Jury Acquits A. B. Garner On Insanity Plea

A.B. Garner, 71, a retired resident of West Terrace Addition, Rockport, pleaded not guilty on July 10th to an indictment charging him with an aggravated assault on William F. Kelsay, a neighbor. Kelsay was shot by Garner on March 3rd. The gun used was a .32 caliber Colt automatic pistol. Trial was to a jury in the 36th District Court, Judge John H. Miller presiding.

Evidence established that there had been an altercation early in February involving the defendant and Kelsay. The trouble arose over the injured party's dogs, which Garner thought were getting in his back yard. The two men had no further contact with each other after the incident in February until March 3rd.

On that day about 11:00 a.m. Mr. and Mrs. Kelsay were sitting on their patio with neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Zanes. The defendant Garner came to the back fence, and called to Kelsay who went and met the defendant. Both Garner and Kelsay testified that Garner asked Kelsay if he didn't think he should apologize to Garner for what he had said to Garner in February. Both agreed that Kelsay made no apology and turned around and started walking away.

Garner testified that at that time he shot Kelsay in the back with his .32 caliber Colt automatic pistol. Kelsay fell to the ground. The Sheriff's office was called and an ambulance sent (Continued on Page Two)

Currently, Rockport Garden Club is sponsoring a show of flowers and plants grown by members of the club. Each has an identifying card and instructions as to proper care are included. Mrs. R. L. Eckman is in charge for the club.

At a recent meeting of the bank art committee tentative plans were made for shows to be staged during the remainder of the year. Mrs. Gibson said. It is planned to continue each of the shows for a full month, she added.

Fruit and Vegetable Packing Described

A color film on production, promotion and marketing of California fruits, vegetables and nuts was shown at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club July 10 at Ramada Inn.

The film stressed the advantages of co-operative marketing to small growers who lack the volume and financing of large producers. Throughout the film were comments of growers while processing and packing scenes were being shown. Products involved included oranges, grapefruit, grapes, dates, plums, asparagus, lettuce, strawberries and almonds.

Emergency Care Unit Discussed At Meeting

A group of interested citizens met with Dr. W.C. Triplett on Tuesday, July 9 at the Chamber of Commerce building to hear plans of a 20 bed emergency care unit.

Dr. Triplett, who practices internal medicine in Corpus Christi, has been well aware of the need for emergency medical care in rural areas such as Rockport, and with several business associates, has designed a facility which would bring a highly sophisticated, immediate medical treatment to these areas.

Most of the planning has been completed, according to Dr. Triplett -- architectural design, scale models, selection of equipment, and finally, approval by HEW. All that is necessary now is financing, which has been stalled by current high interest rates. However, Dr. Triplett expressed optimism that construction would begin by the first of the year. The site and land for the project has already been selected and purchased.

The unit will have a full time doctor - administrator, with several area doctors having agreed to be on call for specialized cases. Local doctors have been invited to use the facility for patients under their care. The full time staff will also include trained paramedics and intensive care nurses. It will have its own ambulance service and a small helicopter pad to accommodate rapid evacuation of patients with an immediate requirement for the facilities of one of the large medical centers.

Apparently, Rockport is to be the first of a number of such facilities which Dr. Triplett's group hopes to build throughout the country.

Attending the meeting, conducted by Dr. Ron Levy, Hospital Committee Chairman, was Bill Janeeck, Raymond Owens, Richard Beck, Joe Hugenberg, Bill Agee, V.F.W. Commander, Carl Duckworth, George Bergman, Zolile Glass, A.A.R.P. president, and Loyce Landrum.

Patrol-for-Pay Okay In Aransas

According to County Judge John D. Wendell the four county constables Buddy McLester, Dowell King, John Ray and J.H. Stockbridge can patrol-for-pay if they so desire.

Constables in Aransas County receive $1 per year as a token salary. They do not receive car allowance or insurance.

The question as to the legality of constables holding jobs as private security officers arose when San Antonio County Attorney Richard Hatch leaning on several opinions issued by state attorneys general over the years has said it was illegal for a constable to collect money from residents in his precinct for patrol work.

Although constables in San Antonio County do receive salaries the commissioners court of that county decided to ignore Attorney Hatch's opinion and sanctioned the constable's business.

Local Conservation Association Protests Dredging Permits

The Rockport Conservation Association has joined others in protesting the extension of dredging permits in San Antonio Bay for three more years, by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, because they claim silt stirred up by the San Antonio Bay dredges flows southwest into Aransas Bay, making the waters there muddy. The association claims that this hurts fishing in Aransas Bay and makes the area unattractive to recreation seekers.

Some 35 letters opposing the extension have been received by the corps' district office in Galveston. E. D. McGehee, assistant chief of construction and operations said most of the letters were from bay fishermen in the Seadrift area.

Horton and Horton, Parker Brothers and Co. Inc. and Lone Star Industries, Inc., all of Houston are the three companies seeking permits to dredge shell from the bay until December 31, 1977. The Corps of Engineers had set July 15 as the deadline for receiving comments on the proposal.

A decision to hold a public meeting on the issuance of the permits will be made by the district engineer after all comments on the proposal are in. This should take from 10 days to two weeks, McGehee said. San Antonio Bay fishermen said in their letters that dredging was detrimental to fish and nursery areas and that it hurt the bay quality in general.

After the fishermen's letters arrived, McGehee said that enough interest was being shown to warrant a public hearing.

Protesting fishermen used a form letter because individual fishermen did not have the time to write their own letters. Marcus Blevins, a shrimp fisherman from Seadrift said. He said that some of the fishermen do not believe that the dredges are hurting them too much, however, most of the people who make their living from the bay believe the dredging does hurt.

Roy Dodson and Al Steffens, both of Alice also sent letters protesting the oyster dredging in any bays.

Girls' Softball To Be Formed

Tennis Tournament Has Reached Half-Way Mark

What has been characterized as the largest and most popular tennis tournament ever staged in Rockport reached the half-way mark Sunday afternoon when all preliminary rounds were completed in the second annual Rockport Summer Fun Mixed Doubles tourney.

A total of 64 players competed last Saturday and Sunday with most of the matches being staged on courts of Key Allegro Tennis Club. Play started both days at 8 a.m. and continued until late afternoon. Several matches were played at Rockport Racquet and Yacht Club.

Quarter finals, semi finals and finals will be played next Saturday and Sunday, followed by a buffet dinner at Key Allegro Inn for players, members of their families and anyone else who is interested in promoting tennis in the Rockport area. At that time trophies will be awarded winners and runners-up in the tournament's three divisions. Also, the Fred Whittle Memorial Trophy will be presented to the winner in the championship division to be retained for one year. Other divisions are the consolation and sub-consolation divisions. Basically, the tournament is designed to honor the memory of Colonel Whittle, retired Air Force officer who devoted the last several years of his life to stimulating public interest in tennis in the Rockport area with special emphasis on youthful players.

Those planning to attend the dinner Sunday night, July 21, have been requested to make reservations as promptly as possible through the office of Rockport Chamber of Commerce which is sponsoring this year's tournament.

The tournament is being operated on a unique plan which assures all participants at least three matches even if they lose. Also, no partners play together in more than one match. After each match partners are swapped. As a result, outstanding players do not dominate the tournament and the least skilled players have an opportunity to play with or against the better players. At the start partners are selected by lot under direction of the tournament committee. Many wives and husbands are participating in the tourney, but in only one instance were they selected by lot to play with each other. Quite a number of parents and children are taking part but none were selected by lot to play as partners.

Comments from participants and spectators alike indicated general satisfaction with the unusual manner in which the tournament was set up and operated, it being pointed out that players were given more opportunity to play several matches and to experience competition with players of varying skill.

Tournament committee chairman Dewey Lingo and his daughter, Peggy, were given major credit by players and spectators alike for making the tournament the popular success it appears to be. They spent many hours setting up the schedule, attracting the required 64 entries and managing actual play in the tournament, including recording of scores and arranging partners for matches as the tournament proceeded.

Protective Program Reviewed By Rotary

Revival of "Operations Identification" initiated some months ago by Rotary Club is being revived, according to Robert McBride, president of the local civic club.

The program calls for engraving the owner's driver license number on valuable property with an electric tool in an effort to thwart thieves. The engraving tools and a registration form are available on loan from Rotarian Vernon Kleypas at the Aransas National Gas office and William Janacek at the office of Central Power and Light Co. The items marked are listed on a record sheet which is deposited in the county sheriff's office. Also, identification decals stating that home is protected by the program are available.

This identification program has been used with considerable success in many areas of the county. In one California city careful records were kept of homes that were burglarized over a period of several months. It was learned that homes where the program was not in effect suffered approximately three times as many burglaries as the homes where the program was in use. Protected homes were identified by the small warning signs posted on exterior doors.

Among articles suggested for engraving are guns, radios, cameras, sewing machines, valuable tools, television sets and large pieces of silverware. The tool will engrave on metal, glass, wood and plastic.

Both Sheriff Bob Hewes and Police Chief James Craigmille have endorsed the program and have had property owned by their departments engraved.

Pleads Guilty

Thomas W. Barfield pleaded guilty for unlawful possession of a prohibited weapon and was found guilty. Punishment was at one year in Aransas County Jail and $500.00 fine. Imprisonment was probated.

Pictured above is Deputy Sheriff Mike Webb inspecting approximately 1900 LSD tablets confiscated in a narcotics arrest last week. Headed by Chief Deputy Sheriff E. A. Stautzenberger and assisted by Webb and City Patrolman Gary Langston, two persons were charged with possession of the $3,600.00 worth of LSD. The two, Vickie Cuda, 21, and Thomas A. Wright, 27, both of Fulton, were placed in Aransas County jail and later released on bond. This is the largest amount of LSD recovered in this county.

Air Boats Newest Fad In This Area

Propeller-driven fishing and recreation boats are growing in popularity and number in the Rockport area, according to boatmen who have seen fads as to boat types come and go over the years.

At the present the trend appears to be in the direction of shallow draft boats propelled by air-cooled motors salvaged from small automobiles. Most of the boats are flat bottomed aluminum skiff types popularly called John boats. Because there is no underwater propeller they are able to navigate in only a few inches of water and many of them are quite fast.

The main drawback of this type boat is its noise. Because the noise is caused by the air propeller, there is no effective way to muffle the sound. No one appears to know for sure what effect this noise may have on fish, although it is agreed that it has a bad effect on waterfowl, especially during the hunting season.

In addition, it is reported that operators of some of these air boats are thoughtless about the noise nuisance their boats create for waterside residents. Other air boat owners thoughtfully keep their engines throttled down to reduce the noise when in the vicinity of homes.

Interest in Tennis Growing in Rockport

Interest and participation on the Rockport Mixed Doubles Fun Tennis tournament now in progress is indicative of the growing involvement of residents of the Rockport area in tennis as a recreational activity for all ages. Apparently this area is participating enthusiastically in the tennis boom which is sweeping the country, supporters of the sport declare.

Only three years ago there were just three tennis courts in the community, two at the Rockport - Fulton High School and one at St. Peter's Episcopal Church. Today there are 13 with four more under construction and two more planned for later this year. This will increase the total to 19 by the end of the year. The three original courts are concrete, which provides a very satisfactory playing surface but has lost in popularity in recent years to asphalt composition surfaces, especially in the south, middle west and east. However, concrete remains the favored surface in California and the west coast where, incidentally, many of the nation's top flight tennis players have been developed in recent years.

The first composition courts in this area were constructed for the Key Allegro Tennis Club. A third court was added last year and two more are planned for this year.

Next, two composition courts were built as an adjunct to the Rockport Racquet and Yacht Club Resort on State Route 35 north of Rockport. This was followed shortly by construction of a composition surfaced court at Sea Gun Resort. With organization of a membership club open to the public at Rockport Racquet and Yacht Club, which includes sauna baths, a pool and a tennis club room, two more modern courts were constructed, and John Gutzke joined the club as fulltime tennis professional.

At present the club, owned and operated by George Falk and Joe Couch is in the process of adding four more courts. Planned for completion late this summer, they will be lighted for for, Deputy Mike Webb came and arrested Garner who apparently made no statement nor gave any explanation.

When the ambulance arrived Kelsay was taken to the Lyman-Roberts Hospital in Aransas Pass. Dr. Leonard Sayers attended Kelsay there. He testified that what appeared to be bullet wounds were found, the bullet entering mid-back and emerging in the front abdominal area, and that the wounds caused serious injury. Kelsay was sent to the Memorial Hospital in Corpus Christi. He was hospitalized for some 39 days.

Garner's defense was that he was mentally upset over the altercation with Kelsay in February and attributed the shooting to his mental condition.

He went to a Dr. Cecil Childers, a psychiatrist, in Corpus Christi about the time the Aransas County Grand Jury was re-assembled late last month. This psychiatrist, testified that from his observation and study of Garner that it was his opinion that Garner suffered from an emotional mental disease and did not know that his conduct in shooting Kelsay was wrong. The doctor testified he expected to receive $250.00 for testifying.

After the evidence was closed the jury was instructed by the court as to the law and the case argued by the lawyers.

The jury was made up of the following Aransas County citizens: Mrs. Frank H. Smith, Dona Mae Schocke, Gene Howland, Helen J. Gravell, Varile Herron, Vicente Corpus, Mrs. Floyd Smith, James C. Gurley, Mrs. Joseph F. Novosad, Mrs. H.C. Mullinax, Eldon Mullan and David T. Frazier, foreman.

After deliberating seven hours they returned a verdict Thursday night at 10:20 p.m., finding that the defendant was insane at the time he shot Kelsay and that he was not guilty by reason of insanity.

night play and will include a gallery for spectators. At present the only lighted court in this area is at the Episcopal Church.

Recently the city of Rockport completed two modern courts at Memorial Park. They are enclosed with woven wire backstops and sidewalls.

First tennis professional in the Rockport area was Jim Langham who supervised construction of the Key Allegro courts and was active in organizing the Key Allegro Tennis Club. He has since transferred his activities to the Victoria Country Club but continues to live in this area and retains a continuing interest in local tennis. He and Gutzke are professional advisors for the Rockport Mixed Doubles Fun Tennis tournament now in progress. At present the Key Allegro courts are being operated by Jeff Crosby and Carla Krueger while a full - time professional is being sought.

For several months prior to his death last year Fred Whittle, retired Air Force colonel, served as volunteer pro and instructor at the Racquet and Yacht Club courts. He is credited with having done more than any other individual to stimulate interest in tennis in this area, especially among younger people.

In recognition of Colonel Whittle's contributions to the growth of tennis in Rockport, Dewey Lingo, himself a tennis player and enthusiast, organized the first annual Rockport Mixed Doubles Fun Tennis tournament last year and contributed the Fred Whittle Memorial trophy to be awarded each year to tournament winners. This year Lingo again is chairman of the mixed doubles tournament.

First organized tennis club in the area was Key Allegro Tennis Club, founded in September, 1971. The club now has approximately 60 family memberships, accounting for approximately 100 participants. Members include local residents and weekend and vacation visitors.

Rockport Racquet and Yacht Club membership totals 100 at present, representing possibly 150 active tennis players. As with Key Allegro Tennis Club, this group includes full-time residents and weekend visitors, many of whom are owners of condominiums in the development.

To a greater extent than with most sports activities, tennis attracts players of all ages, from youngsters just learning to swing a racket to players in their 60's and 70's. In recent years many individuals who played tennis years ago have resumed playing and they are finding that once-learned skills can be recaptured rather quickly.

As an example of the age spread among local tennis players, one of the matches in the current tournament at the Key Allegro club paired John Coats, age 74, with Erin Falk, age 13. They played Rev. Lester Hill and Claire Picton in Division B late Sunday. It was a battle all the way. After a 6-6 tie at the end of the first set, Hill and Picton won the tie breaker. Coats and Falk won the next set, and the final set went to Hill and Picton. However, the result was in doubt all the way and spectators were impressed with the skill displayed by all four players.

Incidentally, Coats has been playing tennis for at least half a century. At one time he represented the U.S. Navy in tournaments throughout the country and playing with and against world-ranked tennis stars.

Apparently tennis has a bright future in the Rockport area as more and more courts are built and more and more players of all ages become active in the nation's fastest growing sport.

A variety of sandwiches, cookies, pies, cakes and cold drinks are available at the Key Allegro pro shop. Among those who provided various food items are Berta Little, Lois Mosier, Patti McMillan, Connie Garcia, Helen Bradshaw, Lois Harrington and Corky's Restaurant.

Other contributors of their time and material of various sorts are Bill Christian, Bob Mosier, Louise Zeisler, Bob Raney, Allegro Woman's Club and Super "D" Foods. Carl Krueger made the club's facilities available and arranged for construction of the two patios for spectators.

An appreciated feature of this year's tournament has been the palm - thatched patios with chairs for spectators. As a result, many more have been watching the matches than has been the case in the past.

Tournament committee members are urging more people to attend the matches next Saturday and Sunday because of their entertainment value and to encourage the players. Play starts at 8 a.m. on the Key Allegro courts both days and continues until evening. Plenty of shaded seating is available and there is no charge.

Decorations Added At First National

Recent additions to First National Bank's exterior and interior are logograms and the spelled-out name of the bank on the east and west walls of the building, a 20-foot flagpole and a stand of an American and Texas state flags in the lobby.

The logogram was developed by a Corpus Christi artist and is used on all bank stationery and publications. These new nameplates are in addition to the original cut-out name at the base of the bank's south wall.

The flagpole, located at the bank's south east corner is 20 feet high and of burnished aluminum. The American flag is flown every working day, and provision has been made to fly a Texas state flag on special occasions.

The flags in the lobby are of silk - like material with gold fringes and tassels.

Riding Association Holds "Gulf Coast Wildest Rodeo"

The rodeo, July 6 and 7, in Rockport, sponsored by the Aransas County Riding Association was billed as "The Gulf Coast Wildest Rodeo." By Sunday afternoon the association members, rodeo hands, stock handlers and spectators were believing this.

Saturday night the broncs were big, mean and ugly with only four cowboys out of nine riding their horses. Two cowboys, Marlon Powell and David Garrett tied with a score of 49 points.

Best time for tiedown was a 9.990 for Herman Wheaton. Steer roping Saturday night had a time of 8.460 by Y. Garza and C. Garza, Sr. These two cowboys sure throw a pretty look and very seldom miss.

Breakaway was something else. Boy Falcon's time was 3.091 and Maxine Kubeck's time was 3.994. But the second cowboy to rope, a tall dark fellow by the name of Sam Love roped his calf in .551 seconds! I saw him do it, saw the official time on our electric timer but it is still hard to believe. And when Sam realized his time he passed out.

Barrel racing Saturday night was won by Claudia Lowrance with a time of 17.646 with Jeanie Myers in second with a 17.783.

Then came the event that I think every one goes to rodeos for - the bull riding. If you think these fellows are big, ugly and mean looking from the bleachers, you should be in the judge's stand looking down on them. It takes a lot of good hard core courage to handle and work with them, let alone ride one. Me? You couldn't melt me and pour me on one of them, but there were several cowboys who tried - and rode. Pop Harvey, with a score of 51, on Double Trouble; Clarence Gibson's score of 50 was won on Red Wasp and Leslie Boyd with a score of 50 was won on Tar Baby. A big fellow decided he didn't want to be rode so he came out of the end of the chute over a 6 foot solid wall into the arena. I am not sure, but I think he answers to the gentle name of Creme Puff.

Sunday afternoon was a hot one to start the broncs. Gerald Kernie's time was 61, Ralph Sem's score was 60 and Jim Bull's score was 53.

Tiedown roping the best time was 8.707 by a cowboy named Steve Kolle, Richard Walker came in second with a time of 9.146.

Team roping Manuel Garcia and Lupe Gonzales Jr.'s, time was 6.834, Lupe Gonzales, Jr. & J.B. Moscorro's time was 8.449 and Jim Gasser & A.R. Phipps time was 8.245.

Breakaway Sunday was won with Jeff Hunt's time of 2.991 to beat Melvin Hunt's 3.019 and Deane Crews 3.162.

Barrels Sunday was won by Little Tina Hanselman with a time of 16.798, Bonnie Boone's time of 17.029 and Jeanie Hunt came home with 17.259.

Once again the bulls were up. Yellow Fever helped a cowboy by the name of Lee Otto with a score of 59, Red Wasp let Jimmy Reeves make a score of 56, Berry Brown rode Jungle Boogie with a score of 49 and Dennis Lutton on Snuffy had a score of 42.

But Old Creme Puff decided about 5 p.m. that he would go to church. So over and through the arena gate he went scattering the crowd for higher and safer spots. About 7 cowboys finally caught him in front of a little church about 3 blocks up the road and back to the arena he came with 6 ropes on him. Oh well, church was over by this time.

The bulls are big mean fellows to start with, but when you start crowding them they are a lot meaner. A couple of The Aransas County Riding Association members who were helping with the bulls will agree with me. (I'll not mention any names.) One scrambled to the top rail of the fence and about three of these milk calves tried to shake him off so they could see him closer. I am sure that the fence shook more than a machine. The second member got more help than he really needed as he tried to get out of the pen on the head of a bull.

First place winners for the two day rodeo were as follows: Bareback: Gerald Kernie, score of 61;

Tiedown: Steve Kolle, time of 8.707;

Team Roping: Manuel Garcia and Lupe Gonzales, Jr., time of 6.834;

Breakaway: Sam Love, time of .551;

Barrels: Saturday, Claudia Lowrance, time of 17.646; and Sunday, Tina Hanselman, time of 16.798;

Bulls: Lee Otto, score of 59. Creme Puff stole the show.

Without trying to remember everyone's name the Aransas County Riding Association would like to thank all the members who worked and helped make the rodeo a success.

The rest of the workers, pick-up men, judges, handlers, rodeo secretary, announcer and clown were furnished by Jackie Parks the stock producer out of Vic-

Barney Davis wants you to know that Central Power and Light is concerned about high electric bills.

Barney Davis, President of Central Power and Light Company, believes you have the right to know the answers to these important questions.

Why does electricity cost more than ever? What is CPL doing about the high cost of fuel to generate electricity? Do we make a profit on our fuel cost adjustment? Will there be enough electricity for our customers in the future?

Our major supplier of natural gas has been unable to meet its fuel supply commitment to us.

As a result, CPL has had to look to other sources of supply. We have to make spot purchases of natural gas at today's high market prices.

When we can't find enough gas we have to purchase fuel oil, at even higher prices.

What are we doing about the high cost of fuel?

Everything we can. Of course, we can't control the price of natural gas and fuel oil, but we can try to buy them at the lowest price possible.

It isn't easy. The competition is fierce, and the supply is limited.

Our fuel acquisition people are talking to any and everyone interested in selling us fuel. On a short term basis, or better yet, on a long range commitment.

Do higher fuel costs mean greater profits for CPL? We do not make any profit on the fuel costs which are added to your bill. As a matter of fact, we lose money because we pay taxes which are based on our gross revenues.

Will there be enough electricity for our customers in the future?

Yes.

Barring unforeseeable circumstances we are confident of our ability to meet all of our customers' needs. CPL is already working on a nuclear facility in Matagorda County.

And, even before our nuclear facility goes on line, we anticipate having a coal-fired plant in operation.

Of course we didn't expect to answer all of your questions here, but we did want you to know that all of us here at CPL are concerned about high electric bills.

We are doing everything possible to bring fuel costs under control, and to continue providing you with the quality of service you've come to expect.

Barney Davis, President of Central Power and Light Company

SERIOUS CRIME UP 15 PERCENT

Serious crime in the United States increased 15 percent during the first three months of 1974, compared to a one percent decline for the first quarter a year ago, Attorney General William B. Saxbe reported today.

For the first quarter of 1974, violent crime increased four percent, compared to a six percent rise in the same period of 1973.

Washington, D.C. reported a nine-tenths of one percent increase in serious crime for the first quarter, although violent crime dropped 9.5 percent.

The latest figures were contained in the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, which was released today by FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley. The reports are based on information furnished by local, county and state law enforcement agencies and tabulated by the FBI.

Saxbe noted that suburban and rural areas and cities under 25,000 population recorded the greatest increases in crime.

"These statistics provide no clues as to what is causing the upsurge in crime, other than in what areas of the country the increases are occurring," Saxbe said.

"This means that all of us in law enforcement, as well as the public, must take a hard look at the situation and work together to halt this trend.

"The entire criminal justice system -- the police, the prosecutors, the courts, and the corrections systems -- must improve itself."

The rise in serious crime across the country was reflected in the list of major cities reporting actual crime decreases -- 33 for the first quarter of 1974 compared to 100 for the same period the year before.

The Uniform Crime Reports divides serious crime into two categories: violent, which includes murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault, and property, which includes burglary, larceny-theft, and auto theft.

Forcible rape increased 10 percent, aggravated assault and murder each seven percent, and robbery one percent, for a total average increase of four percent for the quarter.

Property crimes, which are far more numerous than violent crimes, soared 16 percent, compared to a two percent decrease in the same period of 1973.

Larceny-theft increased 19 percent, burglary 15 percent and auto theft five percent.

Cities of 100,000 or more inhabitants reported a 10 percent increase in serious crime. Suburban areas reported a 22 percent increase, rural areas an 18 percent rise, and cities under 10,000 a 29 percent jump.

Serious crime in the South increased 23 percent and in the West 17 percent, while both North Central and Northeastern States reported nine percent increases.

Bark beetles are usually smaller than a quarter of an inch in length.

AARP Chapter Met July 10

Rockport Chapter #1536, American Association of Retired Persons, met July 10, at V.F.W. Hall. Business meeting was presided over by the president, Zolzie Glass. Group singing was led by Earl Gage, with Mrs. Neva Sorenson at the piano.

Members and visitors were reminded of the Club 55 Bowling League. Hurricane Disaster Workshop will be held at the July 24 meeting, and Dr. W.C. Triplett will be present at Aug. 28 meeting, and will discuss plans for the new Emergency Hospital for Rockport. The Country Fair, tentatively scheduled for Aug. 31, has been cancelled.

Report from Mrs. Frank Skrobarek, chairman of Concern Center, was read. A total of 617 calls had been received at the Center during the months of April, May and June, compared with 343 calls during first quarter of 1974. Esther Decker, case worker, also had a good report.

John Leslie introduced the speaker, Blas Ramirez. Ramirez gave an informative talk on the work being done in the community by the Saint Vincent De Paul Society of the Catholic Church.

Persons 55 years or older are eligible to join A.A.R.P. Membership dues are only $2.00 for both husband and wife.

Peninsula Oaks Garden Club

On Thursday, July 11, the Peninsula Oaks Garden Club met for its regular meeting at the Peninsula Oaks Office at 7:30 p.m.

The program for the evening consisted of a display and demonstration of terrariums by Mrs. Pearson from Pearson Garden Center. Mrs. Pearson followed these steps in making a terrarium:

- 1) Cleaning the container;
- 2) Putting gravel in the bottom;
- 3) Placing charcoal on top of the gravel;
- 4) Placing stocking on top of the charcoal and rocks to keep the sand from going to the bottom of the container;
- 5) Placing sterilized potting soil in the container;
- 6) Placing plants of varying textures and colors in the container;
- 7) Watering the plants and leaving the container uncovered for a while;
- 8) Placing the lid on the container. Mrs. Pearson added that one may wish to add individuality to the terrarium by placing a variety of decorations inside. The program was immensely enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Frances Naquin presided during the business meeting. Mrs. Betty Kucera read the secretary's report, and Mrs. Cindy Johnson gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Thelma Sours and Mrs. Sue Stephens provided delicious refreshments of assorted cookies, coffee, and punch to one guest and eight members who were present.

OUTDOORS 'n things

by

A great deal has been said recently about the endangered status of many of our birds of prey. Concerned people all over the world have demanded that something be done - and something is being done.

The Peregrine Falcon, because he has been renowned down through the ages for his courage, ability, and beauty, has attracted more notice than some of the others. There are three sub-species of the peregrine in the United States - Anatum, Tundrius, and Pealeii. The first two are considered endangered; the latter is not.

Because it was difficult to train wild-caught adult birds, falconers have been trying to breed the peregrine in captivity for many years. Right after the turn of the century a German falconer managed to breed one pair of peregrines in captivity. From that time until the late 1960's isolated attempts have been made by falconers to breed the species. They had only limited success; the major problem being the control of humidity for hatching the eggs.

Since it was found that some of the "hard" pesticides were causing the birds to lay weak shelled eggs that many times broke before incubation was completed, efforts to breed the birds in captivity have increased by leaps and bounds. Many falconers and institutions, both public and private, are engaged in the work. The best known of these facilities is probably Cornell University in upper New York State, where in 1973 over 20 Peregrine Falcons were successfully reared. Some lesser known private projects have been quite successful too. One researcher in Oregon has done a good job of breeding Pealeii peregrine falcons. As a matter of fact, it is the individual falconer, with his intense devotion to his chosen sport, who has really paved the way in this field. The main effort has been pointed toward raising and introducing back into the wild the Anatum peregrine. This year the first birds will be reintroduced on the east coast. Territories have been chosen and falconers have been picked to accomplish this second step in the program. It is hoped that between 50 and 70 falcons can be released this year and that within 10 years more of these magnificent birds can be reintroduced into the wild than were there in the first place.

Raising the birds in captivity has many facets and is based on the falcons ability to lay several clutches of eggs if earlier ones are destroyed or removed. The first clutch of eggs laid is removed from the nest. These are placed in an incubator, hatched, and reared artificially. The falcon then lays another clutch which she incubates and raises normally. In this way the production of each pair of falcons can be doubled, or even tripled.

Because of these efforts many other raptors are now being regularly bred in captivity. Included are the Prairie Falcon, Red-tailed hawk, Harris Hawk, Sparrow Hawk, Gyr Falcon, Red-shouldered Hawk, Swainson's Hawk, Lanner Falcon, and Golden Eagles.

It's not hard to imagine how much it costs to feed the birds, run incubators, rear young birds, train the birds to hunt, "imprint" them on certain territories, erase the "imprint" of captivity, and accomplish all the other tasks necessary to the project. All the breeding efforts now taking place are supported by private funds, and they need all the help they can scrape up. A non-profit, tax deductible organization called The North American Peregrine Foundation has been formed to assist in raising this money. All the money the foundation raises is directed into active projects and all the officers of the organization are volunteers who receive no payment of any kind. I personally feel that every American who can should contribute something to this worthwhile project. If you'd like to be a part of a real conservation effort just send your check in any amount to:

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN -- Most of us are trying to get the maximum from every dollar we spend these days.

But attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division note that it's not only the amount of a product you get for your money, but the quality of that product that determines if you made a good buy.

That's why it's important to shop carefully before making a purchase, they suggest.

One area in which quality is an especially important criterion is when you are purchasing either ready-made clothing or fabrics by the yard for home sewing.

Some protection for consumers is offered by the Federal Trade Commission's Textile Fiber Product Identification Act, which requires all ready-made or yard-goods items to have a label noting the fiber content.

In 1972, another FTC rule, the Care Labeling Trade Regulation, went into effect. This regulation requires all ready-made and yard-goods to carry labels advising the consumer of proper fabric care. Typical labels may advise "Dry Clean Only," "Hand Wash in Cool Water," or give other specific instructions which make it easier for consumers to know how to care for fabrics after they get them home.

Most "store bought" clothes have been carrying such hangtags for some time. The FTC Bureau of Consumer Protection reports, however, that some stores selling yard-goods have not yet begun to implement the FTC directives and that others do not routinely supply such care labels unless they are requested by the consumer.

And even these efforts do not assure the consumer that an item will stand up to normal wear - and - tear. Complaints about ready-made garments that have reached the files of many consumer agencies include: dress seams that pull out after one washing; buttons that fall off expensive suits; uneven hems; and trimmings that fade onto a garment.

Complaints about yard-goods include the tendency of some fabrics to "pick," "fuzz," or ravel; to trap body heat and not allow for evaporation of perspiration; and to stretch at stress points.

Garment industry experts suggest that persons planning to shop for ready-made clothes or to make their own familiarize themselves with the following marks of well-made clothing.

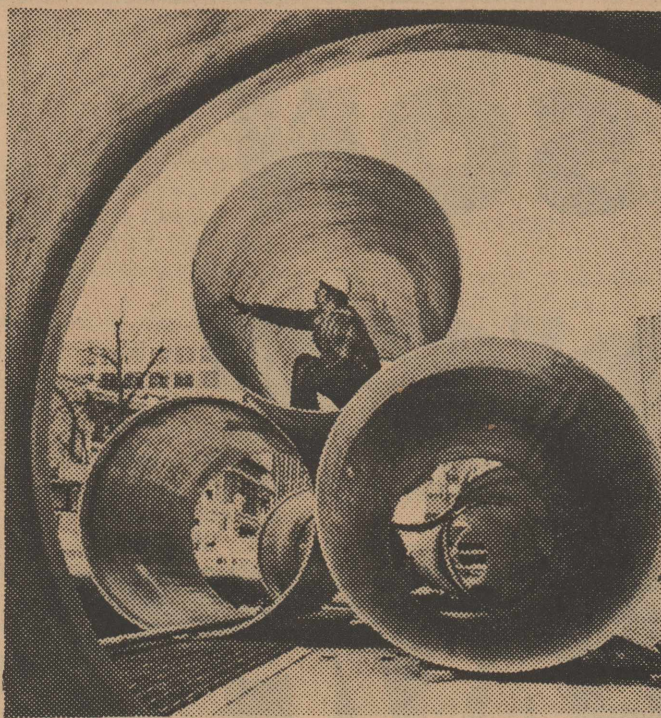

--Fabrics should be cut with, not against, the grain and fabrics featuring plaids, stripes, checks, or designs should be carefully matched at seams.

--Seams should be stitched securely, not just basted in, and should be wide enough for any alterations that may be needed in the future. Seam edges should be pinked, overcast, or taped to prevent raveling.

--Linings, facings, and trimmings should take the same type of care as the fabric itself and should be securely sewn to the garment.

--Buttons should be bound or stitched securely and of the proper size for the buttons. Too-small buttonholes show wear quickly since buttons must be forced through them and too-large buttonholes may allow buttons to come undone.

--All closings such as buttons, zippers, snaps, and grippers should be firmly sewn in the proper spot. Zippers should work easily and should be inserted without rippling the fabric.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys suggest that you also (1) check all labels for fiber content and fabric care before purchasing, (2) try on all ready-made items for a correct fit, (3) get any guarantee in writing, and (4) check in advance on a store's return policy (some yard-goods, especially, cannot be returned.)

If you have a consumer problem, call our Consumer Protection Division, your county or city attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Split Seasons Prove Fruitless

AUSTIN -- Two years of experimental split mourning dove seasons have been analyzed by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists with the conclusion that no additional recreation was afforded to dove hunters.

Split seasons in the fall and winter of 1972-73 and 1973-74 were designed to evaluate if such breaks in hunting would provide additional recreation, a more equitable overall mourning dove harvest in Texas, and to determine the origins of winter dove populations in the state.

Hunters were surveyed with a mail questionnaire to determine dove harvest, activity and hunting pressure.

Bag and possession limits were not altered and there was a total of 60 half-days of hunting during each of the two split-season years as there had been in prior years.

According to Fielding Harwell, the department's mourning dove biologist, there was a 17 percent decrease in the number of doves killed during the two experimental years as opposed to the previous two.

"The combined harvest of mourning doves for the years 1970 and 1971 was 16.4 million birds," said Harwell. "During the following two years of the experiment the harvest dropped to a total of 13.6 million doves, 6.2 of which were killed last season."

Harwell's information also shows that some three percent fewer hunters were in the field the last two years.

The chronology of the harvest remained much the same in the years of split seasons as it did in the traditional fall seasons. Almost half of all doves taken during the season were killed the opening week.

"Only seven percent of the harvest occurred during the winter portion of the 1972-73 season," he said. "The following year the figure dropped to six percent."

Distribution of the harvest remained the same with more than 70 percent of all doves bagged in the north zone.

Analysis of data pertaining to the origin of doves harvested during the winter segments is incomplete as of June, 1974. Computer analysis of all banding data should be available to the biologists by this September.

Data Processing Equipment Donated To Texas A&I

Data processing equipment used in interpretation of geophysical information developed in explorations for oil has been donated to the Texas A & I University System by Atlantic Richfield Co., it has been announced by Dr. Ralph Gilchrist, dean of the College of Science and Technology at Texas A & I at Corpus Christi.

The equipment is located in the Atlantic Richfield Corpus Christi office and will be trucked to the Kingsville campus of the A & I system where it will be dismantled and component parts distributed to the College of Engineering at Kingsville and the College of Science and Technology in Corpus Christi, Dean Gilchrist and Dr. Ernest Franke, dean of engineering at Kingsville, reported.

Dean Gilchrist said the data processing equipment fills about two rooms at the Atlantic Richfield Office here and probably cost more than $100,000 when new. It has been declared surplus by the oil company since new techniques and new equipment have been developed and are in use now.

However, Dean Gilchrist added, the equipment can be dismantled and the various parts put to a variety of uses of value in instruction, experimentation, and research in the two universities. This will be particularly true at the Kingsville College of Engineering, he said.

New Parks Made From Old Bridges

AUSTIN -- Fishermen headed for the Texas coast need not have a boat to enjoy some fine fishing.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has two public fishing piers on the middle Texas coast which, for a small fee, are open at all hours of the day to anglers who want to enjoy deeper water fishing but who lack a boat.

Both Copano and Port Lavaca Causeway State Parks are "re-cycled" bridges which were transferred to the P&W by the State Highway Department after new spans were completed.

Copano Causeway in Aransas County is parallel to Texas 35 and extends 2,390 feet into some of the prime fishing areas of Copano Bay.

1,000-watt bulbs attract fish to the area at night and the pier itself is illuminated with mercury-vapor lamps.

Concession stands are located at each end of the causeway where fishing supplies, dead and live bait are available. The concession at the Rockport end also includes a seafood restaurant.

A boat-launching ramp, restrooms and fish-cleaning facilities are also available.

Entrance fees are charged only to fishermen: 50 cents for those 20 years and older, 25 cents for ages 13 to 19 and free to those under 12.

No charge is made for sightseers, photographers, and birders. Camping and picnicking facilities are located at nearby Goose Island State Park.

A few miles up Texas 35, two miles northeast of Port Lavaca, Port Lavaca Causeway Recreation Park extends 3,200 feet into the waters of Lavaca Bay.

The pier was resurrected after Hurricane Carla swept through the bay in 1961.

Much the same facilities are available at Lavaca as at Copano with the same rates. Camping and picnicking facilities are to be found at the city park located near the Causeway.

More than 11.4 million acres of farm lands have been irrigated to increase production.

A STITCH IN TIME saves 3,242 empty spools, if you count the 25-year seamstress career of Myrtle Curtis, of Blanchardville, Wisc. She estimates the spools represent 1,156 miles of thread and 590,400,000 stitches. Ms. Curtis plans to donate her collection to nursing homes for use in craft therapy.

Morning TOPS No. 849

The weekly meeting was held Tuesday July 9 in the Methodist Youth Building in Rockport at 9:30 a.m., preceded by the weigh-in at 8:30 a.m.

Queen of the week was Leader Cathy Gaskin with a loss of 2-1/2 lbs, runner-up was Verna Smith with a loss of 2-lbs. Club loss for the week was 9-1/2 pounds.

The final figures (no pun intended) of the result of the Ingleside versus Rockport Morning TOPS contest have not yet been released, but it has been announced that Rockport was the winner by a comfortable margin.

The Club Secretary-Reporter Betty McMeredit, will be leaving for a family visit to England on July 16. During the month she is absent, her place will be taken by Co-leader, Polly Driver. For further information on Morning TOPS, please contact Leader, Cathy Gaskin, 729-2116.

Fix-It Tip

More tips on doors problems. Sometimes the sticking door problem may not be with the door. The frame may be sagging or the beading may have come loose in the opening. Reset by pounding, using a block under the hammer to protect the frame. Renail to keep it secure. If simpler cures fail, the door must be worked on. But before you plane off any wood, sand or file first. Often this is enough. Know what you are doing before you remove any wood. With the door closed, run a piece of paper or thin cardboard between it and the frame to pinpoint where it rubs. You can work on the top and outside edges without removing the door. Wedge the door so it doesn't move.

UNSAFE CRIBS

COLLEGE STATION - Unsafe cribs account for 150-200 infant deaths and 40,000 injuries every year, according to one authority.

She's Patricia Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System. "To insure that new cribs will be designed and built more safely, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has developed a new regulation," Miss Bradshaw said.

She cited some of the upcoming crib features that will meet new standards:

--Slats will be placed closer together so babies can't slip through and strangle.

--Metal hardware and edges of the crib frame will be free of sharp or rough edges.

--Locks and latches on the drop side will be safe--and secure against accidental release by the baby.

--A warning on the crib carton, assembly instructions and headboard will advise only use of a mattress that fits the crib snugly. This prevents babies from getting caught between the crib and mattress.

If you already have a crib, or are fixing a used or antique one, Miss Bradshaw suggests the following guides:

Check the overall condition of the crib. Is anything missing? Be sure all slots and bolts of the fasteners are in place or can be replaced.

Repaint or refinish a crib only with paint or finishes labeled non-toxic.

If the mattress does not fit snugly, replace it or roll up large bath towels and place them between the mattress and crib for a tight fit. Make sure the baby cannot get wedged between the mattress and crib.

Purchase or make bumper pads for older cribs with slats far apart. Slats more than two and three-eighths inches apart are unsafe. Make sure the bumpers fit around the entire crib. Tie or strap them into place and have at least six straps. Make sure the baby cannot chew on the straps. Use the bumpers until the baby can pull himself to a standing position.

The specialist also suggested some crib safety practices.

"Set the mattress at its lowest position as soon as your child can pull himself to a standing position. Don't leave any toys or other articles in the crib that your child might use to help himself out.

"Don't keep your child in the crib once the height of the side rail is less than three-fourths of the child's height. Replace any damaged teething rails. They can cut the child's mouth.

"The crib should not be used as a playpen. If you put crib extenders on the crib's side rails, they should not make the side rails taller than the end panels of the crib. The extenders should have no easily removable nuts or bolts and their slats should be narrowly spaced.

"Remember, these are only precautions. Children are ingenious, so there is no substitute for close parental supervision," the specialist warned.

Texas Deer Hunters Bring Home Bacon

AUSTIN -- Hunters in Texas brought home more than $16.5 million worth of venison during the 1973-74 hunting season, according to statistics from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Hunters killed 10,260 mule deer and 366,033 white-tailed deer.

The average mule deer weighed 90 pounds when it was field dressed and produced an estimated 45 pounds of boneless meat.

White-tailed bucks averaged 78.5 pounds field dressed and produced approximately 39 pounds of boneless meat, and white-tailed does averaged 56.6 pounds field dressed and produced about 28 pounds of boneless meat.

Based on the price of ground beef (1.20 per pound) at the time of the hunting season, the mule deer meat was worth $554,040 and the white-tailed deer meat was worth $16,013,738.

The department estimates there were 50,000 bow hunters and 560,000 firearms hunters during the last deer season. The estimated mule and white-tailed deer population during the hunt was 3,622,000.

MOBILE HOME SAFETY

Potential mobile home buyers should be particularly aware of safety considerations, one housing and home furnishings specialist pointed out this week. Patricia Bradshaw, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System, suggested this check-list for mobile home safety: --Are there at least two outside doors, preferably on opposite sides of the unit in case of overturn? --Does each bedroom have a window large enough for escape in an emergency? --Do you have to pass the furnace to escape from any bedroom? --Are there different floor levels which could be dangerous in darkness? --Does the unit have built-in anchorage straps for anchoring against wind damage? "Safety should be the most vital factor when choosing a mobile home," Miss Bradshaw concluded.

Buying Shrimp By

"Count" Is Good Idea

AUSTIN -- Buying shrimp at the right price is easy providing you know what to look for, according to Bill Schwartz, seafood marketing specialist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

There are three common market species - whites, browns and pinks, he says, and since they all cost, look and taste about the same after cooking, there is little reason to select one species over the other.

What is more important than the species of shrimp is selecting the proper size and market form which will be best suited to the recipe you intend to use.

Schwartz says shrimp sizes range anywhere from 10 tails per pound to as many as 60 or more tails per pound (shell on). The larger the count per pound, the smaller the shrimp tail and, consequently, the more work involved in eating the shrimp since each one must be peeled.

For this reason, the smaller shrimp are cheaper. Small shrimp (36 or more per pound)

are excellent in gumbo, soups and casseroles, and the medium sizes (26 to 35 count per pound) work, as well as large (16 to 20 count per pound) for frying.

"Jumbo" shrimp (15 or less per pound) are best for frying or barbecuing.

By buying shrimp by count

rather than by the retailers' terminology, the consumer will have a better idea of what he is getting. For example, what is described as "large" shrimp

by one merchant may be

"jumbo" shrimp at another store.
