State Highway Commissioner Harry Hines, one of the honor guests, will deliver the principal address at the West Texas Highway banquet in Childress Dec. 5, it was announced today.

Hines, whose home is in Wichita Falls, is former chairman of the commission, prominent in state politics and often mentioned as a 1940 candidate for governor.

He has assured the sponsors of the banquet that he will be here for the occasion to deliver the address. Brady Gentry, present commission chairman, has also indicated that he will attend, and Commissioner Robert L. Bobbitt has also been invited.

The commission members and the division 25 engineer, G. A. Bracher, will be honored at the banquet.

BIDS TABULATED ON TWO HIGHWAY PROJECTS

Low bids were tabulated by the state highway commission yesterday on two Childress county highway projects, and formal contracts will be awarded as soon as the bidders meet requirements.

A. L. Cook of Ottawa, Kan. submitted the low bid of $15,642.78 for development of roadside parks in highway 370 three miles east of Childress and 5.5 miles east of Panah. An approximately equal amount of work will be done on each project.

The Childress county project is near the Tom Hardison farm, just across the FW&D railroad tracks from the highway. About nine acres of land will be beautified and improved. Benches, picnic units, etc. will be installed, grass and flowers will be planted.

NEW WAR TECHNIQUE ADOPTED

LONDON (UP)—German airplanes are dropping sea mines by parachute into the Thames Estuary, naval sources said today, in intensification of sea warfare which has taken a toll of 23 ships around the British Isles and in the English Channel since Saturday.

The parachute mines, a startling new Nazi development, were disclosed by British sources as reports were received of five more ship sinkings.

Two Nazi airplanes were believed to have thrown sea mines in the Thames estuary last night, either as an experiment or as a part of a broad program.

A new form of "magnetic" mine also was blamed for the sinkings. (American military experts discounted the theory of the magnetic mines.)

Experts said they believed that the parachutes dropped from the planes dissolved in the water, permitting the mines to sink to the bottom.

Planes Fly Low

One eye witness who said he saw the parachute mines sown by a Nazi plane said, "The plane was so close I could see the silhouette of its occupants, as it flew past there were machine guns fired at it but it apparently got away. I had seen it flying about 50 feet over the water, about 100 yards from shore, and I saw something splash into the water as the plane went past me."

Naval experts claimed that the sowing of the parachute mines had been confirmed and expressed belief that they, as well as magnetic mines laid by U-boats, were responsible for the English coast (Continued on page 13)

BORAH WANTS TRADE PACT WITH JAPANESE

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senator William Borah (R-Idaho) one of the senate's foremost experts on foreign affairs took issue today with an apparent state department decision to defer negotiations for a new United States-Japanese trade treaty until Japanese treatment of American relations improved.

Borah said he believed that negotiations should be started to bring about a "fair and reasonable" trade treaty between the U. S. and Japan replacing the present agreement which expires Jan. 26 as a result of this government's renunciation.

"I noticed our trade with Japan is increasing very decidedly, and we are not going to have so much trade on our hands that we can safely throw any of it aside without a very sound reason for doing so", Borah said.

His statement came less than 24 hours after a state department denial that new treaty negotiations now are in progress, and an assertion that the new treaty depends upon future developments.

Borah placed himself in opposition with Chairman Key Pittman (D-Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee who has announced that he will press for action next session on a resolution authorizing the U. S. to embargo exports to Japan. Pittman said he anticipated approval with little opposition.

US WOMEN

By Sue Vinson.

Sign-painters are notoriously poor spellers, so maybe it isn't news that two of the signs on the new courthouse office doors came out "Tax Accessor" and "County Attourney."

They may already be corrected, but that was how they were done at first. And Mrs. Flonnie Hicks has succeeded Miss Lessie Huff as "County Treasure," according to the sign that has been on the door of the treasurer's office for 10, these many years.

Speaking of new reporters in county home demonstration clubs, they may look to the efforts of some 1939 reporters as shining examples. Several deserve mention, but perhaps Mrs. C. D. Bradshaw of Plainview club most of all.

She took the job after the elected reporter moved away, and in all her reports she never failed to include some definite fact that made her stories interesting to the public as well as her own club. She was always prompt in making reports, too. Those two qualities together make her the answer to a society editor's prayer.

Pretty, brown-eyed Mrs. Frank Brummett of the Union Flat club is keeping busy this week managing arrangements for a rummage sale that her organization will sponsor Saturday in the Main Street building formerly occupied by the Bert Hargrave cleaning plant. Proceeds will be used for club projects of the year.

Several relatives and friends of the couple witnessed the ceremony, including Miss Joy Michie and John Henry Bailey of Childress.

The couple will make their home in Dallas, where both are employed.

H. D. Reporters To Meet Saturday

Reporters for home demonstration clubs of the county, those who are serving this year and those elected for 1940, have been invited by Mrs. Newman Reeves, county council reporter, to a meeting at the courthouse Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Miss Laura Lane, head of the publicity division of the state extension service, will be present to conduct a training session on club reports.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the following authoritative answers below:

1. May a person who is introduced to another say, "I'm happy to make your acquaintance"?
2. If you are introducing a young married woman and a much older unmarried woman, whose name should be spoken first?
3. Is "I want you to know" or "May I present" the more formal introduction?
4. What is wrong with the introduction "Mr. Brown, meet Miss White"?
5. Is this introduction correct, "Miss James—Mr. Jones"?

What would you do—
You would rather read than talk, but a train companion keeps addressing remarks to you. Would you—

- (a) Answer his questions briefly, but courteously, then go back to your magazine or book?
- (b) Say, "If you don't mind I'd like to read"?

Answers

1. No. How do you do?
2. The older woman's.
3. "May I present . . ."
4. Two things. Mr. Brown's name should not be spoken first, and it is not correct to say "Meet so-and-so."
5. Yes. Best "What Would You Do" solution—(a).

Methodists Give Endorsement to Steele's Lecture

A Presbyterian minister who presented a sermon-drama so impressive that various other denominations have brought him to their churches to repeat it, is Rev. J. Albert Steele of Vernon, who will be presented at First Methodist church here Monday evening.

His monologue, "Judas Iscariot" was prepared and given first to his own congregation at Vernon, but other church groups of this section have heard it since and he has received more than 70 invitations for repetitions.

Sponsored here by the Hughes Bible class and First Methodist choir, the program will be open to the public and members of all denominations are expected to be in audience.

The sponsoring groups made inquiries of several Methodists at Vernon in regard to the monologue. Excerpts from two of the replies: "You will be delighted with both Rev. Steele and his dramatization. He is well worth knowing, and his presentation of this very interesting Bible story will please your people as it has on many previous occasions. Rev. Steele has given this dramatization several times in Vernon and the reception has been enthusiastic . . . You can urge your people to attend with full confidence that they will not be disappointed"—Ray H. Nichols, editor of The Vernon Daily Record and well known here as a Methodist ay-men's leader and Rotary club official.

"I had the pleasure of hearing this lecture twice and it is the finest thing I ever listened to. You folks have a treat coming."—C. S. McCulloch, insurance agent.

A Methodist pastor, Rev. J. W. Hawkins of Lakeview, adds his endorsement, saying "In his portrayal of Judas Iscariot, Dr. Steele has in a wonderful way captured those subtle and powerful forces of personality that enter into the making and unmaking of human character."

Cantor to Head March of Dimes

NEW YORK.—Eddie Cantor, noted radio, screen and stage personality, today was appointed national chairman of the march of dimes of the air committee in the 1940 "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaign. Announcement of the appointment was made by Keith Morgan, national chairman of the committee for the celebration of the president's birthday.

It was Eddie Cantor who, two years ago, originated the March of Dimes idea and in response to radio appeals over $81,000 in silver coins were sent to the White House with birthday greetings for President Roosevelt. Last year, the March of Dimes again, with the help of Eddie Cantor and the chairmen in the communities, swamped the White House with a total of over $271,000.

IT'S THANKSGIVING Majority of Nation Celebrates but It's Just Thursday in Childress

By The United Press.
A majority of families, following the lead of President Roosevelt, observed Thanksgiving today, while others looked on awaiting the traditional date next Thursday.

A survey showed that most of the heavily populated states, with the exception of New England where the first Thanksgiving was established 316 years ago, were among the 28 observing the holiday today.

Twenty-five states, including three who will observe both dates, will celebrate Nov. 30, the last Thursday of the month.

By The United Press.
The weather was so nice today that the weather man took a holiday. It was Thanksgiving at all federal offices.

FORT WORTH (UP)—At least one member of President Roosevelt's family, son Elliot of Fort Worth, forsook this date in favor of a last Thursday in November Thanksgiving observance.

Next Thursday the Elliot Roosevelts will have a turkey dinner for themselves, their children and Mrs. Roosevelt's mother.

Furthermore, Roosevelt sent turkeys to 250 employees of the Texas State Network, of which he is president, and included a note for observance of Thanksgiving on Nov. 30.

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—The state capitol was half open and half closed today.

The appointees of Gov. Leon Phillips and their employes reported for work. Elective departments, the supreme court, and criminal court of appeals were off in observance of President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving.

The state department of education was half divided, Supt. A. L. Crabel, an elected official, gave his employes a holiday. The finance division of the department was carrying on its usual duties. It is controlled by Phillips.

Next Thursday the entire capitol is expected to be closed.

A small minority of Childressites are observing President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving today.

The postoffice, banks, the telegraph office and a few federal agencies are closed for the holiday. Most stores, schools etc. plan to observe Thanksgiving next Thursday.

Oklahoma Forms Vandenburg Clubs

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Republicans today began state wide organization of "Vandenburg-for-president" clubs less than 24 hours after democrats met at Ada to stamp their approval on the candidacy of vice-president John Garner.

It was the kickoff for the Garner campaign, and the first activity in the southwest in behalf of Arthur Vandenburg, Michigan's republican senator.

Bruno Miller, former Vandenburg employe, was elected chairman of a temporary state committee last night. Miller said he would attempt to bring the senator to Oklahoma after organization work is completed early next year.

Vandenburg wants Oklahoma's 22 delegates to go to the convention favoring him but not definitely instructed to cast votes for him, Miller said.

Fire Destroys Iowa Airport

DES MOINES, Iowa (UP)—A WPA worker was burned to death, two others were burned seriously, and 22 airplanes were destroyed by fire which swept through a hanger at municipal airport today.

Red River Dam Hearing Due

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Randell Cobb, first assistant attorney general said today that he expected the United States supreme court to set a date on a hearing in the Red River dam controversy before Christmas.

An immediate hearing on the case was unexpected, but Robert Jackson, solicitor general acting as attorney for Secretary of War Woodring told the court that he believed the case should be heard. While denying that Gov. Leon Phillips has any authority to protest the construction of the dam, Jackson suggested that the case be heard so that the court might establish validity of the entire flood control problem of congress.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance.

TEXT: Matthew 7:1-14.

The Golden Text of this lesson is the Golden Rule: "As ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them." There are times when one feels that lessons are chosen without much reference to their prime importance in the Bible and without much regard for their clear application to modern life. But here is a lesson against which no such complaint can be made. Every word of it applies with intensity and with spiritual accuracy to the situation that confronts us in the world today, both as individuals in social relationships and as citizens of a nation in a world where some nations are at war.

Surely if humanity is going to come out of its strife and agony with any permanent result for peace and righteousness and democracy, it will not be because men are fighting on battlefields, but because some higher spirit than the spirit of war may conquer, even though war may seem the only practical and temporary way to stop aggressors and prevent international anarchy.

It is profoundly necessary that nations should not judge one another where all are in some measure guilty. If there had not been so much of the spirit of Hitlerism in other lands, including our own, it would not be necessary to be fighting Hitlerism today. Even the fact that nations are at war ought to make us the more tolerant and careful in our judgments. Our chief concern ought to be to make sure that the beam is out of our eyes before we are too zealous in casting out the mote from our brothers' eyes.

The world is involved in war today, to some extent at least, because the spirit of magnanimity did not prevail in the victory of 20 years ago. Here in our own country we have had fine examples of this spirit of magnanimity coming out of days of strife. We associate this particularly with Abraham Lincoln, who showed a rare understanding of his enemies, even when he felt it his duty to oppose them, and who refused to allow malice to enter his soul. We may be sure that God sees the sins and sufferings of His children with eyes of love and with great sorrow for their perverseness.

The old question, of course, is emphasized in time of war even more than in time of peace. Is it possible to obey the Golden Rule and make it a practical precept of daily life? This question has been asked repeatedly in connection with business where competition often tends to be ruthless and where the individual is often the victim of forces and conditions which he has no power to determine.

There is little value in spinning out too finely the issues and questions that are raised, but the simple fact is that all of us could live a great deal closer to the Golden Rule than we are now doing, even allowing for handicaps and obstacles. Moreover, if there were more disposition on the part of men and women—even on the part of those who call themselves Christians—to take the Golden Rule into practical life, many of the handicaps and obstacles would disappear.

The Golden Rule, of course, represents an unrealized ideal and an ideal difficult of attainment. But it is an ideal that is to be attained, and there never will be peace or happiness or truth or prosperity on earth until men come a great deal nearer to the establishment of the Golden Rule in all the relationships of daily life.

Returning to The Soil

Concerned over the growing seriousness of the relief problem, the New York State Taxpayers Federation listened recently to William E. Robertson, president of the United Taxpayers League of Buffalo, who advocated a general back-to-the-soil movement. On the land, at least, he said, men can feed their families.

It is true that the United States is gradually becoming less of an agrarian nation and more an industrial one. Ever since 1820, when the rural population comprised about 95 per cent of the total, the proportion of farm dwellers to city residents has been gradually slipping off. In 1880 it had dropped down to 77.4 per cent and in 1926 it was down to 56.2. These figures included persons residing in small towns and presumably living off the farmers who make their purchases in these towns.

The actual farm population in 1910 was 34.7 per cent of the total. In 1920 it had fallen to 29.5 per cent and the last farm census in 1935 set the proportion at less than 25 per cent.

Unfortunately, today a man can't merely file a claim for his 40 acres and start his farming career with nothing more than a shotgun and an ax. Agricultural problems are a lot more complex than simply sowing seeds in the spring and harvesting the crops in the fall.

The farmer today is up against a lot of problems he never had to face 30 years ago. There are acreage allotments, supervised rotation of crops, marketing agencies and market control boards. He must be more than a farmer today; he must be a passable economist as well.

Any back-to-the-land movement, therefore, would have to be arranged with elaborate care, even if the western lands were still open to homesteading. A city worker can't simply quit his job and take title to a piece of land. At least it can't be done on a widespread scale without disastrous results to the whole balance of agricultural economy.

In some communities, county and city governments have set aside plots of land on the outskirts of the city for development by men and women on relief. The relief clients have been permitted to raise any kind of table vegetable the soil would yield. Many unemployed managed to supplement their relief fare to a considerable extent in this way.

As a shock-absorber to sudden loss of a job, this system might be advisable. Many people could benefit from a small tract of land on which they could cultivate truck gardens and use the produce themselves. But even such a plan requires land—a great deal more land than most cities can spare.

Follow-Up on the Thanksgiving Proclamation

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
 United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN (UP)—Roosevelt and Garner supporters will have their first battle to control the Texas delegation to the democratic national convention on May 4, 1940.

It will be a "free for all democrats" battle. No poll tax receipt will be necessary to participate.

On that date the precinct conventions will start the wheels rolling for choice of the Texas delegates, and their instruction.

It is the first important date on 1940's political calendar for Texas. The primary conventions on May 4 will be followed by county conventions on May 7, attended by delegates selected at the precinct conventions. The county conventions will name delegates to attend a state convention to be held on May 28. That state convention will name the delegates to the national convention.

It likely will be a three-cornered fight. Headed by State Democratic Chairman E. B. Germany of Dallas, a movement already has been started to make Vice-President John Nance Garner of Uvalde, the democratic nominee. Another faction has announced support for a third term for President Roosevelt. Still another group advocates an uninstructed delegation free to act as conditions warrant at the time of the convention.

The Roosevelt supporters' strategy will be to instruct a Texas delegation to vote for Roosevelt and Garner—Roosevelt for president and Garner for vice-president.

The democratic political calendar for state races has June 3 as its first important date. That is the deadline for applications of candidates for state and district offices for places on the state democratic primary ballot.

Parties that cast less than 100,000 votes in the last governor's election nominate by convention.

On June 10 the state democratic executive committee will meet and certify the names of candidates to the various county committees. County candidates have until June 17 to file their applications for ballot places and county democratic committees meet on the same day to draw lots for the order of the names on the ballot. The ballot will be made up in each county on June 24.

The first vote will be taken on July 27. The result in that election, known as the first primary, will be canvassed by the state democratic executive committee on Aug. 12. The leading two candidates in each race will be certified back to the counties for the second primary or run-off primary to be held Aug. 24. If a candidate for any office receives a majority of votes in the first primary, as Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel did in 1938, no candidate will be certified for that particular office.

Results of this second or run-off primary will be canvassed by the state democratic executive committee on Sept. 9. On Sept. 10, the state democratic convention will be held. Then a platform will be adopted and the candidates who were chosen in the primary elections will be certified to the secretary of state as the democratic candidates for the general election.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF

(Second of two articles on drinks for children.)

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Lately chocolate drinks, particularly chocolate milk drinks, have been especially popular. One of the main reasons is that many children like the flavor and will drink chocolate milk when they will not drink milk.

Chocolate milk drinks vary greatly. Some are made from skimmed milk of low grade and some from skimmed milk of high grade. Many experts in nutrition have pointed to the absence of vitamin A from chocolate milk drinks made with skimmed milk. Some manufacturers add extra vitamin A to the drink.

Some experts do not recommend chocolate milk drinks because they are high in sugar content, and it is known that sugar tends to produce a sense of satiation and dulling of the appetite. They complain that chocolate milk drinks educate the appetite for more sugar, teach the child that it is desirable to flavor milk before drinking it, and cost more than ordinary milk.

However, Dr. H. S. Sherman, who is recognized as one of the leading authorities on nutrition, considers the flavoring of milk desirable. He feels that the flavoring of milk and other protective foods is advisable if children can be persuaded to eat and drink more of them. Some experts in nutrition insist that children should be educated to eat natural foods and flavors.

This is completely sound from a theoretical point of view, but the argument has little appeal to the parent who has difficulty in making the child eat the food if should have.

Similar arguments to those made regarding chocolate and flavored milk apply also to orangeade, orange crush, and similar drinks. It is claimed that the products contain less than 25 per cent of orange juice, yet they are highly sweetened and obviously contain much extra fluid beyond what would be provided with pure orange juice.

The answer is that eating is often a matter of pleasure as well as a matter of nutrition, and that many a refreshing drink is enjoyed for its refreshment value.

The main question before us as a nation is not "Can we keep out of war, and how?" but "How can we best serve mankind, the welfare of the world, at whatever cost to ourselves?"—Bishop Charles W. Flint, head of eastern states area, Methodist Church.

Weather:

Perfect for everything except the crops. And there isn't anything in sight except more of what we've had.

Missouri and Iowa and Indiana and other mid-western states are having such near-summer weather that many of the men have gone back to wearing straw hats.

This seems to be fact:

Texas, as a whole, is having just about the worst drouth in its entire history. Temperatures are higher and there is less moisture, on the whole, over the entire state.

Winchell:

The average American murderer has little or no education . . . A recent survey showed that out of 400 murderers, only 38 had gone to high school and only six had ever been to college . . . In Siam, capital punishment is carried out with a machine gun . . . Under California law, a girl who tries to get married before she's 21 can be thrown into a reform school until she comes of age . . . Italy has the highest murder rate of any country in Europe . . . According to the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, domestic quarrels over trifles are responsible for three times as many murders as gangster killings . . . Just talked to H. H. Finnell and he probably knows as much about evaporation as any living man. He has devoted much, much study to it. And he says that evaporation sure can work overtime out here on these plains; that much of the time the evaporation goes on even when it is raining. This is because of the low humidity.

There are summer days out here on the plains when the rate of evaporation is as much as three-quarters of an inch.

• SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"You may think he's ugly and goofy, but he's smart and handsome to me."

Here is an old, old story that is rated as one of the classics:

Old Abe Morris starting from humble beginnings, in the cloak and suit business, had amassed quite a fortune and his greatest desire was that his family should enjoy all the advantages and privileges. He had a son, Louis, who was the very apple of his eye and Louis was an alert, dominating boy who seemed to have everything. However, the boy had a suit and cloak accent and it worried his father greatly. He wanted him to speak the purest English, to be absolutely flawless in his enunciation.

So old Abe sent to England and hired a professor who had an international reputation as a specialist in teaching young men to speak the most perfect English. The professor assured the father he could teach the young man to pronounce everything just right. And so Old Abe sent them on a trip around the world, so that his son and the professor could be with each other constantly.

About six months they returned and the professor and Louis walked into the father's office.

"Vell, vell, professor," said Old Abe, "how is my Louie doink?"

The professor beamed proudly as he replied:

"Meester Mawruss, Louie is de smottest boy I've ever had in all my classes."

Interesting facts:

The earliest books in history related an ancient oriental legend that writing first began when a Chinese peasant noticed a heron's tracks in the sand and felt that he, too, should have some way of making a written symbol. And to this day, by the way, the Chinese word for "trouble" is a picture of two women under the same roof . . . In the course of a year an adult American drinks an average of 153 quarts of milk and cream, and consumes 17 pounds of butter—provided, of course, he isn't sojourning in Germany . . . The sign over a filling station owned by a Mr. Belcher in Western Massachusetts reads: "Belcher Gas." . . . So expensive and such a luxury are cigarettes in Italy that in most of its tobacco stores they break open a pack of ciggies and then sell them one or two at a time . . . It's somewhat paradoxical that the best book on the British system of government is by an American, President-emeritus A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University, and that the greatest treatise on the American government is "The American Commonwealth," by a Briton, the late Lord Bryce.

COLUMN—

Sport Parade

By Henry McLemore.

NEW YORK (UP)—It was with much gratification that I learned of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's acceptance of the presidency of the Belmont race track.

Indeed, it gave me a thrill, because we are so much alike. Save for a few minor traits possessed by him and not by me, such as youth, good looks, personality, wealth, and a love for hard work, there is very little difference between us.

Because of what I consider to be a great bond between the young millionaire and the Morris plan's most consistent customer, I feel no hesitancy whatsoever in suggesting to him ways and means of bettering Belmont Park when it opens with pari-mutuel machines next year.

The first thing he wants to install are 25-cent or "two-bit" pari-mutuel windows. This idea of having two dollars as the smallest bet is no good. Vanderbilt will object to this, and so will lots of other misinformed persons, on the grounds that a man who can't afford to bet more than 25 cents shouldn't be given a chance. But take it from a man whose one principle is to bet more than he can afford, there is no sense to their argument. The only thing that a $2 minimum does is to make 25-cent betters bet $2.

Vanderbilt should see to it that there are more winners at Belmont Park. To hell with improving the grounds, by such means as putting birds of paradise on the infield lake, or planting rare and exotic flowers, or adding two or three paved entrances and exits. Let's have more horses that do what the form chart says they are capable of doing. No one goes to a race track to enjoy the scenery. I would much rather stand in an ash heap and watch a winner come home than sit in a replica of the Taj Mahal and watch the horse I had wagered on come staggering in fifth or sixth. The only thing really pretty at a race track is your horse's nose in front at the judges' stand.

By all means let Vanderbilt see to it that all customers of Belmont Park are equipped with Hallowe'en costumes and false faces when they enter the place. These are to be slipped on when anyone is lucky enough to get a winner and go to the cashier's window. There is nothing so disheartening as to be recognized by a tried and true friend while you are cashing a ticket. Because nine times out of ten the T. and T. friend will approach you and put the bite on you for a few dollars to bet on the next race. There is no refusing such a request as this, because you are caught ready-handed, so to speak. Imagine the joy of smirking around your Hallowe'en mask as you see the dear old pals line up to watch the cashiers' windows in the hopes of seeing someone they know.

Of course, the mask business will work both ways. I'm not so sure I could spot my pals through their eye slits. Are you?

Free lunches should be a part of every well-run race track. All touts should be belled like cats. There should be one fixed race on every card, and it should be announced early enough in the day so that you have time to send junior home for his pig bank.

I am forwarding these suggestions to Mr. Vanderbilt with a particularly plaintive postscript asking that he get a photo finish camera that, just once in a while, will take a picture of yours and my horse coming in first.

Cardinal Cagers To Battle Tell

Carey Cardinal cagers will meet the Tell Tigers next Tuesday night on the Carey floor in one of the more interesting games of the season.

The Tigers are inexperienced, but always put up a good battle against the Cards.

Coach Herman Moseley's team has won seven straight games after losing their opener to Quail. Their most recent victims were the Hedley Owls, who fell before the Cardinal attack, 35-12.

Among the oldest of dyeing processes known is that used in French West Africa. Indigo leaves, charcoal, and water are placed in a 30-foot pit. The cloth to be dyed is then placed in the solution and left from one to 10 days.

TIGERS POLISH UP AERIAL WARFARE THIS WEEK

Not Overlooking Graham Contest, Coach Declares

ELECTRA.—Passing, both offensive and defensive, continues to be the principal training feature in the Electra Bengals' camp this week. Coach George Blair says that the coaching staff is disappointed yet in the Tiger pass defense and offense.

The Tigers play Graham here Friday night and the coaches want the boys to be prepared for aerial war on the part of the Steers. The boys are not over-confident, for Blair has drilled them on the fact that the Steers have to be overcome before the Tigers get a shot at the district title.

"The town-people already have us playing Childress," Blair declared, "but we realize that anything can happen in a football game."

Heroes Unsung Several boys have come in for their shares of the honors thus far. Joe Edd Elliott, tackle, and Ledford Smith, half, have not been getting their share of publicity. Elliott is a steady player and very few get by him. He is a work-horse on defense and offense. Smith is another unsung hero who has yet to play a poor game. A trio of guards, Gilbert Gilles, Joe Todd and Leonard Ledbetter, have been battling all season for starting positions. In fact, it is never known from one game to the next just which two will get the nod from the coaches.

Reserve Tackle Out Bill Belscamper, reserve tackle, has been out two weeks with a throat infection and will probably be lost for the rest of the season. Kenneth Morris, quarterback, also has a sore throat and has been out of school this week. Joe Smith is recovering from a painful face cut. The whole team has been sore and stiff since the Quannah game.

Morris and Jack Haralson, reserve quarterback, each called a nice game against the Indians. The quarterback was given the blame for a bad play in the Indian game when he was not at fault. The ball had been placed in scoring position and the next play failed to work. The cause, however, was that the ball was centered to the wrong man. All in all, the Tigers are in better shape than ever and will be in the game to win Friday night. After that, they will think of the Childress Bobcats.

IN TALL COTTON Crafty Missouri Coach Crashes Ranks of Big Name Grid Mentors

By Harry Grayson

NEA Service Sports Editor. COLUMBIA, Mo.—Don B. Faurot crashes the ranks of big name coaches in establishing the University of Missouri as a major football empire after five years of constructive effort.

Old Mizzou virtually clinched its first Big Six championship by spilling the vaunted Oklahoma Sooners from the list of unbeaten teams, 7-6. It has only to repel Kansas at Lawrence, Nov. 25, to win a clear claim to the crown.

Beating Kansas State, Iowa State, Nebraska, New York University and Oklahoma on successive Saturdays clearly establishes Missouri as a worthy titleholder.

The current Old Gold and Black varsity, headed by the remarkable back, Paul Christman, ended a 10-year drouth at Columbia.

Don Faurot succeeded Frank Carideo, whose clubs won only two conference engagements in three years.

Neither Carideo, young and fresh from Notre Dame, nor the flock of New York boys he rushed into the Columbia institution fitted into the Missouri scheme of things.

Despite his recruiting, Carideo lacked the material with which to make the Rockne one-on-one blocking and momentarily checking ideas work.

Wins Good Will So, at the termination of Carideo's contract, Missouri decided to bring in one of its own, Don Faurot, who had enjoyed phenomenal success at Kirksville, Mo., Teachers.

Faurot, who had been a 145-pound back under Gwinn Henry at Missouri in 1923-24, determined to do the job with Missouri boys.

All but one of the nine members of the current squad who reside outside of Missouri come from just across the state lines . . . within easy access of the campus.

The lone exception, Bob Waldorf, outstanding senior guard, registers from Wilmette, Ill. His brother, Lynn O., coaches Northwestern.

Another brother, John, played at Missouri. It goes without saying that Faurot and Bob Waldorf get a tremendous kick out of edging Oklahoma, the team that shellacked Lynn Waldorf's Northwestern Wildcats.

Faurot, now 37, slightly built and with finely chiseled features, quickly won the good will of the alumni association.

He contacted Missouri high school coaches . . . cemented relationships with them.

Teaches Own System Faurot teaches his own system of football.

It combines the short punt characteristic of the east and the Warner single wing. Missouri employs the double wing at times and some plays are based on the Notre Dame one-on-one blocking. When he sees anything new that clicks, Faurot does not hesitate to quickly incorporate it into his own plan.

Against Oklahoma, Faurot used Christman just as any smart coach would use a marked man. He faked with him.

It was a fake reverse, with the Sooners watching Christman too closely, that shook Bill Cunningham loose for the longest run of the afternoon . . . 59 yards . . . in the second quarter.

Missouri shaded Oklahoma when Charley Moser, 169-pound center, blocked a punt in the end zone.

This was no accident. Missouri practiced the block for weeks. The Missouri left tackle crashed in toward center. The left end rushed outside. While blockers were kept busy by this pair, Moser rushed in between them to block the kick.

Missouri will not be unprepared while it has Don B. Faurot.

Neither is it likely to be outsmarted.

Chillicothe to Meet Shamrock

CHILLICOTHE.— Holding the spotlight in class A football in the Panhandle of Texas on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 30, will be the Chillicothe-Shamrock game to be played at Shamrock at 3 p. m. on that date. Arrangements for the game were made Wednesday.

Shamrock has already clinched the district title in 3A, and Chillicothe, barring a loss to Archer City, is the runner-up for the 9A district title, only Burkburnett eking out a win over the Eagles during the entire 1939 season.

The Shamrock team is coached by Dutch Klein, former TCU star, assisted by Scott McCall, also a TCU product and one of the most famous football players ever turned out by Masonic Home. The Chillicothe Eagles are coached by Ab Pruitt and Ray Moyer, Austin college stars during the hey-day of Austin college's triumphs in the Texas conference.

FOOTBALL Bobcats Will Scrimmage; Bates Improves

A game-condition scrimmage is scheduled this afternoon for the Childress Bobcats who have been idling along this week with preliminary preparations for their Nov. 30 championship battle with the Electra Tigers.

Hard work is on tap for the remainder of this week and the first two days of next week, then the squad will taper for the final lap in their race for the district 2AA title.

The most cheering aspect of this week's drills has been the improvement of Vic Bates, 170-pound full-back. Bates has been rapidly gaining power in his injured leg and is likely to be in peak shape for the Electra game.

Injured Oct. 20 in the Vernon game, Bates was on the bench until last week when he played most of the game against Wichita Falls. He ripped off several nice gains, but was badly handicapped by his injury.

Morgan Goodson has been having a little trouble with an arm, but he is also expected to be ready by Nov. 30.

The Tigers will get into action this week, meeting the Graham Steers tomorrow night in a contest that the Electra club must win to stay in the chase. A loss to Graham would put them out of the running, while a tie would leave them with only a chance to tie the Bobcats for the crown.

However, the Tigers are expected to win handily as the Steers have failed to win a single conference contest and have little to offer either defensively or offensively.

Quannah will play Vernon and Wichita Falls will meet Olney in other conference games tomorrow.

KIDNAPER SUICIDES AND AVOIDS ARREST

TOPEKA, Kan. (UP)—Allen Morford, 35-year-old Illinois gunman who kidnaped an Iowa salesman and brought him to Topeka, died today of a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Morford shot himself late yesterday after barricading himself in a hotel bathroom and defying police to come after him. Morford saved one bullet for himself and fired the remainder through the bathroom door, once shooting a gun from a police detective's hand.

Police Chief C. W. McNaught said Morford apparently had pointed the pistol at his forehead after a police riot squad had resorted to the use of tear gas to force him from the bathroom.

Police questioned his kidnaped victim, Floyd Wadden, 29, Davenport, Ia. auto salesman who said he was abducted by Morford during a car demonstration.

Wadden said that Morford pressed a gun to his ribs Tuesday morning and told him to "drive south."

At Des Moines Morford robbed a filling station and abducted a youthful attendant whose name they did not learn, Morford said.

"I guess he decided he couldn't control two kidnaped persons so after we had been driving a few minutes he turned back to Des Moines and let the attendant out," Wadden told police.

He said they then drove to Topeka.

Honeymoon Ends in Jail

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (UP)—Daniel Dunadan, 33, of McAlester, Okla. and his bride, Aretta Wallace, 19, of Tulsa, were in jail today, their honeymoon interrupted by shoplifting charges.

Police said they came here by bus and that Dunadan pawned his overcoat to get money for the marriage license. They stood off the justice for his fee and later were arrested on the shoplifting charge.

County Library At Paducah Asked

PADUCAH.—Possibility of a Cottle county library loomed following announcement that representatives of the Paducah Lions club and five women's clubs had met and adopted a resolution asking the county commissioners court to sponsor a WPA project for remodeling the old county jail building into a library building.

The club representatives named a delegate to present the request to the commissioners at their next meeting.

In the event the county provides the building, the clubs probably will agree to secure books and maintain the library with the assistance of a works progress administration librarian.

THE WIZARD OF OZ

Adapted from the METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER TECHNICOLOR Picture by FRANCES BARBOUR

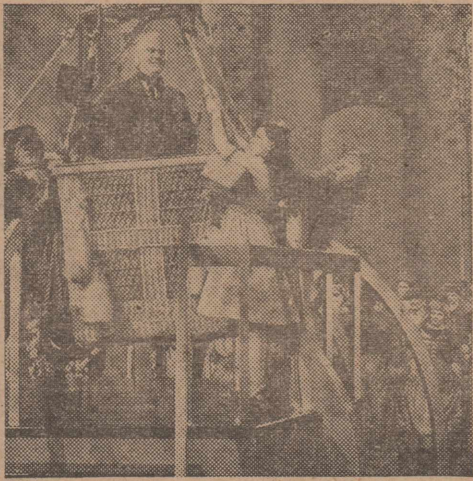

SYNOPSIS: Dorothy (Judy Garland) is blown to the fabulous Land of Oz one night during a cyclone. On her way to find the Wizard (Frank Morgan) who alone can send her back to her Kansas farm, she meets a Scarecrow (Ray Bolger), a Tin Woodman (Jack Haley), and a Cowardly Lion (Bert Lahr). After many adventures they kill the Wicked Witch for the Wizard and bring back her broomstick. Then the Wizard says they've all had what they wanted right along, a brain, a heart and the quality of Courage. NOW READ CHAPTER SIX—BELOW

"Here's how they keep you in repair In the merry old Land of Oz."

Now the Wizard hands out his gifts—a diploma to the Scarecrow, a Testimonial to the Tin Woodman and a Medal to the Lion. Then he tells the anxious Dorothy that he is going to float her back to Kansas right away in his balloon. But first the "Wash and Brush Up" Committee of Oz must take them in hand and beautify them.

Copyright 1939, Loew's, Inc.

"Hear ye, hear ye, good people of Oz..."

Everything is set for the big balloon ascension. While the Wizard is away, Oz is to be ruled by the Scarecrow, the Tin Woodman and the Cowardly Lion. But suddenly the balloon gets loose without Dorothy and the Wizard floats off. Dorothy is weeping for Aunt Em in Kansas, when Glinda (Billie Burke), the good Witch, appears.

"Was it a dream—or a place?"

Glinda says, now that Dorothy has learned the great truth that "happiness can be found in one's own back yard," she may go home. Dorothy clicks her heels three times and repeats, "There's no place like home"—and all at once there she is in her own bed surrounded by Aunt Em, Uncle Henry, the three farm hands, and Prof. Marvel.

"Wasn't that witch the most awful thing, Toto?"

Now Dorothy is filled with joy to be back with those she loves. She never wants to leave again. Only one thing bewilders her. She can't understand why Prof. Marvel and the farmhands, Zeke, Hunk and Hickory, don't remember being in Oz with her. Then she hugs Toto. He remembers and every day they'll talk the whole thing over.

TODAY'S PROFILE

By The United Press

The new mayor of the nation's fourth largest city is Edward J. Jeffries, a lawyer by vocation and an athlete, dog-fancier, book-lover and debater by choice.

He was elected by a 2 to 1 majority over the incumbent Richard Reading, in a campaign made spirited by the CIO's endorsement of Jeffries.

Jeffries is a native of Detroit and, like a true Detroit, once worked in an automobile factory. He doubtless inherited his love for public office from his late father, Judge Edward Jeffries, who was one of the most colorful characters in Detroit's political history.

Thirty-nine years old, Jeffries is boomed by his friends as entering on a political stage where he will remain for many years. A good debater, he talks rapidly whether conversing, speaking or arguing. His analytical questioning and hard-hitting at fundamentals skyrocketed the tone of council debate during his presidency of

Mother Sends Boy On Errand and Jumps to Death

LUBBOCK.—A five-year-old boy, Donald McAfee, wandered into the police station here at 5 p. m. Wednesday, told Chief Don Reeder he was looking for his mother.

Reeder asked Donald a few questions, took him to an undertaker's and showed him a body, which he identified as the missing mother, Mrs. W. J. McAfee.

Mrs. McAfee, 36, wife of a telephone company employee, fell five stories to her death shortly after noon. Pedestrians found the body in an alley behind the Myrick building. There were no witnesses to the plunge. Her skull was fractured and there was a brain concussion.

The child told Chief Reeder that before coming to town his mother asked him with whom he would prefer to live, his aunt or his grandmother, should something happen to her. She brought Donald to town, gave him money and told him to go buy something.

A fifth-floor tenant of the building said he saw Mrs. McAfee pass his door and a moment later heard the fire escape door close. "Evidently there was no hesitation," he said. "It sounded like she walked directly to the door, opened it and shut it behind her."

The body was sent to her native Fort Worth for burial.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SERIAL STORY

5 WOULD KILL

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Officer Flynn goes to sleep in a taxi, awakens to see Nick Smith, the taxi driver he was hunting, going into a lunchstand. He forces Smith to lead him to Ara Johnson, nabs her as she prepares to leave town.

CHAPTER VIII

PATROLMAN DAN FLYNN herded his two charges into Benthorne's study—the sullen, mumbling taxi driver and the calm, self-possessed girl. Nick was terrified—alternately begging and threatening. There was no fear in the dark eyes of the girl. She met Captain Dawson's stare defiantly as she entered the room, and he realized that bluff and threats would never break down her will.

As he studied her, Dawson compared her with Helen Benthorne. Where Helen Benthorne was soft, the pampered daughter of society, this girl was hard—not unpleasantly so—but because life had not been generous to her. Her hands were not soft, nor faultlessly manicured. Her dress was simple, serviceable, only moderately attractive. Here was a girl, Dawson realized, who worked for all she had, who had never known luxuries.

"She was just leaving the apartment when I got there," Flynn explained. "Grips packed and all, but she won't say where she was going or why. She won't say anything, Captain. Maybe you can make her talk."

"YOUR luck is holding, Flynn," Dawson laughed, when Flynn had recounted the story of his discovery of Nick Smith. "You're the only man on the force who can go to sleep and wake up with his prisoner in his hands."

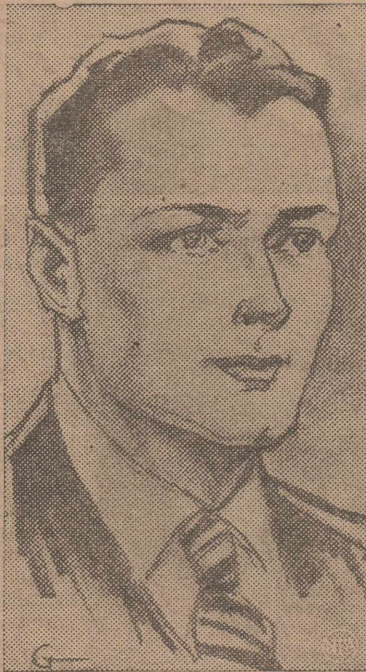

"Now here is something else for you—find out all you can about Benthorne. As soon as the brokerage offices open, start tracing his business operations, back to his first purchase of stock. Get all the help you need. We've got to find out some more about Benthorne and this 'Big Red' he mentions in the note. See what you can dig up." He turned to the girl and the taxi driver.

"Well, Miss Johnson, perhaps you'll be able to help us clear up a few things."

"I don't know what you're talking about," the girl answered in a calm, steady voice. "The officer said there was a murder—a Mr. Benthorne was killed, I believe. I don't know anything about that."

"Can you explain why you were in front of this house last night, why you helped this young Douglas trick Officer Flynn, and why you and this taxi driver almost ran over Flynn trying to get away?"

The girl laughed at that, but

there was no merriment in her eyes. "Just because your patrolman is clumsy is no fault of mine. I think the driver's foot slipped off the clutch pedal; then, when we saw the officer trying to draw his gun, we hurried away. I'm sure Mr. Douglas was not far away. After all, Captain, we had done nothing but ask where we might find a minister."

The girl knew the answers, Dawson realized. She would leave no openings—now. As long as she and Smith, Joey, Mrs. Benthorne and Alston were here in the house, there was no hurry, Dawson realized. Sometimes these murders almost solved themselves. Just be patient, Dawson told himself, and something will break. Aloud he said:

"I could do with some breakfast, and I imagine all of you could eat, too. If you'll wait here, I'll round out the butler and see what we can find."

***

BREAKFAST was a cold, silent affair. Helen Benthorne sat at one end of the long table, endeavored to be at least a considerate hostess. Her eyes were still red, and Dawson knew she had not slept. If she felt hatred for these strangers grouped about her, she did not show it.

Only once, Dawson remembered, did her fixed expression change. That was when he had introduced Ara Johnson. Watching both the women closely, Dawson thought he caught a flash of anger in Helen Benthorne's eyes as she spoke to the girl. But Ara had remained as sphinx-like as ever.

Dawson glanced around the table. He sat at Mrs. Benthorne's right, directly across from a vacant chair. Alston was still asleep. Ara sat beside him, and Nick Smith next to her. The girl's food was practically untouched. Smith's appetite seemed to have vanished, too. Only Joey di Torio, across the table, and Krone, seemed to be enjoying the meal.

How about Ara? If Dawson could have known fear, he would have been afraid of the girl. She was almost too calm, too quiet. Was all this part of her plan?

Not finding an answer, Dawson attacked his ham and eggs.

***

JOHN DOUGLAS pounded hard on the Benthorne front door. Hatless, his tie askew, he gasped for breath as Jameson, ever placid, answered.

"Is Miss Ara Johnson here?" he demanded, pushing past the butler.

"I—I don't know—I'll ask Captain Dawson," Jameson began.

"A young girl, with dark hair, dark eyes. Did a policeman bring her here?" Douglas shouted. "Out of my way—I'll see for myself!" He hurried toward the study.

"You'll find all of them in the dining room, to your left, at the end of the hall," Jameson ventured. Douglas ran past the study, without a glance, to the dining room door.

"Ara!" The girl jumped to her feet at the sound of his voice. In another second she was in his arms.

"Darling, darling," Douglas was whispering in her ear. "I had to find you. I was afraid. When I found you were gone. . . . Ara, darling, I'll never let you go again. Why didn't you call me?" She tried to stop the flow of words, and failing, finally kissed him full on the mouth. His arms crushed her to him.

"Keep quiet, fool," she whispered angrily as she broke free at last.

Dawson smiled as he watched them. He had missed nothing, not even the angry whisper at the last. Here was his break, the chance he had been awaiting.

He waited until the youth, his arm still around the girl, turned to face him.

"I'm sorry to break in like this," Douglas apologized. "I just had to find Ara. When they said at the apartment that she had gone with a policeman—I—I—" he concluded lamely.

"Just how, young man, did you know Miss Johnson would be here, in Arnold Benthorne's house?" Dawson asked slowly.

Douglas paled. He was trapped. (To Be Continued)
