IT'S WORK, NOT WANTING, WINS

It is all very well to whistle to keep up one's courage, but a blare of brass horns is not essential to our entering the arena of success.

Boys and girls who have finished college and are starting out for themselves need have no qualms because they come unannounced. If they see clearly, know what they are going to do, and want to do, and stick to it, there isn't any great doubt of success sooner or later.

The Fowler plane, the "Josephine Bird," went quietly to the Pole and back. Commander Byrd knew he was going, quietly worked and planned for months and did it quite as successfully as the Norge, which the press had advertised from the time it was a shipwreck.

Charabelle Barrett smiled at the publicity given other American swimmers. "I've been training all my life," she said quietly. "I should be able to do that." Without any bid for distinction in swimming the channel, she slid into the water and broke the record for women, to that date.

We pay too much attention to results. Successful precedents may be discouraging as they are inspiring. We pay too little attention to effort.

Could we look into stuffy offices, hot raising mills, and back street shops, we might find more real inspiration than in the biographies of steel magnates, railroad presidents and successful bankers. The thousands of embryo successes in process of consummation are as obscure now, most probably as the desert flowers.

I never believed much in the last part of the old saw about greatness. There may be some who have it thrust upon them, but not enough to take the breath to say it.

Singleness of purpose and hard work seldom meet with failure. Singleness of purpose may branch and flower when it reaches the bearing stage. That takes care of itself.

Young people starting on careers need not be discouraged because the horns announce that another winner

Menus For Today

Breakfast—Sliced bananas, cereal, thin cream, soft cooked eggs, crisp graham toast, marmalade, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Riced cauliflower, spinach and egg salad, stewed fresh apricot, whole wheat bread, milk, tea.

Dinner—Barn and potatoes en casserole, apple sauce, peach souffle with vanilla ice cream, graham bread, milk, coffee.

While casserole dishes seem at first thought to be a cold weather dish, rather than a hot weather convenience, second thought proves their worth for summer. They combine two or more dishes in one, saving cooking utensils as well as serving dishes. One fire only is needed for the combination dish, reducing the heat. And any casserole dish is ideal for a porch or garden dinner since it keeps hot a long time.

Riced cauliflower is an unusual and delicious dish.

Riced cauliflower. One head cauliflower, 3 tablespoons butter, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 8 small triangles of toast, 1 large green pepper.

Separate flowerets of cauliflower and let stand in cold salted water for one hour. Drain and rinse in clear cold water. Cook heads up in boiling salt water until tender, but not mushy. Do not cover sauce pan while cooking. Drain if necessary. In the meantime remove seeds and white pith from pepper. Parboil for five minutes, dip in cold water and rub off thin outer covering. Cut in rings. Put cauliflower

THREE SLAYERS PAY FOR CRIMES

Ohio's Electric Chair Snuffs Out Lives of Three After Brutal Murder Plot

(By The Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 2.—John Bryant, negro, Richard Rhoades and John Hedrick, white, all of Pomeroy were electrocuted in the Ohio penitentiary last night in expiration for the slaying of James McCumber near Pomeroy, March 15.

It was Ohio's first triple execution. Exactly 31 minutes after the first of the condemned men had been strapped in the electric chair, the third was pronounced dead.

Bryant, whom the other two said had paid them $50 to kill McCumber, went to his death first. A few minutes later Rhoades was electrocuted. Shortly after his body had been removed from the chair, Hedrick was strapped in.

The men died calmly, none of them professing innocence.

McCumber's murder had been termed "one of the most brutal of Pomeroy's 'hill of horrors.'" Fearing McCumber knew too much about his bootlegging activities Bryant hired Rhoades and Hedrick to "get rid" of him. Although Rhoades and Hedrick had been promised they "would never want" if they did the negro's bidding all they ever realized from their "job" was $36.

CARDS TAKE TWO FROM CUBS; GAIN LEAD ON RIVALS

RAIN AIDS SAINT LOUIS TOSSEURS IN HECTIC FIGHT FOR FLAG

(By the Associated Press) The St. Louis Cardinals today had a two-game margin over Cincinnati and three games over Pittsburgh in the National League race.

While the Cardinals were taking two games from Chicago, 2 to 0, and 9 to 1, rain halted the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati fray after three and a half innings yesterday. Rain also stopped the Boston-New York game, the only other contest scheduled in the league.

Alexander is Right Grover Alexander, former Cub ace, who was watered to the Cardinals in the middle of the season, shot out his former mates, 2 to 0, with three hits. Charley Root was touched for eight, Alexander's double, Douthitt's triple and Southworth's double provided the only runs of the game.

The Cubs hit them occasionally in the second game but Blake, Osborne and Huntzinger felt the power of the St. Louis war clubs with Southworth, O'Farrell and Hornsby leading the attack.

Chicago recorded the highest average in the past twenty years with .763 in 1906. The New York Yankees are leading their circuit today with .629.

Rain Halts American Rain again stopped hostilities among the leader in the American League. The Detroit Tigers defeated St. Louis, 5 to 3, in the only game played.

Manager McGraw has let Captain Frankie Frisch, star second baseman of the New York Giants, back into the fold at the expense of a $500 fine. The crack infielder must also stand the loss of his salary from August 22, when he left the club in St. Louis without notice.

Here's Suzanne

SUZANNE LENGLEN

At first glance you may not be able to tell just who this dark-haired person is—but on second thought it'll doubtless occur to you that it's none one else but Suzanne Lenglen, temperamental French tennis queen.

I have in mind the case of Max Carey of the Pittsburgh team, world champion. Pittsburgh acquired the title of world champions last fall by defeating Washington. No player was more responsible for the winning of baseball's greatest honor than Max Carey.

Less than a year has passed and Max Carey, the outstanding star of the 1925 world series, has been erased from the roster of the Pirates.

He has passed to Brooklyn over the wily route, as a result of certain differences with the powers-that-be of the Pittsburgh club.

Mistaken as to the way the affair has been characterized by President Heydler of the National League. So that ends it.

However, to Max Carey, for 16 years a valued member of the Pittsburgh team, the only club he has ever been affiliated with during his connection with the National League, it must remain a very unpleasant episode.

Let us get back to the world series of 1925 and review the performances of Max Carey.

Doped to perform brilliantly in the field, Carey led both teams at the bat with the fine average of .485, making 11 hits in 24 times at bat.

With the series standing 3-1 in favor of Washington, Carey helped greatly in putting over the second win for Pittsburgh by scoring two runs and making the same number of hits, in a 6-3 triumph.

In the game that evened up the series at three, Pittsburgh winning 3-2, Carey scored one of the trio of runs so necessary to victory.

It was in the deciding game of the play-off that Carey did his greatest work at the bat. In five trips to the plate against Walter Johnson, he made four hits, including three doubles. His final two-base hit played a big part in the winning of that memorable franchise.

COUNTRY CLUB TO HOLD GOLF TOURNEY HERE

QUALIFYING ROUNDS WILL START SATURDAY ON CLUB COURSE

Arrangements have been completed for the regular fall championship golf tournament of the Lubbock Country Club, it was announced by officials of the club here today, who said that suitable prizes will be offered both for the champion and runner-up.

Qualifying play is to get under way Saturday, Sept. 4 and will continue through Sunday, all scores to be for 18 hole metal play. All scores on the qualifying round must be turned in to Bowen's Drug Store not later than 7:30 Sunday evening, officials said.

In urging that every member of the club participate in the qualifying rounds, it is expected that at least 25 members will enter the first round, must be played some time during the two days mentioned above. The sixteen high scores will enter the tournament.

Pairings will be made late Sunday or early Monday morning. First elimination matches will begin next Monday, and will extend through Tuesday and Wednesday in order that all participants in the first round may have ample time to dispose of their opposition with whom they might be matched. All-match play will be for 18 holes.

Second elimination matches will be played Friday, Saturday or Sunday of the coming week, and semi-finals will be played Wednesday, Thursday or Friday, September 15, 16 or 17.

The championship match, which is to be 36 holes will be played Sunday, September 18, the first 18 holes to be played beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning, and the second 18 holes at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Members of the tournament committee of the club said this morning that there is a great possibility of a "dark horse" in the tournament, and they urge that every member of the club take part in the qualifying rounds at least.

The club holds some of the best golfers in this part of the state, and some hard contests are assured followers of the game.

MYSTERY WOMAN TRIES CHANNEL CRAIE-GRIS NEZ, France, Sept. 3. (AP)—A mystery woman entered the ranks of the channel aspirants today. Appearing suddenly here this morning and giving the name of Miss Mona MacLaren of England, she entered the water at 5:16 a. m. declaring she would attempt to set a new time record for the swim.

Speculation ran high as to her actual identity and there was a persistent rumor that she was a well known London physician who had trained three years at a secluded spot on the English coast in preparation for her try at the channel.

TEACHERS EXPECT GOOD GRID TEAM

SAN MARCOS, Texas, Sept. 3. (AP)—Working with tried material Coach Strahlin of Southwest Texas State Teachers college here is expected to develop an eleven that will bid determinedly for the 1926 title of the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association.

The Bobcats, however, have at his disposal at least one letter-mock for every position. Among the performers who are counted on to be the most consistent are the co-captains, Willis, end, and Lyons McCall, back. The line smashing of McCall was an outstanding feature of the 1925 season, as far as the Bobcats were concerned. Coach Strahlin is expecting even more brilliant play from McCall this season.

Among the other letter men are: centers, Bernard Biggs and Carroll Stevens; guards, Frank Arnold, Ben Britte, Henry Kallina, and Darby; tackles, Harroll Stevens and Robert Knipel; ends, Ill Kuykendall, and Claude Dailey; backs, Alfred Johnson, George Vest, Bailey Wright and Morton.

Two of the hardest contests of the Bobcats will be against "Deer" and Howard Payne Yellow Jackets and Coach Jack Meagher's St. Edward's University Saints, while the Bobcats also will be forced to play brilliantly to hold Coach Barry Holton's Trinity University Tigers.

The schedule: Sept. 25—South Texas Teachers college at Kingsville. Oct. 2—Stephen F. Austin State Teachers college at San Marcos. Oct. 9—Howard Payne university at San Marcos. Oct. 15—East Texas State Teachers college at San Marcos. Oct. 22—Trinity university at San Marcos. Oct. 30—St. Mary's at San Antonio. Nov. 5—St. Edward's university at Austin. Nov. 11—San Houston Normal at San Marcos. Nov. 18—North Texas State Teachers college, at Denton.

TEXANS LOSE IN FIRST NET FRAY

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 3. (AP)—After an erratic start, R. Norris Williams and Vincent Richards, defending champions won the first set of their semi-final match against Lewis N. White and Louis Thalhimer of Texas, in the National doubles tennis championship today, 6-4.

Costly mistakes on the part of Williams paved the way for a break through the service of the Davis cup captain in the fourth game, but the champions replied with a counter-break through White and then ran out the set with a streak of brilliant volleying.

COLEMAN LOSES TO J. A. PUTMAN IN LAND CASE J. A. Putman, defendant won a decision in the M. M. Coleman-J. A. Putman case, involving 60 acres of Lubbock county land, when a jury in civil district court returned a verdict favoring the defendant in all five special issues involved in the charge of the court.

The case, which was called to trial here the early part of the week, is now in its second hearing. It was tried here in August, 1924, when a verdict favored the plaintiff, Coleman, but this decision was reversed by the court of Civil Appeals, and the case remanded for a new hearing.

The special issues, which are given in substance, were answered as follows: 1. Was the sixty acres involved in the hearing the separate property of Johnny Mae Coleman at the time of the questioned transaction? The answer was yes.

2. Was the property involved claimed as a homestead by plaintiff at the time? The answer was no. 3. Did the plaintiff acknowledge deed given on the sixty acres involved on Jan. 29, 1921? The answer was yes.

4. Did the plaintiff acknowledge another deed given on the property August 26, 1921? The answer was yes. 5. Did the defendant agree to convey to plaintiff a deed to a section of land in New Mexico as payment for the sixty acres. The answer was no.

The case involved ownership of the sixty acre tract between Lubbock and the Carlisle community, and according to testimony offered by counsel for the defendant, the deed to the tract was given in payment of a section of New Mexico land that was to be delivered by defendant as soon as he had secured a patent. Defendant claimed the deed was surrendered as payment of a certain number of cattle sold to plaintiff.

Church Work To Be Stressed In City

Plans are being made by the various churches of Lubbock to interest the school boys and girls in church attendance and work this winter, according to pastors of the various churches. A large number of young people will come to Lubbock within the next month to attend the public schools and the Tech college. Student secretaries and other workers will meet with these young men and women to increase their interest in church activities.

Tough on Veterans The season of 1926, by the way, will go down in baseball history as a mighty tough one on veteran stars.

The fate of Max Carey simply serves as a climax to a most unusual year in the national pastime for many of the stars who have done much to create the present popularity of the game.

DIAMOND DISPUTES DECIDED By BILLY EVANS

Pitcher tries to intentionally pass batsman, who steps across the plate and hits the ball safely. What is the ruling?

When a batsman steps out of his box, across the plate and hits a ball delivered by the pitcher, he is automatically out for so doing, whether the hit is fair or foul.

Only recently in an American League game at New York Babe Ruth was called out by Umpire Owens on such an act.

At the time there were runners on second and third and two out. The pitcher was trying to pass Babe, filling the bases, offering a play at each base and taking a chance that the man to follow Ruth would be easier to dispose of than the Babe.

Dempsey Bounces Show Girls Off Ring Tunney Gets Under Way In Fight Camp Jack Snubs Old Friend, Jim Dougherty

Jack Snubs Old Friend, Jim Dougherty (By The Associated Press) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 3. Cabarets are barred from Jack Dempsey's training camp hereafter.

Arriving at his ring yesterday he found the stage monopolized by a dozen or so show girls, dancing in skin tight bathing suits to the tunes of a jazz band.

Dempsey promptly ordered the entertainers off the platform. "I'm sorry about the whole affair," Dempsey said today. "That sort of thing has no place in a training camp. My camp is not a cabaret. It wasn't by my authority that they appeared here."

Dempsey declined to comment on the outbreak of Jimmy Dougherty of Philadelphia, referee, once a warm friend, whom he refused to greet when they met in the offices of Mayor Baker yesterday. They met by accident. Dempsey turned his back, remarking: "He's no friend of mine."

Dougherty protested bitterly after the incident and related at length a story of favors done the champion. He said he had refused an offer of a "staggering amount of money" to give the decision to Tommy Gibbons, or declare the bout a draw, when the St. Paul heavyweight fought Dempsey in Shelby, Montana, three years ago.

The offer, he said, came from a New York gambler. Dougherty and Dempsey have been cool towards each other since Dempsey split with his former manager, Jack Kearns. Dempsey feels Dougherty sided with Kearns. Dougherty referred three fights for Dempsey.

Tunney Starts Work STROUSSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3. (AP)—Gene Tunney, fighter and golfer, is training for his next fight at the club house of the Glenbrook Golf club.

There is a heavyweight chef in the kitchen, George Rumberger weighs almost as much as Tunney and Dempsey combined.

The club house is in the midst of an attractive nine hole golf course and Tunney plans to play often. His normal gains is around 25.

Tunney got no golf on his first day in his new camp. Rain kept him in doors all day except for a short walk.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

Flying Fish. By AUSTIN M. CLARK, Smithsonian Institution.

Do flying fish really fly? Thousands of people every year ask this simple question. In fact it is always being discussed and has always been under discussion ever since man first sailed the seas.

Every sailor knows that flying fishes wings move, for he has seen them move and heard them hum. Nothing but the fish could move them, and therefore the sailor says that the fish does move them and consequently flies after the manner of a bird.

Others say the flying fishes do not fly because they cannot. The muscles about the base of the wing-like fins, though large and strong, are merely used to keep the wings extended and serve no other purpose.

Pure Theory. The sailor retorts that this is pure theory and not to be considered in the light of the observed fact that the wings are actually moved.

Both sides support their views with all sorts of arguments from the realms of biology, anatomy and marine mythology, and the discussion always comes to rest exactly where it started.

In the contentions both sides are partly right. It has been shown that flying fishes fly so far that their flight cannot be explained on the basis of the original impetus alone.

Fin's Move. No one who has ever seen them at close quarters can doubt the movement of their fins. Therefore, while flying-fishes are mainly gliders, their flight to some extent is aided by the movement of their fins.

They often fly aboard ships when the sea is rough, and especially at night. Once on a very stormy trip from Japan to Honolulu numbers came aboard, mostly at night. Our sailors were always on the lookout for them, as they are excellent as food.

If you cut a flying fish open in the dark it inside gleam with phosphorescent light coming from the numerous little luminous creatures of the sea which it has eaten.

Young girls seem especially predisposed to serious symptoms following the inhalation of benzine, as are also pregnant women. A person who is becoming gradually poisoned with this substance is likely to complain first of headache, dizziness, loss of appetite, ready fatigue and general weakness.

Later, there may be nausea and vomiting and sensations of chilliness, with bleeding from the nose and mouth or other mucous membranes. Sometimes bloody spots appear beneath the skin.

Affects Nerve. If the course is very gradual the nervous system may also be affected and serious disturbances of sensation and locomotion may develop. The significant change in the body is the manner in which the benzine attacks the blood. The number of white blood cells begin to decrease and simultaneously there is a breaking up of the red blood cells.

Just as soon as this condition is diagnosed, the person should change his employment, preferably to open-air work, since the important factor is to remove him from contact with the poison. The physician will treat the severe cases of poison by rest, fresh air and sunshine, and by food substances planned particularly to build up the blood system. If the case is extremely severe, it is sometimes desirable to transfuse blood so as to supply the deficiency promptly.

Women Auto Drivers. Police in Berlin no longer try unofficially to discourage women from taking the difficult tests for automobile drivers' license there. Several motor vehicle districts have praised women as drivers, saying they are usually more careful than men, although as a general rule they are either "hopeless" or "excellent" with no in-between class.

THE VANITY CASE

BY CAROLYN WELLS COPYRIGHT 1926 N.E.A.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MRS PRENTISS sees mysterious lights in the Heath household next door one night and the next day...

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN, heir to Myra's fortune and BUNNY MOORE, beautiful, vivacious, to whom suspicion points because of her strange actions.

Myra Heath never used cosmetics, never wore colors, yet when her body was found she was heavily rouged. She was a collector of glass, and it was a rare old bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her.

The strange thing about Heath's disappearance is that the windows and doors were locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning. Fingerprints of Bunny and Inman were found on the bottle.

At the Country Club the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency, AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others.

Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Heath. He phones her again, saying Inman is the murderer. Bunny faints under a grilling by DETECTIVE MOTT, and Inman confides to Buck that he saw Bunny ascending the stairs after the murder.

Anderson invites Cunningham to his house and there, while waiting for his host, Cunningham is suddenly confronted by Perry Heath, who disappears as mysteriously as he had appeared.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Buck was still as death, ruminating on what he had heard. He was almost sure Bunny said "putty," but that seemed absurd, and he thought, she might have said, "putty" or "party."

But now their voices had sunk much lower, they talked on, but with more care lest they be overheard.

Tod became cramped and cold, waiting as he crouched behind a tree.

Also he became disgusted with himself. True, he had come from pure motives, but he couldn't think it right to continue to spy on Bunny and her lover, as he had now concluded the man must be.

Then suddenly Bunny's voice rang out: "I don't believe it! They'd never take me! They'd never convict me! It wouldn't be possible!"

Not a word of the man's speech could Tod detect, but next Bunny said: "Yes, it all Emma's fault. I knew Emma would tell! Oh, why did I do it? I am a wicked girl!"

Then, it was evident the man tried to soothe her, to comfort her, but Tod turned away, sick at heart.

Whoever the man was, he was talking about the murder. And Bunny had said she did it. And said Emma had told—oh, well, there was small room for doubt now.

Buck began carefully to retrace his steps, and go back home, when he heard the others rise and start homewards also.

"You'll catch cold dear," the man said, solicitously. "Why didn't you wear a wrap?"

"I'm not cold," Bunny said, walking by his side. "But I wish I knew what to do. You haven't helped me a bit—"

"Oh yes I have. I've showed you how to save your own neck—and, unless you look sharp, you'll have that to do. I'm sorry, dear, you have such a hard task ahead of you—I wish I could help you—openly. But I can't. The only thing I can do is to advise you; and Bunny, you must, you must follow my advice."

"I will," she said, humbly, now, and the two walked on, passing within a few feet of Buck as he stood, motionless, and watched them go by.

The man, he could see him better now, was of medium height, medium weight, and with no distinguishing peculiarity of gait or bearing.

It seemed to Tod that he might or might not have seen him before, it was a figure not easy to identify, unless more clearly seen.

Yet he cared little who the man might be. He was so captivated by the self-evident fact that he was an intimate friend of Bunny's that it made small difference what his name was.

After a few more steps Bunny evidently forbade the man to go further with her on her homeward way and with obvious reluctance the man paused and stood watching her as she went on alone.

Dear little Bunny: she stepped out bravely and Tod fairly yearned to run after her and go on by her side. But something held him back. First, he was not at all sure she would welcome such an attention, and also, because some instinct told him to follow the man. To track him down and find out who he was and what he was up to.

At first indifferent, Tod felt a growing impulse to trail him home or wherever he was bound for.

So, knowing Bunny could get in at the unlocked door of his aunt's house, Buck stayed behind and waited on the movements of the other.

He realized that Bunny might lock him out, but there were back windows and low verandah roofs that had before this afforded him a belated ingress.

So, as the strange man began slowly to walk away Buck followed him, silently and steadily.

Now and then Tod's feet stepped too audibly on a twig or stone, but the other did not look round, and the stealthy, silent chase continued.

Until suddenly, as an unavoidable misstep, Buck stumbled, and the other turned about sharply.

They were out of the wood shadows now and Toddy saw to his amazement that the man was Perry Heath!

He nearly fell over in astonishment, but not pausing to think about it, he continued pursuit, expecting every minute he would be told to halt.

But no, Heath went straight ahead, and roused to excitement by the spirit of the chase, Buck steadily followed.

He was not quite sure whether or not Heath had seen him, or if so, had recognized him, but he trudged along not quite so careful now to walk unheard.

For he planned an interview with the man he was pursuing. He was only waiting for a few moments more to think what he should say to him, and then he meant to overtake him with a few long strides and make him give an account of himself. A man cannot disappear from the scene of a tragedy and then secretly reappear and be seen by a good and honest citizen without being called to account.

So Buck kept on, and then, thinking the time ripe prepared for his onslaught.

They were near another, smaller piece of woods now, and even as Tod made up his mind to call out, Heath—if it was he—turned with a quick jerk, plunged into the wood, and in a few seconds was lost to view.

Tod raced after him but the wood was full of undergrowth and fallen trees. There were roots and branches all over the ground and, after a few stumbling steps, Buck realized he could never catch his quarry.

With a muttered bad word he stood a moment and then seeing its utter hopelessness, gave up the chase and went home.

The front door was still unlocked, and not knowing for certain that Bunny had come in, he left it unlocked and went up to his room.

There he sat, for several hours, mulling over the matter, and when at last he turned in, a few uneasy naps was all the sleep he could command.

Registrar Dohoney Works Out A New Plan To Aid Deserving Students In Quest For Jobs; Cooperation Asked

A new method of handling student employment, which will be beneficial to students as well as the merchants of Lubbock, has been worked out by Registrar E. L. Dohoney of the Texas Technological College, according to an announcement from the registrar's office today. The chief object of the new plan is to secure student employees for local merchants without the nuisance on the part of the merchant of being approached by all of the hundreds of students who are seeking employment.

Under the plan adopted by the registrar's office, the student seeking employment will make application through the registrar, by filling out a questionnaire. The questionnaire when filled out will give the class of work desired, former experience qualifications, personal information, etc. Then, when a merchant puts in his call for a student employee, the list will be gone through and one of the number best fitted for the place will be recommended.

Merchants To Aid
The merchants also have some part in the plan, and they are asked to cooperate at once by notifying the registrar's office of the nature of the work they have open for students. An attempt has been made by committees appointed by the local civic clubs to cope with this situation, but a great deal of dissatisfaction is said to have resulted. The large number of students which are arriving daily are becoming a nuisance to the merchants in their attempts to find work. At the same time, it is said that some of the boys applying for work have never been called in the Tech as students, and have no intention of doing so.

Jobs To Be Listed
The registrar's office also gave out the statement that the lists of jobs submitted by the local clubs have sometimes proven unreliable. If these clubs, or the merchants individually, will co-operate by listing their jobs with the registrar, it is believed that the work will be simplified. Students desiring employment are requested to write to E. L. Dohoney, chairman of the employment committee for application blanks. Lubbock merchants, or others having need of students, are also asked to list their needs with the registrar's office.

STAGE SET FOR COLLEGE PROGRAM

Everything is in readiness now for the banquet for ex-students and prospective students of the Texas Technological College according to C. W. Ratliff, president of the student association, who, with Harry Montgomery, is in charge of the affair.

Approximately one hundred reservations for plates had been made at noon today, and others are expected before tonight.

The program of the evening, to begin at 8 o'clock, will include the banquet held in the banquet room of the Hotel Lubbock, with toasts from various students of last year to the college, to athletics, to the faculty, to the future of the Tech, and of such nature an address by Dean J. M. Gordon as a special feature and a generally rally of the Tech student body.

Reservations are being made for $1.10 per plate, Ratliff said.

Immediate following the banquet, opened for the first time to the public, the roof garden of the hotel will be used for an all-college dance to be held there, with the Tech student orchestra furnishing the music.

Got Mixed Up

NEW YORK—Perhaps Marie Kryl's $100,000 Greek fiancée is a bit unfamiliar with the English alphabet. Anyhow the Chicago pianist was kept waiting nearly an hour at the pier for Spiro Hadji-Kyriakos, coming from abroad. He failed to appear under the proper letter for examination by customs agents. Now that Dad Kryl has relented and decided not to make Marie forfeit $100,000 for marrying, wedding bells will ring shortly at Tarpon Springs, Fla.

Change Is Made

NEW YORK—"Tom Taggart" has been changed to "Sam Maddock" in Edna Ferber's book. Says the new edition, revised upon the politician's demand: "Next week we will run down to West Baden. . . . In the evening we can take a whirl at Sam Maddock's layout. . . . Last time we were down I won a thousand at roulette alone."

TC-5 LANDS IN ST. LOUIS, O. K.

New Blimp Flies Over Much of Middle West, Dodging Two Electrical Storms

(By The Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2.—The army blimp TC-5 landed at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., near here shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, after riding around two thunder and electrical storms during the night.

Lieutenant W. A. Gray and his crew considered the night's trip from Dayton, Ohio uneventful, they said, with the exception that it was "interesting flying around the storms." The storms and the lightning did not injure the blimp.

The ship, after it had left Dayton shortly before 4 p. m., central standard time yesterday, carried 30 hours of gas. A total mileage of about 250 was recorded with an average speed of about 35 miles.

Although the ship had not been sighted since about 8:30 last night when it passed over Terre Haute, Indiana, Lieutenant Gray reported that the blimp was navigated at a height of about 1,000 or 1,500 feet over most of the route.
