Winter Texans Are Here!

They come in the fall and stay until spring, from as near as north and east Texas, as far as Canada.

"They" are our winter visitors — and this year, according to reports, they're arriving earlier than usual.

"It's snowing in Michigan," was the explanation of one couple who said they usually don't come to their "Texas home" until around mid-November — but this year arrived in October.

Although there are no figures available on how many Winter Texans have already arrived in Rockport-Fulton, a check with some of the local churches and trailer parks indicate quite a few are in town.

At Rockport's First Baptist Church, officials estimate that, of the 504 people at last Sunday's, November 16, worship service, approximately half were Winter Texans.

The church has already started holding two services on Sunday mornings and Lloyd Chapman has been added to the staff part-time as associate in charge of winter ministries.

Rockport's First United Methodist Church reported at least 60 Winter Texans at last Sunday's morning services. Peace Lutheran reports 31 winter visitors, the Church of Christ 25 couples, Fulton's Baptist Church, 15 couples.

The Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association reports an average of 60 Winter Texans attending the game nights that have been held so far, and from 60 to more than 100 persons at the covered dish dinners.

Many of these winter Texans are staying at the (See TEXANS, Page 16)

Fulton Retains Firm To Design Fishing Pier

The City of Fulton has retained the firm of Ogle-tree, Gunn and Associates to design and oversee construction of the city's new 1,000-foot-long public fishing pier.

The pier became a possibility this past week when Texas Governor Bill Clements announced that Fulton has been awarded a $217,500 federal grant to construct the pier.

Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline announced that the Corpus Christi firm of engineering consultants had been retained. Mayor Casterline added that the next step is to obtain a Corps of Engineers Section 10 permit to design the project and seek bids for construction.

The proposed pier will be built from Fulton Beach 1,000 feet out to Thompson's Reef. The Beach property belongs to the Aransas County Navigation District, but the City of Fulton has been granted a 29-year-lease.

The pier will go over both deep and shallow water, giving fishermen an option as to where to cast their lines and it will terminate in a roofed T-head.

Plans also call for the pier to be lighted, Mayor Casterline said.

Ecumenical Thanksgiving

The annual ecumenical service of Thanksgiving, sponsored by the Aransas County Ministerial Association will be Tuesday, November 25, at the First Baptist Church of Rockport. The church choir will perform Tom Fette's "mini-cantata" entitled, "We Have Come." The service begins at 7 p.m. and the public is invited.

Cub Scouts Meet

Cub Scout Pack 340 will meet Tuesday, November 25, at 7 p.m. in the Rockport-Fulton Junior High School cafeteria. The meeting is "Family Night" so Cubs are urged to bring their families for an evening of games, skits, fun and refreshments. Those attending are asked to please use the Omohundro Street entrance.

Film Scheduled

"Fragile - Handle With Care", a moving film narrated by Bill Cosby will introduce a new adult study course on Child/Wife/Husband Abuse at First Presbyterian Church, Live Oak and Laurel Streets, at 9:45 a.m. Sunday, November 23. Public is invited.

Square Dancers To Meet

The Square Dance Group will hold beginner lessons at 2:30 and intermediate classes at 4 p.m. each Sunday at the Tourist Association Building at the Aransas County Airport. Each Thursday at 8 p.m. a regular square dance — at the fun level — is held and those who enjoy square dancing are invited.

Band Boosters Drawing

The Band Boosters of Rockport-Fulton High School are selling tickets for a drawing. Prizes will be a microwave oven and a black and white television. There will be two drawings at the Band Boosters meeting place on December 18, and tickets are being sold by Band Booster members for $1 each. If you are not contacted by one of the members, call 729-6147.

Youth Fellowship

The United Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, November 23, in the Recreation Hall at First United Methodist Church, 801 Main Street, Rockport. Chili and drinks will be served and guests are welcome.

GOIN' FISHIN'

Tranquil bay, quiet sky and a couple of fishermen waiting patiently for a nibble... What could look more serene? The good fall and winter fishing in this area is the attraction for a lot of Winter Texans, and if the water is a bit chilly, the sky a little gray... they don't mind. It'll just make the story that much better later when they talk about the one that got away — or, better yet, the one that didn't... [Pilot Photo by Perry Carter]

Keeping Busy Has Rewards For Kenneth, Dorothy Dumas

By Pat Blair

When Kenneth and Dorothy Dumas aren't pasting stamps for Rockport's "Toys for Kids" program, they're probably teaching English to their Cambodian and Vietnamese students.

Or they may be teaching Catechism to a group of third graders at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Unless, of course, they're out hiking...

It's called "retirement."

"I hear people saying they've had a hard time getting used to retirement," Kenneth said during a recent interview at his and Dorothy's trailer home at The Dunes Trailer Park on Highway 35. "I can't figure why I didn't do it 40 years ago."

Of course, he admits, 40 years ago, he and Dorothy had a "houseful of kids" to support.

The Dumas are what is known around here as "Winter Texans" — although in their case, the term "Summer Minnesotans" might be more apt.

"We started out coming down here for two or three weeks at a time," says Dorothy. "Now we're up to seven months — seven months in Rockport and five months in Minnesota."

They started coming to this area 12 years ago. Kenneth was still working then — he was employed for 43 years by Minneapolis Moline, a farm machinery company. He and Dorothy had never been out of Minnesota.

But then they saw a feature story in the Minneapolis newspaper that mentioned these "pink cottages" in Rockport.

Early Ad Deadline

Deadline for advertising — both display and classified — in the Pilot Weekender for November 30 will be noon Wednesday, November 26.

The Pilot will be closed for the Thanksgiving Holiday Thursday, November 27.

Because the Pilot will go to press Wednesday evening, November 26, we will be unable to accept any advertising for the Weekender after the noon Wednesday deadline.

The Pilot office will be open for business as usual on Friday, November 28.

Sheriff Hopeful Lynch Will 'Give Up'

Although "alligator man" Warren Lynch remained at large Tuesday morning, November 20, officials with the Aransas County sheriff's department were confident he would give himself up "in a few more days."

Chief Deputy Carson Wooddell said "rumors are flying" concerning the whereabouts of Lynch, who disappeared Friday, November 7, after officials found some $2,000 of mari-

PM Magazine Coming To Rockport

"PM Magazine" is coming to Rockport.

The producers of the popular Channel 3 evening news show are asking for help.

"We're looking for our kind of story," they have said. This means "interesting people, unique places, events and very unusual things."

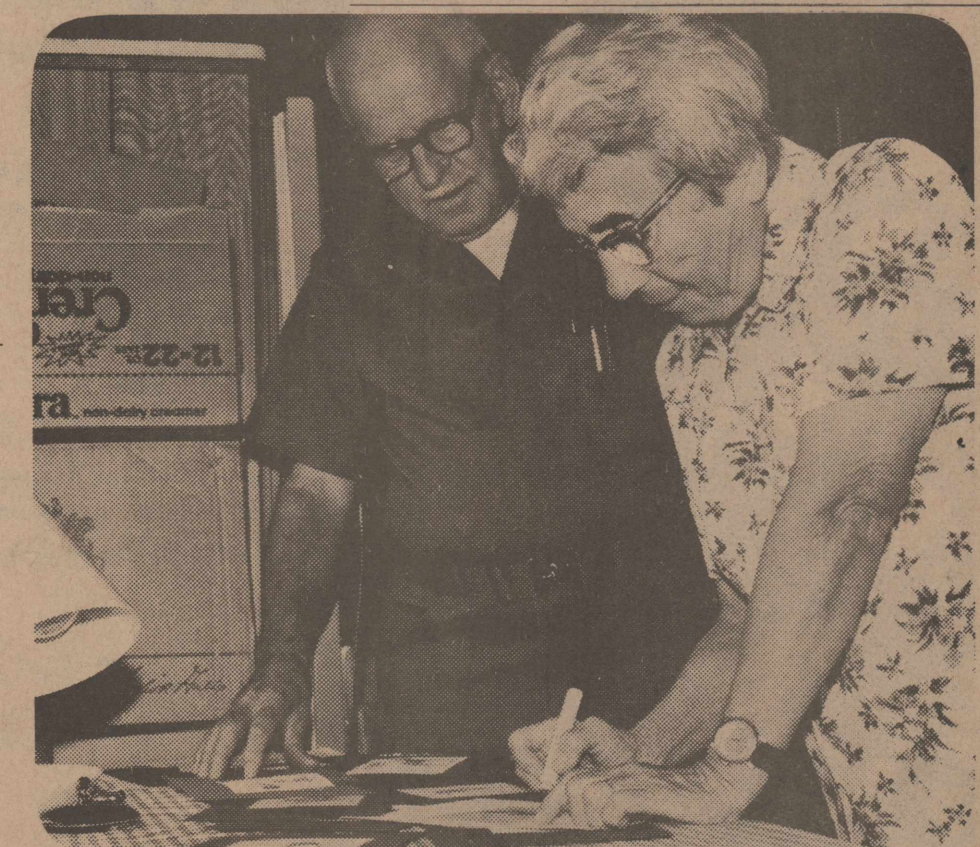

Anyone who knows about a story that fits this format — and is here in the Rockport-Fulton area — is asked to contact the producer of PM Magazine, P.O. Box 6669 in Corpus Christi, 78411.

PM Magazine airs daily Monday through Friday at 6:30 p.m.

WHERE?

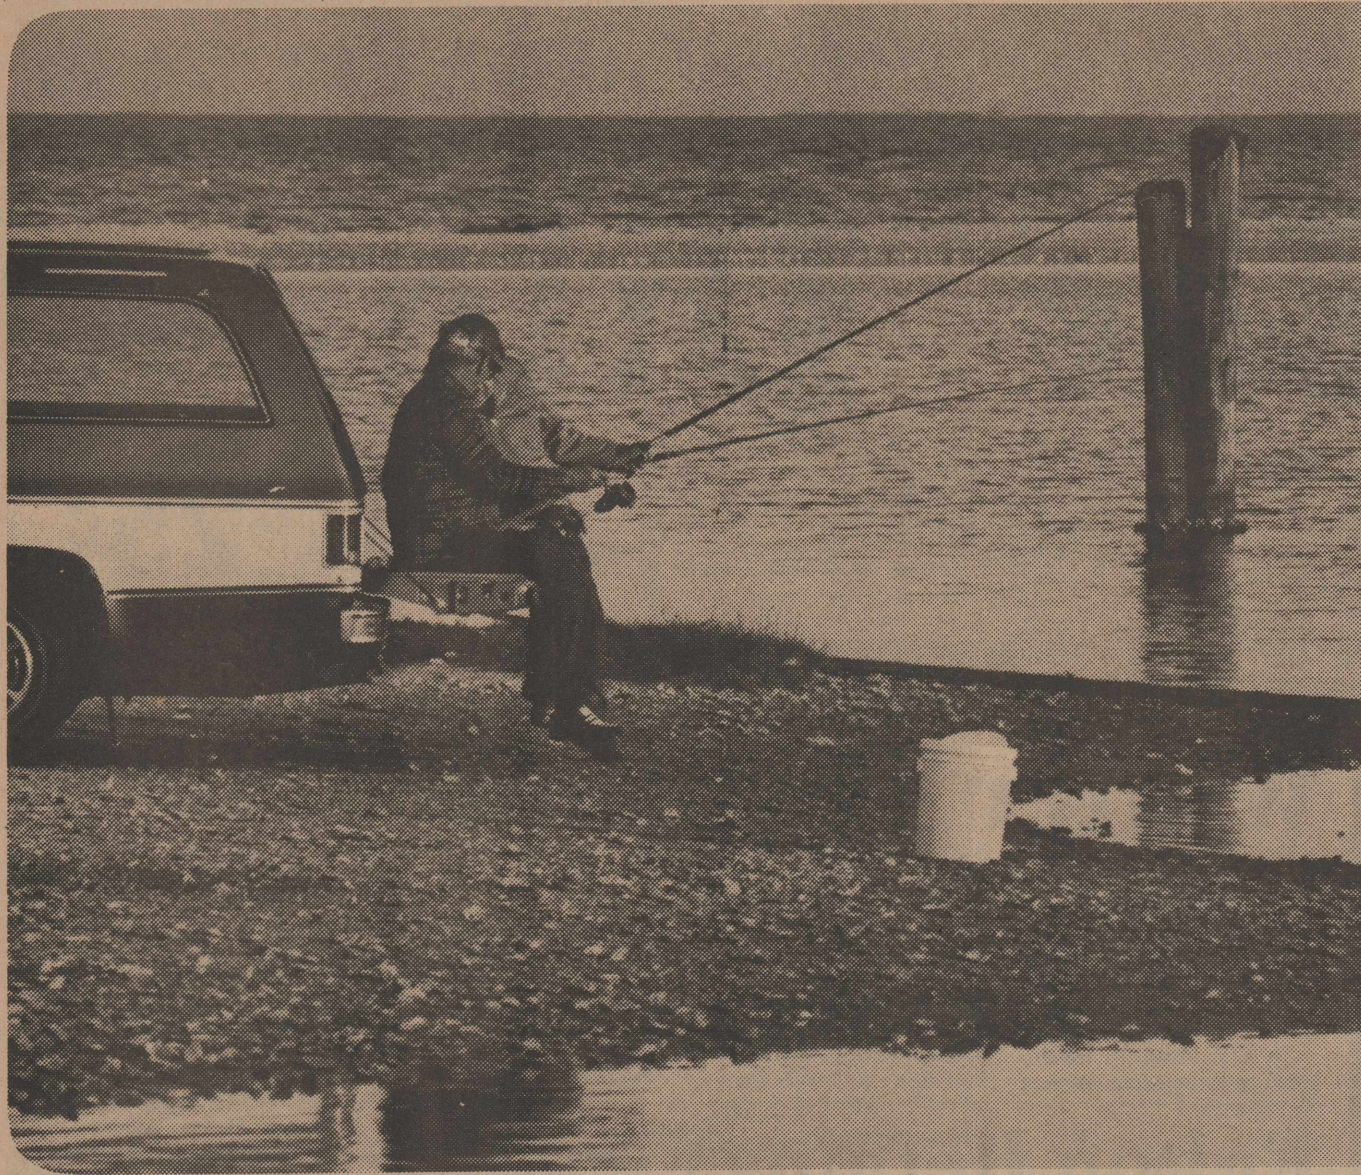

The sign says "Private Pier" — and one was there before Hurricane Allen. As for the heron...well, he's laid his claim to whatever remains. And though there may not be a picturesque pier to look at, the heron is picturesque enough for many of the Winter Texans who are drawn to this area because of the rich variety of birdlife here...among other things. [Pilot Photo by Perry Carter]

WHAT DO WE PUT UNDER THIS ONE?

Kenneth, left, and Dorothy Dumas consider what word they want to put under a flash card they're making to help teach English to their two Cambodian and one Vietnamese students. A couple of "Winter Texans" who now spend seven months a year in Rockport, the Dumas became English teachers when they heard there was a need for volunteers at their church. They also teach a Catechism class for third graders and work with the local "Toys for Kids" campaign, in addition to volunteer work back at their "summer home" in Minnesota...

Whether from a pier or the back of a station wagon — or out in the middle of the Ski Basin up to your waders in water — fishing is a popular fall and winter activity in this area. And the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department concurs in what a lot — if not most — fishermen have been saying all along: fish bite better at this time of year. [Pilot Photo by Perry Carter]

Nuts only for queen
Since the queen of Sheba's realm produced very few pistachio nuts, she decreed that they all belonged to her.

An enthusiastic group of Winter Texans holds up their hands as their home state is reached during Wednesday night's "roll call." Last Wednesday's group included folks from Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Nebraska — among others. The "roll call" is a regular feature of the covered dish dinners at the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association Building on Airport Road. Dinners start at 6:30 p.m. and are followed by entertainment. Tickets to the dinners are $2 at the door or $1 if secured in advance from a merchant who is a member of the RFTA. [Pilot Photo by Pat Blair]

DELAYED BY FINANCING

Harbor Oaks Shopping Development

By Pat Blair
The enthusiasm is there... the interest is there... what isn't "there" at the present is the lending market, says Bill Pruet.

Pruet is with Group IV Developers in Corpus Christi, the company that started development on the Harbor Oaks Shopping Village on Highway 35 North at Traylor Avenue.

The project was undertaken a year ago — and a year later, Pruet says, "We're still fighting the fight with the lending institutions."

What started out as a $3 million-plus project is now almost $4 million, Pruet said when he was contacted at his Corpus Christi office Wednesday, November 19.

He was quick to add that this doesn't mean Group IV is giving up on the project. "We're still excited about it," he said. And Group IV has found "strong interests from some major accounts outside Rockport as well as from local people" who want to lease space in the development.

Plans are still to create a shopping center at the Highway 35-Traylor Avenue location.

But, Pruet continued, right now there exists "as unstable a money market as anybody's ever seen before." He said Group IV has had the problem of coming to terms with a lender — only to have the lender call the next day and say the interest rates have changed again and the agreement has to be renegotiated.

Pruet describes the present instability in the money market as "some of the most dynamic financial gyrations any country has ever gone through."

And, he added, the current market "is as tough on the lenders as on the borrowers."

Most lending institutions, he continued, believe the market will become more stable in January, after the inauguration of Ronald Reagan as president.

Group IV Developers certainly hope so, according to Pruet, because that's what's holding things up.

For The '55 And Older' Set

AARP Offers Plenty To Do

By Pat Blair

If you're age 55 or older, then Rockport's Chapter 1536 of the American Association of Retired Persons has something for you.

Everyone — Winter Texans as well as permanent residents — is invited to come take part in the dances, card parties and other activities sponsored by the AARP.

The activities include the monthly AARP business meetings held the second Wednesday of every month. Whether you're an AARP member or not, Winter Texan or "year-round" Texan, you're invited to the Paws & Taws Building on Fulton Beach Road.

Activities start at 9:30 a.m. at these meetings, with a half-hour of cookies, coffee and a chance to visit before the meeting starts at 10 a.m.

After the meeting, Registered Nurses with the American Red Cross give free blood pressure readings to anyone who wants one.

The AARP chapter's big end-of-the-year Christmas Party is coming up on December 10 at the Paws & Taws. Highlighting the business portion of this meeting will be installation of the 1981 officers.

In addition, this meeting will include a buffet luncheon, gift exchange and a program by the Rockport-Fulton High School Choir under direction of Martha Luigi.

Those who attend this meeting are asked to bring canned goods or other items for the "Christmas baskets" that AARP is preparing for needy families this year.

For those who are "into" dancing, AARP sponsors a dance every first and third Wednesday of the month at the Paws & Taws Building.

Dances start at 7 p.m. and feature the music of Gene Rickles. Refreshments are served at intermissions.

For the bridge players, there's the weekly bridge game, also at the Paws & Taws Building. Play starts at 1 p.m. and prizes are given for the highest and second-highest scorers.

A door prize — a "Pouch of Coins" — is also given and of course there's a finale winner. Refreshments are served throughout the weekly games.

No matter what your interests, no matter where you're from, AARP has something to offer.

READY TO GO

These four ladies get ready for a game of bridge at Thursday's, November 20, game afternoon at the Paws & Taws Building. From left are Thelma James, Wanda Smith, Amy DeLeeuw and Ruth Gordon. The weekly game afternoon is sponsored by the Rockport Chapter of AARP and is open to anyone who wants to play.

Mabel Commo is the missing "fourth" at this table. Game time starts at 1 p.m., refreshments are served and everyone is welcome at these weekly AARP-sponsored events.

By Johnnie Littleton

There was a short segment on the television show 20-20 last week dealing with horror films and how they leave nothing to the imagination.

In the "old days" Dracula, Dr. Frankenstein's monster, the Wolfman and others scared us a little, but the really bad things weren't shown to us. We used our imagination. The feature showed really gruesome beheadings and lots of blood.

And that's what the program was about. Imagination.

Although the program was dealing with horror, I was having one of my woman-of-the-world chats with my daughter and the subject of sex came up. I told her that in the old movies "the love-making was left to the imagination" and it was wonderful. We saw tender looks, fond caresses and sometimes quite torrid kisses — than fade to black — and our imaginations took over. It all depended on your personality how vividly your mind interpreted the scene you were not seeing.

I've had a hard enough time trying to urge her to read. She was told that her imagination would receive more exercise than she could imagine if she would only leave the tube long enough to give a good book a try.

Something worked. She's hooked on biographies and Judy Blume books. (Not Wifey though).

After repeatedly begging to see several R and even PG rated movies and being repeatedly refused, she's decided to quit asking. The only television show I insisted all the kids watch was "Scared Straight." Not because I believed they would turn crooked, but just for their general information.

Anyway — back to imagination. She may not speak to me for a week for telling this, but she loves to play with dolls. Being in a transition period from childhood to puberty, she's not quite sure what life is about. At the moment all she wants is a rich husband, a beautiful home, assurance that she will not have to work or attend college and take a

Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grasshopper ranch looks at television this week, in a sidelong sort of way.

Dear editor:

Some educators are saying too much television-watching is to blame for kids' goofing off in school.

If I was in charge of graduating students who can't read or write I'd jump at the chance to blame it on TV or anything else I thought I could get by with.

I don't know whether television damages kids or not but it sure has damaged politicians and other prominent people.

Before television, a person could go for years without seeing his Senator or Congressman and naturally a certain mystery surrounded them. You figured a U.S. Senator for example, to get that high up in the affairs of the nation, had to be something of a giant of a man.

Television has ruined that. You see them on the evening news and discover most Senators and Congressmen are just ordinary people like the rest of us. Don't know any more about what causes inflation and how to stop it than you and me.

You see an Attorney General on television hemming and hawing and dodging a question and find he's not any smarter than successful lawyers in thousands of small towns across the country.

You see the head of a big New York bank on television and find he doesn't seem any sharper than a banker here in Rockport.

The main difference is that when the New Yorker makes a loan it has more zeroes after it, like $1,000,000 instead of $5,000, but the soundness of the loans is the same, or neither bank will last.

I have seen the heads of the big car companies on television but I won't go into that.

Or take a network male reporter. The accuracy of a news story he reports and one reported in The Rockport Pilot is about the same. The only difference is the TV reporter reads well and generally has a good head of hair. At the same time, there are reporters on small papers who have hair too.

Television may have improved some leaders' image but it has leveled a lot more. If you want to maintain a reputation for being a giant of a man, stay out of the range of a TV camera.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

At any rate, gone are the lefties, the likes of Senator Frank Church, George McGovern, John Culver and Gaylord Nelson. Only Gary Hart survived. The NCPAC incidentally is opposed, violently almost, to the George Bush brand of moderate conservatism. Even now you can count on their opposing Bush in '84. Fortunately for the country, extremists of whatever ilk usually bark louder than they bite.

FORTUNATELY FOR ALL OF US WE HAVE heard very little of the talk that was so common before the election, to the effect that people would vote for the lesser of what they considered two evils, or in more temperate tone, the more promising of two uninspiring candidates.

As a consequence there appears to me to be a mood across the land for the majority of the people and their elected officials to get behind the newly elected President. Yet I am not forgetful that every President, whatever his party, usually enjoys some honeymoon days.

Jimmy Carter, too, had his honeymoon days, but they were marked by a wait-and-see attitude, days of veiled distrust on the part of the Congress and Senate, men and women whom Carter, on the road to the Rose Garden, branded in not very polite terms.

Say this much for Jimmy Carter. He made a gentlemanly speech in conceding his loss to Ronald Reagan on Tuesday a week ago. But before that he spent the better part of four years wavering and vacillating, gaining the respect and confidence of few, either at home or abroad.

He arrived in Washington as a loner and has remained one. The political bug is a strange insect, biting in strange places, not the least unlikely of which has been Carter. Far better for him and the country had he remained a successful and respected peanut farmer in Georgia. He never fitted in at the Georgia State House, and in the White House — well?

RONALD REAGAN, THE ACTOR TURNED GOVERNOR, the governor turned President, will go to the White House to meet a very receptive Senate and a certainly willing-to-listen Congress. He has in his past been known to harbor views that were to some of us extreme.

But he has learned moderation and tolerance. In California he learned diplomacy and finesse. His stewardship of office in Sacramento is still questioned by some, but for the most part he appears to rate a "well done." Certainly the people of California backed him in his bid for the Presidency, and they, if anyone, should know the sort of leader he will make.

SOUTH TEXAS, SAVE FOR ONE COUNTY — Aransas — was out of step with the rest of the nation on November 4, but much of this can and must be attributed to those who vote with their feet, not their minds. Even so, those numbers are dwindling. Look only to the margin of the Carter victory in these parts, compared with 1976. The days of the Garcias and Bonillas are numbered, I predict. Look only to the countless letters of protest from Hispanics which appeared in daily newspapers prior to the election.

WITHIN THE YEAR, AND I SPEAK OF 1981, there will be those who will become disenchanted with Ronald Reagan. Mostly they will be those who expect miracles to be performed overnight. On that only this can be said at the moment: no one man, even in the unlikelyhood of his being given 100 percent support from the Senate and Congress, can undo four years of chaos. Nor must the unstable conditions in so many parts of the world be forgotten.

This much I believe — Reagan is bent on getting the unemployed workers of the nation back to work. No easy task because it involves belt tightening on the part of the employed as well as the unemployed.

I mean that we must build cars in our economy that will not only be better but also will sell at prices comparable to the imports. We must further conserve energy, develop more of our known resources and discover new ones. Our system of moving goods and materials has become a monster with the railroad system deteriorating and five-axle 80,000-pound monsters, a single one of which does as much damage to a highway as at least 9,600 automobiles.

The laundry list is long, but it is clear, sharply defined. Ultimately it means our developing and learning to live a new way of life. Here's hoping that Ronnie Reagan will be able to get the show on the road — else God help us. —cmhenkeljr

IT WAS A LANDSLIDE WIN FOR RONNIE REAGAN in the electoral college, but scarcely that in the popular vote. Even so, I hear the word "landslide" at every turn.

For my own part, I somehow or another can't bring myself to use the word when only approximately half the people of voting age went to the polls, and those who did approved the president-elect by a margin of slightly more than eight million votes, or by a 10 percent margin.

Even so, there are plenty of pluses for Reagan. The country, including countless numbers of blue collar workers, helped him win election. The GOP gained a majority in the Senate and closed the margin in the House. There party affiliation these days means less and less because more and more Demos are of a conservative bent, especially those from the South.

In a sense Reagan's biggest win is one I almost hate to mention. A sizable number of liberal left-wingers failed for re-election. I don't like mentioning that because groups of extreme right-wingers, the National Conservative Political Action Committee as an example, claim much of the credit.

Speaking Out

How long have you been coming to this area, what brought you down here and what keeps you coming back?

Ruby Glass
Toledo, Ohio

This is our fifth year. We came through Texas on a flying trip, liked it, so we came back. We like the people, the climate, the fishing.

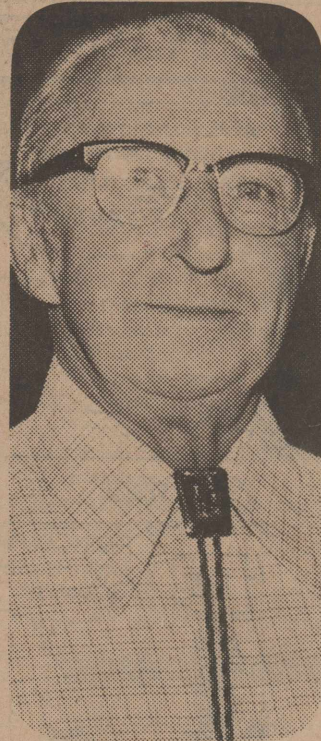

Dorothy Compton
Coldwater, Michigan

We've been coming down eight years. The (Walter) Meyers started us coming down — we met in Houston. This (Trav Trail-R-Inn) is the best camp we've ever been in — the friendliest.

Peg Neill
Warren, Ohio

We've been coming down four years. Our son lives in Corpus Christi for one (reason). And we like the area for wintertime. My husband likes to fish and oyster, and we like the programs (provided by the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association) and the bus trips.

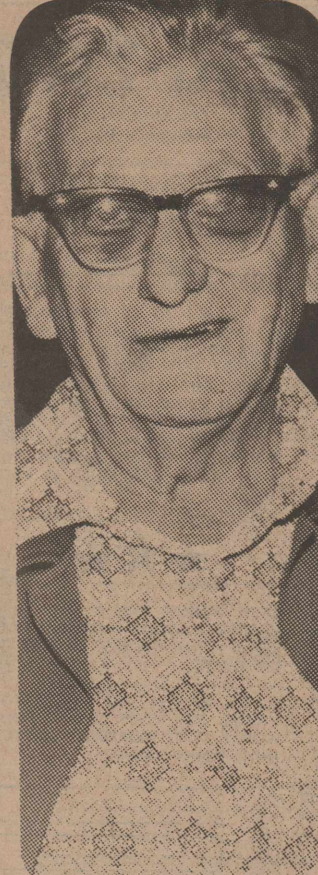

Walter Meyer
Indianapolis, Indiana

This is our ninth winter — me and my wife. We retired and had been to Florida many times. We wanted a change — a man in Houston referred us here. We liked it — it's like "old home week." Me and my wife are running the activities at Trav Trail-R-Inn. We enjoy coming back.

Marcelline [Mrs. John] MacGregor
Michigan

We left earlier than we've ever left — we usually don't get here until about the 15th of November. This year we came in October.

John MacGregor
Michigan

We have a son in Corpus Christi. We've been coming down here five years. We like the weather — it's snowing in Michigan.

Harry Douglas McCook
Nebraska

We've been coming down 13 years. This is the only state in the union where I see "Drive Friendly", and I think they do. Everyone's been good to us. We have a son in Houston, and this (area) is the hub for all the fun places we're interested in.

Leah King, right, presents Sue Long with a couple of avocados...that's right, avocados, weighing approximately two and one-half pounds each. Mrs. King, a volunteer worker with AARP at the Concern Center, has 200 trees bearing such fruit in Homestead, Florida. Each year her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dawson, come from Florida for a hunting trip and on their way through Rockport, stop and leave Mrs. King enough to share with her friends for Thanksgiving eating. She left these two at the Pilot office and the staff didn't mind at all.

[Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition]
By Jean Glowka

Q. I have a child who is hyperactive or hyperkinetic or whatever you call it. What are the especially important things I should stress in using the nutritional approach to his problem?

A. Briefly, nutritionists tell us that a hyperkinetic child should have daily, in addition to an otherwise adequate diet, large amounts of minerals calcium, magnesium and potassium; two teaspoons cod-liver oil; 200 units of vitamin E; as much nutritional (brewer's) yeast, liver and wheat germ as he will tolerate happily; 10 mg. or more of vitamin B-6; and a balanced B-complex syrup or tablets.

ALSO, all foods with artificial colorings and flavorings should be avoided.

Q. My husband has apparently lost almost all his sense of smell. He can't even appreciate my special perfume. What would help?

A. Zinc is recommended for this problem — 30 to 60 mg. daily.

Pet Talks

By Dr. Hap Lutz

Dr. Lutz is a graduate of Baltimore City College and Texas A&M University. He specializes in small and exotic animal practice. He was an instructor of small animal diseases and surgery in the Veterinary School at Texas A&M and was in private practice in Waco for 25 years.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dear Dr. Lutz:

I have a three-year-old male mixed breed cat named NoMore. He was given to me when he was three months old. I immediately had my doctor castrate him and give the necessary inoculations. I have repeated them yearly as advised by my veterinarian. My cat is an inside-outside cat. What I mean is when the weather is nice, he prefers to be outside, but on cold, rainy days, he prefers to be in the house — even on hot days. My cat is house trained — more so than my children. Recently, I remarried.

Ever since my new husband moved in, my cat started spraying (urinating) on various pieces of furniture. My husband has threatened to move out if I don't move the cat out.

I don't have the heart to put my cat outside when the weather is cold and rainy. Besides that, I have had NoMore longer than I have been married to my latest husband.

Dr. Lutz, is there anything that can be done for my cat that will stop the spraying? — Mrs. B.J.

Dear Mrs. B.J.:

I am not a marriage counselor, but I think I can help you if you follow my advice.

Take your cat to your veterinarian. He can give it a new preparation by injection that is 80 percent effective in stopping nuisance spraying.

This preparation is effective in castrated males, fully grown un-castrated males, and for adult spayed females.

It is not effective nor recommended for unsprayed females. I hope this suggestion helps your marriage.

HAVE FUN!
By LEE BRYAN

The first graders were on a field trip to observe the birds beginning their migration. Explaining that they were noisy and excited because they were going on a long journey, the teacher asked the class, "What do you suppose they are saying?" "I imagine," said one little girl shyly, "that the mother birds are telling their children they'd better go to the bathroom before they start."

Mike: That fellow's the laziest man I've ever seen. He's been sitting on that rock for two hours doing nothing.
Ed: How do you know?
Mike: I've been sitting here and watching him.

Man: Good River for fish?
Fisherman: It must be. I can't persuade any of them to come out.

Called to personnel to be screened for assignment, a young Army recruit was asked what kind of job he had had in civilian life. "I was the round-maker at a drive-in movie theater," he replied.
"Round-maker?" asked the puzzled personnel officer.
"Yes, sir. I made the rounds of all the cars telling the couples the movie was over."

"Well, here we are, up again."

Pirates Pinch Sandcrabs 58-54

By Bob Crawford

After a see-saw game where the lead exchanged hands numerous times, the Rockport-Fulton Pirates finally pulled away at the buzzer on a slam-dunk by Donnie Frels, icing the 58-54 victory for the Pirates in the season's opener.

After the first 16 minutes of playing time, the teams were knotted at 30-30, showing the even match-up between the two teams. In that first half of play, Micheal

Simmons and Dennis Hull came off the bench to help the Pirates with their shooting and good play around the basket.

Simmons hit for nine points in his stint during the first half, as well as grabbing eight rebounds. Hull popped for eight points.

The Pirates had their ups and downs throughout the game, never quite pulling away for a big lead. Port Lavaca also could have run away with the game at any time, but they could not mount a big lead either.

In the second half, both teams followed the same pattern, each going ahead by two or four, and then the other team would catch their opponent.

With the Pirates leading 42-39 going into the last quarter, things looked good for the Pirates. The Sandcrabs clawed back, and took a 47-44 lead before Simmons hit two baskets and Frels added another to give the Pirates the lead.

Trailing in the fourth period, the Pirates tried to rally back. Hull hit two free shots to tie the score at 52-52. Walls tied the score at 54-54, and then the last minute heroics by Pee Wee Solis and Frels took place as Solis took the inbounds pass and hit Frels on the run for the dunk to put the game away.

Both Frels and Simmons ended the night with 16 points each, and Hull hit for 11 points.

In JV action, the Pirate JV had the game under control in the third period, and then began standing around watching Port Lavaca play.

The Sandcrabs came back from being 14 points down in the third period to win the game 65-60.

Aaron Commander led the Pirates with 17 points, while Marty Davenport added 14, and Jay Roberts sank 10 points.

Lady Pirates Dump Ingleside

For the second game in a row, the Lady Pirates of Rockport-Fulton outscored their opponents in the first half, and then held on to win the game.

The Ladies accumulated a 16-point bulge at halftime, 33-17, mostly on the hot shooting of Terri Moore.

Rockport jumped out to a first quarter lead by a 16-10 margin. Moore bombed the nets to help the Pirate team move ahead by its big first half margin.

In the second half, Ingleside made a run at the Lady Pirates, but the stage had been set, and the cushion held up for the remainder of the game.

Moore had 26 point for the game, her second consecutive game with at least 20 points. Also in double figures was Kim Foitik with 10 points.

In JV action, the Lady Pirates got their second win with a 37-32 victory behind the 15-point performance of Alma Dickerson.

Autumn Fishing Often Overlooked

AUSTIN — The rush hour is over.

No more traffic jams at the launch ramps and boat parades at the popular angling hot spots.

The summer sportsmen and weekend fishermen have gone back to the gray flannel worlds of work or have donned the olive drab of the hunter.

When will they ever learn?

There is life after Labor Day on the coastal bays and on the inland lakes.

In the back bays and behind the barrier islands, trout and redfish are active on the shallow flats where nowadays seldom is seen a plugging angler.

And soon, if not sooner, flounder and croaker will begin their fall migrations through the channels and passes.

The flounder and croaker migration begins sometime in October when water temperatures drop to around 74 degrees and continues until the bay waters get as cool as 55 degrees, which may be as late as December.

While the migration is spread out over a period of weeks, the fall cool fronts bring a several-degree drop in water temperatures give the flatfish and golden croakers the tickets to ride to the Gulf in bunches. By listening to the recreational fishing forecasts which give water temperature information and by watching for the arrival of cool fronts, the angler can get to the passes in time for the best action.

Flounder respond best to live bait, like mud minnows or finger mullet, but croakers will take anything from lures to dead bait.

This fall friskiness also applies to freshwater fish, especially largemouth and striped bass.

Largemouths respond to cooler water temperatures by moving from their deep summer hideouts to shallows areas to feed, especially early and late in the day and at night.

During the fall, largemouths can be caught on a larger variety of lures than during the summer, when a slowly-fished plastic worm is the bass angler's main weapon. The fall feeding pattern often prompts the fish to hit faster-moving baits such as spinners and crankbaits. Fall also is a good time to use topwaters, either the popping or crawling action lures or fast-moving "buzz baits."

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists believe this fall feeding activity is an effort by the fish to store up extra body fat for upcoming cold weather. Bass retreat to deep channels in winter, and although they don't stop feeding completely, their sluggishness and the depth of the water make them more difficult to catch.

This fall feeding activity lasts longer in the more southerly Texas lakes, and also in the warmer waters of power plant lakes. After the first few cold fronts push water temperatures below 60 degrees, bass tend to assume their somnolent winter behavior.

The effect of dropping water temperatures is perhaps even more dramatic on striped bass. The stripers, which have been introduced into scores of Texas lakes and rivers, are cool-water fish by nature, and fall brings them up from the deep channels onto rocky points and shoals.

Stripers tend to be less concentrated in the fall, but are more likely to be located in water less than 20 feet deep. In October and November stripers can be caught from shore. By contrast, the fish often remain in water as deep as 50 to 80 feet during the summer.

Walleyes are another introduced non-native species which head for deep water during hot weather and returns to more moderate depths as the water cools. Fishermen who use live bait or small spinner lures along the riprap of dams are more likely to catch walleye in the fall, as well as during the spring spawning period.

Weather patterns also are important to the freshwater angler as winter approaches. Experts theorize that fishing is best before, instead of following, a cold front. Largemouth bass, in particular, seem to stop feeding when there are significant changes in the barometric pressure associated with frontal passages. Two or three days of warm stable weather conditions are usually best.

Also, veteran bass fishermen theorize that night fishing is best when the moon is in a large phase and is up during the night. Daytime fishing, on the other hand, usually is better during weeks when the moon is in a smaller phase or is not visible in the night hours.

Goliad Racing Plans Told

Exciting news for Texas horse racing was announced recently when officials of La Bahia Downs in Goliad unveiled plans for their 1981 Spring Stakes. The Texas Futurity "Breeders Stake" will be run with $25,000 added money. This is the largest added money stake race ever run in Texas. Its companion, the South Texas Derby will offer $5,000 added money. Both will be run during the twentieth annual Spring Race Meet, March 21-22, 28-29, and April 4-5, 1981.

The Texas Futurity featuring a brand new format for 1981 is being sponsored jointly by four Texas Breeders and the local South Texas Race Association. The five entities each donated $5,000 for the added money. The Breeders are: Joe A. McDermott and Mrs. J. Abercrombie, Madisonville, Mr. Washington TB; Dr. L.A. Prowse, Beeville, Native Creek; Southwest Stallion Station, Elgin, Pass 'em Up TB and Southwest Stallion Station, Elgin, Vikingson TB. In addition to the added money the breeders are providing a "Breeders Certificate" to each paid in full entry into the Futurity. This certificate is good for a 10½

Outdoors & Travel

by E. L. "Buck" Rogers

Folks used to say "when the frost is on the pumpkin."

But now very few people get out in the field to see what a pumpkin looks like, much less one with frost on it.

What we're really talking about is the change in the season and how this phenomenon affects all of us. Fall means more than "back to school."

Fall means trees adorned in colorful raiment, and lots of footballs in the air. On Saturday afternoons, leggy cheerleaders compete for attention with quarterbacks and wide receivers. Sundays offer fans an opportunity to call the plays differently than the coach did the day before.

Fall mean death to dandelions. Bumble bees, too, except for the queen bee, that is.

But it also means that the grape vines in vineyards are hanging heavy with fruit, and that millions of gallons of new wine are about to come into being. In wine-growing regions, both here and abroad, fall is a time of excitement.

It's also a time for raking leaves and trying to find a place to put them.

Squirrels are dashing around looking for acorns to poke into holes in trees, and judging from the mast this year there oughta be a bumper crop of baby bushy tails next spring. In Nature there is a direct relation between food supply, density of the species, and birth rates.

The groundhog is sniffing the crisp air, putting on weight, and making plans for a long winter nap. Bears are doing the same thing, berries and insects are the principal diet of these animals, and because these vittles aren't around in the winter, Nature has substituted hibernation for starvation.

While I'm on the subject, haven't you ever wondered what happens to all the other insects and little creatures that disappear during the winter months? They hibernate, too. When the weather gets cold and the rations short they simply find a cozy crevice someplace and nap.

The next time the little one gets out of bed at midnight and asks, "Daddy, where have all the birds and bees gone?" you can reply, "Gone to bed like you ought to."

Bird shooters are polishing up their scatterguns, and the wives of deer hunters are checking their freezers to determine how much venison is still left from last winter. Bird dogs are dashing nervously around in their kennels, anxious for the fields again.

Some folks are leaving town. As I write this there is a flight of mallards circling above, and last night I heard the honking of migrating geese. I'm not going to be far behind them. When the sky is filled with snowflakes instead of falling leaves, I'm going to amble on board a sleek Braniff jet and head for the tropics, too.

In the meantime, though, Autumn is a pleasant time of the year.

Fishing Report

SEA GUN MARINA—Very slow. No one coming out.

KEY ALLEGRO—No offshore fishing but lots of large trout were caught off the pier last weekend.

KLEIN'S CAMP—Pretty good fishing. Lots of drum and red and a few trout.

CAUSEWAY—Plenty of trout and flounder being caught and fishing is really picking up — should be good from now on.

BEA'S BAIT—Excellent

fishing. Several had from 30 to 35 good speckled trout and another had 8 or 9 flounder Tuesday from 18 to 24 inches long. Little Miss Judy caught 3 big reds in the ski basin. Lots of folks with lots of good strings.

PALM HARBOR MARINA—Really good fishing in the flats and cuts especially. It's been good all week and we expect it to get better with live bait. Lots of fish caught Wednesday night.

What is forever?

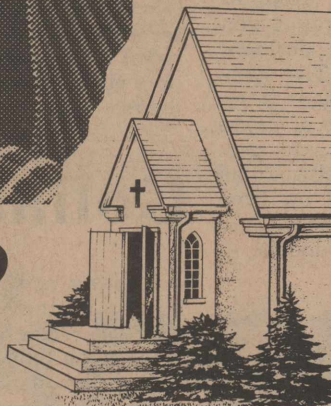

Last week there was all the tenderness of young love. Today they broke up. And there is hurt in the wake of love—disillusion and bitterness.

What about you? Did you marry your high school sweetheart? Few of us do. Most of us have been through experiences like this, yet we survived.

And some of us who did marry our high school sweethearts lived on to find that it didn't work out. We had the trauma of divorce, which inflicts much deeper wounds.

Where did we turn? What did we do? It depends on how long ago it was. Because there was a time when you didn't turn to the church about divorce and other problems which, like it or not, are a part of life.

No longer. Today's church is with you in all things. Try it and see!

As we approach Advent and Christmas, WHOSE BIRTHDAY IS IT ANYWAY?

ECONOMICS OF CHRISTMAS

—This year Americans will surrender more than $12 billion in retail sales to commercial interests during the annual Christmas spree.

—“When Junior steps up on Santa’s knee, it’s big business for retailers.”—Jan Gittlitz, Editor “Toys, Hobbies and Crafts”

—“It would be nice if we could mandate a national tonsillectomy day (For gift-giving). Another Christmas would be nice too . . .”—Douglas Thomas, President Toy Manufacturers Association

ECONOMICS OF POVERTY

—21 million people in this country do not have incomes sufficient to provide nutritionally adequate diets for themselves.—U.S. Department of Agriculture —Less than one-third of the world’s people consume three-quarters of the world’s non-renewable resources.—“Enough is Enough”

—More than $350 billion - an amount equal to the total income of one-half of humanity - is spent annually in military budgets.—“The Other Side”

—Some 37,000 farmers in the United States went out of business in 1979.—U.S. Department of Agriculture

—Last year Americans spent 275 times as much on food packaging and the disposal of that packaging as the federal government voted to send to aid to Cambodia.—“The Other Side”

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

Jesus: “. . . for I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me.”

Followers: “When did we see you . . . ?”

Jesus: “Inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these, you did it to me.”

Baptist Church To Show Film

“No Longer Alone”, winner of three prestigious film-industry awards, will be shown Sunday, November 23, at 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church and the door is open to the public free of charge.

The film, a true story, looks at a woman who was searching for love and acceptance, but whose cries went unheard by those who surrounded her.

Originally released by World Wide Pictures in commercial theatres, the film is now one hour in length in preparation for its eventual presentation as a television special.

“No Longer Alone” traces the life of an English actress, Joan Winnmill Brown. Though she skyrocketed to fame on the British stage, her life was marked by a grasp for personal fulfillment and love. Tormented by a past she was unable to forget, she succumbed to a series of nervous breakdowns and at one point, attempted suicide.

In her ultimate moment of despair, Joan was invited by a “chance” phone call to attend a Billy Graham crusade. It was here she first discovered her worth as an individual and began her struggle to piece her life back together.

Billy Graham appears in the film in some of the footage of his 1954 London Crusade, and also in the introduction and conclusion to the film, photographed for this special version.

According to William F. Brown, President of World Wide Pictures, “No Longer Alone” was presented with the Award of Excellence from the film Advisory Board of Hollywood, as well as the “Angel” award from Religion in Media in America, as the outstanding religious film of the year. It also received the “Silver Halo Award” from the Southern California Motion Picture Council.

Abuse Topic Of Seminar At Local

“Understanding Child/Wife/Husband Abuse” is the topic for a study course at First Presbyterian Church, Live Oak and Laurel streets, beginning Sunday, November 23, at 9:45 a.m. in the church’s Fellowship Hall. Believing the church should be concerned about the hurts of people, the planners are seeking to promote understanding of the emotional dynamics of the abused and abuser, to increase awareness that such abuse does exist, and to prevent and/or cure the causes of this problem, says John R. Bradshaw, pastor of the church.

This seven-week study will probe the psychological, legal, medical and theological implications of this issue. “With national statistics showing that 50 percent of all marriages experience violence — 12 percent experiencing extreme violence — that 1.8 million women are beaten annually by their husbands, and that hundreds of thousands of children are abused each year, planners for this study feel an urgent need to address this social blight,” Rev. Bradshaw said. The course will be introduced Sunday with a film entitled “Fragile-Handle With Care,” narrated by Bill Cosby. Rev. Bradshaw continued. It will be followed by discussion led by Musette Richey and Delia Sanchez, Department of Human Resources from Aransas Pass.

'Winslow Homer's America' On Exhibit

"Winslow Homer's America," organized by the Museum of Fine Arts in Houston, will go on display from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, November 23, at the Nave Museum, 306 W. Commercial in Victoria.

Consisting of more than 150 graphics collected by Dr. and Mrs. Mavis P. Kelsey of Houston, the exhibit gives a different perspective of one of America's best known 19th-century artists as he worked as an illustrator for magazine's like "Ballou's Pictorial Drawing Room Companion," and "Harper's Weekly" from 1857-1874.

The exhibition will continue through January 4.

The Kelsey collection, which includes such well-known works as "Snap the Whip," comprises one of the largest and most thorough groupings of Homer printed matter in any American library or museum, said Director William C. Agee of the Houston Museum.

Born in Boston, Homer was apprenticed at the age of 19 to the lithography firm of J.H. Bufford in Boston.

He began free-lance magazine illustration in 1857, becoming a regular contributor to "Harper's Weekly."

His early work contained scenes of American pastimes such as picnics, sleigh rides and corn husking. Then, during the Civil War, Homer visited the Union army camps in Virginia, and his work centered on candid battle-front scenes and depictions of army life.

After the war, his style grew more simplified, and he chose for his subjects the mountains, seaside resorts, and farms in New England, New York and New Jersey.

Although Winslow Homer's achievements as a painter are widely appreciated, the extent of his parallel career as an illustrator are less well known," said David F. Tathma, a Homer scholar. "Yet between 1855 and 1880 Homer drew over 400 different illustrations for books, periodicals, and sundry other publications and was seriously and intimately involved with graphic art.

"No other American artist of the first rank ever created such a large and distinguished body of popular graphics," Tathma added.

"Winslow Homer's America" will be the first major exhibition at the Nave Museum since the arrival of the new director, Barbara Meyer.

Memberships to the museum are still available. Individual and family membership to the museum include the following categories: family, $25; individual, $15; and student and senior citizen,

The Nave Museum is open from 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. There is no admission charge.

For more information, write the Victoria Regional Museum Association, 306 W. Commercial, Victoria, Texas 77901, or call 578-1421.

From mid-November to early January, thousands of Texas farmers and ranchers will receive a crop or livestock questionnaire from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service or will be personally interviewed by the Service's field staff. The information gathered through the questionnaires and interviews provides the basis for determining the final acreage, yield, and production of crops and end-of-the-year livestock and poultry numbers for the state of Texas and for each county.

All of the estimates published by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service are based on the data provided by Texas farmers and ranchers, County Extension Agents, ASCS offices, and many others in agriculture. This cooperation provides the necessary data which is, in turn, returned to farmers and ranchers and others in the form of accurate estimates, which are so essential in making the wisest production and marketing decisions. Accurate estimates are also essential to farm organizations and legislators in promotion, planning, and enacting wise legislation and are used in establishing acreages and payment levels to producers under the various commodity programs.

The collection and publication of agricultural statistics are a cooperative effort between the Texas Department of Agriculture and USDA. This cooperation avoids duplication of effort, promotes economies, and increases the effectiveness of statistical reports. All individual farm and ranch information is kept confidential, and only state and county summaries become part of the final published estimate.

County estimates for 1979 and January 1, 1980, are available on Livestock, Poultry, Dairy, Field Crops, Small Grains, Cotton, Vegetables, Fruits and Pecans, and Cash Receipts from the Sale of Texas Farm Commodities. Bulletins can be obtained from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, P.O. Box 70, Austin, Texas 78767, of by writing Reagan V. Brown, Commissioner of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

ENTERTAINER

THE DOVE AND THE 'SWORD'

Police Report

Manuel Perez Cantu, 56, of Corpus Christi was charged with misdemeanor driving while intoxicated (DWI) after he was arrested about 1:50 p.m. Wednesday, November 19. Cantu was stopped at the intersection of Bronte and Cornwall streets.

Edward Allen Lane, 18, of Rockport was ticketed for making an improper right turn — from the wrong lane — following an accident at the intersection of Enterprise and Omohundro about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said Lane was attempting a turn from Omohundro onto Enterprise when he struck a vehicle being driven by Jose Francisco Sifuentes, 29, of Rockport.

Minerva Cavazos of 726 Young reported two books of food stamps, valued at $65 each, and $10 in cash were taken when her residence was burgled Tuesday morning, November 18.

The burglary reportedly occurred between 10 a.m. and 11:25 a.m. when someone ripped the back door screen and unlocked the door.

The money and food stamp books were taken from the victim's purse.

RFTA Has Busy Schedule

The Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association tries to keep a full calendar of events for Winter Texans who come to the Rockport-Fulton area.

Mondays are always "game night" at the RFTA Recreation Building on Airport Road, followed by covered dish dinners and entertainment on Wednesdays.

And starting in December, visitors to the area can sign up for one — or more — of the bus trips to places like San Antonio, Houston, Laredo.

The game nights and covered dish dinners are already underway, with the next event being Monday night November 24.

Then on Wednesday, November 26, Aransas County Marine Extension Agent Jeff Messinger will be guest speaker at the covered dish dinner. The dinners start at 6:30 p.m. at the RFTA Building.

Other game nights are December 1, 8 and 15, and the first December covered dish dinner is on Wednesday, December 3, when Gayna Harrell from A Blossom Shop will present the program.

On Friday, December 5, Winter Texans will have the opportunity to take their first bus trip this year. The destination will be Reynosa.

A Christmas dance will highlight the December 10 covered dish dinner and on December 12 — another Friday — a bus trip to Laredo is on the schedule for those who would like to go.

Entertainment to go along with the Wednesday, December 17, covered dish dinner will be a film comedy.

More bus trips are scheduled in January, February and March, starting Friday, January 16, with a trip to San Antonio. All bus trips will be on a Friday.

On January 23, the trip is to Houston followed by another trip to Laredo on January 30.

On February 6, the trip will be to San Antonio again, then on the 13th, there's a trip scheduled to Brownsville/Matamoros. On February 20, the trip will be to Austin.

Two trips are planned in March, to Houston on the 6th and to Galveston on March 13.

GETTING SERVED

Winter Texans at the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association's covered dish supper prepare for a dinner of baked ham and goodies that they've brought Wednesday night, November 19. Approximately 60 persons attended this past week's supper and entertainment provided by Fulton magician Del Edwards. The Wednesday covered dish supper and Monday game nights are sponsored every week by the RFTA at its Recreation Building on Airport Road. The RFTA provides the meat for the suppers. [Pilot Photo by Pat Blair]

Darts were archers' idea
The sport of throwing darts dates back to a group of English archers who de-vised a game in which short-ened arrows were thrown at the end of a wine cak.

WHERE TO PUT IT . . .

Pat Smith, principal of Rockport-Fulton Junior High School, seems to be wondering that about the "toy box" he received from Aransas County's "Toys for Kids" organization Tuesday afternoon. The specially-decorated boxes were distributed to all five Aransas County schools this week in the hope that students and faculty will donate toys — either new or used but in good condition — to the "Toys for Kids" project. The Boxes are in the school offices. Sponsored by the Rockport Lions Club, "Toys for Kids" provides toys for youngsters whose families would otherwise be unable to provide Christmas presents. The organization hopes to help make Christmas brighter for some 300 Aransas County youngsters this year.

Winter Water Enthusiasts Warned Of Danger

Thousands of Texans, native and winter residents, use their boats during the winter months — for fishing, hunting, just for recreation.

These winter water enthusiasts should be aware of the danger of hypothermia: the name given to the subnormal cooling of the central body.

Hypothermia is what happens to people who are immersed in cold water — and it can kill. Experts consider a water temperature of 50 degrees extremely dangerous to a person immersed in it.

When a person is suddenly dumped into cold water, the skin and nearby tissues cool rapidly. After 10 to 15 minutes, the brain, heart and other internal organs start to cool.

As the victim chills, he will lose the use of his arms and legs and his brain will cease to send coherent signals. When the brain reaches 90 degrees, unconsciousness may occur and the victim may drown. If the person survives this and the "core temperature" drops to 85 degrees, he will probably die of heart failure, experts warn.

An "average" person wearing light clothing and a good life preserver may survive two to three hours in 50 degree water by remain-ing still. Swimming or tread-ing water will increase the cooling rate by about 35 percent. The drownproofing technique, so effective in surviving in warm water, increases the cooling rate by about 82 percent.

Be sure you're wearing a life preserver if there is any possibility you might sud-denly be dumped into cold water.

About 50 percent of body heat is lost through the head, so by wearing a flotation vest, you can keep your head out of the water.

You can also curl up into a fetal (Heat Escape Lessening Posture — H.E.L.P.) position and increase your sur-vival time.

If several persons are in the water, huddling close, side to side in a circle will accomplish just about the same results as the H.E.L.P.

After rescue, incorrect treatment of hypothermia victims may induce a condi-tion known as "after-drop." This is caused by improper warming, causing cold, stag-nant blood from the extrem-ities to return to the core of the body.

The first step after rescue is to move the victim to shelter. Do not allow him to walk. Handle him gently and remove wet clothing. Apply heat to his body using a warm bath, shower, hot water bottles or heated blankets.

Conserve body heat with blankets or sleeping bags. If the victim is conscious and can swallow without difficul-ty, give him hot, sugary drinks.

Do not wrap the victim in a blanket without an auxiliary source of heat.

The best defense against hypothermia is to avoid actions such as standing up in a small boat, overloading a boat, going out in dangerous weather or making sudden high-speed turns that might dump you into the cold water.

Nursing Home News

The residents of the nursing home were given a brand new stereo and eight track tape player by Mal-lory Trotter. We are cer-tainly enjoying it.

There were lots of rela-tives, visitors and volun-teers here during the week.

Early Tuesday morning the men and ladies from the First Presbyterian Church of Rockport were here to mend clothing, sew on but-tons and repair zippers for those needing such serv-ices. The ladies also brought 16 wheelchair tote bags for the residents. Georgeanna brought a shawl she had made and it was given to little Elizabeth Pierce to keep her shoulders warm.

Tuesday afternoon our "Caring Ones" were out in numbers to help play bingo with our residents and that evening the Pentecostal Church of God of Aransas Pass, led by Cecil Cox, were out to sing and play for us.

Thursday afternoon, the Rebekah Lodge #307 was here for their monthly afternoon of bingo. Friday morning Frankie Edwards, Sarah Balsley and Lyla Olive were here to lead our paint class.

Saturday morning Father James Hamilton of St.

23.5 million covered

Pension plans adminis-tered by life insurance com-panies covered 23.5 million people in 1979, 1.8 million more than in 1978.

Mary's Star of the Sea Catholic Church of Aransas Pass was here to administer Holy Communion to our Catholic residents. Sunday morning services were led by Rev. Al Bankert.

Sunday afternoon, Sarah Cheaney, one of our resi-dents, was honored with a party to celebrate her 90th birthday. We had clowns to entertain and punch and rainbow sherbet was served.

As usual we had our R.O. and exercise classes and social hours during the week.

Dorothy said. This was in Palm Village — now North Key Allegro, Kenneth added.

Intrigued, Kenneth took two weeks off from his job and he and Dorothy came down — "by train to San Antonio, then by bus to Corpus Christi and by taxicab to Rockport," he remembers with a laugh. "We got here about 11 or 12 o'clock at night."

That was the beginning of a love affair with Rockport. "We've been to Florida, California, Arizona — but we always come back to Rockport," Kenneth said. "This little town is just about tops."

Of course, the Dumases have traveled outside the states too — to places like Australia, Fiji, Singapore. And to Jamaica, back in 1974-75, for a 16-month stint with the Peace Corps.

"We heard about it (the Peace Corps) and wrote to them," Kenneth recalled, adding, "Bureaucracy is really something! It took us a whole year to get in."

When they finally were accepted, the Dumases were assigned to Jamaica to "teach the three R's to adults who had never been to school."

Three years ago, they got involved in the "Toys for Kids" program that's sponsored by the Lion's Club here. The first year, they helped prepare toys. This year, their service has ranged from helping sell balloons at Sea Fair to taking care of the "Texas Gold Stamp Collection Mailboxes" at HEB and First National Bank. The mailbox was, in fact, Kenneth's idea.

Last year and the year before that, they volunteered their services as tax aides at the Aransas County library, helping low income families and senior citizens fill out their income tax forms. (Kenneth describes this as a case of "the blind leading the blind.")

This year, they started the catechism class for third graders at Sacred Heart . . . and then when the church announced a need for volunteers to teach English to Cambodians and Vietnamese in the area — the Dumases were right there.

They presently have a "class" of two Cambodians and one Vietnamese student.

They aren't trying to "prove anything" the Dumases insist — except that retirement doesn't have to mean retiring to a rocking chair.

And they've always been busy. Married 49 years this past August, the couple have 10 children and 22 grandchildren, and back in those early days, says Kenneth, he held down two jobs to support his family.

"Then as soon as it was down to five kids in school," he said, he gave up the second job — a repair shop that he owned himself. "And when it got down to one in school, I retired."

"You don't need a lot of money if you don't live too high on the hog," he continued. And he describes his volunteer work — which includes working with handicapped children and senior citizens back in Minnesota, too — as "kind of selfish."

"I hope if I ever need it, someone will do some of this for us," he explained.

But what it all comes down to, he says, is "We have fun. By the grace of God, we both have good health, and we try to keep it that way by being active."

juana growing behind the "alligatorman's" house on Highway 35 South.

But, Wooddell said, authorities believed the man would give himself up soon.

Lynch, 49, is charged with felony possession of marijuana after an aerial survey of his property revealed 12 stalks of the stuff growing on a 25-by-30-foot clearing about 25 yards behind his house.

The aerial survey was by County Investigator Ricky McLeister, acting on a tip to the sheriff's department.

[Continued From Page One] guests have been coming down to this area for years, and as one Winter Texan observed recently, the atmosphere at area motels and trailer parks "is like old home week." And many of the newer visitors started coming down to this area after hearing about it from the "old-timers" who've been coming for years.

As to what brings them to this area — you can get as many answers as the number of Winter Texans you talk to:

the fishing, the climate, the chance to see friends they haven't seen for a while...

In past years, according to Chamber of Commerce estimates, as many as 5,000 visitors have at least passed through this area during the winter months — including the Winter Texans who spend three, four, five months or longer in the area.

And, as has happened in the past, those who just "pass through" this year may be back next year as Winter Texans themselves...

PIER

[Continued From Page 1] is provided through the Coastal Energy Impact Program, administered by the Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration for the purpose of reducing "the impacts associated with offshore oil and gas development and other coastal energy activities," according to Governor Clements.

Fulton was one of 17 local governments on the Texas coast selected to receive grant funds through this program. Selection was on the basis of individual merit "as well as the intensity of energy development in each segment of the coast," the Governor said.
