

NEW ON WELLINGTON'S SKYLINE

Just completed for the 1961 wheat crop are these elevator tanks of Cook Grain and Storage Company. They stand 63 feet high and are 15 feet in diameter. Besides the large tanks, there are two small tanks, one of which is shown here. The new office building is at left, and at extreme right are the company's storage tanks for liquid fertilizer. The elevator is located on Eighth Street at the Denver railway.

More than 100 Cars of Wheat Now Harvested

Never has Collingsworth county harvested a wheat crop of better quality, and although rain stopped cutting abruptly as the week end started, approximately 104 cars had been cut to that time.

For the county as a whole the crop is less than half out. Many yields are equaling those of last year, and up to 50 bushels per acre are reported.

Long-time buyers in this section say they do not remember wheat of better quality grown here. Until the rain started, wheat was testing from 61 to 64 and 65.

After the initial cutting, the moisture content dropped, and protein content is good, about 12.

Fifty-bushel wheat has been reported from the John Sherman farm in the Arlie community. This is on irrigated land.

Ed Crowder of Dodson estimated that from 60 to 65 per cent of the wheat in that area is harvested. Slow rains and cloudy weather has caused the moisture to swell the grain, but by the time fields are dry enough to get into with combines, it is believed the grain also will be dried out.

Around Wellington it is harder to estimate the percent of

Rain to Five Inches Drenches County; Some Hail Damage

Rain that measured up to five inches in spots drenched the county during the week end, and hail heavily damaged wheat in a narrow belt extending from west to east a few miles north of Salt Fork River.

Much of the small cotton over the county was washed out or covered up by the water.

Little if any wheat had been cut in the hail-damaged area, north of Marella, in the Samnorwood and Lutie areas.

Among those reporting losses were Albert Oldham, Earl Latham, Monty Mitchell, H. C. Whitfield, Doyle Glazner, Jack Lowry, Bill James, Dick Beasley, A. M. Kindrick and Austin Deger.

Another hail report came from south of Dodson, where irrigated wheat on the L. C. Hill farm, worked by Duard Luck, was reported from 65 to 70 per cent damaged.

High wind also damaged cotton and grain in these areas. The wind gauge at Lutie store, which records up to 60 miles per hour, recorded gusts to that figure several times during the rain Friday night. Two inches of rain was measured, Mrs. Ernest Rountree said.

Austin Deger reported that he received 5 inches of rain, and added that in the 40 years he had lived in the community, his land had never washed so badly.

Joe Alex Coleman, county road administrator, reported

Marian Airpark Pool Events Re-scheduled

A re-scheduling of events at Marian Airpark Pool was announced this week by Frank Lindsey, manager.

Penny Day will be held Saturday, June 10, with events as originally scheduled. Starting time is 2 p.m. when 1000 pennies will be thrown in the pool and those who get the money will keep it.

There will be additional prizes from merchants.

Penny Day was postponed from Saturday, June 3 on account of rain.

Free swimming lessons will start Monday, June 19, Lindsey said. These were postponed due to Vacation Bible schools at the churches.

There will be four classes: beginners, taught by Mrs. Frank Lindsey; intermediates, and advanced classes, taught by Lindsey, and a diving class taught by Jennifer Singley.

Glynn Elbert and Janice Wood will assist.

Junior life guard lessons will be announced, and if there is enough demand, senior life saving will be offered.

Life guards were announced by Lindsey, and these will include Mrs. Lindsey and Mrs. Tubal Cain. Lindsey will also act as life guard, and Bobby Sanford will assist part time.

Ladies night will be each Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m., Lindsey said.

Rev. Weir to Sudan

Methodist Pastors Named for County

The pastor of one Methodist church in the county is returning for the coming year, but three others are going to new assignments, the reading of appointments at the Northwest Texas Conference in Lubbock revealed.

The Rev. Frank Weir, pastor of First Methodist Church, goes to Sudan, a church in the rich farming country of the south Plains. Succeeding him here is the Rev. Davis Edens, who comes from Bovina.

The Rev. L. D. Cleveland, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, goes to Grassland, near Post, and coming to the church is the Rev. J. W. Read.

The Rev. J. F. Michael, pastor of Dodson and Kelley churches, returns to that appointment.

The Dozier Church will have as pastor the Rev. C. C. Lamb. He will also serve the Lela and Heald churches in Wheeler county and live in Shamrock.

Rev. Weir, active in civic as well as church work here, is the president-elect of Wellington Rotary Club, and president of Marian Golf Club. He is a past Commissioner of Little League Baseball and a former president of the Camp Fire Girls Council.

Mrs. Weir besides her church activities, is one of the town's outstanding musicians and teaches organ. She is a member of the Wellington Music Club and 1924 Study Club.

The Rev. and Mrs. Edens also have been active in civic work in Bovina. They have four children, all pre-teens. They will arrive here this week.

Mrs. LeDerer III in Dallas

Mrs. Fred LeDerer is in Dallas, following an eye hemorrhage she suffered recently.

Mrs. LeDerer was hospitalized for three days and is now at the home of a niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eikenburg.

She is to learn within the next day or two what additional treatment will be required, she told Mrs. Lottie Brock in a telephone conversation Monday evening.

Lucille Zeck Hoffert

City Woman Leaves to Resume Life in Iran

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hoffert, with their two children, Mark 8, and Juliana 6, leave here Saturday, June 10, to return to Isfahan, Iran, which will be their home for the next two years.

They have been on leave in the United States since April, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Zeck here, and Hoffert's family at Farley, N. M.

For the last two years they were stationed in Kerman, transferred to Isfahan, long known as one of the fabled cities of the Middle East, only two months before they returned home.

They will fly and will stop in Paris for two days en route to Isfahan.

The Hofferts see more of the real Iran—the ancient kingdom of Persia—than most, as Hoffert, a State Department employee, is assigned as advisor to the Chief General of Agriculture, dealing with everything from irrigation to economic problems in this country.

"It is certainly an experience you can get only through living with native people," Lucille Hoffert says. "Tourists would never see it. It is not unpleasant—but I certainly wouldn't change life in the United States for permanent life over there."

Agriculture in Iran is "very primitive according to our standards. They still plow with oxen and a wooden plow," she says, but points out that comparisons between Iran and the United States are hardly fair.

"In most areas, our tractors wouldn't be practical," she said.

There are several servants in her household—but her days are full. For one thing, even in Isfahan, one of the principal cities, she must teach her own children, using the Calvert method, a home-study school devised many years ago for families living outside the United States.

"I guess I'm doing all right, when the children enrolled at

Core Drilling Shows Little Gyp Possible

Core drilling at the proposed Little Gyp dam site on Salt Fork, in the west edge of the county, has been completed and according to the information available through Bureau of Reclamation sources, this is the only site in the county explored so far where dam construction seems feasible.

The drilling notes were made available last week to John Coleman, president of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, by John C. Thompson, assistant regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation.

No. 1 Texas Booster, Boyce House, Due

Boyce House, called "Texas' No. 1 Booster" by Life Magazine, will address a joint meeting of the Wellington Rotary Club and Kiwanis Club at the former's luncheon meeting on Tuesday, June 13, Jack Sanford, Rotary President, has announced.

House has written more books about Texas and probably has made more speeches about the state than any other man.

Of his 17 books, the most popular is "I Give You Texas," 22 printings, a total of 200,000 copies. He has had articles in The Saturday Evening Post, writes a daily humor feature and a weekly column and spent four months in Hollywood helping to write "Boom Town" starring Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr.

House is the author of several historical books, including "Were You in Ranger?" (an account of a great oil boom) and "City of Flaming Adventure, the Chronicle of San Antonio." His poems are in 20 anthologies and in textbooks of Southwestern literature.

Carl Sandburg said, of House's writing, "That peculiar blend of valor and swagger which is Texas" and Bennett Cerf declared "Boyce House's tall tales are a Texas tradition."

He is executive vice president of the Texas Consumer Finance Association with headquarters in Dallas. Preceding his address on Texas humor and philosophy, a short motion picture, "The Littlest Giant," an animated cartoon in technicolor, will be shown.

Three Hurt as Car Hits Tree

Three out of town visitors were treated in St. Joseph's Hospital when the car in which they were riding went out of control at the intersection of Highways 83 and 203 and struck a tree. The party was only three miles from its destination when the accident occurred about 10 p.m. Wednesday, May 31.

The injured were Mrs. S. E. Conway, Jr., of Fort Worth, who was driving; her daughter, Karen, 4; and her father-in-law, S. E. Conway Sr., of San Angelo. Mrs. Conway's other two children, Mickie, 6, and Ronny, 2, were uninjured.

The group was coming here to visit in the home of Mrs. Conway's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Masten.

Mr. Conway, the most seriously injured, had a broken ankle, broken arm and several broken ribs, according to Mrs. Masten. He is still under treatment in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mrs. Conway was treated for cuts on her leg and mouth injuries, while Karen was hospitalized for a broken right collar bone, cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Conway said the bright lights of a car on the curve blinded her.

The accident was investigated by Highway Patrolmen and members of the Sheriff's Department.

R. Kennedy on Integration

Desegregation of the South by executive order and court ukase is to continue if the latest move by Attorney General Robert Kennedy is any indication. The Attorney General seems to believe that the Interstate Commerce is convertible into an Integration Commerce Commission. At least he appeals to the ICC for an order to all rail and bus terminals to force desegregation of eating places.

There has been no law of Congress on this matter. There is no question of equal treatment of patrons of these lunch facilities. But Attorney General Kennedy is bent upon forcing the result, regardless of the methods.

At the same time, President Kennedy is appealing to everybody to unite behind him as he undertakes to deal with the world. If there be a color of legality in the demand made by the Attorney General of the ICC, there can be no valid claim of legality in his supplying people from his staff to accompany the "freedom riders" as they tour the South inciting one less of the methods.

If The News were in the least degree persuaded that these actions of the Kennedys are motivated by keen conscience and high humanitarian objectives, it would be possible in some measure to respect all too clearly that the whole immediate aim is to gather votes in New York, Illinois, Michigan and Pennsylvania, where Negroes are congregating in great numbers.

The professed desire of the integrationists is to cultivate good will, mutual respect and brotherly love. Good will undertakings which result in a man-to-man battle, mutual respect demanded by intruding at a luncheon table, brotherly love trailed across the country by government encouraged riots do not recommend themselves as either genuine or effective.

Reconstruction II is as unworthy in its spirit as was Reconstruction I. It can be said, as to Reconstruction I, that it was the sputtering out of wartime hatred. But Reconstruction II is a cold-blooded calculating search for votes. Before it is over, it may well lose more votes than it finds. The election of John Tower was in nowise hindered by the Kennedy administration's deliberate incitement in the Old South.

Reconstruction II is so unnecessary. Dallas is proof that time and good sense can create and cement understanding between the Negro and the white man. Dallas doesn't want arrogance and distrust and ill will to wipe out the really amazing progress made here in the last 25 or 30 years. The colored citizen of Dallas is proving his worth, his worthiness and his willingness to earn respect instead of demanding it. That is so appealing and so convincing that it will and ought to win. Only the bitterness of Reconstruction II can retard or defeat it.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where Castro and some agents of our management team have been dickering like baseball clubs on a people-trading deal.

My scrouploose neighbor says now that an international mortals market has been opened, we ought to cash in on same.

Like for instance, when some foreign country sends us a requisition for $50 million, we could make a big profit on the deal by not filling the order unless they let us include about 50 Harvards in the shipment.

I see where the treasury is talking about printing our money in technicolor, so people who have not learned to read can tell a $50 bill from a $1 bill, etc.

My color-blind neighbor says he don't mind cooperating with progress, but doubts that colored money will be any more popular, durable or tax-resistant than the old conservative kind.

Says, though, if the psychospenders are going to keep on inciting inflation, this decorator color money will make prettier wallpaper.

Some people are worrying about what if we get too many electronic brains built, so there is unemployment among them and they start writing novels in their spare time.

But my book-shook neighbor says he reckons a robot novelist would be just like the cheaper, homemade kind, and would write about what its mind mostly dwells on.

Says, being neutral in gender, the robot writers might not harp so much on informal sex, but, being modern, would likely turn out dismal tales about blown fuses and wayward transistors.

I see where there is a project to build fallout shelters close to some of our more important Federal buildings around over the country.

Seems it is figured that in case civilization gets atomized, there will be 12,000 bureaucrats preserved for the purpose of starting a new race of spenders.

Which shows very immature, CIA-type planning, on account of a bureaucrat without a remuda of taxpayers would be as loose-ended as a termite without a house.

My Biblist neighbor says he notes it said that Federal aid to church-run schools is unconstitutional, but he can't find where the Constitution even mentions churches.

Says there is a King's-X on Religion in this document, but all churches and religion are not necessarily in the same league these days.

Still, he claims even the most modernized church ought to be able to sandwich some religion into their program, say, maybe in between the building projects and the eating socials.

I note there is a drive on in Washington to make the income tax mine yield more, by crawfishing on our deductibles.

Appears our world-fixers keep running short of money and repent they ever let a dollar change hands without taking their cut, and now aim to atone for this sin.

My dutiful neighbor says a man will owe it to his family to quit working and go on food stamps if Congress puckerers our tax loopholes any more.

I note that since Conservatism has got to be one of the Top Ten Sins, it's said that some college students are commencing to dabble in it.

But my youth expert neighbor says most of them are not really converted to this anti-social doctrine; they just have the youthful urge to be different, and Conservatism is pretty different these days.

Says they will fall in line as good second-generation Liberals as soon as they catch

NEWS LETTER from Congressman WALTER ROGERS

STRIKES AND THE MISSILE PROGRAM

I have received a great deal of mail protesting the recent strike activities at a missile center. The issue involved photographers who have the job of making pictures with relation to the missile program that are vitally essential to the scientists engaged in missile work.

Many people were astounded that a strike or threatened strike could be possible at any installation engaged in activities related to our missile or outer space programs, and they should have been. Many thought these to be government operations. Hence, they concluded that a strike would be in violation of the law because it was against the government.

The latter would be true provided the former were correct. The fact is that these operations are not government operations in the sense of the word that a strike would be in violation of the law. These programs could be completely government operated and controlled. However, in the interest of preserving the free enterprise system, the government contracts these several activities with private enterprise firms.

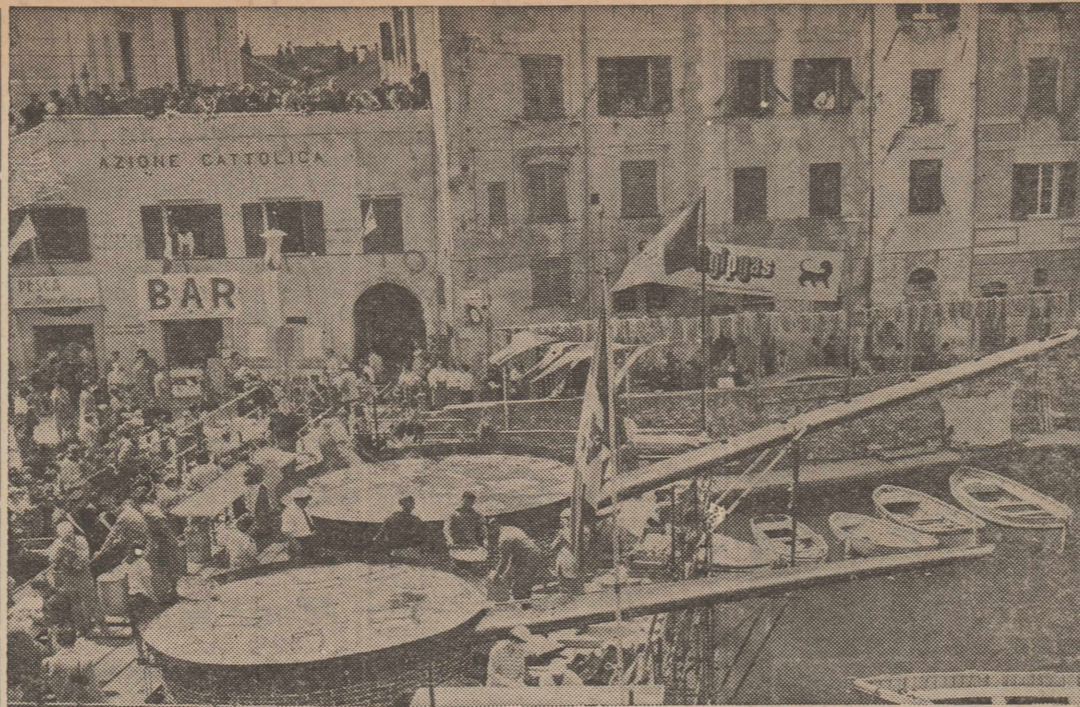

This removes it from a strictly government operation. Hence, in the literal sense of the word, a strike in such a case is a strike against the employer rather than against the government.

This revelation will no doubt alarm many, and would be most alarming if it were not for other provisions of the law, to-wit: the Labor Management Relations Act of 1947 (the Taft-Hartley Act). Under this Act, provision is made for the President of the United States to initiate proceedings to enjoin a strike or lockout. This power under the Taft-Hartley Act would, no doubt, have been exercised by the President of the United States in the recent controversy concerning the missile program if the matter had not been settled forthwith.

There has been a great controversy in the past as to whether or not this power of the President is unconstitutional and whether or not the Taft-Hartley Act was intended to apply only to an industry-wide strike or a strike involving a substantial portion of the operations of an industry, speaking numerically or percentage wise.

At the present time, these two matters have been settled by a decision of a New York Federal Court wherein these two questions and others were at issue. In that case, the industry in question was the Atomic Energy Commission and involved the American Locomotive Company under contract with the AEC for the production of certain items used

The decision was written by Chief Judge Knight of the United States District Court for the Western District of New York, and an application for a Writ of Certiorari to the United States Supreme Court was denied. This simply means that the Supreme Court was not at issue with the findings in the case, and hence, refused to review it. In the decision, Judge Knight made several statements which would be good to remember. In one instance, he said, "The strike in effect is a strike against instance, he stated as follows: "This is far from an ordinary controversy. It seems unthinkable that a strike in a plant producing for the government items now vitally necessary to the defense of this country and the security of its people, should be permitted to continue."

The missile program, the outer space program, the atomic energy program and other programs of this nature that are being primarily financed by the Federal government in order to insure the best interests, the safety and the welfare of this country, can and should be worked and developed in full cooperation and conjunction with the basic concepts of our free enterprise system. However, it would be good to note that abuses in the development of these programs by either labor or management or both would provide fuel for the fire of those who would like to see the government take over all operations completely and operate them directly.

It would seem to be much better for both labor and management to use the utmost discretion in their operations concerning these activities, to the end that neither jeopardizes the free enterprise system.

One protects the fertility of your land, and neither wind nor water can take it from you. The other protects the fruits of your labors. As long as your money is intrusted to this bank, it cannot be lost.

Junior Music Club Organizational Meeting Held in John Holton Home

An organizational meeting to form a Junior Music Club occurred June 3 in the home of Mrs. John Holton. One of the aims of the Wellington Federated Music Club is to encourage young musicians. To sponsor this junior music organization is a realization of this objective.

Mrs. Hiram Cudd, first district secretary, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, welcomed the guests and expressed appreciation to them for their keen interest in the field of music.

First district president, Mrs. B. M. Sims, explained briefly the role of a junior club, stating that the future of music in America is in the hands of our youth; one purpose of the junior division is to cultivate courteous and appreciative audiences as well as to perform before others.

Mrs. Tubal Cain directed a lecture forum to orientate the potential members on the scope of objective and purposes of the new club. Mrs. L. W. Wells, first district rural music chairman, gave a resume of the choral activities of the Quail Girls Chorus during the biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs in Kansas City. This group had sung in combined chorus under the direction of Dr. Albert Stewart, Purdue University. Recordings of the well-known Purdue Varsity Glee Club were enjoyed by all in attendance. Dr. Stewart had sent this and many other choice items voluntarily to Mrs. Wells and her chorus.

From the new junior membership one vocal ensemble of high school freshman girls is receiving creative direction from Mrs. Jack Davis and Mrs. Cudd. Other guided instructions planned are for more vocal ensembles as well as instrumental solos and ensembles, group study of music, a listeners group that included special television productions and chosen records.

Decorations for this "cocktail" were a colorful teenage couple dressed in black, red and white atop a spinning record. Mrs. Bernice Welch, president of the Wellington Federated Music Club, served the frosted beverage in decorative cups that coordinated with the centerpieces. Favors were dagger bookmarks imprinted with a gold piano. Garden flowers were used in the entertaining rooms.

Guests registered on a simulated record whose red label bore information pertinent to the event placed in commercial sequence. Those attending were Linda Karnes, Susan Sullivan, Frances Hill, Judi Bailey, Judy Crawford, Joyce Holton, Frances Warrick, Karen Richardson, Sylvia McQueary, Carol Blain, Mary Graham, Cheryl Wilson, Aleta Owens, Andrea Carter, Vicki Glenn, Elaine Yarbrough, Karen Childress, and Linda Holton.

The next meeting is scheduled for June 24 when officers are to be elected and the bylaws proposed.

Mrs. William E. Green

Gwendolyn Davis Weds W. E. Green in Ceremony here Saturday Evening

Miss Gwendolyn Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Davis, was married to William E. Green of Snyder in a ceremony performed in First Baptist Church Saturday, June 3, at five thirty o'clock.

The bridegroom is the son of Henry M. Green of Stephenville.

The Rev. Howard Jones, pastor of Pierce Street Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony. Organ selections were presented by Mrs. Truman Estes, who also accompanied Mrs. Glenn Hickey, vocalist.

Palm fronds formed the background for the ceremony, while standing baskets held arrangements of white stock and gladioli. Four candelabra holding lighted tapers completed the altar decorations, and lighted tapers also marked the pews along the bride's aisle.

Mr. Davis gave his daughter in marriage.

Her wedding gown was of white silk organza and lace. The lace bodice was made with a square scalloped neckline and short sleeves. Pearls and iridescent sequins accented the bodice. Lace formed panels at each side of the skirt, and was gathered into a bustle effect in the back. The bouffant skirt was full length and extended into a chapel train. A tiara of pearls and sequins held her finger-tip veil, and she carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias and white carnations.

Mrs. John Boyer of Houston was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Jean Woolbright of Friona and Miss Alma Ruth Love of Terrell. They wore powder blue street length dresses fashioned with rounded necklines, cap sleeves and full skirts. Their colonial bouquets were of white carnations tied with blue ribbon. LaWanda Wheeler of Amarillo, niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

Odis Claxton of Lubbock was the best man and ushers were Kenneth Worsham of Trent, Gary Zook of Olney and Dan Prewitt of Snyder.

Lighting the candles were Mike Wheeler of Amarillo, nephew of the bride, and Dan Prewitt.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Davis wore a pastel blue silk organza dress with blue accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were hosts at the reception, held in the church parlor.

Mrs. J. W. Miller of Princeton, and Mrs. J. C. Wheeler of Amarillo, sisters of the bride, served the guests, and Mrs. Jack Parker of Lubbock was at the guest register.

As the couple left on their wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride wore a three-piece suit-dress of orchid and white knit, with black patent accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias.

After June 10, the couple will be at home at 1916 Coleman, Snyder.

Both the bride and the bridegroom teach in the Snyder schools, she teaching English and he instructing in instrumental music. Mrs. Green was graduated from Wellington high school and West Texas State College. She formerly was employed by The Amarillo Citizen. The bridegroom is a graduate of Shamrock high school and McMurry College, Abilene. He formerly taught in Lamesa.

Henards Tour Southern States

Mr. and Mrs. John Henard returned home last week after a two weeks vacation trip to Florida and through several southern states. They were accompanied by Mrs. Henard's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vaughn of Amarillo.

One of their first stops of interest was at Longview, where they visited the Le Torneau factory after which they continued on into Louisiana, visiting several points of interest there and in the states of Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia. In Florida they followed the coast line much of the time, taking a boat ride at Tarpon Bay near Tampa. They also visited the Cypress Gardens, Silver Springs, and the many interesting places in the St. Augustine area.

In Alabama they visited the Bellingrath Gardens, and in passing through Montgomery, they missed the recent riot by only a half hour, passing by the church where the crowd was already gathering.

Camp Kiowa Activity Gets Under Way

Sunday, June 4 was opening day at Camp Kiowa, the Adobe Walls Council Boy Scout Camp near Canadian.

Some 241 Scouts and leaders from all 15 counties of the Council moved into the camp for a full week of activities. Bob Curry, Council camping and activities chairman, has announced that this is the largest opening week attendance ever recorded for the camp. Facilities are being extended to the maximum in order to take care of this group. The camp is literally "bursting at the seams," but a camp staff of 21 adults and older boys has been trained to take care of the large attendance.

While at camp, Scouts will enjoy the facilities offered at the waterfront. Swimming and life saving will be taught to all Scouts. The Council owns boats and canoes, and classes will be held in their proper usage. The Council is fortunate in having a 30-acre lake on the camp property, and this lake is used extensively for all water front activities.

Other activities at the camp include Scouts participating at the rifle range, archery range, Scoutcraft areas, and nature areas. Scouts will be fed in an improved dining hall facility, and the Council employs two full-time cooks for this purpose.

A new development at Kiowa this year is the outpost camp which is located some two miles from the main camp and the activities at this camp will center around instruction in outdoor cooking procedures.

Camp Kiowa will be in constant operation for the next six weeks with new groups moving into the camp each Sunday afternoon. Visitors and guests are cordially invited to come to the camp on Friday evening and stay for the camp fire which is held at 8:00 p.m. Visitors will be served the evening meal at 6:00 p.m.

Womble Attacks Power of Omnibus Farm Bill

The unprecedented concentration of power over the destiny of American agriculture, in the hands of the secretary of agriculture if the proposed Omnibus farm bill passes was attacked by D. M. Womble of Morse in a discussion with farmers here Thursday night, June 1.

Womble, district director for the Texas Farm Bureau from District 1, spoke to a crowd of approximately 60.

"This bill would give the secretary of agriculture discretionary power to undertake any and all types of program for fixing farm prices and controlling farm prices," he told the group.

This discretionary authority, Womble declared, includes the power to:

Develop control programs for every agricultural commodity produced in the United States; Select base periods; select quotas in terms of acres, or production units for cows, sows or hens; or commodity units (pounds, bushels or bales);

Establish minimum allotments; restrict voting eligibility by granting exemptions or establishing non-commercial areas;

Set support prices through loans, purchases and direct payments at any level from 0 to 90 per cent of parity, with nothing selling over 90 per cent of parity;

Limit the amount of payments that may be made to any individual producer;

Provide for the transfer of marketing quotas by sale or other means and establish conditions of eligibility for price supports.

Womble pointed out that the Omnibus farm bill calls for commodity committeemen to advise the secretary of agriculture on the various commodities, but he would not have to take their advice.

"The basic issue is: Are we going to have a government-planned, licensed and regimented agriculture run from Washington, or are we going to solve our farm problem in a way that will preserve freedom and increase opportunity for farmers to earn and get high per-family net income?" the Farm Bureau director emphasized in closing his talk.

Drivers Escape in Accident

Both drivers escaped injury when the 1960 Chevrolet driven by Clarence Lee Westfall of Samnorwood crashed into the rear of the 1953 Plymouth driven by V. H. Lindsey as the latter started to turn into his driveway a short distance north of Wellington, Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Hodge reported.

The accident occurred Friday morning. Both vehicles were traveling north, with Westfall attempting to pass Lindsey, according to the deputy sheriff.

Marks on the pavement showed the Westfall car skidded approximately 100 feet, Hodge reported. There was considerable damage to both vehicles.

Family Type Shows Featured For Summer

In the summer vacation season ahead, the motion picture industry will release the finest lineup of family pictures in its history, it was announced yesterday by Lydia McPherson, manager of the Ritz and Bronco Drive-In theatres in Wellington.

Fascinating family film fare . . . comedies, dramas, spectaculars and historical films . . . are coming in the next few months and many will be shown here immediately after their national release. "Hollywood is putting more emphasis on family entertainment than ever before," manager McPherson continued, "since the recent success of such hits as Swiss Family Robinson, Cinderella, and 101 Dalmatians proved that today's audience will support family attractions."

McPherson warned that if you are interested in seeing more good films of this calibre, you must show your interest by supporting these films. Only in this way will the producers in Hollywood appreciate your interest and continue to make more entertainment for the whole family.

McPherson named a long and impressive list of coming attractions especially recommended for family viewing. Among those named were: Misty, the heartwarming adventure of two children and their love for a wild pony; The Ladies Man, new comedy romp starring Jerry Lewis; Dondi, the hilarious adventures of the famous comic strip character; and The Parent Trap, Walt Disney's newest, and from early reports his greatest family attraction. Also Tammy Tell Me True, delightful new sequel to Tammy, starring popular Sandra Dee; Magic Boy, an exciting feature length cartoon; and Pepe, one of 1961's greatest entertainment highlights with an all-star cast.

Some of the others listed include Snow White and the 3 Stooges, a laugh treat for children of all ages; Nikki, another top Disney attraction; Morgan the Pirate, an adventure thriller with history's most infamous pirate; Gidget Goes Hawaiian, fun-filled sequel to the popular Gidget; The Trapp Family, heartwarming story of the famous Trapp family singers; and Ole Rex, special featurette about a boy and his dog.

Angora, now Ankara, was the ancient capital city of Turkey.

The coming double feature combinations are Friendly Persuasion and Wichita, and The Fabulous World of Jules Verne with Bimbo the Great. This is not the end but the beginning of a long list of excellent family pictures coming to Wellington during the next few months.

"These are pictures that I sincerely believe will measure up to all the requirements necessary for family attendance. I personally am proud and feel it is a special privilege to be able to bring this kind of entertainment to Wellington," Mrs. McPherson said.

BUCKET SEATS ALONE DO NOT A MONZA MAKE

■ Gee! ■ Little did we know, when we introduced the Corvair Monza last year, that we were starting a Big Thing. We just thought it would be pleasant if you could buy a car that treats you, the driver, like you want to be treated. ■ The bucket seats, of course, are the most obvious evidence of our desire to please you. But they're not the most important thing. No sir. What's really vital is the way a Monza handles—something nobody in the U.S. has yet copied. Or can copy. Because Corvair is the only rear-engined car made in this country, and you know what that means: steering light as thistle-down. (You even park this one more easily, it steers so briskly.) Beautifully balanced braking—the car stays level even under panic braking, which we hope you'll never have to do. Traction and more traction, so you don't become a stick-in-the-mud. The kind of cornering that's sheer joy to experience. ■ You get more: a fully independent suspension that blots out road shocks before they can ruffle you. Clean, crisp styling. Thoroughgoing economy, from purchase price to operating cost. ■ You're not going to be satisfied with bucket seats alone, are you?

To Iran

Farley, N.M., this spring, they were up with their class," she adds.

In both Kerman and Isfahan, the Hofferts, with a few families from the United States and with the Europeans living in the city, form the small close-knit group.

"We make our own recreation. We square dance, celebrate birthdays or anything else that comes along. Fourth of July is always one of our big days—that and Christmas. But we do make our own recreation," Lucille remarked.

"We enter into the life of the Iranians socially. They come to my house for tea and coffee and dinner and we go to theirs. They are great people for parties, and this usually consists of a dinner about 10 o'clock in the evening. They are very formal, therefore, we are, too."

In Isfahan, the Hoffert family attends services of the Church of England. Several Greek Orthodox churches serve other Christians.

But the mosques of the Iranians are forbidden to westerners. Only the famous and beautiful Blue Mosque is open to foreigners.

The summers of Wellington are nothing to compare to those in Iran, where temperatures sometimes soar up to 120 and 125 degrees. There is no air conditioning.

"But the way the houses are built helps—we live in native housing," Lucille explains. "The ceilings have high domes in the center, rising as much as 30 feet from the floor, with openings at the top. This helps with the heat, but it helps us stay cold in winter, too."

"The houses are elaborate, with arches and tilework and all sorts of little gadgets—nothing practical. And there are chandeliers in every room—huge ones, and sometimes they fall," she continues.

One of Mrs. Hoffert's choice possessions is a beautiful Persian rug, which was about a year in the weaving. It was her Christmas gift.

"This is a small rug. Large ones take two or three years. It is one of the old Persian designs. They have what they call their American design and that is mainly for export. You never see one in an Iranian home."

Some Americans live almost altogether on canned food shipped in, but Lucille uses local food, buying it in the native bazaars. This, however, must be thoroughly washed and "cooked to death." Nevertheless, they prefer it that way.

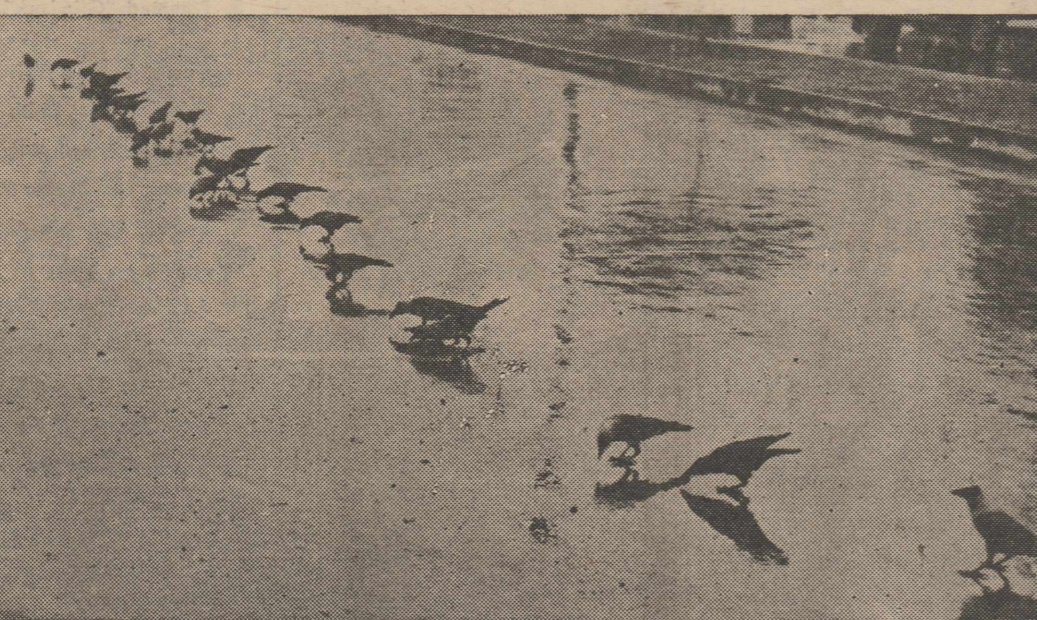

Many things a Wellington housewife takes for granted can be a major problem in Isfahan. Calling the doctor in the middle of the night, when a child becomes suddenly ill, for example. A man-servant is sent. One doesn't just run next door and ask the Iranian family to do this for you.

Lucille can't phone, either—there isn't a phone. "We could have one, but there's no point. We could never get anyone. Then, there's a deposit amounting to around $300, and none of the Americans think it worth while. The Army people have a telephone, which any of us can use in an emergency," she says.

Workshop in Phonics Draws Area Teachers

Members of the Wellington Classroom Teachers Association were hosts at an area workshop in phonics Thursday and Friday, June 1 and 2.

This included intensive study of methods and techniques in stepping up the phonics approach to reading, according to Mrs. Bernice Welch, president of the association.

Directing the study was Lew Adams and Mrs. Pauline Whittington, representing the publishers of Phonics Keys to Reading, the approach used in the first grade of Wellington elementary school for two years, and in the second and third grades during the past year.

The method, local teachers believe, has done much to develop independent readers.

Sessions began at 9 a.m. and continued until 3:30 p.m. each day. Mrs. Whittington outlined the work as she has carried it on for several years. A question and answer period followed each study.

Teachers attended from Ron, Hollis, Gould and Altus, Okla., and Hedley, Bridgeport, Monday, Claude, Clarendon, Knox City, Memphis, Groom, Levelland, Dimmitt, Estelline, Lakeview, Samnorwood, Sunray and Wellington.

Mrs. John Ford, Sr., of Lawrence, Mass., is visiting here this week in the home of her son, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ford, Jr. and boys. She will go to Borger next week to visit with a daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy White. Mr. Ford will come the last of July for a visit and return her to Massachusetts.

Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Owens and children left Monday for a two weeks vacation in California. They will visit with his aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Allred at Covina, Calif., and the rest of the time will be spent sight-seeing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Worsham and daughter of Azle visited with friends here over the week end.

Bible School for Catholic Children Set

A religious vacation Bible School for Catholic children will be held at Our Mother of Mercy Church from Monday, June 13, through Friday, June 16, the Rev. Kevin Hand, pastor, has announced.

Two members of the Teaching Sisters of St. Francis from Sancta Maria Convent in Panhandle will be in charge of the classes, and will be assisted by Mrs. Chas. B. Jones, Mrs. Henard Gray and Mrs. Jesse Peters.

After teaching the morning classes here each day, the Nuns will teach in the Bible School at Shamrock in the afternoon.

The classes here will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 each morning.

Between 60 and 80 children are expected, Father Hand said.

On Saturday, June 17, there will be a picnic for both the Wellington and Shamrock groups.

Dam Site

and Industrial Water Authority, the actual report on findings will come through its engineers, Freeze and Nichols of Dallas.

Little gypsum was found in any of the eight test holes drilled at the Little Gyp site, and some of the more shallow, there was none at all. The presence of this porous rock, as reported in Bureau of Reclamation tests at three sites further downstream in Collingsworth, have made them unsuited for dam sites.

Siltstone and shale, both water-holding formations, are found from about 30 to 40 feet in the test holes, Coleman said.

No gypsum was found until a depth of around 75 feet was reached and this is not in a collapse formation. In the deepest hole drilled, 179 feet, the first gyp was found at 150 feet. In the test holes, gyp appeared in narrow veins, the drilling notes showed.

In several of the holes, at around 113 and 130 feet, tests were made to determine leakage, and very little was found, Coleman said.

The elevation of the proposed dam site is 2290 feet.

Miss Smith To Apprentice Teach in Vernon School

Miss Peggy Smith, who has been a student in Texas Tech, Lubbock, returned recently to spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. Allen I. Smith, at their ranch in the north part of the county.

Miss Smith is a homemaker major and she will leave Sunday for two weeks apprentice teaching in the Vernon schools.

Fishermen Lie? Not to Pattern, Biologists Find

AUSTIN. — Are fishermen predictable? Do they lie in a particular pattern? These are two big questions confronting biologists on the Texas coast.

In the constant effort to check fishing potentials against the actual harvest, the Game and Fish Commission biologists conduct creel censuses throughout the year.

They'll check a fisherman at his boat and ask him how many fish he caught. Then perhaps a few hours later they will run into the same fisherman again, perhaps this time on the docks or in some other location.

Again they'll ask him how many fish he caught and their sizes. Invariably they get a different answer.

"We can pretty well predict the fish, after taking net samples and applying ordinary math," says Howard Lee, director of the Rockport Marine Laboratory. "Now our big problem is to learn the pattern of fish stories. If we can ever figure that out, then we can correlate rather accurate information concerning supply and harvest."

Lee doesn't exactly doubt the fishermen, yet ever since Jonah there have been many almost unbelievable stories. But since the biggest fish always gets away, there's really not any way of knowing the whole story. Anyway, that's the way the biologists look at it.

Father Hand to Retreat

The Rev. Kevin Hand, pastor of Our Mother of Mercy Catholic Church, will be absent from the parish next week attending the annual retreat for priests at Price College, Amarillo.

Priests from throughout the Amarillo diocese, which extends south to San Angelo, will take part.

Mrs. Harman is the former Beth Kizer, who taught in the county schools some years ago.

Rain

considerable damage to roads in this area, and said that most roads of the county will have to be dragged.

Farmers, however, were less concerned with their roads than with their crops at this point.

Rain measurements taken by Cecil Brown at Samnorwood showed that Friday rain measured .70; Saturday .50, and Monday night 1.50 inches, for a total of 2.80 inches.

Everyone in that area who reported received about the same amount of rain.

C. T. Amerson north of Dozier got four inches, with an inch and a half of this falling Monday night. Abra also got a total of four inches.

J. D. Throckmorton of Dozier reported 2.70 inches for Saturday and Monday.

West of Quail, Tom Wilson received two inches of rain Saturday and two and a half Monday night, for a total of four and a half inches.

At Quail, Jim Lowe reported a total of 4.75 inches, with one and a half inches falling Friday night and three and a quarter Monday night. There was a little fine hail Monday that did no damage.

Dodson area received 2.70 inches, Edwin Crowder said. Only a little of the fresh-planted cotton in the immediate Dodson area will have to be replanted.

Wellington measured approximately three inches for the week-end period.
