TWENTY-EIGHT CONVICTS ARE RE-CAPTURED

SEARCH GOES ON FOR THE REMAINING 15 PRISONERS

(By Associated Press)

SWEENY, June 21.—Twenty eight of the 43 convicts who kidnaped three guards yesterday and escaped from Clemens prison farm near here were accounted for today.

Seventeen of those were captured by posses, and nine were taken in the vicinity of the Retrieve farm.

Ed Lambert, one of the fugitives, gave himself up at the home of a farmer at Cedar Lane and was taken back to camp. He said he was exhausted with his fight to escape through the river jungleland.

Mrs. W. M. Hickman, wife of the captain of Clemens Farm, said the body of one convict was seen floating in the Bernard river below the farm.

Search Continued

Red-eyed and weary, some score of prison guards widened their circle of searc hand pressed on toward the capture of the 16 convicts at large.

Working throughout the night in mosquito infested bottoms, the searchers brought in seven of the escaped men, two of whom were seriously wounded when they attempted to flee after being ordered to halt by Joe Roaden, guard.

The men captured during the night by guards working out of temporary headquarters here were Lee Hailey seriously wounded; Tom Nichols, seriously wounded; E. O. Hazelwood, Will Mills, Tom Watts, J. E. Parker and Jessie Jones.

Two Shot on Run

Hailey and Nichols were shot and brought to the ground about one mile east of here. Roaden, stationed on the railroad grade, sighted the men as they emerged from heavy timber and made their way just outside the right of way fence toward safety. He called on them to halt. The two started running away from the grade.

Armed with a pump gun using small shot, Roaden opened fire. He fired twice and both men fell to the ground.

"We didn't try to run boss," the two told Captain Hickman, but all the wounds were in the two men's backs.

NEWLIN WANTS JUDGE TO ACT AS ADVISER FOR JURIES

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, June 21 (AP).—A plea for modification of the rules of court proceedure to permit the trial judge to act as an adviser to the jury rather than "assume the rather humilating position of a mere figurehead or colorless moderator." was made today by Gurney E. Newlin, president of the American Bar association.

To see that the facts are ascertained and made clear rather than submerged and obscured; that the law is honestly and fearlessly applied to such facts, and that no unfair advantage is taken by any party or his lawyer—this, I submit, is the supreme function of the presiding judge in the institution of trial by jury," he said.

Newlin was speaker at the Iowa Bar Association convention.

DR. BARR DECLARES MRS. HOOVER WAS OFFICIAL GUEST

"Merely a gesture of official courtesy," said Dr. I. E. Barr, chairman of the Republican party of Lubbock county, in commenting on Mrs. Hoover's position in the De Priest incident.

"Certainly, I am opposed to any effort to establish social equality between the white and negro races," he continued. "There is a distinct difference between the two, and no southerner could feel comfortable by accepting negroes at all social functions.

Critics Unfair

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 21.—The state income tax bill was reported unfavorably by a vote of 10 to 8 by the House revenue and taxation committee last night. The vote was taken about midnight, after Governor Moody had made the closing argument for proponents of the bill. The minority will endeavor to have the house print the bill in spite of the unfavorable report.

Governor Moody spoke for more than an hour on the "inequalities of the present ad valorem system of taxation and advocated the "principle" of an income tax to replace the ad valorem.

The vote, taken in executive session, was announced today as follows:

For the tax: Victor Gilbert Cisco; V. E. Conway, Commerce, R. B. Ewing, Franklin; James W. Harper, Mount Pleasant; Bowen Pope, Hamlin; T. N. Mauritz, Ganado; C. J. Sherrill, Bellevue; Leonard Tillotson, Sealy.

Snook, In Collapse, Sobs Details Of Co-Ed's Death

OHIO PROFESSOR, WHO SLEW PARAMOUR, TO FACE HIS FATE

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., June 21.—The confession of Dr. James H. Snook, 49, dismissed Ohio State University professor, that he killed 25-year-old Theora Hix, his pupil-paramour, was ready for the county grand jury today, just one week from the day the girl was beaten and slashed to death. He killed her, he said, because she threatened the life of his wife and child.

The confession, announced at midnight by County Prosecutor John J. Chester, jr., was held for the grand jury with Chester's prediction that a first degree murder indictment would be returned.

Ends Long Battle

Bringing to and end 23 hours of gruelling examination, Snook lost the iron nerve that had carried him through six days of investigation and, sobbing, told the prosecutor and police heads that he was ready to "tell everything."

The confession declared he

had struck the girl on the head with a hammer during a violent quarrel in his automobile parked at a rifle range near here on the night of June 13, and that, realizing her skull was fractured he took out his pen kife and slit her throat "to relieve her suffering."

The quarrel, he said, followed the girl's protests against his plan to leave the city over the week-end with his family and her threat to kill his wife and two-year-old daughter if he went. As the altercation became bitter, the confession said, Miss Hix reached for her handbag in which at times she carried a small pistol that Dr. Snook had given her. Then followed the struggle in which Dr. Snook said he snatched up the hammer in the car and struck her on the head.

"Relieves Suffering"

She continued (to fight) desperately and an increasing number of blows of increasing force were necessary to stop her," he said. "Realizing then, no doubt, that her skull was fractured and to relieve her suffering, I severed her jugular

"Pus'nly I'se opposed to it," said Catfish directing a deposit of amber into a cuspidor, as though to emphasize his point. "Ah knows mah place and I'se goin' to stay wha ah is. Just as sho as dey start such foolishness up in Noo Yawk, or Philadelphia, or whaevah da capital is, dey gonna have trouble in da South.

"No suh! I wouldn't gone to dat pahty if I'd been Missus De-De-De. What da Sam hill's dat woman's name? Well, I sho wouldn't felt like drinking tea aroun' da wife of da President.

Persistent progression of public pressure for pickles was produced, probably, by the preference of plenty of people for prettier pickles, which the professor proclaimed preponderate.

RURAL SCHOOL BILL DOWNED

SENATE REFUSES TO LEND SUPPORT TO BRAND BILL

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 21—Preceded by a spirited debate, the Senate today refused to ask Texas congressmen to lend their support to the Brand bill carrying an annual appropriation of $100,000,000 for maintenance of rural schools. The vote was 16 to 10.

Should the pending bill become a law, Senator Thomas B. Love, Dallas, explained, Texas would receive from the government $7,000,000 yearly to carry on rural school work in the state.

Charges that the government soon would dominate education in state schools were hurled freely in the attack on Senator Love's resolution approving the Brand measure.

"There has been a well-defined move started at Washington for a department of education to frain the minds of our students along particular lines of political thought," Senator A. J. Wirtz of Seguin observed. "If we continue to call on the government for financial aid we are in serious danger of standardizing education. When you give a board at Washington power to shape the minds of our youth, you are putting in their hands a dangerous weapon."

Senator T. J. Holbrook, Galveston, saw in the Brand bill an attempt to "control the minds of the children."

NEW PLAN FOR SCHOOLS MADE

R. MATTHEWS FAVORS 12-MONTH PLAN FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS

R. W. Matthews, head of the summer school session at Lubbock high school, is in favor of a 12-months school year instead of the present system of 9 months, he said Thursday in relating the growth of attendance at the summer school in this city.

The year, if divided as Mr. Matthews proposes would provide for four graduation periods and at each graduation one-fourth of the students would be released for a three months period. "This," said Mr. Matthews, "would do away with the present customs of throwing about 1,500 boys out upon the city of Lubbock in search of jobs. The city is not able to provide that many places for work.

"Should the school year be changed to run the full twelve months the city would be able to care for all the job-seekers as only about one-fourth this number would be released at once."

GIANT NEW MEXICO METEORITE GIVEN TO NATIONAL MUSEUM; WEIGHS 1,060

BY OSCAR LEIDING
Associated Press Science Editor

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—An iron meteorite found on the continental divide in New Mexico, where it had lain probably for many centuries since it rocketed through the skies, has been deposited in the National museum.

A fragment of a comet which flashed in space, it was imbedded in two feet of soil on Malapias rocks in the Zuni mountains, 40 miles south of the town of Grants.

The mass weighs 1,060 pounds, a ponderous bulk which cost the life of a Mexican, who was crushed as the meteorite rolled from a wagon.

Antiquated wagons drawn by burros were used to transport the meteorite to Grants for shipment. At one time three animals, unable to pull the load, collapsed under the weight.

"Falling meteorites," says Dr. George P. Merrill, head curator of the department of geology, who had charge of securing the metallic fragment, "often have been blamed for killing people and animals. As a matter of fact, there is no authentic proof that such a thing ever occurred. In the present instance a man was killed only by accident."

The mass has not been analyzed, but probably contains, in Dr. Merrill's opinion, metallic iron with 10 per cent of nickel and traces of cobalt and platinum.

Roughly triangular in shape, the body is believed to have fallen with its sharpest point down, because of the peculiar flow lines frozen perpetually on the surface as the mass cooled.

MOODY GETS 3RD PLEA ON RESOLUTION

O. B. COLQUITT ASKS GOVERNOR NOT TO SIGN PAPER

(By Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, June 21 (AP).—O. B. Colquitt, former governor of Texas last night telegraphed Governor Moody of that state urging him not to sign a resolution adopted by the Texas legislature censuring Mrs. Herbert Hoover for the presence of Mrs. Oscar De Priest, wife of a negro congressman, at a White House tea. Colquitt said the resolution was aimed at "Hoover Democrats" of Texas rather than the wife of the president.

In his wire, Colquitt said the Texas legislature had been "totally misinformed," and is "thereby doubly subjecting Texas to just criticisms not only for a lack of chivalry but, even worse, that is in ignoring of facts, and using one of the gentliest ladies ever in the White House for partisan political purposes."

In commending on his telegram, Colquitt pointed out the Democrats had nominated a negro, James McLemore for congres sin the twelfth Missouri district. Colquitt is here attending sessions of the U. S. Board of Mediations, of which he is a member.

BONDS PLANS RATIFIED

GREENVILLE, June 21 (AP).—Directors of the L. R. & N. in Texas here today ratified the issuance of $750,000 in bonds to discharge financial obligations of the railroad to Mrs. Sarah Edenborn, Shreveport.

The farmer proved that he was kind. Said he, "I guess that I will find some way to keep the crows away without my old scarecrow. You Tinymites must have your fun, so you go right ahead and run away with Mister Scarecrow. He'll enjoy it to, I know.

"I wish that I could join you too, but there are things that I must do. I have to hitch my horses up and journey down the road. I just found out the other day that I'm getting short of hay. I'll journey to the nearby field and quickly get a load."

And then the farmer went away, and soon the bunch heard Clowny say, "I wonder if he'd let us have a little pleasure ride. His wagon's nice and big I'll bet and on the back we all could get. We wouldn't bother him if we sat quiet, side by side."

This plan struck all the bunch just right and ere the afrmer went from sight, wee Scouty cried, "Hey, farmer man! Do you want company?" The farmer stopped and turned around, and said, "if you'll go where I'm bound, I'll sure be glad to have you all ride right along with me."

"Hurray! Hurray!" the whole bunch cried. "We're going to have a dandy ride." "Come on," exclaimed the farmer, "we will hitch my horses quick." The Tinies helped as best they could, like any little fellows should. And when the job was finished the old farmer said, "That's slick."

He hopped up on the seat and, said, "Come on there, horses, go ahead! Giddap, and don't start loafing. We have quite a load today." The horses then began to run. Oh my, oh my, what heaps of fun. The Tinymites all hopped aboard, and they were on their way.

(The horses run away in the next story.)

EUROPE'S QUEENS SNUB PARISIAN STYLES TO SHOP IN LONDON

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

LONDON, June 21.—Paris is the destination of most tourist shoppers. But London claims the proud distinction of being the favorite shopping town of queens and princesses.

Of course England is "home" to more royalty than any other country in the world. It is only natural that queens and princesses should like to come home to shop. And it is natural, too, that London shops should know what royalty likes.

Call the diminishing roll of European queens. Eliminate those who have scant interest in clothes. The rest shop in London.

Some Queens Stay Home

Sweden's queen is old and ill and clothes do not interest her greatly. She does little traveling, Denmark's queen sticks pretty close to Copenhagen. Jugoslavia's queen divides her time between Belgrade and Bucharest, where her mother lives. Queen Wilhelmina, of Holland, is getting along in years and finds all her clothes needs easily satisfied in The Hague or Amsterdam. The Italy of the Fascisti proclaims its independence of the rest of the world and the queen does her shopping in Rome.

But Queen Mary of England, her sister-in-law Queen Maud of Norway, and her kinswoman, Queen Marie of Roumania, all shop in London. So does Queen Ena of Spain, and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium. The ex-Queen of Greece and Portugal, who has lived in England a great deal of the time, always shops in London. So does Queen Mary's kinswoman, the Crown Princess of Sweden who was Princess Louise of Battenburg.

Princesses Run Shop

All of the big London dressmakers get a portion of this royal patronage, but one place is specially favored. It is a shop which is owned by two Russian princesses who started in business with very little financial capital, but a fine taste in clothes and materials and a very wide and intimate acquaintance with European royalties and other famous people whose patronage is a great advertisement.

When the queens and princesses go to other shops, it is "Your Majesty This" and "Your Majesty That." When they go to this Russian-owned shop, it is nothing of the sort. The keen little old lady who runs this branch has known these royalties since their girlhood. They call her by her Christian name. She calls them by theirs. The shopping expedition is not a mere business then. It is also a social function. Clothes are, of course, looked at and bought. But there is much gay chatter about mutual acquaintances and good old times and there is the social cup of tea at the end.

But before all this happens, there is a great stir in the place. The princess owner turns the shop upside down. The mirrors are re-arranged. The most comfortable chairs and stools are all conveniently placed. Knowing their taste in materials and colors, all the latest gowns in those lines are made ready for exhibition. The prettiest mannequins are ordered to stand by. In addition, usually some well born society girls come in to act as voluntary mannequins. The silver vases are filled with the favorite flowers of the royal visitor.

At last the appointed hour arrives. The little princess is at the door. A tall handsome figure of a woman steps out of a big car and rushes up.

Greetings Exchanged

"My dear Marie, it is so good to see you again," says the owner of the shop to the Queen of Roumania.

"Darling Fafka, I am glad to be back in London," says the Queen.

Arm in arm, not like customer and shopkeeper, but like old cronies, the two women walk into the swept and garnished place.

Queen Marie of Roumania is, of course, at present in mourning for her husband, but before his death her purchases in London used to run especially to various shades of violet and mauve. The Queen of Spain, presiding over the most severe and formal court in the world, buys many black dresses. But she also has a fondness for violet shades which go very well with her light hair, blue eyes and blond coloring. One of her last purchases in London was a dress in brilliant sequins which became a favorite of her royal husband.

The Queen of Belgium favors dark clothes for day wear and delicate pastel shades for evening wear. Another of her favorites is a right royal red adorned with ermine which makes a real queenly garment. Queen Maud of Norway is an independent shopper. She does not let the dressmakers tell her. She tells them. She knows exactly what she wants and how she wants it. It may be added that none of these royal customers go in for very short skirts.

With Queen Mary things are different. The other queens, being visitors, go to the shops. In queen picks and chooses. Queen to her. In other words, the favored dressmaker takes her wares to Buckingham Palace where the Queen picks and chooses. Queen Mary, being very fair in hair and coloring, usually chooses delicate shades of gray and blue. She has never made the slightest concession to the short skirt mode. He clothes have always come down well towards her shoe tops.

RAPS WET PAPERS

FREMONT, Neb., June 21 (AP)—Newspapers with anti-prohibition tendencies were branded as "dishonest, disrespectful, disloyal and unpatriotic," by the Rev. F. A. "The wet press," he declared, "is doing more to destroy prohibition and break down law enforcement than all other wet forces combined."

FLOYDADA TO START CITY MAIL SERVICE

FREE DELIVERY TO BE INAUGURATED ON SEPTEMBER 1

(Special To The Journal)

FLOYDADA, June 21.—Free delivery of mail will be started in Floydada September 1, according to information received by the Floydada Chamber of Commerce from the postoffice department at Washington. The same information was received by several business men from Marvin Jones, congressman from the 18th district. Preparations are now being made to have every citizen within the territory to be served by the carriers erect mail receptacles before the stated time allowed by the department.

Free delivery of mail is a service the Floydada Chamber of Commerce has been working for for several months. The recent rapid development of the city and the increase in population led to the belief on the part of the Chamber of Commerce officials that the service should be established and the first inspection by the departmental inspector proved sufficient to establish the service. Increase in post office receipts, construction of sidewalks and population were all taken into consideration by the inspector.

VACATION ASKED FOR LOOP CHIEF

DALLAS, June 21 (AP).—J. Doak Roberts, president of the Texas league, is to take a brief vacation in an effort to shake off the last effects of the illness which has gathered him since early in the year.

Club owners of the circuit, fearing Roberts might retard his convalescence by giving too much time to the league have suggested that he take a vacation, turning his duties over to an executive committee of club owners.

Answering rumors that Roberts would step out until December William B. Ruggles, league statistician, said they probably arose from the plan to give Roberts a vacation.

"The club owners, so far as I know," he said, "are perfectly satisfied with the way the league is being conducted."

MAMARONECK, N. Y., June 21 (AP).—So far in the preparations for the national open golf championship, which will be held over the winged foot course here next week, Robert Tyre Jones, the young Atlanta lawyer who was almost talked out of of the picture earlier in the season because he had little time for practice, has gained a monopoly on the fine performances.

He had a 69 yesterday. On Wednesday he did 39-31-70.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

By Henry L. Farrell

NASTY OLD PITCHERS

The big league hitters are complaining to the umpires that the pitchers have gone back to the old art of doctoring the ball. They mention in particular Sylvester Johnson of the St. Louis Cards and Howard Ehmke of the Philadelphia Athletics.

None of the baters know exactly what the suspects do to the ball, but they insist the accused culprits can make it sail and that you can't sail a ball unless you do something to it.

JUST GOOD OLD SPIT

The only foreign substance allowed by baseball laws to be applied to the ball is spit and only a few old-timers are allowed to engage in that form of trickery. Only those pitchers who were using the spitball when it was ruled out are allowed to use it now. The number naturally decreases as the old arms wear out.

Among the survivors of the old race of spitters in the big leagues are some very good pitchers. Burleigh Grimes of the Pirates, Jack Quinn of the Athletics, Red Faber of the White Sox and Clarence Mitchell of the Cards are good examples.

GRIMES A WHOLE BALL CLUB.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, is an authority on pitching. He would rather have three star pitchers on his club than Ruth and Gehrig.

He was discussing the pennant chances of the Pirates and he disputed the contention that the Waners were the whole Pittsburgh ball club.

"The ball club is that fellow Grimes," he said with a sigh, remembering that once the Burly Burly worked for him.

"I wish I had a couple of those old spitters on my ball club," he said. "They can fool batters and don't let anyone kid you that they can't. That's the reason those old fellows are going so good. Young fellows coming up from most of the minor league clubs never have looked at a spitball and they don't know what to do with it. If the fellows who have been batting against spitball pitchers for 10 or 15 years can't get to second base, how can a young fellow who never saw one figure it out?"

'TAIN'T SO, THEY SAY

Grimes has said that he actually uses the spitball very infrequently and that he uses the motion of wetting the ball as a threat. But the National League batters say that he uses it almost continuously. Maybe they just think so.

The infielders used to complain that the ball was too hard to handle when a spitball pitcher was working and when it didn't actually slip out of their hands it sailed when it was being thrown to a base and made it impossible at times for the receiver to complete the out.

Heart Balm Suit Has New Interest Today

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—Ann Livingston's $250,000 heart balm suit against the millionaire 62-year-old manufacturer, Franklin S. Hardinge borrowed interest today from a Georgia soldier's letter asking the American Legion to aid him in finding his wife.

The soldier said his wife had come to Chicago from Miami last November with a man named Hardinge, whom she married without obtaining a divorce. George Sugarman, judge advocate of a local Legion post and assistant city prosecutor, produced the letter in court with the intention of offering it in evidence.

Nearly $11,000,000 worth of passenger automobiles were sent from the United States to Canada in the first three months of this year.

"POOR LITTLE BOBCATS"

Word has reached here from San Angelo to the effect that Mollie Crawford, crack line coach of the San Angelo High school eleven, has aligned himself with the Sam Houston Normal as assistant grid coach. Thus the "courageous little Bobcats" lose the pilot who is credited with putting them in the thick of the fight in the Oil Belt.

Blondy Cross, the Angelo sports scribe, calls it "Fine Business", censuring the high school authorities for allowing the capable mentor to go to another place for a better salary. San Angelo pays smaller salaries to its coaches than any other city in the Oil Belt, the irate Blondy points out, and is known to be the most wealthy city in the district. Crawford must be given credit for building a powerful team with less material than any other coach in his section, and without him, the Bobcats are likely to sink below the class of the contenders.

ANOTHER RUMOR KILLED

Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and nominal head of the farm system operated by the club, denies emphatically the reports concerning the change in managers for the Houston Buffs. The fact that Johnny Evers, assistant manager of the Boston Braves, was in Houston last week gave impetus to rumors that the Boston club desired the services of Frank Snyder as manager if he contemplated leaving the Cordinal organization.

"There is nothing to the report," Breadon said. "Snyder will remain with us. Evers probably was on a scouting expedition in Houston."

Considered one of the most successful pilots in the Texas League, Snyder guided the Bisons to the Dixie championship last season but the loss of several valuable players from the championship team has left Snyder with a shell of a club for the current campaign. Recent remarks attributed to him in the press about the Houston situation left no secret as to his disappointment over the players allotted him.

It is likewise accepted by those in close touch with the Texas League race that the Buffs have not been hustling durin gtheir recent losing streak. Snyder and the entire club are dissatisfied with the treatment afforded them by the Cardinal bosses. Continual reverses will likely bring the St. Louis officials to their senses as quickly as any other procedure. And the Buffs know this.

WHAT IS THE REASON?

The recent let-down of George Uhle, former Cleveland curve-ball artist, who led the American League with nine straight victories up until a short time ago, has caused considerable worry on the part of the Detroit Tigers and no little comment throughout the junior circuit. In his last two appearances, the Bengal ace has been slammed for 16 earned runs, seven by the Red Sox and nine by the Yankees. Through the first six weeks of the campaign, Uhle was the bell cow of the outfit. His dazzling pace kept the Tigers' spirit up and was their constant source of inspiration.

Since his apparent collapse, the Detroit outfit has lost much of its confidence and much of the fond hopes of Bucky Harris will rest upon the possibility that his lapse is only temporary. Hurling 20 innings against the Chicago White Sox in that memorable battle with Ted Lyons recently could not have done Uhle any good. Some believe that the dizzy pace set by the Cleveland cast-off during the early part of the season had its effect.

WHAT'LL WE CALL HIM?

Sport scribes who follow the progress of major league teams refer to Art Shires, former Waco first sacker now with the Chicago White Sox, as "The Great Shires", "Fiery Texan", "The Texas Tornado", "The Rampant Texan", and various other expressions denoting the color of the "freshest bushed since Ty Cobb broke in." Following his last re-instatement, Shires replaced Clancy in the Chisox line-up and from all indications has won his spurs with Lena Blackburne's club. During the past week, Lil' Arthur's big bat has played an important role in the Chicago attack. Shires batted in all the runs for the Pale Hose Thursday as the Brown won out 5-2. One of these was a homer, his second during the week.

Pladner Given Worst Pounding of Career

PARIS, June 21 (AP)—What looked like a soft spot for Spider Pladner turned out to be a very hard one, and as a result the little French fighter is in the hospital today instead of preparing for a trip to the rings of the United States.

Pladner entered the ring last night against Gene Huat, an almost unknown French bantamweight with little preparation but with plenty of confidence that the skill and punch that carried him to victories over such fighters as Izzy Schwartz and Frankie Genaro would carry him through against Huat. He came out with the worst beating of his career, being knocked down eighteen times before the referee stepped in to halt the slaughter.

LEADERSHIP OF LOOP IS PLAY'S STAKE

BURDEN OF PROOF IS ON NEW YORKERS IN BIG TEST

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 21—Another Athletic expeditionary force has arrived on the banks of the Harlem, but this time conditions are somewhat different. Cornelius McGillicuddy peers down from the heights as Miller Huggins toils to rally his broken forces. The burden of proof this time is upon the Yankees who lag seven and one-half games to the rear of the Philadelphians.

General McGillicuddy deployed his troops before the Yankee Stadium today to fight five battles with the champions of the baseball world in the next three days, two today, two tomorrow and one on Sunday. He gave the command to charge as 60,000 New Yorkers, not altogether unfriendly to the cause of Philadelphia, took up the march to the Bronx.

Grove to Be Up

The patriarch of Philadelphia planned to send Bob Grove out to play the role of a plank of a forgotten day. George Earnshaw was in reserve to impersonate Bender.

Miller Huggins was grooming Hoyt and George Pipgras for a shot at the moon.

IMPENDING BATTLE DIMS NATIONAL'S FURY

(By Associated Press)

The impending battle between the American League titans tended somewhat to dim the fury of the National League conflict yesterday.

For all of this the rejuvinated Cubs shelled Grover Cleveland Alexander and others sufficiently to shade the Cardinals, 7 to 6 for the fourth straight triumph.

The Giants whaled the Phillies by 11 to 6, and the Braves won another from the Robins, 4 to 2, in remaining National League fixtures.

Pirates-Reds Idle

The Pirates and the Reds were idle.

Results of the National League gave the Cubs a somewhat more comfortable margin over the Pirates and dropped the champion Cardinals further into the mire of third place.

The American League campaign yesterday consisted of victories for Boston, Detroit and Chicago. The Athletics and the Yankees, of course were idle.

The Red Sox rallied to pull out a 6 to 4 decision against Ad Liska and Brown in Washington as MacFayden checked the Senatorial attack at eight hits. Young Ed Walsh pitched four-hit ball against St. Louis to win by 5 to 3, and the Detroit Tigers hit hard to win by 8 to 4 over the Indians in Cleveland.

The victory of the Cubs, the most important achievement in either circuit, gave the Bruins a record of twelve out of their last fifteen, including their run of four against the champions.

The 7 to 6 victory was marked by Hack Wilson's fifteenth and sixteenth home runs.

MAX AND UMSI EXPOSE CHINS IN GOTHAM SCRAP

These tempting targets will be put to a telling test the evening of June 27 when Max Schmeling and Paulino Uzcudun battle in a 15-round bout at the Yankee stadium.

By JAY VESSELS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 21.—Some of the boys, in the course of their pre-battle thinking, thought the wrong hard rock fought Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship last summer.

Well, the hard rock that didn't fight Tunney will fight Max Schmeling the evening of June 27. This hard one's name is Paulino Uzcudun. If he does to Scmeling what the other one, Tommy Heeney, didn't do to Tunney, he may finally get his crack at the title. If he fizzles out there will be two hard ones in the has been class instead of the current one.

That puts it up to Scmeling to determine the fate of the solid ones.

Max was just a mere pugilistic sprout, so far as the big time goes, when the racket over dropping of Paulino as Tunney's opponent raged. In the intervening year's time he not only has developed as the chosen tester of Umsi's claims, but has gained the rating of a young man with a rosy future in the box-fight business.

Uzcudun, the plodder, bangs away each day in a way that strongly reminds of the Heeney style. The welcome sign is out to everyone and the camp naturally is packed with persons with all sorts of excuses to be keeping company with a headline boxer.

At the Schmeling headquarters you see a young, swift moving German speed through his workouts with much emphasis on boxing. His camp staff is cordial yet firm, and there is no over indulgence in hospitality, for Max, like Gene, must have his seclusion and his books, too, if you please.

What happens the night of June 27 at the Yankee stadium probably won't mean much so far as the difference in training atmosphere is concerned. But it will make a difference of several hundred thousand dollars, perhaps $1,000,000 in the potential income of the young men involved.

Having pretty well sacked the southern hen roost during their 12 day junket just closed, four northern clubs returned to their home lots today in full possession of the first division in the Texas league. Taking it for granted that they will thrive on home cooking, the next phase of the campaign is likely to see the Steers, Spudders and Sports and Cats fortify themselves at the head of the column.

Brilliant mound work by the circuit's three leading pitchers featured the closing battles of the southern invasion. Charlie Barnabe, Jim Lindsey and Earl Caldwell each turned in his eleventh victory of the season. Barnabe, with only two defeats, easily ranks as the league's outstanding chunker.

Steers Batsmen Stampede

The Dallas southpaw didn't need to do a great deal of choice pitching to achieve his 15 to 7 win over Beaumont, as his supporting cast ran riot at the expense of four Export flingers. Barnabe was relieved by Frazier in the seventh, but for no good reason, unless to conserve his vim and vigor.

Caldwell, in registering his third straight victory after a protracted slump, limited the spudders blasting crew to six hits as the Cubs won the series final, 14 to 3, and broke the jinx held over them by the Spuds. It was the first victory scored by the Prattmen over the oilers this season.

Lindsey Stops Sports

Lindsey, who has scored more than a third of the Houston team's victories this season, struck out seven men in stopping the sports, 4 to 3. Eleven of Dugan Phelan's hearties nicked big Jim's delivery, but exactly the same number died on base.

A thrilling rally in the last inning, reminiscent of Fort Worth teams of four and five years ago, gave the Panthers a 3 to 2 verdict over San Antonio in their closer. Dick Moudy, eccentric Indian hurler, had the Cats eating from his good right hand until the ninth, when he suddenly went haywire.

Seventy-two golfers will tee off at the Lubbock Country club Sunday morning in the third annual Chicken Dinner tournament, a final checking of the entry list revealed this morning.

With the largest field entered in the history of tournament gold in this city, interest in the event has risen to an unprecedented heighth. In addition to the veterans of the fairways who are well known in local golfing circles, a host of new faces will be seen on the links Sunday, competing in the tourney between the "Necks" and the "Gizzards."

RAILROADERS IN 2ND PLACE IN CITY LOOP

AUTO-BARBER CLUB IS SENT DOWN LADDER BY SANTA FE

The Auto-Barbers slipped a notch down the City League ladder Thursday evening when the Santa Fe nine came out with the long end of a 11 to 3 score behind the effective pitching of White. The victory put the Railroaders up within striking distance of first place, occupied by the Hardware Dealers.

For six innings, the right-hander on the mound for the Santa Fe, held the erstwhile league leaders helpless with his hot ones, mixed occasionally with a curve ball. Up until the seventh and final inning, White turned back the opposing batsmen so consistently that not a runner reached third base. Two hits, one a scratch, was the sum total of the Auto-Barbers attack up until the seventh.

While White was mastering the the Auto-Barbers, his mates were pounding the offerings of Delaney and Reed to all corners of the orchard. Delaney went out in the third after the Santa Fe sluggers had crossed the rubber just as badly by the slugging Railroaders. Crites was effective as relief hurler.

Miss Shutout.

At the beginning of the seventh, winners were riding high on a 11-0 score, but the six goose-eggs proceeding this round did not look so well to the Chisum crew and three runs were promtly scored to prevent the whitewash.

Wilson was hit by a pitched ball and Hill walked. Taylor came up and slammed one against the deep center field fence that Petty allowed to get away and he completed the circuit, scoring Wilson and Hill ahead of himself. After Crites had whiffed and Reed grounded out, Higgins and Delaney came through with successive bingles but died on the sacks when Miller flew out.

The league-leading Hardware nine will clash today with the Carpenter-Painters, occupants of the cellar. A new manager will likely take over the reins of the C-P team at the start of today's encounter.

Standing of the teams:

OLD TIMERS TODAY

By GEORGE STOVALL
JIMMY COLLINS

Old timers might have to look twice to recognize in the dignified Mr. James J. Collins of the boxing commission of Buffalo, N. Y., raging, energetic Jimmy Collins, the demon third baseman who led the Boston Red Sox to victory in 1903 in the first world series ever played between American and National League teams.

Collins was appointed manager of the Red Sox in 1901, the first year of the league. Chicago won that year, but Jimmy Collins' crimson-legged horde were second. In 1902 Connie Mack's Athletics won and Boston was tthird, but in 1903 Collins and crew took the league title.

The veteran Pittsburgh Pirates proceeded to rush the Boston youngsters off their feet in the fall clasic. After four games had been played the count was 3-1 in favor of the Pirates, Boston had to win four straight to cop the honors. It looked hopeless, But Collins lashed his men into a fighting fury and they won—four straigit.

Boston won the pennant again the following year but the New York Giants refused to meet them in a series.

By 1905 Collins' managerial star had begun to wane. His club finished fourth and in 1906 the Red Sox had fallen to such sad estate that Charles Stahl succeeded Jimmy before the season closed.

Jimmy Collins was one of the best third basemen in the history of the game, and if you want to start an argument, even at this late date, all you'll have to do is to corner a few old-time fans and ask them who was the better third baseman, Collins of the Red Sox or Bradley of the Cleveland Americans.

I played on the same team with Bradley, and I played against Collins, but I'd hate to have to settle an argument as to who was the better player. Both of them were top-notch men at their positions.

Collins had some famous teammates on the old Boston club. There was Cy Young, the veteran pitcher who began 'way back in 1890 and hung up many pitching records that will stand the test of time. There was Freddy Parent at shortstop, Dougherty in left field and Charley Stahl in center field, but Collins was the "spark plug" that drove the club to the heights of Pennant Peak.

(This Concludes the Series.)

The airplane courtship is the new vogue. Lucky for some of the boys that their girls don't throw them over.

TIES RECORD

PUEBLO, Colo, June 21 (AP)—Tris Speaker's major league record of 11 consecutive hits in three games has been tied by Buster Chatham, shortstop for Pueblo of the Western League.

Four of his 11 hits were home runs. The chubby infielder garnered a total of 25 bases during his rampage. After his eleventh hit, a home run, he was walked twice and then struck out.

For several weeks Chatham has led the Western circuit in batting. He went to Pueblo this year from Kansas City in a deal that brought George Knothe to the Blues.

AMERICAN CLUB PLANS BIG RACE

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP).—The American National Jockey club has offered a $100,000 purse and a gold cup for a race between champion thoroughbreds of England, France and America at its racing plant here, Arlington park, next summer.

John D. Hertz, whose Reigh Count finished second in the famous Ascot gold cup race in England yesterday, has carried the offer abroad and reported a favorable reception among English and French turf owners.

If the foreign turf owners consent to run their horses in the race, Hertz said he would probably keep Reigh Count in training for another year. Otherwise he expects to retire him to the stud.

THOUSANDS THRONG TO EVENT BETWEEN TWO OLDEST SCHOOLS

(By Associated Press)

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 21—Boat race day—with all its carnival color and the tradition of a half century's rivalry on the picturesque Thames river; Harvard and Yale, friendly foes on the water altogether since 1852; crowds flaunting the crimson and the blue; airplane motors droning overhead and myriad craft chug-chugging upstream.

Crowding and jostling, back-slapping and boasting of the good old days, thousands of alumni of America's oldest college rivals and thousands more of rowing enthusiasts jammed this ancient whaling town today for another eight-oared duel in which Yale ruled the favorite over Harvard for classic varsity honors.

For early excitement this morning, the incoming throngs had the freshman and junior varsity events, two mile contests scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. But most of the talk and apparently all of the betting centered about the blue-ribbon varsity race, slated over the upstream course at 7 p. m., (eastern daylight time.)

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 21 (AP)—Yale's great freshman crew defeated Harvard's yearlings by three quarters of a length in their two-mile brush on the Thames today. The race was the first of the annual series between the two great universities.

DENNY MAKES PLEA FOR NON-PARTICIPATION IN AFFAIRS

RICHMOND, Va., June 21.—Bishop Collins Denny, of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, predicted the ultimate division of the Methodist church if political activities of the church and churchmen continue, in an address before a Methodist district conference here today.

Bishop Denny was speaking in opposition to the proposal to send to President Hoover a resolution, offered close on an address by Bishop James Cannon, dry crusader, before the same conference yesterday, pledging support to the president's law enforcement pronouncements and activities. The resolution was adopted.

HIS MESSAGE IS MISTRANSLATED

PROFESSOR ADVOCATING "BE A SNOB" MEANT ONLY TO GET BETTER THINGS OF LIFE

BY JOSEPH S. WARD, JR.
Central Press Staff Correspondent

BOSTON, Mass., June 21.—Bewildered, and just a bit groggy from the torrent of abuse and approval which have poured in upon him, Professor Robert Emmons Rogers of Massachusetts Tech has learned a lesson. That lesson is: Chatter as you will over your classroom desk, but look sharp when you get up to speak in a hotel dining room.

Not in many years has any academic pronouncement from this collegiate center created such a furore as the off-hand remarks of this rotund, cheerful English teacher, who is known to his students by the affectionate epithet "Tubby." He is the unfortunate individual who told the graduating class of his institution to be snobs.

Professor Rogers since has admitted that he thought he was having a little private talk with the seniors, for their ears and theirs alone. But the ambitious dinner committee had invited the press, whose note-taking failed to catch the professor's eye, and the fat was in the fire.

His Advice

Professor Rogers' subject itself was enough to catch attention: "The importance of Being a Snob." He lived up to the title in his remarks. "Marry the boss' daughter instead of the stenographer," he said. "Make a better marriage than you would ordinarily make; be a gentleman, a member of the ruling class and aristocracy, as all college men should be.

Robert Emmons Rogers

"Put on a front. One of the reasons for Harvard's greatness is that in all her 300 years she has put on a big front. Harvard never apologizes, never argues, never listens to criticism, but goes calmly on putting on her front, and for that reason gets more publicity and more money than any other American college.

"You can not succeed if you go on the assumption that you are as good as everyone else, and everyone else is as good as you are. Because of this feeling Americans are the worst servants in the world. They are grouchy, ill mannered and bad tempered, the people who serve us, and feel they have a right to slap us on the back or call us by our first names."

Yes, Sir!

He urged his hearers to say "Sir" to those persons in a position to require it of them, and to require "Sir" from those persons from whom it was their due. Pressed trousers, a shine every day, a fresh collar in the evening, also figured in the recommendations, as did meals taken in the University club rather than in one-arm lunches. His hearers, he said, should belong to the "right" set, the right clubs, should have the right kind of wives and children, and the means to maintain them.

Next day the storm broke. Ex-mayor James M. Curley of Boston denounced Professor Rogers as a "Bourbon and autocrat." He called on the Revolution to witness heresy. Clergymen, newspaper editors, college deans from far and wide added their voices to the horrified chorus.

Revised Meaning

The professor refused to hedge. He repeated his remarks and rallied to them. Only in one respect did he modify his stand. When he used the word "snob", he said, he did not mean the dictionary definition of a vulgar fellow who apes his betters. The word has come, he said, to have a new popular meaning, a snob being anybody who has courage enough to be different from the mass.

Professor Rogers is a Harvard man of the class of 1909, with bachelor and master's degrees. One year he taught at the Boston Labor Union college. He is married, his father-in-law being Morris H. Pancoast, noted Philadelphia artist.

He hasn't backed down, but he has learned something about speaking ou in meetings.

Senator Heflin got no response when he dared any Democrat in the United States Senate to declare he would support Al Smith for president in 1932. All those senators are supporting themselves for president right now.

Thought For Today

As a bird that wandereth from her nest, so is a man that wandereth from his place.

Ointment and perfume rejoice the heart; so doth the sweetness of a man's friend by hearty counsel.—Proverbs, xxvii, 8, 9.

Why

New Yorkers often are both irritated and puzzled at the antagonism toward their city which is felt in the rest of the country.

Perhaps if they will consider what happened to the Central Park Casino recently they will understand.

Central Park, as you know, is the great park set down in the midst of the city to give fresh air, sunlight, green grass and trees to the myriad of poor slum dwellers who would never see them otherwise. In the middle of it is a casino, built on city land and operated under the city's guiding hand, where refreshments are served.

Recently this casino was overhauled, elaborately furnished and made into a very tony and exclusive restaurant for the "400". The ordinary man, for whom the park was laid out, can not enter it—and couldn't pay the prices demanded if he did get in. It exists for the millionaires, and for them alone, although it stands on city land, in the middle of the poor man's recreation ground.

Would any other city in the country di a thing like this? Not one. New York's action in regard to the Central Park Casino helps to explain the anti-New York feeling of the "hinterland."

Prosperity

The way in which the airplane is going to bring new prosperity to Canada is pointed out by a writer in the June issue of the Review of Reviews.

The writer points out that Canada has virtually unlimited mineral resources, most of them untouched at present, reaching from Labrador around Hudson Bay nearly to the Mackenzie river. And the airplane has made it possible to study this area in a way that never could have been done in the old days.

"Aerial exploration not only has removed many of the terrors and hardships of prospecting, but has opened to the seeker after mineral deposits territories far beyond his reach," says the article. "The past year found planes scouting the territories along the coasts of the Hudson and James Bays, dropping off a party of prospectors here and there and returning later, at a given date, to bring them back to civilization."

Science Gambles

Science, in some ways, indulges in gambling on a grander scale than any other branch of human endeavor.

There was a total eclipse of the sun in the far east recently. For years in advance, British and German scientists had spent much money and effort preparing to make observations of it. They established a base in Siam, established themselves there and waited for the day to come.

And then the sky was so cloudy that they were baffled. Not a glimpse of the eclipse did they get. Their time and money were completely wasted. There was nothing to do but go home and wait for the next one.

Who but scientists would gamble so heavily on the chance of good weather.

A Queer Job

The things men will do to earn a living are sometimes very queer.

In Berlin there died the other day a man who had made a fortune by dealing in circus "freaks."

He scoured Germany, for years, looking for dog-faced boys, bearded women, grotesquely misshapen cripples, three-headed calves and so on. When he found such a specimen, he would take the luckless individual to Berlin, train it, add a few touches that nature overlooked and then contract with a circus for its exhibition.

He was highly successful, and made a great deal of money in this way.

THE PLAINSMAN

That Girl on Broadway says driving an automobile isn't dangerous—unless you happen to take a turn for the worse.

Andy Bourland, dirt farmer, banker and hard-headed business man, will serve as manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce until next fall when the organization holds its annual convention and a permanent successor to Homer D. Wade, resigned, will be chosen. The Plainsman can't help but wonder what will happen when Mr. Bourland applies the same business judgment that has made him a success in the world, to the activities of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. This much is sure—it'll be plumb hard on the hi-hip hooray boys and the whoopee makers.

The Plainsman believes the directors of the organization, in deciding not to name Wade's successor in such a big hurry, acted wisely. It begins to look now like those at the helm have seen that there must be a change in policies if the W. T. C. C. is continued very much longer. Their decision to turn over the reins, temporarily, to President Bourland shows that they're willing to take time and weigh the matter carefully before choosing a full time manager.

The people of West Texas are not going to be satisfied with a "political appointment" when the new manager of the W. T. C. C. is chosen. Further than that, they're not going to be satisfied with a continuation of the present policies and activities. It's going to take action and service, in copious quantities, to keep the life blood coursing through the veins of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce from here on out and it is apparent that the directors have felt the pulse of public opinion by their actions in Abilene yesterday.

As he has often said before, The Plainsman believes there is plenty of room for a working organization. By knitting closer the local chambers of the territory the W. T. C. C. can perform wonders in aiding and abetting the natural progress of West Texas. There is still a decided need for the organization and it is to be hoped that it is continued—along the right lines.

That Man on Avenue Q says Mrs. Hoover's tea party bids fair to overshadow that other famous tea party that we gave the English at Boston a couple of hundred years ago.

It was The Plainsman's privilege the other day to watch one of Lubbock's fine surgeons perform a difficult operation—to watch every move of doctors and nurses as they miraculously, efficiently cut into a human body, performed the operation and aided nature in its fight against disease. The experience was an education, not a garish thrill, and were every man and woman given the same opportunity there would naturally arise a deeper feeling of respect for medical science, a stronger faith in the men whose patient study of many years fits them to serve humanity in a greater measure than any of the balance of us here below.

The spotless white of the operating room, designed to serve its needs in every minute detail, the scrupulous care taken by physicians and nurses to curtail every possibility of infection, the plans laid ahead of time to care for any emergency which might arise, all made a deep impression upon the writer but it was the swift, sure work of the surgeon and the perfect teamwork between himself, the two doctors who aided him and the two nurses who saw to the many and exacting details which made The Plainsman wonder most.

There was no nervousness, no excitement, no hesitancy. The operation, as a human life hung in the balance, went forward with machine-like rapidity yet with a carefulness unapplied to any other field of endeavor with which The Plainsman has ever come into contact. There were no false moves, there was no indecision—every motion played its part while the Death Angel hovered over the still form of the patient, ready at the slightest miscalculation to swoop for the prey which disease had all but laid before it.

These things which science has done for us can not be underestimated in value. Civilization, through the ages, has lifted the brain of man to higher levels. The almost hitherto indominable forces of ill health and the natural fallacies of the human machine are being slowly but surely beaten back, step by step, by the men whose practice and study has enabled them to delve into the innermost recesses of the body with the same unerring precision of the birds God made to fly instinctively from point to point.

Great is the boon to life that these men of medicine furnish. The wonder of it all is one of the marvels of our age. The Plainsman bows humbly before such knowledge—and the world, if it knew—would follow suit.

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP) — Joseph P. Cotton, of New York, took the oath of office today as Undersecretary of State.

Everybody Wins On The Farm Bill Except, Possibly, The Farmer; Senate Makes House Leaders Eat A Bit Of Chow

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 21—Final passage of the administration's farm relief bill may be said to hold an element of victory for everyone, with the possible exception of the farmers.

President Hoover wins because he adopted the measure and said it must stand as was, without any debenture plan or other fixtures.

The House of Representatives wins because it sees the bill enacted as it passed it, without the debenture provision demanded by the Senate.

The Senate wins because it held firm and forced the House to take a vote on the debenture.

The republicans win along with Mr. Hoover, for the farm bill was a party measure.

The democrats come out of the farm bill fight in excellent shape because they presented a virtually solid front for the debenture in Congress—which, for the democrats is a moral victory any day in the week.

Jardine's Triumph, Too

And undoubtedly the greatest personal triumph is that of former Secretary of Agriculture William Marion Jardine, who is the undisputed father of the "Hoover farm relief program." The administration farm bill is identically what was known in the last preivous Congress or two as the "Jardine plan." Everybody laughed at it then and it was kicked around most disrespectfully, for both houses were intent on passing the McNary-Haugen bill.

Farm state members of Congress then regarded the Jardine scheme as totally inadequate and the complaint was made that it only offered the farmers a chance to get further into debt. When one considers that Jardine was not retained in the cabinet by President Hoover and will be no more than an interested spectator when the child of his brain is put to work to serve the farmer, it does almost seem that there ain't no justice.

The most significant, and to many the most gratifying, thing that has happened in Washington lately is the complete success of the Senate in pulling the hard-boiled, high-hatting Longworth-Tilson-Snell triumvirate of the House off the high horse this trio had mounted when the Senate voted for the debenture scheme.

The effect is to demonstrate that while the House is more than ever a legislative body gagged and bound, the Senate remains free and independent. As long as the Senate continues to refuse to be bossed either by the president or the House, the efforts of Speaker Longworth and his lieutenants to establish the supremacy o fthe House over the Senate will continue to fall as miserably as this latest attempt.

Few persons are going to shed any tears over that. Regardless of the merits of the debenture plan or of any other specific measure and despite the fact that some of the world's most distinguished nitwits occupy Senate seats, the intellectual superiority of the Senate over the House is never seriously challenged.

The facts concerning the Senate's defeat of the House are these: The House passed the farm bill without debentures and the Senate voted by a narrw margin to put debentures in. The two bills then went into conference and the House conferees arrogantly refused even to discuss the bill until the debentures provision was thrown out. Longworth, Tilson and Snell had decided that the House wouldn't be allowed to vote on debentures—an exhibition of steam roller tactics only matched by the way they railroaded the tariff bill through, forcing more than 400 members of the House into the position of so many robots.

Calling a Big Bluff

House leaders were serenely confident that the Senate wouldn't dare hold up passage of the farm bill. President Hoover himself shared this confidence. The general assumption was that when the ten conferees among whom only two senators had voted for the debentures, knocked the debentures out of the bill the Senate would meekly surrender.

The arrogance of the House however, defeated its own purpose. The Senate promptly smashed its bluff by refusing to accept the conference report. The alacrity with which the House leaders—under guidance of President Hoover—gulped their large platter of crow and promised a House vote on debentures was nothshort of funny.

They had to, of course. Otherwise they would have been in the position of obstructing passage of the farm bill—a position in which they thought they had the Senate.

Gilbert Swan

In New York

By Swan

NEW YORK, June 21—Such are the effects of commercialism and standardization upon the times, that even the dear old hurdy-gurdy seems about ready to surrender.

Within the week, I have come upon two ominous portents. First some bright young man from a radio station seeking novelty, signed up one of the old-time hand organists for his program. This gave another bright young man from the talking pictures a good idea. Within eight hours the sidewalks and curbstones of New York were being combed for bigger and better hurdy-gurdies. By nightfall an entire parade had been assembled in front of a Manhattan talking picture studio, each in hope of rewards that seemed truly fabulous to one accustomed to the pennies and dimes of the street crowds.

The result of this recording so pleased certain magnates that the organ grinder was rushed over to a phonograph recording studio and several records were made. It was argued that there are places in America where the hurdy-gurdy has become extinct and where old-timers would dearly love to have childhood memories restored.

Meanwhile the organ grinders of Manhattan fast perish from the streets.

And if I seem particularly bitter today, it is because the little German band paused before my house last evening as I returned from work.

And the fellow who ordinarily plays the com-ta-ta horn was now playing the saxophone.

Which seems to me the last word in something or other.

Its from the makers of hand organs, however, that I have learned of the decline in an industry that once contributed to Manhattan. The "East Side, West Side, All Around the Town" tune would never have been carried down through the years, except for the agency of the organ grinder. And "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" is deathlessly associated with Italians and monkeys and wheezy organs.

The hurdy-gurdy industry, by the way, once was headed by two Italians—one in Brooklyn and one in New York. And although the demand has dropped sharply away and many of the old organs have been abandoned in the "organ grinder's garage," they still carry on.

The old "monkey organ" is practically unknown to New York, though a few have taken to the open road and can be found wandering through small communities.

Another indication of their passing is to be found in the sudden demand for hurcy-gurdies at Park Avenue and Fifth Avenue parties. Here the boys and girlies decide that the innovation is "just too cute" or "so different."

Which is enough to end the career of anything.

Years ago no picnic was complete without a hurdy-gurdy or a little German band. They cquld be found on the Hudson river boats and the various excursion steamers.

Now everything has gone jazzy and the ukuleles, the saxophones drums are in preponderance.

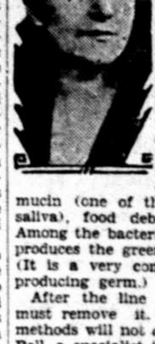
SALT SOLUTION IS GOOD FOR HARDENING GUMS, KEEPING MOUTH CLEAN

Answers to Mothers

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.
—Jewish Proverb.

"My little girl has nice teeth, but they are marred by a greenish line near the gums. Brushing them carefully twice a day has no effect on the line.
"MRS. X."



This greenish deposit is a common thing in childhood, and is really due to the fact that the teeth have not been brushed sufficiently clean, and it apparently will come when a child does wash his teeth twice a day. It consists of a deposit of mucin (one of the constituents of saliva), food debris and bacteria. Among the bacteria is a type which produces the green coloring matter. (It is a very common non-disease producing germ.)

After the line forms, a dentist must remove it. Ordinary home methods will not do this. Dr. Louise Bell, a specialist in preventive dentistry, tells me that a salt solution made from one level teaspoon of salt to a full eight-ounce glass of water, used as a mouth wash and gargle, is one of the best methods that has been discovered to harden the gums and keep the mouth free from disease germs. (This applies to adults as well as children.) This is the method of using: Wash the teeth first with any preparation that is best liked (it doesn't make much difference, ordinary bland soap is probably as good as anything); then, with the salt solution, rinse the mouth thoroughly, gargle three times, then hold a small mouthful for five minutes (one can be dressing meanwhile); expel this and gargle again three times.

"My boy, aged 9, complains of a pain in his right side. I am afraid he has swallowed a straight pin when about three years old. Do you suppose it could have lodged in his side, causing that pain? He is troubled with constipation nearly all the time, and nothing seems to help him much. Could it be the constipation that causes the pain? He seems well enough otherwise.
"MRS. J."

Yes, it is possible the pin is still lodged there, Mrs. J. I. would have an X-ray taken. That would disclose it if it were there.

His constipation might cause the pain, or it may be that he has chronic appendicitis. At any rate, you should take him to your children's specialist for a thorough examination. Is he getting the foundation diet for children? A diet that hasn't sufficient of the fruits and vegetables will produce constipation.

"I'll repeat the foundation for any child's diet, and see that he gets this:

CIVIL SERVICE RULES URGED IN SELECTING CENSUS ENUMERATORS

BY R. F. WAGNER, Senator from New York

(Robert Ferdinand Wagner was born at Nastatten, Germany, June 8, 1877. Brought to the United States in childhood, he was graduated from the College of the City of New York, later obtaining an L. L. B. degree from New York Law school. He began practicing in New York City. He was a member of the New York state assembly from 1905 to 1908 and the state senate from 1909 to 1918. In 1914 he was lieutenant governor of New York. From 1919 to 1926 he served as justice of the supreme court of New York when he resigned. The following year he was elected to the United States senate. He is a Democrat.)

The United States is about to spend $40,000,000 of the taxpayers' money for the greatest and grandest national inventory known to history. We are about to take the fifteenth decennial census of population.

Senator Wagner

The most important issue before the public in the conduct of that project is whether we shall use that money to buy $40,000,000 worth of information or whether we shall spend it for the purchase of $40,000,000 worth of political patronage for the party presently controlling the administration. We can buy one or the other but the same money will not buy both.

The facts are briefly these. Every 10 years, as required by the constitution, we take a census of our entire population and incidentally secure a great quantity of useful information. To take the 1930 census will require the services of 100,000 employes. How do we desire these 100,000 people to be appointed?

There are two available methods. The first method is to have these 100,000 jobs filled by men selected by the politicians of the party in power. Men so chosen are appointed for political reasons and not because they exhibit any fitness for the work to be done. All of the appointees are under obligation to the political leader who secures their employment.

What is the other method, the one that I am urging congress to adopt in place of the discredited spoils system? My proposal, to which the United States senate has already agreed, is that we select and hire these 100,000 employes by the same methods that we use in hiring the bulk of the government employes. I propose that we permit the civil service commission to provide these employes in acordance with the merit system. That gives every person an equal opportunity to secure the job without political favor, and without placing himself under obligation to a politician. The only requirement is that he convince the civil service commission that he has the ability to do the work as required by law.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

NAN CARROLL, private secretary to JIHN CURTIS MORGAN, lawyer, is in love with her employer. Morgan, however, is deeply in love with his beautiful wife, IRIS. Nan decides to resign, but lingers when she hears Morgan is to defend a supposed friend, BERT CRAWFORD.

Nan distrusts him, and her suspicion of him and Iris is confirmed by a letter which little 6 year old CURTIS MORGAN innocently takes from his mother's handbag and places in Nan's hands. After Crawford's acquittal, he leaves town, followed almost immediately by Iris. She writes Morgan she will never return, but cleverly omits reference to Crawford, whom Morgan trusts implicitly.

Morgan is crushed and Nan saves him from despair by forcing him into his work. She acts as long distance housekeeper for him, winning the love of little Curtis, who adores her and bringing comfort to a man who ironically thinks only of another. Nan goes to the capital to take bar examinations and upon her return Morgan tells her he is divorcing Iris. He stutters a proposal.

They are quietly married and Morgan gives her a partnership with him in business. They are prevented from going on their honeymoon by the arrival of DAVID BLACKHULL, accused of murdering his wealthy father. Nan urges Morgan to take the case and he goes with the boy to give himself up.

Nan goes to the house alone, where Curtis helps her unpack. He wants to bring his father's things into her room but she says "No, let him bring them in himself."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

With the sometimes deadly innocence of childhood, it was little Curtis Morgan who unwittingly completed the destruction of whatever hope had been left to Nan that happiness would come to her before the close of her wedding day.

The first unfortunate episode occurred at the dinner table. Although Nan had longed with desperate intensity to be along with her husband over their first meal together as man and wife, her love for the child had made it impossible for her to exclude Curtis from what he evidently regarded as a family celebration. He was almost hectically excited—his liquid black eyes dazzlingly bright, his cheeks scarlet. He had told the splendid news to Little Pat, who had obligingly given the younger child a number of pointers as to just what his father's and Nan's marriage meant.

Estelle had outdone herself, so that the table at least was as festive as a bride could have desired. Nan, however, could not but remember that the exquisite china, crystal, silver and Italian linen had been accumulated by her predecessor, Iris again. The center piece of delicate, lovely little sweetheart buds had been bought and paid for by Estelle, however, as a wedding gift to the girl who had been long distance housekeeper for months and was now mistress of the Morgan house.

Maude O'Brien, the cook, had flavored every dish of the wedding feast with her love for the bride and groom. But Nan, at the head of the table, scarcely tasted the delicious foods that were placed before her by Estelle. Opposite her John Curtis Morgan seemed to have as little appetite, but Curtis, seated between them, ate of everything with frequent, loud expressions of approval.

Whenever the father was engrossed in conversation with the boy, Nan stole glances at him, dropping her eyes swiftly when he looked her way. How distinguished, how handsome he was in his new dinner clothes. A perfect white gardenia in his buttonhole. She had been surprised and deeply touched when he had come home from the office with a huge florist's box under his arm. Atop the mass of long stemmed yellow roses she had found the lone gardenia, had adjusted it later in the buttonhole of his dinner coat with trembling fingers, while he smiled down upon her—his eyes almost as shy as her own. Oh, he was trying to "play up," trying so hard to make her feel like other brides.

Well, she was playing up, too. Estelle and Mrs. O'Brien had gone into raptures over her new evening dress of ivory taffeta, the "long "period costume" skirt embroidered with a deep border of golden poppies. On the left shoulder of the snugly fitting, very low in the neck little bodice she wore a cluster of three of the golden yellow roses that her husband had brought her. Under the lights, her swirl-waved, short brown hair gleamed like a cap of burnished, beaten copper. Did Morgan really think she was pretty? He had told her so, as she adjusted his gardenia.

But what was Curtis saying? Nan gave the child sudden, startled attention.

". . . and Little Pat says Nan's my mother now. Is she, Father? I got a mother. Can a kid have two mothers, Father?"

Nan did not dare look at John Curtis Morgan's face.

She would not have recognized the hoarse, strained voice that answered, "Yes, Curtis." Just "Yes," with no explanation, no attempt at justification. But what else could he say?

"Gee, that's swell!" Curtis astonished Nan by exclaimingly happily. "The kids at school will stop teasing me now, I guess! All time saying, 'Curt Morgan's mother run off and left him;' 'Curt Morgan ain't got no mother.' Betcha they'll wisht they was me, when I tell 'em I got two mothers! Won't they Father? Won't they, Nan?"

Fortunately, Curtis seldom waited for an answer. He rushed on now: "Won't my other mother be 'surprised when she comes home? I'll have two mothers at home, and you'll have two wives, won't you, Father?"

During the four years she had known and loved John Curtis Morgan there had been many times when Nan's heart had ached sickeningly with pity for the hurts which Iris Morgan had inflicted upon him. But the pain that stabbed her heart now made every other pain she had ever felt seem trivial. And as always, she suffered because he suffered, would have died to spare him.

The door from the butler's pantry swung open. With a gasp of relief, Nan realized that the father would be spared the necessity of answering an unanswerable question.

"Gosh! What a cake!" Curtis shouted, beating his hands together in a fenzy of delight. "What kind of a cake is that, Estelle? I never saw such a funny, pretty cake—"

Estelle laughed, as she set the tall, white cake, surmounted by a tiny bride and groom, before her new mistress. "That's a wedding cake, Curtis. Maude made it herself, Miss—I mean ma'am."

"Oh—that was dear of her," Nan faltered. "You've both been so kind—"

"Can I have the man and lady dolls, Nan? Can I?" Curtis clamored, and her husband, at the foot of the table, seized the excuse to laugh. The tension was broken.

Nan laughed, too, and the magnificent cake was cut. So that Maude might not have her feelings hurt, Nan forced herself to eat all of the thin slice she had taken upon her own plate, but Maude might have flavored it with quinine instead of almond; the bride would not have known the difference.

The second incident occurred immediately after dinner. Nan Carroll Morgan was destined that night to be spared nothing. If innocent, blundering little Curtis had been a graduate of the Inquisition, he could not have devised more exquisite tortures for the girl who had, in all humility, agreed to become a mother to him.

Quite as a matter of course John Curtis Morgan led the way into the drawing room, Curtis dragging at his hand and chattering blithely. Nan forced her reluctant feet to follow them into the room dominated by Iris Morgan's beautiful, almost life size portrait. She had not long to wonder what revenge Iris would exact of the interloper.

Her husband paused at a table to fill his pipe, but Curtis impatiently and autocratically dragged him to the center of the room, so that they faced the fireplace and the portrait.

"Listen, Father! Listen!" Curtis commanded shrilly, pointing to the portrait of his mother. "Do you think Nan is as pretty as my other mother? Do you, Father? I think she almost is, don't you, Father?"

Nan's heart stood still for a second, then lunged sickeningly. She was glad she stood behind them, that she could not see Morgan's face. Glad, too, that he could not see hers.

Before her husband had time to answer, Nan's clear, friendly little laugh rang out. "I know what I think, young Curtis, my lad!" she cried, her voice convincingly gay and firm. "I think it's time for you to go to bed, or you'll get a black mark on your health chart tomorrow!"

It was a potent threat. The child released his father's hand and came toward his new mother, obediently, if reluctantly. "You'll come upstairs with me for just a teeny while, won't you, Nan? Good night, Father."

When Nan returned to the drawing room 10 minutes later, the feel of Curtis' kisses still upon her lips, she found her husband half sitting, half lying in his own particular armchair beside the fireplace, his head thrown back, his narrowed eyes fixed upon the portrait of the wife who had deserted him.

Nan was about to turn and flee unable to endure more, when her husband caught the faint rustle of her taffeta skirt. He was instantly upon his feet, a smile of welcome routing the brooding melancholy from his distinguished, austere face.

"If he says, 'Alone—at last!' I'll scream," Nan said to herself as she waited for him to reach her. "For we aren't alone! We'll never be alone as long as she sits there, mocking us, smiling, gloating because she knows he'll always be hers—"

"Well, Nan?" Morgan put an arm about the girl's bare shoulders and pressed her close against his side. For a breathless moment Nan thought he was going to kiss her. But he drew her gently along with him to a small empire sofa, so placed that Iris' portrait was not visible from it. Was that why he chose it? Nan wondered, but was grateful.

When they were seated, Nan taking exaggerated pains with the arranging of her long, poppy splashed skirt, Morgan again put his right arm about her shoulders and with his left hand gathered up both her cold little hands, lifted them, brushed his lips against the rosy ginger tips.

"Glad you're—here, Nan?" he asked at last, huskily.

"Yes." She could not manage more just then, with her whole body trembling to his touch.

His arm tightened about her shoulders. "I'm—happier than I've been for a long time, Nan dear. It hasn't been a very orthodox wedding day, has it?" he added regretfully. "But—the worst it over, I think. Curtis . . . Of course you know he adores you," he blundered on, his voice thick with embarrassment. "We can't expect him to understand—can we?"

"No," Nan said simply, but her

Golden Text: Bless Jehovah, O my soul.—Ps. 103:1.

Introduction.

We turn aside today to study one of the most beautiful of all the Psalms. It is a glorious poem of praise. It is fitting that we should be reminded of the mercies of God, so that we may praise him with all our hearts. There are too many of us who go on from day to day without opening our hearts in thanksgiving to him who is our God. Our young people and children need to develop the habit of praise. No life can be a big life without this praise spirit.

The Habit Of Praise

"A thankful heart is not only the greatest virtue, but the parent of all other virtues."—Cicero.

"It is interesting to note what the psalmist put first and made fundamental among his benefits: 'Who forgiveth all thine iniquities.' He does not begin with material goods, but with the spiritual state of his soul in being forgiven and cleansed."

Someone inquired of Archibald Brown, "Wherever can you find 'an instrument of ten strings' with which to praise God?" (Ps. 92:3). He answered, "Here they are: two eyes to see God with; two ears to hear God with; two hands with which to work for God; two feet to walk with God; one tongue to praise God with; and one heart with which to love him!"

"Bless Jehovah, O My Soul." v. 1

"Bless Jehovah, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name." "Soul" means "myself." "All that is within me" is not said in opposition to outward service and in favor of interior religion solely, but the psalmist calls upon himself to serve God with all his powers, both of inward thought and desire, the emotions and reason and will, and also of outward expression, in speech and deed. "By 'name' is meant, similarly, not merely outward worship, as by the reverent use of God's name in prayer and song, but the name of God stands for all that God is to his children, his holy character and personality; in short, the Holy Trinity. David Livingstone was in sore straits and threatened with starvation when Stanley sent him men and supplies; the great missionary explorer in his diary inserted this same verse to embody his gratitude to God. Often we need to rouse ourselves to give thanks, so prone are we to neglect praise and give ourselves to empty fears."

"Forget Not All His Benefits." v. 2.

"Bless Jehovah, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits." So deeply in earnest is the psalmist that once more he stirs up his soul to praise the Lord. Especially does he warn himself against forgetfulness of benefits received from God. How many times we have prayed God in great agony for some signal relief, as the recovery of a dear one from dire illness; and when our prayers were answered it has seemed that we never could forget that blessing, but all our life would be one hymn of thanksgiving. But, alas! we have soon forgotten the benefit, and life has slumped down into the pit of discontent and faithless worry. "Come, let us read our diaries, and see if there be not choice favors recorded there for which we have rendered no grateful return. The name of ingrate is one of the most shameful that a man can wear; surely we cannot be content to run the risk of such a brand."—C. H. Spurgeon.

The Sin Of Ingratitude.

"I have read somewhere a fairy story that tells how once a traveller was wandering through a wood whenhe came upon a clump of the little blue flowers that we call forget me nots. He bent over them surprised and delighted at their beauty, but wondered more when the little flowers began to speak to him. They told him that if he plucked a handful of them, and carried them on through the forest, they would disclose to him untold treasure. He eagerly snatched some of the blossoms and went hurriedly on his way. Presently he came to a rocky defile, and there right in front of him opened a doorway that led him to a cave filled with all manner of gold and precious stones. When he saw the wonderful treasure that was within his reach he rushed eagerly forward and threw away the now despised and seemingly worthless flowers, but in a moment the doorway closed before his eyes and he had no spell wherewith to open it. Thus was he taught the sin of ingratitude and the shame of selfishness."—Prof. G. Currie Martin.

Why Be Grateful? vs. 3, 4, 5.

"Who forgiveth all thine iniquities." Henry Drummond calls attention to the fact that in this and the following verse "David has given us in a nutshell the whole of the main facts of sin." "Iniquities" points to the guilt of sin; "diseases" indicates the stain of sin; "destruction" shows us the power of sin. Thus also these two verses give us the three facts of salvation: forgivenes for our sins, healing for our diseases, and redemption from the power of sin. When the soul becomes sensible of its sins, its chief and pressing need is for God's forgiveness. Forgiveness is the very first and the chief of the benefits for which we are to bless Jehovah. "Who healeth all thy diseases." Bodily diseases, so far as is best for us, the Great Physician is sure to heal; but spiritual sickness is the main disease, and that he is sure to cure, if we ask him.

"Who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies." "Crowneth" is "a metaphor drawn from the common custom of wearing wreaths and garlands on festive occasions (Esdus. 32:2). Compare Ps. 8:5." "Who satisfieth thy desire with good things." "God satisfies the reasonable desires of his servants, giving them 'all things richly to enjoy' (1 Tim. 6:17), and 'satisfying the desire of every living thing' (Ps. 145:16)."

"Jehovah Is Merciful." v. 8

"Jehovah is merciful and gracious." This verse is a quotation from the wonderful divine name which the Lord gave to Moses, proclaiming: "Jehovah, Jehovah, a God merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and abundant in loving kindness and truth." (Ex. 34:6). This verse in Exodus is "the text, so to say, of this psalm." The Hebrew adjectives are intensive: "very compassionate and very gracious." "Slow to anger, and abundant in loving kindness." "Slow to anger" implies that God does not get angry. The wicked provoke him to righteous wrath, and in time our sins may rouse against us an anger which cannot be stayed; but that wrath is withheld as long as possible by our loving Father.

Our Sins Far Removed. v. 12.

"As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us." To the ancients, "east and west were the extreme points of known distance. It was in the temperate zone of the northern hemisphere that history began and civilization spread. Accordingly the stretch of ancient geography was wider between east and west than between north and south, and the ancient maps of the world were oblong. At the utmost limits, mountain pillars upheld the world, or the edge of its oval disc fell sheer into the waters of the nether deep upon which it floated. One can realize the wonder and relief of such a man as this writer, as his conscience follows his imagination across the whole enormous breadth of the world. There, where the mountains of the dawn or the sunset hardly break the skyline with their faint and shadowy ranges—there, over the edges of the flat earth were all things end—there, and no nearer, are his sins."—Rev. John Kelman, D. D.

Infinite Mercy

"Of all things far, I love the best
The distance from the east to west;
For by that space, and all within,
God's mercy parts me from my sin."

"I love, of deep things undefiled,
A father's pity for his child;
For by that depth, so far, so clear,
God pities all that faint and fear."

ROBISON PROBE

testified yesterday to gifts to Mr Robison. Jackson said he delivered a total of $610, representing contributions given him by cattlemen and his own refund check on the reappraisement fund. Judge Halley told of colecting $2,250 from Mr. Robison's friends in West Texas for the purpose of paying off a mortgage on the Robison home near Austin.

Joe G. Montague of Fort Stockton told the committee he had come to Austin in 1925 to help induce the legislature order a reappraisement of the public lands as a relief measure for West Texas cattlemen who had suffered severe reverses on account of drouth and following collapse of the market after the world war ended.

Objected to Actions

He said Mr. Robison had objected to being authorized to make the revaluations, but landowners insisted on his doing so in view of their experience with the reappraisement of 1913, when a committee did the work to the dissatisfaction of both the state and purchasers of land. He said this committee instead of decreasing the valuations, as the legislature intended they should do, raised practically all lands with the result the state had to take most of the acreage back, the purchasers being unable to pay the interest. It was to avoid a repitition of this that the legislature placed the revaluations in Mr. Robison's hands, he said.

Dr. Wooten Testifies

Dr. Joe S. Wooten, Robison's family physician for many years, told of the commissioner's serious illness in San Antonio and subsequent operation after he had been stricken while in the field revaluing the lands.

He asserted the hardships and exposure, together with his inability to adhere to a strict diet he had been placed on while doing the reappraising, was responsible for the illness that came near ending fatally.

Asked by attorneys for the respondent, Dr. Wooten stated he knew positively that Mr. Robison was not a "dope addict."

Objections of attorneys for the House against interrogations with reference to this phase of testimony was met by Dayton Moses, one of Mr. Robison's attorneys, with this statement:

"It has been circulated all over this state and among the members of this House, and strongly hinted at in the record of the investigating committee, a part of which has been read before this committee, that Mr. Robison is a dope addict, and we want to disprove it."

TEA COURTESY

Names of none on the official list were omitted.

"I believe records will reveal that on several similar occasions in previous years negresses have been extended courtesies in the White House. There is little reason for such irate discussion of Mrs. Hoover's party.

"I want it understood that I would not entertain a negro in my home, and I do not believe that the De Priest incident was anything more than an official courtesy."

John L. Vaughn, postmaster of this city, and former district chairman of the Republican party, is out of the city today, and could not be reached for an interview.

Jackson Buildings Face Slight Delay

Awaiting contractor's plans and assembling of materials, actual construction on five business structures at the corner of Broadway and Avenue Q will probably not start until the early part of next week, A. W. Jackson announced today.

Dr. M. C. Overton, who asserts the site for the proposed buildings was originally restricted for residence structures, was granted an injunction in 99th district court against Jackson several weeks ago, but the case was subsequently appealed by defendant's counsel, which resulted in a reversal. Later the plaintiff's counsel appealed for rehearing, but the motion was denied.

guards armed and gave up without a struggle. Hazelwood, Mills and Parker led the searchers a long chase through the thickets only to walk into the net at a railroad crossing a mile west of here.

This was Hazelwood's fourth attempted escape.

"I'll make it yet," he taunted one of the guards, "and the next time I'll be prepared for the same kind of argument you guards are. I'll talk to you in your own language."

Jones was caught 22 miles from Sweeny as the highway runs and was the sole toll of an elaborate fringe of guards who waited at key points throughout the night in a great semi-circle west of here.

His capture was effected at 3 a. m., today as he came slowly walking along the Hawkinsville-Bay City road. He lost no time putting his hands up and was promptly chained to a tree.

Five of the remaining 16 at liberty are believed to have gotten entirely out of this section.

Three of them ,those with fire arms, held up a party of negroes returning from a belated Juneteenth celebration near Straitons farm, and took their car. No trace of them has been found. Guards stationed at a railroad junction and at Bay City saw two men, one in convict garb on the blinds of the night Gulf Coast lines passenger train southbound about 10 p. m, but were unable to fire because of the danger to passengers.

AIR CAPITAL OF U. S. IS CONTESTED

HALF DOZEN CITIES OF U. S. CLAIM CENTER OF AVIATION

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Two powerful factors—consolidations and municipal rivalry—have brought the title of the nation's "air capital" to be disputed by half dozen cities during the last year.

Production schedules are being merged and factories relocated, some from east to west, others from west to east, according to several theories of distribution. The trend is still in progress and may cause a further change of the nation's chief aircraft production centers.

Cities Seek Aviation

The grouping of private capital is, to a definite degree, being counteracted by the ambition of cities to be known as aviation centers. Boards of municipalities, through their chambers of commerce or specially formed aviation boards, are offering attractive offers of land or money grants to obtain an aircraft or engine factory, or to establish an air line.

Figures of 1928, show that Wichita, Kansas, unquestionably took the lead last year so far as actual production is concerned. Wichita produced 927 planes, representing the total production credited to the state of Kansas as well.

New York Second

New York state is second with 857 units, but is first with an estimated total airplane value of $7,500,000 as compared with $3,000,000 for Wichita. New York's production, however, was scattered among three or four points.

In the rank of aircraft manufacturing states, the report shows Ohio is third with 816 planes; Missouri, fourth, with 360; Colorado, fifth, 341; Illinois, sixth, 268; Michigan, seventh, 181; and California, eighth, 180.

In estimated gross value of aircraft only, after New York as the leader the following states are ranked: Missouri, second, with $3,500,000; Kansas, and Michigan tied for third with $3,000,000 each; Ohio, fifth, $2,500,000; California, sixth, $1,500,000; Colorado, seventh, with $750,000; and Illinois, eighth, $500,000.

In engine production, New Jersey and Connecticut are predominant, with Michigan second, New York, third; and California, fourth.

Cities competing for recognition as aircraft centers are Boston, Bridgeport, Conn.; New York, Baltimore, Miami, Scranton, Pittsburgh, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, Dallas, Houston, Los Angeles and Seattle.

Aircraft manufacture during the world war developed largely along the Atlantic seaboard, with extension shortly afterward to the Pacific coast. In the experimental commercial period, from 1922 to 1927, a certain phenomenal production developed in the middle western states where natural conditions were favorable or where local capital was sympathetic.

ROTATION PROVES SUCCESS IN LYNN

(Special To The Journal)

TAHOKA, June 21.—J. E. Morgan who farms 160 acres of land near here, is setting forth some excellent examples in proper farming. He plants half of his land to feed and half to cotton, rotating the crops each year, and has been doing this for eight years. "I have a few acres that I planted to cotton year after year," he says, "and it didn't make near the yield that my cotton on old feed land did. I find, too, that my land doesn't blow nearly so much as it used to."

Mr. Morgan's cotton is a surplus crop, since he practically raises his living at home. He markets his feed through seven milk cows, a flock of chickens, and his hogs. Recently he sold 17 head of shoats from September littres for $300.

BROWNFIELD MEN VISIT IN TYLER

(Special to The Journal)

BROWNFIELD, June 21—W. A. Bell, Roy B. Davis, R. L. Bowers and J. E. Shelton are leaving today to attend the opening of a powdered milk plant at Tyler, Texas. The object of the visit is to undertake to secure information concerning the advisablity of establishing a cooling station at Brownfield in order to assist in supplying the needs of a milk plant which it is proposed to establish in one of the South Plains town. The committee will also visit other East Texas points for the purpose of informing themselves upon the advantages to be derived from home ownership of cheese plants and creameries. The members of the committee are expecting to investigate the situation in a most thorough manner as it is not desired to supplant the present sour cream market unless it is proven that a change in marketing methods will result in higher and better markets for our producers.

Lynn County's Pig Club Shows Growth

(Special To The Journal)

TAHOKA, June 21.—The Lynn county boys' pib club has grown to 44 members since its organization a little over amonth ago, according to R. E. Shaver, county agent. One boy, Carmen Morgan, has a pig which has grown 40 pounds in 28 days, and weighed 78 pounds at the age of three months. Each member of the pig club is raising at least one pure bred pig on a balanced ration of feed.

Measuring only six by eight and one-half inches, a piece of paper containing 22 lines in the poet Keat's handwriting, was recently sold in London for $14,000.

Gigantic Merger Of Food Firms Is Made

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Creation of a new $500,000,000 food company to merge the Fleischmann company, Royal Baking Powder company and E. W. Gillett company, Ltd., of Canada was announced today by J. P. Morgan and company.

The merger, to be effected through an exchange of stock, is the third arranged this week by Morgan and company.

The new company is considered in Wall Street as the nucleus of a giant food company consolidation.

In angwer to a call from 1916 Dixie Drive, Lubbock police were unable to apprehend an alleged peeper, who made his escape last night shortly after a frightened woman had reported to the officers.

The woman who reported the incident said that she observed the peeper across the street while she was watering her lawn.

THE BEST PURCHASE

For some time now we have been telling the discriminating real estate buyer about that property up on Q. at 804 and reminding you that for a medium sized purchase there is nothing in Lubbock as good as this.

At $3150 it most certainly does afford the buyer a chance to make some real money. The lot is 55 by 148 and will carry three small stores of economical construction that will pay a better rental rate than high priced realty closer in.

ing, embarrassed way which was agony to her!

"Of course you're to do whatever you like with the house. Throw out anything or everything, do it over to suit yourself, dear Nan—"

"He means the portrait, but he can't bring himself to say so in so many words," Nan interpreted drearily. "I shan't take it down. It's up to him—"

But he was going on, doggedly. "I want you to have exactly the kind of home you like. If you—don't like this house—"

"Oh, but I do!" Nan interrupted, her heart pounding instantly to the pain which dragged at his voice. He loved the house. She would suffer anything rather than uproot him.

"I thought perhaps . . . But I'll not pretend that I'm not glad and relieved that you like it," her husband confessed, his voice almost normal. "Don't hesitate to make any changes, though. I want it to be your home. . . . You can forget about me when you make your plans. I'll like anything you do. About my room—" He hesitated and Nan's heart plunged. "I'm afraid I've grown rather fond of the little guest room, as we still call it. If you'll permit me to share your bath—you're taking the big guest room, Curtis tells me—I'll promise always to leave it spick and span for you—"

Above the roaring of blood in her ears Nan heard Estelle's voice, as if from a great distance:

"A telephone call for you, Mr. Morgan. A lady. She says her name is Mrs. Nina Blackhull!—"

"Good Lord! Nina Blackhull!" John Curtis Morgan exclaimed incredulously. "I wonder if this means that she's on her stepson's side. Will you excuse me, Nan?"

WORLD'S WHEAT CROP TO BE LOW

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).—The Department of Agriculture estimated that exclusive of Russia and China a world wheat crop five per cent smaller than last year was to be expected for the 1929-1930 season.

This reduction, the department added, probably would more than offset the 1928-1929 carryover and "it seems likely that world market prices through the 1929-1930 season will average somewhat higher than they have through the 1928-1929 season."

The departments' summary of prospects was made up from seeding, winter killing and areas remaining for harvest up to June 12. The area to be harvested was expected to remain approximately the same as that of the past year, but higher crop forecasts reported to date were expected to be more than offset by lower yields in Canada, Argentina and some European countries.

LUFKIN, June 21 (AP)—Angelina county still is one of the most heavily wooded counties in the state, according to a recent survey, which showed only 60,000 acres under cultivation in the entire county area of 600,000 acres.

Last year sawmills in the county cut 18,000,000 board feet of lumber.

Worth More Than Thousand Dollars To Him He Says

"If You Had Seen Me The Day I Had Began Taking Orgatone You Wouldn't Recognize Me As The Same Man," Says Lubbock Farmer

"I have gained in weight and strength and if you had seen me the day I began taking Orgatone you wouldn't recognize me as the same man now," said J. D. Moss, residing on rural route 3, Lubbock, Texas, recently.

"For the past ten years," continued Mr. Moss, "I have been a constant sufferer from stomach and kidney disorder and I have certainly had an awful time with it. I kept going down until finally it looked like I was going to have t ogive up my work around the farm. I had to be very careful of what I would eat as the very lightest of foods would sometimes cause gas and indigestion. Owing to the condition of my kidneys I hardly knew what sleep was and more than half the time I was forced to get up three or four times during the night. I had awful pains in my back and no kind of medicine did me any good.

"I have taken two bottles of Orgatone and have never felt better in my life than I do right now, and I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for the good these two bottles have done me. My appetite is fine and I can eat and digest just anything I want. My kidneys don't bother me anymore and I sleep like a rock every night and my strength has increased until I can do any kind of work that comes to hand. Orgatone has done me so much good that I feel almost compelled to praise it, and I know several people taking it now on account of what it has done for me."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile preparation and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowens Drug Store, who are direct laboratory agents. Adv.

STOCKS AGAIN SOAR UPWARD

INCREASE IN BROKERS' LOANS DISREGARDED IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Disregarding an increase of $136,000,000 in brokers' loans, stock prices bounded upward at the opening of today's market. Brooklyn Union Gas, Baldwin Locomotive and Allied Chemical quickly advanced 3 points, National Biscuit 1 3-4 and Atchison 1 5-8. American Water Works fell back a point.

Some irregularity developed after the opening on selling inspired by fears of a flurry in call money rates.

The traditional selling on good news followed the announcement of a plan for a merger of tre Fleischmann company, Royal Baking Powder and E. W. Gillette, Royal yielding fractionally while Fleischmann fell back more than a point.

Bullish operations were again resumed in the Public Utility shares, Brooklyn Union Gas quickly running up more than 5 points to a new high at 211 1-4 while Electric Power & Light climbed 2 1-2 to 73 1-4, or just 30 points above the year's low.

Anaconda Copper was heavily bought, moving up 2 points to 114 in the first half hour. Baldwin extended its gain to more than 4 points and early gains of a point or so were recorded by International Telephone, New York Central, International Combustion and Mexican Seaboard.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with cables unchanged at $4.84 7-8.

COTTON PRICES QUIET IN SOUTH

NEW ORLEANS, June 21 (AP).—The cotton market opened quiet and a shade easier. First trades showed losses of 3 points and prices eased a few points additional on selling induced by lower cables and fair weather. October traded off to 18.54, and December 18.66, or 3 to 6 points under yesterday's close. Towards the end of the first hour the market was steadier and prices rallied moderately. October recovered to 18.59 and December 18.74, or 5 to 8 points up from the lows and 2 points over yesterday's close.

The market ruled very quiet all morning there being an apparent disposition to hold off until final liquidation of the July position is completed. The last notice day for that delivery is June 25. July gained an additional point, selling up to 18.55 and at mid-session the market was quiet and about parallel with yesterday's close.

OPENING IS MADE WITH DECLINE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 1 to 5 points in response to lower cables and favorable weather reports. There was further July liquidation and switching to later months, and the July discount under October widened to about 40 points during early trading. Offerings of later months were comparatively light, and after showing net declines of about 3 to 8 points with July selling off to 18.25 and December to 18.82 the market steadied on covering. At the end of the first half hour prices were within a point or two of yesterday's close.

Tradign continued quiet later and prices fluctuated within a narrow range. Except for further switching from July to later deliveries, there was no particular trading feature but the market held fairly steady with a little covering promoted by the failure of favorable weather reports to inspire more active selling. At midday, the market was dull at net declines of about 2 to 5 points.

PAINFUL EFFECTS OF CONSTIPATION

A Very Troublesome Condition Relieved By the Help of Black-Draught.

Huntington, W. Va.—Mrs. Ida Perry, 1715 Charleston Avenue, this city, says:

"Sometimes I suffer from indigestion, and I have found that quick relief follows a dose of Black-Draught. This medicine is also excellent for constipation, and I am glad to recommend it.

"All last winter, I suffered from pains in my legs and across my back. I did not sleep well at all, and was very nervous. I could scarcely walk, and was unable to climb up and down the steps. I was almost past going, and it took all my strength to get around. My housework was a great care, and I did not feel equal to it.

"I was in a condition that had been coming on me for a long time before I knew it. My trouble was from absorbed poisons, but I did not realize it until I was in actual pain.

"I found Black-Draught a great help in getting rid of this trouble. I use it frequently. I feel lots better after I have taken Black-Draught."

REGULATION OF TEXAS BUILDING AND LOAN WORK CHANGED IN SENATE BILL

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 21—Regulation of Texas building and loan associations carried on during the past two years under direction of the board of insurance commissioners was shifted to the banking commissioner through passage of a bill by Senator Edgar Witt, Waco.

As originally prepared, the bill left control of the building and loan business with the insurance department, but amendment changing the administrative policy was adopted.

The bill provides that before a charter to do business is issued, the banking commissioner shall ascertain whether the minimum capital required has been paid into the proposed company's treasury and whether the character of incorporators deserves public confidence.

Senator Pink L. Parrish, Lubbock, sought to remove jurisdiction in mandamus proceedings arising from failure to obtain a charter from Travis county to the county where the company proposed to enter business. The move was defeated.

He likewise failed to strike out a section of the bill which prohibited circulation of false statements of the financial condition of building and loan associations.

"WEE WILLIE" DOODY AGAIN ON RAGE

TWO MORE SHOOTINGS CHALKED UP AGAINST CHICAGO GUNMAN; TWO SERIOUSLY HURT

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 21—"Wee Willie" Doody, cop hater and desperado treading a trail paralleling the road the dashing "Terrible Tommy" O'Connor trod, had two more shootings to answer for today.

Already hunted for the wounding of T. L. Jackson, postal inspector, for the killing of Charles Levy, chief of police of Berwyn, and for the shoot-dead last Tuesday of Leon Raymond, druggist, Doody today was sought for the serious wounding of a restaurant owner and a policeman.

Last night a gunman supposedly intending robbery entered the restaurant of Milton Valsouopolis on the South Side. As Valsouopolis approached him, the desperado whipped out two pistols and fired. Valsouopolis stumbled forward and grappled with his assailant, as a customer seized him from the back. When the customer went out to seek a policeman, the gunman wrenched himself free and fled, pausing in the doorway to fire several more shots at Valsouopolis. He fled in an automobile.

An hour later a man answering Doody's description entered the drug store of George Denbo on the Northwest Side and stole $35.

As the robber sped away, Denbo ran out and called to Police Sergeant Clarence Falk, who was with his motorcycle across the street. Falk passed the car within a mile.

"I surrender," the fugitive announced, stepping out of the car at Falk's command.

As the policeman fumbled with his holster, the gunman whipped out a pistol, struck Falk over the left ear with its butt and fired two shots, one of which struck Falk in the back.

Several squads of police and a squad of federal agents have been assigned to search for Doody.

OHIO MURDER

vein with my pocket knife."

After he was convinced the girl was dead, Dr. Snook said he "proceeded to pick up the things that had been scattered during the struggle and hurriedly left the scene of the struggle, leaving her body at that point."

Dr. Snook said he went home, tossing the girl's handbag in the Scioto river as he drove over a bridge. The gun, he said, was not in the purse.

Wanted Mind Clear

The confession was made early yesterday afternoon, but Prosecutor Chester, following an agreement he said he made with Snook, did not give it his official announcement until midnight. This, he explained was to permit Snook to arrange in his mind the facts for an interview at midnight with press representatives.

Snook's confession sets out details of the alleged three-year friendship between the girl and the man she first met as her class room instructor. Earlier in the investigation, police uncovered the fact that Snook and the girl had maintained a room in a down town apartment house where they went frequently under the guise of man and wife. Snook admitted this readily. Dr. Snook made it clear, however, that his association with Miss Hix was not "a love affair in any sense of the word," but that it was merely a "pleasant arrangement." He helped defray her university expenses and she was "a good companion," he said.

Two salient points precipitated the confession—one the wringing from Snook of the admission that he had taken the key to their room from the girl's key ring at the scene of the murder and the other coming just at the peak of the questions about the key, a report from Dr. C. E. Long, chemist, that stains on the professor's car and clothing had been established as blood marks.

Wilting under the cross fire of questions until he admitted that he "took the key from the body," Snook was on the verge of collapse when Chief French's secretary brought in the report. Snook paled, and a few minutes later, the prosecutor said, he was sobbing. Thereafter he talked freely and seeming with a feeling of relief.

ABERNATHY'S BAND ACTIVE

THIRTY-PIECE MUSICAL ORGANIZATION IS BUSY IN WORK

(Special To The Journal)

ABERNATHY, June 21—Abernathy's 30 piece band, directed by C. W. Beene, local lawyer, has been attracting considerable notice in West Texas during the past few months, and is being called on almost weekly to perform at various towns of this section. During the past two weeks the band has played in Tahoka at the inauguration of that city's white way, at Idalou at the opening of a cheese factory, and is scheduled to play at a Plainview affair this week. It also played at the recent district WTCC convention at Tahoka.

Elton Beene, 12, son of the director, has recently returned from Denver, where he represented the state of Texas in the cornet contest of the national band contests. Young Beene has the distinction of being the youngest boy ever to win a state championship of this kind. Although the cornet is his favorite instrument, he can play creditably five other instruments.

Eight-Year-Old Plays

Another member of the Beene family, eight-year-old Rex Beene, claims the distinction of being the youngest snare drummer in this section and furnishes the drum music for the entire band, alone.

Other members of the band who are greatly in demand for their solo work are Phillip Sterrett, base; Arno Struve, trombone, and Edwin Crow, baritone.

This little band was organized four years ago and is capable of playing much difficult classical music.

OIL NEWS NOTES

SAN ANGELO, June 21 (AP)—Production of 200 barrels of oil daily in regular flows from 1,625 feet today led oil observers to express belief that Taylor-Link company's No. 1 University had opened a new pool, Pecos county's fourth, 18 miles west of the Yates field.

The Humble company announced laying of a pipe line will begin immediately, and the oil stored in a 5,000 barrel tank until the line is completed.

Tests showed the oil to be of 30.7 gravity, corrected, worth 93 cents a barrell. A second well, a 600 foot south offset to the discovery well, is to be drilled. No. 1 is 330 feet out of the southeast corner of section 20, block 16.

WICHITA, Kas., June 21 (AP)—Production had been found in two more Sedgwick county wells today.

Mariand, Gypey and Bu-Vi-Bar, at the No. 6 Corr in the Wright pool prepared to swab after finding a hole full of oil at 3,375 feet, in the Wilcox sand. The well, in section 1-26-1-W, is a southo ffset to the No. 1 Creson and is rated at 800 barrels.

Gypsy's No. 3 Hamant, NW SW 14-26-2E, had 500 feet of oil in the hole after topping the Wilcox at 3,200 feet.

It is a south offset to the No. 2 Hamant, now making 350 barrels natural.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21 (AP)—Output of the second producing oil well in the Oklahoma City field, the Sinclair Oil and Gas company's number 1 Stamper, in NE SW NW 30-11-2 W, was 2,391 barrels in the 24 hours ended at 7 a. m. today and the well continued to flow at more than 100 barrels hourly. Total depth was 6,456 feet. Drilling, halted last night was resumed.

OKLAHOMA CITY: Sinclair and Amerada companies' No. 1 Kinter, the gasoline well, in NWC S E 30-11-2 W, Oklahoma City pool, dropped its production to 835 barrels of casinghead gasoline in the past 24 hours. The previous 24 hour output was 1,467 barrels. The decline was attributed to an increase of pressure, which now is around 2,100 pounds. Sinclair officials were expected here today to decide the future of this well.

KIWANIANS PLAN AFFAIR MONDAY

"Zero Hour", upon opening night of convention of Kiwanis International at Milwaukee, will be observed by the local club at the Hotel Lubbock next Monday evening, starting at 8 o'clock, it was announced today.

The observance will be occasion for welcoming of wives and lady friends of the Kiwanians, and attendance of members is obligatory, according to club officials.

The "Zero Hour" program will eliminate the regular weekly luncheon next Thursday.

Following the banquet, there will be special music, and a speaker will be selected.

Dean A. H. Leidigh, president of the club, and Claude Burrus, secretary, will be delegates of the local club to the international convention.
