SEX OF LINGLE PROBE WITNESS PROVES PUZZLE

'Woman' Has Appearance Of Man in Feminine Attire

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—A mysterious witness, dressed as a woman but with the physique of a man, today appeared before the investigating committee delving into the assassination of Alfred Lingle, Tribune crime reporter.

This strange person, heavily veiled and wearing goggles, lent drama to the inqury but provided no public information toward solution of the case that has brought many charges of alliance between organized crime and politics.

Lengthy Cardinal

The new witness appeared unexpectedly carrying a suitcase as though she or he had arrived by train. The newcomer was taken into the offices of Charles E. Rathbun, Tribune attorney and special assistant state's attorney. After more than an hour in conference the veiled person was taken to the detective bureau.

Photographs taken of the mystery witness as she left the investigator's office disclosed unusual features, indicating the veiled person might be a man, disguised to frustrate recognition.

The photograph revealed the person as of unusually large stature for a woman, with calloused hands.

Man Wanted Gives Up

In the meantime, Louise Clementi, reputed underworld character who police said was wanted for questioning about the Lingle case, walked into detective headquarters and gave himself up to Chief of Detectives John Norton. He was held for investigation.

The grand jury investigation of the Lingle slaying went forward today, along with the opening of an inquiry by the Chicago Church federation which launched a secret investigation of its own.

A dispatch from St. Louis said Harry Brundige, reported for a St. Louis newspaper who wrote several articles charging unprofessional conduct of unnamed Chicago newspaper men, was willing to go before the grand jury but saw no reason for a preliminary conference with the state's attorney. Brundige, basing his articles on the alleged alliance of Lingle with certain gangsters and officials, contended other Chicago newspaper men were "racketeers."

SHOOTING ENDS HONEYMOON OF TEXAS COUPLE

Former Swain Turns Gun On Himself Following Girl's Death

VERDICT RETURNED

Coroner Calls Tragedy Murder and Suicide In Inquest

HOUSTON, July 8. (AP)—A honeymoon came to a tragic end this afternoon as Mrs. Ivadell Loftin, 18, of Orange, Texas, bride of four weeks, was shot to death here by H. M. Alsup, 30, former suitor, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Leila Alford, who then turned the pistol on himself and sent a bullet crashing into his brain.

Alsup died at 5:40 p. m. an hour after the shooting.

An inquest verdict of murder and suicide was returned by Justice of the Peace C. R. Overstreet.

Mrs. Loftin, wife of Marion Loftin, oil field worker, was shot three times in the breast with a .32 caliber pistol.

She died before her brother, W. E. Alford, who was in the house at the time of the shooting, could reach her. Alford said when he heard the three shots, he rushed into the dining room in time to see his sister fall to the floor and Alsup place the pistol against his right temple.

Alford said his sister was preparing to return to her home in Orange after a short visit with her family and after telling him and their mother "goodbye," stepped into the next room to say goodbye to Alsup whom she had known for several years.

Alsup boarded at the house and waited on tables there, the brother declared. Alford said he knew that Alsup "liked" his sister, but did not know he "was jealous of her."

Federal Judge Youmans, who sentenced the pair, recommended Mary be released to wed Stevenson who has sent letters to the board saying he will care for the girl. The judge said he sentenced Mary because no one was left to give her a home.

Conan Doyle's 'Message To Humanity' Tells Why He Became Spiritualist

Viereck Records Illuminating Talk With Foremost Believer In Dual World

CONAN DOYLE'S MESSAGE TO HUMANITY

A dialogue with the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, recorded by George Sylvester Viereck.

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Incorporated)

SCENE: The library of Conan Doyle. There are volumes in English, French and German, tomes on occultism, para-psychology and para-physics, off-shoots of the new science dealing with the things "beyond," the laws of psychology and physics. Like an army, Conan Doyle's own books in the uniform of many tongues are entrenched on his shelves. A door leads from his study to a porch overlooking Sussex for miles.

PRESENT: Conan Doyle, the interviewer, later Lady Doyle and a mechanic.

VIERECK: Who is the greatest mentality of our time?

DOYLE: Sir Oliver Lodge.

VIERECK: Is there anyone in America who is the equal of Sir Oliver Lodge?

DOYLE: There are some eminent scientists in America, but no one who possesses the great spiritual insight of Sir Oliver. Hyslop, the most notable investigator of the spiritual world in the United States, died too soon. Nevertheless, there is in America a marked uprising of the spirit which reveals itself in the fact that men like Henry Ford, the most amazing master of material the world has ever known, is interested in metaphysics.

VIERECK: Do you believe in reincarnation like Henry Ford?

DOYLE: I believe that the soul is born and reborn many times. I am not sure that it ever dons again the human form after it has discarded that garment, but my thoughts incline that way.

VIERECK: Ford told me that an inner voice, resembling the spirit mentor of Socrates, guides him in all his decisions.

DOYLE: I read with pleasure the news of Henry Ford's spiritual progress. Sooner or later I am sure he will land in our camp.

VIERECK: Do you consider Ford a great man?

DOYLE: He is a great personality.

VIERECK: Why?

DOYLE: Because he is uncorrupted by his millions. No man can tell if he is incorruptible until such wealth is thrust upon him.

VIERECK: Ford said to me that the object of life is experience. There is, he thinks, no loss in the bookkeeping of the soul because even loss is gain of experience.

DOYLE: The aim of life is not experience but spirituality. Experience may help us to obtain spirituality. Again it may not. It may leave us sodden sensualists and gluttons. If you take experience right it makes you a better man. If wrong, you set your face backward on the road of the soul's progress.

VIERECK: Ford believes that every living thing has a soul. You told me that the little fairies have no souls.

DOYLE: No. I think they are like plants or insects. Something between the two. They art not part of the world intelligence.

VIERECK: What evidence have you to substantiate your claim that fairies actually exist?

DOYLE: The evidence which I have presented in my book, "The Coming of the Fairies," is very strong. I show photographs of the fairies from several different sources.

VIERECK: Photographs may be retouched or there may have been another picture on the plate from the previous exposure.

DOYLE: I had the negatives examined by the kodak people and other experts to make quite sure there was no fake. I do not forget my scientific training when I cross the threshold of the spirit world. There is no reason why one should lose his common sense in investigating the spirit world.

VIERECK: I still cannot quite reconcile myself to the doctrine that the poor fairies, if they exist, have no souls. You yourself speak of a world intelligence. Don't you think of that intelligence as God? Pantheism, which says God is everywhere seems to be the faith of many enlightened men: I have

HOOVER DENIES HELM OFFERED VERMONT MAN

Earle S. Kinsley Tells Of Request to Fill Huston's Place

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—White House officials said tonight that President Hoover had never discussed with Earle S. Kinsley, Republican national committeeman from Vermont, the question of his becoming chairman of the Republican national committee, either permanently or temporarily.

A 10-word statement from the White House said:

"The president has had no communication with Mr. Kinsley, whatsoever."

Mr. Kinsley and the president have long been friends and recently the former was a week-end guest at the presidential lodge in Virginia.

KINSLEY TELLS OF REQUEST

RUTLAND, Vt., July 8. (AP)—The Rutland Herald says Earle S. Kinsley, of this city, Republican national committeeman since 1914, said today that President Hoover had asked him to become acting chairman of the Republican national committee now presided over by Claudius H. Huston.

The Rutland Herald quotes Kinsley as saying that the offer of the acting chairmanship carried with it "the possibility of permanent appointment." Kinsley said he was to see Mr. Hoover after the meeting in Washington Thursday of the committee and at that time give him his final decision.

gave as his reasons for hesitating to accept the appointment his business interests and the necessity of leaving Vermont to take up a permanent residence in Washington.

Shortly after giving the interview Kinsley left for New York and Washington. Not only has Kinsley served 16 years on the committee, but he also is a close personal friend of former President Coolidge and former National Committee Chairman Hubert Work.

Chairman Huston has been the center of lively agitation among Republicans because of his activities with the Tennessee River Improvement association on the Muscle Shoals question and demands have been made for his resignation.

He saw President Hoover yesterday, however, and after the meeting it was said in his behalf that he had no intention of resigning Thursday, as it had been rumored.

JOHN D.'S 91ST

Nonagenarian Oil King Spends Birthday In Seclusion

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8. (UP)—A round of golf, a stroll through his gardens and a brief motor ride through the hills where Ichabod Crane encountered the headless horseman, were the high spots in John D. Rockefeller's observance of his 91st birthday anniversary today.

Newspapermen and cameramen laid siege to the gates which open into the vast Rockefeller estate at Pocantico hills early this morning, and were still there tonight. But the nonagenarian oil king remained secluded, with only a few relatives and close friends for companions.

DEMOS READY FOR HEARING

Party Leaders to Attend Court Session

Representatives of both the Wichita county Democratic executive committee and the group of 46 men whose names were barred from the Democratic primary ballot announced themselves ready for the hearing Thursday on the group's application for a mandamus injunction to compel the committee to print their names on the ballot. The hearing will open at 10 o'clock Thursday morning in the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth.

George Smoot, local attorney, will represent the candidate group before the court. With him will be Judge W. M. Taylor of Dallas. In addition to other claims in support of their plea for the mandamus writ, the group will contend their applications for places on the primary ballot were in accordance with the statutes and that while some members of the group bolted the party in the last presidential election, all of them are Democrats and entitled to places on the primary ballot.

F. W. Fischer, also a Wichita Falls attorney, will represent the executive committee, contending that the members of the barred group "are in fact Republicans and therefore not entitled to places on the Democratic executive committee." Mr. Fischer explained that membership in the committee was not an "office" and that the committee reserves the right to determine the qualifications of its own members. It was for that reason, he said he would contend, that the names of the 46 applicants were barred.

Judge Edgar Scurry, chairman of the executive committee, and the majority of the committeemen will attend the hearing at Fort Worth, most of them planning to leave here early Thursday morning, Mr. Fischer said. An answer to the petition filed by the barred group will be filed in behalf of the committee at that time.

The jewelry included a necklace of 91 pearls and a diamond and platinum ring.

FIRST TEST OF TREATY FORCES BODES DEFEAT

Hoover Faces Setback In Vote on Request For Secret Papers

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, July 8. (US)—President Hoover tonight faced defeat at the hands of the senate in the first big test on the London naval treaty.

At the close of a notable debate, there was every indication the senate intends to uphold its dignity and adopt the McKellar resolution demanding the secret documents connected with the framing of the pact.

Despite the senate's insistence, as a co-equal part of the treaty making power of the government, to have the full facts before it in passing upon the pact, the president is expected to refuse on the ground that "it is incompatible with the public interest."

McKellar Wary

McKellar refused to fall into this trap. Instead he aroused the senate by declaring that the body was entitled to all the facts about the treaty and added:

"If the president refuses of any grounds to send these papers to the senate, it is the duty of the senate to reject the treaty."

Senator Hiram Johnson of California climaxed the debate with a speech in which he called upon senators to assert their manhood as representatives of the United States and demand complete information on a subject affecting the welfare of their nation.

So great is the interest of senators in this fundamental question of the rights and powers of the senate that the debate may continue for several days before a vote is reached on the McKellar resolution.

Speed Is Wanted

But, the administration gave notice through Senator Borah that it intends to attempt to jam through the treaty with all possible speed when the Idahoan announced just before adjournment that he will demand the senate meet at 11 o'clock instead of noon, as customary, begining Thursday.

One of the day's events was the appearance in the senate chamber of Secretary Stimson, head of the American delegation to London.

Earlier in the day, amazement was expressed over the fact that Senator Swanson, of Virginia, a Democrat, should lead off in the administration's fight for the treaty.

This was a matter of much comment, as Senators Reed of Pennsylvania and Robinson of Arkansas, two of the American delegates to the London conference and all the administration spokesmen sat in silence while Swanson pleaded for ratifieation of the pact.

The Virginian waded through an exhaustive speech of 12,000 words before a dwindling senatorial audience.

This veteran advocate of the League of Nations and the league court urged ratification of the treaty in the interest of world peace and contended that it would save millions to American taxpayers and give this nation naval parity with Great Britain.

There had been wide interest in the selection of a name for the son of the famous aviator and much popular speculation as to possibilities.

GROWERS CUT COTTON CROP

1,250,000-Acre Reduction Reported

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—Voluntary reduction on the part of planters was credited today by Carl Williams, farm board member representing cotton, for the million and a quarter acres less cotton in cultivation on July 1 than a year ago as reported by the department of agriculture.

Cotton in cultivation in the United States was announced as aggregating 45,815,000 acres, compared with 47,067,000 acres—the revised area in cultivation a year ago—and 45,981,00 acres picked last year when a crop of 14,821,499 equivalent 500-pound bales of lint was ginned.

The department report, Williams said, takes into consideration the replanting of late cotton of areas abandoned because of drought, excessive rain and insect damage. The reduction, in his opinion, represents the extent to which cotton farmers want to meet the wishes of the farm board.

Without asking a specific reduction the board told farmers at planting time that when the cotton acreage reached 40,000,000 acres it had reached the danger line so far as production was concerned.

Logically, the board figured a 7,000,000-acre reduction necessary, but Williams said he had counted on no more than a 3 per cent. reduction. Consequently, he said, he was "contented but not satisfied." "You can see how cotton farmers responded to the acreage reduction

Germany Looks to League In Pan-Europa Proposals

BERLIN, July 8. (AP)—Metropolitan dailies claiming to be able to give a reliable forecast of the German government's reply to Briand's pan-Europa memorandum state that Briand's proposition is regarded as coming within the purview of the League of Nations.

All proposals of this nature, it is believed in Germany, should be submitted to the league in order that duplication of work might be avoided.

SCORES PAY TRIBUTE TO JOE MAYFIELD

Dr. S. A. Barnes to Officiate At Last Rites Today For Wichitan

Oil operators of Wichita Falls and the many persons over the entire area who knew him paused Tuesday in tribute to the memory of Joseph L. Mayfield, one of the city's outstanding oil operators, who died in a local hospital at 12:19 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Many of the more intimate friends of the Mayfield family visited the home at 1200 Fillmore street during the afternoon and evening to pay honor to the man they had known here for more than 15 years and to extend their sympathy to the members of the immediate family. J. S. Bridwell, with whom Mr. Mayfield had been associated during the years prior to his death and who had been a close friend of the family for many years, remained at the home throughout the evening.

"I could not express the love I held for him, or the deep sorrow which I feel at his death in mere words," Mr. Bridwell said. "All who knew him loved him, just as I loved him. The memory of him will not pass away."

Services for Mr. Mayfield will be held at the Floral Heights Methodist church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock with Dr. S. A. Barnes of Dallas, former pastor of the Floral Heights church here, officiating. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery. Arrangements are under the directions of the Merkle Undertaking company.

LAD FALLS IN SWIFT CURRENT OF BIG DITCH

Force of Water Carries Body Against Pile Of Rocks

RESCUE ATTEMPTED

Truck Drivers Make Vain Effort to Bring Boy From Canal

J. T. Bius, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bius of the Valley View community, was drowned about seven o'clock Tuesday evening when he fell from a concrete culvert into an irrigation canal two miles southeast of Valley View and within 300 yards of his home.

The swift current of the stream caught the boy as he fell, sweeping him out into seven-foot water and against a pile of rocks near the bank. Screams of children with whom he had been swimming brought aid and the body was recovered about seven minutes later 10 feet from the culvert. Drivers of a truck passing on the road and workers in a nearby field plunged into the stream in a vain effort to save the child.

Resuscitation Attempted

Efforts at resuscitation were started at once and continued after the arrival of a pulmotor from the Merkle Undertaking company, but no sign of life could be detected and the fight was abandoned after two hours.

J. T., his sister, Irene, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Dick Bius, were accompanied by a group of friends in swimming in the canal just off the Wichita Falls-K. M. A. highway. It was from the highway culvert that the boy fell. Relatives believed he had suffered a sudden attack as he rested on the concrete and was unconscious when he struck the water. The body was marked with bruises.

The boy's father has been a pumper for the Grayce Oil company, working on the Reaves-Overby farm 11 miles from Iowa Park for the past two years. Surviving are the parents, two brothers, J. O. Bius of Olney and E. D. Bius of Iowa Park, and three sisters, Beulah, Ollie and Irene. Funeral services will be held from the First Christian church at Iowa Park at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Rev. George A. Weems officiating.

Gubernatorial Entry Collects Votes With Laundry on 'Honesty' Platform

FORT WORTH, July 8. (UP)—Soliciting laundry and votes from the housewives of Fort Worth, C. C. ("Soapy") Moody, Texas' most picturesque candidate for governor, not only proclaims honesty as a fundamental plank in his platform, but has an unusual argument to prove that virtue.

Moody (not a relative of Dan Moody, incumbent governor) drives a laundry wagon for his livelihood, collects the soiled sartorial linen of his patrons while airing the political linen of his opponents. "Soapy," as he is called, spoke of honesty in politics today.

"For 15 years," he said, "I have been going in and coming out of the back doors of Fort Worth families on my laundry route and I have never been accused of taking anything away but soiled clothes. No housewife has ever accused C. C. Moody of short-changing her, either. My life work has been clean linen and I'll take clean linen to the governor's mansion in Austin."

"Soapy," who is 55, has established campaign headquarters in a barber shop on the city's most prominent thoroughfare. After working hours on the laundry wagon, from 6 to 6:30 daily, he delivers campaign speeches from the barber shop.

He is one of 11 Democrats who are seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Aspirants for Governor Pound Away at Elusive Texas Votes

(By The Associated Press)

Apparently without getting away from the set issues and refraining from injecting new life into the campaign, Texas' political crusaders seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination today pounded away at their usual stock in trade.

From Conroe, where James Young of Kaufman spoke, came word from the former congressman that he had failed to find the reported "crystallized" sentiment for R. S. Sterling of Houston, whose friends claimed his candidacy was sweeping that section with favor.

Sterling was out in West Texas, where Clint C. Small of Wellington is supposed to be the "favorite son." He put in a full day, making four speeches—at Stephenville, Dublin, Comanche and Brownwood. He announced an alteration in his itinerary for Wednesday in order to refrain from conflicting with Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller at San Angelo. He decided to speak at Ballinger Wednesday night and at San Angelo Thursday morning. Miller and Sterling both were billed for San Angelo Wednesday night at the same hour.

Small was at Marshall and Longview in an invasion of East Texas. He told his audiences that he was not a "sectional candidate," that as a West Texan he would be a good governor for East Texas.

Miller was pushing his offensive into West Texas, speaking Tuesday at Brownwood, where he told the people hoped a "good lieutenant governor" would be helped into the governor's chair as a reward for faithful service.

Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson spoke in San Antonio, where Senator Thomas B. Love, returning from an invasion of the Rio Grande valley, was booked to talk on the air Wednesday afternoon. Love continued his tirade against Tammanyism and "machine politics" at Raymondville and Harlingen Tuesday.

Senator Earle B. Mayfield carried his appeal to Houston, hometon of Sterling.

CONAN DOYLE'S BELIEFS SHOWN

Dialogue Gives Author's Spiritualistic Views

talked with some of the great personalities of the world—men like Shaw, Einstein and Hauptmann, the great German poet. All these men seem to feel that there is such a thing as a world brain.

DOYLE: I am not satisfied with this vague pantheism. I am tired of being fed on words, words, words. The human soul wants concrete individual manifestations of God. I find these manifestations in spiritualism. It is possible that the earth itself may be alive. Perhaps you have seen my story which deals with this subject? But all this is too fantastic, too remote. Spiritualism is nearer and more real.

VIERECK: How real?

DOYLE: Real enough to form a party controlling one quarter to a half million votes in England. We founded the party in order to end the persecution and the martyrdom of mediums. We addressed the Liberal, the Conservative and the Labor party in the last election. We received answers from all. The reply from the Liberals was the most satisfactory. If they had carried the country in the last election they would have given us a royal commission to investigate spiritualism and the persecution of mediums. Like all followers of new religions, we must be prepared for persecution. Our people are persecuted in every country including the United States.

VIERECK: How did you become a spiritualist? Through some great experience?

DOYLE: No. Purely by ratiocination. I was brought up as a Catholic. Subsequently I became a rationalist. I could not imagine a God with a preference for any religious or racial group. I cannot picture to myself an Almighty who confines salvation to a clique. My rationalism was largely the outgrowth of my medical studies. I expressed my rationalist philosophy in the Stark-Munroe letters. That book is largely autobiography. Dissatisfied with rationalism, I studied literature and philosophy. Spiritualism threw a light across my path like that which Paul saw on the road to Damascus. I visited the people who wrote about spiritualism. I studied the case of spiritualism where others denied the new knowledge "a priori" or dismissed it with a contemptuous gesture. Shrenck-Notzing, the German savant with his para-physics stops at the half way house between this world and the next. He, and scientists like him, who confine their investigation to the mechanics of telepathy and spiritual phenomena are, in a sense, super-materialists. Nevertheless, they open new avenues to thought. My studies, extending over 40 years, have convinced me that independent intelligences exist who call to us from the other side of the wall. The survival of personalities is the basis of all religions but all, with the exception of the reincarnationists and the spiritualists, are silent upon the nature of the survival.

VIERECK: Did you have any personal contacts with the spiritual world?

DOYLE: When Geley, the French savant and spiritualist, died, I was sitting with a medium in England. Suddenly, I heard the whispered word "Geley." I asked in French, "When you had your accident were the moulds you carried broken?" The answer was "Oui, oui, ils staient casses." Though the medium, a coal merchant, did not know a word of French, the spirit communicated through him in that language. He told me several details. I asked in French: "Have you any message for your wife?" He replied: "Au revoir." This is only one example out of hundreds where I have spoken with those who have changed their vibrations and whom we call "dead."

VIERECK: Is it not a pity that when the dead speak to us they have so little to say?

DOYLE: The most important thing to say is that they exist at all, but not all messages are trifling. Did you read "The Psychic Recollections of a Musician," or did you see "Is This Wilson?" Written by Mrs. C. A. Dawson Scott? Both Wilson's style and his idealism are unmistakable in this book.

VIERECK: I am afraid I have read neither of these two books. But I have seen an alleged posthumous book by Oscar Wilde, "Psychic Utterances of O. W." by Mrs. Travis Smith.

DOYLE: I knew Oscar Wilde when he was living. In that book I recognize poetic and epigramatic passages which are as characteristic of Wilde as anything that bears his imprint. If I were preparing an anthology of Oscar Wilde's works I would include passages from this post-mundane work. Messages that seem trivial to others are often not trivial to the person addressed. If my son, who died during the war, had come back and postulated some vague, philosophical hypothesis I would not be convinced. But when he reminded me of some match in which I had to wear two right boots, having lost one in the course of the game, a fact unknown to anyone else because of its triviality, I was overwhelmed.

VIERECK: Nevertheless, it seems unfortunate that the messengers from other worlds never convey to us a single new truth.

DOYLE: Your attitude is due to your unfamiliarity with the literature of spiritualism. One of our writers, Vale Owen, has published messages from the other world with calculations too intricate for me which seem to point in the general direction of the Einstein theory. (Doyle points to a work in four volumes reposing in one of his bookcases.)

This is the first of two articles by the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle in collaboration with George Sylvester Viereck. The second article will appear soon.

SUGAR SUPPLIES CALORIES AT THE LOWEST PRICE

Few Foods Return Such High Caloric Value for the Money

Sugar is an inexpensive food. Compared with butter, bacon, macaroni, bread, meats, milk, green vegetables and fresh fruits, sugar supplies the system with far more calories for each cent spent than the same amount expended on any of the rest of the products named.

This fact is significant because the average system requires approximately 3000 calories daily. Of this amount, sixty per cent should be derived from the carbohydrate group of foods to which sugar belongs.

To get the full value of sugar the housewife should consider it in relation to all the foods she chooses for her table. The most inexpensive balanced meal can be made satisfying and complete by a sweet dessert. Canned vegetables, as well as fresh ones, can be much improved in taste appeal if a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is added while they are cooking. Breakfast cereals and stewed dried fruits have added goodness when sugar is added.

Doctors and dietitians approve the use of sugar in making essential foods tasty. For these foods contain vitamins, minerals and roughage—all of which are needed by the system. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute

Wichita Operator Loses Fight for Life

Dr. L. Mackechney, C. D. Shamburger, W. J. Morgareidge, Dr. Bailey Collins, Dr. J. A. Heyman, and J. I. Staley.

Mr. Mayfield was 52 years old at the time of his death. He had been ill for several months and two major operations and four blood transfusions proved unavailing in the fight for his life.

With his family Mr. Mayfield moved to Wichita Falls in 1914. He became associated with Leroy Adams of Cleveland, Ohio, in the newly opened oil field at Electra. During the years following his first venture in the petroleum field, he became associated with Langford, Staley & Chenault in the Burkburnett field and with several other prominent operators. At the time of his death he was associated with J. S. Bridwell in the oil firm of Bridwell & Mayfield.

Made Scholastic Record

Mr. Mayfield was born in Kosciusko, Miss., on March 7, 1878. He came to Texas with his parents when he was still a boy, spending the early years of his life in Dublin, Texas, where he finished his elementary education in public schools. At the age of 17 he was graduated from the university at Lebanon, Ohio, having set a remarkable record in his scholastic work. In 1901 he married Miss Jessie Miller of Dublin.

Besides the widow, survivors include a son, Herbert; a daughter, Mrs. Nathan Raynolds; three brothers, W. R. Mayfield of Albany, Texas and Sam L. and Hanston Mayfield of Dublin; and three sisters, Mrs. L. J. Carlisle of Stephenville, Texas, and Mrs. Lela Mulloy and Mrs. R. C. Cannon, both of Dublin. Members of his immediate family were at the bedside at the time of death Tuesday.

Cotton Growers Reduce Acreage

Had the acreage been reduced to 40,000,000 acres it would have represented a cut of 15 per cent, which is more than the board ever dared hope this soon Williams said, the actual reduction still is not enough for the safety of the cotton producer and the acreage reduction campaign will be continued.

Williams pinned his hopes for the future reduction on such states as Oklahoma, where decreases were reported despite the natural tendency and the opportunity to increase. The Oklahoma acreage, showing the second largest reduction, was but 92 per cent of the 1929 acreage.

The farm board member said it was impossible to tell what effect the million and a quarter acreage reduction would have on prices until it was possible to estimate the amount of the yield. The cotton crop is still in the making, with weather conditions and insect ravages still a controlling factor.

Will of Mrs. M. E. Pois Admitted to Probate

The will of Mrs. M. E. Pois, Wichita Falls woman who was killed in an automobile accident near Houston several months ago, was admitted to probate by County Judge John P. Marrs after a preliminary inventory showing an estate valued at $108,807.50 had been filed in the county court, according to the announcement Tuesday of Judge Marrs.

The inventory and the application for admission to probate was filed by C. P. Engleking, Electra attorney. The attorney stated the final valuation of the estate would probably show an amount considerably in excess of that shown in the preliminary inventory. The bulk of the estate was left to Mrs. Pois' sons, James B. and H. T. S. Totten, both of Electra, with bonds, securities and real estate valued at about $5,000 left to two grandchildren, to be divided equally between them, according to the terms of the will.

Alfred Flatt Injured As Motorcycle Skids

An attempt to avoid striking a pedestrian in the path of his motorcycle Tuesday evening cost Alfred Flatt, 20, son of C. A. Flatt, 108 Clay street, a broken leg and other injuries when his motorcycle skidded and pinned his leg beneath it.

The young man was riding on Ohio avenue near Ninth street when he started to pass between the curb and a street car standing at the intersection. A man stepped into the path of the machine and Flatt swerved sharply toward the street car to avoid striking him. The motorcycle skidded and fell on him, dragging him several feet before stopping. The accident occurred directly in front of police headquarters. An ambulance from the Dalton-Powell Funeral home was immediately called.

Preceded by Motorcycle Officers Earl Brooks and J. H. Pogue, the ambulance rushed the young man to the Wichita General hospital where physicians reported he was resting fairly well late Tuesday evening. The right leg was shattered at the knee, an examination revealed.

DIVORCED

Hubby Beat Wife To Make Her Attend His Church, Court Told

That "old time religion" may not be the kind to tolerate divorces, but an expression of something like that kind of religion won a divorce Tuesday for a woman who brought her case before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court.

The woman's husband, the magistrate was told, beat her up because she would not go to church with him. She claimed she wanted to go to one church and her husband insisted she go to his church, the disagreement resulting in severe treatment. Judge Martin explained there were other reasons to justify the granting of a divorce but the unusually harsh expression of religious fervor on the part of the husband was the deciding factor.

ROAD REPAIR WORK PUSHED

Crews Busy on Highways Damaged by Flood

With scores of road workers and teams employed in repair work on several of the main highways in the Wichita Falls division, the condition of the roads damaged by the flood waters of several weeks ago was reported considerably improved Tuesday with travel over practically all highways following the main routes as nearly as reconstruction work will allow, according to a statement issued Tuesday to The Record News by D. M. Puckett, division highway engineer.

The most important highway out of Wichita Falls damaged by the flood waters, Mr. Puckett said, was No. 79 south through Archer City and Olney. Road crews have prepared a short detour at the point where the overflow waters of the Little Wichita river washed away several sections of the new paving, a few miles north of Archer City. The detour, about three-quarters of a mile in length, is in good condition and follows as nearly as possible the main highway.

Bridge Asked

Mr. Puckett said Tuesday he had sent a recommendation to the highway commission at Austin urging the construction of an additional water opening at that point on the Archer City road, to provide adequate passage for possible floods in the future without danger to the highway. Construction of another bridge, he said, will require an appropriation from the commission, and with that and the delays involved in setting a new roadbed and providing for new paving contracts, the main highway will probably not be again open to traffic for several months. Meanwhile, the detour will be maintained in constant repair.

Mr. Puckett also announced that pouring of concrete on the continuous paved highway from Wichita Falls through Seymour to the Baylor county line has been completed and the new paving will be opened within three weeks. Paved road from this city to Seymour is now open with the exception of the strip near Maybelle, where the concrete is now in the curing process. Officials said Tuesday that it was likely an official opening of the completed highway would be held when the road is ready for traffic.

New Dump Built

On highway No. 23 from Seymour south to Throckmorton and Albany, where the flood waters washed away a half-mile of paving, road crews have hauled dirt onto the highway and traffic is now open along the main road, Mr. Puckett reported. Paving work is going on meanwhile, but repairs will not be completed until fall, after the new dirt has been settled.

At Goree on highway No. 30, where a stretch of paving was washed out, a short detour is still being used and is in good condition, the engineer said. The highway department has decided upon an additional bridge at that point to provide another water opening in case of future floods and work on the main route will be delayed several months until that construction has been completed.

Several teams have been employed on highway No. 25 from Archer City thrugh Windthorst and Antelope to Jacksboro. Mr. Puckett said, and traffic is passing along the main route as far as Antelope. No report was available on the condition of the road from that city on to Jacksboro, that portion of the highway being in another division. Traffic may reach Jacksboro, however, either through Graham or by way of Henrietta and Sunset to Chico.

The majority of the other highways in this division, the engineer said, are in good condition.

Barry Miller Speaks To Brownwood Crowd

BROWNWOOD, Texas, July 8. (AP) —Texas is not in a financial condition to spend immense sums of money in either rehabilitating the present prison system or building a new one, Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller candidate for governor, said here today.

LAX-ANA (Double Strength)

Women Police Quarrel So Much They May Be Fired

FORT WORTH, July 8. (AP)—Prediction was made today that if there are any more squabbles among the women members of the police force, the women's division would be eliminated.

One police woman left several months ago and a week ago one was discharged on recommendation of the woman sergeant. That left three police women. The ousted police woman, who admits she called her sergeant a liar, filed formal application for a hearing before the civil service board and made charges against the sergeant. The sergeant two weeks ago married the civil service examiner.

Rumors have been current at the city hall of friction among the four women and City Manager O. E. Carr hinted he would recommend abolishment of the women's police division if another squabble arises.

The division was created early this year.

Sitting Endurance Record Established

RACINE, Wis., July 8. (AP)—Spurred by the feat of the Hunter brothers and their continuous flight record in the City of Chicago, Jimmy Clemons, 10, shinned to earth at 7:30 p. m. C. S. T. tonight after remaining aloft 12 hours in Center street's non-stop catalpa tree sitting contest.

Jimmy won over his brother Donald, 8, and Leonard Jackley, 10, when aching muscles drove Donald to a deadstick landing at 2:22 p. m. and Leonard taxied to the hangar two minutes later. Playmates made seven contacts with Jimmy during which time he beat Lindbergh's Paris sandwich record and consumed a bottle of pop, two glasses of lemonade, one mellon and four chocolate eclaires.

Threatening weather and parental attitude combined to force his descent. He amassed $1.01 given by his grandfather for each additional five minutes he stayed up after 6 o'clock, and another bonus given by his father to bring him down.

"If was a tough grind," Jimmy said in a statement to the press, "but I'd do it again. Broadcast my experiences? Nix, that's too common."

Jimmy denied the flight was made today because of his scheduled piano lesson at 2 p. m.

HINES TO HEAD VETS AGENCIES

Brigadier General Named By President

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—All veterans agencies of the government today were brought under single control by President Hoover with Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, for several years head of the veterans bureau, as administrator.

Mr. Hoover, in announcing he had prepared the executive order to carry into effect provisions of the bill passed by congress at his request, said the new establishment "becomes one of the most important functions in the government" and represents the most significant reorganization of the governmental machinery during the present administration.

The act, which became effective with the issuance of the president's order, brings the veterans bureau, an independent establishment, the pensions bureau from the department of interior and the soldiers home for the war department all under the veterans administration.

The consolidated budgets of these three services for the present fiscal year amount to approximately $800,000,000. The president expects, however, important economies to be effected through the consolidation and coordination. These are to be brought about, he said, through administration of hospitalization and domiciliary activities and in the better handling of fiscal relations with veterans throughout the entire organization.

WOMAN TO GO INTO JUNGLES

American Adventurer Plans To Ascend Amazon

LONDON, July 8. (INS)—May Mott-Smith, an American woman adventurer, is shortly leaving London on one of the most daring and hazardous adventures ever undertaken by a woman.

She plans to paddle her own canoe to the source of the Amazon.

Her only companions in this journey of exploration across the rivers and marshes of South America will be three natives.

The purpose of her trip is adventure, prompted by love of the unknown. She has already been round the world several times, penetrating into regions where no white woman has ever been before.

"I love getting away from civilization into savagery," she said in discussing this latest venture. "I have never yet lost a thing by theft in the jungle, but when I returned once to New York I lost nearly all my life savings by four robberies in as many months.

"My life of adventure began almost by accident. I was sketching in Morocco when the Riffian war broke out. I returned home with a lot of valuable photographs, and the excitement I had in securing them got into my blood.

"Am I fearless? Well, not exactly. Many times I have known fear, but I enjoy the thrill of it. On this trip I will take a revolver and perhaps a rifle.

Pilgrimage to 'Miracle' Grave Of Priest Ceases; Guards Dismissed

MALDEN, Mass., July 8. (AP)—The state police patrol of Holy Cross cemetery and the reported "miracle" grave of the Rev. Patrick J. Power was abandoned today, nine months after its inception.

From a guard of 10 men, made necessary by the influx of thousands of pilgrims daily at the time that Cardinal O'Connell, head of the Catholic arch diocese of Boston, ordered the cemetery barred to the public, the force on duty had dwindled until only two were left.

The grave of the Reverend Power has since been moved to a new location, enclosed by a high iron fence and in recent months only those who could establish that they had business in the cemetery have been allowed to enter.

Father Power, an obscure priest, died 60 years ago. A year or two ago news gradually spread that "cures" had been effected by prayers at the grave. Quickly the number of pilgrims and curious grew until last fall more than 100,000 persons visited the grave on several days.

Election to Test Bowles' Strength Set July 22

DETROIT, July 8. (AP)—Tuesday, July 22, was set today as the date for an election of the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles.

Richard W. Reading, city clerk, set the date following the dissolution in circuit court of a restraining order sought by the mayor to prevent the election.

Counsel for Mayor Bowles indicated they would make no further attempt to prevent an election on the recall issue, stating they would appeal "to the court of the people."

Health Better Than Riches

"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Our family doctor gave me medicine but no results. One day he told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pennsylvania.

'JAKE' POISON IS IDENTIFIED

Photographers' Chemical Causes Paralysis

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8. (AP)—Oklahoma City chemists today said they had identified tentatively as treogysyl prosphate compound, a slow acting poison contained in jamaica ginger which caused a strange paralysis malady crippling approximately 600 persons here.

The drug, the chemists said, is used in photography.

Several chickens died after injections of the prosphate, all but one of the six living have paralysis of the legs, a characteristic of the malady in human beings.

New Orleans and Syracuse, N. Y., scientists have cooperated with the Oklahoma City men in the work.

Judge Fines Former Latin Teacher For Wrong Parking

EVANSTON, Ill., July 8. (AP)—Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter's Latin has become a bit rusty with the passing years. Still, the lessons he learned from Mrs. Ada Townsend in the old Evanston academy have helped a lot in his career full of habeas corpus and coran nobis and nollo contendere.

The Latin teacher came to court today to give her former pupil a review, she had parked her automobile without a light.

"Hello, Mrs. Townsend," smiled the justice.

"Why hello, Harry," said Mrs. Townsend.

The magistrate was perturbed at having to fine "one of the finest teachers I ever had," but his teacher reminded him:

"One of the earliest phrases I ever thought you was 'omnibus justitia'."

And equal justice to all meant $1 and costs.

Panama Mail Run Sets New Record

NEWARK, N. J., July 8. (AP)—After the fastest mail run ever made from the Canal Zone, South American mail arrived by plane on schedule today despite a day's delay caused by a snowstorm over the Andes.

The Pan-American plane from Cristobal, Canal Zone, skipped one stop on the way to Miami and made up enough of the lost day so that an eastern transport plane only had to be held an hour and 45 minutes at Miami.

That much time was gained on the flight here, and the mail was delivered at 1:18, eastern standard time, this afternoon, just 31 hours and 48 minutes out of Cristobal.

UNIT HIGHWAY SYSTEM URGED

Good Roads Association Backs Move

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8. (AP)—Organization of a regional economic unit for the purpose of highway research in the six southwestern states of Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma was sanctioned today by delegates attending the annual convention of the United States Good Roads association in session here.

The convention will request the governors of the states involved to appoint delegates to meet in the fall to form the organization.

The unit plan to be followed is identical to that now in effect in the New England states.

A picture of highway development, which if put into poetry would sound as visionary as Tennyson's dream of aviation that came to pass, was portrayed to delegates today. The predictions were made by United States Senator W. B. Pine of Okmulgee.

Automobiles will travey 75 miles an hour without drivers being arrested. There will be no short curves and no hitch-hikers. Tourists will not have to drive through large cities and grope their way about trying to get out.

Besides the above predictions these:

The highway of the future will be 100 feet wide with traffic lanes marked off. Fast traveling traffic will traverse outside lanes, with slow travel on the inside. There will be no grade crossings and trucks will travel at the rate of 50 miles an hour and no one will get angry, because that will be the law.

A request of St. Louis county officials to designate a highway as Lindbergh boulevard" was refused by the Missouri highway commission.

Lynchings May Be Issue in Campaign

UNION, S. C., July 8. (UP)—Whether a lynching can be justified appeared today as a possible issue in the United States senatorial campaign in South Carolina.

United States Senator Cole Blease, in campaign address took cognizance of recent race clashes in the South. "Whenever the constitution comes between me and the virtue of white women in South Carolina, I say to ..... with the constitution."

"When I was governor of South Carolina you did not hear of me calling out the militia of the state to protect negro assaulters," Blease said.

At the same time an opponent of Blease, Leon W. Harris, was in Walhalla, prosecuting 17 alleged lynchers of a negro man accused of criminal assault. He asked heavy penalties for the accused men.

Bandit Relieves Man Of Counting Receipts

CHICAGO, July 8. (INS)—Manager Robert Lindauer was counting the day's receipts in his barber shop when a pleasant young fellow stepped in and said, "Don't bother, I'll count it myself when I get home." Then the visitor pulled a gun and Lindauer said the loss must have been about $250.

Now! 23,720 Beauty Experts

...the world over recommend Palmolive

—a professional endorsement the like of which has never been known in the entire history of beauty culture

NEVER, in all the history of beauty culture, has there been such universal approval of any product as is given to Palmolive Soap today. When trained, skilful professionals unite in recommending one particular soap, that recommendation is significant. And there are 23,720 such specialists, in 16 different countries, who consider Palmolive Soap the ideal means of keeping skin clear, lovely, wholesome!

The need of soap and water

Experts, in studying the skin, find that the pores secrete oil, dust, dirt and powder. These accumulations gather into hard little masses. Unless these masses are removed thoroughly and regularly, the pores become coarse, blackheads appear ... and along come all those blemishes one wishes so to avoid.

Now, the one best way to remove impurities from the pores, is the bland, safe lather of Palmolive Soap. It gets down beneath the surface. It routs out dirt and dust without irritation, leaving the skin refreshed and glowing with natural color.

The specialist studies skin care, experiments with methods and products until the one best way is found. And 23,720 such specialists endorse Palmolive.

To get the best results, massage Palmolive lather gently into the skin of face and throat. Allow it to penetrate the pores. Then rinse it off, first with warm water, gradually with colder and colder. That's all there is to it! Use ice as an astringent occasionally if you have an oily skin. You'll love the refreshing, delicate afterglow that Palmolive leaves.

And, of course, you'll use it for the bath, too.

Wedding Plans Announced At Lovely Bridge Luncheon

Summer has seen no daintier setting for a party than the foyer at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Tuesday morning when Mrs. H. A. McCarty entertained a group of the friends and relatives of Miss Mildred Mays of Atlanta, Texas, whose marriage to Joe B. McClung of that city was announced as an event of July 16.

Pink rosebuds were used in profusion in the airy room and the tables were covered with pink. The same dainty color scheme was carried out in the tallies and score cards.

In the games, Miss Mary Catherine Gould was winner of high score and was presented with a handsome linen luncheon set. Miss Mary Tancred was presented with the low score trophy, a string of amber beads. The honoree's gift was an exquisite matched set of costume jewelry.

Luncheon was particularly effective with green bud vases centering each table, holding dainty pink buds. A delicious two-course luncheon was served, and the chosen colors of pink and green were emphasized. Announcement of the approaching marriage was made with the ice course, when the pink ices and the cakes iced in green, came in on a plate holding a tiny scroll tied with pink and green ribbons and a spray of lilies of the valley, which had engraved inside, "Mildred and Joe, July 16."

Miss Mays is a charming brunet who will be remembered as a popular Junior college girl in Wichita Falls, making her home at that time with Mrs. McCarty. After graduation, she taught for two years in the city schools and was very popular with the young society set. The wedding will take place in Atlanta, where the young couple will make their home.

Frigate Constitution Makes Voyage Again

BOSTON, July 8. (AP)—The historic frigate Constitution, conqueror of British warships and the Barbary Pirates 125 years ago, today made her first voyage in 33 years. She was towed from the navy yards across the harbor to dry dock to further the task of her second restoration.

The trip took place almost 100 years to the day after the order to junk her which brought forth the memorable poem of Oliver Wendell Holmes, sarcastically advising, "Ay, tear her tattered ensign down."

Tomorrow, with her masts in place, "Old Ironsides" will again look like her old self. Three years have been spent already in restoring her.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8. (UP)—A total of 4,396 additional telephones were installed in the state the first six months of this year, figures released today showed. This compared with a gain of 5,734 for the corresponding period in 1929.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Monday night for the first time, the shrill song of katydids filled the air. Three months until the first frost. We will watch for October 7 to see if the katydids knew.

The Hopi snake dancers have not failed yet to bring rain. Was it Will Rogers who said, "They know something." What secret of nature has been transferred from generation to generation among a chosen few so that they may seem to work miracles with nature?

In Mississippi, right along the river, when wet weather used to come, there came with it the willow fly. We have seen the little one-day-of-life moth blown by the wind into six-inch drifts. If one had found the home of the willow fly, had studied the larvae and seen when it was about to produce the fly, what a miraculous person he might have become in the prophecy of rain, for the willow fly never came save with the rain.

People laugh at superstitions but the man who lives with the land has had them for ages. Not so long ago in Mississippi, when a little golden flower (not the dog fennel) spread over every uncultivated area in Mississippi, you would hear it said, "There'll be a good cotton crop."

We remember hearing quoted, "Morning red and evening gray will set the traveler on his way; but morning gray and evening red will bring down rain upon his head." That, however, was a Tennessee verse and was not supposed to apply to Texas.

Another current belief was in the new moon. If the lovely crescent lay so it would hold water, there would be rain during the month; if it curved so that water would run out, the month would be dry.

No wonder the farmer had superstitions. What was it William Bolitho said about a gambler being a man who makes his living out of hopes? Where is there a greater gambler than the farmer if a man lives on hopes? We do not mean that he does not also put in the hardest of hard work.

He puts his children's education, his prospects for the future, his very living into the cultivation of mother earth, betting she will produce a crop and betting the crop will bring a price. Some one should write an ode to the 1930 farmer.

Frigid Wives To Blame For Losing Hubbies

Why the Best of Housekeepers and Mothers May Yet Lose Her Husband—What Makes the Eager Student Unpopular?—Feminine Cradle-Snatcher.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a man 42 years old. Have been married 20 years. My wife and I have lived together in unusual harmony. Never a cross word between us. She has been an admirable housekeeper and a devoted mother. I have tried to be a good husband and have given her everything that any woman in reason could wish. Everything serene on the outside and I suppose my wife is fond of me in her way, but she treats me as casually as a stranger. I long for loving and affectionate companionship. I want her to tell me sometimes that she loves me. I want her to put her arms about my neck, her lips to mine. We have our own rooms, and it is good-night dad, when we part, and good-morning dad, when we meet in the morning. Yet she would feel herself outraged if I sought elsewhere the love she fails to give me. Believe me, Miss Dix, it is these frigid wives who drive many a man from home.

—A HUSBAND.

Answer—Right you are, Mr. Husband, and I often wonder if the women who are wailing and beating upon their breasts over their unfaithful husbands are not very often accessory to the crime and have not brought their misfortunes down upon their own heads. Also I wonder if there wouldn't be fewer Lady Loves if there were more wives who were lovers.

Women seem to think that heart hunger is a purely feminine complaint, and that they are the only ones who ever starve for affection. It never seems to occur to them that a man is not satisfied just to take his wife's feeling for him for granted, and to argue that as long as she makes him comfortable at home and sews on his buttons and darns his socks that she is still in love with him.

Nor does it seem to dawn on them that if a man loves a woman he wants some response to his affection. He wants kisses that are not so cold and flabby and perfunctory that they are an insult instead of a kiss. He wants to see her eyes light up with joy at his approach. He wants to know that he still has power to thrill her. He wants her arms about his neck. He wants her to cuddle into his arms. He wants, in a word, for her to keep up the love-making of their courting days.

Yet plenty of men never get this. Their wives appear to think that when they got married they were metamorphosed from sweethearts into cash registers, and that they lost all human sensibilities in the process. Plenty of women never see their husbands as a man again after they are married, and the chief element in the amazement that many a wife feels when she finds out that her husband is stepping out with other women is her surprise at discovering that he is human and still craves tenderness and love, and wants to be petted and made a fuss over.

She had been picturing him as a mere money-making machine. She had assumed that his only passion was for his business, that the only thing he could get a kick out of was a 10-point rise in the stock market, and that he had just as much outgrown and discarded romance as he had his wedding garments.

And she honestly believed that all this Robot wanted of a wife was somebody who would kep him oiled up and in good working condition. If you notice, when a woman speaks of being a "good wife" she always tells what she has done to make her husband physically comfortable. She tells you that she has been a good housekeeper, that she has been a thrifty manager, that he has always had a clean house and a good dinner to come home to.

She never mentions how she has treated him, whether she has been tender and affectionate to him, whether she has shown him appreciation and understanding, whether she has given him her lips or the back of her ear when he tried to kiss her. She doesn't think these demonstrations of affection count. She has said it with pies and mutton stews and she thinks he should be satisfied with that.

Yet if she would consider she would know that what a man marries for is love. He doesn't have to marry for a cook when there is a good restaurant on every corner. He doesn't have to marry for a comfortable place in which to live. There are thousands of clubs and bachelor apartments in which every need is catered to as no wife can do it. He doesn't have to marry for feminine society. There are too many women willing to play around with him.

No. When he forfeits his personal liberty, and assumes a woman's board bill and shopping ticket for life, it is because he wants love more than anything else in the world and is willing to sacrifice everything else for it. And this being the case, how is it possible for any wife to delude herself into thinking that just as soon as he is married he ceases to desire love and is satisfied with a little lukewarm affection?

Surely it is time for women to wake up to the fact that their husbands yearn to be loved just as much as they do, and that they want to be flattered and cajoled just as they do, and that when a woman ceases to be a lover she does so at her peril. For if men do not find affection at home they seek it elsewhere. It is the rigid wives who lose out.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a sophomore in college. I have a good scholastic record, am a good musician and fairly popular among my classmates. Yet at any social gathering I am a perfect frost with the girls. They simply can't see me. I don't dance and am too busy with my studies to learn. Do you think that is the trouble, or do you think that it is just my inability to mix with people?—TOM.

Answer—It is just as important, Tom, for a boy to learn parlor tricks as it is Greek or Latin or higher mathematics. In fact, you will have a lot more use for them and for a good peppy line of talk than you will for the dead languages, and you will be called on oftener to figure out how to negotiate a crowded ballroom than you will how to work a problem in trigonometry.

So if I were you I would take a little time off from my studies and learn how to do the things that other young people are doing. Certainly you can't expect any girl to want you to cut in on her at a ball if you don't know how to dance. Nor can you expect one to sit out dances with you when her feet are aching to be two-stepping.

Nowadays it is part of a polite education to be accomplished in the things that other people do. You must know how to drive a car, how to swim, how to dance, how to play a good game of bridge and tennis and golf if you expect to be popular in society. People don't care to have those around who are misfits, no matter how many sterling virtues they may have, or how learned they are. And especially women don't like men who don't know how to mix in with the crowd, but who call for some special treatment.

Your success in life will depend largely on your ability to adapt yourself to others, and to win their favor, so take my advice and begin cultivating the graces as well as the more serious things of life.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Suppose a girl of 30 is in love with a boy of 22 and wants to marry him. Would you call her a cradle snatcher?

—AT SEA.

Answer—There is no such thing as a girl of 30. Any woman of 30 is a mature, grown-up woman, and she is ages older than a boy of 22, and I think she does a foolish thing to marry him. In considering the disparity of age when the woman is the older the thing that matters is not how old the woman is, but how old the man is. If he has arrived at the years of maturity and his character is formed, eight or 10 years difference is of slight moment.

If this young man were 30 and you were 38 you would not need hesitate to march to the altar with him, because he would be old enough to know his own mind and to consider every phase of the subject, and there would be small likelihood that he would ever change.

But when he is only 22 he is still a kid with his tastes unformed, and there would be great likelihood that he would change and regret his marriage after he was grown up.

—DOROTHY DIX.

GLASS SUIT TO FEDERAL COURT

Ice Companies Win Plea For Transfer

An order was entered Tuesday by Judge P. A. Martin transferring from from the 89th district court to federal court the suit brought in behalf of T. R. Glass against the Louisiana Ice and Utilities, Inc., on Glass' claim to $58,200 damages for personal injuries he claims to have resulted from embezzlement charges brought againt him while he was employed by the ice company.

The transfer was vigorously contested by attorneys for Mr. Glass, who opposed removal of the suit from the jurisdiction of district court. Attorneys for the ice company had petitioned for the transfer to federal court because of a diversity of citizenship among the complaining and defendant parties. The case will be called for trial at the fall term of federal district court here, it was said.

In the original petition filed in the 89th court in behalf of Mr. Glass, allegations were made accusing the three ice companies in Wichita Falls of conspiring to violate the anti-trust laws by the formation of agreements by which they could maintain prices. Mr. Glass claimed the embezzlement charges against him were false and were brought with malicious intentions. Officials of the ice companies and attorneys representing them denied his accusations and pointed out the agreements between the ice companies here were formed in the usual course of business and were in no way violations of trust laws.

DUBLIN HEARS ROSS STERLING

Gubernatorial Candidate Talks Finance

Special to The Record News

DUBLIN, Texas, July 8.—"They're getting hotter and hotter at my heels," laughed Ross Sterling, chairman of the state highway commission, in an address here Tuesday, referring to opponents in the race for governor. The Houston candidate's address, delivered before a large crowd in an auditorium, was broadcast by radio station KFPL.

"All but one are attacking me and my suggested plan of state highway financing," Sterling explained. "There's only one reason the majority of contenders in a campaign concentrate their fire so fiercely upon one candidate. It is the same reason that I go after the big head buck in a herd of deer when hunting—but they aren't touching me, because they are only shooting pop-guns.

"Most of them are loaded with misrepresentations regarding the plan I advocate for shifting the burden of state road financing from property taxes to the gasoline tax, and returning to the counties the $75,000,000 they have spent for state road construction," the speaker went on. "The people are not going to be deceived."

Mr. Sterling presented his platform proposals for equalizing taxes generally by assessing natural resources, modernizing the prison system, supporting educational and eleemosynary institutions, enforcing the prohibition laws, and against legalized racetrack gambling.

The highway chairman was introduced here by Rev. Geo. B. Hadfield. His speaking schedule for the day also included Stephenville, Comanche and Brownwood.

Chinese Armies Resume Fighting, Dispatches Say

SHANGHAI, July 8. (AP)—Resumption of fighting between Nationalist and rebel forces near Yenchow, Shangtung, the western extremity of the newly established northern front, was reported today in Japanese dispatches from Tsingtao.

This was interpreted as the opening of a Nationalist movement to recapture Tsinan, provincial capital, which was taken by the northern rebels June 25 without resistance.

A Nationalist report from Suchow also said hostilities near Weihsuen, eastern end of the Shantung battlefront, had stopped through service on the Tsingtao Tsinanfu railway.

Experiment Seeks Most Adaptable Sorghum

Special to The Record News

LAWTON, Okla., July 8.—An experiment is being conducted this year at the government experiment station north of Lawton from which important information is expected to be derived. It is a chinch bug and a variety test with the grain sorghums. Some 75 varieties are being utilized in the experiments. Many are simply hybrids of some of the varieties of grain sorghums.

The purpose of this experiment is to determine which variety of grain sorghum has the greatest resistance to chinch bugs and dry weather, and therefore best adapted for this section. Many of the varieties have been bred by Dr. Parker, plant breeder for Kansas Agricultural college.

SON HELD IN PAIR'S DEATH

Bodies of Aged Pair Found In Charred Ruins

WARREN, Ark., July 8. (AP)—Albert Barnett, 30-year-old farmer, was in jail here today charged with the murder of his parents, while officers pieced together the story of a midnight fire that destroyed the farm home of J. R. Barnett, 65, and his 60-year-old wife, whose bodies were recovered from the charred ruins late yesterday.

Testimony at a coroner's inquest indicated that ill feeling had existed for some time between young Barnett and his father, and at one instance the father had been threatened by his son.

Investigation of the ruins yesterday, resulted in a murder charge being placed against Barnett, who with his wife, occupied a house near the home of his father and stepmother.

Sheriff John C. Lee reported the discovery of the elder Barnett's blood stained hat near the home of his son. This and the finding of what was taken to be bloodstains on the floor beneath Barnett's body, led officers to suspect foul play.

Young Barnett testified at the inquest he had been awakened to see flames shooting from his father's house and had rushed to rescue the aged pair only to find the door locked. His wife's testimony was substantially the same.

Officers, however, said they found the bodies of Barnett and his wife some distance from the bedside. The man's body was wrapped in a quilt, which they took as evidence the aged man's death had been planned.

Poison Taken By Mistake Fatal To American Bride

BUDEPEST, Hungary, July 8. (AP)—Dorothy De Konkoley Thege, 23-year-old New York bride who died in a hospital here yesterday of poisoning, was the victim of a fatal mistake in taking wrong medicine, police investigators have revealed.

Mrs. De Monkoly Thege had spent Saturday evening in the lobby of her hotel with her husband and party of friends and had chatted cheerfully about the following day's program. She then left the party and went upstairs to her room where she opened a small medicine chest brought with her from New York.

The tablets which she took by mistake took effect instantly, but left her sufficient strength to telephone to the porter and ask him hurriedly to summon her husband.

By the time the husband came rushing to her room his wife was unconscious. The doctor who was called used a stomach pump, then had the patient transported to a sanatorium where the pump was employed a second time. The patient recovered sufficiently to tell those present about the mistake.

Half an hour later Professor Hullt, a Hungarian specialist, was called in. He decided that the only chance of saving the young bride's life was an immediate operation. But the operations came too late.

Mrs. De Monkoly Thege suffered agony throughout Sunday until she expired early Monday morning. She was the daughter of Mrs. George Arents, New York City. She was married at Rye, on May 31. The husband is a graduate of the royal technical university of Budapest.

Cooking School Note

In the cooking school conducted under the auspices of The Times and Record News Mrs. Frances North-cross stressed modern methods of cooking. Naturally, then, she uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern shortening.

Two late children and a hurry-up strawberry shortcake

TWO little children are responsible for this extra-quick Crisco shortcake. With their puppy they wandered out one afternoon to hunt wild berries and returned, tired and bedraggled, after supper had been put on the table.

"They wanted their berries in a shortcake," writes their mother, "and I hated to disappoint them. I knew it would take a few minutes to measure the ingredients. The mixing, however, I didn't worry about for since I've been using Crisco I can stir up biscuits and shortcake in a jiffy. Crisco is always the same—soft and creamy—and it works up with the flour in less time than it takes to tell.

"The cake was made and before we'd finished eating it was out of the oven."

You'll find, too, that Crisco gives freshness and sweetness to shortcake and biscuits, for Crisco tastes very good all by itself—nicer than you ever imagined a shortening could.

QUICK STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

2 cups flour
1 tablespoon sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons Crisco
1 egg
¼ cup milk

Sift together the dry ingredients, work in the Crisco. Combine milk and egg and stir into the dry mixture. Spoon out into a well-Criscoed cake pan and bake for 15 minutes in a hot oven (450°F.). Let cool slightly. Split cake and fill with crushed, sweetened strawberries. Serve plain or with whipped cream. Any fresh fruit can be used.

Yes, Springtime in a Pudding

When I was a little girl, rhubarb and sassafras tea were just as much signs of spring as the first robin. Since I have grown up I have been able to get along without sassafras tea, but spring wouldn't be spring without rhubarb. Here's another way to serve it—in a simple, quick cottage pudding. A pudding made with Crisco, a shortening that reminds me of spring, too—it's so clean and fresh and sweet. If you'll taste Crisco all by itself you'll understand why it can't help but make anything you put it in taste better.

RHUBARB COTTAGE PUDDING

½ cup Crisco
1¼ cups sugar
1 egg
1 cup unsweetened cooked rhubarb
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon ginger

Blend Crisco, sugar and egg together. Stir in the rhubarb. Sift dry ingredients and add to mixture. Beat thoroughly. Bake in Criscoed loaf tin in moderate oven (350° F.) for 1 hour. Serve hot with favorite pudding sauce.

In British Pockets
Hopeful McCampbell
The Hoover Method
A Second Government

By EMILE CAUVREAU

Big American business will be interested in the effect on the United States of British recognition of Soviet Russia. Millions of dollars in annual trade have been taken away from America to fill British pockets. Our sales, in half a year, have dropped from $12,000,000 to $3,000,000. Germany's pending recognition of the Soviet will most likely wipe out the $3,000,000 business we have left.

According to Mr. McCampbell, new prohibition chief in New York, there are 30,000 speakeasies in the city. Those familiar with them will call that a very conservative estimate. He proposes to wipe them all out. Every time he destroys one another will sprout out. A sincere, determined man, he will get out of his new job all the thrills his constitution can stand. Like his predecessors, he will retire disillusioned and disappointed.

Signing the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill over the protests of the whole world, Mr. Hoover now acknowledges the law is faulty. He sends Ogden L. Mills to Europe to placate the retaliatory ire of France, England, Germany, Italy and other countries which have been hard hit and want to hit back. President Hoover will be remembered in years to come as a gentleman in the White House who made it a practice to swallow more than he could digest.

In Los Angeles, Chicago and New York gunmen are blithely fighting it out, slaying and being slain. To the bewildered citizen it is curious that thousands of miles apart they all appear to be members of the same gangs under Mr. Capone, who has become a millionaire out of it. His henchmen have amassed fortunes. Out of prohibition they have built up a second government, effective and sinister, a menace to every American institution. Uncle Sam is being taken for a ride.

This column commented on the impending doom of a gentleman known in Brooklyn as "Little Augie," who assumed the racketeering crown of Frankie Yale when the latter was filled full of machine gun bullets. Some hours after the comment had been written 200 persons were watching two executioners in the process of finishing Mr. Giuseppe Miccelo on a busy New York street corner. Mr. Miccello was one of Mr. Yales satellites. Police reporters say "Little Augie's" turn will come later. All of which should interest good citizens who still believe that murder is a crime.

Newark airport reports the landing of its youngest passenger, little Ted Hebert 5-week-old son of O. P. Hebert, pilot. The infant is flying around with his parents. Mrs. Lindbergh, who flew across the country not long before she was to become a mother, would find much of interest to discuss with Mrs. Hebert. She would tell her that soon mothers will be taking their babies for an airing in airplanes instead of baby carriages.

The American Bar association begins to poll its 30,000 members on their sentiment regarding the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. What the American people would like to see is a poll of the gentlemen in the senate and the house of representatives who drink liquor and vote dry. But they are too hypocritical to report the truth about themselves.

Who Owns a Foul Ball?

THE small boy's right to any perquisites he can collect at a ball game seems to have been upheld definitely by high legal authority now. Everybody, probably, will be very happy about it except the owners of baseball parks.

In Chicago the other day a youngster went out to watch the Cubs play. He was perched high in the bleachers, along the foul line, when some batter smacked a foul ball into his territory. The ball landed beside the youngster and he promptly pocketed it.

An usher, thereupon, appeared and demanded the ball. The boy refused to give it up; the usher, accordingly, went away, to return a little later with three policemen. Together they descended upon the youngster with the ball.

But there is an esprit de corps, or whatever you want to call it, among bleacherites. The enraged fans arose en masse and fell upon the policemen with their fists. The upshot of it all was that small boy, baseball, wounded policemen, usher and a dozen or more belligerent fans had to appear in court.

The judge disposed of the case in short order. The usher, he said, had no right to go after the ball in the first place. When a citizen goes to a ball game he has a right to pocket any ball that falls into the stands in his vicinity—provided, of course, that he can lay his hands on it. As soon as he does, the ball becomes his property. So the quarrel was settled, and everybody went home happy.

All of this is very encouraging, settling, as it does, the long-disputed question, "who owns a foul ball?" but one must admit that the club owner may not be inclined to rejoice about it. After all, baseballs cost money, and a good many fouls get knocked into the grandstand during an afternoon's play.

The fan, however, is just that much ahead. Furthermore, the thing raises some fascinating speculations. Do footballs that get kicked into the stands belong to the lucky chaps who catch them? Do sliced golf balls go to the nearest idler? When a boxer gets knocked out of the ring and lands in somebody's lap, does he—but let's not make this thing absurd.

'Ours Not to Reason Why'

HOW mightily humanity pays because the capacity of individuals for admiration so greatly exceeds their capacity for appropriation.

Atop the fragmentary information which filtered back from time to time anent the Byrd polar expedition and innumerable newspaper and magazine articles devoted recently to its exploits, lifelike views of the explorer and his mates are now being shown on the screen throughout the country. Despite his self-effacing nature, the character of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd dominates the modern classic of adventure. All Americans, and civilized humanity in general, lays the accolade upon the modest Virginian's head.

Only slightly in the background is the flight of Major Kingsford-Smith and his crew westward across the Atlantic. While none of the daring achievements of the past two years has released the delirious pandemonium which followed Lindbergh's safe arrival in Paris, the world has stopped to shout tumultuous ovations to such heroes as Byrd, Kingsford-Smith and in a local sense, to the Hunter brothers up at Chicago.

Admiration almost to the point of worship has been poured forth in abundance at the sight or mention of these adventurers. But how much thought has there been by individual admirers of the factors on which every such achievement was predicated—foresight and preparedness? How much learned by those who cheered of the value of looking before leaping?

The magnitude of great deeds imparts to them a dignity which makes it easy to explain why such minute preparation for each contingency was made. But may it not be that equal care and diligence in anticipating and preparing for the vicissitudes of every day life would pay as great dividends in results? If daily problems of individuals were dignified with advance analysis and elimination of dangerous probabilities, the store of human griefs would be considerably lessened.

The Need for Advertising

THE importance of newspaper advertising for retailers under present market conditions is emphasized in a timely report on merchandising made for the Journalism School of Southern California university by Marc N. Goodnow, the university's field representative.

"The advertising-minded community," says Mr. Goodnow, "will generally be found to be a better going concern than that without such a consciousness, insofar as turnover in merchandise is concerned. In fact, there is a very direct relationship between outside publicity or public estimation of a city and retail volumes within that city. Groups or cooperative advertising efforts on the part of merchants are sometimes difficult to determine specifically, but over a period of time both activities show up in very definite figures."

Advertising, of course, will not sell worthless goods; but the merchant who has a saleable commodity on his hands will find that advertising will help him in bad times just as well as it does in good times.

'Your Obedient Servant'

IT IS interesting to read that the American state department has sacrificed a time-honored custom of diplomacy to modern efficiency.

Up to this time, all official state department letters have ended with the flowery old phrase, "I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant." Now, however, by an official order, they are to end with the modern "Very truly yours."

All of this is as it should be; but it makes one wonder what diplomacy is coming to. The very essence of it is high-flown phrases and flowery language. What will ever happen if it gets stripped down to its essentials? Can our diplomats stand the shock?

To Joe Schenck

I think that for a while you're apt to miss
The brisk applause—the glamour of the show;
There is an end to all such froth as this
Where you are resting, Joe.

But lads like you are welcome anywhere,
The gates will open for your smiling face
And heaven, now that you are dwelling there
Will be a better place.

So, bide your time, the years are quick to go,
And when we reach the turning in the lane,
We will be glad—if you will promise, Joe,
To sing for us, again!

Leslie Whalen, representative for Harold Lloyd, recently holidayed with the star at Honolulu. On the day they arrived a local man about town showed them around.

"How's this," said the M. A. T., as he took them to Waikiki beach, "some beach, eh?"

"Oh, I dunno," sniffed Whalen. "We have beaches as good as Atlantic City and Asbury park."

"Well, then," said the guide, "look at those mountains. Plenty pretty, what?"

"But we have mountains in America just as great, the Catskills, the Rockies, the Blue Ridge, etc.," grunted Whalen.

The man about town decided to top everything by showing off a volcano from which the steam was issuing. "There now!" he boasted, "look at that. You haven't anything like that in America!"

"No, we haven't," was the indifferent reply, "but we have a fire department in New York that could put that out in 10 minutes!"

"That's what I say," was the retort, "with his chin!"

Police!

Merritt S. Franken can make up a sentence containing the word "Apollo" like this: "An Apollo a day keeps the doctor away."

Scene

As we reported here the other column, Jack Oakie, the chin-ema favorite, was fired out of the "Peggy Ann" chorus two years ago. Today Oakie attracts heavier trade than Fairbanks, Chevalier and name any other star. But Oakie has never forgotten the lad who fired him, one Murray Queen, now the stage manager for "Fifty Million Frenchmen."

Last night at the Club Abbey, they met for the first time since Queen dismissed him. Oakie pretended to be affable, and then proceeded to embarrass his former boss. It wasn't in good taste, but you know how it is when you remember the early struggles and those who gave you a heartache.

However, Mr. Queen said to Mr. Oakie: "The luckiest break you ever got, Jack, was when I fired you. You were a so-so chorus boy, but I'll admit you are the greatest box office attraction now."

"I know I am," was the reply.

Boys Will Be Bores

At the Brooklyn Paramount, where Oakie is now packing houses with Rudy Vallee on the same card, the flip cracks are abundant. Vallee, it appears, said something that irked Oakie.

"Lissen to me, big boy," yipped Oakie. "Some of these days you are going to walk into a rich man's home and knock a bust of me off the mantel-piece!"

Good!

Take it from Madeline Cameron, who just joined the "Fifty Million Frenchmen" troupe at the Lyric. Madeline says she was at a snooty opening night recently, and she sat two rows in front of another well-known actress, who was giving a grand performance with a lorgnette from her aisle seat. However, Madeline wanted to be friendly and turned to talk to the woman, "You are looking fine," she said.

"What's that?" said the other with her nose tilted high in the air.

"I was saying that you look very fine," cooed Madeline.

"I bed your poddon, moddom," said the woman stiffly.

"Oh," flipped Madeline, "I was saying that I thought you looked very well, but my friends here think you look like hell!"

Why Colyumists Die Young

The height of something or other, as we once remarked, would be for Walter Winchell to get sore because someone said something about him. One of those detective story mags, a magazine that is supposed to deal in facts, offers this counterfeit paragraph in a Rothstein fable: ". . . in this respect the Rothstein murder offers a parallel. The New York understanding is that his slayer was known beforehand to several persons and now is known to even more. The editor of a tabloid was sure Walter Winchell, one of its star reporters, had full information of the crime and was withholding it. So sure was he that he discharged Winchell from his position."

And they hang pictures!—or, as the Hearst slogan goes: "Get it first—but first get it right!"

Fishery Stations To Be Constructed

WASHINGTON, July 8. (INS)—A new move to "reduce the time between bites" and return to American men and boys one of their constitutional rights—that is, to catch fish—has been launched by the bureau of fisheries, the commerce department announced today.

This is one of President Hoover's pet policies.

Work on a five-year construction and maintenance program was described by Commissioner Henry O'Malley.

A bill passed by congress authorized additional appropriations for new stations, laboratories and distribution cars amounting to $1,885,000 and other funds for fish culture and the stocking of streams and lakes with game and commercial fish.

Stations will be located in New Mexico, Louisiana, Idaho, Wisconsin, Montana, Colorado, Washington, Maryland and West Virginia, during the present year.

In the 1931 fiscal year there will be improvements in fish distribution facilities in Alabama, Indiana, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Texas, New York and Oregon.

A second attempt to lower the present record of 67 hours and 15 minutes will be made, Haldeman said. The plane, carrying seven tons of gasoline and oil, went aloft at 4:06 p. m. eastern daylight time yesterday and landed at 7:18 a. m., eastern daylight time today, after 15 hours and 42 minutes in the air.

JURY STUDIES 52 CHARGES

Wichitan Appears in Case Against Police

A total of 52 cases had been presented to the grand jury for the July term of the 30th district court Tuesday afternoon at the close of the second day's session, according to information given in the office of the district attorney. Investigations in all of these cases had not been completed but that number had been brought to the attention of the jury and the majority of the 52 will be included in the first partial report, it was said.

The first report will probably be ready by Thursday afternoon, attorneys said. The grand jury will then recess until later in the month's term, when its final report will be filed. The first two days have been devoted to consideration of cases submitted by the district attorney's department.

A Wichita Falls man who recently charged that he was arrested by police without cause and held in the city jail without being allowed to call an attorney or make bond appeared Tuesday but other business before the grand jury prevented their taking up his complaint. The man said he would be ready to present his case Wednesday and would bring witnesses without the necessity of having them subponaed.

Prizefighter Shot To Death in California

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (INS)—Shot through the heart, Thomas Fayne, 28, a heavyweight prize fighter known as Battling Murray, was murdered early today in the Mission district after a drinking party with three companions.

Near the scene of the shooting, police arrested Fred Burns, 20, an ex-convict; J. Craig, 38, and John Ryan, 26, and held them on suspicion of murder.

They denied slaying Fayne, and said he was shot by an unidentified man in an argument over the ownership of a cap, which Fayne was said to have taken by mistake in leaving a "speakeasy" where the quartet had been spending the evening.

Court Grants Farmer Injunction To Protect His Tomato Crop

A petition for an injunction to protect his crop of tomatoes and cantaloupes was filed in the 78th district court here Tuesday against W. E. Turner in behalf of S. J. Whatley, who claims he was prevented from cultivating and harvesting his crop after having taken a lease on two acres of land near Cameron Gardens.

After leasing the land and plowing and planting three-fourths of an acre in tomatoes and cantaloupes, Turner came onto the land and refused to allow Whatley to proceed with the work, the petition states. Turner has "threatened, harassed and abused" Whatley and intimidated his one employe, causing him to leave, it is alleged. The petition further states Turner has turned water across the land and threatened to lock the gates to the property "and in other ways prevented the harvesting of the crop." An injunction for the duration of the lease is asked in the plea. Judge W. W. Cook issued a temporary injunction and set a hearing for the case on July 12.

HATCHER PAYS VISIT HERE

State Treasurer Seeks Post On Rail Board

W. Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer and candidate for the office of railroad commissioner, was a visitor in Wichita Falls Tuesday in interest of his campaign. Mr. Hatcher, now serving his sixth year as treasurer, is touring Northwest Texas and the Panhandle.

Hatcher

Confidence in his success in his present race was expressed by Mr. Hatcher in pointing out that he had received nearly 500,000 votes in each of the elections in which he has been a candidate for treasurer. Mr. Hatcher said he believed that a large part of this previous support would be given him in his race this year.

"In seeking the office of railroad commissioner from the people of Texas, I am only asking for a continuation of the precedent heretofore established of promoting heads of departments to the commission," Mr. Hatcher said. He pointed out that one of the present commissioners served four years as state comptroller and another four years as state treasurer, prior to their election to the railroad commission.

Mr. Hatcher said his race is being made entirely on his own qualifications to the position. He pointed out that in addition to serving as treasurer, he has had considerable business experience and has also had 12 years experience as a practicing attorney.

Tillman Candidates Address Tipton Crowd

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., July 8.—Most of the county candidates attended the monthly trade day at Tipton Monday. All the candidates were given an opportunity that afternoon to speak and most of them availed themselves of the opportunity.

"No You Don't! Come Along Quietly and I'll Make No Fuss!

"But I don't know who you are," argued the girl.

"I think you do . . . you're only stalling for time." The man's voice was gruff. The girl felt small, almost a child before the great bulk that towered above her. "Well, Kitty Banning, I've come to take you to jail . . . that's where! Now do you know me, huh!"

Poor girl, life was hard enough without being arrested! And being taken for a bandit girl at that! Just a few weeks ago she was hit by a speeding car. The shock took away all her memory. Not even her name could she recall. Who was she? And why was she being arrested, supposedly a crook?

Summer Squash Recipes

In buying summer squash, look for those that are small, thin-skinned and with a fresh, waxy appearance.

Here are a few recipes to suggest different ways of preparing summer squash and combining it with other foods:

Mashed Squash

"One of the simple ways for preparing summer squash is to cook it in very little water, mash it when cooked tender and add butter and cream, the same as you would in preparing mashed potatoes."

Baked Summer Squash

"Use tender young squashes. Cut into halves. Scoop out the seeds, place in a pan containing a very little hot water and bake until tender. Then chop, add butter and salt."

Summer Squash and Corn

"Use the flat, scalloped, tender vegetables. Slice across the top, scoop out seeds. Add salt, butter and fill with uncooked sweet corn grated from the cob. Steam one hour."

Summer Squash French Fried

"Cut up like potatoes. Roll in Melba toast crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat."

McFadden's Summer Squash

"Two pounds of squash, four tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of breadcrumbs. Mash the cooked squash when cold and dot with pieces of butter. Put in a baking dish with crumbs over the top and dot with more butter. Bake until it is brown, in a moderately hot oven."

Celery, Squash, and Potato Soup

"One cupful of squash, peeled and diced. Two potatoes, (small) peeled and diced. Two tablespoonfuls of celery, washed and chopped. Water. One cupful milk, seasoning. Boil for 20 minutes. Add milk and season and serve. Enough for four."

Squash Spanish

"Lay rings of squash in a baking dish and pour over tomato sauce, sprinkle grated cheese on top and bake."

String Beans and Italian Squash

"One and a half pounds of string beans, two Italian squashes, peeled and sliced, three tablespoonfuls of butter, seasoning. Boil beans for 25 minutes. Cook the Italian squash for 15 minutes in the butter. Add to beans and cook together five minutes. Season."

Cucumbers and Italian Squash

"Four cucumbers, peeled and sliced, four Italian squashes, peeled and sliced, four tablespoonfuls of butter, seasoning. Heat the butter in pan. Put in squash and cucumbers and cook slowly for 15 minutes."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Lymph Nodes

Question—B. M. C. writes: "Have had small lumps in my arms for about 10 years. My doctors says it is an excess of lymph. What can I do about it?"

Answer—Take plenty of exercise, massage treatments and hot and cold baths. This will improve your circulation, and tend to discourage the formation of lymph in the lymph nodes.

Spinach

Question—H. D. asks: "Should not spinach be cooked, and the water discarded? Does not raw spinach contain oxalic acid?"

Answer—The water from cooked spinach should not be discarded unless it is very bitter, due to an excess amount of potash. This is sometimes true of spinach which has grown too old. Young, tender spinach should be cooked without water for about five minutes, and the small amount of juice left should be taken with the spinach. Spinach contains a small amount of oxalic acid but this is in no way injurious.

Nervous and Hungry

Question—Mrs. L. J. C. asks: "What is wrong when one is extremely nervous and hungry all the time, also underweight?"

Answer—Your troubles are probably caused by hyperacidity of the stomach which causes gastritis and gives your symptoms of nervousness. Real hunger is not felt in the stomach. Try following my weekly menus and see if you cannot overcome your overacidity.

Vein on Nose

Question—L. asks: "What can be done to an enlarged vein on end of nose?"

Answer—A dermatologist or plastic surgeon should be able to get rid of the large vein for you. These veins can be reduced through electrical treatments or destroyed entirely through burning with the electrical high-frequency spark.

SPUDDERS TAKE LEAD WHILE FEASTING ON BARBECUED CHICKEN

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Now that the danger has passed, and people may sit back and give the matter sober and constructive thought, a story has come to light through Guy Airey, Spudder secretary, that should be read by all, male and female, who puff cigarets or cigars down at the ball park.

Here's the story: Last Sunday, during that raging wind and sandstorm, when a spark no bigger than a needle's point could have been turned into a conflagration, some fan dropped a lighted cigaret in the left wing of the grandstand. It filtered down into a crack and started a small blaze. The flame was not apparent, but some loyal fan smelled smoke and ran to the box office to inform Airey.

The fan had no more than uttered his warning when Guy started running. That ball plant has burned down before, and Guy knew what a blaze would do in that wind. He broke all track records getting to the spot described by the fan, and extinguished what fire there was. It was only a small one, but had it burned only a few moments longer it would have branched out and come into the path of that wind, and there's no telling what would have happened then. And there were over 2,000 people in the stands at that time.

Anyway, Guy put out the fire, and the danger was dispelled. The warning that Spudder fan gave him probably saved not only the plant, but also prevented accidents and probable fatal injury to some in the crowd. In his haste to reach the fire, Airey didn't stop to thank the fan who gave the warning, or to ask his name. He requested us to print a little note of thanks to the unknown one who probably prevented a disastrous fire and riot, and we do so with pleasure in hopes that this will reach his eye.

Airey said there was no doubt but what the tiny but menacing blaze had been started by a lighted cigaret, and asked us to go in once more for a general warning to Spudder park patrons that they carefully extinguish the cigaret butts before leaving them lying around in the grandstand. A rule against smoking at a ball game would be high treason, for it would not be a ball game without the filthy weed, but it takes only one good stomp on the end of a castoff cigaret or cigar to put it out, and it seems this is the least the Spudder management could ask in the name of safety. A stomp a day shooes the fire away, or something to that effect. It's a sensible request, mates, and should be observed. Of course, you might have an enemy or two whom you think might profit by a little frying, but remember that this isn't Sherman even if we are in Texas, and also remember that while frying your chosen enemy there are several others who might get singed. And one of the several others might be your best girl or something.

There have been two disastrous fires down at the foot of Seventh street, and both of them were ascribed to the lowly cigaret or cigar stub. The first, we are informed, was in 1923 and the second two years later. The flames completely destroyed the plant in both instances. Shreveport was the visiting club on the day of the first fire and a peculiar circumstance of that conflagration, a thing that was much commented on by the newspapers, was that one of the batteries for the game was "Burns and Burns!"

The annual Spudder banquet was held last night at Fred Weeks' palatial home, and, as we say down in the showers, a good time was had by all. The players and club officials sat down to a great barbecued chicken dinner, prepared by that master of things delightful to the palate, Harry Prine, and then tasted a life of ease by lounging around puffing on the filthy weed. The program was delightful, but nothing could have been more delightful than that chicken, and it wouldn't have been half so delightful, we suspect, if it had not been prepared by Harry Prine.

Harry has donated his services for year on end to the Spudder cause, preparing the chickens each year for the annual Spudder spread. For last night's feast, he barbecued something like 50 members of a former happy poultry flock, and charged the Spudders not one penny for his services. If you ask us, that's showing real friendship for the Spudders. Harry holds forth at his market at 1209 Thirteenth street. He's in the business, and he just naturally knows how to fix those great dinners. And if the Spudders don't whip those Cubs today it won't be because Harry failed to contribute juicy viands to the well being of the players.

Lyons Leads Chisox To Victory Over Tigers

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—Ted Lyons' pitching and batting lifted the White Sox to a 3 to 2 victory over Detroit in the fourth game of the series today.

Lyons gave the Tigers 10 hits but kept them well spaced and his triple with Kamm and Tate on in the second inning accounted for two Sox runs. Score:

SQUAD DINES AS BUFFS LOSE

Waco Cubs Open Series Here Today

The Spudders glided gracefully into first place in the Texas league standings Tuesday with no more effort than is required to hoist a great juicy piece of barbecued chicken from the festive board to an eager and watery mouth.

For while the Spudders one and all assembled at the home of Fred Weeks for the annual Spudder banquet, the Beaumont Exporters did all the work required to shove the Houston Buffs down to the second position. The Exporters ran amuck on their home lot and trounced the Buffs 16 to 4, and the Buffs used their best pitchers, too.

And when the news came to the boys here, they murmured thanks to the Shipper lads, reached for another piece of chicken, and stepped out on the lawn to have their pictures taken.

The banquet, which has come to be an annual affair with the club and the host, followed the usual tradition of much chicken and much less speech making. All the players and club officials gathered at the Weeks home early in the evening for the feast, prepared by Harry Prine, after which the usual American customs of introductions by the toastmaster of various and sundry talkers were thrown violently to the winds. Instead the boys lounged about and smoked and did their own talking. The players' wives and friends also were present.

Tuesday's day of baronial ease was made possible by Sunday's double-header with the Sports. Today the Spudders must cast off dreams of unending banquets, in case any were engendered by the annual feast, and get to work. Their opponents today and tomorrow will be the Waco Hoot-Owls, famed for successful night living. The carnage is scheduled for the usual hour and it might be Blondy Wiltse, so come on out!

WE THANK YOU, MR. EXPORTERS

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 8. (AP)—Beaumont helped the idle Wichita Falls Spudders into first place this afternoon when the Exporters mauled three of Houston's star twirlers for 19 hits and a 16 to 4 victory to close a long home stay. Every man on the Exporter squad got at least one hit and one run, Oscar Eckhardt, premier slugger of the loop, showing the way with a home run and two triples, driving in five runs. Score:

Dealers' Ace Pitches No-Hit, No-Run Game

Big Boy Ridling, ace of the Furniture Dealers mound crew, hurled his way into the baseball hall of fame Tuesday afternoon on Harrison field when he pitched a no-hit, no-run game over the Security National Bank baseball team of the Merchants league while his mates had one big inning, the second, to give him a 6 to 0 win. The Furniture Dealers combined four Bank errors, a walk, three stolen bases with two hits to score five runs in the second.

Only one Banker reached as far as third base, and this was Rabbit Gordon who reached there by virtue of a walk, stolen base and an infield out. Ridling walked three men, hit one and fanned eight. Cottrell with a double and a home run led the attack for the Furniture Dealers while Ridling collected two singles in three times at the bat. Score:

Britain Bids Godspeed To Sir Thomas Lipton

LONDON, July 8. (AP)—Britain today officially said farewell to Sir Thomas Lipton, the noted Irish yachtsman on the eve of his fifth attempt to bring back the America's cup. The Prince of Wales personally conveyed a message of Godspeed to Sir Thomas at a complimentary luncheon at Fishmongers hall which overlooks the 1,000-year-old Billingsgate fish market at London bridge.

Sir Thomas is going to sail shortly with his Shamrock V for New York and Newport.

Shreveport Delays Night Ball Games

SHREVEPORT, La., July 8. (AP)—The formal christening of Shreveport's new night baseball plant, originally scheduled for tomorrow night, has been postponed until Thursday, club officials announced late today. The Houston Buffs will help the Sports dedicate the $22,000 system.

Although contractors have worked day and night since the structural steel arrived last Saturday in an effort to have it ready when the Sports returned from a long road trip, they found today they were behind schedule. Six towers are being erected, each of them supporting 156 lights. The system will develop 200,000 candlepower, calculated to make the park light as day.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Early declines in cotton under liquidation and local selling, promoted by relatively easy cables and a fairly favorable view of early weather news, were increased right after publication of the government acreage report today.

This brought in a flurry of Wall street and local selling, but official acreage figures were not far out of line with the average of recent private reports, and offerings soon tapered off. July, after selling down to 12.85 or new low ground, rallied to 13.08 and closed at 13.04 compared with 13.18 of the close at the previous day. New October declined to 12.56 or 23 points net lower and within a point of the previous low and closed at 12.79. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 14 points lower.

Liverpool cables reported some continental and Bombay selling in that market. Exports today 3,388, making 6,703,157 so far this season, port receipts 1,775. U. S. port stocks 1,630,427.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 8. (AP)—The government estimate of acreage in cultivation on July 1 released during the morning was the main feature in today's trading in the cotton market, the total given 45,815,000 acres representing a decrease from last year of 2.7 per cent was a slightly smaller decrease than looked for. Prices which had dropped 11 to 16 points in early trading and then recovered 9 to 10 points declined to levels 19 to 24 points from the highs after the issue of the acreage stimate but by mid-session they recovered 10 points on shorts covering.

The market turned firmer in the late trading on the impression that the market was oversold and the acreage estimate more than discounted. Active new crop months made new highs for the day 26 to 28 points above the lows. The general market closed net unchanged to 2 points down for the day.

Liverpool came in 3 to 7 points worse than due, and first trades here showed declines of 10 to 15 points. July soon declined to 12.53, October to 12.70 and December to 12.86, or 11 to 17 points below the previous close. Shorts covered freely in the late trading and active new crop months made new highs for the day with October at 12.84 and December at 12.98, 26 to 28 points up from the lows. October closed at 12.80 and December at 12.96 or 1 to 2 points net lower for the day on those positions.

Port receipts, 1,875, for week 5,709, for season 8,620,870, last season 9,459,057. Exports 3,388, form week 4,905, for season 6,525,550, last season 7,775,751. Stocks Resist Selling Pressure Under Aggressive 'Bull' Leadership

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 8. (US)—Stocks today displayed greater resistance to selling pressure and while on the average prices held only fractionally above the previous day's final quotations the performance of the market was unusually satisfactory. Several attempts during the session to create additional general weakness were stubbornly resisted and in some directions it was evident that the constructive side of the market enjoyed more aggressive leadership. The early dealings were marked by additional selling brought in probably by the market's setback on Monday. As the session progressed, however, stocks exhibited a noticeably better tone with rallies, though slight, more frequent. External developments were more or less ignored as the market took account chiefly of its own internal condition. Volume also expanded slightly to above the million-and-half total. Except in issues under particular bear pressure final prices were up on the day. Steel common closing up two points. American Can almost as much. General Motors up 1⅜. Consolidated Gas 1½. Money remained unchanged throughout the day at 2½ per cent.

Market's disinclination to respond to continued bear trade news was emphasized when prices improved in the face of announcement that mill operations in the Steel industry had dropped over the holiday period to below 50 per cent of capacity from 64 per cent a week previous. The sharp decline had been fully anticipated and the inclination is to accept the present rate as probably marking the turning point in the industry's activity. The general public disposition seems to be to regard current conditions in the steel industry as extremely discouraging. But this sentiment is not shared by well-informed interests. One of the most powerful individuals in the Steel corporation pointed out that operations of around 65 per cent at present would be equivalent to close to capacity of a few years ago, so greatly have facilities been expanded. The Steel corporation's ingot capacity, for example, has increased 3,000,000 tons since 1928.

General Motors provided a genuine surprise by its strength, achieving a net gain on the day of 1⅜ points and most of the other motor shares responded to its leadership. Few stocks on the exchange attract as much public notice as does General Motors, so that it would form an ideal leader of any resumed upward trend. European selling was reported in various sections of the list, but a powerful group of Americans now vacationing abroad are known to have been persistent buyers of various stocks, chiefly on a scale downward, but also at the market. This group's purchases today included some Electric Power & Light, a small amount of North American, Public Service of New Jersey, and various Copper shares, particularly American Smelting. J. I. Case was in greater demand and gained over four points. The bear crowd maintained pressure on Air Reduction which dropped to a new low, but let up on Gillette on reports of possible adjustment of some of its legal entanglements.

Throughout the day almost every Wall street market interest heard of the formation of a new "general bull pool" which was to stabilize the market. Name of one of the leading banks was mentioned as sponsoring pool, but the story lacked confirmation. The hardened Wall streeter is well acquainted with with such stories, which first appeared early this year, the improvement in the market at that time being credited to such a "pool" which, if it existed at all, was little able to "stabilize" the market. Durant publicly expressed some time ago a desire to create such a pool. The street these days is full of rumors of what the bull crowd and the bear crowd intends to do. Each day recently the rumor has been broadcast that such and such a stock is to be marked up or attacked. Westinghouse, according to the market, is the next victim of the same bear crowd which has hammered Air Reduction. Westinghouse closed up a point today.

A well-known and recently successful bear clique was reported to be behind the pressure on Proctor & Gamble, which stock, as already pointed out here, is being closely observed as possible reflection of the Morgan market attitude. The stock closed off over a point today, despite announcement, after the close, that the dividend rate had been increased to $2.40 annually from the previous $2 payment. J. P. Morgan & Co. have an option on 90,000 shares of Proctor & Gamble at $80 a share, expiring Aug. 2. The bankers had exercised an option on 10,000 shares at the same price. The stock closed today at 67½. It is not known whether the bankers intend to extend the option.

Wheat and other grains improved while cotton closed lower. Foreign exchanges were irregular.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, July 8. (AP)—Continued good demand featured wheat trade on the Fort Worth cash grain market Tuesday. Both mills and exporters reported willing buyers. Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 1 mixed, 93½@94½c; No. 2 white, 99@99½c; No. 2 yellow, 96½@97½c.

Oats—No. 2 red, 44½@45½c.

Barley—No. 2, 58@60c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—Black rust menacing United States wheat and curtailing wheat yields in France did a good deal to bring about higher prices here today for wheat. The rise in wheat values, however, was preceded by a new smashing of low price records cutting down materially the 10 cents a bushel difference that until today has separated recent bottom levels from the lowest reached 17 years ago.

Breaks in stock exchange quotations were largely blamed for today's fresh downward swing of wheat prices, but enlarged export buying of wheat was afterward a factor in turning the wheat market upward.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm at nearly the top point reached, ⅝@1⅛c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed at ¼@1¼c advance, oats ⅛@¼c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

Corn advanced more readily than wheat, with corn traders putting stress on reports that the next few weeks will either make or break the new corn crop. Besides, primary receipts of corn today were much smaller than a year ago, and considerable notice was taken that 1930 exportable corn surplus was 5,688,000 bushels. Oats steadied with corn after having joined corn and wheat in reaching new low price records.

Provisions were firm as a result of buying credited to eastern account.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 87⅛c, 90⅛c; Sept. 90⅝@90½c, 93⅛@93⅝; Dec. 96⅛@96⅛c, 99⅛c. Corn—July 74⅛s, 76⅛c; Sept. 73⅝@73⅛c, 75⅝@75⅛; Dec. 67⅛c, 68⅝@68⅛c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, July 8. (US)—The recovery in the wheat market after another break to new lows left sentiment considerably less bearish at the close. However, commission houses were cautioning against purchases on sharp bulges, feeling that the rally had probably weakened the technical position.

In addition to the effect of the recovery in prices, there was the influence of all the news tending to show that at these levels wheat is attractive to exporters, mills and other buyers for consumption.

Broomhall said that favorable conditions for native food crops in India would undoubtedly tend to release further quantities of wheat for export from that country.

FEED CROPS SHOW INCREASE

Farmers Provide for Cows And Poultry

Steady and substantial development of dairying on an efficient and scientific basis, a marked increase in local production of dairy feed, and an unprecedented activity in poultry raising have featured the current year in the Wichita Falls community as viewed by local seed and grain dealers.

The seriousness and care with which farmers and dairymen in this section have devoted themselves to the profitable operation of a dairying business stamps this industry as one of the most important and permanent in the Wichita Falls area, according to Ralph Maricle. Not only have dairy cows been selected much more carefully, with non-productive animals culled out, but much better attention has been given to the matter of feeding. According to Mr. Maricle, there is a remarkable increase in the amount of cow feed now being raised on farms in this vicinity, with owners of dairy cattle buying little prepared feed other than concentrates requisite to a balanced ration.

Among the feed crops now being raised, it was said that higera will be more prominent than in any former year, having replaced red-top cane in many fields. Its head was said to provide a more nutritive ration, and the stock is better suited as a hay food than that of the cane. There is also a considerable quantity of millet being grown this season, it was said.

Sales of feed for poultry have been far greater than in any preceding year, it was said, and the opinion was expressed that the number and size of poultry flocks in the vicinity of Wichita Falls represented a considerable increase over any former production.

KANSAS CITY, July 8. (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit was featured by continued activity on fed yearlings at firm to 25c higher prices. It was a different story on fed steers of medium and heavy weight with packers going very slow on such offerings at weak to lower values. Chicago received $11.50 for best heavy steers while at Omaha $11.25 was secured for choice 1450-pound beeves. Choice quality 943-pound yearling steers in Kansas City brought $11.25. Most Women Do That, Doctor

NEW YORK.—For better health in the good old summer time, women should shed their stockings, sleeves and corsets, according to Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, health commissioner. In addition, their shoes should be flat-heeled and skirts should hover above their knees.

"Bare legs are the only proper garb for hot weather," he says. "And I don't care whether the woman is fat or thin, bow-legged or knock-kneed, I still recommend the elimination of stockings and long skirts.

"It is time for woman to take a stand for comfort and convenience regardless of the fashion. It is time for them to take fashion into their own hands."

Junior C.-C. Sponsors Contest at Lakeside

Plans for selection of a bathing beauty to represent the Wichita Falls district at the Southwest Pageant of Pulchritude at Fort Worth on Sunday, July 20, were announced Tuesday by the Junior chamber of commerce, sponsors of a contest to be staged at Lakeside park on the night of Friday, July 18.

Young ladies of from 16 to 25 years, inclusive, residing in Wichita Falls, Electra, Iowa Park, Vernon, Burkburnett, Quanah, Childress, Charlie, Seymour, Henrietta, Archer City, Temple, Okla., Lawton, Altus and other towns in the Wichita Falls trade territory will be eligible to election as Miss Wichita Falls-Winners in the local contest will be rewarded as follows: first, $25 in cash and all expenses to participate in the contest at Fort Worth; second, $15 cash; third, $10 cash.

It was announced that the winner of the pageant at Fort Worth will receive a free round trip to Havana while eight other winners will receive prizes ranging from a free trip to Colorado to considerable cash prizes.

Conditions under which the contest here will be conducted were announced Tuesday by the Junior chamber of commerce and the Lakeside park management, which are handling the affair jointly. Each entrant must be sponsored by some merchant, who will furnish a bathing suit or beach costume for his entry and pay a $5 entrance fee. Chambers of commerce in nearby cities are being asked by those in charge to encourage entries from their respective communities.

Aspirants to places in the revue will be photographed without charge at Bartlett's studio, 710½ Ohio avenue, it was announced. A committee will confer with such entrants at the studio from 9 to 11:30 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., and from 7 to 9 p. m. daily beginning Wednesday, it was said. Girls wishing to enter will go to the Bartlett studio during those hours and have their pictures made.

Mayors of cities outside of Wichita Falls but in this territory will act as judges, but will have the aid, it was announced, of artists who are generally expected to be more familiar with the constituent qualities of feminine pulchritude than mayors.

Bill McKemie heads the committee in charge of the local pageant. He is being assisted by P. R. Freeman, Bert Ripley, Jack Jeffus, Ralph Pond, Jim Durnal and Fay Hooker. Publicity for the affair is being directed by Henry Penix, chairman, D. A. Kahn and L. G. Hodges.

Variety of Music On Optimist Club Program

A special number on the program for members of the Optimist club when they meet at the Kemp hotel Wednesday at 12:10 o'clock will be blues songs by Misses Ocille Perry and Belva Hanna, accompanied at the piano by Miss Leatrice Wolford, all of Electra. Talks will be given by Joe Hunt and W. R. Little Jr. An added attraction to the program will be vocal selections in English and Italian by Mrs. James R. Harvey.

Broadway, the Middle West and the West Coast hung out the S. R. O. sign for "The Big House," according to theatrical magazines. Its implied basis in the recent prison fire in Ohio is said to be largely responsible for the success of the picture. Somehow the public is like that. Movie producers are learning to capitalize on the day's news.

According to John Rosenfield Jr., dramatic critic for The Dallas News, "So This Is London" is at least 50 per cent better than "They Had to See Paris" because there is less ad-libbing in the latter. It was the clever, philosophical bit of humor which Will Rogers could not keep from dropping into the play which gave it the most human touch of all. If there is no ad-libbing, what is there?

It is really unfortunate that Fannie Brice and Harry Green cannot be under contract with the same company. The extreme care exercised in "Be Yourself" to prevent Harry from outshining Fannie prevented what could have been one of the most delightful series of dialogues yet known to comedy. The two should be given an opportunity to play together some time when not watched too jealously.

William Haines laments in an interview that custom in comedy has made him too much laughed at. "It's gotten so," he says, "that I can do a perfectly serious scene, and because people are in the habit of laughing at my clowning they laugh at the serious stuff too." Young Haines should go out for tragedy exclusively in that case. One of the saddest things I ever saw was his effort to be funny, and if he gets a laugh as Hamlet, why not give the idea a try?

500 Expected At Picnic for Shriners

Plans for the annual Shriners basket picnic to be held at Scotland park Wednesday, beginning at 6 o'clock, have been completed and approximately 500 members and their families are expected to attend, according to M. E. Walker, member of the program committee.

Entertainment will consist of athletic events and outdoor games including sack races, potato races and foot races. Prizes will be given to the winners in each event and separate contests will be held for ladies and men.

The opening event will be a soft ball game which will begin at 6:45 o'clock. Following the ball game dinner will be served after which the remainder of the evening will be spent in other outdoor games. Refreshments will be served at the end of the games. E. E. Fischer has charge of the arrangements.

THIRTY HURT IN TRAIN CRASH

None Seriously Injured In Texas Collision

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, July 8. (INS)—Thirty persons were slightly injured early today when Missouri Pacific passenger train, the Pioneer, collided head on with express train No. 14, of the same line, at Greta, seven miles north of Refugio.

Five of the injured were crew members. A quick checkup showed at least 25 passengers shaken up and some slightly bruised. None were seriously injured.

The Pioneer was headed westward, while No. 14 was en route to Houston from the valley when the collision occurred.

Cause of the crash has not been determined.

Additions Made To Vaudeville Program

Bunnenberg, park superintendent, include several selections of Hawaiian music by Jack Kukakuna and his pupils, a saxophone solo by Miss Billy Ralph Hver, selections by the Lions Club band under the direction of Leo M. Underwood, a vocal solo by R. A. Covington and a flapperette dance by Misses Peggy Jo Pond and Margaret Lee Harvey.

Advertising Club Installs New Officers at Luncheon Tuesday

Installation of Charles A. Spragins Jr., president, and other recently elected officers, featured Tuesday's meeting of the Advertising club at the Kemp hotel.

Installation of officers was preceded by a brief address by J. H. Allison, bespeaking for the club the best efforts of its chosen leaders, and for them the hearty support of the membership.

Other new officers installed were: Malcolm Putty, first vice president; Henry Ford, second vice president; Mrs. R. E. Davis, secretary; Lester Jones, treasurer; T. A. Bradley, Mrs. R. E. Davis, Don Ross, Charles A. Spragins Jr., and W. J. Daugherty, directors.

Mrs. R. E. Davis, advertising manager of the P. B. M. company, talked on advertising, likening the customer to "a misunderstood woman, married to no store, but attracted to the one which pleases her most." Advertising must be devised for that "misunderstood woman," Mrs. Davis said.

R. E. Shepherd announced that a bathing revue will be staged at Lakeside park on Friday, July 18, under the direction of the Junior chamber of commerce. Lester Jones gave the annual report of the club treasury.

THIS ADVERTISEMENT
is addressed to the motorist who has never said "Ethyl" to the Conoco salesman

WE realize that nothing we can say in this advertisement will cause you to prefer CONOCO Ethyl Gasoline if you haven't already tried it. For how can mere words describe so many things that you will notice with your first tank full of CONOCO Ethyl? The swift pick-up on formidable hills . . . the uncomplaining and instant unleashing of power when you accelerate . . . the utter absence of vexatious knocking . . . the infrequency of having to shift gears . . . ?

We want you to make up your own mind in this matter . . . make your own decision on these facts and one tank full of CONOCO Ethyl.

CONOCO Gasoline is as good as the choice crude from two billion gallons and modern refineries can make it. But we, its makers, tell you that Ethyl adds the final touch, the essential resistance to "knocking," so that you may enjoy the instant starting, the flashing acceleration, and the rushing power which each gallon of CONOCO Gasoline has for you.

Try your first tank full of CONOCO Ethyl at any Red Triangle Station. And then make up your mind. If CONOCO Ethyl doesn't sell itself to you, we will never urge you to try it again.
