"Texas Solons Agree To End Longest Session Thursday

REDS DEALT STAGGERING BLOW

Bitter Contest Over Election Now Doubted

O'Daniel Approves Big Appropriation Bill Minus Vetoes

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 2.—The legislature decided finally to adjourn its long general session sine die tomorrow at 6 p. m.

The session is the longest in the history of Texas legislatures. It will end on the 171st day.

Final action leading to decision on the question of adjournment was viva voce acceptance by the Senate of a House proposal to adjourn at 6 p. m. The Senate previously advocated noon.

No Items Vetoed

Sentiment regarding adjournment had changed sharply since yesterday when many legislators were openly favoring continuing the session until after the official canvass of votes in the recent senatorial election.

Strengthening the disposition to adjourn were the action of Gov. W. Le O'Daniel in signing the big departmental appropriation bill without vetoing any item and the statement of Rep. Lyndon Johnson that he would accept the result of the election as shown by the official canvass on July 14.

There had been some apprehension that the governor might blue pencil the departmental bill to the extent that the legislature would want to override his vetoes.

Bitter Contest Doubted

Johnson's statement lessened tension, leading to a feeling that a bitter contest over the election probably would not develop.

Nevertheless, the Senate authorized its general investigating committee to inquire into the election if the committee thought it desirable.

The fact the governor did not veto any part of the departmental bill made it certain that regular appropriations for the state government would be increased at least $20,000,000 over the present biennium.

O'Daniel Criticizes Groups

The bill contained several features in addition to funds for normal governmental operation. These included $1,500,000 for purchase of land for the proposed Big Bend national park project, $423,000 for repairs to the capitol, $609,000 for national guard armory rental to provide for expanding defense program and nearly $2,000,000 for WPA intake and other re-

"Victory For Common Folks"

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 2. — Governor W. Lee O'Daniel today said his success in the special senatorial election, based on unofficial returns, was a "grand victory for the great rank and file of the common citizens of Texas who have fought this battle with me."

The text of his formal statement follows:

"The results of the election show that the citizens of Texas have elected me as their United States senator.

"I do not consider this a personal victory but a grand victory for the great rank and file of the common citizens of Texas who have fought this battle with me.

"I sincerely thank each and every one of my friends for their loyalty and support in this bitterly contested campaign.

"The campaign is over. Let us all try to forget any intemperate things which may have been said and done during the campaign, and all join together in working for the good of

Near 500,000 Russians Are Said Smashed

Nazis' Juggernaut Pushes Forward; Much Booty Taken

(By The Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's military juggernaut was declared to have dealt a bloody, staggering blow to Russia today with the smashing of "a large part" of Soviet armies trapped east of Bialystok—estimated at 400,000 troops—and the capture of 100,000 Red army prisoners.

In addition, the German high command announced that "immeasurable booty" taken in the battle included 400 tanks and 300 field cannon seized or destroyed.

Arctic Port Taken

Far to the north, Russia's ice-free Arctic port of Murmansk was reported to have been in German hands since yesterday, according to a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Stockholm.

While gigantic battles raged on land, the British radio reported that units of the Russian Black sea fleet shelled and destroyed the German-occupied naval base of Constanta, on the Rumanian coast.

The Berlin radio quoted the Nazi high command as saying that German troops had "smashed strong Soviet forces in the area of Kaunas and captured their entire arms and equipment," including 94 armored cars, 250 guns, 28 anti-aircraft guns, 81 tanks and 500 machine guns. The Germans claimed the capture of Kaunas, the capital of Sovietized Lithuania, on Sunday.

Suffer Heavy Casualties

Russian troops were described as retreating on a wide front suffering heavy casualties under the strafing of the Nazi luftwaffe, while German and Finnish armies rolled across the USSR from Finland in a new drive toward Leningrad, Russia's second biggest city.

A German war bulletin asserted the Red armies were falling back east of Lwow, in former Poland, and east of German-captured Minsk, the capital of White Russia, and were retreating toward Estonia.

"Units of the Hungarian army advancing from the Carpathian passes into Galicia joined the German army on schedule," the Nazi communique said.

The German high command said the drive into the USSR was

Hoover Never Wants Public Office Again

WASHINGTON, July 2. (U.P.) —Former President Herbert Hoover announced today he is "irrevocably opposed" to suggestions that he head an anti-interventionist presidential ticket in 1944, with Charles A. Lindbergh as his running mate.

Hoover added that he "would never again accept public office."

His announcement, made in a telegram from Palo Alto, Calif., followed publication of editorials yesterday in the New York Daily News and the Washington Times-Herald suggesting a Hoover-Lindbergh ticket to give the nation an opportunity to choose between interventionist and non-interventionist policies.

Huge Tax Bill Is Completed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2 — The House ways and means committee completed the preliminary drafting of a $3,504,400,000 tax bill today—$4,400,000 above its goal—after voting tentatively to increase the capital stock tax on corporations.

Representative Cooper (D-Tenn), a member, announced that the committee had agreed tentatively to raise the capital stock tax from the present rate of $1.10 per $1,000 to $1.25. He said this was estimated to yield $18,000,000.

Levy On Cutlery

The committee also voted to impose a 10 per cent manufacturers' excise tax on cutlery which would produce an estimated $6,000,000 and to increase the present withholding tax on non-resi-

Charge Denied That American Ships Shooting

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox declared today he was sticking by his recent speech urging use of the U. S. navy to "clear the Atlantic of the German menace."

Knox, who was subjected to a barrage of congressional non-interventionist criticism for the speech, told a press conference that he had nothing to add to his original words at this time.

Sticks To His Guns

Asked whether he proposed to "sticks by his guns," Knox replied: "Why, of course."

Asked whether any American naval vessel had been involved in any encounter with a belligerent craft, Knox replied:

"Most decidedly not."

When he was asked if he intended to do anything about Sen. Burton K. Wheeler's demand that he resign because of the speech, he told his questioner that he would let him write an answer to that.

Should Be Ousted

Wheeler, a Montana Democrat, said yesterday that Knox should "resign or be thrown out" from the cabinet because of the address, which was delivered at Fore River, Mass., on Monday night.

Knox declined to discuss any of the following questions which were asked at the press conference:

Did the president approve the speech in advance of its delivery?

Did the cabinet discuss the speech?

Did the address represent the cabinet's views?

Knox smiled as reporters fired their questions.

Reports Branded Untrue

He declared that reports that American naval vessels were engaged in convoy duty were "absolutely untrue."

Furthermore, he said, stories that the navy has lost lives, material and equipment in connection with its patrol of the Atlantic also were without foundation.

Wheeler and other non-interventionists who had turned their

Thirty-Eight Dead In Scorching Heat.

East And Southwest Swelter; Relief Being Promised With Thunderstorms

(By The United Press)

The east sweltered and the southwest was a little scorched today, but the rest of the country found it moderate for early July.

The Great Lakes region and the upper Mississippi valley was cooled by a dry air mass from Canada. Thunderstorms were expected to bring relief to many sections of the east.

Thirty-eight heat deaths were reported in the United States. Thirteen persons drowned.

During a five-day heat wave, 20 persons died in eastern Pennsylvania. Philadelphia reported its highest temperature of the year—95 degrees—yesterday.

New York Expects 95

New York expected a high for the year of 95 today but looked forward to thundershowers and cooler weather tonight. Washington, D. C., suffered in the high nineties.

The west coast reported fair, mild weather except for showers in Washington state. Sample temperatures were: San Francisco, 66, Los Angeles 69, Seattle 79.

Texas temperatures were just under 100 degrees. Arizona's thermometers hit 100 at several cities.

Son Of Slain Policeman Dives At Killer's Throat With Wild Stream Of Curses At Inquest

* * *

BERNARD SAWICKI

(By The United Press)

CHICAGO, July 2—The son of a slain policeman interrupted the killer's calm recital of the shooting at a coroner's inquest today with a wild stream of curses and an attempt to throttle the witness, Bernard Sawicki, 19-year-old confessed assassin of four men in four days.

Joseph Speaker, 30, son of Park Policeman Charles J. Speaker, had sat fidgeting while Sawicki had related with a smile of bravado how he killed two men. Then Sawicki told how he shot down Speaker.

Reached For Gun

The driver of a car Sawicki had commandeered had called out to the policeman that he was being held up. Speaker reached for his holster.

"I aimed between the eyes," said Sawicki. "Then I plugged him."

Joseph Speaker leaped out of his chair screaming curses and lunged at the witness. He seized Sawicki by the throat and shook him until officers loosened his grasp and led him away.

Pleaded For Life

Before the interruption Sawicki had told of killing John Miller, 19, in a holdup while Miller, wounded once by Sawicki's .22 caliber pistol, pleaded for his life.

Without apparent regret he told how he shot Charles Kwasinski, 17, because the boy refused to join him in a stickup.

Sawicki also has admitted the killing of Henry Allain, 72, a Momence farmer.

Levelland Boosters Will Be Here Today

Goodwill ambassadors from Levelland will arrive in Lubbock at 6:16 o'clock tonight for a second program here in two weeks, advertising their July 4 and 5 rodeo.

The chamber of commerce here said the program would be presented on Avenue K immediately east of Lubbock hotel.

The motorcade, coming here from Tahoka and a swing over a considerable section of the South Plains, is under direction of Hockley County Board of Development, of which Melvin Sisk is secretary-manager, it was announced.

Police escort was promised by Bill Mabray, assistant chief of Lubbock police.

Score Hurt In Race Riot In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP) — Ducking of a 14-year-old negro by white youths at a swimming pool brought on race rioting which flared for hours during the night in teeming north Philadelphia. More than a score of persons were injured.

Fifty police cars and several hundred patrolmen rushed into the troubled zone in answer to six riot calls stemming from a free-for-all battle at the athletic recreation center pool used by whites and negroes at different times. Thousands of persons gathered about streets but few actually engaged in the melee

Texas May Get More Millions For Projects

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The government may spend as much as $12,085,070 in Texas for community facilities in the areas of army camps, shipbuilding yards and other defense activities.

Terms of the Lanham act—sponsored by Representative Fritz Lanham of Fort Worth, authorize the appropriation of $150,000,000 for expenditure by the federal works agency on such facilities throughout the country.

Needs Are Outlined

Testifying before a Senate committee during consideration of the Lanham bill (HR 4545) before it became law, defense officials submitted tables showing needed facilities throughout the country. Included were schools, sewer systems and the like in Texas totaling $12,085,070.

The FWA officials, who will determine which projects would be selected, pointed out that $150,000,000 would be insufficient to construct all the improvements shown in their lists. Priorities in allocations would be based on relative needs. (Actually, the money yet must be appropriated, for the Lanham act was only authorization legislation.)

Figures For Projects

Proposed Texas projects under the group for water supplies and sewage systems, hospitals and health centers totaled $8,769,000. Proposed schools for children on federal reservations totaled $411,840, school for those not residing on reservations, $959,230, recreational facilities, $945,000.

A breakdown of recommended improvements under the first of these four groups included:

Corpus Christi area — Water supply, $375,000; sewage collection, $375,000; hospital, $500,000; health center, $35,000. Total $1,285,000.

Galveston—Water supply, $67,500; sewage collection, $101,000; health center, $35,000. Total,

MOSCOW, July 2 (AP) — The Soviet government expressed satisfaction and gratitude to the United States today for recent American government statements of its stand on the Russian-German war.

Probe Of Vote Is Demanded

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, July 2—Letters requesting the Texas legislature to investigate the campaign for United States senator have been sent by Robert P. Coon, San Antonio lawyer, to each senator and representative.

Coon's letter said:

"During the recent campaign for United States senator, we heard much along with some positive statements about business men, corporations, oil and utility companies, and United States government contractors being hi-jacked out of large sums of money to buy the senatorial election. I have been informed and believe, and on such information and belief I charge that this election was the most corrupt, disgraceful debauchery of any election ever undertaken in Texas, or probably elsewhere.

Owe It To The People

Sunday School Teacher Admits Series Of Crimes In Dallas

(By The United Press)

DALLAS, July 2—Confession of a Healdton, Okla., Sunday school teacher has solved a series of recent crimes ranging from hotel robberies to kidnapings and hijackings, police announced today.

One of two accomplices implicated by the Healdton man also has signed a statement, it was said. The other still was being questioned.

Arrested Monday near Dallas, the 30-year-old Sunday school teacher and avowed elder in a Healdton Baptist church, admitted that, with help, he held up three Dallas hotels within six weeks and participated in the robbery-kidnaping of a Dallas nightwatchman last Sunday.

The two youths he named, one 22 and the other 24, were picked up yesterday by police who surrounded a tourist camp in early morning.

An attempt would be made to link them with an abduction and robbery at Roanoke

Census Bureau Refuses To Act Cupid For Nation's Lovelorn

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2 — The census bureau cried "uncle" to Dan Cupid today.

A lonely western sheepherder, 39 years old and single, wrote in—along with a number of other men—complaining that the census bureau was thwarting the normal processes of love.

The incident dates back to a census bureau survey showing various parts of the United States where women stood a far better chance at romance because of the heavy preponderance of males.

A flood of letters from love-lorn girls descended upon the bureau, asking for names and addresses of men in these communities. The census bureau unromantically refused to give out the information.

Then came letters from men who urged the census bureau to give their names to the lonely girls.

The sheepherder, for instance, wrote:

"For years I have been tossed to and fro. Now, this looks

Science Casting Cold Eye Upon Now Famous Hopi Snake Dance

(By The United Press)

NEW YORK, July 2.—Science is severely critical of the Hopi Indian Snake Dance.

Ever since the white man began finding his way around northern Arizona, he has been amazed by the snake dancers. How they were able to play with rattlesnakes and not get bitten was a mystery.

It is a mystery no longer as far as some experts are concerned. At considerable personal risk, Dr. Charles M. Bogert of the American Museum of Natural History discovered a trick behind the ceremonial.

Hid Snake In Hat

In Natural History, the museum's monthly magazine, he tells all. Dr. Bogert attended one of the nine-day ceremonies in a Hopi village last August. He sat with the Indians and watched priests dance with wriggling reptiles in their mouths. He counted 10 prairie rattlers, three Great Basin racers, nine Arizona bull snakes, and one glossy snake.

At the close of the ceremony, the priests seized as many snakes as they could carry, dashed into the desert, and released the serpents among the rocks.

Dr. Bogert and a companion, trying to make their actions as unobtrusive as possible, slipped into the desert themselves, found a 34-inch rattler, rolled it in a length of sack, and hid the bundle in Dr. Bogert's hat.

If the Indians had seen them mishandling one of their "sacred messengers," there's no telling what might have happened.

But they didn't, and in the shelter of a convenient gully, Dr. Bogert examined the snake.

"A hasty examination," he reports, "proved no fangs to be present."

Back at their camp, they made a more thorough examination and found that the snake's embryo fangs had been removed, making it "permanently and completely safe to handle." The venom glands were intact, but without the fangs, the snake was harmless.

What surprised Dr. Bogert was not so much the fact that the primary fangs had been removed but that the embryo fangs had been skillfully exercised out.

"It remains an astonishing fact," he writes, "that the Hopi Indians are sufficiently well acquainted with the anatomy of the rattlesnake to remove so skillfully the reserve fangs.

"Few people, even among those who habitually handle rattlesnakes in circuses or in carnival shows, are aware of the fact that all venomous snakes periodically shed their fangs, and that merely breaking off the functional fangs does not render the serpents permanently harmless."

Dr. Bogert thinks that Hindu fakirs also are fakes, and that their "power to charm the deadly cobra" rests on the secure knowledge that its fangs have been removed.

TIN SOLDIERS

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—Zurich department stores, cooperating with the government drive to save scrap metal through the war years, have asked Zurich house wives to turn in all their old tin cans to delivery boys who bring in new supplies of canned goods.

Tobacco rations in Eire were cut 20 per cent recently.

Defense Bond Quiz

Q—Where does the government spend the money raised by defense bonds?

A—This money is spent in the United States. It helps to pay, train, arm, feed, clothe, and house the men in our Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and defense industries. It buys all the materials which these men need, thus helping the workers, farmers, merchants, manufacturers, and transportation men all over America.

Q—Can I sell or transfer a defense bond to a friend or a dealer in stocks and bonds?

A—No. The bond, for your protection, is registered in your name. But you can cash it at any time, after sixty days, for the full amount you paid, plus any interest due you.

(Note.—To purchase defense bonds and stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.)

Three Guesses On What Nazi Germany Wants From Soviet Russia

OIL FIELDS, developed by British, Dutch and American interests, and later expropriated, yield over three-fourths of Europe's production. The industrialized U.S.S.R. could use it all, but had promised much to Germany. The great Baku oil area lies just beyond the Ukrainian farming region.

FOOD of the fertile Ukraine, breadbasket of Europe, looks good to the war-ravaged, Nazi-dominated portion of Europe. This vast arable area is the reason why Russia leads the world in the production of rye, wheat, barley, oats, potatoes, beet sugar, and is a ranking producer of fruits, fish, dairy products, eggs.

MINES of U.S.S.R. yield much of world's coal (left), iron and gold (right). Hitler has these, too, but vitally needs from the mineral-rich Urals copper, chromium (chrome steel) and manganese, a necessity in steel making. Russia had agreed to export these to blockaded Germany under the terms of the "friendship" pact enacted so unexpectedly two years ago.

Take It Easy On The Fourth! Be Alive On The Fifth! Is Slogan

Heaviest Death Toll Is Feared

(By The United Press)

CHICAGO, July 2. — The nation's speedometers will spin out 4 billion miles during the Fourth of July week end as highways from Maine to Mexico will be used by an estimated 30,000,000 vehicles. The National Safety council anticipates the greatest traffic jam in history, and its biggest toll.

To minimize the extra hazards of this gigantic caravan, the council has issued a warning to both motorists and pedestrians to "take it easy on the Fourth. Be alive on the Fifth!"

"Don't join the Fourth Column," the council urges. "Stay out of that long column of casualties that will be left in the wake of the Independence Day celebration."

Pocketbooks Are Fatter

This all-time high in traffic is traced to the national defense boom which has filled pocketbooks and to the added destination this year of army camps. Thousands of families and friends will be traveling to see "the boys" in training. The usual full quota of pleasure drivers and vacationers will swell the huge throng.

In its campaign to cut down the death tolls, the council has enlisted 30 national organizations and supplied them with pertinent information and slogans. The council pointed out, for example, that in every 12 days of the average July as many Americans were killed by accidents as lost their lives in the Revolutionary war.

July, 1940, Rate High

The total number of deaths from accidents in July, last year was estimated at 9,900, traffic claiming 2,790. The injured list numbered more than 900,000. An average of 13 persons an hour lost their lives, and approximately one of every 150 was hurt on the highway, on the beach, in the home or from fireworks.

The council figured that the economic cost of these casualties amounted to $300,000,000.

"In this time of great national emergency, when the nation is mustering its vast resources of wealth and manpower, accidents are more than a needless waste," the council stated. "They amount to unintentional sabotage."

The council attributed the accidents to "things we can control—haste, selfishness, thoughtlessness, and desire to show off," and suggested caution and common sense as the means of combating them.

Dentists Over Area To Gather Tonight

Dentists of 19th congressional district are to hold their quarterly meeting at a dinner in Hilton hotel tonight at 6 o'clock, according to Dr. Elmer Moore, vice president.

A clinic following the dinner will be conducted by Dr. Waldo Beckley of Borger. "Operative and Surgical Dentistry" will be the theme. A roundtable discussion will be held.

Dr. W. J. Lloyd of Plainview is president. Dr. William Orr of Littlefield is president-elect. Dr. Kenneth R. Durham of Tahoka is secretary.

Cactus Jack "Ain't Mad With Nobody"

INDIANAPOLIS, July 2. (AP)—James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman, stopped in Indianapolis Tuesday for a few minutes while en route from Texas to New York and although he's out of politics officially his first question concerned politics.

He asked immediately about the latest returns from the Texas senatorial election.

"It's a funny thing," he said, "everybody in Texas said they weren't going to vote for O'Daniel (Governor Lee O'Daniel, apparently successful candidate for senator) but everybody thought O'Daniel was going to win."

Farley, now head of the Coca Cola corporation's export division, said his trip to Texas was "strictly business" but that he stopped off at Uvalde to see John Nance Garner, vice president during President Roosevelt's first two terms.

"Tell everyone I ain't mad with nobody," Farley quoted Garner as saying.

Police Gazette Editor Is Young Woman Who Dishes Up Old Style Baloney

BY ADELAIDE PEAR
Associated Press Feature Service Writer

Edythe Farrell, who dishes up pieces on sex and murder from the Police Gazette's editor's chair, says she's a frustrated woman.

By Broadway standards she is a success. Since she became editor of the Gazette three years ago, when she was only 25, its 1938 circulation of 48,000 has quadrupled. But that has not satisfied her. What she longs to do is write the Great American Novel.

When I went to see her the other day, she came zooming into her Broadway office in a red-barred white suit, molded to a well-molded figure. Eyes, curls and the bow that held them were all a crackling black. She tossed her big white hat on a table, sat down in the big swivel desk chair, tucked one foot under her and let fly.

"What anybody wants to write about me for is more than I know. Sure I'm the editor of the Police Gazette — though nobody but a few people around here ever believe it. Sure I get a kick out of it. I love to have things going on. But what I really want to do is write a book — realistic stuff. I can't break the bigtime, though, so I break the small-time. I think the pulps are the only field I'll ever crack."

La Farrell, born and educated in New York, started writing for pulp paper magazines when she was 14. She sold her first piece for $7.50 "and spent it all on such forbidden fruit as sodas and the movies." Stories rolled out of her typewriter fast after that and at 18 Miss Farrell had a pulp paper job giving advice to the lovelorn.

She left that to marry a serious young New York chemist, who insists on remaining nameless whenever his wife's job with the Police Gazette is mentioned. After the birth of a daughter she concentrated on domesticity. That proved to be her first big frustration.

"I was the world's worst housekeeper," she said. "Believe me I was a mess. I used to sit and brood about the writing I wasn't getting done and my weight went down to 96 pounds."

No telling how long that might have gone on had the chemist husband not met with an accident. One night he walked in his sleep, crashed through a window onto a fire escape and was injured. While he was in the hospital, Miss Farrell took matters back into her own little white hands. She banged out a piece with her usual speed and took it to an editor, who handed it back with the words: "That's strictly Police Gazette."

* * *

So La Farrell took her piece to the Gazette and has been there ever since. She began by dummying an advertisement and eight months later she landed in the editor's chair. Thereafter the circulation began to climb.

"The reason for it," she says, "is that we went back to the files of the gay nineties, when the paper was going strong, and copied ideas from those old issues. Stories on burlesque queens in tights, crime and all that. The idea came from the publisher—Harold Roswell—not from me. The only thing I take credit for is that I did it cleverly. I took the heads from the old issues of the gay nineties and wrote stories to fit. It's all the same baloney—and it's still good."

* * *

She works like a whirlwind. Fills several pages in the pink gazette every month—chiefly with stories of burlesque strip-tease queens, whom she interviews in their dressing rooms, while they undress. Mulls over her stories till she gets just the angle she wants. Scribbles her ideas with lipstick or eyebrow pencil if she hasn't a pencil with her. Wakes her husband up in the middle of the night and says: "Get up and write this head."

That brings up her last frustration. Her husband won't let her talk about her work in public. He tells people she writes poetry—but she doesn't get paid for it. That burns her up. What she writes is not poetry and she does get paid for it.

Moving These Plants Is "Blooming" Habit

Oleanders Transferred Every Time Couple Changes Address

Everywhere this couple went, their oleanders were sure to go.

For 40 years, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Robbins of 2414 Fourteenth street have moved two flower plants with them each time they have moved.

Today, there are 69 blooms on one and 63 on the other plant in front of their residence.

Mrs. Robbins rooted the plants the month of her marriage, in October of 1901, while she and her husband were farming in Callahan county. The plants later were moved to Abilene, to Merkel, to Sweetwater, back to Callahan county, to Abilene again and to Lubbock. Counting moves the couple has made within cities, the plants have been moved at least 26 times from one location to another, not to mention the 40 times they have been moved inside for the winter. Robbins says it would be impossible to estimate the number of miles he has walked carrying the oleanders.

The plants are growing in tubs and the tubs have been taken up and tops of the plants tied together for each move.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

About seven out of ten married couples are Squabblers. That wouldn't matter to anyone if they could do all their squabbling at home and cut it out when they are out in company. But it is never that way.

Squabblers get so used to picking at each other, contradicting each other, and making an issue out of such small things as whether to leave a party at twelve or one, that they don't even realize when they ARE squabbling.

But everyone else does. The bickering of just one couple is enough to make a whole roomful of congenial people uncomfortable, and kill an otherwise gay party.

If you are married, check up on yourself and see if you and your husband are squabblers. You are if—

He starts to tell a story and you say, "No, it wasn't that way. Don't you remember—."

SIGNS OF A SQUABBLER

When you are restless and anxious to go somewhere, he says, "For heaven's sake, can't you relax for five minutes?"

One or the other of you ends a mild dispute with bitter words. You can never agree on when to leave a party.

Arriving at a party late, one of you blames it on the other, instead of the innocent party shouldering half the blame.

Either of you ridicules the other's ideas, on any subject.

One of you complains, even in a half-joking voice, about the other's faults and shortcomings.

If you suspect you and your husband may be classed as Squabblers in your friends' mind, make it a point of being as courteous and gracious to each other — at least when you are out in company—as you are to other people.

Poland's Secret, Underground Press Flouts Conqueror's Terror

Writers Daily Risking Lives

(How printer's ink, secretly injected into the life-blood of fallen Poland, is keeping aflame the spirit of her people is revealed in the following article written by W. M. Bestermann, well-known Polish journalist recently arrived in America. Bestermann, for many years Warsaw correspondent of the United Press, covered the German invasion from the Polish side of the front, later served as an officer with a Polish artillery regiment in the Battle of France. Bestermann also obtained through secret channels the reproductions of a number of the underground Polish newspapers which illustrate this article.)

BY W. M. BESTERMANN
(Copyright, 1941, NEA Service, Inc.)

Carved-up Poland, fuse that touched off the second World war, first nation to fall to Hitler in battle, is supplying the answer to a question of no less significance than the war's outcome itself:

Can Hitler break the spirit of the peoples his armies conquer?

No conquered peoples have been so carefully watched, none so ruthlessly dealt with, as the Poles. Yet in Poland for the past 18 months an underground press of gigantic proportions has been flourishing—defiant of penalties of certain death for any caught writing for, printing, reading or possessing a single number of any of the illegal papers.

The "Freedom Press" today numbers over 100 different papers, according to a recent statement by Poland's commander-in-chief and Prime Minister in exile, Gen. Sikorski.

The circulation of each paper fluctuates between 500 and 15,000. A conservative estimate of an average circulation of 3,000 per paper multiplies to a grand total of 300,000. Since it is estimated that at least 10 people read each copy, three million people, or one-sixth of the entire population of what used to be Poland, are almost daily risking death to fight for freedom.

Distribution Dangerous Job

All of the underground papers, for reasons easily understandable, are small in size — from 5 to 6 inches wide, 7 to 10 inches deep. The majority are hand set and printed on small, portable hand presses. Others are mimeographed.

Most of them are weeklies, but those of chief importance publish two or three times a week the latest news broadcast by foreign radio stations.

The colportage, or hawking, is of course the most difficult part of the business.

It is unsafe for any one person to sell more than a score of copies, so thousands of "newsboys" are necessary. All of them are volunteers, receive no pay for their death-risking work.

Several of them, sometimes a score, are uncovered every month by the Gestapo and shot.

Staffs Are Caught

When, despite elaborate precautions (such as constantly moving offices and presses), editorial staffs are occasionally caught, the Gestapo moves at top speed. Last December police surrounded a villa in Warsaw where an illegal printing plant was located.

When no one replied to knocks on the door, police threw hand-grenades through the windows, blasted down the door and poured streams of lead inside. Two men were killed outright and a woman fatally wounded.

Then, in accordance with the German policy of "collective responsibility," homes in the district were raided at three o'clock in the morning and all men between 16 and 25 years of age were taken away.

Agreed On Political Program

But the papers still go on. Most of them have the same type of content. There are two or three political articles in every issue. These are radically different from pre-war political editorials in Poland — no polemics, no personal attacks, no discussions regarding political viewpoints or tactics. Some are related to pre-war political parties, but they show no radical differences in their programs.

A study of the whole "Freedom Press" reveals that the Poles are agreed on one political program which includes the following points:

(1) The chief duty of the Polish people—a duty superior to any other—is to beat the German and Soviet invaders. All papers without exception preach a war against any totalitarian form of government, be it Nazi or Communist.

(2) The future Poland must be a true democracy wherein individual liberty must go hand in hand with social order and civic discipline.

(3) The economic and social organizations of the new Poland must be based upon the principle of fair and just distribution of wealth and income.

"One Kills With A Laugh . . ."

The general tone of the press is rather radical, but all papers support a system of private property controlled, to a greater or lesser degree, by the state.

There is one section of the Polish press with a different strategy for attacking the conquerors. This is the comic press, which flaunts humor in the face of death. The humor has a biting, ironic aspect, symbolic of the resistance of the Poles.

The motto of "Lipa," one of the most popular comic weeklies, is taken from the Nazi-exalted Philosopher Nietzche: "One kills with a laugh, not with anger," In one sentence in its first issue, "Lipa" wrote the story of the Polish today: "We are laughing over graves."

The title of this Polish anti-Nazi paper means "The Fight Goes On." The caption under the cover picture means "We will win." Inside is a prayer for Warsaw, composed after its fall.

Some of Poland's underground papers flaunt humor in the face of death. Such is "Szpilka" — "The Pin." The issue shown above caricatures Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin as puffed-up balloons.

One of the most popular Polish secret weeklies is "Lipa," above. Its motto is Nietzche's "One kills with a laugh, not with anger."

"Deluxe Lettuce"--Currency-- Seldom Seen In Circulation; Denominations Described

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 2. — If you should reach into your wallet some happy day and pull out a bill bearing the portrait of Samuel Chase, do you know what you would have?

Ten thousand dollars.

Did you know that the likeness of James Madison adorns the $5,000 bill; Grover Cleveland, the $1,000; William McKinley, the $500; Benjamin Franklin, the $100, and U. S. Grant, the $50?

There's plenty of the deluxe lettuce in existence — $2,489,000,000 worth, in fact—but it doesn't get around enough for most mortals to see. Nor, strangely enough, for all bankers to see.

Officials of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago estimate that $1,200,000,000 in notes of $50 denomination and up have gone into hiding since 1933.

This idleness was attributed, in part, to low interest rates on savings accounts, hesitancy of some banks to accept savings deposits unless suitable investment outlets are in prospect, and purchase of American dollars by foreigners.

The biggest bill of all is the non-negotiable $100,000 gold certificate. A total of $2,800,000,000 worth was printed when the United States went off the gold standard in 1934. They were given to the federal reserve banks by the Treasury department as receipts for surrendered gold.

These bills picture Woodrow Wilson, and are the same size as ordinary $1 bills. But there the similarity ends.

Wavell Given Post In India

LONDON, July 2. (AP)—Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander-in-chief of British forces in the Middle East, was transferred today to the post of commander-in-chief in India, trading places with Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck.

At the same time, Capt. Oliver Lyttleton, who Sunday relinquished the post of head of the Board of Trade, was appointed minister of state and member of the war cabinet to represent the cabinet in the Middle East.

The formal notice said Lyttleton, as representative of the war cabinet in the Middle East "will concert on their behalf measures necessary for the prosecution of the war in that theater other than the conduct of military operations."

In announcing the new job for Sir Archibald, hero of the British thrust into Libya which destroyed an Italian army last winter but which was partly nullified by a subsequent German-Italian drive to the Egyptian frontier, it said that "it is understood these are wartime appointments, the duration of which depends upon the military situation."

Almost Unknown

Sir Claude, who replaces Sir Archibald, has been commander-in-chief in India since Jan. 27. He served in Egypt, Aden, Iraq and Kurdistan during the World war and saw active services in India's northwest frontier in 1933 and 1935.

The British public was stunned by the shift which sent Sir Archibald to India, since he had been classed as Britain's most successful general.

Sir Claude, despite his direction of the successful attack on Narvik, Norway, last year and outstanding work in organizing Britain's coastal defenses as general in charge of the southern England command, is almost unknown to the public.

NEW OIL BEATS five other big-name brands in TORTURE-TEST
Endures Sizzling Death Valley heat for
13,398 MILES ON ONE 5-QUART FILL

BELOW: Cars were under scrutiny every minute. Engines were under lock every mile. Never a drop of oil could be added.

CERTIFIED The Engine Destruction Test in Death Valley, testing Continental Oil Company's new motor oil and five other well-known advertised competitive brands was closely observed by me and my assistants during the preparation of the test fleet and during the entire period of the test.

The five competitive brands were bought by us at retail and handled only under our observation. Closest possible uniformity was attained in the cars and driving conditions.

I hereby certify that the work and tests were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.

H. M. Gaskill

Consulting Engineer, who during Academic year is Professor of Automotive Engineering, Purdue University

How this Certified Record can spell new Oil-Savings—new Engine Safety—for You

You get the oil that outlasted 5 other highly reputed brands by 74% to 161% in Certified Competition, when you change to this proved-in-advance new oil named

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL —Popular-Priced

Your own engine can be fortified by new Conoco Nth motor oil right today, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. But before going on sale this new oil proved that a regular 5-quart fill could establish startling extremes of endurance, protection and miser-economy.

Fantastic Death Valley brings Your Evidence

Death Valley seems to shimmy—like heat at your furnace door. Death Valley beasts develop "night eyes" so as to duck the blistering daytime. Death Valley sinks as far as 279 feet below sea level. And down here on this desert the sun-goggled eyes of impartial observers watched 6 identical stock cars, at a relentless 57-mile speed, torture-testing 6 high-quality motor oils, including new Conoco Nth oil. No let-up for any car, from dawn to dark, day on day, till its oil gave out and the engine perished.

Conoco Nth beat all oils tested— by 5,683 miles or more

Even the best competitive oil in the test was outlasted 5,683 miles by Conoco Nth oil. It outlasted the next-best by 6,327 miles. It outlasted another by 7,485 miles. It outlasted still another by 7,522 miles. And one "rival" was outlasted all of 8,268 miles by new Conoco Nth motor oil. Certified.

All this New Economy how?

America has long known Conoco best for making it possible to give any engine OIL-PLATING...lubricant that can't all quickly drain down, but must stay PLATED UP for hours—days—weeks—alert against wear in advance, instead of waiting till oil-flow starts. OIL-PLATING comes from a rare synthetic...man-made under the Conoco Germ Processed oil patent. And surest thing you know, Conoco Nth motor oil still brings OIL-PLATING. But not only that!...

For in addition this new oil brings Conoco's latest synthetic—called Thialkene inhibitor. It inhibits—controls—the effect of foul "leftovers" produced by every engine's normal firing. Otherwise uncontrolled oil spoilage could easily start. In oils that let this spoilage start, it spreads like a rumor—gets worse and worse, faster and faster. But now that's nipped in the bud by Thialkene inhibitor, in new Conoco Nth motor oil... U. S. Patent 2,218,132. This oil stays more like its own good self. Then your engine will, and that's the way to save oil... as demonstrated by the long life of Conoco Nth oil in pitiless Death Valley.

You'll never give your own engine such a "trial by torture." You wouldn't think of passing your regular time for a crankcase drain. Qualified authorities say, "Don't!" But you can certainly know that Conoco Nth motor oil—under dastard conditions—outlasted other big-name oils by as much as 161%... Certified. Then despite any "few miles left" perhaps, in your present crankcase supply, you can see your chance of big Summer savings in changing at once to new Conoco Nth. It's popular-priced! It's at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station for you right now. Continental Oil Company—Pioneers in Bettering America's oil with Synthetics

Soviet Chiefs Confident Russians Can Defeat German Blitzkrieg

England Giving Important Aid

(By The United Press)

LONDON, July 2.—Russian general staff chieftains have expressed firm confidence within the last 24 hours that the Soviet union can beat the German blitzkrieg, it was understood today.

It was said authoritatively that Lieut. Gen. F. N. Mason McFarlane, tank and blitzkrieg expert who is head of the British military mission to Russia, had reached Russian general headquarters on the eastern front to aid the Soviet generals on the spot.

Reds Said Smashing Back

In conference with members of the British military mission at Moscow Tuesday, it was reported, members of the Russian staff held that the present campaign would prove a contrast to that in France last year in which German mechanized tongues lashed deep into Allied territory without resistance.

Even now, the Russians were reported to have said, the German advanced columns were engaged in warding off smashing Russian attacks from both sides.

Given Secret Plans

It was disclosed authoritatively that as part of its aid to Russia's program, Britain is forwarding to Moscow details of the secret operational tactics of the British Royal Air Force to aid the Russians in meeting the German aerial attack.

In addition, it was said, Russia is to get at once the secret production methods which Britain used after the collapse of France when a German invasion of Great Britain seemed imminent.

The government is contemplating sending to Moscow a mission composed of representatives of the British aircraft industry.

This implied at least a hope that the Russians would not only hold off the Germans for a time but would be able to hold them off until Russian aircraft factories could increase their production as did British factories a year ago.

The British production plan enabled the RAF to win last September the greatest aerial battle in history, the battle that if the Germans had won would have been the first phase of an invasion attempt.

Will Extend Nazi Forces

An authoritative informant in a review of the Russo-German war struck a cautiously confident note for almost the first time.

"There is doubt how far the German armored and mechanized forces can continue to advance with large bodies of Russians astride their communications," the informant said.

"As the Germans continue to advance they must drop units to contain these enemy bodies. (To hold the Russians along the line of advance).

"This process may continue till the German forces heading the advance find that supplies are failing to reach them.

Main Trend Indefinite

"Meanwhile the Russians have depots and many static supplies.

"It looks as if one could dispose of the popular conception of a 'Stalin line' of defense. The best available information indicates the existence of a line of fortifications from the Dvina river to Minsk but there is no evidence that the Germans have turned this line. Certain areas are fortified.

"We may accept the fact that the Germans have reached the Dvina river (on the Baltic front), so if there are Russian troops in the Latvian peninsular they either have been cut off or are placed on the flank of the German advance in a threatening position. Which of these alternatives is the truth can only be proved by ultimate events."

Lindy Says Germany Would Be Better Ally Than Red Russia

(By The United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Charles A. Lindbergh told an America First rally of 12,000 persons last night that he would rather the United States would ally "even with Germany" than with Russia.

"I would a hundred times rather see my country ally herself with England, or even with Germany with all her faults," he said "than with the cruelty, the godlessness and the barbarism that exists in Soviet Russia."

The speech was broadcast nationally. Hundreds of persons, unable to crowd into the civic auditorium, stood outside listening to the talk from loudspeakers.

Lindbergh said Russia and Germany would have been at war two years ago if British and French "intervention" had not forced the war onto them. Now the issues of the war are in complete confusion he said.

Americans Bag German Planes

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 2 — American fliers in the Eagle squadron were credited with bagging three of a total of 17 German planes claimed by the RAF today in a series of daylight raids on northern France.

Strong RAF forces smashed across the channel late this morning and squadrons of fighters and bombers still were streaking over northern France during the afternoon, following up a night attack in which British bombs were said to have straddled the dock of a German battleship at Brest.

The RAF acknowledged that two bombers and seven fighters were lost in the daylight sweeps, the first large scale offensive against occupied France in which the American Eagle squadron was reported taking part.

Rites Set For Hockley Man

LEVELLAND, July 2. (Special)—Last rites for Marshall Tyson, 40, widely known Hockley county farmer found dead in his field early Tuesday night, will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in Levelland Primitive Baptist church.

Rix Funeral home of Lubbock will direct burial in Levelland cemetery.

Tyson had been struck by lightning about 24 hours before his body was found, Sheriff Ed Hofacket said. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Tyson of 1928 Avenue O in Lubbock and a brother of Miss Gladys Tyson, night chief operator of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, Mrs. W. R. Henderson and Mrs. Alfred Rushing, all of Lubbock.

Body Found Prone

Pallbearers will be R. T. Thomas, H. Davis, J. H. Hankins, D. D. Turner, Almos Carter, Major Rogers, B. Burk, Percy Cole, Dick Roach, C. F. Fielding, Raymond Meares, Cecil Caviness, Earl Garrison and S. B. Bardwell.

Sheriff Hofacket said Mrs. Tyson and two small sons had spent Monday night with relatives.

When they returned home Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Tyson discovered that the cows were restless and had not been milked in several hours. She immediately enlisted help and started searching.

The body was prone, Tyson apparently having pitched forward on his face when the lightning bolt struck him during an electrical storm about 7 o'clock Monday night.

His chin was burned where it was contacted by a metal button on his jumper.

His hands remained in his overall pockets when the body was found at 7 o'clock. He evidently had started toward the farm house 12 miles southeast of here when the bolt struck him. He had reached a point a quarter of a mile from the house.

Sheriff Hofacket said he, County Attorney Sam Davidson and Justice of Peace W. R. Baker went to the scene. Baker ruled that death was accidental due to lightning, after an inquest.

Survivors, in addition to the wife, sons, parents and Lubbock sisters, are two brothers, C. U. Tyson of Hot Springs, Ark., and Otis C. Tyson of Santa Maria, Calif., and five sisters, Mrs. W. D. Woods of Dallas, Mrs. H. L. Wilson and Mrs. J. J. Wilson of Hot Springs, Ark., Mrs. Elliott Ramsey of Fort Benning, Ga., and Mrs. Mabel Miller of Vicksburg, Miss.

Tyson came to the Levelland vicinity in 1926 and has been successfully engaged in farming.

Men 28 Years Or Older, Not Now Training, To Be Deferred; Likelihood Of An Early Call For New Registrants Is Increased

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Selective service narrowed its age limits today with the blanket deferment of all men 28 years of age or older not now in training.

The effect of the order was to make only those from 21 through 27 liable to a year's duty with the army in the future, and it increased the likelihood of an early call for many of the 750,000 young men who registered yesterday.

The blanket deferment order was issued late yesterday as local boards throughout the country were concluding the enrollment of the men who have reached 21 since the first registration last October. This second enrollment went off smoothly and apparently without major incident.

Brig.-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, deputy selective service director, who issued the instructions, said he acted at the request of congressional leaders in anticipation of final congressional approval of legislation which would have the same effect.

The order affects approximately 8,000,000 men between the ages of 28 and 36—of almost half of the 16,500,000 who signed up last October when all men between 21 and 36 were required to register.

Although the original rolls were cut almost in two, authorities said that there would be no comparable reduction in the number of potential trainees. Some, indeed, thought that the yesterday's 750,600 new registrants probably would provide about the same number of militarily qualified men as could be found among the millions newly deferred. Furthermore, it was said, the youth of the new registrants made them better reserve material for the future after their year's training.

Roswell Steer Roper Reported Recovering

Bob Crosby had recovered sufficiently from injuries received in a world's steer roping championship contest in Roswell Sunday to permit his removal from the hospital to his home in Roswell late Tuesday, according to report here this morning.

The report was brought to Lubbock by M. D. Fanning, staff member of the chamber of commerce, who returned from a short vacation trip in New Mexico. He and Mrs. Fanning spent most of their vacation in Pecos, N. M.

Fanning and Add Eddins of Lubbock and Ralph Bennett of Plains officiated as timers in the steer roping contest in which Crosby was disabled and, as a consequence, lost the world's championship to Carl Arnold of Buckeye, Ariz.

Brass is a mixture of copper and zinc.

AGE ALSO SERVES — Men of Westminster, England, between 18 and 60 must register for fire watching but Henry Clements, 73, says he's as spry as any of them as he volunteers to spot incendiaries.

The odor of some perfume bases is offensive in high concentrations but becomes pleasant with dilution.

Slash In WPA Rolls Started

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 2—State administrators of the Work Projects administration tackled a huge WPA employment reduction job today.

They met with Howard O. Hunter, WPA commissioner, in an annual two-day session, faced this time with the necessity of cutting the rolls about 400,000 to a level of 1,000,000 for the nation.

A spokesman said the WPA appropriation bill passed by Congress Monday allotted $875,000,000 for the program in the fiscal year which began yesterday. This would permit employment of about 1,000,000—a figure suggested to Congress by President Roosevelt as a desirable average for this fiscal year. The preceding fiscal year appropriation was $1,350,000,000.

Cut Effective "Immediately"

WPA employment nationally averaged 1,700,000 in the last fiscal year until spring when reductions brought it down to about 1,400,000 by June 30. The spokesman said the added 400,000 cut would be effected "immediately," possibly within a week and "surely" by July 15.

An example of how the reductions will be made nationally was furnished last week when George H. Field, Chicago regional director and acting Illinois state administrator, announced the Illinois July quota would be dropped from 93,000 to 66,500, an all-time low since the WPA program began.

Lubbock's Dial Telephones Go Into Effect Midnight Aug. 2

Midnight between Aug. 2-3 has been set definitely as the time when the dial telephone system will be put into operation in Lubbock, according to report this morning by L. R. Grimes, local manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

Definite setting has been made possible by the fact that the installation of most of the equipment has been completed. The next several weeks will be devoted to checking and rechecking of the work that has been done, he said.

When the time comes to make the change, he related, one crew of men will be stationed at present switchboards and another at the dial switching equipment. At a signal, the old will be taken out of service and the other will be put into operation — all within the space of a "very few seconds," Grimes said. A "dial tone" the subscribers will hear when they lift their receivers will tell them that Lubbock has "gone dial." Grimes related, however, that within the two or three days after the change, all subscribers will be called to ascertain how they are getting along with the new service.

He reported that a crew of 12 men is continuing the rounds of homes and business places to give instructions and answer questions in connection with the correct use of the dials.

New directories will be distributed in advance of the change in service, he said.

Nazi Assault On Russia Said Matter Of Self Preservation

Soviet Making Crucial Stand

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Journal War Analyst

Fierce Russian resistance to the German invasion has produced furious fighting at close quarters, especially in the Minsk zone, which within a few hours should give fair indication of whether the Communists will be able to effect any substantial degree of stabilization in the vital sectors of the 2,000 mile front or will suffer a major defeat.

The greatest and most crucial of the battles was being fought to the death in the region between Bialystok and Minsk, strategic center of the long line, just north of the great reach of Pripet marshlands. Here the Nazis had surrounded two Russian armies which they had been straining to annihilate.

Claims Conflict

Indeed as this is written, the German radio broadcasts a communique claiming that the Russian army east of Bialystok has been destroyed. At the same time Moscow asserts that the defense has stopped the German thrust, not only towards the capital but against Leningrad to the north.

Much depends on the outcome of this bloody engagement astride the main road to Moscow, and whatever the situation may be at the moment there can be no doubt that the Russians have been in great danger.

Must Dominate Soviet

Still, the great issue isn't whether Hitler can race to the Soviet capital, or even seize the riches of the Ukraine. It is whether, if he does, he can in the process effect the destruction of the Russian government and establish domination over the Soviet.

In other words, unless capture of Moscow and the western Russias meant the end of the war, the Nazi chief would merely have started on his eastern front a dangerous conflagration. In this connection it is interesting to note that the Russians are negotiating for vital supplies from the United States, indicating their expectation of a long war. The importance of this would seem to be that the Communists not only expect a protracted conflict but are determined to fight to a finish.

Both Offensive, Defensive

In view of this it is worth seeking Hitler's reasons for attacking Russia. They would seem to be three:

1. Conflict between Russia and Germany was inevitable sooner or later—as this column repeatedly and insistently has pointed out for many months—and the Nazi chief preferred to tackle the job while at the peak of his power. In this sense it was a defensive measure.

2. Possession of the Ukraine, with its vast agricultural, industrial and mineral wealth, has been one of his prime objectives ever since he first began to dream of a greater reich. He wanted this territory to help make Germany self-sufficient.

3. The British blockade is squeezing all Europe so hard that Hitler had either to break through it or tap a fresh source of supplies on the continent. The Ukraine and the oil-producing Caucasus provided the only likely spots.

Of these three reasons, the last is to my mind by far the most impelling. If Germany is beaten it will be largely due to that steel ring of warships which is slowly garroting her. Thus the feuhrer's assault on the wealth of Russia is a matter of self-preservation.

American Learning Bush Country Ways

LONDON, July 2. (U.P.)—Prescott Fagan, the only American serving with the South African air force, is being thoroughly initiated into the ways of the bush country, according to a message from Nairobi, Kenya.

Forced down in the Kamba country, Fagan wirelessed his position to his base. The message was intercepted by a white hunter, who sent his native scouts to "find" Fagan.

One scout located Fagan but, taking orders literally, he surveyed the grounded plane from a distance and started back to the hunter's camp. Fortunately, Fagan had seen the scout peer from behing a bush and dart away, and he gave chase.

For 15 miles the "lost" flier chased his "rescuer" through the bushes. The native finally escaped. Fagan stumbled on aimlessly and came upon a white man sitting on a stack of petrol cans.

"Doctor Livingstone, I presume," Fagan said.

"No sir," the man replied, "I am Corporal Vandermere of the base of Petrol supplies."

Russia has decreed that skilled workers may not leave their jobs, but the government may transfer them and their families to other parts of the country at will.

371 Register Here Tuesday

So many volunteers have left Lubbock county and joined Uncle Sam's fighting forces that only 371 men who had become 21 years old since Oct. 16 were left to register here Tuesday.

Seven hundred persons had been expected to register in the county's second registration.

One man, Wenston Leon Manire, became 21 upon the date of registration and barely "got under the wire." He is a surveyor at the site of the advance twin-engine army aviation training school to be constructed 10 miles west of Lubbock.

To Await Instructions

J. W. Tarlton, clerk of draft board No. 1, said that board registered a total of 134 men. That number included one negro and one Mexican. The board registered men in commissioner's precinct 1.

Bob Crump, chairman of draft board No. 2, announced 237 men registered at that board. Many negroes and Mexicans were included. The board registered men in commissioner's precincts 2, 3 and 4.

Officials of both boards expressed gratitude to the men and women who volunteered their services to aid as registrars and to business firms who lent typewriters during the day.

Notable was the absence of white cards, which were to be used only for registrants who for some reason had failed to register previously, though over 21 years of age.

Both boards today will set to work filing and indexing the cards and will await further instructions from selective service state headquarters at Austin.

ODDEST BIRD

The roseate spoonbill is among the oddest and most beautiful of birds in the United States, but it is almost extinct. Only about a hundred breeding birds are known to be extant now.

Production In Field Boosted

Five new wells added Tuesday to the production of the Slaughter field of the North Permian basin, according to reports here.

Dr. Sam G. Dunn of Lubbock No. 1 R. L. Moore, mile west outpost of the Ownby area of southeastern Yoakum county, is awaiting installation of standard tools at total depth of 5,320 feet in lime. The well was cored from 5,298 to 5,309 feet, recovering seven feet of formation, and from 5,309-20 feet with recovery of nine feet of lime, carrying a little oil and porosity.

In the Wasson field Southern Yoakum Drilling and Exploration company, Inc., No. 1-B Mrs. Dora Roberts, gauged a daily potential flow of 198.64 barrels of 34-gravity oil and gas-oil ratio of 456-1. It topped pay at 4,975 feet and was acidized with 10,000 gallons after bottoming hole at 5,240 feet.

To Plug Back

Amon G. Carter No. 4-D A. L. Wasson, deep test on the northwestern Gaines side of the Wasson field, is preparing to plug back from a total depth of 11,108 feet in Ellenburger dolomite after swabbing sulphur water. The operator will attempt to develop production from the zone in the Devonian formation which carried oil saturation from 9,980 to 10,700 feet.

Ross Sport and others No. 1 J. E. Rice, new Lynn county wildcat, is moving in material and drilling a water well. A new wildcat in Garza county, Ed McAdams of Lubbock No. 1 Stoker, is shut down for repairs at 465 feet in red rock.

In western Terry county the Texas company No. 1 Murphy is drilling unchanged past 5,285 feet in lime.

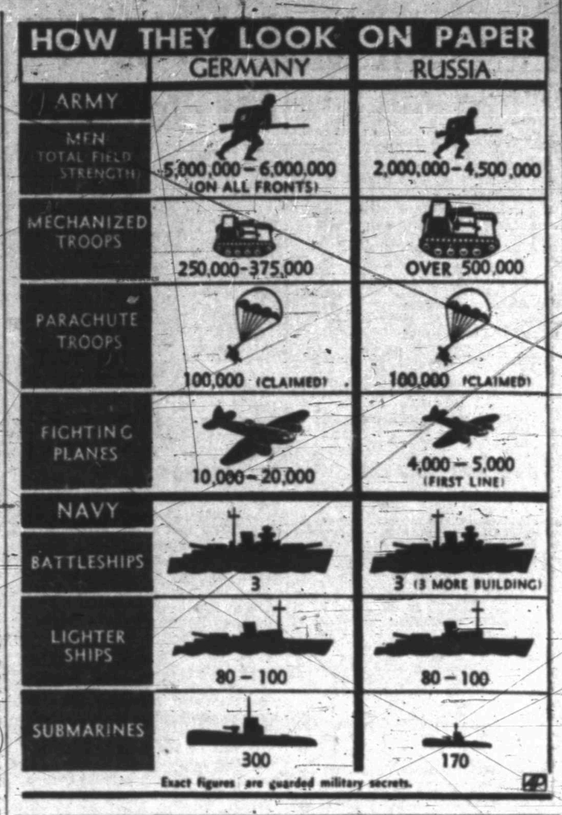

Helmerich and Payne, Inc., No. 1 Dick Slaughter, western Cochran wildcat nine and a half miles northwest of the Dean pool, is rigging up standard tools at a total depth of 4,390 feet in lime and one-half inch casing has been cemented at 4,377 feet with 300 sacks.

Honolulu Oil corporation No. 1-16 Carrie Slaughter Dean, north offset to the discovery producer of the Rhodes pool in southeastern Cochran, is coming out with core from 5,070-85 feet. Core from 5,055-70 had returned seven feet of lime and anhydrite carrying slight oil staining.

Devonian Oil company No. 8-2-12 Duggan on the Cochran side of the Slaughter field rated a daily potential of 728.64 barrels after 6,000-gallon treatment at 5,064 feet.

In the Hockley sector of the Slaughter Honolulu No. 1 W. G. Frazier made 2,304.96 barrels daily following 15,000 gallon treatment of pay section from 4,886 to bottom at 4,950 feet. Magnolia Petroleum company No. 8-G Mallett Land and Cattle company was good for 1,263.04 barrels per day after 10,500 gallons at 5,020 feet.

Delta Drilling company of Tyler completed a pair of new wells in Hockley county. The No. 4-C Slaughter flowed 226.32 barrels daily at 4,960 feet while the No. 5-C Slaughter pumped 268.64 barrels of oil plus 2.9 per cent water at 4,959 feet. Both received treatment with 10,000 gallons of acid.

Japanese Treading Careful Foreign Policy Of Watchful Waiting

Objective Said In East Asia

(By The United Press)

TOKYO, July 2 — A declaration of policy which meant a definite turning point in Japanese foreign relations was approved today at an imperial conference which met under the Emperor Hirohito.

Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka indicated in a cautious statement that the government's course for the moment would be one of watchful waiting.

Matsuoka said the government could not meet the situation resulting from the Russo-German war on the basis of the "simple idea that a war had started between those two countries."

It must cautiously watch with firm determination not only the circumstances directly concerned with the Russo-German war but the world situation as a whole, he said, and the relations between the powers as well as the powers' movements.

"I feel that a super-emergency situation is developing before our eyes in East Asia and therefore our people must all the more take a cool and calm attitude, live up to the sovereign's wishes and not err in the slightest degree in treading the path before us," he said.

To Respect Alliances

Matsuoka's statement lent importance to a special article today in the bi-monthly Revue Diplomatique, which is supported by the foreign office.

It said that Japan intends to respect both its alliance with Germany and Italy and its treaties with Russia in order that it may concentrate on its new order in East Asia and prevent the spread of the war to the Pacific.

It said that Japan must complete its Asiatic new order before it steps into any other world scene, "no matter how the war develops or the international situation develops."

Should Avoid Meddling

The revue said that foreign powers should avoid "meddling" in the Chinese-Japanese war and at the same time "Japan should stick entirely to East Asia and settle the China affair."

It ridiculed Japanese newspapers for having failed to inform the public of Russo-German tension before the new phase of the war started.

"Of course Hitler will follow the great Mein Kampf doctrine," it said, (referring to the drive to the east which once was the keynote of Hitlerian policy).

Diplomatic sources said that there would be nothing inconsistent in a Japanese decision to respect both the Axis and Russian treaties. Japan is merely obliged not to attack Russia under the Russo-Japanese neutrality treaty, they said. As regards the Axis, informants said, Germany prefers Japan not to attack Russia but to remain free, thereby fulfilling its major part in the Axis alliance, that of keeping the United States out of the war.

The Domei news agency said that "qualified observers" looked for "speedy adjustment of Japan's wartime domestic structure with the important imperial conference policies which will be translated gradually into action."

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP) — Medium sized mill orders and purchases of previous short sellers helped to lift wheat prices almost a cent at times today.

However, the market could not hold all its gain in the face of hedging sales associated with liquidation of old and new "free" grain and selling inspired by forecast of the largest domestic harvest in a decade, except for that of 1938. Private crop experts estimated total 1941 production at 800,000,000 bushels.

Stock Market

STOCKS UP SLIGHTLY

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP) — The buying side of the stock market had a better following today and such groups as steels, rails, farm implements and industrial specialties pushed ahead fractions to a point or more.

Some sections were unresponsive to the turn and volume of around 400,000 shares, while an improvement over Tuesday, failed to indicate a break in the apathy of buyers and sellers.

Stocks retreated from their best levels under some late profit selling. Closing with some gains were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Case, International Harvester, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Anaconda, Dupont, Union Carbide, Santa Fe and Pennsylvania. Commonwealth & Southern preferred jumped several points on the announcement of plans for its retirement in connection with the company's integration. Standard Oil (NJ) and Pepsi-Cola reached new 1941 highs.

Chicago wheat closed ⅛ to ¾ cent a bushel ahead. Corn was down ¼ to up ⅛. Cotton in late trades was 35 to 90 cents a bale higher.

our state and nation, during this period of grave national emergency and world crisis.

"I shall always remember with pleasure this campaign which gave me an opportunity to meet again our many friends face to face and discuss the affairs of state. I realize the tremendous importance of the new responsibilities which will fall upon my shoulders and I solicit the continued wholehearted support, good will and prayers of all my friends, in order that I may be able to fulfill these duties and responsibilities in a manner that will prove beneficial to the citizens of Texas and the nation."

Street Lights Are Promised

The answer to Lubbock's street lighting problems for many years to come may now be standing at "city hall corner," Tenth street and Texas avenue.

A new type of standard differing from any now in use in Lubbock was erected this morning and the plan is to turn the light on there tonight if one or two missing parts can be found.

Many "Ifs" In The Way

Then, if the citizenship and members of the city commission like it, and if the installation and operating costs are not too high, and if they can be obtained while the national defense program has preferred demands on the nation's metals, it may not be long before several hundred of the lights are making Lubbock a lighter place in which to live.

The new standard is approximately 20 feet high, as compared with approximately 12 feet for most of the posts now used for street lighting. Instead of being set at the top of the metal standard, as in the case of most of the present lights, the globe and its glass cover are attached to a "goose-neck" protruding approximately five feet into the street. Expectation is that the higher elevation and the goose-neck arrangement will increase the illumination.

200 To 300 Are Planned

If the new standard meets approval and if they can be secured, expectations are that 200 to 300 of them will be obtained as soon as possible for erection in the business district and on the more heavily traveled streets.

Less expensive posts, probably timber painted aluminum in color, will be used in residence areas when and if the city catches up with street lighting needs.

Knox Stands Firm

fire on Knox, charged that he was advocating war with Germany despite assertions that President Roosevelt seeks to maintain peace for this country.

The anti-interventionists said that Mr. Roosevelt had told his legislative leaders that he does not want to take the United States into war and complained that Knox appeared to be proposing armed conflict without congressional sanction.

Impeachment Hinted

There was a smattering of talk on Capitol Hill that Knox should be impeached. There appeared to be no substance behind those threats. But that Knox would be asked to appear before the Senate naval affairs committee next week to say whether there already has been "shooting" between American and German naval units in the Atlantic appeared likely.

President Roosevelt's contribution to the controversy suddenly arisen around his secretary of navy was a firm "no comment" on Knox' address Monday night advocating immediate use of the navy to sweep the Atlantic clear of German forces. Mr. Roosevelt did express at Hyde Park the "hope" that the United States could keep out of the war, although he refused to accompany that expression with any statement of conviction that this country would be able to remain at peace.

Furious Activity Aroused

Knox' contention that now is the time to strike at German naval forces aroused congressional non-interventionists to furious activity comparable to that with which they assailed suggestions of convoying merchant vessels on the Atlantic.

Sen. Burton K. Wheler (D-Mont) said Knox should resign or "be thrown out of office." He charged that Knox had misled the Senate in testimony before the naval affairs committee prior to his confirmation as secretary of navy a year ago. Asserting that he desired "to call the attention of the country to this apparent deception," Wheeler distributed excerpts from Knox' testimony.

Wheeler charged that Knox in his testimony had made a definite promise to limit his advocacy of aid to Great Britain and that in his address Monday night "Col. Knox repudiated it."

An Unpleasant Truth

Sen. Claude Pepper (D-Fla), frequent administration spokesman for expanding aid to Great Britain, said:

"Time and history will prove that Secretary Knox was right. It is an unpleasant truth, but the longer we wait the more terrible price we will pay."

Some 40 congressional isolationists met on Capitol Hill last night to consider Knox' speech and other matters. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), who presided, said that some conferees strongly condemned Knox' speech but that impeachment was mentioned only in the assertion of one conferee that such a resolution would be presented to the House next week. Taft strongly discounted the possibility of an impeachment proceeding and said some of the conferees definitely thought it would be unwise.

Rites Are Today—Last rites for Vivian Dee Tommie, 18, will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Foursquare church, with Rev. Floyd Dawson, pastor, officiating. Sanders Funeral home will direct burial in Memorial Park cemetery. The youth died Monday in an El Paso hospital of injuries suffered in an automobile accident Saturday night. He was a volunteer in the medical corps at William Beaumont General hospital at El Paso. It had been erroneously announced the services would be held at Tabernacle Baptist church.

Cot Cotton Figures — Lubbock county's cotton allotment per acre for the 1941 crop averages 198 pounds, the same as last year, said Walter Y. Wells, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment administration. Allotments per farm ranged from 85 to 420 pounds per acre. Measurement of the land will probably start Monday, Wells added.

Kinchen at Rotary—Dr. Oscar A. Kinchen, of the department of history at Texas Technological college, spoke at a Rotary club program at noon today in Lubbock hotel, on the "Fourth of July." W. T. "progressing swiftly."

It also said that German troops "together with their Finnish allies" had started an attack across the Soviet frontier from central and northern Finland.

The German feuhrer's headquarters, in a special communique, also asserted that another 220 Red army tanks had been captured or destroyed in a battle on the Galician front, near the Soviet Ukraine, which ended yesterday.

More than 4,000 German and Russian tanks had been reported locked in battle in that sector.

Two whole Russian armies were reported to have been caught in the German snare, and apparently both were cut to pieces.

The official German communique declared:

"A large part of Soviet armies encircled east of Bialystok was definitely destroyed in the course of yesterday."

German dispatches pictured the battlefield as a scene of carnage.

The German high command termed the fighting "unusually bloody" and said the Russians were hurling regiments headlong against the ring of Nazi troops, tanks and guns encircling them.

Three Separate Rings

Previously, the Germans declared that the original encirclement had been tightened and broken into three separate rings, dividing the trapped Red soldiers.

Before this German claim, the USSR reported it had stopped the fierce Nazi drives aimed at Moscow and Leningrad and had annihilated advance German tank forces on the central front.

In the south, a Soviet war bulletin said, other heavy blows were struck at German forces driving into the Luck area, gateway to the Ukraine treasure-house of wheat, coal and iron.

In the north, above the Arctic circle, the Russians reported that Soviet troops were putting up "fierce resistance" against a German offensive on the Sredni peninsula, at the north entrance of the ice-free port of Murmansk.

Moscow dispatches said the Arctic-Black sea front was now becoming stabilized near the old Russian border.

French Protest On British Bombings

BEIRUT, Lebanon, July 2 (AP)—The French mandate government today addressed a strong protest to the American government against what was described as "terroristic" British bombardments of Beirut.

The French high commissioner added his own protest to that of the local government, pointing out that the French had not bombed large cities in either Syria or Palestine despite the fact that a number of British troops were garrisoned in Damascus and in Palestine towns. (The British have reported a raid on Damascus in which several civilians were killed, but British sources said the planes were German.)

Minor Thefts Are Reported In City

Killeen Gaddy of 1610 Avenue E reported a missing bicycle. Patrolmen recovered two missing bikes.

EXPENDITURES HEAVY

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—The treasury announced today it spent $12,710,000,000, including $6,048,000,000 for defense, in the last fiscal year. The expenditures were $5,103,000,000 above income.

O'Daniel Wins By 1,095 Edge

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, July 2—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, who three years ago was plugging flour on a radio program with hillbilly music and songs of his own composition, appeared today to have defeated Lyndon Johnson, young New Deal congressman, by a narrow margin in a special senatorial election.

After trailing through the earlier stages of vote counting, O'Daniel polled 1095 votes more than Johnson on the basis of complete unofficial returns announced by the Texas Election Bureau late yesterday.

Possibility Of Error

Although Bob Johnson, election bureau manager, said the returns from all the state's 254 counties had been carefully checked, he warned there was still a possibility of error.

Congressman Martin Dies, chairman of a House committee investigating un-American activities, and Attorney General Gerald C. Mann lagged far behind O'Daniel and Johnson in the senatorial contest—one of the closest statewide elections the state has ever conducted.

Of the 571,095 votes tabulated by the election bureau, the final count showed:

O'Daniel, 175,368.

Johnson, 174,273.

Mann, 140,853.

Dies, 80,601.

The bureau said it would issue no more reports unless corrections were necessary.

The election was held to choose a successor to Senator Morris Sheppard, who died last April 9 in Washington. Only a plurality was required, hence no runoff will be necessary.

The death of Andrew Jackson Houston, who was named by the governor to serve as senator until a special election could be held, occurred two days before balloting started. Houston, 87, was the son of Sam Houston, one of Texas' most famous heroes.

Johnson declared at Washington, where he went by plane yesterday, that until the "canvass is complete, I have no statement other than to thank my loyal friends and supporters who did so much toward helping me get my message to the people of Texas."

lief certification. It also authorized addition of 91 highway patrolmen to the present 200-man force.

The governor directed critical remarks at the agricultural department, the liquor control board and the game, fish and oyster commission.

Out Of His Hands

He said the agricultural appropriation of $499,049 was too high "but the bill is so drawn that it would be only a waste of time for the governor to veto individual items."

He asserted the same condition applied to the liquor control board, adding:

"I think my desire to see the liquor laws in Texas enforced to the fullest extent is well known, but I certainly do not believe that the wide discretion of spending money which this bill grants to the liquor control board should be permitted but as the bill is drawn there is nothing the governor can do about it."

Commission Scored

The governor said there was not a department where there was more need for a change in spending methods than in the game, fish and oyster commission.

He complained that the commission has appropriated revenue from many special funds and, in addition, unexpended balances of these funds existing on Sept. 1.

He said further the commission had an excessive number of employes and the bill added more to the payroll.

Asks Pointed Questions

Expenditures by the commission for the year ended Aug. 31, 1940, totalled $602,549, he asserted, but only $19,263 was expended for purchase of game and feed for game and fish.

"Is it any wonder that no progress is being made in replenishing game on the farms and ranches of this state?" the governor questioned.

"Is there any wonder that so little progress is being made in replenishing fish in the inland lakes and small streams of this state when out of a total expenditure of $602,549 only $19,263 was expended for purchase of game and feed for game and fish?"

Singer Granted Divorce, Child

(By The United Press)

HOLLYWOOD, July 2—Marion Talley, former Metropolitan opera star, today began her life as a mother of the daughter she bore six years ago and seldom has seen since.

She was granted a divorce yesterday from Adolph Eckstrom, her former music teacher, and was given custody of Susan April Eckstrom.

Miss Talley said she had no plans for continuing her career and would devote all her time to her daughter.

Had Charged Extortion

"I want to come to know Susan, at last," she said.

She had charged Eckstrom, who had custody of the child since she was three weeks old, with "extreme cruelty and extortion." She testified that he had demanded $150,000 to reveal Susan's whereabouts.

The divorce was granted by Superior Judge Ingall W. Bull who said he found no substantiation for Eckstrom's counter charges that Miss Talley had improper relations with eight men including ventriloquist Edgar Bergen, film director Aubrey Scotto and Rust Heinz, heir to a pickle fortune.

Says Child Loser

"It seems to me," he said, "that anyone with the normal love and affection which a father should have for his child would not have made the serious charges of immorality, improper and adulterous conduct without evidence to substantiate them."

Judge Bull counted Susan as the greatest loser in the seven-weeks-long trial.

"It seems most regrettable that this innocent child is the greatest sufferer in this situation," he said.

Horse And Buggy Is "Disgrace" To Town

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2 (AP)—The horse-and-buggy age ended today for Dick Harris, veteran city appraiser, who has made his rounds for 42 years in a surrey.

The board of supervisors forced Harris to give up his horse by refusing to appropriate money for hay and stabling. It was a "disgrace" to the city, the board held, for an employe to be so outmoded.

Harris will devote his two-week vacation to learning to drive an automobile.

Stalagmites are calcite formations often found in caves. Pinnacle-like masses projecting upward from the floor, they are built up by deposits from water dripping from the stalactites above.

Wood For Furniture Is Affected By War

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 2. (U.P.)—War in Europe threatens a shortage of walnut and mahogany furniture, according to Rockford furniture manufacturers.

An imminent dearth of mahogany in the United States, the furniture makers explain, is due to the lack of ships to transport the wood from South America and Africa, where it is produced.

The present supply of walnut has been seriously depleted by a large government order for use of the wood in the manufacture of gun stocks.

One manufacturer said that he had been lucky in receiving two shipments of mahogany recently, but expressed doubt that he could obtain additional carloads.

Eighty per cent of the higher grade furniture made in the nation's furniture centers has been of mahogany. Fortunately for the furniture men, oak, birch and maple are easily adaptable to the light-finished and modernistic styles for which there is a decided trend.

A recent survey by one manufacturer revealed that one-third of the furniture makers were asking an increase of 2 to 5 per cent, one-third was asking increases of 5 to 7 per cent, and the other third had made no increases.

Originally, artillery fire was used only to destroy the enemy's morale, not for material destruction.

The "Spirit" Is The Thing

By Collier Parris

NICE GOING, HUBBERS, and we'll take some more of the same. Just fill 'er up and keep 'er filled up.

And don't let those big shots from Big Spring and Borger get you down. They can't put but nine men on the field at one time either, and every cockeyed one of 'em puts his shirt on one arm at a time, so don't get afraid of 'em when you have to play 'em.

• • •

In the meantime, the Spudders are still with us, and just because you stomped them in a doubleheader is no reason to get cocky about beating the tailenders. Keep on putting out the old hustle, and you'll be drawing crowds into Hubber Park yet!

• • •

You don't have to win every game you play in order to bring the fans through the doors, but you do have to show some hustle and desire and spirit and ambition, and throw in a little color now and then.

• • •

THE MORE WE SEE and read of baseball, the more we're convinced that it's about 30 per cent natural ability and size; 20 per cent coaching or managing—and 50 per cent DESIRE, or spirit or willingness or hustle, or whatchacallit, that makes a ball player play ball. A fielder with half an arm, a batter with half his eyes, a pitcher with a half fast No. 1—they can all be good ball players if they have a lot of determination and a little coaching.

• • •

Our good friend and severe critic, Neal Rabe, manager of the Wichita Falls Spudders, concurs in that theory, and Rabe, who has been in baseball almost as long as we have been loving and writing it, laments the lack of fire and fight in present day baseball.

"Looks like all the boys are just standing around waiting for pay-day," stipulates Rabe, "instead of hustling around for the sake of sport in general and baseball in particular."

• • •

"This league ain't half what it was four years ago, or even two years ago," the little bundle of energy continued, "when it comes to really trying to win ball games. On the part of the players, I mean. And, of course, it doesn't compare with the baseball attitude of 15 or 20 years ago. I'm not saying baseball and baseball players are turning soft. It's just that the players aren't thinking in terms of sport and baseball as much as they're thinking of 'how much I can get out of it.'

• • •

"The real baseball player eats, drinks and thinks of nothing but baseball, on and off the field. That is, they used to be that way.

"Now, the baseball players hope it'll rain so that they can get started earlier on their rattin' around. They know they're drawing their pay same as if they played, and they regard playing a game of baseball like a farmer boy regards chopping weeds out of a row of coitcn! I'm not talking about my Wichita Falls team in particular; I'm talking about the whole league, as I've seen the games this season from a grandstand view and a business manager's point of view."

Rabe now is playing field manager of the Spudders, as well as business agent, having made his debut in the first game of last night's doubleheader, and by now he probably has a different slant on things—different in expanse, not in theory. But give him time, and Uncle Neal will have those Spudders playing ball.

You should overlook the faults of the Spudders last night; it was the first time Rabe had "interfered" on the playing field this season. The Spudders are capable of playing better baseball than they showed last night, and Mr. Rabe will prove it—or get a new set of players. He has made changes already that ultimately will work out to the advantage of the Spudder club, and he'll make more improvements as time goes along. He's going to insist on a more hustling team and better teamwork—and he'll get it. Uncle Neal is a baseball player of the Old Family, and the sooner his Spudders adopt his ideas the sooner they'll leave the cellar!

We asked Rabe: "Is the pitching so much better, or is the hitting so much weaker in our league this season?"

And Rabe answered: "The pitching is a little more concentrated, but over the league it isn't much, if any, better. The hitting is off, because there are more hitters than pitchers, and the selective service act and the industrial jobs have taken the guys who can stand up and take it rather than the guys who like to dish it out."

Which is just about as good an answer as we've heard.

• • •

Anyway, we're going to be interested in the Wichita Falls club from now on out, and we'll call any suggestions that the Spudders will finish on the bottom . . . by themselves.

You may see the Spudders and Manager Rabe, the most persistent and colorful playing manager of the league, in action tonight at 8:30 o'clock (if it doesn't rain) at the Hubber field; you'll get a kick, win or lose for the Hubbers, at some time during the game that will make you forget the price o fadmission. And the price of admission. And the for a nickel tonight.

• • •

We were pleased to get this telegram the other night:

Lubbock Takes Doubleheader

Gold Sox Pitcher Tosses No-Hitter

A couple of streaks go on the block at Hubber Field tonight, and it would be very pleasing indeed to Pitcher Steve Sakas, Manager Charlie Engle and the rest of the Lubbock Hubbers—as well as the Lubbock fans—if both streaks remain uninterrupted.

Most important of the two is the three-game winning streak which the Hubbers will be seeking to stretch. Of secondary interest is the seven-game losing streak currently "boasted" by the Wichita Falls Spudders.

Hubbers Looking Good

It's ladies night tonight, and only the five-cent tax will be required of ladies presenting themselves at the gate.

The Hubbers won a doubleheader Tuesday night in a fashion reminiscent of the old Hubber teams of 1938 and 1939. They hit hard, fielded sensationally and got two magnificent pitching performances. And they won a couple of ball games from the Spudders, 13 to 2 and 11 to 0.

Those two victories, added to the final game of Sunday's doubleheader with Lamesa, made three in a row for Lubbock, five victories in their last six starts. That is only one game short of the longest winning streak of the season for the Englemen.

Nearer First Division

More important, the Hubbers advanced to within striking distance of the first division, only half a game, two percentage points, behind the fourth-place Amarillo Gold Sox.

Steve Sakas is due to take the mound and try for his ninth victory of the season tonight. Sakas is the leading pitcher of the Hubber staff at the moment, with six losses and eight victories.

In a valiant effort to end the seven-game losing streak, Manager Neal Rabe has nominated lefty Raymond Lucas for starting duties with the Spudders. Lucas is the ace of the Wichita Falls hurling corps, with 12 victories and six defeats for the season.

Hitting In Form

Steve Vrablik had a shutout until two were out in the seventh inning in the opening game last night, and had two strikes on Center Fielder Pete Vuko. But then he grooved one to Vuko, and the Spudder outfielder sent it to the far corners to score two runs ahead of him.

But that was only a drop in the bucket compared to the 13 the Hubbers had already scored.

Donald Spyker pitched equally well in the second game, allowing four hits and no runs at all.

There wasn't anything at all wrong with the Hubber hitting, either. True, they were quite lucky to score 13 runs on nine hits and 11 runs on 10 hits. But still, they were hitting the ball much better than they have most of this season.

Stan Bartkowski led the batting parade with a triple and four singles in the two games. Gene Schlereth chipped in with a three-bagger and a trio of singles, and most of the others got their share of the hits.

Here's This Afternoon's Fish Story—

Huge Jewfish Reverses Usual Procedure And Pulls Man In!

(By The Associated Press)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., July 2.—Add big ones that got away.

F. J. Wessling of Hermann, Mo., fishing off St. Petersburg, baited a big hook on a heavy line "just to see what I catch."

A huge jewfish snatched the bait, gave a yank, and overboard went Wessling. Still hanging onto his line, he went under, came up sputtering a moment later.

"I tried to hold on," he told Capt. Walter Craft, "but he got away."

Ring's "Bad Boys" Seeking Revenge

Legalized Mayhem Between Zivic, Davis Postponed; "Grudge" Said No Buildup

BY HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 2.—The rain that fell on the Polo grounds around 6 o'clock last evening was a great thing for the flowers and crops, but it didn't cool off the fire and brimstone relations between Fritzie Zivic and Al Davis.

They were scheduled to do combat for 12 rounds or less last night, but when the rains came Promoter Mike Jacobs clacked his store teeth three times and an interpreter said that meant that the fight was postponed until tonight.

That gave Davis and Zivic an additional 24 hours in which to dictate reasons to their secretaries as to why they hate each other. The list was long enough without these last-minute footnotes, but it does look as though there might be some fireworks tonight when the boys to get together. It's a shame the fight can't be held on the Fourth of July—two days hence—so the gladiators could shoot Roman candles at one another and inflict major burns with sparklers.

Strictly "Grudge Fight"

The phrase "grudge fight" is about the most threadbare in the vocabulary of boxing writers, but the business this evening shapes up as one. Davis and Zivic encountered one another at the weigh-in yesterday and matched sneers. It wasn't the usual stuff of looking tough for the cameras either; the boys really packed a lot of hatred into their stares. The repartee was not brilliant but it was strictly to the point:

"Hello," snarled Davis.

"Hello," growled Zivic.

As you no doubt know from perusing the deathless prose that already has been written about this gladatorial show, Zivic thinks Davis fouled him in their last fight. Davis thinks Zivic fouled him, too. Both of them are right. They differ only in their approach to the problem of evading the Marquis of Queensberry rules.

To Settle Issue

Davis used the direct approach method. He simply started whacking Zivic below the belt and kept doing it until the referee threw him out of the ring. Zivic leans to the subtle system of getting in close, preferably while the referee has his back turned, and thrusting thumbs into his opponent's eyes. Who can say which man has the most efficient method of inflicting permanent injury? That should be settled this evening.

With their training finished and nothing to do but hatch plots for mayhem, both boys are expected to put in a busy day. Davis, up at the crack of dawn, was understood to be planning to attend sale at which brass knucks have been marked down to absolute bargain prices. He believes that now is the time to lay in a lifetime supply, what with the rising price scale, the possibility of a war-time tax on brass and the shortage already apparent in hell's kitchen where the boys have been driven to using ordinary pebbles.

Zivic plans a round of the smarter shops in search of thimbles large enough to put on his

Chick Evans Enters Western Amateur

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 2 (AP)—Chick Evans is the old man river of golf. He keeps on rollin' in his mild-voiced, leisurely way.

The friendly Chicago veteran, former National Open and amateur champion, is here competing for the 24th year in the Western amateur championships. Nobody still playing competitive golf has been at it as long as Chick.

Has Won Eight Times

He first played in the Western in 1906, long before most of this year's contestants were born. He has won it eight times, including a four-year streak ending in 1923.

Evans shot a respectable 39-36—75, five over par on Broadmoor's mountain-framed fairways in the first leg of the 36-hole qualifying tests yesterday, which placed him in the top third of the slim field of 63.

Ward, Todd Threats

Another such performance today seems sure to land the veteran in the match play bracket of defending champion Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., and the 31 low shooters for 36 holes.

In at 71 were Ward, Harry Todd of Dallas, who won the Western crown two years ago, and John Stammer, Oklahoma champion from Oklahoma City.

Tulsa Slips Farther Down League Ladder

(By The Associated Press)

The Tulsa Oilers slid a little farther down the Texas league ladder last night while the Shreveport Sports, who recently took second place from the Oilers, broke even with the Exporters at Beaumont. Beaumont won the first, 10-7, then lost 6-3.

The Oilers dropped a 7-6 decision to the Dallas Rebels in a contest at Tulsa for their fifth straight loss.

Rain forced postponement of the Fort Worth at Oklahoma City and San Antonio at Houston games.

DiMaggio Has Grove To Face

Southpaw Attempts To Corral Slugger

(By The United Press)

NEW YORK, July 2—It will be 16 years' pitching experience among the American league's top-flight moundsmen against a five-year performance as the league's most efficient slugger when southpaw Lefty Grove of the Boston Red Sox attempts to stop the headlong batting streak of Outfielder Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees at 44 straight games today.

Not since 1897 when Wee Willie Keeler established an all-time mark by hitting safely in 44 consecutive games has a major league ball player scaled the hitting heights as far as DiMaggio.

Williams Only Challenger

DiMaggio's supremacy is challenged only by breakneck slugging of a lefthander, Ted Williams of the Red Sox. Williams has a .402 batting average, .051 points better than DiMaggio but there the comparison ends.

The Yankee slugger's name is found in every major league hitting department. He leads in runs scored with 67; is runner-up for the most hits with 99 to Jeff Heath of Cleveland who has 103; is second in homers with 17, one behind the Giants' Mel Ott, and is runner-up in the runs batted in department with 62 to teammate Charley Keeler's 68.

Grove Big Obstacle

The power that once made Grove's fast ball an object of terror to opposing batters has long since disappeared but the canny brain of the veteran southpaw makes him a difficult obstacle for Joe.

Here's how DiMaggio's and Keeler's streaks compare;

	G	AB	H	2b	3b	HR	Pct.
KEELER	41	201	82	11	10	0	.408
DIMAGGIO	44	174	66	12	3	12	.379

The Yankee homer streak ended in the first game Tuesday. They previously had hit 40 homers in 25 straight games, surpassing the former mark of 26 in 17 consecutive games set by the Detroit Tigers last year.

Los Angeles Mexican Wins Feather Crown

LOS ANGELES, July 2 (U.P.)—Ritchie Lemos, Los Angeles-born Mexican scrapper, today held the National Boxing Association feather-erweight championship of the world.

Lemos took the title by battering Pete Scalzo of New York into unconsciousness in 2:22 of the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round bout last night at Olympic auditorium.

Skipping Over Sports With Eddie Brietz

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 2. — Eighty per cent of the telephone calls to the sports department of a Pittsburgh newspaper the other night concerned Joe DiMaggio's hitting streak. . . . The Dodgers have had five players beaned since the start of last season and if that isn't a modern record for one club, sue us. . . . Wait and see if either North Carolina or Duke doesn't wind up on Oklahoma U's 1942 grid card. . . . Les MacMitchell, New York U. track star, has come out for twilight track meets—only way to compete with the beaches, races and baseball. . . . Ted Williams, who aspired to be a fireman, is doing even better—he's a ball of fire, himself. . . . Did you know that Willie Keeler, whose consecutive hitting streak Joe DiMaggio equalled yesterday, once beat out five infield hits in one game, all of them to short? . . . Don McNeill has the G-man bug and may hang up his racquet at the end of this season—if he can get a job . . . Chick Meehan, the new Ebbets field fight promoter, has joined in the chorus and is blasting the boxing monopoly. Well, many have blasted, but the monopoly keeps right on monopolizing.

Cardinals Gain National Lead

DiMaggio's Streak Equals 1897 Mark

(By The Associated Press)

The Yankee streak that you probably haven't heard anything about is a five-game winning streak — and it may turn out to be, more important than Joe DiMaggio's sensational string of hits or the club's chain of home runs.

The New York Bombers are raiding the strong and the weak alike these days. Their double victory, 7-2 and 9-2, over the rugged Boston Red Sox yesterday gave them a record of nine wins in their past 10 games and increased their American league lead in spite of the fact that the Cleveland Indians won last night at St. Louis.

Roy Weatherly

DiMaggio, whose hitting streak has captured the fancy of fans to such an extent that a crowd of 52,832 turned out at Yankee stadium for what otherwise would have been a drab mid-week doubleheader, lived up to everyone's hope.

He made two hits in the opener and one in the five-inning nightcap to tie Willie Keeler's all-time major league record of hitting in 44 consecutive contests in 1897, when fouls didn't count as strikes.

The Indians have been showing some of their expected doldrums and last night Manager Roger Peckinpaugh fined and suspended Roy Weatherly, one of the league's best centerfielders, for not hustling.

Phils Best Brooklyn

The Tribe tore into the St. Louis Browns for a 10-6 triumph, with Hal Trosky and Pitcher Al Milnar hitting home runs and Jeff Heath having a perfect turn at bat with four hits.

The Philadelphia Athletics whipped the Washington Senators, 10-9.

Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox, 5-1, with Paul (Dizzy)

Born In Log Cabin, Stevenson Reached Political Heights Hard Way

Man To Follow O'Daniel Boasts A Self-Made, Colorful Career

BY HOWARD C. MARSHALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 2 — Coke Robert Stevenson, governor-designate of Texas upon the basis of unofficial returns from Saturday's election which will send Governor W. Lee O'Daniel to the United States Senate, is a product of the frontier before the rough edges were smoothed away.

After nearly 40 years as legislator, lawyer, rancher, hardware merchant, hotel owner, warehouse operator, auto agency proprietor, newspaper publisher, janitor, freighter and banker, he still smacks of the West.

Fifty-three years old, 6 feet, one inch in height, big-boned, spare of frame, 199 pounds in weight, possessor of a face furrowed with heavy lines and browned almost to mahogany hue, he once was described by former Governor James E. Ferguson as the Abraham Lincoln of Texas.

In House 10 Years

That rare political asset of birth in a log house is his. He knew the feel of a saddle from babyhood, and today riding a pony over his range ranch properties is a hobby.

Indicative of pioneer conditions, he grew up short on formal education, going to country schools only seven years for a total of 22 months, but very long on knowledge of how to get ahead in life.

For the last two and a half years, he has been lieutenant-governor, having been elected to that office in 1938 and re-elected in 1940. Previously he served 10 years in the House of Representatives, and is the only man ever chosen speaker twice in succession.

Began Work Early

The son of Robert M. and Virginia Hurley Stevenson, he was born at the home of his mother's father in Mason county on March 20, 1888. His father's home was at London, Kimble county.

The oldest of eight children in the family, Stevenson "began work" at the age of 14, trying "about everything."

After holding various ranch jobs, he acquired six horses and two wagons and "started freighting" between Junction and Brady, a distance of 65 miles. He was 16 years old.

Stevenson made money out of his freight line, and attributes much of his success to the brand-new demand for store-bought caskets, which were just coming into the county.

Took Janitor's Job

The young freighter would camp in the open at night and cook his meals over a camp fire, which served a triple purpose. It supplied warmth on chilly nights, heat for cooking and light for study.

For Stevenson had decided he wanted to be something more than a freighter. He had ordered a set of books and undertaken to learn bookkeeping.

A year and a half passed and the ranch people organized a bank in Junction. It opened on June 7, 1906.

"When I heard about it, I went around and asked for a job as bookkeeper," Stevenson continued. "The president laughed at the idea of a freighter being a bookkeeper, but said that, since no negroes were in the town, he could use a janitor. I took that job, although it only paid $20 a month and I was making $40 or more at freighting. I thought I might work up to something."

Cashier Next Step

A month later something happened to the bookkeeper, and Stevenson offered to fill the gap. The president asked if he could "take off a trial balance."

"I told him I could," Stevenson said, "and, while I didn't do it as quickly as the regular man, in a reasonable time I had it. After that when anything happened, they shoved me in at keeping books."

In March, 1908, when 20 years old, the cashier resigned, and the bank board of directors were willing to give Stevenson that position. His age, however, was an obstacle. He was not old enough to make the necessary bond.

District court was in session, so he hurried over, talked to the judge and his disabilities as a minor were removed. All in the same day he was made cashier.

Started Studying Law

The next four or five years were occupied with "routine," but Stevenson embarked on studies which profoundly affected his life. He began to read law.

Presently he appeared before the San Antonio court of civil appeals, passed the examination and was admitted to the bar.

On Dec. 24, 1912, he married Miss Fay Wright.

Under agreement with the bank directors, he "practiced a little law on the side," taking care not to "alienate some good customer of the bank."

Feeling an urge to enter politics and pressed by friends to do so, he ran for county attorney of Kimble county, was elected and served from 1914 to 1918. Then he was county judge until 1921.

Stevenson continued to practice law. Friends say he is one of the greatest criminal lawyers in Texas.

Real Estate Extensive

His real estate properties have expanded hugely, and now include an 8,000-acre ranch on which his home of natural rock is located. The ranch is 17 miles southwest of Junction.

In 1928 the incumbent representative from Kimble county retired from the legislature, and Stevenson was elected to the place, making the race, he said, "because I thought the ranch people needed representation." Four times he was re-elected for two-year terms.

In 1933, during the second term of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson as governor, he was chosen speaker, and in 1935, when James V. Allred moved into the governor's office, he smashed precedent by winning the honor a second time. He is not the only man who has twice been speaker. But none other has been speaker for consecutive terms.

His legion of friends among present and former representatives swear that Stevenson was one of the greatest speakers and presiding officers in the history of all Texas houses. They describe him as an exceptionally able parliamentarian, a fair umpire, a man of rare good judgment in expediting the important business of the house and legislature.

After his second term as speaker, Stevenson returned to his seat on the floor as an unadorned representative.

In 1938, he was elected lieutenant-governor after a hard campaign.

He was re-elected in 1940 without difficulty, receiving 797,784 votes, compared with 160,722 for Alton M. Mead of San Angelo and 113,341 for Charles Lavergne Somerville of Dallas.

Stevenson gives his wife much credit for his political successes. Not only her abilities as a campaigner, but also her wide acquaintanceship, he says, have been big aids to him.

Bob Risinger Joins Mound Hall Of Fame

Birds of a feather . . .

Bob Risinger of the Amarillo Gold Sox joined his pitching mate, Russell (Kid) Crider on baseball's roll of honor last night by shutting out the Borger Gassers without a hit or a run, 5 to 0.

Crider hurled a no-hitter against Big Spring less than a month ago. Before that, no hitless games had been registered in the league since 1938, when two Lubbock pitchers, Jerry Blanchard and Ralph Marshall, turned the trick.

Split Doubleheader

Risinger's performance gave Amarillo an even break in a double header with the Gassers, who won the opener, 9 to 5. The second game was cut to six innings by rain.

The Big Spring Bombers, who enjoy the enviable reputation of being able to score more runs with less hits than any other team in the league, did it again last night, using seven hits for three runs to defeat Lamesa, 3 to 2. Lamesa got nine hits, but was shut out until the ninth, when Kirby Jordan banged out a homer, scoring Sam Scaling ahead of him.

Lefty James Sullivan's wildness cost him the ball game. Two walks and two hits in the second inning produced two runs for the Bombers.

Pampa and Clovis, scheduled to play a doubleheader in Clovis, were rained out.

After the postponement, most of the betting revolved around the referee. The odds were 2 1-2 to 1 that he would have to be carried out of the ring the first time he tried to break the boys out of a clinch. He was given a 50-50 chance of emerging with his eyesight intact, but the price was 5 to 1 that Davis would hit him with a low punch before the bell rings for the fourth.

Boxer Is Near Death From Fight Injuries

DENVER, July 2. (U.P.)—Roy Gillespie, a professional boxer, was near death today from brain injuries suffered in his 78th fight, for which he was paid $40.

Surgeons who performed a delicate operation to remove a blood clot on the brain gave him almost no chance of survival.

Gillespie, 25, was injured Monday night in a fight with a negro, Jack Chase. Chase was arrested pending developments, but officers who investigated the fight said it "had been conducted properly."

Behind The Scenes In Hollywood

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 2.—Your correspondent went calling on Olsen & Johnson the other day and only got half way through his list. The latter member of the "Hellzapoppin'" team had popped down town to rent the big Christmas float, with deer and sleigh, for a ride along Santa Claus Lane on the Fourth of July.

What I saw of Ole Olsen was a tanned gent who looks a lot like Jack Benny. They're good friends, so Olsen probably won't resent the comparison. They're such good friends, in fact, that Olsen squelched a scheme to use clips from a very old and very bad Benny picture in the adaptation of "Hellzapoppin'" for the screen.

Just how that lunatic hodge-podge—which so far has grossed about $4,000,000 on Broadway and the road—is going to be transferred to celluloid is still anybody's guess. Olsen and Johnson scattered their show all over the theater, making stooges of the customers. Closest they'll be able to get to movie audiences will be through a few three-dimensional sequences seen with special spectacles.

* * *

So far as I can figure, "Hellzapoppin'" will turn out to be a movie making fun of the difficulties of turning "Hellzapoppin'" into a movie. There'll be a thread of story in which Martha Raye plays an amorous dipsomaniac and Mischa Auer is a real count who deliberately poses as a phony count because society is more amused by imposters.

Olsen, after working his way through Northwestern university, got an 8:30 to 5:30 job in a factory, sang illustrated songs in a movie house from 6:30 to 10:30, then moved on to a night club where he warbled until 2 a. m.

"With nothing to do around 6 o'clock in the evenings," he recalled, "I got married." That was 29 years ago and you'd never guess it to look at either of the Olsens. They have two daughters, 6 and 26, and an intermediate son.

A couple of years after his marriage, Olsen was part of a straw hat quartet billed as "The College Four." They needed a piano player. Chic Johnson, who had started in vaudeville with a girl partner, was recommended. "To hear him talk," Olsen chuckled, "you'd have thought he was making $10,000 a week and was booked for five years. But he joined us."

* * *

THEY later became a team, Olsen playing a fiddle and Johnson an accordion. More and more goofy comedy was added to the act and they soon became headliners. Along about the time of the death of vaudeville, a good offer came for six weeks in Australia. They stayed there two years.

In 1938 they played at Phoenix, Ariz., during that city's annual Fiesta del Sol. It included a "Hellzapoppin' Week," and Olsen and Johnson recognized a good title. They adopted it, gathered up some acts in Chicago and were finishing an engagement in Philadelphia when a Shubert deal began brewing for a fast, vast carnival of lunacy at the Winter Garden. All but two of the critics panned it mercilessly. The second performance was attended mostly by bearers of free tickets, but by the third day the house was sold out six weeks in advance.

"We've gone through three phases in our career," Olsen observed. "First we played for applause and weren't above getting it by waving a flag. Then we played for laughs and we'd knock ourselves for them. Now we play for the box office. I've developed this squint in my eye from peering through curtain holes to see if the balcony is filled."

Louis B. Mayer of MGM was the highest salaried executive in the United States in 1940 for the third successive year. Loews, Inc., the parent company, paid him $697,048 in wages. Hollywood business managers say Mayer is one bigwig who'll never have trouble with the income tax people. He ignores most of the deductions recommended by his high-powered experts and pays a lot more than is necessary, just to be safe.

YOU CAN FIND almost anything in Hollywood swimming pools from wrist watches and evening slippers to house-guests left over from a previous weekend. Quite a few, too, have fancy designs in tile and underwater lights, but Wayne Morris has provided something for the boys to see—a voluptuous mermaid painted on the bottom.

NEVER REPEATED

Only once in history, during Lincoln's term, were five living ex-Presidents of the United States known. This unusual number was a result largely of the fact that no President elected between 1836 and 1860 served more than four years.

The 1933 Florida legislature granted the Seminole Indians additional land for their reservation.

The Sacred Dagger

BY RITA MOHLER HANSON
(Copyright, 1941, for The Journal)

YESTERDAY: Anne Willard and her two companions have been captured on their way to her father's camp in the Mongolian desert. Their captor is taking Blaze Sherwood and Pete Mackey to the Emir, but a native woman has disguised Anne as an old hag, and is slipping her into the Emir's palace, where one of the ruler's wives will try to help her escape. By accident both parties are spending the night in the same inn, and Blaze has penetrated Anne's disguise.

Chapter Eight

Mackey grinned. "Then maybe the first guy with nerve enough to take the dagger wins Miss Willard."

"May be," laughed Sherwood.

Anne laughed mischievously. "You notice that Dr. Sherwood refused to take it."

Mackey's eyes began to twinkle. "If you could see yourself, my girl you'd understand why."

Anne laughed again and rubbed more soot on her face.

Sherwood looked at her. "By the way, Doddap is here."

"Your friend the seer?"

"Yes, mother," he teased. "He is posing as your son."

"That one! How extraordinary!"

"He said that if I ever got into trouble and needed him he'd come where I was." Sherwood grinned. "I must be in trouble. He seems to be able to go anywhere he wants to go. He was educated in India and England. He's been to America. A year or so ago I became lost and wound up in his monastery on the Shani Lun side of the Bekkan Bula mountains. He met me with the greeting, 'Welcome, Rimpoche, I've been expecting you for a week.' It was in his monastery that I learned about Shy-a Nago. He hears voices and sees visions. I never believe him until the event occurs. But it is astonishing how often he is right."

They had forgotten Mackey who sat listening, holding his aching jaw.

"Does that lama know?" asked Anne, "that I carry the Nagara dagger,"

"He told me two months ago that you would come and receive it."

"I didn't know it myself two months ago," she cried.

"There you are," he shrugged.

"Does he predict that you and the Prince of Shani Lun will take Shy-a Nago away from my father?"

"Not exactly," Sherwood said, leaning back on his elbow on the platform so that she could not see his face, "but he says that the time has come for the treasure to be revealed."

"Is this the prophecy my father spoke of in his note?"

"Dr. Oliver and the members of your father's Expedition should know," he answered evasively. "Do not under any circumstances let the dagger out of your possession."

Mackey groaned. "I wish she'd use it to cut my throat." Sherwood looked at him sympathetically.

"Maybe Doddap can relieve you. Some of these natives magicians have remarkable healing powers."

Doddap agreed readily to do something for Mackey's toothache. The latter, looking a bit foolish that he should lend himself to such hocus pocus, obeyed the command to seat himself on a sheepskin, cross legged, his back against the wall. Though the other men were Mohammenedan if anything, they crouched down to watch the ceremony.

The lama passed his hands lightly over Mackey's face and throat and chest, fingered his spinal column and shook his finger tips as if to toss off poison. He stared into the white man's eyes intently for a moment, then raised his voice in a familiar chant.

"Better now?" he asked.

Mackey blinked. "I don't know." The lama's manner changed to a certain impishness. He made more passes before Mackey's face, and finally, by a clever slight of hand drew an eagle's claw from Mackey's ear, which object, he declared, had caused the pain.

"Hell," cried Mackey, grabbing the claw and jumping to his feet with an indignant look at Sherwood, "trying to make a monkey out of me, eh?"

Sherwood grinned. "How's the toothache?"

A blank look came over Mackey's face. He put his hand to his jaw and pinched and probed a bit before he answered reluctantly: "The darn thing seems to have quit hurting."

"Here's hoping you'll have a good night's sleep," said Sherwood.

To The Emir

The headman rose and the other men followed him out. Presently the lama returned bringing Anne's big traveling case. She didn't know how he had contrived to get it and she didn't ask. But it was good to realize there were clean and decent clothes in her possession even though she dare not wear them.

"Thank you, Doddap," she said as he turned to leave.

He bowed to her. "I give you advice. Trust Sherwood, Rimpoche. The master is foolish sometimes — but trust him — you're foolish too."

Anne stared after his retreating back. Then she gave herself a little shake. "He's right, Anne Willard — you're foolish in more ways than one."

The next afternoon they came to the edge of the basin that made up Arishar, the capital city of Yangsar. Canals lined with willow and mulberry followed the road. Paddy fields that would later be flooded for rice planting, stretched away on either side. Here the country was gay with spring, acacia in full leaf, and apricots and peaches, round green buttons on the trees.

Under the shadow of the city wall Anne bade her white friends goodby. They were well ahead of the main caravan. Khalima struggled with Anne's donkey to keep him from following them off the road.

"Farewell," said Anne lightly, "have a good time in jail."

"Watch your step in the harem." Mackey warned her.

Sherwood walked over and stood beside her. They gazed at each other for a moment in silence. Then she said: "You're looking at me as father does when he's going to tell me something for my own good."

"I feel as responsible as a father," he said in a troubled voice. "This is no place for a kid like you. Have you plenty of money?"

"Sufficient," she assured him. "And so I'm no kid. I'm as self-reliant as you are. I can take care of myself."

"That's all you know about it!" he said, his voice gruff with restrained emotion. "When I think of some of the things that can and do happen in this country . . . Well, it's on the knees of the gods I guess! I don't know whether my own credentials as a member of the government of Shani Lun will rate me a toss into prison or a bid to the palace. You can never tell the mood of these petty tyrants. If things go right with you, make for Chuka, which is just across the border."

"Thanks. Anything I can do for you when I arrive there?"

"If you hear I'm jugged you might notify the Prince of Shani Lun." Then his mood lightened. "This fool lama vows we'll come out of it all right so it might be just as well to believe him. Optimism is no more stupid than pessimism."

"If as stupid," said Anne, her smile revealing the pretty girl back of the old witch make-up.

His eyes caught the vision.

"I suppose I shouldn't kiss you."

"My face too dirty?" she asked mischievously, feeling safe behind her suit.

"I'd risk that," he grinned, "but Mackey might think he was entitled to the same privilege."

Her eyes widened. "And why not—Turk?"

"I'll call him over," he said swiftly.

She caught his arm. "Silly. You know I was fooling."

"It's dangerous to fool with me." His expression sobered.

The Princess

She laughed a bit stirred by his distress. She wished she knew what was in his mind.

"As Mackey says, do watch your step," he pleaded softly. "I'm afraid things won't go as smoothly as you think, and if you should need help, for God's sake get word to me." He stepped back and let loose the donkey's bridle. "Goodbye, precious one."

"Goodby," she answered, her eyes suddenly filling with tears. Now she recalled the meaning of the word Rimpoche. It was good to be called precious once more.

They rode along the narrow street of the bazaars; they passed through an arch by a bell tower and came into the square before the mosque where beggars and holy men lay in the welcome sunshine. Anne did not know when Doddap left them, but as they came at last to the wall of the Emir's palace on rising ground above the river she saw that he had disappeared.

Khalima knocked at an obsure gate in the wall and was admitted to a kitchen courtyard, donkey and all. She and her mother greeted each other warmly and the other servants gathered round to welcome her. They took Anne to the Princess at once, just as she was, opening a door into a tiled courtyard with a marble tank sunk in the center, a pine tree at one end and rose vines climbing on it.

In a raised boudoir off the courtyard the Princess, with other ladies of the palace, sat smoking on a water pipe passed round the circle. She was a dark-skinned, middle-aged woman with heavy lidded eyes, a little moustache, and hair that hung in hennaed wisps about her face.

Her boredom lifted as Khalima unfolded Anne's story for her ear alone. She rose from the rug and motioned them to follow her into a private room.

Drawing Anne to the light she rubbed a hennaed finger on her face to expose the fair skin beneath, examined the long, slender hands and almond-shaped nails, pushed back the shawl to expose the chestnut hair.

"Y'allah! You are beautiful," she said. "I will help you. My husband, the Emir, shall not know." She clapped her hands and servants appeared followed by the seven ladies of the harem, daughters and wives of the Emir. Anne never did get them all straightened out.

BRIDAL SUPERSTITION

Superstition holds it to be a harbinger of good luck for a bride to be carried across the threshold by the groom, as they enter their home for the first time.

Kentucky ranks second in the use of lime on farm lands in the states.

Hold Everything!

Today's Journal Editorial . . .

THE WORD OF UNCLE SAM

Commendation should and doubtless will be general of the naval affairs committee of the United States Senate for having refused the plea of high ranking naval officers to hold sailors and marines in service beyond the periods of their enlistments.

Unquestionably need exists for the services of such men. But the fact still remains that every last one of them is in service as a volunteer. He and the government are in contract with each other. If he fails to discharge the obligations imposed upon him under the terms of the contract he may be sent to prison. He is forced to abide by his contract. Certainly the government should carry out its part of the bargain.

It would seem that methods more desirable and more effective than compulsion could be employed to keep the experienced men in service. Make their jobs attractive for them, and the probabilities are that most of them will continue as they are. If the jobs are not sufficiently attractive to hold them, then the supposition must be that most of the fault must be with the navy's high command.

Several Industries Are Facing Threat Of Closing Down

Squeeze On Little Business Big Worry

BY PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 2 — Certain sections of the government are beginning to worry again about what's happening to the small business man, and by small, they don't necessarily mean small. The units they fear for are the independents, the manufacturers who aren't directly tied up with some big chain or corporation, or who can't get a piece of the big corporation's business through subcontracting.

At a conference of field officers of the Defense Contract Service held in Washington the other day, Peter R. Nehemkis, jr., one of the OPM brass hats, went so far as to say that 10 entire industries whose supplies have been curtailed must either close down or enter a new line of production. For a time, as the wartime economy gains momentum, small businesses will be hit to such an extent that unemployment may actually go up and the number of idle machines actually increase, he said.

EDSON

Mr. Nehemkis has been picking up dead cats ever since, for many of the dollar-a-year men in the Office of Production Management don't think things are going to be that bad, and they started throwing things at the colleague who spoke out of turn. Nehemkis did put the finger on the critical condition of companies making aluminum products, for instance, or the companies doing nickel and chrome plating. With their material supplies cut off by defense work, they're up against it. Plants in the New York City area have been particularly inconvenienced this way.

That is the predicament of the small businesses squeezed out by priorities, but there is another angle that has attracted attention of the Justice Department anti-trust division — the cases of small businesses squeezed out by monopolistic competition from big business.

* * *

Big Boys Got There Early

ATTENTION has already been called to concentration of defense orders placed with major manufacturing companies. In the rush to get defense started, it was perhaps natural to turn to the companies with the biggest plants. Also, if the major industrialists had the best organization to get the business, it was natural for them to get the orders. If, however, this combination of circumstances, plus monopolistic practices, is used to freeze the independent manufacturer out of the defense effort, then the economic balance is thrown out of gear.

Thurman W. Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, sees four dangers to the little man from such a set-up.

First, the system of priorities control may be used to prevent the small manufacturer from getting supplies.

Second, the small manufacturer may not be allowed to share in the national defense production, to the detriment of both the little man and defense.

Third, the independents may be caught by artificially fixed prices and distribution costs as in the recent Rocky Mountain region lumber and cement cases where the little men not belonging to the ring and following its policies could not get a foothold in business.

Fourth, the threats from big labor — a few of the unions which, like big business combines, dictate the amount of labor, materials and tools that the small businessman must use.

* * *

Good Man Hard To Find

IT IS to protect little business from hardships like these that the anti-trust division proposes to set up its new section. A program of this kind has never been attempted before. Finding the right man to head it, an economist with contacts among the independent business men and the small businessmen's associations, is one of the first problems. There will be no formula for operations, and no speech-making about what all can be done, until the problems of little business have been surveyed and studied.

To get at the problem, Arnold is willing to receive complaints from small businessmen who have been subjected to squeeze plays in the defense effort. He admits frankly that he cannot begin to answer, individually, all complains received. He expects to get a sizeable proportion of crackpot letters presenting imaginary grievances about which nothing can be done, but out of the mass of correspondence the anti-trust division does receive, it hopes to be able to find out what the problems of the little businessman are in this period.

When the new organization is set up, Arnold hopes that it will be a friend of the little businessman in the long halls of government. Big business has always had its representatives in Washington. Small business has not. Anti-trust division hopes it can fill the gap

AFL Union Protesting Use Of WPA Labor

STREET SCENE IN ENGLAND—Everything's as usual on this busy corner in Richmond, England—except that every person in the picture, down to the youngest child, wears a gas mask. Tear gas was released in this rehearsal against attack by war's most feared weapon.

Walkout Urged On Army Work

(By The Associated Press)

In a strike which union leaders termed a national test of the use of WPA labor at sub-union wages, the AFL building trades council at St. Louis instructed between 1,500 and 2,000 workmen today to stay away from their jobs on a $4,000,000 construction project at Jefferson barracks.

The walkout was ordered in protest of 75 WPA painters. E. M. Basye, deputy state WPA administrator, declared however that "our men will remain on the job. The projects have been certified as necessary to national defense."

On Other Labor Fronts

Other labor developments included:

Cleveland — United Automobile Workers-CIO began voting on whether to strike to enforce their demand for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour at the White Motor company. Their current wage rate was not disclosed.

Los Angeles—The last remaining detachment of 1,500 soldiers was relieved from further duty at the North American Aviation company plant after final settlement of the CIO-called strike there was announced. The soldiers took over the plant June 9, broke a five-day strike. Terms of the strike settlement included pay increases which the union estimated at $7,000,000 a year for 9,000 employes, and a modified form of closed CIO shop.

No Danger Of Strike

Kearney, N. J.—An official of the CIO shipbuilders union declared there was no danger "whatsoever" of a strike against the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company which holds $493,000,000 in navy and maritime commission contracts. The national defense mediation board has stepped into a dispute between the union and management involving the workers' demand for wage raises, paid vacations and a modified union shop. The union seeks to have the present minimum of 72½ cents an hour lifted to 72 cents. The present labor contract expires at midnight Monday.

San Francisco—Members of the CIO communications union voted to strike against press wireless, newspaper wireless service, unless 20 per cent wage increases were granted. Present wages were reported to be $45 and $50 a week. The company has offered a 5 per cent raise.

Calculation of eclipses mentioned in ancient history has enabled modern scholars to place definite dates on several important battles and other events.

BLAMES MEN—Says Miss Alice Paul (above) of Moorestown, N. J., "Men are to blame for the present war." She has just returned to N. Y. from Geneva, Switzerland, via Lisbon. She's chairman of fthe world women's party for equal rights.

Singing Convention To Be Held At Ralls

Ralls city auditorium will be scene of the annual North and West Texas Sacred Harp Singing convention Saturday and Sunday, according to Ed Ward of Brownfield, president, who visited Lubbock Tuesday.

Meeting begins at 10 o'clock in the Ralls auditorium. Persons who plan to attend either day, or both days, should bring their lunches. A basket picnic will be held on the Ralls park.

Officers for the coming year are to be named Saturday afternoon. W. P. Pyron is secretary. He also is from Brownfield.

Ward said from 500 to 1,000 persons are expected to be present Sunday. Delegations from as far away as Fort Worth and Abilene and north to Dalhart and Amarillo, are expected. This is the 27th annual convention.

Business Rush For Whiteface

BY HOWARD A. TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WHITEFACE, July 2—Oil development in the northwest trend of the Slaughter pool is creating some excitement already in Whiteface. The telephone office was swamped with long-distance calls Tuesday night and forced the keeping open of the office all night. Some of the oil men had difficulty in completing their calls and if business keeps up, additional circuits must be extended from Lubbock to Whiteface, to take care of the oil business.

One restaurant in Whiteface, which reports a big increase as a result of oil activity, had every chair at the lunch counter full, at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning. The new patrons were drillers and rough necks employed on the Helmerick and Payne, Inc., wildcat 12 miles west of Whiteface.

Wild Gas Showing

Flowing from five to ten minutes each time the tubing swab was run Tuesday forenoon, the No. 1 Dela Slaughter-Wright wildcat on the Waterdog ranch, 2.2 miles south of the J. E. Alexander addition to Whiteface, was showing for a wild gas and oil well.

When the swab began operating about 10 o'clock Tuesday forenoon, the crew maneuvered for over an hour before it was possible to lower the swab 500 feet into the oil which was reported to have filled over four thousand feet inside the casing and tubing. A solid stream of oil came out with great force each time. On the first trip out of the hole, the stream of crude flowed for fifty-five seconds. As the crude was lowered, the well flowed more each time and often went over the top of the slush pit.

460 Pounds Of Gas

A gauge on the casing registered 420 pounds before the swab was started. After the swab had made trip after trip, the gas registered 460 pounds pressure and remained at that stage for the first three hours. The gas appeared to be increasing. The pressure did not show any lower even though considerable gas came out of the tubing each time the oil was taken out.

An oil saver was used on top of the tubing to keep the oil and gas from coming out except into the opening connected to the slush pit. While the acid water and basic sediment are not entirely exhausted, it is evident that the oil will be turned into the tanks inside the next 24 hours. The oil is from a total of 89 feet from two formations—the upper and lower. Total depth is 4983 feet.

More Wells Are Due

With the final completion of the first producer in the very back yard of Whiteface, at least 50 more wells are almost sure to be drilled during the coming months. There are over this many locations now proven between the O'Neal-Wheeler wildcat and the nearest production of Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation, on the Weedley lands nearly four miles to the south.

That all of Cochran county is due for a wildcat oil play during coming months, is predicted. Oil showings have been had years ago near Pettit, 12 miles northeast; on the Cameron ranch, to the northwest and in a number of wells near Lehman, from seven to 12 miles west of Whiteface. The Helmerich and Payne, Inc., wildcat now drilling, is within a mile and three-fourths from the old Pure Oil Co. well which had an excellent oil showing.

LOTS OF POWER

Approximately 1,880,000,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy were used to run the 24,000,000 radios and phonographs in the United States during 1939.

Since the first assignment of camps to erosion work, eight years ago, CCC enrollees have built 3,500,000 check dams, planted more than 250,000,000 trees in gullies and fields subject to critical erosion, constructed 27,000 miles of terraces and installed 350,000 terrace outlet structures.
