Smith Says Bills May Be Illegal

Jury Acquits White Cop of Negro Murder

MASON, Mich. (UPI)—A white jury has found a white Detroit policeman innocent of first degree murder of a young Negro at the Algiers Motel during the 1967 Detroit riots. "Marvelous, marvelous," said the soft-spoken, square-jawed Ronald W. August as he dodged newsmen after the verdict. "I'm gonna pray now."

18 Injured When Tornado Touches At Plainview

By United Press International
A tornado dipped into the southwestern part of the Texas South Plains city of Plainview Tuesday night, injuring 18 persons and damaging 200 homes. The Department of Public Safety, which issued the injury and damage figures, said none of those hurt was in serious condition.

But windows were blown out of the homes and roofs were damaged. Most windows in a shopping center and the screen of a double screen drive-in theater were destroyed.

Damage... Thousands
Damage was expected to run into thousands of dollars.

After dipping into the southwestern part of Plainview for 20 or 25 seconds, the twister arose and touched down for a moment in the western part of the city. No damage was reported in the western section.

The DPS said most injuries were caused by flying glass and debris. Several persons were hurt when they left their automobiles in the midst of the storm.

A heavy rain fell and hail piled up two feet deep in some areas.

Tornado Touches Down
The DPS said a tornado touched down on a farm seven miles southwest of Stratford in Sherman County along the Oklahoma border. There were no reports of damage, however. It was not the same twister that hit Plainview. Plainview is far to the south and the Stratford tornado touched down more than an hour after Plainview was hit.
Hale Center winds up to 70 miles an hour in velocity hit Hale Center, 15 miles southwest of Plainview.

Senator Yarborough Flails The Little Known Potent Bureau of Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said Tuesday the little known but potent Bureau of the Budget was "just an adjunct of the Defense Department."

Yarborough, a Senate appropriations subcommittee chairman, cited figures showing the bureau devoted far less manpower to riding herd on the military than on other functions of the government.

The bureau's deputy director, Phillip S. Hughes, admitted only 32 men examined Defense Department outlays of $80 million while 30 examiners audited $27 billion of the education and health fields.

That bit of information sparked the dialogue between Yarborough and Hughes.

Yarborough: "Do you think that's a fair distribution?"
Hughes: "Yes."

Yarborough: "Why? Who ordered the reviewers distributed this way?"
Hughes: "The scope and variety of programs in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare are wider than AERIAL WAR ON BUGS — Kenneth Gray, Miami, wages an aerial war on bugs as he puts his spray plane through its paces while spraying a farm field east of Pampa. It's hard to tell, however, if Gray is spraying a field or putting on an aerobatic show as he skirts the trees, hops over fences, and then shoots low over the field.

Coed's Body Not Claimed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—The anguished father looked down at the mutilated body of his pretty daughter, victim of the sixth sex slaying in this university area in two years.

"Let the president of the university bury her on the front lawn," he said.
Body Identified
Kalom had just made positive identification of Alice's body at the University of Michigan Hospital where it had lain since she was found nearly nude on an abandoned farm Monday afternoon.

Police, meanwhile, scoured the southeastern Michigan countryside for the girl's killer who may have murdered the other five girls, all on rainy nights.
"He's got to be a nut and he's been playing a game with us," Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas Harvey said Tuesday.
Kalom, a pharmacist at Kalamazoo's Borgess Hospital and like his wife and daughter, a U-M graduate, said, "I'm going to the governor and to (Sen. Philip A.) Hart and I'm going to tell everyone to stop sending their girls here."

"This is going to be an all-boys school with all the girls dead." One of his two sons is a University of Michigan Law School graduate.

Alice, who turned 21 Christmas Day, was graduated May 3 with a degree in fine arts with a "b" average. University officials said she had stayed on to take a couple more courses during summer session.

Her Portage High School principal, James Pellowe, described her as "warm and friendly but at times reserved. She was the quiet, effective type. Her teachers all ranked her as excellent."

She was the second U-M coed among the six girls brutally slain in a 15-mile area—which includes Eastern Michigan University at Ypsilanti—in less than two years and the fourth since March. The body of Jane (See BODY, Page 3)

School Board Scheduled To Meet Thursday

Discussion of a possible tax raise to pay Pampa's part of a state teachers' raise is on the School Board agenda for its regular meeting Thursday. Trustees will meet at 9:30 a.m. in Pampa Junior High School.

The tax raise, according to Superintendent Dr. James F. Malone, would be necessary only if the state legislature raises teachers' salaries.
"No action is expected on this item Thursday, because we don't know yet what the legislature is going to do about teachers' raises. A raise in tax rates won't be necessary for the local district's budget, but we couldn't pay more for a state raise salaries without a raise in local tax rates," Dr. Malone said.

Agenda items due for action are approval of personnel recommendations and employment, appointment of a delinquent tax attorney, designation of official radio station, approval of insurance for boilers, approval of bus routes and elementary physical education teachers.

In Dr. Malone's report, he plans to discuss the 1969-70 tax rate, consider increasing substitute pay from $12 to $15 per day, discuss a science lab fee of $1.50, fire-proofing attics of old school buildings, and report on the cafeteria and a letter regarding driver training cars.

Legal Advice Sought Before Items Signed

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Preston Smith is afraid that 37 bills delivered to him Monday, seven days after the legislature adjourned, are illegal and "probably will" ask for the attorney general's opinion.

Smith, in a hastily called press and broadcasters conference, Tuesday questioned the constitutionality of the bill because, he said, they were not signed by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Speaker Gus F. Mutscher in the presence of their respective houses.

Among the clouded bills is the omnibus courts bill, providing 27 new criminal and civil district courts, mostly in urban areas of the state.

Wants No Part
"I do not want to be a part of legislative actions of passing bills that are unconstitutional," Smith said.

He discussed the matter for three hours Tuesday with Gallo-way Calhoun, the gubernatorial legal adviser.

Smith also said he is concerned that the one-week delay in the bills' reaching his office deprived him of his constitutional right to study them 20 days before acting upon them.

He has until June 22 to sign or veto a bill passed by the legislature or let the bill become law without his signature.

Part of Duty
"I think it is part of my constitutional duty to determine if these bills are legal," Smith said. "If it is in order for these bills to be held up for seven days, what's to keep them from being held up for 21 days and depriving the governor of a chance of looking at them and just letting them become law without his signature."

"I served as lieutenant governor of Texas for three terms and I never left that podium until all the bills were introduced (printed) and signed in the presence of the Senate, and then I took a motion to adjourn."

"How can the legislature bring you a bill after they've adjourned? It's impossible?" Smith said he is "trying to investigate" the delay.

The bills are in Calhoun's custody. Technically, therefore, the governor's office has not accepted the bills by signing for them.

Smith said he doubts the delay was willful.
"Maybe it was just carelessness and I think that has no place in our state government," Smith said.

The delay apparently was caused by a backlog in printing in the Senate and a delay in Mutscher's signing them. He was out of town the first part of last week.

Doubts About Bill
Smith said he doubts he will let a bill increasing student fees at state colleges become law.

He also raised a question about the teachers' pay bill. He said that measure is now in hands of the state comptroller and will not reach the governor's office until the comptroller certifies there is enough revenue in the treasury to support it.

Smith said he has not decided what to do with the $2.8 billion (See LEGAL, Page 3)

Baptist Youths Present Demands At Convention

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A handful of dissident young delegates called on the huge Southern Baptist Convention to reject representatives from churches that practice racial discrimination.

The youths, members of the Baptists students concerned, issued a series of statements Tuesday dealing with discrimination, extremism, morality and church involvement with social ills.

The statements were to be put in the form of resolutions and introduced before the full convention during business meetings this week.

Reads Statement
"We ask that this convention refuse to seat any church which discriminates against members of minority groups as a matter of policy," said a statement read by David Swink, 21, a student from Charleston, S. C.

Swink said he recognized each Southern Baptist Church is autonomous and can regulate its own policy on racial equality.

However, he said, the convention should not condone racial discrimination on the part of member churches.

The students also asked the convention to desegregate all its boards, commissions, agencies and institutions immediately, to do business only with equal opportunity employers and to pay more attention to poverty and hunger.

Small Group Attending
The student group has about 30 members among the 15,000 delegates attending the annual meeting of the 11.3 million member convention.

The students also called on Baptists to push for sex education in public schools and to take a stand on changing sex mores.

"The vast majority of Southern Baptist churches have not involved themselves in this area of concern," the statement said.

Bailey Children Attend Funeral Of Their Family

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—Susan Bailey, 15, joined her 13-year-old brother at Parkersburg Cemetery today for the funeral of their parents and 10 brothers and sisters.

The 12 Baileys will be buried in a mass grave. All died in a fire that flashed through the tarpaper covered house they rented for $65 a month only two weeks before Sunday's blaze.

Police said Susan and her brother Roger, who slept in a shack adjacent to the house, deliberately touched off the fire that all but wiped out their family, apparently because her father disapproved of a boyfriend. They siphoned gasoline from the tank of a truck their father used in his job as a Wood County maintenance man, carried it into the house in a washtub, and sloshed it throughout the house, police said.

After touching off the blaze, which roared through the house like a torch, they ran outside. When firemen arrived Susan and Roger told them the blaze had started so fast they could not help, police said.

The firemen were too late. Charles Bailey, 41, his wife Ruby, 38, and 10 of their children burned to death. The children, ranging in age from six months to 17 years were Ted, Dale, Steve, Deborah, Timothy, Mary, Claudia, Patricia and Nancy.

Another daughter, Mrs. Judy Fury, returned from her home in Illinois to handle today's funeral arrangements.

Pompidou Offers Best Guarantee

PARIS (UPI)—Former Premier Andre Pinay, one of France's most respected elder statesmen, today publicly endorsed Georges Pompidou in the presidential race.

Pinay, 77, a conservative, was prime minister in 1952 during the Fourth Republic. As Charles de Gaulle's finance minister in 1958-59, he was largely responsible for halting runaway monetary inflation and launching the Gaullist new franc.

"I think Pompidou is the candidate offering the best guarantees because he will be elected by a more homogenous majority," Pinay told newsmen.

"His experience in public life will meet most effectively the needs of the situation."

With three campaigning days left before Sunday's runoff election, the Pinay endorsement was expected to give an added boost to Gaullist Pompidou, already generally favored to win.

Pompidou's rival, interim President Alain Poher, has conceded that he is waging an uphill fight.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were not getting along at all well together, so we went to a marriage counselor. He said we ought to straighten ourselves out, and suggested we go to a psychiatrist.

Well, the psychiatrist listened to us, and said he didn't think we needed psychiatry. We needed to work out our marital problems, so we went back to this marriage counselor.

He talked to us a while and then said we just weren't right for each other, and we never should have gotten married in the first place. (Wasn't that helpful?) We've been married for nine years, have three children and think our marriage is worth saving. What do you suggest?

PILLAR TO POST
DEAR PILLAR: I don't know what kind of "marriage counselor" you went to, but he needs to straighten himself out. Ask the psychiatrist who told you to see a marriage counselor to recommend one.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about people who keep touching you when they talk to you? This irritates me no end. Even though I may like that person very much, I feel so resentful when they poke, nudge, and hit me to emphasize some point in their conversation. (Oddly enough, more women are guilty of this than men.)

I realize that the toucher probably doesn't even realize she is doing it at the time, but this is of little comfort to me. Is there some diplomatic way to put a stop to it, or must I give up my friendship with such a person?

POKED IN MANHATTAN
DEAR POKED: There is no way to defend yourself against nothing to lose.

the annoyance of compulsive touchers, pokers, or nudgers. Either keep out of their reach or stay out of their company altogether.

DEAR ABBY: If they held a world-wide contest to find the Champion Sinner of all time, I could enter my husband and he would win hands down.

Name the commandment and he's broken it. He can look you in the eye and lie with both hands on the Bible!

Now here is the part you won't believe. Where do you think this sinner spends most of his time? In church!

How long is it supposed to take for the preacher's message to soak in?

"SAVED" IN NASHVILLE
DEAR "SAVED": No one knows. But you can't complain too much about a man who spends most of his time in a house of worship. A church is a hospital for sinners—not a museum for saints.

DEAR ABBY: When my son was married about six months ago, I gave him my original wedding band to place on his bride's finger. (I have another one.)

The marriage lasted only a few months, a clean break has been made, and my son and the girl are not even on speaking terms. Since my son thought this was going to be a lasting marriage, the shock of its failure has caused him great emotional stress.

I would like to have my wedding ring back, but I do not want to ask my son to get it back for me.

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: Ask the girl for the ring. You've pleased you had a budget and stuck with it so well.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THURS.
DAY: Now comes the test of how much and how well you can produce from your inner depths. For writers, thinkers, philosophers, theorists in all disciplines, this is a wonderful sabbatical year of far-ranging original thought. For most of Thursday's natives it is a less crowded year than most. Changes of direction are certain. It will be advisable to stay with familiar situations rather than new places or jobs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): In case you need it, last-minute assistance Thursday is almost incredible. Pay no great attention to a long-winded emotional tale. It may be intended to get you involved in relations that you don't really want.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Mend fences Thursday, peace offerings, apologies where needed. Celebrate with old friends tonight.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You can sell anything Thursday if you put your mind to it. Advertising efforts made now pay off quite well. Real estate deals are favored.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your special skills should be recognizable and saleable now. Even hobbies can go over well at present.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A long-awaited opportunity now opens for increased earnings. Finally some money seems to take it at once while the chance is good. It will eventually wind up in unexpected situations and directions you do not know Thursday, but all to the greater good.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Finally some money seems to be at hand for use. Think about what you need the most, and then regulate your spending accordingly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your accounts are off balance just far enough to eat up the promised extra money, leaving you about where you were before. At least be pleased you had a budget and stuck with it so well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): This can be a day of triumph, according to how well you have planned and how hard you have worked to make it a successful time. Let your friends know how you value their support and goodwill.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Organized society seldom makes an individual reward, but such may happen Thursday. Your share of public life tends to increase. Contracts signed now have to be thoroughly understood — a standard-looking form is sometimes not standard at all.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Pay close attention to the details of any transaction. Much good can come of your efforts now, particularly from distant sources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Thursday has for you an atmosphere of "never-never" come true. Make the most of it — especially a chance for widespread public appearance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The rainbow of promise hangs overhead. If you have waited for it long enough and if your desires are realistic enough, something good occurs Thursday.

Attending were Mmes. Bill Price, Bill Thompson, M. L. Mills, Jackie Cooper, Paul Thurmond, Jarvis, Jimmie Davis, Ethel Mae Thurmond and Rogers.

Brings Out Highlights

Perhaps the loveliest hair of all is hair that is aired, sunned, massaged and dried out-of-doors. The combination of breeze and sun can bring out natural highlights. So let your hair fluff out in the wind, brush it and massage your scalp with your fingers or a brush. You can even set it in the open to help keep both hair and scalp "alive."

MISS DEB

... answers questions about Junior Miss etiquette, grooming and interests.

Q. I help my mother with housecleaning every Friday. How can I protect my hands from waxes, water, and plain old grime?

A. Since you can't give up housekeeping, talk Mom into buying a package of disposable plastic gloves for both of you to use. Try keeping a pair in each part of the house where you run into messy jobs like the kitchen, bath, and workshop. Handgloves are lightweight and thin enough even for tasks that require fine handling.

Q. I recently stopped biting my nails, and I'm proud of the way they've grown. Can you tell me how to give myself a quickie manicure to top off their new long length?

A. Congratulations on shaking the habit! Try doing your nails when you're "busy" talking on the phone, watching television, or reading a magazine. Remove old polish with a tissue dabbed with polish remover. Shape

Skellytown TOPS Crowns 3 Queens

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Skellytown TOPS Slimmer Club met twice recently in the home of Mrs. Roy McKissick.

Mrs. Floyd McCoy was crowned queen of the week and received the fruit basket for a loss of 4 1/2 lbs. Runner up was Mrs. Frances Stamps with a loss of 3 1/2 lbs.

The club reported a loss of 24 1/2 lbs. by members and a gain of 6 1/2 lbs. in one week.

The new contest which started April 1, continued six weeks and ended May 6. Members drew partners for buddy couples.

Attending were Mmes. Gladys Simmons, Stamps, Odell Hassler, Sadie Lane, McKissick, McCoy, June Bunn, Billie Stephenson, Fannie Coleman, Naomi Fox, and one new member, Mrs. Ruby Wimslett.

In the second meeting, Mrs. Ralph Fox Sr. was crowned weekly queen with a loss of 5 1/2 lbs. The club reported a loss of 17 1/2 lbs. and a gain of 2 1/2 lbs. for the past week.

Mrs. Gladys Simmons was queen for the month of April with a loss of 8 1/2 lbs. Runner up was Mrs. McCoy with a loss of 7 1/2 lbs.

Price, Chicagoan Guest Speakers At SIO Barbecue

Congressman Bob Price and Jess Sixkiller of Chicago will be guest speakers at the annual barbecue of the Southwest Indian Organization scheduled here for June 28-29. More than 1000 persons are expected to attend.

Indians from Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Washington and Chicago have indicated intention of being here for the "Heap Big-Pow Wow," according to M.P. Hays, sub-chief of the SIO. Tribal chiefs of the Five Civilized Tribes will be among the visitors.

Starting Saturday, June 28 Indians are invited to set up their tents at Hobart Street Park, where the celebration will start at 5:30 p.m. A social, with singing and war dancing, will take place in the evening and at 12:30 p.m. Sunday a barbecue dinner will be served.

In the 1:30 p.m. program each tribe will illustrate its own dances. Among these will be the Shield, Hoop and Eagle dances and the Indian Two Step.

A hand-made Indian war bonnet and shawl will be prizes in a drawing.

The SIO Indian queen, Miss Vanda Lancour, and the organization's Indian Princess, Miss Jenny Lynn James, will be at hand to welcome guests. All Indians will be in full tribal colors.

Adult tickets are $1.50 each and children up to 12 years may attend at 75 cents. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the SIO or by telephoning one of these members: Mrs. Lorene Wilkinson — MO-5311; Chief Neengin — MO 4-3568; Marland Hays, MO 9-9692; Leroy Arnold, Borger, 273-7087.

USS Yorktown Not To Be New Movie Star

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Navy has defended use of the USS Yorktown in a Hollywood movie to portray a Japanese aircraft carrier in the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, Rep. John Murphy D-N.Y., said today.

Murphy, who has introduced legislation to bar military equipment from use in future movies, complained that six sailors were burned while portraying Japanese sailors in the 20th Century-Fox movie, "Tora, Tora, Tora," filmed in the Pacific last winter.

Murphy said he received a three-page response from Rear Adm. L. R. Geis, chief of naval information, "who defended" the Navy role stating, "military personnel who participated in the filming did so on a voluntary basis while in an off duty or on leave status" and were paid by the film company.

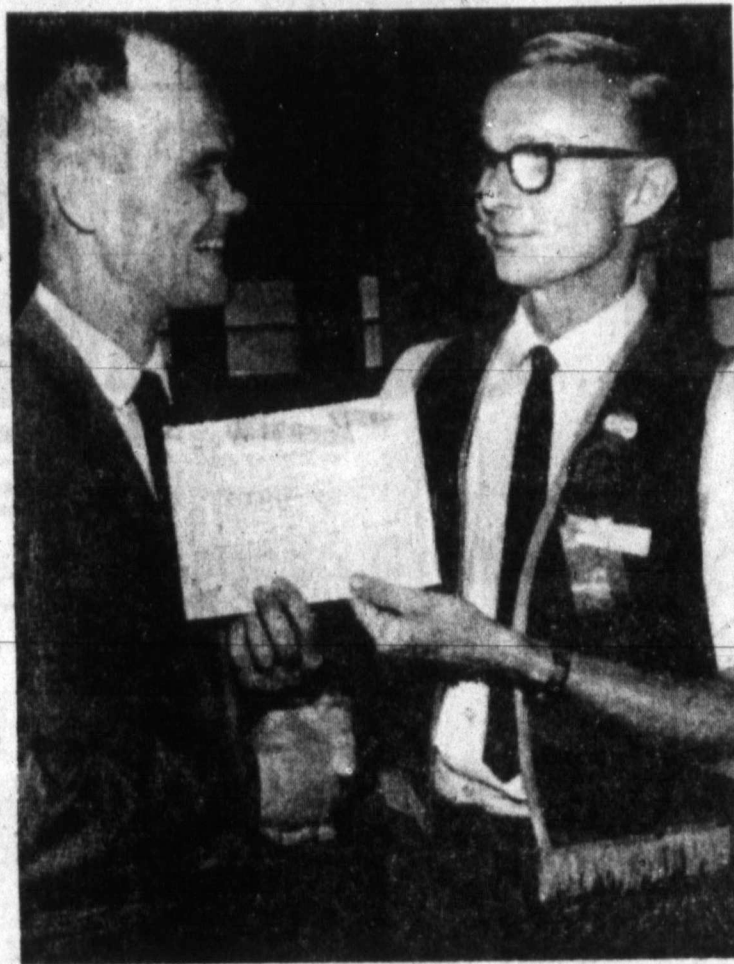

"I find this explanation inadequate," Murphy said.

On leave or off duty status, Murphy said, "does not relieve the Navy of its responsibility in the matter."

Murphy said there was no justification for using the ship "for movie making, particularly when such activity results in injury to our sailors—regardless of any special arrangement the Navy may make to abrogate its responsibility for its men."

One of the sailors who were burned, Yeoman 2.C. Douglas A. Bullis, mailed a letter released by Murphy which complained that "there were no safety precautions, no medical personnel, no protective clothing, and no fire equipment" when he was burned while an actor in the movie.

No home address was given for Bullis.

JAYCEE OF THE MONTH — John Warner, left, president of the Pampa Jaycees, presents Jaycee of the Month award for April to Duane Nokes. Duane shared the monthly honor with Richard Kingcade. The two were chosen because of their efforts as co-chairmen of the Jaycee installation banquet and dance.

Soviets Accused Of Crossing China's Border

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China accused Soviet troops, tanks and armored cars of crossing its northwestern border Tuesday night and starting a battle that continued into today.

Peking Radio said "dozens" of Russian soldiers invaded Sinkiang province where the Chinese have their nuclear testing ground at Lop Nor and vital oilfields in the Czungarian Basin.

It warned of "grave consequences" and said the Soviet Union would be "severely punished" if such border provocations continued.

In Moscow, authoritative Soviet sources said they knew nothing about what Peking Radio called "new incidents of bloodshed."

The Chinese allegation coincided with the world Communist summit meeting in Moscow, where several leaders have refused to back the Soviets in border disputes with Peking.

Communist sources in Moscow said the latest Chinese report was designed to distract attention from the summit and further discord among the 75 participating parties.

The Chinese broadcast said Soviet troops penetrated four miles into China in the same Sinkiang area May 2 and warned the Chinese border guards to withdraw or be wiped out. The Chinese "exercised forbearance," it said, and "bloodshed was averted."

The Soviet soldiers who invaded Tuesday night killed one woman and kidnapped a shepherd, Peking Radio said in its first reference to casualties.

L. Mixer, 23, a law student from Muskegon, Mich., was found March 21.

U-M officials had ordered extra Ann Arbor police patrols after Miss Mixer's death and tried to discourage co-eds from hitchhiking or going out alone at night. The U-M is the only Big Ten university without a campus police force.

Pythian Awards Presented At Banquet Tuesday

The 96th annual Convention of the Pythian Knights and Sisters was to conclude today with the installation of new officers for both Orders.

At the annual Achievement and Awards Banquet Tuesday night, Pampa Lodge No. 489 received the regular Lodge Attendance Award, first place in the Ritualistic contest and second in the Knights Scrapbook competition.

Pampa Temple No. 41 received the Marie Ward Award and second in the Sisters Scrapbook Award.

B.B. Altman Jr., of Pampa, was chosen Outstanding Knight secretary and Outstanding Pythian Knight.

Miss Martha Sutton, Tucson, Ariz., won first place in the sectional six oratorical contest and will compete in the national contest in Ft. Worth this August for a $3500 scholarship.

Local Minister To Attend 'Youth Gathering'

Lutheran youth from throughout Texas will gather this weekend at College Park in Naogodoches for the annual Summer Youth Gathering. The theme for the three-day gathering will center on the contemporary title, "Cool Livin' is to Live Forgiven."

During the weekend participants, led by thirty adult counselors, will move from the realization of guilt through the assurance of absolution and into the celebration of God's grace. The weekend includes movies, singing, pop art on Saturday afternoon and in the Sunday worship service, and an after hours club on Saturday night to prepare for the Sunday celebration.

The Rev. M. G. Herring, Pastor of Zion Lutheran Church in Pampa, will serve as one of the adult counselors and leaders. Attending with him will be one of the youths of the church, Randy Ziebart.

In preparation for the "gathering" Rev. Herring attended a three day training meeting in Galveston in May.

The summer youth gathering, emphasizing man's guilt and God's grace, will seek to confront the youths where they are through means which understand and through which they can express their faith and their feelings," according to Rev. Herring.

Pope Paul Prays With Protestant Leaders At WCC

GENEVA (UPI)—"Oh Lord Jesus, teach us to be truly sorry for the scandal of our divisions," Pope Paul VI prayed with the world's Protestant leaders.

Later Tuesday, the pontiff praised the Protestant-dominated World Council of Churches as "a marvelous movement."

Officials of the council said today the Pope's visit could not help but bring improvement in relations between the Vatican and Protestantism. But he made it abundantly clear the Roman Catholic Church is in no rush to join the Council of Churches.

"In fraternal frankness," the Pope said, "we do not consider that the question of membership of the Catholic Church in the World Council is so mature that a positive answer could or should be given."

Pope Paul spent almost 13 hours in Geneva, long known as a sort of Rome for Protestantism. His visit to the World Council of Churches headquarters nearly overshadowed the main reason for the visit, which was to speak to the International Labor Organization (ILO), a U.N. agency for the protection of the rights of workers of the world.

Council officials said the Pope's visit to WCC headquarters was in itself such a precedent it could not fail to improve day-to-day cooperation between Christian churches.

Pope Paul was the first Roman Catholic pontiff to visit Geneva in 551 years.

Another Pampan Wins Citation For Heroism

Another Pampa holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross — the citation was made in May — is Specialist Five Robert W. Carter. Carter last December in Vietnam took control of a helicopter whose pilot had been seriously wounded and, according to the citation, "saved lives of himself and his pilot and landed the crippled aircraft with no further damage."

Specialist Carter is the son of Eldin B. Carter, 616 N. Somerville, and Mrs. Velma E. Carter, 2221 N. Christy. He is recovering from wounds suffered in later action.

Carter's current address is Sp 5 Robert W. Carter, RA 15795342, William Beaumont Hospital, Ward 3, El Paso, Tex. 79920.

Thomas Elected MDA President

Lee Thomas, Skellytown, recently was elected president of the Greater Plains chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association. Howard Wright, Lubbock, district director, also installed Leonard Cannon vice-president; Mrs. Joel Plunk secretary; Mrs. John Garvin treasurer.

Mrs. Irvin Hungerford, Mrs. Milton Jones and Mrs. Bob Yost represented Epsilon Sigma Alpha, international sorority, at the session. The sorority has been active in the Muscular Dystrophy Association for the past year and won an award for the greatest number of hours' service to MDA in competition with 176 other chapters at the recent state convention in Houston.

The Greater Plains chapter of MDA includes 13 counties, 11 in Texas, two in Oklahoma. It was established in 1958.

Bill Signed For New Upper Level University

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Preston Smith today signed a bill creating a new upper level university in the Permian Basin, but partly reminded residents of that area that they had given him less than full support in the November election.

Smith called the new Permian Basin university a "decisive step that will help to insure that our colleges and universities will not be overcrowded and that there will be no qualified students turned away by signs on ivy-covered walls reading 'no vacancy.'"

The bill, by Rep. Ace Pickens, D-Odessa, and Sen. W. E. Snelson, D-Midland, creates the new school as a branch of the University of Texas.

The school is designed to accept only students in their junior, senior and graduate years.

The legislation allows the University of Texas regents to pick the college site.

Odessa Mayor Jim Reese, a Republican, grasped Smith's hand after the bill signing and thanked the governor for signing and supporting the measure.

"If everybody had voted like you all did I wouldn't have had that privilege," Smith replied.

This is the fourth bi-annual conference Secrest has qualified for since joining the company in 1962. Thompson and Secrest are members of the Panhandle Agency of Pioneer American in Pampa.

Warrant Issued

On Assault Charge After Disturbance

A warrant, charging simple assault, was issued early this morning for Ray Dunn, 22, Pampa, following a disturbance at 123 Tuke about 12:30 a.m.

According to a Pampa police report Enes M. Parrish, of 123 Tuke, called police from a neighbor's house and told them that Dunn had struck her in face with his fist, then shot at her.

The woman said that Dunn had come to her house and told her she owed him money and that he wanted it.

She said she told him to get out of her house, he struck her and she then showed him a pistol she had.

The woman said Dunn took the pistol away from her and as she was running down the street he shot at her.

Pampa patrolmen T.J. Hill, Harold Joe Grimes and John O'Dell, investigated but were unable to find Dunn after the warrant was issued.

Bridge Tourney Set June 26-29

An annual sectional tournament involving from 300 to 400 duplicate bridge players is scheduled for June 26 through 29 at Coronado Inn, Pampa, according to Mrs. Jean Root, publicity chairman.

Play will start at 7:30 p.m. June 26 and continue through the four days.

Directors of the tournament are Mr. and Mrs. John Emery, Wichita Falls.

Pair Draws 10 Years For Robbery

District Judge Grainger McElhenny sentenced two Oklahoma men to prison terms Tuesday.

Kayro Lewis and Leroy White, both of Sayre, Okla., drew 10 years each for the Dec. 10, 1968, armed robbery of Ward's Minit Mart.

Jury

Brown, D-Highland Park, a Negro, charged Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer, who presided over the trial, with "apparent collusion with the attorney for the defendant."

Brown petitioned the State Senate to immediately ask the State Judicial-Tenure Commission to investigate the conduct of the judge, who shifted the trial to this town which was the home of assassinated black nationalist Malcolm X during the late 1950s.

August admitted he killed Pollard, but testified as his own star witness that he acted in self-defense after the youth twice grabbed for his shotgun while they were alone in a room.

Ryals, Vanderburg Return From Austin Conference

Felix W. Ryals, White Deer, and Fred Vanderburg, both members of the Governor's Committee of 500, returned Tuesday from Austin where they attended a meeting of the organization. The 500 members of the committee were addressed by Governor Preston Smith on the general topic of adequate lakes, navigation facilities and water supplies for Texas.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Gus Mutscher, Speaker of the House of Representatives, also are members, together with other leading citizens of Texas.

Ryals is manager of the Panhandle ground water conservation district.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Government Spending Reduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Arthur F. Burns, counselor to the President, said today the Nixon administration plans to reduce waste in government spending by simplifying the way in which federal aid money is made available to states and cities.

He said in an interview there is a great deal of overlapping, duplication and waste now because the government channels money to states and cities through more than 600 different programs.

"The situation is out of hand," said the former Columbia University economics professor who is President Nixon's chief of staff for domestic affairs.

"We have reached the point where no one can keep track of all that the government is trying to do—let alone evaluate the effectiveness of the various programs."

The solution toward which the new administration is moving is to simplify government aid procedures.

This can be done in two steps, Dr. Burns said.

Step No. 1 is to make federal funds available in "block grants" for broad functional purposes. Thus a state or city would get a block of federal cash to be spent on health, education, urban problems or whatever, and would decide for itself how this money should be used.

"This would give greater flexibility and discretion to officials at the levels of government closest to the problems and needs of the people," he explained. "We can't sit here in Washington and dictate exactly what should be done in each community. We don't know enough about local situations—even if we were wise enough to do all the country's thinking."

Sharing Proposed

Step No. 2, which he described as "an extreme form of block grants," is for the federal government to pass along a certain percentage of its total tax revenues to states and localities, with no strings attached, to be used as they think best. This is called "revenue sharing."

Dr. Burns said it would be necessary to attach one basic condition: Money received from the federal government through revenue sharing would not be used to reduce state or local taxes. To qualify for federal aid, a state or city would have to maintain or increase its efforts to finance its own needs, using the federal money to do things it otherwise would be unable to do, such as improve its schools, increase welfare payments or rebuild ghettos.

"Revenue sharing is a practical way to ease the grave financial difficulties being encountered by our states and cities, and at the same time achieve a radical decentralization of governmental power, so that decisions are made by officials in the best position to know what will work and what won't work in their communities," said Dr. Burns.

Price Increase In Vehicles Deprives Czechs of Driving

PRAGUE (UPI)—Under new price increases effective today, the average Czechoslovak wage earner would have to work four years—without spending a penny—to make enough money to buy one of the cheapest cars sold in the nation.

Before today, it would have taken him two and one-half years to buy the same car.

The increases were part of a series of new regulations announced Monday by the Communist government, apparently aimed at pulling money out of the nation's overheated economy and relieving at least some of the inflationary pressures which have developed in the past year.

Also announced was an increase in the resale tax—in some cases up 60 times. By raising the tax, the government also eliminated a prime source of private enterprise in the country.

Officially the new measures were designed to reduce "highly profitable speculation," according to the CTK news agency.

Before today, it was possible for a citizen to wait several years to purchase a locally produced car at the government fixed price, then sell it within a few weeks to someone not willing to wait. In this way, the seller could make as much as a 60 per cent net profit.

The transfer tax was expected to be felt especially by emigrants who had planned to sell their car for a sizeable profit before leaving the country.

Economic sources noted the government by imposing the new measures also hoped to lure hard Western currency from residents who want a car but do not want to pay the high prices in local currency.

Prague Radio Monday announced a series of changes in the Prague city Communist Party Committee which indicated a major shakeup in the Liberal party organization.

At a plenary session the committee elected a new nine-member presidium to replace the one which resigned June 2. Two of the old presidium members were re-elected.

The Czechoslovak interior ministry said Vera Blackwell, a U.S. citizen now living in London, was expelled from Czechoslovakia Saturday "for work against the interests of the republic."

CTK said she had gone to Prague and "mediated" between Czechoslovaks and Czech emigre Pavel Tigrid, publisher of the newspaper "Svedectvi" in Paris.

The agency also said Miss Blackwell had written "propaganda broadcasts hostile to Czechoslovakia" for Radio Free Europe in Munich under the alias "Vera Lunackova."

Defenders of the existing system say it is necessary and desirable to retain some federal control over the uses to which federal money is put. Block grants or revenue sharing, they contend, would make it possible for some state and local officials to waste federal aid funds on frills or boondoggles, distribute them unfairly, or divert them to purely political purposes.

It comes down to a basic difference of opinion about who is most likely to make wise decisions—authorities in Washington, or those at the state and local level. The assumption that federal decisions are more likely to be in the public interest has prevailed in Washington for a long time, under Republican as well as Democratic rule.

The Paris Talks:

Diplomats in Paris hope that the Midway Island talks between President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu may signal the beginning of the actual bargaining stage in the Paris peace talks. The chief U.S. delegates, Henry Cabot Lodge will have had a chance meanwhile to get new instructions from the President and North Vietnam's chief negotiator, unan Thuy, will return to Hanoi, Xuan Thuy, will return from his latest trip to Hanoi.

New Concession Demands:

But the fact remains that long, hard bargaining lies ahead even if the United States withdraws some troops before the end of the year, when South Vietnam is expected to be able to replace them with troops of its own. Informed sources suggest the Communists will hold out for far greater American concessions before they start talking real business.

Policeman's Fate In Hands of All White Jury

MASON, Mich. (UPI)—The fate of a suspended white policeman who killed a young Negro at the Algiers Motel during the 1967 Detroit riots today may pass into the hands of an all-white jury which must send him to a life in prison or free him.

According to the schedule at 1 p.m. CDT today, the jurors file into the courtroom at 2. Two are eliminated by lot and the judge instructs the remaining 12 on the law before they retire to decide the fate of Ronald W. August, 30.

Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer told the small-town jury of 13 women and one man Monday they have only two possible verdicts in the murder trial: "Guilty of murder in the first degree or not guilty."

August has admitted he killed Aubrey Pollard in the manor annex of the inner city motel July 29, 1967, but said it was in self-defense in a struggle over the policeman's shotgun. The bodies of Fred Temple, 18, and Carl Cooper, 17, also were found in the annex the same night soon after police and national guardsmen swept the building in hunt for alleged snipers.

The Nationalist Chinese government will soon pull out its ambassador in Ottawa, Hsueh Yu-chi, as the first step in its preparations to meet Canada's planned recognition of Communist China. Informed sources in Taipei say the Nationalist Chinese will leave a charge d'affaires at the head of Ottawa with a staff to be gradually reduced. Hsueh is their diplomatic mission in considered one of the most capable career diplomats of the country and is expected to become the new Nationalist Chinese ambassador to the United States.

Confident Candidate:

So confident is Gaullist candidate Georges Pompidou of winning France's June 15 presidential runoff election that he is said already to be drawing up in secret his cabinet list. Gaullist sources say he will give some influential cabinet jobs to middle-of-the-road politicians who broke away from centrist Alain Poher and joined the Gaullist camp after Pompidou's promise to broaden the basis of his parliamentary majority.

Britain's chances for early entry into the European Common Market may be determined this fall at a summit meeting of market nations in Paris. Both French presidential candidates, Pompidou and Poher, have pledged to convene such a parley, the idea of which also has the enthusiastic endorsement of West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt. But it probably will not be convened until after West Germany's general elections in September.

Push to Improve Oil-Gas Fields May Be Blessing

GALVESTON (UPI)—The first push to replenish U.S. reserves of gas and oil, which will probably be in Alaska and new offshore fields, might prove to be a blessing for independent oil companies, the president of the Petroleum Equipment Suppliers Association (PESA) said Monday.

PESA president John B. Merritt of Los Angeles said at the 23rd annual convention of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association the push will be necessary because the "shrinkage" of domestic oil reserves has reached a critical state.

He said the new fields might "represent a gain for the independent because there is some feeling the major oil companies will be so busy in these areas they will want to farm out more of their domestic lease holdings to independent operators."

"Drilling in the U.S. has continued to decline over the past 12 years," he said. "And during this period, our nation has continued to use up its proved reserves of gas and oil at a rate faster than new supplies are being found."

Nixon To Approve $4.5 Million Tax Experiment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration is expected to approve soon the continuation of a three-year, $4.5 million experiment in negative income taxes for the poor.

The announcement, which may come today, will assure funds for a second year of the "graduated work incentive" project in three New Jersey cities.

It is not the first such action by the new administration, but it underscores Nixon's determination to test thoroughly alternatives to the costly and controversial public welfare

"How about overseas careers? The idea seems tremendously attractive for 'world-knowledge' schooling with pay."

A—Most readers who inquire about jobs abroad already know about the advantages: new places — new faces, premium wages and possible tax benefits permitting overseas workers to bolster their booty-bags within a few years.

So the essential question usually is: "How can I find a good job in a foreign country?" TRY AMERICAN. In general, stick with U.S. employers (they pay better) and conduct your job search through (1) private companies, nonprofit organizations and government agencies that operate overseas (2) private employment agencies or state employment service offices (3) classified ads in the larger newspapers and trade publications (4) professional societies and trade associations which operate placement services for their members.

CHANGING SCENES, 21 is usually the youngest age shipped out, except the Peace Corps which accepts 18-year-olds. There is often no upper age limit in government jobs; in private industry it varies with the employer.

You're asking for it if you fail to investigate the specific country before agreeing to go — even if premium wages are paid, they may not be adequate if living conditions are too expensive, not to mention the possibility of a Robinson Crusoe existence. If you can't talk with anyone who has actually been to the proposed country, write the country's consulate for information, including taxes imposed on foreign workers.

FOREIGN FLAVOR SKILLS. What kinds of occupations are in demand? A surprisingly wide range, though many are technical, administrative, educational or clerical types. You'll probably have to sign an agreement to stay a minimum length of time, usually two years. To obtain a job with private industry or a nonprofit organization, your best bet is to choose one with extensive overseas operations. After you're hired, you can work your way up to international assignments. Career government employees usually get first crack at the best overseas jobs, but qualified newcomers have a chance too. For a list of overseas job examination announcements, write the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C. 20415.

Smothers Brothers, CBS Continue Censor Fuss

NEW YORK (UPI)—The battle between the Smothers Brothers and the Columbia Broadcasting System continues, not on the air, but in the pages of a national magazine where Tom Smothers claimed that 75 per cent of his shows were censored.

Smothers said that of the 26 programs he and his brother made for CBS, 75 per cent were censored by the network, which has since canceled the "Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour," the top-rated Sunday night program which won an Emmy Award Sunday.

The remarks were made in the current issue of Look magazine, and released by the magazine Monday.

The article, which was accompanied by a rebuttal from CBS, said that Smothers has reason to believe that CBS' rival networks will not pick up the discontinued program.

Secret Picture Leads to Arrest Of Counterfeiter

AUSTIN (UPI)—A picture taken secretly at an Irving Department store led to the arrest of a parolee on charges stemming from the passing of a series of counterfeit state checks in the Dallas area.

Department of Public Safety officials said Monday Benny Gene Murray, 29, a printer from Lubbock, was arrested and his bond was set at $10,000.

Twenty-seven counterfeit checks, 17 of them blank, were found in Murray's Lubbock apartment, DPS officials said.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex. — Millions for welfare, billions for water, and trillions for wages, these three "W's" point up the money problem presently facing the State.

Final decision, of course, rests with those who eventually pay the bill — the people of Texas. Their decision as to whether they are willing to foot the bills with additional taxes will come through the ballot when they vote for or against constitutional amendments at the special election on August 5.

As for welfare, the welfare groups face a do-or-die effort to boost the welfare benefits ceiling from $60 million to $80 million a year. If that amendment fails, as a similar one did last November, the Legislature will have no opportunity to re-submit the increase before 1971. That means that benefit payments to the evergrowing list of recipients will decrease accordingly.

As for water, a massive statewide campaign is shaping up to sell Texans on a $3.5 billion revenue bond program that will be needed to bankroll the nation's largest state water development plan. A constitutional amendment on the August 5 ballot would authorize bonds — to be repaid by water users — to take care of the state's share of a $9 billion Texas Water Plan, the largest and boldest of its kind ever proposed.

As for wages, legislators and legislative leaders have a special interest in amendments to increase their salaries and to provide for annual sessions. Under one amendment the lieutenant governor and the speaker could be paid up to half the governor's salary ($50,000). Senators and representatives could be paid as much as district judges receive from state funds ($18,000 a year). Legislators already have passed an act raising their own pay. But it goes only from the present $4,800 to $6,800. Even this raise is subject to passage of the amendment.

TO DO OR NOT TO DO — Gov. Preston Smith is keeping to himself his decision on calling the Legislature back into session.

His "D-Day" is June 22, a Sunday. That's the last day for him to sign, veto or let become law without his signature, the $2.8 billion spending bill and the $61.9 million teacher pay bill.

Smith said if he signs the budget measure, the teacher pay raise "is dead" because there is not enough money for both.

Governor surprised teachers by criticizing the teacher pay bill. Earlier he had been critical of the Legislature's decision to vote a one-year appropriations bill instead of the traditional two-year bill.

Smith has expressed some disapproval of at least two of the revenue measures — a Department of Public Safety fund transfer and a $10 optional building use fee on students.

Smith is receiving many complaints about the appropriations bill as passed by the Legislature. College people are unhappy because funds for organized research were reduced.

Not enough money was put into the budget for the schools for mentally retarded children and for the new community mental health-mental retardation centers, according to the Texas Association for Retarded Children.

Joe Day Jr., president of the association, objected because the bill provided money for planning a new state school in the Houston area while the Board for Mental Health and Mental Retardation had requested that new schools be built at El Paso, the Rio Grande Valley and Northeast Texas.

A last-minute change also reduced the allocation for air pollution control work by $60,000 a year.

LA. Gov. Ben Barnes hopes that the governor will let the appropriations bill become law. He thinks that a year's wait will show that smaller taxes will be needed than if the Legislature levied them this year.

COURTS SPEAK — Reversing itself, the State Supreme Court ordered a new trial in a Houston-Pasadena land annexation dispute which dates back to 1965 overlapping annexation ordinances of the two cities.

In other recent action the Court: Reversed an $11,500 damage verdict against Coca-Cola bottlers in a Pittsburg, Texas suit by a woman claiming injuries when a bottle exploded.

Concluded that a Lubbock woman could not claim she was entitled to full widow's benefits since divorce proceedings were in progress though not finally settled when her ex-husband died.

Turned down a Fort Worth minister's claim that he had a lifetime contract as Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church pastor.

Held that producing and selling state aggregate products is not liable for sales taxes on transportation costs of moving material from plant site to delivery point.

Stood firm against appeal of a Port Arthur widow who claimed a Houston law firm got her to sign an agreement for its service in a damage suit while she was still in a state of shock over her husband's death.

Refused to disturb a Third Court of Civil Appeals ruling on condemnation proceedings involving mineral and oil rights for the Robert Lee Reservoir despite the attorney general's charge that it will vastly increase the cost of reservoir and highway development in the state.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — An elected criminal district judge cannot be a member of a county hospital district board of managers without waiving his right to state compensation, says Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

A specialized motor carrier means any of a variety of vehicles as defined in Texas statutes, not just those certified by the State Railroad Commission — said Martin — in another opinion. He also defined "base municipality" as referred to in transportation statutes as "any municipality to which other municipalities are immediately contiguous."

Treasurer Jesse James asked Martin to rule on the constitutionality of giving cigarette tax stamp purchasers 15 days to pay. (They are now on cash basis). Decision bears on whether revenue is available for teacher-pay raises.

Formation or non-profit food cooperatives of ultimate consumers does not violate Texas anti-trust statutes, Martin concluded.

EDUCATION — Members of the Coordinating Board for State Colleges and Universities decided to wait until its next meeting to take action on a request by Texas A&M to expand its forestry program into a full undergraduate-graduate program.

Board gave El Paso permission to go ahead with its junior college election. Sen. Joe Chrisite, head of the college steering committee, made the final presentation to the board — and got a nod from the members and a congratulatory handshake from Chairman Tom Sealy.

Consideration of a common calendar for all state-supported colleges was put off until the next meeting.

SHORT SNORTS
Senators selected as their interim president pro tempore Sen. Murray Watson Jr. of Waco, a 36-year-old veteran with 16 years legislative service.

Republican party leaders will meet here on June 30 to select a new state chairman to replace Peter O'Donnell Jr. (who becomes Texas National Committeeman) and vice chairman Virginia Streeter who is resigning.

Texas leads the nation in snake bite fatalities, according to the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Twenty-nine applications to sell $19,241,177 in securities in Texas has been filed with the State Securities Board and four applications to sell $9,393,996 in securities in the state have been granted by the board.

New state bank charters are sought in Lovelady and Texas City.

Pope Paul Says
He Wants Unity
In Churches

GENEVA (UPI)—Pope Paul VI told the Protestant-dominated World Council of Churches (WCC) today he was praying for an end to what the WCC called the "scandal" of a divided Christianity. But he said the time was not ripe for Catholics to join the council.

The pontiff, 71, came to this "Rome of Protestantism" today at invitation of the International Labor Organization (ILO) to observe its 50th birthday. He received the smallest welcome of any of his seven trips abroad since he became Pope.

In a 3,500-word address to the ILO the Pope made an impassioned plea for social justice for working men. He also warned that "the peace of the world is at stake" and appealed to nations to end what he called the terrible evils afflicting much of the world's people.

Membership Question
In his speech to the WCC, a fellowship of 234 Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox churches, the Pope raised the question that has been under study for some time between the WCC and the Vatican: "Should the Catholic Church become a member of the World Council?"

"In fraternal frankness, we do not consider that the question of the membership of the Catholic Church in the World Council is so mature that a positive answer could or should be given," he said. "The question... contains serious theological and postural implications."

At the outset of his speech, the Pope praised the WCC—which the Catholic Church condemned when the WCC was established in 1948—as "a marvelous movement," and he noted how the WCC and Catholicism have cooperated increasingly in recent years.

Peter's Descendants
But in a pointed remark, the Pope told WCC leaders: "Our name is Peter," observers said this clearly was intended to stress the Catholic claim that Christ named Peter as the head of the church and the popes are all Peter's descendants. This has been one of the principal barriers to reunion of Protestants and Orthodox with the Catholic Church.

The Pope's speech to the ILO ran 3,500 words.

In 1949, Chinese Communists entered Shanghai as Nationalist troops abandoned the city.

Recorded Conversations Released By FBI

By RICHARD STERN
NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—The Justice Department today made public 13 volumes of conversations the FBI recorded with hidden microphones in three establishments owned by known Mafia figures.

The material was obtained over a five-year period and includes fascinating new insights into the famed "Banana War," which was an underworld struggle in the late 1960s.

Also recorded are conversations between the mayor of Elizabeth and reputed Mafia kingpin Samuel "Sam the Plumber" Decavacante, who allegedly controls vast gambling enterprises in New Jersey.

The case of characters in the thousands of words of transcribed conversations include most of the key underworld figures in the New Jersey area and also mentions several high government officials.

Spina Mentioned
Among the officials are Newark Police Director Dominick A. Spina, who was acquitted last winter of charges he was lax on gamblers in Newark.

The volume was made public when U.S. attorneys in New Jersey filed the material in the federal court clerk's office. It was filed at the request of three defendants in an alleged shakedown of a dice game in 1966 at Treviso, Pa.

Typical of the material is the following conversation in November, 1964 between Elizabeth Mayor Thomas G. Dunn and Decavacante. It was made at Decavacante's heating and plumbing plant outside Elizabeth just days before Dunn's election.

Decavacante: "So I wish you a lot of luck. Can you use this in your campaign?"

Dunn: "Thank you, Sam. You bet I can use it. Enjoy your trip to Florida. When are you leaving?"

Decavacante: "Do you think we could get any city work?"

Dunn (laughs): "Well, maybe."

Restrain Persons
The FBI indicated in explanatory notes that they believe Dunn visited the plant to restrain persons who had made references in the campaign to Dunn's alleged connection to gambling interests in Elizabeth.

The note added that Dunn later asked Decavacante to "tell the guys to keep their mouths shut."

Decavacante replied, "Oh, sure."

FBI notes accompanying the transcripts said the microphones were hidden from 1961 to 1965 at The Barn, a mountainside nightclub owned by reputed Mafia Captain Angelo "The Gyp" Decario. Decavacante's office at his plant, and in offices of Best Sales Co., one of the business enterprises owned by Gerardo "Jerry" Catena, considered the caretaker of New Jersey Mafia rackets once owned by the late Vito Genovese.

Joe Namath: An Analysis of His Retirement

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEW YORK—(NEA)—The

young lady from Flatwoods, Ky., wasn't exactly surprised by the sudden defection—or otherwise—of Joe Willie Namath from professional football.

Bess Ison isn't even quite sure what it is that Joe Willie does. But she is sure about the personality of the exalted quarterback of the New York Jets. And one cannot really appreciate the latest brouhaha surrounding Broadway Joe unless one delves into Joe's Psyche.

That's Bess' bag—analyzing people.

"He is changeable and very moody," she says. "No one can predict his actions. He wishes to set himself apart from the mainstream of ordinary humanity in order to avoid encroachments and attacks on his ego."

"He must see himself as superior to others. He is critical of others in his desire to increase his own status. It is difficult to relate to him since he considers himself superior to people and infallible in opinion and judgment. He may even be proud of his negative qualities.

"By setting himself up as a paragon, he isolates himself socially and thus escapes into an area where the disapproval or rejection of his fellows cannot injure him. His problems began when he was very young."

All this lofty jargon about a young man who wears white football shoes and throws a spheroid for a living stems from a very simple analysis. Bess studied a specimen of Joe Namath's handwriting. She's a graphoanalyst.

Don't snicker. Read on further:

"He has sensuous appetites and is very selective about his friends. He has very feminine traits in clothes (but aren't all men's clothes feminine now?). He is very frank and says what he thinks. He can be very sarcastic. This is a defense mechanism—a warning to keep others at arm's length so he can't be hurt any more."

"Keep in mind he is ruled by his emotions so he will be loyal as long as he feels he should be."

Now a quick confession. Bess did not know that it was Joe Namath's scrawl which was deciphering for subliminal traits. She didn't even know that he was a celebrated football player. Her analysis was an experimental probe at defining the enigma that is Joe Namath. Bess has been doing it for her neighbors in Flatwoods for years. At least, it's a lively grass roots look at the pair of Bachelors III, unpriced by prior knowledge.

"The most outstanding negative trait is vanity or exaggerated self-esteem," she notes. "It stems from feelings of rejection and injured pride and serves as compensation for the real or fancied disapproval of his associates."

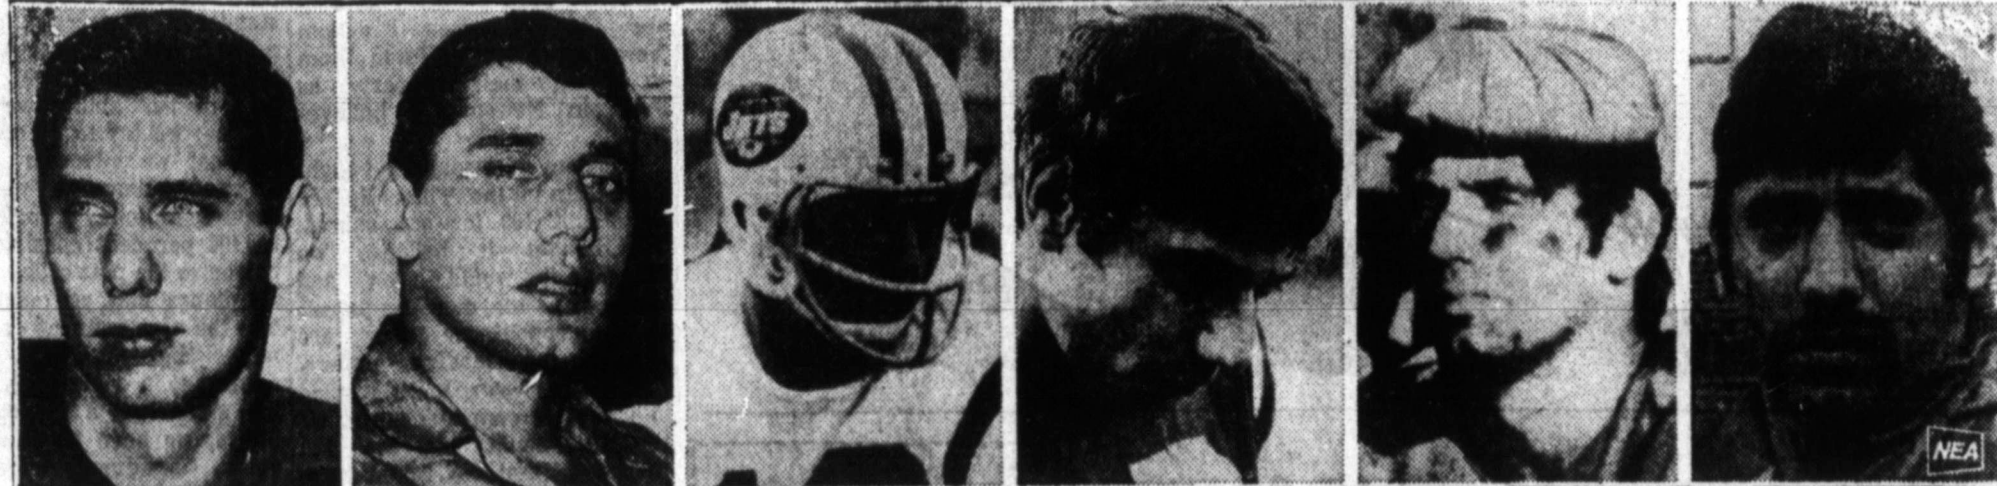

"He can be very loyal to people and organizations. But he is also suspicious and cautious of others. He thinks everyone has a motive in dealing with him. As a result, he tends to be clannish but can camouflage it by a casual interest in many people."

"His fear of ridicule is an effective negative influence in his social development. It is probably that he has reduced the degree of it since his adolescence, but his scars are deep. Consequently, his defenses are strong."

"The only indication of philosophy in his writing is distorted. The only philosophy he has built supports his peculiar ideas and the ones concerning specific problems in his life without injuring his ego. He will not accept other ideas. He has to find his own."

Now Bess here's a sample of Pete Rozelle's handwriting, and...

JOE NAMATH — "The most outstanding negative trait is vanity or exaggerated self-esteem."

National League Roundup

Mets Have 'Pennant Fever'

By United Press International
The Mets' "Mobile Unit" is spreading pennant fever in New York.

Tommie Agee and Cleon Jones, the Mets' flashy, young outfielders from Mobile, Ala., smashed three home runs and drove in six runs between them Tuesday night to lead New York to a 9-4 triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

The victory was the Mets' 11th in a row, the longest streak in the majors this season, and kept the second place Mets seven games behind Chicago in the National League's Eastern Division. The Cubs held on to their lead by downing Atlanta 3-1.

Elsewhere St. Louis edged Cincinnati 5-4, Houston beat Pittsburgh 7-4, Los Angeles shaded Philadelphia 2-1 and Montreal whipped San Diego 7-4.

Agee hit a pair of solo home runs, his eighth and ninth of the season, and Jones slammed a three-run shot in the four-run seventh inning to spark the Mets. Agee tied the score at 1-1 with his fourth inning homer and added another in the ninth to help Don Cardwell record his second victory in eight decisions.

"It's been quite a while since I hit one out of the park," said Agee. "It sure feels good."

"Pitching, defense, base hits, breaks...that's what's doing it for us," said Manager Gil Hodges. "We're finally getting some runs for our pitchers. Cardwell signaled to me in the ninth that he was tired and after I saw the Giants' belt those two long home runs, I agreed with him."

Cardwell, who had three hits, scored a run and drove in another, gave up ninth inning homers to Willie McCovey (No. 20) and Jack Hiatt. Ron Taylor relieved and shut off the Giants' rally.

Willie Smith and Ron Santo hit eighth inning homers to give the Cubs their victory over the Braves, the Western Division leaders.

Lou Brock led off the game with a homer to ignite a four-run rally that carried the Cardinals past the Reds. Bob Gibson pitched an eight-hitter and struck out 11 batters in boosting his record to 8-3.

10th homer with two out. The victory left the Cubs with a 4-0 record this season against the Braves, the Western Division leaders.

Lou Brock led off the game with a homer to ignite a four-run rally that carried the Cardinals past the Reds. Bob Gibson pitched an eight-hitter and struck out 11 batters in boosting his record to 8-3.

Powell Hits to Left, Orioles Are Winners

By United Press International
Boog Powell is hitting to left again and that's one of the reasons why the Baltimore Orioles are going the right way.

The 6-foot-4, 240-pound Baltimore first baseman is strong enough to clobber opposite field homers to left with ease and that's what he did Tuesday night as the Orioles routed the California Angels 11-4.

The left-handed swinger blasted a 420-foot shot to left field for a three-run homer that highlighted a six-run second inning and enabled the Orioles to coast to the victory and move four games in front of the rest of the teams in the Eastern Division.

"When I'm hitting the ball well, I hit to left field," Powell said, "my homers usually come when you least expect them. I'm going for the base hit and the power is there. In 1966 when we won the pennant, I hit 17 of my 34 homers to left and I've hit five of my 11 to left this season."

Powell drove in 10 runs in 1966 with a .287 average and this year he's ahead of that pace with 47 RBIs and a .302 average.

"June has been a great month for me in the past," he noted.

"We've got too many good bats on this club to go into a team slump. There's the Robinsons, Paul Blair, Dave Johnson and myself. And we've gotten added punch from Mark Belanger. Every one of his hits is a bonus," he said.

Powell has hit just 234 and .249 with 55 and 85 RBIs the past two years and that's one of the reasons the Orioles didn't win after their 1966 success. But this year Powell is on the beam and the Orioles are breezing along in first place.

In other American League action, Minnesota edged Boston 6-2, Chicago routed Cleveland 9-5, Detroit blanked Seattle 5-0, Oakland topped Washington 6-4 and Kansas City nipped New York 7-6.

Nicklaus, Palmer Aren't Open Picks

HOUSTON (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer aren't scaring anybody these days—on the eve of the 1969 U.S. Open golf championship both of them admit they have problems.

"I know what I'm doing wrong," admitted golden bear Nicklaus after playing an 18-

Cokes Training For Return Bout

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Former world welterweight boxing champ Curt Cokes of Dallas began training in Mexico City Tuesday for his return match with champion Jose "Butterball" Napoles—predicting that he would knock out Napoles and recover the crown before the tenth round.

Napoles, who was born in Cuba but has fought out of Mexico City for many years, took the championship away from Cokes April 18 in Los Angeles. The two met again June 29 in the 48,000-seat Plaza Mexico bull ring.

Cokes, who arrived Monday night, opened his local training with some light exercises at the Avenida Gym Tuesday.

Pancho Rosales, Mexico City boxing manager picked as his local advisor, said Cokes "could hardly wait to get to the gym. He is determined to win back the crown, and it looks like Napoles will have a tougher fight on his hands this time, judging by Cokes' condition."

Cokes said Napoles "surprised me with his speed, especially his left, the last time. But this time I'm going to be ready for him. I intend to knock him out before the 10th round—save the judges the trouble of adding up all those points."

hole practice round over the steaming Cypress Creek Course where a field of 139 pros and 11 amateurs open battle Thursday in the 72-hole contest for the title won last year by Texan Lee Trevino.

"I just haven't been able to correct it," said Nicklaus. The two-time U.S. Open Champion from Ohio didn't disclose what his problem is, but he hasn't won a tournament since San Diego back in January and on Tuesday he dropped a little Nassau money to Palmer's two-over-par 72.

"Palmer, getting ready for the last Open he'll play under the age of 40, also knows what he has been doing wrong in recent years and he thinks he may be correcting it. It's his 'concentration.'"

And strangely enough, being forced to qualify in sectional competition to earn a spot in this year's Open may have been the blessing in disguise that helped him find the cure.

"I went out there knowing I had to play well to qualify," explained the Latrobe, Pa., star whose eligibility for an automatic starting berth expired this year. "It forced me to concentrate. It was like in the old days: when I just had to make a hundred bucks if I was going to get to the next stop on the tour."

Palmer, now nine years past his only Open triumph qualified with a 70-68 in Pennsylvania. Both he and Nicklaus have been grimly determined in their practice here and after their 18-hole workout Tuesday, they spent time on the practice tee and then went right back out for another nine holes despite the 93-degree heat and 41 per cent humidity which combined to make it hot going over Cypress.

Girl's Softball Season to Start Here in August

Registration for women's softball in Pampa will not be held until July, according to Mrs. Buddy Thornton, softball secretary.

Mrs. Thornton said the ladies would not start play until August, after the youth leagues had finished and games could be played at night on Optimist Club Park.

A later announcement will carry the date and time for registration.

Toil, Taxes and Trouble

"Nothing is so powerful as an idea whose time has come." The words are those of Victor Hugo, nineteenth century French poet and novelist, who saw that armies, in opposition to a consuming idea, were as nothing. The words are also the title of the last chapter in a book, "Toil, Taxes and Trouble" (E. P. Dutton and Co., Inc., 1952, New York, N.Y.) written by Miss Vivien Kellems in protest against the federal income tax laws.

It was Miss Kellems' contention that the income tax amendment was slipped over the unwary American taxpayer by followers of the Marx-Engels communistic doctrine as an instrument to destroy the capitalist, private enterprise way of life. As for the withholding provisions of the law, added later as a "temporary" war-time measure, it was the author's belief that it commandeers every employer into involuntary servitude, assumes that every American worker is unfit to administer his own affairs, sows seeds of dissension between employer and employee and conceals the hold which the politicians have acquired on every pay envelope.

In short, Miss Kellems saw both the basic income tax law and the added withholding provisions as massive theft cloaked behind the facade of legality. It was her conviction, hence her choice of Hugo's words as the title for the last chapter of her book, that, once the thievish nature of income taxes was recognized, the income tax amendment was doomed.

We think that her observations, being borne out by the current and accelerating nationwide tax revolt, are of monumental significance for essentially two reasons:

1. One cannot objectively examine and recognize the thievish nature of income taxes without, at the same time, examining and recognizing the thievish nature of all taxation.

2. One cannot objectively examine and condemn the thievish practice of taxation without going further and subjecting it to critical examination the institution of political government itself.

But we have spoken of Miss Kellems in the past tense and that is misleading, for the young lady (an industrialist at 72) is still alive and still fighting as the IRS will attest, and as we reported recently. A number of years ago she refused to collect taxes from her employees on the basis of the prohibition against involuntary servitude in the Constitution. She lost that battle with the IRS and the courts, possibly, because others in business did not rally to her cause and defense.

In her latest battle with the IRS, she has signed and filed an income tax return vowing that she will not pay any more income taxes until the treasury returns to her $73,409.03; the amount of taxes plus six percent interest which she says was taken from her illegally because she has no husband.

"There is no law," she points out in a letter written to Treasury Secretary David S. Kennedy, "that says single people must pay at a higher rate than married people. Congress never has, nor does it dare pass such a law; even the Supreme Court would have to declare it unconstitutional."

"If you can tax me because I am single," she told Kennedy, "you can tax me because my eyes are gray, my hair is white, or I am 72 years old. I have no more control over these conditions than I have over my marital status. How many eligible single men, age 72 or thereabouts, do you know?"

Last we heard, Nixon's treasury secretary had not ventured a reply.

UN's 25 Years of 'Peace'

The United Nations will be 25 years old next year, and Secretary General U Thant has ordered a celebration.

Appointed chairman of a committee to make plans for the silver jubilee is Richard Maximilian Akwei, Ghana's ambassador to the organization.

In an interview with a New Yorker magazine reporter, Akwei said his 25-nation committee has done a lot of considering but has made few final decisions. It has been agreed, however, said Akwei, that commemorative stamps will be issued and special medals will be struck.

"The stamps will be designed around the theme of 25 years of peace and progress, the two most important concerns and objectives of the U.N.," committee chairman Akwei explained. "The medals will be struck around the same theme—peace and progress—" he said. It may take a while for those words to sink in, but he did say "peace and progress." And that's what the U.N. is going to celebrate 25 years—the 25 just ending next year — of peace?

That's what we thought, too. The U.S. alone has lost more than 30,000 dead in Vietnam. Not to mention Korea, and there's been Castro and Cuba, the Arab, and Israelis have gone at it twice beyond their everyday exchanges of friendly shellings. Pakistan and India, China and India, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, The Congo, Nigeria, Tibet, Goa, Red China and the Soviet Union... All these have been involved in actions that no one, not even the U.N., we think, could call peaceful, and in the past 25 years.

The interview with the reporter was ended by Mr. Akwei, who said he was late for another committee meeting. He said it was the U.N. Special Committee on the Question of Defining Aggression. The committee certainly has its work cut out for it if the parent U.N. can celebrate 25 years of what it calls peace.

Self-Government Is Best

In an article on Carl Schurz, secretary of the interior under President Hayes, the newspaper La Liberté (Fitchburg, Mass.) stated that he "in this post contributed much to the advancement of good government in this country, a cause for which Carl Schurz fought all his life."

Mr. Schurz's goal was commendable, but his approach to it through a political post is a futile one. There is such a thing as good government, but bureaucrats don't create it. The only kind of good government is best-self government, with each individual a governor of his own life.

Hitching Hope To the Stars

By DON OAKLEY

One of the paradoxes of our times is the current upsurge of interest in the occult. Business was never better for the casters of horoscopes and authors of books on astrology and prophecy.

What makes it even more paradoxical is that so many young people, reared in an age of science, are dabbling in astrology, witchcraft, spiritualism, tarot cards, the mysticism of the East and the like.

The new interest is attributed in part to an effort to fill the vacuum, which students say is failing to solve problems, and in part to an effort to fill the void left by a turning away from conventional religion. Some students also see in the occult a chance to control their own destinies, even though they may only half believe that it works.

One of the newest publications directed at this enduring interest is called "Psychic." In its inaugural issue, the magazine reports that "disaster warning systems" have been set up in London and New York.

In London, the Central Premonitions Bureau, a working part of the London Evening Standard, collects and analyzes premonitions of disasters. The center was created largely as a result of an unusual number of prophetic dreams and premonitions preceding the October, 1967, tragedy in Aberfan, Wales, where an avalanche of slag killed 116 children and adults.

So far, the psychic warning system has collected over 600 premonitions, most of them concerning air crashes, earthquakes and political events. Over-all aim of the project is to develop methods of coming to disasters and prevent loss of life.

In New York, the Central Premonitions Registry is looking for premonitions involving national or world events, known personalities and other nonpersonal precognitive experiences.

If you've had a bad dream lately about some public disaster that hasn't happened yet, tell it to the registry at Box 482, Times Square Station, New York City. They'll take it seriously.

CONVERTING FELLOW-TRAVELERS

The individualists who comprise the Freedom side are slow and weak in organizing because of their distaste for regimentation and their pride in being individualists. The Freedom side campaign has not been working as well as it could, perhaps because of lack of organization.

A cure for this failure would be to convert fellow-travelers and capture these organizations, thereby becoming organized for Freedom. Fellow-travelers are never apathetic. They want to take a side. They are eager to "become involved."

The individual communists freely state that each fellow-traveler can do 10 times as much for their cause as a hard-core party member can, and no doubt feel that each fellow-traveler may be worth 100 times as much.

One person can engage in a mission to convert fellow-travelers, for they are not afflicted with apathy and want to "get in on the act" even though on the wrong side. These converts may be more dedicated and accomplish vastly more than someone who has always been on the Right side.

When converted, one would be able to accomplish as much as 10 patriots. They understand how to keep from being branded extremists.

This movement to capture control of fronts, either good or bad, is worth trying. It has been neglected rather than disproven. Few will maintain that it can't be done. For those who think it is getting late, it is worth trying; and, if communism and crime are about to destroy our nation, it could save our Republic from this sad fate.

WASHINGTON — Broadcasters and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) are bracing for an attack on radio and television programming policies directed by a top theoretician of the "New Left."

Stations here and in neighboring states will be the first to feel the impact of the inquiry. Radio and television outlets in other areas may be subjected to similar scrutiny later.

While programming policies of broadcasters will be the initial focus for a legal task force headed by Marcus Raskin, co-director of the Institute for Policy Studies here, FCC licensing policies — the standards by which stations are licensed — are its ultimate target.

Under the Federal Communications Act, the airwaves are public property. Raskin explains that his task force wants to find out whether licensed broadcasters operate in the public interest or in their own, commercial interests.

The three-year licenses of all broadcasters in this area — D.C., Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia — expire together on Oct. 1. That is why they are to be the first ones to have their programming reviewed by the Raskin group.

Raskin hopes "an analysis of programming and public interest" for those stations can be made public by the group well in advance of the expiration date.

Raskin has been an outspoken critic of the Vietnam war and a political activist and writer for "New Left" causes. A year ago he was found guilty, in a much publicized case, of conspiring to advise young men to evade the draft.

He was the only defendant acquitted in that Boston case which resulted in guilty verdicts against Dr. Benjamin Spock, the non-bellicose pediatrician, Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., the Yale University chaplain, and two others.

LIKE NADER'S RAIDERS—Raskin has rounded up half a dozen lawyers and law students, well acquainted with communications law, to do the spadework in the inquiry. In that respect, the group is more or less consciously patterned after "Nader's Raiders"—a group organized by Ralph Nader to study the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

However, "Nader's Raiders" were only able to level public criticism against FTC policies which they found to be ineffectual. The Raskin group can and will go further.

At license renewal time other applicants can challenge renewal requests. Very few of the 2,500 renewals filed annually have been challenged in the past, but the FCC, in a controversial case, did recently reassign a Boston television license to a challenging applicant.

By publicizing deficiencies in programming before renewal time, the Raskin group will, in effect, be spotlighting licenses which might be subject to successful challenge. The group can then assist in challenges based on failure to provide adequate community services.

Recent revision of FCC regulations will make the challenge process a bit more difficult for the Raskin group and others who may want to contest renewals in the future. Under the old rules, a competing application could be filed at any time before renewal, but newly approved regulations require that such challenges be made by 30 days before the renewal date.

Nevertheless, if the Raskin group publishes criticism of stations hereabouts in the early autumn, some of them may find their renewal applications challenged before the deadline.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSFORD Keep Up Unending War Against Common Housefly

With no friends and countless enemies, the housefly has shown remarkable ability to survive. The adult lives only about 30 days but during this time the female usually lays over 100 eggs every four days. Counting "children," "grandchildren," etc., one female fly under ideal conditions could be the progenitor of over 5 trillion flies in one summer. From this it can be seen that, if a few are eaten by birds, a few more are swatted and a fair number succumb to insecticides, the survivors can close ranks and still look forward to a rosy future.

Since flies feed on filth and may carry disease germs to your table, the problem boils down to keeping them away from your food. From the community standpoint the best way to deal with them is to destroy their breeding place—manure piles in the country and uncovered garbage cans in the city.

In your home you should keep door and window screens in good repair. If any flies sneak past or through these barriers, track them down relentlessly with spray bomb, fly paper, trap or swatter. The disease you prevent may be dysentery, typhoid or the viral hepatitis that is becoming more prevalent each year.

A—I assume you are referring to Dupuytren's contracture. This is a progressive thickening of the strong fibrous sheath between the skin of the palms and the tendons of the hand muscles. The exact cause is not known but heredity seems to be a factor. The usual treatment is surgical correction. Recent studies show that prolonged stretching by a physiotherapist may be helpful.

Q—What is the cause of myelofibrosis with myeloid metaplasia? Can it be cured? A—In myelofibrosis there is a spotty replacement of the bone marrow. Myeloid metaplasia is another name for this disease, the cause of which is unknown. Transfusions may be needed. Busulfan and male hormone are used in the treatment. In some victims, removal of the spleen is beneficial.

Mrs. Smith — And do you set the alarm?

Susan — Every night.

Mrs. Smith — But don't you hear the alarm in the morning, Susan?

Susan — No, Ma'am. That's the trouble. You see the thing goes off while I'm asleep.

Question Box

QUESTION: I read where the Freedom Newspapers also has an interest in the Los Angeles Times. If this is true doesn't it indicate a double standard? One wouldn't say the Times was a conservative paper.

ANSWER: We do not see how the owning of stock in the L. A. Times by Freedom Newspapers is acting by a double standard. Everyone has a right to dispose of his property as he sees fit and Freedom Newspapers therefore has a right to dispose of part of its property in investment wherever it feels the investment may be worthwhile. Freedom Newspapers does not in any way hinder anyone else from investing their property as they see fit, nor does Freedom Newspapers try to force them to invest their property as Freedom Newspapers believes best.

Freedom Newspapers bought the stock in the Times before they split 100 for one shares. We bought it because we thought it would grow and develop, as the morning papers in metropolitan cities are usually the leading papers.

Freedom Newspapers wanted to invest in companies that we thought would increase the fastest so that we would have more money, with which to buy other newspapers. Though the Times may not be in agreement with the philosophy of Freedom Newspapers, nevertheless, profit from it thus helps support Freedom Newspaper's philosophy and helps spread it.

It is our opinion that all metropolitan newspapers that we know of except Freedom Newspapers believe in a double standard. They believe the state has a right to do things that no individual has a moral right to do and they actively advocate the state doing what no individual has a moral right to do.

A single standard of right is our objective and we do everything we can to try to get people to understand that it's to the benefit of everyone if they and the governments respect the private property of every other individual, and the most important property every man has is his life and the right to make decisions.

The president of Freedom Newspapers doesn't even take the Times or read it. However, the company does take the Times and our editors read it. Most newspapers want to know what the opposition papers are doing.

While we do not see that owning stock in the Times is acting by a double standard since it is the right of everyone to use his property as he decides is best; still, it may be said that we are not consistent if we invest in a company that does follow a double standard. However, we have never contended that we were 100 per cent consistent. To the best of our ability we try to be, and we try to be consistent in what we advocate, but we do not believe a man can survive in today's society and be 100 per cent consistent. We patronize the post office and use air planes that are subsidized by the government and we might be regarded as inconsistent in doing so, but when the state has a monopoly on things, we have no choice. We can, however, consistently object that this is wrong, and advocate a change.

And in the circumstances of life as it is, we are obligated to protect our property as best we can by making as profitable investments as possible and are obligated to attempt to increase it so that the actions of the state cannot destroy it all. We have to know what our opposition is doing and we have to invest wisely so we can grow. When we grow, others benefit, for jobs are provided and made stable, and our product, the newspaper itself, benefits buyer and seller by bringing them together through the advertising pages. The news presented enables people to learn and to have better information with which to plan their own lives and to make better decisions.

WASHINGTON:

Toll of Big City Riots: Small Stores, Negro Jobs

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is now becoming tragically apparent just who are the victims of big city riots.

The most complete official studies to date perhaps have been little-advertised research on the April, 1968, riots following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

These findings, revealed at congressional hearings over the past few weeks, show that 80 per cent of those businesses hit in the 1968 Washington, D.C., riots were small neighborhood shops; 34 per cent had a total income of less than $5,000 a year.

More than half the damaged establishments were marginal. More than one-third produced earnings for their owners below or around the poverty line, according to officials who made the studies.

Some 57 per cent of the jobs destroyed in the Washington riots were Negro jobs.

Indications are that most of these small neighborhood businesses were family establishments, handed down from grandfather to father to son. These were the sole family assets. At least, this was true apparently in the worst-hit sections of Newark, N.J.

A substantial percentage of the owner-proprietors of these small family marginal stores in Washington were older people in their 50s and 60s. As they died or moved, the figures indicate, management of the businesses was taken over by young Negroes.

Some estimators believe that without the riots the change-over would have been largely complete in less than 20 years.

In proportion to their numbers in Washington, Negro-managed establishments were hit as frequently as white.

This does not paint a very pretty picture. It has been popular to say that the rioters were lashing out against the conditions in which they live, against exploiters and against their having no voice in things.

No doubt there was some of this. But the data in Washington, at least, seems to show that, by and large, the businesses hit were those where the looting was best. In numbers of cases the looters apparently were well off and in some cases better off than the proprietors of the stores being looted. There were some instances of the rich looting the poor.

In businesses where the distinction was clear, rioters often did no destruction at all to stores owned by known "gougers" who had nothing easily looted. They passed these by, and instead hit shops owned and operated by men and women known to be friendly and helpful to the Negro community, but stocked with items easily carried off.

Eighty-five per cent of the business establishments hit had merchandise stolen.

The condition of those who live in city slums sorely needs improving.

Something must be done to give the man in the slums (black or white) and his children the same opportunities to make something of their lives as those open to other people.

But in this effort it is to be effectively, it must be based on fact. We must not build fanciful pictures of what is going on.

Texas Politics

By REP. MALOUF ABRAHAM

The Regular Session of the 61st Legislature has ended and we are 'real happy' to be back home. We are going to Canada to a convention for a few days, but hope to get a chance to visit with you soon. It takes a while to get readjusted and start finding out something about your business after a five months absence.

We will soon know what Governor Smith's decision will be on the One Year Budget. I still think that we will find ourselves back in Austin before the summer is over. We had over 1,450 bills in the House and about 650 in the Senate to consider. Most of these bills died for various reasons and we passed less than half of them. A few we passed should have been killed.

However, I think we passed a great deal of much needed legislation. The new Medical School at Texas Tech will be a tremendous thing for all of West Texas. We created another Medical School in Houston and have contracted with Baylor Medical School for doubling their enrollment over the next ten years. We created new Dental Schools and additional Nursing facilities. Several Junior and Senior Colleges were approved to help take care of the big increase expected over the next several years.

The Vocational Training School at Amarillo Air Force Base will be another big thing for our area. This is badly needed to take care of the big demand for trained people in our various industries. Texas has been way behind on Vocational and Technical training in all areas. Bi-lingual instruction, the start of a kindergarten program, the teacher pay raise bill and many other improvements in all phases of education should go a long way towards raising our standard of living in Texas. You will recall that we are one of the lowest states in per capita income. All of this takes a lot of money and I hope that we have made a wise investment.

During the summer, I would like to have an opportunity to discuss our overall problems of State government with you. We are faced with many challenges and most of them are difficult and expensive to solve. There are no easy ways out, and it will get worse before it gets better. In spite of some of the things I don't like, I am convinced that we here in Texas can find the answers better and cheaper than Washington. There are two sides to every question and it takes everyone's help to try and work out what is best.

You are all invited to be guests at the Governor's Mansion Monday June 23rd, from 5 until 7 p.m. He has invited the Panhandle people to come and visit them and it will be a most enjoyable event. My wife and I will be in the House Party and we hope that a lot of you will make an effort to come down. I would like for you to write and tell me if you can come and how many, so that I can let the Governor know. This would be most educational for your children. That's not long off, so talk it over and let me know.

Army Nurse Who Wanted To Help Dies In Blast

SAIGON (UPI)—A 25-year-old Army nurse who wrote her father she "wanted to help in Vietnam" was killed when a rocket smashed into a field hospital, military officials said today.

1st Lt. Sharon A. Lane of Canton, Ohio, was the first woman in the U.S. armed forces killed in action in Vietnam.

Miss Lane suffered shrapnel wounds in the throat when a 122-mm rocket exploded near a ward of the U.S. 312th Evacuation Hospital at Chu Lai Sunday.

Several women members of the armed forces have died in Vietnam, but from what the military calls nonhostile causes, mostly plane crashes. Lt. Lane's death was officially listed as from "hostile action."

The rocket that blasted the Chu Lai complex also killed a Vietnamese child and wounded 25 Vietnamese civilians, a U.S. military spokesman said.

"All the patients were sleeping," said 2nd Lt. Patricia E. Carr of Louisville, Ky. Lt. Carr shared night duty with Lt. Lane.

"We were just relaxing before starting to wake the patients at 6 a.m.," Lt. Carr said.

"I was sitting behind the desk and Lt. Lane was sitting on an empty bed when the rocket hit," she said.

Miss Lane had arrived for duty at the hospital April 29. In Canton, Ohio, John Lane, her father, said his daughter had written him about her duty there.

"In her letters, she said she wanted to help in Vietnam," he said.

"It was a decision she made by herself and one that I did not question," Lane said. "She volunteered to serve in either South Vietnam or Korea."

SLING SPAGHETTI SASSARI, Sardinia (UPI)—Tore Pinna, 42, was charged with disturbing the court Tuesday after he hurled a platter of hot spaghetti and tomatoes at 11 men on trial for kidnapping.

15,000 Delegates Attend Confab

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—War, poverty, racism, the deterioration of moral values, birth control and pollution echoed in the ears of some 15,000 delegates opening the 112th annual meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention today.

The Baptists split into separate groups of pastors, laymen, students and women to hear themselves challenged time and again Monday as a prelude to the opening tonight of the main convention of the 11.3 million member church, the largest Protestant denomination in the world.

Jess C. Moody, a pastor from West Palm Beach, Fla., challenged some 6,000 pastors at a meeting to stand up against war as a way to peace. "If we use war to gain peace, we will have a warlike peace, a peace that just can't wait to get back to war," he said.

A Negro Southern Baptist home missionary to Harlem, Roderick Loney, told some 3,500 Baptist women about the same time "black men and the black church are deeply scarred and mutilated by a socio-political-religious system that has been designed to keep us out."

Loney said he disagreed with tactics and remedies sought by black militant James Forman of Atlanta who is asking $500 million in reparations to Negroes. He called Forman's demands "limited and short sighted."

In 1967, Congress extended the draft law for four years.

And Another Thing

By RUTH LEWIS

Thomas Carlyle once commented, "Wherever you go, you never arrive until the next day."

I had to read that sentence over twice the first time I came upon it. But how true it is. When you travel from here to there, the aura and flavor of the place you have left remain with you to the end of the journey. You have, in fact, to sleep over it before you awaken to the new atmosphere.

If this be true—and for me it is, even in case of a short journey—it must be doubly difficult to become one with your surroundings after flying across the ocean. One woman commented "My soul hasn't caught up yet."

But maybe this is half the fun of jetting over the Atlantic.

As for Hawaii, I am afraid I personally never would feel I had "arrived."

A card from my son, written from Houston Sunday evening, read, "We are half an hour away from boarding time. Our flight time is 6 p.m. We'll stop in New York, then on to Paris. (I still can't believe it.)"

This young man, after having spent at least six college years studying the Shakespeare country, the Elizabethan writers and English history, now is to have the chance of seeing the terrain of which the Bard wrote. As did Chaucer and Beowulf.

Sam's Ph.D. thesis subject was "The very trail Heywood took in writing 'Fair Maid of the West.'" My son's specific area in his Elizabethan Drama dissertation.

I say "he." His wife, also an Elizabethan Literature specialist, will be as interested, although her own dissertation dealt with Shakespeare and honor specifically.

I asked the two, just as a personal favor, to take a look at, and maybe a picture of the late Howard Spring's home at Cornwall. I am a Spring enthusiast and if they had crossed the ocean three years ago, the two might actually have met him.

Marjorie's cousin, on assignment to The Hague for Union Oil Co., has suddenly been called to Italy on business for the company, hence will not be seen, she reports. This is a disappointment of course.

Almost everyone has heard of the "peck order" that exists among hens, either in the barnyard or, it is supposed, on the poultry farm. It was a poultry specialist at Kansas State University who discovered this interesting fact—and how many hours he spent leaning over fences watching the flocks I could not try to estimate.

He established the fact so completely however that it has been proved many times over by other specialists.

I do not recall the man's name nor do I remember what characteristics of the "top drawer" hens made them the elite. But now along comes another agricultural specialist, who asserts that cows also have what would be called a peck order in chickens.

The cows have been studied so closely and with such intentness that observers now know the bovine requirements for status among their kind. First, longer than usual horns. Second, size.

In 1935, Babe Ruth hit the 714th and last home run of his career with the Boston Braves during a game at Pittsburgh.

1970 Fiscal Budget Plans Not Revealed

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Preston Smith today refused to say what he will do with a one-year budget for fiscal 1970, but he made one thing clear—lawmakers will be back in session before the 1971 primary elections.

The governor, in an impromptu news conference, said he is still consulting with state comptroller Robert S. Calvert about the one-year $2.8 billion spending bill approved by the legislature.

He said he is "trying to determine if the bill fulfills the needs of the state whereby it can grow soundly, economically and progressively next year."

However, Smith indicated he will veto a bill increasing student fees at state universities by $10 a semester. Such a move could cripple, if not kill, the appropriation measure.

Asked if he would allow the fee increase to become law, Smith said "I doubt it. I hate to see us take a back door entrance to a tuition increase."

If the governor vetoes the general appropriation bill, the legislature would have to be called back into special session to write a two-year budget bill before the next fiscal year begins Sept. 1.

"Even if I sign the bill, and if the people indicate they want a two-year bill Aug. 5, we'll be back down here in January to write one," he said.

"We ain't going to have any free ride until after the elections are over."

In 1962, all 45 persons aboard a jet flight from Chicago to Kansas City died when the plane crashed in southeastern Iowa.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The fourth annual Critics' Consensus has honored the controversial CBS-TV documentary "Hunger in America" as the most memorable television program of the past year.

Eighteen daily newspaper television columnists, including this writer, are members of the nationwide Critics' Consensus. The period covered in the latest voting was from May 1, 1968 to May 17, 1969.

"Hunger in America," part of the "CBS Reports" series of occasional broadcasts, was the only program to receive the required two-thirds vote of the columnists.

This was the second consecutive year that only one show got two-thirds of the ballots. The lone winner in 1968 was ABC-TV's four-hour documentary, "Africa."

"Hunger in America," which touched nerves in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, was written by producer Martin Carr and associated producer Peter Davis. The reporters were David Culhane and Charles Kuralt. Don Hewitt was the executive producer.

The runner-up to "Hunger in America," was ABC-TV's summer Olympics coverage in Mexico City. It got 10 votes, or a majority.

Third in the voting was ABC-TV's weekly series of original musical comedies, "That's Life," which dealt with a newlywed couple played by Robert Morse and E. J. Peaker. The series has been canceled by the network because of very low ratings. It got nine affirmative votes in the critics' consensus.

Fourth, with eight ballots, was Geraldine Page for her performance in ABC-TV's "The Thanksgiving Visitor," an hour special based on Truman Capote's reminiscences of his childhood in the rural South.

Seven votes went to National Educational Television's children's series, "Misterogers Neighborhood"; to NBC-TV's coverage of the Democratic Convention and concurrent events; and to "That's Life," creator-producer Marvin Marx.

"The Thanksgiving Visitor" did get six votes. And so did NBC-TV's contemporary British comedy, "Male of the Species." Six votes also went to Paul Scofield for his performance in "Male of the Species," and to the Apollo coverage by all three networks, and to CBS-TV's coverage of the Democratic Convention and concurrent events.

Getting five votes were: the first program of CBS-TV's "Of Black America" series, "Black History: Lost, Stolen or Strayed," narrated by Bill Cosby. And "Confrontation," And Group 2's "One Nation, Indivisible," ABC-TV's "The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" series and NBC-TV's "Laugh-In."

ANTI-WAR PROWLERS LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Prowlers who broke into the Fountain Nursery School Tuesday didn't steal anything, but they apparently had a message to get across.

They lined up plastic soldiers and toy building blocks into two opposing armies and in the "no-man's land" between the combatants chalked in the words: "No more war toys."

In 1943, the Soviet Union announced dissolution of the Communist International, founded in 1919 to promote world revolution.
