DOCKING PROBLEM CORRECTED; ASTROS WHIZ TOWARD MOON

Apollo Flight Continues

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 14 crew, using a flashlight and radioed do-it-yourself instructions, tried unsuccessfully today to pinpoint the cause of a malfunction that threatens to wipe out their long-sought landing on the forbidding moonscape of Fra Mauro.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., the patriarch of American spacemen, and rookies Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa deliberately tried for more than an hour to make a linking mechanism fail to work—as it had when they attempted to dock their command ship with the lunar lander earlier.

'IT WORKS'

"It works," Roosa said finally. "Just real fine."

The apparatus must be able to work for its next use, when Shepard and Mitchell would return from the lunar surface to link again with the command ship piloted by Roosa.

"We will have to convince ourselves . . . that the thing is indeed satisfactory for docking," said Sigurd Sjoberg, director of flight operations.

Asked whether the astronauts will go through with Friday's landing attempt on the moon's craggy highlands, Sjoberg said, "I'd like not to speculate on that right now."

The astronauts worked the latches by hand on instructions from Houston without a single failure.

'WE'LL WORRY'

"You've exhausted our imagination for right now on trouble-shooting the probe," said Mission Control. "We'll worry about it some more overnight and be back with you in the morning."

There was no argument from the astronauts, who had been awake for more than 19 hours by that time and in the spacecraft for 16 of those. No threat to their safety was involved.

Experts who had watched their efforts via television studied the problem during the crew's 10 hours sleep time.

Unlike Apollo 13, which was endangered by an explosion, this was a little—but frustrating—problem. Sjoberg said if the landing could not be made, the astronauts would attempt an alternate mission of orbiting the moon.

The trouble confronted the astronauts three hours after launch Sunday when they turned their command ship for docking.

On previous flights the maneuver was routine. The mother ship would edge forward from its stack, turn around, and hook onto the lunar lander nose-to-nose. Then the command ship can pull the moonship out of the spent third stage of the Saturn 5 rocket.

LIKE TOOTHACHE

This time, three small latches shorter than a cigarette and not much wider—failed to lock into position in five move-up, back-out tries. On the sixth, using an unorthodox procedure, the ships mated.

Once past that hurdle, the astronauts were able to pull the troublesome mechanism inside. They found some small scratches on the polished face of the cone-shaped docking probe. They were made, Shepard said, by the capture latches.

Houston radioed tests and the mechanism passed each one flawlessly. It was something like a toothache that disappears in the dentist chair.

Shepard crawled into the tunnel formed by the joining of the two ships

SCRATCHES

"I looked in here with a flashlight and I didn't see anything out of the ordinary," he said. And later: "Right here in the very tip of the probe, it's clean. I don't see anything fishy about that."

Then he found the scratches. Mission Control had no clue on their cause.

No word from space indicated disappointment by the Apollo 14 crewmen who went aloft with the knowledge that the future of the space program might hinge on their success.

At one point Shepard suggested going outside the spacecraft to make repairs. But Mission Control said to try docking again.

'HARD DOCK'

"I got a hard dock," said Roosa one hour and 44 minutes after the first docking attempt. It indicated the immediate problem was solved. His words were as important to this Apollo 14 mission as Shepard's "Everything is A-O.K.!" on America's first space flight nearly 10 years ago.

WHILE GOVERNOR

Connally Paid $225,000 By Foundation?

NEW YORK (AP) — John B. Connally Jr. was paid at least $225,000 while he was governor of Texas by the Sid W. Richardson Foundation, the New York Times said today.

Connally has been nominated by President Nixon to be secretary of the Treasury.

A report by Martin Waldron from Fort Worth, Tex., quotes the Texas constitution as saying a governor is prohibited from receiving any "salary, reward or compensation of the promise thereof from any person or corporation for any service rendered or performed during the time he is governor."

Perry R. Bass, a director of the foundation, said the money was in payment for work Connally had done as an executor of the $105-million estate of Sid Richardson, an oil millionaire, after Richardson's death in 1959.

Bass said today in Fort Worth that the executor fees due Connally were spread out over several years to put Connally in a better tax position.

"I don't know when the foundation paid to Connally the executor fees that Connally had coming to him by virtue of being an executor, which he was," Bass said.

NATIONWIDE RAIL STRIKE THREAT

Nixon Will Look Down Barrel

WASHINGTON (AP) — With no indications of a settlement in sight, President Nixon and Congress soon may be looking down the barrel again of a threatened nationwide rail strike.

Nixon has until Feb. 15 to submit a report to Congress on the dispute, along with his recommendations for settlement. And Congress has until March 1, when a legislated strike moratorium ends and the unions will be free to act.

JAWBONING TIME

There have been talks in the past few weeks involving both the Railway Clerks, largest of the involved unions, and United Transportation Union, but there have been few reports of progress.

Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Tex., a member of the House Commerce Committee, which has legislative jurisdiction, commented:

"I would say to the President and to the executive department this is the time for some good old, healthy jawboning negotiations. I would hope that the executive department in the next two weeks would call in the interested parties and with all of the force and power at their command try to get them to enter into meaningful negotiations."

BACK IN LAP

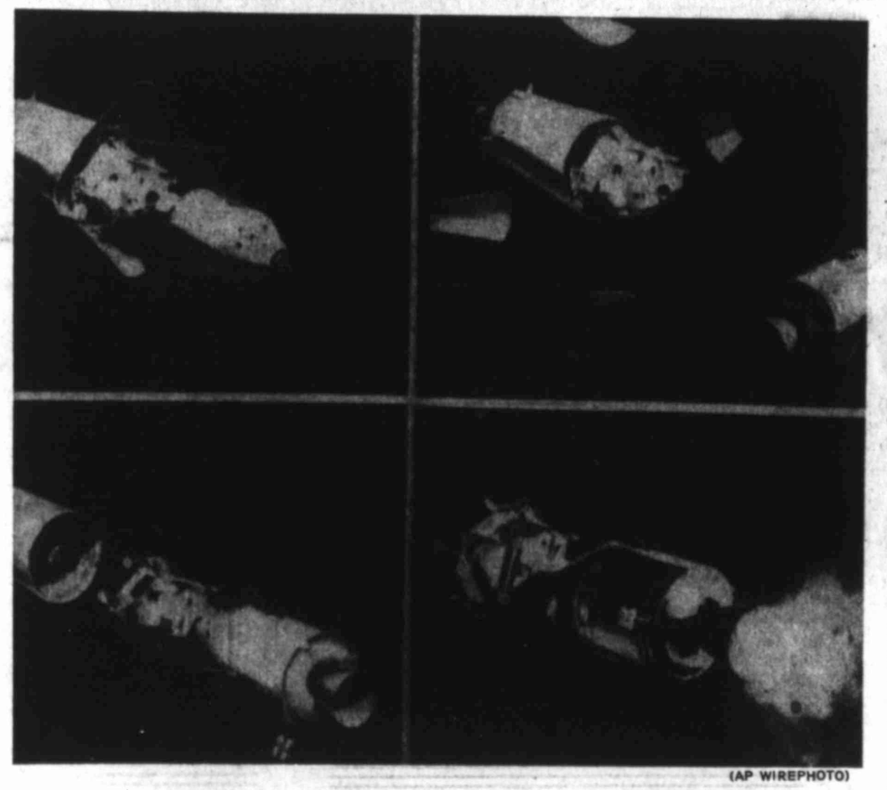

If nothing comes of such efforts, however, the situation will be right back in the lap of Congress, which cut off the strike last December only hours after it began. The 81-day moratorium enacted gave nearly 500,000 rail workers an immediate 13.5 per cent pay raise.

It was the second nationwide rail strike in three years Congress halted with special laws after Railway Labor Act provisions expired.

At issue are union demands for a three-year contract providing an estimated 40 per cent boost over current wages averaging about $3.50 an hour, a cost of living increase and other benefits.

The industry had accepted a mediation panel's recommendation of a 32 per cent pay boost for members of the involved unions—the clerks, the UTW, Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way and the Hotel and Restaurant Employes.

Should the problem end up in Congress again, time would become a critical factor.

'Moon Rocks' Marchers Gig Lazy Whites

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — About 200 blacks who marched here to protest the Apollo 14 moon flight Sunday heard one of their leaders say "America sends lazy white boys to the moon" because "if there was work to be done, they'd send a nigger."

"America is sending lazy white boys to the moon because all they're doing is looking for moon rocks," said Joseph Hammonds, an official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. "If there was work to be done, they'd send a nigger. There is probably a nigger messing with the moon rocks when they get back because the whites are afraid of radiation."

The protesters set out from Daytona Beach Friday on a "march against moon rocks" and covered part of the 75-mile trip to the Cape by car. They walked from Titusville to the Kennedy Space Center Sunday morning along U.S. Highway 1 behind a wagon drawn by a pair of plow horses.

Among the marchers were about 30 black maids from Daytona Beach who said they earn about $35 a week by cleaning $50-a-day motel rooms.

Man Charged With Murder

Charges of murder with malice and aggravated assault with a knife have been filed against Jesus Jimenez, 26, Coahoma, in connection with the Saturday slaying of Nacho Rodriquez.

Jimenez was transferred today to Howard County jail where he remains in lieu of a total of $25,000 bond on the two charges. Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter set the bonds for Jimenez.

Rodriquez was shot two times in the head Saturday night at the El Sombrero Tortilla Factory and cafe, North Lamesa Drive. He was taken to Cowper Clinic and Hospital and died 10 minutes after arriving.

Officer Gerald Harrison reported hearing a shot at the cafe and being waved down by a man. Upon investigating Officer Harrison found Rodriquez lying on the floor of the cafe with a gun in hand. He said he saw two men arguing.

Harrison broke the argument up and took Jimenez into custody after speaking with Juan Rivas. He advised Rivas to go to a hospital, for treatment of a stab wound. Rivas was taken to the hospital by a friend and released later.

Detective Avery Falkner reported a .22-caliber pistol and knife were found on Jimenez.

Blow On Head Kills Baby, Suspect Held

LUBBOCK (AP) — Police held a 23-year-old man today after the death of 4-month-old Edward Cerna, who was dead on arrival at a Lubbock hospital Sunday night.

Sheriff's deputies said the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Cerna apparently died from a blow on the head.

The man was arrested on the highway south of the city within an hour of Mrs. Cerna going to the hospital with the baby and her 2-year-old son.

Officers said they found a bloodstained toy nickel-plated revolver in the man's car. There were also blood stains on the baby's cot at the home.

Crime Rate Drop Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's crime rate, which has more than doubled in the past decade, is due for a decline, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said today.

At ceremonies marking implementation of court reform and anticrime legislation for Washington, D.C., Mitchell noted that crime had dropped by 5.2 per cent in the nation's capital during 1970.

"I firmly predict that just as the wave of crime is being turned back here, it will be turned back in the nation," he said.

The attorney general did not attempt to predict when the downturn would come.

The drop in crime in the District of Columbia marked the first time in 14 years that the capital had fewer crimes than in the previous year.

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — The last of the Riondet quintuplets died Sunday night.

DEAR BOSS:

Snow Kiddin' It's Almost Groundhog Day

DEAR BOSS:

Take a look at your calendar and guess what tomorrow is.

That's right, it's groundhog day. Somewhere a long time ago some groundhog lover decided these little fellers weren't getting their proper recognition, so he decided groundhog day would be appropriate.

Only I think he goofed when he decided to make them weather forecasters. That's about like saying I can forecast the weather — which I can't. (If you'll remember, everytime I decided it was spring last year we got to build snowmen in our front yards.)

Anyway, legend has it that if the groundhog pops out of his den on Feb. 2 and sees his shadow it so frightens him that he just burrows right back into the ground and stays there for six more weeks at which time spring will arrive.

However, if he doesn't see his shadow he decides it is spring and will stay out of his den and the farmers can plant their cotton and everything is rosy.

Now this story seems to have a few major flaws — in fact some of the holes are big enough to drive a herd of groundhogs through. Since I am not in the legend-making business though, I will not presume to castigate the originator of the tale.

We do have one more problem out here in West Texas. We ain't got no groundhogs. Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Mays have a couple of turtles, named Ugly and Beautiful, which play this same game of coming out and going back inside their dens. But they "springtimed" me right into the middle of a blizzard last year, and I don't think I'll trust them this year.

After consulting numerous biology textbooks, I decided that about the closest we can come to a groundhog is a prairie dog. We do have prairie dogs in this part of the country.

In fact we have a whole village up on Scenic Mountain. Surely if their groundhog cousins can foretell the weather (about which I have my doubts), the prairie dogs are useful for something besides digging holes which cause horses to break their legs.

Care to join me, Boss, for a prairie dog vigil tomorrow morning. (A word of warning. it snowed last Feb. 2.)

Your legend-minded reporter,
JEAN FANNIN

Coahoma Area Without Water

A cave-in on FM 700 injured a city maintainence worker late Sunday afternoon as he was working on a break in an eight-inch water main and left the Coahoma area without water.

Jesus Alverez was admitted in Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital, after the accident, with slight cuts and injury to his left hand. His condition Monday morning was reported good.

The break in the main caused Coahoma and Sand Springs to be left completely without water. The main connects Coahoma with the Big Spring water supply system.

"With a little bit of luck we hope to have Coahoma and Sand Springs some water by this afternoon," Nolen Chafin, director of public works, said Monday morning.

The main on FM 700 on the sewage plant was thought to have broken due to shifting soil. The line is 15 feet below the roadbed between the lanes.

Work continued Monday morning on a temporary hook-up that would supply Coahoma and Sand Springs with water.

YOUTH WOUNDED IN EAST LOS ANGELES DISORDER — A bearded man who was wounded during a disturbance in East Los Angeles Sunday is given first aid. He was one of a number hit by shotgun slugs during violence that followed a Mexican-American rally called to protest the Indochina war and alleged police brutality.

LA Riot Leaves One Dead, Firms Looted Or Damaged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One person was shot to death, more than 25 were injured and 70 businesses were damaged or burned when violence exploded after a weekend demonstration against the police in a mainly Mexican-American district.

It was the third major outbreak of violence in six months in East Los Angeles, home to more than 600,000 Mexican-Americans. A sheriff's spokesman estimated property damage at $200,000.

HAND TO HAND

Twice, officers fired shotguns as more than 1,500 mainly young persons rampaged through the four-square-mile area. Rioters threw rocks and bricks at officers, attacked them with boards, and threw firebombs into businesses. Officers used tear gas and fought hand-to-hand. Firemen answering alarms were stoned.

At least 68 persons were arrested, mostly for investigation for assault.

Eleven of the injured were sheriff's deputies.

Many of the injured civilians were hospitalized for shotgun wounds.

The outbursts Sunday began after 5,000 persons chanted anti-police slogans such as "Death to the pigs" at a park rally. Part of the crowd marched to a nearby sheriff's station and threw rocks at the building and patrol cars.

RATS TO YOU

The crowd moved on to the district's business section and surrounded a patrol car. Officers said the car's occupants fled on foot, and deputies arriving at the scene fired at demonstrators with shotguns when they charged the officers.

Similar rallies called to protest alleged police mistreatment in Mexican-American areas ended in violence last August, when three persons were killed, and September.

Demonstrators said looting occurred because the storekeepers are "ratones" and "ladrones"—Spanish for rats and rogues—charging high prices for cheaply made goods.

A sheriff's spokesman said the dead man's neck and throat were ripped out by a shotgun blast. He was identified only as a Mexican-American between 20 and 25 years old.

A curfew to dawn was ordered at about 8 p.m. for the disturbed area.

Patrol Car Is Damaged

A two-car collision Sunday afternoon resulted in extensive damage to a Big Spring police car.

Police Sgt. Jack C. Boyd, 1904, E. 25th, and Carmen Gloria Sotelo, 407 Sunset, drivers of the cars involved, were not believed seriously hurt.

An ambulance was called to the scene, however it was not used. Two persons in the patrol car were taken to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital by private car, treated and released.

Boyd was taken to Cowper Clinic and Hospital by a fellow officer and was released later Sunday afternoon. The accident occurred about 2 p.m. at First and Gregg.

Nixon Will Join Prayer Breakfast

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Nixon will join a gathering of top officials and members of Congress at the 19th annual National Prayer Breakfast Tuesday.

About 3,000 guests, including business, government and professional leaders from across the country are expected for the 8 a.m. event in the International Ballroom of the Washington Hilton Hotel.

An evangelist friend of the President, Billy Graham, will be among the headtable guests.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., will preside at the breakfast, which is sponsored by the Senate and House Prayer Breakfast groups. Similar presidential prayer breakfasts have been held since 1953, when they were launched with President Dwight D. Eisenhower to gather the nation's leaders in recognition of the moral and spiritual values on which the country was founded.

The White House also announced that the Nixons, who have been spending a long weekend in the sunny Virgin Islands, will hold worship services at the White House Sunday. The guest clergyman has not been announced as yet.

Mrs. Rogers Reported Better

Mrs. Lee O. (Mary) Rogers, 63, 300 Washington, was reported in good condition this morning in Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Rogers was injured Friday when the car she was driving was involved in a collision at US 87 South and Country Club Road with two pickups being driven by Sydney Lee Fowler, 19, Garden City Route, and William Carl Carpenter, 86, Box 667, Sundown. Highway patrolman Arvin Henry investigated.

Collections To 88 Per Cent

With the Jan. 31 tax deadline over, 88.45 per cent of the total tax roll for Howard County has been collected. Approximately 21.55 per cent of the tax collection is now delinquent.

The total tax roll is $1,588,447.12. As of this date, $1,402,337.91 has been collected with $92,952.27 collected during January.

Penalties of 1½ per cent will be added to the totals owed on county and state delinquent taxes from now until June. After that date, 11 per cent interest will be charged plus $1 dollar for each entry on the delinquent tax rolls, according to Mrs. Zirah LeFevre Bednar, tax assessor-collector.

CAR TAGS ON SALE

License tags for 1971 are on sale as of today. The sale continues until April 1.

Tags may be purchased in the tax assessor-collectors office in the Howard County Courthouse, Newsom's Grocery, and Constable C. J. Lamb's office in the Forsan City Hall from now until April 1. Tags will be on sale March 9 and 10 in the Coahoma City Hall.

According to Mrs. Zirah LeFevre Bednar, tax assessor-collector, sales started briskly this morning but have not been unusually high.

Park Wells Used To Supply Cosden

The City of Big Spring has turned to its old wells in the Comanche Trail Park reservoir to supply water of the quality required by Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. in some of its special refining operations. And this means trucking of that water.

The resort to the well supply came some months ago, as water in the regular lines from the CRMWD lake system was not up to standards necessary for Cosden's use in manufacturing plastics.

The water is being sold to H. W. Smith Transport Co., which is turn trucks it to the refinery.

The city at various times has sold water by truck units, largely for road construction purposes and other emergencies, but is tapping the park reservoir this way for the first time.

Since the procedure is regarded as a temporary situation, loading racks and meters proved to be unworkable. The city keeps tabs on volume on the trucks' trip tickets.

Two wells in the park (under operation by the CRMWD) supply water to the nearby water reservoir, from which the Cosden needs are being drawn. Heretofore, water from the reservoir has been used only for the municipal golf course.

Bo Anderson, director of city utilities, predicted the trucking as a temporary situation to meet an emergency. Because it costs Cosden substantially more, a return to the lake water is anticipated as soon as rains put more water in the reservoirs.

It's Not Always Easy To Tell

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — An attractive young woman, pressed into service to make a delivery for her family's company because of an illness, arrived at the customer's loading dock Friday in slacks and heavy winter clothing.

A worker summoned by the customer helped her unload her station wagon, then asked, "Excuse me, but are you male or female?"

She replied, "That's not a nice question to ask a lady."

Fist Kills Constable

BRIDGE CITY, Tex. (AP) — Constable Louis Ford, 45, was killed Sunday night by a blow to the head when he scuffled with a motorist.

Orange County Deputy Sheriff Ronald Reeves said he and Ford chased a suspected drunk driver up to speeds of 80 miles an hour. After stopping the motorist, Reeves said, a fist fight ensued and Ford was struck on the head by the man's fist. Ford was dead at the scene.

A 26-year-old man, 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighing 210 pounds, was taken into custody.

Commissioners In Jail, But They're Just Looking

County commissioners wound up in jail today — they made their inspection tour of the Howard County jail. Commissioners took all spectators in the court along with them for the tour.

Action items on today's agenda included a list of working rules for the road and bridge department submitted by Commissioner Bill Crooker to commissioners for study. Crooker said that the list was more detailed than rules which had been considered previously. Action on the rules is scheduled for the next meeting.

Commissioners Bill Bennett and Simon Terrazas were appointed to a committee to specify holidays for the road and bridge crew. Their proposals are to be submitted next Monday.

A motion by Crooker concerning the purchase of a tape recorder to record all meetings of commissioners court died for want of a second. Commissioner Terrazas objected to the purchase of a recorder because no provision had been made for one in the past.

Currently, the only official records of the meetings are the minutes of the motions and votings kept by Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk. Mrs. Petty is not required to take minutes of the discussion of motions.

Also tabled until next Monday morning was the report from Commissioners Jack Buchanan and Crooker on the duties of the new road and bridge administrator and the county road superintendent. Buchanan and Crooker are to define the job relations between the men and each man's area of authority over the road and bridge crews.

Local attorneys interested in assisting the county in collecting delinquent taxes were to meet with the court at 11 a.m. today. Commissioners scheduled the meeting to give Big Spring attorneys a chance at the job before they considered the renewal of the contract of Austin attorneys McCreary and Huey.

Legislators Knuckle Down

AUSTIN (AP) — The House started work today on a big stack of major constitutional amendments for submission to the voters May 18.

Included were Gov. Preston Smith's $450 million school bond plan, the heart of his package to spend now, pay later proposals.

First up was Rep. Rayford Price's measure to allow the legislature to submit constitutional amendments at special sessions.

Amendments now may be submitted only at regular sessions.

Price said problems might arise between regular sessions that could be resolved only by constitutional amendments, which go to the voters after they are approved by two-thirds of both houses of the legislature.

"Unless these constitutional amendments clear the House and Senate by Friday, the people of Texas won't be able to vote on these amendments by May 18," House Speaker Gus Mutscher said.

Night Riding Secret Police Force Probed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Two state officials said today they were looking into a $91,570 contract awarded seven months ago to a newly formed company which recommended the establishment of a federally financed night riding secret police force in Alabama.

Atty. Gen. Bill Baxley said the payment made last June 16 to Criminal Justice Systems Inc. of Huntsville has been "brought to my attention" and that "I'm looking into it to see if there is anything we can do."

The contract was awarded by the Alabama Law Enforcement Planning Agency for the consulting firm to compile a law enforcement manual. The company had been formed only one day earlier.

State Auditor Melba Till Allen said she also is investigating the contract.

The project was financed with federal funds allocated under the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. The regional LEAA director in Atlanta, George Murphy, said an audit of Criminal Justice Systems Inc. is being made by the federal agency.

One of the recommendations of the consulting firm was the "creation of a detail which would operate only at night, keeping constant check of the whereabouts of suspects."

"For practical and psychological reasons," the 1,000-page report said, "officers of this detail will drive only black unmarked cars. They will be attired in black uniforms, shoes and caps, with no bright reflective buttons, badges or buckles visible."

Every effort should be made, the report said, to keep "both personnel and operations . . . as secret as possible, except that word of its operation should be carefully leaked into the criminal community."

The contract was awarded while Albert Brewer was governor. He since has been succeeded by George C. Wallace, and Wallace's state finance director, Taylor Hardin, said the whole idea of a secret police "is repugnant to" the present governor.

The LEAA in Washington turned down the proposal last Friday, saying it wasn't an appropriate project for the federal government to finance.

New Act Offers Cotton Farmers More Freedom

DALLAS (AP)—The Agricultural Act of 1970 moves further in the direction of giving the farmer maximum options and maximum freedom, Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Clarence D. Palmby told the National Cotton Council of America here today.

"Perhaps the most popular feature is the elimination of the old system of rigid crop-by-crop allotments," he said.

"No longer does a cotton farmer need to count rows to be sure he has no need to plow up cotton or to pay penalties; this is something we can all celebrate. It was a real necessity that means be found to do away with this onerous and restrictive feature.

"For too many years, the United States has carried the burden of adjusting agricultural production for the entire world. We no longer intend to be in that position, and while visiting with our trading partners in Brussels a few days ago, I repeated that point.

"The new program should be helpful to a farm manager to pla nhis farm operation with less emphasis on a system of government allotments."

Essentially, said Palmby, the new program offers the cotton industry the opportunity to do two things:

(1) To be more competitive in terms of production costs.

(2) To produce what the market will take—the quantities and varieties needed.

"I believe that even in this first year of the new program we will see a definite improvement in the cotton situation," he said.

Palmby said cottonseed oil has the opportunity to share in the general growth in edible oil consumption. The fate of U.S. cottonseed oil in the world market rides with the future of U.S. cotton production, he said.

Skydiving Coed From Tech Killed

BROWNFIELD, Tex. (AP) — A skydiving coed from Texas Tech died Sunday when her parachute failed to open and she plummeted 5,000 feet to the ground.

She was Ruth Kathleen Davis, 20, of Albuquerque, N.M., who had been making her home at Lubbock.

Witnesses said Miss Davis bailed out of the plane near the Terry County airport and planned to make a five-second delayed opening jump. But, they said, she began oscillating when she left the ship and the parachute did not open until just as she hit the ground.

It was her eighth jump.

A justice of the peace pronounced her dead where she hit.

Theme for the weekend of meetings will be "The Church in Revolution," emphasizing the role of the church in the midst of revolution in the society around it, according to Marshall Walker, H-SU director of religious activities. On Friday, Dr. Pinson will speak in the 10 a.m. assembly in Behrens Chapel on "The Church in Revolution." This message was delivered at the Baptist General Convention of Texas and brought a standing ovation.

TEXAS WATER — 1

Rags To Riches On The High Plains

Editor's Note: The No. 1 problem facing Texas is a threatened lack of water that could paralyze the growth and prosperity of the state. Some experts on water speak of a "great American tragedy" looming for parts of Texas if the water problem is not solved. They see Texas agriculture, industry and population going into a severe decline in decades ahead unless the needed precious water can be provided. Gov. Preston Smith is expected to make a special address to the legislature on the subject this week. The Associated Press has made a thorough investigation of the complicated Texas water problem and its findings are reported in a six-part series beginning today.

By MIKE COCHRAN
By The Associated Press

LUBBOCK (AP) — This is remarkable country, the Texas Plains. An agricultural wonderland, flat, fertile, sunswept and populated by fiercely independent people.

It is a plateau overlooking and dominating the surrounding area, stretching from below Lubbock up through Plainview and beyond Amarillo.

Once a windswept prairie, it has grown and prospered phenomenally since the discovery of a vast, underground water supply, the Ogillala Acquifer.

IRRIGATION

Irrigation, fully active after World War II, converted the region into what West Texas proudly considered one of the agricultural strongholds of the nation.

But its water is being depleted at an astonishing rate. Too astonishing, some contend, and when it is gone, there is no more. Barring technological breakthroughs, importation from outside the Plains is the only solution.

And herein lies a political, economic and social dilemma affecting all of Texas, its leaders, and to no small degree the Congress.

"The Plains is the gut water problem in Texas," says Harry Burleigh of Austin, chief engineer in Texas for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation. "It's the toughest one and the one with the most immediate social and economic impact.

'YOU MINE IT'

"And it's the one we're all working the hardest on."

Its lifeblood, he said, is a diminishing, completely depletable resource.

"You mine it. You pump a drop of water out, or a cow drinks it, or you raise a stalk of corn with it, the tables goes down so much. And there's no replenishment," he said.

"And someday the bucket's empty. That's all it is. A bucket. Once the bucket's empty, it's finished. You're through with it.

"Great quantities of water, historically put in there over centuries or eons of time, will be pumped out. When you pump it out at the rate of six or eight million acre-feet a year there's only one answer. Eventual exhaustion, in sight within two to three decades."

Some forecast depletion much earlier. Already most of the water below Lubbock is gone. Other areas are perilously low. There is waste, but precious little compared to more free-wheeling times.

GROWING CONCERN

There is growing concern among water officials, civic leaders, enlightened farmers and others, including U.S. Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock, powerful chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

When it appeared East Texas would be unable to supply the Plains with surplus water to meet future needs, Mahon, it is said, suggested to federal agencies that it would be in their best interest to find water for his district.

The Bureau of Reclamation and the Army Corps of Engineers are now studying the feasibility of a Texas water plan proposal to import water via a 1,100-mile canal from the lower Mississippi.

The mechanical and technological task is formidable in itself, but economic and political roadblocks pose a more serious threat.

'THERE IS NO WAY'

Disagreement, none of it pleasant, surrounds the issue and the fate of the Plains if it does not receive water from some source.

"If there's no water brought into the area from somewhere, whether it be Mississippi or desalinzation or what, this country out here can not subsist on dry land farming," said Gerald Ivy, a Lubbock attorney.

"There is no way," he continued. ". . . if the water is not here, if this entire area goes dry—I don't want to be a pessimist—but I foresee another dust bowl. I don't see what could prevent it. We have in existence now probably the greatest one-year drouth in history.

"Unless there is rain between now and planting time, the dryland farmer is not going to make any crops. So foresee that if this entire area goes dry, you're going to have this type of drouth periodically.

"And you only need to start that sand rolling twice and you're pretty well lost."

TERRIFIC

Ivy is a staff member of Water, Inc., a voluntary research-education organization dedicated to bringing imported water into West Texas.

Water, Inc. is headed by Rep. Billy Clayton of Springlake, an irrigation farm owner and a member of a legislative interim water study committee.

"This could be more than any Appalachia we've ever faced," Clayton said, although he tempered his remarks by adding:

"I don't think it's a picture you'd particularly want to paint to industry. I think there's a future for this country. . . the commerce generated from West Texas to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, to the Houston area, all across the state, and the nation, is terrific.

"I don't think the nation can afford to let this thing go down the drain."

LOOK HERE

Some West Texans feel Gov. Preston Smith is jeopardizing the area's future by accenting development of water within the state before turning to outside sources for importation. Clayton is not one of them.

"If we don't develop everything we have within the state and put it to beneficial use, then it's pretty foolish to go outside the state and say, 'Look here, we need X amount of acre-feet of water.' And they say, 'Huh? What are you doing with that X amount you got over there that you're not using?"

Clayton said he felt also that, if moving water is not available, technological studies will produce economical use of salt or brackish waters.

"We're not married to Mississippi water," he said, adding also that "quiet negotiations" are going on elsewhere. He would not elaborate.

The possibility of transporting water to the Plains from the rich resources of East Texas has not been ruled out, but such a move is viewed as remote.

The average citizen in East Texas feels that the region should conserve what water it has, said Charles K. Devall, publisher of the Kilgore News-Herald.

WHEN OIL'S GONE

"When our oil's gone, water is all we're going to have left," he said. "If we take water out of here, it'll be water that we will need."

However, Homer Tanner of Daingerfield, an official of the Northeast Texas Municipal Water District, said opposition to the transfer of water is gradually crumbling.

"I think that probably there is a 50-50 split here at the present time between those who do not wish to see water transported from East Texas into West Texas and those who might favor it," he said.

"There would have to be certain overriding considerations that the people of the basin of origin would be paid for the water in some manner or another."

He said it would be imperative also to have adequate controls and safeguards to recapture the water in case of East Texas need. There are doubts now that such controls and safeguards exist, he added.

A. C. Verner, president of Lubbock's First National Bank, and George McCleskey, a Lubbock attorney, are among those who feel the area will survive even if forced to return to dryland farming.

IT WILL BE BAD

"It won't be disastrous, but it will be bad," said Verner, noting that "the Canadian River has taken care of the municipal and industrial water needs to a great extent. We have very little industry that requires water."

He pointed out, however, the booming feeder cattle business on the Plains requires enormous amounts of water.

"I'm not one of those who feels that everything is lost if we don't have imported water," McCleskey said. "But I am completely dedicated to the proposition that for the good of this area and the good of the United States, as far as productive capacity of food and fiber, that it is highly important that water be imported into this area . . .

'WE WILL SURVIVE'

"We have uniform fertility . . . we have level land that lends itself to machine operations . . . we have a climate that will permit the production of good crops of many types. We can raise a lot of meat—beef production, hog production, poultry, and we can do it cheaper than most areas of the nation. And I guess cheaper than all of them on the scale that we can do it.

"We will survive. We will learn to use our water for purposes that will let those of us that are already here, and some more, get along pretty good.

"Real good."

Tomorrow: The water problem actually is of statewide concern.

February Comes In On Chill Note

By The Associated Press

A cold-winded butler opened the door for February today but promised no moisture anywhere in Texas.

White caps slapped at piers and moorings ahead of 30-mile-an-hour winds along the Gulf Coast as the arctic front seeped into every corner of the state.

Temperatures before dawn sagged to the 20s across the northern part of the state while 60-degree readings enveloped the Rio Grande Valley.

Weathermen said cloudiness in East and South Texas would drift east out of the state with temperatures turning even colder in extreme southern areas.

Small craft warning flags along the coast were being whipped by strong north winds which topped 30 miles an hour in Galveston Bay.

Most of the state was clear and cold.

Anxious Texans particularly farmers and stockmen fretting over winter grazing lands, have been awaiting any sign of rainfall as the state slumps into winter drouth.

The National Weather Service said Dallas County had recorded its driest January on record with only .16 of an inch of moisture on the books for the month.

Weathermen said the November - December - January period—with only 1.48 inches of rain—is the driest winter period yet recorded in Dallas County.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J 6 ♡Q J 3 ◇K J 8 2 ♣A 9 7 3
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♣	Dble.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Had partner wanted you to bid, he would have doubled one spade. His double on the second round is obviously for penalties, and you have just the material to convert it into a handsome profit.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠10 6 4 3 ♡A Q 2 ◇A K Q 10 9 3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. A slightly aggressive call, but this hand figures to produce seven tricks and if partner has adequate protection in the black suits a game may be scored in no trump. A bid of only two diamonds would be too conservative.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J 4 ♡A Q 6 2 ◇A Q 10 ♣A Q J 10
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Dble.	3 ♠	Pass	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass, tho somewhat reluctantly. It is distinctly disappointing to give up a hand worth 20 points, but facts must be faced and it is clear that partner has practically nothing, so that no action would be safe.

Q. 4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A 10 3 2 ♡Q 10 8 5 ◇7 ♣8 7 6 4
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
2 NT	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. You have a maximum raise, counting an additional point for the promoted heart honor. A game bid is clearly indicated, as partner is obviously showing additional values and testing the quality of your raise.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠7 3 2 ♡A 4 2 ◇K 8 7 3 ♣A Q 9
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♡	Pass	2 ◇
Pass	2 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts is quite adequate. Your hand is not as good as the high cards would seem to indicate, due to the evenly balanced distribution. In fact, deducting a point for dummy's flaws, your hand is worth less than the 13 points required to assure a game.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A Q 10 8 6 ♡A ◇10 6 4 4 ♣A Q 10 2
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	1 NT
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♡
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner has indicated a weak hand [he wasn't strong enough to bid his suit at the two level immediately] with length in hearts. He clearly does not care for either spades or clubs so you have no alternative but to withdraw reluctantly from the auction.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠Q 10 9 3 ♡5 3 ◇8 ♣K J 10 9 7 5
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 NT	Dble.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. This is a perfect descriptive bid. With a good hand you would have passed the double; with a weak hand you would have made a simple takeout. The jump bid must, therefore, indicate a holding not rich in high cards but, nonetheless, containing good playing strength.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A K 7 4 2 ♡A 4 2 ◇10 5 ♣J 9 2
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
3 ◇	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three spades. North's vulnerable preempt promises seven winners which with your three puts you on the verge of game and makes a four level contract reasonably safe. The probing bid is well worth the effort for, if partner has some spade support, there may be a game in that suit. If he merely returns to four diamonds you may retire from the proceedings. The three spade bid is, of course, forcing for one round.

Explosions Rip Gas Firm

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—A series of explosions ripped through the National Cylinder Gas Co. northeast of Tyler today, severly damaging the plant and setting it afire.

There were no reports of injuries.

The series of explosions began about 2:30 a.m. and rattled windows as much as 10 miles away.

Tyler Fire Department Lt. George Morris said the heat from the fire which followed the explosions was so intense that his men were not able to get near the fire at first.

Firemen preferred to use foam in the attempt to extinguish the fire because water could increase the explosions rather than stop them.

Morris said the explosions, thought to be from exploding bottles of gas which the company produces, awoke his men in the fire station in downtown Tyler.

Three Are Chosen For Palace Vista

Three Webb AFB officers were selected recently for an F-111 assignment under Palace Vista.

The three chosen were Capts. William E. Dunivant, Gary W. Hall and Robert L. Vining. The officers accepted nominations on a volunteer basis. They will be scheduled for a two-to-three-month training program at Nellis AFB, Nev., beginning sometime in April, with subequent assignment to Europe.

Palace Vista is a new personnel program allowing junior officers with demonstrated high ability to vie for changes in Commands, major weapon systems and job levels. The objective of this program is to expose outstanding officers in the five-to-seven-year groups to career-broadening experiences which will enhance the early stages of executive development.

BLAMES FED GOVERNMENT FOR FISCAL WOES

Rocky Asks For Record Tax Hikes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller blamed the federal government for New York's fiscal problems today as he requested a record round of tax increases totaling $1.11 billion to help finance a proposed state budget of $8.45 billion.

The Republican governor told the GOP-controlled legislature that he had no choice except to recommend higher taxes, because Washington apparently was not going to come through on time with the federal revenue-sharing program.

INCOME TAX

Required by state law to present a balanced budget, Rockefeller said the state's present revenue system could not come even close to absorbing the $1.53 billion "obligatory" spending increase he faced.

Accordingly, he recommended:

—A 10 per cent surcharge on the state's income tax, plus higher brackets for upper-income taxpayers and elimination of cash credits that all taxpayers now are allowed to deduct.

—A one percentage point increase in the state's three percent sales tax. That would raise the maximum rate in the state to seven per cent, because many communities also levy local sales taxes of up to three per cent.

—Increases of one cent on the gasoline tax, now seven cents a gallon; three cents on cigarettes, now 12 cents a package; 10 cents a fifth on liquor, now 45 cents. Fees for motor-vehicle registrations would be raised an average of 50 per cent.

TAX ON BANKS

—A boost of about 30 per cent in taxes on the earnings of corporations, utilities and banks.

Rockefeller said New York had run into financial trouble because it was not getting enough help from Washington, and he warned that "we could witness—this year—a disastrous deterioration of public services" unless the federal government responds.

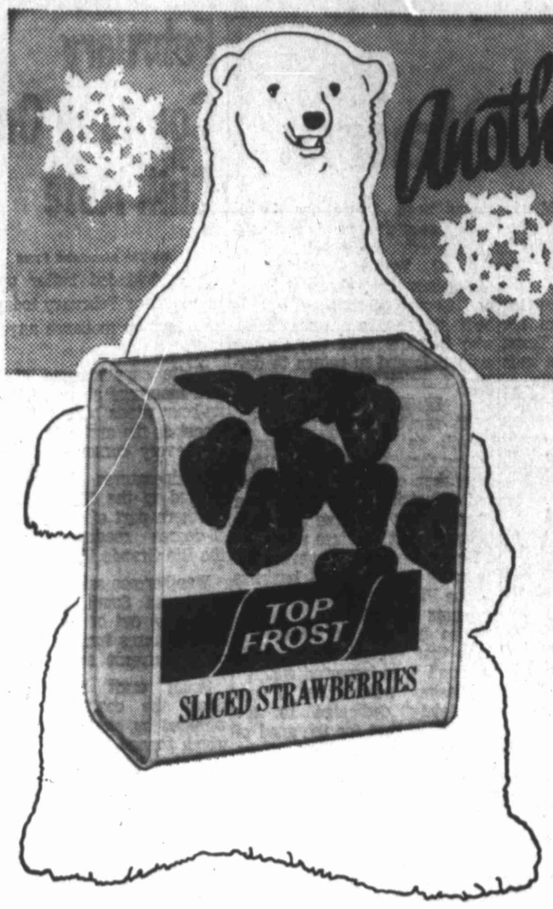

At the same time, he indicated that part of the tax package might be withdrawn if Washington did produce. He described his fiscal plan as 'a stopgap, crisis budget subject to revision when Congress enacts a meaningful federal aid plan through revenue sharing."

The governor's tax-and-spending plan now will be subjected to critical scrutiny, and probable revision, by the legislature. The objective will be to reach an 'agreement by the April 1 start of the state's fiscal year.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1971 SEC. B

(Photo by Danny Valdes)

STYLISH ATTIRE — Women employes of Big Spring Police Department stepped out in style last week by donning new uniforms in gold or brown double knit Dacron. Shown, from left, are Mrs. Jean Roman, dispatcher; Mrs. Bill Robinson, secretary; Mrs. Leonard Earl Smith, traffic clerk; and Mrs. Gerald Harrison, secretary. Mrs. Charles Marstrand, corporation court clerk, was unable to be present for the picture. The city paid for the uniforms, which were made locally. Each woman has three shell tops with A-line skirts and two matching tailored jackets. The department emblem is on the left side of the jacket.

'LIKE TERMITES'

Minidresses Proving Hard To Exterminate

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Like termites, the minidress is gradually eating its way back into fashion.

Like many women, Emanuel Ungaro, who showed this morning, wasn't quite at ease with the long length. So he hiked up a lot of his hemlines to a generous six inches above the knee and added shorts.

Prints, prints and more prints, designed as always by Sonia Knapp, color the Ungaro mood for summer. Daisies, bubbles, stripes and polka dots—and combinations thereof—come in red, black and white, navy and white, not to mention lavender, turquoise, mustard and green.

These are mixed carefully to give an at random feeling. Different ones go on double-breasted blazers and coats, skirts, shorts and scarfs all piled on top of each other. On the legs are black and orange opaque stockings, patterned of course.

And the more leg that sticks out of his soft-printed silk dresses, the better. Whether very short, at the knee or ending at mid-calf for evening, the silhouette grazes the hip and changes to a flurry of pleats at the dropped waist. The longer the dress, the lower the waist.

Along with many designers, Guy Laroche, who also showed this morning, has settled on shorts plus a semireturn to the '40s.

There are the popular all-in-one shorts and top, cuffed bermudas under a long belted jacket and skirts slit to expose the shorts below.

Hubert de Givenchy descended from his Olympian heights for his spring collection and revelled in a riot of color, sheer paisley and patchwork floral prints giving daring—though never offbeat—treatments.

Drama stepped forth with the first beachwear and playsuits favoring terry cloth. Color contrasts were favored, halving the model back and front or in profile.

Givenchy is all for shorts, revealing them beneath slashed skirts or more often under see-through paisley, or floral printed or plain organza skirts.

Givenchy's fabric story stresses denim, rustic linen, cotton prints and terry. For coats he favors printed stretch, plain wool and two - tone woven checks.

A LOVELIER YOU

Gain Weight Using Good Eating Habits

By MARY SUE MILLER

It can happen: A girl can be in good health and be too thin at the same time. Poor dietary habits, more often than not, are the cause.

To gain weight you must take in at least 3,000 calories a day. And there's the rub. Most underweight people claim that much food to be completely unpalatable. Ugh type!

Well, it's a case of do or decline further. Here are some suggestions for "doing":

1. Increase your capacity for food by eating a bit more each day until you reach your total calorie count. Try not to be picky, but educate your appetite to include a large variety of both usual and unusual foods. Force yourself to eat a little of an unfamiliar or disliked dish. The next time around, take more. First thing you know you'll be in the gourmet class. Enjoying your meals and weighing it.

2. To sharpen your appetite, breathe at an open window before breakfast; relax — really let down — before dinner. If you are the chef, rest for 10 minutes and tidy up before you begin preparations. Calm nerves are weight-boosters.

3. Do snack, but on simple foods like whole milk, plain cake, whole-grain crackers, fresh fruits, gelatin, custard. Avoid overloads of sweets and fats at all times. They are reputed to be fattening. But your tummy and your complexion can seldom handle excesses.

Also get the habit of adding a tablespoon of non-fat dry milk to your whole milk and to soups. That way you can take in many extra calories a day, painlessly.

YOUR GAIN

Are you too, too thin? And you never can gain an ounce? Send for my leaflet, "Your Gain." It shows you how to gain a pound a week by eating the right foods, working with spot increasing routines and having fun. Plus tips on your most flattering clothes. For your copy, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald and 15 cents in coin.

Texans On Military Panels

Texas has the unique experience of having both its United States Senators on the Armed Services Committee.

One is the state's senior senator, Republican John Tower. The other is the newly-elected Democrat, Lloyd Bentsen, named to the Armed Services Committee last week by the Democratic Steering Committee of the Senate.

Bentsen's other committee assignment is Public Works.

Tower continues on Banking and Currency.

The state is really fortunate to have both its senators on Armed Services. First and basic is that it is one of the most vital committees in the Senate, concerned with the highly important mission of the nation's defense.

Looking at the state's interests, there is a large concentration of military installations in Texas—Army, Air Force and Navy.

With both Sen. Tower and Sen. Bentsen on Armed Services, Texas now has effective leverage in both Republican and Democratic leadership to look after its extensive and valuable military interests.

In Sen. Tower's weekly report to Texas citizens recently, he pointed out that he is now about halfway up the seniority ladder in the Senate — ranking 51st, and that only 16 members of the Senate are younger than he. Tower is 45 and has 10 years service. He is third ranking Republican on Armed Services, and second ranking Republican on Banking and Currency.

By choice Tower stayed on the same committees as in the past because, he explained, "Texas' economic interest continues to be deeply enmeshed in both defense and financial industries. And there remains a continuing need for housing construction together with improvements in our urban areas and revitalization of our rural communities."

Thanks to the Tower and Bentsen committee affiliations, Texas has political muscle in several areas of primary concern to it.

Nice Try

Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, deserves the Heroci Dreamer Award of the 92nd Congress, even though the session is young.

Saying congressmen are not earning their pay, Schwengel introduced a bill to repeal last year's $12,500 raise senators and representatives voted themselves. He said Congress can't earn its pay until it reforms it procedures.

We commend Schwengel's courage, insight and honesty. We also assume that he realizes his bill has no chance of passage in either house. Nevertheless, he deserves a badge of merit for even bringing the matter up.

Muskie's Aims

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Maine's Sen. Ed Muskie, a Pole imbued from birth with Yankee pragmatism, is running for President as a candidate who — is "not going to get tangled up in a lot of ideological nonsense."

This is the platform Muskie has offered Democratic leaders in private meetings and telephone conversations. His pitch is that the Democrats can defeat Richard Nixon in 1972 only if they are a united party, and that arguments about the "liberal purity" of Presidential candidates will result only in the same kind of splintered organization that cost Hubert Humphrey victory in 1968.

IN CALIFORNIA a week ago and in talks with party leaders since, Muskie presented himself as a candidate who can win. Shrugging off differences between himself and such other candidates as South Dakota's George McGovern, Muskie is arguing that the idea is not to "show off our liberalism" but to nominate a man who can beat Nixon in his own ballpark — the so-called center.

To paraphrase, Muskie is telling Democrats things like this:

"WHERE DID all our squabbling about who was more liberal get us in 1968? It got us licked by a Republican we should have clobbered. Had we run a campaign instead of an intra-party debating contest Hubert Humphrey would be President today."

Muskie is speaking to professional politicians willing to be converted. The most illuminating proof of this is that in Califfornia he was described by the president of the ultra-liberal California Democratic Council as "perfectly acceptable." His stand has brought similar reactions from nuts-and-bolts men in Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

IN SHORT, the Democrats already smell victory two years hence and they are sorely tempted to close ranks even at this early date behind a candidate who preaches, almost to the exclusion of every other argument, that the name of the game is winning. As for Muskie, he clearly hopes that he'll have enough delegates locked up before the year ends to enable him to hold off such potential late challengers as Sen. Teddy Kennedy.

THE FLY in the Muskie ointment, of course, is George McGovern. The South Dakotan has made it clear he will insist that the Democratic candidates debate the issues on which they differ. Only through such a debate, McGovern holds, can the party be certain of nominating the man who represents the Democratic majority.

McGOVERN POSES a dilemma for Muskie. It is all very well for the man from Maine to urge that the party not waste its money and energy on ideological bickerings, but the Democrats are not a private club. Like the old Irish Hibernians and the old Sons of Italy, the party is a forum in which anybody can get up and sound off. And as the early candidate of the Kennedy and McCarthy wings, McGovern is sounding off.

The Big Deficit

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The "estimates" of the income and outlay of the federal budget which were made a year ago have not turned out as projected, and the guessing game is being resumed. Instead of the predicted surplus of $1.3 billion for the current fiscal year 1971, there is to be a deficit of 18.6 billion. The administration, however, undaunted by the reversal of its figures, now announces it is willing to spend 11.6 billion more than is expected to be collected in fiscal year 1972 because of a belief that the economy will improve and revenues will increase.

THE LATEST DATA, however, show that for the year 1970 profits dropped from $91 billion to $82 billion. The forecast, on the other hand, is that they will go up to 98 billion in 1971. Businessmen would like to see this happen. It will require a substantial rise, and the recovery would have to begin early in 1971 and be in full effect when fiscal year 1972 starts on July 1 next.

THE ASSUMPTION is that government spending will be the magic remedy and produce near-full employment as inflation diminishes. The revenue-sharing plan would cause a lot of money to flow back into the states and cities, but their respective governments would have to administer the disbursement. Even if the proposal is adopted speedily — which is not likely — all the elements could hardly get into operation within a year.

THERE IS NO doubt that more spending will help the economy to expand, though it is not clear yet what industries will be benefited and how soon the allocation of government funds will provide an impetus to business at a time when profits have been declining and unemployment has been growing. Unquestionably, making available many billions of dollars will gradually stimulate the economy. In fact, the spending by the government of $11.6 billion more than is to be collected in revenue is analogous to the advantages derived by certain businesses when war contracts are awarded.

THE MAIN PROBLEM is how to hold down inflationary pressures and find employment for the people who now are without jobs. Many of them are trained for particular kinds of work. Unemployment will be one of the most exacting of the difficulties that will confront the government during the period of recovery.

Meanwhile, the acceptance of large budget deficits by the federal government is considered necessary for economic reasons. But it could have an effect on the purchasing power of the dollar. European countries may argue that the dollar is losing its position in respect to gold and will sooner or later have to be revalued. Certainly huge federal deficits year after year will be regarded abroad as impairing monetary stability.

IT WILL TAKE at least two years for the government's program to become fully operative, and there will be a presidential election in November, 1972. Unless substantial progress has been made on the economic side, the Democrats will get more and more support for a change in the White House. The Nixon administration, therefore, will have to concentrate its efforts on making enough progress in 1971 and early 1972 to assure the people that a stable economy is in sight and that any shift in the presidency would be risky.

Deficits are not popular, but if economic recovery is achieved and there is a possibility of a balanced budget in fiscal 1973 due to higher revenues being collected in 1972, the administration will be the beneficiary. As matters stand today, however, the outlook is uncertain for the administration.

Great Expectations

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — A common theme of all the dollar sign news contained in President Nixon's three massive documents on the nation, the budget and the economy appears to be that of great expectations.

Total output is seen rising by $88 billion, or far more than expected by private forecasters; inflation is to be lessened while the economy is being stimulated; a deficit is expected but, we are told, it won't be damaging.

The expectations appear all the more inclined to the sunny side when it is noted that inflation got worse rather than better in December, that unemployment is still rising and that in the past, deficits often were inflationary.

But now take a closer look. Embodied in the economic scheme for the next year is an anticipated 4.2 per cent inflation compared with 5.3 per cent last year, and unemployment is expected to be just under 5 per cent, as in 1970. The big difference is that rates will be falling rather than rising.

Results of this sort certainly do not constitute great expectations. They are modest instead, and perhaps serve to illustrate the necessity of a budget deficit and the need to shoot for that huge increase in output.

What appears at first glance to be daring may only be the reaction of an administration that has no choice, like the infantryman whose only chance for survival is to attack.

Nevertheless, can it attain the expansion it seeks? You'll find many doubters among the private economists, but doubts are what they sell to their clients. Bullish forecasters are suspect, so they tend to hide behind bearskins.

You'll find a lot of these gentlemen encouraged now to re-evaulaet their forecasts, and one thing they'll be examining closely is the rising productivity rate. It began last year and almost certainly will continue.

This means that America's factories and farms and stores will, in general, be turning out more for the same expenditure of time and money. The machinery of production has been tuned up during the past year as competition rose. Inflation will be undercut.

Moreover, that downturn in the economy has left the nation with considerable unused ability in its production system, with something like only 75 per cent of capacity being utilized.

This fact is significant, because it means that output can rise 10 per cent and still leave the economy utilizing only 82.5 per cent of capacity, compared with a 15-year average of 83.9 per cent.

What disturbs some readers of the budget is the assumption that the economy can be stimulated without paying a price in more inflation.

All in all, is the economic scheme daring? Perhaps in the sense that it hopes for a lot and could fall. It is hardly daring, however, when you realize that it takes a great effort to produce small results, and that there may be no choice anyway.

Matter Of Heredity

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you are inclined to blame your parents for everything that goes wrong in your life, it isn't hard to find a reason. Science has discovered nearly 2,000 diseases that may be hereditary.

Freezing makes most things shorter. Perhaps that explains why the Laplanders of northern Europe are that continent's smallest people. They average only 4½ to 5 feet tall.

New on the market: A left-handed boomerang for southpaws who get self-conscious while throwing right-handed boomerangs.

The average American child under 15 years of age gets $55 worth of toys a year. Although dolls are the most popular items in the $3 billion spent annually on toys, another long-time favorite, Teddy bears, still account for $40 million a year.

Here's the only sure way to have the last word in an argument with a woman: hang up the phone on her—and go away before she can call back.

A sobering thought: Did you ever think while at a cocktail party that one of the next 13 people you have a drink with is or will become an alcoholic. Of course, if you have a separate drink with each of them, there's no doubt who the alcoholic is.

Quotable notables: "Liberty is the right of any person to stand up anywhere and say anything whatsoever that everybody thinks."— Lincoln Steffens.

The price of intelligence: Porpoises, believed to be the most intelligent of sea creatures, have a brain that is in some ways more complex than man's. Also like man, the porpoise is high strung, and when overworked it may develop stomach ulcers.

Worth remembering: "Some wives carefully go over their household budgets each month. Others just go over them."

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "To become a spectator of one's own life is to escape the suffering of life."

Things Kids Did

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

When I hear of children today sitting around, complaining there is nothing to do, I'm prone to reminisce about how times have changed.

Perhaps the kids are not given enough free rein. Perhaps their lives are made to conform too much to adult planning. Years ago, the adults seemed too busy to fret about their younguns, reasoning they were capable of finding things to entertain themselves. Invariably, they did.

We even found excitement in studying circus billboards, anticipating the day when the "greatest show on earth" would pull into town.

THE SHOW inself might have been a little, old three-ring circus with some moth-eaten animals and a few people with drinking problems but there were elephants to water, seats to put up and ropes to tighten — and what better way to get it done than hire a few boys who could be paid off with tickets to the buzzard's roost?

And once the circus had departed, the opportunity to search the grounds for lost change and discarded souvenirs was overwhelming.

THE CARNIVALS of that era have their counterparts today in such attractions as Six Flags Over Texas and Disneyland. The rides were a nickel apiece and a young tad blew his money exclusively on them because he knew he could always slip into a side show.

We walked two miles to take summer dips in our favorite swimming hole, secure in the knowledge we could swim to our heart's content even though we didn't have a coin in our jeans. Sometimes the cattle would come to the far end of the tank and eye us suspiciously before lowering their heads to drink and every now and then a coyote would make a run at a rabbit in the underbrush nearby but there was a serenity about the scene that such adventures nowadays can't offer.

OCCASIONALLY, strangers would descend upon the town with a fistful of circulars and seek us out to deliver them from house to house. The fee they offered would never be more than a quarter but that was enough to get into a Saturday afternoon movie and buy a bag of popcorn. What more could anyone ask?

Rodeos were usually staged once a year in an arena not too far from downtown and youngsters of the neighborhood always had to go down early and check out the stock, at which time each was especially watchful for familiar cowboys and bucking horses.

THE BIG SPORTS attraction of the year usually was offered by the touring House of David baseball team, a bearded group out of Michigan, who specialized in a pre-contest "pepper game," wherein one or two of the fielders belied his looks with amazing catches and tricky throws. On one occasion, the great Grover Cleveland Alexander came in with the group and, although he was usually in his cups, he could still throw the ball with rare style for an inning or two.

Medicine shows, where distinguished-looking hucksters sold patent medicines with the help of black-faced comedians and tapeworms displayed in bottles, set up on vacant lots and drew masses of the curious.

WE PACKED a blanket or two and enough grub for two meals on overnight trips into the hills, sleeping on the ground or using cedar tree branches as mattresses — giving never a thought to inquisitive snakes and crawling insects. Such sojurns never offered much promise of any sleep but our parents didn't disapprove of them because we were invariably bushed when we returned home and ready to bed down without protest for a while.

The flag pole sitters, the touring chituaqua shows, the gypsies which set up camp near the edge of town — all were a curiosity to us, and offered a chance for adventure.

Who needed football on TV when there were things to be done like wrapping baseballs with tire tape and nocturnal games of "run, sheepy, run."

Puffing Up Politicians

Robert E. Ford

By ROBERT HEARD
(Substituting for John Ford)

Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher delayed naming House committee chairman several days at the start of the current session to keep, as he said, lobbyists from "putting the tag" on them.

That was very thoughtful of Mr. Mutscher. But it sent lobbyists racing through Capitol corridors screaming "unfair."

Let's pretend we're listening in on a couple of hypothetical veteran lobbyists talking to a youngster just trying to learn the business.

For the purposes of this item, let's name one of the veterans Sam Gout of Amalgamated Armlock and the other Frank Hook of Consolidated Buggy Whips.

"YOU DON'T reach a legislator after he is named chairman of a committee," advised Sam.

"You get to him before he is elected to his first term in office."

"Right," said Frank.

How do you pick out the candidates who years later will wind up as chairmen?

"Giving campaign contributions to everybody who runs for office," said Sam.

"Whoever wins, you've helped him. Then it's his turn to help you," said Frank.

But is one campaign contribution enough?

"No, you have to keep after him," Sam instructed the kid.

"It's like fraternity rush week around here right now," said Frank.

WHAT CAN YOU do now that wouldn't look like a bribe?

"Pick up the tab for meals and keep telling them what a great future they have in politics," said Sam.

"Puffing up a politician — or anyone else — is the cheapest and most effective way to reach him," said Frank. "Any guy who runs for office craves flattery. Tell him a lot of statehouse observers see him as governor some day. That melts him inside."

Outright gifts?

"To the wives," said Sam.

"That takes the odor away and makes it appear you are genuinely interested in him and his family."

"Five bucks will buy a birthday gift for his wife that will be worth $1,000 in good will for you when you want that negative vote," said Frank.

Negative vote?

What about affirmative votes?

"You want a few of those but mainly you want negative votes to kill bills that would regulate you or tax you," said Sam.

My Answer

Billy Graham

My son, 22 years old, who was born out of wedlock and spent his life in a wheel chair, just passed away. Two things I regret: I never tried very hard to get him to believe in Christ, and I never told him in words that I loved him. I think about how neglectful I was of this poor boy. Can God forgive me? T.H.

Of course He can — and will . . . if you confess your sin and receive Christ as Savior.

I believe the most important thing we can do for our children is to lead them to Christ. And next to that is to let them know we love them. We all need love, and your handicapped son must have yearned to hear you say you loved him. I'm sure he knew you did, for you apparently were a faithful mother in most respects. But, what joy it would have brought to his heart if you had told him over and over again that you loved him deeply!

Somehow, I believe that is what is wrong with so many of our young people today. Parents simply don't take the time to love them, to communicate with them, and to lead them in spiritual things.

I am not concerned that I leave my children a lot of money, or a big estate. But, I hope they will remember me, first, for trying to lead them to Christ, and second, as a father who loved them. We can succeed in every other area, but if we fail here, we have missed the real meaning of parenthood.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another. (Romans 12:10)

PRAYER: Our Father, dispel animosity and prejudice from our hearts. Give us a new spirit of love and respect one for another. Unite us to find solutions for the problems we all face. Amen.

Needed Doctor

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why did you tell the young mother who wanted to get rid of her 3-week-old baby girl to talk to her doctor about it? Would you go to your dentist for legal advice? Does your rabbi give you flu shots? Who cuts your hair? A garage mechanic?

Doctors, lawyers and ministers may be expert in their own line of work, but they are not social workers. Occasionally they might place an unwanted baby with the right couple, but, believe me, doctors (especially) have made some serious blunders. Their idea of a "good home" is one in which there is a lot of money.

Please, Abby, correct your advice and tell Unhappy in South Carolina that if she wants to get rid of her baby girl she should go to a licensed adoption agency — not to her doctor.

WELFARE WORKER

DEAR WORKER: You (and many other welfare workers) missed the point. The young mother said she "hated" her infant daughter, had considered killing her and even contemplated suicide. The poor woman was so clearly psychopathic that I wanted first and foremost to get her to her doctor without delay so he could see how disturbed she wah. That is why I advised her to talk to her physician about getting rid of her child.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: There is a lot of talk about letting barbers charge double for cutting the hair of those shaggy-maned hippies. I'm all for it. How about you, Abby? LEXINGTON

DEAR LEXINGTON: Only on the condition that they'll give half-price haircuts to their bald-headed brothers.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which irks me to no end. I have a friend whom I like a lot and see quite often in the day time. When I give a party, I always invite her and her husband. Whenever she gives a party, she leaves me and my husband out. But she asks many of our mutual friends, whom she has met at our place. She even has the gall to ask me for their phone numbers.

The only time she has ever invited my husband and me over is to help her and her husband entertain some bores. What would you do in my place? I hate to be anyone's . . . SECOND CLASS FRIEND

DEAR SECOND: If you "like her a lot," invite her as you have always done, but if it's going to "irk you," do without her company, at her house as well as your own.

DEAR ABBY: I have passed my 85th birthday and am still quite active, but I need some help.

A nice, kind lady has lived in my house for years, taking care of my general welfare. She cleans and cooks for me and also looks after some rental property I have, collecting the rent and so on. I don't pay her any money, but she lives in my house and pays no rent.

She has promised to stay with me until the end. I would like to leave this woman one of my houses to show my appreciation for all she has done for me, but my friends tell me that my letting her live here for free is enough.

I am alone and have no relatives. What shall I do? Your advice has always been highly regarded by this reader.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Your instincts are good. Leave the lady one of your houses as you had intended.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Using Cortisone

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Your informative comments on rheumatoid arthritis and use of cortisone were the clearest I have read on the subject.

One question remains. After using cortisone for several years, if signs of side effects should appear, would discontinuing the cortisone reverse the damage or would it be permanent?

What of indomethacin or other drugs, as to effectiveness and side effects?—M.B.J.

There's been excessive concern about "side effects," in my opinion, but that remark doesn't apply to today's letter. So many times I've been told, "The doctor prescribed — but I read so much about side effects that I never took any."

Today's question, however, is a reasonable one. Blind fear of "side effects" is unreasonable, but reasonable awareness of them is only good sense.

Cortisone is useful for some cases of arthrities, when a small maintenance dose brings results. This often can be continued for a long time. With small dosage, side effects, if any, will not be either sudden or catastrophic.

Thus if such signs as water retention may in time begin to appear, they will subside when the cortisone is stopped. (This medication should be withdrawn gradually, not abruptly.)

Therefore, there is ample time to avoid the more serious possibilities which develop with large and continued dosage — bone fragility, mental disturbance, and the like. It is the excessive use, not the moderate use, that can lead to permanent damage.

The same principle, in general applies to other potent medications which are effective in combating rheumatoid arthrities. Indomethacin (and even the widely-used aspirin) can, in some patients, cause stomach irritation and intestinal bleeding. In either case, taking the medication immediately after meals lessens the possibility of this trouble.

It is the doctor's responsibility to watch for signs of any of the rarer side effects. But for a patient to try to learn all the remote possibilities does no good and makes him usually into a worry-wart.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am considering taking birth control pills and was wondering what the effect would be, if any, on a woman who is unknowingly pregnant when she begins the pills?—Mrs. J.T.

Very early in pregnancy, the pill could affect the baby. To be on the safe side, why not do what many women do? That is, start the pills right after a period so you know you aren't pregnant then.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as outlining effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis" write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Sea Book Fare Gets Scorching

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — The seagoing branches of the military forces took a beating in a blaze at the Salem Public Library.

Library officials reported four books were set afire. The titles: "History of Sea Power," "The Marine Corps," "Old Ironsides," and "Naval Battles."

COULD HAVE DANCED ALL NIGHT — Janet Lynn, 17, of Rockford, Ill., goes into a layback spin during her routine that won first place in the senior ladies' division of the U.S. figure skating championships in Buffalo, N.Y., Saturday. She was so elated over the victory that she almost danced all night.

Elated Janet Wins Another

BUFFALO (AP) — "I've had a ball," said Janet Lynn and "I've been sleeping and not practicing," said John Misha Petkevich, the nation's top figure ice skaters.

Miss Lynn, 17, of Rockford, Ill., dancing on skates behind the scenes the afternoon she won her third consecutive national senior ladies' title, described Sunday the hours following her victory in the U.S. figure Skating Championships.

"I went to a banquet last (Saturday) night and I danced and danced and danced—'till 12:30 that is. Then I went to bed."

Still elated over her triumph in Memorial Auditorium, Miss Lynn bounced joyously in a corridor to the music of the Gold Dance skaters while she awaited her cue to take to the ice for an exhibition of her championship talent.

Meanwhile, Petkevich, a 21-year-old Harvard junior, from Great Falls, Mont., was in the dressing room, tieing on his skates preparatory to his exhibition.

"I haven't done anything except rest since Friday night," he said. That was when he won the national singles crown after two years of finishing second.

Petkevich, who like Miss Lynn bounced up from spills during his free-skating exercises to win the championship, will compete in the North American Championships later this week in Peterborough, Ont. Then it is on to Lyons, France, for the World Championships Feb. 23-28.

In Sunday's windup of the five - day competition, Judy Schwomeyer, 20, of Claymount, Del., and Army Pfc. James Sladky, 23, Wilmington, Del., won their fourth consecutive Gold Dance championship and Melissa Militano, 15, of Dix Hills, N.Y., captured her first junior ladies crown.

Archer Ought To Feel Fine

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "You can't play well if you're not healthy," George Archer said. "It's been a long time, but I feel fine now, just fine."

Archer, plagued with a variety of health problems since winning the 1969 Masters, had just stormed in with a final-round 65 and scored his first victory in almost two years in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament.

His 272 total was 16 under par on the oceanside Torrey Pines Golf Club course and three strokes better than second place Dave Eichelberger, who had a final 68.

Jack Nicklaus, who led the tournament at one point, had a 66 for 277 and was tied for third at that figure with Miller Barber, Paul Harney and Bob Stone. Harney had a 69 and Barber and Stone 70s.

Archer was off the tour for a while after his Masters victory because of stomach troubles. Then last year he developed a "tennis elbow," calcium deposits in the left elbow.

"Sometimes it would get so bad I couldn't lift the club," he said. "Other times it was not that bad, but I was favoring the left side. And you just can't play good golf without a solid left arm.

"Now I'm on some pain-killing medication that seems to do the job."

He also attributed a worn red sweater, a battered golf ball and a touch of fog with help in picking up his $30,000 first-place check.

"I'll admit to being superstitious," the 6-foot-6 former ranch hand said. "This is the same sweater I wore when I won the Masters. And I played the same ball for the last 12 holes. I felt I had it going with that ball and just didn't want to change."

Most pros change balls every third or fourth hole, but Archer started a string of four consecutive birdies on the ninth that propelled him to his seventh tour victory. He kept using the ball.

Boros Cops Senior Pro

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—When Julius Boros, of North Miami, eagled the par five first hole on the PGA National Golf Club east course in his first competitive round as a senior professional, he had a very comfortable feeling he would like senior competition.

On his second and third round he birdied the same hole and on his fourth round of the PGA Mercury Seniors championship Sunday he missed a birdie by one inch.

"I felt like I would want to play all the rest of my tournaments on that first hole or possibly put a down payment on it," he said. The first hole is a 523-yard double dog leg which played to about 490 yards Sunday.

Boros went on for a closing 72 and a 285 total that won him $4,000 out of $40,000 prize money in the PGA Seniors Golf championship. And in doing that he outlasted Tommy Bolt of St. Petersburg who led at the end of two rounds by five shots and three rounds by one. Bolt finished with a 76 and second place worth $3,000. Sammy Snead, the defending champion, was third at 289 for $2,000.

Bolt complained of a back strain at the end of 54 holes and said he might not finish. But he did. Boros said he also has had some back strain from time to time, "ever since I bent over to pick a ball out of the cup in one hole of the U.S. Open tournament years ago."

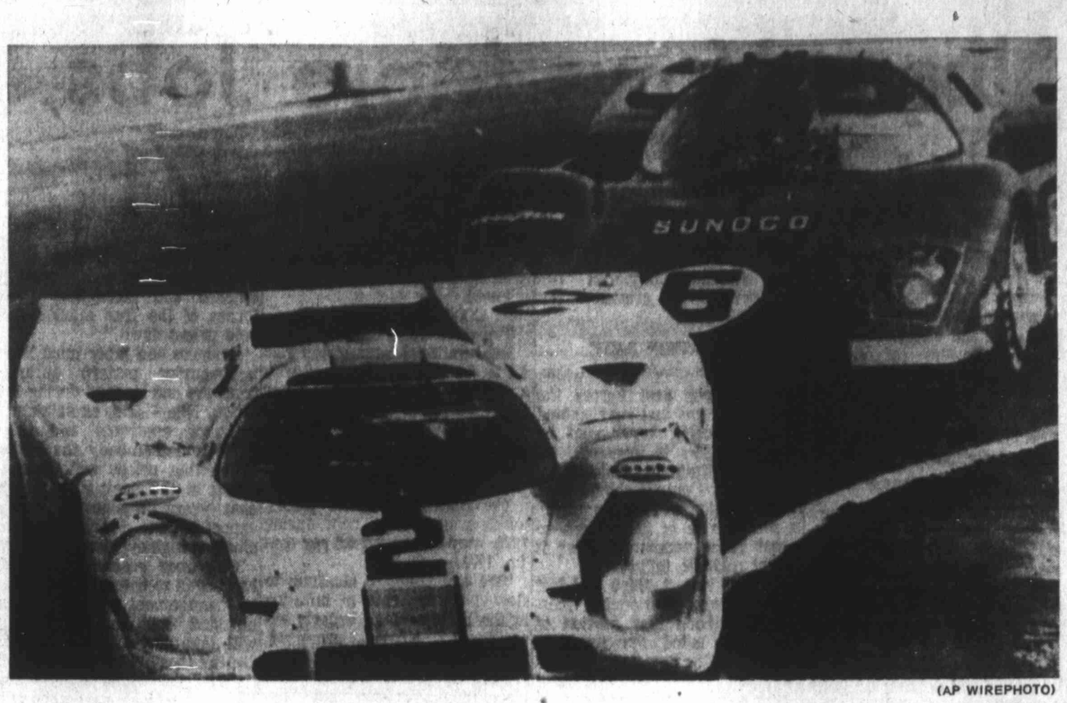

Snead finished with a par 72 to cut into the five-shot lead Bolt held over him at the end of 54 holes and finished one stroke behind at 289. Overnight Sammy had some putting instructions and went back to the orthodox style of putting, forgetting his side-saddle stance except on very short putts.

Boston Picks Up High Scorer

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins, bent on a National Hockey League scoring record, boasted additional firepower today with the acquisition of veteran Mike Walton, a potential super star who had a falling out with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Bruins, the mightiest scoring machine in NHL history with 239 goals in just 49 games while en route to shattering their league record of 303 set in the 1968-69 season, acquired Walton Sunday night in a three-way deal with Toronto and the Philadelphia Flyers.

The 26-year-old Walton scored 73 goals the past three seasons.

BATTLE FOR LEAD — A 917 Porsche (2), driven by Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico, is followed closely by a Ferrari (6), driven by Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., as the two cars battle for the lead at the Daytona International Speedway where the 24 Hours of Daytona is being run.

Pedro Watches Daytona Title Slip By--Almost

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Pedro Rodriguez is a wiry little man, toughened by 17 of his 31 years at the wheel of a fast racing car. He no longer enjoys the emotional bath that comes with victory.

Such was the case Sunday after he and England's Jackie Oliver paired to drive a German Porsche to the closest victory ever in the Daytona 24-hour race.

Rodriguez had done it before—in 1970 when he teamed with inland's Lee Kinnunen in another Porsche. The only smile he flashed after Sunday's triumph, his fourth at Daytona, was when he said he finds it easier to communicate with Oliver than with Kinnunen, who speaks no English.

Yet he and Oliver had performed a near miracle in winning this latest edition of the longest and most demanding race in the Western world. And he should have been floating on cloud nine, as Oliver was.

"They get harder every year," said Mexico City's No. 1 citizen. "But I'm not at all surprised that we won. That's what we came here to do."

Rodriguez flashed past a Ferrari driven by Ronnie Bucknum for Porsche's second straight 24-hour victory here. It put the German factory in command again in the 1971 drive for the world championship of makes—a circuit it dominated last year by winning all but one of the 10 events.

Rodriguez and Oliver, dividing the driving chores about equally, had built up a lead of 213 miles at one point in the race. But trouble struck with about three hours left when the car's transmission failed as Oliver was motoring around with not a care in the world.

Oliver brought the powder-blue car into the pit and he and Rodriguez spent an agonizing 93 minutes watching their lead wiped out as crewmen feverishly made repairs.

Bucknum gained the lead 70 minutes from the end and Donohue pulled into striking distance before crew chief John Wyer could get the Porsche rolling again. Rodriguez bolted back to the course a half mile behind Bucknum, whose Ferrari was spitting fire and having trouble getting through the turns.

The Mexican hotshot needed less than two laps around the 3.81-mile layout to catch Bucknum and he never was in serious trouble again.

Donohue and Hobbs drove brilliantly to a third-place finish despite more than an hour in the pits at one point to repair body damage suffered in a wreck.

Fourth place went to a seven-liter Corvette driven by Tony DeLorenzo, Don Yenko and Jack Mahler. Fifth was a three-liter Ferrari manned by Luigi Chinetti Jr. of Greenwich, Conn., and young Nestor Garcia Veiga of Argentina.

COSTLY CONTEST

Swiss, Italians Bobsled Victors

CERVINIA, Italy (AP) — Although Switzerland and Italy wound up with top honors in the 1971 World Bobsled Championship, bobsled officials noted today that there were more losers than winners in the 13-day tourney.

Thirty-one accidents, one fatal, turned this championships into the most accident-prone since World War I. Only 12 four-man crews out of a scheduled 26 concluded the championship. Many of them were patched up or used reserve teams.

In the last day of competition Sunday, Rene Stadler cracked all records on the 1,540-meter course to drive Switzerland one to victory in the four-man event.

It was Switzerland's first gold medal in 14 years, ever since Hans Zoller grabbed the four-man title in St. Moritz in 1957. It was also a dramatic setback for the Italians who should know their home course.

Oddly, both titles were awarded after two heats, instead of the scheduled four. The international jury dropped two in both events because of bad weather.

The decision to cancel the first two heats of the four-man brought official protests from Switzerland, Germany, Britain and Canada. Many riders suggested the jury had been influenced by the organizers to favor the Italians, who were leading in the two-man when it was cut short and who had flipped before the four-man race was postponed 24 hours.

The big disappointment of the championships were the Americans. They came in 12th.

It's A Rough Week For A Pair Of SW Contenders

By The Associated Press

Texas Tech basketball fans are hoping Baylor's road show won't be as good as the scoring act the Bears performed before the home folks in Heart 'O Texas Coliseum Saturday.

The high-scoring Bear machine drilled defending champion Rice 119-96 to tie an all-time Southwest Conference scoring record and gave the Bruins momentum for Tuesday's showdown in Lubbock against Texas Tech.

With Texas Christian sitting high and dry in first place with a 4-0 record, Tech and Baylor are knotted for second with 3-1 records in the tight SWC race.

"This is certainly a crucial week for us," said Baylor Coach Bill Menefee. "We play a conference contender in Tech Tuesday and then Saturday we have to go to Fort Worth to play the leader in TCU. So we've got a tough week."

But it won't be easy for Tech either. After Tuesday's showdown for second place with Baylor, the Raiders must go on the road Saturday against Rice. In other games Tuesday night TCU goes to Arkansas, Rice is at Texas and SMU is at Texas A&M.

While Baylor was whacking the defending champs Saturday, Tech defeated A&M 76-65 in College Station; SMU nipped Arkansas by an eyelash, 90-88 and TCU tipped Texas 76-70.

Potent Bruins Also Stingy

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins are proud of their high-scoring attack, and getting a little bit fed up with uncomplimentary remarks about their defensive play.

"Sure, offense is our bread and butter, but we can play a lot of defense when we have to," Boston Coach Tom Johnson said Sunday after the Bruins overwhelmed the St. Louis Blues 6-0 in a nationally televised game, interrupted by the moon space shot.

The Bruins moved six points in front of the New York Rangers, while still holding a game in hand in the East Division race. In other action, Los Angeles tied New York 2-2, Minnesota defeated California 7-1, Buffalo whipped Vancouver 6-1, Philadelphia clowned Detroit 3-1, and Chicago edged Montreal 4-1.

"We scored six goals, but I was more impressed by our play on defense," Johnson said.

Veteran Eddie Johnston earned his second shutout of the season, kicking out 23 shots, as the Bruins dominated the Blues and fashioned their 17th straight home victory, just five under the NHL record set by Boston's 1929-30 team.

Center Phil Esposito scored his 45th goal and added two assists in boosting his league-scoring lead to 90 points in just 49 games. Esposito, who set the record of 126 points two years ago, is being chased by defenseman Bobby Orr, a talented teammate with 82 points.

Orr, hockey's Mr. Everything last season when he topped the league with 120 points, scored his 21st and 22nd goals and picked up his 60th assist.

Other Boston scorers were Wayne Cashman, rookie Reggie Leach and Derek Sanderson.

Bullets Had Ambition, But Knicks Had Ammunition

By The Associated Press

What's faster than a speeding Bullet? Easy, a speeding New York Knickerbocker.

"They're very good against the fast break and get back so fast," said Baltimore Coach Gene Shue after the Knicks whipped the Bullets 125-95 in the National Basketball Association Sunday. "We wanted to run them all game, but couldn't do it."

It appeared that Shue wasn't quite expecting a pepped-up Knickerbocker team. And he wasn't.

"I just thought the Knicks were ready to be beat," said Shue, pointing to their busy schedule of late that included Saturday night's 106-105 loss to Philadelphia. "But we didn't generate enough offense.

Coach Red Holzman of the Knicks pointed out that Baltimore's loss of Gus Johnson and Eddie Miles, both injured, didn't help the Bullets.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Boston 132, Philadelphia 126; Atlanta 131, San Diego 120; Cleveland 117, Buffalo 108; Chicago 131, Cincinnati 99; Los Angeles 133, Portland 120 and Milwaukee 131, Detroit 104.

On Saturday night in the NBA, besides the New York-Philadelphia game, Cincinnati whipped San Diego 116-110; Phoenix stopped Seattle 134-116 and San Francisco tripped Los Angeles 87-85.

HOT HAND LUKE

Johnny Neumann May Best Pistol Pete's High Mark

By The Associated Press

They call him a Rebel, the Hot Hand Luke of the Southeast.

His name is Johnny Neumann . . . and smile when you say that, pardner.

"He's a great athlete and a great shooter," says Louisiana State's Press Maravich of the dazzling Mississippi sophomore.

When you're talking college basketball scorers, Maravich should know. He coached a great one for three years—his son, Pete.

Although some are comparing Neumann with The Pistol because of his run-and-gun penchant, Press bows out of a serious discussion.

"I've only seen Neumann once," said Press, referring to Saturday night's 113-90 licking of LSU by Mississippi. "I really can't make a comparison. But I know Neumann will probably be No. 1 in the country, just like Pete was.

"I was impressed by Neumann's great movement without the ball, his strong grip and good finger control. Pete, of course, was a great playmaker. And I think Neumann will be . . . in time."

Neumann, at 6-foot-6 an inch taller than Pistol Pete, added 63 points to his nation-leading total Saturday night. He's averaging over 42 points a game, which is up in the rarified Maravich stratosphere.

Austin Carr, Neumann's closest competitor with a plus-37-point average, only could manage 23—and that cost seventh-ranked Notre Dame a 69-66 overtime upset loss ot No. 18 Illinois Saturday night.

There were few other surprises in the Top Ten. Other than ninth-rated Utah State's 76-72 defeat by Air Force, the rest won.

Top-ranked Marquette took the night off, but No. 2 UCLA blew by UC-Santa Barbara 74-61; No. 3 Southern California stomped Chicago Loyola 97-73; No. 5 Kansas whipped Iowa State 95-72; eighth-rated Tennessee smashed Auburn 90-68 and 10th-ranked South Carolina throttled No. 15 Virginia 92-70.

Cats Stretch It To Three

By The Associated Press

The best things in life are free. Ask the Carolina Cougars.

The Cougars used four free throws in the last minute to stave off a New York rally and beat the Nets 125-121 in the American Basketball Association Sunday.

New York, losing 110-97, had climbed back within 121-119 after Sonny Dove's jump shot with 54 seconds left.

Then George Lehmann and Frank Card each canned two from the foul line to wrap it up and give the Cougars their longest winning streak of the season—three games.

Elsewhere in the ABA, it was Floridians 95, Texas 92; Virginia 126, Pittsburgh 122; Utah 138, Kentucky 129 and Indiana 124, Denver 104.

In the ABA Saturday, it was New York 115, Virginia 112; Carolina 114, Denver 109 and Memphis 109, Floridians 96.

Lehmann, a former Net, wound up with 28 points and Joe Caldwell finished with 26 for Carolina. Joe DePre had 28, Manny Leaks, 26 and Rick Barry, 21 for the Nets, who trailed 58-56 at the half and 94-89 entering the final period.

Romanian Beats Richey At Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Ilie Natase of Romania, ranked sixth in the world, defeated Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 Sunday to capture the singles title in the Midlands International Indoor Tennis Championships.

Clark Graebner of New York and Thomaz Koch of Brazil won the doubles by defeating Jim Osborne of Honolulu and Jim McManus, of Berkeley, Calif., 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

Nixon Vows More Jobs, Better Business In '71

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon sent Congress today a pledge of more jobs and better business in 1971, plus a promise to use "all the effective and legitimate powers of government" to strengthen anti-inflation forces.

His goal: "Full prosperity without war, full prosperity without inflation."

PAY CONTROLS

But Nixon rejected—perhaps more emphatically than ever before—any use of price-wage controls or voluntary guideposts. He called the latter "an elaborate facade that seems to be wage and price control but is not."

His annual economic report to Congress fixed no specific goals or deadlines for recovery. But in the accompanying 300-page report of his Council of Economic Advisers, these targets were posted and presumably approved by him:

—Unemployment—now at 6 per cent—would decline to 4½ per cent by the middle of 1972. The official definition of "full employment" is around 4 per cent.

INFLATION RATE

—The inflation rate, which was 5.25 per cent across the whole economy last year, should be approaching 3 per cent by mid-1972. This is measured by the Gross National Product.

—National output should total $1.065 trillion in 1971, requiring a record rise of $88 billion—so great some economists fear it might rekindle inflation.

Nixon's report, third and last of the major presidential messages to each new session of Congress, noted "prices have begun to rise less rapidly" and added: "There are the first faint signs of a retardation in wage increases in some sectors."

Nixon said his $229.2-billion "full employment budget," sent to Congress on Friday, would provide a solid stimulus to expansion. Its outlays will rise $16.5 billion from this year's spending level, causing an estimated $11.6-billion deficit.

HOW BIG?

The President hinted at some lack of confidence in the estimate of the deficit. "How big the actual deficit will be," he said, "will depend on economic conditions."

But Nixon stressed anew his belief in the "full employment budget" theory, under which federal spending is considered stimulative but not inflationary when it does not exceed the revenues that the tax system would yield if the economy were operating at full employment. Larger spending would be inflationary and must be avoided "except in emergencies," Nixon said.

NEW HOUSING

Some expansive forces are now at work, Nixon pointed out. They include a 40-per cent rise in the rate of new housing starts from a year ago, strongly increased state and local government spending, sharply reduced interest rates, rising after-tax incomes, and the catching-up of the auto industry from the General Motors strike.

Neither the President nor the council, however, offered an estimate of the anticipated gain in real output or a forecast of the 1971 rate of price advance. The projected rise of $88 billion in gross national product would be a 9-per cent gain; some government experts have suggested it might be about 4½ per cent real increase, 4½ per cent inflation.

Some of the 1971 forecasts missing from the presidential message were supplied orally by chairman McCracken at a briefing after the text was distributed.

CONSUMER PRICES

These were the figures:

Real national output may rise 4.5 to 5 per cent, compared with a decline of four-tenths of 1 per cent in 1970.

Unemployment will average slightly above 5 per cent for the full year, but will dip below 5 per cent by the year-end.

The rise in consumer prices, which was 5.5 per cent during 1970, may be around 4.5 per cent in 1971.

"We are going to continue to slow down the rate of inflation in the middle of an orderly expansion," Nixon promised. "And we are going to do it by relying upon free markets and strengthening them, not suppressing them . . .

PRICE LIDS

"I do not intend to impose wage and price controls which would substitute new, growing and more vexatious problems for the problems of inflation.

Neither do I intend to rely upon an elaborate facade that seems to be wage and price control but is not. Instead, I intend to use all the effective and legitimate powers of government to unleash and strengthen those forces of the free market that hold prices down."

Business and labor must learn a behavior pattern different from the one learned during inflation, Nixon said, explaining:

'Labor contracts and price lists cannot embody the expectation that prices will continue rising at the peak rates of recent years. Businesses cannot expect to pass all cost increases along in higher prices."

Consumer resistance already has begun to teach these lessons to management and labor, Nixon said, and the government will take further actions—typified by those initiated in the oil, lumber and construction industries—whenever necessary "to correct the conditions which give rise to excessive price and wage increases.

The report of the Council of Economic Advisers—Chairman Paul W. McCracken, Herbert Stein and Hendrik S. Houthakker—emphasized the business recovery would have been visible last fall except for the Genera Motors strike.

LAYOFFS

Real national output—gross national product corrected to squeeze out price inflation—would have risen slightly for 1970 as a whole instead of declining by four-tenths of 1 per cent, the council said. The fourth quarter would have shown a rise of 2 to 3 per cent instead of a decline of 3.3 per cent.

The unemployment rate also was worsened by other than general economic factors, the council said. Reduced Defense Department spending, including reduction of forces, civilian employe layoffs and the lower rate of contract outlays resulted in loss of about 1.1 million jobs.

Name New Publisher At Bryan

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Harold S. Taxel has been named publisher of the Daily Eagle in Bryan-College Station, where he will succeed Jerry Strader, who is joining the Beaumont Enterprise and Journal in an executive capacity.

Taxel, previously a vice president of the San Antonio Express and News in San Antonio, assumed his new duties today.

Strader previously had been publisher of the Corsicana Sun and prior to that had been a staff member of newspapers in Greenville, Abilene and San Angelo.

He will join the Beaumont papers later this month.

Taxel had been with the San Antonio papers for 15 years, serving successviely as a research director, advertising director and director of sales and promotion.

The Eagle is owned by Harte-Hanks Newspapers, Inc., a Texas-based communications group publishing 17 newspapers and operating one television station in 13 Texas markets.

The owners of the Beaumont papers have extensive newspaper holdings in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Johnny Cash Rolls To 34th

NEW YORK (AP)—ABC has won the weekly national Nielsen ratings during the regular television season for the first time since 1965.

The network placed five of its shows in the top 10 and scored a rating of 20.7 for the week of Jan. 18-24, Nielsen announced today. NBC had a rating of 20.3 and CBS 18.7.

ABC last won the national ratings in January, 1965, in the regular season, although it did win the national ratings in the summer of 1967 when "The Fugitive" left the air.

The network attributed the ratings boost to its midwinter program changes. A number of shows climbed in the ratings, including Johnny cash, who advanced to 34th place from the bottom tier.

"The Partirdge Family" moved up to No. 21, where it was tied with a new ABC show, "The Smith Family."

Here is the top 10:

1. Flip Wilson, NBC. 2. "Marcus Welby, M.D.," ABC. 3. "Ironside," NBC. 4. ABC Movie of the Week, "Dr. Cook's Garden." 5. "Gunsmoke," CBS. 6. "Here's Lucy," CBS. 7. ABC Sunday Movie, "In Harm's Way," Part 1. 8. Walt Disney, NBC. 9. "The FBI," ABC. 10. "Mod Squad," ABC.

Quick Calf Roping Time

FORT WORTH (AP) — Junior Garrison, world's champion calf roper last year, had a 10.9 second time Sunday night to come within two-tenths of a second of leading the second-go-round in his specialty.

Garrison's second calf of the rodeo brought his total time to 22.3 seconds, trailing slightly behind Richard Walker of Freer who holds a 22.1 total for two calves.

Both men have roped all the calves they will during the Fort Worth rodeo until Sunday night when they will probably be around for the finals.

In the first event of Sunday night's sixth performance of the rodeo, T. J. Walters of Watkins, La., scored a 73 point ride in the bareback bronc riding to trail Ace Berry of Modesto, Calif., by only three points.

Only two steer wrestlers broke the 10-second barrier during the crowded night performance, Wayne Spencer of Cushing, Okla., had a 7.9 time and Eugene Weakley of Burkburnett had a time of 8.2.

Walt Linderman of Belfry, Mont., still holds the lead with his 4.5 second time.

Darryl Kong now of Calgary, Alberta, Canada, an Australian cowboy who was the first Oriental to join the Rodeo Cowboys Association, scored a 76 ride in the saddle bronc competition to nip closely on the heels of the event's leaders since Saturday night. Paul Striker and Kenny McLean who both have 78.

TOYOTA "BEST OF GROUP"

ROAD & TRACK RATES TOYOTA "BEST OF GROUP" IN COMPARISON TESTS OF TOP 5 SMALL CARS

TOYOTA CORONA

The current edition of Road & Track magazine (Jan. 1971) compares the five leading small cars on the U.S. market — Toyota Corona, Datsun 510, Chevrolet Vega, Ford Pinto 1600 and the VW Super Beetle — and awards its "best of group" rating to the Toyota Corona sedan.

In summarizing the test results, Road & Track reports:

"The Toyota Corona is quiet, comfortable and strong. It has a list of standard fittings that should make the other economy car builders green with envy . . . it is an outstanding dollar value."

Fuel Dump At Air Base Hit By Enemy Rockets

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces killed eight Americans and wounded 25 early today in attacks on six U.S. positions in the central and northern provinces of South Vietnam.

The most devastating attack was a 50-round mortar barrage and ground assault on a reconnaissance team that had set up an ambush position four miles west of Chu Lai, headquarters of the U.S. Americal Division.

UNLUCKY SEVEN

Seven Americans were killed and seven wounded, the biggest U.S. casualties reported in a single ground action in more than six months.

The enemy forces apparently had traced the movements of the team from the 198th Brigade.

The other five American positions attacked were hit by rockets and mortars. They included the air bases at Da Nang and Cam Ranh Bay, a military adviser's compound at the Tuy Hoa air base, a helicopter unit seven miles northwest of Cam Ranh Bay and an artillery base 32 miles south of Pleiku City. The U.S. Command said one American was killed and 18 wounded.

The attack at Da Nang touched off a huge fire that destroyed thousands of gallons of fuel and damaged some aircraft. No casualties were reported.

BOMBS AWAY

Meanwhile, the most sustained bombing campaign of the war stretched into its 115th day today with more U.S. raids on the Ho Chi Minh trail through southern Laos.

Informed sources said some 30 B52 bombers, each carrying up to 30 tons of bombs, and about 200 smaller fighter-bombers and gunships pounded the 200-mile-long trail network in the latest round of attacks.

The U.S. Command announced the first major American unit to be phased out of Vietnam as part of President Nixon's sixth round of troop cutbacks that will reduce U.S. strength to less than 284,000 men by May 1. It is the 1st Squadron of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment, now working on local security with South Vietnamese militiamen in the Saigon region. Its departure will cut U.S. strength by 1,140 men.

The entire 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment of 5,000 men will be phased out by May 1, along with 15,000 other combat troops in the Saigon region. But the U.S. Command's weekly strength summary today reported 335,800 American troops in Vietnam last Thursday, the same figure as the previous week.

ROUTE CUT

In Phnom Penh, a Cambodian military spokesman said some supplies have reached the capital from the port of Kompong Som despite ambushes along Highway 4. The highway is the Cambodian capital's route to the country's only deep water port and was cut by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong last Nov. 21.

After a major South Vietnamese-Cambodian operation to reopen the highway, South Vietnamese headquarters declared it safe last week, but a supply convoy was ambushed Saturday and Cambodian troops clashed twice Sunday with Viet Cong troops along the route.

The U.S. Command also reported that a U.S. Air Force OV10 reconnaissance plane with one man aboard was missing in Cambodia and presumed downed. The plane disappeared last Friday while on a mission over Siem Reap Province north of Tonle Sap lake.

CAMBODIA'S 'TIGRESS' — Phan Thol, who is fighting side-by-side with Cambodian army men battling to clear Highway 4 near Sre Khlong, is nicknamed "The Tigress" for her prowess in combat. The tough 20-year-old soldier joined up after her older brother entered the army.

Troops Raid Two Villages In Lebanon

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli raiding parties attacked two villages in south Lebanon during the night, and informed sources said they destroyed a Palestinian guerrilla regional headquarters.

A spokesman for the Israeli military command said an Israeli soldier was killed and three wounded. A number of Arabs also were casualties, he said.

The sources said heavy guerrilla resistance at the headquarters caused all the Israeli casualties. This was at Al-Kyam, four miles north of the frontier.

Guerrilla sources in Beirut claimed that 15 Israelis were killed or wounded. These sources said the guerrillas in Al-Kyam were already on a "maximum alert," and the Israeli raiders "virtually walked into an ambush." The guerrillas suffered no casualties, the sources said.

The Israeli Command said the other target was the village of Kafer Kela, just west of the Upper Galilee town of Metulla, and sources in Israel said two houses used as guerrilla recruiting centers were destroyed there.

The sources said there was little resistance there and that the Israelis moved an Arab family out before destroying one house.

Metulla has been the target of several guerrilla attacks recently, the latest Friday night. The military spokesman said 10 Israeli settlements have been attacked from Lebanon since Jan. 10.

Yasir Arafat, leader of Al Fatah guerrilla organization and titular head of the Palestine Liberation Organization of all guerrilla groups, reportedly told Premier Saeb Salam four weeks ago that the raids from Lebanese territory would cease.

Violence continued today in the occupied Gaza Strip, where 44 pounds of explosive concealed in a tire went off in the central post office in Gaza City at 9 a.m., wounding 61 Arabs. The post office was badly damaged.

The lobby of the building was filled with employes waiting for their paychecks. One witness said he saw something smoking behind the counter just before the explosion.

Choir Boosters

The Choir Boosters will meet in the high school choir room at 7:30 p.m. today instead of Feb. 8, due to a conflict with the Concert Association. Final plans for the Little Miss Big Spring Pageant will be made at tonight's meeting.

'Conference On Cities' To Skip Racial Problems?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is planning an international "Conference of Cities" next spring, but intends to keep America's racial problems in the background.

The conference, which opens May 25 in Indianapolis, is expected to attract some of the world's leading experts on urban problems. Its focus will be kept firmly fixed on the difficulties common to the 15 NATO countries, an administration spokesman said.

NATO is collaborating in planning the conference, which developed out of its Committee on the Challenges of Modern Society.

'BIG' NAMES

"We are trying to deal with problems that have a high level of commonality," said the administration aide, who asked not to be identified. "With the exception of Great Britain, there's not a European country with a severe racial problem."

President Nixon is considered a likely speaker at the four-day conference. West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, former mayor of West Berlin, may also attend.

SIMILAR EXPERIENCES

The guest list is still not complete but among those likely to receive invitations are the renowned Greek architect and planner, Constantinos Doxiadis, economist Barbara Ward and designer-builder Richard Buckminster Fuller.

Five hundred delegates are expected, half of them from Europe. Among the U.S. delegates will be mayors from cities over 100,000 in population and several governors.

The agenda, which is still being shaped, now includes transportation, housing, fiscal affairs, the environment, public services and planning and development.

Shootings, Car Wrecks Join Forces In Death

By The Associated Press

Gunfire and car wrecks sent the death toll over January's last weekend soaring in Texas.

The Associated Press began its regular weekend count of violent deaths in the state at 6 p.m. Friday and continued the tabulation until midnight Sunday.

By midnight Sunday, the death toll stood at 27 dead, 12 killed in car wrecks, 7 in shootings, 3 in fires and 3 died of stab wounds. One man drowned and a female skydiver was killed in a 5,000-foot fall.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Lindell Ruth Malone, 44, of Houston was stabbed to death Sunday during a birthday party in her honor. Police searched for a man who ran from the house shortly before Mrs. Malone died.

The body of Naomi Miller Martin, 54, was found on a bloody couch Sunday in her Lubbock home. Officers said the woman had been stabbed 25 times with a 7-inch piece of brass.

Coffie Perkins, 7, of Lubbock was killed Sunday when he ran in front of a pickup truck and was struck by the vehicle. Officers said the child suffered head injuries.

DEATH DIVE

Ruth Kathleen Davis, 20, of Lubbock, a Texas Tech coed, plunged 5,000 feet to her death while making her eighth skydive. The accident occurred near Brownfield in Terry County.

Jesus Burciaga, 29, of Odom was killed Sunday along with Eduardo Servin, 20, of Poth when their car hit a bridge on Interstate 35 near Artesia Wells.

Manuel Gonzales Jr., 25, was killed near Bandera Sunday when a tire on the car he was driving ruptured and caused the car to run off a steep embankment.

Marcell Dixon, 20, of Dyess Air Force Base was fatally shot and two other persons wounded Sunday when a shooting erupted in an Abilene residence. Abilene police said they were hunting for a man who was accused of the shooting.

ROBBERY CALL

James Lewis Ellis, 5, and his sister, Janice Lynn Ellis, 4, both died Sunday in a fire that swept their trailer home at Hurst after an explosion in the dwelling. Their mother, Mrs. Lynda Ellis, said she was awakened by the blast but could not reach the bedroom where the children had been sleeping.

Roy W. Lee, a Houston policeman was shot to death early Sunday, as he and a partner investigated a robbery call on the Gulf Freeway. T. L. Wilson was shot to death by Lee's partner, officers said.

A 6-year-old Fort Worth child, John Talley, was killed in a two-car wreck on U.S. 180 near Mineral Wells Saturday night.

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW

—CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when nothing carefully planned seems to work out as you wish. But you would be wise to avoid depression or annoyance at obstacles and delays. However, you also have an interesting and dramatic good fortune arising that can bring you closer to your heart's desire, so be receptive to such.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You could miss out on some benefits if you aren't on the alert since an associate and a friend are working on a new project togeher. The evening is then fine for social activity. Avoid the financial since it can be a problem.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You have a feeling of frustration about the conditions around you that are personal. But business matters zoom ahead. Listen to what more experienced persons have to say about private matters. Avoid arguments.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have many fine ideas of a most lofty distinction. Work on those instead of worrying about little things. Little is accomplished while worrying. Listen to fine ideas of a newcomer.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Avoid that friend today who would be stubborn about going along with your ideas. Get busy on practical affairs alone. Be objective about worrisome matters and you straighten them out nicely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) There are many problems that can be nicely handled if you get an early start. Discuss with associates and surprise them with your efficiency. Don't jeopardize fine image you now enjoy with the public in general.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find a better way to do work that is bothering you. A bigwig will be pleased and give you more support and benefits. You find it difficult to get off to new sites. Await a better day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Rather than worry about bills, put new ideas to work that can bring in more income very soon. You are most inspired and get along very well if you do not procrastinate. This has been a drawback in the past.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You need to consult with those at home more if you are to get the desired results. Don't listen to impractical ideas of partners or you get in deep water. Put own ideas to work properly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make those appointments early with persons you want to help. The result could be mutually beneficial. Handle only those routine tasks that are necessary. Make sure the future is better organized.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A poor day for recreation but very fine for accomplishing a great deal in work. Add to present income appreciably. Listen to what financial experts have to suggest for your better advancement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Family matters could prove quite tedious now but you can put new ideas across with great facility. A new friend can be most inspiring. Engage in modern activities and put aside all those antiquated systems.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Be careful in travel and avoid possible accident that could be very costly. Plan the future more wisely. You have opportunity to assist others who can be of help to you.
