NEW YORK (AP) — An explosion killed one Negro and critically injured another Saturday in what authorities indicated was another "bomb factory" — this one in a grimy Lower East Side tenement.

In the wrecked six floor walkup, police said they found a Black Panther flag, Black Panther literature and a Malcolm X poster.

Although the damage was confined to one apartment, police summoned reinforcements to search the rubble, saying there was a possibility that more bodies were buried in it.

Fire officials said the home-made pipe bomb was like those which demolished a plush Greenwich Village town house on March 6, killing two men and a woman, all white. Police said they were young radicals making bombs in the cellars while the owner was away.

Airlines Threaten Suit Over 'Strike'

WASHINGTON (AP) — As traffic jams at a few key airports intensified the impact of an Easter weekend work stoppage by air traffic controllers, the airline industry Saturday threatened a suit against what it called an illegal strike.

The Air Transport Association, representing the nation's scheduled airlines, said it will file a damage suit in New York Monday against the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO).

Stuart G. Tipton, ATA president, said the suit is being filed because "a number of PATCO members encouraged by their leadership have embarked on an illegal strike that is causing extreme damage to passengers and shippers and to the airlines."

Tipton said also the airlines "have been incurring millions of dollars of extra costs because they have had to cancel flights, reschedule flights and pay heavy overtime charges."

The government already has obtained court orders against PATCO officials who face a contempt-of-court hearing this week.

With traffic slowed by numbers of air controllers staying away from their jobs, the problem was further aggravated as airlines ran short of crewmen to man their planes.

Long hours of standing on taxi aprons and runways were eating away the flight time allowed air crews under safety rules.

Struggling through what ordinarily would have been the Saturday lull in a three-day weekend, government and industry spokesmen spoke worriedly of the anticipated crash after the holiday.

"Getting them back home Sunday and Monday," said a spokesman for the Air Transport Association, "that's going to be the problem."

In most cities the situation was improved over Friday when thousands of air travelers, hurrying to out-of-town holiday, were stranded for hours at airports from coast to coast.

However, air operations in the New York and Chicago areas were near paralysis in the grip of a work stoppage by members of the Air Traffic Controllers' Organization (PATCO), which is protesting what it views as overwork, under-pay, under-staffing and obsolete equipment.

Unable legally to strike against the government, the traffic controllers in centers which direct big jetliners between airports have been reporting they were too ill to work. A number of controllers who work in airport towers also have stayed away. Many airports reported normal or near-normal staffs but many of those felt indirect effects of tie-ups at Chicago and New York.

DEEP DRIFTS — It looks as though the Easter Bunny is going to have to keep his egg-hiding indoors in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico, as the weatherman dropped eight inches of snow with 40 m.p.h. winds on the area, leaving five-foot snowdrifts and stranded motorists over the plains.

GOING TO SAN ANTONIO

Col. Lobdell Leaves Webb

An unexpectedly brief tour as wing commander at Webb Air Force Base is terminating for Col. Harrison Lobdell Jr., who has been selected to assume command of the 3510th Flying Training Wing at Randolph AFB, San Antonio.

He is to take up duties there by April 1. He is returning to the same wing of which he had been director of operations before coming to Webb to command the 3560th Flying Training Wing.

At Randolph, Col. Lobdell is to succeed Col. W. C. McGlothlin Jr., a former Webb wing commander who is scheduled to assume command of the U.S. Air Force Recruiting Service. Col. McGlothlin is due to don the star of a brigadier general shortly. Col. Lobdell also has been nominated for star rank, and his formal promotion is expected in a few months.

Col. Lobdell has been at Webb for less than a year, taking command of the wing here last July 1. However, he quickly assumed important participation in many of the city's civic programs, has been on the board of the Chamber of Commerce and has supervised directly the functions of the Base-Community Council.

Col. Anderson W. Atkinson, deputy commander for operations at Webb, has been named interim commander of the 3560th Pilot Training Wing. Col.

Atkinson also came to Webb last July.

The new assignments were announced Saturday by Lt. Gen. Sam Maddux, commander of the Air Training Command.

Col. Lobdell was born March 12, 1924 at Los Angeles, Calif., and attended New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell, N.M., from 1938 until 1943. He attended the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and graduated in 1946 with a bachelor's degree in military science.

From 1946 to April, 1949, he was a reconnaissance pilot with the 162nd and 8th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadrons. His assignment to the 13th Bomb Squadron, 3rd Bomb Group at Yokota Air Base, Japan, culminated in combat in the Korean conflict as a night intruder pilot.

He has also served at Headquarters, United States Air Force in Washington, Shaw AFB, S.C., Lowry AFB, Colo., England; Thailand and Randolph. He wears the Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster, Distinguished Flying Cross with Oak Leaf Cluster, Air Medal with 12 Oak Leaf Clusters and the Air Force Commendation Medal.

He married the former Patricia Benedict of Washington, D.C. They have four children: Harrison, 21, Lorinda, 18, Benedict, 16 and Darcy, 12.

Children Frozen In Deadly Storm

By The Associated Press

A deadly Easter storm that left at least two small children frozen to death in its wake pushed into the Gulf of Mexico late Saturday after spreading havoc in much of Texas.

The two children died near Bovina in the Texas Panhandle where two older sisters and a brother left them to seek help after their automobile stalled in heavy snow late Friday.

The big norther brought hazardous driving warnings to much of the Panhandle - Plains country Friday night, kicked up dust storms in far western sections of the state and chilled the rest of the state with low overnight temperatures.

Late Saturday, snow on the ground in patches across the Panhandle and South Plains and some rain in extreme East Texas as was about all that remained of the storm.

Cloudiness extended into much of North Central Texas and portions of the South Plains, but the remainder of West Texas and South Central Texas had cleared by dusk.

The frozen bodies of Luis Rodriguez, 8, and his tiny sister, Michella Rodriguez, 6, were found Saturday near their abandoned automobile. A third member of the Bovina, Tex., family, Eva, 9, was in serious condition in a Friona hospital suffering from exposure.

The smaller children were left in the car southeast of Bovina Saturday when the driver, their sister Lupe Rodriguez, 22, a younger brother and Eva went for help after the vehicle stalled in heavy snow.

The snowstorm became so heavy, however, that the trio had to seek shelter in an abandoned barn. While they were gone, the younger children left the car and froze to death within a few hundred yards of the vehicle. Lupe and her older brother were believed in good condition late Saturday.

Temperatures warmed up considerably across the state from the overnight lows but continued chilly back of the speeding cold front. Maximums for the day ranged from 85 at Brownsville, never touched by the norther, to 34 at Amarillo.

In the eastern two thirds of Texas where the snow didn't penetrate, rains and some thundershowers were frequent under generally cloudy skies.

The Eastern paraders generally could expect better conditions by Sunday afternoon as the storm was moving eastward and showing signs of veering to the northeast. Behind the front, colder air tumbled southward.

"The cold air will reach the coast by early Sunday morning," the Weather Bureau said. "An abundance of sunshine is expected to bring somewhat warmer temperatures to the state Sunday."

Cambodia Calls Up Veterans

By The Associated Press

Reacting to antigovernment demonstrations near Phnom Penh, the Cambodian state radio called all army veterans and reservists Saturday to return to active duty.

The broadcast heard in Saigon accused the Viet Cong of organizing the demonstrations at Kompong Cham, 35 miles north-east of the capital, "to come and trouble our capital."

Cambodians were told "not to be taken in by those who indulge in the games of the Viet Cong."

"You must understand," the broadcast continued, "that Sihanouk was legally divested of his functions of chief of state, conforming to the constitution. He is a traitor to the nation."

The radio referred to Prince Norodom Sihanouk, overthrown

March 18 while he was in Moscow. He then went to Peking where he called for an uprising against the new government, announced the formation of a "liberation army" and urged Laoians, Cambodians and Vietnamese to unite in a war against "U.S. imperialism."

Phnom Penh radio renewed a government appeal to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese to meet with a Cambodian delegation and arrange for the withdrawal of 40,000 North Vietnamese and 16,000 Viet Cong troops on Cambodian border soil.

This appeal appeared useless, since the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese closed their diplomatic missions in Phnom Penh and their leading diplomats have flown off to Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have announced their support for Sihanouk. They were joined Saturday by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao of Laos.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu said military cooperation between South Vietnam and Cambodia can only result from a request by Cambodian officials.

"The present government of Cambodia still holds to neutrality and does not intend to participate in any military alliance," he said in a statement to the Vietnamese press. "Therefore there is no question of military cooperation."

At about the time the statement was issued, the South Vietnamese troops made a raid two miles inside Cambodia on Friday to fight the Viet Cong. However, informed sources who insisted the raid did take place said the South Vietnamese consulted with Cambodian officials before making the attack. There were no new reports of fighting in Laos, where the North Vietnamese are threatening the army base of Long Cheng 80 miles north of Vientiane, the capital.

Reviewing the . . . Big Spring Week . . . with Joe Pickle

Happy (brrrr!) Easter! That cutting blast off the Cap Rock may be regarded by many as that "Easter spell," but a look at the calendar shows it to be just late March weather. March Easters, which are fairly rare, are also fairly cool. Fruit may have been thinned further by Saturday's low of 28, but the mercury didn't stay down quite long enough for severe damage.

Whatever else may be said about the promoters of the Rock Festival south of Lubbock, it can be stated that they must not be long-time West Texans — else they would have known the folly of planning an outdoor affair like this in this area so early in the spring.

The Herald has been flooded during the past week with nominations for Youth Achievement awards. There is a record number listed — a testimonial to the interest of adults in the young good guys.

Big Spring postmen voted to stay on the job last week pending negotiations when a national mail strike was threatened. Some noted the New York strike might be a wholesome thing if it would cut down on junk mail from that point.

The past week brought sadness to the many friends of Mai. Edward M. Hudgens, who gave his life for his country March 21 in Southeast Asia when his supersonic plane crashed. This was true also for Capt. Graham Galloway, who had

Christians Marking Easter Worldwide

By The Associated Press

Christians over the globe will mark Easter Sunday with old and new spiritual services, while the fashion world watches eagerly to see whether midi or mini styles prevail at Easter parades.

Pope Paul VI will motor to Aclia, a suburb of Rome inhabited by refugees from Eastern Europe, to celebrate an outdoor Mass before returning to Vatican City to deliver the traditional papal blessing "urbi et orbi" — to the city and the world — to the throng of pilgrims in St. Peter's Square.

President Nixon planned to spend Easter with his family at the winter White House in Key Biscayne, Fla.

Thousands were expected to attend sunrise services from coast to coast, with 20,000 persons counted on to show up for the 50th annual Hollywood Bowl sunrise service in California.

Thousands of stranded air travelers looked forward to a day in airports across the country, unable to get home for the holiday because of long flight delays caused by the air traffic controllers slowdown.

For the second time in 15 years, heavy snows forced cancellation of sunrise services at the Red Rocks natural amphitheater in the Rocky Mountains at Evergreen, Colo., near Denver. A giant snowfall canceled the program in 1958.

In Pittsburgh, a ministers' group will conduct an early morning worship service at the South Hills Village shopping center. The service will be peace-oriented and aimed at young people who frequent the center.

Worshippers at the sunrise service at the Yosemite National Park in California will be spared the early rising because the sun does not come up over the Half Dome in the 3,000-foot deep canyon until 9:30 a.m.

Traditional Easter parades will be viewed with particular interest this year by fashion designers and critics for signs of a trend showing whether American women are adopting below-the-knee length modes or sticking with the shorter mini styles.

Traditional Easter egg hunts were expected to draw countless

Customs Force Is Beefed Up

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — The Treasury Department has beefed up its Customs force in two Texas border cities Saturday, more than doubling the contingents at Del Rio and Eagle Pass.

Del Rio, which has seven agents, is getting 10 more. Eagle Pass had six agents and will have nine more assigned.

A general increase in the force was announced earlier for all border points by Treasury Secretary Kennedy.

children as usual. In Dekalb County, Ga., the Chamber of Commerce planned to hide 36,000 eggs dyed by prisoners at the county farm.

But, in Buffalo, N.Y., there won't be an Easter egg hunt for the first time in 25 years because the Professional Fire-fighters Association dropped its sponsorship and no one else would hide the eggs.

South of the border, thousands of Easter weekend vacationers headed for Mexico's beaches in record numbers. Hundreds of hippies and others were turned back at the border because the Ministry of Interior placed a ban on any person who did not present "a decent appearance."

In New York, hippies and other young people plan to converge in Central Park's Sheep Meadow for their second annual "Be-in." They will play guitars and meditate under the guidance of a yoga.

For Roman Catholics in the United States, the new liturgy for the Mass will be used for the first time on Easter. It was introduced last Sunday.

Monday Is Deadline For Youth Nominations

Monday at 5 p.m. is the "deadline" for filing nominations for the Yale-Herald 1970 Youth Achievement Award program. Those to be sent by mail must be posted today; those delivered in person must be brought to The Herald by 5 p.m. Monday. Nominations cannot be accepted after that time.

Names must be submitted on the form appearing in The Herald today on Page 10-B, but this may be accompanied by additional information.

The Youth Awards program — in its fifth year — seeks to give public recognition to young people who have demonstrated outstanding leadership in various schools, church and community activities, with emphasis on volunteer work done beyond "the call of duty." It is open to juniors and seniors of Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan and Sands High Schools.

Judges will be meeting shortly to start winnowing the list, and have the difficult task of naming four top awardees, one from each of the high schools. These winners will be announced at a banquet to be held April 23, when all nominees are recognized with gifts and certificates. The top four receive large trophies and watches.

There is a record number of nominations this year. The list swelled Saturday with receipt of the following names:

From Coahoma, Cecilia Cooper and Billy Don Fishback. From Forsan, Wanda Beeson, Alton Gordon Callihan, Richard Klahr, Ronny West.

From Big Spring, Ester B. Coates, Easy Ezell, Arlene Henderson, Joe David Moss and Mike Pope.

The Herald incorrectly listed the school of Connie Dunagan. She is from Forsan.

ENUMERATORS ARE ANNOUNCED

Nose Count Begins Wednesday

The 1970 Census begins in earnest April Fool's Day, but it is no joke. The official count will have an important bearing on representation in Congress, as well as the economic future of the area.

Census forms went into the mail last week, and some residents may have received them Saturday. Others will get the forms Monday and Tuesday, and starting Wednesday, enumerators will be calling on local residents to pick them up. Some residents will be asked more questions, and others will be assisted in filling them out.

The three crew chiefs for Howard County attended a final instructional class Thursday at Abilene, and the 42 enumerators for the county will be attending class Monday and Tuesday, receiving last minute instructions for the work that begins Wednesday.

Dr. Akin Simpson, and other census officials, thank all persons who took the tests to be an enumerator.

Actually, more than a score of families have already been counted in the 1970 census. Last week, the three crew chiefs called on some families in order to determine how long it takes to pick up the forms and get answers to additional questions. But the bulk of the residents in this county will be counted during April. Census officials plan to complete the count during the month, and a tentative population figure is expected to be announced in early May.

The Howard County crew chiefs and enumerators are:

Mrs. Doris Williams, crew chief; Mrs. Sarah A. Miller, Mrs. Dana R. Schafer, Mrs. Fleta J. Archer, Mrs. Margaret Pickering, William T. Bortner, Mrs. Mauvis Jones, Mrs. Betty Wrinkle, Mrs. Olive G. Hopper, Howard W. Hall, Mrs. Marylou C. Woolverton, Mrs. Suzanne E. Wade, Mrs. Vanda J. Graunke, James H. Mewis, and Mrs. Carol Reeves.

Mrs. Shirley Lee, crew chief; Mrs. Delores Brown, Mrs.

Cheryl Poltevin, Mrs. Dorothy Elmore, Jacqueline Cauble, E. L. Collier, Mrs. Christina Jones, James Green, Mrs. Justine Nichols, Mrs. Marie Darrow, Mrs. Mary Lee, James Ream, Mrs. Edith Weaver, Mrs. Delores Woolverton, and Mrs. Nita Holmes.

TEACH-IN TO DRAMATIZE PROBLEM

Ecology War Could Unite The Nation

COMMERCE, Tex. (AP) — "This planet is one giant cave and you can no longer throw your apple core in the cave because there are too many people in it," says East Texas State University biologist John Chambers to illustrate his point.

He was speaking quietly but pointedly about ecology—a subject many call pollution because of the close relation.

"The one thing that could really unite this country," Dr. Chambers said, "is a war that everybody can agree on. Ecology is that war. It is being fought by left wing liberals, by John Birch Society members, by 63-year-old ladies from Bakersfield wearing tennis shoes, and by ecologists in laboratories."

Chambers hopes to arouse student interest in ecology with a teach-in April 22.

"I guess I will be called an alarmist," he said. "They say we have to do something now or we're doomed. I tend to agree with them."

The activities will come on the day of a nationwide teach-in.

Washington leaders of the group coordinating the national teach-in said they expect students from more than 600 colleges to participate.

Dr. Harold Laughlin, director of the Heard Natural Science Museum in McKinney, will speak on populations and general ecology at the local teach-in, and Dr. W. R. McDaniel of the earth sciences faculty will speak on air pollution.

The teach-in is scheduled for 9 a.m. until noon sponsored by Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society.

Chambers, who is investigating algae to see what effect pollutants have on them, says that where pollution is concerned "no one wears a white hat—we're all part of the problem. Many knowledgeable experts are predicting a major catastrophe within the next five years. Some morning we may wake up and discover in our newspaper that thousands of people have died from air pollution in some large city."

But Chambers says there are some things that everyone can do to help correct the trend toward poisoning the environment.

First, he says people should ask their congressmen to pass bills requiring manufacturers to clean up their pollution. Second, the biologist says, citizens should recycle all materials whenever possible. Third, he suggests that buyers ask manufacturers for containers which will decay when they are no longer useful.

Chambers said people can help by doing simple things like not throwing beer cans out of their car windows. He said a recent study of the New Jersey Turnpike showed it is littered with seven tons of solid waste matter per mile per year.

The East Texas biology, chemistry and earth sciences departments plan to set up an Environmental Studies Council and invite a group of people interested in ecology to join. "After the teach-in," Chambers said, "We want to go forward with an ecology seminar for the public and students."

Dr. Roger Brooks, dean of Arts and Sciences, said, "The program might lead to workshops, and special courses with in various departments. It will cut across many disciplines and involve as many departments and faculty people as wish to be involved. At this particular time I can't see that there would be any immediate steps toward a degree in environmental studies, but that is certainly worth consideration."

Chambers said, "We don't know all we need to know about the problem, but we know enough to make an intelligent beginning. But it will require some sacrifices. People will have to accept some inconveniences."

The biologist said it is ridiculous for a man to take a trip alone in a 4,000-pound automobile. He said he believes air and water use should be federally controlled. Chambers said air and water across state lines and if a Chicago manufacturer pollutes the air, then "He is polluting my air."

The field of ecology is so broad and vast, Chambers said, that it overlaps into areas such as psychology. What will be the psychological affect of overcrowded conditions on people, for instance?

The estimate of the maximum number of people the world can support, said Chambers, is from 27 billion to 91 trillion people. However, he said that the latter figure represents the "squeeze figure," and that it would be impossible to reach it.

To reach that figure, the only thing living on earth would be man and algae, he said. People would be squeezed to death and there would not be enough oxygen to survive.

"We have probably already exceeded the optimum population for this planet," the biologist said. He used optimum as meaning "best" for political relationships, social intercourse and the quality of individuals' lives.

Long-term capital gains are defined as those on investments held for more than six months before selling. Short-term gains are those made on investments held six months or less, and the whole of these gains must be counted as regular income, subject to whatever tax-bracket the person happens to be in.

"Don't count the day of purchase but include the day of sale in determining whether you have a long-term gain," Merriman cautioned. "For example, if a stock was bought on April 28, 1969, and sold October 29, the profit is a long-term gain. But is the selling date was October 28, it is a short-term because the stock wasn't held for the required more than six calendar months."

If a person's stock transactions resulted in loss for the year, he can deduct up to $1,000 of the loss from regular income on his 1969 return, and can carry over any loss above that figure at the rate of $1,000 each year thereafter until the full loss is deducted.

No Change Yet In Gains, Losses

(This article is prepared by the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants on money-saving tax hints in preparing your Federal income tax return.)

While the next Tax Reform Act makes substantial changes in the treatment of capital gains and losses—which will affect taxpayers' returns filed in 1971 and thereafter—the rules with respect to capital gains or losses experienced last year are the same as they have been previously, according to Ed Merriman, president of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

This means that a person filing the federal income tax return due April 15 need include in his income only 50 per cent of any net profit he may have realized from the sale of stock he owned longer than six months. And the tax-celling of the 10 per cent surcharge, on long-term capital gains remains in effect for 1969 returns.

Long-term capital gains are defined as those on investments held for more than six months before selling. Short-term gains are those made on investments held six months or less, and the whole of these gains must be counted as regular income, subject to whatever tax-bracket the person happens to be in.

"Don't count the day of purchase but include the day of sale in determining whether you have a long-term gain," Merriman cautioned. "Changes concerning treatment of capital gains and losses, specified in the new Tax Reform Act, will begin to affect people's tax returns for income received in 1970—that is, the returns to be filed a year from now," Merriman said.

Witnesses Wind Up Meeting Today

The third and final day of dramatizations, Lunsford said a weekend circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses is being held in the City Auditorium today.

The delegates arrived Friday from at least 16 surrounding towns in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico and opened their sessions Friday evening with 876 in attendance.

According to C. L. Lunsford, presiding minister of the Big Spring congregation, Friday's program developed the assembly theme, "Sacrifices That Please God," with experiences, talks and platform dramatizations. Lunsford said "the families present heard and saw demonstrated the need to do our utmost in these critical times to offer God our best sacrifice. Our entire dedicated lives must be unspotted and unblemished by this world's actions and attitudes."

Saturday morning 456 gathered at City Auditorium to participate in the door-to-door Bible education work Jehovah's Witnesses are known for. Spokesmen for the assembly estimated that each residence in Big Spring would be called on during the convention. It was explained that these calls were designed to be friendly, brief and instructive.

Featured Saturday was a baptism and ordination ceremony of 27 new ministers. Officials pointed out that this was local evidence of the growth of the group worldwide that led to 120,905 new ministers baptized last year. Jehovah's Witnesses do not baptize infants.

The Saturday evening program stressed the importance of efficient methods in Bible study. "Accurate Knowledge Builds Fine Ministers" was the theme stressed.

The assembly will reach its peak today as near 1,000 are expected to hear the public lecture, "Withstanding the Pressures of Our Day." Closing talks by the district and circuit supervisors will admonish listeners on the Christian qualities of honesty and self-control. Big Spring area residents are invited to all sessions. No collections are taken.

Burleson Outlines Views In Announcing For Re-Election

Congressman Omar Burleson has formally announced his candidacy for re-election to Congress, subject to the Democratic primary on May 2 and the general election in November. The 17th congressional district, which he represents, is composed of 31 counties, covering approximately 30,000 square miles. Within this area live about 440,000 people. He is unopposed for the office.

Burleson said, "during my tenure of office I have followed two guiding principles: First, to know the views of my constituents and reflect their sentiments to the greatest degree possible in my actions in the halls of Congress. Second, to inform and advise as closely as I can on those issues which affect our district, our state and our nation."

Burleson termed his approach to government as one of "common sense," gained through the years of public service. "I have tried to see that the people's tax money is spent as wisely and as judiciously as you would have spent it had you been in my place," he said.

IN MINORITY
"The record will show that a greater part of the time I have found myself in the minority in opposing the vast spending programs of doubtful value which have been put into effect in recent years. In every session of the Congress the record will show my votes for expenditures below that recommended by the executive department and far less than actually appropriated by the Congress, except in the field of national defense," Burleson said. He continued, "Without meaning to appear boastful, if the Congress had followed those of us who have voted consistently over the years for fiscal responsibility, our financial affairs would not be in the shape they are today."

"In areas providing for the defense of our country, I have always supported those things to make and keep our nation stronger than any other in the world," he said.

"I have been discerning in separating those activities which the federal government was not designed to do, from those which are truly its responsibility," he said.

NO INFRINGEMENT
Burleson stated that activities of state and local governments, in accordance with the Constitution, should not be infringed and encroached upon by the federal government.

"The federal government does have specific missions," he said. He gave as examples the conservation of our natural resources, the defense of the country and its general welfare. "At the same time," he said, "the federal government can not and should not try to take care of everything from Washington, either foreign or domestic. The federal government has grown to colossal proportions and centralized power in Washington has increased," Burleson continued. "To this, I am opposed and my record is clear in this respect."

Burleson is among the senior members of the U.S. House of Representatives in point of service. He was elected to the 80th Congress from the 17th district and has been re-elected to each succeeding Congress. He is a member of the Ways and Means Committee, considered to be the most powerful and prestigious in the House.

WILL VISIT DISTRICT
Burleson is a former county attorney and county judge of Jones County. He was appointed an FBI Agent, and served in a number of assignments over the U.S. He resigned from the FBI to join the Navy in World War II, and saw duty in both the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Burleson concluded, "although not having opposition in this year's election, it is my hope to visit my constituency as opportunity affords. The Congress being in session at this time and expected to be long after the primary election, there will be little time to leave duties in Washington. I expect, however, to get back home at short intervals to do the best I can in seeing my friends and to make new ones. I believe it is incumbent upon a Congressman to know people and that they know him, to have the best representation. This is fundamental to our system."

LUBBOCK (AP) — Cary Lee Pollard, 22, of Lubbock was killed Thursday in a two-car collision on a city street, police said.

More Research At Station Here Is Urged

AUSTIN — Sen. Ralph Yarborough has called for expanded research at the Big Spring Field Station to find ways of preventing erosion in the southern plains.

He said the Big Spring field station of the Department of Agriculture must have more funds to expand its work and facilities, and noted that a study by the Department of Agriculture has shown that the expansion is both scientifically and economically feasible. The senator said that erosion last year damaged 583,495 acres of sandy soil in the south plains states of Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico and Texas, with Texas the hardest hit. In Texas, 487,190 acres were damaged in the 1968-69 wind erosion season, which is a substantial increase over the previous season, when 311,290 acres were damaged in Texas, en- Yarborough, a member of the Senate agriculture appropriations subcommittee, made the

Teenage Pusher Does Big Trade

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A teenager committed to the state Department of Institutions for using and selling drugs and marijuana claims he grossed more than $58,000 in illegal drug sales, police said.

Reports show the youth began using amphetamines in the sixth grade, marijuana in the seventh and LSD in the ninth, and dropped out of school as a sophomore.

INCOME TAX ANSWERS Correct Your Address, Tips Are Taxable

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the Internal Revenue Service and answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) My only income last year was from a summer job between semesters at college. To get a refund, can I just send in my W-2 or do I have to fill out a whole tax form?

A) You must file a tax return to obtain any refund due. Copies of Form 1040 and instructions are available at local IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices if you did not receive one in the mail.

Q) What's the tax difference between alimony and child support payments?

A) Alimony is considered taxable income to the recipient and has to be reported. Alimony payments are allowed as a tax deduction for payers who itemize.

Child support payments on the other hand are not taxable and do not have to be reported for tax purposes. No deduction is allowed for these payments, but they might be a factor in determining who can claim the child as dependent.

Divorce or separation agreements usually specify whether a payment is alimony or for child support.

Q) My brother and I each contribute one-third the support of our grandfather. He furnishes the remainder of his support from his Social Security. Can either of us claim him as a dependent?

A) The support test for claiming your grandfather as a dependent has been met since each of you contributes over 10 per cent of his total support and the sum of your contributions was over half of his support.

When this and the other dependency support tests are met, then either of you, but not both, may claim your grandfather as an exemption. The person not claiming the exemption should complete Form 2120, Multiple Support Declaration, which should be filed with the return of the one claiming the exemption. Form 2120 can be obtained from your local IRS office.

Q) I lost the forms needed to deposit taxes withheld from my employer's wages. Where can I get more?

A) Write to either your IRS district office or the service center where you file your returns. Give your business name and address, and employer identification number. Be sure to indicate the type of tax and the taxable period for which you need the Federal Tax Deposit forms.

Q) I drive over 40 miles a day going back and forth to work. Can I take a mileage deduction for this?

A) No, commuting is a personal expense under our tax laws and not deductible. However, you can deduct the state gas tax you pay as a result of your driving.

Q) I'm claiming a deduction for the braces my daughter needs to straighten her teeth. Should I send in the dental bills I've paid with my return?

A) No, but keep them for your tax records. They will be needed if this item on your return is questioned.

Q) Are tips considered taxable?

A) Yes, and they must be included in gross income. Also, cash tips of $20 or more that you receive in a month while working for any one employer should be reported to that employer. This will enable your employer to withhold Social Security and income tax on tips from your salary.

Q) The address shown on the label that came with my return is wrong. Should I correct it?

A) Yes, make the change right on the label and send it back on the return you file so that IRS records can be corrected.

Q) I have two sources of income, a regular job and part-time work for myself. Do I have to pay both Social Security and self-employment tax?

A) It depends on the amount of your wages. The maximum amount of income subject to Social Security and-or self-employment tax is $7,800. If your wages reached that total, then no self-employment tax has to be paid.

If your wages were under $7,800, then you should pay self-employment tax on part or all of your earnings from self-employment but only if your net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more. Remember the combined total subject to Social Security and self-employment tax is $7,800.

Q) I'm itemizing deductions. Can I deduct the service charges I pay in installment purchases?

A) The interest portion of service or finance charges is deductible. If this amount is not stated separately, you may deduct the lesser of an amount equal to six per cent of the average monthly unpaid balance or the actual charge for the year.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

SUNDAY
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Adapting a new attitude is advisable. But don't break up points of view and schools of thought that you have found workable. Try to be optimistic in all directions. You can use the best from the past and at the same time make additions that can be more modern in your thinking and expression.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Morning can prove to be rather dull but later everything perks up and you have a delightful time of the social. Your intuition is quite accurate, so follow it. Be happy with the one you love in the evening.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Be sure to get out to the services you like in the morning and get rid of your feelings of tension or boredom. Clear of an ally who is irritable. Evening is fine for going after knowledge you desire.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take the time to consider an ally who is feeling out of sorts, but later find better ways to get ahead of yourself. Forget that penchant for argument. Be happy with mate tonight; go out for dinner, etc.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Being of service to those who have done you favors in the past should be made part of your duties today. Be cooperative with others. Later in the day is best time for amusement, social calls.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) It is important you please others instead of having fun in the morning, but the evening is okay for whatever most tempts you. You have some new plan that needs to be put in operation. Get busy on that, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Kin are feeling out of sorts. Do not be hard on them. The remainder of the day can then be a happy one. Get rid of whatever is causing the trouble. Show that you are loyal, kind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't be extravagant in any way during the morning. Try to get the information you need then. Later be happy with good friends and show interest in their welfare. Be careful with your diet today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get rid of that irritation by delving into philosophical studies and then study new ways to add to present income. Being practical is most important now. Avoid persons who are not dependable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have aims in the morning that need to be postponed to a better time. Later you can do as you please in other things and get good results. You have in more practical to get projects working well. Be clever.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) A powerful individual can be approached now for the support you want, and then be very secure with the results. Be more concerned with the personal instead of business matters now, also. Did you forget that errand you were supposed to do?

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Get in touch with serious and successful people and listen to their advice for your own advancement. Find the best way to repay that social obligation. Show that you are a person of character and charm.

Skin-Grafts Of Pigskin Save Lives

WASHINGTON (AP) — New evidence was reported that temporary skin-grafts made of pigskin are helping save lives from serious burns.

And the relatively new technique was made possible, a Texas doctor said, largely because "the skin of swine more closely resembles human skin than that of any other animal."

The method involves gently placing thin strips of pigskin on open wounds left by burns. The idea is to reduce pain, cut chances of infection, and provide temporary skin grafts until permanent grafts are feasible. The patient's own skin—from sites elsewhere on the body—is used for the permanent grafts.

The pigskin strips take about two days to stick, but they're removed every four or five days and replaced with new ones—each time from a different pig, so as to cut down on chances of rejection by the human host.

Dear Abby

—ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 25 and Doug (made up name) is 29. We've been married for three years and are as yet childless by choice.

We love each other, but there is one large area of disagreement which has caused many heated discussions and nearly a separation.

Doug thinks nothing of inviting his friends to spend anywhere from a weekend to a month with us. (And what friends!)

Abby, I am not a lady of leisure. I have a taxing daytime job and we live in a small apartment and all the extra work of overnight guests falls on my shoulders. Even their laundry, and I am sick of it. These friends are lazy, careless, and ungrateful.

In all the time we've been married I don't think we've spent a dozen weekends alone. Once, Doug picked up a dirty hitchhiker and invited him to stay with us! He stayed nine days, and I was frightened to death of him. He had a wild look in his eye and I think he was "on" something.

In case you think Doug is stupid, he has a B.S. degree and a master's in social psychology. So what's the answer?

DOUG'S WIFE: DEAR WIFE: Common sense does not come in "degrees". Though on the face of it Doug appears to be big-hearted, he is foolish and inconsiderate to put friends (and even strangers) before you. You two need to come to a better understanding before baby makes three.

DEAR ABBY: A week before my husband's birthday, his mother, who lives out of town, called me long distance and asked me what he would like for a gift. I gave her a few inexpensive suggestions, then she asked if he could use any t-shirts and undershorts. I told her no, he had plenty, as that's what she gave him for Christmas. Then she said, (and these are her exact words) "Well, that's what I bought him, so that's what he's going to get whether he likes it or not!"

Abby, I know it's not the gift — but the thought that counts, but why did she bother to call and ask me if she already had the gift bought?

Would I be out of line to tell her next time to just send a couple of dollars in an envelope and let him pick out what he wants?

DEAR BURNED UP: Not in my book!

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman with a fine husband and two small children. I have lived in this area all of my life. My parents live near me. My husband has been offered a very big promotion which would necessitate our moving to another state. My problem is my parents. I am their only child and they have told me many times that all they have to live for is me and their grandchildren. Abby, how can I move and take away my parents' only pleasure in life and only God knows how many years they have left.

My parents can't move with us as my father still has to work for a living, and my mother has her mother in a nursing home here and she can't leave her. Please tell me what to do. My husband says it is up to me, but I know deep down he wants to take that promotion.

TORN: DEAR TORN: Your first responsibility is to your husband. You must move with him and return with your children to see your parents as often as you are able. It won't be easy to make the move, but "deep down" you know it is the thing to do.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90060. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

BURGLARS ARE A BIG HEADACHE

Rural Crime Takes Big Jump

(Editor's Note — The slick, hard-core thieves and muggers most commonly associated with urban areas have moved in on a more vulnerable front — the peace and heretofore solitude of rural Texas. Here's a grim picture of just how bad it has become.)

By JIM BRIGANCE
Associated Press Writer

Big city criminals in Texas have taken their nefarious art to the country.

And their pictures aren't very pretty.

Major Texas crime jumped 15.9 per cent last year.

Rural crime in many areas leaped over 60 per cent!

Jails become more crowded because of this, sentences become light—paroles quicker.

Floyd Hamilton and Clyde Barrow did it with shotguns, fast roadsters and a Depression era perversion of sense of right and wrong.

Today's thug does it with two-way radios, a sophisticated "fencing" system and a morality that opines "you have it and I want it."

But the worst part of this tawdry picture is that crime—particularly burglaries—is getting worse in the once pastoral rural areas of the state—the places where law enforcement is no so concentrated, where streets and roads are unlighted, where homes and businesses are more remote.

There was a major crime in Texas last year every 75 seconds of every day of every month.

Every seven hours someone was murdered. Some women were raped in Texas every three and one-half hours of every day of the year. A robbery was committed every hour on the hour, a burglary every four and one-half minutes, an auto theft every 14 minutes.

The clock keeps ticking and so does crime. But convictions have begun to sag. Crime clearance rates in the rural areas last year dropped from 44 per cent to 34 per cent.

That means only a third of those who perpetrate crimes are punished. Those that are punished, say many police officials, are too often given a probation sentence or a light jail term.

Sometimes burglars are back on the street before the policeman has finished writing his report.

But the picture isn't best seen on charts and graphs.

You have to talk to the thousands of victims, listen to the frustrated law enforcement people, read the tons of police reports.

Dallas County Sheriff Bill Decker says crime in his area has climbed eight to nine per cent in the past two years.

Galveston County Sheriff J.B. Kline recorded a like increase last year alone.

Harris County authorities say rural crime around Houston is up eight per cent over 1968.

Similar increases are reported from Travis County (Austin), Ellis, Rockwall, Hunt, Rains and Hopkins counties.

Even cattle rustling is much bigger business today than it was 100 years ago.

Burglaries in almost every instance are the big headache—particularly in resort areas.

Items most often taken are guns and television sets.

The root of this evil picture is frequently narcotics.

Addiction to narcotics is an expensive habit. Few can afford it. The alternative is robbery, theft and burglary.

"They support that habit by stealing guns or televisions or something they can sell quick," explains Bexar County Sheriff

Bill Hauck. "They know what they're looking for and go in and get it. They don't need but 10 minutes."

In the Waco area, sheriff's deputies say television sets and guns are the most sought items by burglars.

Decker agrees. Kline says guns, television sets and hi-fi and stereo phonograph sets are most frequently taken by burglars.

Travis County Sheriff T. O. Lang said burglaries at summer homes around Highland Lake have increased—mostly guns and television sets are taken.

"Apparently, there is a market for them some place," Lang said.

"I don't know where the guns are going," said Decker. "We recover a few television sets."

"We know a lot of items taken from fishing camps and summer homes around Galveston are fenced in Houston," Kline added.

The crime growth picture in rural areas of Hunt County provide a graphic example.

In the last six months of 1969 there were 78 burglaries, mostly farm homes and summer houses. That's 13 break-ins a month.

There were 19 burglaries in January alone and 10 more the first two weeks of February.

"I'd blame the big increase in crime—anywhere—on the liberalized probation and bonding procedures we have," commented Nueces County Sheriff Johnnie Mitchell.

"Years ago," he said, "I'd never heard of anyone being given two probations. Now you have people who are given probation as many as four times."

"We have a lot of first offenders," Kline said. "They're generally young adults under 25 who live in the area. They go out and break into these summer fishing camps because there usually isn't anyone around. Kemah, San Leon, Bolivar—they're all hard hit."

The criminals haven't confined their tastes, however, to inanimate items.

Cattle rustling has increased dramatically.

The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association reports that rustling of cattle and horses, theft of saddles and stock trailers is a million-dollar business.

"A good rustler can load up a truck and be in Colorado, sell the cattle, and be back in Texas long before the owner ever misses his stock," said a cattle raisers' investigator from San Antonio.

Sheriff Decker said he has increased his force by 100 men in the past two years "but I need more. We recovered $1.5 million in stolen goods but that's a small percentage of the things stolen."

"There is no one solution to the problem," said Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety. "I would urge Texans to notify their local authorities when they witness crimes or suspicious activities. I would also urge all citizens to serve on juries, and to assess upon the guilty appropriate penalties which will serve as the proper deterrent to the commission of criminal acts."

Aside from being expensive, bothersome, morally deteriorating, and frustrating crime can also be humiliating.

One recent Saturday afternoon a Hunt County deputy was one of the entire force on patrol for suspected burglars in the area.

The officers maintained radio silence as the probed the back roads and pastures of Hunt County.

Meanwhile, the officer's father had gone to pick up his wife at a bus station. He was gone from home about an hour.

Father, mother and young deputy returned to find the burglars had taken every stitch of clothing the deputy owned.

Minis Not For Marble Shooters

TINSLEY GREEN, England (AP) — Sean O'Geary, black-bearded executive of the World Marbles Board of Control, says one reason women are barred from the Tinsley Green marbles championship is that "they look ridiculous when they crouch."

At the Thursday meeting Den I presented the skit, "Crafty Craftsman," and color slides of the hike taken during Christmas vacation and of the Blue and Gold Banquet in February were shown.

Webb AFB is getting a new altitude chamber. This unit, which simulates conditions in the upper atmosphere, has been used to train some 37,000 student pilots and others in the 17 years plus it has been used. The replacement will be larger and handier.

Women volunteering for the Easter Seal drive collected $346 in their rounds during the week, and when all returns are in, the total may approach a thousand dollars. Funds from this and other sources are used to help crippled children and adults — and our own Dora Roberts Rehabilitation center benefits frequently.

COMMUNIST RULES FOR REVOLUTION

In May of 1919, at Dusseldorf, Germany, the Allied Forces obtained a copy of some of the "Communist Rules for Revolution." Nearly 50 years later, the Reds were still following them.

1. Corrupt the young; get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial; destroy their ruggedness.

2. Get control of all means of publicity, thereby:

1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.

2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule and disgrace.

4. Always preach true democracy, but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible.

5. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

6. Incite unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.

7. By specious argument, cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues—honesty, sobriety, self-restraint, faith in the pledged word, ruggedness.

8. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

That is quite a list, isn't it? Now, stop and think—how many of these rules are being carried out in this nation today?

Air Attaches Missing In Laotian Flight

VIENTIANE, LOAS (AP) — Two U.S. Air Force attaches are missing in the crash of their light observation plane in central Laos during an "orientation flight," the U.S. Embassy announced Saturday.

The two attaches were identified as Capt. Richard G. Elzinga, 27, and 1st Lt. Henry L. Allen, 26. The embassy spokesman said he would not disclose their home addresses because "a lot of people's families are pestered by nuts."

The spokesman said the plane has been missing since Thursday morning and "a search and rescue thus far has been unsuccessful."

"We do not know whether it was a mechanical malfunction or hostile action," the spokesman added.

The observation plane, a single engine OI Birdog, took off on its mission from Vientiane, but the spokesman said he did not know where it was based. Earlier reports from informed sources said the aircraft was based in Thailand.

The spokesman said both men were attached to the air attaché's office here on a temporary duty status. He said Allen had been here five months and Elzinga had just arrived. Allen presumably was giving Elzinga a check-out.

While Air Force officers in Vientiane are listed as air attachés—a diplomatic category—they fly spotter missions for Laotian bombers and other reconnaissance missions.

Earlier reports had said the plane was flying in the area of the U.S. supported base at Long Cheng when it went down. The embassy spokesman said, however, he could not give a specific location except to say central Laos.

BRAVING THE COLD — These festival-goers used paper sacks to ward off the cold Friday, as the rock music festival found its biggest foe to be the West Texas weather. Cold winds, rains, snow — but no earthquakes, yet — hampered the floundering show. Court action, power problems, and the weather have kept the Peace Festival struggling.

Israelis Trying To Halt New Missile Installation

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes have been trying to halt installation of new Soviet-built anti-aircraft missiles in Egypt, Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Alon said Saturday.

It was the first public confirmation of such a plan, but increased air activity over Egypt in recent days indicates that both sides are determined to have their way.

Israeli pilots have claimed knocking down nine Egyptian MIG21 jets in dogfights over Egypt since Wednesday.

Egypt reportedly has received at least 15 of the latest Soviet-built SAM3 missiles, along with about 1,500 Russian soldiers to help operate them. The new missiles apparently have been sent in to replace older SAM2s destroyed by the Israelis.

Allon, an ex-general, told a state radio interviewer that the Egyptians and their Soviet advisers "know very well that in order to hit the Israelis they must control the air."

"In order to control the air," he added, "they must clear it of Israeli aircraft. They hope to do it by the new anti-aircraft missiles."

He continued: "I think that it's an Israeli defensive necessity—and an indispensable necessity—to go ahead, not only with smashing the existing anti-aircraft system and other military installations, but also to prevent them from rehabilitating the old ones."

Retired Gen. Haim Herzog, a former chief of Israeli military intelligence, made similar remarks, in another radio interview.

Commenting on fighting along the Suez Canal, Herzog said: "In order to stop or at least limit the war, Israel must control the air over the front-line area. To do this, Israel must prevent the siting of the new missiles. Obviously, if to judge by the air battles which have been taking place this week . . . they (the Egyptians) or their advisers are equally determined to establish the missiles in order to protect their front lines and are not inclined to return to a cease-fire."

In Lebanon, Palestinian guerrillas attacked an army truck and kidnapped 15 customs agents as the nation's political crisis continued for its fifth day.

Three Lebanese soldiers were wounded, one seriously, when guerrillas fired on the truck near the northern Lebanese town of Baalbeck. It was the first time the army had been involved in an incident connected with the current dispute between Arab guerrilla groups and the rightist Falangist party.

The death toll in the crisis rose to 41 Friday night when one guerrilla was killed in an ambush on a guerrilla convoy in Beirut. Four commandos were injured in the attack, raising the number of wounded to 41.

Falangist party chief Pierre Gemayel, meeting with government officials in Beirut, said he was trying to find a way to assure the Palestinians that his organization was not trying to liquidate the guerrilla movement.

Interior Minister Kamal Jumblatt said in a television broadcast that he believes there is a plot to plunge Lebanon into civil war. He did not say who he thought was behind the plot, but Egyptian and Syrian newspapers have accused the United States of spending $1 million to foment fighting between the two factions in Lebanon.

In battlefield action, Syria claimed its troops occupied 21 fortified Israeli positions Friday night along the Golan Heights cease-fire line. The strongholds were destroyed and all the Israeli manning them were killed or wounded, spokesmen in Damascus said.

Israel denied the claim and reported only one bazooka at-

Levelland News Staffers Killed In Air Crash

AUSTIN (AP) — The publisher and editor of the Hockley County Herald in Levelland, near Lubbock, were killed Friday night in the crash of a small private airplane northwest of here.

Sheriff T. O. Lang said the victims had been identified as Allen Gardner, publisher, and Joyce Mathews, editor, of the South Plains newspaper. They were the only two occupants of the plane.

The National Transportation Safety Board began an investigation.

Gardner and Mrs. Mathews were en route home from a tour with Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes of facilities for treatment of drug abuse.

Diplomat Released, But Prisoners Are Still Held

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A left-wing organization freed a kidnapped Paraguayan diplomat Saturday without obtaining the release of two political prisoners demanded as ransom.

The group said it did not go through with its threat to kill Waldemar Sanchez, 56, "for humanitarian reasons."

The Argentine government thus became the first to defy the demands of Latin-American terrorists who have kidnapped five other diplomats since September, freeing all in exchange for the release of political prisoners.

Sanchez, a Paraguayan consul in the border town of Ituzingo and a grandfather, appeared at the Paraguayan Embassy Saturday morning, four days after he had been kidnapped by three members of the Argentine Liberation Front.

Sanchez said he had been confined to a room in a "modern home," had been well fed and treated, and had been attended by three men who always wore black hoods. He said he was freed in a Buenos Aires suburb, and immediately took a commuter train and taxi to the embassy.

Dominican leftists on Friday freed Lt. Col. Donald J. Crowley, the U.S. Air Force attaché at the embassy in Santo Domingo, after the Dominican government sent 20 political prisoners to exile in Mexico as ransom.

Two other U.S. diplomats have been kidnapped and freed in similar fashion since September, as well as the foreign minister of Guatemala and a Japanese consul in Brazil.

Texas Death List Soaring

By The Associated Press

An unexplained surge of traffic crashes sent the count of violent deaths soaring in Texas this Easter weekend.

There was no particular way to pin it directly to Easter vacation travel, however.

Well before noon Saturday, the toll had mounted to 24 deaths since 6 p.m. Friday. Traffic accounted for 17 of the deaths.

Latest reported deaths:

Mrs. Jintana D. Duett, 30, and her son, Ted Duett, 2, were killed Saturday in a head-on collision between their car and a pickup near Schulenburg.

A small plane crashed about dawn Saturday 35 miles north-east of Sinton, killing the only passenger, Willis Mack Hickman, about 45, of Mathis. The plane burned.

Two cars collided head-on Saturday in Comanche, killing Judy Darlene Hardin, 22, DeLeon Norman Strube, 28, Proctor, and Chris Henry, 16, Comanche. Joseph Cameron, 56, a San Antonio postman, died in a two-car crash Saturday in San Antonio.

Eula Celestine Nealy of Dallas was shot to death in Dallas early Saturday and police searched for a man friend of the woman.

Jose Medina Rodriguez, 43, died of three shots in the chest Friday night in a Houston bar. Mose Earl Hubbard, 24, was killed by gunfire at his home in Houston early Saturday and police held a woman for investigation.

West Texas Rock Music Still Struggled Saturday

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The troubled organizers of West Texas' first rock music festival struggled Saturday to keep the show going. They even talked with a tone of optimism.

"The sun is out, we hope it will warm up, and there is no mud to slow traffic," Phil Brummett, lawyer for the Southwest '70 Peace Festival, said at the site.

"We haven't had an earthquake yet," he said, but the festival has had just about every other trouble.

A court action forced it to move from Dickens, 63 miles east of here, to the outskirts of Lubbock. There was a delay while the stage was set up. Then the proper power generator was late arriving.

The first guitar twanged at 2 p.m. Friday and the first storm struck six hours later, bringing dousing rains and cold winds. Snow fell briefly Saturday morning in a chill 26-degree temperature.

State officers estimated 4,000 rock music lovers were present when the fierce storm struck. "They took off in every direction," said a spokesman for the state patrol.

"This is ridiculous," commented a long-haired Texas Tech student as he fled through the rain.

About 400 by patrol estimate spent the night in automobiles at the site. Others accepted invitations from churches, schools and individuals to find shelter with them.

One major refuge center was St. Christopher's Episcopal Church where an estimated 200 hippie types, some of them barefoot, spent the night. They slept in the church basement, so packed there was not room to walk.

Church members fed breakfast to the crowd. By mid-day Saturday, officers said they had made 292 arrests at the site since 5 p.m. Wednesday—but most of those arrested were persons driving by to see what a rock festival looks like.

The arrests for marijuana possession reached 18, while four other persons were picked up for possession of unspecified harder drugs. Officers said they did not intend to send law enforcement officers home. More than 300 state patrolmen and Rangers were on duty.

NOT A SKULL — Dana Jones inspects a fossil found by him and Jimmy Wiley Friday near Westover Road. Because of suture marks, the boys thought at first they might have a piece of fossilized skull.

Youngsters Find A Fossil, But Not Of A Human Skull

A fossilized skull it's not, but it is a fossil; and for two Goliad Junior High School eighth graders it was quite a find to add to their two-day-old collection of fossils.

Jimmy Wiley, 14, and Dana Jones, 13, found the piece of rock Friday afternoon while hunting fossils near the twin water storage tanks west of Westover Road.

The rock was in three parts lying close together and when the youngsters fitted the pieces together and found several well-defined sutures similar to those in a human skull, they at first thought they might have such an object.

However, Miss Gladys Burnham, biology teacher at Howard County Junior College, said she didn't think they had a skull. "My first guess would be that it is non-vertebrate, in fact it probably comes from a pre-vertebrate age," she said.

She said the fossil is probably part of the tail section of a nautilus, related to the present day mollusk. A nautilus, she explained, was an animal similar to a snail, but the animal's shell did not expand with the animal as a snail's does.

When a nautilus grew too big for its shell, it moved out of the hard covering and grew another shell, sealing the previous shell off behind it, creating the sutures. Sometimes these "tails" grew as long as 30 feet, she said.

She hesitated to date the fossil, just saying it is probably from a pre-vertebrate era. Jimmy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wiley, 404 Ryan and Dana is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Jones.

"We were just hunting something to do during the Easter holidays and decided to start a fossil collection," Jimmy said.

Boy Scout Troop 16 has returned from a fishing trip to the Pecos River, south of Pandal. Thirty-six boys and four leaders fished, hiked, and explored caves along the river banks. The campout was concluded with a fish fry.

For the past 16 months, the troop has averaged at least one campout a month. Its next event is a Court of Honor April 7, and later a father-son fishing trip to Brownwood Lake.

The troop meets each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Elbow school, and Bill Mims, scoutmaster, said boys of 11 years and up are invited to attend. Forsan Oil Well service sponsors the unit.

Thurmond's term in office did not end this year. Gonzalez was the first to announce. Deadline for filing has been reset for April 7. The first primaries are May 2.

Candidates Quizzed On Police Topics

The topics of a "merit plan system principle" for the city police department and a 40-hour work week for police officers apparently have been put forward by an organization as issues in the City Commission election to be held April 7.

All 13 candidates on the City ticket have received letters on these topics over the signature of M. R. Koger, listed as temporary chairman, advisory board of the sponsor members of the Big Spring Police Association.

The letter asks candidates to check whether or not they favor the "merit plan system principle" and the 40-hour work week for policemen. Comments or ideas "which you think would be of interest to the Big Spring Police Association and the sponsor members."

The communications are on letterheads of the Big Spring Police Association, described as a charitable corporation.

Koger's letter states that the Association has amended its by-laws for the appointment of an advisory board composed entirely of sponsor members "whereby they could act independently of the Association and to serve as a communications vehicle between the Association and the general public." The letter says sponsor members now number approximately 100. They are not identified.

Plainview Man Shot In Montana

Carswell Picks Up Additional Backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Sherman Cooper, a respected Border State Republican, gave Supreme Court nominee G. Harrold Carswell a boost Saturday by declaring he will oppose the move to scuttle the nomination by sending it back to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The Kentuckian in a statement issued through his office said also he will vote for Carswell's confirmation if the recommitment move scheduled April 6 is defeated.

Supporters of Carswell, increasingly worried about Republican defections from President Nixon's nominee, had feared the possible loss of Cooper on the crucial recommitment vote. They were concerned lest such a loss sway uncommitted GOP senators.

The net effect of the senator's announcement was to leave the outcome still very much in doubt—while giving supporters a psychological victory.

Eleven of the 18 active and retired judges sitting with G. Harrold Carswell on the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals have wired President Nixon expressing their confidence in Carswell.

Tax School Slated Here April 6-8

The Texas Association of Assessing Officers will sponsor a school for tax assessors April 6-8 in Big Spring, offering three courses required for certified tax assessors.

Courses II and IV will be taught in the Settles Hotel, and course V in the Ramada Inn, Mrs. Zilah LeFevre, Howard County Tax Assessor-Collector, said.

Course II is a basic course covering the legal basis for taxation, theory and approach to value and the assessment of real estate. Max E. Noller, Dallas director of revenue and taxation, will be the instructor.

Course IV, an advanced treatment on the assessment of personal property, will be taught by Floyd Carr, certified tax assessor.

Course V is a complete course in compiling and writing demonstration appraisals reviewing the approaches to value and will be taught by F. E. Murrell and Connie de la Garza, both certified tax assessors.

Approximately 200 tax assessors are due to register in the Settles Hotel April 5 from 2 to 6 p.m. A barbecue dinner will be served at 7 p.m. in the Cosden Club with a square-dancing exhibition.

Examinations for the three courses are scheduled from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. April 8, when the three-day school dismisses.

Gunship Pilot Hops Back Into Action

CHU LAI, Vietnam (AP) — Chief WO Mel Walker was shot down Friday night, got out alive, then flew another mission that night and two more Saturday.

Walker, who flies a Cobra helicopter gunship, could have asked for a day or two off and easily gotten it. It was the third time he'd been shot down by enemy gunners.

But when they brought the lanky 23-year-old flier back to Chu Lai, he just ate dinner, found another Cobra and went back to work.

"What the hell, somebody has to do it," said Walker, whose home is in Los Angeles, "and we're short of pilots right now." Friday was a bad day for Walker and his copilot, WO Herman Davis, 35, of Clewiston, Fla.

It started as a six-helicopter "people-sniffer" mission, a search for north Vietnamese troops in rugged triple canopy jungle 80 miles west of Chu Lai. The area has mountain peaks as high as 5,000 feet.

Their ship was hit by ground fire over the Nam Nim River, which straddles the boundary between Kontum and Quang Ngai Provinces.

"It got a little hairy," Walker said. "We started losing oil pressure, so I took her down. Lot of NVA down there saying 'Hi' to us."

"I started to set the ship down and about eight of them started running at us. That didn't look so good and I still had a little power left, so I picked another spot. It wasn't so hot either."

It was a small sand bank in the middle of the river, and a dozen North Vietnamese soldiers were dashing out of the jungle.

The fliers were rescued by a UH1 Huey transport helicopter down by W. William Boyle, 22, of Pittsburgh, Pa. Boyle's ship was hit by either rocket grenade fragments of machine-gun fire while taking off, but made it back to Chu Lai.

Walker's ship was deliberately destroyed on the ground by another Cobra ship.

Boyle, a pint-sized pilot who looks too young to be flying a helicopter, grinned in embarrassment when asked what he thought about while coming in to rescue Walker and Davis.

"Heck, I don't know," he said. "You had to think about those guys down there."

"That makes twice he's done that," Walker said. "Yeah, we make a pretty good team," laughed Boyle.

Then they excused themselves to fly another mission.

SUBJECT TO ACTION
DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY, MAY 2, 1970
Political Adv.

Demo Chairman Fearful Of Costs In Campaigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien forecasts a day when the Democratic Party he heads "could well be priced out of existence" by the high cost of television and a hefty Republican bankroll.

And the Democratic national chairman said he doesn't have the slightest idea what to do about it.

O'Brien said he believes the Republican Party will wage a $50 million campaign for the re-election of President Nixon in 1972. He said that probably would mean a ratio of 5 to 1 in Republican over Democratic campaign spending.

"It's of such a nature that I think it threatens the whole democratic process," O'Brien said in an interview with The Associated Press.

Here are the questions and answers from the interview:

Q. Do you realistically feel you can pay off a $9 million debt between now and the start of the 1972 campaign?

A. I don't know. These are valid debts. We accept fully the obligations to pay these debts and we will do everything humanly possible to bring that about. I do see some daylight already after two or three weeks here.

Q. What about 1972?

A. Projecting this into 1972 and the presidential election, I think that the overriding problem is apparent, that is there is a political revolution going on. The two-party concept is being challenged. The traditional strength of the Democratic Party can no longer be taken for granted. We must prove our case to the new generation and others and the party label is no longer as strong a force as it has been in the past.

I do believe the two party system will survive, but there are times when I wonder if I'm not being overly optimistic.

Q. Why?

A. You talk about the priorities of the 1970s, you talk about the issues of the 1970 campaign, you talk about potential candidates of the Democratic Party in '72, you talk about discontent and how deep it is or isn't with Nixon at this point, all of these things are valid. But what I feel more than anything else in all of this is whether or not the Democratic Party can present its case, if you will, to the American people into the future, in the presidential election of 1972 and beyond that, present its candidates, its issues, its position on the issues, its goals, aspirations, with any assurance of equity in their presentation . . . This gets to the dollar factor and it's as simple as that, that at this point in time the Democratic Party could well be priced out of existence.

Q. What are you going to do about this?

A. I just want a complete in-depth review of this situation. I want to know what the role is of a party in dealing with American television. I want to determine just what equal time means or doesn't mean. I want to determine whether or not the executives of television networks are going to determine when a political party can present its views to the American people and when it can't, what is a campaign period.

The basic problem is whether or not it is in the national interest to maintain a two-party system that has built into it some assurance of equitable presentation of a party and its candidates to the American people.

So we get to the summer of '72. And if we've gone on quite well, we've programmed well, we've been competitive organizationally and all the rest with the Republican national party, and what have you. To what end? In the summer of 1972 you're faced with a $50 million Republican campaign for Mr. Nixon's re-election and all you can point to is that you have done a reasonable job of reducing indebtedness and maintaining continuity. I'm not crying any crocodile tears or anything else. I do suggest it goes far beyond politics, if you will, it goes right to the very heart of our system.

Q. Are you suggesting legislation in this field?

A. Could be. I think this media of television has absolutely changed the whole concept of political campaigning and I think that is all to the good. I am not quarrelling with the television networks in the area that Spiro Agnew has quarreled with them at all. I'm not even remotely involved in that. I am talking about three major networks in this country with corporate executives that direct those networks and make these determinations and I've just got to know whether the networks are going to run American politics or what.

Drug Raids Nab 32 In Corpus Christi Area

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Widespread drug raids in South Texas had resulted Saturday in 32 persons arrested, and the drive still was on.

Of 48 persons named in 71 indictments, 28 were arrested in San Antonio and Corpus Christi and nearby towns, and in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Four others, not billed in the indictments, also were jailed.

Charges accused the 48 of selling narcotics or dangerous drugs.

State narcotics agents and local officers expected more arrests shortly.

Elmer Terrell, head of the state police Narcotics Section, came here from Austin to coordinate the drive, part of a series which started several months ago.

The indictments were returned after six months of inquiry by undercover agents, whose primary targets were pushers to teen-age or college age addicts.

Bonds were set as high as $40,000 for Alvin Roundtree, 57, who was among those arrested in Corpus Christi. Others jailed here included Elisha Mason, 18, and Darrell Wallace, 18, for whom bond was set at $20,000, and Steve Anderson, 18, bond $7,500.

Bonds for others ranged down to $1,500.

Officers hunted for drug law violators in Luling, Brownsville, Robstown, Nixon, Berclair, Mission, Beeville, Cibola and Odem.

Similar roundups were made a few months earlier in and near Austin, Houston, Beaumont, San Antonio and El Paso.

De-escalate the war.

Believe it or not, highway hostility is not one of the necessities of life. It doesn't even have to be a fact of life.

Just because the other guy has an axe to grind doesn't mean you have to grind it with him. When another driver temporarily loses his head, don't lose yours. Don't honk back. Don't shout back. Don't drive aggressively to hold your ground. It usually takes two to tango in a hostile auto maneuver. And when two tango on the road, the results are almost always sad.

The war of nerves and bad tempers doesn't have to go on. Your new car dealer would like to see the war end.

He would like to see more peaceful, safer streets for all Americans.

So the next time the other guy tries to take out some highway hostility on you, do the one thing that will prevent an accident and might make him come to his senses. Keep your cool. Courtesy on the road can put out a lot of fires.

There is an alternative to War...Peace.

Survey Indicates Ample Industrial Labor Force

The female labor survey conducted in Big Spring for two weeks ending March 16 has produced more than enough women with factory sewing experience to begin operations in a garment industry, should such an industry locate here, Chamber of Commerce Manager Tom Eastland said Friday.

Last week, the Chamber surveyed its labor survey with the purpose of determining how many of the women who completed nearly 2,400 questionnaires were experienced in factory garment-making.

Eastland said a total of 951 women contacted during the survey indicated they had experience in the sewing industry in other cities. He said this figure seemed disproportionately large and enlisted the help of chamber employees and others to conduct a random check of those women who listed such experience on the forms.

Of 493 contacted by week's end, 51 had actually worked in the garment industry. "This is a trend factor of a little over nine to one," Eastland said, "and if carried out through the rest of the 951 who listed experience, should produce more than 100 women in Big Spring with factory sewing skills." This should be more than sufficient as a base around which to build a garment factory here, Eastland said.

AMERICAN LEGION Post Commander Dr. Gale Kilgore discusses plans for the organization's 51st anniversary banquet next Saturday with the event's chairman, W. H. Wharton. The 110 World War I veterans living in the Big Spring area will be honored.

Legion Post To Mark Anniversary Saturday

The 110 World War I veterans in the Big Spring area will be honored next Saturday as the local American Legion post celebrates the national organization's 51st anniversary at a dinner and ceremony to be held at the legion hall beginning at 6 p.m.

Mothers who have lost sons in the nation's armed conflicts will also be honored, as will the post's past commanders. The post's annual citizen awards will be given to outstanding residents and a special memorial will honor a past leader in the community.

Webb AFB will furnish the featured speaker at the ceremony to be named later and Ned Barnaby will serve as master of ceremonies. The Boy Scout Troop sponsored by the post will serve as color guard.

The American Legion was founded March 15, 1919, at a meeting of World War I veterans in Paris. Col. Teddy Roosevelt Jr., is credited with the idea for forming such a veterans organization.

Now more than 2,600,000 members participate in Legion activities in 16,000 posts across the nation.

The local organization has been active in all Legion projects, including Boys' State, Boys' National, the National High School Oratorical Contest, American Legion Baseball, Boy Scouts, Boys Clubs and scholarship programs for needy children.

Aged Vet Entry Rule Broadened

Veterans 65 or older no longer have to disclose financial details to be admitted to a Veterans Administration hospital.

Previously this information was required from all veterans who did not have a service-connected disability and were not drawing a pension.

Veterans in this age group need only to certify that they are unable to pay for needed hospital or domiciliary care and for transportation for non-service related medical conditions.

trained in the laws and regulations pertaining to benefits for disabled veterans and for the dependents of deceased veterans who work with the state and national headquarters to help all veterans obtain medical care, training or other services they need.

The Legion originated the GI Bill of Rights after World War II, helped push it through Congress, and has been instrumental in obtaining later veterans legislation.

The local post has played an integral part in these and other national programs and has initiated such projects on its own, as the "I Am An American Coloring Book and Record," which will be out in first printing next month.

All American Legion members and their families are welcome to attend the ceremonies at the post facilities

SPRING IS HERE!! Texas Farmers Need Convincing

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Spring is here but a lot of Texas farmers need convincing.

Beautiful weather, blue skies and sunshine, were welcomed in every section of the state as the week started, but said Director John Hutchison of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, "I guess it was just too good to be true."

Rains and snow a week earlier stopped most outdoor work, further delaying planting in all sections.

The over-abundance of moisture, Hutchison noted, was welcomed by stockmen for it means plentiful grazing later in the spring. Ranges would really come on, he said, if we could get some good growing weather.

Wheat on the South Plains (Lubbock) was making excellent growth after recent rains and snows. Livestock are being moved from the fields. Onion and potato planting is being done as field conditions permit.

Surge beet planting has also been slowed by cold, wet weather. Most land has been prepared but some slow down was noted due to the weather. Livestock generally are in good condition and marketing is normal.

Moisture was adequate to surplus in 20 of the 22 counties in the Rolling Plains (Vernon). Grain growth was good and insect damage light. Fruit trees are in the near full bloom stage and little freeze damage is apparent. Ranges are providing above average grazing and livestock are in good condition.

Moisture in far West Texas improved, but the cold has slowed the growth of range weeds and grasses. Plowing has been stopped but grains are making good growth. Livestock were in good condition. Sheep and goat shearing was on.

Rain, snow and sleet left West Central Texas with fully adequate to surplus moisture and stopped all field work. Grain growth was good but warmer weather is needed. Freeze damage to early peaches is still unknown. Ranges and livestock are in top condition. Goat shearing is about 75 per cent complete.

South Texas moisture ranges from short along the Rio Grande to surplus in the Coastal Bend around Corpus Christi. Cotton and sorghum planting in the Valley is near complete but cold and wet soil is delaying planting in other areas. Citrus is in peak bloom.

Low prices have slowed the harvesting of carrots. Cabbage volume is beginning to taper off. Potatoes look good. Corn planting is about complete. Pastures are greening up and livestock are improving.

COTTON AND SOYBEAN GROWERS!

Put a Planavin barrier between you and this year's weeds

Shell Planavin, used right, provides a chemical barrier an inch and a half within the soil which gives you all the advantages you should expect from an incorporated cotton/soybean herbicide. Effective and long-lasting, the Planavin barrier protects your crops from weeds and grasses that rob water and nutrients. Give your cotton and soybeans a headstart against weeds. Use Planavin. With Planavin, you have a two-day leeway between application and incorporation. Isn't it time to come in and see us and change to Planavin?

Trevino Fires 68 To Tie For Lead

MIAMI (AP) — Boisterous Lee Trevino, putting on the pressure all the way, carved out a four-under-par 68 Saturday and tied Bob Menne for the third-round lead in the $200,000 National Airlines Open golf tournament.

Menne, the young man from Massachusetts who had led the first two rounds, was playing in the same twosome with the self-styled Merry Mexican and finished with a 80, two under par on the 6,223-yard Country Club of Miami course.

They are tied at 203, 13 under

Trevino, who repeated as the Tucson Open champion earlier this year, trailed by as much as five strokes at one stage as Menne got off to a fast start.

The 28-year-old four sophomore held a two-stroke lead starting the warm, sunny day and quickly stretched out with a string of three consecutive birdies starting on the second hole.

Trevino made up ground slowly, caught him once on the 12th, again on the 15th and for the final time at 18 when Menne put his tee shot under a tree, was stymied and settled for a bogey.

Grabarkewicz Is Standout In LA's Win

By The Associated Press

Billy Grabarkewicz and Dave Arrington provided the extra-inning thunder that carried Los Angeles and Pittsburgh to exhibition baseball victories Saturday.

Grabarkewicz hammered a 16th-inning home run to give the Dodgers a 1-0 victory over the New York Mets in a brilliant pitching duel. Jerry Koosman worked seven innings and Tug McGraw allowed just one hit in six innings for the Mets. Bill Singer went eight innings and Jose Pena allowed just one hit in five for LA.

In a "B" team game between the Dodgers and Mets, Don Sutton worked all five innings and doubled in the winning run in LA's 2-1 victory.

Arrington's two-out homer in the bottom of the 10th gave the Pirates a 5-4 decision over Philadelphia. Rookie Richie Zisk and pitcher Dock Ellis also homered for Pittsburgh.

Seattle pounded Oakland for 20 hits, including homers by Ted Kubiak, Mike Hegan, John Kennedy and a pair by Danny Walton to batter the A's 19-1. The Pilots bunched 18 runs in the last six innings after leading 1-0 after three.

Carl Yazwzanski and George Scott waltzed homers and Bobton beat Detroit 5-3. Scott's shot was his sixth of the spring and raised his batting average to .481 and slugging percentage to .1019. Jim Northrup, Bill Freeman and Willie Horton connected for the Tigers.

Mack Jones cracked two homers, a double and a single, leading Montreal to a 9-0 victory over Kansas City. Joe Sparrma, Gary Waslewski and Carroll Sembera shared the five-hitter—fifth shutout suffered by the Royals this spring.

Rookie John Matias smacked three hits, increasing his spring average to .420 and moving the Chicago White Sox to a 7-3 victory over the Pittsburgh "P" team. Matias also scored three times.

Jim Palmer and Dick Hall combined for a seven-hitter to blank the New York Yankees, 6-0. Palmer worked the first six innings and Hall finished up.

Johnny Callison unloaded a grand slam homer, then drove in two more runs with a double and led the Chicago Cubs to a 10-5 victory over San Diego. Ferguson Jenkins pitched eight innings for the Cubs.

My Dad George Terlago Triumph

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — My Dad George increased his earnings to $265,000, a whopping profit on a $13,500 investment by Curtis and trainer F.J. McManus at the 1969 Hialeah two-year-old sales.

Naska, destined to be among the Florida Derby favorites, was scratched by owner Richard Hersch early Saturday. The 3-year-old colt was running a high temperature, which caused him to pass up the prestigious Flamingo at Hialeah last month.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Terlago captured the $141,000 Santa Anita Derby Saturday, matching the success of his sire, Terlang, in 1956.

Compounding what would have been astronomical odds against its happening, jockey Bill Shoemaker rode both Terlago and Terrang, and en route registered his sixth victory in the Santa Anita Derby.

Shoemaker kept the Kentucky bred Terlago off the pace set by George Lewis and came rushing through in the stretch to beat the front runner by 2½ lengths.

Aggressively, longshot at 70-1, was a surprising third.

Terlago is owned by F. J. Agnew, a timber baron from Tenino, Wash., and the victory in this 33rd running of the derby was worth $96,400.

The time for the 1½ miles run on a fast course was a creditable 1:48 2-5.

Each colt carried 120 pounds. Heavily favored by a crowd of about 50,500 on a sunny afternoon, Terlago paid $5, $3.40 and $3.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Veteran Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles rallied Saturday and defeated Britain's Graham Stilwell in the fourth round of the $49,000 South African Open Tennis Championships.

Howard County did, however, tie for fourth place with a 128 low-ball score.

Texas Tech took top honors at the meet, overtaking both the New Mexico State No. One and No. Two teams during Saturday's round by shooting a round of 592. Tied for second place were the two New Mexico State teams with a 595.

Oklahoma took fourth place with a round of 605. Wichita shot a 616, Eastern New Mexico had a 620, Arizona had a 621, Arkansas a 623, and Howard County copped ninth place with a 626 to round out the top teams.

A total of 18 teams were entered in this year's meet with all teams staying for the entire rounds except Sul Ross, who left after its round on Thursday.

All but four of the 18 teams entered were four year schools. The only junior college teams entered were Howard County, New Mexico Junior College, New Mexico Military Institute and Odesa.

Low men for the Jayhawks were Tommy Jackson and Jeff Nieto who each shot a 36 hole total of 156. Second place went to Randy Truelove with a 158.

Mike Weaver, Willie Brelan and Teddy Griffin all tied with a total of 166.

Howard County will see action Friday when it hosts the next to last WJCAA Region V golf tournament at the Big Spring Country Club.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Veteran Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles rallied Saturday and defeated Britain's Graham Stilwell in the fourth round of the $49,000 South African Open Tennis Championships.

The 40-year-old American won 2-6, 9-8, 6-4, 6-1. Butch Buchholz, another pro from St. Louis, was forced to default in the fourth round because of an aching elbow. Britain's Mark Cox was leading the American 1-6, 6-1, 3-1, when Buchholz quit.

In the women's division, American pro Billie Jean King and Rosie Casals, top-seeded Margaret Smith Court of Australia and Mrs. Ann Jones of England advanced easily into the fourth round.

Astros Rally To Decision Twins, 5-4

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Jim Beauchamp repeated his home run feat of a week ago with a two-run shot in the ninth Saturday as Houston rallied for three runs and a 5-4 exhibition baseball victory over Minnesota.

Beauchamp's bases-empty homer March 21 in the ninth inning off Stan Williams beat the Twins 5-4.

With Williams pitching again Saturday, Beauchamp lined a homer to give the Astros their fourth straight victory against the Twins this spring.

In the Houston ninth, John Mayberry doubled and Doug Rader followed with a run-scoring single before Beauchamp connected.

The Twins had taken a two-run lead in the eighth off Ron Cook on run-scoring singles by Harmon Killebrew and Paul Ray Powell.

Derby Winner Shocks Many

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — When Sunland Park Derby victor New Kameha King was first brought to George Till for training, he was regarded as almost untrainable and destined to be a cheap claimer throughout his equine life. In fact, he responded so poorly to early training efforts that the situation bordered on hopeless.

But with the patient handling of Till and H. L. Nash of the Racehorse Farm, New Kameha King was made ready for the races and responded with a clever victory in his second start.

His connections were still not sure what they had but his second score over allowance stock made him look more and more like a horse with a future.

It was reported from the backstretch this week that New Kameha King could now bring $10,000, but betting is that he goes to the post next time in the same colors under which he won the Derby.

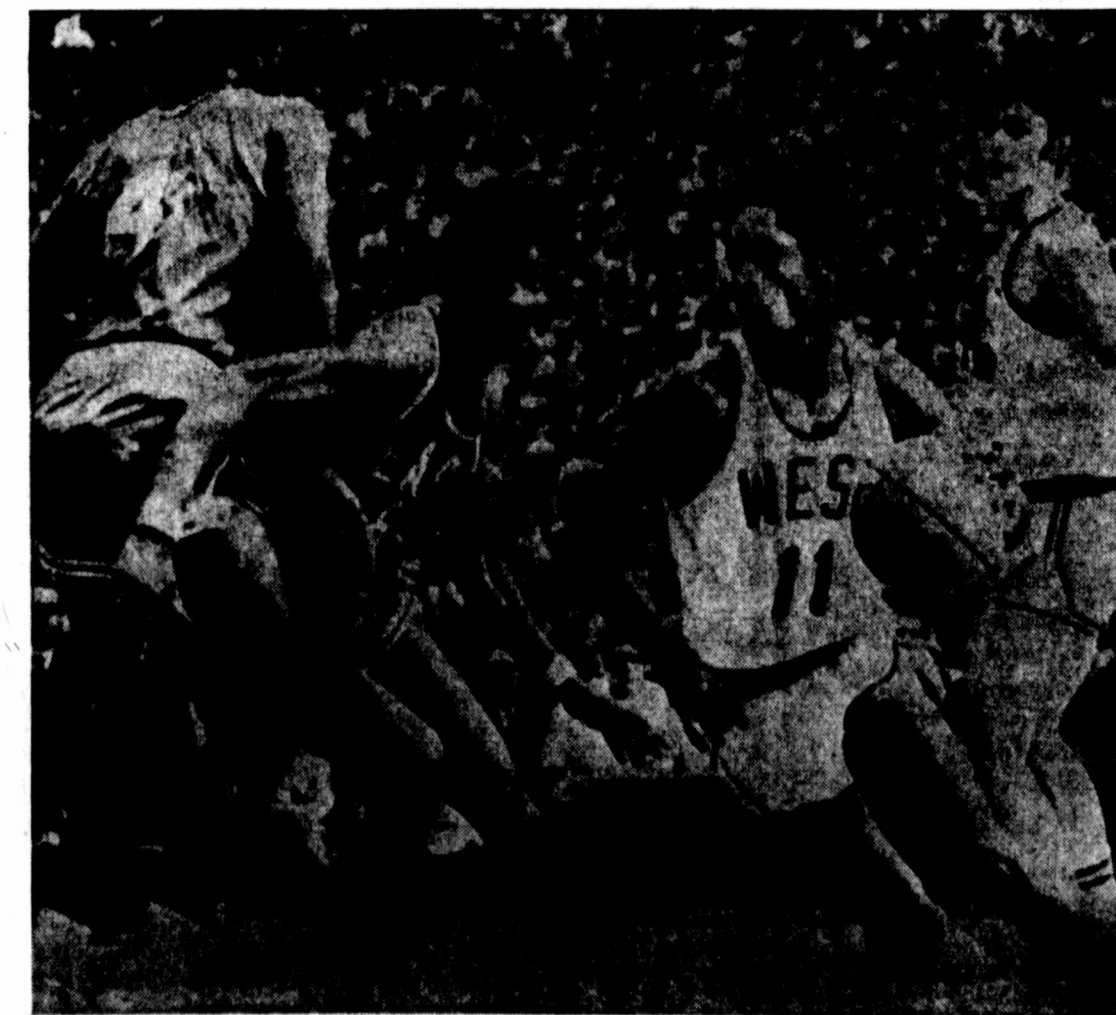

Just a few observers realized they were watching the future Derby winner when New Kameha King scored his sprint victories, it may not have been apparent that a legitimate Sunland Handicap candidate was seen winning last Saturday's allowance feature.

COACH OF THE YEAR—Don Knodel, whose Rice Owls won the Southwest Conference basketball championship, turns his talents to the spring time tasks of his flower gardens and the never-ending yard work. These spring tasks are sandwiched between the prime task of recruiting. Knodel was named by the Texas Sports Writers Assn. as the Winter Senior College Coach of the Year. Knodel praised his players and his assistant coach for helping win the accolade.

Seattle Decision Is Expected On Monday

SEATTLE (AP) — Two courts will decide Monday Seattle's destiny in major league sports.

One likely will send the only baseball team in town on its way to Milwaukee and the other may well decide if it ever will be replaced, either by another baseball team or a football team.

U.S. District Judge Sidney C. Volinn, referee in bankruptcy, will determine Monday whether the Seattle Pilots' American League franchise should be sold to Milwaukee Brewers Inc. for $10.8 million. The sale would pay off the team's many creditors.

That same day, the State Supreme Court will review a Circuit Court decision asking voters where a $40 million domed stadium should be built. Some say the outcome of that hearing actually will determine if the stadium will be built at all. But King County officials say the availability of a tenant will be another factor.

Monday is the All-Star Game in the middle of Seattle's court season. The World Series comes to the Pilots go. That's when the city, county, state and a Seattle

Houston May Be Too Good For SW 11's

HOUSTON — Slowly but surely, all of the old excuses given by most Southwest Conference schools for not wanting to play the University of Houston in football are vanishing.

There is really only one left. Houston is just too good. To date, however, only Auburn's Shug Jordan has said this. When asked who his 11th game would be, he said, "Anyone but Houston." He was kidding, of course.

Twenty years ago, it was popular to say that there was nothing to gain by scheduling Houston. You might lose and you could gain nothing by winning. That was true 20 years ago. No the Cougars are the only team in Texas that has finished among the nation's top 20 for the past four seasons consecutively. The shoe is really on the other foot.

Fifteen years ago, when Houston regularly began winning more than it lost, the thing to say was that Houston could take transfers or that Houston could get players in schools that SWC schools could not.

ON OTHER FOOT

Again, the shoe is on the other foot. Only 29 of the 55 freshman football signees in the spring of 1969 were able to end school in the fall of 1969. During that same recruiting period, UH actually lost players to some SWC schools because of a less stringent minimum S.A.T. requirement, a requirement that allowed WC schools to enroll players who made as much as 140 points less on entrance tests at one point on the scale.

And transfers from senior colleges? Every single player who started on both the offensive and defensive units, plus the two kicking specialists for Houston in the Cougars' 36-7 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl win over Auburn played freshman football at UH and has remained at Houston since that time. UH also has a rule that any transfer must be academically eligible to return to his original school before he can be accepted by the University.

Ten years ago, it became more popular to say that schedules are made out so far in advance that it is just impossible to work in another game. And, after you play seven conference games, you really need more inter-sectional games.

The 11-game rule changed that. However, the 11-game rule created a brand-new "reason." The latest is not wanting to extend the season. That is not wanting to extend the season unless there is a fat television check or bowl check waiting.

Oh, there have been others. One used in the pre-major league era was that a game between Houston and Rice would split the city of Houston. When people realized that Houston was not the size of a normal college town, however, and that teams like Southern Cal and UCLA had been carrying on a rivalry for years, this excuse also went down the drain.

PARTING OF THE WAYS — Jockey Dennis Nolan about to take a lead in the three-mile Novices' Steeplechase event at Pluiston, England, Saturday afternoon as his mount, "Gefn Taffy" makes a mistake at the open ditch — sending his jockey into an unorthodox lead as he catapulted from the saddle. Neither jockey nor horse were injured.

Fairly, Santo Hit Homers In 5-1 Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Solo home runs by Ron Fairly of Montreal and Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs, plus a three-run eighth-inning uprising, brought the East a 5-1 victory over the West Saturday in the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Baseball Classic.

A crowd of 31,694 watched the charity game in Dodger Stadium. Proceeds go to the late Dr. King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference and a memorial center planned for Atlanta.

Lew Krausse of Seattle was the victim of both home runs, Fairly's coming on his first pitch of the third inning and Santo's to open the fourth.

Fairly, former University of Southern California and Dodger star, was awarded the trophy as the most valuable player in the game in which stars from both the National and American leagues were divided geographically.

Jim "Mudcat" Grant of Oakland sang the national anthem in the pregame program, and then became the victim of a four-hit uprising in the East in the eighth inning that insured the outcome.

Al Kaline of Detroit beat out an infield hit to open the frame and moved to second as Tom Agee drove Hank Aaron to the left field wall on a long fly.

Kaline raced home on Lou Brock's double to left. Brock scored on Roberto Clemente's double and Clemente came home on Ken McMullen's single.

After Jackson put the West down in the seventh inning, he gave up a single to Willie Davis, opening the eighth.

Davis reached second after the catch of Aaron's long fly and the Dodger scored on a pinch-double by Ken Berry of the Chicago White Sox.

For this initial charity game, former New York Yankee great Joe DiMaggio managed the East, and ex-Dodger Roy Campanella, confined to a wheelchair since a 1958 auto accident, directed the fortunes of the West.

Coretta King, widow of the late civil rights leader, threw out the first ball, with Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and a host of Hollywood celebrities on hand.

Bracey, Billeck Claim Andrews Blue Ribbons

ANDREWS — Steve Stallings, Stanton, ran second in the Division II mile run in the weather-plagued Andrews Mustang Relays here Friday, at which time he was clocked in 4:44.0. Olton's Mike Parsons won the event in 4:42.8.

Stanton's Alex Rios was fifth in the same event.

Stanton wound up with ten points in the standings. Ozona won the division with a total of 96 points while Stamford was second with 80.

In Division I, Borden County settled for seventh place with a total of 22 points while Klondike counted one point.

Sudan was the winner in that class with 108.

Odesa Permian won Division IV with 204½ points while Midland Lee was the runner-up with 136½.

In Division III, Seminole led with 100 points, followed by Andrews with 75. Colorado City was tenth with 21.

Carl Devorce of Colorado City topped the shot put with a toss of 54.7.

Stu Bracey, also of the Wolves, was first in the 100-yard dash in the time of 10.2.

Gail's Billeck won the Division I broad jump with a leap of 20-1. Lopez accounted for Klondike's only point in the shot put when he wound up sixth with a heave of 42-5¼.

Whitaker of Gail tied for first in the high jump with Floyd of Van Horn with a leap of 5-6.

Sanchez of Gail settled for sixth in the 120-yard high hurdles in the time of 17.6.

Boyd, Colorado City, was sixth in the Division III shot put with a toss of 49-5.

Ector Falls To Midland

ODESSA — The Midland Bulldogs built up a 5-0 lead after three innings, added one in the fifth and then ran up eight more runs in the sixth inning to bomb the Ector Eagles, 14-1 here Friday in District 3-4A West Zone baseball action.

Catcher Don Smith led Midland with two run-scoring doubles in the sixth inning.

Martin Gonzales, now 3-1 for the year, picked up the win. Mario Velasco took the loss and dropped to 3-2.

Midland, 5-5 for the year, is now 1-1 in district. Ector, also 5-5 for the year, is 0-2 in zone play.

Crippled Exercise Boy To Be Honored In Race

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — picture with a good effort Sunday.

Riley Gilbert's successful four-year-old Rag Tag Circus will lead a strong band of older horses postwar today as Sunland Park presents the Willie Jackson Purse at one mile.

The race honors the former Sunland exercise rider who was seriously injured here last year and is now confined to a wheelchair. The Willie Jackson purse is expected to serve as a last important prep for those interested in the Sunland Park Handicap at 1 1/4 miles on April 12.

Post time for the 12 race program is the usual 1:30 p.m.

Rag Tag Circus, who has accounted for the El Paso Handicap and Kern Plaza Allowance here this season, both at sprint distances, stretches out for the first time since finishing third to Maquinarias and Mr. Pegasus in the New Mexico Handicap last November. He picks up 122 pounds for the upcoming test and will have his regular rider Bobby Harmon in the boot.

Other Sunland Handicap candidates who have chosen the Willie Jackson Purse for their next start include Smith and Hendrix's Benevolent Tyrant, Alan Antwell's Senior Sly, Leopoldo Villareal's Tanorac, Charles Ware's Joe Day and Carter McGregor's Mr. Pegasus. Completing the field is W. F. Woodside's O. Tay Red who could enter the handicap 1970 score.

DIGGING DIVOTS Linksters' Best Talents Grouped

By BILL HENRY

Combine the best talents of some of the golfers who play the Municipal course here and you'd come up with a linkster with vast potential.

If I had to create the mythical champion, he would hit his tee shot like Jerry Barron, Marvin Williams or Richard Pachall, hit his fairway woods with the talent of Bob Waters, Jimmy Welch or Dewey Byers. My long iron man would be either Bobby Smith or Jimmy Welch. For short irons I would have to use the talents of Marvin Williams.

Houston Ticket Price Constant

HOUSTON — Eight years ago Houston joined the big leagues in baseball.

In 1962, in old Colt Stadium, ticket prices were set at $3.50 for box seats, $2.50 for reserved seats and $1.50 for bleachers.

In 1965, the Houston Astros moved into the Astrodome, but tickets prices remained at $3.50, $2.50 and $1.50.

And in 1970, Astros ticket prices still are $3.50, $2.50 and $1.50.

The Astros have held the line on prices while six other National League clubs have announced price increases for 1970.

Monday, Astros tickets went on sale for the first official championship series of the 1970 season for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 10, 11, and 12 when the Astros play the Atlanta Braves.

Tickets are on sale at all five Foley's stores, most Texas International Airways counters throughout the Southwest, the Astros' satellite ticket office in the Houston Bank and Trust Co. Building, and at the Astrodome ticket office.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Hayes Looks To Good Year

By TOMMY HART

You might refer to the departing HCJC basketball coach, Buddy Travis, as The Spoiler. He'd given local buffs good teams so long they'd grown complacent about it and invariably expected nothing but the best out of the program.

The new coach will, no doubt, have to go through a period of adjustment before he can field a team approaching HCJC's strength during the Travis era and that age could be tough on coach and fans alike. . . . Cisco College's Ken Henson, one of the men who was interviewed about the job here, might have made the change had it not been for the fact that he has practically his entire lineup returning next season and reasons the Wranglers will win a trip to the National JC meet. . . . Had the school signed Henson, they would have been insured immediate success in recruiting, since Ken is the brother to coach Lou Henson of New Mexico State and gets most of his talent through Lou. . . . Bullet Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys scorns all those claims that Dallas is a big loser. . . . "Are we frustrated?" Hayes asks. "I don't consider any season in which you win 11 games frustrating. We lost the championship game to Cleveland, and things would have been much better if we hadn't. But we had a good year, everything considered." . . . Bob sees no reason why the Cowboys can't be among the top contenders again in 1970.

DAN ISSEL

The consensus All-America basketball team this year was notable because four of its five members were white—Rudy Tomjanovich, Michigan; Dan Issel, Kentucky; Pete Maravich, LSU; and Rick Mount, Purdue. . . . Ordinarily, Negroes dominate the team. . . . The Ector County school system is in no hurry to build a new stadium, although the plant it now uses is owned by Odessa College. . . . The school district invested the $600,000 it got for the stadium site in U.S. Treasury notes drawing 7.36 per cent interest. . . . By the time the note matures, the money will have earned $303,975 in interest. . . . Have you heard about that woman who came home after her first bowling game to tell her husband: "And I didn't lose a single ball?" . . . Richie Allen, new member of the St. Louis Cardinals, freely admits he regularly takes a pre-game belt or two. . . . The late Babe Ruth had the reputation for absorbing a liquid breakfast. . . . UT-El Paso is a good bet to win the NCAA track and field title this year, now that San Jose is in trouble with the governing body.

Bill Burchett, who hopes to play regularly on defense for the University of Houston next fall, came home for the holidays because the Cougars took a week off during spring football workouts. . . . Louisiana State could be the saltiest football team in the south next fall, mainly because it has solved its quarterbacking problems. . . . One team which hasn't, however, is UT-El Paso. . . . So says Buster Barnes, the new BSHS assistant who helped at the El Paso school while working on his degree. . . . Hootie Ingram, the former Southwest Conference coaching aide, will make his head coaching debut early for Clemson against The Citadel. . . . The two schools arranged the meeting as their 11th game recently. . . . They say that Gerald Myers was lured to Texas Tech away from Houston Baptist College recently with assurance that Bob Bass intended to return to his first love, pro basketball, when the right opportunity presents itself. . . . David Redwine, the Forsan golf coach, fondly recalls his eighth grade football season at Loraine. . . . Then playing quarterback, the first touchdown he ever made occurred when Clovis Hale, now the head coach of the Big Spring Steers, cleared the way for him in a game against Stanton. . . . Redwine later played on the Tarleton State links team. . . . Roller derby, around which more than a faint aura of put-on exists, was invented in Chicago by one Jerry Seltzer as a sort of trailer to the waning dance marathons. . . . Now fewer than 116 television stations currently carry the roller derby games played in the San Francisco area. . . . The Cleveland Browns are moving pro football's longest scoring streak into the American Conference. . . . The Browns haven't been blanked in 255 straight games now, or since Green Bay applied a 6-0 plaster Oct. 1, 1950. . . . Baylor is given a fair chance to upset the University of Missouri next fall because the Tigers start so slowly. . . . Big Spring catcher Joe Martinez has a fluid swing but is inclined to go after too many bad pitches. . . . After fleecing a boxing promoter once, fight manager Doc Kearns consoled the guy by saying, "Look at it this way, chum. You may have lost some money but you made some friends." . . . Melvin Robertson, the former Stanton coach, has become a fine public speaker and has already been invited to talk at the 1971 Texas Coaches Association Clinic in Fort Worth. . . . Melvin dearly loves to recruit in West Texas, which he says raises some of the finest football talent in the world.

Housewife Building Fame As Dragster

Editor's Note: Car racing — listed as America's No. 1 spectator sport — has lost the black jacket and chrome world of speed and excitement to a Texan — a beautiful housewife and mother who says the family that drags together stays together.

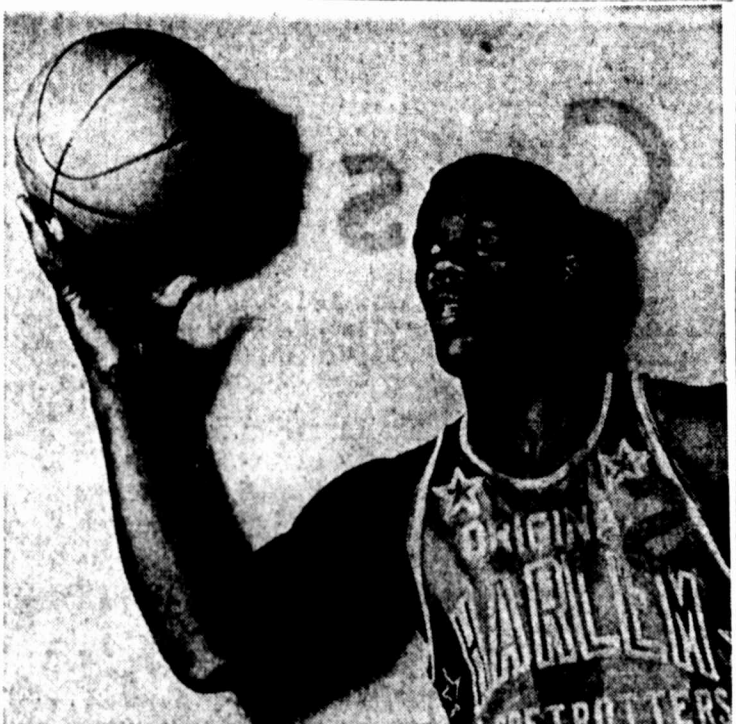

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP) — Shay was American Hot Rod Association spring nationals runner-up last year at Bristol, Tenn., considered the Carnegie Hall of drag racing.

Any man who fancies himself a speed king between traffic signals is in for a heap of egodeflating if he spends any time around the shapely Shay.

"Really," she said, "it's only the amateurs who cry about being beaten by a woman. The real pros don't care who is sitting in the next car. The idea is to win. That's what they're there for and that's what I'm there for."

Although women have thrust themselves into a number of heretofore sacred male activities, drag racing is one of the most grueling they could have chosen. And not many have.

APPEARS IN SNYDER APRIL 5—Pictured is Doug Himes, who will perform for the famed Harlem Globetrotters in their game next Sunday in the Scurry County Coliseum. The exhibition gets under way at 2:30 p.m. Ticket prices range from $3.50 to $2.50.

BASS FISHING

Champions Are Back In Meet

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Defending champions Jim Richardson of Austin and Billy Hayden of Dallas have entered the State Bass Fishing Tournament April 23-26 on Toledo Bend.

Richardson and Hayden won the coveted team championship last year on Sam Rayburn Reservoir.

"We're going to be trying to do what no other team has done before," Richardson said, "win the team title two years in a row."

Hayden and Richardson won it last year by moving past Gaylen Gilbreath and Dee Snowden on the final day. They finished with a total of 75 pounds, 11 ounces. Snowden and Gilbreath were second with 63-8.

Third place went to the Austin team of Jackie Hewlett and Mayes. They won the title in 1968 at Phillip Cole and Don Cole of Denton in 1969 at Rayburn, and took third last year on the same lake.

A total of 262 two-man teams competed in 1969, and the meet's four divisions drew 806 contestants, a new record.

Boyd Hinton of Amarillo won the Individual title last year, and Gus Bierman of Fort Worth was second. Bierman has already entered this year's meet, but he'll be in the team division with Hoyt Fincher of Mansfield.

Henry Payne and Mac Payne of Wills Point, winners in the Father-Son division for the past two years, decided to go for the top bracket this year and they've already entered the team division although Mac is still young enough to get them in the father-son competition.

Other top teams already entered include Charles Fondren and Ray Mitchell, Port Neches; Bob Hart and Nick Nixon, Hurst; Walter Jones, Carrollton; and Don Davis, Richardson; Charles Melde and Calvin Wisinger, Hemphill; Carl Green and Tracy Wood, Arlington; Raborn Waites and Glen Hayden, Austin; and Leonard Spolyar and M. R. Thomas, Houston.

In the Individual division, top names already entered include Ron Adams, Richardson; Richard Szopski, Louis Allen, John Freeman, and Larry Senf, Jr. of Houston; Jack Haynes of Arlington; and Freddy Keel of Hemphill.

Rating System Helpful In Player Selection

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Statistics to Lee Meade are banana splits, heavy on the topping.

If he's ever marooned on a desert island, Meade will probably chart the production rate of every coconut tree on the place.

So it's not surprising that Meade has developed a rating system—three years in the making—that could revolutionize the evaluation of a basketball player's performance.

Meade, besides being the public relations director and assistant general manager of the Dallas Chaparrals of the American Basketball Association, also gathers the ABA statistics.

The former sports editor of the Denver Post and his wife, Ellen, used to spend 100 man hours a week knocking out that chore before computers made it more of a fact gathering science.

"Just gather the facts and the computer does the complete tabulation now in less than five seconds," says Meade in awe.

Recently, Meade tried out a new system on the computer. It considers scoring, rebounding and playmaking as positive factors in the performance of a player—but it also takes into account turnovers and personal fouls on the negative side.

"I've been looking for something that combines all of the individual statistics into a single rating," Meade explains. "The Efficiency Per Minute Ratings are the result."

Under Meade's system, Denver's Spencer Haywood is the only superstar in the ABA with Rick Barry, hampered by injuries most of the year, closing fast into that category.

Haywood scores 1.036 on the EPM ratings.

"Anyone getting more than 1,000 qualifies as a superstar," says Meade.

The 1,000 figure indicates that a player is contributing one point—either through scoring, rebounding or playmaking—to his team for each minute he's on the court.

Connie Hawkins had the highest rating with Pittsburgh two years ago at .957. Barry of Washington and Hawkins both topped 1,000 last year. Barry is .960 this year and climbing.

To determine EPM ratings, Meade adds a player's points and rebounds. He doubles the value of assists "because each assist represents two points for a teammate" and subtracts the turnovers and personal fouls. Then, he divides the final total by the number of minutes played.

An All-ABA team selected from the EPM ratings this season would include Haywood and Barry at forwards; Mel Daniels of Indiana (.874) at center and Warren Armstrong of Washington (.879) and Louie Dampier of Kentucky (.867) at guards.

There are only five women qualified as professional drag racers, Shay notes.

STRANGE LANGUAGE

You have to understand the litanies of the race track to fully appreciate the world into which Shay has accelerated herself.

You have to narrow your eyes against the hammering heat of the asphalt, feel the bite of seat belts and harness straps, hear the angry growl of highly-tuned auto engines, the scream of tortured tires against the pavement. And you have to hear the roar of the crowd.

"Inside a quarter of a mile your car has gone from dead stop to maybe 135 miles an hour. Things around you are a blur."

"It's hard to describe that feeling." But anyone watching Shay describe a race can tell something is happening to her. Her green eyes grow larger and seem to become electrified. Her speech turns staccato, a narrative in adjectives and sharp, incisive words as she literally lives the race again. The real Shay plainly is far out there with the pack, speeding along in her world of chrome wheels and hard-driving motors.

Then she comes back to an every day pace.

"It's wonderful for our family. Our little girl, Christi, has travelled many places and met many new friends. Racing is something we all share together," says Shay.

Last year, the Nichols family travelled 40,000 miles across the country pursuing the sometimes elusive titles and cash prizes that drag racing offers.

Shay races a Chevrolet Camaro ZL-1, all-aluminum 427-cubic-inch engine is made especially for racing. Only 51 were manufactured last year.

The race for the top began six years ago in Abilene, Tex., when Shay and Phil Nichols were dating.

"We went to drag races on the weekend just to have something to do. Phil raced a little and one day he dared me to try it. I did. And I was hooked."

OTHER SCOFFED

Initially, other drivers scoffed at the girl parked next to them on the starting line. But when Shay started bringing home trophies, now numbering in the hundreds, her competition had to take her seriously.

After six years of racing, three of them as a professional, Shay has become a top contender on any drag strip.

Shay started in what she calls a "grocery-getter"—a normal street car later modified into a high performance Dodge Charger. She named it "Shay's Rebellion."

"With a little instruction from Ed Adams, I built the transmission in that car and won seven world's records," she said, adding that mechanical work is now left to others. "I can work on a car if I have to. I learned early that you have to know more about one than where the ash tray is."

Shay has raced long enough and won often enough to have attracted the attention of top parts sponsors. Nine such manufacturers now cosponsor her at various races.

"But the main sponsor is the Harte-Hanks newspaper group based in Texas. They're trying to develop a youthful image for their papers and racing is definitely a youthful sport," said Shay.

"My dad is Stormy Shelton, publisher of the Abilene Reporter-News, and he's talked me into doing a racing column for several papers. Between racing, writing and being a mother, ordering parts for the car and so forth you can see I stay pretty busy."

Shay gives credit for her success to her husband, Phil.

HUSBAND HELPED

"He handles all the logistics and the mechanical problems. I take all the bows but he's the real talent behind this team. Any woman who drives must have a man behind her. A team of girls just won't cut it," she said.

"And a shadetree mechanic will never win. Drag racing has changed too much for that. You can't get by with a few wrenches, a back yard and a layman's knowledge of car engines."

Shay says there are no special advantages or disadvantages in being a woman driver.

"Unless you know the mechanics, they may try to take advantage of you. That's why I've developed some very trusted friends in that line," she explained.

"I don't frighten easy, either. If you get scared, then you've no business in a 135-mile per hour car. I believe you have to be cool and calm in any crisis."

"Drag racing is a safe sport. I feel safer on the track than I do on the street. On the track you drive with the other drivers. On the street, it seems everyone is driving against everyone else."

Guess Stars In JV Win

MIDLAND — Arthur Guess clubbed a home run and a triple in leading the Big Spring JV's to a 6-4 baseball victory over the Lee reserves here Friday morning.

The win was the fourth without a defeat for the Dogies, who return to play next Thursday in Midland against the Midland High JV's.

Guess sparked the Big Springers to a three-run first inning with his home run and blasted his triple in the sixth, when the Dogies picked up an insurance run.

Bullets Need Win To Escape Kayo

By The Associated Press

The Baltimore Bullets, low on ammunition and sinking fast, face another do-or-die show-down Sunday against the New York Knicks in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Knicks already hold a 2-0 lead and now are looking for a sweep in the best-of-5 Eastern Division semifinal series as they go after No. 3 in the nationally televised contest in New York at 2 p.m. EST.

Los Angeles, holding a 1-0 lead in their Western Division semifinal, entertains the Phoenix Suns Sunday night.

Atlanta, with a 1-0 lead in their West semis, met Chicago in Atlanta Saturday night.

The fourth semi, between Milwaukee and Philadelphia in the East and tied 1-1, doesn't resume until Tuesday night in Philadelphia.

The Bullets not only must face the red-hot Knicks, who ran off with the East title while Baltimore finished third, but they also must contend with the speedster of having lost 11 playoff games in a row since 1965 including four straight last season to the Knicks after the Bullets finished first and New York third. Baltimore has beaten the Knicks only once in its last 13 tries.

Adding to their woes, the Bullets' Kevin Loughery, a starting guard, still is far below with four broken ribs and a punctured lung that kept him out of the final weeks of the season. He has played in the playoffs, but not effectively. And now Earl Monroe, with 58 points in the first two games, is bothered by his arthritic knees.

Eddie Miles, with an injured knee, hasn't played at all in the two games.

Williams Named Coach At Furman

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Joe Williams left an assistant coaching job at Furman University in 1964 for a spot at Jacksonville State University as head basketball coach.

Five seasons later he was guiding the school to runner-up in the NCAA tournament — but there were some things about the job that bothered him.

He says he didn't like "pounding pavements, raising money, selling tickets and handling equipment."

So the 36-year-old Williams is returning to Furman — but this time as head coach. The announcement was made Friday by Furman President Dr. Gordon Blackwell, who appeared with Williams at a news conference.

Jacksonville posted a 27-2 record under Williams this past season and went to the NCAA finals, being beaten by UCLA.

Reportedly, Williams got about $12,000 a year at Jacksonville and is to get $18,000 and a rent-free home at Furman.

The State National Bank

An important reason for buying Bonds when you're young is for when you're old.

Someday you're going to retire. Let's hope you're ready. Let's hope that you won't be living off your children. Let's hope you'll have more to live on, and for, than Social Security. Let's hope you'll be self-sufficient, able to grow old with dignity, respected by others and able to keep your own chin up. Let's hope you're planning for tomorrow.

Regardless of the ups and downs of your other assets, you have to start with a nest egg, a kitty, something in the sock you can always depend on.

One way you can do this most painlessly is by participating in the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank.

U.S. Savings Bonds now pay 5% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year; thereafter 5.20% to maturity). That's the highest rate ever.

Let's not hope for a better tomorrow. Let's plan on it.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.

New Aid Rules For City Waste Plants Are Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel proposed Saturday new rules for municipal waste treatment construction grants which would require industry to pay a share of treatment costs.

A separate order would be required to put a proposed rule into effect.

Hickel allowed 45 days for comment after publication in the Federal Register, expected in the next few days.

The proposed regulation would require that:

—Any industry feeding waste into a municipal treatment plant built with federal aid would have to help pay the plant's operating costs and debt amortization. The industry's payment would be proportional to the burden it places on the plant in terms of treatment costs.

—No new federal grant could be made to a system designed to treat only industrial wastes. Industry would have to pre-treat wastes destined for a community treatment system so they would not interfere with its operation.

—New treatment facilities would have to fit into comprehensive plans covering entire river basins if they are to be eligible for federal aid.

—To receive federal aid, the design of any new plant would have to have advance federal approval.

—Federally aided plants would have to be inspected at least annually for efficiency and economy during the first three years of operation and on a regular basis thereafter.

—In evaluating new applications, the Interior Department could require detailed information on pollution sources and treatment in an entire river basin.

Hickel said his proposals would implement President Nixon's directive, in his environmental message, for administrative action to improve the grant program.

Since it began in 1956, the program has granted some $1.5 billion, aiding the construction of about $6.6 billion in new or improved waste treatment facilities.

Nixon has asked Congress to approve a program of $4 billion over the next four years, to be matched by $6 billion in state and local funds.

AND THEY SAID IT WAS SPRING — Chipmunk comes up from a long winter of hibernation to survey the situation. Finding a fresh cover of Spring snow, the creature gathered up a fresh supply of sunflower seeds and went back for another snooze. J. Richard Sturges who made the picture, had placed the seeds near the hole in his backyard in Damariscotta, Maine.

Pay Bargaining To Begin Monday For U.S. Postmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration gained time over the Easter weekend to weigh the cost of boosting pay for the nation's 650,000 postal workers.

A scheduled Saturday bargaining session was put off until Monday after heads of the seven postal unions agreed to a government request for the postponement.

The wage issue will be the only one before the negotiators

Monday morning. After three days of strenuous discussions last week, Postmaster General Winton Blount agreed with the unions that other thorny problems, including President Nixon's demand for far-reaching postal reforms, should be side-tracked until agreement on the amount and timing of salary increases.

Both sides talk of an early settlement of the issues which sparked wildcat strikes by postal workers in major centers and sent troops to man New York City's huge post office 10 days ago.

But the negotiators won't be working against a firm settlement deadline. One union head said Friday there would be a renewed walkout if no agreement was reached by Thursday, but the parent AFL-CIO insisted that was not the case. Blount has said he would not negotiate with a gun in his back.

Remains Of Alamo Heroes Found Under Cathedral

Editor's note: Controversy has swirled in historical circles for years about the burial of Alamo heroes—it was unknown just where the early defenders of Texas were laid to rest. In 1936 debate on the subject reached a peak with the discovery of human bones beneath San Fernando Cathedral. These historic bones have recently gained attention once more.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The exact site or sites of burial of the Alamo heroes has been the subject of debate in historical societies since 1889.

Bexar County Archivist Richard Santos recently announced that he is ready to clear up the long controversy. Basis of his knowledge on the subject, he said, is an anthropological report by the world-famous scientist who studied bones found beneath San Fernando Cathedral in 1936.

The report was left with a San Antonio doctor at the time it was made and was turned over to Santos four years ago. "I haven't made its existence public because I wanted to couple it with other data which I've been researching," Santos said.

He says the report by Dr. Alec Hrdlicka, former chief of the Smithsonian Department of Anthropology, together with his own research, provides irrefutable evidence that the bones under San Fernando belong to those men who fought at the Alamo.

The controversy which Santos says he is ready to clear up revolves around conflicting reports made by a Col. Juan Seguin, officer in charge of the burial detail.

In a letter written in 1837

Seguin is quoted as saying the "ashes" of the Alamo defenders were gathered in an urn and taken to a vaguely described locale where they were buried. The widely circulated letter served for years as the principal account of the disposition of the heroes' bodies.

But in 1889, when Seguin was 82, he responded to an inquiry by writing that "the charred bone fragments (not ashes) were buried in the cathedral of San Antonio immediately to the presbytery, that is, before the two railings, very close to the altar."

Santos says the apparent discrepancy in Seguin's accounts resulted from a wrong impression the Telegraph and Texas

Register left when it published the earlier letter.

He contends that "ashes" as the word was used in that letter does not imply that the Mexican Army actually intended to cremate the bodies of the dead.

"There were over 700 bodies which were stacked in piles and burned. The object was to burn away the flesh. It takes an intense, concentrated heat to destroy bone. Seguin states clearly that he picked up bone fragments which he placed in an 'urna.' This can be translated to mean coffin, tomb or urn.

One argument against Santos' theory is that non-Catholics would not have been permitted burial at the church.

"That's not true," Santos says. "Catholic law says that whenever a priest even suspects a Catholic of being among a group of bodies then all are given a Catholic burial." Santos quotes a statement from the Rev. J. L. Manning, vicar general of the Archdiocese of San Antonio, which backs up his theory.

The bones in question were unearthed in 1936 by workmen excavating beneath San Fernando Cathedral. Santos explains that church records are full of gaps in the recording of weddings, baptisms and burials during several periods and that the burial of the Alamo defenders could well have been left out.

Discovered with the pieces of bone were tattered bits of uniform. Historians have contended the Texas revolutionary band did not wear uniforms and therefore the bones were not those of the Alamo defenders.

However, Santos points out that a Mexican colonel, witness to the burning and burial, noted "friends and foe were joined together in the funeral pyre" which could account for the uniform pieces among the bones.

"On top of this, Seguin didn't attempt to bury all of the remains," Santos states. "He took fractions of bones from three funeral pyres and buried them. Others also dug graves all over the downtown area so that there were several locations where the defenders were interred."

Santos is as sure as one can be under the circumstances that some of the remains are those found at San Fernando.

The Price of Victory

And they crucified him, and parted his garments . . . and they that passed by reviled him . . . if thou be the son of God, come down from the cross . . .

And about the ninth hour, Jesus cried with a loud voice . . . My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me. And behold, the veil of the temple was rent . . . and the earth did quake.

Now when the centurion, and they that were with him, watching Jesus, saw . . . those things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Son of God.

There came a rich man of Arimathea, named Joseph, who also himself was Jesus' disciple. He went to Pilate and begged the body of Jesus . . . and laid it in his own tomb.

In the end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulcher. And behold . . . the angel of the Lord . . . said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here: for he is risen as he said . . . The son of man must be crucified and the third day rise again.

. . . "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me."

MRS. DWAYNE LEE ALLEN

Couple United In Marriage

Miss Victoria Elaine Motley and Dwayne Lee Allen were married March 20 in the Maranatha Baptist Church at Corpus Christi.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Weldon Motley of Corpus Christi, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Allen of Coahoma.

The bride was attired in a gown of French lace designed with Empire bodice and princess skirt. Tiers of lace draped from the square back shoulderline and formed the bridal train. Her bouffant veil was held by a coil of lace and pearls accented with flowers.

Miss Sharon Vaughn, Corpus Christi, attended the bride as maid of honor.

Jimmy Allen, Big Spring, served as best man.

The wedding reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Camp, Corpus Christi. The couple spent their wedding trip in Mexico and are making their home at 456 Eldon Drive, Corpus Christi.

The bride is a graduate of Mary Carroll High School and Durham Business College. She is employed as a secretary.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Coahoma High School, at-

Banquet Held At Westbrook

WESTBROOK (SC) — Wishing You Well and a Fountain of Success" was the theme for the annual Junior-Senior banquet held recently in the Medallion Room of Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative at Colorado City. District Judge Austin McCloud was speaker; Judy Chambers, hostess, welcomed the guest, and John Sweatt, senior class president, gave the response.

Former Resident To Be Married

Dr. and Mrs. Mayron Shields of San Marcos announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marilyn, to LaRoy Coe Buffington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Buffington, also of San Marcos.

The Shields are former local residents, and the bride-elect is the granddaughter of A. E. "Bee" Walker, 506 Bell, and the late Mrs. Walker. The couple plans to be married May 30 in the First Christian Church of San Marcos.

'Greek Letter Girls' Finding Broader Purpose--Service

Mrs. Jack D. Powell, of Big Spring, alumnae president for District 12, Kappa Alpha Theta, returned Thursday from fraternity meetings in Lafayette, Alexandria and New Orleans, La. Beginning April 6, she will be traveling to Marshall, Longview, Tyler, Bryan, Austin, Waco and Houston.

In Houston she will attend a conference of college chapter officers, grand council members and the college district president.

According to Mrs. Powell, Kappa Alpha Theta adopted a nationwide "Do Unto Others" program last year, and now college members across the country are finding a broader meaning in their Greek affiliations.

Thetas in several chapters pledge one or two hours a week to child care centers. They work with play with underprivileged or handicapped youngsters. They're sending packages of leisure-time items to soldiers in Vietnam, many of whom are former students of their particular universities.

Some visit homes for the elderly. One chapter adopted two older women who are lonely, without family, and who have come to depend upon the young girls as their major avenues to a broader life. Groups are choosing civic projects instead of decorating floats for campus parades.

The chapter at the University of Wisconsin became aware of Madison's great loss to the Dutch Elm disease, and college members are busy raising money to buy trees to plant in some of the city's treeless areas.

Thetas in Missoula, Mont., noted an unused store site in the downtown shopping district.

The land was "donated" by a local businessman, then Thetas received permission from city fathers to construct a Shoppers Rest Area.

Alumnae in Topeka, Kan., expect to plant trees on the state house grounds this spring as part of the sorority's national effort to celebrate its centennial anniversary with a giant beautification program. Every living Theta will be asked to plant a tree, thus making America 76,000 trees more beautiful.

A chapter at Seattle adopted an underprivileged family with four children — prepared holiday dinners for them.

One at Stillwater, Okla., provided bowling lessons for handicapped children. A pledge at Albuquerque taught retarded youngsters to swim. Members of the Drake University group donated 120 hours to the Easter Seal Center, addressing 5,000 envelopes for this drive.

Thetas call these new undertakings "Centennial Projects" and they were inaugurated to celebrate the fraternity's 100 years. They came, however, as an answer to collegiate members' requests for a wider range in sorority activities. Girls voiced a desire to be better citizens, to take part in community activities, to broaden their exposure to arts and cultural events.

"We're quite aware of the changing desires of collegiates," says National President Mrs. Albert N. Jorgensen Jr., of Newington, Conn. "We're convinced that sorority affiliation provides a fuller life for college girls. We encourage our members to seek the avenues of widest influence for good and thus develop more meaningful mature lives."

Kappa Alpha Theta, the first Greek-letter fraternity for women, was founded on Jan. 27, 1870, at Greencastle, Ind. It now has 95 college chapters, 81 alumnae chapters and 241 alumnae clubs. More than 6,500 college students are active members now.

SEE MANY PROBLEMS

Modern Forum Looks At Aid To Foreign Nations

Aid to foreign countries was the program topic when Mrs. J. S. Sims was hostess Friday for a meeting of the Modern Woman's Forum at Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Harwood Keith, program leader, introduced Mrs. H. H. Stephens, a guest, who showed a film entitled "After the Flag." The film traced what happens to a nation when it becomes independent and has its own flag. Noting that about 50 new nations have come into being in the last 20 years, Mrs. Stephens said they are all members of the United Nations, and this body has assisted them in solving problems which include hunger, malnutrition, outdated farm and industry equipment and illiteracy. She said two out of five adults in the world today cannot read or write, adding that in India alone, 50 million people will die of malnutrition during the next ten years. In conclusion, Mrs. Stephens said one-third of the world's population is included in the new nations.

A club member, Mrs. W. E. Moren spoke on "New Concepts in Foreign Aid," based on an article by Andrew Tully. She quoted the writer as saying President Nixon has not said flatly that he will not send ground troops to Laos because

Take Top Tallies In Bridge Games

Five tables were in play for duplicate bridge games held Friday afternoon at Big Spring Country Club. Winners were Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. Hudson Landers, first; Mrs. Don Newsom and Mrs. Hayes Stripling, second; Mrs. A. Swartz and Mrs. E. O. Ellington, third; and Mrs. Mike Craddock and Mrs. Dorothy Herbert, fourth.

Luncheon Held By Church Class

The Homemakers Class of the First Christian Church met Thursday for a covered dish luncheon. The table was decorated in an Easter theme with lilies, bunnies, baskets and an Easter egg tree.

The Rev. John Beard gave the invocation, and Mrs. O. G. Burns gave a devotion, "The First Easter." Mrs. C. G. Barnett, president, presided, and Mrs. Earl Wilson served as hostess. Mrs. Florence K. Hallam and John Graham were guests.

Communism Viewed By Altrusa Speaker

Communism and current events in Southeast Asia were discussed by Maj. Glenn Jones, guest speaker, at the Altrusa Club luncheon Thursday at Coker's Restaurant.

Maj. Jones, who served two tours of duty in Vietnam before coming to Webb Air Force Base, gave some of the reasons for U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

"It is difficult to make the American people understand that we are fighting communist, not the Vietnamese people," he said.

He reviewed events in Vietnam during the past two months and touched on Communist groups in the United States, including actions of Communist-based groups on college campuses. Maj. Jones previously had spoken to the club on the history of Southeast Asia.

The luncheon tables were decorated in an Easter motif. The next meeting will be April 9.

MRS. GREGORY KIRK HUBBARD

Miss Jenkins Weds Gregory K. Hubbard

Miss Virginia Lynn Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Jenkins, 1705 Settles, and Gregory Kirk Hubbard, Camp Pendleton, Calif., were married Thursday in the home of the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubbard, San Angelo.

The Rev. Dale Cain, East Fourth Baptist Church, officiated at the 7:30 p.m. wedding, before an altar of greenery flanked by baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums.

The bride wore a white crepe dress featuring a fitted waist and long full sleeves, and her shoulder-length bouffant veil was held by a triple leaf headpiece sprinkled with tiny seed pearls.

She carried atop a white Bible a cascade of white chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid and showered with wedding lace.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Richard Burke Jr. who wore a lilac dress with long, full sleeves and carried a nosegay of lilac chrysanthemums with matching ribbons.

Bill Jenkins, brother of the bride, served as best man.

The couple is on a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M. For traveling the bride wore a brown crepe dress with plaid companion coat, white accessories and the corsage from her bouquet.

The wedding reception was held in the home immediately after the ceremony. The refreshment table was covered with a floor-length lilac cloth overlaid with white net and centered with white tapers in a silver candelabrum flanked by the wedding bouquets. The tiered wedding cake was topped with white love birds holding a wedding ring. Crystal and silver appointments completed the setting.

Club Women Advised To 'Protect Yourself'

"How to Protect Yourself in Case of Attack" was the program given by Mrs. John Couch and Mrs. Edward Simpson Thursday afternoon in the Couch home for the Luther Home Demonstration Club.

The speakers advised women to keep car doors locked while traveling, and when driving or walking, to stay on well-lighted streets. If accosted outside, they suggested a shoe heel, nail file or other sharp object, usually carried in a purse, might be used for protection. If attacked in the home, women could protect themselves with objects such as rolling pins, kitchen knives or ball bats. In either case, the victim should scream and make as much noise as possible to attract attention.

Mrs. Couch announced that a "make it, bake it or grow it" exchange will be held among club members at the April 9 meeting in the Simpson home. Recreation of singing and games was directed by Mrs. J. L. Lloyd.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING Good Fabric, Great Fashion-- Wonderful, Wearable Knits

By Catherine Crawford
(County HD Agent)

Why is there a knit explosion in fashion? These packable, washable, and many times maximum in fashion and the minimum in care.

No longer do knits all look the same. The imaginative world of knits gives us a fantastic variety of fibers, textures, colors, weights and patterns.

Selecting the right knit to go with your pattern selection is very important. It is necessary to consider the hand of the fabric — is it soft and fluid such as a turtleneck or matte jersey or is it crisp and tailored as a double knit?

Double knits tailor beautifully for suits, coats, and dresses while single knits are perfect for softer designs that drape and flow. Single knits do not crease well, thus do not lend themselves to pressed pleats or crisp edges.

Information that can be found on the back of the pattern envelope can be a guide to fabric selection. Under suggested fabrics most of the pattern companies will indicate if the fabric is suitable for knits, and may indicate whether the design of that pattern requires a soft or crisp fabric.

When sewing with knits avoid circular skirts and bias seams. For a very loose or bulky knit choose a pattern which is simple in design — the fewer the seams the better.

SEWING HINTS

Sewing on knits does not require special skills or equipment, however a few hints will be helpful in handling them.

- 1) Use a 100 per cent polyester or a cotton cover polyester thread as they have more elasticity than an all cotton thread.
- 2) Use a sharp needle to prevent snagging. A size 11 needle may move in and out of the fabric with greater ease if the material isn't too heavy.
- 3) Use a small stitch, 12 to 15 stitches per inch. A small stitch has more stretch and will not break as easily as a longer stitch. If the machine can be regulated to do a very slight zig-zag as it stitches, the elasticity of the seam will be increased. This helps to avoid the thread breaking on the bias seams.
- 4) Use a loose, balanced tension. To check tension, place a row of stitching on a scrap of the fabric you are sewing. Stretch the fabric holding it at either end of the stitched line. If both threads break at the same time your tension is even. If not, decrease the tension on the thread that breaks.
- 5) Use a light pressure on the presser foot to avoid stretching the fabric.

Top-stitching adds a nice decorative trim to knit fabrics.

To prevent the fabric from stretching when top-stitching place a row of hand basting 1/4 inch on each side of the top-stitching line. This row of basting also serves as a guide for straight stitching when you sew.

TOP STITCHING

Buttonhole twist thread makes distinctive top stitching. Use the buttonhole twist on the top and regular thread on the bobbin. Loosen the upper tension and lengthen the stitch to 6-8 stitches per inch. If you are using regular thread for top stitching the thread may disappear into the rib of the knit. This can usually be corrected by adding another row of top-stitching directly on top of the first row.

Linings and underlinings are optional in knit garments. Interfacing is necessary in certain areas of the garment to retain the shape and prevent stretch. Remember that underlining, interfacing and linings should be lighter in weight than the fashion fabric and they need to respond the type of care as you plan for the garment.

ZIPPERS

The nylon or polyester zippers are ideal for knits because of their flexibility. Either an invisible or conventional zipper may be used. Be careful not to stretch the fabric when applying the zipper.

If you will practice these suggestions you will find that it is easy to have an attractive wardrobe of these easy to care for and comfortable to wear clothes.

TEXAS' 1970 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow is Mary Lee Morgan of Bishop. She will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills on the basis of her performance in a written examination for which 34,380 senior girls in 954 of the state's high schools were enrolled.

Bishop Girl Named Texas 'Homemaker'

Mary Lee Morgan of Bishop, high school, Bishop, has been named Texas' 1970 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. Selected from 34,380 senior girls in 954 Texas high schools on the basis of a Dec. 2 written examination of home-making knowledge and attitudes, she will receive a $1,500 college scholarship from General Mills, sponsor of the annual education program. She is also now eligible for national honors.

Chosen as runner-up for Texas was Mary Katherine Boepple of Bay City high school, Bay City. She will be awarded a $500 educational grant.

As state homemaker of Tomorrow, Miss Morgan, with a faculty advisor, will join winners from each of the other states and the District of Columbia April 12-17 for a tour of Washington, D.C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Culminating the tour will be announcement of the 1970 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow, whose scholarship will be increased to $5,000. Three national runners-up will receive scholarships increased to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000.

The contest was begun by General Mills in the 1954-55 school year. This year's record enrollment of 646,041 senior girls in 15,040 high schools brings total participation during the program's 16-year history to more than seven million young women. Scholarship awards total approximately $13 million. In addition, each year, schools of State Homemakers of Tomorrow receive a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica from Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc.

Miss Morgan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Morgan Jr. of Bishop. An "A" student at Bishop high, she holds a National Merit Letter of Commendation, attended Texas Girls' State and was a delegate to the state student council convention. Her extracurricular activities have also included varsity cheerleading and serving as vice president of Quill and Scroll, journalism assistant advisor and newspaper editor.

"I feel the most important ability of a homemaker is her ability to adapt to circumstances and finances and to budget time and money accordingly," said Miss Morgan. She ranks sewing as her favorite homemaker duty, adding "I not only enjoy planning and making my own clothes, but al-

Eighteen local Girl Scouts, which has Mrs. James Cleveland as leader.

On Friday, registration included girls from the council's 16-county area, plus girls from four other councils (Bluebonnet in Waco, Heart of Texas in Brownwood, NorCentTex in Wichita Falls and Permian Basin in Odessa).

Mrs. R. D. Green conducted "Star Talk," the discussion on astrology.

On Saturday morning, Mrs. Grady B. Jolly conducted "The Dating Game" and Sherwood Suter, a professor in the McMurray Art Department, demonstrated water painting.

Miss Jamie Rogers, slimnastics teacher at the YMCA, directed the poise and exercise period, and at noon, Troop 84, under the direction of Mrs. Henry R. Ulmer, gave a fashion show.

Highlight of the "happening" was the introduction of Miss Dowell by Abilene mayor, J. C. Hunter Jr. The Miss Texas title holder answered questions from the girls during a conference.

After the session, "The Citizens," a high school vocal group from the First Baptist Church, performed, and Scouts ended the performance with a sing-along directed by Mrs. Carol Schneider of Dyess Air Force Base.

Women Receive Instruction On Self-Defense Against Attackers

A program on safety was given by Mrs. Ross Callahan and Mrs. W. J. Priebe Friday for the City Home Demonstration Club meeting in the home of Mrs. M. F. Hodnett, 1001 E. 16th.

Mrs. Callahan gave instructions on self-defense for women against attackers at home, while walking and driving.

"All over the nation, crime has steadily increased, particularly assaults," she said.

Running, screaming hiding and striking are recommended as defenses against an assailant, she said. First a victim should determine if her scream will be heard and should decide the intent of her assailant before screaming.

"If an attacker threatens your life, or if you are trapped by a robber, screaming may provoke the man to do you harm," she said.

Mrs. Priebe described revisions to traffic safety laws. Among the revisions are requiring slow moving vehicles to remain in the right-hand lane. The "following too closely law" will require drivers to maintain "assured clear distance between the vehicle ahead," and carefully regard the speed of the vehicle and traffic conditions, Mrs. Priebe related.

Also amended are the right-of-way laws. "Drivers on streets of equal size and paving must stop and yield to any other vehicle which has entered the intersection from the driver's right," she said. Also, a driver on an unpaved road intersecting a larger, paved road, must yield right-of-way to vehicles on the paved road, she said.

NEW LIBRARY — This is the floor plan of the new Howard County library on which construction should start this week. Kasch Brothers, Inc., was awarded the bid Monday for $63,000 to remodel the old post office into a library. At the bottom of the picture is the Scurry Street entrance.

Ethnic Makeup Of Nation To Be Measured In Census

As in past censuses, the 1970 persons who are foreign born count will measure the ethnic makeup of the population.

One entirely new question on the Census '70 questionnaire is designed to obtain information about the Spanish Americans. The question reads: "Is this person's origin or descent Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central or South American, other Spanish or none of these?" Answers will provide a basis for many new government programs in behalf of Spanish Americans.

A count of the population by color was made from the first census (that of 1790) to the present. Since 1850, the census has included at least one question designed to obtain a count of various nationality groups in the population.

Under present census classifications, national minorities in the population are listed as "foreign stock." Foreign stock is composed of two groups — the returns were in, an attempt was made to show the nationalities represented in the population by classifying names of the heads of families. Such names were listed and posted in that first census. Thus, the nationality distribution for 1790 was as follows: English, 83.5 per cent; Scotch, 6.7 per cent; Irish, 1.6 per cent; Dutch, 2 per cent; French, 0.5 per cent; German, 5.6 per cent; Hebrew, less than a tenth of a per cent; and others, 9.1 per cent.

It was not until 1850 that progress was made in the effort to measure the foreign stock by direct question. That year the questionnaire included an inquiry about birth abroad. In 1870 a question was added about parents' place of birth. The result showed that of the 1850 census total of 23.3 million persons counted, 2.2 million had been abroad. The major groups were the Irish, with nearly one million; the Germans, 584,000;

the English, 279,000; Canadians, 148,000 (including French Canadians); Scotch, 71,000; French, 54,000; and the Welsh, 30,000. Only 1,135 Asiatic-born persons were enumerated in 1850, and 758 of these were from China. The population of Negroes and other races in 1850 was 3.6 million.

Subsequent census counts of the foreign born showed that, as the years went by, many other nationalities were added to the population. The count of foreign-born Italians, for example, was less than 4,000 in 1850, increased to 44,000 in the 1880 census; 183,000 in 1890; 1.3 million by 1910; and 1.8 million by 1930. In 1960, the count was 13 million.

Russians (a designation that included Latvians, Estonians, Lithuanians and Finns from 1850-1890) totaled 1,414 in 1850; 182,644 in 1890; 423,726 in 1900; 1.1 million in 1910 and again in 1930. In 1960, the count was 690,598. Polish-born persons were not separately enumerated in 1850, but there were 7,298 in 1860; 48,577 in 1880; 383,407 in 1900; just under one million in 1910; 1.3 million in 1930; and 747,750 in 1960.

Of the two large Asian groups, the count of persons born in China was 35,565 by 1860; 106,701 in 1890; 56,756 in 1910; 46,129 in 1930; and 99,735 in 1960, and those born in Japan numbered 401 in 1880; 24,788 in 1900; 67,744 in 1910; 70,993 in 1930; and 109,175 in 1960. Among both groups, a small proportion of each was white.

Spanish-Americans, the bulk of whom come from Latin America rather than Spain (the 1960 count of persons born in Spain was only 44,999), are currently the fastest-growing nationality group in the population. Spanish Americans come from many different countries.

One large group of Spanish-

Americans comes from Mexico. The 1960 totals showed that there were 572,564 persons born in Mexico and another 1.2 million Americans with Mexican or mixed parentage. The bulk of Mexican Americans live in five southwestern states — Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas — where a special count of all persons with Spanish surnames was made in 1960. The total of such persons was 3.4 million in 1960.

Puerto Ricans in the U.S. were tabulated separately in 1960 as in earlier censuses. The number was just under 900,000 including 17,000 who had been born in Puerto Rico. The bulk of Puerto Ricans in the U.S. (70 per cent of the total) lived in New York City in 1960.

The new question on Spanish descent on the 1970 census questionnaire is aimed at getting a complete census, for the first time, of this ethnic group as a whole.

Intense interest will be focused on the 1970 count of Negroes. Census Bureau estimates for July 1, 1969, put the number at 22.7 million or a little more than 11 per cent of the total U.S. population. Extra effort is being made to get an accurate count of Negroes who, it is believed, were missed in proportionately greater numbers in 1960 than whites.

Piccadilly Circus Due For Cleanup

LONDON (AP) — Piccadilly Circus, famed traffic island in the middle of London, is to be redesigned because hairy hippies spoil the scenery, city officials revealed Saturday. They want to thin out the hippies.

A circus in Britain usually means a traffic intersection, not a display of acrobats and elephants. Piccadilly is probably the best-known intersection in the country, the hub of London's night life. An aluminum statue of Eros, the God of Love, stands in the middle and hippies squat beneath him, strumming guitars and watching the neo lights, theater crowds and traffic.

Soviets Say Red China Is Threat

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union accused Red China Saturday of posing a grave threat to world communism and urged all socialist countries to wage "a resolute struggle against this second front."

The lengthy denunciation in Sovetskaya Rossia, organ of the Soviet Communist party central committee, accused Red China of advancing "adventurist concepts" in Africa, Asia and Latin America which caused splits and the overthrow of several Communist parties.

Sovetskaya Rossia charged that Peking leaders have "doomed China's masses to a regimented life, and convinced them that all their hardships are caused by the impending danger of war with the Soviet Union."

A Devotion For Today . . .

He is not here, for he has risen, as he said." (Matthew 28:6, RSV)

PRAYER: Eternal Father, Your children are not particles of dust to be dissipated by what we call death. They are persons You created for eternal life. Give that eternal life to us today; through our risen Lord. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Constancy

We come once more to the most sacred day on the Christian calendar, and it is a time to pause for reflection upon what this can mean beyond the immediate and obvious teachings.

For Easter is at the core of Christianity. Because it carries with it the hope of eternal spiritual life, it also enunciates a belief in the immortal destiny of man.

Because of this quality of constancy and endurance, and because all the teachings of Christ assume the spark of divine in light of this event, the teachings of Christ assume a peculiar validity.

This is no pretense at an Easter sermon, but rather to say that our contemporary hope out of the morass of fear, suspicion, uncertainty, frustration, and anxiety is to be able to latch on to great and abiding truths. Otherwise, our codes of morality and of ethical conduct are poorly based and transient, subject to the pressures of the moment and leaving nothing with which to bind yesterday to today, and today to tomorrow.

We are persuaded that nothing affords the confident anchorage as does a faith in God, and that our attitudes toward one another will somehow bring us our right in the end if they are rooted in religious conviction such as Easter so wonderfully can restore.

The Census

This week will bring up the initial enumerations occasioned by the decennial census.

Surely everyone will be cooperative in this important enterprise.

Sometimes we hear complaints that the census gets noisy, and this would be possible if it slipped into a psychological probe. But virtually all of the information sought, including that on the long form (which asks a comparative few will be asked to fill out, will be vital to us as people in determining economic and sociological trends. The latter is as important as the former, because government is the effective functioning of society.

Our heritage is that society functions best when it functions within a framework of freedom and respect for man, and that this can be done continuously only when it issues from enlightenment.

In a nutshell, we need facts on which to base decisions. This is what the census is all about.

So, be a good citizen; be helpful to enumerators when they call on you.

The President And The School Issue

WASHINGTON — President Nixon in his 10,000-word effort to explain what desegregation and integration of elementary and secondary public schools really mean clarified many of the points that have produced confusion as a result of the decisions of some of the lower federal courts. But it is doubtful whether he has removed the fears that prevail as to what the courts may do with the several conflicting cases currently being presented to them both in the North and the South. Mr. Nixon said:

"THERE ARE a number of questions involved in the school controversy on which the Supreme Court has not yet spoken definitively. Where it has spoken, its decrees are the law. Where it has not spoken, where Congress has not acted, and where differing lower courts have left the issue in doubt, my responsibilities as chief executive make it necessary that I determine, on the basis of my best judgment, what must be done."

But difficulty arises because the executive branch of the government cannot prevent lawsuits from being started by citizens who object to what school boards do.

THE TRUTH is that Mr. Nixon has been up against criticism from some of the civil-rights leaders that he has been abandoning previous policies on school desegregation. In answer to this he declared:

"We are not backing away. The constitutional mandate will be enforced."

The President is right when he asserts that recent decisions by the lower courts have raised "widespread fears that the nation might face a massive disruption of public education: That wholesale compulsory busing may be ordered and the neighborhood school virtually doomed."

MR. NIXON introduced a comforting piece of news for the educational world when he said that he would urge the spending of a billion and a half dollars of public funds to aid the schools of the country in handling their new problems.

The more the President's statement is analyzed, the more it becomes evident that the executive departments which are in direct contact with the educational problem are finding obstacles to the smooth operation of the schools because what the courts have said is not clear. Also, not enough money has been available to carry out many of the reorganizations that have been insisted upon.

The President was emphatic in his argument that segregation of teachers must be eliminated and that school authorities must assign good teachers irrespective of race so as to assure a high quality of education in all schools. He summed up the problem of "racial imbalance" as follows:

"RACIAL IMBALANCE in a school system may be partly due to jure in origin and partly due to fact. In such a case, it is appropriate to insist on remedy for the de jure portion, which is unlawful, without insisting on a remedy for the lawful de facto portion."

The "de jure" phrase, which has been used often without explanation, has to do with the fact that originally segregation was imposed by law, whereas "de facto" segregation was due to natural causes. Mr. Nixon added:

"DE FACTO racial separation, resulting genuinely from housing patterns, exists in the South as well as the North; in neither area should this condition by itself be cause for federal enforcement actions . . . in all respects, the law should be applied equally, North and South, East and West."

Mr. Nixon's pronouncement will doubtless be criticized by some spokesmen for both sides of the controversy, but he apparently is trying to steer a middle ground and to clarify a highly complex subject on which the courts unfortunately have not thus far set forth an understandable set of rules.

What Others Say

The Committee to Combat Pollution, composed of about 20 Texas A&I students, marched three miles to the Celanese Chemical Co. in Bishop — not to protest, but to praise.

Leaders of the committee met March 2 with Celanese officials to find out what the plant was doing to reduce emissions contributing to air pollution. They were impressed with what they found, so they planned the march of praise for Celanese efforts.

Concerned citizens in recent years have found the organized march to be an effective tool in making their views known to the "establishment."

Yet, it seems, there are times when the "establishment" is doing something right — when it deserves congratulations as resounding as the opposition it so often encounters.

Rate Cut Reflects Cooling Economy

By JOHN HENRY

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The cut by major banks in their prime lending rate to 8 from 8½ per cent appeared to testify to the government's success in cooling off the economy.

When the banks, led by Irving Trust Co. of New York on Wednesday, reduced the interest they charge to their most creditworthy customers, they said they were doing so to soften the impact of the current economic slowdown.

The slackening in the economy was evident in the recent leveling off of loan demand and the sharp drop during the past week in short-term interest rates.

Further evidence of the slowdown was the Commerce Department's announcement Thursday that the gross national product in the first quarter "appears to be headed for the smallest increase in three years" and that actual physical output "will register a small decline."

The Nixon administration and the Federal Reserve Board have deliberately sought to cool down the economy in order to dampen inflationary pressures.

EASIER MONEY? One of the government's chief tools to accomplish this objective was the severely restrictive monetary policy, which has been in effect for more than a year.

The cut in the prime rate represents a partial easing of the tight money policy, which has depressed the securities markets as well as checked capital spending to some degree.

"There is no correlation between the prime rate and consumer loan rates," a spokesman for the First National City

Bank of New York said. "The two are on a separate track."

He referred to the fact that since 1947 there have been 42 changes up and down in the prime lending rate and only six changes in unsecured personal loan rates.

MORTGAGES MAY RISE As for the effect of the rate cut on home mortgages, it will be "none at all," said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Homebuilders. "I expect mortgage rates to go up. There is a six-month lag between what happens in short-term rates and what happens in mortgages."

And indication that inflation is finally being curbed appeared during the past week.

The government reported Wednesday that the wholesale price index had risen in March by the smallest amount in seven months — one-tenth of 1 per cent. This was the second consecutive month in which the rate of increase of the index fell below the average of four-tenths of one per cent that occurred in the preceding six months.

GOOD NEWS "The market," said an analyst, "was hungry for good news and got it. And this action should tend to give greater validity to some projections of a business recovery in the second half — now that a major pressure on the economy has been lessened."

While businessmen stand to benefit immediately from lower interest rates, individuals apparently do not.

"There is no correlation between the prime rate and consumer loan rates," a spokesman for the First National City

SLOWING

- Prime rate cut reflects levelling of loan demands
- Market, hungry for good news, responds with hefty rise
- Little to encourage consumer loans; mortgages unaffected
- Wholesale price index growth is smallest in seven months

Around The Rim

Reporting An Eternal Truth

There Event of more than 1900 years ago was so unprecedented, so astonishing, and so filled with things miraculous to mere mortals that a lay reporter of the time would have had difficulty in piecing together the chain of circumstances.

THE REPORTER would have heard about the man from Galilee called Jesus, and he would have heard conflicting stories about Him. Some were calling Him a new messiah who taught a message of love; others were saying He was a pretender seeking to establish a new kingdom and hence dangerous to the accepted establishment. Who was right?

The reporter would have known that the man Jesus was subjected to hearings that were a travesty on justice; that the final trial before the Roman governor Pilate turned literally into a mob affair until Pilate himself sought to wash his hands of responsibility.

THE REPORTER would have known that there was most barbarous of crucifixions, and would have noted that in the Man's death there occurred strange phenomena — such as a thief on a nearby cross speaking of salvation; the darkness which came at the climactic hour; the Roman centurion muttering that this must have been a man of God.

These things a reporter would have checked out.

But then the circumstances after the burial! The reporter would know that the body was placed in the tomb of a rich man, and therefore a solid tomb; he could find out about the sealing of this tomb and the posting of guards to watch against desecration. But he again would have to check some varying stories about what happened on the third morning after the interment.

IN TRUTH the stone was rolled away and the body of the Crucified One was gone — but how? A story was rampant that the guards reported that persons had come and stolen the body. But the reporter who checked closely could find that the guards had been bribed to give such a report.

The reporter could check the words of some women who had come to the tomb early that morning, and find that they encountered angels who said "he is risen." Strange, but that was the story. And a follower, Peter, also could report a similar circumstance.

THE MORE the reporter would dig into the story the more he could piece together these wondrous happenings. The centurion could know, within his heart, what he was talking about; the women were not telling idle tales. The treatment of the Man Jesus, the upheaval of nature at his death and at his disappearance — weren't these the workings of another Power?

AND A VERIFIED report that later the Risen One talked to some of his own followers and said:

"Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?"

Yes, the reporter could put these things together, and find, ultimately, that he had recorded a great truth — a truth for mankind that has lasted unto this day and will last forever.

Who Wants Children?

WASHINGTON — "Eureka," cried Prof. Applebaum in his laboratory the other day. "I have found the answer to the population explosion."

The professor was working at his blackboard on a very complicated mathematical formula.

"Have you developed a new birth-control pill?" I asked him.

"No, it's better than that. I have discovered that in two years no one will want children any more."

"But why, Professor?"

"BECAUSE THEY'RE becoming such a pain in the neck. Look at this equation. Y represents children, Z represents parents. Put Y over Z and it equals X."

"What does X stand for?"

"The parents' pain-in-the-neck threshold."

Applebaum scrawled furiously on the blackboard. "In 1968 one out of every four couples said of their children 'Who needs them!' The first three months of 1970 have shown one out of every two couples asking the question. If my calculations are correct and the behavior patterns of the children remain constant, the question may be asked unanimously in 1972 by every parent in the United States."

"YOU CAN conceivably see people actually giving up children?" I asked Applebaum.

"I'm certain of it," he said. "Look at it from a practical point of view. Why do people have children?"

"To give them pleasure?"

"Exactly. How many parents do you know who are getting pleasure from their children?"

I thought for a long time.

"ALL RIGHT, your 10 minutes are up," Applebaum said. "I would assume you don't know any. In the past, people had children not only for the pleasure it gave them, but also for security in their old age. They counted on their children to take care of them in their autumn years. But all this has changed. What is the first thing children want to do now?"

"Leave home."

"CORRECT. EVERY child insists he or she wants to be free, and the earlier the better. So, whereas in previous generations parents felt they had produced obedient loved ones, they feel now they are nothing more than breeders of shaggy, hostile, screaming animals straining to get out of their cages."

"But that's terrible," I said.

Applebaum showed me a graph. "A recent survey showed that 67 per cent of all adults over 30 years of age said they would rather have a good time than have children."

"How does the younger generation feel about this?"

"THEY'RE FOR birth control as well. They know how miserable they are, and they can only assume their offspring will be worse."

"Then, Professor, you see a definite decline in the world population?"

"There is no question that the events of the last few years have turned the tide. The scruffier, hairier and dirtier children become, the less reason there seems for anyone to have any."

Pollution Of The Italian Scene

ROME — The Italian zest for life hitched to the motorcar is a force that, like the hydrogen bomb, is as yet untamed. In the course of its swift evolution it has altered the once-placid landscape and choked the narrow streets of ancient cities with traffic jams rivaling those anywhere in the world.

ONE CONSEQUENCE inevitably is air pollution. Smog blurs the Roman scene with not two but four traffic jams a day, since the custom is to go home for lunch and a siesta and return to the office at 4 o'clock. Environment is a word only recently significant in the Italian vocabulary and, in a nation of individualists challenging even the slightest encroachment of government authority, the effort to abate the pollution of air and water is bound to have rough going.

This splendid city is, as one official sorrowfully put it, turned into a vast garage. The great squares are parking lots. The Piazza del Popolo, one of the most beautifully proportioned open spaces in any city, is parked solid and there is no parking charge.

AN ATTEMPT was made some years ago to shut off the principal streets for tourist shopping to traffic. A howl of rage went up from merchants who reported a drop in profits and the experiment was abandoned.

Quite apart from concern over polluted air and the pall of smog this has a practical consideration. From one-fourth to one-third of Italy's hard-currency earnings come from tourism. A garage and a perilous race track are not what the flood of visitors from America and Europe come to Rome to see.

BUT FAR MORE drastic steps may be needed to check the ever-rising tide of privately owned cars which have become a status symbol in the booming Italian economy. Serious thought is being given to requiring a much larger down payment and increasing licensing and other operating fees. A new left-center coalition government, if one can ever be formed out of the chaos of Italian political life, would in taking such decisions be in immediate hot water.

AT STAKE in the race with pollution are the monuments of the great past, the rise of Western civilization as seen in the high Renaissance and its debt to ancient Rome and Greece. Venice is the most tragic and conspicuous instance. That unique city is like a precious invalid whose life can be saved only by the most costly and self-sacrificing measures.

During the past winter no dramatic floods have overwhelmed the city of canals. But, consistently, three-fourths of Venice is more and more frequently inundated by tides that lap away at the foundations of old palaces and churches.

FOR THE FIRST time an independent body for research with a laboratory in Venice is trying to get at the root causes of what can mean the extinction of the city in a few decades. Oceanographic studies beyond the Venetian lagoon suggest the urgent need for a system of movable dikes to regulate the water level. New canals dredged in neighboring industrial Mestre and the reclamation of land for factories and housing have produced a profound alteration in the tides and with it the pollution of the lagoon.

FROM MESTRE comes the smog of sulphur-contaminated air, eroding masterpieces of marble and canvas. The immediate drive is to air condition museums and churches to save the Tintoretto and the Titians from further deterioration.

Corral Gets Award At State Parley

By KAREN MCGONAGILL

BSHS was one of the West Texas high schools whose newspaper, the "CORRAL," received the distinguished award of merit at the 34th annual Inter-scholastic League Press Conference on the University of Texas campus, March 20-21.

The announcement of the newspaper ratings Saturday night climaxed the two-day workshop-convention for more than 2,000 student journalists.

Students attending from BSHS were Karen Hughes, Glenna Jones, Johnny Rutherford, and Ben Johnson. Mrs. Erma Steward, sponsor, accompanied the group to Austin.

Two BSHS students placed at the Hardin-Simmons Forensics Tournament last weekend. Sammy Jones won first place in boy's informative speaking, and Elizabeth Lipscombe placed third in girl's poetry interpretation.

The cheer leaders with their skit, "STP Salutes Patriotism," won the $50 cash prize for first place in the third annual All-School Sing last Friday night. The Latin Club, in "Roman Schoolroom," won the $25 second place prize, and Music Theory class members received $15 for their third place skit entitled "The Friendly Persuaders."

Judges for the event were Jim Baum, Glenn Coates, and Martin Landers. Lynn Cauley served as Master of Ceremonies.

Six BSHS students will attend the Texas Association of Student Councils annual convention in Austin April 9-11. Selected by the Student Council to attend are Lynn Cauley, Anne Talbot, Cheri Turner, Dave Duncan, Sam Chappell, and Denise Bryant.

The main purpose of the convention is to provide student councils an opportunity to meet and discuss problems. Each discussion group is led by members of different student councils. Topics of these discussions vary from the problems of drug addiction in schools to services a student council can render.

BSHS delegates also will serve as campaign managers for the Kermit Student Council in its bid for the office of president of TASC.

The Bible Club has announced that it will take its annual spring trip to the Davis Mountains this year. The one-day trip has been planned for Saturday, April 4.

The UIL play, "Goodbye to the Clown," will be entered in the district one-act play contest April 11 at Robert E. Lee High School in Midland.

The Steer band Friday will present an "Evening with Jazz," featuring the Golden Horns, the Silver Horns, the Green Horns and the Dixieland Band. The concert ($1) will begin at 8 p.m., in the BSHS auditorium.

Nine weeks tests will begin on Wednesday. First, fourth, and fifth period tests will be given on Wednesday, while second and sixth period tests will be given on Thursday. On Friday third and seventh period tests will be administered.

On Wednesday, April 8, report cards will be issued to the students for the third nine-weeks grading period.

SANDS Carla Hunt Is FHA Prexy

By SHARA DEE HAMBRICK

Carla Hunt was elected as the incoming president for the 70-71 school year in FHA. Carla is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hunt. She is a junior, a cheer leader, a member of Beta Club and also an officer, a class officer, and also played basketball and volleyball. She will attend the state FHA meeting in Austin April 24-25 along with Janette Nichols who was elected the voting delegate earlier in the year. FHA members have also decided to sell flag pins for a club project. The pins will sell for $2 and may be purchased from any member of the club.

The volleyball girls traveled to Loop Tuesday afternoon for the district tournament games. They played Klondike in the first round of play and lost by scores of 15-8 and 15-9. Girls attending were Sandra Nichols, Jan Nichols, Janette Nichols, Jill Hunt, Shara Dee Hambrick, Susie Rodriguez and Janie Billingsley. Rita Jones served as manager. In the absence of Mr. Ronnie Gandy, who was ill, Mr. James Blake served as coach.

The girls track meet that was originally scheduled for Saturday, March 21, was cancelled because of bad weather. It was to have been re-scheduled for last Thursday in Wink.

The Junior play, "Deadly Earnest," which was set for April 3, has now been moved up to April 14 because of conflicting activities.

Report cards were handed to the student body for the third nine-weeks period Wednesday.

School was dismissed on Wednesday for the Easter holidays. School will resume as usual on Tuesday morning.

FORSAN JR. HI Class Stages Fund Raising

By DARLA EARNST

Members of the high school cast which competed in the Inter-scholastic League one-act play contest presented their play to the student body of Forsan Junior High Monday. The cast is due congratulations for earning a fifth place in district competition.

School dismissed Wednesday afternoon and will resume Tuesday at the regular time.

The eighth graders are selling pens to raise money for the class treasurer. They also may set up a concession stand for Play Day.

Our volleyball girls travel to Water Valley Wednesday, for the district tournament. The track team plans to go either to Gail or Sterling City.

Forsan Junior High boys wrapped up a good basketball season with a 13-5 record. Landon Soles scored 187 points and averaged almost 10 points. Others are Gary Daughtery with 161 and nine; Sammie Johnson with 103 and eight; Joe Moreno 112 and nine; Kenny Davis 38 and four.

Nominated

ABILENE—Mike Faulkner, Big Spring, has been nominated for junior class favorite at Abilene Christian College for the 1969-70 school year. Faulkner, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Faulkner of 1415 Wood, Big Spring, is a communication major at ACC.

FORSAN HIGH One-Act Play Cast Places

By PATSY REED

The "Forsan Stampede" made its appearance and was sold out. The journalism class plans for publication of two more issues this spring.

Much of the activity of the week centered around the one-act play contest. Forsan's cast presented "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" to the student body Monday morning in a trial run for the district contests at the school Tuesday. Casts began staging plays at 12:30 p.m., and with one break, continued until 8:30 p.m. when Miles was declared the first-place winner with "A Day of Atonement." Forsan rated fifth.

Tommy Rodman was named on the all-star cast for an outstanding performance as Kenneth Dowey in the play. Susie Moreno and Jackie Condon received honorable mention.

The cast of the one-act play had its party at the Spanish Inn Wednesday evening with 14 attending, including dates of cast members.

At the assembly program Monday afternoon, Carol and Maurice Phillips stressed the importance of physical fitness.

Because of the weather, Forsan's invitational golf meet was curtailed but it was staged Wednesday with Big Spring, Forsan A and B teams and Jay competing. BSHS took top honors, but Tinker Bailey of Forsan was medalist with 84.

GARDEN CITY Garden City Pace Faster As Semester's End Looms

By BEVERLEY HARTLEY

Signs of the approaching end of the school year are cropping up in events at Garden City High School.

For instance, the seniors received their caps and gowns last week, and invitations are expected to arrive on April 10.

Elections were held for the Student Council for next year, and the officers named were: Floyd Schwartz, president; Kervin Frysak, vice president; Kathy Pendley, secretary; James Barnett, treasurer.

Cheerleaders elected are Millie Christie, a junior; Cecilia Seidenberger, junior; Cathy Batia, sophomore; and Bobbie Glenn, sophomore.

The annual Future Homemakers of America Parent-Daughter banquet is set for April 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. FHA girls have been planning the program and the meal. They will prepare the meal, which will be served by eighth grade girls. A skit will be presented and there will be presentation of awards.

The track girls have scheduled their first meet April 14 in Colorado City. The tennis tournament will be in San Angelo April 14-15. The athletic banquet will be April 18 at the Holiday Inn in Big Spring.

Six weeks tests were completed last week and to relieve the tension, students with musical and other talents entertained Thursday morning.

Home Economics III girls were given a demonstration on makeup by Bonnie Bednar, who will return this week to give a similar program for younger

Lest The Present Generation Forget

Eric A. Walker, president, Pennsylvania State University, in a speech to the graduating class:

Not long ago an educator from Northwestern University by the name of Bergen Evans, a radio performer known to your parents, got together some facts about these two generations—your parents and grandparents. I'd like to share some of these facts with you.

These — your parents and grandparents — are the people who within just five decades—1919-1969—have by their work increased your life expectancy by approximately 50%—who while cutting the working day by a third, have more than doubled per capita output.

These are the people who have given you a healthier world than they found. And because of this you no longer have to fear epidemics of flu, typhus, diphtheria, smallpox, scarlet fever, measles or mumps that they knew in their youth. And the dreaded polio is no longer a medical factor, while TB is almost unheard of.

Let me remind you that these remarkable people lived through history's greatest depression. Many of these people know what it is to be poor, what it is to be hungry and cold. And because of this, they determined that it would not happen to you, that you would have a better life, you would have food to eat, milk to drink, vitamins to nourish you, a warm home, better schools and greater opportunities to succeed than they had.

Because they gave you the best, you are the tallest, healthiest, brightest, and probably best looking generation to inhabit the land.

And because they were materialistic, you will work fewer hours, learn more, have more leisure time, travel to more distant places, and have more of a chance to follow your life's ambition.

These are also the people who fought man's grisliest war. They are the people who defeated the tyranny of Hitler, and who when it was all over, had the compassion to spend billions of dollars to help their former enemies rebuild their homelands. And these are the people who had the sense to begin the United Nations.

It was representatives of these two generations, who through the highest court of the land, fought racial discrimination at every turn to begin a new era in civil rights.

They built thousands of high schools, trained and hired tens of thousands of better teachers, and at the same time made higher education a very real possibility for millions of youngsters—where once it was only the dream of a wealthy few.

And they made a start—although a late one—in healing the scars of the earth and in fighting pollution and the destruction of our natural environment. They set into motion new laws giving conservation new meaning, and setting aside land for you and your children to enjoy for generations to come.

They also hold the dubious record for paying taxes—although you will probably exceed them in this.

While they have done all these things, they have had some failures. They have not yet found an alternative for war, nor for racial hatred. Perhaps you, the members of this graduating class, will perfect the social mechanisms by which all men may follow their ambitions without the threat of force—so that the earth will no longer need police to enforce the laws, nor armies to prevent same men from trespassing against others. But they—those generations—made more progress by the sweat of their brows than in any previous era, and don't you forget it. And, if your generation can make as much progress in as many areas as these two generations have, you should be able to solve a good many of the world's remaining ills.

Easter Gladness

New hat and gloves and pretty dress, chocolate bunnies and colored eggs. But I noticed on the way home that Betsy kept humming the "Alleluia" of the anthem. She even remarked how happy the choir sounded. It made me feel happy too.

At five, she's too young to realize the true significance of the Risen Christ, but she can appreciate the beauty of voices raised in joyful harmony. She can't yet read the New Testament her grandmother sent, but she does enjoy the Bible stories she hears in Sunday School.

Bob and I believe that no one is too young to learn the loving ways of God. That's why we take Betsy to church with us. We want to share with her the depth and meaning our church has added to our days.

Make every Sunday glad! Go to your church, and take your family with you.

THE ARTS: Odessa's Play Staged

A PLAY WRITTEN by James Buchanan, son of John A. Buchanan, Odessa, and grandson of Mrs. Felton Smith Sr., 810 Runnels, Big Spring, is being produced April 2-4 at Angelo State University.

The play is "Plastic Pleasure Dome," and curtain time is 8 p.m. The drama revolves around a two-year experiment having to do with living in an isolated society. The experiment takes place in a geodesic dome made up of transparent plastic triangles and involves eight characters from all social strata.

Buchanan graduated from Odessa High School in 1966 and attended Odessa College for two years before transferring to Angelo State University. As a student at Odessa College he appeared in "A Man for All Seasons," "Androcles and the Lion," and others. While at Angelo State he has appeared in several productions as well as directing "The Blacks" and

"A Company of Wayward Saints."

FROM EARLIEST times, the fan was used by people from all walks of life and for many purposes both utilitarian and non-functional.

"Fantasia," now on exhibit at the Museum of the Southwest in Midland, represents fans of the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries and shows their development during this period.

Of English, French, Dutch, Italian, Chinese and Japanese origin, these fans are a portion of the permanent collection of the Museum and were accumulated during 1890 and 1920 by the late baroness Adele von Bornstedt of Sweden.

Guided tours will be available each Tuesday through Friday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. for the duration of the exhibition. Large groups should call the Museum for an appointment. There is no admission charge.

A GOLD AND silver necklace by David Henne of Sun Prairie, Wis., captured the $500 top award in Texas Tech's National Juried Jewelry Show in the University Library.

The show's $300 second place award went to Richard W. Mawdsley of Bloomington, Ill., for his group entry of pendants in intricate designs. Tabbed for cash awards of $100 each were a three-finger gold ring by Barry Y. Merritt of Fairport, N.Y., and a gold bracelet by Helen Shirk, Amarillo.

The award-winning ornaments are among 90 original items selected for exhibit through April 19 in a nation-wide competition sponsored by Tech's Department of Art and the International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies.

Robert von Neumann, professor of art at the University of Illinois, juried the competition which attracted 275 entries from artists in 25 states.

APRIL IS Fine Arts Festival month in Odessa, with events and exhibits highlighting the second annual festival. Purpose of the festival is to acquaint Odessans and visitors with the cultural activities available in the Permian Basin city.

Events begin with a kick-off show April 2 in Odessa Coliseum, and continues with art exhibits, concerts, play productions, a Mexican Fiesta, an arts and crafts exhibition, a flower show and other programs during the month.

A MAXI-IDEA by the Fine Arts Committee of the West Texas Museum Association in Lubbock brought forth the Mini-Cook's Cooking Book, a practical $3 volume for the junior cooking league. Proceeds will further the work of the Association in arts and education through the Texas Tech University Museum, P.O. Box 4210, Lubbock.

TICKETS ARE NOW on sale for the Night of Stars May 2 at 8 p.m. in Municipal Auditorium. The show is a professional touring variety show with jugglers, magicians, dancers, a unicyclist and musical novelty acts.

Proceeds will go to the Howard County Association for retarded children for their project of building a sheltered workshop for retarded youngsters.

Tickets are 75 cents for children and $1.50 for adults, Mrs. Mary Newell said. She said the association hopes to have the tickets on sale in various businesses around town.

Film Tells Story Of Most Decisive Battle In History

There appear to be just as many opinions regarding the most decisive battles of history as there are historians. But almost all, it seems, are agreed that the most decisive in all history was the so-called Battle of Britain, more familiarly known as The Blitz.

The "decisiveness" of a battle of the past, it was pointed out, is determined by the degree in which its outcome influenced the course of history toward the creation of the world order as it exists today.

What would have succeeded it had Hitler won the Battle of Britain would have been, by his own admission, the complete stamping out of the democratic notion.

The Battle of Britain may therefore be called the most decisive battle in all history.

But Hitler lost the Battle of Britain, and with it every chance he had of winning World War II.

But he had almost won it. And the narrowness of the margin is dramatically reenacted in Harry Saltzman's multi-million-dollar spectacle "Battle of Britain," which starts at the Jet Theatre tonight.

To make it, Saltzman commissioned a number of high ranking RAF and Luftwaffe officers who participated in the battle to refight it just as they did during those terrible six months which began with the blitzing of London on July 10th, 1940, and only ended when Hitler realized in October that even with his superiority over them actual veterans of the could never hope to quench the indomitable spirit of the English people on their beleaguered island fortress.

More than a hundred Stukas, Spitfires, Hurricanes, Messerschmitts and Heinkels, some of the great battle veterans of the air battle sequences, and to play the key roles, Saltzman signed Harry Andrews, Michael Caine, Trevor Howard, Curt Jurgens, Ian Olivier, Nigel Patrick, Christopher Plummer, Michael Redgrave, Ralph Richardson, Robert Shaw and Patrick Wymark, with a highly gripping role for lovely Susannah York.

"THE DUNWICH HORROR" ... Sandra Dee, Dean Stockwell

Actors Write Own Chants In 'The Dunwich Horror'

Actors often wish they could write their own dialogue, and in "The Dunwich Horror," which opens Thursday at the Ritz Theatre, stars Dean Stockwell and Ed Begley were given the opportunity.

In the climactic scene, Sandra Dee is stretched on an altar, about to be ravished by a demon, Stockwell. Begley climbs the stairs to the altar, shouting incantations which supposedly can overcome Stockwell's black magic spell.

Desiring to prolong the scene, Director Daniel Haller allowed Stockwell and Begley to make up their own words for about five minutes of additional filming. "Yog-sogoth, yog-sogoth" and "Nagayeh, wa-tu-wa" are samples of the deathless prose the actors tossed at each other, with Begley's words of magic finally overpowering those of Stockwell.

A veteran actor, Begley

'Fanny Hill' Is Madly Mod In New Film

"Fanny Hill" opening Wednesday at the Cinema Theatre, updates the classic novel for motion pictures and places Fanny Hill in a modern, contemporary setting.

The book has tremendous relevance for audiences today faced as they are with a growing sexual candor in all our movies, plays and novels.

Sweden was the logical choice for the modern-day adventures of a swinging mod Fanny Hill. Lush, redhead, Diana Kjaer portrays the sweet country lass who comes to Stockholm alone and soon acquires a string of lovers in the swinging Stockholm jet set.

Director Mac Ahlberg, renowned for his "I, A Woman," and "2" I, A Woman part II surpasses even those films in depicting an extremely intimate, physical world.

Interestingly enough, Miss Kjaer started out as a dancer but became interested in dramatics during the time when she lived in Copenhagen. She had never appeared in a film before and had to compete against a number of established European stars. She is now studying at the Royal Dramatic School in Stockholm in preparation for her upcoming film career.

Library Receives Rare Records

NEW YORK (AP) — A collection of 9,000 operatic and concert recordings — featuring almost every vocal artist of importance in this century — has been presented to the Research Library of the Performing Arts at Lincoln Center.

Among the more notable rarities are three 1902 Pathe sides recorded by Enrico Caruso in Milan, a 1902 Chaliapin recording of the "Calf of Gold" aria from "Faust" done in St. Petersburg for the Gramophone & Typewriter Co. and an equally scarce 1903 G. & T. disk of Felia Litvinne in Brunnhilde's "Ho-jo-to-ho" from "Die Walkure" with Alfred Cortot at the piano.

The gift is from Lauder Greenway, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Opera Assn.
