DA's race to be decided Saturday

The Democratic nomination for the position of district attorney for the 132nd Judicial District will be decided here Saturday.

Statewide, voters will go to the polls also to cast ballots for the hotly contested U.S. Senate seat involving candidates Kent Hance and Lloyd Doggett.

The race which will bring out the voters locally, however, likely involves the DA's position.

A heavy turnout for a runoff ballot was noted Tuesday as absentee voting ended. Some 229 ballots were cast at that time from both Scurry and Borden County voters.

The May 5 Democratic primary ended with Armstrong leading a field of three candidates by some 395 votes.

He gained 1,541 votes to Line's 1,146. This was not a clear majority, however, as the third candidate — James Clark — polled 550.

The winner Saturday will be unopposed by a Republican nominee at the General Election in November. The new district attorney will officially take office Jan. 1, 1985.

With Saturday's vote, the 15 voting precincts for Scurry County will be combined into seven polling locations.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Two other races are on the ballot also. These involve runoffs for two judgeships on the Texas court of criminal appeals.

Candidates include W.C. (Bill) Davis and Roy E.

Defense spending...

House oks record bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House early today approved a $284 billion defense bill which trims $21 billion from President Reagan's original budget and curbs the MX nuclear missile and other weapons in a bid to rekindle arms control talks with the Soviet Union.

Final passage of the spending package — a record despite the cuts — came at 12:30 a.m. on a 298-98 vote.

That tally capped three weeks of often bitter, partisan fighting in which the bulk of the huge Pentagon budget survived intact except for restrictions on atomic and space weapons, rejection for a third year of new nerve gas weapons, and a virtual ban on using U.S. troops to fight in Central America. The bill also ordered changes in the way spare parts are purchased.

The Republican-controlled Senate is expected to begin floor debate next week on a version of the bill which proposes permitting the Pentagon to spend $299 billion in fiscal 1985. Differences between the two measures will be worked out later in a House-Senate conference committee.

As it began more than eight hours of debate, the Democrat-controlled House voted to ban production of nuclear-tipped, sea-launched cruise missiles unless the Soviets test and deploy a similar long-range system.

In four dramatic late-night votes, the House narrowed its limits on the MX by taking away from Reagan any discretion over whether to authorize production of 15 of the giant 10-warhead missiles.

Two weeks ago, the House cut Reagan's appeal for 40 more of the weapons to only 15. It also said the money couldn't be spent before next April and then only if he told Congress the Soviets hadn't returned to good-faith bargaining in the talks the Soviets left last year.

First, the House reaffirmed its May 16 decision on a 203-182 tally.

Then, in consecutive votes of 199-197 and 198-197, it decided to remove from Reagan's authority the decision on whether the Soviets were bargaining in good faith. Instead, the House decided to require another vote next year by Congress on whether to go ahead with the missile which is central to Reagan's nuclear buildup.

Electric line snag injures man

Twenty-four year-old Rudy Perez of 1802 Ave. Q was hospitalized for treatment of burns following an electrical accident about three miles west of Knapp in southwest Scurry County Thursday afternoon.

According to Snyder Fire Department reports, Perez, an employee of Snyder Pumpjacks Inc., was on top of a pumpjack being pulled to a well site when the accident occurred.

He was reportedly using a board to lift low Texas Electric Service Company highline wires over the top of the unit. These wires apparently came together. The resulting shock knocked him from the unit and set fire to the pumpjack and trailer.

He was taken from the scene of the mishap to Cogdell Memorial Hospital in Snyder by private vehicle around 3 p.m. Units of the Snyder Fire Department extinguished the fire.

Perez remained in the local hospital Friday morning recovering from burns to the right side of his body.

Labor force down in April

Unemployment figures for Scurry County — which briefly moved into the 4 percent range in March — returned to the 3 percent level during April.

The exact percentage reported Friday by personnel with the Texas Employment Commission was 3.5 percent or approximately 373 persons out of work.

The drop in the overall percentage occurred through a reduction in the work force rather than an increase in jobs, however.

For the month of March, TEC estimated 10,313 persons were employed. The April total figured 10,301, a change of only 12 individuals.

The number of persons estimated in the civilian labor force dropped by almost 80 individuals from March to April, however, causing the 1 percent drop in unemployment figures.

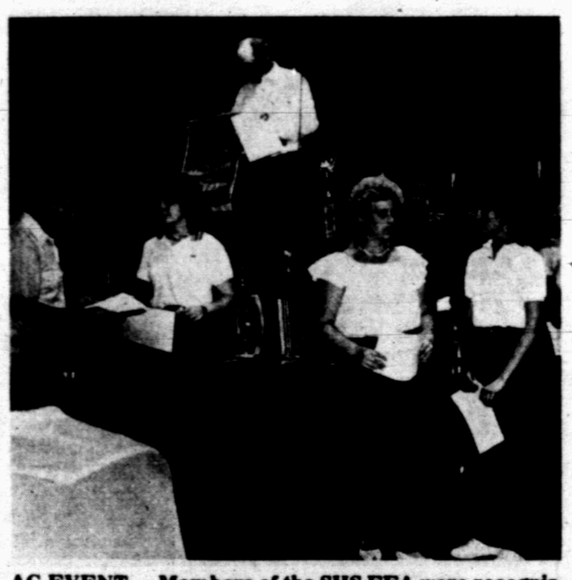

The March estimate was 10,755 and the April estimate 10,674.

As compared to last year, the overall figures marked a full percentage point improvement regarding those listed as unemployed in the county.

In April of 1983, the estimate locally was 4.4 percent. From March through September of 1983, unemployment figures here were reported from near 4 to almost 5 percent.

For the same period last year, the work force here

More than 150 persons were on hand Thursday evening for the annual Snyder High School Future Farmers of America barbecue at the Towle Park Barn.

Students who participated in FFA competitions throughout the year were recognized for their efforts by instructor Billy Bob McMullan.

Ag instructor Randy Gillium also announced that Thad Springer, current president of the SHS FFA, had completed all requirements for his Lone Star Farmer Degree. The award will be presented later in the summer at the FFA state convention.

In addition, retiring Superintendent Bill J. Hood was honored for his long standing support of the ag programs. He was given a certificate naming him as an honorary member of the SHS chapter.

The mothers of FFA members were recognized also. They were each presented a rose for their efforts in running concession stands for the Scurry County Junior Livestock Show.

Ave. E overpass to remain closed

State officials said Thursday the Ave. E overpass on U.S. Highway 84 in north Snyder will likely remain closed at least three more weeks.

Otis Jones of the Abilene office of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation said crews are working under emergency contracting procedures for the repair.

He said they expected to have bid proposals in the hands of contractors by Thursday night.

Bids for repair to the overpass — damaged last Friday when it was struck by a truck pulling an oversized load — will be returned a week from Friday. Repair work is expected to begin immediately.

According to Jones, a 47 ft. I-beam supporting the roadbed of the overpass must be replaced. In addition, an 18 ft. section of a second beam will also be removed and replaced before the structure is returned to service.

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Gary Bruce in the Hood County News in Granbury, commented that some strange laws still grace the books. He quoted from a book called "Puzzlers Search a Word."

Little known laws that exist includes Trenton, Mo. where it is illegal to drive a car after sundown. In Kentucky, a woman has to carry a club when wearing a bathing suit on a highway.

In Belvedere, the city council passed a law reading, "No dog shall be in public without a master on a leash."

In Chicago, a woman driving a car wearing a hat which covers one eye can be fined. A kiss lasting more than one second is illegal in Halethorpe, Maryland.

In Danbury, Conn., the mayor must issue a permit before anyone can fly a kite there. In Atlanta, it is unlawful for a diaper service truck to have a musical horn which plays "Rock-A-Bye-Baby."

It is against the law to quarrel on Sunday in Indianapolis. All pet tigers must be caged in Port Allen, La.

A train has to blow its whistle once when approaching a one-story farmhouse and twice for a two-story house, according to Arkansas state law.

It is illegal to hang both men's and women's undergarments on the same clothesline in one Minnesota town. A waiter is subject to a fine if he makes an insulting remark to a customer in Colorado Springs.

Those make our local laws sound pretty reasonable.

Now that school is out, a story from Fort Worth's George Dolan will have significant meaning for young mothers.

Dolan said a wise druggist told a harried-looking customer, "To make those tranquilizers you're taking really effective, just go by the instructions on the label--'Keep away from children.'"

Q. — Has the city considered putting a left turn arrow at the intersection of 25th St. and College Ave.?

A. — The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation is responsible for these traffic lights. And a local representative of the highway department reported that the problem is the street is too narrow for a third left-turn lane. He noted that there is sufficient space for a turn lane if parking from 25th to 26th St. on College was changed to parallel.

In Brief

Death row inmates escape

WARRENTON, N.C. (AP) — Six Death Row inmates armed with homemade knives briefly seized a dozen guards in a daring escape from a top-security prison in Virginia, then commandeered a van and drove to North Carolina, where an intense search was under way today.

The escapees overpowered the guards, who do not carry guns, at the Mecklenburg County Maximum Correction Facility on Thursday night, authorities said.

After driving the van about 25 miles into North Carolina, they attempted unsuccessfully to abduct a motorist, then abandoned the vehicle to travel on foot, authorities said.

No one was injured and all the hostages were released before the inmates left the prison, officials said.

The search for the men was concentrated around Warrenton, where officials believed at least two of the inmates were at large, said Nancy Paschal of the Warrenton Police Department.

New president takes office

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Jose Napoleon Duarte, once jailed by the army and then sent into exile, takes the oath of office today as El Salvador's first popularly elected civilian president in 53 years.

Duarte will be sworn in at a ceremony attended by U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz and a delegation of U.S. legislators and officials. The two-stage election which he won was conducted with extensive support from the United States.

Duarte will travel in a motorcade down San Salvador's main boulevard today to the Sports Palace, where he is to be draped in the nation's blue and white presidential sash by outgoing President Alvaro Magana.

He was arrested last Saturday night in Sweetwater in connection with the theft of a pickup truck owned by Max Horsley of Snyder.

He remains in the Nolan County Jail, serving time for misdemeanor DWI and driving while license suspended charges filed against him by Sweetwater authorities at the time of his arrest.

Both felony cases against him will be presented to the regular June session of the Scurry County Grand Jury Monday.

Hance, Kruger say...

Endorsement not part of deal

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Krueger has denied that his endorsement of Kent Hance in the Democratic runoff for the U.S. Senate is part of a political deal — a story that Hance blames on Lloyd Doggett, his opponent in Saturday's election.

Krueger, a former congressman and ambassador, announced his endorsement of Hance Wednesday and began campaigning with Hance Thursday in the Rio Grande Valley before bringing the campaign to Dallas.

Thursday night, Krueger disputed a Dallas Times Herald story that said Krueger agreed to support Hance in return for help in retirement of Krueger's estimated $900,000 campaign debt.

The newspaper quoted Krueger campaign sources Thursday as saying Krueger and his chief financier, Jess Hay, talked about Krueger supporting Hance during a weekend trip to Acapulco, Mexico.

Krueger denied that he and Hay discussed political endorsements.

"That is absolutely untrue and was never discussed," Krueger said. "My endorsement has absolutely no connection with any political deal."

Krueger said he and his wife and Hay and his wife and another couple were the only people on the airplane.

Hance said his runoff opponent, Lloyd Doggett, is behind the stories of Krueger's endorsement.

"Lloyd realized this endosement really helps me in the final day. I think it shows once again he's willing to show or say or do anything," Hance said. "These accusations are a pattern of mudslinging and gutter politics that this state hasn't seen in a long time."

Krueger accompanied Hance in stops in the Rio Grande Valley Thursday before the two brought the campaign to Dallas Thursday night.

During the last stop of the day, in Port Arthur, Hance noted that the source for the Times Herald story was anonymous.

Krueger and Hance blame Doggett and supporter Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas for spreading the story about Krueger's endorsement.

Mauzy issued a letter Thursday at a Hance news conference in Houston, which said that the meeting in Acapulco raises "grave doubts about the real reason for Bob's endorsement of Hance."

Krueger and Hance tried to reach Mauzy by phone.

New director halting all death row reforms

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Sixty-two inmates who have been living or working with the general prison population will be returned to their cells on Death Row following an order by new prison director Ray Procunier.

Procunier, who took office May 21, said Thursday he will immediately put a stop to a program under which prisoners under death sentences live and work with inmates serving lesser terms.

"This decision was prompted by a desire on the director's part to upgrade security of Death Row inmates to a more acceptable level, yet still provide opportunities for a reasonable and humane living environment under these unusual conditions," said prison spokesman Charlie Brown, reading from a news release.

Procunier said he is worried about the possibility of a condemned prisoner escaping from the maximum security Ellis Unit, 13 miles northeast of Huntsville.

"I don't want to wake up one morning and hear about a Death Row inmate escaping to downtown Dallas," Procunier said. "There isn't one prison in the country you can't escape from."

Brown said some of the inmates under death sentences still live on Death Row but are allowed to hold jobs in the prison. Others live in cells in other sections of the maximum security Ellis Unit, he said.

Donna Brorby, attorney for inmates who won a reform order from U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, said she was extremely disappointed by Procunier's action.

Death Row inmates are allowed out of their cells only 10 hours a week, said Ms. Brorby, reached at her San Francisco office by telephone.

"The program has been very successful," she said. "It doesn't seem like he's even been in touch with us long enough to see how the program is working."

Prostitution, we are told, is a "victimless crime."

Atlanta City Councilman Archie Byron says we should legalize it.

He says since efforts to wipe it out are useless, cities should legalize it, control it, regulate it, "establish health standards — thus curb sexually transmitted diseases."

He chides Atlanta police for their undercover entrapment of prostitutes and their customers.

Chicago Alderman Bernie Hansen, on the other hand, does not think his city's police are doing enough.

Alderman Hansen says his 44th Ward is so overrun with prostitutes that, competing for passing motorists, they create mid-block traffic jams.

So, says Hansen, it is not a "victimless" crime; the victim is the "neighborhood."

Alderman Hansen is up every morning before dawn, cruising in his unmarked car the Broadway area north of Belmont.

Very shortly he — a man alone in a slow-moving car — will be waved to the curb by a strutting girl in stiletto heels, tight skirt and cheap blond wig.

Does he want a date? she asks.

The genial-appearing white-haired man at the wheel asks, "How much?"

She tells him how much and details what that date might include.

Then he picks up his car phone, radios for 23rd District police backup to close in, and she is under arrest.

Thus Hansen has helped arrest more than 50, last count. "They duck into gangways when they see a marked police car so we had to do something different to clean up the street."

He says people living in his ward cannot shop or walk the sidewalk without being hassled by these girls so with shopping traffic down merchants go out of business except for the sleazy leftovers.

The girls know that the police tactical unit gets off at 2:30 a.m. so, after than, at the times he drives by, they figure they're safe.

When word got around so they recognized his car, he borrowed his wife's car.

And he follows each case to court to testify.

And thus most of the prostitutes get ten days instead of the usual two — and gradually the 44th Ward is getting a reputation for "unwelcome."

A "victimless crime"? We used to consider cigarette smoking nobody's business but the smoker. Now we're discovering its victims can include the most innocent bystanders.

and a jack and obviously some slam possibilities. If North can show the ace of clubs, South will bid four diamonds and see if North can make another strong bid. Of course the raise of the club bid didn't take place. North signed off at three spades and South went to four.

South won the diamond lead with his ace, cashed two top trumps and studied the hand. A successful heart finesse would solve all his problems, but he goes down if he misguesses the queen. There is a better play, which is to lead the 10 of diamonds to throw West in. West gets his two diamond tricks but will have to exit with a heart or a club.

If West plays the club ace and then exits with a small club, South is still left with a guess in the heart suit. But South can now make an educated guess. West's play of the ace of clubs indicates that West holds the queen of hearts.

Infertile Couples Need Not Remain Childless Forever

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I would like to comment on the many childless couples who write to you moaning about how miserable they are because they can't have children "of their own."

Don't get me wrong, I'm not unsympathetic toward infertile couples. I am, however, a bit disgusted with childless couples who are so obsessed with reproducing that they speak of little else.

What about each other? Is there so little love and satisfaction in their relationship that it's "empty" without children? Was their only purpose in marrying to produce children?

If the "emptiness" of their lives without children is so intolerable, may I suggest that they take an orphan into their home? It would fill their need to be parents and give the child a wonderful gift—a loving home with parents.

Don't be fooled, Abby. Childless couples are childless by choice.

RICHARD G., BRISBANE, CALIF.

DEAR RICHARD: Please don't minimize the heartache and disappointment experienced by couples who desperately want to conceive and bear children and can't. But you make a valid point. No one need be forever childless. Today there are many children growing up in institutions because they are racially mixed, too old to be adopted, or they're physically or mentally handicapped. And there's a special place in heaven for those people who will provide a loving home for such children.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old man serving in the U.S. Navy, stationed in the Philippines. After knowing this 22-year-old girl for a year, I recently proposed to her, and she accepted.

Because she is a foreign national, there is much paperwork to be processed before our marriage can take place. One paper needs to be signed by her parents and mine. It states that the parents approve of the marriage. It is a requirement of Philippine law.

My fiancee's father is a pastor of the Church of Christ, and I am of another religion. He will not consent to the marriage unless I convert to their religion. I don't mind converting, but I would like to know more about their religion and their doctrines first.

I would greatly appreciate it if you would send me some information about this religion. I wouldn't have bothered you with this, but I am presently deployed to the Indian Ocean and the chaplains on board do not have the information I need. Thank you.

MICHAEL FROM THE U.S.A.

DEAR MICHAEL: The most authoritative source of information would be your future father-in-law. Write to him.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't laugh, but whenever my husband approaches me for sex, I really do get a headache. We've only been married a few months and I need to find a cure real soon because it isn't fair to my husband. Aspirin doesn't help. I was never bothered by headaches before I was married, and I only get them when my husband asks for sex. Please help me.

N.J. NEWLYWED

DEAR NEWLYWED: See your doctor and tell him exactly what you have told me. Regardless of the cause, you can be helped, so don't delay.

Gov. White announces summer jobs program

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says he hopes two new programs, which will provide summer jobs and educational opportunities to 400 youths at a total cost of about $1.4 million, will serve as models for combating unemployment among the young.

"Of the more than 1.6 million young people between the ages of 16 and 21 living in Texas, 17 percent live below the poverty level and 16.8 percent are unemployed," White said Thursday.

White said the Texas Conservation Corps, fashioned after the Depression-era national Civilian Conservation Corps, would provide jobs for 100 youths between 18 and 21. They will perform state park improvements and other jobs.

Term said inept

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — President Reagan plans to focus his re-election bid on the theme that he made America strong after the Carter-Mondale administration gave the country "inept" leadership that lost Americans respect from abroad, Vice President George Bush says.

At a Reagan-Bush rally Thursday, the vice president said the United States before Reagan was deemed "impotent" in world affairs — a perception that has changed because of Reagan's "character, courage and leadership."

"I've seen the respect with which this country is held. I've seen how the president's firmness and decisiveness have made even our adversaries come to understand, whether they like him or not, that our president is a president they can and must respect," Bush said.

Speaking to about 1,300 supporters in this oil-rich city, the home of his oldest son, Bush said a vote for a Democratic administration would be a vote to return to the "inept" days of Carter-Mondale.

The Carter administration gave America "inept national leadership (and put the country) on the skids like it never had been before," Bush declared, adding that the Reagan-Bush re-election campaign would be focused on the current administration's successes.

"America's back and Ronald Reagan's leadership has brought it back," Bush said.

During the $4-a-plate barbecue luncheon rally that was reminiscent of a high school pep rally, Bush also sought support for the election of Rep. Phil Gramm, R-College Station, to fill retiring Republican John Tower's U.S. Senate seat.

Gramm, who won the May 5 Republican primary, joined Bush at the rally, where the Midland Lee High School band and an eight-member junior high school cheerleading squad entertained the standing room-only crowd before the vice president appeared.

Hire a vet month

President Ronald Reagan has proclaimed June as "Hire a Veteran Month. Mayor Rod Waller also signed a similar proclamation earlier this week.

June 27th is the 40th anniversary of the Veterans Preference Act signed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt on June 27, 1944.

Many war veterans have obtained employment with federal, state, or city governments and in the private sector as the result of federal, state or city Veterans Preference Acts and veteran hiring policies.

Congress enacted the Emergency Veterans Job Training Act of 1983 that provides eligible employees can be reimbursed 50 percent of the starting wages paid to eligible Korean and Vietnam veterans if employees provide on-the-job training for such veterans.

Venue change possible

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — An attorney says international law will be a key point in the defense of a refugee halfway house director charged with transporting illegal aliens.

The trial of Jack Elder, director of the Catholic-sponsored Casa Oscar Romero halfway house, was postponed Thursday until Aug. 6 by U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela.

Elder's attorneys said they would file a motion for a change of venue by July 16 to transfer the trial away from the Texas-Mexico border.

In addition to granting the motion for continuance, Vela approved a change of legal counsel for Elder.

The defense team now includes Rio Grande Valley immigration attorney Lisa Brodyaga; criminal attorney Steve Cooper of St. Paul, Minn.; and lawyers from the New York-based Center for Constitutional Rights, the Washington-based Christic Institute and the National Lawyer's Guild.

"Ideally we would like to have this trial transferred to New York, Washington D.C. or San Francisco, someplace where there is less gut involvement with immigration issues," said Ms. Brodyaga.

"It will be very hard to ferret out jurors in the Rio Grande Valley who don't have prejudice and preformed attitudes," she said.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Guerra said he felt confident that an impartial jury could be found in Brownsville and would oppose any attempt to move the trial.

Ms. Brodyaga said a change of venue would allow the case to be heard by "jurors with a lot more sophistication about world history and international law."

Defense attorneys plan to argue that Elder's actions are sanctioned by the 1949 Geneva Convention that provides protection to civilians fleeing armed conflict in their homeland, Ms. Brodyaga said.

She said the convention, signed by both El Salvador and the United States, "was drafted in response to what was happening in Germany during World War II."

Violent conditions in El Salvador have triggered the convention which "gives protection to civilians fleeing a country and also protects those people, like Jack, who help refugees.

Link Lucas to slaying

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — Self-proclaimed mass murderer Henry Lee Lucas has told investigators that he fatally shot an 18-year-old girl after seeing her and her boyfriend standing beside a car on Interstate 35, the Williamson County sheriff says.

Sheriff Jim Boutwell said Thursday that Rita Salazar and her boyfriend, Frank Key, 19, were found shot to death in separate locations on Nov. 5 and Nov. 6, 1978.

The couple had gone to Austin to see a movie and disappeared after heading back to Georgetown.

Ms. Salazar's body was found off Interstate 35 in McLennan County. Last fall, Lucas' traveling companion, Ottis Toole, was indicted in the slaying of Key, whose body was found off a county road in Williamson County.

Boutwell said Lucas signed a statement Tuesday saying he and a companion, whom Boutwell said he could not name, were driving on Interstate 35 when Lucas saw a couple standing beside a two-toned blue car.

"They stopped to offer assistance. They (the couple) asked for a ride to the next town north, which was Georgetown," Boutwell said. He said the couple got in the car.

Lucas, according to Boutwell, said in his statement that the two were taken down a county road where Key was shot and robbed by the man who was with Lucas.

"They they headed north, and at that time, Rita became unmanageable," Boutwell said Lucas' statement related. "She was killed, but not sexually molested. He (Lucas) recalled her having an object in her arms. He could not remember if it was a sweater or jacket. This fits."

Lucas, who has claimed involvement in more than 150 slayings in an interstate spree of terror, was convicted of capital murder and sentenced to death earlier this year for the 1979 slaying of an unidentified female hitchhiker near Georgetown.

On May 24, Lucas pleaded guilty to the 1970 stabbing death of Linda Jane Phillips, a 26-year-old elementary school teacher whose body was found near Kaufman, and was sentenced to life in prison.

He also has been convicted on two murder charges in the slaying of an elderly Ringgold, Texas, woman and a teen-age traveling companion.

Geter's ordeal on film?

DALLAS (AP) — Lenell Geter, whose life sentence for armed robbery was overturned after nationwide publicity caused doubts about his guilt, says he is on the verge of signing a movie contract.

A movie about his ordeal "is coming. It's very close," Geter told the Dallas Times Herald.

Geter said he met in New York last weekend with several television movie producers.

Crop, livestock prices declined

WASHINGTON (AP) — After seven months of rising or steady prices, farmers are seeing a decline in the amount paid for their products.

Costs for farm supplies and living expenses, however, are remaining steady, according to preliminary figures for May in the Agriculture Department's latest monthly price report.

Farmers experienced a 1.4 percent drop in prices for their crops and livestock in May from April's record high, though they were an average of 5.1 percent above last year at this time. Farmers's costs were unchanged from April, which was 3.1 percent higher than May of 1983.

In terms of the index the department maintains, the prices farmers received were 144 percent of a 1977 base price average used for comparison, down from 146 percent in May. The prices-paid index was 166 percent of the 1977 base.

Prices farmers receive, as shown by the index, rose or remained steady every month since October, when the index was 134 percent, until turning around in May.

Department officials said they did not attach much significance to a single month's report, especially after a string of increases.

Much of the decline was the result of lower prices for eggs, cattle, onions, tomatoes and milk — and higher prices for oranges, soybeans and cotton were not enough to make up for the declines.

Prices for fuel, fertilizer, chemicals and family items all rose during May, but these were offset by lower prices for replacement livestock to leave the prices-paid index unchanged.

Among specific product categories, livestock and livestock product prices fell 4 percent during the month but overall still were 0.7 percent above what they were in May 1983. Crop prices as a whole were up 2.9 percent during May and averaged 12 percent above the year-ago mark.

The poultry and egg index fell 14 percent following a 4 percent increase for April. That left those prices still 20 percent higher than they were a year earlier.

A big part of that decline came in the prices of eggs at the farm, which averaged 68.9 cents per dozen, down 22.5 cents from April.

Vegetables also showed a big drop, with the index 17 percent below the April figure and 20 percent below the May 1983 level. Carrots and sweet corn were, along with onions and tomatoes, pushed down vegetable prices.

Fruit, however, rose for the second straight month, jumping 20 percent in May to leave the index 25 percent ahead of what it was a year earlier. Oranges led the way while lemons and strawberries also commanded higher prices in the market. Grapefruit and pears were lower.

Forest Owners' Opportunities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forest owners are being presented with opportunities to earn a return of 4 percent above the inflation rate on investments in timber production, the Agriculture Department's Forest Service says.

Order three autopsies

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — Autopises were ordered in the deaths of three Longview residents discovered in a car rigged with a hose running from a natural gas meter, a sheriff's investigator said.

The victims — two women and a man — were found about 1:30 p.m. Thursday inside a four-wheel-drive vehicle on an oil lease northwest of this East Texas city, said Gregg County Sheriff's Capt. Larry Smith.

Smith said authorities believe the deaths were accidental and may have stemmed from an attempt to get "high" from the gas fumes.

The victims were identified as Lee Anna Maples, Kimberly Kay Reynolds and Andrew Chionsini, all 18.

Ms. Reynolds, the driver, was the daughter of Rusty Reynolds, owner of KYKX radio in Longview, authorities said.

"It looked like natural gas asphixiation," he said. "It appeared to be accidental from all indications we get. They ran a hose from a gas meter inside the driver's window of the vehicle."

Smith said other teen-agers apparently have used the natural gas to get "high."

"We've had the problem out there before, not with these particular ones," he said.

Depressed after surgery

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband had triple bypass surgery six months ago. He's doing fine and is back to work, but he's depressed. He heard on TV that heart surgery didn't prolong life; if treated by medicine or surgery, the life span is 10 years.

He's drinking too much beer, although only about once a week. He's only 47. I was warned about depression before he left the hospital. How long does this last? Also, there has been a personality change.

DEAR READER — Your husband either misunderstood what was said on TV or it was poorly presented. The point of such comments is that the life expectancy for most patients after heart attack is about the same whether they are treated medically or receive a coronary bypass.

A recent study by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute of 780 patients showed that at the end of five years 90 percent of those treated medically were still alive, compared to 92 percent of those treated surgically. That's a good survival rate for either approach. Of course, many of those patients will live much longer.

Even before the days of coronary bypass you could find instances of post-heart attack patients living more than 20 years. The future outlook is often dependent upon how well the patient adheres to a good program.

Your husband's depression is to be expected. Most patients are depressed after a heart attack, as are many patients after various forms of surgery. And personality changes often occur during a depression.

I'm sending you the Health Letter 10-10, Depression: The Ups and Downs of Life, which explains moods and more serious depressions. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. It will give your husband a better idea of what he can do to decrease his tendency to be depressed.

Your husband needs to look at the good aspects and realize that he can affect his future by his lifestyle. If he can improve his physical capacity under his doctor's guidance that may help give him the confidence he needs about his future.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 24-year old woman in good health. I'm 5 feet 8 inches tall and weigh 130 pounds. My husband is trying to get me to take vitamins. I find it very difficult to swallow pills. Are vitamins really necessary? If so, what kind should I take? Is it possible to overdose on certain vitimins?

DEAR READER — Of course vitamins are necessary. But the very best source for vitamins is in wholesome foods. When it comes to vitamins, nature's way beats pills almost every time. I'm suspicious that people who try to meet their nutritional needs with pills rather than a well-balanced, healthy diet may not be getting something their body needs that we don't know about yet. That includes trace metals and maybe even undiscovered vitamins. After all, there was a time when no one knew that vitamins existed. If you can swallow food and drink juices you can get all the vitamins you need that way.

Now the exceptions. Some people have vitamin deficiencies and need supplements and that may require pills, or even injections of B-12 for pernicious anemia. A young woman such as yourself may need extra iron. Since you don't like pills your doctor may suggest a liquid iron preparation for you if you really need some supplemental iron.

Try to catch lone buffalo

NEWARK, Texas (AP) — If you ask Police Chief Dennis Dunlap where the buffalo roam, he'll probably say all over this North Texas town.

Dunlap has spent the last three weeks tracking down a fence-jumping bull buffalo. He even has gotten help from Dallas businessman H. Ross Perot, who once organized a commando raid on an Iranian prison to free two employees.

But nothing has worked.

"Here I am stuck with a large bull buffalo and don't know what to do with it," said Dunlap, who heads a three-member police force in this town about 50 miles north of Fort Worth. "I'd never handled a buffalo in my nine years as a policeman."

When the buffalo was reported three weeks ago, Dunlap thought it was a cow.

Dunlap, his deputy and a few curious motorists, spent two hours chasing the buffalo on foot for nearly before they were able to get the animal off the road and into a nearby field.

A week later, the buffalo was spotted grazing in the middle of Newark's ballpark. That's when Dunlap became concerned.

"School's out and there are a lot of children out here and the bull doesn't like people," he said. "We had reports that the bull charged two vehicles on FM 718."

So Dunlap contacted the Fort Worth Zoo, the local humane society and Tarrant County Sheriff's Department and "anyone who might be missing a buffalo."

After a television news report last week, Dunlap said he received a number of calls from interested people.

Perot and his company, Electronic Data Systems Inc. of Dallas, came forward. The billionaire, who reportedly owns a buffalo herd on one of his ranches, wanted to help corral the critter.

An EDS employee, Charles Highsmith, went to Newark to help.

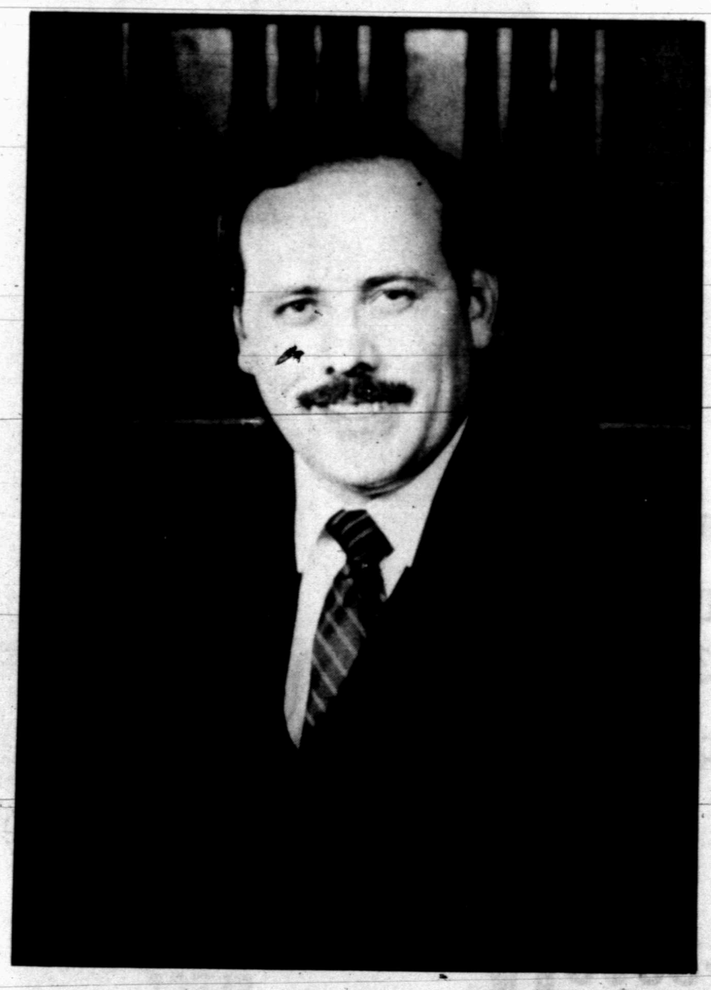

"Highsmith offered to take care of this buffalo for me and get rid of it. I asked him how and he said he would feed it some type of beef cubes, and if the buffalo had ever been tame, it would come to him when it smelled the cubes. Then he could catch it," Dunlap said.

R. Campbell to speak here

Richard Campbell, former All-Southwest Conference and All-American football player at Texas Tech University, will present a sacred music concert Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Campbell was the first athlete to be asked to sing the national anthem on national television prior to playing in a game.

Following graduation from Tech he played in the Hula Bowl and Coaches All-American game. He then moved to California where he sought a career in secular music.

He sang on several television programs and now lives in Lubbock with his wife, Ann, and three daughters and one son.

U.S. President Nixon announced he had accepted the resignation of two cabinet members — George Romney, secretary of housing and urban development, and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, on Nov. 27, 1971.

Ministers like to share duties

DENTON, Texas (AP) — David and Betty Shepperson enjoy doing things together. They like playing golf together. They get a kick out of going fishing together. They prefer to travel together.

And they love working together.

The Sheppersons are interim co-pastors of the First Presbyterian Church in Denton. They have been sharing the duties of running the 400-member Denton church since the first of November. They will probably remain at the church until the end of July, they said.

An interim pastor, according to the couple, is an ordained minister who takes over the role of a church's pastor when the church is looking for a new minister.

The Sheppersons came to Denton after spending a year as interim co-pastors of the First Presbyterian Church in Jonesboro, Ark.

Their stay in Arkansas was the first time the pair had worked together as interim co-pastors. Both had served as pastors of Presbyterian churches before deciding to work together in an interim ministry.

Taking the Jonesboro job was an experiment for the Sheppersons. And it worked, they said.

"We worked well together and decided to keep doing it," Shepperson said.

According to the couple, there have always been interim minsiters. But it was not viewed as a full-time ministry or a means to build a career. The role was usually taken by a retired minster who served on a part-time basis.

That idea is slowly changing, acording to the Sheppersons.

"One of our good friends once told me, 'Every pastor is an interim pastor.'" Shepperson said. Nobody stays at one church a lifetime, he said.

According to the Sheppersons, the interim ministry as a full-time ministry is in its infancy. It's a "growing idea," he said.

MICHAEL S. LINE

Democratic Candidate for District Attorney

Scurry & Borden Counties

"COMPETENCE & DEDICATION"

June 1, 1984

To the Voters of Scurry and Borden Counties:

Re: June 2nd Democratic Run-Off

Allow me to take this opportunity to thank each of you for the support and consideration that I have received. It is my sincere desire to continue the efficient prosecution that has existed for the last thirteen (13) years under our present district attorney.

One primary issue in this campaign has been experience. I have asked you to check my record. My opponent's record reveals he worked as a prosecutor in misdemeanor courts exclusively. His prosecution experience therefore was primarily concerned with defendants without attorneys who were merely pleading guilty. The record shows that he has not, since coming to Snyder, tried even one criminal jury trial in the county or District Court.

As to city prosecution which he was responsible for, he made it his practice not to appear unless the defendant had an attorney there. Is this the type of representation you want where police officers are left to try their own cases?

If you want someone who is fair, just and reasonable, that has some common sense and integrity you should vote for Mike Line.

Sincerely,

Mike Line

Cotton

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were higher at midday dealings today.

The average price for strict low middling 1 & 1-16 inch spot cotton declined 29 points to 80.46 cents a pound Thursday for the eight markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were $2.00 to $2.65 a bale higher than the previous close. Jul 85.15, Aug b81.50, Oct 80.65, Dec 77.55, Mar 78.55, May b78.90, Jul b79.01 and Oct b76.80.

A successful heart transplant was reported by surgeons at South Africa's Cape Town Hospital in 1967. It was said to be the first of its kind.

Actor works 'down under'

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — In the 1860s, Australia attracted thousands of fortune-hungry Americans seeking a country with promise and progress.

Almost 100 years later, Texan Jay Kerr has become another pioneer "down under."

Kerr, a native of Del Rio, is one of four American actors co-starring in "Five Mile Creek," a semimonthly series seen on The Disney Channel pay television service.

Kerr plays Con Madigan, an American working for two women who own a stagecoach line. All episodes are filmed on location about 30 kilometers north of Sydney in French's Forest.

In a telephone interview, Kerr says he believes he is very fortunate to be a part of this ground-breaking series.

"I'm like a good oar," he says. "I go where I'm pushed. I like it here, I think I've made some friends for life down here."

Kerr talks as big as Texas itself.

"When you first get down here, the Australians try to take the 'mickey' out of you, which means to pull your leg. But it was a surprise to everyone — Jay Kerr came down here and had everybody fooled. He had the longest, tallest Texas stories you ever heard," says Louise Caire Clark, one of Kerr's American co-stars.

"Five Mile Creek" is Kerr's first plum role since he left the rodeo circuit to become an actor. He appeared in the 1980 feature film "Hard Country," had a regular role on the CBS soap opera "The Young and the Restless" and a featured part on the short-lived "Wizards and Warriors" TV series.

"I came here because I finally got a chance to do a Western," Kerr said. "I went out to California basically a cowboy and they cast me as a research chemist and a knight. If I could pick two things I wouldn't get cast as..."

Kerr was a state champion rodeo rider in high school and won awards for showing horses. After graduation, he drifted to the pro rodeo circuit but he found little success there.

FFA BARBECUE — Over 150 parents, students and friends of the Snyder High School Future Farmers of America were on hand for the annual SHS FFA barbecue Thursday evening in the Towle Park Barn. Students, their parents and instructors and school superintendent Bill Hood were honored for their work in the program through the past year. (SDN Staff Photo)

Doggett criticizes Hance

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — State Sen. Lloyd Doggett, after receiving an endorsement from San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros, says Kent Hance, his opponent for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, has turned his back on ordinary Texans.

"I never complained about Kent Hance lacking backbone, but I think he's turned his back on ordinary Texans," Doggett said a news conference outside the Bexar County Courthouse.

In continuing his attack before Saturday's runoff for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, Doggett tried to minimize the effect of prominent endorsements of Hance.

San Jac enters juco finals

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) - Southern Idaho, the Cinderella team fighting through the loser's bracket, faces a rested San Jacinto, Texas, club in the championship game of the National Junior College World Series tonight.

It is the first time since 1966 that a team from the northern United States has played for the title.

San Jacinto was the No. 6 team in the national coaches' poll coming into the tournament, and the Gators swept through their first three games before being tripped 7-5 by Allegany, Md., on Wednesday.

The Gators drew a bye, their second of the tournament, to watch Southern Idaho knock out Allegany Thursday night, 11-1.

Southern Idaho won its first two games before losing to San Jacinto, 10-6, on Monday. Since then, the Eagles edged Allegany, Md., 13-12, eliminated second-ranked Middle Georgia 14-10, and beat Allegany again, 11-1, Thursday night.

Celtics tie NBA series at 1-1

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Celtics were struggling feverishly to climb out of a deep hole they had dug for themselves. The Lakers reached in and gave them a hand.

"We let them out of the grave twice," said Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley. "We had a three-point lead in overtime, and also the situation at the end of the game when we wanted to get the last shot."

The Celtics, who squandered a 13-point first-half lead, clawed back to edge the Lakers, 124-121 in overtime Thursday night, and even their National Basketball Association championship series at 1-1.

"You go out there 0-2 and it's going to be tough," said Boston's Scott Wedman, referring to Games 3 and 4 in Los Angeles Sunday and Wednesday.

Thanks to Gerald Henderson's steal and layup that forced overtime and Wedman's game-winning jump shot with 14 seconds remaining, the Celtics head for the West Coast with the series tied.

With Los Angeles holding the ball and the lead, 113-111, with 18 seconds to play in regulation time, Laker Earvin "Magic" Johnson was confident his team would become the first in a NBA championship series to win the opening two games on the road.

"I thought we had it and I figured they would foul and we'd make it and win the game," said Johnson, who had 27 points, 10 rebounds and nine assists. "I never thought we'd turn it over. We let it slip out of our hands."

Henderson stole a pass from James Worthy, who made 11 of 12 shots and led all scorers with 29 points, and went in for a game-tying layup with :13 seconds remaining.

Johnson kept the ball for most of those 13 seconds, then gave it to Bob McAdoo who couldn't get a shot off before the fourth quarter ended.

McAdoo's 12-foot baseline jumper put the Lakers in front 121-120 with 1:26 to go in overtime. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who had 20 points, missed a hook shot with 25 seconds left, and Worthy committed a foul fighting for the rebound, giving the ball to Boston.

The Celtics called timeout to set up their last chance before Wedman, who had averaged just 4.1 points and 11.8 minutes per playoff game this year, buried a 15-footer from the left baseline with 14 seconds to go.

The Lakers weren't dead yet. They had the ball, Boston center Robert Parish slapped it away from Abdul-Jabbar, but it went out of bounds off Bird with eight seconds to play. Then the ball went to McAdoo, and Parish slapped it away from him with 5 seconds remaining.

This time, Bird held on to it, was fouled, and made both shots to cap the scoring with two seconds left and finish with 27 points. Parish added 18 and Henderson and Cedric Maxwell 16 each.

Oregon trying for track title

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) - The Oregon men and Florida State women have moved into position to win the team championships but their coaches were taking nothing for granted as the NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships entered the final two days of competition.

"It looks good as far as the number of people we've qualified, but what they do in the scoring has yet to be seen," said Oregon Coach Bill Dellinger.

Dellinger figures premeet favorite Washington State, Southern Methodist and Arkansas all have a shot at the men's team crown.

But Oregon, the host school, looked to have the most potential.

Oregon's Jim Hill and John Zishka won heats in the 5,000 meters Thursday as the Ducks qualified three runners for the final in that event.

In addition, the Ducks' Joaquim Cruz and Dub Myers - hoping for a 1-2 finish in the 1,500 meters - both made it to the finals in that event.

"I'm feeling great," said Cruz, who also is defending his NCAA 800-meter title and plans to compete in both events for his native Brazil in the Olympics.

Washington State's contingent of 17 competitors - 13 of them from foreign countries - has had a few setbacks but the Cougars remained in a strong position.

WSU javelin thrower Jan Johansson, bothered by an elbow injury, had just one throw Thursday and barely made the final field of 14 with a 231-feet, 2-inch effort.

Oregon's Brian Crouser, the 1981 champion, also had trouble in that event but made the finals with a 244-8 throw.

Washington State's Francis Dodoo also had been bothered by chronic hamstring problems, but managed to make the finals.

In the women's competition, the legion of Florida State sprinters moved the Seminoles toward the team title.

Defending champs open CWS with New Orleans

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - The Texas Longhorns are among three teams considered to be the best of a solid field of eight in the 1984 NCAA College World Series, but New Orleans baseball Coach Ron Maestri has served notice to Texas.

During Thursday's coaches' press conference, Maestri said his Privateers are delighted to make their first trip to the annual Omaha tournament but they won't be settling for a vacation.

"Nothing against being here," he said, "but we're here to compete. We're here to win and I think we will."

New Orleans is the only new team to the tournament this year. The 45-24 Privateers, who open against Texas in the tournament's first game at 4:10 p.m. CDT today, join Maine as the only team in the tournament not to have previously won a championship.

Texas won its fourth title last year, Miami won in 1982, Arizona State it's latest of five titles in 1981, Cal State-Fullerton in 1979, Oklahoma State in 1959 and Michigan won in 1953 and 1962.

"We're the only team with no experience so I guess we're not supposed to win, just show up and lose," said Maestri. He said his team will show up and will play to win.

Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson isn't figuring on an easy job repeating as national champions.

"I think this is the toughest looking field in the years I've come to Omaha," he said. "Right down the line, I think it is the best field I've seen. I think anybody in the tournament field has an equal chance."

Texas carries a 57-12 record into the first-round game.

Tonight's other first-round game matches Michigan, 43-18, with Cal State-Fullerton, 61-19, at 7:10.

Saturday's contests have 47-26 Miami meeting 53-18 Arizona State at 4:10 p.m., and Maine, 33-18, against 58-13 Oklahoma State at 7:10 p.m.

Losers will play elimination games Sunday, while winners advance into winners' bracket games Monday for Friday winners and Tuesday for Saturday's victors in the double-elimination tournament.

Azusa Pacific still unbeaten in NAIA

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) - After a shaky start, pitcher Greg Swain settled down and allowed only one base-runner on in the final four innings, as Azusa Pacific retained its unbeaten position in the NAIA World Series.

With the 7-4 baseball victory Thursday against Coastal Carolina, Azusa Pacific, 3-0, was the only unbeaten team in the series, and was guaranteed a place in Monday's championship game.

In Thursday's other games in the small-college double-elimination tournament, host Lewis-Clark State College eliminated Georgia College 13-4 and Southwestern University of Georgetown, Texas dumped Anderson College 15-1.

Schedules were changed for the tournament, and today's only game pits Lewis-Clark against Emporia State in a loser-out contest at 7 p.m. (PDT). The winner will advance into Saturday's schedule.

Southwestern is 3-1 while Lewis-Clark, Emporia State and Coastal Carolina are all 2-1.

Southwestern went long-ball crazy as Brady Bohannon, Bruce Winters and Phil Wellman drove in the first nine runs with homers in the Pirates' win over Anderson College of Indiana.

Bohannon hit a three-run shot in the third inning, only to be upstaged minutes later by Winters' grand slam. Wellman then slammed a two-run shot over the left-field bleachers in the sixth inning, his third homer of the series.

Anderson College starter Ron Sissel served the home run balls to Bohannon and Winters, and the loss evened his record at 4-4.

Southwestern pitcher Scott Neal moved to 16-3 by scattering six hits and striking out three in six innings.

Mancini fights tonight

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) - Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini, who feels he has matured on the job, will try to remain a champion tonight when he fights Livingston Bramble, a free-spirit from the Virgin Islands.

The scheduled 15-round bout will be the 23-year-old Mancini's fifth defense of the World Boxing Association lightweight champion.

Bramble is the top-ranked WBA lightweight contender, with a 20-1-1 record, with 13 knockouts, and a 13-fight winning streak. Mancini has only one loss compared to 29 wins, 23 by knockout.
