MUSICIANS
3000 YEARS B. C.

IN WALL paintings of the Egyptians, belonging to a period of 5000 years before Christ, we find pictures of harps shaped not unlike those of today. This is evidence of the first stringed instruments. The ancient harp was richly decorated and stood more than six feet high, while the only noticeable difference between it and the present-day instrument is the absence of a supporting pillar. By strings we now mean bowed instruments of the violin family. The lyre, which the Greeks originated, was the forerunner of the violin, while probably the first bow ever used was the player's fingers. Oil Taxes on Production Basis Favored at Meeting of Officials

Oil producing properties in this section of the state will be assessed for taxation this year principally on the barrelage basis used in the past, with allowances made for other factors in the situation, according to the general trend of discussion in a meeting of about 40 county judges and commissioners here Friday.

Called by County Judge John P. Marrs of Wichita county, the conference was attended by representatives of 11 counties. It was carried out as a preliminary study of the general problem of oil-land taxable assessments in anticipation of the meetings of equalization boards to be held in each county during the coming few weeks.

Discussion hinged chiefly on the question of recommending valuation of such lands on a barrelage basis or by some other means, according to Judge Marrs, who acted as secretary. Judge J. V. Townsend of Wilbarger county, named as chairman of the meeting, explained that in his county a special deputy assessor is employed for oil field work only. Actual inventories on the leases of all oil properties are made, he said. The system has proven more satisfactory than a straight barrelage basis of evaluation, Judge Townsend said.

Judges Harold K. Dycus of Archer county and T. K. Howard of Clay county also discussed the methods used in their communities for fixing values on oil lands for taxation.

Representatives of the oil industry appeared before the meeting

COLLEGE WIFE ADMITS KILLING

Aged Spinster Slain In 'Defense of Self'

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 10. (US)—"I had to do it in defense of myself—it was either her life or mine."

Mrs. Frances Thomsen, 29, a graduate of Wellesley college and mother of three children, today thus admitted, according to police, the killing of Miss Minnie Dilley, wealthy spinster, a week ago today.

And jealousy, it appeared, was the motive. Mrs. Thomsen said she feared the 67-year-old spinster was exerting an influence over her husband, Carl Thomsen—that she believed Miss Dilley desired him to head a "love cult."

Miss Dilley's body was found last Saturday, brutally battered and mutilated, in her home at Forty Fort, on the banks of the Susquehanna river, a broken ginger ale bottle and a bloody bread knife nearby.

"I had to do it—I had to do it in defense of myself," Mrs. Thomsen hysterically repeated in her confession today at the scene of the crime.

She then re-enacted verbally the details of the murder to the accompanying detectives—how she hitch-hiked more than 200 miles from Pittsburgh carrying an umbrella, the folds of which concealed the bread knife.

She told of knocking her victim into insensibility with the ginger ale bottle and then using the knife to slash the aged woman's throat.

Mrs. Thomsen was arrested yesterday in Pittsburgh, and was brought here by automobile last night. She is the daughter of a Pittsburgh minister and formerly taught school in that city.

Reeser Sees Romantic Independent Replaced By Oil Stockholders

ENID, Okla., April 10. (UP)—The independent oil producer rapidly is passing from the romantic picture of the oil industry, E. B. Reeser, Tulsa, said today in an address before the eighth convention of the state chamber of commerce.

"In his place we have millions of stockholders in various oil companies scattered throughout the country," the president of the American Petroleum institute said.

"More people directly are in the petroleum business than ever before. But participation is through stock ownership.

"It is also true that financial institutions are carrying loans of greater magnitude than ever on collateral the value of which depends entirely upon the prosperity of the petroleum business.

Prices at Bottom

"The industry therefore becomes of national importance," Reeser said.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the average cost of producing crude oil is greater than ever before, prices of petroleum products are the lowest in history.

"From a national viewpoint, collection of gasoline taxes has added greatly to the prosperity of the nation. Few motorists realize when they pay for gasoline, a larger proportion of the amount paid is turned over to the state than the portion applied to purchasing crude oil without cost of refining it.

"The nation at this time is confronted with a visible supply of crude greatly in excess of demand. This condition is further intensified by recent discoveries in the new East Texas fields.

Sees Better Times

"Indications are that approximately 1,000,000,000 barrels have been added to the known reserves of the nation. Prior to the discovery of the East Texas field, the visible supply of crude oil was at least twice as much as reasonable demand.

"There was no legal plan offered to prohibit drilling and because of selfishness of man, the excessive drilling program continued so long as an outlet was found.

"Proration is here to stay for a long time," Reeser said. "If it is not legal and orderly as under the present plan, then in any event it will be production without ratable taking on a 'survival of the fittest' basis.

"Regardless of the present situation, I believe the industry will shortly emerge into healthier and more stabilized condition than ever," Reeser said.

Charles Alvord, representative of the federal farm board, addressed the delegates tonight.

TOBACCO LEVY PROPOSED FOR SCHOOL FUND

House Gas Assessment Is Lowered by Senate Amendment

DEADLOCK IS SEEN

Lower Branch Twice Has Voted Down Cigaret Proposal

AUSTIN, April 10. (UP)—The Texas senate this afternoon added a tax on cigarets to a house bill which taxes natural gas. It passed the bill with a lower gas tax rate than the house wanted. The house twice this session has rejected tobacco taxation.

A deadlock and failure of the two legislative branches to agree finally on any tax on either gas or cigarets was predicted as a result of the senate action.

The tax on cigarets is equivalent to three cents per package on the ordinary brands. The bill says it shall be used for school purposes. An income of $5,000,000 a year was predicted.

Strenuous Debate

Action came on the cigaret-gas tax bill after an afternoon of debate in which some senators proposed to penalize possessors of "bootlegged" cigarets. Speeches were enlivened with quotations of cigaret advertising slogans and citations of profits of tobacco companies.

Adoption of the amendment adding a cigaret tax was opposed all day on the ground that it was an encroachment on the house's exclusive authority to originate tax measures. House refusal to consider tobacco tax measures was cited as another reason against senate action. Lieut. Gov. Edgar E. Witt, presiding, ruled at noon that no formal notice of this refusal had been given the senate.

Although a messenger arrived from the house during the afternoon to notify the senate of the unfavorable action on tobacco taxation Lieutenant Governor Witt ruled that since the house bills dealt with cigars as well as cigarets, the subject matter was not the same.

Gas Levy Voted

Debate on the cigaret tax began immediately after the senate agreed this morning to substitute a two per cent tax on natural gas for the house's proposed two and three-fourths per cent.

The gas tax is calculated on value at the wells.

Without a flurry the house passed finally the Ben Brooks bill to use one cent of the four-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax to pay off road bonds of counties and road districts. The bill which was fought to the finish by road bond advocates when offered for engrossment last week, met no new opposition.

A free conference report was adopted, practically assuring a new law on insanity hearing applications for convicts. Under it the affidavit of insanity will have to be made by the county health officer, prison physician, prison warden, a superintendent of a state asylum or two physicians. Now, any person can make the affidavit and sanity trials have stopped several executions.

A bill was engrossed to let the attorney general sit in on tax assessment hearings in counties where state taxes have been remitted to permit local assessments.

Murray to Call Roll of Faithful Before Session Adjourns Today

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 10. (UP)—Gov. W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray will call the roll of legislators who have strayed from the executive fold during the arduous days of the 13th Oklahoma legislature.

The roll call, a method he has threatened several times in the session when a stubborn senate blocked much of his program, will be in the form of a final message to the legislature just before adjournment time tomorrow noon.

In the message the governor will commend those legislators who stood by him. He will point out that most of the senators who only have two more years left to serve stood by him while those having four years fought his program "believing the people will forget" before election.

To remedy this "evil," Murray will advocate a constitutional amendment providing for the election of senators every two years instead of every four years.

Adjournment time was postponed from noon today until Saturday noon when house members demanded more time to consider the bill providing for the collection of the gasoline tax from the refiner instead of the retailer, as is now the practice.

Frequent clashes occurred before the extension was granted by both houses.

Much of the session today was spent in passing minor bills and reading voluminous reports filed by conflicting factions that participated in the joint legislative investigation of the highway department.

NATION'S LEADERS TO HEAR RITES

CINCINNATI, April 10. (AP)—Final rites for Speaker Nicholas Longworth here Saturday will be an unostentatious ceremony in Christ Episcopal church at 2 p. m., and burial in the Longworth family lot at Spring Grove cemetery.

The Rt. Rev. Henry Hobson, bishop coadjutor, will read the ritual of the dead but will make no eulogy. The services will be attended by President and Mrs. Hoover and by several hundred of the country's most distinguished statesmen and citizens.

Speaker Longworth's body, accompanied by Mrs. Longworth and relatives, was being brought here tonight on a special train, due to arrive here early Saturday.

Paulina not Told

Most of the final arrangements for the services were completed today with arrival from Washington of Miss Mildred Reeves, who was Mr. Longworth's secretary, and Col. E. W. Starling, chief of the secret service.

Little Paulina Longworth, 6-year-old daughter and only child of the speaker, remained uninformed tonight of his death. Her mother, daughter of former President Theodore Roosevelt, was to break the news to Paulina tomorrow.

In addition to the President and Mrs. Hoover, the services will be attended by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Sr., widow of the former president, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, Vice President Curtis, delegations from congress and numerous organizations. The seating capacity of the church, located in the downtown financial district, is limited to 750 and admission to the funeral will be by ticket.

Prayers and another simple ceremony were to be held at the grave as the body is lowered to its last resting place.

CLEAN ROADS IMPROVE CITY

Fitts Urges Wichitans To Aid Campaign

Marked improvement in the appearance of dirt and gravel highways within this county has been accomplished during the past two years through an increasing respect on the part of the public for laws forbidding promiscuous dumping of trash along the roads, according to J. B. Fitts, county highway officer.

In connection with local observance of National Clean-Up week, Mr. Fitts declared that abstinence from dumping rubbish along the roads is imperative not only from the standpoint of maintaining a good appearance on the right-of-way, but as a protection to motorists.

Damage to Tires

"One of the chief damages to automobile tires," he said, "is represented by the wire, nails, glass, etc., which people have thrown along the roadside, and which the road grader moves to the middle of the road when the road crew works it. Such debris causes most of the punctures and cuts which are sustained by tires driving on our unpaved roads."

Up until two years ago, Mr. Fitts said, many persons living in the city sacked up refuse and junk of various kinds, accumulated in "cleaning up" their own home properties, and rather than call a trash wagon, simply drove outside of the city and threw it to the side of the road. During the past three months, he said, 24 different individuals have been detected in following such a course, and have returned to remove the discarded trash and have it properly disposed of.

Prosecution Possible

Mr. Fitts warned against patronizing "trash bootleggers"—those who operate without a license. They can not take their loads to the regular dumping grounds, he said, and for that reason must dump it wherever they can without detection.

Dumping of tin cans, nails, glass, etc., on public highways is punishable by a fine of $500 and imprisonment up to six months according to the state law, Mr. Fitts said. A lesser penalty is provided for the promiscuous dumping of garbage on the public roads.

"Still more extensive cooperation of the public with its officers will bring about a complete elimination of this expensive and unsightly scattering of debris on the roads," said Mr. Fitts, "without making prosecution of such cases necessary."

Dancing Studio To Open April 18

Miss Constance Ferguson, seven years with Theodore Kosloff, Russian ballet master, will open a studio of dancing here Saturday, April 18. She will give class and individual instruction in Russian ballet, toe, ballroom and tap dancing for both children and adults, she announced.

Miss Ferguson will interview those interested in dancing at the Kemp hotel. Classes will be started at once and in the fall the school will be opened on a large scale.

For two years Miss Ferguson has conducted a dancing school in Amarillo, where she has encountered a pleasing success in her profession. With a background of seven years as Kosloff's assistant and with a wide experience in teaching, Miss Ferguson's studio here is expected to give dancing students here an opportunity for the best types of instruction.

Kosloff, whose system Miss Ferguson teaches, is considered the world's foremost ballet master. He now has a school in Dallas, where he recently presented a production in which more than 100 dancers participated.

Miss Ferguson had not selected the site for her studio Friday, but said that she would announce its location several days before classes start.

RECIPES

French Omelet

Four eggs.
Four tablespoonfuls milk or
One-half cup white sauce.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
One-eighth teaspoonful pepper.
Two tablespoonfuls butter.

Beat eggs slightly with milk of white sauce. Add seasonings and mix thoroughly. Melt butter in omelet pan and when hot add eggs. As they cook lift up with a spatula letting uncooked portion run underneath. Cook until creamy. Increase heat to brown slightly, fold and turn on hot platter and garnish with parsley. If an especially delicious omelet is desired, pour one-half chopped and sauted mushrooms over the omelet before folding. (White sauce gives the omelet a little more body than the milk. Milk or white sauce, water, tomato juice or orange juice may be used for the liquid).

French Pancakes

One-half cup flour.
Three tablespoonfuls powdered sugar.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
One-half cupful milk.
One egg.

Sift flour with sugar and salt. Add milk, stir until perfectly smooth, add egg and beat thoroughly. Cook on hot griddle, roll up and baste in hot orange sauce or spread with compote of fruit before rolling. These pancakes are not light but solid in texture so that they may be easily rolled up, which is the way French pancakes are always served. Melted jelly may be used instead of the orange sauce or compote of fruit.

Compote of Fruit Italienne

Prepare four dried peaches, four figs, four prunes, four dried apricots and four halves of dried pears by washing in hot water; cover with two cups hot water and soak overnight; add one-half cup sugar and juice, pulp and rind of one-fourth of an orange. Heat but keep below the boiling point, or at 200 degrees Fahrenheit for 40 minutes or until almost tender; add one banana peeled and cut in pieces and cook about 10 minutes longer. Rub through a pure's sieve and use as a filling for French pancakes.

Orange Sauce

Cream three tablespoonfuls butter, add one-half cupful powdered sugar slowly, then add grated rind and juice of a small orange. Use stewed prunes for the first course if the orange sauce is served with pancakes.

Grapefruit Cocktail

One grapefruit.
One-half pound white grapes.
One-half pint strawberries.
Few grains of salt.
Sugar.
Lemon juice.
Mint leaves.

Pare grapefruit and remove sections free from membrane, or use two-thirds cupful canned grapefruit. Remove skins and seeds from white grapes. Tokay grapes may be easily skinned if you begin at stem end. Make a little cut in the side of the grape to remove the two seed. Pineapple tidbits may be substituted for the grapes. Cut strawberries in pieces if they are large. Mix fruit, add enough fruit juice barely to cover the fruit, add a few grains of salt and season to taste with sugar and lemon juice. Chill thoroughly and serve in glasses garnished with mint leaves. Serves four.

Fruit Dressing

Four cupfuls stale soft bread crumbs.
Fourteen whole boiled chestnuts or walnuts.
Four canned or dried apricots.
One egg.
Four canned peaches.
One-half cup apricot juice.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
Three canned pears.
Six stewed prunes.

Cut fruit in pieces and beat egg slightly. Mix the ingredients very lightly with a long-handled fork. This mixture is then placed in the capon and the bird is roasted as usual. The cranberry sauce might be eliminated if fruit stuffing is used.

Ginger Ice Cream

One-third cupful Canton preserved ginger.
One-third cupful water.
One-half teaspoonful granulated gelatin.
One-third cupful sugar.
Yolks of three eggs.
One tablespoonful cold water.
One pint heavy cream.

Cook together the ginger, sugar and water to 230 degrees Fahrenheit. Pour this mixture over the beaten egg yolks and cook in a double boiler until thick. Add to this mixture while hot, the gelatin which has been soaked for five minutes in the tablespoonful of cold water. Cool and fold in the cream, which has been whipped until stiff. Pour into the refrigerator tray and freeze without stirring or pack in ice and salt for four hours. This recipe serves from 6 to 8.

Sunshine Cake

Seven egg whites, beaten stiff and dry.
One teaspoonful cream of tartar.
Seven egg yolks, well beaten.
One and one-half cupfuls sugar.
One cupful flour.
One-half teaspoonful flavoring.

Place the cream of tartar in the egg whites and beat until stiff and dry; fold in the sugar and then in the well beaten yolks; fold in the flour. Bake in the ungreased tube pan in a slow oven of 320 degrees Fahrenheit for 1½ hours. Ice with orange frosting, if desired.

Toasted Sardine Sandwiches

One-half cupful sardines.
One hard-cooked egg.
Three ripe olives.
Two tablespoonfuls nut meats.
Two tablespoonfuls diced celery.
One tablespoonful mayonnaise.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
Six slices whole wheat bread.

Chop first six ingredients very fine. Moisten with mayonnaise and season well. Spread between buttered slices of bread that have been toasted on one side and toast the other sides. Serve piping hot, with slices of sweet pickles or sliced green tomato pickle or olives and celery.

Pear Salad With Spiced Grape Dressing

Beat together vigorously four tablespoonfuls grape juice, one tablespoonful salad oil, one tablespoonful lemon juice, one tablespoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful each of cloves, allspice and cinnamon. Cover canned pears with the dressing and allow to stand for one hour and serve on shredded lettuce.

Gingerbread With—

Old-fashioned gingerbread makes a delightful simple dessert and it cannot be surpassed as a nourishing item in the lunch box. Not the least of its good points is the number of ways in which it may be varied, both in the combining of different ingredients and in serving.

Both bread and cake flour may be used in the making, but cake flour gives a tenderer product. If the former is used the amount of flour should be decreased about one-eighth. One-half cup of dry cake crumbs may replace an equal amount of flour in the standard recipe.

It is ordinarily desirable to use both soda and baking powder in leavening the mixture. Only enough of the former should be used to neutralize the acid of the molasses and sour milk as too much soda gives a bitter flavor and darkens the product in color. Yellow spots in gingerbread indicate the presence of lumps of undissolved or superfluous soda. To avoid these it should be sifted with the flour or dissolved in the liquid.

Salt is always desirable in a flour mixture so one-half teaspoonful is suggested for gingerbread. The amount of ginger used in gingerbread varies from one teaspoonful to three teaspoonfuls, according to taste. One teaspoonful cinnamon and one teaspoonful mace, either or both, may be added, as well as one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves. A combination of spices is preferred by most people.

The texture of gingerbread is better if eggs are used, but a very good product may be made without them. If the eggs are omitted the baking powder should be increased in the proportion of one-half teaspoonful baking powder for each egg omitted.

Porto Rico or New Orleans molasses or one of the dark syrups may be used in gingerbread. A very light and a very dark one may be mixed to make a medium colored one. Equal quantities of molasses and sugar give a cake-like product. Part molasses and part brown sugar produce a delightful flavor.

In some recipes, the shortening, molasses and spices are brought to the boiling point and the other ingredients added. This method produces a slightly different texture and taste.

Water, hot or cold, strong coffee, fruit juice, sweet milk and evaporated milk diluted with water may be used for the liquid but sour milk, buttermilk or sour cream are to be preferred. If the milk is thick more will be required.

Butter, cooking oil, lard, chicken fat, or beef, pork, bacon or sausage drippings may be used for shortening as the flavor is covered up by the spices. A large quantity of shortening produces a very tender gingerbread.

Gingerbread may be baked in greased and floured muffin pans—the ordinary size for everyday and very small ones for special occasions. Muffin pans give a crust which is very desirable if the gingerbread is to be served warm or split and filled. Muffins may be sprinkled with sugar before baking or with powdered sugar after they are baked.

Gingerbread may also be baked in layer cake pans, round or square. Two layers of the gingerbread may be put together with various fillings and served in squares or in pie-shaped pieces.

It may also be baked in bread pans, tube cake pans, glass baking dishes or deep cake pans and served in slices or squares. The mixture should be a little thicker if it is baked in a loaf than if it is baked in muffin tins.

Gingerbread should be baked in a moderate oven or at 350 degrees Fahrenheit from 20 to 40 minutes, depending on the depth of the pan in which it is baked.

Standard Gingerbread Recipe

One-half cupful butter.
One-half cupful molasses.
One-half cupful sugar.
Two cupfuls flour.
Two eggs, well beaten.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
Three-fourths teaspoonful soda.
One-half teaspoonful baking powders.
One-half tablespoonful ginger.
One teaspoonful cinnamon.
One teaspoonful mace.
One-half cupful sour milk.

Cream the shortening, sift in the sugar gradually, then part of the mixed and sifted dry ingredients. Then beat in the molasses, blended with the well-beaten egg and milk. The rest of the dry ingredients may then be added and the mixture poured into well-oiled and floured pans and baked in a moderate oven or at 350 degrees Fahrenheit until done. This gingerbread keeps well. Recipe will serve from 10 to 12.

Serving the Standard Recipe

After baking, remove from muffin pans or cut in squares and remove from cake pan. Serve on individual plates, in any of the following ways:

Gingerbread Shortcake

Banana shortcake is not unusual, but banana gingerbread shortcake is. Allow one muffin or square to the person; split them while hot with a fork and on the under half place a layer of sliced bananas and a layer of marshmallows. Cover and garnish with whipped cream at serving time. (The whipped cream should be sweetened and flavored.) Serve either hot or cold.

Gingerbread With Cheese Cream

Split muffins or squares or use two thin layers. Serve cheese cream between layers and on top. The cheese cream is made by working one to one and a half packages soft cheese until creamy and folding it carefully into one cup double cream, beaten stiff. A sprinkle of salt may be added. If you have not tried this mixture of cream and cheese (which may be cream cheese, cottage cheese or one of the sharper yellow varieties) you will be delighted with it. Serve hot or cold.

Gingerbread With Sauces

Serve hot gingerbread with cream beaten stiff, sweetened and flavored with hard sauce, with lemon pudding sauce, foamy sauce or with hot chocolate sauce.

Gingerbread Sandwiches

Bake gingerbread in a loaf pan. When cold cut into one-eighth inch slices. Butter the slices and on one-half of them spread a thin layer of cottage cheese which has been mixed with a small quantity of mayonnaise and a few chopped nuts. Put together sandwich fashion and cut in triangles.

A mixture of orange marmalade and nuts may be used instead of the cheese, mayonnaise and nuts between thin slices of gingerbread.

Orange Layer Gingerbread

Bake gingerbread in two layers and put orange filling between and orange frosting on top.

Variations From Standard Recipe

1. Cheese Gingerbread—Add one-half cupful of cheese, grated or put through food chopper to gingerbread mixture before baking.

2. Applesauce Gingerbread—Before mixing gingerbread, pare three or four apples, cut in quarters, remove cores, and put in saucepan with one-half cup sugar and one-half cup water which have been boiled together for two minutes. Place in hot oven while mixing gingerbread. Put apples (not the syrup) in a greased cake pan or glass baking dish and pour gingerbread mixture over the apples and bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit until gingerbread is done and the apples are soft. Serve with hard sauce or whipped cream.

3. Apple Gingerbread—Add two cups chopped raw apples to gingerbread mixture before baking and serve with whipped cream.

4. Date Gingerbread—Add one cup of dates washed, stoned and cut in pieces to gingerbread mixture before baking. A few nuts or candied cherries may be added with the dates. This may be baked in muffin pans or in a loaf and sliced when cold. The muffins may be served with a sauce or with whipped cream.

5. Coffee Gingerbread With Maple Frosting—Use strong, black coffee for the liquid in gingerbread mixture. When baked cover with maple frosting.

TOLL BRIDGE PLAN REFUSED

Oklahoma Declines Electra Proposition

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., April 10.—Remainder of the engineering work on state highway No. 14 from Frederick to Red river will be completed at an early date and bids called for some time this summer for the construction of the highway from this city to the Davidson bridge, members of the Tillman county delegation have been informed by the state highway commissioners. The highway is to parallel the Frisco railroad from here to Davidson, as is the case of the highway from here north to Snyder. Members of the Tillman county board of commissioners agreed to pay for one-third of the cost of the road.

Lew Wentz informed the delegation that later this highway is to be graveled and oiled, thus affording an all-weather road from Red river to Lawton, from which point a paved highway begins.

The state highway commission refused to consider the purchase of the Electra toll bridge because that road is not a state highway.

Commissioners O. C. Ball, J. W. Williams and Ed Cason, County Engineer Dwight E. Powell and Luther M. Wagnon, secretary of the Frederick Chamber of Commerce, constituted Tillman county's delegation.

PILLS ARE OFTEN DANGEROUS

MOST laxatives have to be taken in ever-increasing doses. Otherwise, they lose their power. The body needs roughage.

One of the most natural ways to obtain this roughage is by eating a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Read what Mr. Albert F. Parker of Massachusetts has to say:

"I am 52 years old and have put in years suffering from constipation. Bought all kinds of pills and drugged myself with them and awoke lots of mornings with a headache.

"Haven't taken one pill since I began on Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I am now feeling the best I have felt in 20 years."

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are guaranteed to give relief. At your grocer's, in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Easy Divorces
They Have Their Dangers
Raiding the City Hall
Then the Rembrandts

By EMILE GAUVREAU

An enlightened attitude towards the question of divorce argues that it be made easier; at the same time, common sense counsels that one-night-stand marriages should be abolished. After all, there ought to be some respect left for the ritual of marriage, since the structure of our society still rests upon it. There can be no respect when people rush in and out of marriage with the indecent haste that the charming Betty Compton showed. We find an actress, after a month's marriage with a film dialog director, back with her mother.

With a certain theatrical group marriage and divorce have degenerated simply into sales promotion stunts. Some of the group, publicity-crazy, once tried crime, but found it didn't pay and was too dangerous. Marriage and divorce, however, still serve them capitally for getting into the day's news, and so marriage and divorce continue to occupy the spotlight.

Marriages consummated in the United States should be binding for at least a year, and be indissoluble by any other country. We should recognize no divorce granted by Mexico, for instance, or France, before the minimum marriage period. Perhaps that will chasten some of the unchastened, who think they can trifle with all institutions, holy or otherwise.

Chicago starts a raid on organized weight cheating by invading city hall, seizing records of the weights bureau there, and rounding up 400 storekeepers, who are under suspicion of having worked hand in glove with the administration's racketeers and henchmen of Al Capone.

The city sealer, State Senator Daniel A. Serritella, is being sought, but so far has not shown up. The mayor, meantime, has issued a statement, assailing the raid as a political move. What else can the mayor say? In wartime he would have accused the raiders of Teutonic antecedents. He has no such excuse now.

New York should be raided in a similar manner. Vice can flourish only when city hall permits or connives at it. And we know, from previous experience, that the thousand eyes behind the political machine have been shut more often than open, not from tiredness, but from design.

It is the x-ray against the microscope! And the authenticity of a handful of Rembrandt paintings is in the balance.

Some days ago an authority by the name of Dr. Maximilian Toch, professor of the chemistry of artistic painting at the National Academy of Design, asserted that all but one of the canvases in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York attributed to the Dutch master were spurious. Dr. Toch reached his conclusions as the result of microscopic tests.

What is a microscopic test against an x-ray? By aid of the x-ray Mr. Alan Burroughs of the Fogg museum, Harvard university, now finds that, beside the "Glider," which Dr. Toch conceded as genuine, the "Self-Portrait," "The Old Woman Cutting Her Nails" and "Susanna and the Elders" are also genuine.

We shall never get at the truth, not because it is impossible to derive it from records and the canvases themselves, but because there are too many interests at stake to allow any one to prove the false false, and the true true. The firm that sold Mr. Altman the "Self-Portrait" of Rembrandt as a Rembrandt, for example, could not continue to do business if the painting was shown to be an imitation. Nor would millionaires care to continue in the pose of patrons of art if they are liable to be so richly cheated.

William James said it a generation ago in his "Pragmatism"—"the truth is what we desire to be the truth."

Unexpected Crisis

NO MATTER how prosaic and well-regulated human life can become in an organized society, the possibility of a sudden, life-and-death emergency can never be removed entirely from any man's pathway. The daily newspapers—which contain, week after week, the outline-skeletons for scores of novels, if you know how to look for them—emphasize this fact again and again.

A man goes his way through the routine of his daily life, and never so much as rubs elbows with excitement; then, suddenly, without warning, a situation arises that tests him, usually in a fraction of a minute, and compels him to render an accounting, by his instinctive actions, of what he has made of himself.

For instance; you will occasionally find, in your paper, some little story of, let us say, a street car accident—one of those mishaps whereby a loaded car goes careening down a hill out of control. And at the end of it there will be some such sentence as this: "Prompt action by Motorman John Smith got the car under control and prevented a disaster."

Or it will be a story of a fire in some hospital or office building or hotel, and you will learn that some telephone girl stuck to her switchboard, as cool as a veteran, and notified everyone in the place of the danger.

Or, perhaps, there is an accident in a neighborhood theater—and some unidentified patron will, by his presence of mind, prevent a panic and save people from trampling one another to death.

There is a fascination about those little news items. They are so common—and so revealing. Over and over, they tell how this or that ordinary mortal, confronted by a sudden emergency, rises to meet it and proves that he has the right stuff in him.

The most interesting thing is the fact that when such things happen one has no time to plan a course of action. One does what one does instinctively. The man who loses his nerve in a crisis of that kind loses it because, through the years before, he had permitted himself to become a coward. The man who comes through with the deed that saves the day, likewise, does it because through all of his life he has been unconsciously preparing himself for such a chance.

Day by day we go through the same old round of duties and diversions, never thinking of danger. Some day, if chance wills it, we shall be dropped into an unexpected crisis; and the way we meet the test will be decided by the thoughts and resolves that we have nourished during the long years of ordinary living.

Exiling Law Breakers

THE action of Governor (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma in granting freedom to convicts on condition they leave the state is not unlike the decision of the Pennsylvania judge who ordered a man convicted of theft to join the army in lieu of a jail sentence.

In both instances there is a palpable dodging of responsibility and an obvious indifference as to the consequences. The army is no sanctuary for thieves nor do other states desire to play host to Oklahoma's bad men. These men should not be loosed in new environments until they have been first properly disciplined at the source of their offenses.

Governor Murray probably would not be slow to sign papers which would bring back to Oklahoma a man who had fled a crime committed there. Neither should he be too hasty to exile convicts. No greater menace to the peace of the nation can be imagined if other states or cities, particularly Chicago, should follow Oklahoma's example.

Raskob to Stand Hitched 'Wet or Dry'

NATIONAL CHAIRMAN JOHN J. RASKOB has assured southern Democrats favoring prohibition of his support of the regular nominees in 1932 "regardless of the stand taken on prohibition in the Democratic platform." He called for a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the respective states for approval or rejection "not by the legislature but by the people themselves in each respective state in constitutional convention called for that purpose." This is his argument:

"The home rule plan fully respects this honest conviction of both the wet and dry elements in our party and country and should receive most careful, thorough and conscientious consideration by all." This will lead to more talk and when it comes to the talking Democrats are the master minds of the world.

Quotations Worth Noting

It is becoming more and more a man-made world and man must now take on consciously the duties which nature performed in the unconscious prehistoric stages of his evolution. Statesmen are awakening to the fact that breeding a race is as important—nay, is more important—than the accumulation of national wealth.—Sir Arthur Keith.

Synopsis of Preceding Installments

Helen Heather is not only a typist in the bank, but is social secretary to her cousin, Nina Higgtnson, a young and wealthy widow. She lives with Nina, in one of the finest houses in Kingsway. Half the eligible young men in Kingsway want to marry Helen, but her choice is Tommy Delamater, for whose father she takes dictation in the bank. Tommy is somewhat of a spoiled child, but Helen finds it thrilling to bring him out of his petulant fits. His latest enthusiasm, besides Helen, is moving pictures. While Helen waits for Tommy at Nina's, Ethan Kingsway appears—one of the Kingsways for whom the town is named. Ethan was jilted by Nina for the rich Mr. Higginson, but he still calls at Nina's home. This time it is to tell her that he must decline a dinner invitation as he is going to Europe. Tommy appears as Kingsway leaves, and frankly says that he hates Ethan. Tommy takes Helen to an amateur production which he is filming. Doris Milliken tells Helen that she and Ronny, Nina's stepson, are engaged. Just before Helen retired Ronny comes home. Nina enters the room as Helen is kissing Ronny goodnight and accuses them of making love. Nina and Ronny have a violent scene and he refuses to go back to college.

The next day Tommy declares his love for Helen.

He announces that he has taken a job in Wisconsin and that he intends to send for Helen.

INSTALLMENT VII

So there wasn't any chance of keeping the engagement quiet. But Helen, with her natural lightheartedness, found herself enjoying it after all. Kingsway Village's ritual for engaged girls was released about her. Mrs. Delamater, a little overpowdered and overelegant in the manner of her day, a little set in her phrases, as a society leader of a small place is likely to be, came calling and welcomed her into the family, sitting, white-gloved and stiffly marceled, with just a tinge of condescension coloring her sentences about being happy and delighted. "And you don't know what it means to me to feel that my dear boy, after all his flitting from flower to flower, as one might say, has been made to settle down by such a good little devoted girl as you, dearest Helen."

Nina broke in. Nina was a match for any two mothers of only sons.

"If you think Helen made Tommy settle down, you're wrong. Tommy has been badgering the life out of Helen, and fighting off other men in a way that I must say I think was—well, of course, he's so mad about her that he couldn't really," said Nina silkily, "play quite fair."

"My son," said Mrs. Delamater, "is the soul of chivalry and honor."

"Isn't he?" said Helen with innocent enthusiasm.

"Mr. Delamater is descended," said Mrs. Delamater firmly, "from the first mayor of Wayne."

"How wonderful for him!" said Nina. "It sounds like a song, doesn't it—'the mayor of Wayne'!"

Mrs. Delamater, to Helen's intense surprise, turned deep pink under her coating of white powder, and even the spots of pink carefully done on her cheek bones.

Helen bolted from the room, with a gasping excuse about Tacy having forgotten something.

Tacy had forgotten nothing. She was standing just outside the door that led across the hall to the kitchen in an attitude which made it clear that she had missed nothing. Helen held to her broad shoulder and let herself laugh.

"Tacy, what on earth is Nina at?"

Tacy made no pretense of not listening.

"Lettin' the good work go on," she replied with relish. "You let her alone. She knows how to handle Lydie Delamater. Listen."

Mrs. Delamater was returning to the fray gallantly, playing Mr. Delamater's ancestors as you lead a card in bridge, smaller ones first, better ones later. Nina's pleasantly metallic voice admired each in due order; but admired them with the sweetness and patent charity with which one says, "Yes, dear, very pretty," to a child's efforts at painting or sewing. Against them she led, with due deliberation, various negligently offered possessions of the Heather genealogy. Conquered, finally, by a colonial governor saved for the last as one saves the ace of trumps, Mrs. Delamater, nearly, hysterical, demanded shrilly where Helen had gone, and Helen, returning, found herself greeted as if she had been a lifeboat, or Blucher's battalions at Waterloo. The lady left as soon after that as she could, in an order of compliments and violent sachet, but she went defeated.

Nine dropped into a chair, laughing to herself at the recollection of some of her best shots.

"Ever notice that she plays her husband's ancestors, not her own, Helen? I don't know where she came from, baby dear, but it's a lead you might follow. You might find it useful."

Helen stood, dismayed, shaken out of her dream of a world where every one was kind.

"Don't you think I can ever make her fond of me?" she asked blankly.

"You may," said Nina, ringing for Mattie, "but you'll have to beat her up first, dearest."

Helen's heart was heavy for a moment. Then the glamour of being in love with Tommy flowed around her again. It was only Nina's way of seeing things. Mrs. Delamater and she loved Tommy—they must love one another sooner or later.

As for Mr. Delamater, he was fond of Helen already. Her mornings and afternoons with him now were only hard because he kept stopping to say how glad he was about it. Mr. Delamater was of a genial, paternal type, weightily aggressive and impressive—except in his own home, where Mrs. Delamater's precise, purring voice, laden with "dear" and "darling" prefixes to every name she spoke, quelled his every utterance.

Tommy took neither of his parents very seriously. He let his mother fuss at him and adore him, his father bluster and indulge him, with the same cheerful carelessness with which he stood on his mother's Louise Quinze chairs to put off and on his elaborate lighting system—for Tommy was still experimenting with his elaborate system of klieg lights.

To Helen, Tommy's enthusiasm seemed among the most lovable of his characteristics. He always swept her along with him laughing and delighted.

"I hope he'll get excited about golf," she said, "Tommy says we're to take up golf and bridge and be very sedate when we're young married set. Can't you see Tommy being sedate?"

They both laughed lovingly over the picture of a tamed, bridge-playing, golfing, married Tommy.

What with a rush of parties for her, and a very insistent Tommy, and her office work and her preparations for marriage, Helen grew more gay and excited, and thinner. She slept lightly, waking still stimulated. She seemed to her herself to laugh all day long. There was double work to do. She had refused to let Nina order her all her lingerie, and now she was sorry, because Nina had merely bought materials instead, and they had to be made up. Exquisite ninons and crepes and laces and rosy and golden satins.

The red coat from Jessica had come. It wasn't as bad as Helen had feared. It was only $65. Helen sent the check.

Tommy, to Helen's dismay, told his father (and mother, Helen feared) all the circumstances of Jessica and the coat and the approaching baby. And Mr. Delamater lectured Helen, very much as Nina had done, but more sparingly and more clearly. Helen was nerved by the wisdom which he had for every one but his own son to add a scolding to her next letter. She told Jessica about her engagement and impending marriage.

Then came the chore of getting Nina off.

Nina kept up her own social affairs to the last moment. Nina always rested before and after any parties given or received, because, as she said, she owed it to herself. This worked very well ordinarily, but Helen, spurred on by feeling that she ought to do a little extra to pay for all the lingerie, added looking after Nina as usual and more than usual to her own heavy schedule of duties, and pleasures.

Helen, walking on air, scarlet-cheeked, ecstatic, drove easily through it all. She would rest the two weeks after Nina sailed.

Tommy went, in a gust of raging and regretful devotion. Helen missed him achingly, but on a different plane it was a relief. He departed, saying wild, public goodbyes to her on the platform till the last possible moment, before his parents and about 50 friends. He implored her not to forget him; to write him every day; to come next day if she could.

The love-words and caresses flowed over Helen, and she gave herself up to the mingled happiness and sadness of it, letting everything else slide from her. Tommy was going to be gone from her for nearly two months. . . . Well, six weeks, to be accurate. They'd been in the same town, telephone-close, five minutes by the roadster, 15 if you walked. And now—Wisconsin! They clung together desperately.

"If I weren't working for your father I couldn't stand it," she confessed. "We'll talk about you."

He looked at her with a possessive pride.

"You lovely thing, you do love me, don't you?"

"You know . . ."

She had to adjust herself to a world with no Tommy. But a temporary world, a world lightened by letters, and with a lot to do still!

Nina went a fortnight before the time set for Helen's departure. She took with her her car and Hiram the chauffeur. Motoring about Europe was pleasanter than traveling in trains, she said.

Once the whirlwind of last-minute packing and last-minute arrangements that was Nina had vanished, things quieted down a little. Not so much as Helen had expected. Everybody Helen had ever known was giving parties. When it wasn't a shower luncheon it was a last-minute dinner. Every man in Kingsway, it seemed to her, made safe but romantic remarks about how he had long hoped, or long wanted, but . . . Every girl told her how lucky she was, and how crazy she should be over Tommy. And Helen, not quite believing any of it, loved all of it.

She was almost frightened by all the affection and happiness and gayety. Life was turning into a fairy story. She walked through the days, a princess.

QUESTIONS TND ANSWERS

Toxins in Spinal Cord

Question—F. H. V. writes: "I would like some light on the ailment of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis. Would like to know if it is curable."

Answer—The fundamental cause of lateral sclerosis is the presence of toxic materials in the spinal cord resulting from a faulty diet. You will get the quickest results by taking a fruit fast for a week or 10 days followed by a well balanced diet. Treatments such as massage, osteopathy, chiropractic and electrotherapy will be helpful in restoring circulation to the affected parts.

Baby's Diet

Question—C. R. H. asks: "At about what age should a baby be changed from the milk diet to solid foods? What should one use first? During the spring months should the baby be given cod liver oil?"

Answer—The baby should not be given solid foods until at least a year and a half old, and then for several months there should be added only minced non-starchy vegetables, or the addition of small quantities of fruits. Babies given the proper foods do not require cod liver oil.

Exercise

Question—D. G. writes: "I would like to know how to keep my flesh solid without becoming muscular. For a woman, I am too muscular now, and have stopped playing basket ball."

Answer—Do not worry about being too muscular. It is healthful to be muscular, and as you grow older the muscular condition will be rounded out so that it will not be noticeable. Keep right on with your athletics.

DUTCHY BLATZ MAKES FIERY MOUND DEBUT; STANTON ARRIVES

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

Homer Hammond, owner of the San Antonio baseball club, has sports writers of the state guessing. Is he serious about the proposed transfer of the San Antonio franchise to Waco, Tulsa or Oklahoma City?

Homer has a liking for a joke and likes to give baseball writers something to put in their papers every now and then. As, for instance, the stunt he pulled here during the play-off last fall—trading two of his ball players for a dozen doughnuts. The blast that he gave the San Antonio writers the other night, saying that the franchise might be moved, may turn out to be nothing but a blast. On the other hand, he may be serious, and the Texas league which already has gone outside the state to include Shreveport, may include an Oklahoma town. It is unlikely that Waco would get the franchise.

Certain it is that Hammond has a right to kick. It is true that he had a tail-ender most of the time, but the Indians seemed to us last year to be a very entertaining ball club. It had plenty of good hitters, including Sam Leslie, the swatting first baseman who is now on the roster of the New York Giants and is likely to stay there for quite a spell. The Tribe didn't have any pitching and their fielding, compared to the Spudders', was far below par. Nevertheless, the Indians had fighting spirt and it was not an uncommon thing at all toward the last of the season for them to show the league-leading Spudders how to play ball.

But unfortunately, the majority of fans want their baseball club to be more than entertaining—they want it to win pennants—to be up there in the thick of the fight.

San Antonio fans are just like any others, and for several seasons they have nagged their club owner because he couldn't produce a winner. In their frothing and foaming they forgot than pennant winning teams don't grow on bushes, and that as far as real entertainment is concerned, a losing club can furnish just about as many laughs and cheers as a champion.

Consequently the club fell in the estimation of all. Crowds at their ball games were infrequent. Usually the spectators barely outnumbered the sports writers in the press coop. Hammond went on for years trying to please them, but they wouldn't be pleased. In case he retains his franchise this year he'll make the same effort. If he transfers the franchise, the fans, no doubt, will raise a howl. But they will be to blame.

The army of baseball fans must, soon or late, realize that good players are getting harder and harder to find. The trend of the times largely is the cause. Husky youngsters who used to live and breathe with the ambition to play baseball are today replaced by anemic fellows with glasses who read poetry at 15, doubt the faith of their fathers at 17, quit reading poetry and all other literature at 19 and eventually wind up as powder puff manufacturers, candidates for the Texas house of representatives, or sports writers.

With the country in such fashion going steadily to the dogs, where is baseball to find reinforcements? Homer Hammond and a hundred or so other club presidents would like to know.

At present the best the minor league club can hope for is to find an exceptional bunch of youngsters, or, failing that, to get a load of cast-offs or players who need seasoning from the major league club with which it is affiliated. It so happened that last year the Spudders ran on to an exceptional bunch of youngsters, and in the three years before that we were fortunate in finding other youngsters and in receiving help from the Browns. The Indians have not been so fortunate. They did not find young talent, and the Giants did not have players to spare. What could Hammond do about it? Nothing. He had to take what he could get. The supply was, and is, less than the demand, so far as good players are concerned.

Wichita Falls is in no danger of losing its baseball franchise, but we might well learn a lesson from the situation at San Antonio. We must learn to appreciate the efforts of our baseball players, whether the team wins or loses.

The old Rambler admits that he's right in there amongst the other fans when it comes to absolutely revering a ball team that wins. Last year's team just about spoiled me, and so I have a lesson to learn, just like you other fans. And we might as well face the truth—that our present team is not as powerful by far as the 1930 team—and get ready to see our Spudders lose to teams that last year would have seemed pitifully weak.

But we must never go too far in our criticism, for the simple reason that we have no right to. The Spudders for four long years have been top-notchers, furnishing us in some instances with baseball of a major league character. They have advertised this section of Texas as no other medium has. Were we to desert them if they have an off year, it would be a most brazen and unappreciative act.

The Sporting News Record book for 1931 prints the following:

"The Wichita Falls club of last year, under Carl Williams' management, and the Fort Worth team of 1922, directed by Jakie Atz, played through their seasons without a change in the batting order. Any substitution made found the substitute batting at the place in the order of the man he superseded in the field."

The reference to the Wichita Falls club is incorrect, much as we hate to contradict the compliment the record book gives the 1930 team. For there was one change in the batting order made by Carl Williams last year. Williams started the season off with Walter Euller batting in seventh place, with Crouch following him, and the pitcher following Crouch. That lineup stood up the first month of the season. But on May 1 Williams made a change. Allday substituted for Euller on that date, when the Spudders played Houston. Williams put Crouch in seventh place and Allday in eighth. On May 2 Euller was back in the game, and Williams put him in eighth place in the batting order and he remained there the rest of the season.

The change was made after it became clear that old Jasper Crouch was a better hitter than Euller.

Last Year's Opening Day Slogan Retained

By FRED THOMPSON

The arrival of First Baseman Buck Stanton from the camp of the Browns, the pitching of Dutchy Blatz, a left-hander hitherto unknown in these quarters, the lusty slugging of the squad in a practice game and a determination of civic organizations here to "pack the park and swell the chest," next Wednesday made Thursday a busy and interesting day in the Spudder baseball realm.

While the squad was pepping it up in an intra-camp game, John Boswell and his athletic committee of the chamber of commerce were chewing the ends of countless pencils trying, as they have been trying for the past week, to think up the first lines of an opening day limerick, the last lines of which were to be supplied by fans. But the gentlemen found they had overrated their poetic gifts, and at last they decided that anyhow, a better slogan than the one used last year couldn't be found. So it was decided that "Pack the park and swell the chest" will again be the war cry of Spudder fans in the annual battle to win the Texas league cash prize of $250 for the class B city having the largest attendance at the opening game of the season. Wichita Falls won the prize last year, and, according to the league stipulation, it was given to the community chest.

The slogan adopted, Mr. Boswell said his committee would at once begin plastering it over the country and shouting it from roof-tops in an effort to bring the legions of fans in this territory to the opening game next Wednesday.

Buck Ready to Go

The most cheering news at Athletic park was that Buck Stanton, regular first sacker for the Spuds, back in 1928, was on hand. He arrived on the 2 o'clock train Friday afternoon and immediately repaired to the club house, where he was plied with questions as to how our former Spuds are faring with the Browns, and who else the Browns intend shipping here.

Stanton could answer the questions pertaining to the former Spuds, but the only news he had of further reinforcements was that "they told me to come on down here, and didn't say anything about sending anybody else right now."

Stanton brought cheering reports of the Brown's pony infield. Some of the newspaper reports stating that Burns, Levey and Storti were playing negligently and were frequently the cause of angry outbursts from Manager Killefer, were denied by Stanton. Buck said that all, of course, made bad plays frequently, but that all three were making good, that Levey was a very capable lead off man and was still up to his old tricks of beating out bunts, that Storti was socking the ball high and hard, and that Burns was doing likewise. Crouch and Bettencourt, he said, had not played in as many games as the others. As for himself, Buck said he had alternated with Burns at first in a number of exhibition games, but that on the trip north Burns had played most of the games.

Stanton is in excellent physical shape, having trained with the Browns since they opened their spring camp, and will be in uniform down at the lot Saturday. He will replace E. K. Martin, great southpaw infield prospect who has been playing sterling baseball thus far for the Spudders, and who is certain to play ball with some club of a lower classification this year on option.

Dutchy Has Steam

As for the pitching of Lefty Blatz, this fellow struck spectators as being a left-handed Freddie Vincent. He has plenty of steam and a good curve and with more control should win plenty of ball games this season. Friday marked his first appearance on the mound in any kind of game. He has been in camp about two weeks, but has done nothing out of the conditioning line. He took the mound for the regulars in Friday's game and in six innings allowed only six hits, Chappie Geygan being the only batter to hit him with ease. Geygan got two doubles and the first times he faced Blatz, and the next time he came up Dutchy walked him. The yans scored only one run off the Dutchman, and it was unearned.

Bob Cooney, who pitched the last three innings for the regulars, allowed only two hits in that period and turned in an equally fine job of mound work. With the regulars having such chunkers, the yans did little and were forced to take it on the chin in the nine-inning contest, 6 to 2.

One of the hits off Cooney was Bradbury's home run over the scoreboard in the eighth inning. It was the second home run to be knocked out of the park by a Spudder in any kind of game—training camp or exhibition—this season; and Bradbury got the first one, too, in the game with St. Paul here recently.

The regulars found Milt Steengrafe easy to hit Friday and in the six frames he toiled they collected eight hits and four runs. Howard Taylor finished for the yans, allowing four hits and the other two tallies.

Joe Hassler was back in the lineup Friday for the first time since he went out for a tonsil operation. Hassler played four or five innings at short for the regulars. He has been in uniform the last two days, taking it easy in order to work back into condition.

Head Notre Dame Coach Is Named

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 10. (UP)—Heartly (Hunk) Anderson, first assistant coach to the late Knute Rockne during the 1930 football season, today was named coach of the Notre Dame team for the 1931 season by Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university.

Anderson's selection does not mean that he will be permanent coach, but that he merely will bridge the gap until Rockne's successor is selected after the 1931 season.

Father O'Donnell said today that an athletic director to replace Rockne, who held that position as well as head football coach, would be named within two days.

King and Hanks In Tennis Finals

Rufus King and H. R. Hanks will play in the finals of the elimination tennis tournament of the Wichita Falls High school Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the country club. There were 27 players entered this tourney and now this number has dwindled down to these two aspirants.

As a rule the matches have been uninteresting but there has been a few matches that have caused quite a bit of excitement, such as that between Harry Ayers and Isadore Wolfson in the second round.

The first round was tainted by defaults and forfeitures, there being only five games played, but the competition begin to get hot in the second round. In the quarter finals only the choice players remained, and from the eight in the quarter finals the following four entered the semifinals: King, Donnell, Biedenharn and Hanks. Hanks defeated Biedenharn and King defeated Donnell to enter the finals. The winner of this match will be the Coyote representative in the district meet.

Coyotes Defeat Petrolia Team

By BILLY JENKINS

Displaying a superiority in the track events, the Coyotes defeated the Petrolia tracksters in a dual meet held on the high school field Friday afternoon by the score of 58 to 46. The Coyotes ruled in the track events but the Petrolia boys captured most of the field events.

The Coyotes got off to a good lead and the Petrolia boys fell a few points short in a belated rally. As in previous meets the times and distances were not exceedingly impressive, 10 feet, six inches taking the pole vault and five feet, two inches taking the high jump.

Williamson was high point man with 15 points earned by taking first place in the 100-yard dash, the 220 low hurdles, and the 440-yard dash. Next to Williamson were Parrish, Jeffries, and Rochester with eight points each. Jeffries and Rochester are from Petrolia.

Coach Hall seems to have made a find in Walter Smith, who forced Williamson to put out in the 440 and he also was the large factor in the winning of the relay race. Although the showing in this match was none too good many of Coach Hall's men are showing up, such as Perkins who captured the 880-yard run in the absence of J. R. Holton, who won that race in the meet with Seymour.

This victory along with the one over the Seymour Panthers greatly brightened the Coyote hopes for the district meet.

The summary:

120 High Hurdles—Harbes, Wichita Falls, first; Raney, Wichita Falls, second; time 18.9 seconds.

100-yard Dash—Williamson, Wichita, first; Rochester, Petrolia, second; time 10.4 seconds.

FIVE TEAMS TO MEET HERE TODAY

Electra, Seymour, Iowa Park, Archer City and Fairview will compete in a track meet on the Wichita Falls High school field Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. This will be the last competition before the district meet April 18.

Coach Presson of Electra announced that he would bring 25 men, and the Seymour coach said that he would bring about the same number. The Tigers rule as the favorite in this invitation meet. Iowa Park will bring about 10 men including the fleet Cobb that ran the 220-yard dash in 21 seconds in the county meet. Fairview will only bring three men but this includes Faulks, the boy that captured the high hurdles in the county meet along with quite a few other points. The power of Archer City could not be determined but they seem to rule in Archer county.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 10. (AP)—A continuation of the selling which developed in cotton here yesterday afternoon, sent prices for all positions into new low ground for the movement during today's early trading.

July contracts sold off to 10.22, making a net decline of 24 points and a decline of 168 points from the high price touched on the rally of late last February. This price seemed to attract increased buying and covering, however, and there were rallies later, with July selling up to 10.43 and closing at that figure. The general market closed steady at net declines of 1 to 5 points on all months except next March which was a point above yesterday's closing quotation.

Private reports pointing to a decrease in the Texas acreage published before the opening, apparently had no effect on prices.

Futures closed steady, 5 points lower to 1 higher; spot quiet; middling 10.20.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 10. (AP)—With fair activity the cotton market today developed a downward course of prices during the morning session but recovered fully later.

Cables were decidedly worse than due and this was responsible for a weak opening with prices 9 to 11 points down. The market continued to ease off after the start on a renewal of May liquidation as well as on selling based on the generally favorable weather in the belt and later on bearish week-end statistics, particularly the disappointing mill takings. All months declined 22 points from the previous close. In the early afternoon there was some improvement on shorts covering and in sympathy with a better stock market and in late trading the market became active and prices recovered all the early decline and a little more, gaining 22 to 23 points from the lows, and closed a point or two under the best the general market showing 3 points net up for the day to a point down.

A Texas estimate made the reduction in the acreage in that state 11.8 per cent. Another private authority estimated the reduction in acreage in the belt as a whole at 9.8 per cent. One authority estimated March consumption by domestic mills at 494,000 bales.

Port receipts 5,816; for week 40,664; for season 8,497,790; last season 8,130,244. Exports 12,746; for week 92,580; for season 5,644,830; last season 5,879,078. Port stocks 3,713,344; last year 1,820,226. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 84,322; last year 109,456; spot sales at southern markets 5,175; last year 3,251.

Swiftly Changing Moods Give Stocks Varied Aspect at Session's Close

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 10. (US)—It was a market of varied and swiftly changing moods on the stock exchange today.

Early continued weakness in railway shares which carried some of them to new lows, was accompanied by relative resistance among industrials and utilities.

A brisk rally was in progress in the afternoon when the bears uncovered weak spots and succeeded in closing the general list within a minor fraction of its previous closing average.

However, Rails and Utilities were able to show a gain, extremely modest to be sure, while industrials were lower by a small fraction. Considering the widespread bearishness, the market accomplished a satisfactory showing for the day.

There was no let-up in the widespread forecasting of exceptionally poor earnings, many of which are finding confirmation in official statements. But the very universality of the bearish prognostications seems to have created a boomerang, for it has maintained the technical, internal position of the market in strong shape.

Trading was on a dull scale throughout the session, only 1,600,000 shares changing ownership.

Westinghouse Electric sold down to a new low in the afternoon dealings when a renewal of bear selling forced the issue three points under the previous close. The stock was in free supply following forecast of a $2,000,000 deficit before dividends for the first quarter.

It is fully recognized, as so repeatedly asserted here, that Westinghouse has been favored by an exceptional technical position created by an enormous short interest, except for which the stock probably would have suffered a sharp and extensive decline. While few traders are willing to forecast how low the stock may decline, it is evident that investment interest, primarily concerned with the longer-pull prospects is beginning to increase.

This in part is stimulated by knowledge that net current assets of Westinghouse at the end of 1930 equalled $38 a share; its holdings of radio stock equal over $20 a share on Westinghouse; leaving about $20 as the market valuation for Westinghouse's plant, good will and earning power.

Before the afternoon improvement developed, many leading rails, including Union Pacific and Atchison, had reached new low prices. Judging from the increased volume of trading, however, short covering increased on the price decline, this, too, was evidenced in the rally which occurred.

Probably the outstanding feature of the day was the persistent strength in Mexican seaboard. Despite the backwardness of the oils as a group, with shares of the most powerful enterprises close to their lows for years, Mexican seaboard today reached a new high for 1931. Obviously, its situation is far different from that generally prevailing in the industry. Steel common proved a leader during the late rally but lost most of its gain. Short covering was evident in Radio.

Expansion of 39,000 tons in the Steel corporation's unfilled business as of March 31 was a cheerful sign, particularly so since it was reported that neither the radio city nor the Pennsylvania railroad business has been included in the figures. Offsetting this news was a reduction in the Allis-Chalmers dividend to $2 from the former $3 basis, and omission of the General Cable preferred dividend. Homestake mining, one of the best and most stable of the gold enterprises, declared an extra dividend of $1.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, April 10. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Opening hog trade around the eleven market circuit was fairly active at steady to 10c higher prices but the close at some centers was slow at weak to 15c lower rates. Total offerings were around 58,300 as compared with 59,080 a week ago.

Old crop fat lambs were on a firm to 25c higher basis with choice fed wooled offerings in Chicago reaching $10.00 on a new high mark for the season. Limited offerings of spring lambs held around steady with Thursday sharp decline. Mature killing classes of sheep ruled steady to weak with mixed yearlings and 2-year-old shorn Texas wethers in St. Joseph at $5.85. The supply approximating 43,500 was 7,000 less than last Friday.

Aggregate receipts of cattle were estimated at 10,625 against 8,553 a week ago. Killing classes found a rather slow outlet at mostly steady values, quality for the most part being rather plain. Eastern dressed beef markets reported demand slow with some concessions being made in order to effect a clearance. Native grain fed cattle predominated in the run this week but there was a sprinkling of South Texas grass cattle offered at several of the midwestern markets. The movement of South Texas grass cattle is expected to expand materially by the middle of April.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 10. (AP)—Wheat, corn and oats were all strong Friday on the Fort Worth cash grain market, with slight advances.

Quotations, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Wheat—No. 1 hard $1@82c; No. 1 hard 14 per cent protein 83½@85½c; 15 per cent 88½@84½c.

Corn—No. 3 mixed 72@73c; No. 2 white or yellow 74½@75c.

Oats—No. 2 red 42@42½c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one 41½@42c.

Barley—No. 2 56@57c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.30@1.32; No. 2 kaffir $1.23@1.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 10. (AP)—An unexpected collapse of the corn market pulled down the entire grain list today, but last minute rallies jerked prices up. Extensive stop loss selling of corn caught the pit temporarily bare of buyers, and all deliveries outdid the season's previous bottom price record. Then speculative sellers executed a sudden reversal of their market position, and a general rebound ensued.

Corn closed nervous ⅛@⅜ cents higher, wheat unchanged to ⅜c up, oats a shade to ⅜c advanced, and provisions unchanged to seven cents off.

Many corn traders appeared to have bearish spectacles, and showed themselves inclined to accept opinions that corn prices were too high as compared with wheat and other grains. Another unsettling factor was evidence that field work in preparation for the new corn crop was progressing rapidly, and that the market had been honeycombed with stop loss orders.

Tending further to strengthen wheat were statements from trade authorities that the government crop report was based on a movable or flexible par for crop condition figures, and that if the official forecast of production had been calculated by the same standards as a year ago the estimate would be only 63,000,000 bushels above last year, instead of 94,000,000 higher.

Oats, better than corn, reflected a good shipping demand.

Provisions were steady to a little lower, weakness of grains having some effect.

"Oh, that's all right; I'm sitting on a newspaper," she replied.—Answers.

Quanah Wins Meeting For Next Year

Mrs. R. L. Kincaid of Crowell was installed as president of the 13th district Parent-Teacher association at the closing session of the fourth annual convention of the district at the Highland Heights Christian church here Friday afternoon.

Other officers which were appointed to fill un-expired terms were installed as follows: Mrs. R. R. Gilliland, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. O. McDaniel, Seymour, third vice president; Mrs. W. B. Howell, Vernon, recording secretary; Mrs. J. B. Steinkoenig, summer roundup work and Mrs. T. B. Klepper, Crowell, publicity.

State Officer Presides

The installation service was presided over by Mrs. A. F. Wood, first vice president of the state association, who installed the officers in a most impressive manner.

Friday afternoon's session was opened with a devotional by Rev. C. M. Simpson, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church after which reports from the resolutions committee were heard. Resolutions of appreciation were passed as follows: "Whereas the 13th district of Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers has assembled in Wichita Falls for its fourth annual conference, and whereas the cordial greetings received and the hospitality extended have been typical of the West, we desire to express our deep appreciation to all newspapers, local and within the district and to their reports for the splendid reports of the conference program day by day.

"To the chamber of commerce for the dinner given to the district board, for the luncheon tendered all delegates, and for prizes awarded in the record book contest; to the Retail Merchants association for the beautiful corsages, to the Bebb Floral company for flowers and plants, to Railey Printing company for pads and pencils, to the Empire Paper company for cup containers, to the Crystal Water company for bottled water and containers, to the Highland Heights Christian church for the use of their beautiful building, to Miss Mary McIlheran for her Camp Fire girls for page service and appropriate mottoes, to Bowie school for printing luncheon tickets, to the Wichita Mill and Elevator company for programs, and to Mrs. T. H. Lawson, Mrs. C. W. Clark and Mrs. Virgil Seay for birthday cakes.

"To the general chairman, Mrs. T. H. Lawson and chairman of all committees having a part in the success of said convention we wish to express sincer thanks and for the spirit of cooperation which has existed throughout the session.

"Respectfully submitted, resolutions and courtesy committee, Mrs. R. L. Underwood, chairman."

Quanah Wins Meet

Mrs. Fred Major, president of the Quanah P.-T. A. city council in a clever manner extended an invitation to the group to meet in that city in 1932, which was accepted by members of the executive board. Following the readings of the minutes by Mrs. John M. Fox, the meeting was dismissed with the song "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The feature of the morning session was the awarding of the $5 prize by Mrs. S. J. Marcell for the best story of the activities of any organization which was given to Linville, a rural group. Honorable mention was given to City View, Archer City, Petrolia, Nocona, Austin, Burkburnett, Henrietta, Medicine Mound, Huey, Quanah High school, Iowa Park and Five In One. The committee which made the awards was composed of Mesdames R. L. Kincaid, C. E. Bailey and Carey E. Marcus.

An inspiring portion of the program was the tree dedicating ceremony which was presided over by Mrs. Homer McGregor. Mrs. Wood gave the meaning of the national emblem after which Miss Bertha Mae Kruger gave an original poem telling of the dedication of the tree to the memory of two outstanding personalities in P.-T. A. work, Mrs. Fred Barron and Dr. J. W. Cantwell. The symbol was accepted by Dean S. H. Rider, principal of the high school and junior college.

Unusual poster displays were exhibited throughout the convention by the first ward of Electra, Haskell, Henrietta, Five In One, Olney, Reagan, Benjamin Franklin; Carrigan, Alamo, Crockett, Travis, Huey, Austin, Barwise, Bowie, San Jacinto and Sam Houston.

WITH OR WITHOUT

It was during a grammar lesson. Said the teacher: "Always remember, boys, that the word 'with' is a very bad word to end a sentence with. I—ah—that is to say—ah—unless you have nothing else to end it with!"—Tit-Bits.

U. S. COURT TO CLOSE TODAY

Atwell to Hear Petitions Of Naturalization

At least six applicants for naturalization will appear before Judge William H. Atwell in the 89th district courtroom at 9 a. m. Saturday for examination, it was stated Friday by officials of the federal district court for the northern district of Texas.

Seven applications for naturalization papers have been received by Miss Jessie Cowan, deputy United States district clerk, but one of the applicants had not yet certified Friday evening her intention of appearing Saturday morning.

Those whose hearings on applications are set for hearing Saturday are Jeannette Markowitz, Leo Shusterman, Mrs. Elizabeth Kennelly, Mrs. Mary E. K. Hund, Mrs. Marie Ordonez Seeley, Stevens Zorich and Stelaneos George Antonlades. Poland, Russia, Ireland, Columbia, Jugo-Slavia and Greece were represented in the designations of nationality.

Saturday morning's naturalization hearings will close the March term of the federal district court which opened on March 23.

Barrymore Ticket Sale Opens Today

Following an unusually active sale of tickets by mail, the sale of tickets for Ethel Barrymore's appearance here next Thursday night in "The Love Duel" will be opened Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Renfro Drug store, Eighth and Scott, it was announced Friday by H. C. Cheshire, local booking agent.

Reservations thus far received indicate that the entire territory surrounding Wichita Falls to a distance of 100 miles be generously represented in the crowd which will avail itself Thursday night of an opportunity to see one of the greatest stars ever produced by the American stage. Comparatively few persons in this section of the country have ever had access to a theater in which Ethel Barrymore, or either of her famous brothers, has appeared. Now has Ethel become well known to the public through the screen, as has John and Lionel. She has reserved her talents for the stage which brought her to unexcelled histrionic prominence, and consequently has been seen only in metropolitan centers, for the most part.

Not Miss Barrymore's mastery of dramatic technique in the way of gesture, posture and facial expression; nor the plot-lines of the play, will hold the chief interest of hearers who long have anticipated the privilege of hearing her on the stage. That interest will be centered in "the voice," for the beautiful, resourceful vocal organ with which Ethel Barrymore is equipped has won for her more devotees than any other quality.

The downtown ticket sale at Renfro's will continue until Thursday evening, it was announced.

C-C Officials Tour Route of Good Will Trip

An advance tour of the route to be covered by the chamber of commerce good will trip April 21, was made Friday by Dudley B. Foy, industrial and traffic manager of the chamber of commerce and Wilburn Page, secretary of the Junior chamber of commerce.

Arrangements were made by Mr. Foy and Mr. Page for the trip to be made later. Cities to be visited are Jolly, Henrietta, Bellevue, Bowie, Montague, Ringgold and Nocona, Texas, and Ryan, Terrell and Waurika, Okla. The tour is sponsored by the manufacturers and jobbers division of the chamber of commerce.

Bunnenberg Plans Summer Program Of Park Activities

Outdoor activities planned by the city park department for the summer are rapidly taking form, according to information given The Record News Friday.

Preparations for an active and extensive season of rocquet already are under way, it was said, with the prospect that several strong leagues will be organized soon. A considerable number of horse-shoe pitching enthusiasts met Friday night in the offices of the park department to launch plans for another season in that sport. There were more than 350 players listed in the three leagues which carried through a schedule last year, it was stated.

In response to many requests, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent, plans are being made now for preparing several croquet courts and for perfecting schedules of play. Croquet was not emphasized in the park department program last year, he said, but will be given more attention in the coming season.

Baseball diamonds in all parts of the city for the accommodation of the City and Merchants league are now being put in condition for play. Two new diamonds are planned on North Scott avenue, Mr. Bunnenberg stated.

For a soapy, sudsy bath—use Mel'o

LIKE to have plenty of suds when you're bathing? Then don't bathe in hard water—city water as it comes from the faucet. Soap combines with the hard water, and forms a dirty ring around the edge of the tub. That's scum. And that's certainly not pleasant.

Hard water can be made soft. Just put Mel'o in the water and you have a very remarkable cleaner, with or without soap. Then watch the soap lather! Then watch the suds come! Then watch the scum go! Have you discovered how much more effective Mel'o makes soap? Get three cans today at your grocer's, for the kitchen, the laundry and the bathroom.

566 School Children Benefitted By Tom Burnett's $2,000 Lunch Fund

Program for Needy Has Been in Operation Since Late In November, Review of Work Reveals

A total of 566 children have been benefitted by the Tom Burnett free lunch fund since the donation of $2,000 by Mr. Burnett late in November, it was announced Friday by those in charge of the fund.

The last of the money given by the Iowa Park rancher and philanthropist was used this week, school officials reported, but the fund has been supplemented by the addition of $230 by Parent-Teacher associations, which is now being used for furnishing lunches for needy children. On Friday 279 children were given lunch by the fund, while the largest number fed on any one day was 444 in February. Two or three Wichita Falls citizens have promised school leaders to make substantial donations, by which it is hoped to operate the program until the end of the school year.

When Mr. Burnett turned his check for $2,000 over to Jim Marlow and Sam Kruger to buy lunches for Wichita Falls school children, the money was deposited in the Wichita State bank and has been paid out on order of the principals of the schools. Children deserving of assistance have been designated by the principals on the advice of the teachers, and weekly reports giving the name of the child helped, the amount allowed for lunches, etc., has been filed by the principals. These reports were being compiled Friday and will be sent to Mr. Burnett within a few days to show the benefit his gift has been to the needy children of Wichita Falls.

The fund has been operated without one cent being spent for overhead, it was said, the entire amount going for the purchase of lunches for children. The managements of the various school cafeterias have aided in seeing that meals nourishing and suitable for child health have been provided for the youngsters. Children aided by the fund would have gone without lunch except for Mr. Burnett's donation, it was pointed out. In many cases meals provided at school have been the most substantial the children received during the day. The fund has been in continuous operation since the latter part of November.

COUNTY AGENTS REVIEW WORK

Improved Methods Paying Dividends Here

Increased results are being obtained in the county through farm and home demonstration work, members of the business council were told by G. C. McGown, farm demonstration agent, and Miss Ethel Louise Webb, home demonstration agent, Friday noon at the Kemp hotel. Examples and statistics were given by the two speakers, to show an increased interest of farmers and farm women in demonstration work, resulting in a more successful development of the county agriculturally.

Women Given Aid

Miss Webb explained in detail the work of her department in instructing farm women in the proper methods of dressing poultry and other meats according to U. S. standards. Instructions given by the county home demonstration agent for canning meats, she said, has resulted in the home preserving of 15 heads of young beef since Jan. 1, 1930. Valued at $100 on the hoof, it was explained, the meat was preserved in 1,250 containers and increased to the value of $450. Miss Webb further explained efforts of her agency to bring about greater efficiency in the management of the farm home with the proper preparation of foods and the marketing of surpluses.

An increased value of $15,000 has been placed on land in Wichita county through terracing in 1931, Mr. McGown said. More than 3,000 acres of land, heretofore unimproved, has been terraced in the three months of the year, it was said. Mr. McGown, as county farm demonstration agent, with other agricultural agencies, is sponsoring this year a "Live and Feed at Home" campaign, in an effort to induce farmers of this section to grow sufficient feedstuffs and other products for home consumption in order to eliminate the necessity of buying. Planting of "money" crops on a farm's entire acreage is discouraged.

New Crops Tested

Mr. McGown told of the success he had met encouraging farmers to plant alfalfa and clover. In alfalfa, he said, 700 acres have been planted and the crop is progressing satisfactorily. In mentioning The Record News and Daily Times alfalfa growing contest, he commented on the value of publicity in creating interest among farmers in the growing of approved crops. The speaker explained that attempts were being made to interest growers in raising sweet clover, and announced that nine tests of the crop had been planted.

The luncheon program Friday was in charge of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce, and was directed by J. N. Sherrill, the chairman. Since the organization of the business council a few weeks ago programs have been turned over to various committees of the chamber of commerce. The program of the next meeting, April 24, will be in charge of the manufacturers and jobbers division of the chamber of commerce. J. W. Chatham is chairman of the division.
