Kindness Backfires

CHICAGO (UP)—A kind deed of seven years ago caused Harry J. Lauson of Oak Park, several annoying hours.

A label carrying Lauson's name was found in a suit worn by an unidentified man whose battered body was found at Texarkana, Texas. Oak Park authorities were notified. For several hours, it was believed the dead man was Lauson, until he appeared to deny it.

"All my friends have been calling me about my death," but it isn't true," Lauson said. "I gave that suit to a tramp seven years ago."

Jim Ferguson comes forward with a platform in his wife's name that has a lot of good things in it. Jim Ferguson has the political sense to frame the very best platform extant—the best for vote-getting purposes. Jim Ferguson has plenty of political influence in this county and always will have. Jim Ferguson is liable to be the next governor, in his wife's name.

But, under the circumstances we would not vote for Jim Ferguson in his wife's name simply because if we vote for him we have to vote for him in his wife's name.

The issue, in any race in which Jim runs his wife for governor, is not what is contained in Jim's platform. The issue is responsible government. Most Texans do not believe that Jim Ferguson can direct responsible government, especially since he can not be held personally responsible.

And that, regardless of any platform, any wrong that may or may not have been done Jim Ferguson in the past, is amply sufficient to keep us from voting for him.

Howard county this year will go back into the Ferguson column. Fact is, we fully expected Ferguson to poll more votes than he did two years ago and in that case his wife is liable to carry the title of governor.

If Jim gains control of the executive branch of the government by proxy and in that wonderfully safe manner by which he cannot be held personally responsible for his acts as governor, he will have gained that control in the same manner in which he gained control the other two times—once personally and once by proxy.

It will happen only by appealing to prejudice, by aligning class against class rather than the masses (whatever that is) against the classes, (whatever that is).

Jim Ferguson's sole political stock in trade is that practice of spreading prejudice, ill will, in a race where personalities did not figure he would never have a chance. He can run only on the denials of others—or upon things that he conceals as their demerits.

For if he had to run on his own merits alone he never would get to first base.

All of which does not mean that the Ferguson candidacy will not get a fair deal, an even break in this newspaper. We may be accused of speaking out and saying what we think about Jim Ferguson in this column, but no man can justly accuse this writer of not playing fair with Ferguson and his supporters when it comes to publishing uncolored, unbiased, (CONTINUED ON PAGE 3)

Be Downtown Wednesday at 7:30 P. M. To Attend The Spring Opening and Window Unveiling Of The Big Spring Merchants

The largest number of people congregated in the business district of Big Spring at one time in a number of years was attracted last December when the Herald sponsored the formal opening of the Christmas shopping season, with unveiling of windows in the city's stores.

Prospects grew Tuesday for an even larger crowd to be attracted Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock when the formal opening of the Easter shopping season will occur.

With the opening will be the formal unveiling of Easter window displays.

Lights downtown will be extinguished a few minutes before 7:30.

The Big Spring Municipal band will strike up a lively tune promptly at 7:30 o'clock and simultaneously lights in the windows will flash on.

The following merchants and stores were added Tuesday to the large number that will participate actively in this event: Texas Electric Service company, Jones Dry Goods company, J. D. Biles Pharmacy, A. P. McDonald Co., Cunningham & Phillips (4 stores), G. E. Wacker store, Big Spring Hardware company, Montgomery Ward & Company.

Drums And Bugles Arrive For Legion

Big Spring's newest civic organization—and one which is expected to prove to be one of the most valuable—received its "weapons" Tuesday.

The drums and bugles for the corps being organized by William Frank Martin Post of the American Legion have arrived and the first rehearsal will be held Monday evening, officials reported Tuesday.

Legion Finds Jobs For 107

Many Families Anxious to Do Work On Farms, Ranches

L. Bohannon, a member of the American Legion who is in charge of that organization's unemployment relief office in the Reagan building next door west of the First Methodist church, reported Tuesday morning that 107 jobs had been provided and $97 in cash collected since the local unemployment relief campaign was started more than two weeks ago.

He urged on behalf of the Legion that residents of Big Spring and Howard county renew their cooperation in this movement by doing all in their power to provide employment to men whose families are in real need.

He said that a number of families are anxious to move to farms and do work on farms and asked that farmers and ranchmen who need hands call at the office of telephone No. 201.

Gen. Wolters Asks Relief

Colonel Davidson Expected to be Named to Place

AUSTIN (UP)—General Jacob F. Wolters, commanding the national guard troops in the East Texas oil fields, has asked to be relieved. Pat Dougherty's secretary, said that the general wished to return to his law practice in Houston.

Colonel H. H. Carmichael, assistant adjutant general, said that Colonel Louis S. Davidson of Dallas, who has been with Wolters since martial law was ordered in the field, would probably replace him. It was considered uncertain if a formal proclamation by the governor was necessary.

Stirling is a El Paso to lay out the Cattle Raisers' convention.

C. B. Dorchester Dies At Sherman

SHERMAN (UP)—C. B. Dorchester, 70, connected with the Merchants and Planters National Bank, died today. He was prominent in Texas Republican circles and a director of the Frisco Railway.

Dorchester was the receiver for the Waters Pierce Oil Company when it was involved in litigation some years ago.

GAS TAX UPHELD WASHINGTON (UP)—South Carolina's six cents per gallon tax on gasoline, attacked as invalid as applied to interstate airplane fuel bought by the Eastern Air Transport, was upheld by the supreme court.

Highway 9 Conference To Be Held

County To Be Urged To Speed Its Part Of Work

Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce will appear before the county commissioners' court at its next meeting to urge that body to meet the county's part of the conditions of a proposal recently extended representatives of the Chamber by Judge W. R. Ely, chairman of the state highway commission.

The committee, which recently conferred in Abilene with Judge Ely, and which was accompanied by two members of the commissioners' court, believes that the improvement of highway 9 from Big Spring to the Glascock county line will be started soon.

At Monday evening's meeting of the board it voted to extend an expression of its thanks to Judge Ely for his cooperation.

Ranking Is Same In Straw Voting

Ranking in The Herald's straw vote for president remained unchanged over the past week-end, with Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma extending his lead over John N. Garner from two to eleven votes.

Herbert Hoover remained in third place among the "serious" candidates (excluding Eddie Cantor) with Al Smith fourth and Will Rogers fifth.

One Garner supporter sent the following remarks with his ballot: "Find enclosed my vote for our friend, John N. Garner. Having lived in Uvalde county acquainted and being personally acquainted with Mr. Garner I know him to be a gentleman in every respect, a deep thinker, and very considerate—a man who if elected will serve all the people, large or small. John N. Garner can and will be as successful a leader for all people as President as he is proving to be in directing the House. And he will not be directed and led by a chosen few interests as is happening in Washington today. Regardless of party lines all of the common people should vote for Mr. Garner, as his colleagues now are supporting his leadership in congress."

You will find the ballot in this issue, as usual. Use one ballot for each vote. Mail them to the Straw Vote Editor of The Herald.

The total vote to Tuesday noon: Wm. H. Murray 95 John N. Garner 84 Eddie Cantor 40 Herbert Hoover 9 Alfred E. Smith 8 Will Rogers 3 Charles G. Dawes 2 Joseph T. Robinson 1 Owen D. Young 1 Franklin D. Roosevelt 1 Calvin Coolidge 1 Melvin Traylor 1

Veterans Of Wars Enlist In New Posts

Organization Growing At Rate 450 Daily To Mobilize Here

Renewed interest by former soldiers in the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the work that national organization is doing is raising its membership at the rate of 450 a day. This interest has spread to Big Spring and a number of West Texas communities, with the result that Big Spring Post No. 2013 will be installed Friday evening at the Settles Hotel.

In Texas alone there are more than 50 new chapters awaiting installation. Midland, San Angelo, Colorado, Marfa, Alpine, Pecos and Wink all have new posts. It is the oldest active veterans organization in the United States, having been organized Sept. 23, 1899. It is non-partisan, non-sectarian and takes no part in labor disputes. It is always prepared to help both active and former service men. It is the only veterans' organization maintaining a National Home for widows and orphans. It believes in "one flag, one country and one language." It does not discriminate but glories in being distinctive. It has never tolerated abuses by politically ambitious individuals. It is composed of ordinary men with extraordinary service records.

The organization right now is fighting for full payment of the soldier's bonus. Officials have expressed their gratitude to the American Legion, of which hundreds of posts throughout the country have joined with them in sighting for the bonus.

C. of C. Favors I.C.C. Regulation Of Motor Trucks

A resolution expressing support of a movement to have legislation enacted placing regulation of interstate and intrastate motor bus and truck traffic under jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission was adopted Monday evening by directors of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Representatives of the Texas & Pacific and the Missouri Pacific companies recently visited here urging local people to support such legislation.

Canned Goods Exempt From Excise Levy

11 Million Revenue Thus Lost Must Be Replaced Elsewhere

WASHINGTON (UP)—The house means committee announced that it planned to amend the manufacturers excise tax bill so as to exempt virtually all canned goods not considered as luxuries.

This will cause loss of about $11,000,000 revenue which must be replaced by another levy.

Press messages will be exempt from the telegram tax.

The house was debating the revenue bill a fifth day.

Havoc Wrought By Depression Seen In Figures

NEW YORK (UP)—Five great American corporations released their 1931 annual reports showing the havoc wrought by the depression.

United States Steel Corporation, largest industrial company in the world, fared badly, dipping into surplus to the extent of $49,945,567. It ended the year, however, in what Wall Street considered an excellent cash position with $430,000,000 in working capital and plants ready to meet increased demand for steel in 1932.

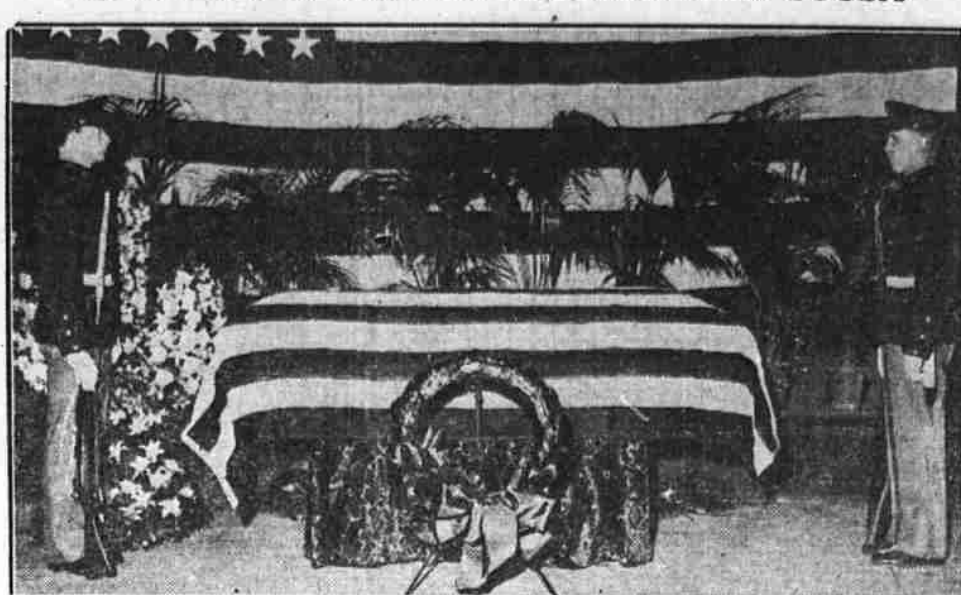

Columbia Gas—three quarter billion dollar utility—had to dip into surplus to the extent of $11,373,764 in 1931, its balance sheet showed.

The $370,333,178 Western Electric Company, almost wholly owned by American Telegraph & Telephone Company, managed to add $316,357 to surplus by eliminating its dividends early in the year.

Westinghouse Electric Company had to utilize $16,323,588 of its surplus to tide over 1931.

Radio Corporation of America (assets $117,061,156) created an increase in surplus of $30,057,354 by reducing stated value of its stock and transferred $768,903 to surplus for the year. That brought surplus to $40,556,795. Preferred dividends and profits of inventories, investments and fixed assets brought surplus figures down by a total of $49,509,006 to a total of $11,277,789 at the end of the year.

1st Methodist Crowds Grow

Pastor's Sermon Brings Strong Lessons To Congregations

Fruit of extensive pre-revival labors, which resulted in thoroughly organizing the membership for the revival campaign are being reaped as the series of services at the First Methodist church progress.

With crowds growing at each service, the preaching of Rev. J. Richard Spann is attracting intense interest.

Services are being held at 10 a. m. week days and at 8 o'clock each evening.

However, no morning service was held Tuesday, as the pastor and a number of officers and leaders of the revival went to Sweetwater for a district fellowship meeting conducted by Bishop Boaz.

Rev. Spann's sermon of Sunday evening, unusual in theme, but highly pertinent as an introductory discourse at the outset of the meeting, characterized a great body of people, whom he termed "bystanders" as "dead weight upon the world."

The text was the statement in Luke, 23rd chapter, which mentioned that acquaintances of Jesus stood "afar off" at the crucifixion.

Never Help

"The 'Bystander' has been there at every crisis the world has faced," said Dr. Spann. "When Rome began digging their way out of the debris of the nation and of civilization, here were the inevitable 'Bystanders' who refused to help carry the load and who had only criticism for those who worked. During the Civil War those in both the north and south who worked as they believed they should were hampered by the Bystanders. When in this country of ours efforts are made to throttle crime and to combat the liquor traffic the 'Bystanders' neither hot nor cold, but dead weight always are on hand."

"I venture to say that there is no community where, when the first petition was circulated in an effort to oust the saloon, many citizens said 'I don't drink but I won't sign the petition.' When moral, social and economic problems are before the city or nation the 'Bystanders' were the worst enemies. They are well-wishers. I don't suppose there is any one in Big Spring who does not wish the churches well, but many of them do not exert their influence for or against rightness, and thereby form a great stumbling block in the path of righteousness."

'Coward'

"The hour comes inevitably when we must face personal responsibility," he continued. "But the 'Bystander' is a coward. He is a coward, merely yes-men and yes-women. They ultimately bring defeat to every worthwhile cause."

"Jesus Christ wants us to ask the question 'what must I do to be saved?' But he expects more than that—he expects us to do our part toward helping to save the world. Two many people quit after they have taken the first step only. Every church of Christ needs people to help, and not merely to stand by the pastor's greatest problem is presented by those who take their allegiance to God too lightly. They merely identify themselves with a church and quit."

"The only enterprises that profit from the 'Bystander' that I know of," continued the speaker, "are commercialized amusements."

"We are saved not only for ourselves but also to help save others. He who goes into the fight for righteousness takes no risk except (CONTINUED ON PAGE 3)

He Loses Control

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind. (UP)—Each time Alfred Linsemann asked Eileen Gehringer to marry him, she refused. This went on for a year.

Then as they drove through the business district here, Linsemann asked the question once again. Miss Gehringer said "yes."

Linsemann was so amazed he lost control of his car, nearly ran down a traffic officer and wound up by letting his auto plow through a plate glass window and into a store building.

CLINTON, Iowa (UP)—Five men robbed the City National Bank of an amount estimated at a hundred thousand dollars after binding thirty-eight employees and customers in a rear room. The bandits captured the janitor when he came to work, captured the others one by one, waited until the time lock was released, then made the officials open the vault.

The loss was insured, according to officials of the bank.

John and Arvis Floyd later found the robbery loot on their farm. The money was returned. Officers changed clothes and threw away their guns, leaving the money on the farm.

Let's have your dollars. They'll be well spent—all of the money will go to provide bread, bacon and beans for folks who certainly need them—and must have them.

Conventions Committee Chairman Presents Report

Big Spring will make a determined effort to obtain the 1933 annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The board of directors of the local chamber so voted Monday evening, following a report from Dr. W. B. Hardy, chairman of the standing committee on conventions, who reviewed this year's work of that committee and asked the board to decide whether it would support a movement to obtain the regional chamber sessions.

Dr. Hardy said that the West Texas Sheriff's Association convention, to be held late this summer, had been obtained for Big Spring. The committee is working for the Divisional convention of the American Legion, the Oil Belt Educational Association, the legislative meeting of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the tri-state meeting of the B. of L. F. & E. and ladies societies, the state board of pharmacy examinations, the tri-state Pharmaceutical association.

Dallas Financier Is Found Wounded

DALLAS (UP)—Ralph B. Stichter, 55, public utilities executive and financier, was found at his home critically wounded in the head today and was taken to a hospital.

Stichter has been connected in various capacities with several power, gas and interurban companies, one of them the J. F. Strickland company with subsidiaries in Bonham, Cleburne, Dublin, Hillsboro, Sherman, Waxahatchie, and Waco.

Last Rites Said for Noted Texas Author

CORPUS CHRISTI (UP)—Last rites will be held tomorrow for Merry Ruth Mader, former Chautauque entertainer with the late William Jennings Bryan, who died yesterday at her home here.

Miss Mader wrote aviation, western and detective fiction for the "Pulp" magazine under the pen name of W. E. Ponder.

She served overseas as an entertainer with the Y.M.C.A. during the World War.

Burk Sought In Lindbergh Kidnap Probe

Few Developments In Search for Missing Baby Boy

HOPEWELL, New Jersey (AP)—Investigators today went to New York to question Frank Burk, who figured in a fantastic alleged kidnapping plot in 1925, thinking possibly that they might find clues in the Lindbergh baby kidnapping.

Burk and his wife were charged with attempting to lure Max Phillips, wealthy collar manufacturer, aboard their yacht but were never indicted.

Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf indicated that there were few developments in the Lindbergh case. He said that the state police were not responsible for the reports from other sources.

The Children First

From the New York Times

Soon after the United States entered the war in 1917 an American school man visited France to learn what the educational authorities of France had to give us for the conduct of our schools in wartime.

He made a circuit of the country from Amiens and St. Quentin at the north of Toulouse and Bordeaux at the south and from Brest on the west to Nancy and St. Die and the blue line of the Vosges, seeing the band how the French were caring for the education of their children in time of great stress.

He found that the Ministry of Public Instruction, M. Viviani, had published a book that the military authorities forbade "the schools must every where be kept open." Thus the "scholastic front" followed every where the military front.

Let us admire none the less the line of fire of their classes within sound of cannon; they also are sowing for the future. In that time France made every possible provision, in her economy, for the present defense, but she did not for one moment forget the future defense. She even opened (CONTINUED ON PAGE 3)

THE Commerce Department, it is announced, is about to adopt a new regulation for commercial air transport companies which would require each pilot flying a passenger-carrying plane to possess a certificate of competency, to obtain which he would have to measure up to extremely stiff standards.

He would, for instance, have to have at least 12,000 hours solo flying time, 500 hours cross-country flying, 75 hours night flying, and in addition would have to pass a test in blind flying.

This provision, naturally, would eliminate the employing of pilots who were not of the very highest type, and would do a good deal to make the air lines safer. Nor is there anything unreasonable about it. A steamship captain must possess a certificate of competency which is based on very stiff requirements. Should not an airplane pilot meet the same sort of rule?

Air Traffic Grows During Cold Wave

In spite of the cold wave, which has beset the south and west in the last week, travel over American Airways has increased 43 per cent during the first part of March over a similar period in February, according to Jesse Maxwell, local representative.

Full ships have been reported in quite a few instances, Mr. Maxwell said, and in several cases there were more passengers than available seats, causing travelers to be compelled to wait the next plane.

Much of the increase was attributed to the recent reductions in fares made over the entire American Airways system, which totaled approximately one cent per mile. Formerly the rate per air mile was seven cents but is now approximately six.

"Loads are gratifying as far as general traffic is concerned," Mr. Maxwell said. "Part of it is undoubtedly due to the reduced fares, but it also proves that the public is becoming educated to air travel in all kinds of weather and realizes that the day of discomfort in the air is past. March is usually a bad month but it is fooling us this year."

Life's Dargest Moment

THE FRESHMAN WHO IS FORCED BY UPPER CLASSES TO WEAR A CAP

BOY CRAZY
by GRACE PERKINS

SYNOPSIS: Determined to separate Hope Ross Dale and her young husband, Dickey, Hope's father knocks Dickey unconscious and tells Hope that her husband hasn't tried to communicate with her. Mr. Ross dislikes "Hickey," Dickey's father, and considers the marriage socially wrong. Hope has determined to stick to Dickey.

Chapter 19 LAUGHING-STOCK OF THE TOWN

"Hain't—been here? Haven't you heard from him?" Hope asked.

"Then he's hurt! Something's happened!" Papa Ross thought quickly.

"No, he's perfectly whole and sound," he lied gruffly. "His father has talked to me on the phone."

"What did Hickey say?" Papa Ross cleared his throat, and sought in his pocket for a cigarette.

"Hickey, as you call him, tried to be very placating at first," Papa Ross told her quietly. "But when he found out—"

"Yes? What, Daddy?" "Really, Hope, I hate to tell you. I knew about them all along. I'm a better judge of people than you are, child. I was right in the first place."

"Tell me!" stamped Hope stormily. "When he found out what?"

"When he learned that both your mother and I intended to cut you off entirely, your friend Hickey had a rather different tune to sing."

Hope stared at him. Brushed her hand against her eyes and stared again. For one brain moment came a stinging memory. . . .

Dickey asking her to sign a pledge, that turned out to be her wedding license. . . . Dickey drawing as he asked her to sign, "Sign it, crickets, will you, so I can sue you for breach of promise if you don't make good."

Hope drew in her breath sharply and shook the thought from her, remembering it was a joke—a loving joke. . . .

She flung back her head and looked calmly into her father's eyes.

"I don't believe it," she murmured. "No, it isn't true. Hickey had offered to back us—give us an allowance, set us up in Har—"

"Talk—all talk!" snapped Mr. Ross, flicking his match out the window. "Windbag. Just putting on a face! When it came to a show-down, he was perfectly willing to listen to reason. The minute he heard I would disinherit and disown you—"

"You would do that to me?" Her blank disbelief was punishment enough to Papa Ross for the dow. "I know you've loved me," she agreed thickly. "You know I've loved you, Dad. But you don't seem to think I have sense enough to love anyone else. Well, you're wrong. I know what I'm talking about. I'm married to Dickey, and I love him, and I'll go to him the moment he comes. And he will come!"

The break in her voice caused Papa Ross to wince.

She turned, as soon as she had conquered the desire to weep.

"Why are you looking at me like that?" she flared. "What are you waiting for? What did you mean—there is no Dickey?"

Papa Ross crossed his knee and pinched out the crease of his dark gray trousers.

"I'm afraid," his voice was thin as a wire, "I will be fit for an asylum before you get through with your nonsense. Now, look here, Hope, I'm trying to be very patient with you. You're going to find yourself the laughing stock of the town. And so is your family. Every one of us is going to feel cheap over this whole affair. I shall try to keep things as quiet as I can. But the long and short of it is, that your bull-headed half-baked hero has already deserted you."

"What do you mean? Why don't you tell me what he said?"

"I told you I haven't talked with Dickey," Papa Ross stuck to his word. "I know you've loved me," she agreed thickly. "You know I've loved you, Dad. But you don't seem to think I have sense enough to love anyone else. Well, you're wrong. I know what I'm talking about. I'm married to Dickey, and I love him, and I'll go to him the moment he comes. And he will come!"

Papa Ross crossed his knee and pinched out the crease of his dark gray trousers.

"I'm afraid," his voice was thin as a wire, "I will be fit for an asylum before you get through with your nonsense. Now, look here, Hope, I'm trying to be very patient with you. You're going to find yourself the laughing stock of the town. And so is your family. Every one of us is going to feel cheap over this whole affair. I shall try to keep things as quiet as I can. But the long and short of it is, that your bull-headed half-baked hero has already deserted you."

"What do you mean? Why don't you tell me what he said?"

"I told you I haven't talked with Dickey," Papa Ross stuck to his word. "I know you've loved me," she agreed thickly. "You know I've loved you, Dad. But you don't seem to think I have sense enough to love anyone else. Well, you're wrong. I know what I'm talking about. I'm married to Dickey, and I love him, and I'll go to him the moment he comes. And he will come!"

The break in her voice caused Papa Ross to wince.

She turned, as soon as she had conquered the desire to weep.

"Why are you looking at me like that?" she flared. "What are you waiting for? What did you mean—there is no Dickey?"

Papa Ross crossed his knee and pinched out the crease of his dark gray trousers.

lie, "I don't know what he said. Certainly he hasn't been man enough to come to me or get in touch with me, or attempt to see you. Since the moment he brought you home there hasn't been a murmur out of that young man. If that doesn't chalk up as a cad to you, then I don't know what you're made of."

"You're wrong, Dad. Dickey isn't like that!"

"Well, he and his father have skipped town very neatly. They've gone!"

"They're on their way to Virginia. To somebody's hunting-lodge down there. I found out that much, anyway. So if you have any idea that somebody's coming to rescue you, you might as well get right over it."

"You're crazy! You're lying to me! Trickling me! It isn't true!"

"Well, see for yourself. Go and try to phone him."

Hope regarded him for one frightful second, considering his challenge. Then, without a word she marched out of her room.

Walked unseeing past Goody who had obviously been caught in the act of eavesdropping, crossed into her father's study and sat down by the phone.

She called Hickey's hotel-apartment. Talked to Rogers, the man-servant, and listened to him explain that Mr. Dale and his son were on their way to Virginia and that he himself was to join them as soon as he could pack a few things.

"Any message, miss?" demanded Rogers politely.

Hope tried desperately to say "no." The word wouldn't come. She hung up and buried her head in her arms on the desk.

A hand on her shoulder startled her.

"Please!" she cried, pulling her shoulder away pettishly and getting to her feet. "Please. I want to be alone."

Carefully she made her way to the door of his study. At the threshold she looked back and gathered breath.

"I want you to know," she gasped brokenly, "that there's some awful mistake somewhere. He wouldn't desert me like that. We'll hear from him soon. I'm sure. And I'm going to wait before I judge!"

Papa Ross leaned back in his huge desk chair and looked out his casement-window.

Two Interurban Lines Suspended
DALLAS, Texas, — District Judge Royal R. Watkins ordered the foreclosure and sale of the Dallas-Terrell and Dallas-Denton interurban lines with writ of possession to Louis P. Wentz of New York to satisfy mortgages for $1,000,000 on the Terrell line and $650,000 on the Denton line. Both lines have defaulted in interest payments on their indebtedness.
Operation of both interurban lines ceased Saturday at midnight. It was stated at headquarters here that an effort would be made to settle the mortgages.

with the CRANKCASE DRY to prove the PENETRATION of Germ Processed Oil and Value of the "Hidden Quart" from Muskogee. Chevrolet mechanics tore down the motor and pronounced it undamaged. The doubters became believers!

"Hooley!" jeered one of the bystanders in a Muskogee, Oklahoma, filling station when F. J. Morgan told how the "Hidden Quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil had protected many cars from harm when run with the crankcase empty.

The oil that protects a motor under such conditions will give you better, safer lubrication in every-day driving! Conoco Germ Processed Oil is the only oil that actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. That's why a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. It cuts down costly starting wear, saves gas, gives your motor longer life, with fewer repair bills.

To prove his point, Mr. Morgan had the Germ Processed Oil drained from his crankcase and, accompanied by the doubter, started for Checotah, 27 miles away.

Change to Conoco Germ Processed Oil for safer, surer lubrication.

A crowd met the car at Checotah, but Mr. Morgan drove on to Eufaula, 14 miles farther, 41.6 miles

We neither encourage "dry crankcase" experiments nor guarantee success under all conditions. But unsolicited letters from motorists, now in our files, tell of this and hundreds of other runs with empty crankcases but without damage.

fair and accurate news reports of his speeches, and those of his supporters. Anybody who accuses us of that or anybody who says someone else dictates to us what we say in this column is either mistaken or he's not telling the truth.

If we thought that the election of Mrs. Ferguson as governor in name only, and the elevation of her husband to the real control of the government, would be best for the people we would fight to the last ditch for them. But our honest opinion is that such would not be the case.

When we say 'people' we mean those who work for their living as well as those who hire others to work.

Jim Ferguson is one of the shrewdest politicians the nation has ever known. His trouble is that he has turned his shrewdness in the wrong direction too often.

The best testimony to his shrewdness is that he has fooled more people longer than any of 'em.

And having expressed these thoughts on the matter we don't expect to have much more to say about it.

Bishop Wins No. 1 Ranking Over Jordan

Kent Bishop defeated Harry Jordan in the finals of the high school tennis tournament 6-3, 6-2 Monday afternoon to win the No. 1 temporary ranking to the high school net squad. John Stripling is temporarily placed at No. 3 and George O'Neil No. 4.

Joe Davis, 15-year-old star who fractured his leg last fall and has been off of crutches only two weeks, put in his first full afternoon of practice and despite his inability to cover the court showed little bad effects from his injury.

Coach Wayne Matthews is negotiating for a road trip for his charges this week-end, with the Sweetwater High Mustangs, coached by Dan Steakley, former Simmons University Star, and the Abilene High Eagles as the proposed opponents.

Personally Speaking

The advice which came out of all this to us (though it was advice of deed and not of word) was put into these words:

Do not let the needs of the hour however demanding, or its burdens however heavy, or its perils however threatening, or its sorrows, however heart-breaking, make you unmindful of the defense of tomorrow, of those disciplines through which an efficient democracy is possible, through which institution of civilization can be perpetuated and strengthened. Conserve, endure, taxation and privation, suffer and sacrifice, to assure to those whom you have brought into the world that it shall be not only a safe place but also a happy place for them.

And it is as pertinent advice today to us, when communities under far less stress, with no peril at their doors or unusual bereavements in their homes, are closing schools, shortening terms or considering steps that deprive the children of that which we owe them of our own heritage.

'Challenge Of Cause' Methodist WMS Topic

The W.M.S. of the First Methodist Church met at the church Monday afternoon for Bible study with Mrs. J. B. Pickle as teacher. "The Challenge of Cause" was the topic and Mrs. Pickle was assisted by Meses. C. E. Thomas, V. H. Flewelling, W. A. Miller, Fox Stripling, J. M. Manuel and Horace Penn.

After the program a box was packed for the Wesley Home. Those attending, in addition to the members on the program, were: Meses. J. A. Myers, G. A. Hartman, C. E. Talbot, Pete Johnson, B. H. Settles, J. B. Dalton, J. R. Manion, L. W. Croft, G. E. Fleeman, Joe Faucett, C. A. Schull and Frank Powell.

Next Monday the members will meet for their regular missionary program.

Birdie Baileys Meet At Church For Bible Study

The Birdie Bailey Missionary Society met at the First Methodist Church in regular session Monday afternoon for a lesson on "Jesus Our Ideal," conducted by Mrs. Hugh Duncan.

Mrs. Knickerbocker led the devotional. Mrs. Watson urged every member to lay aside everything and attend the revival for the next two weeks.

Those present were Meses. A. Knickerbocker, Duncan, C. T. Watson, R. L. Bull, V. W. Latson, M. Wentz, O. R. Bolinger, Morris Burns, H. V. Crocker, R. L. McMillan, Vivian Nichols, Wallace Ford, C. S. Diltz, W. H. Remele, Hal Hart, G. G. Keaton, Frank Springer, A. Schnitzer, R. A. Elmore, Jack Roden, Calvin Boykin and Jimmie Mason.

Moore County Has Distinct Oil Pool Witnesses Say

AUSTIN (UP)—The contention that there is a distinct oil pool or oil field in Moore county, northwest of the Panhandle field in which Moore county now is placed, was made before the state railroad commission here.

If it is declared a separate pool, the minimum allowable production for it would be 10,000 barrels a day. It is now allotted between 600 and 700 barrels a day as part of the Panhandle field.

James J. Sheerin, president of the Shamrock Oil & Gas Company, said that dry holes intervening between Moore county and the Borego pool indicate that it is separate and that geologists say it is distinct.

The field, Sheerin said, now extends seven miles east to west, and if designated separately by the commission, its boundaries will be determined by drilling. Geologists, he said, declare it a "large" field.

Opportunity to produce 3,000 barrels a day to run a refinery at Sunray is the object of the application. Sheerin told the commission. There is a market for the refinery product, he added.

Junior Bar Association Names Big Spring Men

Two Big Spring attorneys have been named on standing committee of the Junior Bar Association of Texas by officials, who met last week in Waco.

James Little was named on the committee on Cooperation With the State Bar Association and Wilburn Barcus assigned to the committee on Membership.

The committee will meet prior to the state convention in Mineral Wells May 15, a day before the Texas Bar Association meets there.

Two measures are being supported by the Junior Bar members. An attempt is being made to raise the standards of admission to the bar in this state and members of the association are trying to get a law passed prohibiting trust companies, corporations, real estate companies and other agencies from practicing law in Texas. This last project is based on the assumption that such practice is unfair to both the public and the law profession.

Chamber of Commerce to Entertain Members of Rail Brotherhoods

At an open meeting of the membership of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce to be held in 'picnic fashion' soon members of the four railroad brotherhoods and their families will be guests. The board of directors of the Chamber decided Monday night. The meeting will replace the usual annual banquet of the Chamber.

An invitation to the brotherhood men will be issued soon. Time and place of the meeting have not been fixed.

Members of the board for some time have been expressing a desire to have the railroad men as guests of the Chamber of Commerce, believing that the oftener various groups within the community come together socially the better they will understand and appreciate each other.

Wesley Memorial W.M.S. To Meet On Mondays

The members of the Wesley Memorial W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Jack King for a meeting with the largest attendance in the history of the organization. The meetings will be held on Monday instead of Tuesday.

Mrs. J. E. Fridge had charge of the devotional. The topic of the meeting was "Courage," Mrs. King spoke on "Women and Lawlessness." The members attending were Meses. Fridge, H. O. Bourland, Lloyd Montgomery, Albert Hartman, E. C. Wilkes, B. W. Boyd, Joe Willis, Sam Nabors, R. R. Childress, W. I. Inacore and Miss Grace Wilkes.

Mrs. Bourland, at 508 Goliad street, will be the next hostess.

Cardozo Becomes Supreme Justice

WASHINGTON (UP)—Benjamin N. Cardozo became an official and active associate justice of the United States supreme court in brief but impressive ceremonies after noon today.

The installation of the famous jurist as the newest member of the nation's highest court attracted a large crowd to the small semi-circular courtroom which was once the chamber of the United States senate.

The crowd was taken as an unusual tribute to one of the most widely heralded appointments to the bench in years.

the Tide

They're back in Circulation to help Win this FIGHT!

Yes, sir... this is our job... yours and mine! We've got to get America's idle dollars back to work.

Just imagine... here's the richest country in the whole wide world. We've got everything... resources, materials, factories, men. Nothing can stop us if we get tuned right.

But there's one problem we have to face. We've got to make our dollars work! Right now... today... there are a billion and a half American dollars that aren't working... every one of them are slowing up business.

This idle money withdrawn from circulation... doesn't help anybody. It doesn't even pay interest to the men who own it.

But put these same dollars in circulation... what happens then? First of all they start earning interest right away. But more important... every dollar you put to work... releases 5 to 10 more dollars in credit. That's the big point... CREDIT. Credit builds factories... runs railroads... buys materials... hires men.

Tighten this credit... and business suffers. It's a vicious circle. Every dollar withdrawn from circulation reacts through the retailer... the wholesaler... and the factory... right down to the ultimate consumer who is thrown out of a job. Release this credit... and the wheels start moving again.

Don't you see how important your dollars are? Don't you see how vital it is that you make your money Work?

Take a look at every dollar you own and ask yourself... "Is it working... am I doing my share to keep America's money in circulation?" Let's put our shoulder to the wheel... and get our dollars working and help America turn the tide,

Big Spring's "PURSE STRINGS"

are in her hands---

WHEN it comes to a matter of buying, of spending the family household allowance, whether the purchase be one of commodities or amusements, of business or professional service—whether they be considered necessities or luxuries; it is, in the vast majority of cases, the woman who influences the final decision. For women are the logical purchasing agents of the home, the guardians of household budgets and the custodians of the "Purse Strings" in the average family.

Your most important prospective customers are women. Prospects waiting to be told about the values and the services you have to offer. Prospects ready to become buyers in YOUR store. and clever buyers they are too, abreast of the times. They KNOW what, when and where to buy most advantageously, because they rely on the information gained from consistently reading the advertising in this newspaper, to guide them in their buying.

YOU can most economically reach these buyers with the story of your store through this same medium. For YOUR advertising messages in the Herald are placed in the same hands that control the operation of Big Spring's "Purse Strings."

AUSTIN—A legislative economy committee in Texas plans to start out like Pres. Hoover—by creating a new bureau.

That has become known in the preliminary stages of tax reorganization and department consolidation and regrouping plans.

It is now proposed to take the tax commission, which is limited to administering the intangible assets tax law, and has only a commissioner and a secretary, and converting it into one of the largest departments in the capitol, one charged with the handling and collection of tax laws now administered in other departments.

Such a plan will call for extensive personnel, and a new set of inspectors and office auditors and accountants and clerks.

The state comptroller's department now has a limited force of inspectors, but if the tax investiga-

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

Play in the city-wide gridiron league is to begin Wednesday afternoon, so we have been informed, with the Galloping Ghost, David Hopper's squad of East Ward hopefuls, meeting the West Ward or maybe its the North or South Ward.
It will be the first of a round-robin series to decide the city championship, and no doubt will be played upon the green turf in the Steer Stadium. The other two wards meet at another near date.

Nearly 200 youngsters are taking part in the city race, which is more kiddie than we knew existed in the entire town. Strict training rules are voluntarily enforced, and discipline is accepted as a matter of fact. The captain of the West Ward ers, a serious little fellow of twelve or thirteen, now goes in for spinach and etc. on a big scale. Says that its his duty to his team to grow big and strong and be a good example in general. And of course Coach Dennis is the grandest guy in the world. That kind of a captain ticked Harvard last fall. Albie B. B. limped into the game in the last quarter and kicked the field goal that knocked the Crimson out of a chance for the national title.

Big Spring is not so hot when it comes to calling the tosses of coins. During the basketball season George Brown lost on every available opportunity, and then Con Coburn saw his second place hopes slip to third and then to fourth as he failed unsuccessfully twice in succession.
Coburn and two others tide for second place honors in the Ft.
Worth Exposition high jumping event. The points were divided, each school receiving two, and then the youths tossed coins for the medals. Coburn came out with the pewter or maybe it was wood.

An invitational meet at Midland is on schedule for the Boving thirly ends this week-end, with Stanton, Lomax, and maybe one or two other schools furnishing the opposition. We predict the Steers will win in a breeze, concentrating in the field events, and led in scoring by Tack Dennis, Willie Flowers, Coburn, and Richbourg.

When Reid was taken out of competition Big Spring's last stellar threat in the running events was removed, unless either Coburn or Flowers undergo considerable improvement and come out in the dashes or the hurdles. But in the field events, such as the pole vault, high jump, weights, and etc., there is power galore. Coburn and Forrester in the high jump, Forrester and Neel in the vault, Richbourg, Coburn, and Forrester in the broad jump, Dennis in the shot, Dennis, Harris, and Hopper in the discus, and Dennis, Harris, and Forrester in the javelin—they'll be point winners in most of the dual meets around here.

The Neel mentioned in the above paragraph is the blonde-haired little flash that starred on the Devils in football and basketball, and was ineligible for competition in the last month of the season with Ben Daniel's team. Neel is perhaps the most talented athlete for his size in Big Spring, although Fred Townsend is of course hard to dismiss from consideration. It is feared that Neel will never be a first string man in either of the major sports. He failed to pass his studies during basketball season and so was dropped from Daniels' squad, and in this day of eight semester rulings and etc. it takes a combination of a bookworm and a Hercules to make a go of it.

But the Devils will send up enough "graduates" this year as it is. Good Graves, a 140-pound end, is going to be hard to beat out for a wing position on Bristow's eleven next season, and if ferocious tackling has anything to do with it he's already clinched a first string berth.
Graves hits ow and hard, and you can hear the ball carrier's teeth chatter when the tackling is done.
Cordell, Flowers, Franklin, Fisher and Little are other prospective reinforcements.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

A World Policy in the Orient

GENEVA, March 10.
In adopting as their own the principles laid down in the Stunson-Borah letter the nations of the Assembly have modified radically the nature of the League of Nations. It might almost be said that they have suspended the covenant and have reconstituted themselves as an association of nations acting under the Kellogg-Briand pact.

The principle of the covenant is that the nations of the League are pledged to maintain peace, by force if necessary. It is obviously the intent of the covenant that in the Manchurian case the members of the League should have instituted a boycott if Japan did not withdraw her troops and agree to a specific solution of the dispute.
That is the plain meaning of Articles 10 to 16. What has happened is that the League got about as far as paragraph III of Article 15 and could go no further. For just ahead loomed Article 16, which calls for war. The covenant simply failed to work because the great powers, which would have had to pay the costs of making it work, flatly refused.

It is only fair to realize that the authors of the covenant did not contemplate a situation like that in the Far East, where among the five powers most concerned, China, Japan, Britain, Russia and the United States, but are not members of the League. But this explanation does not alter the fact that the system of peace making laid down in the covenant has failed totally in Manchuria.

At this point the American principle has provided the means of saving all our faces and conceivably even of saving ultimately the situation itself. The American principle of not recognizing the results of aggression, though the act of aggression cannot be prevented, is the direct opposite of the procedure of the covenant. It is in its implications the most absolutely pacifist principle imaginable.
It carries into international law something of the philosophy of Mahatma Gandhi. In place of a superstate maintaining international order the nations are to ignore the application of sanctions and ostracize the consequences of law breaking. The principle is novel and far reaching; its effects in their application to the real world are very difficult to foresee.
But the principle is the logical outcome of our American opposition to anything in the nature of a superstate and it is practically convenient in that it rather grandly reserves all our rights for the future without requiring the expenditure of more than words in small nations as well as the great powers can employ.

The world has entered upon a fascinating and perhaps a momentous experiment. This experiment has for the moment the moral support of all the governments, including, one may assume, the Russian. There is thus a unianmity which probably has no precedent and if the peoples understand what their governments have agreed to, they can determine the result. For the Japanese cannot exploit the results of their aggression if the governments and peoples of the world really adhere to the resolutely practice and principles they have proclaimed.

Buick '57' Is Popular

Sales Extended Into New Price Fields By New Model

The roomy, five-passenger family unit with new Buick valve-in-head engine, Wizard Control and modish 1932 body by Fisher is extending Buick ownership into a new price field. J. L. Webb, local Buick dealer, said that thousands of new car buyers are taking advantage of the opportunity for Buick ownership offered by the low-priced Series 32-50 models of the 1932 Buick line of eight. With the total volume of sales of this series advancing steadily as spring approaches, one model alone, the five-passenger 32-57 sedan that is a feature of this series increased fifty per cent in the number of retail deliveries for the second ten-day sales period of February compared with the first ten days. This model, which is the lowest priced Buick sedan since the days of four cylinders, is penetrating a new sales field and bringing Buick ownership to a large class of buyers who heretofore wanted a Buick but hesitated for economic reasons, as Mr. Webb said. The Buick '57' sedan is a sturdy 3500-pound car which has been increased in size, power and beauty. The wheelbase has been lengthened, the five-passenger body is two inches longer and the eight-cylinder Buick valve-in-head engine has been increased to 82 1/2 horsepower with high compression. Wizard Control, an exclusive Buick feature, brings unsurpassed driving ease to the '57. It combines the automatic clutch, silent-second Synchro-Mesh transmission and free-wheeling. Dual carburetion, the Buick engine oil temperature regulator, insulated fuel system, the famous torque tube drive, smartly sloping windshield dual horns, aluminum radiator shell, hood doors and sing-bar bumpers, are among the numerous features.

Party Frock

PATTERN NO. 210

Simplified illustrated instructions for cutting and sewing are included with each pattern. They give complete directions for making these dresses.
210 is just the thing for the girl who's just starting to go to parties. It fairly sparkles with youthful vivacity. It's lines are smart, but above all else, delightfully girlish. The wide shoulder effect, straight from Paris, is achieved through a lace bertha. The skirt flares fully for the dance. And the sash ties girlishly in back. 210 is especially smart in that it achieves chic without sacrificing girlishness. Designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 3 5/8 yards of 3 1/2-inch fabric or 3 3/4 yards of 39-inch fabric.
To get a pattern of this model send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins.
Please write very plainly your NAME AND ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER AND SIZE of each pattern ordered.
Our new fashion magazine with color supplement and Paris style news is now available at ten cents when ordered with a pattern and fifteen cents when ordered separately.

Ten Evidences Of Woodrow Wilson's Dry Record Given

1. Openly supported local option in New Jersey when it was one of the wettest states in the Union.
2. As President signed the bill making it unlawful to circulate through the mails any advertisements of intoxicating liquor.
3. Signed the bill making the District of Columbia dry.
4. Signed the bill providing for the prohibition referendum in Porto Rico which made Porto Rico dry.
5. Signed the bill which made the territory of Alaska dry.
6. Signed the bill strengthening and providing for better enforcement of the District of Columbia prohibition law.
7. During the war, signed emergency bills prohibiting manufacture and sale of liquor in connection with various war activities, including the war time prohibition bill which prohibited the manufacture and sale of all liquors in the U. S. while the war lasted and until all our troops were demobilized.
8. With his acquiescence as Commander-in-Chief of the Army, his Secretary of War sent a telegram to the Governor of Texas recommending enactment of the law passed by the legislature in 1917, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor within five miles of soldiers' Training Camps, which closed every saloon in Texas.
9. Under his Administration, the 18th Amendment was submitted by three-fourths vote of each House of Congress, and was ratified by 46 of the 48 States of the Union.
10. When President Wilson vetoed the war time measure, he was careful to call it "salutary" and "a great reform" and vetoed it solely because it contained war time measures he had promised not to continue in peace times. In proof of

For Congress

As the last week of the campaign, last week announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for congressman-at-large.

(From the Woman Voter)
Who Is It Makes Prohibition Difficult? We Don't

For centuries women have been trained to love and protect men who drank; inheritance makes its toll among both men and women. Daughters and granddaughters of drinking people are demonstrating this; atavism is the strongest force against prohibition. The advocates of continued alcohol traffic as though the prohibitionist ever dared speak lies, patronize bootleggers, finance crime, and increase drinking. Only the wets have done, or can do any of these things. Let us be fair. The unmarried are not divorced, the poor are not rich, the city are not wet. — Mrs. Richard A. Smith in Christian Alliance.

King's Daughters In Charge Annual Mite Box Program

The members of the King's Daughters Circle of the First Presbyterian Church had charge of the program at the auxiliary meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. Geo. W. Davis presiding. "The Blessing Box" was the topic.

Mrs. W. C. Barnett led the devotion, taking the 67th Psalm, followed by a prayer by Mrs. J. B. Little.

Mrs. M. N. Miener, accompanied by Miss Jeannette Barnett rendered two lovely solos. Mrs. H. W. Cayor talked on the "Origin of the Mite, or Blessing Box"; and Mrs. T. S. Currie on "Giving". The boxes were opened and a liberal offering was given to the church.

A social hour followed the program during which delicious refreshments were served to those who had taken part and the following members: Mmes. C. W. Cunningham, E. O. Price, Sam Baker, Id. Mann, R. C. Strain, W. G. Wilson Jr., Graham Fooshee, Guy Tamsitt and J. O. Tamsitt, Fred M. Campbell, J. L. Thomas, Frank Knauer, C. P. Rogers, R. T. Piner, Slim O'Neal and E. L. Barrick.

Mrs. Hilda Marsh had as a visitor Monday her father, the Rev. Mr. Marsh, of Odessa.

Episcopal Auxiliary Hems Linen Tea Towels For Sale

The members of St. Mary's Episcopal Auxiliary met at the parish house Monday afternoon with Mrs. C. S. Blomfield presiding and Mrs. W. H. Martin in charge of the program.

Mrs. Martin spoke on "Why We Keep Lent" and on "Possessions." The auxiliary voted to endorse the suggestion of the Ministerial Alliance that every church in the city observe Holy Week.

The members hemmed tea towels which the auxiliary will sell. Those present were Mmes. Shina Phillips, Mound, Bergstrom, Martin, Blomfield and Geo. Garrette.

All around the CLOCK..

● There's only one thing that will chase a morning grouch quicker than a warm shower. And that's a cold one. With a Chesterfield to follow. And even if you're rushed...there's time to appreciate Chesterfield's better taste.

● One man likes his coffee weak. Another likes it strong. But it's dollars to doughnuts both want mild cigarettes. And that means Chesterfields. They get you started on the right foot. They're good anywhere. Anytime.

● And later...in the office when the phones begin to buzz and the big boss begins to shout...put Chesterfield on the job. It starts out cool...stays cool...and keeps you cool in a hot spot till the final whistle blows.

● It's going to be a big evening. So change your clothes and step out. And don't forget your Chesterfields. You'll need them. And if it's mixed company you'll want to take an extra pack. Their purity is their password... wherever people are particular.

● Chesterfield has never failed to make its contract. It bids a grand slam for mildness and better taste... and comes through with all the honors every time... Because every shred of Chesterfield leaf is carefully selected... and by men who "know."

● One more Chesterfield and you can call it a day. And notice...the last one tastes just as good as the first. That's no accident. That's the sum and substance of Chesterfield's popularity... told in two words... "They Satisfy."
