Official County Paper Of Ochiltree County

PERRYTON, OCHILTREE COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 20, 1931.

NUMBER 30.

WELVE YEAR OLD PERRYTON

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 22, WILL BE THE TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOUNDED OF LEAD-ING PLAINS CITY

Healthy youngster. That is the way of Perryton, the city which will be twelve years old on August 22. Those who were here in Ochiltree county years ago little dreamed that the city would be the metropolis of the North Plains today. In the short span of years, a modern little city has sprung up, where only virgin prairie once stood.

Today has been made by many conditions, first of all the fact that it is located in the center of a rich, productive country, which has enabled it to practically have the county under the plow. There have been the progressive kind, quick to try new and better methods of getting the highest yield from the rich, fertile broad acres surrounding the city. The country has kept pace with the development of the country has made the comfortable farm homes, barns, hen and hog houses, seen in all directions.

And the surrounding country is very fortunate in having a high type of citizenry, and very few of the troubles that are to be met in every community. Our people are progressive and they have put in a rut. This year took the lead on the Plains and has always been a few jumps ahead of the best of churches, our people know for their excellence of the entire state, Perryton of beautiful homes, well lawns and shade trees, and streets, and business attract trade from miles away. Highway extend in all directions the city and bonds voted for paying them to border. Perryton is now the leading center of the county for during the past year firms and corporations have been established and business here. The population is slightly over the three hundred.

Perryton is the banner city of the entire state of Texas, this cutting down of our farmers, conditions are bad. Our people are planning and building are good times to come. Women report that business are better in Perryton other place in this county you are looking for a move to Perryton, the city to its slogan, "City."

H. P. Lorenz, manager of the Wheat Pool Elevator, announces the organization of the Lorenz Fuel and Feed Co., to be operated by him in connection with the elevator. A large warehouse has been erected by Mr. Lorenz in which car shipments of feed and flour will be handled. The well known Expansion brand of flour, for years a favorite with the housewives of the Southwest, will be featured by the new concern.

Mr. Lorenz announces that Expansion flour will be sold at retail by the following stores in this city: Bryan & Son, Piggy-Wiggly, Jitney Jungle, Stump & Grabeel, and also at the elevator. Feed of all kinds will be carried in stock for both the retail and wholesale trade. We wish to call your attention to the special offer on coal in this issue of the Herald.

McMILLAN MEETING CONTINUES THRU SUN.

The revival meeting, which is in progress at the McMillan school house southwest of Perryton, will continue all this week and over Sunday. Services are held each evening and on Sunday at 11:00 and 8:00 o'clock. Rev. Ed Wallace, Methodist presiding elder for this district, and Rev. C. E. Pike, local pastor, are in charge of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Blue, who have been spending a two weeks vacation visiting at Wichita and other points in Kansas, returned home Sunday. Mrs. Dean Toplewell and son, Burdett, of Tecumseh, Kans., accompanied them and will visit with her sister, Mrs. F. A. Blue, for a few weeks.

Archie and Ray Jeffroy, Frank Teague, Ralph Lindley and Floyd Hull returned last week from a vacation trip in Colorado.

AN ORGANIZED MOVEMENT FOR WORK FOR THE NEEDY

Perryton, as well as every other town in the country, will have many calls for help in the name of charity during the coming winter months. The average person does not want charity, yet when hunger and cold drives them to desperation, they will accept it. This class of people would rather be given the opportunity to work for their living even though it be but the bare necessities of life. We suggest that some means be provided for letting those that apply for help this winter work for what they get. There is always something that can be done about town, such as work on the streets, cleaning up the alleys and vacant lots. It is much better for a man to know he is earning his way than to humiliate his pride and get him used to living on charity. Once a person accepts charity, it is much easier the next time and many fall into the idea that they cannot live without help. There are plenty of cases, where people are unable to work but we say that when an able bodied person applies for help, he or she should be given to understand that they must give value received, even though the general welfare fund has to foot the bill for the labor.

2 INCHES RAIN DURING AUGUST

LOCAL SHOWERS OFFER SOME RELIEF FROM DROUGHT AND HEAT WAVE; STILL DRY

Scattered showers over this section of the Panhandle during August have in a measure offered some relief from the drought and heat wave. According to the official records, Perryton has received nearly two inches of moisture during this period.

Showers have been reported from many nearby sections during the past week and while the weather has been threatening here, nothing except light sprinkles have fallen. The heaviest fall of the month came from a light cloudburst Saturday afternoon, August 8, accompanied by high winds that did considerable damage, at which time 1.09 inches of moisture fell.

The record for the month follows: August 1—.60; August 2—.02; August 3—.14; August 8—1.09; August 9—.07; making the total for August, 1.92 inches.

OPEN TRAINING SEASON AUG. 31

COACH E. E. SHUPE CALLING MEETING OF RANGERS; PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Prospects are bright for a winning football team this season, according to Coach E. E. Shupe who is calling a meeting of all boys who will try for the Ranger team, on Monday afternoon, August 31, at 3:30 o'clock.

From present prospects there will be plenty of material to pick the Ranger squad from this season and competition for places on the team is going to be stiff. At least nine letter men will be back according to Coach Shupe, including Captain Ruppert, Tucker, Shockley, Garrison, Grogan, Johnson, Murphy, Bradford and Mounts.

Much promising new material will also turn out this season, several boys from Farnsworth and others will be seen at workout.

"I would like to meet all the boys who expect to go out for football this season," Coach Shupe says, "and if it is possible for them to be at the first meeting, I hope they will try and be present."

Regular work-outs will be held each afternoon during the pre-school training period. The regular season will start early for the Rangers and the extra week of practice will be needed in order to whip a team into shape for the first game. A complete schedule of the Ranger's games will be announced later.

HERALD WHEAT OFFER CLOSED

CHARITY WILL BE GIVEN ALL WHEAT RECEIVED BY HERALD ON DOLLAR BUSH-EL FOR PAPER

The "Dollar per Bushel" for wheat in exchange for subscriptions to the Ochiltree County Herald went over in a big way, in fact much better than we expected. A total of 662 bushels of wheat was taken in during the time of the offer, which closed at six o'clock Saturday afternoon. Over one hundred new subscribers were added to the Herald lists, thus giving those merchants who use the advertising columns of this paper, additional coverage. One hundred new subscribers means that your advertising message will go into one hundred more homes, and will be read by at least five hundred more people. In addition to the new subscribers, over two hundred of our old reader family took advantage of the exceptional offer of $1.00 per bushel for wheat, and marked up their expiration date for another year in advance.

As we have stated before, all wheat received on this deal will be given to charity during the winter months. It is now stored with the Consumers Milling Co. and Doyle Hollingsworth, proprietor of the mills, assures us that he will cooperate with us in this matter. We are also indebted to Chester Cooper of the Cooper Transfer Line for his wonderful spirit of cooperation. Mr. Cooper's trucks hauled all of this wheat from the Herald office to the mill, the drayage amounting to $20.00, but when he found that it was to be used for charity purposes, he very generously stated that there were no charges, and that he would be glad to donate that much. The Herald wishes to express our appreciation to Mr. Cooper and Mr. Hollingsworth, also to the many subscribers who took advantage of this offer. The subscriber got a $2.00 value for sixty cents, and the two bushels of wheat may keep some family from suffering in the months to come.

CIGARETTE TAX DUE SATURDAY

FAG SMOKERS TAX IS THREE CENTS ON EVERY PACKAGE AFTER SATURDAY; GAS AND OTHER LAWS

AUSTIN, Aug. 17.—A cigarette tax law to bring in the state approximately $16,000 a day, and new production taxes on natural gas and cement and increased taxes on sulphur will go into effect Saturday, August 22, along with the new truck size regulation law, a uniform county-state budget system, legalized Sunday moving pictures, power to prohibit drunk drivers from operating cars, and approximately 150 other laws.

These are the bills of the regular session going into effect 90 days after its adjournment. The cigarette tax of three cents per standard package of 20 will be administered through the treasury department, and stamps have been put in the hands of 1,500 banks for local dealers to use until old are exhausted. The wholesalers or "first dealers in Texas" are required to affix the stamps. The recent legislature refused to change the law to apply the tax on the use of cigarettes, thus making it unlawful to use cigarettes imported by the consumer without payment of the tax. That bill failed to get a final vote in the special session.

The law reducing the size of trucks and buses was one of the important measures of the special session. It imposes a 7,000-pound load limit, but this limit does not apply until January 22.

Juries may now order drunk or drug-addict drivers to be prohibited from operating cars up to two years. Much of the legislation was of local concern or limited interest.

Miss Selma Payne was a dinner guest Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cutter and accompanied them to Canadian for a short visit with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Ayers, before returning to her work at Oklahoma City. Mrs. Cutter visited in Canadian over the week-end.

Carol Hurter, Huntton, visited over the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Fletcher.

SEVEN JAILED HERE IN WEEK

FOUR FOR INVESTIGATION; CHARGES AGAINST 3 WITH ONE OUT ON BOND

County officers have had a busy week, making seven pick-ups, four on investigation and three on charges, releasing one on bond. Buddy Bower was the first to be arrested, last Thursday, charged with swindling, later being released on bond.

Joe Archelator, Mexican sheep herder, was taken Saturday evening, charged with statutory rape. Archelator has been here for the past two years, working on a sheep ranch in the northwest part of the county. The offense was alleged to have been on his thirteen year old daughter. Archelator is being held awaiting grand jury action.

On Sunday evening Sheriff J. S. Talley and Deputy Del Taliaferro took "Wolf" Cameron into custody on a drunk charge, with the possibility of other charges being placed against him. He is still being held.

On Monday, Officers W. J. Potteroff and Del Taliaferro placed four men in jail for investigation. They are Floyd Haworth, age 28, Earl Simmons, age 31, Raymond Simmons, age 28 and Holland Parsons, age 25. It is said that three of these men have past records, but as yet no charges have been placed against them.

Win Game From Booker

Small Crowd Sees Local Club Win From Visitors 12 to 4, Sunday

A very small crowd of baseball fans turned out Sunday afternoon to see the local club win from the visiting Booker club by a 12 to 4 margin. The local team supporting the good hurling of "Pip" Guthrie held the visitors to four runs while the heavy hitting Perryton players brought in twelve.

It seems a shame that the Perryton team does not get more support from the local fans. The team is worthy of support and they should have it. While they started the season with a losing streak, they have gained back their standing from the victories of the past several weeks. Turn out and support the home boys.

Farnsworth Grange

Largest Crowd Since Harvest At Last Meeting of Lone Star Grange at Farnsworth

Farnsworth, Tex., Aug. 19.—Lone Star Grange met in regular session Tuesday night, August 11. A good attendance, the best since harvest, was present. The Lecturer's program, arranged by Mrs. R. W. Stratford, Lecturer, included some good singing by members under the direction and leadership of M. W. Truax.

County Agent Guy R. Sheets gave an interesting report of some of the features of the Farm Short Course, which he recently attended at College Station.

National Grange Master Louis J. Taber, who delivered two addresses on the program, discussed with Mr. Sheets the progress of the Grange in Ochiltree county, saying it was the expectation to follow up the start made at Farnsworth and build up a strong organization in Texas.

Many county agents from over the state sought out Mr. Sheets to make inquiry as to the manner in which the Grange can be made a help to county agents. All expressed hope that the organization would be brought to their counties.

L. R. Conner, Master of Lone Star Grange, reported on the recent meeting of Pomona Grange in Beaver county, which he and Mrs. Conner attended. Conner urged a good attendance from Lone Star Grange to the Grange picnic to be held Saturday, August 22, at the well known picnic place in Beaver county, north of Booker.

A recitation by Master Hal Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chase, was a feature of the program during Lecturer's Hour.

It was announced that refreshments would be a feature of the next meeting, which will be Tuesday, August 25, the hour of meeting to be eight o'clock.

Miss Selma Payne was a dinner guest Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cutter and accompanied them to Canadian for a short visit with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Ayers, before returning to her work at Oklahoma City. Mrs. Cutter visited in Canadian over the week-end.

Carol Hurter, Huntton, visited over the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Fletcher.

PERRYTON NEEDS A CITY WEED CUTTING CAMPAIGN

What's the matter with a city-wide weed cutting campaign in Perryton? It looks to us like it is badly needed at this time, both on streets and alleys, vacant lots and we are ashamed to say, in the yards of many homes. Now is the right time to cut the weeds, for they will not have time to get much growth the remainder of the summer. Besides being unsightly, the weeds are very unsanitary and make a serious and dangerous fire hazard. Let's have a weed cutting day! How about putting city police court prisoners to work cutting weeds, instead of laying out fines, nursing a bunk and eating off the city. We believe if some of these drunks, gamblers and scrappers, were sentenced to so many days at cutting weeds or other hard work, they would think twice before they were haled into court the next time. But there are plenty of weeds on private owned property, homes and in the back of business houses. If you are not inclined to cut them yourself, there are plenty of men in Perryton who would be thankful for a few hours work at very reasonable pay. Get those weeds cut around your place at once and your neighbor will profit by your example and do likewise.

To Help Unemployed

American Legion Auxiliary is Co-operating With Legion In Unemployment Aid

The American Legion Auxiliary will give its full support to the nation-wide movement of The American Legion to improve the employment situation. Mrs. F. L. Garrett, Rehabilitation chairman of the Pierce Johnson Unit of the Auxiliary, announced today. The aid of the Auxiliary's 400,000 women will be extended in all phases of the Legion's employment work which is expected to be an important factor in lessening unemployment during the coming winter.

The employment program of the Legion is being developed in co-operation with the United States Employment Service of the Department of Labor. Mrs. Garrett explained. Its purpose is not only to assist in bringing the jobless and the jobs together through employment information service, but to create more jobs by stimulating public construction and improvement projects. Aid will be given to securing work for all unemployed as well as for unemployed World War veterans.

"The Legion and Auxiliary are advocating expenditures for needed public work in preference to expending public funds in charity," Mrs. Garrett said. "The unemployed veterans and other jobless do not want charity but want work. Carrying out necessary public projects now will provide work and reduce the amount required for charity."

"The low construction costs maintaining at present make possible the carrying out of public work at bargain prices. Public officials who have the courage and the foresight to initiate projects now will effect large savings for the tax-payers in their communities as well as improving the employment situation. Nearly every community has some work which needs to be done and the Legion and Auxiliary will use their influence to get this work started as soon as possible."

American Legion Department Employment officers have been appointed in nearly every state and are working with the State Directors of the Department of Labor. The strength of the Legion's 10,000 Posts and the Auxiliary's 7,500 Units is being placed behind the effort.

Dr. Powell, Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist, will be at Dr. Brewer's office, Tuesday, August 25. Have your children's eyes examined, and tonsils removed, if need, before school.

Step out of any other low-priced car, step into a Chevrolet, and you'll learn what a difference six cylinders make.

"Idle" the engine—and the whole car remains steady. Open the throttle—the power flows evenly. Accelerate—throttle down—go fifteen or fifty—and this smoothness stays with you whatever you do. For six-cylinder smoothness is built into the motor—and objectionable vibration never even starts!

Yet smoothness is only part of your six-cylinder experience. There's greater quietness, because noisy vibration is gone. There's greater comfort, because built-in smoothness doesn't tire the driver or passengers. There's greater flexibility, because the power impulses of a six overlap. And response is more positive, performance more elastic. A six is much easier to handle!

And particularly, if you raise the hood of a Chevrolet and watch the engine running smoothly and steadily, you'll realize that six cylinders also mean greater dependability.

You owe it to yourself—to see and drive a Chevrolet today. And remember when you do—that no other car is so economical to operate as the powerful Chevrolet Six!

W. N. U. Service

My proposal was more liberal than the circumstances or my own views on the subject really warranted. It conceded priority for a limited number of the infantry and machine-gun units, but generally it contemplated the shipment of artillery for divisions and corps and railway troops, mechanics and labor troops for the service of the rear, all of which were badly needed.

It was the distinct understanding, however, as already promised by Foch, that if we would consent to make concessions as to infantry and machine-gun units the French would help us out with artillery when the time came to form an American army. But, of course, they could not furnish men for other services, nor the services of supply, without which we could not function as an army.

Others Insist on Program

When we met Milner, and especially Foch, insisted that the war would be lost unless their program was carried out. I repeated the arguments already presented to the council and added that I fully realized the military emergency, but did not think that the plan to bring over untrained units to fight under British and French commands would either relieve the situation or end the war.

I pointed out that, regardless of the depressing conditions and the very urgent need of men by the allies, their plan was not practicable and that even if sound in principle there was not time enough to prepare our men as individuals for efficient service under a new system, with the strange surroundings to be found in a foreign army.

Here Foch said: "You are willing to risk our being driven back to the Loire?"

I said: "Yes, I am willing to take the risk."

Moreover, the time may come when the American army will have to stand the brunt of this war, and it is not wise to fritter away our resources in this manner. The morale of the British, French and Italian armies is low, while as you know, that of the American army is very high, and it would be a grave mistake to give up the idea of building an American army in all the details as rapidly as possible."

"Can't Budge Him an Inch"

At about this juncture Lloyd George, M. Clemenceau and Premier Orlando of Italy, evidently becoming impatient, walked into the room. Milner met Lloyd George at the door and said in a stage whisper behind his hand: "You can't budge him an inch." Lloyd George then said: "Well, how is the committee getting along?"

Whereupon we all sat down and Lloyd George said to me: "Can't you see that the war will be lost unless we get this support?" which statement was echoed in turn by Clemenceau and Orlando. In fact, all five of the party attacked me with all the force and prestige of their high positions.

But I had already yielded to their demands as far as possible without disputing the plans toward which we had been striving for over a year and a continuance of May shipments into June, without and provision for transporting artillery and auxiliary and service of supply troops, could not be granted without making it practically impossible in the future to have an American army.

After I had gone over the whole situation again and stated my position, they still insisted, whereupon I struck the table with my fist and said with the greatest possible emphasis, "Gentlemen, I have thought this program over deliberately and will not be coerced."

This ended the discussion in committee and when the council reconvened M. Clemenceau stated that the question of American troops would be taken up again on the following day.

When the council met for the afternoon session of the second day the discussion of shipments of American personnel was at once resumed. General Foch spoke at length, repeating previous arguments and giving a rather grandiose dissertation of the allied situation and the dire things that would happen unless the Americans agreed to the proposal of the council.

Lloyd George's Challenge

Mr. Lloyd George in turn spoke at some length. He asserted that the Germans hoped to use up the British and French reserves before their own were exhausted, and that the British had already called up nearly 7,000,000 men for their army and navy and had extended their age limits to all men between eighteen and fifty years of age.

"If the United States does not come to our aid," he said, "then perhaps the enemy's calculations will be correct. If France and Great Britain should have to yield this defeat would be honorable, for they would have fought to their last man, while the United States would have to stop without having put into line more than little Belgium."

Possibly realizing the unfairness of the comparison he quickly went on to say that he was sure I was doing my best to meet the emergency, and that:

"General Pershing desires that the aid brought to us by America should not be incompatible with the creation of the American army as rapidly as possible."

"I, too, am counting on the existence of that army and I am counting on it this very year to deal the enemy the final blow. But to do that the allies will have to hold out until August."

CHAPTER XL

"Speaking in the name of the American army and in the name of the American people," I told the supreme war council during the second day of its session at Abbeville, May 2, 1918, "I want you to realize that we are ready to bear as large a part as possible of the burden of the war. We all want the same thing, but our means of attaining it is different from yours."

"America declared war independently of the allies, and she must face it as soon as possible with a powerful army. There is one capital point to which I wish to call your attention. That is the importance to the morale of our soldiers of fighting under our own flag."

America is already anxious to know where her army is. The Germans have once more started a strong campaign of propaganda in the United States, the purpose of which is to insinuate that the allies have so little confidence in the American troops that they are obliged to distribute them among their own divisions.

Tells of American Pride

"The American soldier is as proud as any other, and the time will soon come when our troops, as well as our government, will ask to fight as an autonomous army under the American high command."

"I understand that in Prime Minister Lloyd George's proposal we shall have to again examine the situation in June before deciding for July.

"That is all that I can agree to at present to show my desire for solidarity with the cause of the allies."

Lloyd George had previously taken up a revised program submitted by myself and after some discussion he proposed that:

"America gives us 120,000 infantrymen and machine gunners in May—the same number in June, with a supplement of 50,000 infantrymen and machine gunners if we 'scrape together' the tonnage to transport them."

He further proposed that the situation be examined again in June before deciding whether there was reason to extend to July the program decided upon for May and June. He then called on the council to accept his plan.

Inasmuch as the proposal submitted by Lloyd George contemplated the shipment of the numbers mentioned in British tonnage, leaving American shipping entirely free for us to use as we should decide, an agreement was soon reached, substantially as set forth in the following cablegram to the secretary of war:

"Following agreement adopted by supreme war council May 2 at Abbeville. Will cable more in detail later. It is the opinion of the supreme war council that, to carry the war to a successful conclusion, an American army should be formed as early as possible under its own commander and under its own flag. (Then it was thought the war would run to 1919.)"

"In order to meet the present emergency it is agreed that American troops should be brought to France as rapidly as allied transportation facilities will permit, and that as far as consistent with the necessity of building up an American army preference be given to infantry and machine-gun units for training and service with French and British armies; with the understanding that such infantry and machine-gun units are to be withdrawn and united with their own artillery and auxiliary troops into divisions and corps at the discretion of the American commander in chief after consultation with the commander in chief of the allied armies in France."

"It is also agreed that during May preference should be given to the transportation of infantry and machine-gun units of six divisions, and that any excess tonnage shall be devoted to bringing over such troops as may be determined by the American commander in chief."

June Shipment Up to Pershing
"It is further agreed that this program shall be continued during June upon condition that the British government shall furnish transportation for a minimum of 130,000 men in May and 150,000 men in June, with the understanding that the first six divisions of infantry shall go to the British for training and service, and that troops sent over in June shall be allocated for training and service as the American commander in chief may determine.

A. E. F. Phone Girls.

"It is also further agreed that if the British government shall transport an excess of 150,000 men in June, such excess shall be infantry and machine-gun units, and that early in June there shall be a new review of the situation to determine further action."

As stated in a cable from the secretary of war, received May 12, this agreement provided less priority for infantry and machine-gun units than recommended by the supreme war council. It was certainly much more favorable to the ultimate formation of an American army than we had reason to expect in view of the recommendations contained in this note No. 18 of the military representatives, which, as we have seen, had been practically approved by the President. In the excitement over our agreement with the British the full purport of this commitment was not emphasized by the allies during the discussion.

Pooling for Supplies

Another matter, taken up informally with the prime ministers after the conference, was that of pooling allied supplies. I explained its advantages and emphasized the saving in tonnage that would result. Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Orlando did not commit themselves entirely, but accepted it in principle, as M. Clemenceau had done, and each agreed to designate an officer with business experience to meet with us at an early date to study the question.

With this beginning at least a step had been taken toward our objective, even though the principle might not be extended as far as we thought desirable. A few days later M. Clemenceau called a meeting in his office of the representatives, Gen. Sir Travers Clarke acting for the British and Col. Charles G. Dawes for the Americans.

CHAPTER XLI

On the heels of all the clamor for nothing but infantry and machine gunners I received a request from Marshal Haig, British commander, asking 10,000 artillerymen. This fully bore out a prediction I had cabled Washington that the allies would be asking artillerymen before long.

It will be readily understood, however, that once the allies had made a demand for infantry and machine gunners they all joined in concerted effort to bring it about regardless of what their real needs might be.

In reply, I reminded Marshal Haig that the Abbeville agreement, giving priority to infantry and machine-gun shipments, would prevent the arrival of our artillerymen for some time.

In fulfilling our part in military co-operation we had already gone far beyond the mere recognition of the principle of unity of command and had begun to bring over hundreds of thousands of men almost regardless of the organizations to which they belonged, that they might be available in the event of extreme necessity.

Inspects Second Division

It was my custom throughout the war, as both a duty and a pleasure, to visit the troops as frequently as possible to keep in touch with the state of efficiency and the morale of officers and men. As Bundy's Second division, with Harbord and E. M. Lewis as brigade commanders, was leaving the quiet sector south of Verdun en route to the billeting and training area to finish preparation for battle, the moment was opportune to make a brief inspection. I had an opportunity to talk with a number of the officers in command of smaller units. I especially discussed the question of supply with officers charged with duty.

I visited Harbord's brigade of marines and found those I inspected in good shape and their billets well kept. The troops of the division that were seen on the march, especially the trains, did not look so well. In an army like ours the care of animals is difficult to teach. Cruikshank's artillery looked well. The entraining an Ancement was carried out in an orderly and systematic manner.

General Blondiat, in whose corps the Second had been serving, spoke very highly of the troops. The favorable impression obtained of this unit was very soon to be confirmed on the battlefield, where its distinguished service was to make its name immortal.

Frequently Had Gun
During the first few months of the war, I occupied the town, but later M. de Chaumont some three miles away. My headquarters were limited to the few officers whom I was most intimate and consisted of my aids, the chief of staff, or two others. Nearly always from among the visitors, French and American, who were general headquarters were guests and we were always have them.

As a rule there was a banquet in the way of the rule was rarely held then only when we had guests seeking enlightenment and activities.

There was one subject that always start a discussion, and was the relative value of different arms, each being regarded by at least one officer.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

Slogan: "A Changeless Christ For a Changing World."

It is not a very unusual experience to find a clock which refuses to run except when it is lying on its back. Perhaps it may be due to a flail or a jolt the clock has received, which causes the delicate mechanism to become off balance sufficiently to prevent it from functioning properly. At any rate, for some reason the clock just will not work right when standing in a normal position; only when placed on its back will it run. Now, some people are very much like such a clock. The only time they are pious is when they are sick in bed, lying flat on their back; the only time they trouble seriously of praying is when trouble has them down; the only time they are willing to hear God's Word and ready to listen to the pleadings of the Holy Spirit is when their sickness or sorrow or some similar handicap threatens to become unbearable.

While also in this case the old saying is true, "Better late than never," nevertheless why should any one be so foolish and wait until he is down? Why be such an abnormal clock when the means are at hand to overcome such defects? Why act like some people did who waited until the "Titanic" struck an iceberg and was quickly sinking into the ocean before they thought of praying to God and joined in singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee"? Why postpone repentance and put off thoughts of salvation to some later date, when you know that to do so is a dangerously foolish and sinfully careless practice? Why flirt with the devil and invite damnation while Jesus in the Gospel is calling you to accept grace and salvation? Think it over earnestly and seriously, carefully and prayerfully!

The sermon subject at 10 o'clock Sunday morning will be, "God's Intentions When He Afflicts Us With Sickness, And Suffering." Sunday School and Bible Class at eleven. We invite you to worship with us.

H. W. Hartenberger, pastor.

Through financial reverses and old age, life for him has not been too good, but he was always trying to do something to make his own way and never seeking or asking for charity.
