Guerrillas Plan Attacks To Dim Peace Hopes

By MICHAEL GROSS
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Sources in Tel Aviv said today the Palestinian guerrillas are planning heavy strikes against Israel from Jordan and Lebanon in an effort to prompt Israeli counter-attacks and undermine prospects for peace.

The sources said there has been an escalation in guerrilla activity along the Jordanian and Lebanese frontiers since Egypt accepted the U.S. cease-fire proposal a week ago. The guerrillas have rejected the plan, condemned Egypt for accepting it, and have vowed to continue fighting.

The Israelis said guerrillas from Lebanon set off explosives Wednesday night under a children's dormitory in an Israeli settlement kin northern Galilee near the Lebanese border. A dozen children were sleeping in the building but there were no casualties, the sources said. It was the first reported guerrilla penetration of a settlement on the Lebanese border in six months.

Military spokesmen also reported that an Arab infiltrator was killed Wednesday night in a clash with Israeli troops near the Damiya bridge over the Jordan River. No Israeli casualties were reported.

Israeli and Egyptian artillery exchanged "extremely intense" fire today along the entire 103-mile length of the Suez Canal, Israel reported. Two Israeli soldiers were reported wounded. A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said the Egyptians opened fire first.

Israeli jets joined the battle, hammering Egyptian guns and fortifications along the entire length of the canal, an Israeli spokesman reported. All aircraft returned safely, he added.

Later, the spokesman reported four Egyptian MIG21s were shot down by cannon and air to air missiles when they attempted to intercept the Israeli warplanes.

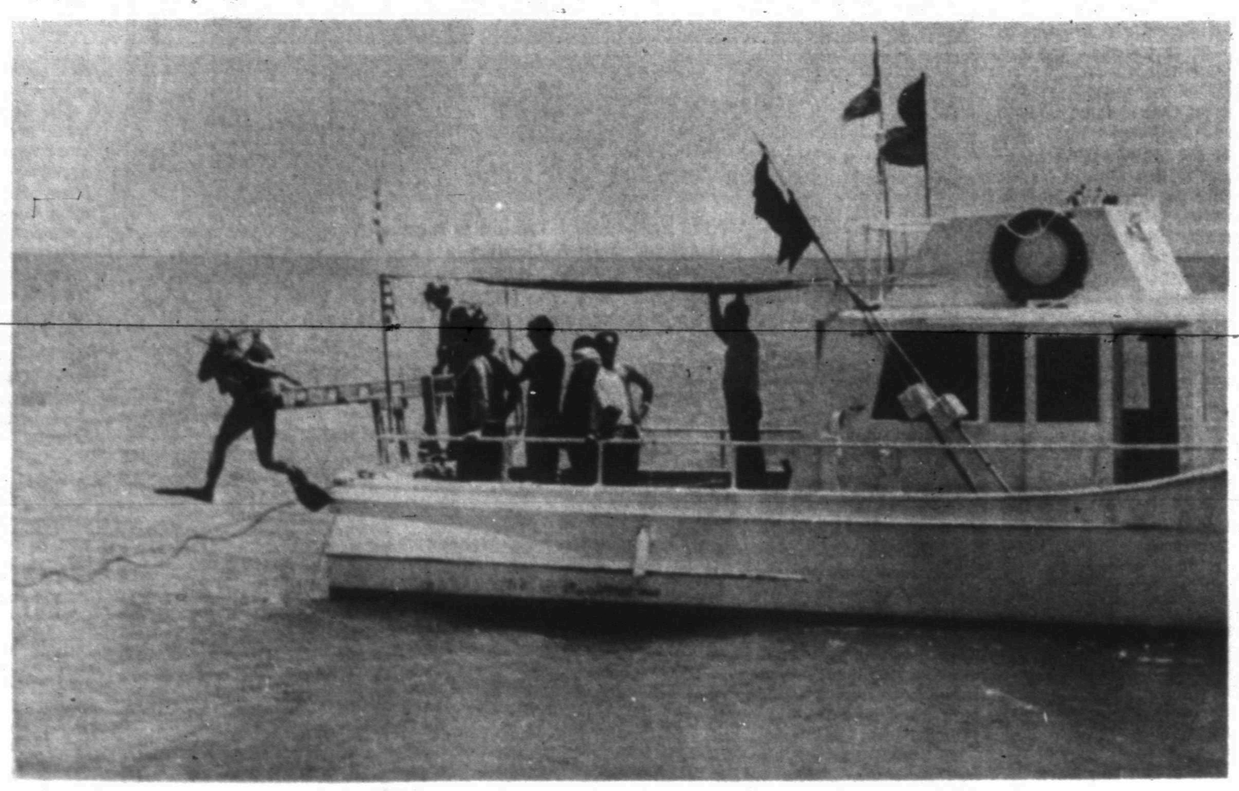

In the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip, guerrillas blasted an electric power pylon wednesday night, blacking out street lights in a refugee camp.

Iraq's pledge that its 10,000 troops in Jordan will support the Palestinian guerrillas in their opposition to the U.S. cease-fire proposal was described by Israeli sources today as "of little practical significance."

Israeli officials refused comment on the announcement from Baghdad that the Iraqi contingent in Jordan had been put under the guerrilla command and that Iraq would thwart the American proposal even if it meant an Arab civil war.

But other sources in Tel Aviv said this promised no change in the situation along the Jordanian border. They said the Iraqi troops were already giving "active support to the terrorists in Jordan" by shelling Israeli territory.

Some quarters speculated that the Iraqi move might further undermine the position of Jordan's King Hussein, who with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser accepted the U.S. proposal for a 90-day cease-fire.

The SDN Column

Although it will be more than a month before any building contracts are awarded by Western Texas College, there is some work going on at the campus site south of town. Some earth is being moved and brush cleared at the site of a proposed small lake along the north side of the campus. This work is being done in preparation for excavation for buildings so that dirt moved from such excavations may be used to construct the dam for the proposed lake.

The little lake, which will cover some 12 acres in surface area, is one of the key esthetic features in plans for development of the campus and it is expected to have some practical value as well. The college trustees called on the Soil Conservation Service to help with planning the lake and the SCS people responded promptly.

Meanwhile, routes for some roads have been staked off and work is well underway installing water mains to serve the campus.

The sale of the junior college bond issue here earlier this month all but made prophets of the college district's financial advisers. They had advised the board and administration that there was a possibility that the bonds could be sold at, or below, 6½ per cent, provided the tax base was shored up by the voters as requested in the special election in the spring.

However, nobody reully dreamed that the bonds would sell as well as they did. In fact, some higher rated bonds have gone for figures no better than the junior college issue in the state this month. And 6.1 per cent still is an attractive figure for any bond issue.

★ ★ ★

The next 13 months may well be the most hectic in the junior college's life time. Administrators must do a lot of estimating and guessing to prepare for a student body of unknown quantity and at the same time attend to the scores of details associated with producing college catalogs, establishing a library, developing a curriculum, etc. And all the time there will be the construction project going on.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, July 30, the 211th day of 1970. There are 154 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1619, the first representative assembly in America convened at Jamestown, Va., with two delegates on hand from each of the 11 Virginia plantations.

On this date:

In 1626, ssome 70,000 lives were lost in an earthquake near Naples, Italy.

In 1718, the founder of Pennsylvania, William Penn, died in England.

In 1909, the U. S. government bought its first airplane — a Wright biplane costing $31,000.

In 1916, during World War I, German saboteurs blew up a munitions plant at Black Tom Island near Jersey City, N. J.

In 1942, during World War II, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a bill creating the women's branch of the Navy, the Waves.

In 1953, there were race riots in Chicago's Trumbill Park housing project after a Negro family moved into the previously white community.

Ten years ago: Vice President Richard M. Nixon said he would name a Midwesterner as secretary of agriculture if elected president.

Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson paid tribute to former President Harry S. Truman by going to Independence, Mo., to sign a health care bill similar to one Truman had proposed.

One year ago: President Richard M. Nixon made a brief visit to South Vietnam, conferring with officials and visiting American servicemen.

Manson Sued For $2 Million

Los Angeles (AP) — An 11-year-old Polish boy, son of one of the victims in the Sharon Tate slayings, is suing hippie cult leader Charles Manson and four of his followers in a $2 million wrongful death action.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court Wednesday in behalf of Bartyk Frykowski, of Lodz, Poland, by attorney Nathaniel Friedman. It says the death of Wojieiech Frykowski, 37, last August deprived the youth of his father's support, love, guidance and inheritance."

Punitive damages of $1 million and general damages of $1 million are asked by the youth, identified in the suit as sole heir of Frykowski, a friend of Miss Tate's husband, film producer Roman Polanski.

The boy lives with his grandmother, the suit said.

Besides Manson, defendants are Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel, Linda Kasabian and Charles "Tex" Watson. Miss Atkins and Miss Krenwinkel currently are codefendants with Manson in the Tate murder trial; Watson is in Texas fighting extradition to California, and Mrs. Kasabian has been granted immunity in the case in return for testimony for the prosecution.

"Pairing" Plan Offered To 38 School Districts

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—Federal negotiators have ended a two-day conference to win voluntary desegregation of 38 Texas school districts with most of the districts apparently looking at court-ordered mixing plans.

Districts that failed to present satisfactory compliance plans — and that means most of the 38— were told they had another week or 10 days to try again before the U. S. Justice Department sues them.

Negotiators frequently offered "pairing" as a solution to local segregation based on neighborhood housing patterns.

"Pairing" of schools from white and black neighborhoods works like this: School A is black. School B is mainly white. To Get a better racial mix, all children in grades 1-3 would attend school A while those in grades 4-6 would go to school B.

A federal spokesman said pairing usually involves adjoining neighborhood school districts.

Tentative agreement was reached Wednesday with the Palestine district on a pairing plan that calls for teaching about two grades in each school building and would require "limited busing."

Delegations from Lufkin, Marshall, Midland and Katy, Jasper County, reached no agreement with the negotiators from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Justice Department.

"We are going to have to go back and talk with the members of our board to see if there is any way to comply with the outline set out today," said Midland school board president Gilbert Thompson.

He said the federal representatives now insist that Mexican-American children, as well as blacks, be integrated with Anglos.

"They suggested pairing in certain instances might be the solution," he said.

George Henderson, president of the Lufkin school board, said busing would be necessary if schools in his city were paired. "They didn't say we had to bus but there isn't any other alternative as we see it," he said.

Henderson said Lufkin lacked both the buses and the funds to buy buses that would be needed if pairing were required. "My guess is we won't have a satisfactory plan prior to a suit being filed," he said.

Henderson was asked if he felt the federal push for desegregation would hurt President Nixon in Angelina (Lufkin) County in 1972.

"I think he has been dealt a severe blow," was the reply. Angelina County went for George Wallace in 1968.

Sam B. Hall Jr., attorney for the Marshall school district, said the federal negotiators "said they would" take Marshall to court.

Hall also said the negotiators mentioned "pairing and closing schools, if necessary" to achieve full integration.

He said he felt the officials were on shakey legal ground in claiming the two days of conferences wiped out current negotiations between individual districts and HEW.

Council To Ask Court's Opinion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — For the first time in history, the U.N. Security Council has decided to ask the International Court of Justice for an advisory opinion.

The council voted Wednesday night to ask the 15 judges in the Hague to outline the "legal consequences" for U.N. members of South Africa's continued control of South-West Africa. The council on Jan. 30 declared South Africa's retention of the former German colony on the northwest frontier illegal.

For years South Africa has rejected all U.N. attempts to get it out of South-West Africa, a mostly desert area the size of Texas and Oklahoma with about 600,000 people, most of them blacks, which South Africa took over under a League of Nations mandate. All such mandates were supposed to have been transferred to the United Nations.

The world court's 15 judges, who draw annual salaries and allowances totaling $461,700, issued their last judgment Feb. 5, in a Spanish case. Through the years, the court has handed down 31 binding judgments in two-party cases. It also has given 13 nonbinding advisory opinions, 11 requested by the U.N. General Assembly and two by U.N. specialized agencies.

U.S. Ambassador William B. Buffum, noting that it was the first time the Security Council had asked the court for an opinion, said the United States was "pleased at this historic development." He said it was consistent with a statement by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers in April advocating greater use of the U.N. judicial arm.

Earlier, Ambassador Nsanze Terence of Burundi said the right kind of advisory opinion-meaning one condemning South Africa — would "rehabilitate the prestige" of the court.

That prestige hit bottom in Black Africa in July 1966 when the court ruled that Ethiopia and Liberia had no right to bring a case they had been pressing for six years to deprive South Africa of its mandate over South-West Africa.

The Africans were so upset that in the General Assembly the following October they pushed through a resolution declaring the mandate terminated.

The Security Council resolution was sponsored by Finland and adopted 12-0, with Britain, the Soviet Union and Poland abstaining.

The council also adopted a resolution calling on all countries to terminate any diplomatic or consular missions in South-West Africa and to refrain from any diplomatic, consular, business or other relations with South Africa that would bolster its authority over South-West Africa.

Guest Rule Appeal Filed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission's controversial rule governing private club guests may be challenged before the U.S. Supreme Court, it was reported today.

The San Antonio Express said a lawyer filed notice of appeal to the high court shortly after the Texas Supreme Court refused Wednesday to grant a rehearing on its July 8 decision upholding the guest rule. The newspaper gave these details:

Lawyer Eugene Palmer filed the notice in Austin. Palmer said the principal basis of the appeal is a contention that the rule is unconstitutional.

The Austin lawyer said the appeal is in behalf of the Attic, a private Dallas club, but he noted it was filed as a class action "for all private clubs in the state."

The Attic and another Dallas club, the Black Garter, sought the rehearing, claiming the rule would shut down 75 per cent of the private clubs in Texas.

Palmer said the Black Garter was not speficically a part of the appeal to the nation's high court, although it would be included as a part of the class action.

Also joining in the case is the Associated Clubs of Texas, Inc., an organization of numerous Texas private clubs.

The beverage commission's rule states any private club guest must be personally introduced or accompanied by a member before he can be served.

It also requires each club to have at least 25 members, a permanent membership committee and "regular food service adequate for its members and guests."

40 Killed In Tehran Quake

TEHRAN (AP) — At least 40 villagers were killed and more than 70 injured today when a series of strong earthquakes shook an area of about 20,000 square miles near the Soviet border, first reports from the region said.

There was heavy damage to bridges and telephone lines, and the final toll will not be known for some time. But the Red Lion and Sun, Iran's equivalent of the Red Cross, said the region is thinly populated and a report that several thousand were killed was "inaccurate and unreliable."

An official of the Red Lion and Sun said many of the villagers live in round, dome-shaped huts with straw roofs, a type of construction that would reduce the casualties.

The Tehran Geophysics Institute said the quake registered 6 on a scale of 10, a force which one source said had proved devastating in past quakes. But the source said the quakes hit at a time—5:03 a.m.—when most villagers were probably already at work in their fields, and this may have reduced the number of casualties.

The Geophysics Institute said the center of the quakes was in the tiny villages of Meraveh-Tappah and Aghman, and that both quakes had almost the same force.

Red China To Get 80 Trucks

WASHINGTON (AP) — In another gesture toward improving relations, the government has okayed a proposed sale of motor vehicle equipment to Red China.

At the same time, a State Department spokesman portrayed President Nixon as looking for more diplomatic contacts with the Chinese mainland, but not, as yet, seeking formal recognition of one another.

Press Officer John King announced approval of a sale to Red China of 80 Italian-made dump trucks with General Motors engines under the Nixon administration's relaxation of trade restrictions.

Thalidomide Settlements Approved

LONDON (AP) — A British high court approved today damages of $1.16 million for 28 children described as deformed at birth by the drug thalidomide.

The sum, to be paid by Distillers Co. Ltd., which distributed the drug in Britain under license from Germany, represents 40 per cent of the sum attorneys for the children and attorneys for the company agreed would be full liability.

The high court now has approved settlements in 48 cases for total damages of $2.27 million. Eleven more original claims are scheduled to be disposed of this fall and 250 other claims are pending.

Desmond Ackner, the children's attorney, said negotiations are under way with Distillers to set up a trust fund for the claims pending, to save time in court.

C. L. Fraley Dies Here

Graveside funeral services for Clyde Leslie Fraley will be held at 4 p.m. Friday, in Briggs, Tex.

Mr. Fraley died at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Cogdell Hospital. He was born Dec. 20, 1902, in Burnett County, and had been a resident of Snyder for the last 8 years.

The Rev. M. M. Clark will officiate at the funeral, with burial to be in Hahomet Cemetery at Briggs, under the direction of Bolger Funeral Home.

Mr. Fraley is survived by his wife, Laura Fraley; one daughter, Mrs. Gayle Burleson of Sherman; seven sons, Norman Fraley of Midland, Neil and Harold Fraley of Odessa, Morris and Mackey Fraley of Big Spring, Dean Fraley of Hobbs, N. M., and David Fraley of Snyder; and 9 grandchildren.

In 1932 he married Laura Shell in Briggs. He was a member of the Baptist church.

Big Drug Haul

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Officers uncovered 359 pounds of marijuana in a truck just five blocks from police headquarters Wednesday and arrested two men from Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

Should engagement gifts be returned?

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I just broke off my engagement with a guy I went with for 4 years. [No tears. It was mutual.] We've been officially engaged [with a diamond] for nearly 2 years. What I need to know is this: What do I have to give back? He has given me quite a number of gifts since I've known him. First off, he gave me a hope chest and a complete set of cookware which is still in the original box. He also gave me some stuff that belonged to his mother, like a set of dishes and a crocheted tablecloth, that her mother had given to her. There are also some things I am using, like a portable TV, and a window-type air conditioner, and a sewing machine. I've heard that possession is nine tenths of the law, and I am wondering if maybe I should just keep everything except the diamond ring, which I already gave back?

ELSIE IN ROCKFORD

DEAR ELSIE: Possession may be nine tenths of the law, but it's the other one tenth that could get you into trouble. ALL gifts that were in his family [the dishes and tablecloth] should be returned. And so should gifts your fiance intended to be used by the two of you after your marriage. [The set of cookware.] Keep the hope chest, however. A girl's gotta have hope!

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old and am like walking around in a fog. I just found out that my "mother" is really my aunt, and my "aunt" is my real mother.

My mother wasn't married at the time, so she gave me to her married sister to raise. Later, my real mother got married and had children. That means my brothers and sisters are really my cousins, and the kids I always thought were my cousins are really my half-sisters and brothers. I feel terrible to think almost everybody in the family has known this all along and I had to find it out from a stranger.

There is nothing I can do about it because I feel toward the aunt who raised me just like any kid would feel toward his own mother. And I don't honestly feel anything extra special for my real mother who I thought was just another aunt.

I guess what I want to say is this: Please tell people if they have a secret like this in their family, it's best to tell the kids before they hear it from strangers.

HURT AND IN A FOG

DEAR HURT: Thank you for some excellent advice.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know how an estate can be settled up without a lawyer getting a big cut. We have known people who have their affairs in order, and have had wills stating what to leave to whom, and still the lawyer gets part of the estate. It just doesn't seem right to me. Please answer right away.

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: I don't know what you mean by a "big cut." A lawyer is entitled to a legal fee for the work he does, but every lawyer does not come in for a "part of the estate" merely because he acts as the legal counsel for it.

DEAR ABBY: This is for CARL, your correspondent who thinks that when women can do a man's job, they deserve to be "upgraded."

I have a suggestion: How about "downgrading" the men to the status of women? For example, let them start by picking up their dirty socks and underwear. And let them make such executive decisions as which brand of detergent to use. Let them do six loads of laundry a week, fold and iron it, and have dinner on the table at six o'clock when the wife comes home from an air-conditioned office.

Instead of "growing ulcers" and suffering heart attacks, we might let them sink into the rut of boredom of housewifery that makes so many women alcoholics, nagging wives, possessive mothers and unhappy middle-aged nobodys.

Also, let's put our scientific know how to work and go all the way with sex change and transplants. If HE will go through childbirth, I'll gladly play "tag with Charley." Who knows? Maybe things will improve.

LEE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Ribbons Held For Bicycle Winners

The Chamber of Commerce office is holding three ribbons for winners in the bicycle division of the July 4th parade in Towle Memorial Park.

Addresses of the three top bicycle owners were lost from the list of winners. These include Wayne Davis, first place; Marcus Harless, second place; and Nancy Patterson, third place. They may claim their ribbons at the Chamber of Commerce office at the city hall, or call in their addresses and their ribbons will be mailed to them.

Army To Dump "GB" Gas

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., said today the Army is planning to move a trainload of nerve gas through the South this summer and then dump it in the Atlantic Ocean.

He said he's been assured the Army has taken every precaution to insure safe disposal of the deadly "GB" gas, now obsolete and stored in liquid form at the Blue Grass Munitions Depot near Lexington, Ky.

The route of the train is to be announced by the Army at a congressional briefing today, he said. But officials in Tennessee said they understood the train was to travel through remote areas of Tennessee to Atlanta, Ga., before being routed on to Wilmington, N.C.

The gas is to be loaded onto a Navy vessel at Wilmington and towed 250 miles out to sea and sunk in 1,500 feet of water.

"I was told only a nuclear explosion could interrupt the train," Gallagher said.

The train will be preceded by another carrying a large crane, chemical experts and extensive fire-fighting equipment, he added.

Gallagher, chairman of a House subcommittee which urged the Army to move gas by rail only if it were the last possible means, said Pentagon officials had explored 12 alternate proposals. A special independent panel of seven scientists tried to find other means for a year, but could not, he said.

Grape Boycott Near End

DELANO, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-six leading growers have signed a union contract, signaling an expected end soon to the five-year-long California table grape strike and boycott.

Cesar Chavez, 42, leader of the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, said at a news conference Wednesday that the signings mean that growers of 75 per cent of the state's table grape crop have union contracts.

He predicted that growers of the other 25 per cent will fall into line within a week.

"This is the beginning of a new day," Chavez told some 400 persons crowded into and around the union's plain headquarters in this Central Valley agriculture region as jubilant supporters shouted "vivas," Spanish for "long live."

He promised, however, that the boycott would continue against nonunion growers in the Fresno and Lodi areas.

The 26 growers covered in the contracts signed Wednesday employ 10,000 workers at the peak of the harvest season, which is just beginning here.

John Guimarra, one of the state's largest table grape growers, jointly signed for all 26 the three-year UFWOC contract, which calls for a $1.80 an hour minimum wage progressing to $2.05 in three years, plus a 20 cent per box piece rate incentive.

The crowd in the union hall cheered and clapped as Chavez and Guimarra signed the contract.

In Sacramento, Gov. Ronald Reagan termed it "tragic" that workers had "no choice" in determining if they wanted to be unionized. He said he hoped "workers would be given the right to determine ... whether they want to join or be represented by this (UFWOC) union."

Old-Timer Firm Believer In Banks Now

ATHENS, Tex. (AP)—Retired Henderson County farmer John B. Earls, about 90, is now a firm believer in banks.

Earls two months ago lost a sack filled with over $7,000 in cash while on a trip to Tennessee.

Two boys riding their motorcycles across a field in McMinnville, Tenn., Tuesday found the water-soaked bag and turned it over to police.

The money as en route to Earl's bank Wednesday. Two $100 reward checks were en route in the other direction to the two youths.

Police Chief Charles Reaves of McMinnville, Tenn., said Earls reported he had hidden the money while on a trip to Tennessee in search of relatives.

"Nobody really took the old man seriously," Reaves said.

"He came here on a bus and told us he'd gotten off outside of town. He said he was afraid someone would take his money so he hid it," Reaves added.

Reaves said Earls was sent back here on a bus.

Deputy Anderson Skinner of Henderson County said Earls reported about six weeks ago that $300 to $400 had been taken from beneath a mattrews in his residence outside of town.

"We never found it," Sinner said. "I think all this has made him a firm believer in banks."

"I also understand he has a cashier's check for the lost $7,000 being sent to his savings account at the bank here," he added.

Johnson Given Death Penalty

DALLAS (AP) — Napoleon Johnson Jr., 25, heard a jury decree the death penalty for him Wednesday night in the holdup slaying of Mattie Smith at a drivein food store.

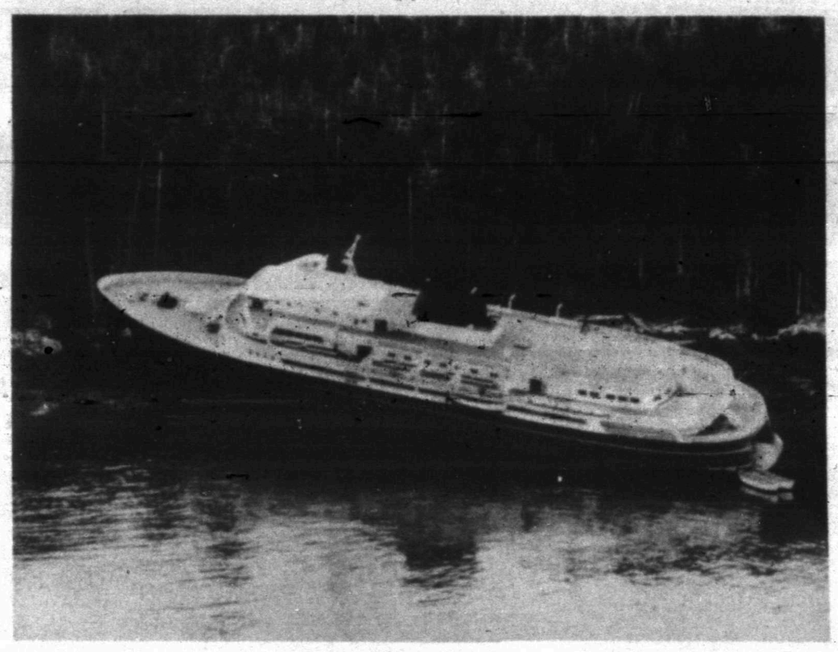

Mrs. Smith was killed Feb. 4 in Grand Prairie.

The district court jury of six men and six women decided on the penalty after deliberating for 90 minutes.

Johnson was pronounced guilty of the killing earlier Wednesday after three days of testimony. Defense lawyers sought to prove he was insane.

He faces charges of killing Lottie Waddle of Irving and Violet Phelps of Tarrant County in other holdups, and McCoy Jamerson, 30, awaits trial in the same three cases.

New York Under Smog Alert

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York City maintained a first-level air pollution alert today but rain in the city and elsewhere along the Eastern Seaboard had thinned the threat of a smothering blanket of smog.

The showers Wednesday gave temporary relief to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. But the stagnant air mass responsible for the pollution was not expected to move until the weekend.

No immediate health hazard was seen in New York or elsewhere although a smog "advisory" remained in effect in the nation's capital and an air pollution warning was out for the state of Georgia.

Mayor John V. Lindsay declared Wednesday that air pollution in New York had reached crisis levels and invoked the first stage of a four-step pollution control program.

Under the measure, city garbage burning was reduced by 20 per cent and city hospitals and housing projects were told to prepare to shut down incinerators if necessary. The same warning went to private landlords.

Ultimately the program could lead to banning private autos from congested parts of the city but for the moment the mayor simply urged motorists to limit nonessential driving.

Lindsay's action was unusual in that it was not preceded by the Weather Bureau's issuing a warning of high air pollution potential.

John Meyer, forecaster in charge of the bureau's Rockefeller Center office, said the conditions did not meet established criteria for such a warning because there has been some ventilation each afternoon during the six days the situation has existed.

Philadelphia city officials reported the pollution index was at 6 Wednesday, down from 7 on Tuesday. A rating of 10 is serious, and the city was considered nowhere near an alert status.

In Washington persons with respiratory weaknesses were advised to limit their activities. Smog readings were expected to peak again this morning.

The Baltimore Health Department said pollution levels there had continued to drop from highs recorded Monday.

The air pollution warning issued Tuesday by the Georgia Health Department for Atlanta and the northern portion of the state was extended Wednesday to include the entire state.

The department has no power to enforce crackdowns against polluters, however, and can only request that persons drive as little as possible and industries stop all unnecessary burning.

State air pollution officials in Virginia said there was no change in the favorable situation there and they expected no major problem because the state has fewer industrial complexes and vehicles.

Witness Tells Of Search For Victims

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Manson was dissatisfied by the "messy" killings of actress Sharon Tate and four others and "to show us how to do it" led members of his hippie-type clan on a random search for more victims the next night, Linda Kasabian says.

In her third day on the stand in the trial of Manson and three women followers, Mrs. Kasabian related Wednesday that the communal "family" chieftain followed an erratic course through the Los Angeles area last Aug. 10, stopping at six different places—including a church—before he found the victims.

The state says the journey ended in the slayings of Leno and Rosemary LaBianca, wealthy market owners.

Mrs. Kasabian said she drove part of the time, with Manson directing.

First, she said, they went from their commune at the Spahn movie ranch to Pasadena. She said she stopped the car in front of a house and Manson got out, peered in the windows and returned to the car.

"Charlie told us that when he walked up to the house and looked in the window he saw pictures of children on the wall and he couldn't go in, he couldn't do it," she said.

At another stop she said Manson declared "the houses are too close together."

A third stop was at a church where Mrs. Kasabian said Manson announced that "he was going in to find the minister or priest or whoever was in there."

"He came back to the car and said the doors were locked," she continued.

She said the group at Manson's directions drove through what she called "a maze" in the Hollywood hills, then headed for the ocean where they approached a hilltop house only to be stopped by a chain fence at the gate.

Suddenly, she said, Manson began directing her back through Los Angeles and "he seemed to know where he was going." She said they wound up at the home of an acquaintance of Mrs. Kasabian and she asked Manson: "Charlie, you're not going to that house, are you?"

"He said no, I'm going next door," Mrs. Kasabian testified.

The home next door, the state says, belonged to the LaBiancas.

Manson, she said, left the car and returned minutes later. "I heard him say there were a man and a woman up at the house and that he had told them not to be afraid, that he wasn't going to hurt them."

The state contends that Manson tied up the victims, then left his followers behind to kill them.

Mrs. Kasabian said those in the car with her and Manson were Patricia "Katie" Krenwinkel, 22, Susan "Sadie" Atkins, 21, Charles "Tex" Watson, 24, Leslie Van Houten, 20, and a "family" member known as Clem Tufts. The state says Tufts remained asleep in the car and he has not been charged in the case. Manson and his three women codefendants are on trial for murder-conspiracy. Watson is fighting extradition from Texas.

Two defense attorneys in the trial spent the night in jail after being cited for contempt of court by the judge, who refused to hear arguments against the citations.

Irving Kanarek, 51, attorney for Manson, and Ronald Hughes, 35, representing Miss Van Houten, were led out of court Wednesday by bailiffs.

Kanarek, who objected vainly to virtually every prosecution question to Mrs. Kasabian, was cited for interrupting a witness. Hughes, handling his first trial, was cited for using an obscenity during a conference at the bench.

Bomb Suspects Out On Bond

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Two men indicted on charges of bombing 36 Longview school buses July 4 were released under $25,000 bond each Wednesday afternoon.

U.S. Dist. Judge William Justice signed the release order for Fred L. Hayes and Kenneth R. McMaster. He had lowered their bonds Monday from $125,000 apiece.

The attorney for the men, Merritt H. Gibson, had argued earlier that remarks made by representatives of the U.S. Justice Department made it difficult "if not impossible" for the pair to secure bail.

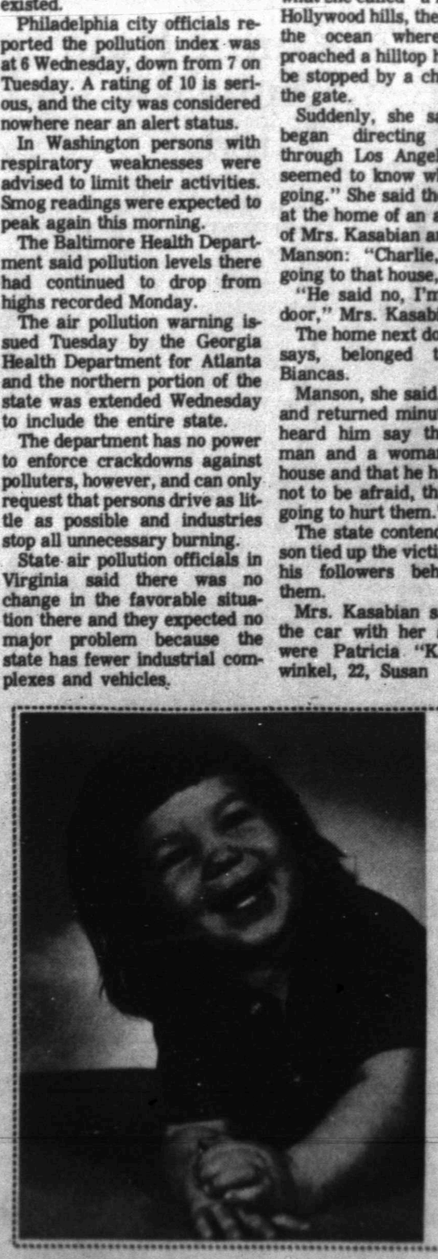

Gibson said he wanted them released without bond "for they are too firmly rooted in the community to run away and they need no bond."

McMaster and Hayes are charged with violating the rights of Negro pupils who were to be bused to school.

They are to stand trial Oct. 12.

When Bret Hanover set the harness racing record of 1:53⅗ he became the third straight son of the great stallion Adios to hold the world pacing mark. Preceding him were Adios Harry and Adios Butler.

House Reform Bill Shelved

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has sidetracked temporarily a congressional reorganization bill, giving rise to fears the measure might die of neglect.

Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., the bill's floor manager, predicted the House may not get back to it until after the Aug. 14-Sept. 9 recess.

"I would like to go ahead with it now," Sisk said. "I would like to stay with it until it is finished and I hope to do that when we return."

The 140-page bill embodying some proposed major changes in ancient congressional procedures was laid aside Wednesday after being sporadicly debated for almost three weeks.

Some big amendments were added during that period, but more than 100 pages remain to be discussed and many amendments are pending.

The announced reason for laying the measure aside was to make it possible for action on other legislation between now and the start of the recess.

There is a possibility, Sisk said, that the bill might be brought up again late next week.

Some colleagues said they fear the bill will get caught in a time squeeze. The House plans to take some more time off before the November elections in which the entire membership for the 1971 session will be elected.

If it passes the House, the bill must be approved by the Senate before it can become law. Any changes made by the Senate would require its return to the House and a possible time-consuming conference committee.

Most of the changes would go into effect when the new Congress convenes next January.

But one of its leading backers, Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., said he does not share the concern that the bill might be caught in an adjournment logjam. Bolling and others contend that when members go home they may discover their constituents will demand Congress streamline its procedures.

Even if the bill fails to become law, many of the changes could be included in the House rules without Senate approval.

Miss Black North Carolina
From Sit-Ins At 14 To Beauty Queen At 22

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — At the age of 14, Sylvia Alexis Smith was hauled by white policemen from a Howard Johnson restaurant in Durham, N.C., and taken to jail with three busloads of blacks in one of the city's first sit-ins.

One recent night in Greensboro, at the age of 22, she was crowned the first Miss Black North Carolina and will represent the state in the third Miss Black America Pageant in New York City.

For the boisterous, outgoing Miss Smith these two events in her life are both a part of what she feels is a growing "black awareness" in the nation,

The first was a strike against outward discrimination. The second was a revolt against a standard of beauty and taste which in the past has made no place for her dark skin and Afro hair.

"I think it's time for blackness to be recognized," she said. "We've worked for this land. Why shouldn't we be able to reap some of the benefits and joys?"

For Miss Smith and her family, the struggle to gain a few of life's luxuries has not been easy.

Her father is a maintenance man at North Carolina Memorial Hospital in nearby Chapel Hill, and her mother is a licensed practical nurse.

Her 21-year-old brother, Stanley Jr., is now in the Army at Ft. Benning, Ga., and her sister, Cynthia, 24, recently returned from a job in New York City to work on a master's degree at North Carolina Central University in Durham.

In Durham, Miss Smith attended all-black Hillside High School and learned early about discrimination. There were pools she could not swim in, restrooms and eating places she could not enter and theaters where she could sit only in the balcony.

The sit-in incident, she feels, was a natural reaction to such treatment.

But her parents were determined that she have the best. "I admire my family. They've stayed together and work together," she said.

When she was asked in the contest what black woman she admired most, Miss Smith answered without hesitation, "My mother. She's done a tremendous job."

With her parents help, she entered Hampton Institute in Hampton, Va., at the age of 18.

She graduated from Hampton in 1969 as a drama and speech major. This summer she started a master's degree in special education at predominantly black North Carolina Central University.

The master's degree is mainly for security, she said, something to fall back on. Her main interest is acting.

At Hampton she had leading roles in "Look Homeward Angel" and "Everybody Loves Opel."

"They branded me a comedian, but I prefer tragicomedy," she said.

While at Hampton she traveled to New York City and other places several times a year to attend drama workshops or see plays.

In the summer of 1966 she did a different kind of traveling. She and 11 other young people, six boys and six girls, went to Kenya for three months under a private program called "Operation Crossroads Africa."

In Thika, Kenya the group spent the summer building a 13-room community center, and Miss Smith had her first taste of laying floors and plastering walls.

Before going back to school this summer to get her master's degree, Miss Smith begin working at a black boutique in Durham. She also did local television commercials.

The pageant was the first actual beauty contest she had ever entered, although she was queen of the Hampton Players in 1962-63 and a sweetheart of Omega Psi Phi fraternity at Hampton.

She feels the black contest offers Negro girls a chance to break into the world of beauty and fashion which the traditional contests do not offer.

"It's quite obvious that a black person hasn't a chance in the Miss North Carolina Pageant," she said. Maybe a runnerup, or Miss Congeniality, she added, but not a Negro Miss North Carolina.

"Black awareness has really just taken off," Miss Smith added. "Maybe it's in the middle phase. People are aware of their beauty. They're ready for a dynamic outcome.

"I just feel that it won't be too long before all of us can live in the United States, walk hand in hand together and do our own things with no hang-ups and no hassles."

Sullins-Barfoot Vows Exchanged

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Barfoot are residing in Abilene, Texas following their marriage Thursday, July 2, at Fairmount Methodist Church, Abilene, Texas.

The bride is the former Cynthia Sullins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sullins, 1725 Jackson, Abilene, Texas. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Barfoot of Hermleigh.

Dr. J. B. Stewart officiated, and Mrs. Rodney Mathers was organist. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Montandon were honor attendants.

The bride is a graduqte of Cooper High School in Abilene and is now a student at Stenograph Court Reporting Institute of Texas. She is a member of Phi Gamma Nu Chapter and Beta Sigma Phi.

A graduate of Hermleigh High School, the bridegroom attended San Angelo State University and San Diego University. He was recently discharged from the U. S. Navy, and is also a student of Stenograph Court Reporting Institute of Abilene.

Air Brushing Cures Summer Hair Woes

By AP NEWSFEATURES

When vacation time calls for a vacation from rollers, clips, nets and setting lotions, the new art of "air-brushing" keeps looks and locks lovely and saves time for sun and fun.

Indoors, it's done with a hand dryer and outside it just takes fresh air. After shampooing, brush wet hair (gently, so as not to stretch it out of shape) to unsnarl and fluff until it's only slightly damp. An oval or professional style brush—the over-all grooming type—is best for this job.

One small section at a time, hair is brushed underneath to halfway down the section and, with brush in place, held up to let air blow freely through the strands. Then brushing continues to the ends, which can be swirled around the fingers, under or out. A slim-style teasing brush, designed for detailed shaping, is best for this.

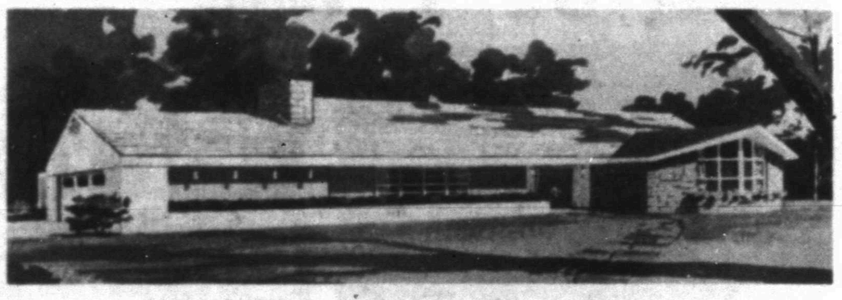

After two or three sections are air-brushed, they're combined and rebrushed the same way together. Then a new section is tackled and, finally, all the hair is groomed sleekly into place, again with oval or professional-type brush.

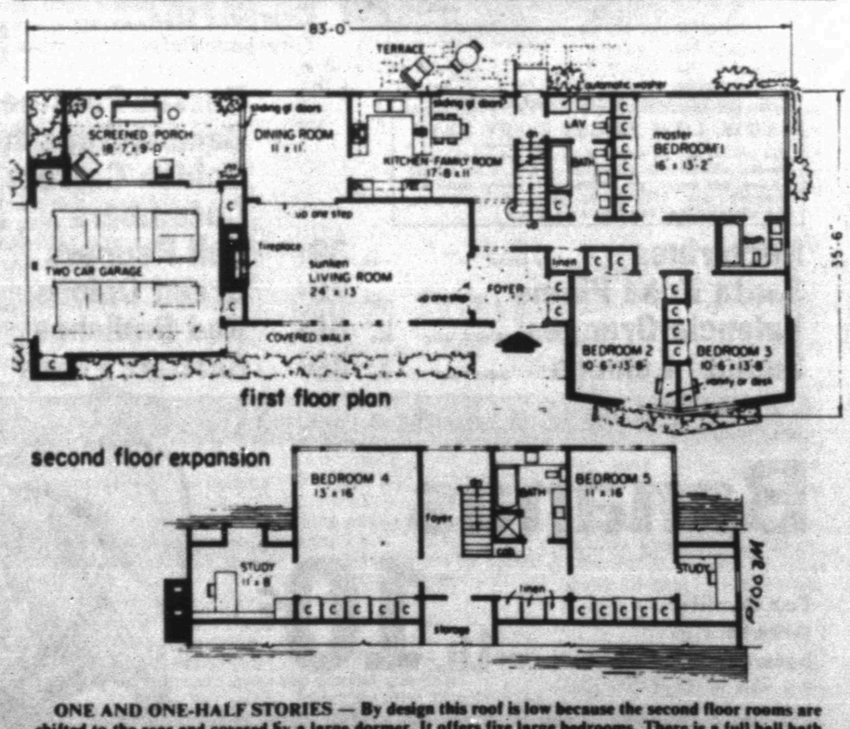

For section-by-section brushing, these are the recommended brushes for each hair type:

Half-round: semicircular with widely flared bristles for medium or long hair, particularly if thick; flare: six to seven rows of tufts, for curly or wavy hair; five-row: narrow brush with tufts set in very little flare, for styling, arranging, touch-up and wig care.

It's important to keep hairbrushes sparkling clean for best results, and worn-out brushes can't do a proper air-brushing job.

Gunther Novel On Adultery

THE INDIAN SIGN. By John Gunther. Harper $5.

The late John Gunther never made much of a stir as a novelist. The public knew him best for his "Inside Europe" and other "Inside" books, and for several biographies. His six novels that preceded this one have been forgotten.

At 152 pages, this is a comparatively short novel. The action takes place during World War II, there are four main characters and the theme is adultery.

The narrator is Nelson A. Nelson, a correspondent who has become one of the early radio network newscasters. He is married to Elspeth, a rather odd mixture of puritan and pixie. Nelson's best friend is a famous correspondent, Hal MacIntyre, who has a problem—alcohol. Mac is married to Karen, and they love each other.

But then Nelson and Karen have an affair, and that is what the story is all about. It seems that Karen loves both men. Her clandestine meetings with Nelson are not difficult to arrange, as Nelson is based in New York and Mac spends most of his time in Europe. However, it is inevitable that the affair must come to an end, and the ending is a rough one.

Mitchell Says World Needs Love

LITTLE ROCK, AKRK. (AP)— Martha Mitchell says she would like to work in the State Department "to try to put a little love in the world, instead of being at each other's throats."

The outspoken wife of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was asked during an interview on television station KATV Tuesday whether she regarded herself as a controversial figure in Washington, and replied:

"They have to have somebody to pick on. I happen to be the one. They get at the President ... and they get at my husband through me, or they think they do. But they don't do it. As a matter of fact, I have fun with the whole thing."

NFL Players Gathering In Show Of Strength

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Like responding to the bugle call for a last-ditch battle, veteran National Football League players grouped in Chicago throughout, Wednesday night in a show of strength against club owners in their bitter pension dispute that now threatens the game's structure.

A spokesman for the NFL Players' Association said that nearly 100 players had arrived by midnight.

The motel for the gathering, conveniently adjacent to O'Hare International Airport, reported that more players were expected and rooms were being set aside.

It was a chain reaction to owners who announced they would unlock their training camps and invited "any players willing to report" by 6 p.m. local time today.

It was a move obviously aimed at finding out if any veterans would defy the NFLPA and report, thus making a wedge that could lead to fulfillment of the preseason schedule of games starting with the Cleveland Browns at the Los Angeles Rams a week from Friday.

However, as time begins to run out solidification against the owners apparently continued. By midnight, players' spokesmen from the Browns, Chicago Bears, New Orleans Saints and Kansas City Chiefs were among those definitely declaring they would not pass through the unlocked training camp doors.

The world champion Chiefs were unique in the situation. They were granted a week to prepare in camp for the All-Star game in Soldier Field Friday night.

The game is a charity event sponsored by the Chicago Tribune which has netted some $11 million since its inception in 1934.

Unless the dispute is settled the Chiefs will blow camp after the game.

All player representatives except Jim Tyrer of the Chiefs were at the overnight meetings while the other players sat in. Tyrer, from the Liberty, Mo., training camp said that "the players are prepared to sacrifice the entire exhibition season if necessary."

Ten teams are involved in games next week and all 26 the following week.

The nub of the squabble is the demand by players for the owners to boost their four-year $18 million pension contribution offer. The NFLPA is asking for $26 million.

Sharpening the players look at their pension demands was the death from cancer in June of the Chicago Bears' Brian Piccolo. His family, although receiving insurance benefits, got nothing from the pension fund.

A Piccolo benefit scrimmage between the Bears and the St. Louis Cardinals scheduled for Saturday in Rensselaer, Ind., has been postponed until further arrangements can be made.

Whether the players arriving in Chicago were coming in on their own expense was not known. Mal Kennedy, business manager f the NFLPA, estimated that some $150,000 already has been spent by the group during contract negotiations. He tabbed this amount as administration costs.

Meanwhile, the NFLPA said it was "shocked" by the owners action Wednesday to open training camps to veterans who wish to report. Rookies only have been in organized practices all along.

"We were shocked," a players spokesman said Wednesday night, "that the owners did not notify the NFLPA of their decision and instead chose to go direct to the players.

"It could mean the splitting of teams and we are meeting to prevent just that," he said. "We are confident that all NFL players will support the association and we will do all within our power to resolve the dispute in accordance with the players' wishes.

"But all players should be aware of the fact," the spokesman continued, "that they cannot be penalized or fined for not reporting to camp, and that their right to strike and their standard players contract with respective clubs are protected by federal law."

Owners originally were scheduled to meet in Chicago today, but George Halas of the Bears, president of the National Conference, said that no such session will be held.

The great pacer Bret Hanover turned in 31 miles in two minutes or less. He beat the record of Dan Patch by one.

Money winning record by a harness race driver in one season was set by Billy Haughton in 1968 with $1,654,172.

A total of 53 harness drivers won 100 or more races during 1969.

Lee (Silver) Akins, retiring this year as equipment manager after 50 years with the University of Colorado, was given a new automobile by members of the "C" Club.

Snyder Jr. Teens District Champs

Kermit downed Snyder 5 to 4 in the first game of a doubleheader in Towle Park last night, but Snyder took the nightcap 7 to 3 to win the District Junior Teenage League championship.

The local team now advances to the state tournament at Sweetwater and is scheduled to see action there at 1 p.m. next Tuesday.

In the first game, both teams were scoreless until the fourth inning. Kermit scored one run after Adams got on with a single, and advanced on Shaver's single, a fielder's choice by Mills and an error by McClanahan. Snyder took the lead in the fourth scoring two runs. Sullivan clubbed a triple and scored on Braziel's single. Dryden got on base with a fielder's choice and scored on a double by Dyess.

Kermit tallied three more runs in the sixth with Adams and Walker stroking singles, and one run in the eighth when Shaver got on with an error, advanced on a secrifice and scored on an error by Sullivan.

Snyder scored one run in the sixth and one in the seventh, with McClanahan cracking a single to tie the game, but couldn't hold Kermit down in the eighth.

Snyder used powerful hitting and a sixth-inning rally to bump off Kermit in the second game 7 to 3.

McClanahan and Holder allowed Kermit four hits in the second game, while Snyder hit Walker seven times. Dyess, Beard, and Sullivan clubbed two hits each. Sullivan went two for four at the plate with a single in the fourth and a double in the sixth; Beard rapped singles in the fourth and sixth, while Dyess singled in the second, and cracked a triple in the sixth in three times at bat, and McClanahan singled in the first.

Adams led the Kermit hitting game clubbing a home run in the first and a double in the third. Haygood stroked a double in the fifth, and Walker singled in the sixth.

Snyder scored once in the second with Braziel getting on with a walk and scoring on Dryden's single. Sullivan got on with a single in the fourth, advancing on an error by Shaver and scoring on Beard's single. Snyder rallied for five runs in the sixth off singles by Holder and Beard, Sullivan's double, and a triple by Dyess.

Poke Rookies Are Winners

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Dick Faucette from Dayton completed two passes to lead the Dallas Cowboys to a 31-3 victory over the San Francisco 49ers in a rookie scrimmage Wednesday.

Faucette led all ground gainers in the contest by completing eight of 16 passes for a total of 113 yards. 49er quarterback Buster O'Brian from Richmond University came in second by completing 12 out of 19 passes for a total of 97 yards.

The scrimmage victory at the Cowboy's training camp at California Lutheran College gives them a measure of revenge after losing to the 49er rookies 27-26 last Saturday at the 49er Santa Barbara, Calif., camp.

Dallas scored on a field goal by Howard Mwikuta from Morris Brown, a 24-yard run by running back Roger Long from Jacksonville State, and a two-yard run by running back Howard Williams of Stanford. Both of Faucette's passes were for 18 yards, one of them to running back to Larry Holton from Iowa State and the other to wide receiver Bill Cornman from the University of Pacific.

San Francisco scored on a 32-yard field goal by Jerry Moritz from Texas Lutheran.

Snyder Duo Wins Brownwood Meet

Glen Rambin and Sammy Baker took first place in the Brownwood Junior Partnership Golf Tournament. Rambin and Baker shot a 6-under-par 66 in the 17-19 year division.

Taking second place was the team of Howard Stewart of Big Spring, and John Adams of Midland with a 5-under-par 67.

Slumps Broken By Pair In AL

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Melton and Dean Chance, the strikeout kings, have finally broken out of their slumps—Melton with a bang and Chance, as could be expected, with a bunt.

Melton, the hard-hitting Chicago outfielder who struck out 10 times in as many official at bats until he flied out Tuesday night, made contact Wednesday night with two hits that keyed the White Sox 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Chance, perhaps the worst hitter in baseball, also had two important hits that started the Cleveland Indians to a 9-8 squeaker over the Minnesota Twins.

Melton didn't conceal his joy over the end of his brief skid, but Chance shrugged off the finish of his seven-year slump.

"Why are you so surprised?" he asked. "it's not a big thing at all. Once before I got two hits in one game and I got those off the best pitcher in baseball—Sam McDowell."

That was when Chance pitched for the Los Angeles Angels; now McDowell is his teammate and he, too, remembered the embarrassing day.

"They were both bunts in 1963," he laughed, "and one of them was a hit only because no one was covering first base."

With both division leaders losing, only Detroit was able to take advantage with a 10-3 victory over Kansas City to pull within six games of the Orioles in the East. California was beaten by the New York Yankees 8-3 and remained seven back of the Twins in the West.

In other games, Boston stopped Oakland 4-1 and Washington nudged Milwaukee 4-2.

In the National League, Cincinnati tripped Pittsburgh 4-3; Atlanta outhammered St. Louis 9-7, and Montreal nipped San Diego 4-3 at night. The Chicago Cubs blasted Houston 9-2 and San Francisco halted the New York Mets 4-2 in the afternoon, while Los Angeles was rained out at Philadelphia.

Melton, who tied a record last Friday by fanning seven times in a doubleheader, and then added three more whiffs in his next game Tuesday night before hitting the ball, was a new man Wednesday night.

After popping out in the first inning and flying out in the fourth, he smashed a double to open the seventh, and scored the tying run on Duane Josephson's single.

Then in the ninth, he singled with one out, moved to third on Josephson's single, off loser Jim Hardin, 2-2, and scored the winning run on Bob Spence's sacrifice fly off reliever Pete Richert.

Chance, who had only one hit in 26 at bats this season—better than usual for him—stunned the Twins with a run-scoring single in the second inning after Harmon Killebrew's 32nd homer in the first for Minnesota. Loser Dave Boswell walked in another run.

Then in the third, Chance beat out a bunt with the bases loaded for a run, and Vada Pinson followed with the seventh grand slam homer of his career.

The Indians built a 9-1 lead when Graig Nettles hit his 16th homer in the fourth and Buddy Bradford doubled in the fifth for what turned out to be the decisive run.

Chance, 6-5, only recently rescued from the bullpen, gave up Tony Oliva's 16th homer in the sixth and then left after walking the leadoff man in the eighth, and it took four pitchers in the ninth to finally stop the Twins with three runs in and the tying run on third base with two out.

Detroit took advantage of Kansas City boo boos for six unearned runs in the fifth inning —two of them on Don Wert's homer—and Mickey Stanley added two solo shots.

With two out and two on in the fifth, outfielder Lou Piniella appeared to lose a fly ball in the lights and two runs scored on the two-base error. Then center fielder Amos Otis seemed to misjudge Bill Freehan's liner and it went for a two-run triple, Then Wert celebrated his 32nd birthday.

Horace Clarke singled four times and scored three runs, Roy White singled three times and drove in one run and scored one and Thurman Munson singled twice and had one RBI and one run scored for the Yankees, who took advantage of three California errors to build a 6-0 lead. The loss was the seventh in eight games for the slumping Angels as the Yankees swept the three-game series.

Ray Culp, 11-9, turned in the best pitching performance of the day, a five-hitter with 12 strikeouts, as he outpitched Oakland's Diego Segui, 6-7, who gave six hits in eight innings, George Thomas doubled in Boston's first two runs and singled in another in a two-run ninth as the Red Sox ended Oakland's seven-game winning streak.

Frank Howard's 29th homer with a man on in the fifth inning put Washington ahead 2-0, and Mike Epstein's leadoff blast in the eighth broke a 2-2 deadlock, ending Lew Krausse's personal six-game winning string. Dick Bosman, 10-8, who yielded only four hits before leaving for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, received credit for the victory.

Season Ticket Notices Out

Notices are going out this week to last year's season ticket purchasers for Snyder High School football games, advising them that they will have an opportunity to retain the same seating facilities for the 1970 season.

The season tickets for games of the Snyder Tigers will be priced at $1.50 each per game, the same as last year. However, there are six home games this year, which makes the single seat for the season $9.

Fans who wish to retain the same tickets they had for last season are being urged to notify the school business office in the administration building as soon as possible. Remaining seats will be made available to others after last year's season ticket purchasers get first call.

Talks Upstage All-Star Game

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — It's hard to upstage the All-Star Football Game but the raging National Football League labor dispute is doing just that to Friday night's meeting between the pro champion Kansas City Chiefs and the top collegiate seniors of '69.

Only last week, it took a special dispensation from the embattled NFL owners and veteran players to permit the Chiefs to get ready for the Soldier Field Charity classic sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

And yesterday, pro football's bitter contract dispute was brought to Chicago with the NFL owners announcing here they were lifting their ban against veterans at training campus and the NFL Players' Association meeting here last night to map future strategy.

Meanwhile, coach Otto Graham's All-Stars and the Chiefs, arriving today from their Liberty, Mo., training base, tapered off training for the game which will be televised nationally via ABC beginning at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

Graham has a 53-player squad, including 21 first-round picks in last January's pro football draft, hopeful of ending a six-year victory famine in the series in which the pro champions hold a 25-8-2 edge.

The Chiefs, who stunned the Minnesota Vikings 23-7 in the Super Bowl game, are listed as 10-point favorites despite the fact they practiced formally only since last Saturday. Graham has been working the All-Stars at Northwestern University since July 10.

However, the collegians have had only one hard scrimmage and, until last weekend, drilled with the uncertainty that the game ever would be played due to the NFL labor strife.

Graham's attack hinges on only two quarterbacks, Dennis Shaw of San Diego State and Mike Phipps of Purdue. The No. 1 pro draft pick, quarterback Terry Bradshaw of Louisiana Tech, was sent back to his Pittsburgh Steeler camp because of a leg injury.

Graham flipped a coin to choose his starting quarterback and it came up for Shaw.

Although ths All-Stars have won only two games in the last 14 years, Graham nearly pulled an upset last year against the Joe Namath-led New York Jets.

Quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati sparked the All-Stars to a 17-point third quarter and the Jets escaped with a 26-24 victory after leading 13-0 at halftime.

Perhaps you've never thought of life insurance as "happiness." But it is in many ways. It helps you get rid of financial worries so you can live a little! Each dollar you put into cash-value life insurance works like four. It works as a protection dollar. As an emergency dollar. As an opportunity dollar. And as a retirement dollar. Four ways. Ready money whenever you need it. That's a lot of happiness!

Consumer To Benefit From Class Action Bill

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Winding its way slowly through the congressional maze these summer weeks is a bill that could drastically and forever change relations between buyers and sellers in the United States.

It was motivated by the evils of the 1960s. It could mean better goods and services in the 1970s. Or, according to some businessmen, it could provoke chaos.

This is a bill that would permit groups of offended customers to sue merchandisers for unfair practices, such as refusal to repair or replace defective units, in so-called class action suits.

The fact that this bill already has been approved by the Senate Commerce Committee, despite fierce opposition from business interests, attests to the tensions that have developed between consumers and producers.

The bill to this point would permit a number of people who have been victimized by deceit or defective products to sue in behalf of all other customers similarly offended. If they won their case, then the damages would go to the entire class of people, not just to those suing.

The administration and business fear such a bill might result in harassment of business over minor matters, and desire instead to limit suits to cases in which the government already has successfully prosecuted.

This, the consumer groups claim, would deprive consumers of their basic right to legal recourse; that it would push a wedge between individuals and their access to the courts.

Although which class action bill is passed, if any, may not be known until fall, the fact that consideration has gone this far suggests that the future marketplace is likely to be far different than in the 1960s.

The past decade was an historic one. The American production machinery poured out a range of consumer goods that topped even the forecasts of visionaries. Science fiction, it was found, was true.

Americans needed little urging to surround themselves with all the contrivances, gadgets, applicances and vehicles of various sorts. They bought with abandon. They had the money; if they didn't, then terms were easy.

And then the fun was over. The machines sometimes didn't work, which was understandable. But then it was found that the guarantees didn't work either. And if the guarantee worked, the serviceman didn't. This cost like the dickens.

The disenchantment, once it set in, grew rapidly. In many instances a mildly distrubed customer became completely disaffected when his complaints were ignored. Frustrated and angry, he was motivated, for the first time in his life, to write to his congressman.

The complaints that once were registered against the fringe of the business world now were addressed to the establishment. It seemed to be not so much a matter of dishonesty as of a malfunctioning of plans and systems, and a misappropriation of effort by manufacturers and sellers.

The big challenge to business in the 1970s is to restore consumer confidence, to reopen communications, to redirect efforts once again into the repairing and servicing of goods.

And bills such as that now being considered in the Senate could have a goading effect if properly written. They can be ameliorative if not conceived in vindictiveness.

Junior Editors Quiz on CLAMS

QUESTION: How do clams and oysters get their food?

* * *

ANSWER: Oysters and clams are simple creatures, belonging to the primitive group of animals called mollusks. Some mollusks move around in search of food, but oysters and clams are stay-at-homes. They have worked out a very successful way of living by remaining more or less in one spot, which is possible because their food is brought directly to them. Their soft bodies are protected by a pair of shells. Their food is the minute plant and animal life contained in sea water. The cross section of a hard-shell clam at upper left will show how this system works. At right are two tubes or syphons; one sucks water in, another pushes it out. When water comes in, it passes through gills, which resemble screening. The gills take out oxygen needed for breathing and screen out food particles as well. The gill surface is covered with tiny hairs which keep up a lashing motion. This creates currents in the water inside the shells, carrying the food to a mouth tube with a simple stomach behind it. Oysters feed in much the same way, but without the long syphons.

Guide To Check Up On Status

By HAL BOYLE.

NEW YORK (AP) — Is your status showing?

Some people pretend that they don't care about their status, but they are only kidding themselves.

A man without status in America today is like a turtle without a shell. He has no more social standing than a pelican at a convention of peacocks.

It isn't always easy to tell whether your own status is increasing or waning. However, you can be pretty sure your prestige rating is pretty high if:

You and the golf pro at your country club call each other by your first names.

The board of directors of your firm has asked you to sit for an oil portrait to be hung in the board room as an inspiration to them.

You now have three secretaries—two to look at and one homely one to do the work.

The U.S. Mint is considering putting your profile on a coin, and the U.S. Post Office has asked permission to issue a stamp celebrating a few of your minor achievements.

Your wife wouldn't dare address you any longer by a term more intimate than "mister."

You now have an English butler whom you refer to as "my man."

It is too much of a bore to go to the tailor to be measured for new suits. The tailor comes to your office.

Yep, you're batting fine in the big league of status if these things are true of you. On the other hand, your prestige has slipped nearly to the zero point if—

You carry a two-foot folding sheaf of credit cards in your wallet, but none of them is dated this year.

Every shirt in your wardrobe —all four of them—is getting frayed at the collar.

When a street panhandler hits you up, he automatically lowers his asking price from a quarter to a nickel.

When you need money, you have to write away for help from one of your sons who is working his way through college.

The boss only nods when he meets you, because he is tired of confusing you with two other guys whom he is thinking of firing.

When you reach out your hand to pat your dog, he bites it because it no longer feeds him the kind of food he can eat and keep his self-respect.

Lone Wolf Co-Op Sets Annual Meet

COLORADO CITY— Over $1,500 in prizes and a full evening of entertainment are in store for members of the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative who attend the organization's annual meeting at 7 p.m. Aug. 4.

The meeting will be held in Lone Wolf Electric Cooperatorium. Doughnuts, cookies, coffee and Cokes will be served, with the Loraine Future Farmers of America in charge of serving the cold drinks.

Featured speaker will be Bill Sarpalius, a former Boys Rancher and former president of the 15,000-member Texas Future Farmers of America. He is employed this summer by Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative at Hereford and is in demand throughout the region as a speaker.

Martin Murphy, president of the board of directors of Lone Wolf Electric, will preside over the business meeting. Two directors will be elected. Raymond Althof and Edsel Bankhead have been nominated to represent the Roscoe area on the board, while A. K. McCarley Jr. and Travis Turner are nominees from the Colorado City area.

Nixon Doing Homework

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon went into seclusion in a luxury hotel today to do his homework for the first presidential news conference beamed mainly toward a prime-time West Coast television audience.

The 8 p.m. PDT news conference tonight will be his second this month. He held a surprise session with reporters in his office in Washington July 20.

The one tonight will be staged in the ballroom of the Century Plaza Hotel. Representatives of the California press will join the regular White House press corps so the attendance is expected to be 300 or more.

Aides said the President planned no opening statement.

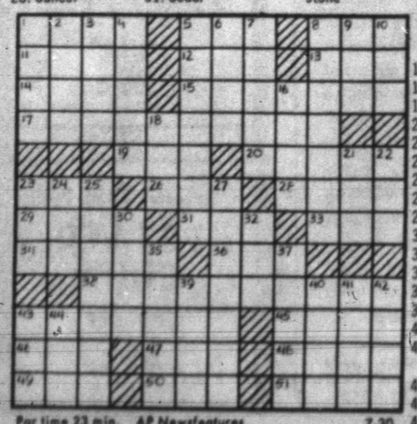

Nixon has been discussing with aides at the Western White House in San Clemente this week the budget for the 1972 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

He has been covering both defense and domestic aspects of the nation's spending program and might want to discuss it in the televised news conference.

WHERE TO STUDY ADVERTISING

A new booklet by two college professors, Donald G. Hileman and B.I. Ross, compiles an up-to-date listing (with pertinent data) of colleges and universities where a program in advertising education is offered.

They note that advertising programs are found in two major academic areas – journalism and business. In journalism, emphasis is on writing and editing; in business or marketing, the focus is on the management end.

For a copy of "Where Shall I Go to College to Study Advertising?, 1970," send 35 cents to Advertising Education, 3429 55th St., Lubbock, Texas 79413.

AT FPC HEARING — Four Texans huddle to discuss progress in the Federal Power Commission's natural gas rate hearing for the Permian Basin in Midland yesterday. Seated, from left, are Jim Langdon, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, the Texas oil and gas regulatory agency; Congressman George Bush of Houston, and Tom Sealy, attorney who represented the Permian Basin Petroleum Association at the hearing. Standing is Texas Attorney General Crawford Martin.

FPC Urged To Free Producers Of Controls

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

MIDLAND (AP) — A parade of witnesses, contending a national energy crisis is imminent, urged the Federal Power Commission Wednesday to free natural gas producers from price controls.

In a swift, forceful manner, state officials, gas producers and politicals warned the FPC that higher gas prices is the only alternative to a severe and lengthy energy shortage.

They appealed to the commission to remove all restrictions and regulations on gas producers and said such an incentive would encourage exploratory drilling for new supplies.

The commission reopened the Permian Basin rate case as part of a nationwide review of gas rates aimed at curbing declining natural gas reserves.

The prevailing wellhead rates, 14.5 and 16.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, were set by the commission in 1965 in an historic decision that later was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

According to testimony, the regulatory action proved to be a drastic failure that drove small producers from the industry and sharply curtailed their economic incentive to find and develop new supplies.

A source close to the commission said a decision should be expected by the end of the year on the Permian Basin case as well as a ruling on the FPC's nationwide rate review.

In a move related to the Midland hearing, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., introduced in the Senate Wednesday a resolution urging the FPC to raise gas prices.

In a statement presented here, Tower said natural gas prices should ultimately be determined through a free market mechanism but urged an immediate 10 cent increase in prices at the wellhead.

Similarly, an attorney for the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA) asked the FPC for a price increase of 10 cents which he said would help overcome shortages of a fuel now used by 140 million Americans.

William I. Powell of Washington told the hearing, presided over by John W. Williams, an FPC staff attorney, that capital requirements and rising costs would require an additional price of 9 to 12 cents.

But, he added: "There is no practical means by which any government agency or any industry group can pre-determine the price needed to assure adequate supplies of natural gas—or any other commodity produced under competitive conditions."

Rep. George Bush, Houston Republican and a U.S. Senate candidate, warned the commission that industries in the Midwest and Northeast already are being curtailed from their gas supply.

"This nation is on the brink of a severe and long-lasting energy crisis," he said. Bush urged the commission to take action on the following points:

Remove the low ceiling prices for natural gas sales previously set for Texas.

—Review the whole question of regulation of gas prices at the wellhead.

—Take all steps possible to expedite the resolution of these price-setting proceedings.

—Do everything possible to reduce uncertainty which now plagues the gas industry.

Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr., speaking for Gov. Preston Smith, said that more "realistic" prices for domestic gas could help avoid high cost alternatives from insecure foreign sources.

Striking closer to home, Dies said: "In the past 16 years, trillions of cubic feet of Texas gas has been removed from this state's reserves at artificially low prices. Those low prices have cost our state treasury millions of dollars in tax revenues. They have cost our school funds millions of dollars in royalties. They have cost our citizens thousands of jobs."

Contending that "adequate" wellhead prices will be only a small consumer burden, Dies said:

"The gas exploration business needs a very large transfusion of risk capital. The large amounts of capital required can be supplied most equitably by raising the ceiling prices on gas already flowing to market."

Texas Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon of Austin and Midland attorney Tom Sealy were among witnesses arguing against the current two-price concept for "new" and "old" gas. "Old gas is produced from wells drilled prior to 1961. "New" gas rates, an incentive for exploratory drilling, bring higher rates.

"If supply is to catch up with demand, the producer must have a drastic one-price increase for all gas of whatever origin," said Sealy, who represented the Permian Basin Petroleum Association.

The FPC hearings, which concluded the Basin portion late Wednesday resume at New Orleans, La. next month.

Mercury Pollution Found In Remote Areas

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators probing the geographical scope of mercury pollution have been told remote region of American are contaminated by the poisonous residues.

"We may now be experiencing the greatest environmental crisis in our history," said Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., chairman of a Senate environmental subcommittee.

The deadly mercury compounds even have been discovered in Vermont's Silver Lake, an isolated body of water located atop a mountain and accessible only by foot or four-wheel drive vehicle, the panel was told Wednesday.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., said the lake located deep in a national forest "has no industry whatever. But it does have mercury contamination."

Vermont is not heavily industrialized, has none of the chemical plants usually identified as prime polluters and uses almost no mercury-based agricultural compounds, Prouty said.

Prouty said 20 states have mercury pollution problems in fish and water resources. The mercury residues remain in the environment for up to 100 years after dumping, he added.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader contended "the forces of industrial irresponsibility and official paralysis continued unabated" despite early warnings from abroad and by environmental experts.

"The discovery of this mercury epidemic may be for environmentalists what thalidomide was to advocates of control over drug company abuses in the early '60s," he added. "That is, mercury may generate genuine concern and artificial remedies for the larger problem of environmental violence of which it is a part."

Dr. Albert J. Fritsch, technical consultant to Nader, called for an immediate ban on mercury compounds used as fungicides. He also proposed licensing mercury uses and imposing stiff penalties on direct emission of mercury into the environment.

The United States has consumed 163 million pounds of mercury during this century, he added, and "we doubt if more than a quarter of this can be presently accounted for."

"If only half of this expended mercury is distributed uniformly and allowed to become soluble," he said, "our entire fish and water supply would be contaminated beyond human consumption."

The Indian Foreign Ministry issued 144,908 passports in 1969, according to official figures. The ministry also turned down about 20,000 applications for passports.

Wholesale Prices Jump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices have posted the biggest jump this month since January, due mostly to a sharp hike in the costs of food, the government reports.

The Labor Department Wednesday the preliminary entry for July represented a boost of one-half of one per cent in the Wholesale Price Index.

That is 3.8 per cent above the figure of a year ago, and the biggest gain for any month this year since the four-fifths of one per cent rise in January.

At the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., George P. Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget noted that food prices ordinarily take a seasonal rise in July and reasserted his belief that anti-inflation programs have begun to work.

Census Proves People Moving To Suburbs

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new statistical mural of a changing nation is emerging as the Census Bureau forges ahead in its count of an estimated 205 million people.

So far, the Bureau said Wednesday, 181,369,297 have been officially counted, but that figure is updated every day as more local offices close and report their totals to Washington.

Forty-two states are complete, at least in preliminary form, and five report fewer people than they did 10 years ago when the last Census was taken.

The major change, however, is in the cities. Almost every report documents the flight of the population from the central cities to the suburbs.

Of the 44 areas reported so far, 18 central cities actually lost population, and most of the other 26 gained less than their surrounding suburbs.

Most major cities and the largest of the states, except Texas, have not yet been completed. In New York City, for example, the bureau had difficulty finding enough enumerators to contact people who had not returned their forms by mail. Newark Mayor Kenneth Gibson went from door to door accompanied by reporters and photographers to dramatize the importance of the Census.

Of the completed states, population declines were shown in Mississippi, North Dakota, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wyoming.

St. Louis is the largest city for which preliminary figures are available, and it showed a decline to 608,078 from 750,026. Other large cities showing declines in the central city but increases in the suburbs are Milwaukee, Wis.; Birmingham, Ala.; and Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.

The Census figures are important to both cities and states because they determine the number of congressmen each state gets as well as the outlines of congressional districts. In addition, they influence the pattern of federal aid in a myriad of programs.

Under the law, the Commerce Department must report the final figures to President Nixon by Dec. 1, although the Census bureau hopes to have an official tal by November this year.

Preliminary Census Figures By States
