

Letter Writing Campaign For Bible Reading Begins

Jaycees across Texas are conducting a letter-writing campaign to counteract the anti-religious protests being waged by Madolyn Murray O'Hair. Since Olton has no Jaycee organization, the local Lions Club is assuming the project for residents of Olton.

Self-professed atheist, Mrs. O'Hair was successful in her leadership in obtaining the 1963 Supreme Court ban on Bible reading and prayer in public schools.

She is now engaged in a fervent letter-writing campaign to register censure against the Apollo 11 astronauts for reading the Holy Bible in space. Her avowed goal is to ban such religious activity in future space flights.

The O'Hair campaign has caused 27,000 letters supporting her case to be written to NASA. The goal Texas Jaycees has set is 300,000 letters in support of the scripture reading and prayer.

Hail Damages Crops

Tornado Hits Hart Camp

IT'S THE TIE THAT BINDS milady's fashions to the young men's world. National Tie Week, 1969 is seeing peak popularity of that ages old accessory. Helping mark the special week are Darrell and David McGill, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McGill, and Alanna Hamill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Greer Hamill.

Ole Man Weather went on the rampage around Hart Camp area Monday night and left crops damaged as well as a large haybarn and other debris scattered over much of the countryside.

The storm dumped rains and hail along its path of destruction. The tornado left a three mile wide, six mile long path then disappeared into the sky.

Elma Burleson, manager of Hart Camp Co-Op Gin said that he spotted the tornado about 7 p. m. and began watching it. He said it set in about the B. G. Garland place one mile south and one and a fourth west of Hart Camp where a large hay barn was destroyed.

The debris from the barn was carried over to the D. R. Leonard farm and there the tornado's fury picked up high lines and fences.

It then made its way on to the J. W. Johnson Jr. farm, where the trees were broken up and the home damaged. Burleson said that the storm blew so hard that Johnson's truck had been "scotched around."

The tornado continued on across to the Harvey Neel farm where it tore down a "lot of feed lots there and picked up an alfalfa swather and carried it in the air about a quarter of a mile," Burleson said. A cow feeder was also blown away.

From the Neel farm, the storm made its way on over to the N. W. Wheeler farm and tore several cotton trailers up, out buildings and cow fences. The Wheelers reported window glass damage to their house.

After leaving the Wheelers, the tornado traveled across open country for a time, before lifting into the clouds and disappearing.

Burleson said that the hail damage was not as severe in the tornado path as it was just outside the path.

"There was lot of hail that was as big as oranges and lots of smaller hail and we got about one and a quarter inches of rain with it," Burleson reported.

He said that crops were damaged pretty bad, the feed losing from 500 to 600 pounds to the acre and cotton in the three mile strip was real severely damaged, because the bolls were burst.

In the path of the tornado, feed is laying on the ground he said.

At the Hart Camp Co-Op Gin, there are 38 windows knocked out in the gin and the dwellings.

"We watched the tornado on the ground for 35 to 40 minutes," Burleson said. "I got my family in the cellar and then I began trying to get word to those east of us. We were real fortunate that no one was hurt. The debris was flying around and tin from the barn could have hurt someone badly. The Harvey Neel family was gone or they'd have probably been out trying to go to the cellar and could have been in more danger from the flying debris than anything else."

T. C. Covington, who farms east of Hart Camp, reported that he didn't receive very much hail but had heard reports that southwest of Cotton Center, there was some damage crops.

Frank Struve said on the Struve "home place" that there was very little, if any, hail damage.

Meanwhile, those who didn't receive any hail or weren't in the path of the storm are asking for sunshine and fair weather.

Robert Struve said that he'd had "just about as much rain as everyone else. It's the same old story...If it clears up, we might make a crop yet."

J. L. Snider said that he felt like by Monday, that he'd have a combine going. "Grain looks pretty good, but we'll have to spend more time gathering it, because we can't get our trucks in the field," Snider commented.

"We need the sun to shine so that the fields will dry out and we can get in there and gather our crops. This is about the time of year we always get into the maize fields."

"As for the cotton, only time will tell. A late freeze and a frost every now and then all along would help. I think the worms are no longer a threat to the cotton," Snider reported.

"I've checked mine pretty close and looks like they're dead." So as the last days of September draw near, farmers in the area are wishing for some hot, sunshine-filled days and hope that no more moisture will fall for the remainder of the harvest season.

Band Parents Slate Meet

Mrs. Roberson Takes Lead In Grid Guessing Contest

It took the tie breaker to determine a winner in the Enterprise football contest this week and, much to the thrill of the Mustang fans, that tie breaker score was a nothing to nothing tie.

Eight persons missed only three games. Coming up with the smallest number of points was Harold Lloyd with his guess of 6 to 20. Trailing right behind, 28 points off, was nine-year-old Rhonda Parsons. Rhonda picked the Mustang-Eagle score at 21-7. Taking third place with his 34-points-off pick of 7-27 was A. G. Huguley.

Also missing three games but losing out with their tie breaker scores were Doug Goen, 35 points off; T. J. Roberson, 37; Lucille Bryant and Norene Roberson, each 41 points off and Mrs. M. G. Fisher, 42.

Fourteen persons missed four games.

The feminine half of the Roberson family took over the season lead this week. Norene Roberson has 25 correct guesses, followed closely by husband T. J. and eighth grader Monte Chitwood each with 23 right picks.

There's still time to enter this week's contest. Pick up a copy of the Sept. 18 Enterprise, pick your winners, fill in the entry blank and take to one of the sponsoring merchants.

An error was made in the contest standings in last week's Enterprise. Twenty-one names were omitted from the list. Four persons were credited with nine correct guesses but should have been credited with eight.

Persons with 20 or more guesses are listed on page 9.

City Judge Sets Hours

Mustangs And Mules To Tangle On Mule Gridiron Friday Night

Olton Mustang's entire defensive unit was introduced to fans at the Monday night Booster Club meeting, following their glorious victory when they met Canyon Friday night.

Blakely stated that after the fine game they all played Friday night that it would be too difficult to single out any one or two boys for the honors of the week.

Blakely praised the defensive work of the Mustangs Friday night and said that the offensive never did have good enough field position to get started. Canyon managed to keep Olton deep in their own territory most of the night, where Blakely says that "you just can't take any chances or gamble, as a mistake can cost you a touchdown."

Next opponent of the Mustangs is Muleshoe. Olton travels to Muleshoe this Friday night. Game time is 8 p. m. The Mules have lost their first two games of the year to Dimmitt and Abernathy, while Olton has lost to Leveland and tied by Canyon.

Friday's game will be the last non-conference game for the Mustangs before jumping into district play.

Muleshoe is ranked as a AAA school, although Olton may field more boys on the field than the Mules. The Mules are said to be about the same size as Olton with maybe a little more speed than the Mustangs.

Muleshoe has four offensive and five defensive lettermen returning from last years team. Quarterbacking the Mules is Ronnie Barrett a 165 pound senior. Dennis Beene plays fullback and Bobby Hayes is the favorite halfback. Average weight of the 34 Mules on the roster is 154. Their heaviest man is David Williams at 190 pounds.

Olton Coach Jerry Blakely says that although Muleshoe has lost both of their opening games that Olton will have to play an excellent game if we are to beat the Mules for they are a lot better team than their two losses indicate that they are.

Blakely reports that Mike Parsons and Lynn Gullett both have their casts off this week but that it will be a good long while before either will be playing any football.

Probable starters for this Friday's game - Offense: Crowder, Oursbourn, Tollett, Key, Dickenson, Turner, Springer, Stockdale, Cowart, Durham and Talamantez.

Defense: Rey, Marquez, Arroyos, Crowder, Cowart, Durham, Sanders, Truelock, Garcia, Chitwood and Rivera.

GUEST EDITORIAL

Again - for the umpteenth time, This newspaper wishes to report and expose the scandalous canard, lie, myth, fabrication and deliberate distortion that persists about the cause of the unconscionable price of beef at retail counters.

The unprincipled and undisciplined pricing practices of the three major food chains of America-Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, Safeway Stores Inc., and the Kroger Company alone are responsible for the great gouging of the housewife and the denial of necessary protein at a fair price to the American dinner table.

This newspaper's single most significant reportorial triumph in its history is the authenticated, certificated, proved and unassailable assertion that the major chains fix the prices, divide up trade territories and operate outside the law of supply and demand.

All of this is illegal, immoral and incredible. One of the great runaway facts of modern life is that the food chains, acting in concert with the powerful, hired and bought metropolitan press monopolies of the country are guilty of constant and continuing criminal violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

There is no doubt about it. Everybody in authority knows it. The Department of Agriculture has the evidence in its Consumer and Marketing Service Bulletin No. 45, issued in July, 1968-and not widely distributed.

With fat (ready for slaughter) steers and heifers bringing about the same prices to producers today that they brought 25 to 30 years ago, the chains are making an unbelievable net profit per 600-pound carcass of up to $156. That's correct and we repeat: For beef on which the average feeder may make from $10 to $30 a head for live weight of a 1,150-pound animal which he has kept for 120-150 days, the chains made at 1968 prices as high as $156 a carcass.

- and they have been making that incredible net profit on each carcass since 1958 by their own admission and by the evidence of Safeway's own cutout chart.

It is a crass and criminal lie, uttered to conceal and deceive, that any chain retailer in America has lost a single penny per pound on any retail meat sold in the United States in the last 25 years. We challenge any qualified chain store buyer to deny that statement.

This newspaper offered first a $1,000 reward and later raised it to $5,000 to anybody who could prove we are in error on this issue. There were no takers.

We challenged Robert Magowan,* one of the chain's principal behind-the-scenes executive factors, to a duel of sorts. I challenged him to sue me for libel.

He has been unwilling to do that. One of us is a liar and a coward. I submit that I am not. - My name is Gene Cervi, and I rise on one elbow from a sick bed to ask if there are any questions.

Just Mom

BY SUE CANNON

I've been saving a clipping from the Post Dispatch for just such an occasion as this-- I can't think of a thing that would make column material this week.

But this little writing is a special tribute to all mothers and we all are interested in mothers, so maybe you'll enjoy this as much as I did.

JUST MOM

The greatness of a mother has never been better told than when an old woman was chosen by her community for a special honor and she replied, "Who, me? Why, I've never done anything. I've just brought up a houseful of kids to be decent men and women. That's all."

"She never did anything," yet she was a soldier who fought her battles as bravely as any general whose breast is covered with medals and whose deeds live in song and story. Eight times she faced death through torture that has become the synonym for suffering to bring her children into the world. Her life was always a hand to hand fight with poverty and ill health and discouragement, but she never once ran up the white flag.

"She never did anything," yet she was the financier who would have been Secretary of the Treasury if she had gotten her just deserts. Balancing the budget would have been no trick at all compared to spreading her husband's thin pay envelope over the needs of a big family. Yet she did it.

"She never did anything," yet she was a jack of all trades and good at them all. She was a judge who had to use the wisdom of Solomon in settling the disputes between her children. She was a doctor who knew what to do for minor juvenile ills and who could kiss a bump and make it well. She was a nurse whose hands had healing in their touch, and who could go without food or sleep or rest while a sick child clung to her who would only be quiet in Mother's arms.

"She never did anything," yet she was the character builder whose work made the kind of men and women who are the glory of our country. She had rock-bottom principles and she founded her children on them.

She had high ideals that she always held before her sons' and daughters' eyes, and she bred in them honor and honesty and decency until these qualities became as much a part of her youngsters as their own skins.

"She never did anything," yet she was a day laborer who had no union hours and no forty-hour week. She had no holidays, no vacations, not even a Saturday afternoon off. For there was always so much to do in a poor household where there were no servants and where the babies trod on each other's heels.

"She never did anything," yet she was a heroine because with her own hands she raised her children above herself and opened doors for them which would be forever closed to her. She went shabby that they might have good clothes. Hungry that they might be fed. She stayed put that they might travel.

"She never did anything," yet she cooked in the kitchen the good food on which her children entertained their friends in the parlor. She sat up nights making pretty dresses in which her lovely daughters would dance at parties, and washing the shirts so that her boys would be spick and span and efficient looking when they went to work.

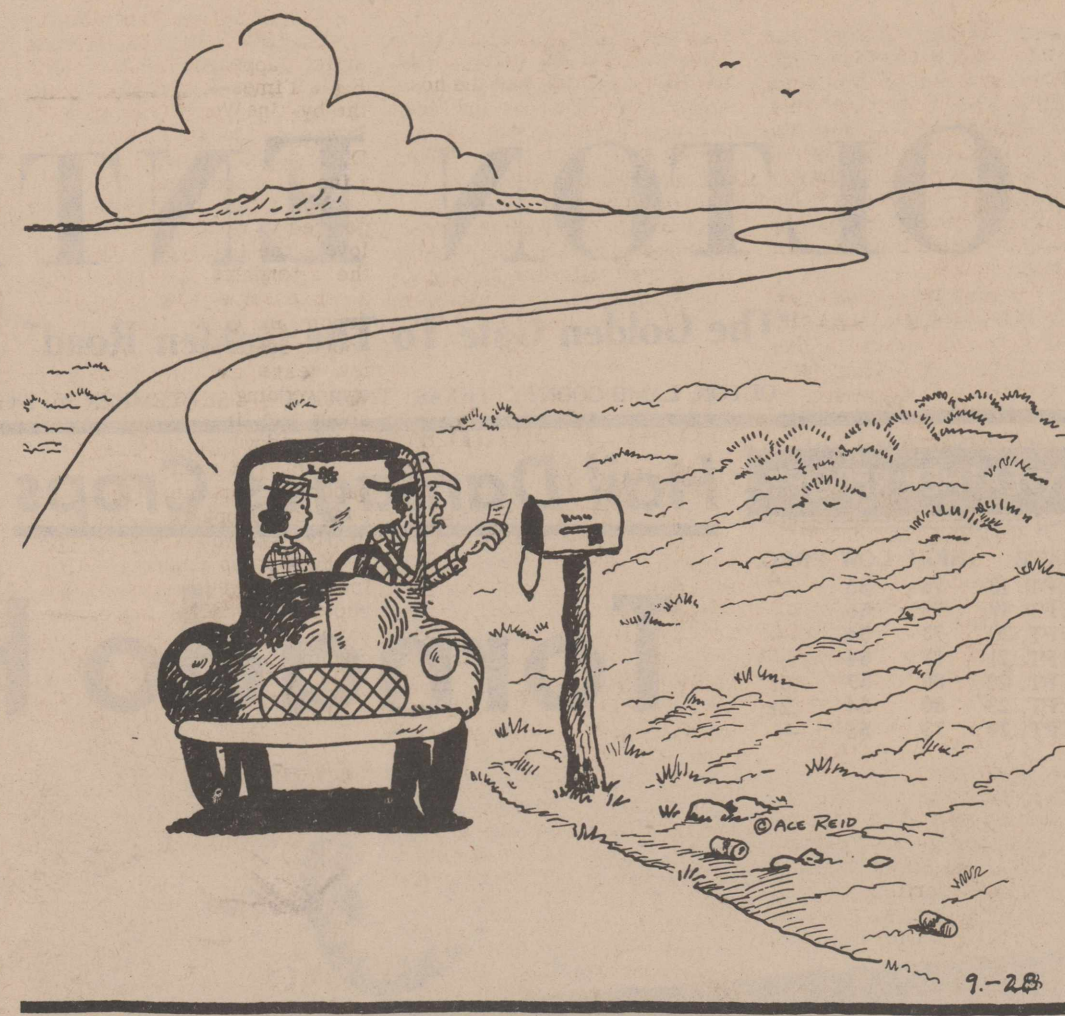

"She never did anything," yet for years and years she slaved and pinched pennies and denied herself even the medical attention that she knew she needed, that her sons and daughters might have the education that would forever put them out of her class.

"She never did anything," no. Of course not. She was just Mom, and even her children never knew how great she was.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Is This Stupidity Or Disloyalty?

James Forman has expressed his contempt for Christianity by calling it "one of the greatest techniques of control in keeping people in line and obedient to the power structure."

He has displayed his almost unbelievable ignorance by saying, "The richest man in the world, King James, wrote the Bible and he probably wrote in the phrase about it being easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to get to heaven--as a perfect rationale to keep people poor."

He has told us that his goal is to "seize state power" and build "a socialist society in the United States, where the total means of production and distribution are in the hands of the state."

"Statement Is Offensive"

When he demanded of the United Church of Christ that the denomination pay blackmail -- "reparations" is the word that he used -- the administrative committee of the executive council of the United Church of Christ replied in a letter:

"While we share your concern for racial and social justice, we do not share the ideology expressed in your introduction to the 'Black Manifesto.' The statement which anticipates 'revolution which will be an armed confrontation and long years of sustained guerilla warfare inside this country' is offensive to a church committed to human brotherhood."

The United Church of Christ rejected Forman's demands.

Yet the National Council of Churches has voted to give $500,000 to a group of black churchmen who are expected to turn the money over to Forman's National Black Economic Development Conference -- with no restriction as to the use to which the money will be put.

Just a week earlier, the Episcopal Church had voted to give $200,000 to a committee of black churchmen, with the understanding that the money would be channeled to Forman's organization.

Some delegates to the National Council convention, including leaders of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) tried to have amendments adopted which would have prohibited the use of church funds to support groups which advocate violence or the overthrow of the government.

Their efforts were in vain.

Stupid or Disloyal?

Isn't it obvious that anybody who supports Forman's program is either stupid or disloyal to both Christ and this country?

The Bible says, "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord." God has also said, "Them that honor Me I will honor, and they that despise Me shall be lightly esteemed."

Perhaps these two quotations explain, to some extent, why this nation has in the past been extremely fortunate and prosperous and why it is now in dire danger.

It is time for Christians to pray that these actions of the Episcopal Church and the National Council be either rescinded or rendered ineffective--that our nation, which is still described in our pledge of allegiance as "one nation under God," shall not suffer the fate of others--the fate which Forman and his crew of revolutionaries plan for us.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

The biggest "tax shelter" in the land is owned by the monopoly unions. This fact should be brought home to every working, taxpaying citizen of the United States. Big Unionism shouldn't be allowed to get away with pretending that it is sincerely interested in closing loopholes in the nation's tax laws.

The union chiefs hope to trick the taxpayers into believing that they are "on the side of the angels" insofar as tax reform is concerned. This was made clear as soon as the House of Representatives revealed the Tax Reform Bill of 1969. One of the provisions of the bill is that it applies a 100 per cent tax rate to any private foundation that uses its money "to carry out propaganda or otherwise attempt to influence legislation" and "to influence the outcome of any public election including voter registration drives."

No sooner had the Committee's stand been disclosed than the AFL-CIO Executive Council urged the Senate to "improve and strengthen" the bill and "guard against attempts by lobbyists to preserve and widen their special interest loopholes."

Now, that's on a par with a mouse hoping that a housewife will lock up the cheese and buy two or three mouse-hunting cats. No organization in American society is more interested in loopholes in the tax law than the unions. If they didn't have access to the loopholes, they would be out of business as political manipulators -- and they know it. Yet the AFL-CIO Executive Council brazenly pretends that it is opposed to special interest loopholes.

Anyone familiar with the workings of politics at the state or national level knows that the unions use tax-free dollars, collected under compulsion, to suit their political purposes.

The big stick that unions use to achieve their political goals is the money they spend for the election of candidates they favor and the promotion of legislation that aids their efforts. A business firm has no tax-exempt outlet to aid candidates or promote a specific bill. Any money a business gives to support the enterprise system is money that is taxed. Yet a labor union has free rein to spend tax-exempt dollars as it wishes, disrupting industries and communities and engineering the election of pro-union candidates.

Tax-exempt union properties are a privileged sanctuary in American life. Unions own or control apartment houses, banks, and myriad other properties. The banks controlled by unions can offer cut-rate loans to politicians -- a particularly vicious way of influencing legislation. It has been estimated that unions derive approximately $1.5 billion annually from their business ventures and untaxed investments. The untaxed profits from these enterprises are used to promote partisan causes and campaigns.

The outrage represented by this privileged sanctuary is compounded by the fact that it is a form of wealth built on slave labor -- the unwilling contributions of union members, that is. Great numbers of Americans don't want to join a union, but in many cases they have no choice. The unions take the position that they "own" jobs, and if a man wants to get on a business payroll or stay on it, he has to join the union. In many unionized industries, the Union worker lives with real physical fear. If he were to oppose the union leadership, he would be beaten up or worse. It is a fact to say that tremendous amounts in union dues are extracted by the threat of force.

Up to now Congress has closed its eyes to the coercion basic to Big Unionism -- to the intimidation of workers who don't want their dollars to be spent supporting candidates they oppose. The time is long overdue when Congress starts paying attention to the "civil rights" of union members who are victims of ruthless, power-hungry union bosses. It's also time that unions be compelled to pay taxes on their investments, just as everyone else has to do.

Finally, it is time for the nation's lawmakers to insist that unions be barred from spending money on political campaigns through the agency of tax-exempt "educational" funds. The biggest loophole in the tax law is the loophole that permits unions to operate as a state within a state, as agencies of special privilege.

The Senate Finance Committee has an obligation to all the citizens to remedy these wrongs and to eliminate tax exemptions that enable unions to engage in political activity at the cost of the taxpayers.

'Orchards, Peddles & Candle Lobbers'

(Editor's Note: The following article appeared in the Wichita Falls Times-Record-News with the by-line Women's News Staff. It was handed to us by Mrs. C. D. Tanner, Across the County Line correspondent.)

You know how it is. You go to a wedding, think how lovely the bride is, how sweet the attendants look, and what a handsome young man the groom is. And, depending on your generation, you shed a few tears as you recall your own wedding, or daydream about the time when you'll be walking down the aisle.

Then you read the newspaper account and sigh again over this happy event. And naturally you won't find a word in the writeup about the "little" incidents which almost disrupted the wedding...or created havoc...or caused the bridegroom to faint...or the bride to leave the scene, never to return.

After writing hundreds of weddings during the summer months the women's staff made an unofficial survey to find out what went on behind the scenes at these happy, tearful, sentimental events.

What we gleaned did not necessarily occur in Wichita Falls or in this area, but they are typical of the emergencies which have arisen in local weddings. In reading these wedding stories one would assume that there was not a single slip between the cup and the lip, but such was not always the case.

Long after one beautiful church wedding was over someone in the know mentioned that the bridegroom forgot his tie and had to borrow one from the male vocalist, who had to borrow one from a friend, who had to miss the ceremony because he wasn't properly dressed!

At another wedding a sweet little flower girl nearly disrupted the ceremony. She walked down the aisle just the way she had practiced, carrying her little basket of rose petals. Then, much too late, she discovered she still had the petals.

"Let's have the wedding over," she cried aloud, "I forgot to throw out the petals!"

It is traditional for the bride to hand her honor attendant her bouquet before the ring is slipped on her finger, but one excited bride handed her father the bouquet and he dutifully carried it with him to his seat on the church pew beside her mother. In another wedding the bride forgot to retrieve the bouquet and the maid of honor found herself walking down the aisle carrying her own and the bride's bouquet after the ceremony, and no hand left to place on the best man's arm.

We heard of one wedding which didn't take place, (not in this city) even though all the principals were there and the church was crowded with wedding guests. When the minister asked the bride if she would "take this man for her lawfully wedded husband" the responsibility of the married state must suddenly have hit her.

"No!" she cried, and ran from the room. The officiating minister had a conference with the shaky bridegroom and the shakier bride, as the organist played on and on. Sometime later the minister announced from the pulpit that the wedding had been called off, but that the guests were invited to attend the reception and have some cake and punch!

It's "cute" and "adorable" to have flower girls and ring bearers. But they don't always act according to Hoyle. Such as the ring bearer who got bored, yawned, looked around the room, waved to his friends, then decided to walk up on the platform leading to the altar. There he walked in and out among the palms, occasionally peeking around them, grinning with glee. His frantic mother was in the back of the room making wild signals with her hands to try to get him back in his proper place.

It's usually accepted that the bride and groom are the two most nervous people at the altar but such is not always the case. For example, one nervous best man handed the minister the ring for the bride, but it was still in the box, fastened securely with a rubber band and scotch tape! Several minutes elapsed before the ring could be removed from its secure hiding place.

Another time when the minister whispered for the bride and groom to kneel the best man knelt also. Seeing that he was in error, he arose, looked hesitantly at the minister, decided perhaps he should be kneeling after all, and went down on his knees again.

One lovely bride planned a romantic story-book military type wedding. Six handsome young officers were to cross their swords and she and the bridegroom would walk under the arch as they left the church. With precision timing the sabers were to be lowered two by two. Alas, One officer was a little too fast and his sword whacked off the end of the bride's train.

Another time, with vows said the ardent groom turned to kiss his bride and in attempting to turn back her veil flipped it completely off her head.

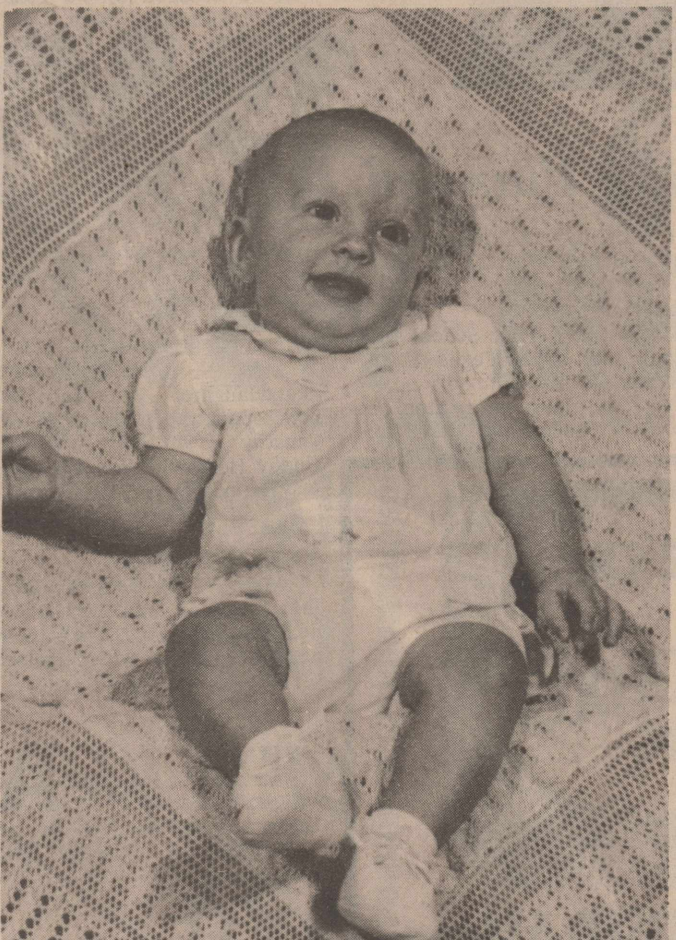

In writing down information about their weddings more than one bride wrote that she would carry "white orchards" or "purple orchards." They've had flower girls throwing "pedals," or "Peddles." They've had ceremonies in the "Babdist" or "Praysbuterian" churches.

The sweet young things have decorated "altars" instead of altars; they have worn "ap-plocayed" lace on their gowns; they have stood in the "mutual" (nuptial) space in the church. Some decorate with "candle lobbers" and "similac."

We have made innumerable telephone calls to get names, places and descriptions correct. We've made mistakes in spite of this - even publishing one wedding before it ever occurred - a traumatic experience for everyone concerned! But we have yet to write a wedding story such as we read in another paper. It said, "she wore a mother-made dress and had a white doo-dad on her head."

Rich flavorful stock or broth is frequently the "secret ingredient" in elegant gourmet dishes. Professional chefs use only the best stock, which they make from the finest grades of chicken and beef by careful slow simmering and delicate seasoning.

Canned Broth

Today it's not necessary for homemakers to go through the time, expense and bother of making broth for use as an ingredient in other dishes. Rich canned chicken and beef broths made with a real chef's slow-simmer recipe are available in 13 3/4 oz. cans from College Inn. These hearty broths are used undiluted and are delicious served plain as soup or used as cooking ingredients in simple as well as gourmet style dishes.

Both canned chicken and beef broths make fine bases for sauces and gravies and enhance the flavor of many other dishes when used as a substitute for the water called for in a recipe.

Add flavor to roasted chicken or turkey by basting with the contents of a 13 3/4 oz. can of chicken broth mixed with half a cup of melted butter, some paprika and a sprinkling of ginger. The result will be a moist bird with a crispy delicious skin.

Keep a supply of handy 13 3/4 oz. cans of broth on your kitchen shelves for use in any recipe which calls for stock or broth. You'll find these broths add a chef-style goodness to any dish they're used with.

Frisky Little Mustangs Clip Eagles' Wings In 0-0 Battle

Defense was the name of the game Friday night as the small Olton Mustangs played the highly touted Canyon Eagles to a stand still. Olton's tough defense stopped the Eagles nine times inside the Olton 20 yard line, and four times inside the 10 yard line on fourth downs. Olton's offense was also unable to score, thus the game ended in a 0-0 deadlock; considered by all Olton fans as a victory for Olton.

Canyon came into the game highly favored after their last week's win over Phillips. The Mustangs had been defeated by Levelland, another AAA school. Canyon won the toss and decided to defend the south goal. Eagle Jay Bryan kicked off to Olton with Carlos Talamantez receiving on the Olton 14 and returning up field 16 yards behind good blocking to the Olton 30.

On first down quarterback Steve Stockdale passed to half-back Alonzo Springer for a first down to the Olton 45. Two running plays, a penalty, and an incompleted pass left Olton with fourth down eight yards needed for the first. Stockdale punted to the Canyon 32.

On first down, David Erwin, Canyon tailback skirted around his right end and treaded his way to the Olton 18 before Pete Riveria brought him to a stop.

With a first down on the Olton 18, Canyon thought they had things going their way only to have Gary Durham sock it to their quarterback. Mickey Crowder was the man of the minute as he came up with the fumbled football giving Olton the ball back on their own 18. Canyon's defense stiffened and held the Mustangs forcing them to punt on fourth down. Stockdale punted to the Canyon 36.

Canyon stormed back picking up three first downs with the aid of a 15-yard penalty against Olton to the Olton 22 yard marker. Faced with third down and long yardage, Canyon called on their bread and butter man David Erwin for needed yardage to keep the drive going only to have him stopped after a one yard gain to the Olton 19. With fourth down and still needing eight yards Canyon sent Erwin out wide around the end but a host of Olton defenders stopped him four yards short at the Olton 16 giving the ball over to Olton.

Olton and Canyon then swapped punts with Olton getting the ball the next time on their own 18. Faced with third and nine, Stockdale rolled out around his left end looking down field for receivers. Not finding anyone open, he tucked it under his arm and carried to the 27 for the first down.

Barry Cowart picked up three hard yards up the middle to the 30 to round out the first quarter of play. Stockdale punted on fourth down. His punt traveled 61 yards to the Canyon nine.

Canyon was hard pressed now and was barely able to pick up two hard yards out to the 11 before Allen Bedell punted to Mustang Barry Cowart on the Canyon 43.

Cowart returned the punt six yards to the Canyon 35. Faced with fourth down and long yardage needed for the first, Stockdale punted for Olton with the ball going into the end zone and being brought out to the 20.

Canyon picked up one first down out to their 34 before the Mustang defense stiffened and held. Faced with third and nine Canyon elected to punt, only to recover the fumbled punt on the Olton 34.

Once more the Mustang defense stiffened and forced the Eagles to punt with fourth down and long yardage needed.

Canyon punter Allen Bedell punted out of bounds at the Olton 19 with 4:08 remaining in the first half.

Cowart picked up five yards to the 24 and an incompleted pass forced Olton to punt once again. Canyon received the short punt at the Olton 40 giving them fine field position. Al Bayless, 198 pound Eagle fullback picked up a first down at the Olton 25.

Canyon's David Erwin pounded the Olton line three times in a row, picking up one tiny yard to the Olton 26. On fourth down, Olton's Joe Dale Chitwood, intercepted a Canyon pass and returned it 23 yards out to the Olton 32.

Barry Cowart rammed for 19 yards to the Canyon 49. Ronnie Sanders got three more to the Canyon 46 as the half ended in a 0-0 tie.

Al Bayless received the second half kickoff on the Canyon 28 and returned it 32 yards to the Olton 40 before being brought down from behind by Emily Marquez. Three plays netted four yards and Canyon punted into the end zone.

Olton started from their 20 with fullback Gary Durham picking up a first down at the 31. An incompleted pass and a penalty found Olton punting on fourth down to the Canyon 35.

Canyon's big offensive team picked up three first downs to the Olton 11. Eagle quarterback Mike Swatzell elected to pass on third down and was thrown for a loss back to the Olton 24 by Alfred Garcia and Gary Dickenson.

Faced with fourth down and long yardage Canyon elected to try a field goal from the Olton 24. It was no good and Olton received the ball on the 20. On first down Olton fumbled and Ron Minier recovered for the Eagles on the Olton 17.

Halfback Erwin was thrown for a loss on the first play and a pass moved the ball to the Olton 8, one big yard short of a first down. On fourth down another jarring tackle shook the ball loose and Olton recovered on their own seven yard line.

Inside their own 10 yard line, Olton tried to run with the ball, couldn't and was forced to punt giving Canyon possession on the Canyon 46.

Two first downs later found the Eagles knocking on the door again, at the Olton 18. Two running plays netted a minus two yards. Canyon then had two passes go incomplete with Olton taking over on the 20 with less than nine minutes remaining in the game.

Another short punt gave Canyon good field position at the Olton 38. Canyon speedster David Erwin picked up 14 yards to the Olton 24.

Fourth down found the Eagles with a fourth-and-one situation. Fullback Al Bayless tried for the one lone yard and failed as the hard playing Mustangs stopped him a half yard short of the first down.

A five yard penalty ruined Olton's chance for a first down so the Mustangs punted one more time to the Olton 40. This time Olton held Canyon out on the 38 forcing the Eagles to punt, with the ball going out of the end zone with 2:18 remaining in the game.

Stockdale passed six yards to end Mickey Crowder and third down pass interference was called against Canyon on the Olton 35 giving Olton a first down at the 35. On second down Canyon recovered the ball on the Olton 31 with 1:34 remaining on the clock.

Olton then drew a 15 yard present from one of the officials moving the ball down to the Olton 16. Erwin carried to the Olton 12 on first down and to the eight on second down before a 15 yard penalty against Canyon moved the ball back out to the Olton 19.

With 56 seconds showing on the clock Canyon elected to go with a field goal from the Olton 19 only to have it go wide.

On first down on the Olton 20 Stockdale passed to Cowart who skipped up the side lines for 15 yards to the 35. On the next play Canyon intercepted an Olton pass on the Canyon 45 and returned it to the Olton 14 before Barry Cowart brought the bird to a stop.

Canyon's Erwin carried to the Olton 10 and Al Bayless picked up six more yards to the four as time ran out on the Eagles.

Canyon kept Olton down deep in their own territory all night forcing the Mustangs to play conservative football on offense and tremendous defensive ball. Olton head coach Jerry Blakely said of the game, "our boys played outstanding defensive ball and all of us are very proud of them."

Cotton Topping Benefits Told By Soil Scientist

Cool, damp September days that have set a pattern for this month on much of the High Plains has caused some farmers to look for ways to "mature" cotton crops faster. One answer could be cotton topping -- the process of removing a top portion of the cotton sunlight can penetrate deeper into the plant and help fiber development in the first-set lower bolls.

Jim Valliant, High Plains Research Foundation soil scientist, has shown in cotton topping studies over the past five years that topping can produce an increase in income.

In tests on Paymaster III, Lockett 4789 and Acala 1517-BR2, topping has shown an adjusted per acre return increase of $1.42 in Acala 1517-BR2 to $6.13 in Paymaster III.

Cotton yields ranged from an increase of 11 pounds in Paymaster III to a decrease of 21 pounds in Acala. "These figures indicate that the increase in income results from improved quality in the cotton topped", Valliant said.

Valliant said studies show that by removing the lush, vegetative growth at the top of the plants, the sunlight penetrates deeper into the plant area increasing the temperature of the air surrounding the cotton. He pointed out that fiber development begins at a temperature of 70 degrees.

The topping also removes the bolls in the top of the plant that do not have time to mature before frost and which when mixed with mature cotton, lowers the over-all grade and micronaire.

Normally, cotton is topped during the first three weeks of September and Valliant said farmers could still use the topping technique to a worthwhile advantage.

Another benefit from topped cotton, Valliant said, was leaving the crop in a more uniform harvesting height.

Your Social Security

Students receiving social security benefits who are working full-time this summer need to keep up with their earnings, according to John G. Hutton, social security district manager.

"This is especially true of students working part-time while going to school. These students need to add their earnings earlier this year to what they will earn full-time this summer to determine their total earnings for this year," Hutton explained.

Students and other beneficiaries may earn as much as $1680 during the entire year and get all their social security benefits. If gross earnings (before deductions) are expected to exceed $1680, a report must be made to the social security administration.

This also applies to students who graduated in May or June and are no longer entitled to benefits, but whose yearly earnings will go over $1680.

Hutton suggested that students who earned more than $140 a month while going to school and who plan to earn over $1680 this year get in touch with the Social Security Administration.

The Social Security Office here is located at 3428 Avenue H., Lubbock, Texas, and the telephone number is PO 58541.

Dear Sirs:

I just wanted to write you a short note to say that I have no objection to the astronauts of the future being allowed the right to read aloud from the Holy Bible and offer prayers while in the midst of a space mission.

It is my opinion that to deny this privilege would be in direct conflict with our democratic way of life. Rather than continue to negate a means of spiritual inspiration in areas of public life, we would hope for the basic freedom for each individual to worship as he chooses.

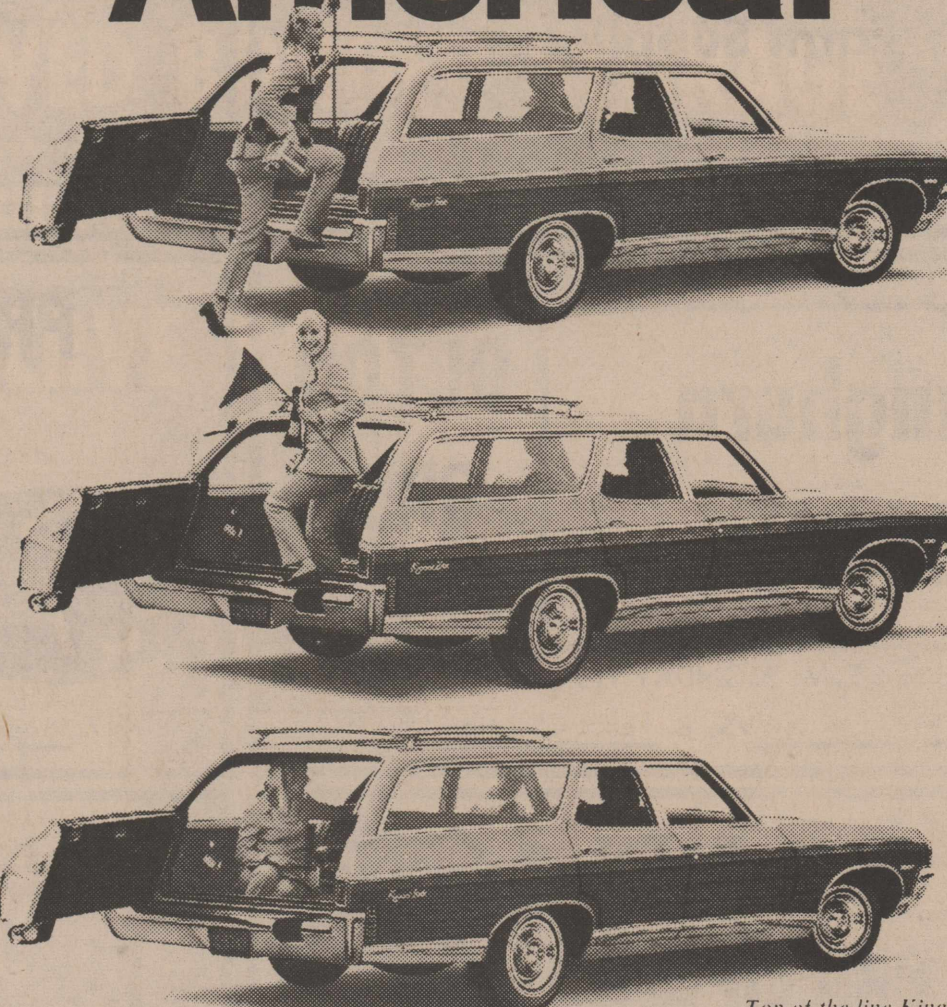

Thank you for considering this letter.

Sincerely,

Cotton Farmers To Hear Report

Cotton farmers will hear a detailed report on their dollar-a-bale program at a meeting in Lubbock Tuesday, Sept. 30, according to Howard Alford, Lubbock, vice president of Cotton Producers Institute.

Alford called the meeting for 12 noon at the Red Raider Convention Center, 6025 Avenue A (on South U. S. 87 on the Tahoka highway at the traffic circle).

"If you are tired of hearing bad news about cotton, plan to attend this meeting," Alford said, "You will hear solid evidence that cotton can fight its way back from the market losses of recent years."

The program will be presented by staff members of the National Cotton Council. They will report in detail on research and promotion activity being carried out by CPI and the Council.

The visual presentation will point out how industry funds are being used to make cotton more appealing to consumers, for promotion to convince consumers to buy cotton, and to find ways of producing cotton at lower costs.

"We believe you will leave the meeting with renewed confidence in the future of the cotton industry," Alford said.

English Girl Overwhelmed With Texas Friendliness

(Editor's Note: The following article appeared in the Amarillo Daily News. Huguley lived in Olton as a boy. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. C. "Harry" Huguley.)

"Hold on lady, it's just 85 more miles to Amarillo."

These were the last words Sheila Phillips of Birmingham, England, remembered until she reached the High Plains Baptist Hospital more than an hour later.

She had become ill Thursday after boarding a Greyhound Bus in Albuquerque en route to New York.

Miss Phillips, a student at Bordesley College in Birmingham, said the bus was about halfway between Amarillo and Albuquerque when the pain became acute.

The bus was filled to capacity, she said, but passengers made room for her to lie down in the back.

The driver, Harold Huguley of 704 Fairlane, remembered that the High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo was near the highway, "and he stepped on the gas," said Miss Phillips.

Huguley had first inquired if there were any doctors or nurses on the bus. He then told his passenger that the nearest hospital would be Amarillo.

Miss Phillips said her pains became more severe as the bus rolled on.

"And when he said there were 85 more miles, I lay back and let the pain take over," Huguley drove the bus up to the emergency room, walked to the back and carried Miss Phillips into the hospital.

Within an hour she was in surgery for an appendectomy.

Miss Phillips told the story Tuesday from her bedside.

As her pains increased, she said that passengers became tense with concern.

Two college students from England, Susan Sharp and Richard Learey, had also boarded the bus in Albuquerque. They had never met Miss Phillips, but they were sitting in the seat in front of her.

It was they who informed Huguley of the illness and remained at Sheila's side. When the bus parked at the emergency entrance, the two students made their exit and were at the hospital when the patient was transferred.

MONDAY GUESTS
Mrs. Tom Stansell had as callers Monday afternoon Mrs. Clayton R. Graef, Lisa, Brent, David and Carl of Dimmitt.

ferred from surgery to her room.

They spent the night and continued their tour the following morning. Robert Lloyd, hospital chaplain, took the two to his home for dinner and washed Learey's shirt while he ate.

Miss Sharp and Learey had left their luggage on the bus.

Mrs. Annie Scogin, auxiliary member, said she saw the bus drive up. Miss Phillips was so ill that she failed to ask about her luggage. She was informed today that it is in New York.

Mrs. Scogin bought nightgowns for the patient.

"Mrs. Scogin has been a mother to me," said Miss Phillips. Others, she said, have also been most generous. Miss Gladys Davis, retired Amarillo teacher, invited Sheila to spend a few days with her after she is dismissed from the hospital this weekend.

"I've always heard about Texas and its friendly people," said the patient. "And now I don't want to leave Amarillo. Everyone has been so nice."

Huguley has visited Sheila twice during her hospital confinement.

Sheila will never forget her seven-hour ordeal with an appendix "ready to burst" as the bus rolled toward Amarillo.

"But the friendliness of Amarillo will outweigh the memories of pain," she said.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phillips, called today to inquire about their daughter.

The patient doesn't know when she will return to England. "But I'll be back in Amarillo to visit," she promised. "I would like to live here. I don't want to leave."

News Of Our Service Men

Seaman Apprentice Mc Arthur Thomas, USN, son of George Thomas of Route 3, Olton, is serving aboard the USS Ranger off the Southern California coast.

The ship recently participated in Operation Bell Express, a combined Navy-Marine exercise, preparing the units for conditions they will meet not only in Southeast Asia, but throughout the Western Pacific area.

The participating Fleet had to evade Navy aircraft acting as enemy surveillance planes as one of the many maneuvers included in the exercise.

In one respect, Bell Express might be compared to a graduation exercise, since each unit was evaluated and graded on its performance.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

The probability of rain is so and so. That's getting to be a so and so (substitution for ugly words) statement these days isn't it?

I have decided that's a pretty good expression to use, tho. "The probability --", I mean.

We've had nasty little gremlins in the old flivver and Wednesday morning was no exception. What a way to start Wednesday!

I backed out of my driveway to go to work, shifted to drive and that's when the little gremlins began kicking up their dratted little heels.

Talk about souped up cars! That poor old thing was about as frisky as Dobbin was on his twenty-fifth birthday.

Anyway, I just got as far as the length of three cars and it shuddered its poor self to death.

Do you think the thing would start? Oh, no!

After sitting there fidgeting, fuming, fussing and fretting, I stomped to work (all 379 steps).

I was so furious by the time I reached the office that I vowed then and there, "The probability of that silly car getting hit was 90 percent. FURTHER-MORE, the probability of my caring if it did was 95 percent."

The probability of my getting a column ready before Wednesday is about the same as the probability of our needing a good rain about Saturday!

I can think of all sorts of interesting probabilities - but the trouble is, they mostly turn out like the weatherman's.

Just like my car, now, I feel sure that the probability of it getting slammed to North Olton was lessened because of its - er, respectful age.

Now, had one of my six lucky numbers BEEN LUCKY - and if it had been 1970 wheels-well, you know - it would have been positive-bility 100%.
