hand delivered to the men Friday.

"He's beating a dead horse," one fireman said, adding that the mayor had threatened such a move while the strike still was pending.

Clarence Perez of New Orleans, a district vice president of the union, disputed the city's claim of no available money for pay raises.

"Mayor Bill Boyer has told us privately that the money is budgeted to give a raise, but he said he does not want to reallocate it. He said he doesn't intend to close any tennis courts to give the firefighters a raise," Perez said.

Striking firemen have argued that a city which can afford such things as tennis courts can pay its firemen better.

LGA, Swartz to present fashions for the holidays

By DUSTY RICHARD
 "An Enchanting Evening presenting a Unique Collection of Holiday Fashions by Swartz" is planned for Saturday at Big Spring Country Club by the Ladies Golf Association of the club.
 According to Janet Mahoney, "We have all kinds of exciting things planned, but we are keeping them a secret because we don't want to spoil the surprise!"
 The "enchanting evening" will lead off with a champagne buffet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., and after the style show, a dance will take place.
 Modeling fashions by Swartz will be Gay Cowan, Paula Duncan, Barbara Hall, Jan Iden, Cheryl Lain, Ann McCann, Marilyn Newsom, Cheri Sparks, Paula Talbot and Ann Turner.

 Commenting on each fashion will be Mike Deardorf, and a door prize of a $200 gift certificate from Swartz will be received by some lucky person.
 Tickets, at $10 a person, are available now from Swartz and Big Spring Country Club or by calling 263-7848 or 267-7677. Mrs. Mahoney suggests that everyone planning to attend make their reservations by Dec. 5 to be assured of obtaining a good seat.
 So, whether you are interested in champagne, hors d'oeuvre, beautiful women, beautiful fashions, dancing or a $200 gift certificate, you should mark this date on your social calendar.

MRS. TOMMY MCCANN (president of Ladies Golf Association) — In this glittering, long, sequined holiday bright dress, one may see what party dressing is all about. This is the dress to choose if you are dressing to make the most of an evening.

MRS. JERRY IDEN — In this flatteringly tapered, beruffled silhouette featuring a cinched waist, untraditional excitement is displayed from every angle.

The very '78 fashion of body wrapping means new boldness for evening in a show-stopping color to "paint the town red."

MRS. DAVE DUNCAN — In a year of black costumes, this is the one with the most glamour, the most impact, the most everything! A fantasy-of-sequins top with its satin, pencil-slim part is the very new fashion for those gala holiday nights.

MRS. GUY TALBOT — wearing a "Country Club" four-piece costume of exciting new Ultra Suede in shades of crocus pink. A basic tailored suit features a jacket and pants (not shown), along with a daisy-printed blouse and skirt with casual touches of crocus pink Ultra Suede.

MRS. JIM COWAN — The most popular fabrication of Ultra Suede is repeated here in this French violet, one-piece classic, a top priority in the current mood of casual dressing. This basically tailored style exudes an aura of easy elegance.

MRS. MIKE HALL — wearing this very new version of suiting in the ever-popular Ultra Suede ... softer than the real thing. Casual chic is expressed in a beautifully coordinated skirt and jacket in a fashionable shade of adobe.

Texans bid adieu to fence rider

By DUSTY RICHARD
Champagne and 24 years of memories were shared when 630 people gathered at Big Spring Country Club Thursday evening to bid farewell to Marj Carpenter, West Texas' famed "fence rider."

The affair got underway around 7 o'clock and as each guest arrived, they signed a register which also listed addresses, a gift to Marj from Mr. and Mrs. Grady Cunningham, and were greeted individually by Marj.

Hosts of the affair included Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, Dorothy Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Groehl Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hall, Rev. and Mrs. Bill Henning, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Mays, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nagel, Mr. and Mrs. Paschal Odom, Myra Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Valdes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wash, Dan Wilkins and Bea Zinn.

Champagne and hors d'oeuvre were served from two tables centered with arrangements of fresh fall flowers and candles.

Mrs. Kent Morgan presented Marj with a money tree from the guests, saying, "People have come from all over West Texas because we love you."

A portable typewriter for "exemplary service" was presented to the reporter from Tom Watson, publisher of the Big Spring Herald.

A joke extra of the Herald highlighted with a banner story on Marj's move to Atlanta, Ga., along with a brief biography was distributed to guests.

"FOR EXEMPLARY SERVICE" — Tom Watson, publisher of the Big Spring Herald, presents Marj Carpenter with a portable typewriter for her ten years of service to the Herald during a brief ceremony at a farewell reception Thursday night.

KOSA-TV filmed the party as "the end of an era in West Texas newspapers."

Guests were in attendance from Odessa, Pecos, Andrews, Midland, Stamford, Big Lake, San Angelo and Lubbock.

During the day of the party, Marj received greetings from Congressmen George Mahon and Charles Stenholm, State Senators Ray Farabee and E. L.

SECOND-GENERATION WEST TEXANS — Carolyn and Jim Bob, two of Marj's three children, were feted along with Marj at a reception Thursday night at Big Spring Country Club. Cathy, her oldest daughter, was unable to attend.

Short, State Representatives Dick Slack and Elmer Martin, District Judge Barbara Culver, Dawson County Judge Leslie Pratt, mayors of five West Texas cities, school superintendents from three West Texas towns and officials of the Permian Basin Planning Council, as well as top officials of Texas Electric Service Company and American Petrofina.

Two of Marj's three children, Carolyn and Jim Bob, both of Austin, were present.

"Cathy, my party girl, lives in London, England, and couldn't make it," Marj said.

Marj will be leaving for Atlanta Dec. 26 for a position she has accepted as national news director for the Presbyterian Church of the United States. The job will involve writing a weekly newsletter, traveling for the church contacts, covering national meetings and writing articles for the church's national magazine.

"It's the first time the post has gone to a woman," she said.

Marj, who has reported for newspapers for 24 years in Pecos, Andrews and Big Spring, along with papers in South Texas, was overwhelmed at the affection guests displayed for her Thursday evening.

"I can't believe it," she said. "Most people don't get this kind of tribute until they are dead. I love everybody here."

TELEVIEWED FRIDAY EVENING — The event, along with some 630 guests, was filmed and televised Friday evening by KOSA-TV. Marj greets Sal Quijado of the station, who covered the affair.

PAYING TRIBUTE — Marj greeted each guest at Thursday's affair as he or she walked in the door. Here she is shown welcoming Mr. and Mrs. John A. Coffey, as Arvin Henry looks on.

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Tea-leaf reading is an easy way to see what's brewing in your life! The November issue of Seventeen Magazine reveals some of the secrets of this ancient Chinese fortune-telling practice.

Because a teacup looks like an inverted bell — and bells were thought to contain omens — the Chinese believed the leaves remaining after the tea is drunk form prophetic patterns.

To find your fortune, brew some loose, large-leaf tea like pekoe, souchong or English Breakfast, in a teapot, using one rounded teaspoon for each cup. Steep it three to five minutes, then pour it into a wide white or pastel cup. Drink all but a quarter-teaspoon of tea.

Then take the cup in your left hand and swirl it in a clockwise circle three times. Turn the cup upside down over the saucer, and let the excess tea drain off.

In the tea leaves left in the cup, you will see geometric shapes and vague resemblances to natural objects; each has a meaning.

Clicks tour South Texas after Friday ceremony

CEREMONY SET—Mr. and Mrs. L.D. Spradling, 1709 State, announce the engagement and upcoming marriage of their daughter, Karen, to Jeffrey David Morris, 616 Dallas, son of David Morris, Altus, Ark., and Billie Booth, Milwaukee, Wis. The couple plans to marry at 7 p.m. Dec. 30 in the First Presbyterian Church, Big Spring. The Rev. Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, minister emeritus of the church, will officiate.

Limitations come with age

COLLEGE STATION — Accept limitations brought on by older age and adjust to these limitations for happy and full retirement years, advises a family life education specialist. Growing older imposes some limitations on physical and mental abilities, Vivian Blair explains.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Click, Lubbock, are on a tour of South Texas after their marriage at 7:30 Friday night in the Broadway Church of Christ, Lubbock. Darrel Rickard, minister of the church, officiated.

The bride is the former Sheila Rothman and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rothman, Union City, Calif. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Click, Knott Route, Big Spring.

Pews were marked with candles and candelabras adorned the altar.

Donna Rigney, with a rendition of "The New Beginnings," was soloist.

The bride chose a gown of white Qiana knit designed by Mori Lee of New York. The molded bodice featured a mandarin collar of Venice lace; the sheer yoke was defined with Venice lace motifs and seed pearls and was outlined in matching Venice lace. Long bishop sleeves were delicately decorated with Venice lace motifs and were shirred to wide cuffs. Each cuff was encircled in Venice lace.

A floor-length full skirt fell from an empire waistline and was swept to back fullness forming a chapel-length train. A graceful row of Venice forget-me-nots edged the entire hem and train. The veil of silk illusion, edged in Venice lace forget-me-nots, fell to fingertip-length from a Venice lace Camelot cap.

She carried a cascade of white carnations, pink roses and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Cele Rothman, San Francisco, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Linda Rothman, San Francisco, sister of the bride, and Deb Sillers, Kansas City, Mo.

Jeff Moritz, Lubbock, was best man, and groomsmen were Jim Evans, Oklahoma City, Okla., and Ken Eudy, Lubbock.

Ushering were Terry Stivers, Lubbock, and Kelley Prude, Midland.

A reception in the fellowship hall of the church followed the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of James Logan High School, San Francisco, and attended Chabot Junior College, San Francisco, and Abilene Christian College, Abilene. She is employed at First Federal Savings and Loan, Lubbock.

The groom, a graduate of Big Spring High School attended Howard College, the University of Texas at Arlington and Texas Tech University, Lubbock. He is presently employed as a technical specialist with I.B.M. Corp., Lubbock.

After their wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Lubbock.

Furniture reflects

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Throughout the ages furniture styles have reflected a way of life. Whether a true antique, a reproduction, an adaptation or even this year's modern furniture tells a story about people and their cultures.

It's fortunate that the best designs of each era have lived and are being used again and again. Interest in America antiques and reproductions is growing steadily.

Furniture styles tend to follow social history. The forces that influence the way people live also influence their furnishings. Every style has been created as a result of: available materials, climate, geography, social and economic conditions, religion, trade and commercial activities, historical and political events, and scientific discoveries and inventions.

The history of America can be examined by the changing styles of American furnishings.

"Early American" means different things to different people. Early American can be broken down into three categories: Colonial, Federal and American Empire.

American Colonial includes all the furniture produced and used in the colonies prior to 1770. It continues to be popular today because its native simplicity fits well in most NUPTIALS PLANNED—Mr. and Mrs. Luis de los Reyes, Coahoma, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, M. Luisa, to Robert de la Pena, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amado de la Pena, Garden City. The couple will be wed Dec. 16 in Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Big Spring, by the Rev. Fr. J.P. Delaney, O.M.I.

Alabama ceremony unites Marianne Wheeler, Gum

Marianne Wheeler and Edmond Keith Gum, both of Taos, N.M., were united in marriage in a morning ceremony at the Church of the Holy Comforter, Montgomery, Ala. The Rev. Mr. Robert Miller, minister of the church, performed the rite at 11:30 o'clock Saturday.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Wheeler, Montgomery, and the groom is the son of Jaunita Gum, 1509 Tucson, and the late Carl Lee Gum.

The altar was decorated with urns filled with white chrysanthemums grown by the bride's brother, George Wheeler, Montgomery.

Dr. Jean Schaffer, at the organ, played Baroque and classical selections.

The bride chose an ivory satin crepe gown enhanced with silk Venice lace applied on an English net yoke and long, tapered sleeves. The sleeves were deeply cuffed with satin crepe scalloped with Venice lace. The empire bodice was accented with a loose bolero circling the gown, featuring buttons down the center front and lace scallops at the edge.

A soft skirt of satin crepe swept back into a chapel-length train, and the gown's hem was scalloped with the lace. She wore a waltz-length veil of ivory illusion edged with matching lace and poised over an arched band of the lace.

She carried a bouquet of fresh garden flowers.

Mrs. Fielding Pierce, Auburn, Ala., served as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Jeannine Pittman, Atlanta, Ga., niece of the bride; and Maury Badham, Auburn.

Best man was Tim Gum, Midland, brother of the groom, and groomsmen, who also served as ushers, were Fielding Pierce, Auburn, and George M. Wheeler,

MRS. EDMOND KEITH GUM

Montgomery, brother of the bride.

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. Serving at the reception was the groom's sister, Marilyn Prater of Quincy, Ill.

The bride is a graduate of Sidney Lanier High School and attended Samford University, Birmingham, Ala., and University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The groom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Texas at Austin. He is presently employed at Overland Sheepskin Co., Taos, and will return to graduate school in Austin in January, 1979.

After a wedding trip to Estes Park, Colo., the couple will make their home in Austin.

"And Mary cooked the supper and Mary scrubbed the clothes, and Mary busted horses and blew the baby's nose."

And Mary and her shotgun kept the rattlesnakes away, but how she kept on smilin', no one could ever say."

—Steve Fromholz, "Texas Trilogy."

COLLEGE STATION — Rural women, roughly one-third of the female population, represent the greatest untapped labor force in America today, a study by a Texas A&M University sociologist shows.

While the resource is great, like the song says, few women participate in jobs outside the home; even though many farm incomes are operating at or below poverty level.

Why don't they participate?

"You've got to have the opportunity first," explained Dr. Elizabeth Maret. "There are just fewer job opportunities for women in rural areas and the jobs there are relatively low-paying."

"And sad as it is, that's the situation for a lot of rural women right now — the jobs and opportunities are simply not there," she said. "What sort of nonsense would it be for a woman to invest in training and education, when she knows there won't be a job available when she gets through?"

The two-year national study, funded by the U.S. Department of Labor and Texas A&M's College of Liberal Arts, was conducted by Ms. Maret and graduate student Lillian Chenoweth.

The survey included over 1,500 women living in rural areas from Bangor, Maine, to Brownsville, Texas. Rural areas were defined as having a population of 2,500 residents or less.

"If there was an opportunity for these women to supplement the income of their families, I feel quite certain many would do so," Ms. Maret emphasized. "Not many of us enjoy the necessities for ourselves and our children being denied — much less the luxuries."

transportation and health care as some examples of how rural incomes are being chipped away by inflation.

"The people that live in these areas have to drive to buy their groceries, market their products and care for their sick. Rising costs affect them like they do anyone else," she continued. "The idea that they are completely self-sufficient because they can grow their own food and make their own clothes is ridiculous."

Violence on television is equated with disease

The newest and most terrifying disease to affect children may be growing in strength, and there is no known antidote for it. This is the opinion of several experts on child psychology in a November 20 Family Circle article that focuses on the dangers of television and compares exposing children to television violence to infecting them with a dangerous illness.

According to psychologist Ronald Drabman of Florida Technological University, one result of this exposure is "the increasing acceptance of suffering on the part of the young," which, he feels, will itself lead to much more violence. Other experts cited in the article express concern that children are becoming "desensitized" to the antisocial acts around them.

Researchers at Florida

Technological University, says the article, also found that after a group of fifth graders had watched a violent television show, they were slower to call adults for help after a fight broke out among younger children than were their classmates who had not seen the show.

A study at the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania, conducted with grants from the National Institutes of Health and the A.M.A., also found that heavy television viewers tended to confuse what they saw on the tube with reality.

And, since they see so much violence in prime time, they often expect to see the same thing when they walk out of their home.

Quoting Dr. George Gerbner of the Annenberg School, the article states that "television seems to cultivate an exaggerated sense of danger and mistrust in heavy viewers compared to similar groups of light viewers. They become more cautious and prudent, and they accept a high level of violence without being activated to do something about it."

Unboxed items are easy to giftwrap

Are you sometimes puzzled when it comes to wrapping a holiday gift for which you have no box? If so, here are tips on wrapping those off-beat items that seem to defy neat solutions.

If, for instance, you are giving a sweater or lingerie, fold either item into a trim rectangle, wrapping it in tissue paper. Sandwich it between two pieces of cardboard, cut to size, and tape all four sides. Now you've got a box-like pattern that's ready to be wrapped.

If the gift is cylindrical or tall and slender, roll it into two or more layers of heavy-duty aluminum foil cut to length. Fasten it with tape and you've got a container that's just as easy to wrap as a box would be.

CAUGHT SHOPPING for an owner at the College Park Safeway parking lot, this female part-Schnauzer was brought into the Big Spring Animal Shelter last week. She's guessed to be about a year-and-a-half old and is available for immediate adoption. Schnauzers are a German-originated breed and are known to have existed in the 15th century. The specimen shown here will be non-existent if not adopted by Wednesday. See her at the animal shelter, 911 E. 2nd. The shelter is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

TwEEN 12 and 20 Takes a man to apologize

By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 18 and have I got a problem! My girlfriend and I had a fight. I got mad the next day and wrote her a rotten letter and sent her some rotten pictures.

Evidently my girlfriend shows everything to her mother because now her mother is on my case. I feel like I should apologize but I don't have the guts to. Please help! — Russ, Dubuque, Iowa

Russ: If you've got the guts to send a girl a "rotten" letter containing "rotten" pictures, then you had better be man enough to say you are sorry. I wouldn't blame your girlfriend if she unloads you for good.

Dr. Wallace: My fiancée and I just recently became engaged and he gave me a beautiful one-half carat diamond ring. Can you please tell me all about diamonds and why they cost so much and why they are so beautiful. — Beverly, Tracy, Calif.

Beverly: The diamond is unique among gems. Like fingerprints or snowflakes, no two are alike. The diamond is nature's hardest substance and its most brilliant.

India produced all the world's diamonds from about 700 B.C. until 1300 A.D. Today most of the world's diamonds come from South Africa.

Diamonds are the result of millions of years of great heat and pressure on various earthly substances, and when mined, look like a fairly shiny pebble. Most people would overlook a diamond in the rough thinking it was just another stone.

The largest diamond ever found weighed 3,106 carats (142 carats equal one ounce) and was cut into nine smaller diamonds with a combined value of $5 million.

Finally, the diamond symbolizes lasting love and for all those born in April, the diamond is your birthstone.

So after this lesson on your diamond, take good care of it and of the guy who gave it to you.

Dr. Wallace: Lately I have been disagreeing with my parents and have stated my opinion.

My parents tell me I'm sassy and should not talk back to them with my opinion. I don't want my parents to think I'm sassy and at the same time I want to express my opinion. Also, my parents said they didn't talk back to their parents.

What is the best way to express my opinion without being sassy? — Stephanie, Columbus, Ohio

Stephanie: I think it's the way you are stating your opinion rather than what you are saying that is getting you into trouble.

The next time you disagree with your parents and want to "speak up," be pleasant and positive; not negative and argumentative. It should work.

USDA provides tips for holiday mailing

Sending Christmas samples of your homemade fruit cakes, nutbreads, or other holiday delights to loved ones far away? Choose wisely what you send in the mail, suggests the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). Don't mail items that melt or need refrigeration.

Breads and unfrosted cakes are easier to wrap for mailing purposes. Wet frostings are messy and could slide during mail handling.

When preparing to mail breads and fruit cakes, first wrap them closely in plastic wrap or foil; keep in a cool place.

If you wish to send only portions, breads and cakes can be cut into thin slices cleaner and easier if thoroughly chilled.

Moist bar-type or cake-like cookies are better for mailing purposes than others. Crisp, crunchy, or puffed cookies are more likely to crumble with rough handling—even in a box.

Safety and condition of the food will be preserved if you package it correctly, says USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service.

Wrap baked items individually in waxed paper, plastic wrap or foil. Cookies may be wrapped back to back. Clean crumpled paper can act as filler around the items.

Coffee cans or metal boxes are outer protective coverings. Cardboard or corrugated boxes are also good protectors.

De Ann Cravens, Yates wed in Midland Baptist

The First Baptist Church of Midland was the setting for the nuptial rites of De Ann Cravens and Jody Yates at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 25. The Rev. Dr. Daniel Vestal, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Cravens, Midland, and the groom is the son of Mr. and

MRS. JODY YATES

Small Town With Minds to Match

DEAR ABBY: I am not a mixed-up teenager. I am a 22-year-old woman who has seen a lot of life.

When I was 15 I got involved with a married man and ended up with a baby and no husband. This is a small town and the word got around fast. After that I had the reputation of being easy, and 10 minutes after I was with a guy, I had a fight on my hands. (Why is it that men think just because a girl has made one mistake she has nothing to lose?)

When I try to explain that I've turned over a new leaf they think I'm putting on an act. How is a girl who has learned her lesson and changed her ways supposed to act?

NEW LEAF

DEAR LEAF: She is supposed to act like a lady and, after she's acted that way consistently, she will have convinced one and all that she has changed.

If she loses the man, she's lucky because she'll know he wasn't looking for a respectable girl. And, by the way, it's easier to live down a past if you change pastures.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a married man for nearly five years. I love him and he is like a father to my son whose father is dead.

He says he loves me, can't live without me, but he's trapped in an unhappy marriage (three children) and doesn't have the courage to leave his wife.

I've tried several times to give him up, but he always talks me out of it.

His wife knows about me and has told him she doesn't care what he does as long as he stays married to her.

I'm at an age where it seems impossible to meet single men, and I desperately want a man of my own. Can you help me?

TIRED OF CHEATING

DEAR TIRED: If you want a man of your own, say goodbye to him. And the sooner the better.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is a freshman who's away at college. We send her an allowance to cover smaller items, but she sends us all her larger bills and her father pays them.

She telephones us quite often, but she never writes. However, she is very prompt about sending us her bills which she sends off in an envelope without one personal word. It would mean so much if she just wrote, "love" and signed her name.

I suppose if I were to tell her how hurt her father and I are because of her thoughtlessness, she'd scribble a little duty note, but if we have to ask her for it we'd rather not have it.

I suppose this seems petty, but when I saw that postscript at the bottom of your column saying, "you'll feel better if you get it off your chest," I had to write.

There! I wrote, and got it off my chest. Believe it or not, I feel better. Thanks, Abby.

OFF MY CHEST IN DENVER

CONFIDENTIAL TO VIRGO IN S.F.: The healing of a relationship that has been strained (or broken) can be compared with the healing of a broken arm.

Merely saying that everything is all right and never referring to the matter again won't help. It's like ignoring a broken arm, favoring it, and expecting it to heal miraculously. It won't. It has to be straightened out and carefully reset. This is understandably painful, but it's necessary because a break which hasn't mended properly will never be able to stand much pressure.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lanky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A series of minor annoyances can be in effect now that keep you from achieving wanted results. So long as you operate in an ethical manner, you accomplish a great deal now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make sure you do nothing that can jeopardize your reputation today. Not the ideal time for expansion. Drive with utmost care, especially in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your hunches are not good today and you could make some bad decisions, so step on them first. Showing courtesy for loved one can cause that person to come to your way of thinking.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have to be more subtle if you want to gain your points now. Handle correspondence intelligently after you have sorted it out as to importance.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study your associations and know where it is best to make changes, and have more harmony. Little irritations crop up but they can be remedied easily.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) Plan time to show gratitude to those who have done you favors in the past. No better day to attend to a minor health matter. Try to get more rest.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) It is better to forego pleasure for today and wait for a more auspicious time. Be more willing to please loved ones by showing courtesy, attention. Make this a home day.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Make those needed changes at home and make a better understanding with kin. You need new interests, but this is not a good day to get involved in them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) This is a good time to improve relations with those close to you, whether by blood or distance. Take time to listen to the finest philosophical tenets. Raise your level to consciousness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study monetary problems well and know how best to handle them. If repairs to property are needed, count the cost and find right helpers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study your regular activities well and know what changes need to be made, if any. Do after personal aims since the social could prove boring or unsatisfactory.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look for the best means of advancing which have eluded you in the past. Not a good day to confer with an adviser. So wait for a day or so. One with close friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Analyze your position with the public in general and try to improve it in some way. You need more outlets to make life more interesting.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have much ability at organizing and handling practical matters well, and should be given a chance to do so early in life. Teach early not to argue with others and waste valuable energy.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." "What you make of your life is largely up to you!"

FORECAST FOR MONDAY
GENERAL TENDENCIES: The day starts out with little progress being made, but many opportunities present themselves later in the day. Be sure not to make any promises that are likely to be broken.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid friends early in the day since they could prove detrimental to your business affairs, but later they are helpful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you don't rise a higher up in the morning, you can make big strides in your career work. Obey all regulations that apply to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you study new projects, you can make this an interesting and profitable day. Obey the date you need for progress.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You must use good judgment in handling money or you could end up in trouble. Be careful of strangers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) It is best to wait until later in the day before going ahead with a project you have in mind. Take no risks with your credit.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) You find it difficult to get much done early in the day, but by adding new methods you speed up later. Avoid the social life until later in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Risks should not be taken at this time. Special thought for loved one will bring fine benefits to you at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Await the afternoon for any improvements could be made at home. The evening is fine for entertaining friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show more cooperation with associates and get much accomplished. Take no chances with your reputation tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find better ways to add to present abundance. Sideslip one who could be detrimental to your progress.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) There may be annoying delays in the morning, but later you make up for lost time. Show others that you are clever.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Good day to study others and learn much from them. The evening is ideal for making long-range plans for the future.

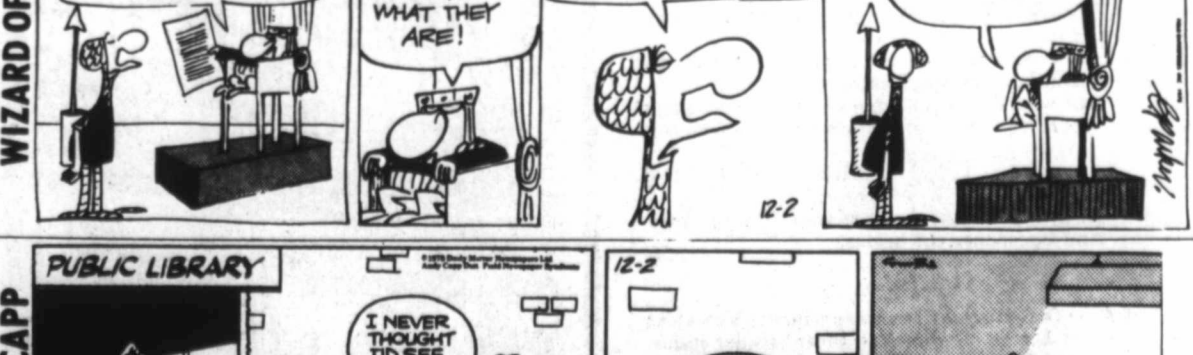

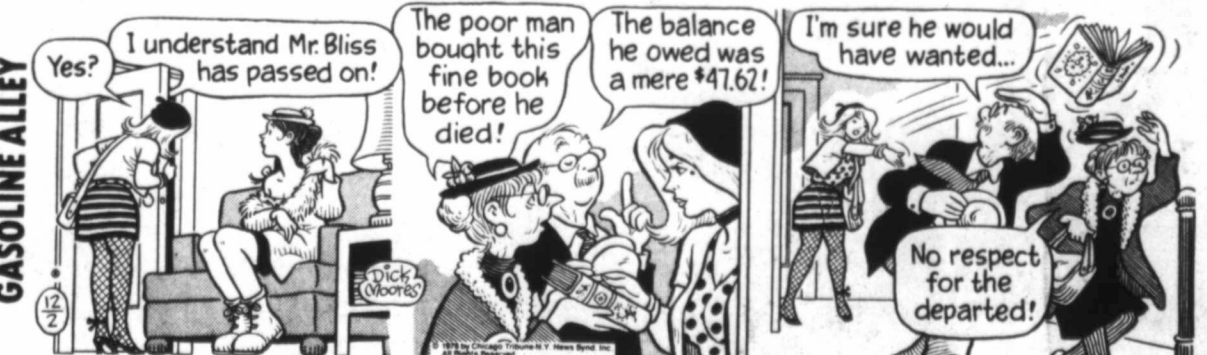

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have many progressive ideas and should be sent to modern schools for best results. There could be fame in this child. A highly inventive mind here. One who will excel in sports as well as spiritual matters.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." "What you make of your life is largely up to you!"

LIKES WESTERNS BETTER — Actor Larry Wilcox dressed at right for his starring role in the TV series "CHiPs" says he would rather be in a western series. AT left is how he looks for his starring role in an upcoming four-hour TV film on NBC titled "Raid on Coffeyville," the story of the Dalton Gang in 1892. While he owns three motorcycles he demonstrates his preference for horses by owning seven, and wants to raise more.

Star of CHiPs active in amateur rodeos

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's a safe bet that Larry Wilcox would rather make a living on horseback than on a motorcycle.

He does own three motorcycles and drives another one on the popular NBC series "CHiPs."

Horses are another story. He owns seven, wants to raise more, and spends his weekends participating in amateur rodeos. Recently, his skills were put to a test on "CHiPs."

"We had a rodeo episode," said Wilcox. "The crew knew I rode and roped. They were hoping I'd mess up so they could rib me." He grinned and added, "That's a great way to make a living."

Wilcox, virtually raised on horseback in Rawlins, Wyo., also plays western outlaw Emmett Dalton in the four-hour NBC movie "Raid on Coffeyville." The movie, produced and directed by Dan Curtis, recounts the attempt by the Dalton Gang in 1892 to simultaneously rob two banks in Coffeyville, Kan.

Would he rather be doing a western series? Wilcox has no complaints. Without hesitation, he replied, "I'd rather be doing something successful, and 'CHiPs' is successful."

"CHiPs," which also stars Erik Estrada and Robert Pine, is one of NBC's most

Tanya Tucker crosses over

LOS ANGELES (AP) — You could tell something was afoot in the career of country singer Tanya Tucker. You could tell by the Hollywood subtitles.

First, there was the cover on her new album. It wasn't your standard country album cover, a straight-forward portrait of a sweet-faced singer glancing heavenward. Rather, Tanya was pictured in an arrogantly sensual pose with a microphone cord snaked between the legs of her skin-tight leather britches.

Then there was the strange imitation-Playboy foldout in one of the major music trade magazines. It was Tanya again, this time in a bedeviling mood, posed in a bright red, form-fitting satin outfit, her tongue seductively peeking from a corner of her crimson mouth.

Then in the mail came this declaration from Tanya's publicist — "...the country miss has become Miss Rock and Roll." Aha! Crossover Time. The time in which the get-right-with-rock country stars (and they abound these days) pop up in a lot of interviews singing the "I-was-brought-up-with-country-music-but-I-need-to-expand-my-horizons (and besides, the bucks are better in rock)" blues.

To be fair to Tanya, though, she is a better pop-rock singer than Dolly Parton, that beautiful extravagance of nature who made the country-to-pop crossover the popular sport it is. Miss Tucker possesses the abandon necessary to perform rock well, as evidenced by her fine rendition of Buddy Holly's "Not Fade Away," and her first crossover album, "TNT," has met with heavy early success.

CROSSES OVER TO ROCK AND ROLL — Country singer Tanya Tucker pictured here in a form-fitting bright red satin outfit for a imitation-Playboy foldout poster is among the recent crop of country music singers to cross over to rock and roll singing. Commenting on her first rock and roll album, "TNT," she says, "I've almost made the change and I think I'm getting close to good rock and roll singing."

Colorado City Playhouse presents 'Spoon River Anthology'

COLORADO CITY — "Spoon River Anthology" will be presented in a reader's theater format by the Colorado City Playhouse Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 7-8-9.

Curtain time will be 8 p.m. each day. This will be the year by Colorado City Playhouse. "Spoon River Anthology" was written by Edgar Lee Masters and is considered a classic. It involves wishes for epitaphs of persons buried in the cemetery of Spoon River in western Illinois. That is the setting for the play. The time is about 1914.

This is the first reader's theatre presentation by Colorado City Playhouse in its 15 year history. It is being offered to give theatre goers as wide a variety of entertainment as possible.

Tickets costing $2 per person will go on sale starting next Monday at 1 p.m. The box office will be open 1-5 p.m. Monday through Wednesday and 1-8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday.

Tickets may be reserved by phoning 728-3491 or by going by the Colorado City Opera House ticket office. The area code is 915.

"Spoon River Anthology" will be presented in one act, lasting about one hour and 15 minutes. There will be a number of musical presentations between the readings of the wished for epitaphs.

Director is Mrs. G.D. (Montie) Foster, formerly associated with the Speech

Department of Abilene Christian University.

Members of the cast are: Carl Beery Moore, Playhouse president, who has appeared in a number of productions. He will read the parts of Rev. Lemuel Wiley, the Villager, Albert Bert, the druggist, Fiddler Jones, Hamilton Greene.

Bobbie Steakley, Playhouse board of directors member, also a veteran of various Playhouse presentations, will be reading the parts of Russian Sonia, Elizabeth Childers, Mrs. Roscoe Purkapple, Emily Sparks, and Elsa Wertman.

Marian Craddock, who also has appeared in a number of presentations, will read the parts of Mrs. Charles Bliss, Daisy Fraser, Mrs. Benjamin Pantier, Hannah Armstrong and Lucinda Matlock.

Scott Dennis, a newcomer to the Playhouse stage, will read the part of Charlie French.

Gary Dennis, also a newcomer to the Playhouse stage along with his son, will read the parts of Deacon Taylor, Perry Zoll, Benjamin Pantier, Knott Hoheimer, Paul McNeely and Richard Bone.

Bob Ford, a newcomer to the Playhouse stage, will read the parts of Barney Hainsfeather, Editor Whedon, Roscoe Purkapple, Reuben Pantier, Cooney Potter, and Washington McNeely.

Ann Nobles, another newcomer to the Playhouse stage, will read the parts of Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Kessler, Lydia Puckett, Mary McNeely and Anne Rutledge.

Narrator will be Pete McKinney. Music director is Libby Ford.

Producer for Playhouse productions for 1978 is Mac McKinney.

Thanksgiving dinners shared with guests

Mrs. Gerald Rollins came home Nov. 22 from Hendricks Medical Center in Abilene after undergoing surgery there. Visiting in the Rollins home over the holidays were Mrs. Rollins' mother, Mrs. C. C. Buchanan; her brother, John, Odessa; and Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart, Stanton.

Mrs. C. L. Clemmer was admitted to Odessa Medical Center Monday.

MRS. R. E. McGowan of Hobbs, N.M., spent the weekend with Mrs. F. B. Oglesby.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Quann Bryant spent Thanksgiving Day with the Ralph Bryants and their children in Odessa. Week-end guests of the Bells were Mrs. A. J. Holtkott of Lubbock, who was returning her mother, Mrs. A. K. McCarley, to Westbrook, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker.

SPENDING THANKSGIVING Day with her mother, Mrs. Allen Edwards, were Mr. and Mrs. Maxey Ware and Jeran.

Debbie Webb of San Angelo spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Webb.

Tim Parsons, Monahans, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Parsons, over the holidays.

GUESTS OF Mr. and Mrs. Joe Anderson and Chance at Thanksgiving were Mrs. G. L. Anderson, Junior Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Clemmer, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Anderson and Lillie Allen, all of Colorado City; Lisa Anderson, Texas Western College; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson and Angie, Aledo; and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Anderson, Shayne and Chris of Austin.

DATE SET — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sewell of El Paso announce the engagement of their daughter, Marlynn Dee, to Jack Troy Spears, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Spears, 2210 Scurry. The couple plan a Feb. 10 wedding at St. Christopher Episcopal Church, El Paso.

JANUARY RITE—Mr. and Mrs. Guadalupe Paredes, 607 N.W. 4th, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Maria Rosario, to Abel Abundez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abundez, 1010 N. Gregg. They plan to be married Jan. 13 in Sacred Heart Catholic Church by the Rev. Fr. J.P. Delaney, O.M.I.

The Phil Andersons also visited their mothers, Mrs. Edd Putman and Mrs. G. L. Anderson, while they were there, and the Donald Andersons called on the Bob Watleys and Mrs. G. L. Anderson.

IN LUFKIN over the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ranne, who visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Feaster and sons Tracy and Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maughon and children, Mount Pleasant, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sprawls of Christoval, spent the holidays with Glenda Stinson and family in Colorado City.

Mrs. Altis Clemmer was a guest from Wednesday to Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Webster in Stanton.

HOLIDAY GUESTS of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Iglehart were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cocke and Sarah of Allen and Mr. and Mrs. James Quinney, Linda and Mack of Abilene.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lewis over the holidays were her sons and their families, including Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphree and children of Denton and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Murphree of Lawton, Okla.

Junior Oden has recently returned from vacation in New Mexico, during which he visited a friend in Silver City. Other points of interest were Santa Fe, Albuquerque and Carlsbad.

DEBRA LYNN QUINNEY of Abilene and LeeRoy Miller of Lamesa were married recently at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Iglehart, Westbrook.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Quinney Jr. of Abilene, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Miller Sr. of Westbrook.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and her matron of honor was Mrs. Bruce Rich of Westbrook. Best man was Bruce E. Rich of Westbrook.

A reception in the home hosted by the bride's parents, followed the rite.

The bride is a graduate of Abilene High School and is employed with Abilene Greenhouse. The groom, a graduate of Westbrook High School, received a B.S. degree from Sul Ross University in Alpine. He is employed by the state in Lamesa.

After a wedding trip to the south, the couple will make their home in Lamesa.

"TELL IT OUT With Gladness" is the theme for the Week of Prayer for Foreign Missions.

Women of First Baptist Church will meet during prayer week at 2 p.m. Mon., Tues., Thurs., and Fri. The Wednesday program will be presented at 7 p.m. during prayer service. The service will be preceded by Mrs. Floyd Rice will present the week's programs.

Each day of the week will focus on one or two of the Bold Mission Thrust objectives in foreign missions. Each day will begin by confronting the claims of the Great Commission and will end with the triumphant result of obedience to the command.

Monday's session will emphasize praise of God for His guidance in the past and His continued presence in the future. Career missionaries and new appointees will be spotlighted.

Evangelism and church development will be the focal points at the Tuesday session.

The Wednesday meeting will focus on mass media and student evangelism.

Thursday's session will deal with health care and social ministries, an intercession in the prayer emphasis.

Friday will climax the week by asking "How can I be involved?" Lay volunteers will be spotlighted and emphasis will be on listening to God.

The song for the week is "Tell It Out With Gladness" in keeping with the theme. The church goal for the Lottie Moon Christmas offering has been set at $850. Overall goal for Southern Baptist is $4 million.

Mrs. Bob Manning, the local president, invites everyone to attend and join in on the program and prayer sessions.

THE ANNUAL Christmas supper and social for the Westbrook Golden Age Club will be at 7 p.m. Dec. 5 at the Ocotillo Club Building. All members are invited to attend and bring a gift.

A Christmas program will be presented by Mrs. A. G. Board, Denver Hays and Ruby Swett. Chairman of the Food Committee is Mrs. Alvin Byrd. Mrs. A. G.

Anderson is president of the club.

MR. AND MRS. Dalton Conaway spent Thanksgiving and Friday in Midland as guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Hancock. Other Thanksgiving guests were the William Conaways and Travis Conaway.

Kay Morris was admitted to Root Memorial Hospital in Colorado City on Nov. 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Shaw spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his mother, Mrs. Lee Shaw.

Mrs. Altis Clemmer, accompanied by Mrs. O. J. Brown and Mrs. J. B. Wilkinson of Sweetwater, spent Tuesday in Abilene where they visited Mrs. Clemmer's great-niece, Pam Hendrick, a senior at Abilene Christian University.
