Johnson Asks Housing Provisions for Needy

Attacks Called Barbarous

By JOHN PIERSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson asked Congress today to provide housing for one million needy families over the next four years.

In a "message of the cities" Johnson proposed a new program of rent supplements for slum dwellers, the elderly and families displaced by urban renewal or highway construction.

The President also asked Congress for money to acquire and fix up existing houses for needy families and to help low-income home owners to repair their dwellings.

He again urged federal assistance for planned communities or "new towns," as they are called, and called for establishment of a department of housing and urban development.

Johnson expressed his housing philosophy this way: "It is not enough simply to build more and more units of housing. We must build neighborhoods and communities.

"This means combining construction with social services and community facilities. It means to build so that people can live in attractive surroundings, sharing a strong sense of community."

The President called rent supplements "the most crucial new instrument" in the administration's housing program. Up to now, the federal government has provided housing for needy families either by financing construction itself or by lending money to private builders at below-market interest rates.

Rent supplements are designed to replace low interest loans. Johnson cited the "immense potential advantages" of rent supplements. The rent payment can be keyed to the income of the family. Families with lower incomes would receive a greater supplement.

Federal Mortgage Purchase

Under Johnson's recommendation homes would be built by private builders, with Federal Housing Administration insurance and — where necessary — mortgage purchase by the Federal National Mortgage Association.

The major federal assistance will be the rent supplement for each eligible family.

In seeking a new cabinet department of housing, the Chief Executive said "our problems are of a scope and magnitude that demand representation at the highest level of government."

"These problems are already in the front rank of national concern and interest," he said. "They deserve to be in the front rank of government as well."

The President said the new department would include all the present programs of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. It also would be primarily responsible for federal participation in metropolitan area thinking and planning," he said.

Regional Representatives

Johnson said the department would have regional representatives in metropolitan areas to assist in area development plans when such help is requested.

In seeking $300 million for matching grants to local governments to build new community facilities, Johnson said "among the most vital needs of our metropolitan areas is the requirement for basic community facilities — for water and sewerage."

The President said many existing systems were obsolete or needed rehabilitation. He added that the "population growth will require a vastly increased effort in years ahead."

Johnson also recommended federal financial assistance to help in acquisition of "desirable" land for public buildings and other facilities. He said

SAIGON (UPI) — More than 360 American and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers and 200 jets hit two targets in North Viet Nam today in the heaviest strike yet against the north. Moscow radio immediately denounced the attack as a "barbarous provocation."

An official American spokesman said damage at a North Vietnamese naval base and at a supply depot near the border of Laos was "between 75 and 80 per cent."

A U.S. Air Force spokesman, who disclosed today's twin attacks were larger than three previous attacks during February, said at least three of the raiding planes were downed by anti-aircraft fire from Communist positions.

Moscow claimed seven of the planes were shot down and said intense anti-aircraft fire prevented more devastating attacks against military targets in the north.

The raids were announced as a retaliation against U.S. Marines prepared to land in South Viet Nam to bolster American forces there. It was understood the Marines would take over guard duties at vital U.S. installations such as the airbases where today's strike were launched.

Informal sources estimated the Marine force at between 800 to 1,000.

SAIGON Radio reported today's surprise raids at about 4:30 p.m. (2:35 a.m. CST) and this was followed by a joint American and Vietnamese statement. A later U.S. Air Force statement said more than 360 planes were involved.

Hit Supply Depot

A joint U.S. Vietnamese statement said American B-57s and F-105 fighter-bombers hit a supply depot at Kien Bang, about 40 miles north of the boundary between North and South Viet Nam, and about 25 miles from the Laotian border. It was the first time the twin-strike B-57s have hit North Viet Nam.

A force of South Vietnamese fighter-bombers attacked the naval base at Quang Khe on the coast of the South China Sea 80 miles north of the border. U.S. jets supported that mission, concentrating on the Communist anti-aircraft batteries.

All indications were that today's bombing attacks were strictly an Air Force show. It would be the first time that planes from carriers of the U.S. 7th Fleet had not participated in the strikes against North Viet Nam although their jets have flown reconnaissance missions.

A statement by the U.S. Embassy and the Saigon government hinted at further air raids "to make clear to Hanoi that North Viet Nam will be held fully accountable for continuing aggression against South Viet Nam."

The statement followed publication of a U.S. white paper last week documenting Communist aggression against South Viet Nam and hinting at further retaliatory acts. Communist China and the Soviet Union have called these attacks a threat to peace and said they would not stand idly by.

Today's Moscow Radio broadcast made no specific threats but said, "the Soviet public unanimously protests against this new provocation by the U.S. brasshats."

"The new raid on North Vietnamese territory exacerbates the already tense situation in the Indochinese peninsula," it said. "Casting aside all legalistic pretense, based on the notorious 1954 Geneva accords, the U.S. brasshats

U.S. Reports on Gray County's '63 Retail Trade

Gray County's 345 retail establishments had $42.2 million in sales in 1963, a decrease of 2 percent from 1958, the U. S. Bureau of the Census reported today after tabulating data gathered from all firms in the 1963 census of business. The last previous business census conducted by the Census Bureau, an agency of the U.S. Department of Commerce, was in 1958.

Retail trade in the county meant jobs (exclusive of proprietors) for 1,460 men and women and a yearly payroll of $4.3 million.

In volume of business the county's food stores had sales of $10.9 million, an increase of 5 per cent from 1958. In other retail business the county's eating and drinking places had sales of $1.7 million, and gasoline service stations had sales of $4.3 million. Auto dealers and related retail trade establishments had sales of $9.5 million; general merchandise group stores had sales of $4.2 million; and lumber, building materials, hardware and farm equipment dealers had sales of $1.8 million.

For the state as a whole, the Census Bureau reported $6,406 million in retail sales, up 18 per cent from 1958.

Census reports to be issued during the next few months will give state and county figures on wholesale and service trades, manufacturing and mineral industries.

Figures on number of establishments and sales volume for major types of retail establishments in each county are provided in the printed report: 1963 Census of Business, Retail Trade, Texas, available at $1 from the superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C. 20402 and at U.S. Department of Commerce field offices.

Brown Foundation Promises to Assist Building of Civic Auditorium

By RAY RODGERS JR.
Trustees of the M. K. Brown Foundation notified E. L. Green Jr. today that the Foundation "will devote to the proposed civic auditorium all of the money that it will have available to promote the project."

Green, president of the Chamber of Commerce, had presented the trustees with a resolution adopted by chamber directors last week requesting the Foundation set aside enough money to construct such a civic center. In answer to the resolution the trustees said, however, "that at the present time they cannot make a complete commitment to carry out the project."

The letter went on to say that the will of the late M. K. Brown provides for various substantial specific bequests. It stated, "After the payment of these bequests and after the payment of all taxes and after the estate is fully administered, a substantial portion of the remainder is placed in trust for the M. K. Brown Foundation, Inc. This trust can continue for many years and only the income during that period goes to the Foundation. The principal will ultimately go to the Foundation, but under the terms of the will this may be as long as 21 years after the death of Mr. Brown."

The trustees also stated that they are obligated to carry out several specific bequests by Brown to civic organizations and churches.

The letter added, "The trustees personally know that Mr. Brown was very much interested in a municipal auditorium,

No Settlement Seen in Can Companies Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—A steelworkers strike against the nation's two largest can companies moved into a second day today with no negotiations scheduled and little hope for a quick settlement despite efforts by federal mediators.

After a six hour session with the mediators, a union spokesman Monday night said, "we accomplished absolutely nothing." Separate sessions were held with management representatives.

More than 60 plants of the American Can Co. and Continental Can Co. were struck at midnight Sunday after fruitless weekend contract talks. The strike by 32,000 members of the United Steelworkers Union (USW) was the first in 11 years in the container industry.

Federal mediators Ralph C. Patterson and Abraham A. Dessler, who entered the dispute after the strike began, promised they would "be in touch with both sides from time to time."

The federal mediators said they had called Monday's sessions "to try and find out what can be done to get them back on the track."

Although no progress was made, reporters outside the closed-door sessions at the summit hotel heard frequent bursts of laughter. Asked about that, Patterson explained, "That's because they don't seem to be mad at each other."

"We have had a lot to do with that," said Patterson, who flew to New York from Washington for the session. "If you keep people laughing you can get a lot more done."

The negotiations are no laughing matter to the rest of the steel industry, however, because a settlement — when it comes — is expected to set an industry-wide pattern. It could be influential even at the contract talks beginning next week between the USW and the nation's big steel companies.

The union has demanded from the can companies a minimum guarantee of 95 per cent of the previous year's average straight time hourly earnings. Management has responded with an offer of 12 cents more an hour in wages.

Explosion Probe Starts As Death Toll Hits 26

MONTREAL (UPI) — A three-pronged official inquiry was pressed today into the full causes of the shattering explosion that Monday pulverized a suburban apartment building, killing at least 26 persons.

Volunteer brigades, working by floodlight through the night, and early this morning, found two bodies in the charred rubble of brick and twisted timber that had been home in suburban Ville LaSalle for more than 100 persons.

One was a woman, the other an infant still in its cradle.

Most of the victims of the breakfast-hour tragedy were women and children.

As the chill grey dawn illuminated the ruins today, rescue workers probed the debris for at least two more persons believed missing.

Taken To Arena

The 26 bodies recovered earlier—15 children and 11 adults—lay in two neat rows on the hockey ice of a nearby sports arena.

Thirty-seven survivors, many critically injured, were in hospitals.

Some 24 hours after the explosion tore half of the three-story brick building from its foundations and flung it 50 feet through the air, harassed officials still had not determined the number of persons in the building at the time.

Nor had they determined the cause of the disaster, which shattered windows for dozens of blocks and sent hastily clad residents of neighboring buildings scurrying terror-stricken into the sub-freezing outdoors.

Officials admitted a leakage in the natural gas supply lines was a suspected cause. Survivors told of smelling gas for several days before the explosion.

Gas Leak "Likely"

"It's very likely that a natural gas leak could have caused the explosion," said R. X. Perreault, Quebec provincial deputy fire commissioner. Fire had erupted in the tangled ruins when the debris settled and the hundreds of rescuers scoured their hands in frantic efforts to free victims buried in the blistering wreckage. Many of the dead had been burned to death or buried alive, rescuers said.

Investigators from the Quebec Natural Gas Corp. and police and fire departments mingled with rescue workers in the yawning pit of rubble that remained.

One onlooker described the ruins as resembling "the London blitz."

Financial Gossip

By JESSE ROGUE

UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—With the stock market at its current high level, few investors give much thought to considering where it may stand five years from now.

But there are some who try to estimate how the securities of certain companies will do over the span of a half a decade, and for some, it pays off.

Thomas E. O'Hara, chairman of the board of trustees of the National Association of Investment Clubs, contributes one such example in his story of an of the board of trustees of the National Association of Investment Clubs, contributes one such example in his story of an investment group started in 1946 by six young men just out of college. It celebrated its 25th anniversary in February. It has added six members since its inception, each of whom looked in $10 a month. The club now has resources of more than $240,000.

Look Ahead

The club members set as their goal the doubling of their assets every five years. At their meetings, when a new investment appears, called for, they attempt to look five years ahead and figure out a company which, judged by its past history, appears that it could double sales and earnings in that time.

This group still owns the shallow roots.

stock which it bought at its second meeting in March, 1940. Its average cost of this stock (Federal - Mogul-Bower Bearing Co.) is $4.17. O'Hara reported it has paid more than $5,000 in dividends to the club, and each share at present could be sold for about 11 times what the club paid for it.

Fred C. Russell organized the group, known as the Mutual Investment Club of Detroit, with the idea of using the funds it accumulated so that it could start its own business.

Withdraws Funds

Russell, 10 years after the club was started, drew out most of his accrued funds, then totaling about $3,000, and bought a franchise in a national restaurant chain; he since has acquired interests in a total of four restaurants.

Other members also have drawn out funds from time to time, to purchase or furnish homes, or to start business enterprises; the books show a total of $36,791.00 has been used in these ways. It took the group 12 years to accumulate its first $40,000, and the $200,000 came in the next 13 years.

Original members who have made no withdrawals have deposited $5,900 over the past 25 years; the sum is now worth $40,000.

Temperatures to Rise After Overnight Frost

Freezing temperatures were forecast again for Pampa and the Panhandle tonight, but the weatherman predicted a little rise in temperatures by tomorrow.

Fire Destroys Panhandle Farm

PANHANDLE (Spl.) — Fire of undetermined origin totally destroyed a frame farmhouse Monday night, seven and one-half miles northeast of here.

The one and one-half story home belongs to Olin Knight of Pampa and Phil Hawkins of Panhandle.

The fire was first reported about 8:30 p.m. when a neighboring farmer, Don Neeley, noticed the blaze and alerted Panhandle firemen.

Both the Panhandle and White Deer fire units battled the blaze.

The house had been unoccupied for about a month but a White Deer family was due to move in today.

Panhandle police were searching today for the driver of a car that overturned about the same time firemen had started to the farm fire.

The driver apparently lost control of the vehicle on a slick Panhandle street and the car overturned.

Senate Facing Criminal Code Revamp Proposals

By WILLIAM HAMILTON AUSTIN (UPI) — Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo hoped to ramrod his revolutionary code of criminal procedure through the state Senate today.

The bill, which revamps the state's 106-year-old criminal code, came up on the floor Monday but hungry senators voted to recess after debate waned past the noon hour.

"This is one of the most important pieces of legislation that we've had concerning criminal laws in more than 100 years," Hardeman said in opening debate.

The 330-odd page bill recodifies all existing laws for criminal courts. Among its more revolutionary changes are proposals to:

—Allow an accused to choose whether the jury or the judge will set his sentence.

—Make possible application for parole after only one-fourth of a prison term has been served, with the board of pardons and paroles retaining the power to decide. Presently, a prisoner must serve one-third of his time.

Estes Trial Moves into Second Day, Defense Plans Lengthy Session

By PRESTON MCGRAW DALLAS (UPI) — U.S. Asst. Atty. William Hughes planned to conclude the government's latest case against Billie Sol Estes today, but Estes' lawyer,

Estes' lawyer, Johnson, said the defense would be lengthy.

Estes went to trial Monday on federal charges that he lied to the government about his financial worth. It is the third time Estes has gone to court on charges growing out of his "ghost" fertilizer tank business.

Estes, bankrupt since his $150 million empire collapsed three years ago, sat calmly Monday while the prosecution called 15 witnesses to tell how much Estes owed them.

Three Occasions Cited The government said Estes on three occasions claimed few liabilities than he had.

If Estes is convicted, he could be sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $10,000 on each of the counts.

The witnesses testified that Estes owed:

—The Commercial Solvents Co. of New York, a fertilizer manufacturer, $4.2 million in 1960.

—The CIT Loan Corp. of Dallas, $1.1 million in 1960.

—The Commercial Credit Corp., $1.07 million in 1961.

—The H. W. Wilson Grain Co. of El Paso, $1.06 million in 1961.

—The First National Bank of Pecos, Tex., $32,834.

—The Anderson-Clayton Co. of Houston, cotton merchants, $32,915 in 1961.

Hughes told trial Judge Sarah T. Hughes that he would only take about three hours to complete his case against Estes.

But Cofer, who has handled Estes' legal affairs since the beginning, said the defense case would be lengthy.

It took only 72 minutes for the 12 jurors to be selected.

Estes has been convicted at both his previous trials, eight years on a state charge, 15 on a federal.

Development Institute The President also proposed that an institute of urban development be set up as part of the new housing department to train local officials in administrative and program skills.

He also called for establishment of a temporary national commission on codes, zoning, taxation and development standards. He said a study was needed on the structure of building codes across the country, their impact on housing costs and steps to simplify them.

Quickie Session Held by Council

An 18-minute session set some kind of a brevity record for the Pampa City Commission today.

Only one item of business was handled. The council gave second reading passage to an ordinance granting a 6-inch sidewalk easement to Ray Duncan in front of a building in the 100-block of E. Kingsmill. The easement is being granted to permit construction of a new stone front on the building.

Commissioners discussed work progress on the storage tank donated to the city, proposed leasing of three-quarters of a section of land for water rights, and proposed study sessions on requests for a TV cable franchise and summer water rates.

City Manager Jim White told councilmen preliminary work is being compiled on Pampa's street improvement and highway needs.

White said he, along with Public Works Director R. B. Cooke and City Engineer Harold Foreman, are pulling together and reworking all information to arrive at cost estimates and a recommended program.

Pampan Still Critical After Sunday Accident

Robert Kirkpatrick, 54, of 1027 Clark, remained in critical condition today at Saint Anthony Hospital at Amarillo suffering from severe chest injuries received when a car he was working on Sunday fell on him.

Kirkpatrick underwent emergency surgery at the hospital late Sunday.

The attacks today appeared part of a new policy of bombing the north to try to end Communist infiltration of the south and did not follow any specific Viet Cong acts.

Ticket Deadline Near for K and F Dinner Meeting

Members of the Top O' Texa Knife and Fork Club are reminded that 1 p.m. tomorrow is the deadline for purchasing tickets for Thursday night's dinner meeting.

Speaker for the meeting will be Judge Harold (Sam) Kessing, a writer, humorist and philosopher, from New Jersey.

The club will meet in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn. Mrs. Fred Thompson, secretary of the club, asked members to note the change of meeting place.

Also at the meeting, three new directors will be elected to replace those whose terms expired March 1.

The first U.S.-South Vietnamese bombing raids on the Communist north were in direct retaliation against Communist terrorist attacks on U.S. installations in South Vietnam.

They came on Feb. 7, 8 and 11 and heavy damage was reported.

Fugitive Captured After Bank Robbery Try

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—Winfred Ervin and taken by May, 1964, when he escaped federal marshals to a detention center at Asheville, about 115 miles west of here, to await trial. He was already convicted of a previous bank robbery at Frankewing, Tenn.

Coble used a .38-caliber pistol to smash a glass door at a bank in a shopping center. He terrorized two women tellers and fled with $8,000 after shooting it out with patrolman J.G. Bruce.

He dropped the money as he fled, however, and it was all recovered.

Coble then commandeered a car from a passing motorist, Mrs. Edwin B. Vosburgh, and shot her in the leg.

A police cruiser driven by Sgt. T.W. Williams chased Coble down a cold-end, residential street and captured him during another burst of gunfire.

The FBI described Coble as "extremely dangerous." Agents said he escaped twice from jails in Nashville, Tenn.

He had been sought since

Pampa Scouts to Regional Meeting

The Adobe Walls Council of the Boy Scouts, which includes Pampa, could have a large representation at the annual regional meeting set March 26 and 27 in San Antonio.

John Brewer, scout executive, said plans are in the making for a chartered bus to go to the meeting from Pampa, Borger and Clarendon.

The bus would leave from Borger, Pampa and Clarendon March 25, arriving at San Antonio the evening of the same day. The return trip would leave San Antonio March 26, returning through Clarendon, Pampa and Borger.

Brewer said the minimum number of passengers would have to be 29 and asked that anyone interested in taking the bus should make reservations by March 20.

The regional meeting is an annual affair of Region 9 of the Boy Scouts of America.

Talks Resume For Dockers

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Negotiators hoped today to settle the newest issue blocking agreement on a new contract for dock workers in the Southeast.

Today's session was scheduled for 10 a.m. EST.

President Thomas W. (Teddy) Gleason of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) said at the start of talks Monday he was hopeful of a settlement, but the issue of handling of ships' lines in ports in North and South Carolina and at Port Everglades, Fla., arose to block agreement.

Special federal mediator David H. Stowe said the ILA negotiators demanded jurisdiction over tying in and casting off lines of freighters and liners. State port authorities now hire the men for this work and the stevedore firm representatives negotiating here said they had no say over it.

The issues of minimum work gang size and pay were left unsettled Monday, but there have been indications all along that settlement of these would follow closely the new contract signed over the weekend at Galveston, Tex. for some 7,000 dock workers at ports from Lake Charles, La. to Brownsville, Tex.

The talks here affected about 6,000 workers in the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida.

SAC Minuteman Missile Launch Termed Success

NEWELL, S.D. (UPI)—The Strategic Air Command today measured as a "complete success" the first launching of a Minuteman missile under operational conditions in the heartland of the nation.

SAC, which has 650 operational Minutemen strategically located in the West, said the launching Monday was the first of a two- or possibly three-step "Project Long Life."

The firing went an unarmored, partially fueled, Minuteman arching over the South Dakota prairie to a height of one mile and a distance of about 6,000 feet.

Col. Henry R. Cushman, commander of the SAC launch task force, said the test by missile combat crews of the 68th Strategic Missile Squadron at Ellsworth Air Force Base, S.D., met the planned objectives.

The test marked the first time the Minuteman had been fired successfully under operational conditions away from the missile test centers at Cape Kennedy, Fla., and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., SAC officials said.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Goodbody & Co. believes plans for new commitments at this stage of the market should not be made for the extreme short term and investors should not rely on over-all market momentum for appreciation potentials.

Thomson & McKinnon says investors might do well to avoid pursuing fast moving specialties and continue their prior selectivity.

Newton D. Zinder of E.F. Hutton & Co., Inc. says that if the market can be spared any really disturbing external developments, technical factors suggest it may be entering a new and possibly more exciting phase featured by greater public participation and large advances in secondary issues.

Steel Inventory Buildup Same

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Inventory building in the steel industry is as widespread as it was before the 116-day steel strike in 1959, Steel magazine said today.

But consumers are handicapped by what steel calls "underproduction" at the mills even though March shipments are expected to exceed those of January and February and the weekly output is at a record level.

Most steel consumers want 60 to 90-day inventories by the May 1 strike deadline and a few hope to have stock for four to six months, Steel said. More would be building strike hedge inventories today than at any time in history if steel were available, the magazine said—and if they were not using it up so quickly on current requirements.

Says Mills Oversold

Inventories by May 1 may approach 30 million tons compared to 32 million tons before the 1959 strike, Steel said, but the stockpiles will supply needs for fewer days. Current steel consumption is about seven million tons a month compared to six million tons six years ago.

Says Mills Oversold

A fastener manufacturer told Steel, "until last week we had high hopes of hitting our target—a four month supply May 1. Now it's obvious we don't have a chance, the mills are oversold."

It's not so much that the mills are "oversold," Steel said, but that they are "underproduced" since suppliers have tried not to sell more than they could produce, the magazine reported.

Equipment has broken down in some cases, according to Steel, while in other cases new equipment has not come into monthly quotas.

Mills are producing at a record level for the third straight week this week, Steel said, and despite handicaps mill shipment of finished steel in March will exceed those of each of the first two months of this year.

Expect Larger Shipments

April shipments are expected to be even larger.

Steel predicts output this week will top last week's high of 2,775,000 tons. The old mark of 2,732,000 set the week ended Dec. 12, 1959, was broken the week ended Feb. 20 when 2,757,000 tons were poured.

Fire Destroys Plant Of Texas Newspaper

HENDERSON (UPI)—Fire destroyed the plant of a weekly newspaper, the Henderson Times, Monday night but the owner hoped to be able to publish this week with the help of the daily Longview News.

Laborn Conway, publisher of the weekly started Dec. 17, 1953, received an offer from Carl Estes to use the plant at Longview, 20 miles away. Estes owns the Longview newspaper.

ABORTION RECORDS

LONDON (UPI)—The House of Commons was told Monday that 154 women in Britain died from abortions in the past three years. Health Minister Kenneth Robinson said only 14 of the deaths were the result of legal abortions, the remainder illegal.

Dear Abby....

Yeas and Nays About Keys and Landlords

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed Likes Privacy made me realize how many people have the mistaken idea that the landlord or superintendent has some special right to enter a tenant's apartment. I used to think so, too, until my apartment was robbed. The police checked and said it was a "key job." I told the police that the only one who had a key to my apartment other than myself was the superintendent, and I only gave him a key because I was told that according to law I had to. The officer told me to change my locks and give no one else a key — that everyone had a right to his privacy. I guess he was right because nobody has bothered me for a key and I still live here.

BINGHAMPTON

DEAR ABBY: I don't care what the law says. I am one landlord who insists on having a key to every one of my apartments. I own a 30-family apartment house, and in the lease it says that I am entitled to a key. It is my property and I have a right to see that it is properly cared for and safe for everyone at all times. Should there be a gas leak, a water pipe broken, or a fire in one of the apartments while the tenant is out, I want to be able to get in there and fast. Anyone who rents from me will just have to trust me. Otherwise he can go find another place to live.

INSISTS ON A KEY IN CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter signed Likes Privacy and thought my similar experience might interest you. I came home unexpectedly one morning and surprised my landlord who was snooping around in my apartment. I consulted my employer as to my right to lock my apartment and not give anyone a duplicate key. I learned that since I had no lease and paid rent from month to month, I was under no obligation to give my landlord a key. Incidentally, while the lock was being changed, the landlord called the police. But they told her that they were without power to demand a key.

Sincerely,
NO KEY TO ANYONE IN MANHATTAN

DEAR NO KEY: Is your employer a lawyer? If not, I would not regard his word as "law."

DEAR ABBY: If I were a landlady (which I am not) I would not accept the responsibility of having a key to anyone's apartment. I once had a friend who owned a double duplex. She rented out the other half to a family. They reported that some jewelry was missing from their apartment. And even though my friend was finally able to prove herself to be innocent in the end, what happened to her during the investigation shouldn't happen to a dog.

NO KEY, THANK YOU

DEAR ABBY: Just because a landlord tells you that he wants a key to your apartment in case it rains so he can get in to close your windows doesn't mean you have to give him one. If a real emergency occurs, he can break the door down. I have had my fill of landlords, landladies, and apartment "help" having access to my apartment. I live in an apartment to which there is only one key — mine. And I have a heavy brass bolt and chain which I use on the inside for double protection while I am home.

NOBODY'S FOOL IN ALBANY
DEAR NOBODY'S FOOL: Your brass bolt and chain protects you while you're in. If you can't trust your landlord not to rifle your apartment when you're out, you'd better hunt up a new apartment. If I were a landlord I wouldn't want to "break down a door" (my own) because some scatterbrained woman left the iron on and went away. A key in the hands of a landlord would be good insurance as well as a threat.

Basics Start Smart Hairdo

BUSY SCHEDULE HAIRDO — The busy daily schedule calls for a simple hairdo a woman can manage between long visits to the hairdresser. Much can be done with a basic hair length and one or two postiches or hairpieces. For the office or home start with a casual arrangement. Comb hair straight back (left) and catch it with a colorful band. For very special entertaining at home, draw side hair up into a small bun (right) and encircle this with a plait of false hair. Flip back hair up and comb bangs on the diagonal across the forehead. Another evening hair treat (insert) starts with bangs. Pile crown hair in a shining dome and add a French twist at the back of the head. Over the joining point, pin a puffed and rounded hairpiece. Use tail of comb to lift the top section.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

Have you seen the display of paintings at Lovett Memorial Library? Understand it is sponsored by the Historical Society. Mrs. Alma Bailey also has on display a lovely wool quilt she has made.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Mitchell of Omaha, Neb., are spending this week with Mrs. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cullum. Mrs. Birdie McKinney is reported doing fine in Room 221 at Highland General Hospital.

Mrs. Myrtle Smith is reported ill at home.

H. M. Norris is confined with arthritis and was unable to be out this week. A card was signed by those present for Mr. Norris.

A houseguest of Mrs. Lena Webster last week was her son Ray Webster of Boston, Mass. Mr. Webster took his mother-out to Coronado Inn for dinner and celebration of her birthday with a cake and all the trimmings.

Mrs. Beulah Ayers was a guest of Mrs. Ruby Burgin at the Center this week.

Mrs. P. G. Turner spent last weekend with her sister, Mrs. Tower near Sharon Okla., and is spending this weekend with her daughter, Mrs. H. B. Williams in Kermut.

Got a little ribbing about the parking situation at the Library last week. Lived for seven years in that part of town in the thirties and was always confused in the directions. The Library is built with the railroad and not true north or south, so I said on the west side where we enter the Library and should have said on the north. It is really northwest. Anyway the parking was much improved this week and everyone was pleased. Had a good crowd out after the blizzard.

Hostesses were members of Beta Sigma Phi Upsilon Chapter. Serving sandwiches, cake and coffee during the refreshment hour were Mmes. Marge Porter, Betty Jackson, Mary Cook, Betty Schafer and Sue Reddell.

Door prizes went to Mmes. Alma Bailey, Myrtle Enloe, Rook and Traylor, and Messrs. Lewis Henderson, Wilford, E. G. Frasier and Wilkie.

Altars serving were Mmes. Marie Fitzgerald, chairman, Jay Flannigan and Louise Sewell.

Gray Ladies providing transportation were Mmes. George Benham, Augusta Yaley, Chris Byerly, A. D. Hills and Jess Hatcher.

Victor Borge, Pianist-Humorist, Enjoys Laughing, Making Other People Laugh

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Life is one long laugh at the home of Victor Borge, the unmelancholy Dane.

Said his brunette wife, Sanna: "Papa loves to laugh. He loves to make other people laugh. We have a houseful of clogs. Even the servants are in the act. This business of being funny grows."

Mrs. Borge, sitting backstage at the Golden Theater, talked at life with the pianist-humorist while her husband held forth out front with Leonid Hambro, a couple of pianos, and an audience laughing it up to his "comedy in music."

"People on the street speak to him and to the rest of us always with a smile," said Mrs. Borge. "They seem to have this idea about the whole family."

The rest of us consists of the wife who once was her husband's manager and their five children: Sanna Jr., 26, Ronald, 19, Janet, 18, Victor, 10, and Frederikke, 4.

Sanna's a junior at Wellesley, currently majoring her mother said, "in as many weekends as she can manage." In the summer she works for fashion designer Pauline Trigere.

Janet's taking a business course and the other children are in public schools in Greenwich, Conn., where the Borge family have a house. The other house, which they use when time permits, is at St. Croix, the Virgin Islands.

Mrs. Borge, who was born in Otwell, Ind., and grew up in Owensboro, Ky., met her husband while she was in Chicago with a job. Few women then held-as artists' representative.

She no longer is his manager, she said, because the family keeps her busy. "Even when I was, he always had the last word," she said.

Mrs. Borge is a vivacious woman with strong opinions on bringing-up children.

"Of course, there's nothing wrong with ours," she smiled. "But I do think that parents just don't take enough time with children. If the children ask my husband 'why?' he takes three hours to explain."

"We believe children should behave. On manners, for instance. We won't tolerate their eating like some of the children in television commercials. Ours hold their silver properly."

"We have told each that he or she will get a car after high school graduation — if they haven't started smoking or taken a drink by then."

Then, for each year after graduation if the no-smoking, no-drinking prevails, each child is to get a birthday present of $1,000.

"Spoiling them? I think not," said Mrs. Borge. "Besides, they need the money to operate the car."

Power of Ratings Loses CBS-TV Boss His Job

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The replacement this week of the president of CBS-TV's entertainment division is of interest to the average viewer because of its revelation of the enormous pressure of high-level programming.

In short — the programming that will attract the largest number of viewers, according to the ratings, and that will therefore lure the largest number of advertising dollars.

The power of ratings is, of course, a well-known issue to fans who are now almost so sophisticated in their understanding of why their favorite shows disappear. And it is certainly no great news that the ratings can cost an executive his job.

Every so often, however, a situation comes along that dramatizes the issue to the public.

Last summer, for instance, there was great dismay when CBS-TV temporarily displaced Walter Cronkite as its political anchorman in an attempt to overtake NBC-TV's Chet Huntley and David Brinkley in the ratings. The move did not work, and, happily, Cronkite was fully reinstated.

From an "executive suite" viewpoint, the replacement this week of CBS-TV's entertainment boss, James T. Aubrey, is also quite dramatic. It is impossible, of course, to know with certainty all the reasons that go into any business decision, but it seems fair to suggest that CBS-TV's drop from its commanding ratings position is a major factor.

But there are other reasons for the drama, and they center around the business highlights.

Business Highlights

By United Press International
NEW YORK — The United Steelworkers have struck both Continental Can and American Can, the first walkout by the union in the container industry in 11 years. The strike affects 32,000 workers in the United States, including Puerto Rico and Canada.

The union resumes contract negotiations this week with the major steel companies.

NEW YORK — Columbia Broadcasting System has named John A. Schneider as president of CBS-TV to replace James T. Aubrey Jr., whose resignation over the weekend took the broadcasting industry by surprise. Aubrey is reported to be headed for an executive post in a Hollywood film company.

WASHINGTON — A formal proposal to increase resources of the International Monetary Fund to $21 billion by raising member assessments 25 per cent is being advanced. The plan includes safeguards against a major drain on U.S. gold stocks.

NEW YORK — Governor Rockefeller of New York, and Gov. Dempsey of Connecticut have proposed uniting the commuter services of the New Haven and New York Central railroads under Central management. The Central has just asked a 44 per cent fare rise.

most entirely on the remarkable, controversial, enormously successful image that Aubrey for so long projected. He was easily the most powerful network programmer of them all because of the virtually impregnable ratings success he created until this season. This means he decided what the biggest audiences would watch on television.

He is an extremely handsome and sleek-looking man. He is wealthy. While he was perhaps not the most personally loved man in the industry — and did not attempt to be — he was admired, even by many detractors, for his cold reality in a rough business, and above all, for his unquestioned genius as a commercial television programmer. We are talking here of ratings success, nothing else.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
A basic policy of the United States in the Middle East has been to preserve a balance of military power between Israel and the Arab states as a means of preserving the peace.

Of late, however, two developments seemed to threaten both the balance and the peace.

These were the stepped up flow of arms from the Soviet Union to the Arabs and the increasing tension between Israel and the Arabs over Israel's diversion of waters from the Jordan River and the Arab's counter-plan to deprive Israel of those waters by diversion plans of its own.

Obviously neither the balance of power theory nor the rival plans for diversion of the Jordan provided any solution on the long-standing quarrel between the two groups which remained subject to upset by any sudden jar.

Lose Some Honor
Against this background, the governments of the United States and West Germany suddenly find themselves thrust into a situation in which neither comes off with any great degree of honor.

The Germans especially seem to have fallen into a carefully laid Moscow-Cairo trap triggered by the visit of East German Communist strongman Walter Ulbricht to the United Arab Republic.

For the Germans the Ulbricht visit had serious political implications in that it seemed to imply Egyptian recognition of the East German state.

The ineptness with which the problem was handled could have serious repercussions against West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government when it comes up for election next September.

Cite Special Doctrine
West German reaction to the visit rested upon the 15-year-old so-called Hallstein doctrine which dictates that West Germany will break diplomatic relations with any government, except the Soviet Union, that recognizes East Germany.

No Blondes, Clubs For Farouk Anymore

ROME (UPI) — Former King Farouk of Egypt, despite his ponderous weight, is practically the "Invisible Man" of Italy.

The fat, goateed man who once reigned over more than 20 million Egyptians still "makes his home here, but his life is modest and extremely private."

That's a far cry from when he came to Italy after a coup d'etat forced him to abdicate in July, 1952.

When Farouk arrived at the Isle of Capri after the coup, he was aboard the Egyptian royal yacht, Mahroussa, and had it well stocked with whisky, champagne and gin to start his exile in proper style.

He used to be surrounded by an army of servants, friends and persons eager to satisfy his every desire.

Thousands of foreign tourists would stare at the fat man with the black pointed beard and dark glasses sitting at a table outside the Cafe de Paris on Via Veneto.

Troubles Begin

Farouk's troubles began shortly after his arrival in Italy. His yacht left Farouk, his wife, then 18-year-old commoner Queen Narriman, and their six-month-old baby King, Ahmed Fuad II, and headed back to Egypt and a new regime.

Next to go was Farouk's personal yacht, the "Fahkr el Bihar," which was sold in the autumn of 1952.

Then it was Queen Narriman and the couple's son, who lost a throne before he was old enough to realize he even had one. In March, 1953, she left Farouk — taking the child — and divorced him the following year.

But Farouk was undaunted. He became one of the sights on the Via Veneto and was seen nightly in one or another of the clubs, usually with some blonde, almost always in dark glasses. Seated behind a table, he looked as if receiving the homage of his subjects. He weighed about 250 pounds at that time and lived in a luxurious villa.

Farouk's "gay life" continued for several years. Then he gradually retired from public life. He is never seen in Rome's nightclubs any more. Occasionally his name appears in the local newspapers.

Governor Blasts Students Pay

AUSTIN (Spl.) — Gov. John Connally served notice on the U.S. Labor Department he doesn't like its directives that unskilled high school students in War on Poverty program jobs must be paid more than some of their parents make.

Connally, needed by an unnamed Labor Department official, indignantly denied he is scuttling the New Neighborhood Youth Corps job project. But he made clear he won't approve applications of some 23 local school districts for participation in the program until he is sure they know what they are getting into.

NYC offers part-time jobs (10-15 hours a week) around schools and public agencies to youngsters 16-21 who are on the verge of becoming high school dropouts because of financial difficulties. Federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost and local participating units 10 per cent. But next year the cost will be shared 50-50.

Connally spoke out against the Labor Department ruling that students must be paid $1.25 per hour, the federal minimum wage.

The 23 districts, before ruling was announced, proposed to pay rates ranging from 60 cents to $1.20 an hour. Originally, Labor Department had notified the districts wages "should be a little below the prevailing entry rates for inexperienced workers in similar occupations."

The $1.25 order came out after applications were filed.

"This action," Connally noted, "would place local school districts in the awkward and unrealistic position of paying inexperienced school age students of underprivileged families a rate of pay for casual chores that in many cases would exceed that of adult employees working in the same facility, the average earnings of their own parents, and the wages he himself might reasonably expect to earn in the days immediately following high school."

Furthermore, Connally noted, a directly parallel program for potential dropouts among college students administered by Department of Health, Education and Welfare pays 75 cents an hour upward.

House of Representatives applauded Connally's stand but specified it did not intend to criticize the President or his War on Poverty program.

COORDINATING BOARD APPROVED — Governor Connally's number one project of the session — creation of a powerful 18-member coordinating board to supervise all aspects of higher education in Texas — swept through both houses of the Legislature with the speed of a blue norther.

Legislators who opposed it — and there were only a few — had as much chance of stopping it as they would of forstalling a gathering storm.

After being guided through the House by Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria, the bill was picked up by Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan in the Senate, where it went through without an amendment and was passed on to the governor for signing.

Connally has until September 1 to choose the 18 members of the board. They will replace the Texas Commission on Higher Education and will take on the task of directing all higher education institutions from junior colleges through the university systems.

Board will decide what courses are to be offered by each institution. It was given the most far-reaching authority granted by the Legislature since the Commission was authorized to grant railroad permits. Present college boards of regents will continue to serve. But they will be responsible to the new overall coordinating board.

Another of the governor's education plans, to replace 12 separate boards of regents which govern the 22 state colleges and universities with three boards of regents which govern the 22 state colleges and universities with three boards of university systems, had not yet been introduced when the coordinating board plan was adopted.

Some legislators feel that the system board plan may have served to lessen the opposition to the coordinating board particularly among representatives from the colleges whose board would be abolished.

PESTICIDE PROTESTED — A cheap poison used against roaches and rats in many homes and in grain storage bins and warehouses can cause loss of hair and mental disturbances, physicians testified in a House committee hearing. In heavy doses, it can kill a person or leave him mentally incompetent, they said.

Doctors appeared at a public health committee hearing on a bill which would outlaw the sale, use or possession of poisons based on thallium compounds.

They said the poison can take effect upon even very brief exposures and that its symptoms are hard to diagnose. Some persons have been interned in mental hospitals before the real reason for their illness was discovered, they said. At present there is no known antidote to the poison except time.

MEDICAL AID PLANNED — Strategy designed to quickly pass a medical assistance bill as soon as Congress passes its expected new legislation has been announced by Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin. He is sponsor of a House bill to extend Kerr-Mills payments to elderly persons not on old-age pensions.

Wilson asked a House committee to report out his bill quickly so it could be passed on the floor and sent to the Senate. A Senate bill will not be considered until the federal legislation is enacted, he said. In this way, the Senate version can authorize participation in the new federal plans and the details can be worked out to the satisfaction of House members in a conference committee.

Old-age pensioners already are eligible for help on their medical bills through the federal-state program.

LIQUOR RACING BILL HEARINGS SET — Horse racing and "small bottles" liquor bills are expected to turn out some of the biggest crowds at legislative hearings this month.

Bill by Rep. Maurice Pipkin of Brownsville to legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse races will be heard by House Safe Af-

Police Question Trio on Murder Of Malcolm X

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police early today charged two former Black Muslims and a third man with illegal possession of a double barreled sawed-off shotgun. Police questioned them about their affiliations with slain Negro extremist leader Malcolm X.

Police Inspector Thomas Reneghan said there was no strong evidence to link the trio to the five-man assassination squad that killed Malcolm X with shotgun and pistol fire nine days ago at a Harlem rally of his followers.

Police have already charged two men with homicide in connection with the assassination.

The arrested trio was identified as John 57X Grey, 29, Cyril 2X James, 18, and Willie Hilton, 18, all residents of Harlem.

Reneghan said Grey and James admitted being former members of the firebrand Black Muslim headquarters mosque, seven in Harlem. He said Grey admitted allegiance to Malcolm, but James did not. Hilton, Reneghan said, admitted being an admirer of Malcolm but denied membership in either the Black Muslims or Malcolm's rival Black nationalist group, the Organization for Afro-American Unity.

Reneghan said the three men were arrested Monday night in a Manhattan basement apartment while allegedly awaiting a fourth, unidentified man to discuss developments growing out of Malcolm's death.

Teachers fear the delay will be used to gain support for Connally's long-range, graduated pay bill, which they claim gives them far less than their own $45-a-month across-the-board raise proposal.

CITIES ASK SALES TAX — spokesmen for cities urged a legislative committee to recommend that cities be given authority to levy local sales taxes up to one per cent if citizens vote approval in special elections.

They said they have gone about as far as they can with raising property taxes and need additional sources of revenue to provide necessary services.

Senators adopted 22-9 a "compromise" version making the provisions of a stricter House-passed Joint Rule 9-A effective during the first 120 days of the session. The House is expected to agree.

Opponents say the rule still will prevent even a committee hearing of teacher pay bills until last 20 days of the session—or until the budget is adopted and certified by the comptroller.

CITIES ASK SALES TAX — spokesmen for cities urged a legislative committee to recommend that cities be given authority to levy local sales taxes up to one per cent if citizens vote approval in special elections.

They said they have gone about as far as they can with raising property taxes and need additional sources of revenue to provide necessary services.

Senators adopted 22-9 a "compromise" version making the provisions of a stricter House-passed Joint Rule 9-A effective during the first 120 days of the session. The House is expected to agree.

Opponents say the rule still will prevent even a committee hearing of teacher pay bills until last 20 days of the session—or until the budget is adopted and certified by the comptroller.

Teachers fear the delay will be used to gain support for Connally's long-range, graduated pay bill, which they claim gives them far less than their own $45-a-month across-the-board raise proposal.

Sandblom Beats Texas Charges

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — One-time fast money manipulator Paul Amos Sandblom was free today of state charges of fraud and security law violations—because a Baptist minister was preaching in Brazil.

Sandblom, however, will start serving "any day now" his 15-year federal sentence for fraud. He also will serve a concurrent five-year state charge.

"We have no legal case without this minister," Dist. Atty. Sam Jones of Corpus Christi, said.

"That is the end of it as far as these state charges are concerned," Jones said.

West Gulf Dockers

Still Stay off Job

GALVESTON (UPI)— West

Gulf dockers watched the progress today of Miami talks and gave their moral support to their South Atlantic co-workers by staying off the job.

West Gulf dockers have yet to ratify their new contract settled last Saturday. Ralph

Massey, West Gulf district president of the International Long-shoremen's Association, said the union's "all work or all strike" tradition prevented the union from ratifying the new contract while talks were still going on in Miami for South Atlantic dockers.

"We started out supporting one another," he said, "and the only reason the Middle Gulf ports went back to work was because of a court injunction."

SCOFFS AT AID

MOSCOW (UPI)— The Soviets Monday scoffed at the value of the American lend-lease to Russia during World War II.

An article in Red Star, the newspaper of the Soviet armed forces, said lend-lease deliveries did not exceed six per cent of Russian-made equipment

"and could not have been a decisive factor" in the Soviet victory over the Germans.

"There is a tendency among certain bourgeois historians to over-estimate the importance of such aid," the article said.

Vandy, Irish Set for NCAA Play

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Underbilt and Notre Dame officially in the NCAA basketball tournament and Wichita State are knocking on the door with credentials certain to be honored.

Underbilt won an automatic bid to the big carnival when it won its first Southeastern Conference crown with a 79-64 victory over Auburn Monday while Notre Dame accepted a large berth after downing Creighton 92-74.

Underbilt needed the help of its 58-56 triumph over Creighton to gain its berth in the tournament while Notre Dame required the aid of its 58-56 triumph over Creighton to gain its berth in the tournament while Notre Dame required the aid of its 58-56 triumph over Creighton to gain its berth in the tournament.

runnerup in the SEC six times, won its way into the NCAA tournament on the strength of its foul shooting. The Commodores sank 33 free throws to only eight for the Tigers. Bob Grace scored 23 points, Keith Thomas had 20 and Clyde Lee tallied 19 to lead Vandy.

Notre Dame took the lead in the early moments of the game, led by 15 points three times during the first half and never was in serious trouble. Creighton's harrassing tactics resulted in repeated fouls that made it a breeze for Notre Dame, which finished the season with six victories in its last eight games and a 15-11 overall record. Don Reed led Notre Dame with 22 points and Fritz Pointer had 26 for Creighton.

The Wichita Shockers and Oklahoma State Cowboys raised their conference records to 10-2 with their homecourt victories.

Wichita began a precise ball control game after gaining a 42-36 lead early in the second half and gradually extended the margin to 11 points. Jamie Thompson led Wichita with 24 points and Rick Park, who connected with a 65-foot field goal as the buzzer sounded ending the first half, tallied 14 for Tulsa.

Sam Cops $40,000 Seniors

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Sam Snead pocketed $3,500 and his 114th major golf victory today and said he may have rejuvenated that grand old slam.

The 53-year-old West Virginia drawler put down a distinguished field of seniors Monday to win first money in the annual $40,000 tournament for over-50 pros by turning the final round of the Fort Lauderdale Country Club's south course in one-under-par 34-37 — 71 for a total, eight under par.

It was the first major tournament victory for Snead since he won the Seniors last year.

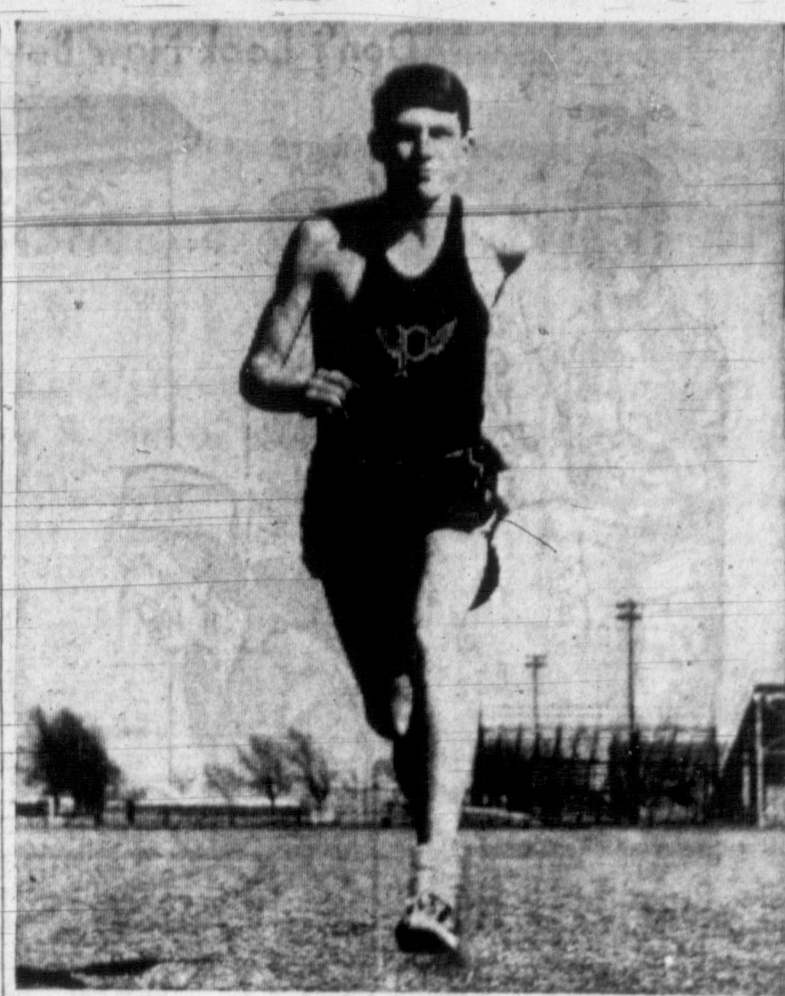

"I was driving the best I have in some time," allowed the Slammer.

Snead won by four strokes over Miamian Joe Lopez Sr., who won $2,750 for finishing second, more than he won in tournaments all last year.

A Chick Harbert, a "freshman" just turned 50, finished third with a 283 and had four huge blisters on his foot and played the final round with one set of golf spikes and a bedroom slipper.

Snead, who complained the 6,735-yard South course here "played different every round," said the next tournament on his schedule is the Doral Open in Miami later this month.

"Beyond that I don't know," the West Virginian said. "My boss at the Greenbriar (Country Club) says he'd like to see me spend a little more time there," each.

Briscoe Edges By Booker Kiowettes

By MIKE McHONE
News Sports Correspondent

MIAMI — With three seconds left in an overtime period, Marvellous Mickie Fulks made two of three free throw chances to give the Briscoe Bronettes a 63-61 bi-district victory over the Booker Kiowettes here last night.

Briscoe, the district 1-B girls champion, goes into girls regional play this weekend at Canyon.

Briscoe won the game on free throws, as they did the district 1-B playoff over Miami, hitting 28 of 37 charity tries to down the Kiowettes, despite their shooting superiority from the floor. Mickie, the 5-10 four-time all-district, slammed home 22 of 27 free throw attempts, coupled with 11 baskets, to total 44 points, backed by Diane Dodd with 14 points, including six of 10 charity tries.

Booker hit 26 baskets to Briscoe's 17, but got only 11 free throw chances, hitting nine of them, as their guards fouled Mickie constantly. The Kiowettes shot with deadly accuracy from outside. Elsie Fare hit 38 points, Judy Sell and Jeannie Cates 11.

Briscoe hit 13 of Briscoe's 15 points in the first quarter, but Elsie hit nine from far outside while Jeannie drove for six more to give Booker a 17-15 quarter lead.

Elsie outscored Mickie in the second period, 10 to nine, to up the lead to 33-28.

Briscoe narrowed the margin in the third quarter, and Mickie hit two straight baskets in the last minute to give the Bronettes a 48-46 lead.

The lead went back and forth in the closing frame, and with nine seconds to go, Mickie tied the score with a pair of free throws, 57-57. Elsie's long shot with one second left rolled around the rim and out, and the game went into overtime.

Elsie hit two baskets in the extra frame while Mickie made a bucket, but only one of two charity tries and the score was tied at 63-61 when Mickie was fouled on a drive. In addition to her two shots, she was awarded another on a technical as Booker sent in a replacement without reporting to the scoring table. The dead-eyed blonde made two of the shots to give Briscoe their 15th win in the last 16 games.

Del Webb Sells Out To CBS

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — The Columbia Broadcasting System was within one step of total ownership of the New York Yankees today after buying Del Webb's 10 per cent interest in the club for $1,000,000.

Webb ended his 20-year association with the Yankees Monday, explaining he intended to concentrate his efforts on his construction business.

The acquisition of Webb's stock gives CBS 90 per cent control of the Yankees. The other 10 per cent is owned by Dan Topping, the club president.

CBS took over control of the Yankees last Aug. 14 when it bought 80 per cent of the club from Webb and Topping for $11.2 million. At the time, it was announced that both Webb and Topping were given the option of selling their remaining interest by March 1, 1965, and CBS had the option to buy out the remaining 20 per cent before May, 1969.

The transaction created a heated wave of controversy both in baseball and legislative circles and was the subject of congressional anti-trust hearings.

Webb, who admitted that he invested in the Yankees "strictly from a business viewpoint," enjoyed a profitable and pleasurable return in the 20 years since he, Topping and Larry MacPhail bought the team and its entire farm system from the Jacob Ruppert estate for $4,000,000.

Since that day in 1945, the Yankees won 15 American League pennants and 10 world championships. Webb grossed more than $65 million alone through the sale of his shares to CBS last August and Monday.

Webb and Topping had bought out MacPhail's interests for $2,000,000 in 1947.

There was some speculation that Webb might seek an interest in another major league club, presumably the Los Angeles Angels for whom his company is building a park at Anaheim, Calif., but Webb said that at the age of 66 he had little desire to start a new venture.

"I have a growing company in construction of hotels and office buildings, and industrial interests all over the country which require considerably more of my attention," Webb said in explaining his reasons for bowing out of the Yankee picture. "With only a small interest in the club I felt this was the appropriate time to retire from my participation with the Yankees."

GRUVER MEET OFF

GRUVER — The Gruver relayhold Relays, opening track meet for small schools in the Top O' Texas area, has been cancelled.

The meet was set for this weekend, but coach Leon Chapman announced yesterday that the meet was being called off due to Gruver playing in the state basketball tournament at Austin this week.

Entries in the meet included most of the district 1-A, 2-B and 9-B track teams, among them McLean, Wheeler, White Deer, Groom, Canadian, and Lefors.

The next track meet for small schools in the area will be at Lefors March 12-13, the Pirate Relays.

Move In Front

Oklahoma State and Kansas State were tied 50-50 with seven minutes to go when Fred Moulder made a free throw to put the Cowboys in front for good. The Wildcats gave the Cowboys a scare in the first half with a 60 per cent shooting average from the floor that built a 30-27 halftime lead. Four Oklahoma State players scored in double figures.

Florida upset Tennessee when Brooks Henderson sank a driving layup at the final buzzer.

Michigan Hold 1st In Polls

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vanderbilt, Brigham Young and San Francisco took giant strides upward in the United Press International major college basketball ratings today while top-ranked Michigan continued to hold its slim lead over runner-up UCLA.

A flurry of late season upsets that victimized six of the top 10 teams and five quintets in the second 10 last week, failed to alter the positions of the first four teams, but jugged the rest of the standings considerably.

Vanderbilt, heading for its first Southeastern Conference championship, vaulted from eighth to fifth place, and Brigham Young, the Western Athletic leader, and San Francisco, the West Coast Athletic champion, returned to the top 10 after a long absence in ninth and 10th place respectively. Brigham Young was 15th last week and San Francisco ranked 11th.

For the fifth consecutive week the first four teams, in order were Michigan, UCLA, St. Joseph's and Providence, even though Providence, last of the major unbeaten, fell to Villanova.

Duke, Davidson and Minnesota all absorbed losses last week and each slipped one notch to sixth, seventh and eight, respectively.

The national major college basketball champion for 1965 will be named next week by the UPI Board of Coaches. The team will be awarded a permanent trophy for the title.

The Michigan Wolverines received 26 first place votes for the second consecutive week but saw UCLA cut their point margin almost in half. The Bruins increased their number of first place votes by one to seven and earned a total of 330 points, compared to 336 for Michigan. St. Joseph's gathered the other two first place votes from the panel of coaches.

The current ratings cover games played through Saturday, Feb. 27.

Major League Roundup

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer

Tommy Davis is taking his unofficial position of team "slugger" with the Los Angeles Dodgers seriously this spring.

Although the distinction was thrust upon Davis not because he resembled Babe Ruth but rather by default, the 25-year-old flycatcher from the Dodgers old hometown of Brooklyn is determined to provide the 1963 world champions with the power they so desperately lack.

Few teams in baseball's modern homer-happy era have swung lighter sticks at their opponents than last year's edition of the Dodgers, and all that Los Angeles has done to rectify the situation is to trade away its most powerful hitter, Frank Howard.

Howard was responsible for 24 of the Dodgers 79 home runs in 1964, a mark that placed them 19th among major league clubs. Only Houston finished below them with 70 circuit blows.

Automatically Elected

And since the 195-pound Davis was second on the club to Howard with 14 homers, he has been automatically elected to put some more pop into the Dodgers' popgun attack.

That's exactly what he did Monday during a Los Angeles workout. The five-year National League veteran, who slumped to a career low of .275 at the plate in 1964 after leading the majors in hitting for two consecutive years, received instruction from Coach Jim Gilliam and scouting director Al Campanis in the morning, then proceeded to drive five balls out of the park in the afternoon.

Meanwhile, Howard was knocking down some fences of his own at the Washington Senator camp. In his first drive with the American League club, the massive Howard slapped several balls over the center field fence, which is 410 feet from home plate.

Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs sent quite a few baseballs winging through the familiar Arizona air in the team's Square Garden Saturday.

Philis Sign Callison

The Philadelphia Phillies signed their most valuable player and All-Star hero Johnny Callison for a reported $40,000 and also added shortstop Ruben Amaro to the roster, in other contract negotiations, the Cincinnati Reds inked catcher Don Pavletich and the Baltimore Orioles signed utility infielder Bob Johnson.

Athletic Director Joel Eaves said Lawson, 53, would continue as a professor in the department of physical education. Assistant Coach Rex Frederick, 38, has been directing the basketball team since shortly before mid-season when Lawson became ill with nervousness and physical fatigue. The Bulldogs have an 8-16 win-loss record with two games to play.

"I deeply regret leaving Georgia basketball, but the doctors have advised me to give up coaching," Lawson said. "I will miss it tremendously."

Cage Coach To Bench

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI)—Aging Harbin (Red) Lawson, acting "on the advice of doctors," retired Monday after 14 years as head basketball coach at the University of Georgia.

Athletic Director Joel Eaves said Lawson, 53, would continue as a professor in the department of physical education. Gunner Pool racked up 20 points and tall Gene Williams 5 more. Leon Willingham got 0 in defeat.

Cousin George Smith headed the Bankers with 20 markers as Max Patton added 14.

The undefeated Drugists expect win number 12 tonight when they tangle with the Pampa Newsboys at 8:30 p.m., following the game between the YCC Girls All-Stars and the Amarillo AAU champs, at 7.

Midwestern In Playoff

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI) — Pan American and Midwestern met tonight with the winner carrying off the NAIA's Dist. 2 Basketball championship and advancing to the NAIA playoffs in Kansas City next week.

Tonight's game is the final of a best-of-three series and was made possible by Pan American's win over Midwestern Monday night 84-71.

Midwestern won the first game in Wichita Falls last Saturday 75-73.

Mitch Edwards cashed in for 31 points Monday night, and was the man mainly responsible for Pan American keeping its lead through the entire game. The Broncos built up a 20-point lead at one time in the second half.

Edwards shared the scoring honors with Midwestern's John Henry Young, but the Broncos' 5-10 freshman, Otto Moore, excelled in Young's usual specialty—rebounding.

Moore pulled down 15 rebounds while Young collected 14.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE — The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Safety's Foe: Public Apathy

The really blood-curdling thing per 100 million miles until 1975 — about the figure of almost 48,000 when travel will exceed a trillion miles a year — annual fatalities would rise to above 55,000.

As for congestion, he points out that since the half-completed Interstate Highway system was begun, the number of vehicles has increased by some 18 million.

As the project progresses toward scheduled completion in 1972, more than two million cars will be added to traffic for each additional 2,000 miles of freeway built — 1,000 cars for each new mile.

And in the matter of blight — 72 million to more than 100 million, cynics may wonder just abandoned vehicles along the highway, the number of vehicles has increased by some 18 million.

Rep. Abernethy, president of American Motors, lists three major problems created by the automobile which will be magnified in the next 10 years — safety, congestion and blight.

As for the foremost problem, safety: "It is a frightening fact," he says, "that even if we manage to hold the traffic-death rate down to its present level of 5.4 with the rewards."

Price Tag on the Priceless

A New York bank has announced after exhaustive studies that the American housewife is worth $159.34 a week in terms of current wage scales for the various household duties she performs.

It is only fair to assume that even a banker, who naturally has a high regard for the dollar value, must have had tongue in cheek when he dreamed up this gimmick.

To put a market value on any part of the contributions a wife and mother makes to the home and to family life is like putting a price tag on religion, character and integrity.

A much more accurate appraisal can be provided by one family which has tried to manage without mom for more than a couple of hours.

You simply can't get along without her.

If someone can come up with a dollar valuation based on that judgment, we'll give it respectful attention. Until then, no dice.

'Pocket of Poverty'

Remember how the bleeding hearts in Washington were so concerned about needing the "war on poverty" to help those poor folks in West Virginia?

Well, here is what Rep. Richard H. Poff, a Virginia Republican, has to say about the poverty war and how West Virginians were "helped" by this program to spend federal taxpayers' money.

"While the bill was under debate, proponents most often illustrated and justified the need by pointing to the state of West Virginia as the supreme example of poverty. Even after the bill had become law, President Johnson, campaigning through West Virginia, promised he would 'do something' to help relieve poverty in that state. Now, the first allocation of poverty war funds has been made. West Virginia will receive $423,811. This averages about 15 cents per person in West Virginia.

"How does this compare with the states of Texas and Minnesota? Texas, which often boasts of being the wealthiest state in the Union, will get $2,766,483. Texas has five times as many people as West Virginia, but Texas will receive 23 times as much poverty aid as West Virginia. Minnesota, the Vice President's home state, will get $1,499,407 — three times as much as West Virginia.

"It begins to appear that poverty's home is where the administration's heart is."

Something Out of Focus?

A Senate investigating committee has been told that it is now possible for electronic wizards to bug the olive in your Martini so that it records with lethal clarity everything you say.

The olive, you see, contains a teeny microphone. And what looks like a toothpick stuck in the olive is in reality a miniature antenna.

This ingenious bit of supersnapping naturally brings up the question of invasion of privacy. It also brings up a couple of other questions:

One — What's to keep the unwitting Martini guzzler from swallowing the "olive, microphone and all"? What could happen to him then might be stranger than fiction.

Two — If a little bit of micro-telephone with a toothpick antenna can do all that, how come the big television set in the living room, with its long, ungainly rabbit ears, can't bring in a decent picture from a television station only five miles away?

Is the viewer supposed to sit there drinking Martinis with just to get a clearer picture?

Or is there something fuzzy about his whole thing?

BERRY'S WORLD

"Shut up, Grigsby, you're drowning out the punch line!"

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE
As you know, politicians believe that individuals are incapable of looking out for themselves. Let's follow John Q. Public through an average day — as seen through the eyes of the politician:

John Q. arises at eight in the morning, and goes out to the front porch just as his milkman arrives. The milkman says to him, "Good morning, dumb Mr. Public. I've got bad news for you. We're raising the price of milk — and not only that, we've lowered the quality. Here, drink a sample of our new line."

John Q. takes a drink and says, "Hmmm, that is raunchy. I'm going to have to drink that from now on. Huh?"

"That's right," says the milkman. "Take it or take it."

So, naturally, John Q. takes it. After dressing, John Q. drives to an automobile agency to buy a new car. He says to the salesman, "I want to buy that car over there — the one that sells for $3,000. And here's my $3,000."

"Sorry, bub," says the salesman. "The price went up this morning to $6,000."

"Oh," says John Q. "Why didn't you say so? In that case, here's an additional $3,000."

Driving off in his new $6,000 car (which came without fenders, windows or wheels), John Q. heads for the XYZ Company where he's to be interviewed for a new job.

The Badder the Better?
When he gets there, the personnel director gives him a run-down on the job. He says: "I want you to know we operate the finest sweatshop in town — and here's your sweatshirt. You'll work 60 hours a week, at one stretch; there are no coffee breaks; only 15 minutes for lunch (every other day); and you're required to contribute to the boss's retirement, although there's no retirement for you. Do you want the job?"

"I'll take it," says John Q. enthusiastically.

The rest of the day was more of the same thing. At the store, he reaches between two larger cans and picks out the one he wants — the one that says, "Largest can on the market" on the label.

When he arrives home for dinner, he tells his wife of the day's events. She listens intently and comments, "Well, it sounds like you had a very nice unprofitable day."

John Q. smiles and says, "I sure did."

And that ends our little tale of a day in the life of John Q. Public — as seen through the eyes of the politician.

What's the point of this story? Simply this: the politician assumes that individuals voluntarily do things that are unprofitable to themselves. Every taxing measure and regulatory act is based upon the assumption that people roll over and play dead in the marketplace.

Individuals Seek Happiness
There is one basic rule of economics (to paraphrase Murray Rothbard's law of human action): All individuals make choices designed to achieve the ends they seek. They do not go in search of unhappiness. They refrain from paying more than they feel a car is worth; they refuse to work in unfavorable conditions; when better conditions are available; they keep away from businessmen who do not please them.

But the politician, on the other hand, practices what I call the universal economic fallacy: the assumption that an individual will voluntarily accept something unprofitable to him.

And so he passes laws designed to force his own concept of happiness upon the individual. If John Q. Public were left alone, he'd find his happiness by his own choices. But, of course, the politician would then be out of a job.

Two — If a little bit of micro-telephone with a toothpick antenna can do all that, how come the big television set in the living room, with its long, ungainly rabbit ears, can't bring in a decent picture from a television station only five miles away?

Is the viewer supposed to sit there drinking Martinis with just to get a clearer picture?

Or is there something fuzzy about his whole thing?

There are at least 1,500 species of crickets, varying in length from one-eighth of an inch to more than two inches. Crickets chirp by rubbing an upturned scraper on the forewing along a row of 50-250 teeth on the underside of the other forewing. In the Orient, the males are caged for their songs and cricket fighting has been a sport in China for centuries.

Deal for British Backing on Viet Nam: No Interference with Her North Vietnamese Trade

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is paying a high price for the British Labor government's support of his policy of "controlled" air strikes against North Viet Nam.

In exchange for Prime Minister Wilson's publicly-voiced approval of such tightly limited retaliatory blows, the President has agreed not to interfere in any way, by military or other measures, with the large volume of British shipping to North Viet Nam.

A stringent blockade of the North Viet Nam coast is strongly favored by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, with the vigorous backing of the Navy and Air Force. British vessels are transporting a heavy volume of vital supplies to North Viet Nam. Foremost is oil from Indonesia — crucially essential for the Communists' trucks and other motor vehicles hauling Soviet arms and munitions from Hanoi where they are carried by a single-track railway from Red China.

Intelligence estimates that 42 per cent of Western ships engaged in this North Vietnamese trade are British.

Between 30 and 40 Western freighters dock monthly at Haiphong, principal North Viet Nam port on the Gulf of Tonkin. Of them, from 10 to 15 are British. The others fly the flags of France, West Germany, Italy, Greece, Norway, Lebanon, Japan and Panama.

Of 202 Western vessels unloaded at North Viet Nam in the past six months, 82 were British. Cargoes included everything from oil to spare parts for trains and engines.

Under the President's backstage deal with Prime Minister Wilson, the U.S. is barred from any public structures assailing Britain's highly lucrative trade with the Communist Vietnamese.

The U.S. has repeatedly denounced such trade with Soviet-satellite Cuba. But no official word of disapproval has yet been uttered about the North Viet Nam traffic.

THE SHELVED EMBARGO — The Joint Chiefs of Staff first proposed a so-called "limited" blockade of the North Viet Nam coast last November.

Under this plan, only ships carrying food and medical supplies would have been allowed entry.

All other cargoes would have been barred, particularly military and strategic.

No exceptions would have been permitted, regardless of the nationality of the vessels — Western, Soviet bloc, Red Chinese, etc.

In effect, this naval blockade would have been more drastic than the one imposed against Cuba during the historic missile crisis. The Joint Chiefs' purpose was to shut off a principal North Vietnamese source of military and other essential supplies.

After long deliberation — and an exchange of views with Wilson — President Johnson shelved the Joint Chiefs' proposal.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Old-fashioned walking is old-fashioned to the detriment of today's youngsters according to Dr. Benjamin Kauth of the American Foot Care Institute who says they spend more time on their seats than on their feet. He adds too many hours spent sitting in buses, cars, school and in front of TV sets induces "creeping sedentaryism." His survey revealed that 75 per cent of the youngsters reaching high school age have some kind of foot trouble due to lack of adequate exercise.

Today's smile: A college freshman wrote to his parents describing some of his courses and mentioned he was studying political economy. His father wrote him immediately: "Drop that useless course in political economy. No one ever heard of an economic politician."

New York's Dept. of Markets and similar agencies across the nation, are constantly receiving complaints that supermarket check-out cashiers are overcharging customers. The best way to combat that one is to buy one of those inexpensive pocket adding machines and use it when making purchases.

You'll know before you reach the check-out register how much you will have to pay. . . . We liked the true story about the Spanish dentist who accepted a lottery ticket as payment for yanking a tooth. He won $5000 . . .

Window-logging in cars is a common winter annoyance but we recently discovered a new low-priced product you spray on the inside of windows, or eyeglasses and it gives instantaneous relief. . . . Lions were native to the Near East back in Biblical times. Maybe that's the reason they are mentioned in the Bible more often than any other wild animal.

Thoughts while shaving: A recent crime survey revealed the shocking news there was an average of one murder an hour in the U.S. last year and during each of those hours 120 automobiles were stolen. . . . Although cattle-raising in the Western states expanded more than 60 per cent since 1950 you seldom see cowboys riding the range as they did in the Zane Grey stories of Federic Remington paintings. Cattle ranchers today are bordered by fences, and when the steers are shipped to market they are generally herded into a corral where they are loaded on trucks. It's not as romantic as it appears in the movies or on TV. . . . One of the reasons you hear so much now about teenagers is the fact that that age group constitutes a big market for everything from clothing to phonograph records. And, unlike our teenage years when everyone was broke, today's youngsters have money and spend it. The Census Bureau estimates the present teenage population at 35 million. . . . Maybe it was a princely sum in those days, but John Cabot the English navigator, only received about $40 for discovering Newfoundland in 1497. . . . Last replaced he will be retained on the White House staff in another capacity.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Mr. Saxon, Aides 'Not In' For Written, Phone Inquiry

By SAM CAMPBELL
Business Editor

To keep you up to date — Comptroller of the Currency James J. Saxon has not yet answered the inquiry on why the federal authority let that San Francisco bank go broke right under its very nose.

I followed up the letter with another telephone inquiry. The girl in Washington said, "Mr. Saxon is not in, would you like to speak to his assistant, Mr. Kant?" She rang Mr. Kant's secretary answered.

She said, "Is this a newspaper calling? I wonder if you wouldn't like to talk with our public relations representative, Mr. Grubb."

Official Refusal

"No," I said, "I first telephoned for Mr. Saxon. His office referred me to Mr. Kant. I either would like to talk with Mr. Kant or I would like an official refusal, a statement that he refuses to talk with me. After that I would talk with Mr. Grubb."

There followed a period of silence on the line, during which I could only assume Mr. Kant's secretary was discovering that Mr. Kant can't, couldn't or wouldn't talk. For the secretary came back on the phone, and said, "I am referring your call to Mr. Grubb."

"Public reactions" a cheery feminine voice answered.

"May I speak with Mr. Grubb, please?"

Another period of silence. "Great Revelation."

"Sorry," Miss Cherry Voice came back, "Mr. Grubb is out of the office."

Now you may say the foregoing conversation produced no results. You may say you're a reporter didn't get the story. You may charge that a business column is being filled with mere trivia instead of giving hard facts on how to make a buck or to avoid a financial catastrophe.

But I plead innocent. I not only have given you all the facts available, I also have provided you with a great revelation of the intermost workings of one of the most responsible arms of the federal establishment.

If you are reading between the lines, you no doubt perceive that the San Francisco bank could have gone broke while the West Coast bank examiner was trying to telephone headquarters to notify his superiors about the threatening conditions in his bailiwick.

Humorous though it may be the episode recounted here illustrates why the bureaucracy cannot be relied upon for protection. Essentially, the bureaucracy embodies no motivation except to preserve itself. But even if it had motivation, the mechanics are so cumbersome that the official cannon can't be aimed and fired until after the mouse has run off with the cheese.

"Government" so-called in such a state of disintegration no longer is government in the true sense of the word, but has become mis-government or, at best, non-government. That is to say, it no longer functions to provide law and order.

WASHINGTON:

Here's Plan For Turning Tide in Viet

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Viet Cong forces today have a major potential military weakness — food.

Now that they've built their 35,000-man first-line force, brought in northern troops, standardized weapons, organized into regiments and battalions, they can't live wholly off the land the way they once did.

They have been forced to build sizable food depots, communications stations, staff headquarters, training schools and small arsenals in "safe" base areas in the heart of South Viet Nam.

Seventeen of these "secret" bases are known to exist.

Some major bases stock at least 400,000 pounds of foodstuffs, enough to feed 4,000 troops for three months.

A few months ago, one base was known to have 522,000 pounds of food, one training center and 652 military huts. Another had 160,000 pounds of grains, 1,500 chickens, a training school for provincial and district commissioners and a pharmaceutical products depot.

A third base had two arms workshops and a supply center. A fourth had an information workshop, a food depot and a battalion training center.

Do Xa, headquarters of the Viet Cong Fifth Military Region, had an armory for manufacturing rifles and grenades and the communications center for almost all of South Viet Nam, as well as strable food and equipment depots.

Though dilapidated in appearance and well-hidden in the heart of Viet Cong territory, some of these installations are elaborate by guerrilla standards. They are vulnerable to sneak hit-and-run attacks in which the only purpose would be destruction. Most would be impossible to occupy.

In some areas of South Viet Nam, food supplies already have become so tight the Reds have raised their food levies on the local farmers. This has resulted in less farmer cooperation with the Viet Cong and higher V.C. desertion rates.

Bombing North Viet Nam may be important for psychological reasons. But a more effective military way to hurt the Viet Cong would be to systematically wipe out each of the 10 most important Viet Cong secret military bases in South Viet Nam once every 30 days.

Monthly wiping out of these bases would unsettle the bureaucratic organization of the major Red headquarters, disrupt their campaign plans. More importantly, regular destruction of food stocks would force the Viet Cong to react in two ways:

First — They would have to squeeze the farmers harder, making more enemies.

Second — They would have to attack government grain warehouses. Since U.S. Vietnamese would know these attacks were coming, our troops could set ambushes that would make the Reds pay dearly.

As continued U.S.-Vietnamese raids cut deeply into Viet Cong food supplies, the V.C. regulars would lose a goodly chunk of their attack potential. We'd be keeping the Viet Cong regulars busy and off-balance. We'd be, in essence, choosing their targets. They wouldn't have so much time to set up ambushes against us.

U.S.-Vietnamese forces have raided some of these bases now and again. But occasional intermittent raids mean little. The Communists leave, come back and build again. Regular raids to keep these bases out of full operation, wherever the base might move to, are the guts of this program.

There would also have to be a sharp step-up in intelligence to pinpoint just when, where and how to hit each base and to keep track of where each base moved after the attacks.

Today is Tuesday, March 2, the 61st day of 1965 with 304 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

Frontiersman Sam Houston was born on this day in 1793.

On this day in history:

In 1836, 55 Texans issued a proclamation declaring the territory's independence from Mexico.

In 1877, Rutherford B. Hayes was named President by Congress in settlement of a dispute over the election of 1876. He was declared the winner over Democrat Samuel Tilden.

In 1927, Babe Ruth became the highest paid baseball player — up to that time when he signed a contract with the New York Yankees for $70,000 a year.

In 1943, the battle of the Bismarck Sea began. American airmen eventually destroyed a Japanese convoy of 21 ships.

A thought for the day — Mark Twain once said "Good breeding consists in concealing how much we think of ourselves and how little we think of the other person."

SEATO's Second Front, Fight Against Disease

By PRASONG WITTAYA
BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—The medical team ran tests and found that 90 per cent of all persons examined suffered from the disease.

The work of these doctors — and of thousands of other scientists, teachers and technicians — is part of the unknown side of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO).

To many people the thought of SEATO brings to mind the powerful combined military might of the United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Thailand and the Philippines in a free world determination to protect the independence of Southeast Asia. And that is correct.

But there is another side to the coin of freedom — the fight against disease and ignorance.

Another mysterious killer disease stalked northern Thailand in 1962 until SEATO doctors isolated it and discovered trichinosis was the cause.

The source, once again, was raw or partially cooked food — this time pork.

SEATO now is carrying out programs to educate the public about the dangers of their eating habits.

SEATO doctors since 1961 have pursued another deadly disease in Thailand — malaria or elephantiasis, which is carried by mosquitoes.

The doctors have sought out and treated victims and carriers of this disease as well as working on eradication of the mosquito.

And SEATO is hot on the trail of still another killer, cholera, with the help of the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research — the U. S. foreign aid program, a U. S. naval medical research unit and Jefferson Medical College.

SEATO research centers have discovered which modern drugs and antibiotics are most and least effective against the bacteria that cause cholera, acute diarrhea and other enteric diseases.

In yet another area of SEATO, cultural programs, young men and women and established scholars are furthering their educations.

Each year 12 awards are made to university graduates of Pakistan, the Philippines and Thailand for advanced study in one of the Asian member nations other than their own.

Seventy undergraduate scholarships were awarded in the three countries in 1964.

Fellowships are awarded to scholars on specific individual projects, and SEATO finances group studies sponsored by universities, research organizations and industry within member nations.

SEATO maintains a graduate school of engineering in Bangkok to providing training in hydraulic, public health, structural and transportation engineering.

In the field of technical assistance, SEATO has begun work to fill the shortage of skilled labor and mechanics in Thailand.

A new $3 million workshop for mechanical training will be completed soon in Bangkok and is expected to turn out hundreds of trained mechanics.

SEATO is not a charity by any stretch of the imagination. The assistance goes to member nations and they pay their share of the cost.

As an example, Thailand contributed 60 per cent of the cost of the training workshop for mechanics, and its doctors work alongside the Americans in tackling diseases.
