Petition filed to suspend Bryant

County Attorney Clay Strange presented a petition to District Judge Weldon Kirk on Thursday requesting that Mitchell County Sheriff Wendell Bryant be removed from office, at least temporarily.

Present at the presentation of the petition, in addition to Kirk and Strange, was San Angelo attorney Bradley Miles, representing Bryant.

After studying the petition, Kirk signed an order instructing the district clerk to issue a citation and have Bryant presented with that citation.

The effect of issuing the citation is to put into effect a lawsuit with the purpose of removing Bryant from office.

Bryant's attorney waived the presentation of the citation, and took the responsibility upon himself to see that Bryant received it, and that Bryant responds within five days.

A hearing will be held on Tuesday, June 25, at 11 a.m. to determine whether Bryant will be suspended. A visiting judge, retired District Court Judge Ray L. McKim from Midland, will preside over that hearing.

Bryant, who is 39 years old, has served as Mitchell County's sheriff since 1981. He is due to seek reelection in 1992.

Approximately three weeks ago, according to Strange, he learned of certain actions allegedly taken by the sheriff which seemed to indicate official misconduct and incompetency.

Upon further investigation, Strange determined that Bryant's physical condition, exacerbated by diabetes, might have a bearing on his actions, and offered Bryant the opportunity to take a sick leave of absence to deal with his problems.

Bryant was agreeable to the proposal at first, Strange said, but returned to work after several days. At that time, Strange said, he felt obligated to proceed with the petition seeking the sheriff's temporary removal from office.

Among allegations contained in the petition are that Bryant intentionally subjected numerous female employees to sexual harassment, and that he engaged in unwelcomed and unsolicited verbal and physical conduct of a sexual nature which the employees were afraid to report, or even to complain of, for fear of losing their jobs.

The petition also alleges that Bryant touched, squeezed, and kissed one or more of the female employees of the Mitchell County Sheriff's Department, that he has on occasion run his hand up their inner thighs, and that he has made inappropriate contact with at least one female employee of the county other than an employee of the sheriff's department. On at least one occasion, this unwelcome touching has allegedly resulted in Bryant's bruising of the leg of one of his female co-workers.

It is alleged that Bryant has allowed his 12-year-old daughter to drive his county-owned patrol car

Prison escapee
found in Florida

Price Daniel Prison escapee Travis Dale Gray, who was to have been the subject of an upcoming episode of "Unsolved Mysteries," apparently has been apprehended in Largo, Florida, according to published news reports.

He was using the alias Steve Binyon when arrested.

Gray, who escaped on June 20, 1990, was serving a 40-year sentence for the murder of his first wife, Tammy Lynn Gray.

Officials hope to have Gray extradited to Texas where he now also faces a charge of escape in Scurry County.

The television episode, which was to have aired sometime within the next month, was filmed in part in Mitchell County, near Colorado City Lake, where Gray's wife was drowned.

Hospital board
postpones decision

The board of directors of Mitchell County Hospital met on Thursday night in a called meeting, with the intent of hearing a revised proposal from Valley Fair Lodge employee Sammy Contreras as to how money could be saved by the hospital without the necessity of contracting out the housekeeping services.

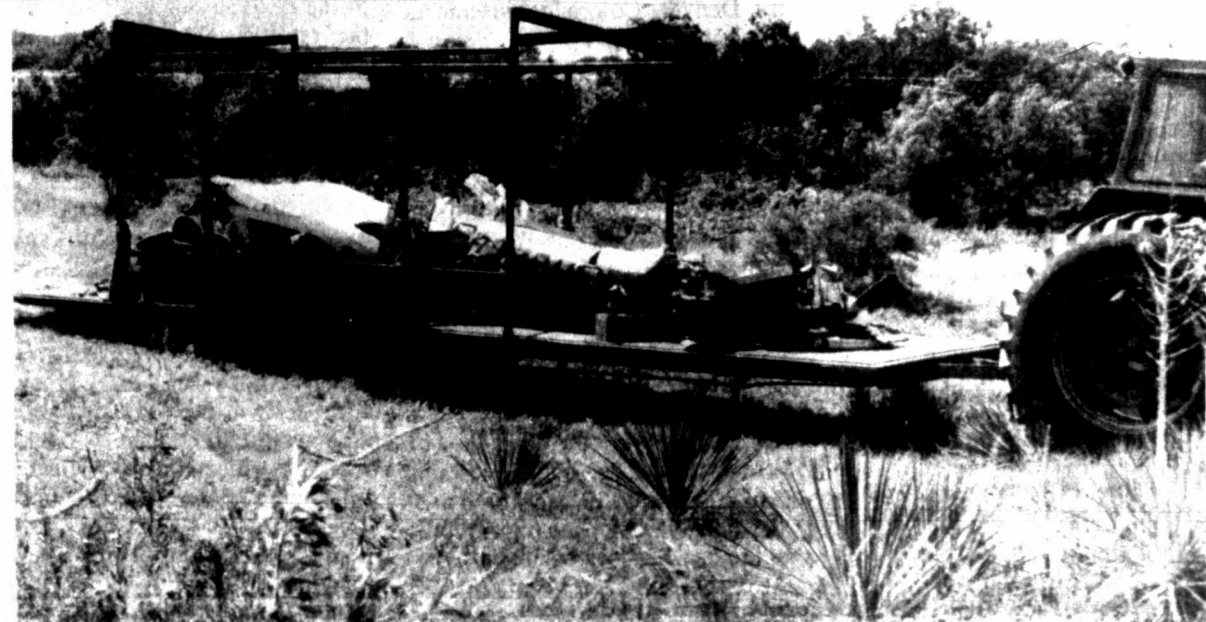

After hearing from Contreras, whose presentation followed repeats of presentations previously made by Ed Levesque of Pioneer Maintenance and by Ed Golden of Commercial Janitorial Supply, the board still did not reach a final decision as to how housekeeping services would be handled.

Board members decided to take time to study all proposals before making that very important decision, which will affect many people.

Archaeological dig takes place in county

An archaeological dig took place on Wednesday in Colorado City, on the banks of Lone Wolf Creek, where the bones of a prehistoric bison, along with three spear points, were found in 1924 by Nelson Vaughn, a Colorado City resident of the time.

A paper was subsequently written, in 1925, by an archaeologist named Harold Cooke, concerning the find. In that paper, Cooke made the claim that the presence of the spear points in that circumstance proved the existence of humans in the New World during the Pleistocene Period, a time far earlier than previously had been believed.

For various reasons, however, neither Cooke, his premise, nor his article, which appeared in the prestigious Journal of Science, were taken seriously by the scientific community.

First of all, the bones, when being shipped to the Denver, Colorado Museum of Natural History, had actually been broken by the shippers in order to fit them into boxes which were too small!

Also, the three spear points had been removed from the site, and one of them had disappeared altogether. The remaining two were finally shipped under separate cover from the broken bones.

It was not until somewhat later, in Folsom, New Mexico, when bison bones and artifacts were found eroding from yet another creek bed, that the idea of New World Man in the Pleistocene Period became credible.

Archaeologists now refer to the Folsom, New Mexico find, which was excavated correctly, as the definitive find for the proof of that idea, even though the Lone Wolf Creek find was the earlier of the two.

The team of scholars who visited Lone Wolf Creek on Wednesday, under the leadership of David J. Meltzer, PhD, from Southern Methodist University's Department of Anthropology, hoped to re-discover the site of that original bison kill, using photographs taken by Nelson Vaughn, the original finder.

DIG

Vaughn, incidentally, eventually went on to make his life's work at the Denver, Colorado Museum of Natural History.

His photographs depicted views near and along Lone Wolf Creek, together with notations regarding their locations in reference to the site of the find. One photograph, which was taken facing north from the south side of Lone Wolf Creek, showed houses and a windmill which were still standing just as they were when the picture was taken.

Meltzer, along with Vance T. Holliday, an associate professor and soil scientist from the University of Wisconsin; and graduate assistants Garry Running, Andrea Freeman, and Valentina Martinez, spent most of the day Wednesday down along the banks of Lone Wolf Creek, along with Colorado City Mayor Jim Baum, who is a local historian and fellow Lone Wolf Creek enthusiast.

Meltzer met Baum on a previous trip to Colorado City last year, before learning of the existence of the photographs taken from the site. At that time Meltzer was unable to find the site, and he knew that Baum's expertise and familiarity with the area would be valuable in the current search.

Indeed, Baum was able to pinpoint the location of structures shown in one of the pictures, and therefore was able to lead the group to the general location from which the photograph must have been taken. It was much more difficult than they had thought it would be, however, to reach the site.

In the years between 1924 and 1991, a veritable forest had grown up on the banks of Lone Wolf Creek, complete with thick underbrush, thorns, thistles, and mesquite.

In addition, recent heavy rains had muddied the banks and raised the level of the water in the creek.

In spite of the obstacles, just at noon, the tired, hungry, and muddy searchers discovered what they believed to be the actual site of that long-ago find.

Before beginning the dig, the group accepted an invitation to the Rotary Club luncheon meeting. There they were able to relax and talk about what they were doing, and about why they were covered with dirt and scratches.

Fortified, they returned to the site, but despite industrious digging, they were unable to discover any further evidence of the prehistoric bison kill at that time.

Meltzer's tentative plans are to return at a later time, possibly in the fall or winter, when the river might be lower and the vegetation not quite so thick.

He is not certain whether any evidence remains, but he is still interested in the site, which he says is of great scientific significance, as well as of great importance for Mitchell County.

on public streets and highways, a misapplication of the vehicle in his possession by virtue of his office.

As grounds for showing that Sheriff Bryant is incompetent, the petition alleges that Bryant has had to receive in-hospital care on a number of occasions for treatment of his diabetic condition or its manifestations.

During this time, the petition continues, he has failed to appoint anyone to act in his stead, has given orders not to divulge his whereabouts, and has even given orders that mail could not be opened - frequently resulting in inmates within the jail not being able to receive mail from friends, families, or even their lawyers.

The petition alleges that on one such occasion, Deputy Jimmy Frank Sanders essentially took it upon himself to take charge and see that the inmates received their mail.

When Bryant returned, the petition continues, he treated Sanders with such disdain and vengefulness that Sanders eventually resigned.

The petition alleges even that Bryant at times had his office ignore criminal and civil papers, including writs, subpoenas and other potentially "time of the essence" documents.

The petition alleges that Bryant's diabetes may have progressed to such an extent that his judgment, his sense of propriety, his sense of correctness and his ability to conform to societal norms have been seriously impaired.

Bryant's mood has altered rapidly from inappropriate happiness or giddiness to sadness and tearfulness, the petition alleges, and even to anger and rage. The petition also alleges that Bryant has revealed all manner of private details of his life to all who would listen, even to casual work acquaintances, almost all of whom were female.

The petition also makes mention of the fact that Bryant was advised of the complaints against himwell in advance of the petition's being filed, and that he was offered the opportunity of placing himself on sick leave for 60 days or more, and of seeking treatment to remedy the kind of behavior which had generated the complaints.

In light of the fact that Bryant refused the offer of sick leave, and continued to report to duty, the petition was submitted, containing the request that he be temporarily suspended and that another person be appointed to perform the duties of the office.

Strange indicated in his petition that it was possible that criminal charges may be brought against the sheriff in the near future, and that his remaining in office might prove an awkward situation in that event.

In addition, Strange said there was a possibility that if Bryant were allowed to remain in office pending the hearing, he might well take action to retaliate against the individuals who brought the complaints against him.

Bryant made no statement in response to the allegations. He reported to work on Friday morning.

HOSPITAL

Alford said that it is his desire, and the desire of the board members, to do everything in their power to save the hospital money, while maintaining the good will of the community as well as the hospital's tradition of excellence.

He presented board members with a study done by a national statistical data firm which shows that the housekeeping expenses of Mitchell County Hospital are approximately twice as high as comparable hospitals within the survey.

The housekeeping budget is an obvious place to save the hospital money, according to that survey, and the presentations of Contreras, Levesque, and Golden, all seem to do just that.

There are complications, however, such as the fact that one maintenance firm, although it might charge less, does not include yard maintenance in its proposal; or the fact that the present hospital housekeeping staff has been relied on to do such things as assist in physical therapy and remove casts.

Contreras, in his presentation, mentioned these extra services, along with the fact that present hospital staff members perform maintenance and purchase items from time to time with their own money.

He offered to forfeit any future overtime payments he might earn, and offered to continue with maintenance work at Valley Fair Lodge, and even at the hospital itself if need be; if board members would decide to keep the housekeeping staff as in-house employees.

Both of the contractors whose proposals are under consideration have indicated that they would attempt to hire and retain as many of the present housekeeping employees as possible.

At the board's next meeting, after members have had time to consider all of the proposals thoroughly, they hope to make a final decision.

That meeting is scheduled to take place on Tuesday, June 25 at 6 p.m.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This letter is to praise the school system for a program that seems very worthwhile and I'm sure very needed in our community. It seems that we don't do enough for our children and young people and this is a program that puts them all first, something that we sometimes neglect to do.

I attended this last Tuesday, June 11, with 2 of my grandchildren and the program was well attended.

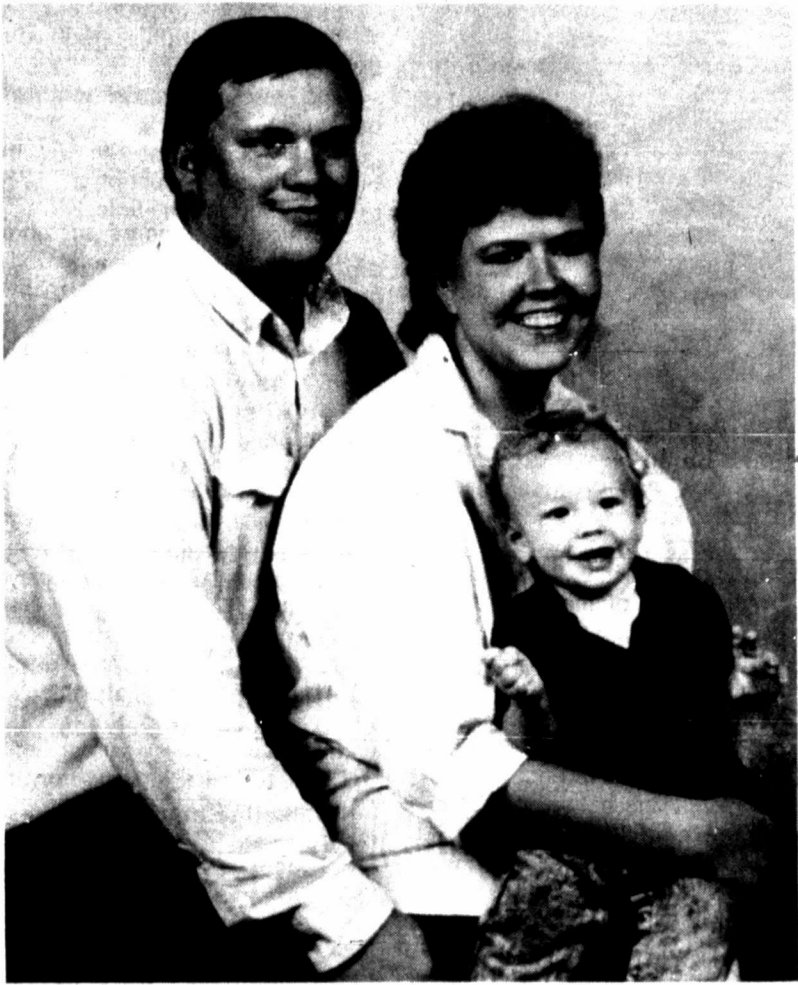

There were approximately 100 children and about 5 adults to attend.

During the time we were waiting for the lunchroom to open there were some children outside. Among these, 1 girl about 8 or 9 years old was eating a piece of hard candy. The girl started to choke, at which time some of the other children began to laugh because they thought she was playing around. She was not. I went to assist this child (my training for nurse's aid came in handy) and finally got her to spit this piece of candy up which was lodged deep in her throat. Such a worthwhile program should have some kind of monitor when children start to arrive, as there are not many adults that accompany these children. When I got the child to talk, she told me her name. In my anxiety, I did hear her first name but Gutierrez was her last. We could have had a disaster had this child gone unassisted. As before I praise this program and commend the school for something much needed.

Thanks,
Monica Chavez

LEGAL

Notice of Integ by Mitchell County Commissioners Court to Reapportion County Commissioners Precincts

The Federal Voting Rights Act requires county commissioner courts to meet certain requirements and in order to be in compliance with the Federal statute, the Mitchell County Commissioners Court has determined that new commissioner precinct lines need to be established.

The County plans to provide opportunity for all persons in the community to participate in the process by which the final boundary lines will be drawn. Comments, suggestions, and proposed plans are welcome. A public hearing on reapportioning commissioner precincts will be held on Wednesday, June 19, 1991 at 6 p.m.

Maps of the proposed plan may be examined at the County Courthouse and copies may be obtained for the cost of reproduction.

Any persons or group that wishes to submit a proposed redistricting plan for the commissioners court's consideration should submit the plan to the county clerk on or before June 18, 1991 so that the plan may be inspected prior to the public hearing to be held on June 19. The following criteria will be used by the commissioners court in assessing plans for adoption.

1. Any plan should not operate to dilute the voting strength of racial or language minority citizens.

2. Any plan should not fragment minority communities or pack them into districts in concentrations greater than needed to elect minority representation.

3. Any plan should be drawn to conform with geographic boundaries utilized by the Bureau of the Census in the 1990 census to the extent possible unless other reliable sources are used.

4. Any plan should be based on 1990 census data unless it can be shown that other more reliable sources were used.

5. Any districts should be composed of territory that is contiguous and reasonably compact.

6. Any plan, to the extent possible, should preserve historical boundaries, and should recognize clearly identifiable economic or community interests.

These criteria should be followed in any redistricting plans submitted for the County's consideration.

If anyone or groups would like to submit a plan or make comments or suggestions, the County is very much interested in receiving them for consideration during the redistricting process. Please feel free to call Judge Ray Mayo at 915-728-8439 if you have questions about the redistricting process.

Water Storage Facility being constructed through the Great Plains Conservation Program.

Cost-sharing aids conservation practices

The Great Plains Conservation Program is a long term program to assist Farmers and Ranchers by cost-sharing conservation practices. Contracts can range from a minimum of 3 years to a maximum of 10 years.

Cost-shared practices on cropland include diversions, terraces, waterways, wind stripcropping, and subsurface drain. Cost-shared practices on pasture and rangeland includes brush control, prescribed burning, ponds, fencing, pasture planting, range seeding, livestock pipeline, livestock well, and water storage facilities. Conservation practices are cost-shared from 50% - 75% of cost.

Farmers that need terraces or waterways on their farms to stay in compliance with the provisions of the 1985 Farm Bill should consider the Great Plains Program to assist with those practices. For more information contact the Soil Conservation Service in the G-kell Building or call 728-3473.

All USDA programs are available without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, marital status, or handicap.

Ag credit policies to be discussed

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Congressman Charles W. Stenholm (D-TX) is encouraging area farmers and ranchers, as well as all other interested parties, to participate in an agricultural credit field hearing in Lubbock, Texas, on June 17, 1991.

The U.S. House of Representatives Agriculture Subcommittee on Conservation, Credit, and Rural Development will begin the hearing at 9:00 a.m. at the Livestock facility located on the Texas Tech University campus at the corner of Indiana Avenue and Brownfield Highway.

"Throughout this Congressional Session, the Subcommittee will be reviewing and deliberating issues surrounding current agricultural credit policies," Stenholm said.

"Participation in this hearing will help shape the direction of future programs designed to ensure efficient and effective agricultural credit for Texas producers," he added.

Due to the large number of individuals and groups interested in testifying, available time is extremely limited. However, written testimony can be submitted for the official record. Those wishing to submit written remarks, should send them to the Subcommittee on Conservation, Credit and Rural Development, 1430 Longworth House Office Bldg., Washington, D.C. 20515. The Subcommittee can be contacted for questions by calling 202-225-0301.

Plant problems tour set

Many home owners are experiencing problems with plants in the landscape and garden at this time of year. The recent rains have alleviated some problems but have caused some others. In order to try to answer some questions homeowners have about plant problems, the Mitchell County Extension Service will sponsor a plant problems tour on Thursday, June 27, 1991.

The day long tour will consist of traveling to homes to see the actual problems. Homeowners who have problems with their lawns, trees, shrubs or the garden are encouraged to call the Extension office at 728-3111 and get your home on the tour schedule.

Two specialists from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be on hand to determine causes of problems and suggest methods to remedy each particular situation. The specialists are Dr. Thomas Lee, plant pathologist from Stephenville and Dr. Tom Fuchs, entomologist from San Angelo. Both specialists have served as resource persons on this tour before and have an excellent knowledge of plant disease and insect pest.

In years past, the range of problems has varied greatly. If you have any questions about what might be the matter with a sick plant, call the Extension office so the tour can go by your house.

Please call the office by Monday, June 24 so a schedule can be made.
