Red Seizure In Rumania Hit by Nazis

Declared Trick of The British to Get Them in New Fight

By The Associated Press BUCHAREST, June 28.—Soviet Russia's swift, bloodless acquisition of a huge expanse of Rumanian territory was labeled by German legion officials today as a British trick to make Germany fight on a new war front in the Balkans.

To Resist Nazis

A report from London disclosed that "definite information" had been received from French Indo-China that Gen. Catroux, above, who was reported from Bordeaux to have been replaced as governor there, would resist any attempted invasion of the French possessions.

It's a Good Antidote for Blues—Seeing "Orphan Nell"

We got our money's worth of laughs out of the antics of the audience at the second performance of "Orphan Nell" last night, in addition to the fun of the play itself.

War to End Is Forecast By Germans

"Cannons Speaking" Answer to Feelers Advanced for Peace

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER.

BERLIN, June 28 (AP).—Germany's reply to any peace feelers from London is an unequivocal statement that "cannons are speaking," authorized sources said today. These sources declared that if certain British circles are endeavoring to bring on peaceful settlement with Germany, these overtures are of no account to the Reich so long as British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's government keeps saying it wants war to a bitter finish.

WILLKIE NOMINATED BY GOP ON SIXTH BALLOT AT CONVENTION

By W. B. RAGSDALE.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28 (AP).—Wendell Willkie, the business man who mused his hair and turned into a politician overnight, won the republican presidential nomination today after the wildest balloting spree of any recent convention.

He wrested the title from whooping delegates on the sixth ballot shortly after midnight, Thomas E. Dewey of New York, his forces badly battered, and Senator Vandenberg of Michigan had freed their supporters to join the mad rush toward the blunt-speaking New York utilities executive.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28 (AP)—The race between the three leading candidates in the republican presidential balloting went like this:

- First ballot: Dewey 360; Taft 189; Willkie 105. Second ballot: Dewey 338; Taft 203; Willkie 171. Third ballot: Dewey 315; Taft 212; Willkie 259. Fourth ballot: Dewey 250; Taft 254; Willkie 306. Fifth ballot: Dewey 57; Taft 377; Willkie 426. Sixth ballot: Willkie 998.

CAROL APPEALS FOR GERMAN AID

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

War clouds blackened over southeastern Europe today. King Carol II's little Balkan kingdom of Rumania, after yielding to a stiff Russian ultimatum, rushed most of its 2,000,000 troops to the Hungarian frontier.

Hungary and Bulgaria called up reserves. Turkey sent her fleet into the Black Sea, stripped for action and ready to defend the Dardanelles against any attack.

In Bucharest, German legion officials charged that the Soviet move into Rumania was a trick "inspired by Britain" to create a new war front.

Germany is avoiding any such trap, they said, and is concentrating on the main task ahead—the assault on Britain herself.

The situation was becoming hourly more grave, threatening to explode the famous Balkan "powderkeg" in a clash of bitter and age-old racial hatreds.

Bulgarian regulars were sped by train from the Turkish frontier to the Rumanian border.

Official quarters in Bucharest said they were informed that Hitler had sent a telegram to Josef Stalin asking the soviet dictator to "meet Rumania half way."

By contrast, there was no tempering of the nazi fuhrer's ambitions in the war with Britain. Authorized sources in Berlin stated bluntly that Germany's reply to any peace feelers from London is this:

"Cannons are speaking!" The British have already denied any peace overtures.

Russian troops, heavily reinforced by tanks and planes, poured across the Rumanian frontier shortly after dawn—swiftly followed up by the Russian ultimatum to Rumania which expired at 10 p. m. (2 p. m. CST) yesterday—and occupied four cities in the ceded provinces of Bessarabia and Bucovina.

It was not immediately known whether King Carol appealed to Hitler for actual military help to combat the soviet invasion or merely asked the German fuhrer to intercede diplomatically for moderation of Russia's stiff demands.

The king had yielded "in principle" to the soviet ultimatum two hours before its expiration, but had pleaded for time to negotiate.

While world attention shifted to the Balkans, the major European struggle between Britain and the nazi-fascist axis powers was marked by new German air raids over the British isles and the torpedo sinking of a deeply-laden 8,000-ton German transport by a British submarine off the south coast of Norway.

The sinking incident, thought comparatively minor in itself, may have disclosed one of the first clues of the scene chosen by Hitler for his heralded invasion of England.

If the German transport was a troop ship, laden with soldiers en route to Norway, it may indicate that the nazi fuhrer has decided on the conquest of Scandinavian kingdoms as a springboard for his assault.

A few minutes before a Soviet ultimatum expired yesterday King Carol agreed to give up Bessarabia, Northern Bucovina, and rights in northern Black Sea ports.

Rumania's neighbors clamored that their claims, too, must be heard. Hungary wants Rumania's large western province of Transylvania. Bulgaria claims southern Dobruja.

Today is a double anniversary for embattled Europe. Twenty-six years ago Gavrio Princip fired the shots that touched off the world war through the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand and his wife, twenty-one years ago Germany acceded to the treaty of Versailles ending that war.

Berlin papers took note of the latter anniversary to comment that that treaty is "now dead."

Hostilities End In Syria, French Declare in Note

JERUSALEM, June 28 (AP)—General Mittelhauser, French commander-in-chief of the allied armies in the near east, announced today the cessation of hostilities in Syria.

LONDON, June 28 (AP)—Both the British war office and the French national committee in London refused today to accept without official confirmation an announcement carried in a dispatch from Jerusalem that "cessation of hostilities" had been ordered in Syria.

"Cessation of hostilities" would be merely the formal way of stating that French forces no longer are at technical war in Syria. There have been no hostilities there, the officials said.

Americans May Be Moved Out of the City of Hongkong

HONGKONG, June 28 (AP)—A decision on the possible removal of 1,000 American citizens in Hongkong may come tomorrow, it was said tonight as British quarters disclosed they were holding ships ready to carry away women and children if it becomes necessary.

A statement broadcast by the government radio here said instructions had been received from London which indicate that an order for their removal might be made soon.

At the same time, the steamer City of Newport News, which left Hongkong today for America, could be recalled if necessary but the President Coolidge was considered large enough to take all Americans on board.

Mrs. Hamilton's Father Dies Suddenly at Tyler

News was received this morning by Mrs. R. W. Hamilton of the death of her father, J. W. Rogers, 80 year old lumber dealer of Tyler. He died during the night, apparently of heart attack, and was found in his bed this morning.

He had planned to retire and was to have moved to Midland soon, the Hamiltons having planned to go to Tyler Sunday to bring him back here. They left this morning upon receipt of news of the death of Mr. Rogers and will meet Mrs. Hamilton's sister, Mrs. R. L. Allen of California, who will go there by plane.

The body is at the Burks-Walker funeral home and funeral services probably will be held tomorrow afternoon, with burial at either Tyler or San Antonio. Besides the two daughters, only survivor of Mr. Rogers is a brother who lives in New Hampshire.

Judge Rules Name To Go on Ballot

District Judge Cecil Collins today ruled that the name of L. L. Wykes, Odessa, should appear on the ballot in the Ector county democratic primary election.

Wykes had filed as a candidate for the office of county and district clerk. When the Ector county population report was made known, it was necessary to divide the offices. Wykes sought to enjoin Chairman Chas. Judkins from printing the ballot without carrying his name as candidate for county clerk. Judkins, through his counsel, held that Wykes did not file for that office.

Jean Crotty of Ft. Worth, who played the part of the hero in the Ft. Worth production of "Orphan Nell" and his friend, Mr. Stevens of Ft. Worth, were visitors to the production at the Rex Theatre Thursday night. Mr. Crotty is a former director of the Del Rio Little Theatre.

Simpson Inducted as Rotary Chief Amid Fun and Frolic

Fun and frolic were added to an elaborate chicken barbecue at the annual outing of Midland Rotary club Thursday evening at Cloverdale park. Approximately 150 attended. The occasion marked the end of the fiscal year and the transfer of administration from old officers to the new.

W. B. Simpson, Midland grocer, took over the presidency, succeeding S. A. Debanum. The latter automatically became vice president and W. I. Pratt was continued as secretary-treasurer. Four other directors, recognized at the meeting, include Herbert S. Collings, George McEntire, W. R. Mann and Harry Gossett.

Clinton Lackey, John P. Howe, Luther Tidwell and Fred Middleton were in charge of general arrangements. Program was directed by W. I. Pratt, Percy Bridgewater and Roy McKee.

A question and answer contest, called the "battle of the sexes," was presented. Mrs. V. Lawrence propounded questions to four women, including Mmes. Percy Mims, Fred Fromhold, H. N. Phillips and W. A. Yeager, winning with one point over a group of men. Fred Wemple questioned the men, including Tom Sealy, George T. Abell, G. W. Breneman and Clark, a guest. Judges were Miss Marguerite Hester and R. D. Scruggs, with W. R. Upham scorekeeper.

A foot race was run by R. W. Hamilton, Ollie Jones, George McEntire and T. Paul Barron, in which each contestant had to find his shoes, put them on, tie them and run back to the starting point. McEntire won. A male quartet, composed of Percy Mims, W. R. Mann, Dr. W. E. Ryan and T. Paul Barron, made a record of "Home on the Range" and "Eyes of Texas," with Fred Wemple operating his dictaphone. Wemple then played to record for the audience.

Hamilton made a short patriotic address on the need of a consciousness, urging the audience to attend tonight's rally at Lackey field.

Pratt made the speech inducting the new officers, introducing them.

Willkie Declares He Is Just Now Beginning Fight for Presidency

By OVID A. MARTIN. PHILADELPHIA, June 28 (AP).—"I'm just beginning a fight," declared Wendell L. Willkie today as an amazing eight-weeks' campaign, unique in recent American politics, brought him the Republican presidential nomination.

Standing atop an improvised platform of desks in his headquarters on the sixteenth floor of a hotel, the 48-year-old utilities executive, tired but smiling broadly, gave a pushing, cheering crowd of admirers the promise of a fight for votes in the weeks to come.

"I intend," he said, "to give everything I have to bring about American prosperity, build an adequate national defense and restore national unity."

Sensing victory as the sixth ballot was taken, Willkie told friends he thought he was the man "to trade blow for blow" with the democratic nominee, whom he predicted would be President Roosevelt.

Word of his nomination, of which he had been confident since the convention opened, came to him by radio at his headquarters.

The former Indiana farm boy kept through it all the informality that has made him popular with convention visitors and Philadelphians from the start.

"I'm very happy, very appreciative and very humble," he said when the last ballot was in.

All during the voting he bawled and joked. Before each ballot, he would offer a prediction as to the number of votes he would get. His predictions always were too conservative. His first forecast that victory would come on the sixth, but later, in a moment of enthusiasm, changed it to the third. When that ballot failed to bring the nomination, he went back to the sixth.

As the contest developed into a battle between himself and Senator Taft of Ohio, Willkie smoked one cigaret after another. Occasionally, he would run his fingers through his thick, black hair.

Once when Taft made a spurt, Willkie remarked: "It looks as if it might be either of us. Well, should he win, we can say that we at least scared them."

A few minutes later, when the tide of Willkie votes started flowing in, he smiled and said: "Boys, that's not bad for eight weeks' work, is it?"

Today's Chief Problem-- NATIONAL DEFENSE Do your part by registering in the Midland Defense Council!

Co-operating With Canada

Practically everybody in both the United States and Canada now concedes that the defense of both countries is a single problem.

Ask yourself: where would the United States be if a strong enemy invaded Canada and became established there? Or, where would Canada be if the United States were successfully invaded by a force capable of accomplishing that?

Co-operation between the military staffs of the two countries are presumed to be imminent, and they ought to be. As early as 1938 when new defenses were devised for the Straits of Juan de Fuca, leading to Puget Sound, both countries collaborated on a defense so designed as to work jointly from both sides of the border. Further steps of this kind are in order.

Just what the relations between the United States and Canada will be after the present war, no one can be sure. One can only be sure that they will be closer and more interdependent even than before.

Alas, for Truffles and Jam

Don't say we weren't warned. They said we would have to make sacrifices, and here they are—already.

Chefs in big New York luxury hotels are already bemoaning the fact that truffles have become very scarce. Pate de foie gras? The shortage is grave. Filets of anchovy? The price is rising. English jams are scarce. Irish bacon can't be had. No Belgian endive. And Italian salami is off the menus entirely.

Well, there it is! Just think of the times during the past few years when you had truffles and pate de foie gras for dinner, and you see immediately how serious all this is.

Who can tell? If this sort of thing keeps up it may be necessary to turn to consuming some of our own vast agricultural surpluses, the wheat, the corn, the dairy products, native fruits, which our own farmers have produced by the sweat of their brows and can't sell for enough to make a living.

Vanishing Indian?

Ask the average American and we bet he'll say that the Indians are a vanishing race, whose ranks are thinning away into nothingness, something like the G. A. R.

That's not true among the Arizona Indians at least, as the 1940 census-takers found. There are some 51,730 Indians now living in that state, an increase of 12,233 since 1930.

In many countries to the south, for example in Mexico, the Indian population is large, and the mestizo or mixed-blood population is still larger. These elements take a large part in the running of the country.

Possibly if the United States' Indian population continues to grow larger, it too will take a larger part in the life of the country. At present the very smallness of the groups tends to isolate them from the rest of the population.

Contribution of Ranchmen and Farmer to Defense Of Nation Praised by AAA Administrator in Speech

Remarks by R. M. Evans, Agricultural Adjustment Administration Administrator, at the National Range Conference, San Angelo, today.

Today more than half the people of the world are at war. It is a war of tremendous destruction—a war that is bringing economic changes we find it difficult to imagine. Already agriculture of the United States has felt the first blows of those changes. The story is told in two words—lost markets.

When peace comes—whether it is tomorrow or years from now and whether one side wins or the other—we have no assurance the problem will be solved automatically. On the contrary, this country, and particularly agriculture, may face great problems of adjustment to new conditions.

These days when the war lords of the world are on the march the people of this country are uniting as never before behind a program for national defense. We are determined to save our land from every enemy. An important part of this national defense program is our AAA farm program, a program actively engaged in the protection of American soil.

The AAA farm program — of which the Range Conservation Program is an essential — arm was initiated as a peacetime movement on the part of our farmers and ranchmen for the conservation and development of this nation's agricultural resources. By carrying out these peacetime programs for conservation, the farmers and ranchmen of the nation have made and are making an immeasurable contribution directly to the national defense.

Look at what our farmers and ranchmen are doing to strengthen this nation, either for peacetime pursuits or for defense of our freedom.

First, they are building up the productive power of the farm land and the range through widespread use of conservation practices.

Second, they are cooperating in a program designed to make agriculture a healthy industry that provides abundance now and will continue to provide that abundance in the future.

Sound agriculture is essential to national strength. And the AAA stands more clearly today than ever before as a vital bulwark to our defense program. The AAA is increasing the Nation's strength by helping farmers and ranchmen conserve and build up the agricultural resources of the United States — resources as important to our future as in our past development.

The nation as a whole has a large stake in the resources of the western range. From this range, a large part of the nation's supply of livestock products come.

There are approximately 68,769,000 head of cattle in the United States, including dairy cattle — nearly 30,000,000 of these cattle are in the western range country. Of the 54,473,000 head of sheep in the United States, nearly 40,000,000 are in the range States.

These figures tell the story of the importance of the range of the nation. They also give an indication of how important it is to the nation to conserve the range. Earlier in our history, the grass land seemed almost unlimited. Today we know through experience that our range can become exhausted like any nature's offerings when we draw upon it too heavily without protecting it. In the last 20 years we have begun to appreciate how quickly productivity of the range can be destroyed. Ranchmen were among the first to see the need for conservation. Many of them began practices to protect their range years ago. After they could no longer move to new land range operators learned through hard times and frequent droughts that they could not do the job individually and the government, in the national interest, set about helping them.

It is not unusual that the people of the United States through their government should be taking increased interest in the conservation of the range. Tariffs and other aids were extended to industries. We have added to the value of the national wealth by assisting railroad expansion, building highway, constructing irrigation dams and similar projects.

So the Range Program merely continues that policy into a new field by helping the ranchman build up the range to its highest productivity. It is another way of adding to the nation's wealth.

Like other phases of the farm programs, the Range Program resulted from a need—a need for a range wisely conserved and improved to provide the efficiency that is necessary for continued and prosperous production by the range operator.

Conservation of the western range is dependent upon the operation of users of the range in a program of wise range use and improvement. Most ranchmen understand the need for that cooperation. They have demonstrated this by the way they have made use of the program in the five years of the Range Program. In 1936, the last year for which I have complete figures, more than 45 thousand ranches comprising nearly 190 million acres cooperated. What these range operators and those cooperating in other years have done to restore and protect range forage through range-building practices will be of lasting benefit to the nation.

Practices completed during the first two years of the program, as you know, were largely those tending toward better distribution of livestock and more uniform utilization of range forage. Under the 1938 and 1939 programs there has been greatly increased participation in the deferred grazing practice, although many ranches still are engaged in developing additional water supplies. There has also been an increase in water conservation and run-off control measures.

This year the program has been extended still more at the individual ranch. Each state has many examples of how the program has directly helped many range operators to develop a plan for their own ranches. They are plans which take into account the factors necessary for conservation and improvement of the range. They meet the individual conservation problems.

From the beginning we have emphasized the provision which permits no payment if a part of the range is built up and another section is misused to such an extent that the stand of grass is decreased. State and county committees have a responsibility in making sure that provision is carried out. They also have the responsibility to the ranchmen themselves and all the people to demand that the practices meet the standards set up by the program. These are fair standards agreed upon by range operators after experimentation. They are nothing more than standards set to get the job done.

The conservation of the range is a continuous process and cannot be accomplished in a single year or a period of years. Neither can much be done by an individual practice scattered here and there. But often the operator's failure to make full use of the program is due to his lack of information about the program itself. This presents another job for the committee.

In the last few days you have seen the results of practices which have been carried out on the Texas range. You have seen range improved through natural and artificial reseeding. You have seen where reservoirs were being effectively used to obtain better distribution of stock, and where contouring and spreader dams were put to use in checking water runoff. These results prove that the range operators are protecting and building their range resources. They prove that, given the opportunity and assistance that is available through the Range Program, the productivity of our western grass land will be maintained and strengthened.

The Range Program and the Ever-Normal Granary are the greatest stabilizing influence in the livestock industry today. Stockmen know from experience the disastrous effects of wild cycles of weather and prices. Of course, the Range Program cannot halt the droughts, but through water development and grass conservation ranchmen can protect their range and the operations from the worst effects of the drought years.

The consumer has a stake in this program, too. While the meat consumers of the United States may not realize the significance of wide fluctuations of cattle numbers in areas far away from their meat markets, they are very aware of high meat price cycles which follow.

Through its stabilizing effect upon the range and the livestock production, the program here again gives the ranchman the means of offering his product at reasonable and stable prices which means the development of his market to the fullest.

Out here in the West there is another group that stabilizing influence from another standpoint. I mean the businessman. A large part of the West is directly dependent upon the livestock industry. Storekeepers in small western towns and wholesalers in larger western cities know that their prosperity is tied up with the livestock industry.

The AAA program supports not only the range operator, but the other branches of industry which depend upon his buying power.

The Range Program, however, is more than a program for the West. The people of the nation, through support of the program, are making an investment in our natural resources. It is up to the ranchman to live up to his end of the bargain. And it is up to us who administer the program to see that the nation gets its money's worth.

When this is done the range will add another enduring force to our country's might.

Weak-arched Rotarians staged a foot race last night, and several of them probably couldn't pass the army examinations today.

Some bright republican, or something-or-other, has adopted a badge reading "Draft Roosevelt and Roosevelt will Draft You."

Babson Says Youth Face Changed Outlook as Two Million Graduates Seek Jobs in Industry

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Copyright, 1940, Publishers Financial Bureau

DIXVILLE NOTCH, N. H., June 29.—America's mammoth educational mills have been just thrown 2,000,000 school and college graduates on the doorsteps of industry. Already plagued by nearly 10,000,000 jobless, this new army of hopefuls adds further testimony to the fact that America must, as a vital part of our defense program, solve the unemployment problem. It is a new world that greets these 2,000,000 fledglings, a vastly different world than the textbooks just tucked away on the shelves told them about. But these newcomers must make their own way in a world desperately needed in helping America resistively face her challenge in this worldwide revolution.

PROFIT TREND DOWN

Bluntly, graduates must recognize there are NOT the same opportunities for them that there were for their fathers and mothers. Jobs cannot pay so much in the future as they have in the past. For the first time in half a century the trend of the profits of American business is headed downward. The increased efficiency of our factories, making of home building, I believe that building, its products, and trades offer real opportunities.

For five decades, America's unsurpassed engineers constantly improved the efficiency of our industrial machine. This increased efficiency sopped up sensational advertising in government and labor camps. Machines have made it temporarily possible to work less, waste more, and yet enjoy a higher standard of living. Now, with government and labor costs still rising, increased efficiency of American factories and machines cannot hope to overcome the additional burdens of mammoth defense expenses as well.

EFFECT OF A GERMAN VICTORY

With that point firmly fixed in mind, today's graduate should also weigh the effect of a German-controlled Europe on American economy. Bluntly, again, the truth here is that the United States is in the worst competitive position in history. Despite our efficient industrial methods, we are on the defensive in world markets because of our high salaries, high wages, high taxes, and terrible waste. Moreover, political influence always follows economic influence. Germany, Japan, and Italy will exploit this to the fullest extent, particularly in South America.

Individualy-controlled democratic American businesses will find themselves at the mercy of state-controlled Fascist cartels. Confident of victory, Germany has just offered steel, for instance, to South America for October delivery at a substantial reduction from our prices. She can dictate selling prices because she can dictate what she pays for wages and raw materials. This Nazi announcement sounds an ominous note not only for our economy, but for our security. Naturally, our export firms are frightened. Hence, the 1940 job-seeker should not count on foreign trade opportunities.

OPPORTUNITIES SELECTIVE

So far this is a pretty dismal outlook, but balanced against the uncertain picture of America's economy as a whole are definite opportunities in selected industries. Here are a few:

1. CHEMICALS: Most chemical companies are prosperous and have a tremendous future. Real developments are taking place in the plastic industry particularly. The future offers unlimited opportunities—war or peace, Fascism or Democracy, New Deal or Old Deal.

2. AVIATION: The industry is America's youngest, America's most hopeful. The day is not too distant when it will be as cheap to ride the airways as the railways and the highways. Those interested in commercial piloting should enter through the air corps. But the industry needs more than pilots—it needs young men to grow up with it in its vital administrative work.

3. BUILDING: One of the greatest contributions of the New Deal to the American scene is its attempts to put homes in the reach of small income brackets. It has solved the problem of financing and it is now attempting to solve the problem of high costs. Despite the uncertainties that war always brings to home building, I believe that building, its products, and trades offer real opportunities.

4. MERCHANDISING: America still needs better salesmen. This includes stores, mail order, advertising, and personal selling. Whatever goods are made, or whoever makes them, they must be sold, irrespective of the value of the dollar or the character of the government.

5. DEFENSE: The army, navy, air force, coast defense need able young men to make defense their career. The past 25 years clearly show that disarmament is a snare and a delusion—that this country must not be caught unawares as were France and Great Britain in 1918.

MUST MAKE OPPORTUNITIES

I am attending a Convention of Fire Chiefs—men who never consider themselves and have no fear of danger. I cannot help thinking that they have the key to real success. It is true that today there are new conditions to combat, that competition is very severe, and that government aid, relief, or artificial crutches of any kind. Those, however, who make up their minds to work harder and longer hours, to follow the New Testament's command—"to give full measure, pressed down and running over"—those graduates will make opportunities for themselves which may lead to more in the end than they ever hoped.

In short, the future of the 1940 graduate depended upon what was about him; but the future of the 1940 graduate depends upon what is in him. Opportunities?—Yes!—But the opportunities of today are in the development—not of the character of the land but of the character of the man!

Charles Sapp Joins U. S. Marine Corps

Charles Walter Sapp, son of Mrs. Mary Sapp, Midland, Texas, joined the forces of the United States Marines, Wednesday, June 28th at the Dallas, Texas, Recruiting Station and was transferred the same date to the Marine Corps Base at San Diego, California, for training and duty.

Sapp attended school at Midland, Texas and through the facilities of the Marine Corps Institute, he will have the opportunity to carry on Russia's successful ultimatum to Rumania, demanding sweeping concessions which include cession of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina, is to my mind largely a strategic defensive move against Germany in particular and the axis partners in general.

The thunder from the unimpeded charge of the great German war-machine across Europe is beginning to rattle the windows of Moscow's Kremlin.

The Bolshevik action has sent sparks showering about the open Balkan powder-keg. The situation is tense and there is danger of an upheaval in this cockpit of south-eastern Europe.

If the Muscovites don't encounter any snag in carrying out this sudden maneuver which further scrambles the already unrecognizable map of Europe, the Reds not only will acquire fresh territory but secure a large degree of control over this important Balkan state which Hitler has staked out for himself.

This is calculated to improve the Soviet's military position, and further safeguard its interests in the Balkan Peninsula and the near east.

The Berlin attitude that Germany is disinterested under such conditions can be dismissed as just another way of saying that nazidom doesn't want to talk. Equally unsatisfying is the idea in some diplomatic quarters that the Bolsheviks are acting with the approval of Germany.

Herr Hitler isn't likely to abandon his ewe lamb in such fashion. If he appears to acquiesce it is because there is very little else he can do about it, in view of his commitment to perform the considerable task of dismembering the British empire. The fact that King Carol appealed to Hitler for help shows how the wind lies.

Moreover, the fuhrer can't afford to have a war started in the Balkans, because he is depending greatly on this area to feed his people in case the conquest of England gives him trouble and the British blockade continues to cut him off from food supplies.

Control of Rumania certainly is a matter of vital concern to Berlin. Here is the oil which is all-important to Germany, especially for war. Here are wide grain fields to help fill her cavernous bellies. No, I don't believe the fuhrer has invited any such agreement. Stalin has just beat him to the draw, that's all.

Invitations Out to Diamond M Horse Show

Numerous Midland citizens have been invited to attend the annual barbecue and horse show of C. T. McLaughlin at his Diamond M ranch near Snyder next Sunday.

Entries will come from some of the most outstanding stables in the Southwest. C. T. McLaughlin, owner of the ranch, has been active in organizing some of the horse shows of the area and is doing a good job of directing his own show each year. Among stables which have entered the Diamond M ranch horse show are: the Lubbock Plantation class owned and shown by Lubbock people; the Forest Park, Rockwood and Beasley stables of Fort Worth; Picketts Burton stables of Dallas; exhibitor Frank Kelley of Colorado City; Chappel Davis of Midland and possibly the Joe D. Hughes stable of Houston.

Approximately 50 horses from the various stables have been entered for the show, not including the horses belonging to McLaughlin. Mrs. John Kennedy of Ft. Worth will not enter horses for the Diamond M show as her heavy harness and pony strings are in competition on the West Coast. R. E. Harding will judge the classes in the event. Awards will include $400 in cash besides trophies. Most of the horses shown will be moved on to Stamford afterward for the show in connection with the rodeo there July 2-4.

Dr. M. H. Bennett of Big Spring will have two of his horses in the McLaughlin show. Franklin Delano Roosevelt will be entered in the five gaited class and Miss Arnett, a walking horse, will compete.

Roosevelt Ready to Talk With Wilkie On Foreign Affairs

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he would be glad to talk about foreign affairs with Wendell L. Wilkie, republican nominee for president.

Asked at his press conference whether he would have any trouble getting together with Wilkie on foreign affairs, the chief executive asserted he would be glad to talk with Wilkie at any time.

But when reporters inquired whether he had anything to say on politics, Mr. Roosevelt replied he thought not.

He opened his press conference in a jovial mood, apologizing for being late and explaining that his elevator wasn't working because someone turned off power.

Griming, he said he was hoping it had no connection with what happened at Philadelphia where utilities executive Wilkie was nominated.

Immense Boost for Defense Fund Cash May Be Asked by FR

WASHINGTON, June 28.—President Roosevelt, it is reported, intends to seek an immense boost in the defense program that would more than double the $5,082,310, 080 already appropriated and shatter the arms bill of the peak world war year. Unusually well-informed sources said last night the request would be exclusively for army purposes, and that it might be ready for submission when congress returns next week from its recess. They said that if the funds were voted the nation's arms expenditures for the coming fiscal year would surpass the all-time record outlay of $11,011,387,000 for the twelve months beginning July 1, 1918. Mr. Roosevelt, it was said, will ask congress to make the additional billions available without delay so the army can place more orders at once for planes, tanks and other weapons. The projected recommendation also was reported to include provisions for financing expansion of aircraft production and munitions factories construction. Before the likelihood of a further defense increase was mentioned, President Roosevelt authorized late yesterday the seizure of foreign vessels in American waters if such action was necessary either to protect this nation's interests or the safety of the ships themselves. The president's action, one high official said, could be interpreted as laying the basis for the possible detention, if necessary, not only of French vessels in American waters but also of shipping owned in other European countries now controlled by Germany.

War Mars Interest In 13-Man Race for RR Commission

AUSTIN, Tex., June 28 (AP)—The war is bearing heavily on the race for the open place on the three-member State Railroad Commission. Demands for adequate national defense are being voiced by several candidates. One complaint that nazis sympathizers have torn down his anti-Hitler posters. Activity among the record-breaking field of 18, is quite general and reaches virtually all sections of Texas. A development of the week was withdrawal of C. A. Everts, Dallas oil operator. Everts said he believed that as a result of the war federal control of the oil industry was impending and the railroad commission was due to lose its oil regulatory powers. At Edinburg, Pierce Brooks of Dallas, urged state government departments and educational institutions to make sure that no fifth columnist were on the state payroll. Olin Culberson of Eden and Austin stressed the importance of the commission's position in national defense, as well as in the industrial development of the state. Senator Olan R. Peace Overture Rumors Denied by British Officials

LONDON, June 28.—A conservative party united under the leadership of former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain pledged itself anew today to full support of the British government in its "determination to win the war." In a statement issued on Chamberlain's authority the powerful conservatives denied and branded as "rumors obviously inspired from fifth-column sources reports that Chamberlain heads a group which is prepared to come to terms with Adolf Hitler." The declaration of "whole-hearted resolve" to back Prime Minister Churchill and the government came almost simultaneously with raids on Britain by Hitler's bombing planes for the seventh time in the last ten days. This time the nazi raiders appeared over northeast and southeast England and southeastern Scotland. They were met by British fighter planes and intensive anti-aircraft fire and, according to a communique from the air ministry and ministry of home security, inflicted "no serious damage" and "very slight casualties."

AAA Farm Program Said Important to Defense of Nation

SAN ANGELO, June 28 (AP)—R. M. Evans, agricultural adjustment administrator, told the National Range Conference today that the AAA farm program is important to national defense. In a speech prepared for delivery at the closing session of the conference that drew several hundred AAA committeemen and ranchmen from 17 western states, Evans said the European war is bringing economic changes "we find it difficult to imagine." "Already agriculture of the United States has felt the first blows of these changes," he added. "The story is told in two words—lost markets." "When peace comes—whether it is tomorrow or years from now and whether one side wins or the other—we have no assurance the problem will be solved automatically. On the contrary, this country, and particularly agriculture, may face great problems of adjustment to new conditions, x x x "By carrying out these peacetime (AAA) programs for conservation, the farmers and ranchmen of the nation have made and are making an immeasurable contribution directly to the national defense." Evans said that of approximately 68,769,000 head of cattle in the United States, nearly 30,000,000 are in the western range country; and of the 54,473,000 head of sheep in the nation, nearly 40,000,000 are in the range states.

Peace Overture Rumors Denied by British Officials

LONDON, June 28.—A conservative party united under the leadership of former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain pledged itself anew today to full support of the British government in its "determination to win the war." In a statement issued on Chamberlain's authority the powerful conservatives denied and branded as "rumors obviously inspired from fifth-column sources reports that Chamberlain heads a group which is prepared to come to terms with Adolf Hitler." The declaration of "whole-hearted resolve" to back Prime Minister Churchill and the government came almost simultaneously with raids on Britain by Hitler's bombing planes for the seventh time in the last ten days. This time the nazi raiders appeared over northeast and southeast England and southeastern Scotland. They were met by British fighter planes and intensive anti-aircraft fire and, according to a communique from the air ministry and ministry of home security, inflicted "no serious damage" and "very slight casualties."

War Mars Interest In 13-Man Race for RR Commission

AUSTIN, Tex., June 28 (AP)—The war is bearing heavily on the race for the open place on the three-member State Railroad Commission. Demands for adequate national defense are being voiced by several candidates. One complaint that nazis sympathizers have torn down his anti-Hitler posters. Activity among the record-breaking field of 18, is quite general and reaches virtually all sections of Texas. A development of the week was withdrawal of C. A. Everts, Dallas oil operator. Everts said he believed that as a result of the war federal control of the oil industry was impending and the railroad commission was due to lose its oil regulatory powers. At Edinburg, Pierce Brooks of Dallas, urged state government departments and educational institutions to make sure that no fifth columnist were on the state payroll. Olin Culberson of Eden and Austin stressed the importance of the commission's position in national defense, as well as in the industrial development of the state. Senator Olan R. Van Zandt of Tioga will speak at Belton July 4, honoring soldiers of all American wars. Because of the serious illness of his mother, he cancelled engagements for this week. W. H. McDonald of Eastland—former state land commissioner—is stressing the need for raising the truck load limit, and has requested mayors to form committees to investigate subversive activities. Walton D. Hood of Austin, former chief enforcement officer of the commission, is emphasizing an Americanism theme and a strong anti-fifth column program. Bryan Patterson of Alice, oil well drilling contractor, running on a platform of "honesty and horse sense," has erected more than 2,500 large posters, which bear the red splash, "Stop Hitler!" "We have had some trouble with nazis sympathizers tearing them down," he reports, "but after working them over in the good old southwest style it has about ceased." Charles Langford, Jr., of League City, former chief engineer with the commission, has been advocating the merit system for commission employees, an increase in the truck load limit, 90-day oil proration schedules with no shutdowns,

Market Moves Up On Nomination of Wendell Willkie

By VICTOR EUBANK.
NEW YORK, June 28 (AP). — Nomination of Wendell L. Willkie as the republican presidential standard bearer was credited by many in Wall Street today for one of the sprightliest stock market upswings of the month.

In fast dealings, with utilities in front, leaders bounded up 1 to more than 4 points at the start. Profit taking soon crept into the list and slowed the pace appreciably. Top marks, consequently, were substantially cut at the close. Transfers were around 1,200,000 shares, with the first hour accounting for about half the turnover.

Rapidly shifting affairs in the Balkans served to restrain speculative forces. Continuance of peace talk also helped stem the tide.

Opinions voiced that the G.O.P. selection of a prominent business executive was "constructive," provided a cushion for such selling as cropped up during the session, brokers said.

Commonwealth & Southern Common—Willkie is president of this corporation, but announced he would resign Monday—appeared in one trade of 75,000 shares, up 1/8 to 5-8.

Conspicuous on the morning move were North American, Consolidated Edison, Public Service of N. J., American Water Works, United Gas Improvement, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Dow Chemical, Du Pont, Westinghouse, General Electric, American Smelting and Sears Roebuck.

Backward were Standard Oil of N. J., Sperry and Phelps Dodge.

or used to drive the bakery truck . . . or played football at Elwood high school . . . or practiced law with his parents, Herman and Henrietta Willkie, after his graduation from Indiana University.

A few weeks ago Willkie promised Elwood friends that, if nominated, he would make his acceptance speech from the steps of the high school here. He has been invited to attend the Indiana tomato festival here the final night, July 26, in the hope he would make his speech then.

The townspeople were given free rein until they decided they had celebrated enough and finally straggled off home. The police decided it would be futile to try to regulate traffic or keep thoroughfares open.

"It looks as if they might tear Elwood down," Sgt. Ray Ballard said at headquarters at the height of the impromptu festivities.

"I think we'll let them, though," he mused.

Duke, Wally Unhurt As Car Hits Bridge

NEW YORK, June 28 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor's quick action in grasping his Duchess' dress and holding her in their car when it crashed into a bridge in Spain saved her from possible injury, a national broadcasting company reporter said today from Rome.

The Duke and Duchess, in Spain after fleeing from France, were en route to Portugal yesterday when the accident occurred. The impact of the crash sprung open the car door and nearly pitched the Duchess into a river.

Spanish police are investigating. (The Madrid the Windsor's secretary said last night they expected to leave Spain Sunday for Lisbon).

Italian Air Raids Declared a Success

ROME, June 28 (AP)—The Italian high command reported "effective actions" by the Italian air force in Northern Africa and Italian East Africa.

"In air battles over Asmara one British plane was shot down. The crew landed safely and was taken prisoner."

"In the skies of Assab (Italian East Africa) one British plane was shot down and two were seriously damaged."

MEXICO CITY, June 28 (AP)—The French people "have risked their existence for international morality," President Lebrun of France said today in a cable to President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico.
