Miss SeaFair, gumbo cookoff, racing crabs

Rockport's ready for annual festivities

By PAT BLAIR
Managing editor

Months of preparation will come to a climax Saturday with the beginning of Rockport's ninth annual SeaFair, expected to be the biggest and best yet.

The two-day event, moved this year to the end of Rockport's mile-long beach, will kick off with the traditional parade through the downtown area. More than 50 floats and the high school bands competing in the SeaFair Music Festival will be among features of the parade that will begin at 10:30 a.m.

The Rockport Pilot will publish a special SeaFair section with the Oct. 8 weekend edition. Included in the section will be a map of the SeaFair grounds plus SeaFair schedule for both days and a listing of exhibitors' and food tents.

At noon the SeaFair arts and crafts exhibits will open, along with the food booths offering a variety of seafood for those who want to enjoy lunch — or snacks — on the grounds. Shrimp will be available ranging from fried to barbecued, on kabobs or skewers, with or without rice, plain and in gumbo and tacos, but the food booths, sponsored by local civic and church organizations, will also offer crabs, fish, sno cones, cakes and pies and — for the truly adventurous — shark.

The second annual Corpus Christi-to-Rockport Sailing Regatta will begin at noon in Corpus Christi with the entries expected to arrive in Rockport around 4 p.m. In the meantime, SeaFair-goers will be entertained by such events as skydivers at 1:30 p.m., the annual crab races at 2 p.m., an air/sea rescue demonstration at 3:30 p.m. and a program by the Shapemakers at 4 p.m.

Justin Wilson, nationally-known Cajun humorist who will serve as grand marshal of the SeaFair parade and entertain during the selection of the first Miss SeaFair Saturday night, is scheduled on the program at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and is the principle judge of the World Championship Gumbo Cookoff.

Judging in Saturday's competition will be at 3 p.m. At 3 p.m. Sunday that day's teams will be judged, then the first-place winners from both days will be pitted against each other for the cookoff's final round. A gumbo auction will follow declaration of the grand prize winner.

Sunday's activities will begin again at noon with opening of the exhibit booths. Jet ski races, another new event, are scheduled at 1 p.m. in the Ski Basin and the first Miss Rockport SeaFair, selected in competition at 8 p.m. Saturday, will be presented at 1 p.m. and again at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The second day of the sailing regatta is expected to end at 3 p.m. Sunday with presentation of the sailing awards at 4 p.m. The crab beauty contest, companion to the crab races held on Saturday, will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Shows by the skydivers, the Shapemakers and the air/sea rescue demonstration will be repeated Sunday afternoon.

More than 100 exhibitors will be offering a variety of arts and crafts — jewelry, pottery, artwork in various media, scuplture and more under the colorful tents which will be open both days from noon until dark.

Launched in 1975, Rockport's SeaFair has grown bigger each year, with crowds of 40-45,000 reported at last year's event. SeaFair officials are anticipating at least as many will attend this year's SeaFair and some are estimating an attendance of around 60,000.

FRIDAY IS "GREEN TOWEL NIGHT" at Pirate Stadium. A group of RFHS Pirate supporters have come up with the idea of "Green Towel Night" — spectators at this week's home game with Flour Bluff are urged to bring a green towel with them and wave it during the game to show their support of the Pirates. As Coach Aubrey Schulz says, "The boys do notice the people in the stands. When there's a lot of support from the stands, it has an positive effect on their game." So, follow the example of the RFHS cheerleaders above and wave your green towel Friday night. Shown above are Junior Varsity cheerleaders (front, l to r) Robbin Biggs, Michelle Thompson, Melissa Moses, Michelle LeBlanc, Roxanne Flores and Varsity cheerleaders (back, l to r) Vickie Rae James, Cheryl Hunter, Kimberley Meyers, Yvette Olsen, Janice Moses and Mona Cowan.

First SeaFair Music Festival is planned

By LESLIE ABRAMS
Staff writer

The first annual SeaFair Music Festival will get under way Saturday with the SeaFair parade, which will feature four area bands. A UIL twirling contest and a non-UIL marching contest will follow on Saturday afternoon and evening.

"It's not what we wanted, but it's bigger than it was last year," said Rockport-Fulton High School Band Director Phillip Hewett in an interview Monday afternoon, Oct. 3.

At one time, Hewett said, nineteen bands had expressed interest in attending the music festival. However, several bands later cancelled due to other engagements or travel plans. Several bands cancelled due to last week's Bayfest in Corpus Christi, which held a parade for the first time. Hewett said that high school bands are only allowed to attend two non-UIL events per semester, which is another reason why several schools backed out.

The four bands participating in the parade include the Rockport-Fulton High School Pirate Band, the Benavides High School Band, the Three Rivers High School Band and the Rockport-Fulton Junior High School Band.

The Nixon High School Band from Laredo, last year's winner of the Bands of America contest in Whitewater, Wis., had originally planned to be here for the SeaFair parade but had to change its plans due to a Friday night engagement in San Antonio. However, Hewett said, the Nixon High School Band will arrive in time to participate in the marching contest Saturday evening.

The schedule for the marching contest is as follows: Three Rivers at 6:30 p.m., Benavides at 6:50 p.m., Rockport-Fulton at 7:10 p.m. and Nixon at 7:30 p.m. The contest will take place in the Rockport-Fulton Pirate Stadium.

Bands will be judged on musical competency, as far as selection of music and performance; marching competency; general effect, in terms of format of presentation and the general effect of the performance; the general appearance of the band; and the general discipline of the band. Trophies bearing the SeaFair logo will be awarded to the winners.

Judges for both the parade and the marching contest will be John Pearson, a former band director who is no the supervisor of music for the Austin public schools; Al English, junior high school band director

Paws & Taws Open House is scheduled

Residents and visitors to Aransas County are invited to the Paws & Taws Building at its new location in Fulton Park for Open House/Recognition Day on Nov. 26.

The building will be open for tours and refreshments will be served between 7 and 9 p.m. on that date. The highlight of the evening will be a drawing for the grandfather clock now on display in the First National Bank. The clock was donated by AARP and chances for the drawing may be purchased between now and Nov. 26 through participating organizations.

Although the building is not yet finished, the first activity was held in it at its new site Saturday night when the Boast of the Toast Dance Club had their regular monthly dance there.

On Oct. 8, the Paws & Taws Building will be the site of the SeaFair Dance being sponsored by the Fulton Volunteer Fire Department. Music will be by the Bush Band of Victoria.

Improvements to the building include installation of a new 1,250-gallon septic system to provide for the enlarged restroom facilities. Work was done by Dudley Prophet.

Other improvements that have been completed at this time include installation of six 36-inch exhaust fans mounted in the north end of the building, a large permanent stage with dressing rooms on either side, all-steel exit doors and new wiring throughout the structure.

Improvements not yet finished include remodeling of the kitchen area, installation of

Now 3-2 for season

The Cottonpickers down Pirates 14-0

Losing their first district contest and second game of the year, the Rockport-Fulton Pirates fell 14-0 to the Cottonpickers Friday night in Robstown.

"They just didn't play like the team they are," summed up Pirate Coach Aubrey Schulz about the game that saw the Cottonpickers take the lead midway into the first quarter, then score again with seven minutes left in the third quarter.

The 3-2 Pirates now face their sixth opponent — Flour Bluff — with three players injured. Quarterback Bobby Dingenary broke an arm, tackle Chris Hill has a "badly sprained" ankle and Demetrius Lewis strained a previously injured knee. According to Schulz, the possibility remains that Dingenary may be able to punt for the Pirates in the next game.

Back Scott Russ led the Pirate offense, coming out of the game with 49 hard-fought yards. Steve Arkell, taking two of backup quarterback Rudy Soliz' four completed passes for 24 yards, totaled 32 for the night. Dwayne Walls gained 28 yards on 12 carries and Trinelle Walls and Guy Haskell gained 10 yards each.

OGT awards are unclaimed

AUSTIN — Some Operation Game Thief reward money is going begging, according to officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Four persons who dialed the 24-hour, toll-free number 1-800-792-GAME to report game or fish law violations furnished enough information to ultimately convict the violators. Case numbers 512, 586, 590 and 810 are eligible for cash rewards.

Operation Game Thief, initiated in October 1981, offers cash rewards from funds provided entirely through public donations.

During the 18 months OGT has been in existence, a total of $12,125 has been paid to 71 persons. The office received 1,150 calls which resulted in 130 arrests, 547 convictions and $67,266 in fines.

Tornadoes, Chiefs among winners

RFSA fall soccer season kicked off

The Rockport-Fulton Soccer Association's fall season kicked off Saturday with two games at 8:30 a.m. — the Intermediate Cosmos versus the Strikers and the Junior Bucs versus the Mustangs. The Cosmos and the Strikers tied at 2-2 and the Mustangs fell to the Bucs, losing 3-1.

Of the first day's seven games, RFSA president George Hernandez said, "We're very pleased. Things went real smooth and the kids had a great time. That's what it's all about."

Hernandez noted that the spectator turnout was "super — there were a lot of people out there for every game."

In the second half of the Junior doubleheader, the Bucs lost to the Raiders 4-1. Coming off their first-game win, the Bucs played well but fell back under the strong Raider passing attack.

In Pee Wee play, the Chiefs and the Stings were neck and neck until six minutes before the end of the game, when the Chiefs picked up and took the contest 6-2.

Also in the Pee Wee division, the Rowdies fell to the Kicks 1-0, unable to score despite their strong play. The Barracudas edged out the Aztecs in a close 2-1 game.

No games are scheduled for this Saturday, Oct. 8, as all RFSA athletes will be SeaFair participants. Each team will be featured in a team float in the SeaFair opening parade, which begins at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

The following week of play will pit the Kicks against the Stings, the Chiefs against the Barracudas and the Aztecs against the Rowdies in the Pee Wee division.

In the Intermediate bracket, the Strikers and the Hurricanes will face each other and the Cosmos will meet the Tornadoes.

In the Junior doubleheader, the Mustangs will play the Raiders at 8:30 a.m. and the Bucs at 10:30 a.m.

Hi-C Open tournament Nov. 25-27

HOUSTON — Entries are being accepted for the fourth annual Hi-C Open Soccer Tournament benefiting cystic fibrosis. The tournament is slated Thanksgiving weekend, Nov. 25-27, in northwest Houston. Deadline for team entries is Oct. 15.

Boys' and girls' teams will compete in 12 categories of play — under 8, under 10, under 12, under 14, under 16 and under 19.

The tournament has experienced marked growth since 1980 when 76 teams signed up for the first annual Hi-C Open Soccer Tournament. This year a record 4,500 soccer players representing cities throughout Texas and Louisiana are expected to participate making the Hi-C Open the largest open soccer tournament in South Texas.

According to Dick Moynihan and Kent Hutton, tournament co-chairmen, the Hi-C Soccer Tournament is unique because it is the only open soccer tournament in South Texas offering soccer enthusiasts the opportunity to meet in one location and compare themselves with other teams. As part of the Hi-C Good Sports Program, the tournament promotes good sportsmanship and fair play.

1983 is best year yet for hybrids

AUSTIN — Production of striped bass and striped/white bass hybrids reached an all-time high during 1983, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

Three hatcheries were involved in the year's output of 1.5 million stripers and 2.5 million hybrid fingerlings for stocking in public reservoirs across the state.

Regional Fish Culturist Charles Gray of Fort Worth said the 4 million-plus fish not only were the best crop in terms of numbers, but the fish were the healthiest ever shipped out of the hatcheries.

"We have developed improved methods for fertilizing our rearing ponds to assure that maximum numbers of zooplankton are available when the ponds are stocked with fry," Gray explained. "If the fry are well-fed and healthy in the ponds they will have better survival rates in the lakes when stocked as fingerlings."

Justin Wilson to appear at SeaFair

Nationally-famous Cajun comedian and gumbo expert Justin Wilson will be a special guest at Rockport's ninth annual SeaFair this weekend.

Wilson will help start the festivities as grand marshal of the parade at 10:30 a.m. Saturday then will be on the grounds for special SeaFair appearances at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in addition to his role as principle judge of the ninth annual World Championship Gumbo Cook Off.

He will also entertain those attending the first annual Miss Rockport SeaFair pageant at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Rockport-Fulton High School Auditorium. Tickets for that event are $5 per person and, because of limited seating, those planning to attend are advised to buy their tickets in advance rather than at the door.

A native of Tangipahoa Parish in southeast Louisiana, Wilson has been called the "primary proponent and exponent of the Cajun life style in America." His mother was Louisiana French. His father, Harry D. Wilson, held elected office for more than 40 years in Louisiana and was commissioner of agriculture from 1916 to 1948.

Wilson became involved in politics at an early age and still takes an active interest in local politics. At 19, he was put in charge of the warehouses in Louisiana by then-Senator Huey P. Long and he worked as an enforcement officer throughout south Louisiana.

He is a professional member of the American Society of Safety Engineers and has been an independent safety consultant for more than 40 years, but he is better known for his books and albums of Cajun humor, his cookbooks and his "Cookin' Cajun" television show which has aired nationwide for more than 10 years on public television and cable networks.

A new series, "Justin Wilson's Louisiana Cookin'," has been introduced recently on television. Wilson's books include "The Justin Wilson Cookbook" and "Justin Wilson's No. 2 Cookbook — Cookin' Cajun."

He is the author as well of a Cajun humor book and a children's book, "Cajun Fables," and has produced 27 albums of Cajun humor. He makes some 200 speaking engagements and personal appearances each year and plans this summer to do more cooking shows.

"We Cajuns love to cook and eat and fish and hunt — for something to cook and eat," he says.

Christian gives underwater slide presentation

An underwater tour of the Sea of Cortez by color slides was presented by Martha Christian at a luncheon meeting of Rotary Club at Cattlemen's Bay House Restaurant Wednesday, Sept. 28.

The six-day expedition of which she and her husband, Bill, were a part was composed largely of underwater photographers from Texas and adjacent states. They lived on a boat manned by local guides who were familiar with the most photogenic areas of the sea.

Mrs. Christian, who has done extensive underwater photography in the Caribbean, said animal and plant life in the two areas were quite different as to species, color and lifestyle.

She added she saw many more different types and colors of starfish in the Sea of Cortez than in the Caribbean. Colorful rocks and different forms and colors of coral also were very abundant in the virtually landlocked sea adjacent to the coast of Mexico, Mrs. Christian said.

Of special interest to the photographers and the audience were sea lions which were abundant and apparently not very much afraid of humans. Mrs. Christian said the sea lions were high speed swimmers and were very adept at spectular gymnastics both in and above the water.

She pointed out that many of the sea lions had been tatooed across their backs by conservationists to make the animals' fur unacceptable commercially and thus protect them from possible extermination.

Fluoride gel helps fight dental decay

HOUSTON — John Breen used to smoke 10 cigars a day. He puffed away for 40 years, during his first career as manager of the Houston Oilers and later during his second career as co-host of a nightly radio sports show.

Now, instead of a cigar, Breen holds a fluoride gel carrier in his mouth for a few minutes each night. Oral cancer changed his habits.

The carrier, custom designed for Breen by the dental oncology team at the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, is filled with fluoride gel and placed over Breen's teeth for five to 10 minutes nightly. Molded of the same material that's used for athletic mouth guards, the carrier is a vehicle for thinly coating the teeth with fluoride in order to protect them from decay and infection.

Breen's own natural protection, saliva, was greatly decreased by radiotherapy treatments aimed at killing his cancer. Without protection, not only might Breen's irradiated teeth become decayed, but infection could also spread to the bone. The result could be jaw amputation.

"Since we first began studying the fluoride gel carrier in the mid-1960s, its use has become routine, enabling thousands of irradicated head and neck cancer patients to keep their own teeth and lessen their incidence of decay," says Dr. Terence Fleming, an M.D. Anderson associate professor of clinical dental oncology.

Prior to the mid-1960s, the teeth of all irradiated head and neck cancer patients were extracted as a preventive measure, he recalls. "Sometimes this was doing the patient a favor, but other times it eliminated perfectly good teeth. And even then, not all decay was stopped," he says.

Although the idea of the fluoride gel carrier originated at the National Cancer Institute, UT M.D. Anderson Hospital was one of the first institutions to study its effectiveness.

In cooperation with the UT Dental Branch in Houston and under a grant from the U.S. Public Health Service, M.D. Anderson began systematic research in 1965 for ways to decrease the incidence of all dental complications which follow irradiation to the head and neck. The fluoride gel carrier was included in this study.

As reported in the October 1972 issue of "The American Journal of Surgery," the study concluded that there was an impressive reduction in radiation decay in patients who wore fluoride gel carriers five minutes each day.

Since that time, UT M.D. Anderson Hospital oncologists have also found the fluoride gel carrier benefits some chemotherapy (anti-cancer drug) patients as well, who are at high risk for decay simply because their treatment makes them nauseous. Acidic stomach contents can damage the teeth.

Although Breen could have had his malignancy surgically removed rather than undergo the radiotherapy treatments which robbed him of his saliva, he opted not to for the sake of his radio career. The surgery would have involved part of his tongue and impaired his speech.

"In radio, if you have to lose an arm to cancer, it's not the end of your career," Breen says. "But of all things to happen to a broadcaster, loss of speech is the most awful."

Breen underwent seven weeks of radiotherapy treatments at M.D. Anderson Hospital to shrink his tumor. Then he had six radioactive needles implanted in the tumor to kill it.

Breen's radio fans were hardly aware of his cancer during his radiotherapy treatments because they caused no interruption in his broadcasting. Feeling self-conscious about the red lines on his face — which pinpoint treatment areas to the radiotherapists — Breen stayed away from sports arenas during this period. But for his implant, he was forced to take a three-week break from broadcasting. And his listeners became concerned.

"They called and wanted to know, 'How's the boy?'" Breen recalls.

"After the implant, my voice was out for three days. I was apprehensive about it coming back. I thought, 'What will it be like?' Now, I think it came back an octave lower, but others say they can't tell," he says.

Breen's voice is still strong on the radio. Every three months, he comes for checkups to M.D. Anderson Hospital, where the doctors tell him that they're listening to his voice on the radio and are please with its strength.

Except for the fluoride gel carrier, which must be used nightly for the rest of Breen's life, the side effects of the radiotherapy treatment are slight.

"Oh, I've had a cough since then. I've had to quit smoking and have started carrying a bottle of water around with me for my dry mouth. And I've had to give up wearing neckties because my neck swells. Food isn't as tasty. And neither is the fluoride gel. But it's a small price to pay for eliminating my cancer and keeping my voice," he says.

Anderson completes Army unit training

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

Anderson's wife, Kathleen, is the daughter of Charles C. and Martina Gilmour of Houston.

Only those who have the patience to do simple things perfectly ever acquire the skill to do difficult things easily.

Camping equipment taken

Two ice chests, a tent and a hunting bow and arrows were reported stolen last week when a vehicle belonging to James Cockroft of Sweeny was burglarized outside a Rockport lounge. Total value of the missing items was estimated at $543.

Rockport police are investigating two reports of theft of service from a Rockport motel. According to the motel owner, two persons left the motel without paying for their rooms, one for $542.81 and one for $148.60. Charges have been filed in both cases.

A Rockport man suffered stab wounds in a fight at a city tavern on Oct. 1. A suspect has been arrested and charged in the incident.

S.S. benefits may be taxed

Starting in 1984, part of the Social Security benefits received by people with substantial other income may be subject to the federal income tax, a Social Security spokesperson said recently.

This change in the law was part of the 1983 Social Security amendments which were designed to strengthen the Social Security program for many years into the future, the representative said.

Up to half of the person's Social Security benefits for 1984 and later years will be subject to tax if his or her adjusted gross income for federal tax purposes, plus nontaxable interest income and half of the Social Security benefits exceed a base amount.

The base amount is $25,000 for an individual, $32,000 for a couple filing a joint return and zero for a couple filing separate returns. The amount of benefits subject to taxes will be the smaller of one-half of the Social Security benefits or one-half of the amount if the person's combined income — adjusted gross income, nontaxable interest income and half the Social Security benefit — exceeds the base amount.

Some adjustments in benefit payments may be possible, the spokesperson said. Any overpayment that person repays during the year can be deducted. Also, any lump sum received can be prorated to the year for which it was paid if that is an advantage. Any Medicare medical insurance premium deducted must be included in total benefits.

The Internal Revenue Service will provide complete instructions on how to file tax returns. Social Security has a free leaflet which briefly explains about taxing benefits.

Defensive driving course offered

A course in Defensive Driving will be offered to adults on Tuesday, Oct. 18, in Room 16 of Rockport-Fulton High School.

The class will start at 6 p.m. and continue for two consecutive nights.

Participants may register the first night of the course or by calling the Administrative Office of the school district at 729-2276.

Aransas County 4-H Club to end National 4-H Week at SeaFair

"4-H: Building on Experience" is the year-long theme of the 4-H program in Texas and across the nation. That theme will get special emphasis during National 4-H Week Oct. 2-8, which marks the 75th anniversary of the 4-H Club organization.

"4-H: Building on Experience" highlights the educational projects which help young people gain practical skills, develop good nutrition and health habits, explore career opportunities, generate leadership capabilities and become involved as citizens in their local communities, the state and the nation.

The Aransas County 4-H Club will sponsor a petting booth at the ninth annual Rockport SeaFair Oct. 8-9. A variety of animals will be on hand for youngsters to pet and enjoy. In addition, drawings will be held for a .12 gauge Remington model 1100 shotgun and a felt hat donated by Texas Tustep. More information will be available at the petting booth.

4-H members can participate in over 70 different projects including automotive care and safety, beef cattle, bicycle, clothing, dog care and training, entomology, child development, food and nutrition, landscape horticulture, photography, plant and soil sciences, poultry, rabbit, resource development, sheep and goats, swine, veterinary science, wildlife management and woodworking.

Projects allow members to discover new skills and ideas, how to make useful things, to keep records, to take part in club meetings and activities, to present educational demonstrations, to make new friends and to have fun.

Art club members to exhibit work

Members of the Rockport-Fulton Art Club will exhibit their works during SeaFair Oct. 8-9. The Art Club is comprised of students from Rockport-Fulton High School and Rockport-Fulton Junior High School.

The Art Club booth will be manned by club members during the two-day exhibition. This will be the first year that the club has exhibited its work during SeaFair.

Painting, drawing, weaving, etching, metal punching, silk screen, linoprints, cut-outs and mosaics will be among the medium exhibited.

Registration begins Oct. 16 for Miss Winter Wonderland Pageant

Rehearsal and registration for the Winter Wonderland Miss Pageant will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16, at the Raymondville High School. Women and girls of all ages are invited to attend.

The pageant is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Raymondville High School Auditorium. Party dress competition and interviews will be held from 9 a.m. until noon with a break from noon to 1 p.m.

3 students make All-Region band

Three Rockport-Fulton High School students were selected to play in the All-Region Jazz Band last weekend.

Selected were David Perkins, a senior, who was chosen to play trumpet in the second All-Region Band. Sophomore Danny Mosier and junior Dwight Fake were selected to play trombone in the first All-region Jazz Band. Fake qualified to try out for the All-State Jazz Band.

Approximately 39 schools participated in the Region 14 tryouts, which were hosted by Rockport-Fulton High School. Rockport-Fulton first initiated a jazz program last November. Each region picks 32 members for the All-Region Jazz Band. Each region can then nominate four musicians to try out for the All-state Jazz Band

"Dwight stands a legitimate chance of being considered," said RFHS Band Director Phil Hewett in an interview Monday, Oct. 3. Five trombone players will be selected for the All-State Jazz Band.

RFHS will host an all-region jazz concert on Jan. 21. Along with the first and second All-Region Jazz Bands, the guest clinician will be jazz great Willie Thomas.

Thomas played lead trumpet with the Woody Herman Band for eight years and is now a publisher of school jazz band literature.

Thefts, assault are reported

A Rockport man was arrested and charged with assault after a woman told authorities she was assaulted on Sept. 20.

Sheriff's deputies are investigating an incident in which the rear window of a vehicle belonging to Rhonda Ormand of Rockport was broken on Sept. 28.

Katherine Larkin of Rockport reported estimated criminal damages of $300 after a person or persons turned on the water hose on her property between Sept. 4 and Sept. 20. The case is under investigation.

No injuries were reported in an industrial accident at Cove Harbor on Oct. 1. A cherry picker owned by State Service Company of Rockport was removing 55-gallon drums off a 29-foot crewboat owned by CRC Mallard Inc. when the brakes apparently failed, causing the cherry picker to pitch forward, landing on the boat, causing both to sink. One man on the boat, along with the cherry picker operator, escaped without injury.

Unauthorized use of a motor vehicle was reported by Kenneth Rodgers of Rockport. Rodgers reported his truck was taken by a man who refused to return it. The vehicle is valued at $3,000.

Sheriff's deputies recovered a rental trailer in the brush aproximately 1 mile north of the intersection of Airport Road and FM 1781. Efforts are being made to find out who the trailer was rented to.

County richer through tourists

AUSTIN — Aransas County last year received an estimated $41.6 million in spending by U.S. travelers, a national study commissioned by the Texas Tourist Development Agency has disclosed.

Its rate of growth, 12 percent over 1981 receipts, was 3 percent over that for the state as a whole.

The travel study, done by the U.S. Travel Data Center in Washington D.C. found that the county last year had 926 travel-related jobs, with a payroll estimated at $7.8 million.

It also realized an estimated $259 thousand in local and county taxes paid by travelers.

The study measures the economic impact of all overnight trips and day trips at least 100 miles from home. Thus it includes spending by Texans as well as by out-of-state visitors. Trips for all purposes are in the picture.

For the state as a whole 1982 travel meant $13.7 billion to the Texas economy.

The 9 percent increase over 1981 traveler spending was five times greater than the 1.8 percent growth of the U.S. travel industry.

Travel industry employment last year in Texas rose to 283,917. The figure was up 4 percent over 1981 — six times above national travel industry employment which fell 2 percent last year.

Texas also received an estimated $316.8 million in state taxes paid by travelers. Another $161.6 million was paid in local and county taxes.

The Travel Date Center said that the state figures would have been "substantially higher" had it been able to include estimates of spending by international visitors to Texas.

A separate study for the Tourist Development Agency found that 9 percent of last year's 35.4 million visitors, an estimated three million persons, came from outside the United States. Nearly half were from Mexico.

Camper's guide is better than ever

This second edition of the "Camper's Guide to Texas Parks, Lakes and Forests" helps campers discover the endless variety of mountains, lakes, rivers, beaches and grasslands found in Texas. This widely acclaimed guide is now better than ever with the addition of 11 new lakes and parks to the more than 100 sites described in the previous edition.

"Camper's Guide" divides the state into four geographic regions with maps of the parks, lakes and forests in each and pinpoints locations of campsites and recreation areas. Vicinity maps give a close-up view of the park and show how to get there from the nearest major highway.

Easy-to-read charts list the recreational activities for each area, such as fishing, boating, sailing, swimming, canoeing and also indicate available facilities such as boat ramps, showers, water, utility hookups, etc. Maps of the forests and parks show the hiking trails, nature trails, equestrian paths and more.

Parks, lakes and forests are listed alphabetically within the four major regions for easy reference. Each has its own full page, complete with large maps and facilities charts, as well as handy information on fees and where to write for further details. Both the popular and the smaller, lesser-known parks and campsites are described.

Author Mildred (Mickey) Little, Ed.D., is professor of physical education at Texas A&M University and director of the Outdoor Education Institute. An avid backpacker, camper and canoeist, she is on the executive board of the National Council on Outdoor Education and is active in the Texas Outdoor Education Association.

"Camper's Guide to Texas Parks, Lakes and Forests, 2nd Edition" for 1983 contains maps, photographs, and charts in large-format paperback for $8.95. Available in bookstores or directly from the publisher: Gulf Publishing Company, Book Division, Dept. P8, P.O. Box 2608, Houston, Texas 77001. Include $8.95 plus $2 transportation cost. Agriculture the theme of 1983 State Fair in Dallas

AUSTIN — The finishing touches are being put on the 1983 State Fair of Texas Food & Fiber Pavilion and Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower says he expects this year's Pavilion to be the most interesting and entertaining ever.

The theme of the Pavilion, traditionally one of the most popular at the fair, will be "Texas Agriculture: If you eat, you're involved," and Hightower says he expects more than a million people to tour the football field-sized building during the Oct. 7-23 State Fair.

"Most people think of agriculture as a few hardy souls down on the farm," Hightower explained, "but one out of every four people in the workforce in America is involved in one way or another in harvesting, transporting, processing, marketing, preparing or serving our dinner. Getting that across is our underlying goal at this year's Food & Fiber Pavilion. Before we can make our point, however, we have to lure people into the building, so we've gone out of our way to make it just plain fun — it's going to be a 'fair within a fair.' "

The interior of the building is ringed with booths representing various Texas agricultural and food products ranging from beef, sausage and honey to Blue Bell ice cream, organically-grown wheat flour and picante sauce. And this year for the first time, Hightower said, every booth will be giving out free samples of their products.

"Dieters should probably think twice before they come in," Hightower quipped. "Morrision Milling will be baking their beer-batter biscuits again and the wheat growers will be baking fresh bread right next to the honey booth. The aromas may be a little overwhelming. I fully expect to put on a few pounds."

The central area of the Pavilion will contain a landscaping display featuring native Texas plants, a simulated farmers' market, a booth for daily cooking demonstrations and a large area where foot-weary fair-goers can sit down and enjoy a variety of entertaining musical acts on the Pavilion's stage.

Besides daily concerts by area junior college bands, the scheduled entertainment includes evening performances by legendary barrelhouse piano player Robert Shaw Oct. 14, Austin songwriter/recording artist Steve Fromholz Oct. 20, Cajun music artist Allen Thibodeaux and the French Ramblers Oct. 15, and the popular East Texas String Ensemble, which plays a broad variety of country, folk and bluegrass music Oct. 22.

Other scheduled musical acts include the Dog Run String Band Oct. 11,17 and 23, Nacogdoches bluegrass duo Steve Hartz and Brigid Corbett Oct. 9, Jeff Griggs and the Country Strings Oct. 21, the Potluck String Band Oct. 13 and 19, the Czech Harvesters Oct. 16, the Shady Grove Ramblers featuring singer/songwriter Tom Uhr Oct. 14 and Northern Mexico natives Conjunto Vaquero Oct. 18.

The junior college bands will play during the day and the featured performers will do one set starting at 6:15 p.m. and a second set immediately following the nightly state fair parade.

The Interdenominational Youth Choir, a rousing gospel group from Nacogdoches, will be the featured performers Oct. 8 and will take the stage in the afternoon immediately after the Texas-Oklahoma football game as well as the regular times in the evening.

Hightower added that a meeting room in the Pavilion will be utilized during the fair for a meeting of the Texas Farm and Ranch Advisory committee, a conference of Texas Black Farmers and a number of other meetings aimed at promoting Texas agriculture.

Weatherize mobile homes for winter

COLLEGE STATION — Mobile homeowners can do several things right now to make for more comfortable living when winter arrives, says housing specialist Dr. Peggy Owens.

"A mobile home, like any other home, can be sealed too tightly for your health," says Owens who is with Texas A&M's Agricultural Extension Service.

"Some exchange between indoor and outdoor air should go on all the time. When you weatherize, make sure you do not seal or block openings intended to ventilate the wall cavity," says Owens.

If the inside air seems stuffy, homeowners should ventilate with exhaust fans or open a window a crack.

— If cold comes up from the floor, place a second carpet on top of the old one to help keep the cold out.

— Adding skirting or underpinning will cut drafts under the house but will not always help reduce energy loss. "Temporary skirting with hay bales is hazardous. You may close necessary vents and create a fire hazard as well," warns Owens.

A permanent noncombustible material like brick is best for skirting.

— Use heat tape to wrap exposed water pipes beneath the floor and use special duct insulating blankets over exposed heating duct. If these are loose in older mobile homes, remove the floor registers and tighten connections with furnace or other heat resisting tape.

— Weatherstrip around windows and outside doors. Double check the threshold portion of outside doors and be sure there's no heat leak.

— Check holdings, sidings, joints, nails, screws, splash panels, windows, doors, roof vents, wheel housings and all top seams for airleaks and cracks. Correct these by caulking during warm weather because most caulks won't adhere well in the cold. Inside, polyfoam seal can be used to close cracks and cavities around light switches.

— Create storm windows by taping a layer of 4 to 6 mil polyethylene over them. Use pressure sensitive masking or duct tape and place along the entire edge on all four sides. Even if the mobile home has storm windows, a third layer of protection helps.

Railroad Commission rebuts Greyhound appeal

AUSTIN — Calling it "an attempt to slam the door in the face of the public," the Railroad Commission delivered a sharp rebuttal this week to a petition filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by Greyhound Lines Inc.

The petition asked the ICC to overturn a Railroad Commission denial of the company's request to cancel bus service to 58 Texas cities.

The Railroad Commission issued an order May 16 denying the Greyhound application to cut service in the state, citing hardships that would be inflicted on elderly riders, patients travelling for treatment and hospitals and nursing homes who use Greyhound for shipments. Greyhound's petition to the ICC appealing that decision was filed Sept. 7.

The strongly-worded rebuttal, drafted by the Commission's Transportation Division, emphasized that Greyhound had not presented detailed financial records which would substantiate its claim that it was losing money on the routes it proposed to cancel. The company also failed in its testimony at commission hearings to show that reasonable alternative bus service is available to the affected cities.

Cost evidence submitted by Greyhound to the Railroad Commission consisted of a sketchy abstract covering only one of the 10 routes to be dropped and only 12 of the 58 affected cities.

No evidence concerning Greyhound's cost of serving the remaining 46 cities along nine routes was even offered, the commission statement pointed out.

Although Greyhound claimed that alternative service is available from other bus lines, almost no evidence was presented to support that claim, the commission statement said. The company witness told the commission that alternative service is available at only 27 of the 58 cities. However, in 19 of the 27, passengers would have replacement service. But the Railroad Commission pointed out Greyhound hadn't told the whole story, since American withdrew its application Aug. 9.

The Railroad Commission took issue with another Greyhound allegation that it was experiencing competition from other bus lines. "The witness for Greyhound did not identify movements which are subject to competition or with which carriers Greyhound was competing," the statement said.

"No evidence was presented to show the extent to which discontinuance of service as proposed would enhance transit times or otherwise improve Greyhound's competitive position."

The commission statement concluded by asking the ICC to deny Greyhound's petition to discontinue bus service, noting that federal law requires a balancing of the public's need for service against the financial and operational needs of the carrier.

"In the absence of substantial, admissible evidence from which to evaluate the carrier's needs, and in the presence of convincing evidence that the public depends on the service sought to be discontinued, the balance must be struck in favor of a finding that discontinuance would not be consistent with the public interest," the commission said.

Some 235 witnesses testified against loss of Greyhound service at hearings conducted around the state earlier this year. Many said they relied on the bus to get to and from medical treatment sessions in larger cities. Elderly citizens said the bus was the only kind of regular transportation they could afford. Hospitals and nursing homes said that without Greyhound's continued service they would have no way to send and receive shipments of blood, specimens, medicines and X-rays.

Greyhound appealed the Railroad Commission denial under provisions of the Bus Regulatory Reform Act of 1982 which says the ICC can overrule unfavorable state decisions as an "unreasonable burden on interstate commerce."

Economy important in Latin American relations

While tensions in Latin America have political implications for the United States, economic policy is also a very important factor in our relationships.

Eighteen percent of our exports go to Latin America, says the chairman of Texas Christian University's economics department. Fifteen percent of American goods are imported from that region of the world, said Dr. Richard Waits.

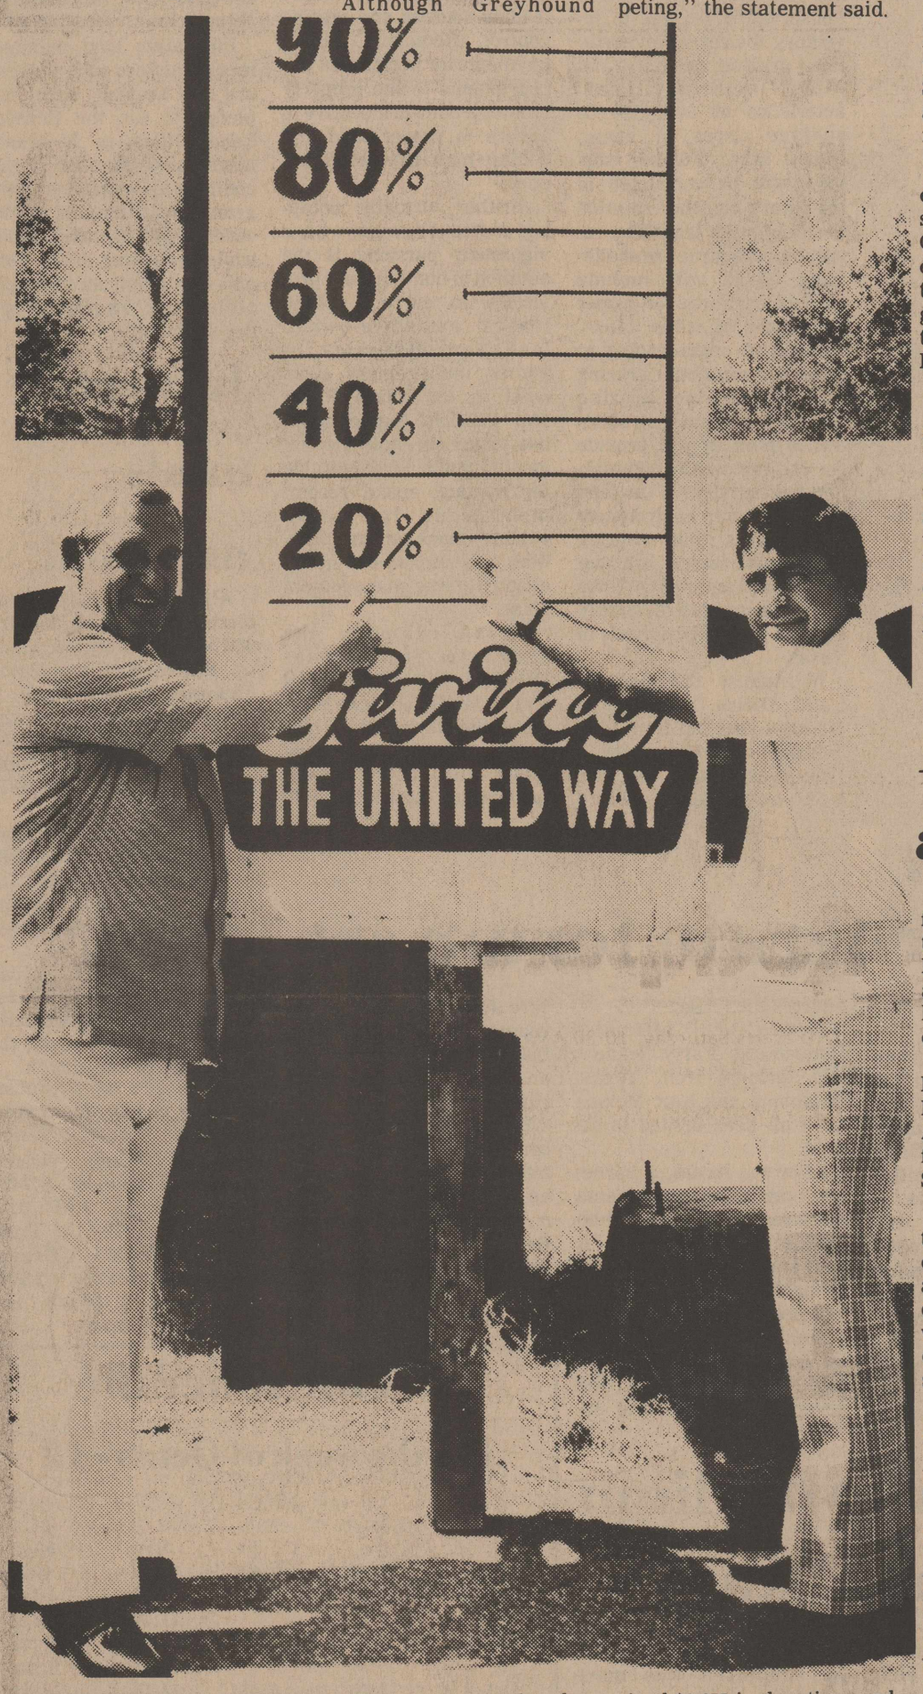

"The really important aspect of our trade with Latin America is that it is one of the regions of the world where we have a trade surplus," he said. "In 1981 we had a trade surplus of $6 billion. That helps counteract the balance we have with the rest of the world," noted Waits.

The TCU professor said another important aspect of our trade with Latin America is that "we get many of our raw commodities from there that are used both for consumption and industrial applications. Oil, copper and bananas are important raw materials for the U.S." The third important aspect of that trade relationship is that they are one of our best markets for manufactured goods, he continued.

"A sizeable number of the companies that go into Latin America are commercial enterprizes such as Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, J.C. Penny, Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola. Companies have gone down there to set up commercial ventures and secondly to assure themselves of a source of raw materials. Those are the areas where U.S. investments have been large," Waits said.

However, the economist pointed out that Latin American countries are becoming increasingly sensitive to the fact that foreign companies move in and bid up wage rates for experienced workers, making it more difficult for domestic companies to make a profit. "They're extremely nervous when it comes to foreign ownership because the future of the employment picture rests with decisions outside the country," Waits noted.

"My recollection is that a very large percentage of all U.S. investments in the world are in Latin America. Many other industrial companies have not been as hospitable as far as foreign investments are concerned as Latin America has been," he said.

"22 PERCENT AND CLIMBING." That was the word Monday from Rex Turner, drive chairman of this year's Aransas County United Fund campaign, with the announcement that the campaign, launched last week, has already received $6,655 in donations and pledges. With Turner, proudly marking the spot on the UF's sign in front of Live Oak Center, is 1983 UF Chairman Joel Zapata. [Photo by Pat Blair]

Gumbo chefs line up for cookoff

Since the cookoff was won by Helen Ratliff and her mother at the first Rockport SeaFair back in 1975, the event has drawn a colorful crowd who try as hard for the showmanship trophy as they do for the grand prize award that climaxes the two-day event.

One of the youngest teams competing are Kelly and Shannon Watson, "Daddy's Angels." They've been entering their "Gotcha Gumbo" in the cookoff every year since 1978, even though they're only 9 and 10 years old.

The "Angels" are competing on the first day, Saturday. Awards for first, second and third place are given during each of the two days and the first-place winners on Saturday and Sunday will be matched against each other Sunday to determine the grand prize winner.

Also returning are C. L. Grant and the Baytown Crazy Cajuns with their "Bayou Brew," the "Shell Ridge Trouble Makers" and "Pepe L'Okra," C & D Frautschi with "File' Gumbo" and William Corey, "Wilfred's, the Covert Special."

Rounding out Saturday's lineup will be Cindy Coleman and the Roadrunner Travel Club with "Cajun Country Gumbo," Fossati and Hoffman, "Ducky and Wucky," William F. Dunn's "Swampwater 5 plus 1" with "Swampwater Stew," Jimmie Barta with "Homewreckers Gumbo," Dolly Close (Capt. Kidd) and Alvin Childs' "Gumbo c'est Tout."

Back again this year and entered in Sunday's competition are the "Copano Ridge Flounders" and Ed Setterbo with "Kajun Kassel." Other Sunday entries are Roland Guidry with "Cajun File," Mark Thiel and the "Bayside Blue Boys," Sonya Rodriguez with "Cher-a-mie" and Dyer Electronics with "Dyers Dealers."

R. W. Newcomer's entry on Sunday is "Hawkeye and the 4077" and Charles Belaire is entering with "The Body Shop."

"The Rebels" are cooking on Sunday as is M. McClendon and Anna Elliott. Joyce Hewett is entering "Jazz Gumbo" and another team calls theirs "Red Light Gumbo." Richard A. Haas' team, "Pistoch and Pisack," is back this year. Completing Sunday's entries is Joe Couch with the "Racket Racketeers."

Rules of the World Championship Cookoff require that the principle ingredient be seafood and everything except the roux — which may be prepared in advance — be prepared fresh at SeaFair.

Following the judging, the gumbos are auctioned off. In the past, a quart of the grand prize gumbo has brought as much as $1,000.

Sound management of land priority for Mauro

The implementation of sound and innovative land management practices on all 12.5 million acres of state-owned land continues to be one of my priorities. Recent efforts at incorporating wildlife and land conservation measures into our land leases are resulting in increased revenues for the Permanent School Fund. The Permanent School Fund now totals over $3.8 billion or $600 for every public school student in Texas. Concurrently, these measures ensure that our lands are preserved and protected to meet the needs of future generations.

The General Land Office has worked with the Soil Conservation Service to inventory the terrain, vegetation, grazing capacity and other important characteristics of over 120,000 surface acres of state-owned land. Further surveys will be conducted in the future on other suitable tracts of state land. The resulting resource management plans will include recommendations for proper placement of water tanks, location of cross-fencing to allow for rotational grazing and sustainable grazing capacity on remaining state-owned land. It will provide for the maximum commercial development of the land consistent with environmental concerns, thus ensuring that state leases are not overgrazed and will continue to provide needed revenue to support the public schools in Texas.

In August the General Land Office accepted a $53,405-a-year bid from L.N. Johnson of Lockney for a five-year lease of the 9,540-acre state-owned

Hackberry Creek Ranch in Brisco County. This is the first surface lease to require guaranteed annual payments to the state of permanent improvements to the property. These improvements can include constructing and repairing windmills and fences, developing additional water sources and pipelines, brush control, establishing wildlife feeding sources and erosion control. Requiring annual payments for permanent improvements to the property creates a built-in incentive to adhere to proper land and wildlife management techniques.

Another virtually untapped source of revenue we are vigorously pursuing is the addition of hunting lease provisions to current upland leases on state-owned land. Sam Brownley, a games management specialist in the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, has joined our staff. He will identify public lands suitable for hunting, make recommendations for sound wildlife management practices and implement newly adopted game management plans.

As an example, the 5,600-acre South Texas (Harper) Ranch in Duval and McMullen counties is being studied to determine how best to complement grazing leases with hunting leases. As hunting leases bring in higher fees than grazing leases, we can triple the present revenue from these lands within five years. Vegetation studies are presently underway to ensure that the objectives of cattle grazing, hunting and other multiple-use programs are compatible.

In addition, selective culling of deer will provide for an optimal buck-doe ratio for that particular land. Revenue from bird hunting at the South Texas Ranch is being used to fund construction of deer fences to facilitate game management objectives. This is but one of many state-owned leases where increased revenue can be obtained through multi-use programs.

Innovative land management practices such as these are in keeping with my pledge to run the General Land Office in a sound, businesslike manner. I will continue to develop new programs and maximize the revenues from public lands while protecting every Texan's heritage from irresponsible and short-sighted development.

July crude totals are cited

AUSTIN — Texas crude oil production totaled 71,991,989 barrels in July, according to Railroad Commission Chairman Mack Wallace.

This figure compares with June production totaling 70,324,492 barrels and July 1982 production of 73,487,527 barrels.

Texas oil production averaged 2,322,322 barrels daily in July, down from 2,344,150 barrels daily in June and down from 2,370,565 barrels daily in July 1982.

The July 1983 production allowable totaled 94,083,593 barrels. Texas oil production was 23.48 percent under the allowable for the month.

The state's top producing counties in July were Pecos 4,262,142 barrels; Ector, 3,773,567 barrels; Gaines, 3,773,567; Gaines, 3,743,948; Yoakum, 3,650,018; Andrews, 3,229,514; Hockley, 3,179,955; Gregg, 3,176,119; Scurry, 2,574,869; Crane, 2,155,001; and Refugio, 1,916,546.

Hundreds of farmers expected

Farm policy program forum set

Hundreds of Texas farmers, various members of Congress, top agricultural officials from throughout the country and Democratic U.S. Senate candidates will be among those in attendance in Dallas Saturday, Oct. 15, for the first of a series of national "Farm Policy Forums," according to Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower.

"We've had three years now of the worst agricultural policy imaginable, combining record farm subsidy outlays with the most unprofitable years for farming since the Great Depression, and I think it's time the politicians and the policy makers went out to the farmers who have been suffering through these hard times and listen to what they believe needs to be done," said Hightower, who is chairman of the Agriculture Council of the Democratic National Committee.

"Our Democratic forums will be wide-open efforts to discuss farm policy alternatives directly with the people who have to live under them. These grass-roots forums will give Democratic candidates a chance to meet with working farmers and ranchers to develop a new, common sense 'farmer' policy that can be offered with pride in 1984 as a genuine, workable alternative to the current mish-mash of programs that simply are not doing the job for agricultural producers."

Moderating the program, which is to be held at the Sheraton Inn in Dallas, will be former Texas Agriculture Commissioner and Democratic National Committee Chairman John C. White.

The all-day affair will begin at 9 a.m. with an open disucssion of farm policy needs in which key members of Congress have been invited to participate. In the afternoon all the Democratic candidates for Texas' U.S. Senate seat are expected to address the forum.

Agricultural officials, Democratic Party leaders and farmers from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico have all been invited to attend.

After the forum, a barbeque open to all participants and area Democrats will be held at a nearby farm. A well-known local country-swing band, the Democats, will provide entertainment.

Similar events are planned for Tennessee, Iowa, California, Georgia, Illinois and several other states to ensure that farmers across the country have a chance to make known their feelings on agricultural policy, Hightower said.

Democratic presidential candidates are expected to attend some of the forums, he said, and a special effort is being made to have all of the candidates appear at the Jan. 21, 1984, forum to be held at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa.

Jazz band concert is planned

CORPUS CHRISTI — Arrangements by two members of the Corpus Christi State University Jazz Band will highlight the first concert of the season Sunday, Oct. 9.

Roy Hinojosa, a senior music major from Gregory, has arranged "Affirmation," originally written by Jose Feliciano, for the band. This will be a premiere performance of "Affirmation." Ronn Cox has arranged the popular song, "He Ain't Heavy, He's My Brother."

The concert begins at 2 p.m. in Center for the Arts Warren Theatre. Admission is free.

Drummer Rich Flores will be featured on a Bill Byers composition, "Battery Charger." Some of the other compositions to be played by the 18-member group will be: "Freckle Face" by Sammy Nestico, "Song for Cymbaline" by Don Sebesky, "Switch in Time," also by Nestico and "Trollin' for Thadpoles" by Alf Clausen.

Patman favors limit to Marines' stay

Congressman Bill Patman said recently he voted to limit the stay of U.S. Marines in Lebanon to a much shorter period than 18 months because Congress needs closer control over the situation.

"I voted to limit the stay of our troops in Lebanon for a much shorter time unless Congress gave specific approval for a longer stay," Patman said. "The resolution I voted for, which was not adopted, would have assured continual close communication and cooperation between the president, Congress and the people on this important issue.

Patman said the resolution he supported was more cautious than the one adopted by the House which endorsed keeping U.S. troops in Lebanon 18 more months.

"We already have been there more than 13 months," he said.

"Our (defeated) resolution would have struck a good balance. It would not have committed our troops for 18 more months, but at the same time, it did not call for immediate withdrawal. It would have created a better climate for working out a lasting peace."

A&S Enterprises, a steel and iron fabrications company run by Lewis Arnold and Wayne Shreves, may be relatively young, but its owners have many years experience in the steel business.

Lewis Arnold has worked in the steel industry since 1946, working his way up the corporate ladder of several companies until becoming owner of Arnold Steel Company in 1971. He owned the company until 1979, when he retired.

Wayne Shreves has also had 25 years experience in the steel industry. After starting in Houston, he moved to Dallas and worked on the fabrication of oilfield derricks. He eventually came to work for Arnold Steel Company.

A&S Enterprises makes steel stairs, hand rails, miscellaneous iron fabrications, steel lentils, specialty parts for boats, does welding, minor auto repairs, light hauling and performs a variety of other services, including grinding and hole punching.

The firm has a large amount of equipment and materials stored in Allen, which are being brought down to Rockport as needed.

A&S Enterprises is located on Lazy Lane off FM 881. The firm is open 7 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Interested persons may write P.O. Box 1356, Rockport, Texas 78382, or phone 729-8204. The phone is answered 24 hours a day.

How To Shape Up Your Space

Conquer And Divide Space With Headboard

Make the most of living space with an attractive headboard/room divider.

If you're blessed with space but it's in the wrong place, a little room rearranging can work miracles.

Whether you're trying to get the most from a finished basement, an efficiency apartment or a large multi-use room, a headboard/divider can cleverly separate sleeping space from living or studying areas.

This is one of those easy-to-do projects that can be accomplished by anyone who can build a box. The entire grouping consists of two narrow shelf units, two sets of drawers that slide into the narrow units (or could be used separately), a wide shelf unit and a bed frame that fits into the wide shelf unit.

On one side, the headboard/divider has a place for the bed, drawers and shelf storage. There's a bonanza of shelf space on the other side. Dimensions will vary with the height of your ceiling, width of your bed's box springs, space available in the room and items you want to store in drawers and on the shelves.

The place to start this project is with the bedframe because the headboard will fit around it.

Review committee accepts bids

Duval County and cities in Live Oak and Nueces Counties were successful in their bids for grants in the first action of the Coastal Bend Regional Review Committee. The committee was appointed by Gov. Mark White to review applications for federal funds that come to the state in the form of block grants.

Nueces County Commissioner Richard Borchard is chairman of the committee. Staff work is being performed by the Council of Governments.

The committee held an all-day session and took action on three types of applications. They are funds in Community Development Block Grants, with a total of $1,139,763 allocated to the Coastal Bend, and Emergency Jobs Bill Funds, with $478,573 allocated. The committee made a recommendation on Economic Development Funds where there will be competition for $5,999,480 to be distributed state-wide.

The Texas Department of Community Affairs rated the applications by a point system. Some of the factors considered in assigning points were the poverty level, income, tax base, sales tax, homes without plumbing, unemployment, how fast the project could get underway, how many jobs it would create, seriousness of the problem that would be alleviated and how well that problem would be resolved.

Mathis has the highest percentage of unemployment in the Coastal Bend. In calculating unemployment for points, Mathis unemployment figures were used as a base and others in the region figured in relationship.

The Regional Review Committee then figured points. Their basis was the severity of the existing problem and to what extent the proposed project would resolve the problem. The state and regional points were added together for the decisive total.

Requests for Community Development Block Grants in the Coastal Bend totalled $5,606,763 and for Emergency Jobs Bill money, $2,935,433.

Among Community Development Block Grant applicants, Duval County was first with 729 points. Their request was for $500,000 to acquire land and construct a levee, bridge crossing and street crossing to deal with flooding of San Diego Creek. Robstown, in Nueces County, was second with 658 points, asking $500,000 to use in modifying the waste water treatment system to correct deficiencies in methods of disposing of sludge. Three Rivers, in Live Oak County, was third with 656 points. They asked $200,000 to upgrade the water system, which is contaminated by septic system affluent, to meet minimum health standards.

In the Emergency Jobs Bill competition, Three Rivers was first with 1,006 points to install a new sewer line and alternate transmission line, asking $100,000. Duval County was second with 860 points, asking $76,240 to complete one county park and renovate seven others. George West, in Live Oak County, was third with 848 points, asking $130,000 to lay utility lines in streets which are to be paved for the first time, the paving to be accomplished with HUD funds.

A decision will be made on the state level on applications for Economic Development funds. The only one reviewed by the regional committee was from the City of San Diego for $500,000 to demolish deteriorated buildings, improve downtown streets and establish a revolving loan fund, making seven low interest loans to businesses to renovate and improve inventory.

Other applications for Community Block Grants and Emergency Jobs Bill money did not compile enough points to be included this year. In order of ranking, they were:

For Emergency Jobs Bill funds, Mathis for sidewalks and streets, Jim Wells County for Rancho Alegre sewers; Premont for a water system and Aransas Pass for a drainage system.

For Community Development Block Grant funds, Mathis for a water system; Jim Wells County for Rancho Alegre sewers; Odem for a drainage system; San Patricio County for a water system in Edroy; Premont for a water system; Jim Wells County for a water system in Orange Grove; Sinton for a water system; Nueces County for flood control; Kingsville for a water system; Bishop for a water and sewer system; Beeville for street improvements; Benavides for housing; Aransas Pass for a drainage system; and Bayside for a water system.

The City of Alice received Community Development Block Grand funds without competing because they are in the third year of a program to which funds had been previously committed.

In previous years, applications were made directly to HUD, the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Agency, for community development funds. This year, the funds were turned over to the state and the governor named the committee of local officials to handle the review with the Texas Department of Community Affairs Administering the program.

On the review committee are Chairman Borchard, George West Mayor Albert T. Brown, Sinton Mayor Rosalie Brown, Kingsville Councilman Tomas Colin, Beeville Mayor Jesse DeRusse Jr., San Patricio County Commissioner Carl Duncan; Alice Councilman Alfredo T. Garcia Jr., Brooks County Judge J.B. Garcia, Robstown Mayor Julio Garcia Jr., Odem Mayor Jessie Rodriguez, Three Rivers Councilmember Louise Shumate and Duval County Judge Gilberto Uresti.

Office furnishings give clue to personality

"Ah, if only the walls could talk," curious people have been heard to say.

Well, they can, claims Dr. William Jurma of Texas Christian University's speech communication faculty, and so can desks and chairs and other office appurtenances.

Planning and furnishing of business offices, reception areas and hallways have a direct effect on communication, Dr. Jurma believes and members of his Organizational Communication class are learning to understand the messages.

For example, the large desk separating the executive from the client suggests status and power; for that reason, chairs for clients should be placed opposite the executive, not to the sides of the desk, a location that gives the effect of informality.

An informal area, a conversation grouping of two chairs flanking a small table, offers softer seating and eliminates the barrier of the desk. The attorney might steer his client to such an area if the other person is of equal importance or it their conversation is strictly informal.

There's still more to be learned from desk placement. If the desk is as close to the door as possible (leaving lots of space for the executive, little for the visitor), that is another indication of power. So is placement of the desk so that the sun shines from behind the executive into the eyes of the visitor.

Artifacts are revealing. Flowers on the desk say it's a woman's office. Family pictures, however, may indicate just the opposite. Jurma has found that women are less likely to display photos of their children, particularly if they feel their loyalty to the company might be construed as being lessened by their loyalty to their family.

Though this study of organizational communication is relatively new, Jurma already has some success stories to relate. Most often, students interested in organizational work major in speech communication then cross over into TCU's Neeley School of Business to study such specifics as management or accounting. One TCU graduate who majored in speech communication but also studied interior design is now internal communication consultant for a Houston architectural firm. Another graduate is in business with her sister helping businesses to redesign their interior spaces.

Merit pay for teachers questionable

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles on public education written by Betty Pyle, president of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association. This week's article addresses the merit pay system for teachers.

By BETTY PYLE
President, Texas Classroom Teachers Assocation

Most of us have grown up in this country believing that those who work the hardest should be paid the most. Why shouldn't the worker who can produce 20 widgets a day be paid more than the worker who produces only 10?

In the wake of the recent outcry against the inadequacies of our public schools, many people have been promoting the merit pay system — paying those who perform the best the most — as a cure-all for what ails our schools. After all, if it works in industry why shouldn't it work in our public schools?

Focusing on this single topic — merit pay for teachers — could delay meaningful changes in our education system, changes that need priority and need to be addressed. These include teacher pay in general, longer school days and longer school years, classroom discipline and more financial support from federal, state and local governments.

In addition, merit pay raises some important questions, such as how would meritorious teachers be identified and by whom, and is there enough money available from the state or local school district for merit pay?

WHAT WOULD BE THE DETERMINING CRITERIA FOR MERIT PAY?

Is the number of children taught a reasonable measure for establishing merit? One important point the politicians and others who are promoting merit pay seem to forget is that our children are not widgets — some assembly-line product — and that our teachers are not factory workers. Neither should be treated as such, and it is doubtful that many parents would want their children taught on the "assembly line approach" to education.

Can a teacher's merit be judged by student achievement test scores or more students with higher grades? If achievement test scores are used to decide how much teachers are paid, our children's progress in school is being equated with dollars and cents. Surely we do not want to create a system indicating that the progress of an intelligent child is more important than that of a slow child, and therefore the teacher of the brighter child should be paid more than those who teach the less gifted. Who deserves merit pay: the teacher who helps a bright student student increase one or two grade levels in achievement tests or the teacher who has helped a slow child finally learn to read and write, even though he still scores only six months better than he did last year and a grade level below where he should be on an achievement test?

In addition, using students' test scores to determine teacher pay could backfire. Students who don't like a teacher who is a strong disciplinarian could intentionally score poorly on achievement tests just to get even with the teacher, particularly if the tests don't count toward passing of failing a subject.

In addition, merit pay based on achievement tests and grades could cause parents to fight to get their children enrolled in classes of superior-rated teachers, and it could cause students who aren't enrolled in those classes to consider their educations as second-rate.

Devising an evaluation system that is fair, workable and void of favoritism would be extremely difficult. Super teaching is too complex to be recognized early or easily, which renders and evaluation of performance too subjective, leading to another important question.

WHO WOULD DETERMINE WHICH TEACHERS DESERVE A MERIT RAISE?

One of the major obstacles to the merit pay system, in addition to the evaluation process, is determining who is qualified to serve as evaluator. In private industry, the trained evaluator plays a key role in the process, but it is a role that often leads to favoritism and decisions not related to performance.

Some school districts in other states that have used the merit pay system have gone back to the straight-pay system, as a result of manipulation by administrators, evaluations being easily influenced by a teacher's subservient behavior and counterproductive competition among teachers.

Of particular concern is the problem of counterproductive competition among teachers. Ideally and for the benefit of the education system, teachers should work together. The merit pay system could have teachers pitted against each other for the sake of a pay raise instead of working together for the betterment of all students. Rather than consulting with one another or working together to solve a common problem, teachers could refuse to work with their colleagues so as to make themselves look better in the eyes of their evaluators.

WILL THERE BE ENOUGH "MERIT" MONEY?

Today, relatively few of the nation's 15,500 school districts use the merit pay system. A 1979 survey of 2,848 districts found that 115 had some kind of merit pay system and 135 others were considering adopting such a system.

However, 187 school districts that once had merit pay systems have dropped them. The major reason for discontinuing the merit pay system — lack of money. Lawmakers and others in Texas who advocate widespread use of the merit pay system should not overlook this one vital element, which could be an expense that taxpayers might not want to bear.

THE REAL PROBLEM

More money for good teachers could be vital to an overall effort to improve our public schools, but the overall effort first needs to be thoroughly researched and developed.

The real problem with the merit pay system is that it sidesteps the issue of paying every teacher a decent, respectable salary. Teachers' salaries today are too low to justify raising the pay of only a few. Before implementing merit pay programs, state and local officials should first pay our public schoolteachers a salary that will give the profession the prestige it deserves and will provide all teachers with a wage allowing a reasonable standard of living.

Real teaching success cannot be measured by pay, but is the direct result of such intangibles as a sense of accomplishment, of personal worth based on a grasp of the subject matter, and respect for students, fellow teachers, supervisers and the community at large.

An issue as complex as merit pay should not be seen as a panacea for what ails our public schools, and many important questions must be answered before it becomes standard practice in Texas.

VIABLE ALTERNATIVES

An incentive pay plan may be more easily and equitably administered while accomplishing the desired results. Such a plan could, for example, reward those who are willing to make an extra effort through working longer hours or longer school years, obtaining additional training, assuming more responsibility, etc. An incentive plan, to be viable, should allow any teacher who will make the required extra effort to obtain additional compensation, rather than limiting participation to a pre-selected number of educators as many merit pay plans do. When subjective meassures are employed in gauging the performance of teachers or administrators, quality assurances, such as evaluation systems which have been shown to be effective in field testing, should be implemented. Finally, although the need for reform in our public schools is clear, the structuring of changes must be deliberate and careful if our ultimate goal of improving the quality of education is to be realized.
