NEW COLD WAVE INCREASES HUMAN SUFFERING

'Prudence' Made Watchword Of London Disarmament Conference At Outset

Home Town Talk

By E. D. D.

Here's a communication from one who signs himself "A Regular Subscriber at Electra" that offers something for our generous emotions:

"Home Town Talker:

"Read in Home Town Talk about how we should all hope for warmer weather.

"After giving one fellow 50 cents with which to get a bed to sleep in this cold night and seeing a poor cotton picker with his wife and two babies trying to sleep in an open Ford with a tool pusher back (old model) on the Iowa Park road. I think we should create a hospitable feeling among North Texans and offer any place that's warm to these poor fellow creatures in which to sleep or at least be partly comfortable.

"Some of us do not realize how fortunate we are, especially when we have so many other things on the mind to occupy our thoughts.

"Let's try anyway. What do you think?

"Sincerely."

"What do you think?" Electra Subscriber asks. We think that Electra Subscriber was a genuine human being in giving the 50 cents and in being touched by the sight of the cotton picker with his family at the roadside on a zero night.

In times of disaster our hearts are touched by the plight of victims. This bitterly cold weather is disaster to those who are altogether unprepared to face it. Certainly if there ever was a time that called for open-hearted charity, and the practice of all the virtues of the Good Samaritan this is it. We hope there are a lot of folks giving money and food and shelter to those who need it badly in these days of [illegible].

Not many readers of this column, Talker guesses, have ever been in the presence of royalty. A few of them had the ambition and courage to get out of bed in the cold at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning to hear a king speak over the radio at the opening of the naval conference in London.

Those who did have the ambition and the courage heard, according to reports, a very fine address from King George V of England. The radio reception was unusually clear and distinct and the voice of royalty could be hard as plainly in Wichita Falls across the Atlantic ocean and half way across the American continent as it could have been in the conference room of the palace in London.

This speech of a king was heard around the world and was an impressive reminder that man is bringing the whole world closer around him. An American sitting room was brought into a king's palace, or maybe it was the king's palace that was brought to the sitting room, a London fog was lifted across the ocean to mingle with a prairie blizzard, the formality of a palace was brought to face the informality of negligees and bathrobes.

And the thought of a king and of ministers and mighty governments came to join the thought and hopes of humble citizens that wars might be no more and that the burdens of armaments might be lightened for governments and taxes for their citizens. What consonance there was in the minds of listeners around the world with the British king when he said: "The whole world expects that we shall deliberate and negotiate on the assumption that having put our names to pacts of peace we mean to respect our signature."

If the approbation and applause felt in the hearts of listeners to that declaration could have been gathered in one sound it must have shaken the very throne of Mars and reverberating through the universe sounded as a knell for that god of war.

CONCILIATORY NOTE

French Delegates Encouraged by Tone of Two English Talks

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE
(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The London disarmament conference, in which center the world's hopes for peace, was opened in the royal gallery of the house of lords today, with King George V, himself invoking the success of its endeavors.

Distinguished from the Washington conference, when Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes exploded a bombshell at the first plenary session, today's historic event had prudence as its watchword. Largely because of American pre-conference endeavors, the plenary session touched off no dynamite—unloaded no alley-cats of diplomatic parentage from the bag.

The whole carefully groomed spirit was prudence—prudence—and still more prudence.

Solemn Atmosphere

What was lacking in sensation was compensated for in the deftly arranged atmosphere of solemnity, greatly emphasized by the presence of the king, who this time last year was in the shadow of death with all the world hanging upon the bedside news.

These salient facts appeared before the eyes of the American delegates:

1—The French feel they have scored a victory because of the conciliatory attitude on contentious points in the speeches of the king and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

2—The significant fact that all delegates, including representatives of the British dominions, avoided any direct mention of their respective national sentiments regarding navies save MacDonald. He, heavily bombarded recently by sympathisers of the "die-hard" admiralty resisting any heavy cruiser cuts, spoke as one on the defensive.

Achievement Wanted

3—The keynote of nearly all the speeches was the wish that something may be achieved by the conference, even if the results are not great.

With all of London groping and choking in the season's first "pea soup fog," the scene in the royal

Border Patrolmen Blamed for Deaths

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 21. (UP)—Two Mexican farmers, Juan Bustamentes, 39, and Jose Guefra, 30, both of Juarez, Mexico, were found shot to death on Cordova Island near here today.

Mexican officials charged the men were killed by United States border patrolmen as they were walking on the Mexican side of the island.

They said Enrique Liekens, Mexican consul here, would be asked to file a formal protest against the killings with the United States government.

Both the customs and immigration departments here denied any encounters with Mexicans.

Hidalgo Grand Jury Resumes Investigation

EDINBURG, Texas, Jan. 21 (UP)—After a three-day recess, the special grand jury convened by district Judge Leslie resumed its investigation today of Hidalgo county financial conditions. The jury also is probing the fatal slugging of Claude E. Kelly, beaten to death in the Weslace home of E. C. Couch last March.

Pioneer Dies

Dr. L. C. Tyson, pioneer practicing physician here and a resident of Wichita Falls for 37 years, died at his home, 1512 Tenth street, shortly after noon Tuesday. He was 80 years of age.

RITES TODAY FOR DR. TYSON

Body of Physician to Lie In State

Funeral services for Dr. L. C. Tyson, a resident of Wichita Falls since 1898 and one of the city's pioneer physicians, will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the First Christian church. The body will be taken from the home at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and will lie in state at the church until the hour of the funeral. Services will be conducted by Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery with the Hines Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Resident Here 37 Years

Dr. Tyson, who has been in failing health since the death of his son, Dr. W. S. Tyson in June, 1928, died at the family residence about 12:45 Tuesday afternoon. He had been confined to his home during the past 20 months.

The pioneer physician and rancher was born in Rome, Ga., Nov. 26, 1849. From the close of the Civil war until 1883 he lived at Harrison, Ark., and from there moved to Wichita Falls, where he has since made his home. Dr. Tyson retired from the active practice of medicine in 1919 at the time he was able to put his practice into the hands of his son. During his years as a physician here he gained a widespread recognition and his friends still tell of the days when Quanah Parker, Comanche chief, brought his entire tribe here for treatment at the hands of Dr. Tyson.

After his retirement, Doctor Tyson maintained his interest in farming, stock raising, and particularly in irrigation problems. On

E. G. Senter Enters Suit On 1903 Publication

DALLAS, Jan. 21. (UP)—Time has failed to amend the injury caused him by an allegedly libelous statement made 23 years ago, E. G. Senter, candidate for governor on a court reform platform, is claiming in a suit for $50,000 damages on trial here.

Milton Everett, San Antonio trade paper publisher, is the defendant. Everett is alleged to have stated 23 years ago when Senter was a member of the state senate that he sipped from a whisky bottle while delivering a nine-hour speech in the senate.

FORMER U. S. AGENT DENIES GIRL'S STORY

John J. Bartlett, 62, Takes Stand to Refute Attack Claim

FEUD IS REVEALED

Relatives of Child See "Spite" in Charges By Child

Taking the stand in his own behalf, John J. Bartlett, 62, former deputy United States marshal, Tuesday afternoon entered a detailed denial to assault charges brought earlier in the day in the testimony of a 7-year-old Wichita Falls girl. Bartlett's testimony closed the case for the defense and his cross-examination is expected to complete the evidence in the trial early Wednesday.

Child Tells Story

The aged defendant's denial followed the little girl's story of an assault alleged to have taken place in the marshal's office in the basement of the courthouse on the afternoon of Aug. 10, 1929. The child told the jury that she had been kept in the office of the marshal after her sister and Bartlett's 11-year-old son had been sent ahead to a picture show.

The stepmother of the child and her crippled father, an 8-year-old sister, and a neighbor who saw Bartlett leave the home with the children were among the state witnesses as presented by George W. Anderson and Mike Anglin, assistants to the district attorney.

The first defense testimony, coming from a 15-year-old married sister of the little girl, revealed a family feud which ran through the evidence of the 11-year-old grandmother and an uncle, both of whom took the stand in defense of Bartlett. It developed that the defense witnesses were united in a dislike for the stepmother of the complaining witness, and that they believed the child was inspired to tell a fictitious story. It was with difficulty that the court restrained the aged grandmother from making a speech to the jury after she had left the stand.

Son Aids Father

Bartlett's son, Travis, came to the defense of his father in testimony describing the movements of the children through the afternoon of Aug. 10. Dr. M. A. Beckman testified that an examination of the little girl revealed no signs of injury.

The trial progressed Tuesday before a courtroom crowded to the aisleways. Dick Morris, deputy sheriff, guarded the doors of the 30th district court to prevent the attendance of minors, excluded by the orders of Judge Allan D Montgomery. Only a few women were scattered among the listeners. The case is expected to reach the jury by noon Wednesday.

Bridge Bills To Await Hearings

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—For a time today the three bridge bills calling for construction of bridges over the Red river between Texas and Oklahoma were before the senate, having received the informal approval of the commerce committee. Complaints had been made by citizens affected, however, asking that hearing be held on them before final action and Senator Morris Sheppard, a member of the committee, asked Chairman Dale to withdraw the bills until such hearing could be held. One of these bridges connects Grayson county, Texas, and Bryan county, Oklahoma. Another connects Cooke county, Texas, with Love county, Oklahoma, while the third connects Montague county, Texas, with Jefferson county, Oklahoma.

Soviet Orders Cafes To Have Meatless Days

MOSCOW, Jan. 21. (US)—In order to relieve the present meat shortage the Soviet government has reverted to war measures and ordered meatless Mondays and Thursdays in all Moscow resturants.

This measure followed the trial of one vegetarian day weekly in a number of cooperative resturants. So successful was the experiment that the government ordered two days of abstinence and included all private restaurants in the decree.

Matricide to Face Hearing on Sanity

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 20. (UP)—Charged with murder for the brutal slaying of his mother last Friday, Walter Schmidt, 21, Kendalia youth, was in the Kendall county jail tonight, and at times apparently irrational. Sheriff Edward Bienschwale said Schmidt probably will have a sanity trial next week. The woman's head was crushed and Schmidt was asleep near her body when arrested.

HOUSTON, Jan. 21. (UP)—Edith Womack, 8, student at Berry school, struck by an auto yesterday, died in a hospital today. Efforts to save her life by use of oxygen failed.

Paraguay Fears Bolivian Army's Plan to Attack

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—Asserting he feared a conflict was imminent, Pablo M. Ynsfran, charge d'affairs for the Paraguay legation, informed Francis White, assistant secretary of state, today that his government had informed him that General Kundt, commanding officer of the Bolivian army, had ordered a general attack on the Paraguayan frontier.

The Paraguayan diplomat told Mr. White that the Bolivian commander had ordered an advance of airplanes into the disputed Chaco Boreal yesterday. He said the Bolivian frontier was filled with mobilized fighting units of the Bolivian army.

First reports of military activities were made to the state department yesterday by Senor Ynsfran, who told of the death of a Paraguayan soldier in the skirmish at Isla Poi.

JUDGE ORDERS GLASS FREED

Instructed Verdict Returned In Auditor's Trial

Judge P. A. Martin Tuesday afternoon instructed the acquittal of T. R. Glass on embezzlement charges, ruling that the state had failed to produce sufficient evidence to connect the former auditor with a $100 shortage in the accounts of the Peoples Ice company last spring.

The court's instruction followed the prolonged testimony of Mr. Glass, who told the jury that he had had no knowedge of the shortage and that the discrepancy had appeared in records he neither kept nor checked. The off-balance accounts had been discovered by a traveling auditor, he explained. Other members of the organization had access to the cash and to the records involved, he testified, corroborating evidence introduced in the trial Monday afternoon.

Mr. Glass' testimony was in denial of the state's contention that a $100 cash shortage had been covered by the deposit of a check which was not credited on the account for which it was paid.

Sam Spence, district attorney, said late Tuesday that he has not yet decided about the disposition of two other embezzlement indictments pending against the defendant. Mr. Glass was represented in the trial by Bert King and E. R. Surles, attorneys.

Crampton Opposed To Denatured Alcohol Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—Representative Crampton, Republican, Michigan, dry leader, asserted in the house today that enactment of a bill to eliminate the use of wood alcohol as a denaturant in industrial alcohol would "not only destroy enforcement of national prohibition but would destroy highly important industries as well."

Kolster Radio Corp. Receivers Appointed

THIRD JUROR SELECTED IN BRADY'S TRIAL

Seventy of 73 Veniremen Excused as Filling Of Box Drags

NEW PANEL ORDERED

Parents of Slain Girl Sit Quietly and Gaze At Defendant

COURT ROOM, AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—Seventy-three veniremen came today before lawyers in the John W. Brady murder trial but from this long list the jury box was only one-fourth filled at adjournment.

These three men said they had no fixed opinions, no religious prejudices and would be able to try Brady, white-haired former high Texas jurist, for the knife killing of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, 28-year-old capitol stenographer, without fear or favor.

Throughout the long careful interrogations, the arguments of counsel, the humorous answers and the others, Brady kept his eyes on the witness stand, and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. B. Highsmith, the middle-aged father and step-mother of Lehlia, gazed at that stand and at Brady.

Pastor Challenged

The defense inquiries contained no new elements until late in the day when Dayton Moses, of the Brady staff, asked J. R. Robinson, superannuated Methodist minister, whether the fact that Brady was reported to have been intoxicated at the time of the killing would influence him. He mentioned, too, that Brady was married and wanted to know what about this in connection with the case. Robinson finally was challenged peremptorily by the defense.

A new panel of 200 men was ordered to appear at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow morning there will be no session.

The three jurors chosen were W. L. Wright, a 27-year-old furniture repair man; J. R. Keltner, 58, a merchant of Manor; and A. A. Mobley, 51, a laborer.

Baptist Questioned

Wright, who said he was a Baptist, was accepted only after the defense had inquired into his lack of prejudice and his inclination in great detail.

Keltner, a Mason and a member of the Christian church, was taken after he said he didn't know what religion Brady, a Catholic, had, and wouldn't be interested in any event.

The examination of Mobley was more brief.

Brady often was amused and sometimes was nervous. He sat close to his wife, patting her shoulder now and then and sometimes taking her hand. To his counsel he had little to say. He looked tired as the long session drew to a close.

Highsmith's Watch Brady

Highsmith and his wife, who forsook seats near the rail to sit behind the prosecutors, where they also could see Brady, likewise appeared weary. The wife once stared at Brady, while his past achievements were being recited, and shook her head slowly. She said Highsmith had despaired, and cared nothing for life, so long as he could see the prosecution through.

With her, she explained it was different.

"When God," she said with tight lips, "strikes down something you love that is inevitable and we must bow in submission. But when man does—that is something else."

Hubby Tortures Wife Over Wedding Ring

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Jan. 21. (UP)—His wife wouldn't tell him what became of her wedding ring so George Standard stripped her of her clothes and applied lighted matches to her flesh in an attempt to make her talk, Mrs. Standard charged in police court here today.

"He claimed I pawned the ring," she said, "and wouldn't believe me when I said I lost it."

Standard, hotel bell hop, was fined $100.

CANEA, Island of Crete, Jan. 21. (AP)—Part of this city which is the capital and chief commercial center of Crete, was destroyed by fire today. Damage was estimated at nearly half a million dollars.

Employer Gives New Method For Selecting Steno

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 21. (UP)—John Feinburg, Milwaukee tire dealer, wants to hire a stenographer, one that measures up to specifications. That explains why Feinburg spent an unpleasant half hour in the district attorney's office today and why he still is looking for a perfect stenographer.

"When I applied for a job as stenographer he took me into a room and started to measure me with a tape line," Miss Ruth Manning complained to the district attorney. Feinburg was called in.

"Sure I measure 'em 'up,'" he said. "I know what I want when I hire a stenographer. I'll tell you just what she must be like:

"Weight, 120 pounds; height, 5 feet, 2 inches; neck 15 inches; bust, 34½ inches; waist 28 inches; thigh, 19 inches, calf, 14 inches; ankle, 9 inches. And she must be blonde and wear a size four shoe."

Miss Manning refused to sign a complaint.

PRISON JUNKET WAITS WARMTH

Cold Weather Keeps Solons At Capital

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—With bills proposing three separate and distinct plans of concentrating the Texas prison system before it, the fourth called session of the legislature tonight waited on the weather before completing arrangements to tour the penitentiary properties in a body.

It is desired to make the trip before beginning consideration of legislation designed to reform and modernize the system, but with another blizzard sweeping Texas the membership doubted the wisdom of attempting to make the tour.

In the meantime, the two bills introduced yesterday, one representing recommendations of the majority of the prison centralization commission and the other a minority viewpoint, were awaiting committee action, and a third by Representative Dewey Young of Wellington, proposing concentration on the Imperial state farm near Houston, and a fourth by Representative Leonard Tillotson of Sealy, offering an independent solution of the penitentiary problems, were ready to be filed tomorrow.

Senator Thomas B. Love introduced in the senate a bill designed to amend the existing confederate veterans' pension law, the statute having been complicated to the loss of the veterans and their widows by amendments intended as helpful, during one of the previous special sessions.

Love's measure provides that every married veteran shall receive a pension of $50 monthly and every single veteran or widow of a veteran, regardless of age, $25 monthly.

Texas Concerns Barred in Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 21 (AP)—State securities commissioner, Fenton Stockard today issued orders to six companies to cease selling their stock in Missouri. They included:

The American Finance company, of Fort Worth, Texas, which offered units in a company which claimed leases in 103 acres of oil royalty lands in West Texas.

The Stephens Service corporation, Fort Worth, Texas, which was promoting a chain of gasoline filling stations. The firm aws selling stock for $25 a share.

The First State Building and Loan association of Dallas, Texas, in connection with this order, Stockard exhibited a letter from the company in which it said it was not soliciting business in Missouri but was taking whatever came to it voluntarily.

The C. A. Bonds and Co., San Antonio, Texas, none of the companies had asked or received permission to do business in Missouri

Theora Hix's Slayer Granted Another Stay

Many Towns Taxed to Care For Suffering Residents Tuesday

The temperature in Wichita Falls at 1 a. m. Wednesday had fallen to 7 degrees above zero in the wake of winter's renewed attack which ushered in the third week of the worst cold blast Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma have felt these many years. The drop to 7 degrees represented a decline of eight degrees since 5 p. m. Tuesday, when the temperature was 15 degrees. Further lowering of the temperatures through the night was predicted.

Tuesday night was predicted.

Suffering all over the region continued. Most livestock on the south plains were somehow sustaining themselves, although death claimed a few. Suffering among the destitute was acute, and at Lawton, Okla., scores of people were being fed and sheltered.

Cold Predicted

Predictions of continued cold offered little consolation Tuesday night to Texas as a whole, suffering under the third blow of a cold wave which, for intensity and duration, has not been surpassed since

MRS. F. B. MASSEY BREAKS ARM IN FALL ON ICE

Mrs. F. B. Massey, 1108 Brook avenue, sustained a severe compound fracture of her right arm Tuesday afternoon when she fell on the icy ground in the yard at the Austin school.

Mrs. Massey was rushed to the Clinic hospital, and it was necessary for physicians there to perform an operation to reset the fractured bones. She was reported to have been resting well Tuesday night following the operation, hospital authorities stated.

the notable "winter of 1899," the Associated Press said in a survey of Texas weather conditions.

Striking through the Panhandle Monday night, the new wave swirled clear across the state, bringing snow, sleet, rain and falling temperatures to virtually every section. In the Panhandle sub-zero readings were reported early Tuesday, and in other sections the mercury rapidly was dropping toward the zero mark.

Two deaths, one of which occurred during last week's phase of the cold, were reported today. Roy

More Than 300 Brave Blizzard To Attend Graham C.-C. Banquet

W. P. HOOD
The Record News Staff

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 21—Defying the cold weather and the slippery roads, more than 300 members and guests gathered at the Memorial auditorium here Tuesday evening for the annual chamber of commerce banquet, celebrating the achievements of 1929 and planning for the accomplishments of the future.

Guests from Wichita Falls, Archer City, Olney, and half a dozen other neighboring cities joined Graham in the celebration of the occasion. The Wichita Falls delegation was headed by John Boswell, general manager of the chamber of commerce there and one of the principal speakers of the evening. The list included Harry Naylor, Herbert Voelcker, J. G. Kilgore, and W. D. Brookover. F. M. Powers and Grady Bell represented Archer City. Charles P. Richardson registered from Olney.

Balloting for the election of seven new directors resulted in the selection of S. S. Bates, J. S. Criswell, A. B. Eddleman, J. J. Gallaher, H. E. Griffen, E. S. Graham and S. Boyd Street. The five directors carried over from 1929 include C. H. Atkinson, J. W. Maddox, A. A. Morrison, H. L. Thornton, and R. V. Tidwell. Both the old and new directors will meet at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon for the election of officers for the year.

Entertainment features which opened the program, directed by H. E. Griffen, toastmaster, included music from the Graham high school band, selections from a male quartet, a reading from Miss Avis Calvin, and special music by Foy Watson and Fred Willman. The quartet members were H. L. Thornton, C. C. Hampton, Charles P. Hutchison and C. A. Russell. Rev. Sam G. Thompson gave the invocation.

In his report of the achievements of the year, Ed C. Burris, manager of the Graham Chamber of Commerce began with a discussion

Three Dress Lengths Decreed for 1930

Fashion Expert Gives Views Here

By ELEANOR FLEMING
The Record News Staff

Three distinctly different types of dresses for morning, afternoon and evening wear, ranging in length from just below the knee to floor length, will be worn by the smartest women over the entire country this year, according to Miss Louise Leditje, associate editor of Harper's Bazaar, who is visiting Wichita Falls for the purpose of making a survey of the buying public of this vicinity for the Retail Fashion Service bureau.

The correct dress for morning wear, including all street and sport clothes, will be 15 inches from the floor, varying slightly for different types. The person with short legs and the one with long legs will know how to vary the rule by observing the average person, according to Miss Leditje.

Afternoon dresses will be 13½ inches from the floor, the same variations applying. Evening dresses will touch the floor all of the way around.

"This long dress idea is not something that has evolved overnight," Miss Leditje said. "The smart Parisian has never shown her knees."

Style is more highly individualized than ever, and women are

Fresh Blizzard Adds To State's Suffering

Bledsoe, Erick, Okla., youth, was killed near Dalhart Monday night when an automobile in which he rode veered from the road during a blinding snowstorm and crashed into a tree. Finding of the body of Felix Landers, a wanderer, at Lansing, last Saturday morning following the sub-zero weather there, was reported to Longview authorities today. He was frozen to death.

Much Suffering

Numerous cases of suffering were reported. Outstanding was the threat to Temple and a dozen surrounding communities of complete failure of the gas supply, following the bursting of a Lone Star Gas company main. Workmen, however, after five hours frantic efforts, succeeded in making an emergency connection.

The near-panic was created when news of the break was augmented by reports of Temple charitable organizations that they were caring for between 300 and 500 persons. Mayor Lem Burr of Temple late today issued a call for funds. Charity funds have been exhausted, and the Salvation army, principal charity agent, was functioning on its credit.

At least three other cities reported much suffering among the indigent. Shamrock, the Panhandle city which has been sending out warnings for a week against further invasions of railroad construction job-seekers, found a new family of seven asking charity today, bringing the total of transient indigents there to nearly 150. Childress, to the south, was having difficulty caring for its poverty stricken, with one church supplying food and fuel to 35 families. At Corsicana, doors of the courthouse, the city hall, and churches were opened to homeless and those who were unable to pay for heating their homes. An appeal for funds was broadcast in the latter city.

Roads Blocked

The state highway department at Austin warned motorists to avoid roads made dangerous by the latest assault of winter. The department was advised by its divisional engineer that Dallas area roads were ice-covered and unsafe, and similar reports were received from engineers at Paris, and Wichita Falls. The divisional engineer at Amarillo advised that another snow had blocked the highways in his division except in the eastern portion.

Storm warnings were hoisted at Corpus Christi for ships in that vicinity of the gulf, and warnings were also sent cattlemen. In the Rio Grande valley, a few citrus growers prepared smudge pots for their plantings, but the majority of growers, citrus and truck gardeners, anticipated little damage.

The lowest temperature reported was one below zero at Amarillo. Other points in this vicinity had zero or lower, and comparable temperatures were prospective for much of the state.

Snow fell over a wide area, but the fall was scattered and, for the most part, light.

Weather reports from correspondents of The Record News over this area included:

LAWTON, Okla. — Twenty-five gallons of hot soup were served to hungry and destitute people in the big industrial building on the fair grounds here today. A number of families camped in wagon yards and in tents on highways near Lawton were moved into the building which is being gas heated by the city for the benefit of the destitute.

With city and county funds for charity exhausted money was being solicited from the business men today to purchase food.

VERNON—With the mercury standing at 10 degrees above zero despite the efforts of the sun, Vernon was in the grip of the blizzard again today. Snow and a severe wind during the morning forced abandonment of all bus schedules out of the city to the west and the Frisco passenger train that left here for Enid was stopped at Clinton because of heavy snow. Other trains were late and motor traffic even in the city was hampered.

Few losses have been reported among cattle in the county, but continued cold is viewed with apprehension by livestock owners. Heavy losses of chickens, rabbits and other small domestics have been reported.

STAMFORD—Two weeks of cold weather with only a few hours when the mercury registering above freezing has caused considerable suffering among livestock in this section. The range is partly covered by snow and ice and stockmen are forced to feed heavily to prevent a heavy loss. Some cattle have died. The thermometer registered four degrees above zero here Tuesday morning with flurries of snow driven by a brisk north wind. It is feared that livestock will suffer further losses if below freezing weather continues.

PLAINVIEW—Zero weather greeted Plainview early Tuesday morning but at noon had climbed to 7 above and later in the afternoon to 12 above. Some snow fell in the early morning.

LAMESA—Farmers and livestock owners of the lower Plains section today were faced with a shortage of feed and water for their cattle as they entered into the third week of frigid temperatures.

Snow and sleet, whipping a wide area here today, made the question of water an impossible one. Cattle were reported to be suffering seriously from continued near-zero temperatures.

HOME-TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

Democratic state executive committee that what the Democratic party needs is not discipline so much as votes. Votes—that's what party policies ought always be framed to gather. It is conceivable, but hardly so, that a very fine system of discipline could be imposed upon Democrats but we are afraid there would be very few of them left to be disciplined.

Talker is for votes in the ballot box. That's what the election officials count and that's what counts in an election. He'd like to see about five million Republicans vote for the Democratic nominee in 1932. We are for some plan to get more votes.

Governor Moody is among the optimists. Although the state comptroller estimates a deficit of $501,737 in the state's fund at the end of the present fiscal year, Governor Moody says all of the appropriations are never expended for the year in which they are made and he expects the fiscal year to end with the balance in the general revenue fund of the state treasury. This sounds like a fairy tale but we hope the governor is right about it.

Wichita Falls street cars have been "uncomfortably cold" during the present cold weather, the city council is told, and the mayor is to write a letter to the traction company asking it to keep its cars "comfortably warm" hereafter.

It is very likely that if more of us rode the street cars some notice of the lack of heat of them would have been taken before this. We'd guess there are any number of business and professional men in Wichita Falls who have not ridden on a street car in a year. It would not be a bad idea for everybody to ride a street car say once a month. Then we would know more about the service and the traction company might use some of the increased revenue to improve service.

According to reports the street cars at times have not only been "uncomfortably" cold but have been —well, very cold indeed.

Senator Love offers a resolution calling on the attorney general to furnish an opinion as to the legality of any party executive committee barring any candidate or voter from a pirmary "for bolting." He offers this resolution when he has the authority as chairman of a committee to ask for the ruling himself. His resolution is voted down and now he says he will go ahead and ask for the resolution himself. Some folks will wonder why he didn't do this in the first place but they don't know the ways of politicians.

The longest way around is the choice of a politician, especially if there are any loud speakers on the road.

When sun dogs chase the sun, when battery sparks freeze like snow crystals and the moonshiner needs a plumber for his still it's cold, boy, and how.

Seems like it ought to be cold enough to put kinks in the hair without having to go to a beauty parlor for a permanent.

Bob McFall says he's for Talker right or wrong and we have a suspicion that Bob maybe thinks we are wrong about some things. Bob says that since reading about the necktie parties he don't think he will ever wear a necktie again.

Anyway, few more loyal fellows than Bob McFall ever lived. Bob is loyal to his friends, his party, his country, his convictions and everything else that deserves loyalty. Talker sometimes wonders whether the present generation can produce as much loyalty as that of the old cattle business in which Bob McFall and others like him worked and grew up.

State Weddings

CRAIG-FALLIN

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 21.—Miss Hazel Fallin and Andrew Craig, both of Vernon, were married here Sunday at a quiet ceremony performed by Dr. E. F. Lyon, pastor of the First Baptist church, at the pastor's home on South Main street. Miss Alyne Arnold of Wichita Falls, formerly of Vernon, was the only attendant at the ceremony. Mrs. Craig is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Fallin of Frederick, Okla., and is a graduate of Frederick High school and Cline's Commercial college of Frederick. Mr. Craig is a son of Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Craig of this city and is employed by the Vernon Drug store.

KING'S SPEECH OPENS PARLEY

'Prudence' Is Watchword Of London Confab

gallery was like a colored movietone, shown in an unreal world.

William, called the conqueror, love-child of a tanner's daughter leaned on his two-handed sword in a niche beside one of the great doors of the royal gallery of the house of lords.

He scowled down upon another king of England as the latter stood addressing uncounted millions on the needs of abolishing the sword from the scheme of the modern family of nations.

William I scowled because he could not understand what his successor, George V, meant when he urged the delegates of the five great naval powers, assembled in plenary session, to work for "the alleviation of the heavy burden of armaments now weighing upon the peoples of the world."

Contrast in Times

William's burden of armament was the armor he stood in—and his mighty broadsword. The conqueror could not understand that his successor after the passage of centuries—a bald-headed and grey little man in a morning coat—as the head of the nation the mailed William carved out for him, was eager to see the cutting down of the 20th century equivalent of that broadsword, which is the dreadnaught costing $35,000,000.

The solemnity of a sanctuary was the chief characteristic of this scene in the splendid and glowing royal gallery where all the delegates but Ambassador Charles G. Dawes had gathered to sit in motion the negotiations which may lift, by some degree, the present terrific burden of naval armaments which, it is estimated, is costing the impoverished taxpayers of George's realm $500 a minute.

Seven hundred breathless spectators, under improvised kleig lights bowing their heads as England's "little man" advanced to his throne chair of gold and red brocade, looked like so many worshippers in a cathedral when the host is raised.

Who knows but what they worshipped was the ideal of peace, here in the golden glow of the great room—an ideal suddenly brought near, and appearing tangible in the frail body of the world's most revered monarch?

Diversification Gains Slowly in Wilbarger

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 21.—Diversified farming is making slow progress in Wilbarger county, the annual report made by County Agent R. E. L. Pattillo sets forth. It reveals an increase in the alfalfa acreage in the county, and greater interest in dairying, and slightly increased interest in poultry raising.

Farmers in the county reported as high as 100 bales of alfalfa hay per acre, with as many as five cuttings, last year, with the market price standing at 60 cents a bale.

Progress in dairying was shown with cream sales in the county totalling $20,885 in 1929, as compared with $19,076 reported for the year 1928.

The Vernon hatchery reported an increase in poultry raising, making an addition to the plant necessary.

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels, take Baalmann's Gas Tablets, which are prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear; that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish, and you will again be able to take a deep breath without discomfort.

That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for entertainment. Bloating will cease. Your limbs, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Baalmann's Gas Tablets prevent gas from interfering with the circulation. learning to dress to their own type. "The average woman is paying more attention to her skin, eyes and hair and their relation to what she wears," she said.

It is also true that more women are keeping up with the styles than ever before, Miss Ledtje said. "There is no other theme of so much interest to women. The information is more accessible and better organized than ever before. With the idea of net results, women can feel today about fashion as they do about cosmetics. It gets results."

As for colors that 1930 will bring to the front, the navy blue-white combination will be seen in place of black and white, not, however, to the latter's extinction. "The smartest of all women will always wear black and white," Miss Ledtje said. The pink and brown combination now in vogue in the East will probably not be liked so well in the South.

The best prints for the year will be those with black backgrounds and light motifs. All shades of green, from the palest lettuce leaf to the darkest tone, will be in favor.

The three different types of dresses have brought a difference in prints, and there are motifs for morning, afternoon and evening. For instance, a morning dress would have square or at least very conservative "dots," while the afternoon would have larger what-you-call-'ems, and the evening dress could have really huge flowers.

The plainer fabrics the better. There's nothing very radically different in types of material.

Anyhow, Dame Fashion says, "Dress your type!" and fashion monthlies, expert stylists and highly-paid advisers set about to help Miss America do just that.

More and More Colds Treated Externally

Demand for Vicks, Pioneer of "No Dosing" Method, Grows at Amazing Rate

A generation ago, when Vicks VapoRub was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today, more and more colds are treated externally, and the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Best for Children

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting children's delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

Equally Good for Adults

Year after year the demand for Vicks has grown until it is now the family standby for colds in more than 60 countries. Used largely at first for children's colds, actual use in millions of homes has proved it equally effective for adults.

Now "26" Million!

To keep pace with this ever-growing demand, the famous Vicks slogan—"17 Million Jars Used Yearly," was raised to "21 Million" a short time ago. This figure, too, has been outgrown, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—a jar for every family in the United States.

VICKS VAPORUB

TEXAS Mother's Plan is succeeding...

WHEN your child is headachy, bilious, feverish, half-sick, with no appetite or energy, nine times out of ten, just one thing is to blame; constipation!

Cleanse the little digestive tract with California Fig Syrup and see how breath is sweetened; coated tongue cleared; eyes brightened. More than two doses are seldom necessary to drive away all signs of a clogged system; make a child happy.

There isn't a child who doesn't love its rich, fruity flavor. Improved appetite, digestion and assimilation follow its use. A child's entire system is toned and strengthened.

Mrs. Jack Lutz, 1114 Waverly Avenue, San Antonio, says: "Since we found out how good California Fig Syrup is, we have kept some in the house. It never fails to help our children. I give it at the first sign of upsets or colds. Their wonderful condition proves this a good plan." Caution: The genuine always bears the name California.

FARM COURSE OPENS FEB. 3

Thousands of Farmers To Atend Lubbock School

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Jan. 21.—Thousands of farmers and their wives are expected to gather here for the second annual Texas Technological college farmers and home makers short course that will be held at the college, Feb. 3, 4 and 5.

Separate group meetings for the men and the women are being worked out.

Women's Work Planned

Miss Margaret W. Weeks, dean of the school of home economics, is in charge of the program for the women's groups, which has been worked out by sending questionnaires to the farm women who attended last year. The questionnaires asked for suggestions as to what parts of the program they liked best last year, what problems the women would like to have discussed and other suggestions of this kind.

"We had a most encouraging response to the questionnaires," Miss Weeks said, "and we feel that the program this year is to be a big improvement over last year's."

Harley J. Bower, professor of agronomy, and W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department, have charge of the men's program.

In addition to the work being done by officials of the Texas Technological college in advertising the short course, a committee of farmers over the section have been appointed to work up attendance and to otherwise stimulate interest in the school.

Committee Named

This committee consists of the following: Douglas Pounds, Lubbock; James Burroughs, Lubbock; J. D. Coughlan, Ennis; J. R. McDuff, Crosbyton; J. W. Hammock, Sudan; M. Mitchell, Lamesa; C. B. Thomas, Plainview; H. L. Bock, Texhoma, Okla.; B. G. Smith, Amarillo; R. F. Cooek, Amarillo; W. F. Moore, Lavelland; W. R. Richards, Ralls; J. A. Johnson, Brownfield, and Frank Triplett, Plainview.

The men's program:

First Day—Morning

J. D. Tinsley, agricultural agent, Panhandle and Santa Fe railway of Amarillo, "Development of Marketing in the Panhandle."

J. O. Ellsworth, head of the agricultural economics department, Texas Technological college, "Regulating the Production of Agriculture by Forecasts."

Roscoe Wilson, Lubbock, member board of directors of the college, "The Relation of the Texas Technological College to the Development of the Plains Panhandle."

Afternoon

Dean A. H. Leidigh, school of agriculture, Texas Technological college, "The Farm Relief Act and the Program of the Farm Board for Agricultural Aid."

R. F. Cook, manager Texas Wheat Growers' association, Amarillo, "Status of Wheat Marketing in Texas."

Harry Williams, Dallas, manager Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, "Status Cotton Marketing in Texas."

Visit Tech buildings.

Evening

Mrs. G. Z. Fine, Lubbock county farm bureau director will be chairman.

Dr. Paul W. Horn, president Texas Technological college, will make a welcome address.

Lynn Stokes, Dallas, president Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, will respond to the welcome address.

A play, "When the Princess Comes," will be staged by 4-H club members under the direction of Miss Louise Baird, Lubbock county home demonstration agent.

Second Day—Morning

H. Mahoney, professor of horticulture, Texas Technological college, "Methods of Plant Breeding."

Don L. Jones, Lubbock, superintendent of Texas experiment station No. 8, "Development of Grain Sorghums, Findings and Trend in Production on the Plains Panhandle."

Sterling C. Evans, College Station, district agent, Texas extension service, "Report of Progress of the One Variety Cotton Community Projects in Texas."

Afternoon

R. S. Rodgers, Lubbock, federal loan bank, is arranging for some official of his company to be here to speak.

H. G. Lucas, Brownwood, president Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, "Assistance in Agricultural Education by the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association."

Mrs. M. S. Hudson, Hale Center, director, Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, "Opportunities for Community Development on the Plains Panhandle."

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, director of the American Farm Bureau federation, address on cooperative organization of the agricultural classes.

Visit Tech buildings.

Evening

Sterling C. Evans, College Station, district agent, Texas extension service will preside.

Four-H club work report will be made by D. F. Eaton, Lubbock county agent; Miss Louise Baird, Lubbock county home demonstration agent and club members.

Dr. F. G. Harbough of Texas Technological college, will present his "Tumbling Class."

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell will address the group.

Third Day

W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department will be in charge.

K. M. Renner, head of the dairy products and manufactury department will speak on "Cow Testing by Mail."

Talks on beef and dairy cattle feeding, selection and other phases of production will be announced later, and the afternoon program will be concluded by an address on sheep feeding after which the lambs at the college on feed will be seen by the group as well as the other Tech livestock.

The women's program follows:

First Day—Morning

Registration.

Mrs. M. S. Hudson, Hale Center, director Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, "Our Opportunity."

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, Chicago, American Farm Bureau federation, "The Nation's Debt to the Farm Home."

Demonstration, "Good and Bad in Home Decoration," Miss Jean Dorrel, associate professor of applied arts, Texas Technological college.

Reception for both men and women, home management house, Texas Technological college.

Officials of the college will show the visitors to the college through the buildings at the close of the sessions each afternoon, pointing out equipment of special interest.

In addition to the work being done by the officials of the college, a farmers committee has been organized to give the short course publicity and to work for attendance from their sections of the Plains section. The committee consists of the following farmers: Douglas Pounds, Lubbock; J. D. Coughlan, Ennis; J. R. McDugg, Crosbyton; W. H. Hame, Crosbyton; J. W. Hammock, Sudan; Mr. Mitchell, Lamesa; C. B. Thomas, Plainview; H. L. Book, Texnoma, Okla.; G. G. Smith, Amarillo; R. F. Cooke, Amarillo; W. F. Moore, Levelland; W. R. Richards, Ralls; J. A. Johnson, Brownfield; Frank Triplett, Plainview; James Burroughs, Lubbock.

Believe It or Not, Bottle Tossed in Sea Starts Irish-American Romance

New Yorker Gets Letter From Old Erin Many Months After Putting Name and Address In Empty Flask

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (UP)—A. A. MacErlean, a broth of a lad residing in East Sixty-ninth street, had always wondered what would come of it should he write his name and address on a slip of paper and cast it into the sea.

Would, perchance, romance result?

Miss Catherine Leyden of county Claire, Ireland, had always wondered what if, when she was happily picking clams on the beach of county Claire, a bottle should come bobbing ashore bearing sealed therein the name and address of some broth of a lad.

Sure, and romance might result.

Picking clams, even on a beach of County Claire, is not such a hot way to spend your life, believe it or not. There's something monotonous about clams.

Now go on with the story.

Bottle Is Heaved

Broth MacErlean never got around to dropping his bottle in the ocean until last July. He was on a holiday and it so happened he was off Sandy Hook on an excursion steamer. It also so happened that a bottle—empty—was available. And there was the ocean and a piece of paper and a pencil. It seemed to Broth MacErlean that it was now or never.

In a trice, and with a slight flop, a bottle, heaved by the muscularly romantic arm of Broth MacErlean, was en route via the north Atlantic for some distant shore.

For one hundred and eighteen days the bottle was directed, as by the hand of destiny, toward a far and green island where, with her skirts perchance rolled modestly above the wetting line, a colleen could be seen at each alternate low tide picking clams.

Came a day when Miss Leyden reached for a clam and picked up a bottle.

CHAPTER IX

"What's the morning post like, Jenkins?" inquired MacErlean, stretching himself luxuriously as the winter sun beat with a frosty crispness through the French windows of 220 East 69th street.

"Very light, sir," said Jenkins. "Only a letter with an Irish postmark, sir. Thank you sir."

"Hand it over," said MacErlean. "I was about to toss it away, sir, it doesn't look like much. Some colleen evidently, sir."

"Hand it over," said MacErlean. "Yes, sir, and thank you, sir."

Dispatches Candy

Although MacErlean had almost forgotten about the bottle, he now realized that it was up to him to do something. Such interest on the par of Miss Leyden seemed to call for an equally gracious response. Once bathed and on the street, MacErlean forthwith despatched a box of candy, valued at $1, in the direction of the colleen.

As fast as Atlantic mail liners could bring it came Miss Leyden's response. It was terse. It thanked MacErlean for a one-pound of candy and also enclosed the customs tag of the Irish Free State which came with the parcel. The tax was receipted for three shillings, which is nearly 80 cents.

MacErlean is greatly upset about the whole matter.

GIRL PAGE

Austin Miss, 11, Acts as Messenger for Two Women Solons

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (INS)—Marigold Rollins, 11-year-old Austin miss, today had the distinction of being the first and only girl ever to work as a page in the Texas house of representatives.

Marigold was named as a special page for two women members of the house, Mrs. Laura Burleson Negley of San Antonio, and Mrs. Helen Moore of Texas City.

Neuralgic Pains Stopped By Capudine

Capudine quickly relieves the neuralgic headaches, rheumatic pains, and the aches accompanying colds that make life so miserable for so many people, especially during the winter months. It soothes the tense nerves, quickly stops the pain and affords peaceful relaxation. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore is most desirable.

The next time you suffer from such pains take two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water and note how quickly the pain fades away. Capudine has been sold by druggists for more than 30 years. 30c and 60c bottles.—Adv.

Supreme Court Stops Hearing on Radio Case

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—Abruptly terminating its hearing of the case of broadcasting station WGY, the supreme court Monday indicated its opinion that the court of appeals of the District of Columbia is the tribunal of last resort in cases brought to it from the Federal Radio commission. In view of this action, it was expected the supreme court at an early date would dismiss the petition of the commission for a complete review of the case. This would sustain the court of appeals in its ruling that WGY may use the frequency of 790 kilocycles without time limit.

Mother of Eight Boys

"I read an ad in the newspaper and I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I will recommend this medicine to any woman who is in bad shape like I was. I used to get so tired after a few hours' work that I was even afraid in my own house in the daytime, I didn't care if I lived or died. I have given birth to eight boys and I feel strong right after, since I have taken the Compound."—Mrs. Maud Meyers, 460 E. 13th Street, Dubuque, Iowa.

Immigration Committee Considers Testimony

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—The possibility that restriction of immigration from the western hemisphere might not result in an actual reduction in the number of aliens admitted as immigrants from some of the countries in the new world was considered in testimony Monday before the house immigration committee.

John Farr Simmons, chief of the visa division of the state department, said the present net annual immigration from Canada was slightly under 20,000 while the Johnson bill would permit the entry of 50,000 annually he advanced the opinion that enactment of the proposal would not bring any great objection from either side of the Canadian border.

Dr. Sweeton Will Perform Houston Wedding Ceremony

A social affair of particular interest to Wichita Falls which occurs in Houston this week is the wedding of Miss Evorine Sweeton to Richard Hartwell Hughes. Miss Sweeton is the niece of Mesdames J. C. A. Guest, and W. J. Grisham and the granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Sweeton, all of whom left Tuesday to attend the wedding. They will arrive in Houston in time to attend a wedding rehearsal Wednesday evening and a buffet supper given the bridal party at the Warwick hotel later that.

Each day up to the wedding evening is full of social courtesies shown Miss Sweeton who on her visits to Wichita Falls was a popular guest. Luncheons, dinners, teas and bridges precede the ceremony which will be followed by an elaborate reception.

Dr. J. M. Sweeton, the 82-year-old grandfather of the bride-elect, will perform the ceremony with the assistance of Dr. A. Frank Smith. Miss Helen Grisham of Wichita Falls is one of the bridesmaids in the elaborate ceremony that will unite Miss Sweeton and Mr. Hughes.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

In our warm bed on Tuesday morning we thought of the Eskimo and, whether he wished it or not, our sympathy went out to him.

◇ ◇ ◇

It has always seemed to us that he was a slovenly being; that he might manage to build and heat his home and not remain wrapped in furs and eat whale blubber—at least that's our idea of the Eskimo in his native home.

◇ ◇ ◇

But if we were an Eskimo, we think we'd stay beneath wool blankets and down comforts and have hot food brought to us.

◇ ◇ ◇

Not liking grease, we cannot stand for the whale blubber. But in the Eskimo's home we pardon him for not having a daily bath.

◇ ◇ ◇

He little knows the joys and woes he misses. For one thing, he is not acquainted with frozen pipes and knows nothing of the way a plumber gets rich in the weather Wichita Falls is experiencing.

◇ ◇ ◇

He would probably be willing to do without a bathroom, rather than sacrifice all his furs to have the plumber put in a few feet of pipe and washers and elbows.

◇ ◇ ◇

And there's another thing about this weather. We would not mind it being so cold if the wind would not blow. We think when anything is accomplished, there should be no bragging. And the wind brags.

◇ ◇ ◇

It is as irritating as a fly buzzing in the summer—or more to the point, as a mosquito singing over you after he has bitten you.

◇ ◇ ◇

The weather is about the only thing we can scoff at and not be sat upon and we're not positively sure we won't be sat upon for this.

◇ ◇ ◇

At that, old Sol looks on Tuesday afternoon as if he were ashamed of himself and might peep out.

◇ ◇ ◇

We hope we had something to do with it (if he does shine).

◇ ◇ ◇

But the weatherman says "sub zero."

◇ ◇ ◇

The plumbers must be subsidizing the weatherman.

Real Mothers Don't Hamper Happiness Of Their Daughters

Is It Courageous or Selfish of This Girl to Leave Her Mother for the Man She Loves?—Can Life Be Planned at 21?—Placating Prospective In-Law.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am 25 years of age and am madly in love with a promising young engineer. My father babied and petted my mother shielded her from any contact with the world, and since his death I have gone on with his protection faithfully and well. My mother spends her day partly in bed, partly on the sofa, going out very little and seeing only the people who come to her, but our family physician says that there is nothing the matter with her and that all that she needs is plenty of exercise.

I have always loved my mother and been friend and companion to her and she thought I would stay by her side always. Therefore she is violently opposed to my marriage but I just can't give up the man I love. Will you please tell me if I will show courage or mere selfishness by marrying the man I love. Would a higher courage keep me with my mother?—A. M. H.

Answer—Go on and marry your man with a clear conscience. It would be a wicked and an idiotic thing for you to sacrifice your happiness and that of the man who loves you, for the whim of a selfish, neurotic old woman who in all of her life has never thought about anything but her own pleasure and her own comfort.

Your mother has had her life. Yours is yet to come. Judged by any standard of fairness, your welfare is much more important than hers, and if she was a real mother, with a real mother's tenderness and affection for you, she would want you to take your happiness instead of standing in the way of it.

One of the most pathetic things in the world is the futility of sacrifice, for nearly always it is made in vain. So often noble-hearted men and women put away their hearts' desire, or shut the door of opportunity in their own faces, or go through years of patiently endured misery for the sake of helping some one else, and then find out that all of their sufferings, all of their self-abnegations, did no good. The one for whom they gave so much would have been better off without the costly offering that was laid on the sacrifical altar.

Particularly is this the case in the sacrifices that children make for parents. I have known a girl, like you, who gave up the man she loved because her old mother could not bear to leave the old home in which she had lived so long, and wanted Sally to stay in it and bear her company. I have heard that same mother reproach her daughter for being an old maid, and I have seen them grow poorer and poorer until they scarcely had enough to eat, whereas if the girl had married her sweetheart she would have been a rich woman able to give her mother every luxury.

I know a young man, a mechanical genius, who was climbing to the top in a big company that handled machinery, whose parents wept upon his breast and told him it was his duty to come back and pay the old farm out of debt, until they softened him down so he gave up his good job and came back, worked himself almost to death at an uncongenial occupation and failed but if he had refused to make the sacrifice they demanded he could have bought them half a dozen farms.

It is a terrible thing to think of a fresh young life, full of hope and promise, being sacrificed to the selfish caprice of an old person, yet it is done every day. Young hearts are broken and lovers separated because parents have narrow, fanatical religious creeds. Talented young people have their ambitions thwarted because mother and father have ignorant, stupid, provincial ideas about going on the stage, or studying music or art. Boys and girls are kept from taking their parts in the great world because mother doesn't want any one but Mary to make her tea and father won't have any one but John help him sell groceries. Surely at such sacrifice the high gods must laugh and weep.

In your particular case, A. M. H., your marriage is the remedy that is plainly indicated for what ails your mother. According to her doctor, she is only sick in her mind, and if you go away and leave her she will be compelled to rouse up and do something for herself, and she will do it after she has done a proper amount of howling over your ingratitude in abandoning her. And she will be for healthier and happier than she has ever been.

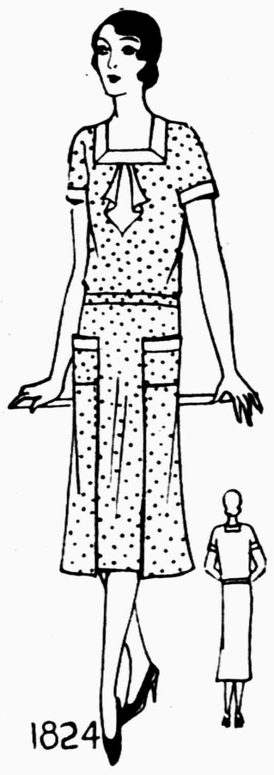

Think over the number of women you have known who were semi-invalids who were cured by their husband's death when they had to get up and go to work to support themselves.

Don't be the family goat.

—DOROTHY DIX.

DAINTY HOUSE DRESS
Pattern 1824

The square neck, the trimming of white jabot and banding, and the cleverly placed pockets, combine to create a house dress that is unusually good looking and becoming. Two pleats find their way from the pockets to give plenty of swing and grace to the skirt.

Design 1824 is fashioned of dotted cotton fabric-gingham, percale, broadcloth or dimity. White pique is used for the trimming. If one prefers a solid color to a print, we suggest making the trimming of a darker tone.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 36-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of fifteen cents (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

The new winter fashion book is 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and order to Record News Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Favorite Books of Wichita Women

Mrs. W. W. Silk

Society Editor's Note: "The habit of reading," says Mr. Lang, "has been praised as a virtue and denounced as a vice.—It is more innocent than opium eating, though, like opium eating, it unlocks to us artificial paradises."

Bearing this in mind, we are asking the women of Wichita Falls the names of their favorite books and why they are the favorites.

Mrs. W. W. Silk, who is a book lover and a book collector, reads favorites according to the mood she is in. If she is particularly thoughtful, Van Dyke's "Counsels by the Way," full of spiritual and mental wisdom, is the favorite; when it nears spring and fishing time, Van Dyke is the favorite again with "Little Rivers" and "Fisherman's Luck." "Little Rivers," rich in description, nature love and wit, would open an enchanted field to any lover of winding streams.

For prose poetry, Mrs. Silk chooses Hamilton Wright Mabie's "Forest of Arden," a book flowing as smoothly with beautiful thought as an exquisite musical composition.

As to novels, she, as many others, believes that Hugo's "Les Miserables" is the greatest ever written. Mrs. Silk read it when she was 18 and has read it many times since, she said, finding in each reading new beauty in characters and deeper interest in plot.

HAIR STYLES FEATURE PUFFS

Hairdressers Discuss New Fashions in Meeting

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 21. (INS)—In the parlance of the pool room, the mother of 1930 has put a little reverse English on the styles of her predecessor.

The Mother of 1930 was presented here today with bobbed hair, while her daughter was battling stray locks in her shoulder length hair, coiled at the nape of her neck in little puffs.

Hair styles for the current year were modeled at the convention of the National Hairdressers' and Cosmetologists' association.

"Older women are keeping their hair short in the hope of retaining that illusion of youth," explained Charles, who has been a hairdresser in Denver for 23 years and before that in France.

"The daughters can afford to be quaint and picturesque."

Charles described how the expert hair dresser can study the face of his, or her, client and fix the coiffure accordingly. Avoid dying the hair, however, Charles admonished. Use a wig instead because it will save the hair and give the desired appearance. In a few years, he said, women will adapt themselves to the use of wigs.

"Nobody is ever fooled by a wig anyway," declared this artisan. "Short hair permits close fitting wigs and any woman who will keep her wig nicely dressed can take ten years from her age.

"Besides she will have to wear one anyway some day if she insists on dying her hair, but I cannot convince women of that."

The hairdress of 1930, it was learned at the annual review, is a bobbed head sleekly dressed and parted where the lady desires. The part may skid across the head like a skidding automobile on an icy street or it may be the conventional part on either the left, center, or right side.

Evening Bridge Party Honors Club Members

Limiting their guests to members of the New Century Junior club and their husbands and escorts, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wynne entertained with a lovely bridge party at their home Monday evening.

Valentine decorations were used throughout the house. The dining table was centered with a bowl of red carnations with red lighted tapers arranged at either end. A burlesque on the Majestic, in which each guest participated, was enjoyed.

In the games Mrs. Paul Harding received high score for the ladies and Dwight Ross was high among the men. Ray Puckett had low score.

Following the games a buffet supper was served to Messrs. and Mesdames Overton Abernathy, Ray Arnhold, Paul Harding, Ted Krohn, Paul Oles, Ray Puckett, Dwight Ross, Mesdames Eugene Clark, A. R. Dillard, John Hampton, O. B. Kiel, Gordon West, R. O. Frame, Misses Elva Killingsworth, Ethel Moran, Messrs. T. J. Waggoner, Maurice Cheek, Anderson Kemp and Jarrell Gose.

Little Theater Heads Give Shrine Program

Members of the Shrine luncheon club met at the Maakat temple at 12 o'clock Tuesday for the regular weekly meeting and luncheon when F. C. McClung, director of the Little Theater, presented "Christ Before Herod" as an interesting number on the program.

Other numbers included several vocal selections by the Junior college male quartet, composed of Bob Murrell, Orville Medford, John Flynn and Bob West and directed by Mrs. Hermoine S. Vaughan. H. E. Kurtz gave a tenor solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey.

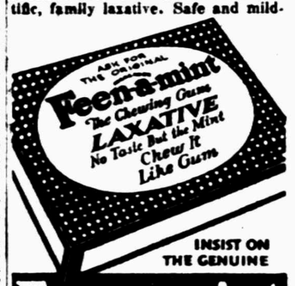

J. M. Spoonts, president of the club, introduced the new potentate and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Peterson. Emil Hermann, president of the Little Theater, had charge of the program.

EMPLOYMENT IN BETTER SHAPE

Idleness Decreases Since First of Year

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—An upward trend in employment in the last two weeks, for the first time since the stock market deflation last November, was reported to President Hoover today by Secretary Davis.

"The tide of employment all over the country has changed in the right direction," the chief executive said, after receiving information that the steel, iron and automobile industries, along with virtually every other major industry in the country, had shown increased activity since Jan. 6.

Secretary Davis said, "we can expect a great deal of business in 1930," and that the present year "should see us well on the way to complete recovery" from the depression in the last few months of 1929.

Jan. 1 actually marked the turn upward in employment, the secretary said, but it was not entirely evident until Jan. 6, when reports showed a steady gain. Since then, he continued, the strides toward industrial recovery have been maintained.

The report of an improvement in the labor situation closely followed an announcement by Secretary Lament that a record year in construction and maintenance of public work and by public utilities seemed assured with an outlay of $7,000,000,000 probable in these fields.

Meanwhile, at the Interstate Commerce commission today, applications were filed by two railroads for permission to issue $30,000,000 in bonds, a large part of which is to be spent for new equipment and improvements this year

Railroads have informed President Hoover that they expect to spend more money this year than last on improvements, but these were the first applications for large financing since Jan. 1.

DENTIST SUED

False Teeth Made Basis Of $8,795 Claim Filed Here

Claiming that her temporary set of false teeth didn't fit and that the dentists failed to make the permanent plate, Mrs. H. L. Mayhugh Tuesday afternoon filed suit for $8,795 against Jessie Earl Mayo and Ollie K. Mayo, operating here as Mayo Brothers, dentists.

The plaintiff alleges that on May 2, 1929, the dentists told her she needed false teeth, agreeing to pull the natural teeth and replace them with a temporary, then a permanent, well-fitting plate for the sum of $125.

Mrs. Mayhugh asserts the first set of teeth did not fit, were painful to her, and injured her gums. She adds that she made five different trips back to the dentists in an effort to obtain the second and permanent plate. The petition sets out that she was forced finally to get the plate from another practicioner and to pay both bills.

HINES RESIGNS ROYALTY POST

Deep Oil Manager Declines Post on Board

Harry Hines, general manager of the Deep Oil Development company, has forwarded his resignation as a member of the board of directors of the Texas division of the Mid-Continent Royalty Owners' association to Lloyd E. Price of Fort Worth, president of the association, it was learned Tuesday from Mr. Hines. Resignation from the board to which he was named last week, was made because of his intention to devote his entire time and energies to the Deep Oil Development company, it was stated.

Mr. Hines did not attend the meeting of the association in Fort Worth. He has recently severed his connection with various other civic and business enterprises in order to have more time to devote to the affairs of the deep oil campaign here.

Community Chest Can Supply Men to Shovel Snow

Wichita Falls residents who wish to have their driveways, sidewalks or porches cleared of snow, or who have other work available, were asked Tuesday by Miss Myrle Neely, Community chest secretary, to communicate with chest headquarters at the auditorium. The community chest has a large number of men who are in need of employment to support their families, it was said.

Estes Gives Talk On Paper Industry

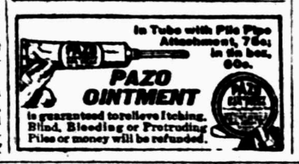

Uses of paper in the ups and downs of world history in all its phases were discussed by L. H. Estes Tuesday noon in a talk on the paper industry before members of the Advertising club at the Kemp hotel.

Describing the manufacturing and handling of paper as one of the most fascinating processes in the business and industrial world, Mr. Estes termed the commodity the most important of all used by mankind.

"Fortunes are made and lost on paper. Kings, potentates rulers, and presidents are made, dethroned and lost by the use of paper documents," he said. "The history of every nation is written upon paper. It is the medium for recording law, religion and government; for beginning and ending war; for creating money. And the world advertises on paper."

Scores of the myriad articles manufactured of paper were listed by Mr. Estes, who was introduced by Voyle N. Armstrong, program chairman.

Miss Louise Ledtje, associate editor of Harper's Bazar, spoke briefly at the meeting, commending the spirit of aggressive optimism which she said pervades this city.

Campbell Again Named Wichita Club President

Walter K. Campbell was re-elected president of the Wichita club at a meeting of the board of directors at the club Tuesday at noon. Other officers named included Arthur Clark, first vice president; Clifford Mooers, second vice president, and T. J. Waggoner Jr., secretary and treasurer.

MISTER...THESE ARE THE FACTS ABOUT WINTER OIL

Despite all the rosy claims and ballyhoo that have been printed about so-called winter oils, the two most vital facts have been consistently ignored.

These two facts are:

1. How low a temperature will the oil withstand without congealing—commonly known as Pour Point.
2. How high a temperature will it withstand without "burning up"—commonly known as Fire Point.

We prefer to rest our case upon these two facts—and leave the decision to you.

You will see from the specifications above that the New Waxfree Havoline No. 20 has a Pour Point of 5° below zero!

That means it flows to every bearing; permits your engine to turn over freely; assures easy starting—at sub-zero temperatures which congeal ordinary oils.

You will note that this grade of the New Waxfree Havoline's Fire Point is 500° F. That means it retains its pure oily body under the most blistering engine heat—often nearly 500° F. even in winter driving.

The New Waxfree Havoline is the only oil that gives you this double protection because it is the only pure unblended paraffin-base oil ever refined that is entirely free from wax!

Wax in oil congeals in cold weather, retards the circulation of the oil and makes starting difficult. Because it contains no wax, Waxfree Havoline cannot "freeze" even when the thermometer drops to 5° F. below zero—and this fine oil stands up under the highest heat of motor operation.

Be guided by the facts. If you want full protection for your motor plus the assurance that it will be always ready to "go" in the bitterest weather, have your crankcase filled with the New Waxfree Havoline today.

NEW LASTS FOR OLD

PESSIMISM chiefly recruits its followers from cowards, cheats, bunglers, slackers, wasters and constitution-wreckers.

If you squander your hours and your energies, abuse your liver, prowl with the owls, neglect exercise, crowd your system with poisons and clinkers, all your prospects will soon have a dark-brown taste.

If you break faith, betray trust, and short-change the profit and loss account, opportunity will finally enter your name on her permanent snub list.

If your notion department isn't freshened with demanded goods, and you're offering the employment market obsolete lines of thought, somebody who carries a more salable stock of ideas for the same money, will eventually be opening your present pay envelope.

Analysis usually resolves bad luck into unreliability, unambition or under-delivery. When you begin to conclude that the world's all wrong, it's time to wonder if you're all right.

The weight of evidence is preponderantly against the chronic whiner, the sorehead, the quitter and the sinecure coddler.

Everybody isn't making the grade, but more folk are pushing forward, today, than at any given moment in human experience.

From year to year, failure finds fewer valid alibis.

At the suggestion of the red inkwell, we're fast black-listing incompetent practice and dividend-defeating methods. But, because we're abandoning slow-poke trades and replacing inaccurate craftsmen with preciser automats, that does not preclude any shoemaker from swapping an old last for a new one.

◇ ◇ ◇

INVENTION, far from limiting the earning capacity of labor, provides ten higher-paid careers in substitution for each task and occupation tossed to the scrap-heap.

The classified telephone directory lists a thousand businesses that 1920 never heard of.

And the majority of them are under the management of people whom necessity and innovation compelled to readjust themselves to changed conditions.

Balance sheets, impressed with the superior skill of robots, kicked tool-kits and lunch baskets out of their fingers, and landed them in garages, filling stations, motion picture theaters, radio shops—or sent them adrift to become electrical contractors, bus owners and suburban developers.

The early 19th century visualized indefinite breadlines and merely read destitution for multitudes of wagoners and spinners, canal boatmen and stage-coach drivers, in the smoke of Stephenson's locomotive and the steam pouring from Lancashire's powered mills, just as shortsightedness now beholds inevitable restriction of employment in the introduction of so many devices aiming at staff curtailment and production enlargement.

But, the last thing in civilization's plans, is to attain given goals at the expense of general solvency and welfare.

The next generation regularly discovers itself busier and better compensated than the preceding.

An industrious, up-and-doing, decently habited, wit-using individual has never yet complained of adverse odds since democracy abolished social discriminations and included a license to attempt anything, and compete everywhere, with standard cradle equipment.

Mine Blast Leads to $25,000 Damage Suit

MALESTER, Okla., Jan. 21. (UP)—The Old Town mine blast that entombed 61 lives last month was recalled in district court here today when Mrs. Hazel Barnes, widow of Ray Barnes, one of the victims, filed a suit asking $25,000 damages.

The petition alleges the mining company operated the mine in an unlawful condition. It alleged improper ventilation was furnished and that shots were allowed to be fired during the daytime when men were working in the mine.

The petition charged that shots were fired on the day of the explosion with a fuse lighted by an open light.

Most people who hide their lights under a bushel these days stand around ballyhooing the bushel and charging for guesses as to what's under it.

A scrupulous person is one who has the legs taken off the chicken before it is placed upon the table.

If Mr. Cline Should Run

B. F. JOHNSON, once chamber of commerce manager here, leaves with us in a recent luncheon address the suggestion that Walter D. Cline be nominated for governor in order that "Mr. Cline's capacities might be made available to the entire state." It is an excellent but not unexpected suggestion from the Paris man, and it merely proves that Mr. Johnson is a capable judge of men and of public service.

Mr. Cline might or might not be persuaded to undertake the race for governor. If he did, he might find the capacities which Mr. Johnson admires, and which Wichita Falls acknowledges, of little more than passing moment in a hot political campaign. Other successful business men, civic leaders and men of outstanding abilities, whose attributes The Record News and every Wichitan would accord Mr. Cline, have entered or been forced into gubernatorial races and have gone nowhere in particular. If Mr. Cline became a candidate for governor, he might find that the qualities which fit him for an executive would be of little avail among the majority of voters.

In case Mr. Cline should become a candidate, this newspaper could suggest a number of issues that would bring in the votes. We doubt if he would, but Mr. Cline might advocate the deportation of all Hoovercrats or the refusal of poll taxes to Smith supporters. He could urge that all home brew makers and drinkers be cropped in the ear for each violation, or that a $5,000 reward be paid for dead prohibition agents. A promise to double the price of oil would undoubtedly prove popular in many sections, likewise a pledge to reduce the price of gasoline by half and to eliminate the payment of auto license fees. Our candidate might promise to put a paved road to every farm house in the state by the confiscation of the funds of institutions of higher education. He might even take a stand on the prison question, although we doubt if any stand anybody took would create much excitement.

The Record News can't imagine Mr. Cline as a witch-burner, and it's a sad commentary on Texas politics that witch-burning is almost always a concomitant of vote-getting. It is too bad that Mr. Cline's fitness to be governor of Texas has little to do with his chances of being elected, unless he can advocate the above or similar questions of the hour.

A North Texas Highway

FEW HIGHWAY PROJECTS launched here in recent years have deserved more attention or support than should be accorded the movement to pave highway five. By way of explanation, it might be said that highway five runs almost due west across the northern part of Texas, from Texarkana to Texline, passing through Wichita Falls.

The benefits of such a paving program, it seems to The Record News, are so striking as to command the enthusiastic support of Wichita Falls business leaders. In the first place, the completion of highway five would throw through Wichita Falls a vast amount of east to west and west to east traffic that now follows divers routes across the country. A part of this traffic passes through Wichita Falls at present, but a paved highway straight across North Texas would draw many times the amount of travel which finds its way through Wichita Falls under existing conditions.

Another and equally important benefit of the highway would be the opening of a great trade territory to the east to Wichita Falls products. Towns in this area traversed by the eastern part of highway five have paved roads, it is true, but these routes almost altogether run from north to south—from the areas of the origin to Dallas or Fort Worth. It is becoming more and more apparent that Wichita Falls must depend upon motor truck and air line transportation in the future for service to much of the territory which it should serve. There seems little contemplated or expected railroad expansion which includes this city, although much of the present building of new railroads is directly improving the access of Fort Worth and Dallas to other trade centers. A paved highway stretching eastward from Wichita Falls across North Texas would materially raise the trade horizon of this city, and would link North Texas towns in the closer union which common interests deserve.

An All-Around Bunco Game

SENATOR CARAWAY'S blast against the tribe of lobbyists is, we believe, largely justified. The senator isn't complaining so much about the influence the lobbyists have on legislation. In fact, his complaint centers partly on the fact that they don't influence it at all. What he is protesting about its the way these slick gentlemen persuade big industrialists to fee them heavily for exerting a "pull" that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred is wholly imaginary.

They represent themselves as able to get special favors in Washington, and are given fat retainers on that basis. They get no favors, however, and the organizations that are paying them might just as well keep their money.

That doesn't worry Senator Caraway greatly. What he objects to is the way in which all of this business creates public suspicion. People take the words of the lobbyists at face value and assume that our government is crooked from top to bottom. Business gets gypped, the government gets a black eye—and the only gainer is the lobbyist, pocketing his fee.

A Jury in Three Hours

IN NEW JERSEY another of those "sensational" murder trials opens; and the unusual feature of the first day's procedure was the fact that the jury was selected and sworn in in only three hours.

Usually in a big murder trial it takes anywhere from a day to a week to get a jury, under our archaic American court procedure. We're all familiar with the process; the endless, fatiguing delay that it involves is so common, in fact, that when a jury happens to be chosen promptly we're deeply surprised.

There is no real reason, however, why three hours' time wouldn't be sufficient to select a jury in any criminal case. That it so seldom is simply proves that our court procedure is in great need of revision.

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

(Copyright, 1929, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Why I Think I Ought to Go to Heaven

I ask for fewer theater passes than any scribe in New York.

I have never worn button shoes, stock ties, sideburns, white sox, stickpins, a silk hat or a signet ring in my life.

I have never abused the privilege of my profession and instructed the waiter to take my card over to a strange woman.

People who take hours getting to the point of a joke, anecdote, gag or story have been told that they were bores.

I have never become irritated with people who said they didn't like me, because people who don't have a darn good reason not to.

I have never wasted my time telling others not to waste theirs.

I have never tuned in on a radio for the early morning exercises, on the ground that it might disturb other slumbers.

I have never encouraged a woman with an ordinary ankle.

I have warned the Broadway restaurateurs that if ever my name was used to christen a sandwich I would flay the place in print.

Even when I was a small time song-and-dance man (hoofer to you) I never forced the second bow or insisted on making any of those absurd speeches ending with: "You've made me so hap-pee!"

I have followed the Broadway code to the letter and have never fooled around the other feller's gal.

I have never professed knowing the meaning of "constructive" criticism and have never attempted it nor have I ever met a critic, manager, actor or anyone who could explain it to my satisfaction.

Only once in my professional career did I sell my soul to a manager. He refused to help another manager bar me from his attraction and even went to the police for protection to see that I got in safely. Then, handcuffed in that manner, I said the show was good, which it wasn't. I hope I choke if ever I do such a foolish thing again.

However, I bathed myself clean from the stain a few months later when the same manager with a show in his own house said: "You can be yourself here. Don't worry, and say what you like." Which I did, and I haven't been allowed in his theater since!

I have never lost a friend that I wanted to keep.

I have never retracted a thing in my life because an aggrieved person threatened me in any way, nor have I ever made a boner that I picked up myself, albeit I have blundered now and then on the tips of the misinformed. But even rags with staffs have done that.

I have never been disturbed by being called an egotist because as Ambrose Bierce put it: "An egotist is a person of very low taste who thinks more of himself than he does of me."

I have never been considerate of any woman who abused me in a public place; just because she was a woman. And once when a woman came down to my level and gave me a fierce kick I kicked her right back.

I have never willingly autographed anything.

I have never "yessed" a man to curry favor with him and the only person in the world I take into my confidence, and who has never failed me with sane counsel, is the editor of a certain theatrical weekly, who abhors people who toast him in print.

I have never carried a pocket comb!

I have never failed to remember the man who made it possible for me to get this so-called "break" to make a living, and every time the interviewers came, they were told it was Glenn Condon, now of the Skelly Oil company, in Tulsa, Okla., who is a most patient man.

I have never debased my column with what is called "log-rolling." A boost for another newspaper man was sincere.

I have never arrived late at a theater, and I never use a lighter to read my program in the dark, because it would detract attention from the stage; but certain critics I know enjoy making themselves conspicuous.

I have never permitted a person to fawn over me nor have I accepted any gratuity, because I believe that any person who pampers a newspaper man does it for some ulterior motive and my racket is putting things in the paper.

I have never forgiven a man who double-crossed me, on the theory that "whatever happens—must happen again."

I am probably the only man on Broadway who never kissed Texas Guinan.

I have started a collection among first-nighters to buy the girl usher of the center aisle at the Vanderbilt theater a pair of rubber heels.

And I've never gone out of my way to write a line in my column that would break up a home or a heart—except on Mondays.

Readers who believe that we are bound for hell instead are invited to submit their reasons why, but, if they would have them published in the leading newspapers from Maine to California, they must sign their name and address and keep them clean!

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

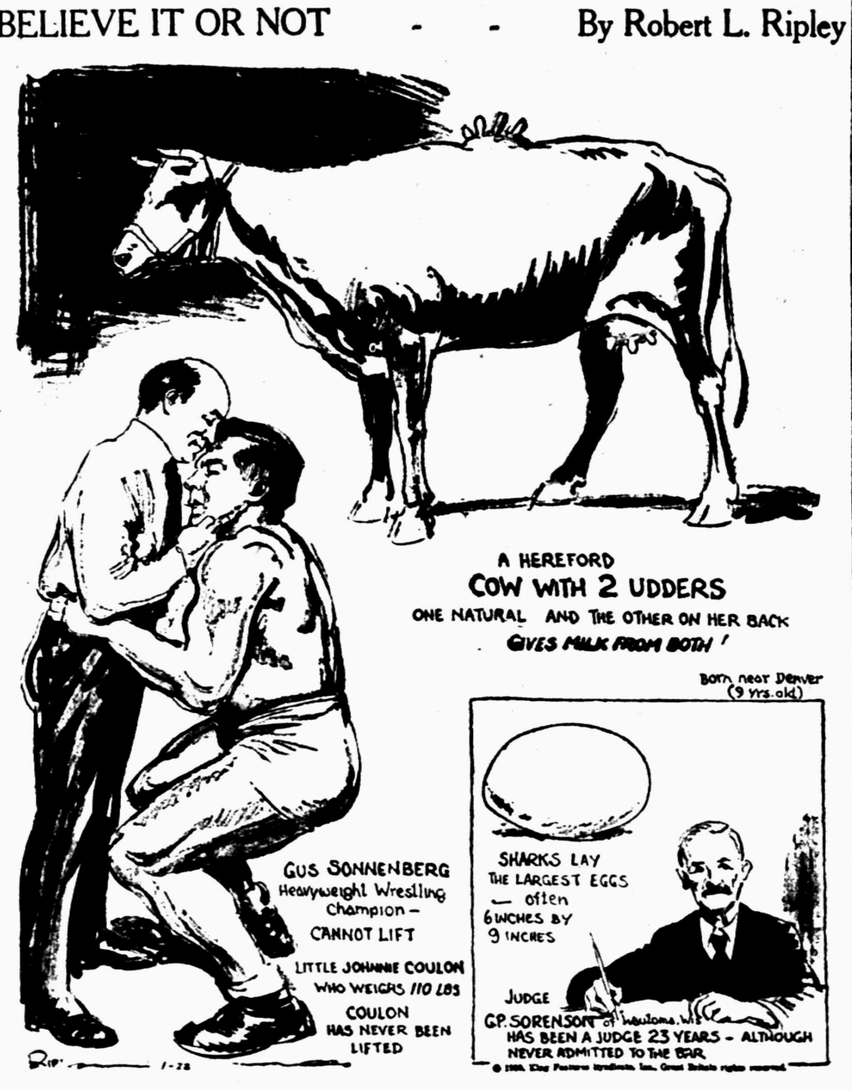

"He who courteously keeps faith with all who cross his path of life, wins their confidence and respect."

Being courteous and keeping faith are two small investments which pay large dividends.

"LOVEJOY" : By : Beatrice Burton

What Has Happened Before

Tom Nicholson and his young and beautiful wife are happy with their baby and tiny bungalow until their wealthy neighbors, the Aldersons, come into their lives. Mrs. Alderson, whose husband is elderly has an affair with a man named "Jack." Tom's suspicions are unjustly directed to Lovejoy when Jack telephones and hangs up abruptly. Lovejoy speaks to Mrs. Alderson about it. When Lovejoy takes Tom to a card party at the Aldersons, Norrie Shane comes to look after the baby. Lovejoy is amused to discover Norrie's fondness for Tom. Steve Ogilvay, Lovejoy's former sweetheart, is present. When Tom receives attention from another girl, Lovejoy is furious. Going out with Steve, she asks him to kiss her. She wants to get even with Tom. Next morning mutual recrimination takes place. Tom compliments Norrie Shane on her appearance. Lovejoy is peeved.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XVI

"You look messy. And the paint on your mouth has slipped," Tom said with the brutal frankness of a husband.

He picked up his coffee from the tray that Norrie had set on the table beside his bed. But while he did it, he kept his narrowed eyes on Lovejoy's face.

"Late hours and liquor and lipstick don't improve your looks the least bit, my girl," he added flatly.

Lovejoy, glaring at him, crawled back into her own bed with her coffee cup in her hand.

"Thanks for the coffee, Norrie," she said to Norrie Shane in a voice that had an edge like a sharp knife. "Shut the door when you go out, won't you?"

Without another word Norrie took the hint and left the room.

Lovejoy's eyes followed her.

Of course, Norrie did look awfully neat and clean in that crackling white uniform of hers. She had the shining spotless look that any well-groomed nurse has . . . But, merciful heavens, she wasn't the least bit pretty! She would look the tag-end of a hard winter if she weren't as neat as a new pin, Lovejoy told herself with extreme bitterness.

"I'll tell you why you think she looks so fine, Tom Nicholson!" She bit off each word. "Because she pays some Chinese laundry-man two or three dollars every week to do up her uniforms for her!—And because she has plenty of time to fix her nails and wash her head and cold-cream her face!"

Her anger seemed to mount higher and higher with every word that she spoke. She set the coffee cup down on the bedside table and clenched her hands.

"If she had to get up at 6 every morning to heat a bottle for a baby she wouldn't look so slick!" she went on. "If she had to do all the washing and ironing and cooking and cleaning for a family—"

She stopped, choking with the warm tears that came flooding up into her throat and eyes.

"You t-talk about the paint I have on!" she said with a sob. "I wouldn't have put it on my face only Aline told me how pale and wornout I looked last night. She's been telling me for months what a fool I am to slave the way I do—and she's dead right. And—I'm not going to do it any longer—"

She broke down completely, bursting into tears of self-pity. Covering her painted face with her hands she waited for Tom to come and put his arms around her, as he always had when they quarreled.

But this time he did not do it. Peeking through her fingers after a minute or two, she saw that he was calmly pouring himself a second cup of coffee.

That finished her.

"Well, I'm sold out!" she gasped, putting down her hands and staring at him . . . He didn't care whether she cried or not. He didn't care whether she was tired and overworked and worried about money all the time. She was just his wife, she told herself, and he was losing interest in her. Losing interest in her just as Aline Alderson had said he would as soon as she began to lose her rosy freshness and her lure. How smart Aline was!

"Listen to me, Tom Nicholson!" she said, getting out upon the floor and facing him. "Listen to me—I'm going to have a nursemaid or some kind of a maid to help me with all the work around here! I'm going to get one tomorrow—and on Saturday you'll just have to have the money to pay her! Now, just paste that in your hat, because I mean what I say!"

He said nothing to that. Nothing at all.

He had set down his cup and was picking up his Sinclair Lewis book.

"That's all right, too! You don't have to answer me—you heard me!" Lovejoy snapped at him. "It's your fault that I'm dirty and messy and tired-looking now. But it will be my fault if I ever am again, believe me you—"

Storming and raging at him, she took her clean underclothes and stockings from her dressing table drawers and put on her bathrobe.

"Norris!" she called loudly as she started out of the room on the way to her bath. "Norrie, you can stay all day, dearie? Tom wants me to stay in bed and rest. We didn't get home until three G. M. last night!"

There was silence for a minute, and then Norrie's voice from the kitchen:

"Yes, I can stay, Lovejoy, if you need me. I'll be glad to stay."

There was a light eager sound to her voice. It sounded as if she really was glad to stay.

Lovejoy shampooed her bright hair after she had had her bath.

When it was dry she came back to her bedroom to get into bed. She had made up her mind to stay there all day long, no matter what happened.

The room was beautifully clean. Norrie had made the beds and put everything into apple-pie order. The shades were pulled halfway across the windows and one window was open, letting in the crisp sunny air.

"Where's Tom?" Lovejoy asked, her eyes on his empty bed.

"He's in the living-room, reading the paper. I made a fire there," said Norrie. "He said he'd take his bath as soon as you'd had yours."

A few minutes later Lovejoy heard him singing while he took his shower-bath.

Still later he passed the open door of her room dressed in a clean, white shirt and a pair of disreputable-looking corduroy trousers that he called his Sunday pants.

He spent the rest of the morning in the tiny garage behind the house, tinkering with his car.

At 2 o'clock Norrie brought Lovejoy her Sunday dinner on a tray. Chicken pie and lima beans and fruit salad and coffee.

"Norrie, it's a joy to have you in the house," Lovejoy told her with a little laugh, "even if you are so clean and sweet that Tom's gone hay-wire over you."

Norrie laughed, too. But a soft flush came over her face, making her eyes look larger and brighter than they really were.

It really was a joy to have her in the house. It was pleasant to lie in bed, Lovejoy told herself drowsily, and know that the baby was safe and comfortable, that the dinner was well-cooked and that the whole house was in perfect order.

I should never have let her leave when the baby was a month old, she thought. I should have kept her here to help me, and Tom would simply have had to pay her her wages!

He'd have to make up his mind to have some help in the house from now on!

Because I'm sick and tired of being a human vacuum cleaner, Lovejoy said to herself, cutting her chicken with her fork. From now on I'm going to be a clinging-vine and a gold-digger rolled into one!

Hilda Andersson came to work at the Nicholsons' little house on the following Wednesday.

She came as maid-of-all-work, and all she asked was $9 a wek.

"We're getting her for practically nothing because she's not well-trained," Lovejoy had told Tom the night before when she broke the news of Hilda's coming to him.

"You realize that we can't afford her—even at nine bucks a week," he had answered grimly, and Lovejoy had shrugged her shoulders.

"All I realize is that I can't do the work alone any longer," she had told him lightly. "I'm getting old and haggard before my time."

On Thursday morning the first of the letters from South Port came—the first of the letters from Aline's Jack.

Hilda brought it to Lovejoy along with some other mail.

On Friday morning she brought another one into the house from the mail box on the front porch.

On Saturday afternoon another one came, and she met the postman at the steps and brought the letter to Lovejoy a moment later.

"Somebody writes every day to you!" she said, smiling broadly. "Oh, how lovely to get a letter every day from somebody!—I look and look and look for letters from my friends in the old country. I wish Hilda could have a letter every day like missus!"

The look of the old country—the north country from which Hilda had come—was on her. The pale gold of a northern sun was in her hair, and the pale blue of the cold Danish skies was in her gaze.

They were wide and innocent as a child's eyes. . . . Evidently it had not occurred to Hilda that the letters from South Port might be from a man.

Evidently she thought nothing about them. Nothing at all.

But on Monday Lovejoy telephoned her landlord and asked him to get her a key for her mail box.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Babe and the Colonel

Col. Ruppert: What's troubling you, Babe?

The Babe: I've gotta have more money, Colonel.

PHILLIPS

Col. Ruppert: Don't you realize you are already getting more than the President of the United States?

Babe: Why not? What could he do for you with two out and the winning run on third?

Col. Ruppert: How much more money do you want, Babe?

Babe: How much have you got? . . . Beg pardon, Colonel . . . I mean how much are you willing to pay?

Col. Ruppert: You're already getting $75,000 a year, with many extras.

Babe: I know, but I want $85,000 a year and a three-year contract.

Col. Ruppert (gasping): That's a lot of money, George.

Babe: Not when you need a long hit to cop the pennant.

◇ ◇ ◇

Col. Ruppert: I think I have been very liberal with you. I am paying you the highest salary in the history of baseball.

Babe: And I am giving you the longest hits in the history of baseball.

Col. Ruppert: Money isn't everything, Babe.

Babe: Don't try to get me to strike at those slow ones, Colonel.

◇ ◇ ◇

Col. Ruppert: It seems to me that you don't appreciate that I have always done very well by you, Babe.

Babe: Well, I've never sold you short either, Colonel. I've just gotta have more money.

Col. Ruppert: The Yankees can't afford to pay you more money.

Babe: Hark!

Colonel: What?

Babe: I think I hear the turnstiles laughing at that one.

◇ ◇ ◇

Colonel: We don't seem to be getting anywhere.

Babe: No, we're both fanning at fast ones. Now all you've gotta say is yes or no.

Colonel: We might get together on the $5,000 raise, but . . .

Babe: Ten thousand, Colonel. And stop pitching low to me.

Colonel: We might get together on the $10,000 raise, but I couldn't give you a contract for three years.

Babe: Why not?

Colonel: Your best days are over, George. How do I know you'll be any use to the club three years from now?

Babe: They'll still be playing the game with bats, won't they?

Colonel: Presumably?

Babe: And they're not going to abolish fences around ball parks?

Colonel: Not that I know of.

Babe: Well, then, why the hesitancy?

Colonel (realizing he is being struck out): Oh, well, I'll think it over. In the meantime we'll give out the usual newspaper stuff saying that we can't reach an agreement and that you're the first holdout of the year.

Babe: Okay, Colonel. It'll all help the publicity. So long and don't forget . . . $85,000 for three years.

(The Babe exits as the Colonel groans).

Convict Reform Laws Proposed

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (INS)—Legislation aimed at the reformation of convicts will probably be considered by the present special session of the legislature, Fred Horton, member of the state prison board, said today.

Horton said Gov. Dan Moody had promised to submit legislation dealing with reformation.

The prison board will favor a law making it a felony for a prisoner to escape and assessing him with half of the sentence being served as punishment for the offense.

A convict with a clean record would automatically be restored full citizenship rights upon discharge from prison.

John Boswell Is Principal Speaker at Dinner of the improvements in the agricultural situation. Special progress has been made in cotton conditions, in dairying and in poultry raising, he said, and the organization has joined in an effort to enforce a city milk ordinance.

Other accomplishments listed in the printed report included: The creation of an airport; aid in the construction and management of the Memorial auditorium; backing for new courthouse plans; a request to congress for a new federal building; improvements in school buildings; efforts to secure a new and modern hotel; street improvements and city beautification; entertainment of a number of conventions; work toward better inter-community relations; plans for a junior college for the city; help toward completing county highways; cooperation in boys' work; a campaign for a new road west to Throckmorton and another to Mineral Wells.

At the conclusion of the report, which was enthusiastically received F. M. Powers presented the greetings of Archer City. W. D. Brookover, of Wichita Falls, told of the developments through the section during the past year, especially in connection with oil field extensions. He outlined the deep oil projects and the hopes for new development in 1930.

R. V. Tidwell discussed the progress in road building during the year and paid a tribute to Guy R. Johnston, road engineer in charge of much of the construction. In response Mr. Johnston thanked the organization for its help and made his farewell speech to the assembled membership.

S. Boyd Street took "The Beautification of Store Fronts" as the theme for his address, urging the abolition of unsightly conditions and explaining the value in "putting up a good front." Mrs. A. E. Morris concentrated on the beautification of lawns, suggesting harmony in the selection of trees, shrubs and flowers. She reminded her hearers that the natural Texas flowers can be very effective if properly arranged.

S. A. Penix, president of the school board, spoke of Graham's educational future, and expressed pride in the fact that the city has the highest accredited schools in the county in spite of the limited facilities.

Herbert Voelcker extended to the group the congratulations and good wishes of Wichita Falls and thanked Graham and Young county for their cooperation in mutual enterprises.

In the closing address of the evening, John Boswell, general manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce answered for the group the question "Why a Chamber of Commerce?"

"Your presence and your enthusiasm here tonight in spite of the weather and the roads make the question and its answer unnecessary," the speaker began. "You are already thoroughly sold on the desirability and the necessity for a chamber of commerce."

The speaker declared that the purchasing power of a city bears a direct relationship to the organization and efficiency of a smoothly functioning chamber of commerce.

"The most progressive cities and the cities which make the best places to live have active, well supported chambers of commerce," he continued. "The organization prepares you for abnormal as well as for normal times. It can't build a city, but it is more powerful than any other organization in inspiring action leading to development. The best evidence of the need of a chamber of commerce is the lack of one."

Mr. Boswell concluded his address with a recital of the three needs of the organization: money, man-power and mind-power, adding that the three required enthusiasm tempered with judgment in the management.

Tentative Contract Awarded For Gainesville-Marietta River Bridge

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—The state highway commission today let contracts aggregating $685,966.62. With yesterday's awards and two tentative contracts awarded yesterday and today on Red river bridges, the total of the January lettings was brought to $2,080,496.52.

The commission today conditionally awarded the contract on the construction of a bridge across the Red river between Gainesville, Texas, and Marietta, Okla., to Tom L. Green of Oklahoma City at $247,530.96. This award was conditioned on approval by the bureau of public roads of the bridge plans and specifications.

Contract for a bridge across the Red river between Ringgold, Texas, and Terral, Okla., was let with like provisions yesterday. The Oklahoma commission, which will share the cost of the projects with Texas, has taken similar action, it was said.

The largest project contracted for today was the proposed causeway across Copano bay in Aransas county on the "Hug-the-Coast" highway. The contract was let to the Southwest L. E. Myers company of Dallas at $470,028.79.

One more connecting link with another state was authorized today when the commission let a contract for the construction of a bridge across the Sabine river between Bon Wier, Texas, and Merriville, La., on Texas highway 63. The contract went to the Austin Bridge company of Dallas at $179,240.22. Texas and Louisiana will share the cost of that project.

Montague Farm Club Work Shows Gain

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Jan. 21.—According to a report given out by Miss Alice Strawn, who served Montague county as home demonstration agent during the past year, club women and girls of the county saved $51,643.30 as follows: A total of 30,066 quarts of fruits and vegetables which sold for 30 cents each, would bring $9,019.80; 1,558 quarts of canned meats worth $981.20, if sold for usual price 60 cents each; 106,300 pounds of canned meats would bring $33,490 when sold at 30 cents per pound. Besides, there were 1,620 quarts of jelly; 4,530 pints of preserves; 2,474 quarts of pickles and 736 quarts of fruit juice that would bring $9,202.30.

This canning was the result of the women and girls making a drive to be able to live at home.

The 13 women's clubs with an enrollment of 408 members and a number of girls' clubs with an enrollment of 54 members were organized by Miss Strawn.

A. J. Collier, Long Time Resident, Dies

Andrew J. Collier, 69, a resident of Wichita Falls for many years, died at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at a local hospital. The body is being held at the Hines Mortuary until word is received from distant relatives.

Mr. Collier is survived by four sons; T. A. Collier of Wichita Falls; F. E. Collier of Electra; G. A. Collier of Crafton, and H. A. Collier of Little Rock, Ark.; and one daughter, Miss Olive Collier of Clarksdale, Tenn. Interment will probably be in Crafton, the old home of the family.

Negro Awarded $500 Damages in Suit Here

G. C. Casey, negro, suing for himself and two minor children, was awarded a judgment of $500 damages against J. Gardner and E. Tefotiller by the verdict of a jury in the 78th district court Tuesday afternoon. The negro sought damages for alleged hurts to his children and damages to his car in an automobile collision on the Iowa Park road last September. The plaintiff was represented by Mathis and Caldwell, attorneys.

TRIAL OPENS

Trial of a $2,770 damage suit brought against Louis Wolfson by Joe Bradley, negro, was begun before Judge P. A. Martin and a jury in the 89th district court Tuesday afternoon. Bradley claims to have been permanently injured when a wheel crushed one hand while he was loading a truck for the Wichita Junk company on July 29, 1929.

TARIFF LEAGUE HELPED G. O. P.

Barbourn Tells Activities of Organization

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (INS)—Employes of the senate finance committee and the house ways and means committee were paid by the American Tariff league for "writing articles on the tariff," for that organization's high tariff magazine, W. W. Barbourn, president of the organization told the senate lobby investigating committee today.

Records taken from the league's files, were to the effect payments were made to Edward Nelson Dingley, majority expert of the senate finance committee and to Clayton Moore, clerk of the house committee.

Members of the league contributed $35,000 to the Republican party during the last presidential campaign, according to league correspondence read at today's session.

Barbour testified the money was raised during a preliminary plan to "hook up" the league with the Republican national committee. The proposal was dropped, he said, because officers of the league feared it "might be misunderstood."

The league's letters showed Chairman Work, ex-chairman of the national Republican committee, indorsed the league's "hookup" plan. It was on the strength of this indorsement that the members contributed, Barbour said.

The league's contribution was not reported in the party's report of its campaign funds to congress, Barbour said, because "it was not a political fund."

The league cooperated with the Republican congressional committee in 1926 with a view to raising funds, its minutes and correspondence showed.

New Students Enroll In Hollis Schools

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIS, Okla., Jan. 21.—Hollis High school students finished their first semester examinations Friday, and began the second semester's work Monday. About 25 new students have enrolled in the senior and junior high schools and there will probably be others enroll before the week is over. No students dropped out at the end of the first semester.

There will be very few changes in the work at the high school but a few new subjects are being offered. Among them are high school arithmetic, industrial geography, Oklahoma history, economics, and physiology. In the home economics classes the work in sewing has been finished and the girls will take up cooking for the rest of the year.

Gov. Holloway Stresses Individual's Duty in Talk Before Altus C.-C.

ALTUS, Okla., Jan. 21. (UP)—The need for a spirit of cooperation and the responsibility of each individual in contributing something to his community welfare was the charge left Altus citizens last night by Gov. W. J. Holloway.

He spoke to approximately 500 persons of Southwestern Oklahoma who attended the annual Altus Chamber of Commerce banquet.

The governor also discussed the need of a definite program to be outlined for the best accomplishments of an individual organization and the mistake of leaving all the duties to a few leading individuals in a city.

The remarks were made at a banquet which opened the "greater Altus" expansion. The goal of $15,000 for this year's budget will be raised in a membership drive this week. The financial drive opened after a breakfast which was attended by 40 business men and women today.

Governor Holloway expressed himself as being "supremely happy" with only the duties of the governorship of Oklahoma on his shoulders since definitely deciding not to seek election of the senate.

Livestock Losses Big in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21. (UP)—Loss suffered by farmers in livestock dying from exposure will offset the gain resulting in moisture for the state winter wheat crop, Ed L. Spears, state agricultural board secretary, said today.

Spears said there is no way to estimate the loss during the two weeks Oklahoma has been snowbound but said it would total thousands.

The sleet base to the snow may cover the wheat crop, he said. Estimated sown acreage of wheat in the state is 4,336,000. Basic value of sown wheat is $15 per acre, Spears said.

Some boll weevil in prairie country may be killed by the cold, he said.

MOTHER'S LOVE DECIDES CASE

Supreme Court Awards Children to Woman

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21. (UP)—A mother's love for her children as a rule far surpasses the father's and it is not the object of a court to deprive a mother of her babies, the supreme court held today in a case from Muskogee county.

In establishing the precedent on love the court took three children from J. J. Bruce, wealthy Muskogee attorney, and returned them to his divorced wife, Ida B. Bruce.

The supreme court opinion read in part: "The supreme court knows that a mother's love is a dominant trait in the heart of a mother, even in the weakest of women. It is of divine origin and in nearly all cases far exceeds and surpasses the parental affection of the father."

The supreme court also held that property acquired through contribution of the wife's family did not become a joint acquisition but in case of divorce title to such property belonged to the wife separately.

In this connection Mrs. Bruce was given property which had been awarded the husband by the trial court.

The supreme court, however, upheld the granting of a divorce to Bruce. It also provided, in taking the children from him, $80 a month for their support.

The supreme court also pointed out that in the trial of divorce cases the fact that a couple started poor and worked together during the hardships of their early life should be taken into account in the division of property. It further held that all property turned to the wife as her separate property should be free of claims. In so holding the court ordered Bruce to clear two pieces of Muskogee residential property.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germladen phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

5218 Happy People give up Their Secret

Buoyant, Zestful Health, and the Joy that goes with it, is Easy to Have, they say

JUST suppose you could get 5000 joyously happy people together in one big hall and could ask them what made them all so full of pep. Suppose, strangely enough, that all of them had discovered the same way to be happy. You would feel that here, if anywhere in the world, was the secret of how to get real joy out of life.

This is just what has happened during the last few weeks. We knew there were millions of people who had found the secret of happiness in the same way, and we asked them in one or two small announcements in the magazines and newspapers to tell us their story. Letters came to us from practically all over the globe.

The secret of happiness these people had discovered was all the same. Most of them had been brought to make their discovery by the advice of a trusted physician; many had been advised by some wise and experienced trained nurse; hundreds had received the advice of some good friend.

All of them said, "The secret of happiness is health."

How to get this health? The way that all of these people had discovered was not some magic medicine, not some powerful drug, not some difficult course of training—but only a simple, harmless natural method. It was to keep the body internally clean, sweeping its natural poisons away each day, regularly as clock work—by the use of Nujol.

They have found the way to Happiness!

These people had made a great discovery. They had found out that Nujol contains no drugs; that it is as tasteless and colorless as pure water; pleasant to take and forms no habit; that it cannot hurt you, no matter how much you take; that it is nonfattening; not absorbed by the body; that it is only the internal lubrication your body needs, just like any other machine.

It sounds like a fairy tale, doesn't it, to be well and happy so easily? Well, all you need to do to find out if these people have made a real discovery is to get a bottle of Nujol today at any drug store and take it for two weeks. See if you don't join the happy millions who have discovered that the sure way to happiness is through health. Begin Nujol tonight!

Zero Weather Was the "Zero Hour"

For Your Gas Company!

But the Lone Star Gas Army "went over the top" and Whipped the Public Enemy--

COLD!

—Hundreds of men keeping sentry through the bitter cold night guarding pipe lines.

—An army of field men ready night and day for instant action!

—Twenty-five gas fields—a thousand gas wells, wide open!

—Twenty-five giant Compressor Stations—engines pounding hour after hour!

—Forty-thousand horse power of mechanical energy driving billions of heat units through six great pipe lines!

—The huge new Panhandle-Petrolia pipe line, built in the heat of last summer and completed only in November, bearing its share of the tremendous load!

—A thousand miles of telephone wire vibrating with commands to the army in the field—a thousand repair trucks ready to jump into action—two thousand men and women coordinating the whole system to serve 275 other Texas and Oklahoma communities.

These are some of the forces marshalled by your gas system to fight the tremendous battle waged in the face of the coldest weather Texas has suffered in 30 years.

This vast organization must stand by, always ready, though the emergency happens but once a year or once in a generation!

For twenty years we have been building up this system and when the "Zero Hour" came—the Supreme Test—we were ready!

Jaundice

Jaundice can often be recognized at first glance because of the peculiar livid yellow color of the patient's skin, especially of the face and hands where it is first noticed. The patient usually perspires freely, especially the hands, abdomen and chest. The whites of the eyes often become yellowish.

Jaundice cannot, itself, be considered a disease, but it is a symptom that the flow of bile from the liver or gall bladder has become obstructed and the bile is therefore being absorbed by the blood rather than discharged into the intestines as it should be. The treatment of jaundice, therefore, must deal with the bile flow, and when this is corrected the yellow skin discoloration will disappear in the course of time of its own accord.

Even after the bile flow has been corrected, the yellow skin persists until the new skin comes in, as the old skin has become stained by the bile.

There are two principal forms of jaundice. The first is simple catarrhal jaundice and the second is obstructive hepatic jaundice. Simple catarrhal jaundice is like a cold in the ducts leading from the liver or gall bladder. The mucous membrane lining the ducts becomes swollen and practically obstructs them and blocks the bile from passing by a packet of mucus. This most often occurs in younger people. There is usually some inflammation of the liver at the same time. The skin shows a peculiar yellow color, the urine when analyzed shows the presence of bile, while the stools show the absence of it. The bile, upon being unable to pass through the ducts into the intestines, backs up into the liver, where the blood picks it up and distributes it as an effort to relieve the liver from the abnormal engorgement.

The patient's digestion is upset, he is nauseated and feels extremely weak and exhausted, and vomits. The patient is often under the impression that he is going to die, even though the disease is not usually serious.

There may be some fever, and the patient is usually severely afflicted with the blues.

This symptom often comes on with a cold, and when the cold subsides the jaundice does also.

A fasting treatment, using the lemon, orange or grapefruit juices, is usually all that is needed in these cases. The bowels must be kept open, and the patient will have to avoid the rich, greasy foods. Hot applications over the liver seem to give the most relief.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Holding Breath

Question—Mrs. H. G. F asks: "Can a child do itself any physical harm by holding its breath if, as a means of breaking this habit, the mother ignores the child and leaves it alone during these spells?"

Answer—Yes, it is possible for a child to be seriously injured through holding the breath too long, and the mother should always give the child attention at this time and use any method which will stop a bad practice by the child. Usually, such an unpleasant treatement as slapping the baby with a cold towel will finally stop the habit.

Dyspepsia and Acidosis

Question—L. M. R. asks—"Are dyspepsia and acidosis caused by the same conditions? May both be banished by the same diet?"

Answer—Dyspepsia really means indigestion because of a lack of pepsin which is one of the digestive enzyme. Acidosis is due to a lowered alkalinity of the blood. Usually there is over acidity of the gastric juice. Both dyspepsia and acidosis might be cured by the same diet if one will live for a long enough time on a carefully balanced diet, suited to meet all the bodily needs, being especially careful to select good food combinations.

Strychnin

Question: Mrs. H. K asks—"Should one take medicine containing strychnin if the heart is fast, painful and jumpy? Or it is only for slow hearts?"

Answer—Strychnin is a drug usually given to stimulate the circulation through making the heart beat faster and, of course, is contra-indicated when the heart already beats fast. In any case it is a dangerous drug to use. It is far better to make a gradual but permanent change of the heart's action through constitutional treatment with diet and exercise.

Texas Sheriff and Deputies Charged

(INS)—Pleading not guilty to charges of liquor law violations, Sheriff H. Wyatt Collins of Fort Bend county, and five of his deputies today had been bound over to federal district court.

Collins' bond was set at $5,000 and that of his deputies was $2,500 each. All were arrested when more than a score of federal prohibition agents swept down on Richmond, county seat of Fort Bend county, and arrested 64 persons.

Each of the officers waived preliminary hearing. The appearance of several dry agents who participated in the raid led to the belief that the grand jury, now in session, had already begun consideration of the cases. Indictments were not expected until the end of this week.

Sheriff Collins admitted that he owned property upon which liquor was found, but that he rented it out and did not know to what use it was being put by his tenants.

Law Requiring 60 per Cent Majority Invalid

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21 (UP)—The 1927 act of the legislature requiring a 60 per cent majority of voters on a public utilities question was held unconstitutional by the state supreme court today.

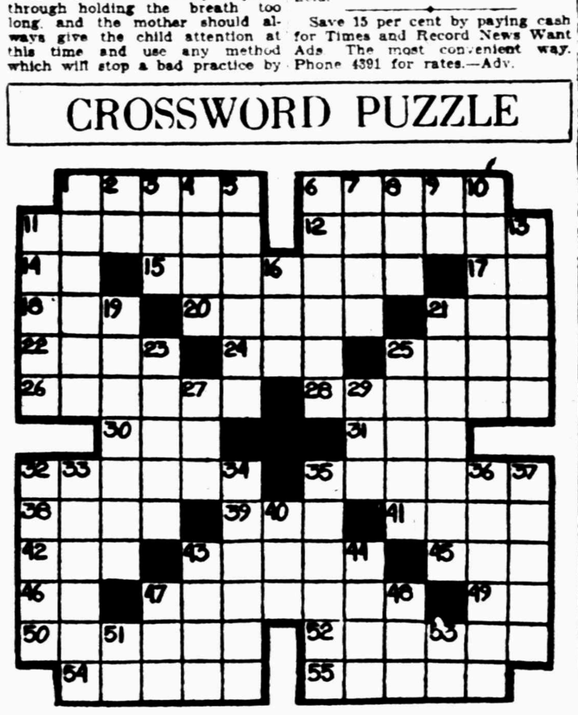

The ruling was made in an appeal from Woodward county styled B. R. Thomas et al. vs. David Reid.

In holding the 60 per cent section of chapter 94 of the 1927 session laws unconstitutional, the court did not disturb other provisions of the chapter 3.

A majority of registered voters constitutes a legal opinion on a public utility question, the court held.

Champions and Their Chances for 1930

NO. 1—BOBBY JONES

Bobby Jones has held one of the major golf championships of the world every year since he first won the U. S. open in 1923. For seven years no one has been able to shake loose some form of coronet from his ample brow.

In the last seven years he has won nine major championships—the U. S. amateur four times, the U. S. open three times and the British open twice.

He starts 1930 wearing the crown of the U. S. open, which he won at Winged Foot last summer, and he has also picked 1930 for one of the most ambitious programs of his career. He will leave early this spring to take part in the Walker Cup matches, the British and the British open. He will return to defend his title in the U. S. open at Minneapolis, and later to make his big for the U. S. amateur at Merion.

This means that the still-young Georgia attorney, who will be only 28 in March, will have a shot at four main targets before 1930 slips into the fogs and mists.

With four volleys before him, it is hardly likely that Jones will miss the entire flock. In fact, there is a good chance that he will bag at least two. His hardest test will come in the weakest field, the British amateur. His best chance will come in the U. S. amateur at Merion, for by this date he will be seasoned and at his best.

Figured down to probabilities, Jones should win one of the two opens and one of the two amateurs. This is asking a lot from any golfer, even from a Bobby Jones. For he could still play fine golf and not win any of them. Of the four he would rather win the British amateur than any of the others, because this happens to be the one major title he has yet to take back to the red clay hills.

Now at His Prime

At the age of 28, the U. S. open champion holds the remarkable record of 13 years of competitive experience. He was playing in important Southern tournaments when he was 13, and even then he was hard to beat.

At 28 he still has the sinews and the stamina of youth and the experience of a veteran. It might be recorded that, while he was beaten in his first match at Pebble Beach, back in September, he broke the course record four times in four starts, just before he fell before young Goodman.

Jones is more than fortunate in being thoroughly grounded in the fundamentals of correct swing. With this foundation he also has one of the keenest touches, one of the surest, around the greens, that golf has ever known. Putting is more a gift than anything else. The Georgian can miss many shots and still score brilliantly through his power of recovery and his marvelous shot game—meaning chips and putting touch.

There are any number of fine golfers with a long game that have both power and control, but they are unable to follow up a long, straight drive and a winning iron shot with the putting touch that gets the ball into the cup. Jones and Hagen have been the best of the lot at this art since Travis and Travers dropped out of tournament play, and not even these two masters had anything to spare on the two just mentioned.

Other Qualities

In addition to the fundamentals and a winning touch around the greens, Bobby Jones happens to have two of the most useful of all golf qualities—determination and concentration. When you add relaxation to this group you have the Big Three of golf's mental side, which is the major side.

Jones has always had a battle on his hands against tension, which happens to be the opposite of relaxation. But there has never been any question concerning his ability along the lines of determination and concentration. He isn't easily discouraged, and he can keep his mind on the main work at hand.

In the two open championships he will have such stars to face as Horton Smith, Hagen, Mac Smith, Armour, Farrell, Sarazen, Diegel and many others of high rank. Yet he has an even chance to bag one of these two model play crowns—with an even chance to win either the British amateur or the British open.

He usually has been good for one title, with two targets to shoot at, so he should certainly be good for one or possibly two tilts, with four volleys to fire.

As this may be the last foreign invasion he will face in some time, he will make the supreme effort of his career to set a new mark for championship tournament play.

23-17 SCORE TURNS TRICK

Baylor Basketeers Whip S. M. U., 32 to 24

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 21. (AP)—The Rice Owl cagers nosed out the Texas Aggie basket ball team here tonight, 23 to 17. The Aggie loss knocked them from the top of the Southwest conference percentage column where they had been perched with one victory in their single conference start.

Baylor Beats S. M. U.

WACO, Jan. 21. (AP)—The Baylor basket ball team aided mostly by Raymond Strickland, with a total of 14 points, defeated the S. M. U. Mustangs, featuring Jake Reynolds in the conference basket ball game tonight by a score of 32 to 24. Reynolds scored 13 of the S. M. U. points.

Cowboys Take Series

ABILENE, Texas, Jan. 21. (AP)—The Simmons university Cowboys made a clean sweep of their two-game basket ball series here with the Wayland college team by winning, 30 to 16, tonight. McCollum of the Cowboys was high scorer with 12 points.

Teachers Beat Southwestern

SAN MARCOS, Texas, Jan. 21. (AP)—The Southwest Texas Teachers' college basket ball team defeated the Southwestern university team, 17 to 8, here tonight. Gensberg and Glover of the Southwest Teachers tied with seven points each for scoring honors.

Sooners Defeat Teachers

CANYON, Texas, Jan. 21. (AP)—The Phillips, Okla., basket ball squad defeated the West Texas Teachers' college quintet here tonight, 54 to 22.

Schmeling's Jersey Bout Is Canceled

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—Another move designed to expedite settlement of the muddled heavyweight championship situation was made today when Max Schmeling's proposed match in the Atlantic City auditorium, March 29, was called off by the German heavyweight's American manager, Joe Jacobs.

Schmeling's next engagement, according to Jacobs, will be with the winner of the Miami match between Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott, with every expectation that world's heavyweight championship recognition will be at stake.

Invitations to U. T. Annual Relays Mailed

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—Invitations have been mailed to every college and university in the country and to the University of Mexico for the sixth annual University of Texas relays here March 28.

Pittsburgh and Georgetown universities already have inquired about rates to the event and a number of other large institutions have signified their intention of participating in the games.

"Mule" Frazier, Baylor university letter man, will occupy his perennial position as starter. The other officials have not yet been decided upon.

Invitations will be mailed to high schools all over the country, and those in Texas will be especially urged to be represented. The events will be run in three classes, university, college and high school. Arrangements are being made to entertain 1,000 visiting athletes.

Basque Heavyweight Declines Maloney Bout

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (UP)—Paulino Uscudun, Basque heavyweight, has declined to meet Jimmy Maloney of Boston in one of the preliminaries to the Scott-Sharkey fight at Miami, Feb. 27. The Basque and his new manager, Billy Gibson, will go before the New York State Athletic commission and ask for their share of the receipts from Paulino's recent fight with Otto Von Porat. Three former managers of Paulino attached the Basque's purse.

Burk Cagers to Play Iowa Park Hawks Tonight

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Jan. 21.—The Burk Bulldogs will entertain the Iowa Park Hawks in two games of basket ball Wednesday night, on the high school court. The Bulldogs and Hawks appear to be evenly matched according to games won. A stiff battle is assured the fans from both teams.

May 17 Fixed as Date For Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 21. (AP)—The Kentucky Derby will be run May 17. The date was fixed today by Col. M. J. Winn, executive director of Churchill Downs, following approval by the state racing commission of the dates for Kentucky racing.

Phil Scott Due to Land From England Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (UP)—Phil Scott, English heavyweight, is due to arrive in New York Wednesday on the S. S. Homeric. Scott will remain in New York for several days before going to Miami to train for his fight with Jack Sharkey, Feb. 27?

Star Pirate Outfielder Goes Under Knife

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21. (UP)—Lloyd Waner, star outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was operated on for appendicitis at the Presbyterian hospital yesterday. He is expected to be able to report for spring training with the rest of the squad about March 1.

Two Giants Players Send in Contracts

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (UP)—Receipt of signed 1930 contracts from Pitcher Joe Genewich and Second Baseman Ed Marshall was announced yesterday by Secretary J. J. Tierney of the New York Giants.

Rules Made for First Baseball Tournament

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—Rules and regulations governing the baseball tournament of the Texas interscholastic league, to be held this year for the first time, have been completed by the officials of the University of Texas league bureau.

A great deal of interest already has been shown in the new tournament, Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the bureau, said.

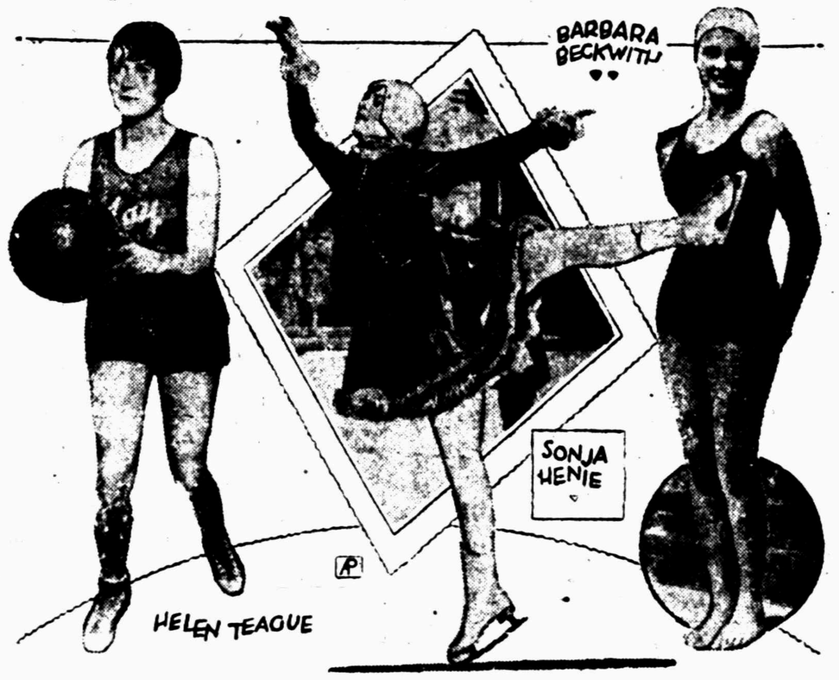

Only member schools will be eligible for competition and all players must rigidly observe league eligibility rules.

District directors of interscholastic league athletics are responsible for the holding of organization meetings in the districts in their regions on or before March 1, at which member schools shall come together to create district executive committees. The duties of these committees shall be to enforce eligibility rules, settle disputes, prepare schedules and certify district champions to the state office by April 26.

The first elimination game in each of the eight regions must be played by May 3 and the regional championship must be determined, since a playoff would interfere with examinations. The state is divided into eight regions of from two to four districts each.

College Diamond Stars, 159 in All, Will Invade Big Leagues This Year

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Collegiate sport will have strong representation in baseball training camps this spring, with 25 of the 159 players who are to be given major league trials, boasting reputations as college stars.

Twenty of the collegians were listed as American league recruits, with Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics the only junior loop leader who has no collegians on his roster.

Cleveland Gets Most

Cleveland boasts the largest list of varsity players, nine in all, including Bruce Caldwell, who gained fame at Yale as a pitcher and football fullback. Caldwell has had one year of minor league ball at New Haven, leading the Eastern league in home runs with 41, and hitting .359.

The other Cleveland collegians are:

"Zeke" Bonura, former football, baseball, basket ball and track captain at St. Stanislaus college of New Orleans, who batted .323 as first baseman for New Orleans last season.

Alex M. Hooks, also a first baseman, who won two letters each in baseball, football, basket ball and track at Southern Methodist university and hit .315 for Decatur last year.

Cecil Stewart, a second baseman from Alabama Poly who played last season with Shreveport.

J. H. Burnett, former Florida baseball and football star, who hit .311 as second baseman for New Orleans in 1929.

Crack Shortstop

Jonah Goldman of Hamilton institution and Syracuse university, who led the Eastern league shortstops of 1929 in chances accepted with an average of 5.86 per game.

George Detore, Colgate baseball, football and basket ball letter man, who played third base at Decatur in 1929, hitting .342 and leading the Three-Eye league in runs batted in.

John Gill, an outfielder from Cumberland college, Lebanon, Tenn., who won the Eastern league batting championship for 1929 with an average of .377 and led the league in hits, runs and doubles.

Pete Jablonowski, former University of Michigan pitcher who won 18 and lost 12 games for Columbus in 1929.

Detroit's roster includes three collegians, William Steinecke and Raymond Hayworth, catchers, and Robert Walsh, infielder. Steinecke starred at football and baseball for Depauw university and last season hit .322 at Seattle. Hayworth, graduate of Oak Ridge (N. C.) institute which sent Wesley Ferrell, Jake May and Dick Burrus to the majors, played last season at Toledo, hitting .330. Walsh resigned as captain of the 1929 Dartmouth baseball team to sign with Nashua in the New England league, where he garnered 80 hits in 72 games for a .295 average.

Chisox Recruit

The Chicago White Sox will try out Irvine Jeffries, basket ball star and all-Southern half back from Kentucky university; James Moore, Jr., of Union university, Jacksonville, and Wilfred Byrne, Michigan State college pitcher. Moore and Jeffries were teammates at Dallas in 1929, Moore, an outfielder, hitting .366 and Jeffries, an infielder, hitting .306.

Edward Wineapple, who pitched three no-hit games during his scholastic career at Huntington prep, Syracuse university and Providence college, will try out with Washington. Wineapple was an all-America high school basket ball player and a varsity football man at college.

Earl W. Caldwell, Thorp Spring college graduate, won 21 and lost 15 games for Waco in the Texas league last season and will be given a trial by the St. Louis Browns.

John Wimsett, who hit .347 as an outfielder for Mobile in 1929, will be the Boston Red Sox's only collegian. Winsett was a pitcher at Bethel college and also won letters at basket ball and football.

Pittsburgh is the only National league club with more than one college rookie, listing Mel Ingram, a star pitcher, and all-around athlete from Gonzaga college of Washington, and Martin Lang of St. Paul (Neb.) college. Long won 14 and lost 9 with Omaha last year.

McAfee Tries Cubs

William McAfee of Michigan university, outstanding Big Ten conference pitcher of the 1929 season, will try for a place on the Chicago Cub mound staff.

Robert Parham, Georgia collegian, who batted .319 at Atlanta last year, will seek an outfield berth with Brooklyn.

Harry McCurdy, champion batsman of the Big Ten during his undergraduate days at Illinois, will have his third major league trial as a catcher for Philadelphia. McCurdy has had previous trials with the St. Louis Cards and the Chicago White Sox. Last season he was the outstanding catcher of the American association and hit .325.

COYOTE GAME IS POSTPONED

Pack Tackles Childress On Thursday Night

The basket ball game scheduled Tuesday night between the local high school Coyotes and the Petrolia Independents was postponed by the Petrolia coach because the roads were unpassable and the team was unable to make the trip. The game will probably be played in the future here, according to Barry Holton, Coyote mentor.

The Coyotes will journey to Childress Thursday to tangle with the Bobcats in a return game. The Childress five defeated the local team by a small score here last week. Coach Barry Holton's protegee are drilling for this game in hope of reaping revenge on the lads of Childress county.

Friday night the fighting Pack again takes the ice covered trail when they mosey up to Vernon for a game that is expected to result in a victory for the Red and Black. The Lion five has been exceptionally weak in the early contests but may show enough of their wares to defeat the Coyotes.

Saturday night Coach Holton's team is host to the Bowie five. The Montague county basketeers always have a real team and may give the Coyotes more than they can handle. The close of these games will mark one of the most strenuous weeks of practice thus far. Coach Holton is planning on giving his chagges a stiff practice session for the next few days in order that his team will be ready to scamper away with the district title when the district tournament is held here in the latter part of February.

Seymour Roadsters Beat Presbyterian Quintet

The Seymour Roadsters, fast cage aggregation made up of youngsters who live on the Seymour road near the city, defeated the First Presbyterian church quintet here Tuesday night by a score of 22 to 19. Cope of the Roadsters showed his team how by making 12 points, while Hogan of the church team made nine points for his side.

The Roadsters will meet the Henrietta Tigers a week from this Wednesday, it was announced.

The lineups:

BOXING BANNED

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. (AP)—The Illinois State Athletic commission today placed an indefinite ban on all heavyweight wrestling in Illinois because of the failure of title claimants to enter a proposed championship elimination tournament.

ROOKIE LOOP IS PLANNED

Texas League Owners Are Called to Talk It Over

The position of the Wichita Falls Baseball club in regard to the proposed establishment in East and South Central Texas of a number of Texas league farm clubs, which would be grouped into a rookie class D league, was made clear late Tuesday afternoon by J. Alvin Gardner, Texas league president, after he had called a meeting of all Texas league clubs at Dallas next Saturday to consider the project.

Want Farms Nearer

While the Wichita Falls club will not oppose the plan to establish the farm clubs in East and Central Texas in any belligerent fashion, Mr. Gardner said, the local owners would vastly prefer the location of the clubs nearer to this city, in such West Texas towns as Lubbock, Big Spring, Midland, Ballinger, Coleman and Sweetwater.

Mr. Gardner said that the Fort Worth and San Antonio clubs take a similar view, preferring to have the farms somewhere in their vicinity, if at all.

This development led Mr. Gardner to advance the possibility that when the Texas league club owners meet at Dallas Saturday the establishment of two rookie leagues, one for East Texas and one for West Texas, both under the supervision of one central head, might be proposed.

The plan to establish farm clubs in the Texas league was originated by Joe Mathes, and it was discussed at the recent meeting of the league in Houston. It provides that each Texas league team caring to enter the plan foster a class D rookie club where it can obtain new material. Each Texas club would pay a blanket sum at the beginning of the season for the privilege of drafting players as needed. In order that a rookie club might be established in a town, Mr. Gardner said, the citizens of that town would be required to raise a certain sum of money, which would be matched with a like amount furnished by the clubs entering the plan.

Based on Nebraska Plan

The plan is similar to that drafted by the Nebraska State league, which is seeking to obtain for each of its clubs financial assistance from the major leagues by acting as farm centers. In the case of the Nebraska plan, several violations of the rules governing baseball were detected by Baseball Commissioner Landis, and an attempt is now being made, it is said, to overcome these obstacles.

Towns in which the proposed farm clubs would be established, should all plans materialize, will likely be selected from the following: Sherman, Tyler, Palestine, Corsicana, Mexia, Texarkana, Paris, Longview and Marshall, Mr. Gardner said. Eight rookie clubs in all would be established.

Texas Conference Opens This Week

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Jan. 21. (AP)—Inauguration of the 1930 Texas conference basket ball campaign this week-end will find the Simmons university Cowboys, undefeated champions of last season, favored by a majority of observers to successfully defend their title.

Led by Johnny Gregg, a fourth year veteran, the Simmons loopers have made a great record in practice games, defeating such strong teams as the North Texas Teachers and the West Texas Teachers of the T. I. A. A. Gregg, one of the most accurate goalers in the state, has some able assistants in Smith, McCollum, Matthews, Harrison and others.

The Cowboys will open their campaign against the Trinity university quintet here Saturday night, and should win without being greatly extended. The Tigers have lost consistently in practice, but have an outstanding star in Rusty Hill, who may give the Cowboys some trouble.

St. Edward's university and Southwestern are scheduled to meet Friday night at Georgetown, while Austin college and Howard Payne will clash Saturday night at Sherman.

Holton to Address Vernon Gridders

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 21.—Barry Holton, coach of Wichita Falls high school, will be the principal speaker here Friday night at the annual banquet honoring the Vernon high school football players. Every member of the Lion squad and Cub squad will be invited to the banquet, which is being given by the pep squad.

Other speakers on the program include Coach E. A. Baggett of Wichita Falls Junior college, former Vernon high school mentor, Coach W. C. Weir of the Vernon team and Don Johns, who directs the cub squad.

Coach Holton will speak on "Sportsmanship." The Lions of the past, present, and future will be discussed by Coaches Baggett, Weir and Johns respectively.

BREAKS RECORDS

Feminine Ace of Links Sets New Mark On Green

EDEWATER PARK, Miss., Jan. 21. (AP)—Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, the South's 21-year-old feminine "ace" of the links, today brok the Womens' Western Golf association course par by 11 strokes and smashed two course records to turn in the medalist card of 77 in the qualifying round of the third annual Pan American Women's Amateur Golf tournament on the Edgewater Gulf hotel golf course here.

DUTRA LEADS OPEN FIELD

Agua Caliente Tourney Is Half Over

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Jan. 21. (AP)—The Dutra brothers, a swarthy pair of Spanish descent, Olin from Santa Monica, Calif., and Mortie, from Tacoma, Wash., are bent upon taking the greatest prize money ever offered in golf away from Scotsmen, whom many picked to win.

Braving a Mexican desert breeze, but in much greater comfort than their exploring ancestors of generations ago, they brought in the lowest scores of the day, 72 each, in competition with more than a hundred of the nation's leading golfers in the second round of the Agua Caliente quest of four days for prizes totalling $25,000. Tonight Olin Dutra led the field, the tournament half-over, with cards of 74 and 72, making the low 146.

Intramural Athletics Draw More Contestants

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—Participation in intramural athletics at the University of Texas increased fivefold this year, figures released by Barry M. Whitaker, director, showed.

One of the reasons for the increase was that two divisions, class A and class B, were open to students while only one division was conducted in the past.

During the fall session, 606 teams composed of 835 men took part in 583 contests, while in the fall of 1928 35 teams, carrying 158 men on their rolls, participated in 116 contests.

INDIANS BEAT INDEPENDENTS

Redskins in Practice Bout Whip Burk Crew 49-17

The Junior college Indians, in a practice game Tuesday night defeated the Burkburnett Independents, 49 to 17. The game was more in the order of a walkaway than anything else featuring Blacklock, Indian forward, who made 12 of his team's points. Hogue, Burk forward, was high man for his side with 10 points.

Eggleston Kamee, Indian captain, did not play owing to an injury. He will probably be out of the lineup for the rest of the week, it was said.

The Indians face a tough night Wednesday night, when they play two teams, the Cashion cagers, and the local First Presbyterian church team. Coach Baggett arranged the double-header so the team could be free to attend a theater party Thursday night it was said.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet today with the undertone generally steady on reports of steadiness in Liverpool and in the Southern spot situation. Prices held within a range of 4 to 8 points, and March after easing off to 17.36 to 17.32, recovered closing at 17.34 compared with 17.32 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed at the steady, net unchanged to three points higher.

The outlook for colder weather in the South came in for some comment and there may have been a little selling of new crop months on expectations that the character of the weather this winter would reduce the number of boll weevil in hibernation. On the other hand conditions are believed to have been unfavorable for saving late cotton in the fields and some traders are looking for comparatively light figures on ginnings prior to Jan. 16, while the late season ginnings are expected to run very light in grade.

Houses with foreign connections were among the best sellers of late months here but trade interests were credited with buying near positions.

Futures closed steady, unchanged to 3 points higher; spot steady, middling 17.40.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21. (AP)—Cotton was slightly steadier today although the disinclination of operators to enter upon new commitments held fluctuations within a narrow range. Following a recession from an early advance the market steadied in afternoon trading and March contracts which had sold off to 17.16 rallied to 17.21 and closed 2 points under the latter figure for a net gain of 3 points. The general market closed steady at net advances of 3 points on all active positions.

Liverpool cables were favorable at the start here and initial transactions showed gains of 1 to 2 points. The market advanced a point or two additional after the start, March selling to 17.18 and May 17.42, or 1 to 3 points above the previous close.

Realizing developed and the slight early gain was lost. Offerings were absorbed, however, around yesterday's closing quotations and the market steadied under a moderate trade demand. Active positions rallied 3 to 5 points over the previous close and the market then fluctuated within the early range until mid-afternoon when fears of flood damage and agitation over reduced acreage prompted renewed buying or covering.

Prices duplicated the earlier highs and ruled steady for the remainder of the session closing 3 points net higher with March at 17.19, May 17.44 and July 17.58.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 21. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Hog trade around the 11-market circuit was slowed down by more liberal receipts. Prices were unevenly steady to 15c lower, average decline of 10 to 15c. Total offerings were around 138,800, an increase of 57,000 over last Tuesday and 26,000 heavier than a year ago.

The sheep supply approximated 49,900 against 42,708 a week ago and 42,275 the corresponding day last year. Although a few markets reported slight losses on killing classes prices about steady.

Cattle ruled weak to unevenly lower. Several points reported losses of 25 to 50c on short fed steers. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 41,800, an increase of 3,000 over a week ago and 5,000 more than a year ago.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21. (AP)—Cattle—Receipts 1,200; calves 200; top mixed yearlings $12.50; short fed heifers $10.50; Texas steers $9.25@9.50; fed cows $8.50@8.75; calves, veals and heavies up to $11.00.

Hogs—Receipts 1,100; 30c higher; top $10.05.

New Improvement Makes Stocks Look Best Since First of Year

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (US)—Improvement in stock prices which commenced late Monday carried through today's session and gave the market as a whole the best appearance of the new year. Practically every stock joined in the upturn which while not rapid was maintained to the close. Industrial shares achieved an advance for the day averaging better than two points, but more than the net advance the bulls derived great encouragement from the market's general performance. Pivotal stocks showed much greater resistance to selling pressure and in a few which had recently been subjected to steady pounding by the bears it was obvious that the bull forces have attained at least temporary control. Much of the better sentiment prevailing in market circles was inspired by intimations that the federal reserve directors were considering a reduction in the rediscount rate. Short-covering was in evidence in numerous stocks. Pool operations were plainly responsible for the activity and strength in many issues.

Once again the motion-picture group enjoyed the greatest bull attention. Paramount was the feature of the day, attaining a new high since the break on persistent buying attributed to people close to the enterprise. The company's earnings were emphasized by the bulls, as well as the bright dividend prospects. Warner Bros. Loews and Radio-Keith shared in the enthusiasm for this group, although in Warner and Radio-Keith the buying was less genuine than in Paramount and Loews. Fox, of course, continued under the weight of an additional flock of rumors. The entire industry, however, it was pointed out, will reflect probably less than any other, the trade recession.

General Motors furnished stimulus to the entire list by adding to its recent gain. While the large bear interest in the stock undoubtedly contributes considerably to the strength, there has been some new buying induced by reports of improved sales of automobiles. Production of the auto companies has been maintained at a high rate thus far this year and if sales are maintained profits of the auto companies may be surprisingly good, despite the persistent bear talk. The strength in G. M. influenced sympathetic buying and short covering in the motor issues. It also found reflection in increased activity, chiefly inspired by new groups, in various of the automobile accessory and allied stocks, such as Bendix, Houdaille-Hershey and some of the body companies. Timken rallied only fractionally.

Radio broke to a new low on the present downswing before recovering as some of its old friends rallied to the stock's support. Shorts played an unusually important role in Radio's rally as this, with General Motors, has harbored perhaps the largest short interest of any listed stock. Kolster Radio, for which receivers were appointed, also rallied presumably on short covering since it is questionable if the common stockholders will find much, if any assets, remaining, when all debts and preferred stockholders are taken care of. The situation in the radio industry was further emphasized by the action of other small companies' stocks. Wextark broke 6 points to a new low at 12, Zenith sold closer to its absolute low for all time.

Rapid recovery in various preferred stocks which had suffered severe depreciation was attributed to lifting of tax-selling pressure. Thus Schulte preferred jumped 13 points on odd-lots. Webster-Eisenlohr preferred was up 8 points on a 10-share trade, and sizeable gains were recorded in other similar issues.

TEXAS CASH PRICES

FORT WORTH, Jan. 21. (AP)—Milling bids on wheat were a little higher today, but exporters were not bidding as prices were out of line with foreign views. Fair demand was reported for wheat and grain sorghums. Corn was strong and slightly higher. Inquiries were received for cane seed at around $2.86 per hundred pounds for bulk country run, red top delivered T. C. P. Estimated receipts: Wheat 7 cars; corn 6; oats 3; sorghums 9; cane seed 1, and hay 1.

Bids and offers, basis carloads delivered, freight paid to T. C. P.:

Sorghums No. 2 milo per hundred pounds $1.66@1.68; No. 2 kaffir $1.40@1.42.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. (AP)—Indications that the Argentine crop movement is beginning to wane, whereas United States wheat export business today enlarged, put considerable buoyancy into wheat values here. It was estimated 650,000 bushels of domestic hard winter wheat were bought today for export via the Gulf of Mexico. Some European buying of Canadian wheat was noted also, but of less amount than from the United States.

Closing quotations on wheat in Chicago were firm ⅛@1¼c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish, corn ⅛@¼c up, oats unchanged to a shade higher, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5c.

Corn and oats showed themselves inclined to reflect wheat strength. Country offerings of corn lacked volume, despite low temperatures prevailing throughout the corn belt.

Provisions turned easier, responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

GOOD PASTURE AIDS DAIRYING

Oates Tells of Experiments In Addresses

Development of pastures for the purpose of building up milk production by dairy herds has been stressed by M. B. Oates, agricultural agent of the Fort Worth & Denver City Railway company, in his address to farmers of this section recently in connection with the various dairy schools held in dairying centers.

"The dairyman who has had most experience," said Mr. Oates, "has found that good pastures are absolutely essential in keeping up high production, as well as reducing the cost of production.

"Sudan grass is the most reliable summer pasture. It can be grown successfully anywhere in this section of Texas. It withstands drouth unusually well and grows out anew when rains come. It is easily grown and furnishes an abundance of pasturage throughout the summer.

"One of the Tennessee experiment stations has found that sudan grass will produce more milk per acre than can be produced on an acre of any other kind of pasturage. Every farmer should plant one acre of sudan grass for each milk cow kept.

"Winter pastures may be provided by sowing any of the small grains. The earlier this grain is sown the more pasturage it will furnish. One dairyman sows wheat early in August and has excellent green pasturage in the fall when native grass is dry or short. He plants this for pasture exclusively.

"Those who have irrigation water can always sow grain in August and sometimes every dairyman who does not have irrigation water will have a season suitable for sowing grain for pasture provided he has a piece of land ready for seeding. Small grain pasture is worth $2 to $10 per acre and sometimes gives a return in dairy products of $20 to $30 per acre.

"This section is in great need of legume pastures; either sweet clover or alfalfa. These crops are not easily grown but every man who has been in the dairy business many years has learned that legume pasture is essential to the greatest success.

"It may be necessary to do some experimenting before we can have general success with these crops but we must have them if we are to be permanently successful with milk cows. Farmers in the northern states who have been in the dairy business for many years try many times if necessary to get alfalfa or sweet clover to grow. Furthermore, they may spend $10 to $15 per acre preparing land for alfalfa or sweet clover. Such land may have to be fertilized, the seed may have to be scarified and inoculated and two or three attempts may have to be made. But when success comes one is well repaid for his effort and persistence. Such pastures rent for as much as $15 per acre in the northern states. We must have pastures here, both temporary and permanent.

"Mississippi started dairy farming on a large scale just four or five years ago and she has already found that she is short on pastures. Folks over there have had to order way a state wide pasture campaign for the past two years and now since East Texas has gotten started in the dairy business they too have found themselves in need of more and better pastures. And they have started an extensive permanent pasture campaign.

"We have had an even start with Mississippi and East Texas on dairying but they are already ahead of us on pastures. It is now our move. Let's strive for the best pastures both temporary and permanent."

TO HOLDERS of City of Wichita Falls waterworks bonds dated Feb. 10, 1920. Notice is hereby given that the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, by resolution duly adopted by its board of aldermen, on the 6th day of January, 1930, of record in Book 11, of the minutes of said board, has called in for redemption the following series of bonds: Waterworks bonds numbered 1 to 63, both inclusive, and 69 to 108, both inclusive, in the denomination of $1,000 each, aggregating $103,000, issued under date of Feb. 10, 1920. That the date fixed in said resolution for redeeming said bonds is the 10th day of February, 1930, and you are hereby notified that in the event said bonds, or any of them, are not then presented for redemption at the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company in New York City, they shall cease to bear interest from and after the date so fixed for their redemption. This notice is issued and given pursuant to the aforesaid resolution of the board of aldermen, and in accordance with recitals and provisions in each bond of the series hereinabove described. In witness whereof, we have signed our names hereto officially, on this, the 7th day of January, 1930, and affixed hereto the corporate seal of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas.—W. S. Abbott, city treasurer, city of Wichita Falls, Texas; W. E. McBroom, city clerk, city of Wichita Falls, Texas. (Seal).

Graham Music Club Elects New Officers

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 21.—At the last meeting of the Graham Music club held at the home of Mrs. I. T. Gilmera business session was held during which officers for 1930-31 were elected as follows: Mrs. Sam G. Thompson, president; Mrs. H. L. McKaig, first vice president; Mrs. R. H. Howell, second vice president; Mrs. Ira Woods, secretary; Miss Dorothy Hudson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Newton, federation secretary; Miss Mattie Queen Price, treasurer; Mrs. C. H. Berry, critic; Mrs. W. B. Fultz, parliamentarian, and Miss Avis Calvin, press reporter. It was decided to adopt the red crepe myrtle as the club's favorite flowering shrub to sponsor in the contest to select Graham's official flower. A short program including a discussion of "Three Hundred Years of Music in America" by Mrs. H. L. McKaig, and a talk on "America's Position in Music" by Miss Mattie Queen Price, were given.

Last Work on Lubbock Road Starts Soon

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Jan. 21.—The pouring of concrete on highway No. 7 between Lubbock and Slaton will begin in March or April this spring. Judge Walter R. Ely, member of the state highway commission assured the Lubbock county judge and commissioners at a conference Friday in Abilene.

Ely told the group that bids would be advertised in February for grading and drainage structures end that due to the fact that the grade was put up in shape for paving three years ago and that only minor improvements are necessary that actual paving of the road would likely begin in March or April this year.

Dates for Executives' Meeting Is Changed

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Jan. 21.—Dates for the 23rd annual convention of the Texas Commercial Executives' association have been changed to June 5, 6, and 7, according to J. E. Bell, president of the organization. Plainview will be the host city to the convention this year.

Directors of the association first named May 8, 9 and 10 as the dates for the convention but it was found that this would conflict with the East Texas Chamber of Commerce convention so the new dates were selected by a committee composed of Paul T. Vickers, Midland; J. E. Bell, San Benito; and Maury Hopkins, Plainview, who extended the invitation to the association to meet here.

THEY STAY

Greer County Couples Seem to Take Matrimony Seriously

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Jan. 21.—When Greer county couples get married they stay married—sometimes. Figures released by Victor E. Wickersham, court clerk, show that 303 couples were issued marriage licenses in 1929, while only 37 divorces became effective in the 12 months.

Records also show that in this locality June is not the favorite month for brides, for only 18 licenses were issued during that month. November claims the record for the year with 53. October and December tied with 13, while April was low with 10. Divorces do not become effective until six months have elapsed after the decree has been granted.

Memphis Banks Elects Officers

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 21.—The various banks of this city recently held their directors meetings at which time they selected officers for the new year.

At the meeting held at the Citizens State bank the following directors were elected for the new year: W. B. Quigley, president; A. Baldwin, vice president; R. L. Madden, cashier; and V. B. Rogers and P. A. Neely, assistant cashiers.

In the recent meeting of the stockholders of the First National bank the following directors were re-elected to serve in 1930: W. J. Wilson, F. N. Foxhall, J. E. King, D. L. C. Kinard and S. S. Montgomery. The directors met again and qualified for their different offices.

The Hall County National bank chose its directors as follows: W. C. Dickey, president; J. H. Read, vice president; T. H. Deaver, cashier, and G. M. Duren, assistant cashier; and directors as follows: F. N. Foxhall, John M. Deaver, G. W. Helm, S. T. Harrison and C. R. Webster. With this election the Hall County National bank added two members to its board.

The local houses of banking and exchange are planning for a bigger and brighter future, with all business transacted on a larger scale than heretofore, with a prosperous agricultural community to uphold the business of this section.

Hall County Agent Forms Boys' Clubs

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 21.—E. W. Thomas, county agent of Hall county, has been at work reorganizing the Boy's 4-H clubs throughout the county with a view to perfecting the organization in numbers and work accomplished.

The Salisbury club has already completed their organization and have elected officers as follows: Lyrel Davis, president; Casey Jones, vice president, and Boyd Wadell, secretary. This club plans to carry out an active and beneficial program during the new year and to interest all possible in the 4-H club work.

Preliminary organization of the Leslie and Eli clubs has been effected and it has been determined that there will be approximately 20 boys enrolled in each unit.

Hi-Y Clubs of Graham Choose New Officers

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 21.—Both groups of the Hi-Y club held meetings a few nights ago for business session and election of officers. J. L. Clark was elected president, and Ralph Bowron vice president for group two. At the meeting of group one their new officers were installed, these being Ted Clark, president; William Edward Bell, secretary; and Breverly Hemphill, vice president. Group two held a theater party Friday evening. Eighty tickets to the National theater had been purchased and the entire club with their sponsors and friends were in attendance. Preceding the show the club presented a short program at the Presbyterian church.

C-C Membership Drive At Vernon Under Way

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 21.—With a $20,000 budget as the goal the annual chamber of commerce membership drive was under way here today. Liberal response to the campaign was reported by C. Fred Russell, chairman of the drive, but no definite figures as to the amount of money subscribed was announced.

Those in charge of the drive still anticipated conclusion of the campaign Wednesday, but it was said the work would continue if the committees failed to complete the canvass. The city was divided into 15 sections, with sectional committees organized out of the 55 persons chosen to make the canvass. This is the most aggressive drive ever waged by the Vernon Chamber of Commerce.

Ralls Scout Troop to Hold Court of Honor

Special to The Record News.

RALLS, Texas, Jan. 21.—The scouts of troop 33 will participate in a court of honor on Thursday night, Jan. 23, at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of Ralls First Baptist church. The boys will receive awards upon which they have been working for the past few months.

This court of honor will end one of the most interesting contests that has ever been staged in the local troop. The contest has concerned itself with the regular work of a scout troop.

TWO-YEAR SENTENCE

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 21.—C. W. Lundy was sentenced to two years in prison by a jury verdict in the 46th district court Monday afternoon after he had entered a plea of guilty to passing a forged instrument. He is alleged to have forged the name of "Melvin McCaleb" to a check for $12.60.

STAMFORD MAY GET AIRLINES

Cantwell to View Airport For Safeway System

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Jan. 21.—R. W. Cantwell, chief pilot and assistant operations manager for the Southwest Air Fast Express, the passenger airline operating between St. Louis and Sweetwater by the way of Wichita Falls and Abilene, has advised the Stamford Chamber of Commerce that he will visit this city shortly and confer with local citizens concerning plans for improving Swenson field, local airport.

At present, the passenger ships of the Southwest Air Fast Express pass near Stamford and D. T. Perkins, chairman of the chamber of commerce aviation committee, and Col. R. L. Penick, director of the organization, both of whom have made considerable investigations into the possibility of securing air service for Stamford, feel that in the near future this city will be a regular scheduled stop on at least one and possibly two commercial airlines.

Improvements on the Stamford airport are the things most needed at this time if service is to be secured, Perkins and Colonel Penick say. The 100-acre field is well located near state highway No. 30, which is paved into the city and if a hangar, an office with telephone service and fueling equipment can be secured, local aviation enthusiasts think that Stamford will be in line for regular air service.

In advising the chamber that he would come here soon, Cantwell said he would be glad to offer any suggestions he might be asked for as to the most feasible method for improving the landing field and for attracting airlines to Stamford.

Lamesa Boy Wins 4-H Club Trip

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 21.—W. C. Wright, 4-H club boy of Lamesa, Dawson county, and Herbert Thieme, of San Benito, Cameron county, are winners of free trips to the fourth National Boys and Girls 4-H club camp to be held at Washington, D. C., in June, according to announcement made by the extension service, A. & M. college of Texas, which directed the contests and selected the winners. The winners were selected on the basis of a three-year record in 4-H club work. The trips to the one-week camp will be financed by the Texas Bankers association.

Both Wright and Thieme have been active in every phase of 4-H club work and have won various prizes in county and state fairs. Last year Wright won the Santa Fe railway trip to the International Livestock exposition. His selection as one of the winners of the trip to Washington is based practicularly on his outstanding work in hog production. The 16-year-old boy's record discloses a total net profit of $844.34 for the three years. His county agent whose supervision he has progressed in club work is W. W. Evans of Dawson county.

Mangum C-C Members Entertain Their Wives

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Jan. 21.—Members of the Mangum Chamber of Commerce entertained their wives as guests Monday night at the first monthly banquet of the year at Hotel Franklin.

Installation of the new officers was a feature of the meeting. Ralph Winchester assumed the duties of the chief executive. James Duffy was installed as vice president and B. E. Davis as secretary-treasurer. "A Review of 1929" was given by L. S. Noble, retiring president, and Mr. Winchester talked on "Objectives of 1930." Directors are Mr. Noble, Guy W. Brooks, C. M. Stone, W. F. Hearne, Dr. F. H. McGregor, H. B. Richards, Davis O. Vandivier, Mr. Winchester and Mr. Duffy.

Railway Left Holding Body of Slain Youth

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 21. (UP)—Railway officials were puzzled tonight over disposal of a body consigned to Fred W. Merker which he now refuses to accept despite a down payment of $400.

Merker paid undertaker's bills and shipping expenses on the body after police advices from Tampa, Fla., identified it as that of his son, Carl, 22, victim of murder. Subsequently the son notified Merker from Bowling Green, Fla., that he was very much alive.

Now Merker threatens to sue for recovery of money already spent and refuses to accept the shipment.

Political Chatter From Austin

By S. RAYMOND BROOKS
Record News Capitol Correspondent

AUSTIN, Jan. 21.—Governor Moody eased the anxiety of probably over half the legislators, house and senate, in his first message to the new session.

He promised to take care of the local bills that will be pressed upon him by the members.

But Governor Moody warned the members the local bills will come late in the session.

Several general subjects also will be reserved until the session sees daylight on prison reform and fee bill regulation.

"For the present," Governor Moody said in his initial message, "these two matters alone are submitted for your consideration. I have received requests for the submission of many subjects and in the nature of things all cannot be submitted.

"I do plan to submit other subjects of immediate importance for your consideration before the session adjourns, and I hope that I may be able to give each of you an opportunity to bring before the legislature those local bills that are meritorious and of importance to some of you and to the community and the constituents you represent."

Upon the prison measure, Governor Moody told the legislators:

"I would be glad if this legislature will go into a body to our prison system and visit and inspect the Huntsville penitentiary and every farm and every activity of the system."

The prison problem, "is not a political question, but it is an important economic problem. It is too big for anyone to use as a whetstone to sharpen a private political ax, and it is great enough to demand and receive the best thought of each of us," he told the legislature.

Texas, which went Hoovercrat in politics, is also Hoovercrat in modern governmental policy. That is made clear by the fact that the two major legislative items responsible for the present session are based on fact-finding reports of commissions such as those for which President Hoover is famous. A joint committee, house, senate and prison board, drafted the report and its majority the bill that will foster farm reform. A joint legislative committee made the fee report.

Hollis Family Holds Reunion; Scores Attend

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIS, Okla., Jan. 21.—Mrs. W. T. Anderson, prominent citizen of Hollis, was the honor guest at a big turkey dinner at the Anderson home in Vinson last Sunday when her sons and daughters, grandsons and granddaughters and a number of friends gathered from Harmon county and surrounding counties. A number of families were present from Childress and Erick. CHARITY HEADS ISSUE APPEAL

Clothing, Bedding and Supplies Needed

Urgent need for more clothing, bedding and other supplies with which to enable needy families of the city to combat the unusually severe weather now prevailing here was stressed by Miss Myrle Neeley, executive secretary of the welfare board, Tuesday afternoon.

Any persons in this community having such articles which can be given for the relief of suffering among the poor are asked to call the Salvation Army, 6221, Mrs. Effie McHam, secretary of the Family Relief society, 2-2183, or Miss Neeley. Such supplies will be called for if the donors cannot conveniently bring them to the Memorial auditorium or to the Salvation Army.

Requests for aid are being taken care of by these organizations as received, Miss Neeley stated, although she said there is inadequate provision for the calls expected Wednesday morning, when zero temperature is expected.

Refined Prices Still Unsettled

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 21.—The refinery markets of the Mid-Continent continue unsettled, due to the winter weather and the depression that followed the cutting of crude prices until late last week.

Oklahoma refiners were still holding their spot market at 6 to 7 cents a gallon in tank car lots for U. S. motor grade. In Kansas the market is reported steady at 6¾ to 7¼ cents. North Texas refiners were still up in the air and awaiting buying orders. In all areas no great amount of buying was reported.

Kerosene was unchanged, and fuel oils were holding their own and this was true of other burning oils.

Natural gasoline manufacturers reported a better demand, but with no runaway market or flood of orders.

Bridwell and O'Donohoe To Confer With Farish

J. S. Bridwell and John O'Donohoe, local operators who attended a meeting of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association held at the Adolphus hotel in Dallas Monday, were appointed on a committee leaving for Houston for a conference with W. S. Farish, president of the Humble Oil and Refining company.

The committee representing a number of well-known operators from the North Texas fields left for the bayou city Tuesday afternoon, and will voice their views to the Humble's president regarding the late revision of his company's schedule for crude which was followed by other major purchasing companies in this district.

North Texas Fields Await Warm Weather

Bursted pipes, frozen steam lines and the return of Arctic weather after a 24-hour respite has once more paralyzed all activities in the North Texas oilfields, and with a few exceptions the entire district is at present devoid of any drilling. While within easy reach of fuel and other material a few tests continued with an effort to keep on drilling, the wildcats in the outer sections are absolutely shut down and no effort will be made to resume operations until the lovely Texas sun shines forth with its thawing program.—J. PANHANDLE IN LAWTON DEAL

Local Refining Concern Enters Southern Oklahoma

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Jan. 21.—Purchase of the M. and M. Oil company, wholesale and retail distributors of petroleum products from J. B. Morris, by the Panhandle Refining company of Wichita Falls, Texas, was announced Tuesday by R. E. Shepherd, an official of the Wichita Falls company. There will be no change in the local management of the company.

The Panhandle company is branching into Southern Oklahoma and the purchase of the station here is a part of the 1930 expansion program, Mr. Shepherd stated.

The Panhandle refinery is one of the oldest in Wichita Falls, having been in operation the past 14 years.

Lubbock Man Had to Quit Farm Work

Kept Going Downhill Until He Took Orgatone, Now Able to Do Anything

"By the time I had finished my first bottle of Orgatone I was eating with a hearty appetite and enjoying my meals for the first time in years," was the statement made by L. C. Shubert, residing at 313 Avenue U, Lubbock, Texas.

"I had suffered from a terrible case of stomach trouble and everything disagreed with me so I had to restrict myself to the very lightest of diet until sometimes it seemed to me I was most starved. I was badly constipated and suffered agonies from gas in my stomach and my heart acted so queerly at times I was afraid it would stop.

"People in my fix are always on the lookout for something to relieve them and when I read the statements in the papers about Orgatone I got me a bottle right away. It just went to the spot and in no time I was eating anything I wanted and had no troubles at all from gas or heart palpitation. My digestion is all O. K., my constipation has been relieved. I feel better and stronger and have more vim and energy than I have had in years. I am telling you if Orgatone cost $10 a bottle, I would not be without it and I gladly recommend it to anybody for the wonderful work it has done in my case."

Today

At the Theaters

By W. E. C. UNDERWOOD

MAJESTIC: Sally Starr, Ukulele Ike, and Robert Montgomery in "So This Is College." Campus capers with maximum voltage. Paramount screen song, "Old Black Joe." Sound news.

STRAND: "The Gold Diggers of Broadway." They don't mind being laughed at. Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: "Tonight at Twelve," with all-star cast. Educational comedy, "Be My King."

GEM: Rin-Tin-Tin in "Frozen River." "Freshman Frolic," comedy.

But we still don't see why they didn't let Cliff Edward, "Ukulele Ike," break loose more often with his teasing little uke and his clarinet voice in "So This Is College." The film given to development of this "female campaign" between Biff and Eddie (can you imagine a hard-hitting halfback toting the name of Eddie) could have played in reduced quarters, if you ask us, if that would have permitted Ike to stick his funny face and senseless lyrics into the picture with increased frequency.

◇ ◇ ◇

Not only the weather runs in cycles, but sound-picture themes, which the latter group doesn't observe six-year intervals between chapters. There has been quite a prodigious crop of screen entertainments cultivated during the past two years on the fertile field of college life. Some of the sets don't even get back into the scenery closet between spells. Genial Bob Euler immediately spotted the impressive doors of the old hall as the same ones before which either 10 or 11 college romances have been shot in the present era.

◇ ◇ ◇

But "So This Is College," now showing at the Majestic, is different from the others in spite of being very much like them. It contains little of the grotesque farce into which Eddie Quillan converted "The Sophomore." It almost seriously endeavors to reproduce the university campus as is, rather than playing with the fictional college world used in "Sweetie." And instead of having Biff run roughshod over wooden men or sneak through a line of blind Indians for the winning points, it utilizes the old Brickley specialty—a long field goal. It might as well be confessed that we swallowed our tonsils when that ball sailed over the bar, all efforts at sophisticated calm notwithstanding.

◇ ◇ ◇

Putting the motion picture actor into the background of bonafide present-day football with a smooth blend is one of those few accomplishments which the industry has not yet put over. The shots of the great University of Southern California stadium, and filmed sections of one of that school's 1928 big games, inject a tremendous element of realism—for football fans. Particularly since the triple-width lens was used in catching those bits. But even then, the veteran who has inhaled the musky smell of dressing rooms under the grandstand, and who has gone forth with youthful Spartanism devoted to the glory of alma mater will secretly wish they had put Jerry Mann and Dexter Shelley, for instance, in those roles of Biff and Eddie.

◇ ◇ ◇

Robert Montgomery and Elliott Nugent wage a highly entertaining contest throughout the season for the girl in the case, who happens to be Sally Starr. Sally is the kind that would incite a contest, on the campus or elsewhere. The genius of Ukulele Ike breaks through once or twice, but our conviction is that around any campus, Ike's piping voice would play a larger part in the status quo.

Many Wichitans Help Needy To Survive Norther

Hearts warmed in the prevailing arctic weather by a spirit of charity are the salvation of numerous cases among the needy of the city, according to an observation by Mrs. Effie McHam, secretary of the Family Relief association, following relief of a suffering family through her office Tuesday afternoon.

The particular situation which arose Tuesday morning revealed a family which includes seven-months old twins depending upon a small oil cook stove for warmth—with the stove increasingly showing its inadequancy as the temperature dropped. While the case was under discussion and means for relief were being sought, a local citizen walked into the office with a check which, he said, the association was to use where most needed. Being apprised of the problem facing Mrs. McHam at that moment, the donor asked that he be allowed to make some further contribution.

By Tuesday afternoon a gas meter had been installed, a heating stove of ample capacity connected, and the twins' family assured of adequate warmth in their little home during the below-zero weather promised for Wednesday morning.

The oldest turret clock in England is presumably one in the Great tower of Salisbury cathedral. Records show that the mechanism existed in 1386; it continued to work until 1884.

WIDOW TESTS KNIGHT WILL

County Court Given Notice Of Action

Alleging that C. C. Knight was "laboring under undue influence" when a will recently filed here was framed, Mrs. Elizabeth Knight, his widow, is contesting the terms of the document and appealing for the appointment of a temporary administrator for the $100,000 estate.

Mr. Knight, pioneer real estate man and one of the builders of Wichita Falls, died here several weeks ago. The will dividing the estate between the widow, a sister, Mrs. N. E. Roberts, a brother, M. E. Knight, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. J. A. Knight, was filed about 10 days ago with Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk. The notice of contest on file in the county court calls for an immediate hearing before Judge John P. Marrs and suggests the appointment of R. E. Huff as a neutral temporary administrator.

In the contesting application, Mrs. Knight specifically alleges the use of fraud. The contestant claims that the will is invalid because it does not set out the true will and wishes of Mr. Knight.

The application goes on to assert that the widow has been forced to share her home with Mrs. Roberts against her will and that Mr. Knight had been made to believe that she as his wife had no "legal, equitable, or moral" interest in the property.

The contested document specifically instructs Mrs. Knight and Mrs. Roberts to share the Ninth street home while the two shall live. The income from the Knight building, a three-story business structure, is divided between them, with $100 payments to be made each month. The will leaves the $100 monthly payment to Mrs. Allday, a niece, in case she should survive Mrs. Roberts. The remainder of the estate, including several blocks of real estate, is equally divided between the four principal legatees.

Second Session of Evangelism School to Open at Dinner Friday

The second session of the School of Evangelism, which is being conducted by Dr. J. P. Hicks, director of the school of evangelism of Los Angeles, Calif., will be held Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, when a dinner will be the feature of the occasion. At this time the district supervisors will give their reports.

Dr. Hicks will lecture on "Methods, or Religious Salesmanship." The dinner will be followed by a Bible study at 7:30.

The school is being conducted in the First Presbyterian, Ray community, East Side Presbyterian and Floral Heights Presbyterian churches here. The names of all unchurched people have been secured and the people are being approached upon the subject of church preference. If the person being canvassed desires to become a member of one of the Presbyterian churches, the names are placed in the hands of the pastor of the desired church but if the person prefers another church, the pastor of the other church is notified.

The business and professional men are asked to give at least one hour of their time to personal contact between now and Feb. 9. Doctor Hicks will be in his office at the church from 9 to 10 o'clock each morning and from 5 to 5:30 each afternoon for conferences with people who may be seeking spiritual help.

Mrs. Maurice J. Adams Gives Musical Program

Mrs. Maurice J. Adams gave the musical program for the dinner given by members of the Men's club of the Church of the Good Shepherd at the parish house Monday evening. It was erroneously stated in Tuesday's Record News that Mrs. Mary B. Adams gave the numbers.

Central Feed Store Opens New Quarters

Opening of the Central Feed and Seed store's new brick fireproof building at 420 Indiana avenue was announced by the company Tuesday. The frame building occupied several months ago by the firm was destroyed by fire, and the company has had temporary quarters at 200 Michigan. The building and business is owned by Ira Miks, and his son, Lee Miks.

Curtis Cook read an original play at the regular meeting of the Writers club Tuesday afternoon. A play will be selected at the next meeting Tuesday, Jan. 28, to be presented early in February, according to Miss Eva Weber, faculty sponsor.

It was decided that the club would meet on each Tuesday morning at the first period, since many of the members were unable to attend because of classes during the fifth period.

Booted Campus

Boots and galoshes are "just the thing" at the high school and college since the beginning of the cold weather—and maybe you think there aren't some varieties! There are some plain lace boots, riding boots, short ones and long ones besides red, brown, black, blue and multicolored galoshes. Maybe they don't look so "hot" but they at least keep the snow out of your shoes.

"Penetrative Lubricity" MEANS
1. Freedom from Friction.
2. A "Carry-Over" Film by Metal Penetration.

TO lubricate, an oil must decrease friction between metal surfaces. A motor oil does this by separating the metal surfaces, and theoretically keeping them separated under all operating conditions. It may amaze you to know that many oils frequently fail to do this.

Think how this "separation" of moving parts is accomplished. The oil forms a wall or "film" between opposing surfaces . . . and it is upon this film that the reputation of every oil must rest. The film is thin, of course, for it must ride in the tight crevices of bearings, cylinder-walls, etc. . . . But it must also be of extraordinary strength . . . it must cling tenaciously . . . or the pressure of your motor will squeeze and hurl it from the vital points that must be kept separated.

Penetrative Lubricity . . The New Gauge of Motor Oil Merit

Penetrative lubricity is the outstanding characteristic of the new Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oils. This characteristic is the direct result of Germ-Processing.

You must know this story of Germ-Process.

Briefly, it is the patented result of 16 years' experimentation by the British scientists, Wells and Southcombe. Back in 1901, when everything of fundamental importance was known about the refining of mineral oils . . . these two scientists foresaw that additional improvements must be made, in order to keep lubricants abreast of the future development of the "gasoline buggy."

They knew that animal and vegetable oils were "oilier" than mineral oils could ever be, but were impractical for use in internal combustion motors which operated at high temperatures.

Finally the Germ-Essence, containing the "oily" property lacking in mineral oils, was isolated. And a method was devised for combining this essence with highly refined mineral oils.

Only Conoco Oils Are Germ-Processed . . This Gives Them Penetrative Lubricity

Continental Oil Company now owns the exclusive right to Germ-Processing for North America. Only with these new oils can you secure a fracture-proof film which actually penetrates the metal surfaces of your motor! What does this mean? . . . It means that the all-important film no longer may be hurled and squeezed from moving parts. The Germ-Essence carries the oil into every minute crevice . . . into the very metal itself. And there it clings—clings when the heat of high speeds seeks to scorch and drive it away . . . clings when bearings try to squeeze it out . . . clings, too, when you stop your motor. And this is most important . . . for the oils you are now using drain away as the motor stops, and require 5 to 15 minutes to resume their guard duty when you next tread on the starter. That's why 40% to 60% of your motor wear occurs in those first minutes of operation.

Save your motor by the use of this new oil. Introduce it to Conoco Germ-Processed oils today at the sign of the Red Triangle.
