Angry Slav Leaders Defy Soviet Bloc

Cominform's Denunciation Of Tito Regime Called 'Lies And Slander'

(By The Associated Press)

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 29—In angry defiance, Yugoslavia's Communist party accused the Russian-led Cominform tonight of lies and slander. It declared firmly its relations with Russia "must be based on confidence and not on spying."

This in general was its 10,000-word answer to the Cominform's condemnation of Premier-Marshal Tito's regime and its call upon "loyal" Yugoslav Communists to overthrow the country's leaders unless they mend their "nationalistic ways."

With language unprecedentedly harsh for exchanges between Communist comrade countries, the Yugoslav party denounced as absurd a long list of Cominform charges, ranging from hostility toward Russia to attempts to curry favor with western nations.

Russian Help Needed

The sharply-worded Yugoslav answer was tempered only by a declaration that "direct contact" between the Bolshevick party of Russia and Yugoslav party organization is necessary to iron out differences.

"Only in such a way will there be a solution," the statement said.

"The central committee of the Communist party of Yugoslavia needs the help of Russia," it added.

But this apparent willingness to conciliate the differences was advanced without a sign of knuckling under to Russian pressure.

One by one, the statement denied the Cominform's accusations that Yugoslavia has strayed from the party of Marxism and from close cooperation with the Communist countries into the errors of nationalism.

Politburo Scored

It claimed, moreover, that those accusations were laid down without Yugoslav Communists being given a chance to defend themselves.

"A historic injustice has been done," the Yugoslav reply said, "and this will be taken advantage of by imperialistic enemies for propaganda and slander."

The reply even took issue with the all-powerful Russian Politburo, moulder of Soviet strategy.

"The Bolshevik Politburo did not wish to discuss the subject and does not try to put away the lies about" the governing central committee of Yugoslavia's Communists, the reply said.

It complained that neither the magazine published in Belgrade by the Communist International Information bureau (Cominform) nor the Soviet press ever print facts about "the enormous successes of Yugoslavia in its work on reconstruction and socialization and the five-year plan. They should not be silent when facts prove it."

In a later broadcast over the of-

U. S. Reds Back Blast At Slavs

NEW YORK, June 29 (INS)—The Communist party of the United States rallied tonight to the cause of the Cominform and Russia in the split with Yugoslavia.

In a statement, the Communist party national committee declared:

"The eight parties of the Communist Information bureau have rendered an outstanding service to the cause of world peace, the independence of nations, and the fight for socialism by exposing the betrayal of that cause by the present leaders of the Communist party of Yugoslavia."

Tito Condemned

The Communist party of the U. S. is not represented in the Cominform.

Nevertheless it "sharply condemned" Marshal Tito, Yugoslav Vice Premier Edvard Kardelj and other ranking Communists in the Belgrade government.

In much the same language used by the Cominform in its denunciation of Tito the U. S. Communist party declared from its New York headquarters that Yugoslav Communist leaders have "departed from the path of Marxism-Leninism."

The statement further charged: "It (the Yugoslav Communist party leadership) has abandoned

SUBSIDY IS ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON June 29 (AP)—The government tonight announced a mail subsidy on relief packages for much of Europe and China to encourage private contributions to the recovery task. A cut of four cents a pound on July 6 in parcel post rates to 11 countries, made possible by the subsidy, will bring a "substantial" increase in private shipments of food, clothing and other items, the Economic Cooperation administration predicted.

U.S. To Rush Aid To China

By H. K. REYNOLDS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 29 — The State department disclosed tonight that the $125,000,000 Chinese military aid program authorized by Congress has been put in motion.

Lyncoln White, department press officer, explained that terms of the program under which Chiang Kai-Shek's nationalist government can obtain aid were transmitted to the Chinese embassy today

The department's statement was in reply to demands by Sen. Bridges (R-NH), for "immediate action" by Secretary of State Marshall to carry out the assistance program which Congress authorized two months ago.

Funds Made Available

The chairman of the Senate appropriations, in a letter to Marshall, accused the department of dilatory tactics in negotiations with Chinese representatives.

White, however, said that the department was unable to act until after President Truman signed the bill yesterday. He declared that Senate and House disagreements over the form of the appropriation measure had also held up department action.

White also pointed out that $36,500,000 of the $50,000,000 advance by the Reconstruction Finance corporation has been made available to the Economic Cooperation administration for immediate use in China.

Explanation Asked

He said that most of the funds has been committed for goods now enroute to or which have arrived in China. On June 2, he said, a note was sent to the Chinese embassy indicating how the remaining $13,500,000 could be drawn.

Bridges had called on Marshall for a "full explanation," and for assurances that the Chinese military program would go forward in accordance with the wishes of Congress. He said:

"In view of the extremely serious military situation in China, where Chinese government armies with insufficient supplies are being attacked by more than two million well-armed Communists, the delay of the Department of State in this matter is clearly contrary to the vital interests of the American people."

Michigan Congressman May Fight For New Tax Slash

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—Another four billion dollar tax cut in 1950 is the goal of Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), who said today he might run for Congress once more in order to fight for the reduction.

Knutson, chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, said last month he probably would retire in January when his present term ends.

"I want to complete the tax program I started in 1947," he told a reporter today.

TRAGEDY AT ZOO

Lad's Arm Chewed Off By Black Bear

(By The Associated Press)

PEORIA, Ill., June 29.—A 250-lb. black Himalayan bear, "Tuffy," today chewed off the arm of a 12-year-old boy who climbed a fence to feed the animal.

Witnesses said John Dickerson climbed a three-foot fence outside the cage of "Tuffy" and "Babe," Glen Oak park's two black bears. He was feeding grapes to "Tuffy" through the bars when the animal grabbed his arm.

Spectators who heard the boy's screams were frozen with horror, but a nearby concessionaire, A. B. Eads, grabbed a cane from an onlooker, jumped the fence and stuck the cane in the bear's mouth, forcing it to release the boy.

YOUNGSTER, LOST 24 HOURS, FOUND—Bobby Brown, 2, sits beside his mother, Mrs. Houston Brown, on a searcher's car shortly after he was found wandering lost in the rough, rattlesnake-infested ranch country near Graham. The boy was found, scratched and bruised, after a 24-hour search by a plane which joined the party of some 300 searchers. The bay, clad only in a T-shirt, said he was looking for his dog when approached. (AP Photo.)

Death Toll Mounts In Jap Quake Area

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
INS Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, June 30 (Wednesday)—The mounting toll in the disastrous earthquake which rocked western Japan Monday was set by U. S. Army authorities today at 3,155 persons killed and 7,752 seriously injured.

All of the victims were Japanese. No American or Allied occupation personnel were injured.

The quake covered a 300-mile square area, centering on Japan's "silk capital" of Fukui and 39 surrounding towns and villages in Fukui prefecture (province), 200 miles west of Tokyo.

Property Damage Staggering

Gov. Harukazu Obata of Fukui prefecture said today that the final death toll may climb to 5,000 and that property damage throughout the province was staggering.

In the city of Fukui, 30,721 buildings were destroyed or damaged. Of these, 6,306 homes and buildings were destroyed by great fires which broke out after the temblor struck.

American military government relief teams distributed food and medicine to the survivors as smoking ruins were searched for the bodes of additional victims.

In Fukui alone 1,000 persons died. Another thousand were estimated killed in the city of Maruoka. Three other towns near Maruoka were completely destroyed with heavy loss of life.

Lt. Col. James Hyland of New York City, in command of the military government at Fukui, was in charge of the distribution of food, medicine and clothing there. He established relief headquarters in the old palace compound of the city and long lines of refugees were still filing through the compound today to receive emergency rations.

Frank Emery, International News Service correspondent who flew from Tokyo to the scene of the disaster, reported in an eyewitness dispatch that "Fukui's sur-

Jewel Boxes In Burglary Found

Five jewelry boxes which apparently had contained part of the thousand-dollar loot taken at Zale's Jewelry store, at 1110 Texas Ave., early Monday, were found in the construction area of a new building at Main and Ave. K Tuesday.

Workmen had seen the boxes early Tuesday, but had attached no significance to them until about noon, according to reports at the police station last night. The discovery was reported to city police at 8:10 p. m.

The break-in occurred about 3 a. m. Monday. A plate glass show window had been broken and several watches and rings taken.

Bond Reduced

It was reported that police who converged on the area heard someone running down the alley in the distance. A blockade was set up for several blocks around. A thorough search was then made of all areas, including the building site where the boxes were found. The site is that of the new Masonic building.

Various other offenses were being investigated by law enforcement officers, and bond had been reduced in connection with a rape charge.

Bond of $1,000, set for Simon Ochoa, 23, Lubbock Mexican, after he had waived examining trial before D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, on a rape charge, had been reduced to $750 last night.

A complaint prepared by E. G. Pharr, assistant district attorney, accused Ochoa of having abused a 14-year-old Mexican girl late Sunday.

The girl swore to the com-

U. S. Demand Handed Reds

By GEORGE DURNO
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 29. —The United States demanded tonight that Russia resume pledged delivery of electric power to U. S.-occupied southern Korea or accept responsibility for "unwarranted hardships" on the Koreans.

Russia, which occupies north Korea, cut off power deliveries to the southern zone on May 14, claiming the U. S. had failed to deliver specified equipment in payment.

The demand, embodied in a note delivered by U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith to the Soviet foreign office, was the latest development in the Russian-American "cold war" which raged all day.

Red Protest Rejected

Earlier the State department, which reported delivery of the Korean protest, announced rejection of a Russian protest against an article in "Newsweek" outlining likely U. S. countermoves if the Soviets attacked this country.

The department had also stated the U. S. would take the Russian "hunger blockade" of Berlin to the United Nations if all other peaceful means of settlement fail.

The note in connection with the magazine article reminded the Kremlin that the American constitution guarantees no interference with the press. It expressed "surprise" that Russia should object to articles in a free press since the rigidly-controlled Soviet press constantly prints material which "can scarcely be construed as promoting friendly relations among nations."

Soviet Ignores Note

The U. S. note, however, said this government welcomed the Russian declaration that any intimation that the Soviets intend to attack the United States is "a libelous invention."

The Korean note pointed out that on June 12, Lt. Gen. John Hodge, U. S. commander, had advised the northern Soviet command that the U. S. was in position to make all deliveries of materials, or to settle the accounts in dollars.

This note was ignored by the Russian command, but Gen Morkulov, Soviet commander, answered an earlier U. S. note on July 15 declaring "the Soviet command cannot fulfill the functions as an intermediary between the American command and the (Commun-

35,000 Strike Equipment Firm

(By The Associated Press)

A strike of 35,000 CIO employes of the International Harvester company dominated the nation's labor picture Tuesday night.

These were the developments by industries:

Farm equipment—Nine harvester plants were closed by the United Farm Equipment and Metals Workers union walkout. The question of when a company-proffered 11-cent wage boost would take effect appeared to be the chief stumbling block in the drawn-out negotiations.

Mining—A unit of John L. Lewis' union was hailed into court again. This time there ywas a charge of blocking 445 miners underground and compelling them to join the United Mine Workers as the price of freedom. Robert N. Denham, chief counsel of the National Labor Relations board, filed the charges, based on complaints of the mine owners, against district 31 of the UMW.

Printing—The AFL International Typographical union termed "just routine" NLRB charges that it is violating the Taft-Hartley act in negotiations with some 800 newspapers. The brief was filed by Denham, and

City Seeking UN Intervention In Crisis

Soviets Ease Stand On Berlin Blockade

By OMER ANDERSON
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, June 29 — The Berlin city council tonight called on Denmark to seek United Nations intervention in the East - West crisis. Almost at the same time Russia made her first conciliatory gesture toward easing her food blockade of the city.

Soviet Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky said the Soviet stoppage of rail traffic to Berlin is "provisional" and declared efforts will be made to reopen the west's rail link with the Soviet-encircled city.

He expressed the hope that rail traffic could be resumed before the exhaustion of food supplies in the western sectors of Berlin. At the present rate of air supply and use, they are expected to last about a month.

Sokolovsky's statement was made in a letter of reply to Lieut. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, who demanded last Saturday that the Russians end their rail blockade.

In another development, the Russians offered to negotiate for the distribution of fresh milk in the western sectors of Berlin in return for food from the western sectors.

This indicated the Russian sector is not faring too well under the Russian blockade.

Sokolovsky in his letter referred to the American-British air-shuttle supply service to Berlin. He said:

"I fully appreciate the measures taken by the British and American authorities with such energy to maintain connection with the western zones by air. I hope air secur-

Mystery Melody Is Featured On Tech Concert Program

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

Title of the "mystery melody" currently featured in the "Stop the Music" program heard each Sunday from 6 to 7 p. m over KFYO was revealed to a crowd spread over a 20-acre lawn and parking area of the Texas Tech campus last night by D. O. Wiley, director of Tech bands.

The occasion was the third of the weekly Tuesday night concerts presented by the intermediate and concert bands of the Tech Summer Band school, which Wiley also heads.

The two final concerts of the series on the next two Tuesday nights will feature as guest conductor Dr. A. A. Harding, director of bands at the University of Illinois for 43 years and recognized as one of the outstanding bandsmen of the world.

Wiley did not reveal the mystery tune secret which might be worth thousands of dollars in awards to one of his hearers until after the audience of 2,500 to 3,000 people had been treated to a concert program of many noteworthy features.

Improvement Noted

One was the marked improvement in the intermediate band, composed of more than 100 high school musicians. Playing together in public only their third time, they rendered a varied program with the skill of veterans. Joe L. Haddon and N. G. Patrick divided the directing duties.

Another feature was the rendition by the current band, composed of advanced musicians, of "Pastel Moods," composed by Ted Crager, of Lockney, a student in the

AUTO AND BUS IN WRECK

Four Persons Injured In Two Collisions Near City

FOUR persons were injured, one seriously, late Tuesday in a collision of a bus and an automobile at Idalou and in a second collision of two cars on the Plainview cutoff north of Lubbock involving a driver who left the scene.

Three of the injuries resulted when a Texas, New Mexico & Oklahoma Motor coaches bus crashed into a car driven by Mrs. E. G. Jay, 56, of Idalou, the highway patrol reported.

She suffered a deep gash on the back of her head and possibly other injuries. She was thrown from her automobile, which was knocked completely around on the highway but did not turn over, an officer said.

Bus Passengers Unhurt

Her two grandduaghters were slightly injured. Anita Harris, 10, was believed to have suffered only severe bruises and Dorris Jean Harris, 12, also had some bruises.

All three of them were brought to West Texas hospital by Rix Funeral Home ambulance. Results of X-ray examination had not been determined. Mrs. Jay and Anita were admitted.

The bus was driven by Marion L. Turpen, 35. There were about 25 passengers in the bus, but none were injured.

Collided At Intersection

According to the highway patrol, the accident occurred at an intersection of a street with the business route from Idalou to the Lubbock highway. The bus was enroute to Lubbock, and Mrs. Jay was driving a 1941 Dodge sedan south.

The collision was almost in the center of the highway, an officer said, the bus colliding with the left rear door of the sedan. The car made a complete turn after the impact and was facing north when it stopped just off the highway.

An investigation report was being prepared by the highway patrol last night.

Driver Leaves Scene

In a hit-run accident about 5:40 p. m. near the intersection of 'New Ave. H' and the Plainview cutoff, a woman suffered shock and bruises. She was not taken to a hospital, according to the highway patrol.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley D. Wardlaw, of Munday, had just turned onto the Plainview cutoff and were going west.

A second car, driven by a youth described as red-headed and about 17 years old, was attempting to

Three Provisions Of Labor Law Upheld

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—A special statutory federal court today upheld the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley law provision which denies use of the National Labor Relations board to a union whose officers fail to file a non-Communist affidavit.

The court upheld the provision, section 9-H of the law, by a vote of two to one.

The ruling was made in dismissing a request for an injunction by local 65 of the CIO Wholesale and Warehouse union, representing warehouse employes of F. W. Woolworth and company.

Union Ruled Off Ballot

The union was ruled off the ballot in a collective bargaining election and refused a hearing by the NLRB because some officers had failed to sign the affidavits.

The court today also affirmed the constitutionality of section S9-F and 9-G of the Taft-Hartley law requiring labor unions to file financial statements.

The court followed the decision of a Washington, D. C., statutory court which upheld all three provisions of the act and which, in turn, was upheld on June 21 by the U. S. Supreme court as to sections 9-F and 9-G.

The high court did not rule on section 9-H at that time.

New Boom On For General

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 29—Southern senators said today that the name of Dwight D. Eisenhower will be placed in nomination at the Democratic convention regardless of the general's own wishes.

Dixie leaders at the same time hotly denied there was any cooling in their rebellion against President Truman over the civil rights issue.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), said that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican presidential nominee, was as unacceptable to the South as Mr. Truman because of his stand for civil rights.

Leon Henderson, chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, also said Eisenhower's name will be offered in nomination "unless he flatly refuses to permit it."

Hopes HST Withdraws

Henderson at a news conference declared he had "strong hopes" that President Truman would withdraw in the face of the Eisenhower draft. He said Mr. Truman has only 310 of the 1,234 Democratic convention delegates pledged to him, and has been assured by "friends he respects" that he cannot win the November election.

Henderson also said he was "firmly convinced" that the name of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas will be offered for the presidency at the Democratic convention.

He added, however, that Eisenhower will sweep the convention unless he issues another flat statement of withdrawal, and that he did not think the general would issue such a statement.

Strategy Meets Planned

Southerners said they hope a stampede to Eisenhower will develop once the name of the popular "Ike" is placed before the Democratic convention, which opens in Philadelphia July 12. They conceded that Eisenhower is about the only man who could defeat Dewey.

Strategy meetings are planned between now and July 12 to abet the objective of an Eisenhower stampede.

One question yet to be settled is whether to seek some kind of a "green light" from Eisenhower in advance.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), an enthusiastic Eisenhower supporter,

Flood Threat In Valley Easing

(By The Associated Press)

The flood crest of the muddy Rio Grande moved at a slackened pace last night as it flowed slowly through the river's twisting course toward Hidalgo in the narrow tip of South Texas.

Steady rains fell in most of the lower Rio Grande valley during the day, but it was not enough to add much of a threat to what is already the valley's biggest flood in years.

The flood crest swirled past Rio Grande City early yesterday and was expected to reach Hidalgo, approximately 40 miles downstream, tonight.

Damage In Millions

Weather observers predicted that the now slowly moving crest would reach the Gulf of Mexico within the next five days.

The swollen stream, which separates Texas and Mexico, went on a rise last week after a cloudburst in the Del Rio area, 300 miles upstream from Hidalgo.

Border towns and small irrigation farms on both sides of the usually shallow stream were flooded and families were forced to leave their homes.

City officials of Nuevo Laredo, Mex., across the river from Laredo, more than 100 miles upstream from Hidalgo, estimated damage there at $10,000,000. No other estimates of damage are available.

Trinity Threat Ends

OLD MAN LEAVES SMALL FORTUNE TO RUSSIA

Death And Strange Will Put Obscure New York Recluse Into Center Of International Mystery

By INEZ ROBB
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 29.—Death today translated an obscure, anonymous old man into an international mystery as intriguing as any ever unravelled by Sherlock Holmes.

When Henry Von Der Heid, 76, died yesterday in Columbus hospital, he seemed just another of the sad, destitute old derelicts whose passing no one notes in this vast city.

But the old man's will, which catapulted him in death onto the front pages, proved him neither destitute nor derelict.

For Henry Von Der Heid, the outwardly penniless recluse, left a tidy fortune of at least $38,096 to the government of Soviet Russia.

But that in itself was not the core of the mystery.

What intrigued police today was not the fact Von Der Heid had willed his money to Russia, but the manner in which he had obtained it in the first place.

For, in an era in which it is almost impossible to get money across any European border, Von Der Heid received large legacies "from friends" in Germany in 1940 and from the Soviet Union in 1946.

In 1940, while the USSR-German honeymoon was still on, "friends" in Germany sent the old man, seemingly so friendless and so poor, $20,000 in reichsmarks.

Six years later, after the end of the war, "friends" in Russia left Von Der Heid a legacy of $18,096, paid to him through the Chase National bank of New York by the Moscow Bank of Foreign Trade.

While his life in his Brooklyn boarding house was frugal and pinch-penny in the extreme, there were passports in the old man's bare but neat room—to indicate he had traveled widely during the

Report Shows Lions Club Spent $46,893 On Welfare Projects

J. William Davis, retiring president of the Lubbock Lions club, showed in a report before the club luncheon Tuesday noon at Hilton hotel that the organization had spent $46,893.74 during the past year for various welfare projects.

Following Davis' report, new officers for the coming year formally took over duties in the club. Attending as special guests were representatives from most of the other civic clubs in the city.

Henly Takes Gavel

Wayne (Mickey) Henly was installed as club president and took over the gavel as the President's pin, worn by 19 of his predecessors, was pinned in his lapel by retiring President Davis. Davis then was escorted by a group of past presidents to a "back seat" prepared for immediate past presidents.

Others installed, each by his predecessor except one or two by proxy due to absence of principals, were:

First vice president, Ruel Martin, by Elmer East, but both were absent and proxies respectively were Judge G. V. Pardue and Harry Morris: second vice president, Dallas Whaley, by Mickey Henly; third vice president, Vincel Larsen, by Doyle Jordan as proxy for Clark Abbott; secretary, Groves Denman, who succeeded himself; tail twister, Dr. C. H. Schulky by Dallas Whaley; Lion tamer, Marion T. Key by Vernon Peters; and two directors, Tom Ingram by Harry Morris as proxy for Ruel Martin, and B. C. McCasland by K. L. Riggs.

Activities Mentioned

In a brief report, Davis said the club had increased in membership during the past year from 263 to 293. Among activities of the club during the year were: financing of the Girl Scout camp at Buffalo Lake, the club's annual Jubilee Minstrels for which new uniforms and equipment were purchased, co-sponsorship with Lubbock Women's clubs of the Gainesville circus, cooperation with other clubs and agencies in various projects, and a number of club activities, such as initiation night, annual ladies night, and the recent family night, which was voted Tuesday as an annual event.

Davis said the club had on hand or received during the year a total of $48,974, and with expenditure of $46,893 has a cash balance now of $2,402.

Mrs. Bill Agee spoke briefly in behalf of the county Red Cross chapter's blood bank, and asked for blood donors. She said the blood giving is wholly voluntary, that the blood is accumulated here and all used here, and that donors are surrounded with every safety precaution.

R. C. Young was introduced as a reinstated member. Invocation was by Dr. J. Ralph Grant.

Body Of Truett W. Norrell Returned; Rites Set Sunday

The body of Pvt. Truett W. Norrell, 23, of Canyon community, who was killed in action on New Guinea Dec. 18, 1942, arrived in Lubbock Tuesday. He was a graduate of Roosevelt High school, and enlisted in the Army Jan. 16, 1942.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Canyon community church. Rev. S. B. Fulton will officiate. Burial will be in Idalou cemetery under the direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Survivors are his father, Jim Norrell, of Ropesville, four brothers, K. R., G. L., C. A., and Jesse D., all of Ropesville; and one sister, Mrs. Wesley Riley, of Goodland.

Street Dance To Be Held At Hale Center

HALE CENTER, June 29 (Spl.)—An old-fashioned street dance, featuring a square-dance contest, an old-time waltz contest and a modern-way jitterbug specialty, will be staged here Saturday night in connection with the big annual Homecoming reunion, Minitree Flake, dance chairman, has announced.

The street in front of the city hall will be roped off for the contest, and a string band with a square-dance crooner will provide old-time melodies for the square-dance specialists to show off their best form in the popular dance of their generation.

"We plan to have several old-time dance contests, and then we're going to turn the kids loose in a jitterbug contest," Flake said. "Prizes will be awarded the fanciest couples in each event."

Other major attractions slated for the annual homecoming celebration here are candidate speaking, a 45-minute fireworks exhibition, a homemade carnival and a free show.

About 10,000 people are expected to turn out for the celebration, which will be staged on the tree-shaded lawn in the heart of Hale Center.

Research Gives Clue To Birth Of Stars

PASADENA, Calif., June 29 (AP)—Research which gives astronomers their first solid clue as to how stars are formed was reported to the American Astronomical society today by Dr. Otto Struve. He is director of the University of Chicago's allied observatory.

The findings confirm a two-year old theory of Dr. Lyman Spitzer of Princeton university that a star is born when cosmic dust far out in space condenses into a small mass which then is bombarded by more dust particles. These particles falling into the condensed mass not only add to its weight but also heat up the concentration.

Theory Is Strengthened

The bombardment and heating continues as long as the mass remains within the dust cloud until the body reaches a maximum of weight and temperature. If the dust cloud is of vast proportion, a great, hot star is born. If the cloud is of limited size or if the mass moves out of the cloud, the growth and heating processes stop somewhere short of producing a full fledged star.

Dr. Struve and an associate, Dr. M. Rudkjobing of McDonald observatory in Texas, obtained evidence strengthening this theory.

The process can go on until the mass reaches big star size and a temperature of perhaps 10,000 degrees centrigrade. The sun's surface temperature is about 7,000 degrees centigrade.

At this temperature, however, the star may radiate energy enough to repel dust cloud particles seeking to join its mass, and the growth stops.

GOT QUICK RHEUMATIC RELIEF WITH MERTOX

"For the past 15 years I have been bothered with frequent rheumatic pains in my left shoulder. This trouble later spread to my right shoulder also," writes Mr. J. C. Kirkland of Dallas. In my work I have to use my arms a lot, and my shoulders were beginning to stiffen up. After taking Mertox Compound for a short time this condition was quickly corrected, so that now I am free from rheumatic trouble and free of the aches and pains. I was also troubled with gas and bloat, which were very painful. I felt tired and rundown; just seemed to have no life or pep at all. Had severe headaches, too. The gas would seem to press against my heart and lungs and make it hard to breathe. Now I can eat anything, even meat, which was impossible before taking this splendid medicine. My bowels are now regular and I do not have to get up at night as I did before."

You can get Mertox Compound from any Texas druggist at the new REDUCED price

Fuel Oil Situation Improving; Few Shortages Are Predicted

WASHINGTON, June 29 (INS)—An interior department official said today the nation's fuel oil situation has "improved materially" in the past few weeks.

He said he expects no gasoline shortage this summer with the possible exception of a dozen "trouble spots" in the Middle West. Even there, Max Ball said, the shortages will last only two or three days.

Ball is director of the department's oil and gas division. He testified before the House Interstate Commerce committee.

He said New England and the Middle West may face a "critical shortage" of natural gas next winter. Michigan, he said, has an "intense need" for natural gas.

Crude Imports Increasing

Provided there are no strikes and consumer conservation continues, the fuel oil situation should be "less tight" during the coming winter than it was last year, he said.

"We will be in a better position to handle such shortages as do arise," he said.

He called kerosene "a possible trouble spot" and said the situation "isn't too good."

An oil company official estimated the industry "will be out of the woods next year in its efforts to meet petroleum demand."

Howard Page, executive assistant to the president of Standard Oil co. (N. J.), New York, told a Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee the industry has been making gains in meeting the demand in the last six months. He said the imports of crude, as well as domestic production, are increasing, and added:

"It is entirely probable we will be out of the woods next year."

Page warned, however, that spot shortages are bound to develop this winter due to the close balance of supply against demand. He said there will not be enough of a surplus to avoid such spot shortages.

Tanker Rates Lower

Page said the tanker situation has "eased," and it is now possible to charter tankers at 10 per cent below the maritime rate. A year ago the cost was double the maritime rate. As a result, he said, transportation will not be a "bug" in supplying consumers this winter.

Page estimated the nation's daily need at 6,000,000 barrels. He said an additional 350,000 barrels are needed for export, "so production should be at the rate of 6,400,000." He said a two per cent increase in present production would do the trick.

The subcommittee is trying to determine the effectiveness of last winter's voluntary allocation system. As its hearing opened, Chairman Clyde M. Reed, R., Kans., said crude runs are 10 per cent higher as of June 19 than they were on the comparable date a year ago.

He also said reports indicate that gasoline at refineries is up 12 per cent; kerosene, one and a half per cent; fuel oil, 15 per cent, and residual fuel oils, five percent.

All-Negro Jury May Mean Votes, But Its Legality Is Doubted

WAURIKA, Okla., June 29 (U.P.)—An all-negro jury may help a justice of the peace here get re-elected to office but legal authorities doubt whether his reversal of 'Jim Crow' is legal.

Justice Edward Spivey explained today that he called in negroes to hear a civil lawsuit yesterday because the litigants are negroes themselves.

"After all, this is an election year," Spivey remarked, "I'm not trying to break down any of our segregation laws, but I want my negro constituents to be happy."

Dispute Over Property

In Oklahoma City, aides in the attorney general's office said unofficially that Spivey's jury call could not be limited to negroes legally, just as it could not have been limited to whites.

Spivey said his decision to call on negroes to settle a dispute between the Rev. E. W. Shaw and hotel porter Baby Gill was based on his desire to see justice done and, at the same time, keep the negroes of Waurika satisfied.

"I think white men would have given as fair a decision as negroes but maybe the colored folks wouldn't have liked it as much," he said.

Rev. Shaw contended Gill had fenced off some property which should have reverted to Shaw when the city changed a street survey. The five-man negro jury ruled the property should be divided equally between the pair.

Negro Juries Not New

Sam H. Lattimore, assistant attorney general in Oklahoma City, said all-negro juries probably have been used before in justice of the peace courts in Oklahoma.

"I think J. P. court juries sometimes are organized raher informally," commented Lattimore, "but the law requires that jurors be selected without any question as to race."

Spivey said his politically wise move had the approval of County Attorney Malcom Baucum.

The peace justice said he did not cal the all-negro panel as a result of a recent criminal court of appeals ruling which held that a negro convicted by an all-white jury was entitled to a new trial.

"That was a criminal case and the circumstances were different," said Spivey. "I wouldn't want only negroes to sit on a jury in a trial of one of their race."

The San Diego Journal put in the call. An hour later, it was informed by the overseas' operator:

"Did you get him personally?"

"The operator there (at Belgrade) said neither Marshal Tito nor anyone else (authorized to speak for him) would accept the call."

Plans Underway For $700,000 Memorial Hospital At Denton

DENTON, June 29 (U.P.)—Final plans for a 60-bed $700,000 hospital here were expected today to be ready in about six weeks, following approval of preliminary drawings by the architect.

The hospital will be known as the Homer E. Flow Memorial hospital, since $200,000 was contributed by the late Homer E. Flow. City and county provided $150,000 each in bonds, and the federal government will contribute a $225,000 appropriation.

Foot, Mouth Disease Crew Slaughters 1,000 Cattle

MEXICO CITY, June 29 (AP)—The Mexican-U. S. Foot and Mouth Disease commission reported work crews would complete slaughter today of 1,000 head of infected cattle near Tamazunchale, 247 airline miles south of the border.

Commission officials said the outbreak was not new and that cattle surrounding the infected "pocket" had been vaccinated.

Reserve Pension Program Signed

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—A bill designed to build up America's reserve forces by giving officers and men more liberal retirement benefits was signed today by President Truman.

The measure also overhauls the Army and Air Force promotion and retirement systems.

Mr. Truman termed the law a "very significant step" in bolstering the national defense. He said the added incentive of better pay would establish a "career reserve."

Retirement Credit Given

Under the new law, passed by Congress June 14, members of the Army, Navy and Air Force reserves are given retirement credit for time spent in the reserves. In the past they were entitled to pensions only if they had enough time on active duty, or were disabled in active service.

Now, however, a member of the reserve can retire at the age of 60 if he has been in the reserves and regular service 20 years or longer. Those now in the reserves must have been in active service in World War I or World War II.

Retirement pay will be based on a complicated point system. First, a man receives one point for each day he served on active duty in the regular armed forces.

Pension Based On Points

Then he gets a certain number of points each year in the reserves, figured on this basis: 15 points per year for membership in the reserve; one point for each armory drill, or about 45 a year; plus points for field training, usually about 45 a year. Unless a man makes 50 points a year, he does not qualify for that year.

This accumulated total, at time of retirement, is divided by 360, which gives what is called the point years.

Finally, the point years are multiplied by two and one half per cent of the base pay, plus longevity, of the highest grade ever held. (Longevity means the boost in pay a man gets for years in service—so much each year.)

The last figure is the percentage of the pension.

The bill permits regular Army officers and Army nurses to retire at the highest temporary rank held during World War II, and allows regular Army enlisted men and warrant officers to retire after 30 years' service at their highest temporary wartime rank.

The new retirement law applies, not only to Army, Navy and Air Forces reserves but to Marine and Coast Guard reserves and National Guard. The National Guard is considered part of the Army reserves.

Women in the armed forces reserves also will benefit under the new retirement law.

BLOOD TYPING PROJECT UNDERWAY

Employes' Co-Operation Sought In Plan For Blood Bank Here

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche Staff Writer

"I desire to be a part of the Lubbock County Blood donor service."

By signing slips of paper bearing that expression of desire to give blood, employes in Lubbock industries which have 15 or more employes will become prospective blood donors of the Lubbock County Blood bank to be opened Thursday at county Red Cross headquarters at 1513 Ave. K.

The project of typing blood of employes in business firms who are willing to be blood donors was opened last Thursday and will be continued as one of the means of securing donors not only to give blood for storage in the regular blood bank but to establish a "walking blood bank" of persons who will remain on call to give blood when it is needed. Blood was typed at Dunlap's Thursday and was typed at Hemphill-Wells Co. Tuesday. Other dates for typing will be set.

Must Fill Out Paper

Prior to the typing of blood in business firms, slips are distributed with space for name, home address, and telephone number of the employe, firm or organization by which employed and telephone number of the firm. At the bottom is the notation, "You will be contacted to arrange a mutually convenient appointment time."

On the date set for blood typing, the laboratory technician, Miss Betty Bachman, and Gerald Jarvis, volunteer technician, visit the business firm to take a smear of blood of each person willing. The blood is typed, the type is placed on record, and the prospective donor is notified of his blood type when appointment is made for him to give the blood.

The prospective donor may await his call from the blood bank or may put in his appearance without call and express his readiness to give blood.

Donors will by no means be limited to those whose blood will be typed in business firms. "For appointments for giving blood, call 8534," Mrs. W. B. Agee, blood bank chairman, announced, indicating the generality of the appeal for blood donors.

Anyone between ages of 21 and 60 weighing not less than 110 pounds, with veins accessible and suitable, is eligible to volunteer. A possibility exists that cause may be found which bars that person from giving blood, either in order to protect health of the would-be donor or to safeguard those who might receive transfusions.

A medical history will be taken of each donor.

Procedure to be followed when the prospective donor goes to Red Cross headquarters was outlined. The donor will be greeted by a receptionist and will be seated in the reception room or go directly to a staff assistant, who will take the medical history. The history provides for answers of "yes" or "no" and comments following each of these questions: Any illness during past month? Malaria? Tuberculosis? Shortness of breath? Swelling of feet? A persistent cough? Coughing up of blood? Fainting spells? Pain in chest? Convulsions? A skin disease recently? Any other serious disease? Hayfever, asthma, allergy? Food within four hours?

Weight, temperature, blood pressure, hemiglobin and pulse then are noted on the medical examination sheet.

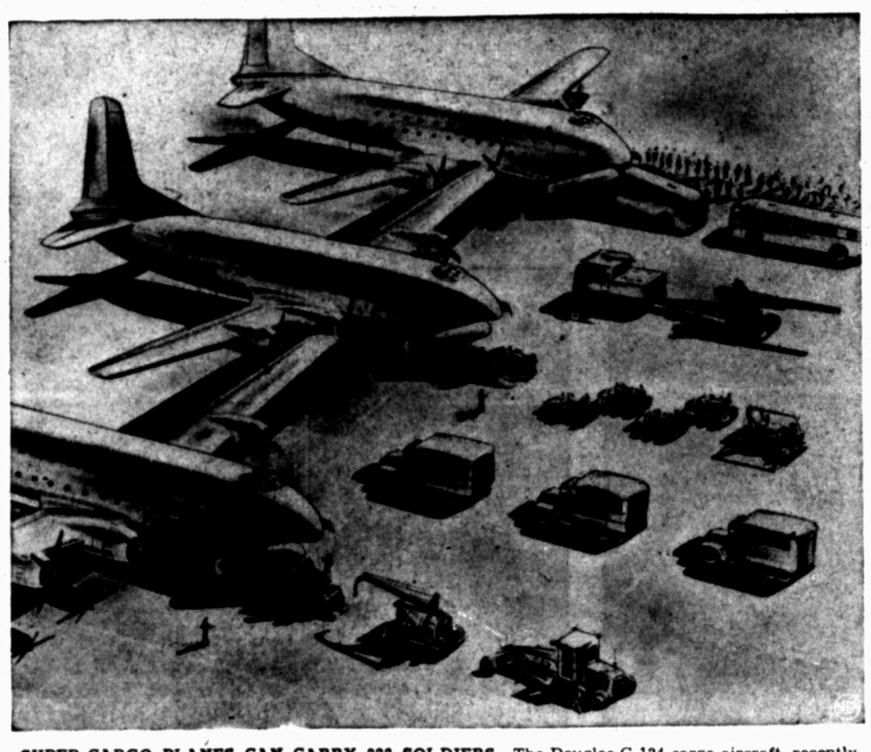

The doctor or nurse present then studies the card, to determine whether or not the blood should be taken.

The blood is typed, if that has not been done previously.

A nurses aide is to have all in readiness for taking of blood of those approved as donors. A pint (500 cc.) is drawn. With attached test tube containing a sample of the blood, the blood then goes to the laboratory, with no hands touching it. The blood is typed again and a cross file of records is prepared. The blood then goes into the large special blood storage refrigerator in the Red Cross reception room, until requested by a physician for transfusion for a patient in a member hospital of the American Medical association.

The donor remains on the table 10 minutes for a rest period, then receives refreshments from canteen workers.

The blood bank first will be open from 5 to 7 p. m. Thursday and thereafter is to be open from 5 to 7 p. m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, with a member of the Lubbock-Crosby County Medical society on duty at all times the blood bank is open.

SUPER-CARGO PLANES CAN CARRY 222 SOLDIERS—The Douglas C-124 cargo aircraft, recently ordered for the U. S. Air Force, shows the great variety of loads it can carry. The big craft, 2½ times larger than the war-famous C-54, has a built-in nose ramp, enabling it to accommodate heavy tanks, field guns and even bulldozers. Operating from the same size field as the C-54, the new plane is said to be able to carry a load of 50,000 pounds, or 222 fully-equipped troops, for a distance of 1200 miles and return.

Permanent Citations Sent To Lubbock Man For War Heroism

Permanent citations for the Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal have been sent to Curry E. Ellison, ex-aviation radioman, second class, USN, of 2210 Twenty-fourth street, Eighth Naval District headquarters at New Orleans, La., has announced.

The citations, signed by Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan, commended Ellison for "heroism, extraordinary and meritorious achievements" as radioman gunner of a bomber in Bombing Squadron 98 during aerial strikes against enemy forces in the Pacific war area between December, 1943, and March, 1944.

DEADLY LOOT

Thieves Take Three Cans Of Poison Gas

LOWELL, Mass., June 29. (INS) — Three containers of deadly gasses disappeared today from a storehouse in Lowell and authorities were warned that if they are opened "an entire neighborhood could be exterminated."

It was feared the gasses were stolen by boys unaware of their contents—who might kill not only themselves but anyone else who happened to be in their vicinity.

The warning of the possible fearful consequences of releasing the gasses came from Abram Bain, owner of the New England Exterminating and Fumigating company, from whose storehouse the three cans disappeared.

Police promised to forego prosecution if the thieves would turn over the containers or advise where they can be found.

Bain said he discovered the cans missing when he went to the storehouse for other materials.

He said one can held hydrocyanic gas, another, chloropicric (mustard) gas, and the third, methyl bromide.

Most noxious, he said, is the hydrocyanic gas, which kills within three minutes of inhalation.

Bain said anyone opening the three containers would die.

Rookie Pilot Lands Plane With Wheels Up Despite Warning

K. C. Berry, 42-year-old disabled veteran of Paris, Tex., has an eight-acre corn crop that amazes his neighbors — they think he'll get 50 bushels per acre. The Paris News says Berry, who was shot twice in Germany, used a hybrid corn . . . The Laredo Times comes forth with the info that the average man shaves 20 square miles of face during his lifetime . . . He works up lots of lather, too . . . The Dallas News chortles that Henry Wallace would rather be right with Moscow than president.

Flyswatter Snake Weapon

Planes nowadays have warning horns that practically knock your ears out if you try to land with the wheels up. Bob Bates, writing in The Waco Times-Herald, tells of the rookie pilot who ignored crackling warnings from a radio airport tower and brought his plane down with wheels up for a belly landing . . . "Why did you ignore our repeated warnings?" the tower personnel cried afterwards. "I couldn't hear a word you were saying," the fledging replied. "A horn was blowing the whole time."

The El Paso Times says the 18-months-old son of Sgt. and Mrs. Dan Haynie of Fort Bliss was bitten three times by a rattlesnake at Alamorgordo, N. M. H. Whitmore, the child's great-grandfather finally beat the snake off with a flyswatter. At last reports the boy was in a critical condition . .

At Wichita Falls, the Wichita Daily Times asked spry G. D. Hall why he's in such good shape at 92. The hard times he's seen toughened him up, Hall replied . . . The Granger News notes that nearly all candidates promise to "work to the limit of their ability." "That's the rub," the newspaper said wearily. "In a lot of cases it frankly just isn't enough."

Faces Of Firemen Red

The Pampa News takes stock of the eccentricities of lightning. The other night a bolt struck the refrigerator of a Pampa pharmacy, scorched the box and burned out the motor. But the little light inside the refrigerator still burned brightly the next day . . . The Denton Record Chronicle says the faces of the firemen surely were red. They were playing dominoes at the central fire station when a lady rushed in and called their attention to smoke pouring from the rear of the station. Some mops had caught on fire. One mop was a total loss.

And at Tyler, the Courier Times asked Harvey L. Page, a policeman, what excuses are most frequently given by motorists caught parking overtime. The excuses:

1. I've just been overtime a minute or two.
2. I've been to the doctor's office and couldn't leave.
3. I didn't have any change and I've just come from that store where I got some nickels.

War Assets Administrator Sets Hearing On Complaints Over Daingerfield Plant Policies

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 29.—War Assets administrator Jess Larson said today he has scheduled a hearing tomorrow on complaints over management policies of the government-built pig iron plant near Daingerfield, Texas.

The hearing is scheduled for Larson's office here.

Final transfer of title to the $30,000,000 development to the Lone Star Steel company, Dallas, is scheduled to take place in a formal ceremony at the plant Thursday.

Estes Asks Delay

A request the final disposition of the case be withheld until a hearing is held on his complaints was made by Carl L. Estes, Longview newspaper publisher Larson said.

The administrator said he did not know the exact nature of Estes' grievances, but apparently they involved company policies regarding pig iron deliveries and operation of a company-owned spur railroad.

"I tried to get Estes to send us his specific charges," Larson told a reporter, "but he won't be specific.

"He says he wants the sale to go through, but apparently wants us to make the company carry out certain promises which he says were made to the public in a stock promotion sales drive."

Promises Claimed Broken

Estes himself is a large stockholder in the company.

Larson said Estes charged that company officials had failed to live up to public promises to employ war veterans and to deliver pig iron for veterans' home construction.

Nothing is provided in the sales contract, signed Jan. 9, as to who should get the pig iron and what they should pay for it, Larson said.

He expressed the opinion that the trouble was "an intra-corporate fight" and said he didn't believe it involved the government.

"If there's any fraud against the government," he added, "then we are concerned. "We can nullify the transaction even after July 1 if it's shown there has been any fraud."

He made this observation after noting that he had tried unsuccessfully to reach Estes by telegram to inform him of the hearing scheduled for tomorrow.

Larson noted that the transactions for sale of the plant to the Texas concern had been checked previously by the anti-trust division of the Justice department and said that Attorney General Tom Clark personally was familiar with the case.

Unless something unforeseen develops, Larson continued, a representative of the WAA will leave here in time to arrive at the Daingerfield plant with the ownership papers for the Thursday ceremony.

The $30,000,000 development includes a blast furnace, coke ovens and other facilities located on iron-ore bearing lands in northeast Texas. It also includes two coal mines located in the nearby McAlester-McCurtain, Okla., area.

Under the sales contract of last January, set to become final July 1, the Lone Star company paid $1,500,000 down and retained the right to pay off the balance within two years. Otherwise the balance was to be paid back over a 10-year period.

At the beginning of the year the plant was turning out 600 tons of pig iron daily, according to WAA records, and had a capacity of 400,000 tons annually.

Recently the operations of the company got into the spotlight. It was brought out at a directors meeting that some individuals who had contracted for Daingerfield pig iron before production was started months ago were reselling at an enormous profit.

Attorney General Clark said he had discussed the Daingerfield plant case with Larson.

"The War Assets administration has a staff of its own to check into these matters," Clark said. "I asked Larson if he found any indication of fraud, but he said he didn't. We will be glad to help out any time, however, if we're called upon."

ESTES REPORTED NOT ABLE TO MAKE TRIP

MINEOLA, June 29 (AP)—Two physicians telegraphed the War Assets administrator today that Longview publisher Carl L. Estes "could not at this time stand the rigor of a trip to Washington" to attend a WAA hearing set for tomorrow.

WAA Administrator Jess Larson said he had scheduled the hearing in Washington tomorrow on complaints by Estes over management policies of the government-built pig iron plant near Daingerfield, Tex.

The Lone Star Steel company is scheduled to receive final title to the plant at a ceremony at the plant Thursday. Larson said Estes had asked that final disposition of the case be withheld until a hearing is held on the publisher's complaints.

Estes, in releasing the text of the telegram from his home here, said it was "self explanatory."

HUGE CROWD MAY SEE CONTESTS

More Than 200 Cars Inspected For Entry In Soap Box Derby

Four more heat prizes for winners of heats in Monday's Avalanche-Journal-Chevrolet Soap Box Derby were added to the list Tuesday as 118 boys reported at Kuykendall Chevrolet company's parking lot for inspection of their racers.

Tuesday's list of inspected cars put the total number of cars inspected above the 200 mark, indicating that the race will have fairly close to 250 cars ready for the starting signal next Monday.

More Prizes Sought

Dr. J. B. Jackson, dentist, and R. Z. Abell, sr., owner of Abell Sanitorium, donated $5 gift certificates as prizes for heat winners and the Boles Leather shop, Broadway and Ave. L, donated a hand-carved leather billfold and a hand-carved leather belt for two more heat prizes.

Derby officials hope to have a prize for every winner of the 60 or more heats of the race. Any firm or individual may donate a heat prize up to a value not exceeding $10.

Boys who have not had their racers inspected in the past two days must pass a final inspection before the race starts Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Final Inspection Set

Derby Director Roy Finley issued a reminder Tuesday to all entrants in the race to have their racers at the Dickinson Motor company's truck plant on East Broadway on Saturday, July 3. The racers will be stored in the Dickinson plant over the weekend and placed in order for the various heats.

Boys with racers unfinished by that time should report not later than 8 a. m., Monday, for their final inspection.

Interest in the approaching Derby began to mount Tuesday with the flood of cars for preliminary inspection and indications were that "some dead heats" would be run down the East Broadway hill on Highway 82, site of the big race.

A crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 persons is expected to be on hand for the Derby and Exchange club members, co-sponsors of the race with the Avalanche-Journal and Kuykendall Chevrolet company, are planning to have plenty of cold drinks, eats and other refreshments on hand for the crowd.

The race will be absolutely free to the public and free parking for spectators will be provided in the Panhandle-South Plains fair grounds or in the parking areas in Mackenzie State park.

Vet Employment Shows Increase

War veterans and those entitled to veteran preference continue to show a steady increase in numbers employed in the federal services according to Thomas W Saling, regional veterans' federal employment representative in the Fourteenth U S Civil Service region at Dallas.

A recent report shows that during last March, for the eighth consecutive month, about 44 out of every 100 federal employes had been in military service or were entitled to veteran preference.

Totals Are Given

Veterans and those entitled to preference numbered 789,243 out of 1,794,106 federal employes in the continental United States. In March, 1947, persons with veteran status accounted for 42 out of every 100 employes, and in March, 1946, the figure was 31 out of 100.

The number of veteran-status employes jumped to 836,485 in July, 1946, then dropped the following year to 770,028 in September, 1947, but increases have been shown in recent months, the report showed.

Most employes with veteran status are men, totaling 95 per cent. Among women with preference last March 22,331, or 59 per cent, were former members of the Waves, WAC, and other women's military service organizations in World War 2, and 15,467 were wives of disabled veterans or widows of veterans.

VA Record Impressive

Among men employes in the federal service in March, 1948, 55 per cent had had military experience, whereas only nine per cent of the women had veteran preference.

With exception of one small agency in which all men employes held veteran status, the Veterans administration outranked any other agency in proportion of men veterans on its payroll, with a total of 88 per cent. The VA also showed the highest proportion of women (17 per cent) as well as the largest number of employes (12,932) with veteran preference among the larger agencies.

Disability figures also are interesting. Ex-service persons with disability preference continue to increase, reaching 99,123 in March, 1948. This is 13 per cent of federal employes with veteran preference.

The Veterans Preference act of 1944 requires that veterans be given preferential consideration in federal service

Discovery Of New Oil Field Is Indicated By Successful Tests On Southwest Scurry Well

Discovery of a new oil field, from a lime formation which is as yet unidentified as to geological age, is being indicated by Sun Oil company No. 1 Emil Schattell, seven miles southwest of Snyder in southwest Scurry county.

The project ran a drillstem test at 6,816-37 feet. The tool was open two hours. There was a good blow of air at the surface from the start. Gas showed at the top in 46 minutes.

Clean Oil Recovered

Recovery was 270 feet of clean, 39 gravity oil, and 250 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud. Open flowing hole pressure was 150 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure, after 15 minutes, was 2,700 pounds.

The project then cored at 6,837-42 feet. Recovery was two feet of saturated lime.

A drillstem test was taken at 6,816-42 feet. The tester was open two hours. There was a blow of air immediately, and gas came to the surface after 88 minutes.

Saturation Improves

Recovery was 200 feet, plus, of clean oil, and 350 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud. Open flowing bottom hole pressure was 270 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure, after 15 minutes, was 2,500 pounds.

Operator then cored at 6,842-47 feet. Recovery was one foot of soft, saturated lime. The saturation in this core was better than in those taken in the higher section.

Another core was started at 6,847 feet. It is probable that when the current core is pulled another drillstem test will be tried.

The prospector is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 186, block 97, H&TC survey.

It was originally started to go to at least 8,500 feet, if necessary, to test into the Ellenburger.

Gaines Well Flowing

Cities Service Oil company and The Atlantic Refining company No. 1 Proctor, west-central Gaines county discovery from the San Andres-Permian, ten miles west of Seminole, and five and one-half miles west of the nearest oil wells on the west side of the Seminole-San Andres field, was flowing to clean out and test from open hole at 5,031-5,198 feet.

That zone had been re-treated with 5,000 gallons of regular acid, following a 1,000 gallon mud acid wash

It kicked off, and flowed through a 25/64th inch tubing choke for five hours at the average rate of 14.6 barrels of oil per hour.

The choke was then changed to a 32/64th inch opening and the well flowed an average of 17.1 barrels of oil per hour, for 10 hours and was still flowing. No water was reported in the oil

Cochran Well Completed

This new discovery is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 355, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 1 F. O. Masten, southwest Cochran county wildcat, nine miles southeast of Bledsoe, and 660 feet from north and west lines of labor 18, league 152, Randall county school land survey, has been officially completed as a commercial producer and the opener of a new producing area from the San Andres-Permian.

On a 24 hour Railroad Commission pumping potential test the discovery made 180 barrels of pipe line oil and no water. The production is from the section between 4,923 feet and the plugged back total depth at 5,001 feet. That zone had been treated with two injections of acid.

Action Asked On Labor Boycott

DALLAS, June 29 (AP)—Jay C. Stilley, executive secretary of the Texas Cotton Ginners' association, suggested today that Gov. Beauford Jester take executive action in an effort to lift the Mexican government's ban against contract laborers coming to Texas.

Stilley made the suggestion in a letter to the governor, made public here.

Mexico refused last year to enter into further labor contracts with Texas because of alleged discrimination against Mexicans in the state. Stilley has been attempting to obtain 10,000 laborers to pick cotton in northwest Texas.

Jester Writes Marshall

Governor Jester wrote to Secretary of State George Marshall June 12 conveying Stilley's request.

"Your cooperation in writing to Secretary Marshall certainly proved that you realize the seriousness of the situation and are willing to work with the farmers and ginners of Texas," Stilley's letter today said. "From reports received from Mexico City, they have no information regarding any action taken by Secretary Marshall in regard to your letter."

Stilley told the governor that Mexican newspaper stories indicated the government there "would like an antidiscriminatory law passed in Texas, but due to the time element involved," would be satisfied with a decree or executive order "prohibiting discriminatory practices."

The Mexican foreign office said in Mexico City today that there has been no change in the decision not to send contract workers to Texas.

State Official Sees New Butane Shortage

AUSTIN, June 29 (UP)—A cold winter, as Texans face a shortage of butane as widespread as during last winter, was foreseen today by Railroad Commissioner William J. Murray, jr.

Addressing the annual convention of the Texas Butane Dealers association, the railroad commissioner said that if "anything is to be done to alleviate suffering next winter, it must be done immediately."

The unseasonal topic, Murray said, is one that must be faced now by increasing both bulk and consumer storage of the fuel.

Demand Increasing

". . . It appears that rapidly increasing demand" for butane, Murray told dealers, "will bring a repetition next winter of the shortages which were faced last winter."

At that time, Murray headed a four-member emergency fuel committee which worked to gain voluntary action of producers and industrial users of butane to relieve critical domestic shortages.

For next winter, he suggested, a six-point program should be carried out:

Joint efforts should be made to get more steel for fabricators of butane storage tanks and persuade them to manufacture large-size vessels; dealers should try to increase bulk storage facilities; the consumer should be told "frankly and honestly" of the situation and urged to increase storage facilities; dealers should fill storage tanks as soon as possible; dealers should make as firm a contract with the sources of supply as possible; butane dealers should appoint a committee now to work out possible legislation.

Lubbock Man Is Injured In Motor Scooter-Car Collision

A Lubbock man David N. Dixon, 30, of 2706 N. Fourth, suffered minor injuries at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday in a motor scooter-automobile collision on Eighteenth at Ave. H. He was treated and dismissed at Lubbock Memorial hospital.

Dixon, driver of the scooter, was going south on Ave. H when he collided with a car driven by Mrs. Tacoma S. Draper, 41, of 1916 Ave. H, who was making a left turn from Ave. H to Eighteenth.

Hospital officials said that Dixon, who is an employe of the Eureka Body & Fender Works, was treated for deep lacerations on the upper right arm, contusions and abrasions of the right leg, given X-ray treatment and tetanus shot. There was no evidence of any fractures, they said.

Police said a negligent collision charge had been filed against Mrs. Draper. She was uninjured.

Dispute May Prove To Be Opening Wedge Into Reds' Iron Curtain

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

If Tito can ride out the current storm of Russian disapproval, as suggested by the calm and apparent firmness of his hold in Yugoslavia, there is a chance that the iron curtain may be pushed back to the borders of Romania and Hungary.

At first glance it would appear that, if the Kremlin really decides to take over Yugoslavia or to impose another regime, it would have the power to do so. The fight apparently is on.

Still Faces Opposition

But what has been revealed so far indicates that Communism has not succeeded in making itself the completely international force to which it aspires, and that nationalism is still its great stumbling block in eastern Europe.

Tito's party in Yugoslavia, while calling itself Communist, has always displayed great nationalism. Political power is, to it, the important thing, not ideology.

Even with Tito and his party appearing to knuckle down to the central body of Communist theory, the relationship between Yugoslavia and the rest of the Russian sphere will remain weakened and tenuous.

Tito already has what amounts to a military dictatorship.

One thing about which the Cominform seems to be maddest at Tito is his refusal to let some of his former ministers push through farm collectivization regardless of bitter peasant opposition.

All this is highly speculative. The appearance of calm and of continued Tito control in Yugoslavia may be a hoax. If it is not, the first question which the western nations will have to solve is whether and how they can best aid Yugoslavia in pushing back the iron curtain.

Illinois Congressman Makes Many Friends On Capitol Hill By Keeping Sewing Kit Handy

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 29—When "Runt" Bishop doesn't have his finger in the legislative pie, he's got it in a thimble.

The little, gray-haired congressman from Carterville, Ill., is a tailor by trade and therefore in great demand around capitol hill.

He got his nickname by being born on the runty side, and it stuck so well that he uses it in the official congressional directory—"C. W. (Runt) Bishop."

Girls Get "First Aid"

He's always ready to whip out his sewing kit for a friend in need, be it a fellow congressman or a secretary. Say a gal in distress has a ripped slip or girdle. She reports same to the boss and then beats it to the ladies' room where she peels it off and hands it to another secretary. In 10 minutes it comes back all fixed.

On trips with congressional committees, Bishop makes friends and mends clothes.

"You'd be surprised," he said today, "how many friends you can make by sewing on a button or mending a shirt tail here and there. It pays to keep a sewing kit in your bag."

Time was when "Runt" made all of his wife's clothes. His shop used to make suits for about 100 congressmen.

"The only guy I wouldn't bargain with—much as I like him," said "Runt," "was that representative from Michigan, Clare Hoffman."

Suit Without Pockets

He wouldn't go along with Hoffman's fetish for no pockets. Clare once showed up at a banquet to make a speech and found he had left his manuscript in his other suit. Since then he has only one pocket in his clothes—the left hip one. He carries texts in his hand. Toward the end of her man's active tailoring career, Mrs. Bishop yearned, said the congressman, for some store-bought duds—like other women. Mrs. B. now does as she pleases. Bishop still has some tailor shops left around Illinois and he still designs clothes now and then, but he turns the cutting and stitching over to somebody else.

Don't get the idea that "Runt" is on the sissy side. If the congressman's pappy hadn't given him a needle when he was a young man, he might be way up in the New York Yankee baseball organization now.

He was a fine athlete, both in football and in baseball. He had a chance to quarterback the Staley football team, which grew up to become the Chicago Bears pro grid team. He weighed all of 135 pounds at that time.

Later, while he was playing second base with the Kitty league the New York Yankees bought his contract and were fixing to send him to one of the Yank farm teams.

But "Runt" was a needle and thread man by that time. And still is good at it despite four terms in Congress.

Possibilities Of New Telescope Discussed By Tech Professor

The new 200-inch telescope of Palomar mountain, California, "will give us more data on the question of whether or not the universe around us, with its millions of galaxies lighting the void as far as we can see, is a fair sample of a larger reality," Dr. R. S. Underwood, mathematics professor at Texas Technological college, stated in an article on "Two Telescopes and the New Universe" in the July issue of the Scientific Monthly.

"It will probably enable us to decide definitely whether or not this welter of cosmic pinwheels is actually fanning out, as it seems to be, in a vast pyrotechnic explosion," his article stated. "It may tell us whether the borders of our enlarged domain are drawing near to the limits of human reach; and it surely will throw much more light on the chemistry of all things, far and near. Our knowledge of the solar system will probably be enhanced, and we may get some important information on the problem, or at least the distribution, of life itself.

New Advancement Possible

"It is perhaps too much to expect that this new masterpiece of engineering will bring about an intellectual readjustmen matching in spectacular quality that which was sparked by the Mount Wilson giant; but even that may happen. After all, it seems wise not to discount too much the potentialities of the atomic age."

Those statements were made, in summary, in conclusion of his article. The Mount Wilson giant mentioned is the 100-inch telescope at Mount Wilson which until 1948 was the largest reflecting telescope in the world.

Dr. Underwood furnished a picture of the dome of the observatory at Palomar mountain which was shown on the cover of the magazine and also furnished pictures to illustrate his article.

The magazine is published by the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"He writes about astronomy only as an observer—with more than the usual amount of technical knowledge," it was stated of Dr. Underwood in the magazine. Dr. Underwood is author of "Jaunts into Space" and numerous articles and textbooks.

Application Deadline Set On Scholarships

The deadline for applications for foreign student scholarships at Texas Technological college has been set as August 1, James G. Allen, dean of men has announced. Applications should be sent to the Committee on Awards and Scholarships, Texas Tech, Lubbock.

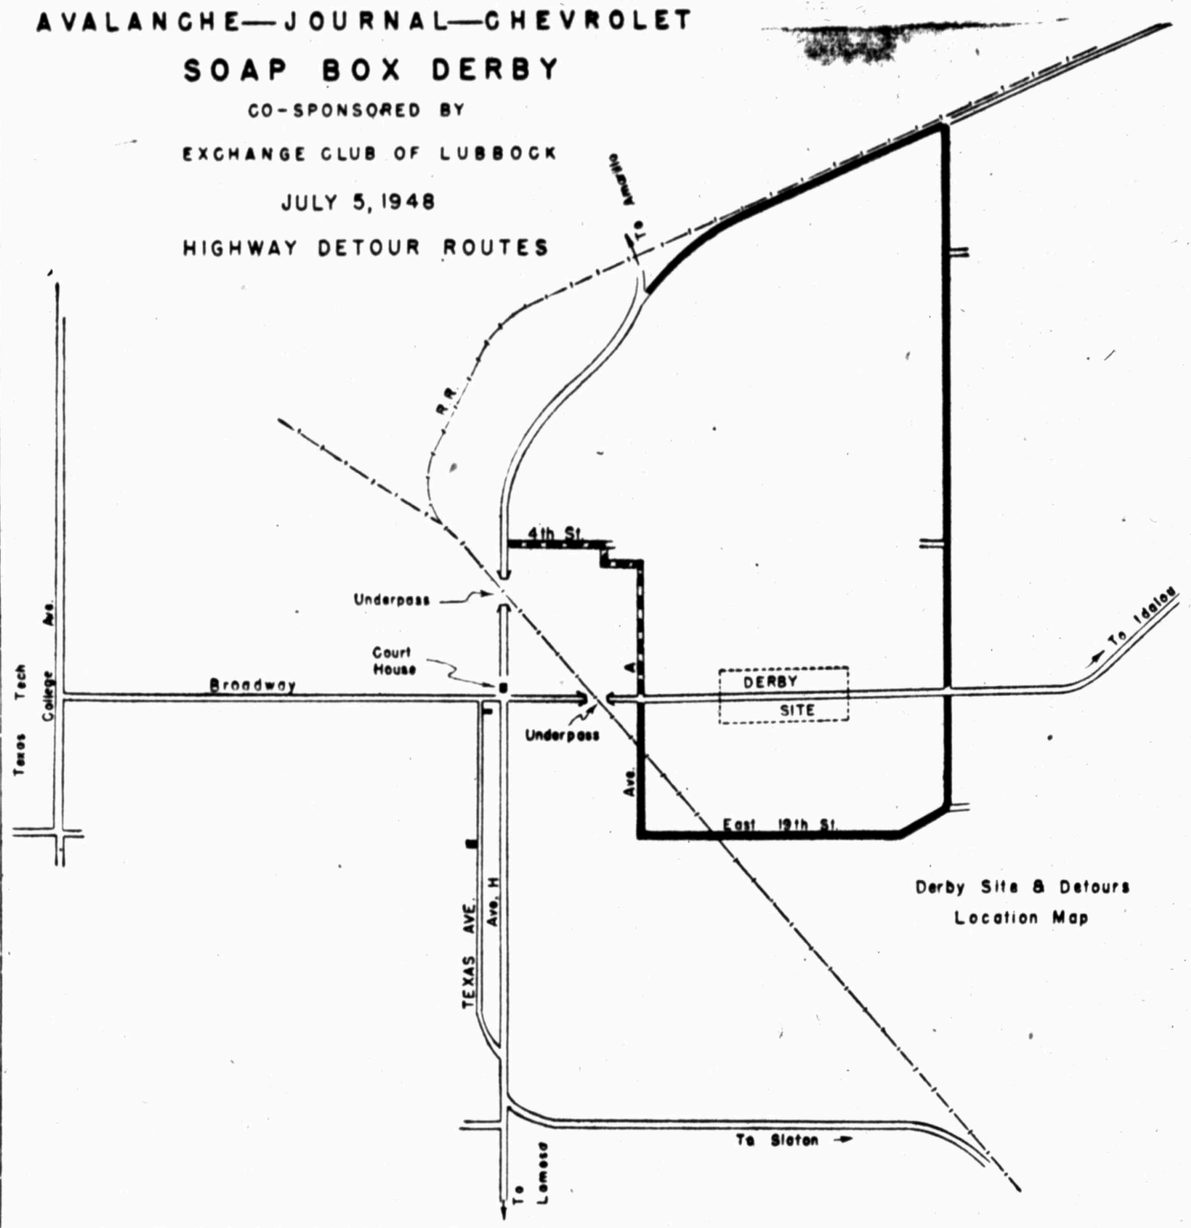

Five scholarships of $100 each per semester were made available to citizens of foreign countries by the board of directors in 1947, and the scholarships have been adopted as an annual award.

Requirements Announced

In order to qualify for the scholarships, a student must have attended Texas Tech at least one semester prior to the semester in which the scholarship becomes effective, have maintained a grade point average of 1.5 throughout that semester, and must continue to maintain such an average during the year for which the scholarship was granted, Dean Allen said.

The students who qualify and are in school this summer, or were in school the last spring semester, will be sent letters informing them of their eligibility and asking for their applications. There students are: Isic Pinhas a graduate student from the University of Turkey, who has a 2.82 average; Carl Schmidt, of Mexico City, with a 2.56 average; Fanchette Stewart, of Lieg, Belgium, who has a 2.50 average; Joseph and Morris Yakin, of Mexico City, with a 2.41 and 2.00 averages respectively; and Vilia Ma, a graduate student from Hwa Nan college, Foochow China.

Myrna Loy And Husband Set Up Independent Film Company; Television Features Planned

By DOROTHY MANNERS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 29. —Newest team in independent production is Gene Markey and his beautiful wife, Myrna Loy, who have just organized Charter Films, inc.

Gene has terminated his producer-writer contract with 20th Century-Fox to head this company for motion picture production, plus television features. Markey and Loy already own four story properties and Myrna will star in three of them.

Due to a previous commitment with RKO, she will not be in Charter films' first production, but she is set for the second, Gene's novel (not published yet) "Pillar of Heaven."

First, however, the Markeys leave for Europe where Myrna will star in and Gene write the screenplay on "The Case of Lady Brooke" for Alexander Korda.

Gail Russell, under contract to Paramount, hasn't made a movie on the home lot for over a year and a half—she won't be back for a spell.

Lizabeth Scott Cast

They are stuck on Gail at Republic and she stays on to co-star with John Wayne in "Wake of the Red Witch," for Edmund Grainger. She's also done "Moonrise" and a previous one with Wayne, "Angel and the Bad Man" for Republic.

Romantically speaking, Gail and her long-time beau, Guy Madison, are setting off those matrimonial rumors again, after time out for a battle, or they were at the time of going to press.

A last-minute switch in casting puts Lizabeth Scott in as Vic Mature's witchy wife in "Interference," with Lucille Ball taking over the sympathetic role of the secretary, in the RKO football story.

Liz, of course, is borrowed from Hal Wallis and since she has more or less specialized in brazen movie dames without hurting her any, it was decided she is more the type for the greedy wife than Lucille. Roles are of equal importance, so both girls are satisfied.

This is the Robert Sparks production about professional football set to roll July 12.

Somebody got mixed up on that story about Betty Hutton wanting to make the Eva Tanguay life movie, "I don't Care" for Buddy De Sylva. It wasn't me.

English Star Sought

It came straight from headquarters that Betty wanted to do the Tanguay story for her old friend, De Sylva, which is fine, except that 20th Century-Fox owns the screen rights to the Eva Tanguay life and George Jessel is going to produce it from Joe Santley's original.

Yes, George would like to have Betty for his star, but after a few dozen telephone calls about "I Don't Care"—I don't care.

Hollywood in shorts: Humphrey Bogart is using every bait to get Jean Simmons for the girl in "Knock On Any Door." But after her terrific build up in "Hamlet," with critics here and abroad tearing editorial adjectives over her performance, J. Arthur Rank isn't likely to let Jean come here for a picture.

It was "birthday" night at the Mocambo with both Eleanor Parker and Mrs. Van Heflin celebrating their natal day in different parties.

Eleanor's husband, Bert Friedlob, tossed a celebration with Joe Schenck, Felice Vanderbilt, Dolores Norman, Ben Bogeaus and Alex Thompson among the guests.

Chaplin Puts On Weight

Dolores, who expects her baby any day, looks wonderful and is completely recovered from the skin allergy which kept her almost a recluse for six months.

Sunset cafe spots continue to pick up. Following night, at La Rue, I spotted Charlie Chaplin and Oona dining with Constance Collier. Chaplin has put on weight—about 20 pounds if one can judge without a scale.

Same place—same night: Ronald Colman minus "Oscar," but with Benita Colman and Mrs. Arthur Hornblow; Gene Raymond and Jeanette MacDonald—Jeanette an eyeful with her terrific tan in green and white; Ann Baxter keeping to her diet, but casting a wishful eye on John Hodiak's meal; and the Herbert Marshalls, just about the handsomest couple around these parts.

M'Liss McClure is the five foot redhead being seen everywhere these evenings with Mickey Rooney.

Gloria Haley back from seeing her father, Jack Haley, in his Broadway hit, "Inside USA." Everything is all patched up between Gloria and Tom Drake and their engagement is on again.

Dallas Deputy Police Chief Resigns Following New Plan

DALLAS, June 29 (U.P.)—Deputy Chief of Police E. V. Bunch, whose demotion was announced yesterday by Police Chief Carl Hansson, said today he would retire rather than accept the setback.

Hansson announced Bunch's demotion as a part of a reorganization program "in the interest of increased police efficiency."

The reorganization meant promotions for 19 other officers.

Bunch began his police career as a patrolman 24 years ago. He was to have been demoted to a newly created position of departmental inspector.

Hansson said that Bunch's decision to retire made it unnecessary to create the new post.

Bunch's retirement was to become effective July 28.

Increase In Bollworm Infestation Reported

SAN ANTONIO, June 29 (AP)—Infestation of the pink bollworm in South Texas cotton fields is more widespread this year than it was during 1947, L. F. Curl, district director of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, division of pink bollworm control, said here today.

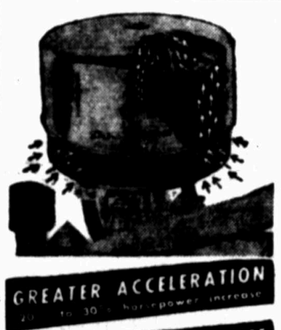

He had just returned from an inspection of the southern counties.

"The pink bollworm is particularly heavy in Jim Hogg, Webb and Zapata counties," Curl said.

The cotton crop, due to the dry weather is maturing fast, which is in favor of the growers, Curl explained. He said it was too early to predict the amount of damage.

Hubbers Take Third Place On 19-7 Win

Clodfelter Wins Eighth Of Year

BORGER, June 29 (Special)—The rampaging Lubbock Hubbers won their fifth straight game tonight at the expense of the faltering Borger Gassers, 19-7, and moved up to third place in the West Texas-New Mexico League race as the season came to the half-way mark.

Bob Clodfelter, the bellwether of the Hubber staff, survived a shaky start to settle down and win his eighth victory of the year, as his mates teed off on Bill Watling and Ken Hemphill for 16 hits.

Homers, Doubles Potent

Included in the barrage were homers by Gene Hixson, Virgil Richardson and Charley Scarborough, the latter getting his with the bases loaded in the eighth inning.

But it was the Hubber double attack that sent most of the runs across the plate. Scarborough collected two of them to go with his homer, while almost every man in the batting order had at least one.

The Lubbock nine launched its atomic attack in the initial frame. Jackie Wilcox, who had a perfect night at the plate, led off with a walk. Scarborough promptly doubled him home and rode in on Manager Jackie Sullivan's two-ply swat. Richardson walked and then accomplished a double steal with Sullivan. Don Moore and Chick Fowler fanned, but Hixson crashed a home run over the left field fence.

Borger Ties Score

Borger came back with four runs in the second, after a single counter in the first, to tie the score. Tommy Fox singled, Verdun Gilchrist walked, Bob Kramolisch singled to score Fox, Clayton Fries Singled and Watling bingled to score Gilchrist, Kramolisch tallying when Hixson's throw eluded Moore. Fries scored when Manager Eddie Carnett grounded into one of three Hubber double killings.

The Hubbers lost no time winning the game, scoring three times in the third. Sullivan singled and scored on Richardson's double, the latter coming home on Moore's double. Fowler and Hixson went down, but Frank McAlexander doubled to plate Moore.

Five more runs scored in the fourth on a triple by Wilcox, Scarborough's second double, walks to Richardson and Moore, a single by Fowler, an error in left field, Hixson's single and Clodfelter's groundout.

Richardson homered over the centerfield fence with the bases empty in the fifth and a walk, a single and Richardson's fly scored another run in the seventh. The final four runs came in the eighth when Hixson and McAlexander both were safe on errors, Wilcox singled to load the sacks and Scarborough homered.

Reynolds Foregoes AAU

Olympics Threat To School Work

Charley Reynolds, ace sprinter from Texas Tech, yesterday afternoon declined the invitation to join the Texas AAU track and field squad going to Milwaukee, Wisc., to compete for berths on the Olympic team, because of summer school work.

Reynolds, an outstanding dash man and relay runner for the Red Raiders, had received an invitation to join the squad, after he had placed second last week at San Antonio in the 100-meter and 200-meter races. Erich Pohl, Southwest Texas AAU district chairman, extended the invitation on the basis of Reynolds', showing.

Almost Beat Parker

The fleet Raider sprinter, who holds the Border Conference 100-yard dash championship, placed second to Perry Samuels of Texas university in the 100-meter event. He returned to chase the Steer's great Charley Parker across the finish line in the 200-meter race. Both races were among the best Reynolds had turned in this year.

If the Raider had placed at Milwaukee this week end, he would have gone on to Evanston, Ill., where final trials for membership on the United States Olympic team will be conducted. A place in Evanston would have insured his going to London, England, with the U. S. Olympic track and field squad.

Issues Statement

Reynolds, in a statement, declared "The first summer term is nearing a close and the trip to Milwaukee would necessitate a week away from classes." If I should place in the AAU meet, then I would go on to Evanston to try for the Olympic team under the agreement. That would mean two weeks away from school and failure to pass my courses at Tech."

The Tech sprinter currently is enrolled in the summer session at Texas Tech and playing softball in Lubbock. He also is an important cog in the Red Raider football squad and wants to get the additional hours to his credit that he is taking in summer school.

Albuquerque Dukes Edge Loboes, 8 To 7

ALBUQUERQUE, June 29 (Special)—A two-run rally in the home half of the ninth gave the Albuquerque Dukes a narrow 8-7 victory over the Lamesa Loboes here tonight.

The Lamesans, paced by the slugging of Walter Buckel and Jim Pinto, had chalked up three runs in the fourth and seventh frames to take a commanding lead, but hurler Stan Grzywacz was the victim of poor support in the field in the final stanza as the Dukes forged ahead.

Dick Shone, running for Lester Mulcahy, scored the winning run as Buckel booted an easy grounder hit by Len Attyd.

Virgil Butler, Duke left-hander, gave up nine safeties in chalking up his eighth win of the season.

TIDY, BUT SMART, TOO

OKLAHOMA CITY, (U.P.) — A burglar who visited Mrs. Lela Sinclair's home left the house as well as her purse clean. She said he emptied her purse but was careful not to get her floors dirty. The intruder took a rug from the clothes line and laid it on the muddy flower bed beneath the window he entered. The trick eliminated his footprints, of course.

Sunbeamers Defeat Golden Light, 5-3

Sunbeam's slugging nine clinched at least a tie for the championship of the South Plains Softball league by defeating Golden Light Coffee, 5-3, in the opening tilt of a Tuesday night twin bill at Jumbo Webster park.

The Sunbeamers, backing up the four-hit pitching of Doug Kuykendall, tallied twice in the first stanza on singles by Ralph Earhart and Roy Butler and a homer by Willis James. Two more Sunbeam runners crossed the plate in the third frame as Jim Clark and Earhart connected for successive doubles, then M. James scored the final tally in the fourth on an error and a single by the heavy-hitting Earhart.

The Coffeemen were able to score one run in the third inning, when Steve Novak led off with a double and Jack Dill singled.

Dewey Carr went the route for the losers, giving up eight hits.

In the nightcap the Baldridge Bakery crew retained their slim mathematical chance of tying for the championship by dropping Cloverlake Dairy, 6-2.

Big Loy Hubbard scattered four Cloverlake safeties to chalk up the mound triumph, while Cecil Hale was giving up five hits for the loss.

Earl Ince paced the Bakerymen at the plate, slamming two singles in three trips, with Jim Reiger collecting a triple in three tries.

A "make up" double bill is scheduled at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the field, with Baldridge battling Sunbeam in the opener and Thomas tangling with Golden Light in the nightcap.

Cellar Cubs Edge Cardinals, 3 To 1

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—Johnny Schmitz, hooking up in a brilliant slab duel with Harry "The Cat" Brecheen, interrupted the first-place drive of the St. Louis Cardinals here today when he hurled the Chicago Cubs to a 3-1 triumph before 17,158.

The southpaw doled out only four hits as he registered his seventh victory against eight losses. The lone run by the Cardinals came on the first of a pair of doubles by Enos Slaughter in the fourth inning and a single by "Nippy" Jones.

That represented the only scoring in the game until the sixth when Brecheen, who had allowed only two hits previously, suddenly weakened. He was tagged for five straight hits after retiring the first two men and the Cubs pushed across all three of their runs.

Old Wooden Grid Stadium At Tech To Be Torn Down

The old football stadium at Texas Tech soon will be little more than a memory.

Workmen have begun the task of razing the old stands, tearing down all the wooden structures. The only section to be left standing will be the steel stands on the west side. These were erected in 1927 and will provide seating for approximately 3000 persons.

The west stands will be used by the college for spectators at track meets and football practice, since the Red Raiders will not workout on the turf in the new Jones Stadium.

The space caused by removal of the east and north stands and the knothole section of the west stand, will be used as a parking lot, according to S. H. Scales, foreman of the workmen on the job.

DETROIT, June 29 (AP)—Fireballer Bobby Feller of the Cleveland Indians showed his old time form today as he scattered eight hits while beating the Detroit Tigers and Hal Newhouser 6 to 2.

Feller, who fanned eight men and walked only two, was given a five run lead by his hard-hitting teammates in the first three innings. From then on he seldom was in trouble as he coasted in with win No. 7 as against eight losses.

The game, billed as a pitching duel between Feller and Tiger ace Newhouser, was turned into a slugfest by the Indians as they drove Newhouser to the showers in the third inning.

Mills Apt Choice For All-Stars

Utility Man Has Fine Record

One of the most able utility men and relief hurlers in the West Texas-New Mexico League was chosen by four managers of teams bracketed in the southern half of the loop to be a member of the South All-Star team.

So Royce Mills, one of the few veterans on the Lubbock Hubber nine, will don his uniform Saturday night and join 15 other players in Abilene, where the league's All-Star game will be played this year.

Mills Always Ready

And the selection of Mills appears to be a happy choice. The diminutive righthander is having a good year for the Hubbers, occasionally gaining credit for a victory sometimes suffering a loss, but always ready to step in and attempt to pull a game out of the fire.

Strangely enough Mills has appeared in 21 games this season and never once has pitched a complete game Yet against Abilene here recently Mills came on in relief in the first inning and stayed until the final out. By that time the game was in the 11th inning which meant he hurled 10 2/3 innings, longer than a regulation tilt.

His won and lost record this season is six and two with an earned run average of 5.5 per complete game He has given up 73 hits and 30 bases on balls, while fanning 49 men. Mills has hit two batters, given up eight sacrifice hits and made four wild pitches.

Mills has been up to the plate 53 times and gathered 13 hits good for 18 total bases and eight runs. Numbered among his hits are three doubles and a triple. He also has driven in eight runs, whiffed six times and walked twice for an average of .245.

Mills joins George Payte and Avon Driggers of Pampa, Fred Fazzio of Abilene and Chris Haskins of Lamesa on the mound staff. Driggers has a 10-2 record, Payte has chalked up 6-4, Fazzio has 7-4 and Haskins has 8-4 for the season. Driggers' earned run average is 3.1, Haskins' record, 4.7, Payte's, 4.8, and Fazzio's, 6 runs per game.

At bat Payte leads the pitchers with a .279 average on 12 hits good for 16 total bases, including one double, one homer. Driggers has a .244 average on 11 singles, but Haskins is the prize. He's hitting .231 on 18 hits good for 38 total bases, including three doubles and six homers. Fazzio is batting an even .200 on nine hits for 12 total bases including a double and triple.

Jaycee Squad Downs Methodist Men, 10-4

The Jaycees jumped into an early lead yesterday afternoon and then went on to defeat the Methodist Men 10-4 in an American Legion Junior League baseball game at the Lubbock Boys club.

Donnie Presley paced the Jaycee batters with a triple and a double, while Billy Presley, a brother, led the stifled attack of the Methodist Men with exactly the same hits.

In a Pee Wee League game preceding the Legion teams, the Cardinals edged the Red Sox by the close score of 12-11. Larry Merriman led the batting attack of the winners with a circuit clout and a single. Kenneth Pohrer had a pair of singles to lead the losers.

KUYKENDALL NINE BEATS HEMPHILL-WELLS, 13-2

The Kuykendall-sponsored baseball team in the American Legion program won a game from the Hemphill-Wells team yesterday afternoon at Chapman Field, 13-2.

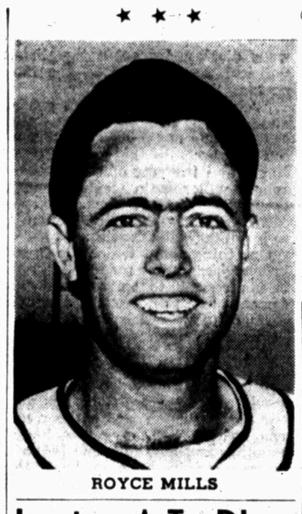

Jimmy Sexton, hurling for the victors, alowed the Hemphill-Wells nine only two hits in chalking up the victory. No home runs were hit, but the Kuykendall nine put on a sustained drive to finish out in front.

Legion A To Play Spur Thursday

The off-again, on-again District 2 tilt between the Lubbock American Legion A nine and the Spur team, scheduled Tuesday afternoon at Chapman field, was reslated for 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon following a last-minute postponement by club managers.

Legion officials had announced Monday night that the contest would be played Tuesday, but later the Spur directors decided that it would be more convenient to play Thursday.

A full district slate is carded in the area today, however, with the Lubbock B nine playing host to Brownfield at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Chapman field.

The Hub city B team is now leading the North bracket of the loop with five wins and a single forfeit defeat, while Brownfield boasts a three won-three lost mark. The Terry county squad lost its first two encounters in district play, but has since notched triumphs over Morton, Littlefield and Plainview.

Morris Turner, flashy righthander, is expected to get the starting mound assignment from Lubbock Coach Garland Head, although David Clark and Mack Taylor will be available for duty. Other starters will include Tommy Yelvington, catcher; Taylor, first base; Neil Sikes, second; Johnny Tatum, third; Dan Adkisson, short; Tom Brown, left field; Bobby Sexton, center field; and J. R. Bradford, right field.

In other North division tussles Morton will journey to Littlefield and Plainview clashes with Muleshoe.

No games are carded in the South half.

Good Grappling On Bill Tonight

The doors open at Sled Allen's wrestling arena at 8 tonight and spectators jamming their way inside will be rewarded by three mat matches that include a main event, a semi-final and a preliminary bout

Good Show Slated

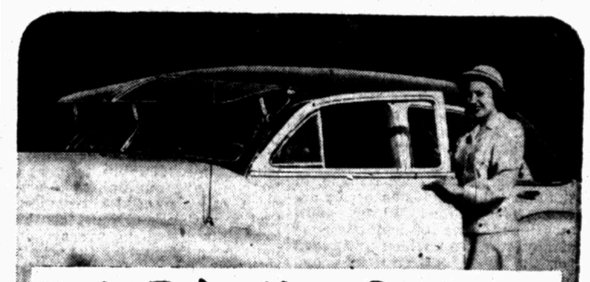

All in all it should be a good evening, what with Gil Knutson and Olan Boynton opening the card. They will be followed by Sammy Kohen and Billy Hickson in a two out of three falls match and the main go will bring together Bill Weidner and Frankie Murdoch in another scheduled three-fall event with a one-hour limit

To start off with, Knutson and Boynton have been having licks at each other for several weeks. They began harmlessly enough, in a main event that went against Boynton. He then came back here in three tag-team matches and each time his team beat the one on which Knutson was billed.

The final pairs Weidner of Boston, Mass., and Murdoch of Waxahachie, Tex., in as good a bout as possible. Weidner is the more scientific wrestler, while Murdoch has the power. The Texas grappler is the exponent of the famed "sleep hold," but the Boston man has more ring savvy.

Tickets will be on sale at Wylie's Drug store from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m., with the first match slated for 8:30 p. m.

Yanks Qualify For British Golf Title

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, June 29. (INS)—Nine Americans qualified for the British Open golf championship today, but it was Henry Cotton, England's most famed golfer, who led the pack with a 36-hole total of 138.

Cotton, holder of the open crown in 1934 and 1937, shot his second successive 69 to take over the lead as the field of 275 was trimmed to 97 with scores of 152 or better for the start of championship play tomorrow.

Cotton played Gullane in even par today after going one over par on tougher Muirfield yesterday with his opening 69.

Defending champion Fred Daly of Ireland shot a 69 today after a 71 yesterday and Roberto De Vincenzo, of Brazil added a 72 to his previous 68, for a runnerup deadlock at 140.

Thomson Leads With 143

Jimmy Thomson today played Muirfield, scene of the championship and slumped to a 75 after his brilliant 68 yesterday for a total of 143 which gave him leadership over the eight other Americans who made the grade, as follows:

Lawson Little, 70-74—144; Capt. Ed Kingsley, 72-72—144; Arthur Clark, 71-73—144; Frank Stranahan, recent winner of the British amateur, 70-75—145; Claude Harmon, 73-72—145; Johnny Bulla, 71-77—148; Charlie Rotar, 72-76—148; Bobby Cruickshank, 76-76—152.

Chris Dunphy and Bob Sweeny, with 155's and Frank Tatum, 161, failed to qualify and Ross Thompson, withdrew.

The 97 survivors will play 18 holes tomorrow and Thursday and the low 40 will play the final 36 holes of the 72-hole championship on Friday.

Americans Favored

Among the leaders after today's qualifying shooting was over were A. E. Tibbles and Alf Padgham, British professionals and Mario Gonzalez, Brazilian amateur, each with 141, but the American contingent remained favored.

Stranahan, who lost the open to Daly by a stroke last year and beat back his field recently to take the British amateur and Little, maker of the little grand slam in 1934 and 1935, when he won both the British and American amateur crowns in successive years before turning pro, are regarded as the standouts.

However, Bulla has twice come close in this tournament and Harmon only recently won the American Masters' title and they too had a following.

SWEET THIRTEEN—She is only 13, but Mary Ann McDonald, of Arlington Heights, Ill., is such an able player that she started in the Women's Western Open at Chicago's Skycrest country club against such formidable stars as Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Patty Berg.

Two Southern California Star Players Signed By Rockets

NEW YORK, June 29 (INS)—The New York Yankees announced today the signing of pitcher Wally Hood, jr., and outfielder Hank Workman, star players for the University of Southern California, National Collegiate baseball champions.

Hood, a right-hander who won 21 and lost 2 this season, was optioned to the Yankees' Newark Bear farm team. Workman, left-handed swinging slugger, batted .341 this season and hit 11 home runs, four of them in the recent regional playoffs at Denver.

PACKERS ACQUIRE JOHNSON

GREEN BAY, Wis., June 29. (INS)—Giant Clyde Johnson, six-foot, 6½ inch tackle, has been acquired by the Green Bay Packers from the Los Angeles Rams in exchange for one of the Packers' in the National Football League player draft next December.

Four Standout Backfield Men Signed By Chicago Rockets

CHICAGO, June 29 (INS) — The Chicago Rockets of the All-America football conference said today they've signed four standout backfield men, two of them newcomers, for the forthcoming season.

In addition to signing ace holdovers Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch and Ray Ramsey, the Rockets acquired track star Elmore Harris, who played for the Brooklyn football Dodgers last season, and former Notre Dame fullback Floyd Simmons.

Bragan Will Manage Cats

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 29. (AP)—Bobby Bragan is being sent to the Texas League by Brooklyn to manage the Fort Worth Cats. He replaces George Dockins, who has been acting skipper since June 22 when Lester Burge was fired after a season and a half of leading the Cats.

Bragan, 30-year-old infielder and catcher, will be playing manager. Dockins, who didn't want the managerial post but just filled in until one was obtained, will stay with the club as a pitcher.

Announcement that Bragan had been named to pilot the local Texas League entry which is owned by Brooklyn, and that he would join the club at Tulsa tomorrow was made by President John Reeves of the Cats.

Fort Worth hasn't lost a game in eight days. The club won on June 21 when Burge managed the Cats for the last time. Since then, under Dockins, Fort Worth has won eight and tied one.

Yanks Advance In Wimbledon Singles

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 29 (INS)—Four American women advanced into the semi-finals of the Wimbledon singles tennis championships today to lock up the title won last year by Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont.

Mrs. Osborne herself was a 7-5, 6-3 victor over England's Mrs. Jean Bostock in a day of American success that may lead to a "grand slam" triumph in all divisions of the famed tennis tourney.

America yesterday assured herself of an entry in the men's singles finals when Bob Falkenburg and Gardnar Mulloy gained the same semi-finals bracket.

POST OFFICE NINE LOSES

The Economy Mills softball team won an Industrial League victory over the Post Office nine yesterday afternoon 4-3 behind the hurling of Jesse Clark. The winners scored the deciding marker in the fifth inning.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

When the 1948 version of the Lubbock High school Westerners goes to Fort Worth Sept. 24 for a non-conference clash with North Side High, the Hub City schoolboys will tangle with one of the top 'teen-age athletes in the country—Darrow Hooper. Hooper, now 16, a six-three, 207 pounder, is slated to be the spark of the Steer eleven this fall, as well as the ace of the strong North Side track and field squads.

Hooper demonstrated his ability on the gridiron very well last year when the Lubbock and Fort Worth teams clashed. Hooper had played at tackle and center all season, but just before the Westerner game the Steers' ace quarterback — Yale Lary — was injured and the giant Darrow was shifted to the key slot on the T-formation. Just how well Hooper performed in the new position was shown by the 40-plus points racked up that night by the speedy invaders.

Then last Spring, Hooper was back in the spotlight as a weight specialist with the track and field squad. He pitched the 12-pound shot 59 feet, 10⅛ inches in the Texas Interscholastic league meet for big city schools to wipe out the national record of 59 feet 5⅜ inches set in 1946 by John E. Helwig of Los Angeles.

Everybody was surprised when Hooper broke the shot record, however, because he had been building up the national discus standard. He had sailed the platter 173 feet, 2½ inches, just three feet short of the record. But then he suddenly demonstrated his prowess with the shot and seemed to halt his development with the platter.

Just after the Interscholastic league discus event was completed and Hooper had gained the title, although none of his throws had reached 160 feet, the youngster, a little disappointed, decided to take another throw "just for fun." He whirled the discus 169 feet!

It looks as if some Lubbock youngsters may be in for a rough night at Fort Worth.

Although many South Plains sports fans would be happy if the name of Byron (Santone) Townsend of Odessa was left off the sports pages for just three consecutive days we feel obligated to pass along the latest "authentic report" on the "Townsend plan" for attending college. According to an undercover agent, who passes through Odessa frequently, Townsend is ready to cast his lot with Southern Methodist so that he can combine forces with the great Doak Walker and Kyle Rote during the 1949 season Townsend reportedly feels that the prestige of playing with Doak and Kyle under Bell would outweigh the (reported) financial advantages of Texas university or Oklahoma.

Stan Holmig To Join Phils

DALLAS, June 29. (AP)—Stan Hollmig, Texas A. and M. college athlete, has gone to Terre Haute, Ind., to sign a contract with Philadelphia of the National League, it was learned tonight from authoritative sources.

He will receive approximately $25,000 in bonus and contract.

Confirmation could not be obtained at his Hondo, Tex., home, and neither could it be obtained from the Philadelphia office, but it is known that Hollmig either is on the way or has arrived in Terre Haute, a farm club of Philadelphia, and is expected to sign the contract tomorrow.

He was at first assigned to Wilmington, Del., but was reassigned to Terre Haute.

At College Station, where Texas A. and M. is located, athletic officials did not know whether Hollmig had decided to sign a contract in pro baseball. But they said if he did his loss would be felt greatly both in football and baseball. Hollmig was due to be the mainspring of the Aggie backfield next fall. He is one of the finest kickers and passers in the country.

Big league scouts have labeled him the best prospect in the southwest. He is a hard-hitting outfielder. He also has done some pitching and played first base.

QUALIFYING RECORD SHATTERED

San Jose State Wins Team Honors In College Golf Play

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Palo Alto, Cal., June 29 (INS)—San Jose state college won the team championship today in the National Intercollegiate golf championships being played over the Stanford university course.

San Jose wrested the title from the defending champion, Louisiana State university, with a 36-hole total of 579 for the four man team play.

On the winning team were Morgan Fottrell, Jr., 70-69--139; Ross Smith 73-71--144; Eli Bartiteau, Jr., 73-73--146, and Bobby Harris 74-76--150. Howard Verdutti, also of San Jose, posted a 76-74--150.

Fottrell also earned a tie for medalist honors with Gardiner Dickinson, Jr., of LSU, who shot 71-68--139 which broke the old qualifying record by three strokes.

Dickinson On Active Duty

Oddly enough Dickinson will not be among those battling for the individual title now held by Michigan's Dave Barclay. Dickinson is an army reserve and had to leave by plane late today to report for active duty at Ft. Benning, Ga.

This will give the Northern California intercollegiate champ, Fottrell, the No. 2 position for the match play which starts tomorrow over Stanford's par 71 layout. Defending titlist Barclay automatically got the No. 1 position despite his 153 qualifying score.

Two other collegians broke the former qualifying mark of 142—Oregon's Lou Stafford who turned in a 71-69--140, and Fred Wampler of Purdue who carded a 68-71--141.

Known Stars Qualify

Two well known golfers were bracketed at 143, Tom Lambie of Stanford with 68-75, and Bo Winninger of Oklahoma A. & M., with 70-73. They wele followed by San Jose's Smith with his 144.

Several other nationally known collegiate stars were among the 64 qualifiers for the match play. They included:

Babe Lind of Denver with 145; John Zollar of Ohio State, 145; Art Wall, Jr., Duke, 146; Ted Richards, U. C. L. A., and Barriteau at 146; Bob Crozier, Stanford, 146; Jim Boyle, New Mexico, 146; Keith Fowler and Charles Coe, both of Oklahoma, 147; grid star Pete Elliott of Michigan, 148; and Harvey Ward, Jr., North Carolina, 150.

NEW TRUCE DISPUTE SOLVED

British End 25-Year Holy Land Rule As Last Troops Pull Out

By BENN FELLER
INS Staff Correspondent

TEL AVIV, June 30 (Wednesday)—The last British troops began moving out of Palestine today and their commander announced the end of a quarter-century of rule effective Thursday.

Lt. Gen. G. H. A. MacMillan, the British commander, began transferring Haifa port, the final embarkation port, to the Jews of Israel yesterday.

Three UN observers were on hand to see that the Jews keep the truce banning immigration and imports of arms.

War Material Blown Up

Minor explosions occurred all day Tuesday within the British enclave at Haifa's port and airport as the British blew up material likely to serve war purposes.

The new Israeli-Egyptian truce dispute was solved today when Egypt agreed to allow Jewish food convoys to go to the Negev, or southern desert settlements.

UN mediators also reported satisfaction with an Egyptian promise to "punish" the pilot who last week fired on a UN plane piloted by Lt. Col. Michael Martin, Bluefield, W. Va.

It was learned that the Jews were ready to use force with the convoys when the Egyptians agreed to passage.

Captured Area Claimed

The first official intimation that the Jews will claim areas maintained or captured in Jerusalem as part of Israel territory was given Monday night by Col. David Shaltiel, the Israeli commander in the area.

Shaltiel, a 42-year-old German-born former French foreign legionnaire, told a news conference that Israel will annex all areas seized or controlled "under present conditions." He implied that anything held will not be yielded except by unforseen arrangements.

The commander said women and children will not be evacuated from the holy city in the event fighting begins when the present truce ends July 8.

He said alternate food and water supply routes will be maintained into Jerusalem.

The arrest was by the sheriff's department.

$1,000 Bond Set

Bond of $1,000 was set by C. E. Lynn, another justice of peace, in binding William Midkiff, 26, of Lubbock, over to grand jury investigation on a charge of passing a forged $23 check to Joe V. Turner, complaining witness. The check, Pharr and Lynn said, was signed with the name of "L. C. Johnson."

City Detective Lee Rice, jr., sought a 21-year-old negro for questioning in connection with an alleged affray yesterday at a cafe in 2200-block Ave. H.

James Dunias, proprietor, was treated for a slight cut after he was struck by a tossed bottle, Rice had been informed.

Negro Drew Knife

The negro, Rice said he was informed, drew a knife on the cafe proprietor, who grabbed a butcher knife for defense. The bottle was thrown. A plate glass section of the cafe door was smashed.

The negro, employed at the cafe, "took off."

Alleged activities of a 26-year-old TNM&O driver Monday night were not reflected by any charges. Police arrested the man after a report from the bus station that pickets stationed there in connection with a Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen strike, called May 21, had been threatened.

No Charges Filed

Bob West and Lynn Campbell, patrolmen, said the driver had a large knife and something resembling a blackjack when he was arrested. Union officials were invited this morning, after the bus company employe had been released to reappear later, to file charges if they believed the case were actionable. But no charges had been filed in the afternoon.

Two Bonds Posted

Two bonds were posted, the sheriff's office said: By T. A. Morris, 34, of Lubbock, who had pleaded innocent of drunk driving; and by Frank Sosa, 33, a Mexican charged with aggravated assault. The first was for $500, the other $400.

Gene Sitz, who had reported several days ago that the engine of a scooter had been stolen from him, informed the sheriff's department that the property had been discovered in the back yard of an address on Ave. K. A juvenile questioned in connection with the case was placed on probation in custody of his parents, after stating that he had taken the property.

Theft of 17 cartons of cigarets, valued at $27.71, was reported to police by R. H. Copeland of 2406 Ave. T. He said the property was taken from a delivery truck.

Wilbur Hunt, of 2106 Eighth, said that someone had taken $10 in cash from his residence.

Two bikes were reported stolen. Kenneth Garrett, of 2407 Twenty-fifth, told police that his bicycle, valued at $25, was missing from Senior High school. Royse Ship, of 701 Thirteenth, reported his bike missing from the Boys club.

vivors are shocked and dazed as they walk over twisted pavements of the city seeking friends or relatives in broken buildings."

Emery said he saw the bodies of 50 men and women being cremated near a smashed Buddhist temple in which they had been crushed to death when the tile roof fell upon them.

Flood Danger Seen

The danger of floods in Fukui province became a possibility today. Gov. Obata reported the quake left huge holes in hundreds of places along the dikes which protect the whole province.

While rescue and relief work went forward in an orderly manner under the tireless American military government teams, minor temblors continued to be felt throughout the province.

The Japanese welfare ministry estimated that between 300,000 and 400,000 were homeless in the quake area.

Fukui was an important center to Japan because 70 per cent of all silk exported since the end of World War II came from Fukui.

In his dispatch from the devastated city, Emery said that "Fukui's men and women wander aimlessly through desolate streets. They do not seem to have the will to fight back again after once having rebuilt their town, which was destroyed by fire bombs three years ago."

Gov. Obata received a cabled message of sympathy last night from the Los Angeles Japanese Citizens association. The message said:

"We are consulting Japanese in Los Angeles from Fukui prefecture in order to devise suitable means of assisting."

said that if the president of Columbia university would consent to his name being placed in nomination, "there is no question but what he would sweep the convention and lead a winning ticket in November."

Final Decision Due

However, some other southerners said they felt it would be best to proceed without any overtures to Eisenhower since they were determined to seek his nomination regardless of the general's preference. One senator said he felt sure Eisenhower could not refuse a draft.

A final decision on who will place Eisenhower's name in nomination is to be made after Sen. Hill (D-Ala), returns from a home conference.

Alabama, the first state to be called when nominations open, has elected a delegation instructed to vote against Mr. Truman at the convention.

Hill, chairman of the Alabama group, is understood ready to make the Eisenhower nominating speech. However, he may decide to leave this honor to other willing southern speakers.

Sparkman said that whatever is decided, he thought Eisenhower's name will be placed before the convention at the earliest opportunity.

If Alabama places "Ike's" name before the convention, the man who led Allied forces to victory in Europe would thus be placed before the delegates ahead of the President.

ity regulations will be observed."

It was considered conciliatory in tone, although it held out no immediate hope for restoration of formal motor traffic to and from Berlin.

Earlier today Sir Brian said at Hamburg that if the eight-day-old Soviet blockade of the city continues, with its threat of slow starvation for two million Germans in Berlin's western sectors, "it will constitute an act of inhumanity unparalleled in world history."

More Efforts Planned

Contents of Sokolovsky's letter were made known as the Berlin city council was finishing work on its appeal to the UN.

(At Lake Success and Washington, American officials indicated that the United States wants to make additional direct efforts to break the Berlin deadlock before agreeing to have the UN take up the problem.)

Sokolovsky's letter contained the first indication of the Soviet attitude on their blockade since it was clamped around the city after the June 19 outbreak of the East-West currency war in Berlin.

The Russians have indicated through the newspaper Taegliskhe Rundschau that the whole deadlock could be broken if the West would agree to making the new Soviet currency the only legal currency in the four-power Soviet-encircled city.

Repairs To Be "Rushed"

Sokolovsky wrote to Robertson after the Soviet commander conferred with Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor, Monday.

Robertson demanded last Saturday that the Russians immediately lift their transport embargo or shoulder responsibility for starvation among the population.

Sokolovsky replied to this letter in the most conciliatory tones used by the Soviets since they imposed their new traffic curbs.

The Soviet commander said "Soviet transport organizations will take all measures to overcome technical difficulties as soon as possible", on the rail line from Helmstedt, 90 miles west of Berlin in the British zone.

Traffic on the line was halted by the Russians on the grounds that it needed "lengthy repairs." It is the west's chief link with Berlin.

Sokolovsky said, however, that restrictions on motor traffic must be maintained to prevent "invasions" of western currency into the Soviet zone.

No one, not even the law firm of Joseph Tauber, attorney named as executor of the will, could remember much about the old man. The firm could only vaguely remember that the will "was written a long time ago."

Perhaps the key to the mystery—if it is ever solved—is in a small safe deposit box in the conservative old Williamsburg Savings bank in Brooklyn.

When the box eventually is opened by the public administrator of Brooklyn, who has taken over the case, perhaps it will reveal the history of the old man whose investments ran the gamut of two $1,000 U. S. war bonds and 500 shares of Soviet securities.

PASADENA, Calif., June 29 (INS)—Chicago importer Christopher N. Janus doesn't have to worry about what to do with Hitler's bullet-proof Mercedes Binz anymore.

Don Limburg, a Pasadena radio announcer, told his listeners (with tongue in cheek) today that Janus ought to send the car to the new state of Israel to be converted into an ambulance.

Limburg asked the millionaire importer to consider a dollar pledged on any figure Janus might name for sale of the car. Fifteen minutes after he had completed his broadcast, 100 people offered to donate money toward purchase of the car for shipment to Palestine.

Seven Injured When Santa Fe Streamliner Leaves Tracks

WINSLOW, Ariz., June 29 (AP)—The Santa Fe's crack streamliner, the Super Chief, careened off a curve here today and the locomotive and three coaches overturned.

Seven members of the train crew were injured seriously enough to be hospitalized. A dozen passengers were given first aid and released.

Two sleeper coaches of the gleaming 12-car luxury train left the rails but did not overturn.

The eastbound Super Chief hit the curve at the western edge of the railroad yards and couldn't hold the tracks. Unofficially it was reported the air brakes failed to act.

After leaving the tracks the crippled locomotive and derailed coaches smashed off a corner of a water distilling plant, knocked over two oil storage tanks and plowed into a string of tank cars. The overturning coaches crashed nine parked automobiles.

Some of the flood waters of the Rio Grande were being absorbed by the dry river bed and bottom lands, said J. L. Lytel of San Benito, engineer of the international boundary and water commission.

Much of the water was flowing into seldom used floodways.

The depth of the river yesterday at Hidalgo was 20.4 feet and rising slowly. The crest there was expected to reach 23 feet or higher.

The river stage at Brownsville, near the entrance to the gulf, was 12.9 yesterday. The crest, expected there Sunday, may reach 18 feet.

summer school Crager directed the band in the number, which was received with enthusiastic applause.

Still another was a cornet solo, "Dawes Melody," composed by Charles G. Dawes, and rendered by John James Haynie, of Cisco, formerly of Tech and more recently a cornet soloist with the University of Illinois concert band. Applause was so insistent Haynie repeated the number as an encore.

Mystery Melody Recalled

Also received with especial warmth were interpretations by the concert bands of Offenbach's "Orpheus," featuring some fine passages by the band's large and exceptional trombone section, and Belsterling's "March of the Steelmen," in which trumpet and trombone were stressed.

As to the "mystery melody," Director Wiley said he recalled it, when it first was played on the weekly ABC program over KFYO last Sunday night, as a number the Tech bands had played a couple of times, didn't like too much, and discarded some 10 years or more ago. His search of old Tech music files brought the composition to light.

The band played only that portion of the composition which is being rendered on the "Stop the Music" program. The selection, Wiley said, is played regularly as an introduction to Fox Movietone newsreels and was composed by a fellow named Zamecnik who, Wiley believes now lives in New York. It was published by the Sam Fox company, Cleveland.

The title? If you must know, according to Wiley, it is, "World Events."

And if knowing that title wins thousands of dollars in prizes for you, Wiley would like to have half. But he doesn't figure on getting it.

"Warmongers" Hit

"It has tended to liquidate the Yugoslav Community party. It began to pursue a policy which could only result in the restoration of a capitalistic state in Yugoslavia under the domination of imperialism."

The statement, signed by William Z. Foster, chairman, and Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist party of the U. S., at the same time said that "U. S. imperialists, through their press and State department, are distorting the meaning of the Communist Information bureau statement."

Foster and Dennis stated that "the Wall street warmongers are boasting that their 'get tough' policy and Marshall plan strategy have begun to pay off. . . .

"The American people," the statement urged, "must reject all such distortions as the most dangerous type of warmongering.

"Despite the betrayal of the present leadership of the Yugoslav party, the anti-imperialist camp is growing. Its unity and effectiveness will be strengthened by the exposure and expulsion of the traitors."

Postscripts Of The Convention At Philadelphia

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA June 29 — Convention postscripts — There ought to be some easier way to name presidential candidates.

Best speech Herbert Hoover's . . . Worst speech, most all the others. They were so bad that even the radio audiences were pouring in complaints. Biggest flop, the MacArthur boom . Biggest bust the Taft balloon that floated to the high ceiling, hit a hot light and exploded, letting a "Taft for President" pennant fall symbolically to the floor . . . Most enthusiastic but worst singer, Congressman George Bender of Ohio, leading the Taft demonstration in the convention's most overworked tune, "Four Leaf Clover," which should now become a symbol for bad luck.

Warren Made Hit

Best press conference, Governor Earl Warren of California. He made a hit as the squarest shooter at the convention and a man whose word could be depended on . . He was the only candidate who refused to predict his own election . . Differences between Dewey and Warren: Dewey said Congress had made a remarkable record in a number of fields . . . Warren said frankly that Congress had failed to tackle many of the fundamental problems facing the country today

Biggest boo from the crowd to Senator Ed Martin of Penn., when he came to the platform to nominate Dewey and said, "This is the most historic moment of my life."

Biggest demonstration, Harold Stassen's three a. m. show . All the other "spontaneous demonstrations," staged mostly by ringers and not by delegates, were put on by grim-faced old timers and extras for the mob scene. The Stassen following had youth and color and perhaps hope that the G. O. P. would become really progressive.

The Biggest Let-Down

Biggest let-down, also Harold Stassen's. Day before the balloting began, Stassen declared that the "Grundy-Dewey deal" had injured the Republican party. Next day Stassen proposed making Dewey's nomination unanimous When Stassen did this, his followers in the crowd yelled, "No," gave him a few boos and cried, "We want Stassen." But once again a convention chose a candidate who had the delegates, but not the support of the crowd. It happened in 1920 when the Republicans passed up Hoover for Harding, and when the Democrats passed up Al Smith for John W Davis in 1924.

Last man to give up on trying to make General Eisenhower the G. O. P. nominee was C. D. Hicks, Missouri manufacturer. In spite of all the pre-convention hullabaloo about Ike, he didn't even get one vote.

Last line in Speaker Joe Martin's speech after his selection as permanent Chairman was, "We have come of age. In our maturity, with the help of God, let us greet the future." Martin turned around and there, facing him, was Herbert Hoover

Spoiled Own Candidacy

Man who did the most to spoil Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg's candidacy was Senator Vandenberg himself When he issued a perfectly meaningless 13-line statement after his arrival in Philadelphia, it was shown to one of his most ardent backers. This politician read the statement grimly, paced the floor of his hotel room a couple of times and then remarked "Did you ever hear about the country girl?" When asked, "Which One?" he replied, "The one who was so dam coy she never did get kissed."

Dirtiest crack heard at the convention, "Well we're going to get rid of the haberdasher, all right by turning the store over to a model out of the window."

pass another vehicle. Before he could clear the car, he collided with Wardlaw, preliminary investigation showed.

The point of impact, on the north side of the road, was the right front section of both cars, a patrolman said.

The unknown party, believed accompanied by an older man, stopped about 400 yards down the road and returned to the scene momentarily. While Wardlaw was speaking to his wife, the youth disappeared, an officer was told.

A hub cap and a fender skirt from the youth's car were found at the scene. The parts were believed from a 1942 model Oldsmobile.

News Briefs

George A. Law, 1909 Fifth, reported to police Tuesday night that his black 1946 Plymouth ccach, license number A/P 1166, was stolen in the 1000 block of Avenue K. He said the keys were not in the car at the time. Police were investigating.

Bill Pendley reported 15 batteries were stolen from him in the 2400 block of Avenue G Tuesday afternoon. Lubbock police were investigating the report.

An East Texas State Teachers College breakfast will be held Tuesday, July 6, at 8 a. m. in the Blue room of the college cafeteria at West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon Persons who have attended ETSTC are urged to be present, where they will have an opportunity to meet Dr. James Gee, the ETSTC president, and to visit with old friends. No reservations are necessary, it was announced.

VARIABILITY NEEDED

Many grass and vegetable crop seeds, such as timothy, bluegrass, carrot and parsnip, give maximum germination only at alternating temperatures ranging from low to high each day.

DEPEND ON FRAGRANCE

White flowers have a stronger fragrance than colored ones. Insects, which pollinate flowers, are attracted to colored blooms by their bright hues, but white flowers must depend upon their fragrance for their attraction.

NOT HIGHEST

The Continental Divide, contrary to popular opinion, is not a line drawn through the highest peaks of the Rocky Mountains, but a line dividing the rivers that drain into the Atlantic from those that drain into the Pacific.

Levelland Schedules Soil Meeting Friday

LEVELLAND, June 29 (Special) Several new applications for assistance of soil conservation are to be passed on by supervisors of the Hockley County soil conservation district at a meeting next Friday night that will precede a general open session in the courthouse here.

The open meeting, to which business men, farmers and others interested in soil conservation are invited, is to start at 8 o'clock. It is to include showing of special soil conservation films, and discussions that promise to be of wide interest, the announcement from the Levelland work unit of the Soil Conservation service said.

Supervisors of the district are Ben T. Phillips, chairman; H. T. Harrell, secretary; and board members C. D. Bond of Ropesville, con Lawson of Pettit, and B. Forman of Anton.

Among applications to be considered are E. O. Schoenrock, who has a 205-acre farm; a farm owned by C. E. Myatt and operated by Henry White; the J. C. Porter farm of 296 acres two miles east of Pettit; Arthur Neumann, whose 338 acres is four miles west of Ropesville.

Conservation technicians have reported that a number of district farmer cooperators are preparing land for planting of alfalfa and improved pasture, and some have already bought seed to insure a sufficient supply.

It is set out also that inoculants for legume seed are being purchased by some planning to plant legumes. It is generally agreed that innoculation of legume seed before planting is well worth the trouble and slight cost, the announcement said.

American bakers spend more than $12,000,000 annually enriching bread with certain vitamins and iron.

U. S. Closes Books On History's Greatest Wheat Exporting Year

By WILLIAM FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 30. — The United States today closes the books on its third post-war crop exporting year. In that period it has shipped more wheat abroad than any country in the world's history. Most of it has been shipped free.

Only in recent months, when the Marshall plan was being debated in Congress, has the magnitude of America's effort to help feed a starving world been recognized.

Prior to that for more than two years, American grain was distributed around the world without fanfare.

Statistics Show Magnitude

Wheat and flour exports in the crop year now ending—July 1, 1947, to June 30, 1948—have totalled around 475,000,000 bushels.

How much is 475,000,000 bushels?

The per capita consumption of wheat as food in the United States is less than four bushels a year. On that basis, we sent abroad enough wheat in the last 12 months to fill the wheat food requirements of 114,250,000 Americans for a full year.

For another thing, about 1,800 bushels of wheat fill one railroad box car. During the past year much publicity was attached to one or two "friendship trains" sending food to Europe. But actually we sent abroad enough wheat to fill 2,777 railroad trains of 100 box cars each.

Shipments Increased

For still another thing, wheat can be and is used as a livestock feed. It takes about seven pounds of wheat to make one pound of meat. A bushel of wheat is equal to 60 pounds. Translated into terms of meat the wheat we exported in the last 12 months was equal to more than 4,000,000,000 pounds of meat.

In the 1944-45 year we exported 152,965,000 bushels of wheat, stepped up to 390,741,000 bushels the next year and 400,307,000 bushels last year. Other grains also were exported, although not in as large quantities as wheat and flour.

During this period the United States has come to the forefront of exporting nations. Prior to the war the United States ranked fourth.

In the four years prior to 1939, Argentina exported 41 per cent of the total world exports, Canada 18.2 per cent, Australia 9.7 per cent and the United States only 4.6 per cent. The remaining 26.5 per cent was divided among other nations.

But after the war, in the 1945-46 crop years the United States exported 78.2 per cent, Argentina 13.7 per cent, Australia 3.6 per cent and all others 3.9 per cent.

The same standing held in the 1946-47 year with the United States exporting 52.4 per cent. This year, the United States is estimated to have exported just a little more than 50 per cent of the total of all exporting nations.

This extraordinary outpouring of wheat has by no means been confined to European countries. Asia, Africa and Latin-American nations have received their share.

Thus in the period when the world desperately needed wheat, and was for the most part not able to pay for it, it was the United States which poured out the most grain.

Mediation Board Member Will Return To Oklahoma Business

WASHINGTON, June 29 (U.P.)—Chairman Frank P. Douglass of the National Mediation board today told President Truman that he would not be available for reappointment when his term expires next Feb. 1.

Douglass said that he told Mr. Truman during a brief White House call today that he definitely intends to retire from the government job he has held since July 1, 1944.

Douglass, long-time Democrat and former Oklahoma state judge, said that he intends to return to Oklahoma City to direct the Independent Oil co., which he heads.

Suit For $50,000 Is Filed As Result Of Fatal Crash

As an outgrowth of a fatal accident Feb. 28 on the west edge of Canyon hill on East Broadway, just outside the city limits, a suit asking judgment of $50,000 was filed this morning in the 72nd district court of Judge Dan Blair.

The action was brought by Mrs. Eleanor Caudell and others, against M. A. Greer of Crosby county. Plaintiffs set out that H. B. Caudell, 42, their father, died after he was struck by a car driven by Jerrell Greer, a minor son of the defendant.

The petition was filed by Smith, Cunningham and Boling, Lubbock firm of attorneys.

Houston Will Study Year-Round Schools

HOUSTON, June 29 (U.P.)—Take a lonk look at this year's three-month summer vacation, Houston school-kids. It may be the last.

In action yesterday, the Houston school board unanimously passed a motion that Dr. Henry A. Petersen study the feasibility of operating Houston schools 12 months a year. Superintendent W. E. Moreland was instructed to submit a full report on the proposition.

Under the prescribed program, students would attend school only 180 class days a year, but some groups might be in school during summer, and some might be vacationing at Christmas.

The advantage of such a plan, board members said, would be to pare educational costs some 20 per cent, as well as to eliminate overcrowded classrooms.

NOT MISSING ANYTHING

SANDWICH, N. H. (U.P.) — The fire alarms was sounded to bring out searchers for two small boys reported missing. Among the first to show up to find out what all the excitement was about was one of the missing youngsters. The other child was found shortly afterwards.

Russians Call German Leftists Spies For Western Nations

BERLIN, June 29. (AP)—The Soviet press today accused Kurt Schumacher and other German Social Democrat leaders of being anti-Russian spies in the pay of the Western powers.

The Social Democratic party, a left-wing organization, has been the bitterest and most outspoken enemy of German Communists and Russian policy in Germany.

The Bering Strait is named after the Russian Navigator who discovered it in 1728.

Dewey Nomination Seen As Best Choice Among Party Members

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 29.—In nominating Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Republican Party delegates for the fourth consecutive time since 1936 selected the man most popular with their party voters at the time of nomination.

Alfred M. Landon in 1936. Wendell Willkie in 1940 and Governor Dewey in 1944 were each leading in polls by the Institute among Republican voters at the time the convention delegates named them to head the ticket.

During the same period the Democrats, too, picked the candidate most popular with their party Mr. Roosevelt.

If the record since 1936 is any criterion, the chances of dark horse candidates being picked by deals in smoke-filled rooms appear to be declining in American politics.

While there is maneuvering and horse-trading at every political convention, the last four conventions have at any rate turned up with the most popular man in the party winning the prize. It is up to the delegates to do the deciding, but the wishes of the rank and file of party voters do apparently tend to get translated into action at the conventions.

Governor Dewey held the lead in popularity nearly all the time: as far back as May, 1945 polls by the Institute found him the choice of 50 per cent of his party for the nomination in 1948.

Twice his popular position was threatened by Harold E. Stassen. In May, 1946 Mr. Stassen ran neck and neck with Governor Dewey and in May of this year Mr. Stassen forged into the lead after his spectacular victories in the Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries. But, following the Oregon primary in which Governer Dewey defeated his Minnesota rival, the New York Governor regained the lead and held it to convention time.

But this year his popular lead as a candidate was not as great, poportionally, as it was in 1944.

When Republican votes in June, 1944 were asked who they wanted to see nominated, 58 per cent named Governor Dewey, as compared to 33 per cent in the final Institute poll of Republican votes this June.

The standings of the leading G.O.P. candidates in 1944 and today contrast as follows:

	LAST TIME (June, 1944)
Dewey	58%
MacArthur	13
Bricker	12
Stassen	6
*Willkie	8
Others	3

* Willkie withdrew from the race in April after his defeat in the Wisconsin primary.

	THIS TIME (June, 1948)

The 1940 situation was featured by a phenomenal last-minute boom. Governor Dewey had been leading in popularity for many months, but in May Willkie began to climb. With impressive speed the Willkie boom snow-balled until in late June he ended up the leading choice with Republican voters before receiving the nomination from the delegates.

The course of Willkie's phenomenal rise was charted by the Institute as follows:

* Poll completed after convention opened, but before nomination.

In 1936 Governor Landon of Kansas had pretty clear sailing all the way to convention time. He took an early lead and held it, polling 55 per cent shortly before convention time, the next most popular candidate being Senator William E. Borah of Idaho with 18 per cent, and Herbert Hoover with 14 per cent.

Peruvian President To Rule By Decree

LIMA, Peru, June 29 (U.P.)—President Jose Bustamante Rivero undertook to rule Peru by decree today after proclaiming his assumption of extraordinary power and announced that congress would not meet July 28 as scheduled because it was not necessary.

Bustamante said in a special radio speech to the country that two months of political tension had created a situation in which violence was brewing.

He charged that he had been victimized by a demagogic campaign to foment discontent by exaggerating the mistakes and distorting the acts of the government.

The political crisis resulted from the struggle between the leftist Aprista party and the factions opposing it, the president said.

He said he would try to solve the country's political problem through a plebiscite.

Fortune In Smuggled Narcotics Found On Scow In New York

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—A fortune in smuggled morphine and heroine was found yesterday on a scow after officers had spent four days digging through 200 tons of garbage.

Value of the dope was estimated variously from $800,000 to $2,000,000.

Six persons are being held on charges of smuggling narcotics.

Sifting of garbage began after police were tipped that a dope smuggler, fearful of capture, had tossed the narcotics onto the scow.

Great Dane Dog Follows His Master Even To Open Sea

QUINCY, Mass., June 29 (U.P.)—Salty, a Great Dane dog, is so fond of his master that he follows him everywhere—even to sea.

Three yachtmen came across Salty yesterday swimming determinedly two miles from shore.

Salty's boss, William Carolyn, had spotted a disabled yacht and had left the complaining Salty behind and sailed out to tow the disabled vessel to the mainland.

Left on the beach, Salty plunged into the surf and followed. The currents caught him and he was headed for the open sea when the yachtsmen caught up with him.

"We thought he was a whale at first," said rescuer Peter MacManus. "He was awful wet when we got him aboard and we were just as wet by the time we got to shore. He stood there in the middle of the little boat and wagged that big tail of his and the spray near drowned us."

Galveston Grand Jury Refuses To Indict Woman In Murder

GALVESTON, June 29 (AP)—A grand jury refused today to indict Margie Dee Carreon, 22, charged with murder in the death of Marion C. Metts, Houston taxicab driver. The Houston woman immediately was released from her bond of $500.

Mett's body, a woman's brassiere looped around his neck, was found in his cab near Dickinson, Tex., May 29. An autopsy report said he was asphyxiated.

The county attorney's office said today that evidence against Mrs. Carreon was insufficient to warrant an indictment. The young woman, mother of a small daughter, was a passenger in Metts' cab.

Houston Jaycees Open Fight Against Waterways Pollution

HOUSTON, June 29 (U.P.)—The Houston Junior Chamber of Commerce today demanded city and state action to eliminate pollution of Houston's streams, bayous and rivers.

A copy of the group's resolution will be forwarded to congressmen, state legislators, Governor Beauford H. Jester and to the city council.

"Pollution of these waterways has dropped property values and endangered human lives by creating unhealthful conditions," the resolution read.

W. W. Kethan, chairman of the Jaycee planning committee, advocated stringent laws prohibiting dumping of waste in the waterways.

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE

Lubbock, Texas, Wednesday, June 30, 1948

Plan Offered To Help Hail Area

C. E. Maedgen, president of Lubbock National bank, Tuesday advanced a plan whereby townspeople and farmers adjacent to the hail-stricken area, covering about 100,000 acres in Lubbock and Crosby counties, would come to the aid of the farmers in the damaged area.

Maedgen, who said he had made two inspection trips to the damaged area late Monday and Tuesday, declared the farmers suffered the greatest destruction of crops he had ever seen in this country.

Should Be Replanted Quickly

"I think it behooves the peo. e in the towns of Lubbock, Slaton, Idalou, Lorenzo, Ralls and Crosbyton to perform a neighborly act in helping the farmers in this hail-stricken area to get their lands replanted to a variety of grain sorghums which will mature before frost," Maedgen said.

"There should be farmers in the area adjacent to the hail-stricken district who would be willing to volunteer the use of their tractors and hands for one to three days' work to help their neighbors replant their lands if such help is needed and desired," Maedgen said. "If the farmers contribute their labor and the use of their tractors, then it seems to me that the people in the towns mentioned should raise a fund sufficient to pay the cost of tractor fuel and lubricating oil, and also raise a fund to buy the necessary seed to replant the hail-stricken area."

The farmers in the Acuff community in east Lubbock county were to have decided in a meeting last night if such aid is needed, and communicate their findings and decision to Maedgen this morning, he said.

"If necessary to do so, there should be an organization of not less than 150 men in Lubbock, and a proportionate number in the adjoining towns to assist these farmers in their present need for help," Maedgen continued.

County Agent D. A. Sherrill accompanied the bank president on his visit to the area yesterday. It is conservatively estimated that 50,000 acres alone were damaged in East Lubbock county and it will require 250,000 pounds of seed to replant the area.

There is a supply of seed available from local dealers for the replanting, Maedgen said.

Open House To Be Held For Candidate

Plans Are Made For Johnson Visit Here

An impressive reception has been planned for Cong. Lyndon B. Johnson when the senatorial candidate sets his now famous helicopter down in Lubbock Thursday afternoon.

Johnson will land on a vacant lot adjacent to Rosenthal field in northwest Lubbock, it was announced Tuesday.

Other details of the widely known congressman's visit to the city were announced Tuesday night by Lloyd Croslin, district campaign manager for Johnson, and Charles Cobb, county chairman of the Lubbock County Lyndon Johnson for Senator Club. Final arrangements will be worked out today.

Reception Is Planned

Johnson is scheduled to arrive in Lubbock at 5:30 p. m. following visits to several other South Plains towns during the day. A loud speaker will be set up at the vacant lot to facilitate speaking arrangements.

Following the talk by the candidate for U. S. Senate, plans have been announced for an open house for all who wish to attend, honoring Cong. Johnson. The open house will be held in the main ball room at the Lubbock hotel starting at 7 p. m. Wednesday.

Johnson's helicopter will land at Lamesa at 10:45 a. m. Thursday morning; Brownfield at noon; Levelland at 3 p. m., and Littlefield at 4:30 p. m. before arriving in Lubbock.

JOHNSON OFFERS OWN PLATFORM FOR PEOPLE

STEPHENVILLE, June 29. (Special)—Congressman Lyndon Johnson, candidate for U. S. senator, today termed his three-plank platform of "preparedness, peace and progress" as the people's platform for all the people of Texas.

Johnson said confidently to a crowd of 1,000 persons here today: "I don't know who will be second in this race, but Lyndon Johnson will be first. And there ain't gonna be no run-off after the people's platform gets to the people."

Voters Have Choice

The pace - setting candidate shucked off his coat and campaigned in his shirt sleeves as the Johnson City "Windmill,' his nationally famous helicopter, whirred into West Texas. By noon he had made two speeches from the air, three speeches on the ground and one radio speech.

Johnson continued to draw the line squarely between himself and other candidates, telling voters: "You have a choice between a doer and a do-nothing-er, between a builder and a blocker, between a man who gets things done and a man who sits things out."

To water-conscious West Texas, Johnson emphasized the need for more dams on every major river and stream in the state to "hold the water on the land for irrigation, electric power and for supplying cities with water."

"Not a single drop of rain water that falls on West Texas should be allowed to run off to the Gulf without being put to use," he said. Johnson reminded that in his own 10th district, which he has represented in Congress for 11 years, "the annual flood on the Colorado which used to cost us $5,000,000 a year has been harnessed by four great dams and is now supplying water for farms and cities and is generating power for 20,000 rural homes."

Candidates File Expense Reports

(By The Associated Press)

Coke R. Stevenson shook aside his customary caution Tuesday to predict he will win the Democratic nomination for United States senator without a runoff.

This was the first time Stevenson has calculated publicity that he would win in the first primary July 24.

Another "first" occurred in the U. S. Senatorial race. George Peddy called an opponent by name for the first time in a radio speech.

He charged in a speech for radio delivery at Corsicana that Stevenson made secret promises to union labor leaders to secure their endorsement at Fort Worth a week ago.

Johnson Predicts Victory

"You will pardon me for calling his name," said Peddy "I don't like to do that, but in this instance I don't want to take any chance on your being in doubt as to which one of my opponents got that endorsement of union labor leaders

"You will note I say leaders, not laborers."

Lyndon Johnson's flying windmill took him to West Texas, where the senatorial candidate emphasized the need for "more dams on our major rivers, on our small rivers, and on our creeks to hold the water on the land."

He said the state's growing water problem is the result of a "let-Joe-take-care- of - it" philosophy.

Like Stevenson, Johnson forecast victory without a runoff.

"I don't know who'll be second in this race, but Lyndon Johnson will be first," he told a Hamilton audience.

312 File Reports

Carrying his campaign to the Beaumont - Port Arthur - Orange area, Stevenson said he always tried to be cautious in making political predictions.

"I must say, however, that it looks as if my friends and supporters are going to nominate me to the office of senator on July 24," he observed.

A check late yesterday showed campaign expense accounts and donations had been filed with the secretary of state by 312 state and district Democratic candidates. Last midnight was the deadline for first reports, required by state law.

State Auditor's Report Given

The value of Texas Technological college assets as of Aug. 31, 1947, had increased $1,076,135 over the figures for the previous year, according to information from the office of State Auditor C. H. Cavness.

The report was made public in Austin Tuesday, according to the United Press.

Cavness' announcement stated Texas Tech wound up the fiscal year ending last August 31 with a balance of $6,697,820 in all funds.

Total At $12,120,229

Total college assets as of that date were listed as $12,120,229, which was $1,076,135 larger than a year previously.

The balance of $6,697,820 listed in all funds last Aug. 31 was broken down into the following figures: $1,063,803 in the general operating fund; $4,222,132 in the general plant, and $1,411,884 in the pledged revenues property fund. The overall increase in all funds during the fiscal year was listed as $889,252, the balance at the close of the previous year having been listed in Cavness' report as $5,808,564.

The balance of $6,697,820 does not represent cash, but some assets as well as cash.

Have No Such Amount

Texas Technological college doesn't have six million dollars cash and a banker acquainted with college funds would fall out of his chair at any such indication, Tom Gaston, business manager of the college, said.

Texas Tech has not received a copy of the auditor's annual report, Gaston said.

C. L. Gidley is at the college making the audit for the state, with assistance of Tal Whiteside. After completion of their audit, the two men will install a new accounting system, which represents a few changes in the previous system. In his announcement in Austin, Cavness said that in line with a previous tentative report made by him to Texas Tech board of directors, he was going ahead with the installation of a new accounting system.

Represents Full Value

Business Manager Gaston said the figure of $12,120,229 announced as college assets last Aug. 31 apparently represented all buildings, land, livestock—everything owned by the college.

Previously, seeking an analysis of the balance of $6,697,820 announced from Austin, before the breakdown of figures was received here, he had said that apparently represented value of the college, exclusive of dormitories.

HOTEL SHORTAGE

Costly To Lubbock

THE cost to Lubbock of the city's inadequate hotel facilities was spotlighted anew the other day by an announcement that the Panhandle Market show will be held in Amarillo July 11 and 12.

A similar show was held in Lubbock semi-annually for many years until war conditions interrupted. It occupied four to five floors of the Lubbock Hotel, and could have used more space had it been available.

Manufacturers and wholesalers, mostly of women's apparel, from coast-to-coast and from Gulf to Great Lakes, sent representatives here to display their latest merchandise. Retailers from all parts of West Texas and much of New Mexico regularly came to Lubbock to replenish their stocks. The show saved them the time and expense of trips to more distant buying centers.

The show has not been resumed chiefly because existing hotel facilities cannot provide accommodations. Market week is only one of many assets this city loses regularly for the same reason. Among the others are important conventions, which Lubbock does not even seek because hotel space is not available for the delegates who would attend.

The chief reason given for not expanding hotel facilities—and doubtless it is a sound one—is present building costs. Everyone who knows anything about the business apparently agrees that a new hotel built at present costs might be a risky investment.

But it also is a self-evident fact that the lack of adequate facilities is costing Lubbock much revenue which otherwise would be drawn into this city. The losses already suffered might have gone far toward financing the provision of additional accommodations. They represent a factor to be considered, if and when a movement to remedy the situation is revived with an energy and determination which promises to get results.

Something Smells!

THE Treasury's recent estimate that it will reach the end of the fiscal year (on June 30) with a surplus of about 8 billion dollars, may add to the popular skepticism with which advance estimates of government income as made by budget makers will be received.

When federal budgets were being prepared for this fiscal year, administration spokesmen—including the President—insisted they simply could not make ends meet if taxes were reduced. Taxes were cut in spite of them. Instead of the deficit they predicted, the government winds up the year with the most gigantic surplus in the history of any nation.

This record suggests the figures were distorted with deliberate intent to try to keep taxes high. It is incredible that supposed experts could have been so much in error if they had tried conscientiously to give taxpayers a true picture of national finances. The experience suggests a need for estimates from sources upon which the public can rely rather than from those whose chief concern is to get all the money possible to spend.

The Little Savage

The Innocent Impostor

By RENEE SHANN
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: Patience decides to take Charlotte's advice about winning Paul back. She will try to talk to him on the train this evening, tell him how wrong she's been. Roger sees her off and, just as Paul comes hurrying through the barrier, kisses her full on the lips.)

XXIII

ROGER held her very closely to him. Yes, right there on the crowded platform. She was so astonished that she couldn't break free of him. But at last he released her.

She looked at him, her cheeks flaming scarlet. He gave a rather shame-faced laugh.

"Sorry, darling, I just couldn't help it."

She was dimly aware of Paul getting into the carriage next to hers, the carriage with the blonde who was making little cooing sounds of joy at sight of him.

She said desperately: "Oh Roger, why did you?"

"You mean you don't like being kissed?"

Did she mean that? Would she, if she were utterly honest, say that actually she'd not disliked it at all, but she wished to high heaven he'd not chosen to kiss her just at that moment? But, perhaps luckily, there was no time to answer. The guard blew his whistle. Roger whisked her into the train. He ran alongside the carriage as it started.

"Darling, you liked it really," he said, and Patience was certain that Paul couldn't help but hear him. And then with a laugh: "Don't look so flustered. I'm not the first man, my sweet, who's kissed his girl at the station."

"But I'm not—"

The rush of wind, the noise of the train, drowned anything else she might have said. She stood there in the corridor, staring out onto the drab dreary sheds and buildings alongside which the train was now running. Her hands tightened around the brass rail along the window.

AND now there was a sound behind her. A door of a carriage was being closed firmly. She looked up and saw him.

"Paul, I wanted to speak to you."

"I thought I wanted to speak to you. That's why I've come out into this corridor. But now I'm face to face with you—"

"You don't want to?"

"Not in the least. After last night—"

"It was about last night I wanted to speak to you."

His eyes were bitter as they met hers, his mouth hard and angry. How could she talk to him when he looked at her like this? All the same she must try.

"I wanted to explain—" she faltered.

"And I don't want to hear any explanations," he said harshly. "I shouldn't believe them whatever they might be. Holy smoke, I wouldn't put any cock and bull story past you. You'll be trying to suggest next it wasn't you I was talking to last night. Maybe it was that twin sister of yours! Now that was a nice little fairy tale you told me. Think back—it might be useful to you now—"

Her heart turned to stone. She stared at Paul. He'd taken the wind out of her sails completely. How could she now possibly tell him what had really happened last night? He'd already said he wouldn't believe her.

Suddenly a fierce and blazing anger seized her.

She said coldly: "If you're so sure I'm incapable of speaking the truth then of course it's absurd for me to try to explain to you what really happened."

"Quite absurd." He looked at her, his eyes dark with resentment. "I suppose that Dickson fellow who kissed you goodby with such fervor just now is a great big brother to you!"

They glared at each other, the breach, wide enough already, widening even more between them.

"You said," went on Patience, deciding she had not after all quite finished with him, "a great deal that I resented last time we spoke to each other. Now I must say you've excelled yourself."

SHE turned her back on him then, went into her carriage, closed the door firmly, and sat down in her corner seat. She wasn't hurt any more. She was mad clear through. She didn't care one single iota about Paul and that was indeed comforting. Because, obviously, he wasn't worth worrying about.

She stalked past his carriage when she got out at Oakley and hurried down the platform, without one glance in its direction. And now here she was entering the house and it was wrapping her around with its warm affection. The world of London seemed far away.

"Is that you, Patience?" called Aunt Alice's voice.

She went into the sitting room. They were both there. Aunt Helen with her household accounts spread out before her, Aunt Alice with her mending.

"Ah, there you are, darling," they said in chorus. And Aunt Alice, her eyes bright with eagerness, her voice almost tremulous with excitement: "Now tell us all about it, right from the very beginning."

It made a thrilling story. Patience told it from beginning to end. Leaving out, of course, all mention of Paul.

When she finished she kissed her Aunt Alice and then Aunt Helen suddenly, impulsively.

"Thank you for letting me go, Aunt Helen," she said.

"I'm glad you enjoyed yourself," said Miss Helen.

Miss Alice smiled at her.

"Dear little girl," she said. And, as Patience left the room to go upstairs to take off her things: "Really, Helen, I think we'll be quite wise to let the child have these occasional treats in London."

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

A FRIEND of mine sent me a newspaper clipping, and with the clipping a little note.

"Here is an item which struck me as being unusual. You may be able to do something with it in your column."

I read the item. It told about a man—I shall not mention his name, because names and places don't matter in this case — who died at the County Farm in a Middle Western city at the age of 105.

BRANDEIS

His father lived to be 113, his his mother 109. He was the father of eight children.

That was the gist of the item.

So what, I said to myself.

What can one write about the mere fact that a man has lived much longer than most people and that he comes from a long-lived family?

What had the man done with all his years? Had he accomplished anything unusual in this 105 years? Had his mother and father done anything noteworthy in their combined 222 years?

In America, as you know, we worship success, power, wealth, fame.

But just living long—what can you write about that?

So I laid the item aside and forgot about it.

Then I read an article in Collier's.

It was entitled "The Two Mr. Vandenbergs."

It was a biography of the Michigan Senator and told about the change that had occurred in him the last few years—according to the article, a change much for the better.

In 1921 the Senator had written a book in which he eulogized Alexander Hamilton as the greatest American

The reason? Because Hamilton was a great statesman, an intrepid soldier, a great economist, a most brilliant author, a most fascinating orator and "the most formidable legal luminary of his time."

In other words, greatness to Vandenberg meant what it means to most of us—the sort of greatness that it meant to press agents and columnists.

BUT by 1946 Senator Vandenberg had changed his ideas. He had matured. He had learned to know real values.

This is what he said in 1946:

"The greatest American is a type, not a person. He is the American who fears God, pays his taxes, takes part in public affairs, cares for his family, and dies decent."

I read the item my friend sent me, for a second time.

That man who died at the County Farm had been a missionary. He had spread the gospel of God all over the world.

He lost his wife and four of their children in an Omaha, Neb., tornado.

The other four children, all nurses in the Canadian Army, were killed during the first world War.

So this man, who had given many years of his life to God and to his family, who had been a fine citizen, husband and father, died in a poorhouse at 105.

I guess my friend was right—an unusual item about a Great American!

IN GOP DECISIONS

Solons Wield Power

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA—Republican confidence in Presidential victory next November was reflected here during and since the convention by the surprising fact that the so-called "federal crowd," consisting of Senate and House Members, quelled a hostile uprising of governors from numerous key states.

Ordinarily, through his control of state and local patronage, the chief executive of a great commonwealth and his political minions boss the delegations and instruct them on how they should vote for a Presidential and Vice Presidential nominee.

TUCKER

Hoi polloi see and meet a governor far more frequently than they do a senator or a representative. He is normally political tops at a convention, which explains why so many governors have been nominated to head the national government by both parties.

But it has been a different story at Philadelphia. The state delegations which had a decisive voice in naming the nominee were controlled by and responsive to the men on Capitol Hill. They gave the go-by signal to the "guv'nors."

JOBS: The reason why the delegates obeyed and harkened to the "federals" instead of the "staters"—two esoteric terms heard mainly in political clubrooms and congressional corridors—is that they expect a Republican to become President of the United States next January. In such an event, and especially if a senator or house member jumped the lucky band-wagon at the psychological moment, his friendship and association with the man in the White House will give him, not the governor, the say as to who rates a juicy federal job when a Republican President "throws the rascals out."

Naturally, men and women hungry for such lucrative jobs as postmaster, federal marshal, internal revenue collectors and even more minor offices, are going to—and did here at Philadelphia—hang on the coattails of the man who can put bread and butter, maybe lobster, steaks and fresh asparagus, on their tables. And in this instance, the benefactors seem likely to be the "federals" rather than the "staters."

In short, the gubernatorial crew took one of the worst lickings of their collective careers at Philadelphia.

IRKED: Governor James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, for instance, was the principal victim of this shift of political gravity.

An extremely ambitious and ruthless man—politically, that is—the Honorable James favored Senator Vandenberg because of the latter's attiture on foreign policy. During the winter, His Honor made several pro-Vandenberg speeches which irked the Pennsylvania delegation at Washington, especially Senator Edward Martin.

The two factions tried to effect a compromise, but unsuccessfully. So, Senator Martin blew up and decided to nominate Governor Dewey. He even spurned a favorite-son movement on his behalf, with the possibility that he might have won second place on the ticket.

He took more than forty votes with him because of the prospect that he will be closer to the next President, if a Republican is elected, than Governor Duff will be.

POLICIES: There were allied factors in the Martin shift and in other supporting movements on behalf of the nominee. The octogenerarian "Joe" Grundy, high tariff apostle, sides with Senator Martin.

In many other delegations Grundy-minded men interested solely in national policies affecting business, industry and finance preferred to bet on the prospect that the U.S. will be ruled by a Republican from 1949 to 1953, and possibly to 1957.

Obviously, the Grundys, representing such interests as the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers, are more concerned over a Republican President's national policies than they are over local laws enacted at Harrisburg, Trenton, Lansing, Boston or name-your-own state capital.

DASH: Like Duff, Governor Arthur Driscoll of New Jersey was inclined toward Senator Vandenberg, and at least twenty-five members of his delegation favored the Michigan entry. However, Mr. Driscoll thought it advantageous to string along with the winner, even though there had been talk of him as a Vice Presidential possibility on a slate headed by a man from the Middle or Far West.

Governor Kim Sigler of Michigan tried to make a splash with a none too convincing pre-convention statement that Mr. Vandenberg, despite signs of coyness, would be glad to serve the nation if summoned by the party.

All Mr. Sigler did, however, was to make both himself and his candidate look foolish. His Lochinvar dash did not raise any dust—or blood pressure—on the convention floor. So, as a bit of advice to the politically lonely and love-lorn, governors do not command a high price on the Republican market. They are selling for a dime a dozen.

Another note of caution: If you want to become a payroll patriot, make the acquaintance of your nearest United States Senator or Representative. Run to him, don't walk.

Maybe everything else has gone up in price, but it seems that the cost of saving the world is more expensive than it used to be.

An old-timer can recall when a fellow could get elected to office by calling himself the watchdog of the treasury.

Cheer up! Things could be worse. There could be a revival in popularity of "Open the Door, Richard."

You can tell the intelligent set. It's the one that always boos the speaker with whom they do not agree.

It was different in the old days. In order to be a social success, one didn't have to know all of the drink formulas.

Middle age is that period when a man is reminded he has a stomach by the pains he has in it.

The modern man doesn't hide his light under a bushel. Instead he has a bushel of neon signs over his place.

It was different in the old days. A home in which you could turn around in could be built for less than $15,000.

An astronomer predicts the end of the world within next few million years. It seems there is always something to worry about.

The woman who marries for money usually earns it.

What the average home needs is rugs the same color as cigarette and cigar ashes.

GOP FAVORS ELECTION REFORM

Presidential Vote Change Urged

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The Republican convention in Philadelphia opened up the question of a long-overdue reform by one sentence in its platform:

"We favor a revision of the procedure for the election of the president and vice president which will more exactly reflect the popular vote."

This was timely and appropriate for, during the last Congress, such a proposed reform by constitutional amendment was approved by the Judiciary committees of both House and Senate and reached the calendar, though failing of final action. It was sponsored jointly by a Republican and a Democrat—in the Senate by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (R., Mass.) and in the House by Rep. Ed Gossett (D., Tex.). Consequently endorsement of such a reform in principle in the Republican platform might very properly be followed by endorsement in the Democratic platform at the forthcoming Philadelphia convention. That would put it in a favorable legislative spot in Congress.

Would Divide Votes

Senator Lodge's influence was seen in approval of the reform by the Republicans. He was chairman of the resolutions committee that drafted the platform.

The Lodge-Gossett proposal calls for abolition of the electoral college as such, though retaining the electoral vote, and for substitution of what would amount to popular election of president and vice president. This would be done by giving to each candidate in each state the proportion of the state's electoral vote represented by his percentage of the vote in the state. For a simple example—if the vote of Ohio were divided 60-40 between the two major parties, then the candidates of one party would receive 15 electoral votes, the other, 10 electoral votes. As it is now the candidate who gets the majority of votes gets the whole electoral vote of a state in Ohio, for instance, all of the 25 electoral votes.

While the need for such a reform long has been recognized to avoid what already has happened three times in our country, that is, that the candidate with the smaller popular vote has become president through the existing electoral system, there are other persuasive reasons which are dramatized at this very time.

One is the situation in the South growing out of resentment over President Truman's civil rights program. That has provoked proposals that a state committee be given authority to order the whole electoral vote of a state cast against the president, no matter what his popular vote may be. That would be impossible under the Lodge-Gossett reform.

Another healthy effect envisaged in the South would be encouragement for development of a real two-party system in that section. By making it possible for Republicans to get credit in electoral votes for the minority of votes they always poll in the South, it would be worthwhile to vote the Republican ticket there, for Republican votes would count. Senator Lodge says this would probably induce Republican candidates to campaign in the South.

Would End Minority Appeal

A characteristic generally of our politics this year is tension over issues. This very likely will produce an intense and exaggerated appeal to minority groups, particularly in the large states where they are centered. The campaign will tend to be concentrated in such states. This invites not only arousing of prejudices, but also actual corruption, as has been demonstrated in the past. The change in the electoral system would minimize the importance of the large states in elections.

Also the proposed reform would give electoral representation to independent and third parties if they are sufficiently strong in certain areas. In 1924, for example, the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, who polled just under 5,000,000 votes, would have been credited with far more than the 13 electoral votes which he got for carrying his own state.

He ran second to President Coolidge and ahead of the Democratic candidate, John W. Davis, in ten other states west of the Mississippi. A showing of that strength in electoral votes widely scattered over the West, reflecting the discontent in that area, might of itself have had a moderating influence on Republican party policy thereafter. As it was the G.O.P. old guard capitalized the so-called "Coolidge landslide" in a course that ended inevitably in economic collapse that had its origin in distress in the farm areas.

Similarly, a real electoral count on the basis of popular votes for the Wallace third party ticket this year might have its effect.

It is at least helpful that the change to a popular vote system has been projected for thinking and discussion.

Ohio Governor Escapes Injury In Collision Of Two Cars

WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, O., June 29. (INS)—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert of Ohio, his wife and executive secretary, J. R. Jones, escaped injury tonight when the governor's limousine and another automobile collided in Washington Courthouse.

Ohio state highway patrolmen identified the driver of the other automobile as Donald W. Weidmayer, Orlando, Fla. He also escaped unhurt.

Officers said both automobiles were considerably damaged.

No charges were entered against Weidmayer.

Governor Herbert and his party were enroute to Cincinnati for the signing of the rivers sanitation compact, in which governors of eight states will participate.

Highway patrol officers said the governor continued his trip in another automobile.

MARKET SESSION SLOW

NEW YORK, June 29. (AP)—The stock market moved up all along the line today but it was one of the slowest sessions of the last three months.

Only 820,000 shares changed hands and only 941 issues were traded. The stocky heat, plus the news from Europe were too much for many security dealers.

Gains were mostly fractional although some key issues managed to climb more than a point. Declines were equally small.

Rails and steels did fairly well for a while but wobbled a little in late dealings. Aircrafts and most of the oils made a good showing.

Volume was the smallest since 760,000 shares were bought and sold on March 29.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP) — Cotton futures were irregular today in moderately active details. Nearby July was under moderate pressure in early dealings, but subsequently rallied sharply as active short covering found offerings scarce.

The balance of the market moved in sympathy with the spot month.

Futures closed 70 cents a bale lower to 40 cents higher than the previous close.

$1,060 and receipt of a $1,000 donation from Mrs. Claudia T. Johnson, his wife. Stevenson had already reported expenses totaling $5,286 and Peddy $5,579.

March Again Blasts Jester

Caso March, candidate for governor, who made a radio speech last night in Austin, filed an expense account of $1,222 and said contributions totaled $1,506. Roger Q. Evans, candidate for the same office, turned in expenses of $2,679 and donations amounting to $1,923. Governor Beauford H. Jester, candidate for re-election, has reported spending $459.

March called Jester "Un-Texan" and a non-Democrat in his Austin speech. The former Baylor law professor also advocated another new tax, one on the gathering of gasoline. He already has proposed a tax on the gathering of natural gas.

He said he would use the revenue from a tax on gasoline refining to pay a state bonus of $1 a day for every day spent in military service up to 18 months. He suggested doing away with the current gasoline sales tax of 4 cents per gallon paid at the pump.

Jester issued a statement at Austin saying living conditions in rural areas must be improved by providing more roads, better schools, public health and hospital programs, recreation activities and the other necessities for finer and happier living. He also said agriculture interests of the state had received the state government's fullest support during the past two years "and will continue to receive our closest attention."

Western Motor Co. Changes Hands Here

Announcement of the sale of the Western Motor company, owned by Tom Swanson, to N. B. Womble, formerly of Fort Worth and Dallas, was made here Tuesday. The new firm will be known as the Womble Olds company.

Swanson, who has been Oldsmobile dealer here for several years, said he had no immediate plans for the future. Purchase price was not revealed.

Womble, who has been in the automobile business in Fort Worth and Dallas the past ten years, said location of the company would be changed by Jan. 1. The company is now located at Thirteenth and Ave. H.

Womble said plans call for expansion of the service department and used car department. He said the company was taking over the used car lot of the Pioneer Motor company at Main and Ave. Q.

No personnel changes will be made in the company, Womble said, but additions will be made along with expansion of the various departments.

Womble is married and has one son. The family resides at 3432 Twenty-seventh.

Weak Vice Presidents Of Past Revealed In Study Of History

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 29—Vice presidential nominee Earl Warren has been in town with the wife and kids to see some shows.

The kids are as full of bounce as any other lively 'teen-aged American girls, so, inevitably, there will come a night when pop gropes around the apartment for his slippers and says he's had enough.

That would be a good night for the Californian to dip his inquisitive bill into "Heirs Apparent," a book about vice presidents written by two reporters named Klyde Young and Lamar Middleton (and published by Prentice-Hall).

To Be Full Partner

Mr. Warren is a good cut above the usual run-of-the-mine V. P.'s and Tom Dewey has recognized that fact. Dewey has announced that the Californian will be a full partner in the administration of our incredibly huge and complex ship of state, come election.

But the vice presidential nominee ought to get on speaking terms with the activities and antics of his predecessors, if he hasn't already done so. So should the people. Some of us find it difficult to remember 'way back when we used to have vice presidents, and even John Kieran would have difficulty naming a dozen of them from the scads we have had on the public payroll.

Most of the cynicism about the vice presidency must have sprung from Tom Marshall, who held the job under Wilson. He served with his tongue in Joe Miller's cheek. Marshall often referred to himself as "his superfluous excellency." Once he dismissed his secret service guards with the declaration, "no one would ever take the trouble to shoot a vice president."

Yet he coined th only phrase the people ever remember that issued from the lips of a vice president. It was Marshall, of course, who said, "what this country needs is a good five cent cigar."

It still does.

Others Quit Posts

Vice President Calhoun, Jackson's running mate, quit the job to become a senator from South Carolina. William Almon Wheeler, vice president under Rutherford B. Hayes, was such an obscure figure in the Republican party that when he was nominated Hayes turned to his wife and asked, "who is Wheeler?"

The youngest V. P. was President Buchanan's John Cabell Breckenridge, who was only 35 when he took office. His friends expected much more of him. They ignored his job and elected him a senator from Kentucky, the appointment to go into effect "if and when he is no longer vice president." Breckenridge, of course, became an outstanding confederate general.

The richest V. P. was Benjamin Harrison's Levi Parsons Morton, who hung around until he was 96 the only one with at least a partial claim to be a "native" was Charles Curtis, President Hoover's second in command. Curtis, a former jockey, was a quarter-breed Kaw Indian.

Two V. P.'s became nouns. A great city in Texas was named for Polk's vice president, George M. Dallas. President Madison's man, Elbridge Gerry, indulged in a form of politicking which is still known as Gerrymandering.

V. P. William Rufus King (under Pierce) took the oath of office in Havana, failed to show up in the Senate to act as president of that body, and died the same year.

Two great vice presidents, later presidents, Thomas Jefferson and John Adams, became bitter enemies after they combined (with Ben Franklin) to write the Declaration of Independence. They died within three hours of each other, on July 4, 1826, exactly on the 50th anniversary of the signing of the declaration.

V. P. Andrew Johnson could not read or write at the time of his marriage, and was roaring drunk the night he became president through the assassination of Abraham Lincoln. V. P. John Tyler, who succeeded Wiliam Henry Harrison when the latter died a month after his inauguration, was playing marbles with children in a Richmond, Va., street, when he was informed he was president. He had to borrow money to get to Washington.

In 1840 the Democrats were so sore at V. P. Richard M. Johnson they not only refused to renominate him but finished their convention without naming a substitute.

And so on . . .

The only danger in Warren's reading the book is that he may come to the conclusion that he's too good for the job.

Hieroglyphics was a dead language for more than 1,400 years because modern mankind could not decipher it.

Few Vacancies Still Exist In Local Unit Of Guard

Recent upsurge of enlistments in the 132nd Field Artillery unit of the Texas National Guard technically brought the units up to their authorized strength, but a few vacancies will exist because some of the applicants did not pass physical examination, it was announced here yesterday by Lt. Col. Ross Ayers, commanding officer.

Ayers said these vacancies will be filled with young men 17 years of age, and those who have not yet reached 18½. He asked that all recruits who have not had physical examination report to the American Legion hall, 910 Texas Ave. today at 7 p. m., where examinations will be given by Dr. Lee E. Hale, chairman of the Lubbock-Crosby Medical association, and assistants.

The units maintain headquarters at Lubbock Army Air Field, and hold drill periods each Monday night.

Four-Star Commanders To Keep Rank Until Their Retirement

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP)—President Truman has signed a bill allowing the army and navy to keep surplus four-star commanders on active duty until 1950

The effect is to permit Generals Courtney Hodges, Thomas Handy, and Mark Clark, and Admirals Raymond Spurance, Thomas Kinkaid and Henry Hewitt to keep four-star rank until retirement.

Employment Office Sets High Total For Job Placements

The Lubbock office of the Texas Employment commission referred a total of 1,421 persons to jobs during June, and from them verified a total of 1,142 hires, highest number of placements in one month in several years, it is shown in the monthly report of the agency issued yesterday by James E. Marshall, manager.

The report showed a total of 1,391 job openings during the month, and contacts by job seekers and others during the period totaling 3,391. The number of contacts declined by about 600 from the previous month.

New applications for jobs showed a sharp rise, however, with 743 applying during June, compared with 587 in May. This was attributed primarily to release for work of many high school and college students during the summer.

At end of the month the report showed 1,071 active applications for work, and 120 job openings of various classifications.

Blind Broom Salesman Robbed By Bandits In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 29 (U.P.)—Aaron Heath, 45-year-old broom salesman said he couldn't get the license number of the car used by "several" men who robbed him early today.

Heath is blind.

The men, believed to have been three in number, took $12 in cash from Heath, a $7.50 wrist watch, and eight brooms valued at $11.

They made Heath order his seeing-eye dog to lie down.

"Keep him quiet or we'll kill him," they said, "and you, too."

A NEW SERVICE
for Checking Account Depositors

Beginning Thursday, July 1, a new machine method of receipting for checking account deposits will provide customers of the First National Bank faster and better service.

You will prepare your deposit slip in the usual way. But the teller will receipt the slip by machine instead of by pen and ink—validating both our record and yours in one fast operation.

This new service—presented first by the First National Bank in Lubbock—brings you these advantages:

1. You will save 20% to 30% of the time formerly spent standing in line to make a deposit.
2. The possibility of losing your passbook, and thus permitting someone else who may find it to know at a glance how much you have been depositing, is eliminated.
3. A printed receipt cannot be altered and is much easier to read than the former hand-written records.
4. The deposit receipt is an exact transcript of the entry, validated on the bank's records at the same time.
5. If you have been using duplicate deposit slips it will no longer be necessary to prepare an extra slip, thus saving you time.
