REVOLT BROKEN IN SPAIN WHEN LEADER FLEES

Trial Of Mayor Walker Opens Today, With Outcome Significant In Politics

ROOSEVELT TO GIVE DECISION AFTER HEARING

Jimmie Arrives in Albany Amidst Shouting Crowd Of Admirers

FULL OF CONFIDENCE

Demo Nominee's Action On Seabury Charges Will Affect Candidacy

By EDWARD L. RODDAN
Universal Service Writer

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Welcomed more like a conquering hero than an accused defendant, Mayor James J. Walker of New York arrived here tonight to face removal charges before Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

After the din of blaring bands and cheering thousands with which he was greeted at the railroad station had subsided, the chief executive of America's biggest city prepared for the unique political drama to be enacted tomorrow.

Expresses Confidence

He said: "I am confident the governor will not remove me."

Mayor Walker stepped off the train into the midst of a roaring welcome. A drizzling rain failed to dampen the ardor of the crowds. Edward J. O'Connell, Albany's Democratic boss and ally of Tammany, had organized a vociferous demonstration for the New York mayor.

Smiling and debonair, Walker doffed his hat and waved as a number of aerial bombs burst in mid-air to give the reception an added touch of enthusiasm.

As quickly as the mayor could edge his way through 5,000 people crowded into the station plaza, he jumped into a waiting limousine and proceeded to a hotel with his wife and eight friends who accompanied him from New York.

Walker was clad in a natty gray suit with necktie and pocket handkerchief to match. As he waded through the crowd, reporters asked him for a statement.

"Look at this crowd, there's a statement," the mayor said crisply as he stepped into the car.

Mayor Walker later told newspaper men that the case against him was not a case brought by an investigating committee "but by ambitious, disappointed politicians trying to defeat by ouster proceedings instead of ballots the will of the people who elected me."

May Re-Enter Politics

After he had expressed confidence in the outcome of tomorrow's hearing, he was asked whether he would run for mayor again if removed. The mayor smiled and snapped back.

"I'll tell you. Two years ago I decided I was through with public life, that at the end of my term I wouldn't run again—but now . . . . "

He didn't finish the sentence.

The drama wherein the mayor of the nation's biggest city will defend himself before the Democratic nominee for president of the United States will be unique in the history of American politics.

It will be in effect the trial of Mayor James J. Walker of New York on charges of incompetence and misfeasance in office and the "judge" will be Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Nation to Watch

While an entire nation will watch with interest the outcome, only a scant handful of fortunate spectators will be permitted to view the actual proceedings in Governor Roosevelt's executive chamber.

Three men, each of them a powerful, dominating figure in public life, will appear in leading roles in the drama which may have a far-reaching effect on the future

Farm Board Attacked By Lawton Men

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 10. (UP)—Commodity prices are being organized under political influence, the house committee investigating governmental interference in private business was told late today.

The attack on the federal farm board and alleged crop price manipulations was made during the hearing before Representative Joseph Shannon of Missouri, chairman of the committee.

Previously, a procession of Lawton business men had testified that activities of the post exchange at Fort Sill, near here, had resulted in huge losses to them.

R. E. Nelson, Clinton grain dealer, accused the national administration of manipulating prices of agricultural products to further political ambitions.

Farm Board Criticized

C. T. James of Gage, president of the Oklahoma Grain Dealers association, joined with Nelson in criticizing the federal farm board.

MABELLE ROAD PLANS READY

Baylor Starts Work Securing Right of Way

A move to secure the right of way for completion of state highway No. 23 in Baylor county from the Seymour road at Mabelle north to the Wilbarger county line across the Lake Kemp dam was started this week.

Announcement that action on the route is under way was made by Division Engineer D. M. Puckett of the highway department in Wichita Falls after a conference with County Judge J. T. St. Clair of Baylor county at Seymour. Plans for the 100-foot right of way were completed in Mr. Puckett's office 10 days ago and have been forwarded to Austin for checking by the state office.

The plans are scheduled for approval in time for letting at the next meeting of the commission.

Grade Construction

The plans call for construction of a grade and drainage structures in unit No. 1 of the road building on the 13 mile stretch. Grading and drainage structures are complete on No. 23 from Red river 20 miles north of Vernon, south through Wilbarger county to the Baylor county line.

Contractors announced this week that work on unit No. 2—paving—would start north of Vernon in about 10 days. A contract for paving No. 23 south of Vernon is scheduled at an early date and a

Mrs. Caraway's Lead Assures Election

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 10. (US)—Mrs. Hattie Caraway virtually had established in late returns tonight from the Arkansas primary election that she will succeed herself as United States senator.

With 1,506 of the state's 2,041 precincts reported, Mrs. Caraway had more votes than all her six male opponents combined.

Her ballots numbered 81,476. Next in line was O. L. Bodenhamer, former national commander of the American Legion, with 38,834. The others trailed along as follows: Former Gov. Charles H. Brough, 16,430; National Committeeman Vincent M. Miles, 15,721; Judge W. F. Kirby, 7,946; W. G. Hutton 3,140, and Melbourne M. Martin, 2,616.

J. Martin Futrell of Paragould, candidate for governor, was leading his six opponents for the Democratic nomination by practically the same margin as Mrs. Caraway enjoyed in her race. In the 1,506 precincts he had 31,670 votes and his nearest rival, former Gov. Tom J. Terral, had only 25,983.

GOP TO MAKE BIG DRIVE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Bullington to Stump State, He Reveals on Return From Convention

'PROSPECTS GOOD'

Republican Campaign To Start After Second Demo Primary

The Republican party will begin a slashing drive to capture the Texas governorship as soon as it is determined who the Democratic nominee will be, it was indicated here Wednesday by Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls attorney who was nominated for governor by the Republican state convention, on his return home.

Reports from Dallas said the choice for Bullington over John E. Grant of Houston, an avowed preconvention candidate, was brought about largely because of the Wichitan's comparative youth and the fact he has proved himself a vigorous and able stump speaker. In the opinion of local political observers this means the Republicans plan to meet the Democratic nominee in a hard fought, two-month campaign.

Campaign Planned

"I am going to cover the state," Mr. Bullington said Wednesday. Further than that he did not disclose any campaign plans.

Regardless of whether Gov. Ross S. Sterling or Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson wins the Democratic nomination, the Republican nominee must be reckoned with, he indicated.

Not since 1924 has the Republican nominee polled a considerable vote for governor. That year George C. Butte received approximately 300,000 votes in a bitter contest with Mrs. Ferguson.

Reports from the convention Tuesday showed the Republicans confident of victory if Mrs. Ferguson wins the nomination and hardly less sanguine if their opponent is Governor Sterling.

"I have received numerous telegrams congratulating me on receiving the nomination," Mr. Bullington said. "Several friends have called on me personally, including some Democrats, and assured me of their support."

His face beamed as he discussed probable issues of the campaign and when the possibility of a bitter Texas political fight was suggested he laughed and said "the Democrats know how I stand."

Staunch Prohibitionist

The nomination came as a complete surprise to Mr. Bullington. He was approached several times by nominating committee members but each time he told them he would not entertain the idea.

"It was only after Mr. Grant released all commitments to him that I yielded to the pressure being brought to bear on me to accept the nomination," he said.

In his speech of acceptance Mr. Bullington promised to enforce the criminal laws of the state, including the prohibition laws. Tuesday he reiterated his personal views for honesty in government and declared he will recommend laws to halt alleged graft by state officials.

Nebraska Farmers Holding Their Crops

KEARNEY, Neb., Aug. 10. (UP)—Nebraska farmers, while not joining the "selling holiday" in other Mid-Western states, are holding their crops.

Less than 10,000 bushels of wheat have been handled through the market here, according to W. K. Harrison, manager of the local branch of the National Grain corporation. Receipts of oats and other grains are relatively low.

British Airman Calls Haden Clarke's Death 'A Beautiful Gesture'

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 10. (US)—Insisting he considered the love affair between Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller and Haden Clarke, his successful rival, "a beautiful thing," Capt. William N. Lancaster this afternoon clung to his denial of the charge that he killed young Clarke.

He declared Clarke killed himself. Lancaster called it a "beautiful gesture."

While State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne battered and badgered him in a thundering cross-examination, the British flier on trial for murder, agitated, at times angry, reiterated his story of the death of Clarke.

Would Lie, Steal, for Her

He said of the love affair between the woman he had adored for five years and the young writer she had known six weeks:

"Mrs. Keith-Miller was a woman I'd lie for, steal for, die for. I loved her enough so that what she wanted was what mattered. I consider Haden Clarke's love for her was beautiful, and his suicide was a beautiful gesture."

Branding the testimony of M. G. Tancrel and J. F. Russell, as to threats he had made against young Clarke "a tissue of lies," he later admitted:

"I might have made the threats against Haden under the influence of a pint of scotch. I might have said if Haden had hurt Chubbie he would have to answer to me. But later I changed my mind and looked on the affair as beautiful."

Toward the close of this afternoon's court session, Captain Lancaster was required to step down from the witness stand and re-type the "suicide" notes which he admitted he had written and to which he forged Haden Clarke's name.

Examination Unfinished

It took him two and a half minutes. The typing came after Lancaster during the grilling declared he had written the notes while Clarke was breathing his last.

He declared he wrote the notes, then called to "Chubbie." On direct examination he had said he called Mrs. Keith-Miller before writing the notes. Questioned on this he asked his direct testimony be corrected.

Lancaster was still on the stand at the close of the day, the relentless cross-examination unfinished.

State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne began his cross-examination with the direct question:

"Captain Lancaster, did you kill Haden Clarke?"

Lancaster lifted his chin, gave the state's attorney stare for stare, and replied:

"I did not! Haden Clarke committed suicide."

The death of the young writer, found shot to death in the strange Miami household where he lived with Mrs. Keith-Miller and Lancaster, was described in detail by Captain Lancaster today.

Tears in Eyes

And the British airman had tears in his eyes as he told of his last

Stimson Confers With Jap Envoy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (US)—Secretary of State Stimson sought today to calm indignant Japanese feelings over his New York speech inferentially criticizing Japan's aggression in the far east.

Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi called to say goodbye before departing on a long deferred leave in Japan.

Stimson seized the occasion to discuss the speech. Debuchi denied he had been sent by his foreign office to demand explanations.

The speech, however, Debuchi conceded, had brought about a "delicate situation" in Japan. He did not elaborate. Nor would he vouchsafe that Tokyo was contemplating diplomatic representations.

The whole situation was reviewed at the conference. Debuchi explained the status of Major General Moto, who has been recently appointed to military and diplomatic positions which virtually make him a dictator in Manchuria.

Debuchi endeavored to quiet fears that Japanese military forces are preparing to penetrate into China through Peiping and Tientsin.

Green owns the land on which the Green oil pool is located.

PASTOR FACES TRIAL TODAY

Tabernacle Sold to Raise Funds for Defense

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 10. (UP)—The Rev. S. A. Berrie, 51-year-old preacher accused of poisoning his wife so he could marry a girlish Sunday school teacher, will be taken before a bar of justice tomorrow to face the formal charge.

The minister, who married 19-year-old Ida Bess Berrie two months after the sudden death of his wife, appeared before District Judge Enloe Vernor late today for arraignment. Upon plea of his attorney, Grover Watkin, the proceedings were postponed until tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m. He was expected to plead not guilty.

Girl Faithful

Watkin's efforts to have the preacher transferred from the city to county jail proved unsuccessful when the judge took no action on the request.

The young Mrs. Berrie tonight reiterated her faith in her husband's innocence. The minister refused to make a statement.

The first Mrs. Berrie's death was investigated by the grand jury after a chemist's autopsy allegedly showed she died from effects of a powerful poison.

Defense plans were completed tonight by the pastor's young bride. She sought loans on her husband's insurance policies. She attended to details of sale of Bethel tabernacle, erected after the Rev. Berrie had split with the Cumberland church.

Tabernacle Sold

A down payment of $25 was made to the pastor in jail by J. W. Cox, a fruit dealer, who purchased the large structure.

She finally retained Watkins and

Followers Alarmed at Absence of Bishop

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 10. (UP)—Followers of Bishop Elias Montoya, Mexican Apostolic Catholic church dignitary, were alarmed tonight at his continued absence from home. Civil authorities said the bishop may have been kidnaped and murdered.

He disappeared from his residence early last Friday after entering a limousine with two persons who called on him and with whom he conversed.

Montoya was the leader of one of two factions seeking control of affairs of the church in the United States. He has been a storm center for some time. Efforts have been made to remove him from his position through court proceedings, and a few months ago he was acquitted, by instructed verdict, of sending a threatening letter to Martina Gonzales, San Antonio woman.

McCormick Hurries Back As Former Wife Sinking

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (INS)—While Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick was lying critically ill in her Drake hotel suite, her former husband, Harold F. McCormick, multimillionaire capitalist, was speeding back to Chicago today.

In the "Gold Coast" colony of the city's socially elite this coincidence inspired excited speculation over whether the illness of Chicago's first lady may bring the divorced couple together again in a personal meeting.

McCormick left Los Angeles Monday and was expected to arrive today. It was believed probably that he may go to the Drake to visit the daughter of John D. Rockefeller from wham he was divorced 14 years ago.

ADOLF HITLER MAY SUCCEED HINDENBURG

Nazi Leader Asked to Drop Ambitions to Be Chancellor

BIGGER JOB AHEAD

Friends Claim He Could Easily Win in Next Election

By KARL H. VON WEIGAND
(Copyr't, 1932 by Universal Service, Inc.)

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Adolf Hitler may yet be president of Germany!

This was the argument adopted today by circles close to President Von Hindenburg and Chancellor Von Papen in an effort to stave off any hasty action by Fascists determined to elevate Hitler to the chancellorship of the reich.

Defeated by President Von Hindenburg in May when the voters gave the aging field marshal his second seven-year term, Hitler now is being asked to refrain from insisting on the chancellor's post because of his inexperience and because he could probably win the next presidential election when Von Hindenburg steps down.

Up to Hitler

This queer twist of history, toward which great efforts were beingexerted tonight, depends on Hitler's being persuaded that he runs the risk of exposing himself to concentrated criticism and possible political ruin should he insist on the chancellorship and then fail.

Hitler himself was in Berlin all day. He will have a heart-to-heart talk with Chancellor Von Papen tomorrow and thereafter is expected to be received by President Von Hindenburg.

The Nazi leader came to Berlin to throw the full weight of his personal influence against the rash actions threatened by his shock troops, who were getting out of hand and reportedly threatening a

Hundreds of Cities Ask For Home Loan Bank

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (US)—Hundreds of cities throughout the country have swamped the board of directors of the new home loan bank system with applications to locate regional banks in their communities.

As Franklin Fort, chairman, and the other four members went into session today, Fort said:

"I didn't know there were so many towns in the country until these applications began to pour in."

Indianapolis and several other cities are planning to send special trains with city boosters to make their appeals. Members of the new board are striving to stave off the deluge of applications.

It will be a month or more, they say, before they will know the best places for the regional banks.

Japan Already Annexed Manchuria, Author Says

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 10 (US)—"Japan has, in effect, already annexed Manchuria," George Sokolsky, author, lecturer, and former editor of the Far Eastern Review, today declared before the institute of politics.

If Japan had not seized Manchuria, then Russia would have, Sokolsky said. He blamed the United States for the condition of China which made the annexation inevitable. The American policy of relying on moral sanctions instead of direct negotiations between the interested parties, he said, brought about such confusion in China that no unified power to resist invasion could be organized.

Unnaturalized Wives of Mexicans Denied Vote

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (UP)—The attorney general's department ruled today that unnaturalized wives of former Mexicans who have become Texas citizens cannot vote unless they were married prior to 1922.

The ruling was in a notification to the county attorney of Brewster county. The department held, however, that though the wives within the classification set cannot vote, they must pay poll taxes.

Rin Tin Tin, Famous Dog, Dies Of Age

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10. (UP)—Rin Tin Tin, the world's most famous animal, is dead.

A motion picture star since puppyhood, commander of bigger contracts than many human players who rose and fell during his stardom, "Rinty" succumbed on the eve of his greatest triumphs.

He was playing happily in his private kennel Monday, romping playfully despite the weight of his 14 years. His master, Lee Duncan, eyed the big German shepherd and patted him fondly.

Suddenly Rinty lay down, his big brown eyes looked up at Duncan for a moment and then closed quietly.

Unable to believe what was happening, Duncan carried the dog to his bed, intending to administer medicine. He found Rinty's hind quarters paralyzed.

A vetinary was summoned but before he could arrive Rinty was gone. It was due to natural causes, the doctor said.

Tonight, the grief-stricken owner

PRICES REACH NEW HEIGHTS

Stocks, Bonds, Commodities Bound Upward Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Convinced rising prices foreshadowed important business recovery, buyers forced stocks, bonds, cotton, and wheat and other commodities to new peak levels for the summer today.

Bulls rode through the stock market on rails during the earlier hours of trading and transferred to motors in the final dealings in a buying movement which sent many issues up $1 to $8 a share. Save for Monday's turnover, the volume of trading in the stock exchange, at 4,429,390 shares, was the largest of the year.

Best Advances

In bonds many issues advanced $10 to $60 per bond of $1,000 par value, price averages indicating the best advance since early June and total transactions, at $17,023,000, were the largest since January.

Wheat, evidently anticipating the government crop report after the close, advanced 1¼ to 1⅝ cents a bushel. The crop as of Aug. 1 was estimated at 723,000,000 bushels, a reduction of 14,000,000 bushels from the estimate a month earlier and 171,000,000 bushels under last year's crop.

Cotton again forged ahead to new high levels for the recovery as bankers still were working on the plan of forming a credit corporation to facilitate financing of the movement of the raw staple to the mills. Extreme gains of around $1.50 a bale were not maintained but final prices were 85 to 95 cents a bale. Some quarters in the textile trade have noted a substantial improvement in the demand for cotton clothes this week.

Commodities Up

A substantial assortment of miscellaneous commodities again joined the advance after moderate setbacks in the previous session. Raw sugar, crude rubber, silks, hides, silver futures and other lines were in the procession of advancing prices.

Midwest business statistics, it was pointed out in some quarters, indicated clearly the upward movement was based on hopes of business recovery rather than any clear

LOYAL TROOPS RETAKE CITY OF SEVILLE

15 Killed as Republican Forces Repulse Attack Of Royalist Army

SITUATION IN HAND

Monarchist Attempt on Republic Fails After Much Blood Spilled

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
Universal Service Special Cable

MADRID, Aug. 11, (Thursday). (US)—The revolt which broke in Spain early yesterday morning was checked within 24 hours when Gen. Jose Sanjurjo, leader of the rebels who had entrenched at Seville ready to resist the government forces, fled by airplane after the garrison officers at Seville had surrendered early today to Gen. Gonzales Sanchez, military commander at Andalusia.

Full control of the situation at Seville taken over by General Sanchez, with the cooperation of Civil Governor Vareia Valverda and Mayor Lavandera.

Immediate suppression of Republican disorders was ordered. A group of Republicans had set fire to the agriculturist club and two other groups attempted to burn the La Union Mercantile club, both conservative organizations.

A general strike ordered by the general labor union will be continued today in protest against General Sanjurjo's attempt to establish a military dictatorship.

Leader Popular

Holding Seville for the rebels, at the head of the entire civil guard and a regiment of troops from near-by Jerez de la Frontera, was Gen. Jose Sanjurjo, former commander of the civil guard and high commissioner for Morocco.

General Sanjurjo, one of the most popular men in Spain, escorted Queen Victoria to the French frontier when the royal family was exiled in April, 1931.

Premier Azana announced Sanjurjo sent 800 men to take Lora del Rio and dynamite the town's bridge, but that the expedition deserted his cause. The premier described this as "highly significant" of the rebellion's weakness.

Government circles claimed the general was contemplating flight from Seville because the rest of the country had not risen, but Sanjurjo's Madrid friends, denied this, declaring he will fight.

Martial Law Established

Meeting in extraordinary session, the cabinet of Premier Azana established virtual martial law, commandeered all automobiles and buses for troops and supply transportation, ordered the 15th regiment from Algeciras to Cadiz, where rioting broke out, dispatched the first and sixth Madrid regiments against Seville, and ordered the bombing planes to concentrate at Andujar.

The southern revolt was reported spreading with the San Fernando regiment in mutiny and the naval garrison at Cartegana in sympathy with the rebels. A general strike in favor of the revolt was declared throughout Andalusia. General Sanjurjo appointed himself captain-general of Seville and established headquarters in the palace of the Marquis de Esquivels.

Three times loyal forces beat back rebel attacks on the capital in the bitterest fighting Madrid has seen in recent stormy years. The battle brought President Alcala Zamora hurrying back to the city where he was cheered riotously.

Government Prepared

The attack broke at dawn. Sixty cavalrymen, strengthened by armed civilians, rode into the city from the Victorias barracks, commanded by Capt. Manuel Silvestre. They swept on to the ministry of war, where Azana resides. But the government was not unprepared.

According to a spokesman, it had word of the plot and was waiting for the conspirators to show their hands. Troops and civil guards stationed about the war ministry met the rebels with drilling rifle fire. Attacks on the postoffice and general police headquarters were similarly repulsed.

Beaten off in their first assault, the rebels reformed and came back to a second attack. A wave of machine gun fire met them and their lines wilted away. Captain Silvestre was wounded three times. Five

Governor Sterling Stricken With Food Poisoning And Halts Campaign

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—Gov. R. S. Sterling will be out of the political campaign picture the remainder of the week, sent to bed by his wife and his physician to recuperate from an attack of food poisoning suffered late last night at Gonzales after a political address in his campaign for renomination.

The governor's physician said he might allow the chief executive to resume his campaign tour Friday but Mrs. Sterling, who was in Fort Worth campaigning in her husband's behalf, said "No," and that the governor would remain on the shelf the rest of the week. She talked to the governor by telephone.

Governor Sterling's campaign speeches for tomorrow were canceled by his physician. Mrs. Sterling canceled them for Friday and Saturday. She hurried back to Austin.

The governor became ill at Gonzales late last night and was forced to cancel today's engagements and return to Austin where he was placed in bed.

At first the governor was believed to be suffering from ptomaine poisoning but an examination showed it to be a milder form of stomach ailment.

While the governor was incapacitated temporarily, his campaign moved on. Speakers filled his engagements today and others were

Driver Of Car In Fatal Crash Freed After He Tells Story Of Hardships

J. T. Ansley of Houston was released under his own recognizance Wednesday following an inquest in the death of Annie Jewell Renton, 6, in an automobile accident at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at Ninth and Ohio.

Mr. Ansley was en route from his home to Albuquerque, N. M., with the family of a world war veteran. The family had been left in his care by the father, L. P. Renton, when he left to join the bonus army in Washington, D. C. The father had secured work in New Mexico and Mr. Ansley had left his work for two days at Houston to take the family to the father.

The child was killed when thrown from the sedan as the car turned into Ohio from Ninth, striking a machine parked in the center of the street by city street cleaning employes. The automobile toppled over crushing the girl to the pavement.

Unable to send the family to the father, Mr. Ansley, who is seriously ill, undertook the long trip by day and night driving. He told investigators he is not physically able to make the long drive from Houston to Albuquerque due to his weakened condition.

Mr. Ansley added he had fallen asleep several times on the trip and "had taken a few drinks in efforts to continue awake." He undertook

HOOVER WILL ACCEPT TODAY

Dour Tidings Brought To White House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (US)—Discouraging political tidings disturbed the serenity of President Hoover's 58th birthday today.

On the eve of the president's acceptance speech tomorrow night, formally opening the campaign, two party wheelhorses brought frank word to the White House that the Republican ticket faces a hard fight to win New York and other eastern states.

Senator Walcott of Connecticut said:

"We're not so sure about New York."

Representative Snell of New York, who will notify the president of his renomination, declared:

Fight Ahead

"We've got a hard fight ahead of us."

If business conditions improve, they thought Mr. Hoover would pull through in the end.

Their portrayal of political conditions contrasted sharply with views expressed at the White House by a horde of party chiefs assembling for the elaborate notification ceremonies. These leaders, including National Chairman Sanders, chorused that the president's re-election is in the bag.

Tomorrow's festivities start with a tea party at 1 o'clock on the White House lawn. President and Mrs. Hoover have invited 500 guests. Party bigwigs will mingle with Republicans from the cities and crossroads.

The ceremonies at Constitution hall, for which tickets are exhausted, will be opened by Snell's eight-minute speech telling the president of his renomination at Chicago. Chairman Sanders will then introduce the president. Mr. Hoover's acceptance will take about 7,000 words. The president will touch all the issues, emphasizing efforts at economic recovery and tending to relegate prohibition to a secondary place. He hopes to satisfy both wets and drys.

Farley Names Byrd And Woolen Chiefs In Demo Fund Drive

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—A Middle West banker and a former governor of Virginia were given today the task of raising $750,000 to $1,000,000 Democratic war chest.

Harry Flood Byrd, who was one of Governor Roosevelt's rivals in the Chicago convention, was named chairman of the campaign executive finance committee.

The appointment of Evans Woolen, Indianapolis banker, as chairman of the campaign finance committee, officially was confirmed. In making the announcement, James A. Farley, national chairman, said efforts of the two men would be bent toward obtaining a great volume of small contributions, rather than a limited number of large ones.

The financial budget has not been drawn up yet but estimates given out at Roosevelt-Garner headquarters have been between $750,000 and $1,000,000. More than $7,000,000 was spent in 1928.

obtained to take over the schedule for the rest of the week.

He had planned to campaign the remainder of the week in West Texas, leaving here early tomorrow. His West Texas engagements will be filled by R. A. Stuart of Fort Worth.

Pat Dougherty, the governor's secretary, said the governor insisted he would be all right after he had rested. The physician was called at Dougherty's insistence.

The governor has been making a strenuous campaign. During the past week he has made an average of 10 speeches each day. He worked at the executive offices Monday until 7 p. m. and then held a lengthy conference with his advisors at the mansion.

Up to last night he apparently was in excellent health although he had reduced the length of his speeches in an effort to conserve his strength for his numerous engagements.

disclosed Rinty's passing. For 48 hours he bore his sorrow alone. But the show must go on, and Duncan was compelled to tell the Mascot studios, where Rinty worked, that the dog was dead.

Only one thing assauged Duncan's grief. Two-year-old Rin Tin Tin junior, son of the old master, is ready to carry on. He will step into Rinty's place in the pictures, and tests already made of him indicate he will be a worthy successor.

Father and son bore a marked resemblance, studio officials said, and fans probably won't be able to "tell the difference."

Rin Tin Tin takes his place alongside Jumbo the elephant and other great leaders of animaldom. He probably earned more money in his lifetime than any one of them.

At 14, he had worked in pictures for 13 and a half years. His income—or rather Duncan's—was figured in the millions.

Libby Holman Surrenders And Is Freed On Bail

Libby Holman Reynolds appeared in court at Wentworth, N. C., in answer to the charge that she murdered her wealthy young husband, Smith Reynolds, and within a few minutes was freed on $25,000 bail. The above photo, sent by special plane to Atlanta and telephotoed from there, shows her at the left, heavily veiled, during the brief hearing. Her father, Alfred Holman, is seated beside her and one of her attorneys, Benet Polikoff, is standing.

Libby Holman Guarded From Prying Curious On Secluded Bay Estate

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Aug. 10. (US)—With a guard of deputy sheriffs to shield her from public curiosity, Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds today sought solace and seclusion at a sylvan estate on Chesapeake bay while awaiting trial for her rich playboy husband's murder.

The prolog to her tragic drama concluded with her release in North Carolina on $25,000 bail, the Broadway "torch" singer returned secretly to Oakington, the same estate where she was in seclusion before she surrendered to face the murder charge.

Mrs. Louisa Jenny, wealthy member of the DuPont family and intimate friend of the accused widow of young Smith Reynolds, has leased the estate and is staying there with Mrs. Reynolds, it was learned.

While servants refused to admit that Mrs. Reynolds had returned, Police Chief Benjamin Ray who assigned guards to the estate said he had definite word that the tobacco heir's widow was back.

Mrs. Reynold's six passenger speed boat Water Boy of Fort Washington, N. Y., was moored at the Oakington pier today. Mrs. Jenny, it is said, leased Oakington for an indefinite period.

Mrs. Reynolds is believed to have conferred with an attorney and spent last night in Baltimore. Last night Dr. Charles Toley, of Havre de Grace, was summoned to Oakington. He remained in the house some time but declined to make any statement.

Deputy Sheriff Henry Terring today took up his duty as guard at the main entrance to the estate. The entrance is about a quarter of a mile from the house.

Pending orders from Sheriff Bowman, who held a prolonged conference with Mrs. Jenny last night he will be relieved at regular intervals during the 24-hour guard period.

Sheriff Bowman said:

"Mrs. Jenny explained that she wanted the guards for the next three weeks to protect Mrs. Reynolds from prying visitors. I agreed to have a deputy sheriff stationed day and night at the estate at her request."

Six Arrested In Two Beer Raids

City police made six arrests in two "home brew" raids Wednesday night. One defendant was released under a $25 cash bond after officers took two bushel baskets full of bottled beer, empty bottles and other equipment at his home on Grant.

Three men and two women were arrested on charges of gambling in a raid on Twenty-second which netted 150 empty bottles, 12 gallons of "brew" mash, and several empty whisky bottles. Captain Ed McDonald conducted the raids with Officers John Wildmon and George Garrett.

Loss of a new three-piece suit, valued at $16.75, from a car parked in a storage garage on Scott avenue was reported to officers late Wednesday by J. B. Stites of this city. Description of a negro suspect was furnished.

'Baering' Down On The News

BY ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

SOCIETY NOTES FROM THE EAST

Our boys are certainly shuffling around this week. Cal Coolidge has brought his hay fever to New York but he can't make it popular.

The Jimmy Walkers are visiting the Governor Roosevelts in Albany. Just one of those private affairs for the news reels. Speeches without loving cups.

The Hoovers will throw a notification soiree at the White House tonight. They have promised us a surprise in Herbert's acceptance speech. Maybe he will refuse it.

Our society editor doesn't know whether the Smedley Butlers will stay home or not. The general refuses to make any promises.

The King Alfonsos are expecting an interesting event in Madrid. It will be Al's arrival there.

The delightful Monday night recitation by the Stimsons may start a war in Manchuria. Mr. Stimson had no idea it was loaded.

FLIER DENIES CLARKE DEATH

Lancaster Says Young Writer Committed Suicide

conversation with Clarke—a long, confidential talk about their mutual love for "Chubbie," about their finances, about their problems in general—a talk which ended with Haden Clarke's tribute to Lancaster:

"Bill, you're the whitest man I've ever met."

Those were Clarke's last words to the British airman.

Lancaster said he then retired and fell asleep immediately on the sleeping porch of the Keith-Miller home, adjoining the room where young Clarke slept. He testified:

"I was awakened by a noise. It was a bang. When I first came to I had the impression it was a window slamming.

"I said: 'What's that, Haden?'

"I heard a gurgling noise. I switched on the light in Haden's room and went over and shook him by the shoulder and said 'What have you done?'

"A pistol was on the bed by his right hip. His right arm was up, bent at the elbow and across his body.

Typed Notes

"I sat down at the typewriter probably within two or three minutes and typed the notes. I went to the bed with a pencil and asked him to sign them. He was moaning but couldn't speak. I shouted 'Chubbie' but got no reply.

"Then I did something I shouldn't have done. I scribbled 'Haden' on one note and 'H' on the other."

The notes referred to were the "suicide" notes which Captain Lancaster admitted he forged.

Lancaster told the jury young Clarke was crying as he discussed his relations with Mrs. Keith-Miller a short time before he died. Lancaster said:

"He made a sort of father confessor out of me."

As Hawthorne turned loose a barrage of thundering questions during the cross-examination, Captain Lancaster grew highly agitated. His eyes were gleaming and he sat forward tensely in his chair as he snapped back the answers.

Attorney Applauded

A packed courtroom followed every word of the British flier's sensational testimony, applauding the defense attorney at one time until the judge threatened to clear the courtroom.

State's Attorney Hawthorne, trying to shake the Britisher in his denial that he killed Clarke, quickened the pace of his questions during the end of Lancaster's siege of nine hours and 10 minutes on the stand. He reminded the flyer:

"In a letter to Haden Clarke you said you'd do anything for Chubbie, if necessary risk anything. Were you sincere?"

"I was."

"Would you lie for her?"

"I have."

"Would you steal for her?"

"I have."

"Did you think the love affair of Haden Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller was beautiful to the very end?"

Knew They Wouldn't Wed

Captain Lancaster replied:

"Mr. Hawthorne, I loved Mrs. Keith-Miller enough so that what she wanted was what mattered. I put myself in the background.

"Although I heard about Chubby and Haden being madly in love, I still didn't believe it until I got home and saw it.

"Then I knew, even after Haden told me of his malady, that he looked upon the love as something beautiful.

"I feel that Haden's committing suicide was the culmination of a beautiful love, and that the suicide itself was a beautiful thing."

A moment later Lancaster declared:

"In my heart, I knew Haden would never marry Mrs. Keith-Miller."

"Why—because you knew he was going to commit suicide before morning?"

"No, because Haden and I had a talk in which he agreed to talk with Chubbie in the morning and tell her the things he'd told me. If he didn't I would, and I knew she would not marry him."

PLANS READY ON LAKE ROAD

Highway Board Given Amount of Wichita Bonds

similar bid will follow in order on the 13 miles in Baylor county after the grade is allowed to settle several months.

Mr. Puckett has directed completion of a new survey of No. 77 in Cooke county, north from Gainesville to the new Red river bridge. The survey map of the field notes have been turned over to Cooke county authorities to secure the 12-mile of right of way.

Agree on No. 77 Route

No. 77 is a federal aid project and work is expected to go forward rapidly. The Red river bridge has been completed more than a year and the state constructed a two-mile approach to the bridge but the construction was enjoined by Cooke county citizens who did not approve of the routing. A new route has been completed satisfactory to the citizens of Gainesville, the state and federal road authorities.

Mr. Puckett has been busy the last several days this week compiling information on county road bonds for submission at the special session of the legislature early in September. The information was required to be in Austin Wednesday for study by a legislative committee in framing the proposed law allowing the state to take over outstanding county highway bonds. The data required included the outstanding bonds of the county, amount spent on state highways and the county road tax rate.

Adolf Hitler May Run For President

march on Berlin to seize the government.

He has been given to understand that the president will not act under pressure, and that if the Nazi brown shirts make trouble or begin a "putsch" to install Hitler as chancellor, the government will break off all negotiations and defy the Nazis.

The situation tonight was still unclear, but authoritatively it was declared to be largely a question of whether Hitler can resist the pressure of his own followers, who are obsessed with the idea he must be made chancellor at once.

Hitler is said to shrink from the responsibility of taking over government leadership in the present crisis, fully realizing the risks involved for both himself and his party.

He is being urged to accept two of three portfolios in a concentration cabinet for men he designates, but to keep out himself for the present at least.

Posts Suggested

It is suggested that Gregor Strasser, his radical chief lieutenant, be designated vice chancellor and premier of Prussia; Herr Frick as minister of interior, a powerful past, and Captain Goering as minister of transport or of aviation, should the latter post be created.

Should the "president" talk and efforts to dissuade Hitler from hasty action fail, or should he be unable to resist the pressure of his own party, an Austrian for the first time in history may head the government within the next 10 days.

Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense, in plain language told Count Helldorff, commander of Berlin Nazi troops, in the reichswehr ministry today, that the army would "shoot straight" in putting down any attempt of the Fascist shock troops to march on Berlin.

Troops Withdrawn

Shortly before midnight, Helldorff met with his leaders and then ordered the withdrawal of the mobilized Fascist troops from Berlin to points outside the city. Many of the troopers were armed, but they moved quietly. Whether they will be ordered to reconcentrate outside the capital was not made known.

Politics Blamed For Price Fixing

lat under present conditions," James asserted. "Government participation in business has magnified the depression."

Chairman Shannon said only a start was made at today's hearings as only a portion of the more than 100 Lawton business men he had subpoenaed had testified. Officers at Fort Sill will be given ample opportunity to present their side of the controversy, he promised.

The gray-haired chairman, who has spent the past few weeks studying government competition with private enterprise, told the grain men that he would investigate governmental activity in farm prices in more detail. He said he would hold a hearing on cotton late this month at either Memphis or New Orleans.

Crowd at Hearing

The hearing opened shortly before noon in the federal courtroom here. The room was crowded with spectators who revealed intense interest in the proceedings. Lawton men had testified in previous hearings, complaining of competition from the elaborate exchange at the army post.

Lawton merchants have become only "show case men," Judge W. C. Stevens, attorney for local merchants, declared in opening statement.

"They display wares in their showcases but soldiers and civilians price them and go to the post exchange where prices are lower. Why? Because rent there is free. Heat and light are furnished by the government at low rates.

"The result is that many of our good citizens are going bankrupt."

Senator Thomas Attends

Sitting near the witness stand and listening closely to the testimony was Senator Elmer Thomas, who lives at Medicine Park, near here. He was one of the senators instrumental in passing the bill authorizing the investigation.

Specific instances were cited in which soldiers came to a private store, tried on a suit and then left without making a purchase, explaining they could get discounts at the exchange.

"They are only carrying out the law," Representative Shannon said when informed the post headquarters at Fort Leavenworth had been instructed to limit sales from the post exchange to enlisted men.

"The war department appropriations bill specifically provides that only enlisted men can purchase supplies there.

"Only bureaus can fail to interpret the bill correctly."

He said "Victory is already attained as far as Fort Sill post exchange is concerned."

Alleged Killer Believed To Have Eluded Manhunt

LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 10. (UP)—Juan Garcia, alleged killer of L. D. Alford, 64, Artesia Wells rancher, was believed tonight to have reached and crossed the Rio Grande into Mexico despite a four-county manhunt aided by two army airplines from Randolph field.

The search continued, however, throughout Dimmitt, La Salle, Frio, and Webb counties. Alford was shot five times near Artesia Wells yesterday after a crop discussion. His wife found his body in a field.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—F. O. Cole, disabled world war veteran, was held today for questioning in connection with the wounding of Dr. H. P. Beatty Monday night.

Beatty, a dentist, was shot twice when he went to Cole's home in answer to a message that Mrs. Cole needed treatment but was unable to go to his office. Physicians said he would recover.

Business Good In Wichita Falls, Motor Car Company Tells Broadway

"Business Is Good in Wichita Falls" says a large advertisement recently published in the Automotive Daily News of New York by the Cadillac Motor Car company of Detroit, Mich.

The Automotive Daily News is the daily journal of the automotive trade, and the advertisement of the Cadillac company, a division of General Motors, tells of conditions here and of the work of the Fritz Motor company, local dealers, in increasing sales. The advertisement says in part:

"Perhaps some people will take issue with the statement that business is good in Wichita Falls, Texas. As a matter of fact, Wichita Falls has had its misfortunes just as every other community has had them. This particular city has lost population; and as a consequence of this and general conditions, local merchants have suffered in volume of business done. . . . But when we say that business is good in Wichita Falls, we speak from the records of the Fritz Motor company, dealers in Cadillacs and LaSalles. During the first five months of this year the Fritz Motor company sold 20 Cadillacs and LaSalles as compared with 17 for the same period last year. This year the percentage of price class won by the Fritz Motor company is 71.4; last year it was 34 per cent. . . . This gratifying record is just one more example of what can be accomplished in the retail automobile business when good management is joined with the right franchise."

Walker To Be Tried Today

political scene, national as well as state.

They are:

Mayor Walker, dapper, witty, and popular son of Tammany hall.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for president of the United States.

Former Judge Samuel Seabury, unrelenting foe of official dishonesty in general and Tammany hall in particular.

All three are Democrats.

Terms Self 'Scape Goat'

The charges against Walker were filed with the governor by Seabury after a series of spectacular hearings in New York before the Hofstadter legislative committee which waded through a veritable labyrinth of Mayor Walker's financial transactions.

Mayor Walker will face his accuser to defend his official record, his integrity—and his job.

According to Walker, the plot of the drama is this: He has been singled out as the "scape goat" to make political capital for Republican spell-binders in the approaching state and national campaigns.

A lawyer by training, he will defend himself with all the power and skill of his resourceful mind and perhaps with an added sprinkling of his characteristic witticisms.

Seabury Has Stake

Seabury, likewise, has a heavy stake in the outcome. The effort to remove Walker by proving him unfit for the mayoralty is the climax of long, unceasing warfare he has waged against official dishonesty and corruption in New York City.

If he succeeds, his prestige will be greatly enhanced and Seabury will go down in history as the most successful foe who ever braved the wrath of the Tammany tiger.

To Governor Roosevelt, tomorrow's hearing is purely a judicial hearing, with himself sitting in judgment upon the acts of record of a public official. Whether he removes or exonerates Walker, however, his decision is bound to be interpreted in the light of his current campaign for the presidency.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Former President Calvin Coolidge today refused to comment on reports he will not go to Washington to hear President Hoover's speech of acceptance tomorrow night because he has hay fever.

A statement given out yesterday at the White House revealed that in a letter declining the invitation to attend the ceremonies the former president wrote he was suffering from a chronic case of hay fever and he feared it might be aggravated in Washington.

A later dispatch from Plymouth, Vt., where the Coolidges are spending the summer, quoted the villagers as saying, "It's the first we've heard of it."

REBELLION IN SPAIN QUELLED

15 Killed As Monarchists Attempt Overthrow of his followers and two of the defenders were killed. The wounded were estimated at 30.

Cavalry Repulsed

By 8:20 a. m. the rebels were in full rout back to the barracks, but shortly afterward a regiment of cavalry mutinied at Alcala de Henares. They never reached the city. Federal forces met them en route and drove them back.

The government began an immediate clean-up campaign with more than 150 arrests. Captain Silvestre could not be found. The prisoners included Duke de l'Infantado and a number of army officers. Among the latter were Gen. Rodriguez Perez, Gen. Carrasco Cavalcanti, Gen. Manuel Godet and Gen. Francisco Franco, Former Minister of Education Jose Estrada was also arrested.

Despite the absence of a rebel manifesto there was no doubt of the movement's monarchist nature. Whether it aimed at the restoration of former King Alfonso, now in Bad Koenigswart, Czecho-Slovakia, or his third son, the infante Juan Carlos, now a cadet in the British far east fleet, was not clear.

Seizure of Seville was a bloodless coup for the rebels. Troops and civil guards went over to General Sanjurjo in a body at 5 a. m. The government planted an artillery detachment in front of his hotel, giving him an hour to surrender but the artillerymen also mutinied.

Papers Suspended

The government suspended publication of eight newspapers in Madrid and closed the army club. From Barcelona, Francisco Macia, head of the Catalonian autonomists sent word that his party, members of which staged the republic's first revolt last spring, would support the Socialist cabinet against the rebels.

Also rallying to the support of the government, the general labor union, Spain's most powerful labor organization with a membership of 1,000,000, issued a manifesto stating:

"Workers! Be ready for the first order from your leader to rise like one man to support the regime freely adopted by the country. Long live Spain!"

Minister of the Interior Santiago Casares Quiroga told Universal Service:

"This is a mad attempt on the part of a wide-spread military conspiracy. It will be successfully quelled."

Spirited Fight Looms

Mrs. Berrie was stricken at a church meeting March 21, a few hours after her first collapse.

"If the court holds the Rev. Berrie without bail, I will file a writ of habeas corpus. Then I'll put the minister on the stand. More than that I'll call the physician who attended Mrs. Berrie after she was stricken. Should that fail, I'll go straight to the court of criminal appeals. I'm also ready to ask for a change of venue if that has to be done."

"B. C." Relieves Your Headache In 3 Minutes

Realizing that no one drug can relieve all headaches, as they come from so many causes, a North Carolina pharmacist has developed a combination of several ingredients, so blended and proportioned as to relieve almost any headache in a few minutes. You can get this formula wherever drugs are sold under the name "B. C." 10c and 25c packages, and when you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, "B. C." will give you soothing relief in three minutes. "B. OIL MARKET HOLDS STEADY

Increasing Strength Shown In Refinery Products

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 10.—The Mid-Continent refinery market, particularly for U. S. motor (low octane) grade and for stabilized natural gasoline continues to absorb strength as spot sales increase and with the prospects of a pickup right away. Crude oils continue strong as Texas and Oklahoma authorities tighten up on regulations to halt possible recurrences of "stealing" which weakened the oil division recently. The financial structure of oils continues strong in keeping with the advancing stock market.

Wilcox Sand

The Wilcox sand has been found in the Shock & Phillips No. 1 Fish, in the southwest corner of the south-east of 25-10-11e, in the Weleetka area of eastern Okfuskee county, and presages a deeper development play for that old sector. Three offsets that were completed in the 3,000 to 3,100 foot horizon will now probably be deepened to the 3,900 foot level, where the Wilcox has been discovered.

The well which had been making a lot of gas from several upper stratums, below the 3,000-3,100 level, topped the Wilcox at 3,911 feet and in it six feet, it made two flows totaling 75 barrels. The gas flow increased 500,000 feet and making a total yield of 3,500,000 feet a day.

DANCIGER OIL LOSES FIGHT

Rail Board Orders Wells Of Company Prorated

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—Wells of the Danciger Oil and Refining company and their offsets in Gray, Carson, and Hutchinson counties were placed under state proration today in an order signed by the full membership of the Texas Railroad commission.

Danciger filed the first suit contesting the right of the state to enforce proration and ratable takings.

The order was prepared by Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson and was accompanied by an opinion of Thompson's based on a hearing held at Pampa.

Wells of the Danciger company had been left open under an agreement entered into by the commission in February, 1931, the agreement growing out of the court proceedings.

Objection Made

Thompson's opinion stated the agreement could not militate against the right of the commission to enter orders to prevent waste and stated that full production of the Danciger wells and their offsets, constituted waste. It was pointed out that the new conservation statute further defining waste, was passed since the agreement was made.

The opinion alleged that additional wells had been drilled by Danciger and brought under the exemption provided in the agreement.

Objection had been made to the Danciger production by the Dixon Creek Oil and Refining company and others, contention being made that Danciger was producing nearly one-half the field limit of 53,000 barrels and that this figure would be raised when additional exempt wells were completed.

Pythian Sisters Face $150,000 Libel Suit

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 10. (AP)—A $150,000 damage suit was added today to the matters under consideration by officers of the Pythian Sisters at the biennial convention here.

The action was filed yesterday by Mrs. Ada Belle Onion of Dallas, former supreme chief of the organization, who charged she was "wilfully and unlawfully" suspended from the order April 25, 1931. Nine officers, including Mrs. Elsie E. Vandervort, Washington, D. C., were named defendants from making a complete report of her activities in the Mississippi flood relief program at the biennial convention in 1928.

Mrs. Onion alleged the defendants entered into a conspiracy "to injure her character, good name and reputation, and bring about her removal from the Order of Pythian Sisters."

Writers Incensed After Hoover Snubs Delegates To Protest B. E. F. Eviction

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—A delegation of five writers left sharply-worded protests at the White House today against the evacuation of the bonus army from Washington by federal troops, but they failed to obtain an audience with President Hoover.

Theodore G. Joslin, a secretary to the president, informed the group that Mr. Hoover did not have time to see them.

Speaking unofficially and as a fellow writer, Joslin told them it was their duty to spread the truth and as they did so they would relate that the president did his duty in sending the troops against the rioters.

Charges Contempt

The writers, headed by Sherwood Anderson, novelist, and organized under the auspices of the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners, added a protest at the refusal of the president to see them, to their written demands for an accounting of his action in ordering out the troops.

Waldo Frank of New York City spoke for the delegation to Joslin, saying: "This is proof that Mr. Hoover holds intellectual opinion in contempt."

The delegation also included James Rorty, poet, of Westport, Conn.; William Jones, negro, Baltimore editor; and Elliot E. Cohen, secretary of the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners.

Joslin Defends

In a statement to the writers, Joslin said: "I want to give you my personal view as a fellow craftsman. It is your duty to spread the truth. If you do so you will relate that from 3,000 to 4,000 men, turning from their own leaders to the leadership of radicals and Communists, made an organized attack on the police of the District of Columbia. In this attack they injured a score of policemen. They overwhelmed the police and two rioters were killed."

"The first duty of the president of the United States is to maintain order. He acted unhesitatingly. From the moment the troops entered the city not a shot was fired, not a man injured. Law and order were promptly restored."

Lead to Brutality

Leaving Joslin's office, the delegation gave out individual interviews to newspaper men. They announced a determination to investigate and write about the bonus evacuation.

Anderson disputed Joslin's statement and said the moves did not bear out his contentions.

"If the president sets a precedent at a time like this when millions are unemployed, or turning the army loose on them, it will lead small officials all over the country to more brutality," Anderson told newspaper men.

In the written statement left by the delegation the president was asked if he intended to "scrap the constitution and the bill of rights for men and women whose misfortune, not whose fault, it is to be without work."

DEAL ON FOR SOVIET TRADE

Improvements of Russia-U. S. Relations Discussed

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Plans for improvement of trade relations with Soviet Russia are being discussed in important political and financial circles. Outside of the old-fashioned system of barter and exchange, however, those interested find that methods of extending further credit to the Soviet republic present perplexing problems.

While there are no official figures showing the present indebtedness of the Soviet union to the rest of the world, last October it was estimated at somewhere near $425,000,000. Most of this is in short term credits, principally in Germany, England, Italy and America. Debts due American manufacturers, aggregating some $40,000,000 are due this year and in 1933-34.

Exports Curtailed

Russian exports have been sharply curtailed the past year owing to the world slump in commodity prices. For some months the Soviet government has had considerable difficulty in obtaining foreign exchange. The result has been that American corporations have tightened their credit regulations or have declined to deal in other than very short-term credits.

Notwithstanding the shortness of money and credit, one large American firm is at present negotiating a barter arrangement with the Russians whereby it is hoped to exchange certain machinery, badly needed by the Soviets, for commodities usable in this country. The machinery is valued at around $25,000,000.

If the trade goes through, money will not even be mentioned.

UNFILLED ORDERS DECLINE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel corporation declined 62,466 tons in July to a total backlog of 1,966,302 tons on July 31.

OKLAHOMA WILL BUILD ROADS

$7,000,000 in Highways To Be Spent in Year

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 10. (UP)—Chairman Sam Hawks of the state highway commission today estimated the state would build $7,000,000 in roads before next July 1, the largest program of road building for a like period in the state's history.

Agreement was reached with C. E. Swain, federal district engineer, for immediate use of $3,500,000 of federal aid money and $2,800,000 is special aid from the recent federal relief bill to stimulate employment.

In addition to the federal aid money, Hawks estimated state revenue from the gasoline tax, license tax and other sources would amount to another $3,500,000, available for state aid projects in which the federal government will not participate.

Excess Program

We have plans for a $4,000,000 federal aid program," said Hawks. "We prepared a program slightly in excess of the $3,500,000 available in federal funds to allow for projects which may not be approved.

"Of this $4,000,000 program, western Oklahoma is entitled to half. We will spend this money on graveled roads throughout the western part of the state."

Hawks said he drove a bargain with Swain whereby the federal official approved gravel roads with an eight inch compact top on federal aid projects without especially treated materials, being necessary or hard surfaced roads being a requirement to receive federal aid.

"Ninety per cent of this money will go for labor, as it will be spent largely for grade and drainage and gravel," the chairman said.

New Attorneys Announced For Oklahoma Proration

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 10. (UP)—Judge Sam W. Hayes' law firm will replace John H. Jarman as attorneys for the state proration enforcement organization, Lieut. Col. Cicero I. Murray announced today.

The change will be effective Aug. 15.

Jarman and the late J. B. Allen were engaged by Ray Collins, state proration umpire. Murray said the proration board engaged the new attorneys.

"And they will have plenty to do," the military supervisor said. "I have plenty of information which will be completed by Aug. 15 as the result of several months of investigation. We plan to prosecute a number of companies for illegal production and transporting oil."

YOUTH HELD FOR SLAYING

Dispute Over Tenant Farm Causes Agent's Death

NORMAN, Okla., Aug. 10. (UP)—A 17-year-old youth was held today for questioning in the shotgun slaying of a farmer neighbor, George Erkhart.

Erkhart, 35, who lives across the road from the Jim Norton farm home, 20 miles southeast of here, was slain last night. George Norton and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Norton, were arrested at midnight.

Undersheriff Ivan Kennedy said that the youth admitted shooting Erkhart in self-defense.

"Both he and his father said that Erkhart reached for his hip pocket," the officer said.

Kennedy reported he had learned the Nortons and Erkhart had quarreled often. Erkhart was the agent for the farm on which the Nortons were tenants and had attempted to evict them after disputes over rents and crops.

The undersheriff said he had the names of six persons who had heard Erkhart accuse "George" in a dying breath of shooting him with a .410 gauge shotgun.

Manuscript Club Members Have Charming Program

Both poetry and prose featured the bimonthly meeting of the Manuscript club when Mrs. Mary C. Hindman was hostess at her home on Buchanan Wednesday morning. "Dead Things in the Road," a clever poem by Ann Pence Davis, which appeared in an early August issue of the Houston "Gargoyle" the only work reported sold since the previous meeting. Mrs. Davis' work showed the polished finish of a cultured writer.

Mrs. Faye Yauger furnished a pleasant part of the program in two of her beautiful poems which she read with charming expression, "Abandoned Farm" and "Prospector's Wife." Mrs. Bentley Nelson gave a group of verses, among them "Poison," "Soul's Harvest," "Woman's Burden," and "Where Death Has Lien," each showing sympathetic interpretation. One of the outstanding numbers on the program was the poem, "Atonement," read by Mrs. Fania Kruger.

A short story, "Whose Chicken Sings," by Mrs. Mary C. Hindman was a clever variation of the program theme and won many compliments.

A delicious luncheon plate was served at the close of the program to Mesdames C. R. Yauger, Bentley Nelson, Sam Kruger, C. G. Williamson, W. B. Whiting, Arthur Henderson of Boston, H. B. Van Emden, Herbert Terrell, Misses Mildred Gildhouse, Mary Louise Staley, Jennie Louise Hindman and the hostess, Mrs. Hindman.

Mrs. Foster urged the group to push the Baylor college fund campaign.

Mrs. Stanley made an encouraging talk to the girls and Mrs. A. A. Foster taught the lesson from the mission study book, "Stewardship and Life." The closing prayer was given by Mrs. S. F. Martin.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

When Gene Howe of Amarillo created what one would call a real sensation a season or two ago by criticizing Mary Garden's performance in the city of Amarillo, and the two proceeded, according to newspaper tradition, to give one another quite strong doses of repartee, we became quite interested in Mr. Howe.

Having a member of our family who spends a deal of time in Amarillo and who has been continually reporting the neighborly manner in which Mr. Howe has endeared himself to his readers, we were all the more curious. But, due probably to that caricature heading his "Tactless Texan" column, we imagined quite another person than the real man.

For on that hectic holiday trip we made last week, we called on the gentleman. We had in our mind a quite middle-aged person, fatherly in demeanor and probably inaccessible.

We called early and were urged to wait some half an hour to talk to him. We waited in his office, and being taught to use our eyes, we did so before the editor arrived.

Gene Howe has a cheerful negro mammy as a doorstop and a chic young lady in green for an ash tray on the far—or visitor's side—of his flat-top desk. On top of his roll-top desk, there's a photograph of an adorable child. On the wall a regal photograph of Mary Garden, signed "To Gene Howe, with every good wish, 1931" makes one feel that the gentleman got the best of it in their little fracas even if he did poke gentle fun at himself.

The really interesting thing was a glimpse of personality that came from the vivid game pictures on the walls and one magnificently-colored canyon. "The man must hunt," sez I to myself; then on the desk I saw the "a la Ben Turpin" face that heads his column, in a paper weight, and I figured that a man with eyes like that could never use a gun.

There was a well-used Underwood and a pile of fresh copy paper; a stack of mail and a tin cup; (evidently the gentleman has his private drinking cup). There was a brickbat in the window; I wondered if it had any special significance.

I was warm (esectric fans not being so common in Amarillo) and went to stand by the window; just as I did, a car stopped and out stepped a tall, well-built, not-yet-middle-aged gentleman; he swung across toward the building and directly after I was shaking hand with the well-known son of a well-known newspaper father.

He does hunt. He'd been prophesying rain (against all the weather prophets) and was quite vainglorious because it had rained the night before. "I haven't missed but twice out of 30 times," he boasted like a boy. He's a powerfully good guesser. He is also interested in politics and we hope he's a good guesser there.

He has nice eyes that look straight into yours when he talks. No wonder children go to him with stories of their lost dogs (or so we have heard), and no wonder he has a following. When Henry Ansley, on his paper was offered an opportunity to spread his "I Like the Depression" into book form by a certain date, Gene Howe told him to forgot all about office hours until his work was done.

He's an editor: he is human and he doesn't even think he has to be hardboiled. Nice, isn't it?

IN DEPTHS OF DESPAIR

MRS. MARY JONES lives in New England. Every month was a nightmare to her. Her letter says, "I suffered periodical pains through my head, backache and female weakness."

She tried everything. Visited clinics. Nothing helped her. Finally she gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial . . . scarcely hoping it would succeed where more expensive things had failed.

But she was surprised. Through its tonic action, it built up her health . . . lessened her pain. She says, "My backache is completely relieved."

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

NOBODY KNOWS

Whenever you hear one crying a cure for all human ills, shun him. Nobody knows the cure. This is especially true about children. Nobody knows exactly what is best for the ailing, erring child. The wisest can only say, "Try this and hope for the best."

Each child errs according to his nature and it is not given to us to understand human nature nor the way of the individual child as he grows himself into a place in the world. We can study all children and learn some important things about them and feel certain of our knowledge. We learn that they need milk and cereal and eggs and green vegetables and fruit and a little meat and a touch of sweets. When we come to deal with a particular child, the one who sits scowling in his little chair at the breakfast table all we have learned wobbles hopelessly and we are confounded by this little goblin in his chair.

He doesn't want his orange juice. He pushes away his milk. He won't have anything to say to the lovely golden toast. The doctor says feed him. The psychologist says, "Let him go until he is hungry." Auntie demands that he be given what he wants. Father announces that he knows exactly what that young man needs. Nobody knows. Something has gone wrong and only time and patient study will help us to discover what it is.

The adolescent children trouble their guardians. They toss discretion and training out of the window. They flout our methods and our principles. They neglect their duties and cultivate their bad habits. They have fits of well doing when our hopes soar. They have moods of ecstacy and depths of depression. The whole family knows, each in his own mind, precisely what ought to be done with such a child. But nobody knows.

The wise, well trained, experienced physician who has made such children his lifework can help. The understanding teacher can do much. The mother who bore the child can do wonders. In the end wisdom comes through experience with the individual child.

It is all very confusing to the conscientious mother and father. With so many voices uplifted in good council who knows which to heed? The kindly neighbor says, "When my boy did that I just did this and I've never had any trouble with him that way since." Your own mind tells you that this won't work with your son, or your daughter. Listen to what your own mind tells you. It is likely to be nearer right. You know what nobody else can know, what you would never be willing to tell, about this child and his rearing. Listen to all and follow the council of your own experience.

What works well with one child, even within the family, may not help another in the least. Before we can decide upon a way and a policy we have to discover the cause of the difficulty. Nobody knows exactly what makes one child keep the law and the other flout it. Nobody can know until he knows the child through and through, and nobody ever did that yet. Each child is a sealed mystery and will be explained only in terms of the infinite.

Go softly, slowly, humbly in the presence of a child. Pray for guidance, for faith and keep hoping. Faith does more with children than all the uncertain knowledge we possess.

Friberg Club Hears Address By Miss Webb

An interesting lecture on "Building Better Bodies," by Miss Ethel Luise Webb, county demonstration agent, featured the meeting of the Friberg Demonstration club Tuesday afternoon. Stressing the point that if purchasable, people would buy new bodies, but that the only recourse was to build the best possible with what one had, Miss Webb emphasized in her talk those points that go to making perfection in a human body.

"We cannot buy perfection," she said, "but we can bring the bodies we have nearer to this ideal by insuring sufficient rest, proper exercise, inner and outer cleanliness, fresh air, pure water and correct food."

Menus for hot weather were planned and club members were given recipes for salads, desserts and drinks that are cooling and nourishing.

At the close of the program, Miss Webb led the group in old fashioned folk games.

Mrs. C. A. Winslow was hostess and roll call was answered with current events or individual accomplishments in canning. Mesdames H. E. Eubank, H. C. Fowler and C. S. Crunk were appointed as an expansion committee and a community social was planned to take place Tuesday evening, Aug. 23, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Campbell.

E. Post Advises Girl On Duties As Week-End Guest

By EMILY POST
Author of "Etiquette, the Blue Book of Social Usage."

Dear Mrs. Post—I have been invited to stay at a girl friend's house for a week-end visit this summer. (1) Should I offer to help do the dishes? (2) Should I say "thank you" at the end of every meal or (3) for everything when I leave? (4) Should I thank her mother, her father or both? (5) Is it necessary to write a note after I get home thanking her for the pleasant time she gave me? (6) Would I write the note to the girl or to her mother? (7) How could I return their kindness? Our house is too small to invite this girl to stay overnight.

Answer—(1) You should do whatever is the helpful and considerate thing, no matter what it may be. (2) No. (3) Yes. (4) Both. (5) and (6) Absolutely necessary that you write a bread-and-butter letter to your friend's mother. (7) Ask the girl to lunch or take her to a play or to the movies.

My Dear Mrs. Post—When is it correct to address a person by his first name? (1) Is it ever correct to address a business superior in such a manner? (2) How would I address the sister and brother-in-law of a girl friend of mine, providing I had met them only once? (3) How would my friend (a man) address them? (4) Is it always correct to rise when a person enters the room, or does this merely apply to elderly people?

Answer—(1) On no account, unless asked by him to do so. (2) "Mrs. Smith" and "Mr. Smith." (3) The same, of course. (4) Host and hostess always rise to greet a guest. Man always rises for a woman, girl rises for an older woman only if the latter offers to shake hands.

Dear Mrs. Post—In presenting members of a church program to an audience is it correct to say "little Miss Mary Smith and Master Roy Hill?"

Answer—There is no rule of "correctness" for introducing young children but "little Miss—" and "young Master—" would probably give the children a feeling of being treated with especial consideration, which very like the effect of applause, encourages any performer of no matter what age.

MURRAY WARNS AGAINST MOBS

Violence Won't Be Tolerated Governor Says

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 10 (UP)—Charging a conspiracy against laws of Oklahoma in the McAlester-Hartshorne miners strike, by a group of men organizing in Arkansas, Gov. W. H. Murray declared today the "state will not tolerate mob violence or conspiracies."

In a thousand-word open message to miners, operators, and coal field residents, Murray said Arnold Davidson, caretaker of a mine near Dow, was attacked and forced to join a miner's union.

"Davidson was accosted by a group of men," said Murray. "When he refused to join their union, he was knocked in the head and rendered unconscious, and threatened to be killed if he failed to join them, and was taken before a large group of men said to be miners and compelled to sign up."

Accuses Sheriff

Murray said the walk out of about 1,500 miners in the district has been attended by some lawlessness, and it must not be repeated.

Arkansas miners, led by a sheriff, paraded through the coal district at McCurtain and threatened vengeance against miners if they went to work, Murray charged. He criticized the sheriff, whom he did not name, and said all public officials should maintain neutrality in such disturbances.

Murray said there is some cause for complaints by miners because safety conditions are not up to standard, but he said he would try to have them corrected.

Texas Leaders Hail Cotton Upturn As Forerunner Of Better Business

DALLAS, Aug. 10. (INS)—Bolstered by an estimated increase of $20,000,000 in the potential wealth of farmers in Texas through recent advances in cotton prices, a belief that business conditions definitely are on the upgrade was expressed by business leaders here today.

Cotton is the chief money crop of the state, and business conditions are influenced greatly by the price of cotton. For this reason merchants in general hailed the increased cotton prices with glee.

"It is one of the best indications of a good fall business," George A. Coffey, president of the Dallas Wholesale Merchants association, said.

"The increase in cotton prices already is reflected by increased business in textile buying, a chamber of commerce survey shows," J. Ben Critz, vice president and general manager of the chamber stated. "There is no question but there is a marked improvement in business conditions with us, and the mental attitude is 100 per cent better."

"I am very optimistic," said Eli Sanger, widely known merchant. "Everybody feels that business is getting better and that will go a long way toward making it that way."

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Aug. 10.—The Texas Oil company No. 1 First State bank is expected to be drilled in Thursday. Casing has been cemented and is being given time to set.

The test is attracting considerable interest here since it developed a powerful gas flow that could be heard two miles after hitting the sand last Saturday. The well encountered the pay at 1443 feet, 43 feet higher than the original Fluhman sand in that area.

The location is in section 1, block 18, H. & T. C. survey, on the old John F. Shipley tract, 12 miles southwest of Vernon.

VERNON AREA IS OPTIMISTIC

Commodity Rise, Prospect Lower Taxes Brings Cheer

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Aug. 10.—General optimism throughout the country manifested in rising commodity values has made itself felt in Vernon and Wilbarger county, contributing a materially brighter outlook for this section. A sharp increase in the potential values of cattle, hogs, growing cotton, prospects for an extensive public construction program, strong indications of a material reduction in taxes, a stronger position on the part of both rural and urban residents as a result of an extensive canning program conducted throughout the county, a general return of confidence as a result of these favorable developments are among the most encouraging aspects being pointed to here.

Crop Values Increase

Farm crop values of the county have increased more than $300,000 within the last few days as a result of market developments. The major portion of this increase is based on the rise in the price of cotton which, with the normal crop in prospect, should mean an addition of approximately $250,000 to the agricultural income of the county this fall.

With the price of cattle having increased approximately $2.60 a head, Wilbarger county's 22,000 cattle should be worth some $59,000 more than they were a few days ago. Hogs having increased in market value approximately $3 a head, the 2,550 estimated on the farms of this county are worth some $5,100 more than they were a short time ago.

Road Contracts Let

With the contract already let for 17 miles of highway paving, plans being drawn for the hard-surfacing of 21 additional miles, and plans in the process of preparation for a railway overpass near here, and data being assembled on a project for an addition to the local postoffice, the outlook is bright for considerable construction activity in this county. Business interests point out that this would mean a material increase in the buying power of the county, with resultant quickened business and a general increase in employment.

Building projects include 17 miles of hard surfacing on highway 23 north from Vernon to the state line, already contracted and work scheduled to start within the next few days; 21 miles of hard surfacing on highway 28 from Vernon south to the Baylor county line, plans in process of preparation; an overpass at the intersection of highway 5 with the Fort Worth and Denver railway three miles northwest of Vernon, plans in process of formation; an addition to the Vernon postoffice, with $50,000 discussed as the possible cost, the allocation having been made and the postmaster ordered to supply data necessary for the preparation of plans.

Lowered Taxes Likely

The prospect for a material reduction in taxes was enhanced Tuesday when Governor Sterling wired Judge L. P. Bonner urging that the commissioners court take no action relative to setting the county tax rate until after the special session of the legislature at which it is proposed to have county highway obligations assumed by the state, to be paid out of the gasoline tax. Should this county's highway obligations be assumed by the state it would mean a saving of 57 cents on the $100 valuation for the local taxpayers on the basis of last year's figures. The commissioners court is considering the possibility of a local reduction of 10 per cent, which would make a total reduction of approximately 67 cents from last year's county rate of $1.25 on the $100 valuation.

An extensive canning program has been carried out in this county, with farmers storing away sufficient food for themselves, then canning their surplus for urban people on a share basis. It is estimated that all previous canning programs have been doubled or trebled. Secretary L. A. Wilson of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce says the "Wilbarger farmer was never in such condition so far as the prospect of eating is concerned."

Confidence Restored

All these favorable factors have, business interests are inclined to believe, brought about a return of confidence that will contribute incalculably to the improvement of business and conditions in general. People are becoming optimistic again with the belief that the upward movement is actually upon them.

Eldorado Youngsters Hurt as Horses Collide

Special to The Record News.

ELDORADO, Okla., Aug. 10.—A Sunday afternoon horseback ride proved disastrous to Joe Gober and Miss Elva Doughten, both about 14 years old, when their mounts ran into each other, throwing Gober against a fence post and breaking his leg below the knee, and the young lady's horse running too close to the barbed wire fence, inflicting upon the rider several painful cuts.

The accident occurred on the Al Smith farm near Elmer, Okla., where the Eldorado young people were visiting relatives.

Dr. E. S. Crow of Olustee who rendered first aid said it would be several days before Gober could be returned to his home in safety.

'Lie Detector' Traps Doctor

Chicago police held Dr. William A. O'Brien, 41, for further investigation into the supposed suicide of his wife, Mrs. Vera O'Brien, 26, after tests with a lie detector at Northwestern university brought the admission from the radiologist he had lied in some particulars in his first story to police. Mrs. O'Brien died of poisoning. Handwriting experts declared a suicide note found beside her was a forgery. Photo shows Dr. O'Brien and his wife shortly before her death.

Business Leaders Vary In Opinions Of Ultimate Result In Stock Rises

Some Believe 'Green Light' for Business in Sight, Others Contend Upturn Engineered in Politics

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (INS)—The marked upward trend taken by the stock market during the past week has caused a great deal of speculation among business leaders as to whether the rise is a mere flurry which will soon expend itself or whether it presages the return of the full dinner pail and an era of economic stability.

Opinions vary considerably, with some thinking that the rise has been engineered for political purposes, others that it is the result of buyers rushing in because they think that rock bottom has finally been reached, while others maintain that it is the logical reaction from a long period of inactivity and that the upward trend, while fluctuating, will continue.

Work Increasing

Frederick S. Snyder, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, is one who holds to the latter view. "Employment is on the increase," he said today, "from now on the general movement will be upward. One small town in New Hampshire saw its pay roll grow from $5,000 to $15,000 in the last 90 days. This is typical of those industries which respond most quickly to human needs." While the present bull market will probably follow general precedence in being saw-toothed in its progress, yet the average movement ought to be upward. Cross currents will confuse us but the foundation appears to be established for the long awaited upturn."

Dr. Harvey A. Wooster, director of the Massachusetts commission on the stabilization of employment, was not so optimistic.

Steel Still Low

"Increased activity in industry is spotty throughout the country," he declared. "It is characteristic of this time of the year. It is true that there has been a slight increase in the textile industry in New England but our two main industries—steel and automobile—are still at a low point.

"Whether there is any political rigging in connection with the sudden rise in the market I do not know," he said. "But if there is the upward trend won't last long."

Although he admitted that it was chiefly guess work, Harry Fannestock, president of the Baltimore stock exchange, saw green lights ahead for business and predicted that it was only a matter of further adjustment before business made its long-awaited comeback.

Slowly Improving

"I believe," he said, "that the general business situation is slowly but surely improving and that the stock market is reflecting this improvement."

J. K. Sterne, general manager of the May Company of Baltimore, was in complete agreement.

"The stiffening of commodity prices is very encouraging," he said. "In many of our lines prices are increasing. Such a condition sustained, is the difference between depression and prosperity. The better feeling created by these conditions is being reflected in our retail sales."

Clarence Francis, executive vice president of the General Foods corporation also interpreted the rise in the price of commodities as blazing the trail to better business.

Logical Trend

"It is the beginning of a logical trend towards an ultimate return of reasonable values," he said. "If all industry acts with confidence now, employment should be materially increased thus helping to establish real permanency. But credit and aggressive industrial leadership is essential."

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the General Motors corporation: "I see no evidence as yet that would lead me to think there was any definite change in the business trend. The improvement in prices of securities and commodities certainly reflects an improved attitude toward the future, however, and this confidence is bound to react favorably on the business situation."

MURDER LAID TO OLD ENMITY

Police at San Antonio Seek Clue in Double Slaying

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 10. (INS)—An old grudge, involving a killing was named by officers today as the motive for the mysterious double murder here Monday night of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Markley, shot to death as they opened the door of the garage at their home here.

Investigators, working from a woman's name screamed by Mrs. Markley just before she was shot down, said today they were certain of the identity of the woman who fired the shots. An arrest was expected.

The woman left bloody tracks from high-healed shoes as she fled from the scene of the shooting. She apparently had been hiding in the garage and started shooting when Mrs. Markley, opening the garage door, saw her.

Discovery that two diamond rings had been stripped from the dying woman's fingers added new mystery to the dual slaying today. Officers still were not convinced that robbery was the motive.

Police also revealed that new clues have been found, indicating that a man also was present at the double murder.

Chicagoan Stabs Father On Learning Name Not Right One

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (UP)—His father had always called him Dino Di Vita and Di Vita supposed that was his name.

Then someone taunted him: "You're names not 'Dino,' it's 'Bieno,'" the taunter proclaimed.

That made Di Vita angry. He went down to the city hall and looked up the records. Sure enough Di Vita had been christened "Bieno." Madder than ever, police said he informed them, he went home, stabbed his father in the shoulders and hit him with a chair.

Then, still angry, he telephoned police and told the officers all about it.

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Aug. 10.—Stephens county property valuations for 1933 will drop below $15,000,000, meaning an average tax reduction of 10 to 15 per cent, County Assessor Simeon Charleston estimates.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The success of "Big Jim" Farley as a political diplomat having been dedicated by the Roosevelt-Hague and Roosevelt-Ely rapprochements, another field immediately opened for him.

What is he going to do about Mayor Jimmie Walker's alleged intention to run for the Democratic nomination for governor if he should be ousted as mayor by Governor Roosevelt under the Seabury charges?

With Roosevelt and former Governor Smith supporting the claims of Lieutenant Governor Lehman to the nomination, it has been clear all along that the Roosevelt strategists were counting on a virtual complete healing of the convention break between Roosevelt and Smith factions by this means.

Lehman himself was the peace envoy to Smith in that case, Farley taking on the task of getting Hague in New Jersey and Ely in Massachusetts onto the Roosevelt bandwagon.

A Brow-Wrinkler

It is reasonable to assume that Farley has no more inkling of what the governor is going to do about the Walker case than has anybody else. Yet the statement that Walker, if ousted, plans to run for governor, is a matter that would give "Big Jim" natural concern.

In addition to being general manager of the Roosevelt national campaign, Farley is state chairman in New York. A row over the nomination for governor, splitting Tammany and the up-state wing of the party, could have serious effect not alone on the Roosevelt hopes of carrying his home state for the presidency, but upon the success of the gubernatorial ticket as well.

Coming back to the Roosevelt-Ely get-together, there is one rather mystifying paragraph in Ely's announcement of his support of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket and his readiness to run again for governor of Massachusetts to aid that ticket.

"The needs of the times . . . make it imperative that the (presidential) cabinet be composed of the ablest public servants, even regardless of strict party affiliation," Governor Ely said. . . . "The best will be none too good for these times and the Democratic president will have the best."

Between the Lines

That clearly suggests that Roosevelt and Ely talked cabinet possibilities in their conference. But to whom does the "even regardless of strict party affiliation" point? That could hardly cover Al Smith. Nor does Ely's notably conservative trend indicate that it has in mind some of the western Republican irregulars who have declared for Roosevelt, or who may so declare.

Yet the implication is that some Republican or former Republican of possible cabinet size must have been in the minds of both Roosevelt and Ely when they had their peace talk. Who could that be?

Suspect Held After Oklahoma Bank 'Job'

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Aug. 10. (UP)—Within two hours after the American Exchange bank at Shidler near here was robbed by a bandit today, a man giving his name as Hauserman, was arrested five miles northeast of Foraker.

The man, who said he was from Pueblo, Colo., was captured in a ravine near Foraker by a posse of Osage county officers and the two bank officials and a customer who were forced to lie on the floor while the bandit looted the vault.

All of the loot totaling $300 was recovered. The man was brought to the Osage county jail here.

Farmers at Duncan Cheered by Cotton Hike

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Aug. 10.—Business men and farmers have been cheered by the rising cotton market because recent price gains, if held through the marketing season, have boosted the county's wealth by around $100,000, on paper.

J. A. Hayden, bank president and heavy land owner, estimates the county cotton crop this year at around 18,000 bales, a slight loss over last year due to an average acreage cut of 10 per cent. Condition of the crop now is normal and about the same as at this period a year ago.

Boll weevils are damaging some fields in the eastern half of the county, while the crop throughout the district is being hurt by hot, dry weather. Farmers say the drouth damage has been counterbalanced by the fact that the hot days have held weevils in check. Three weeks ago weevils were a serious menace in many sections.

NEW MANAGER

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 10.—Carl Throop, for about four years district manager of the Southwestern Associated Telephone company with headquarters here, has been transferred to Lubbock and G. E. Bateman, who has had headquarters at Paducah as district manager, was transferred here. Mr. Throop left Tuesday for Lubbock. Mr. Bateman came here Saturday to take over his new post.

These Criticisms of the Modern Boy

JUST about the most completely useless thing a man can do is to utter lamentations about the shortcomings of modern youth. Ministers, more than any one else, ought to know this; and it is a bit surprising to find such a man as Cuthbert Hishiston, headmaster of Leeming college, England, declaring publicly that school boys nowadays are "unmanly, untruthful, easily bored, vain and dishonest."

Naturally, this blast drew a flock of replies, most spirited of which was that voiced by Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, who insisted that the modern boy is a better chap than his father was, and not a worse one.

But the defense of the modern boy is not a matter that need detain us. The interesting thing is trying to figure out just why any adult should ever feel called on to open an attack like Mr. Hishiston's in the first place.

Boyhood is more or less what we grownups make it. It comes into a world which will shape it and mould it, and it is not the least responsible for what that world is. We adults are responsible. If we find boyhood growing deceitful, cowardly and frivolous, we have no one but ourselves to blame.

For boyhood wants, more than anything else on earth, some one to look up to, some one on whom it can mold itself. It is pathetically eager to please the grownup world, and it will take almost any path that the grownup world indicates. And if, today, it finds itself in a world where good models are scarce, where honesty and courage and sincerity do not seem to command a very high premium—well, whose fault is that?

The world is in a sad mess these days, and if it ever gets out of it it will be because of the boys that are just now growing toward manhood. We have precious little call to be critical.

Taxpayers Paying for Mills' Speeches

SECRETARY OGDEN L. MILLS of the department of the treasury is a multi-millionaire; a tremendous shouter for economy in government and one of the key orators of the administration. John F. Costello is a Democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia. Costello has made the direct charge that the golden-voiced Mills as well as the golden pocket-lined Mills is guilty of misuse of the postal franking privilege "in a moral and economic sense if not in an actual violation of law."

This is the milk in the cocoanut: "A series of pop-gun political speeches and statements by Mills have been mailed out under free franking privileges at the expense of the taxpayers." Well, the golden-voiced performer who is continuously shouting for economy in government should practice some of the reforms that he preaches. There is a lot of hypocrisy as well as a lot of hunk in the form of literature franked out of Washington by the great and the near great, the wise and the near wise—those who are giving fattening food to be found in the government troughs.

The Neighborhood Store

THE independent retail grocer has had more than his fair share of troubles during the last few years. In addition to meeting the ordinary handicaps imposed by the depression, he has had to furnish groceries to uncounted numbers of patrons who had no money at all with which to pay him. It is a wonder that he has survived at all.

But Carl W. Dipman, editor of The Progressive Grocer, told a convention of retail grocers at Rochester, N. Y., recently that the independent grocer is still holding his own in very good shape. The combination of hard times, unpaid bills and competition from the chain stores has not knocked him off his feet. When prosperity returns he will be ready for it.

This is a striking testimonial to the hard-headed business ability of the thousands of men who invested all their capital and a lifetime of hard work in the neighborhood store. Somehow, it is the sort of news one likes to read.

Michigan's Quick Justice

IT WOULD be hard to find a better example of speedy justice than that furnished by Michigan authorities following the murder of 17-year-old Evelyn Sanford.

The girl was abducted and shot on a Saturday night. On the following Wednesday the state police found her body. On Wednesday night they arrested her murderer, who promptly confessed—and who confessed incidentally, without the incentive of any third-degree torture. On Thursday the man was brought into court, where he pleaded guilty. And on Friday he was on his way to prison to begin serving a life sentence.

Here is a model case police departments and courts all over the country might well copy. Less than one week elapsed between commission of the crime and arrival of the criminal at the penitentiary. Quick justice of that kind is society's best protection.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

A Chronicle, Not a Diary, by John Bunn in the Sun.

Dear W. W.: Cliff Edwards (Ukulele Ike) and Young Dorothy will do that other thing in about a month. He expects the event to-day. . . . The wedding and supposed companion of Jane Harding was Hollis Peters until he arrived in the Westport place. . . . I see that the U. S. govt and the newspapers keep calling it the Olympiad. In point of fact, the Olympiad is the time between the Olympic games and designates a period of time, and the games . . . Hollis Taylor and E. Sutton are doing together regularly . . . Mary Lawlor, who married Lynn Lary of the Yankees a year ago, is putting a return to the stage . . . It's a girl at the George Letts and ditto at the Jack DeMace's (Helen Hayes). . . . Those "Do You Remember" by John La Gatta are going by two gorgeous girls and one chap. The latter is Curtis Glenn. He sounds in Geraldine Mansfield and the man is Douglas Stanley. . . .

Yankee Moore and Ernest Adams are merging next month . . . The Peter Wimmerlins (Gilroy's brother) and she is Dorothy Hamlin of Cliffordtown were divorced in Chicago this week. . . . Dorothy Dell is now among the spotlits at the Riviera, across the Bridge . . . Frances Williams is headlining at the Rose-Fenton Farm . . . Mary Eloy is returning to the footlights with Charles Sabin and one doubt they will do probably will be shopped after the initial performance. It deals with the Nancy Cunard-Harding matter. . . . I understand that Peggy Fears and not Willa will be chairwoman of the Beauty Exposition . . . Arthur Hoard of 220 W. 42nd will give a job to that "Banner Belasco star" who is "sleeping in the Park" . . . Billy Petrillo's manager has been looking over all movies showing Communist in action to see his fighting tactics . . . Chas. Winninger of "Show Boat" and Gertrude Walker are vaca-mates.

That Mae Clarke-Henry Fonda affair is on the mend, they say . . . Robert Young wins the last of the decisions over Wynyard Brown to I Gilbert has had his wearable handed by Gertrude Michael . . . The Gene Morgan (she was Kathryn Perry) are trying to arrange that spark again . . . The Hugh Herbert (Dora Thomas), the Lord magistrate's daughter, are heart-dappling . . . Jane Bruce's mother is critically ill at the Post-Graduate Hosp. . . . A friend of mine just returned from London told me that the newest gag in musicomedy there calls for striped Tuxedo pants. It takes two hours to prepare both pants . . . That married pair in "Show Boat" only talk to each other during their act . . . Toni Preston has a new idea in rings. She had one made of crystal with her hungry photo inserted underneath . . . No truth at all to those reports about Charles Farrell and Virginia Valli.

Here's some more Garbo stuff you might use. She was at the Connecticut in Bonneville under the name of Mary Gerritt, when she wasn't at the local hotels avoiding the cash. The hotel there did everything to protect her from newspaper men and let her have a private entrance. The day before she pulled a vague puzzler was leading Greta out of the private entrance. The hotel manager who was escorting her kept calling her "Mary" to throw the purser off the scent, but the purser had an idea she was a movie person. So when he finally got her into a car—he nodded and said: "That's the time we fooled them newspaper guys, won't it, Miss Fieldston?" . . . The hotel discovered that Garbo is most helpful to people who are deaf—for the simple reason that nothing is a secret that stops anything but cries of thunder and then only partly. . . . Hilliard Pollock was in and told me that the "Adam" at Abel and Broadway is operating even. It never was that there was an incident there that just by which a lot of good people spilled out in April, and the result is a fine field of corn right in the middle of Broadway. Sounds like a good tip for the news and editorial men.

The "Follies Bergere" cast, I understand, has only signed for a fortnight. Oddball, however, that Mayor Walker, the boys who did several things for the first "Follies" here, are delightfully married—Bobbie Connolly, Jessie Bonstelle, Arthur Hurley, Ralph Whitehead, Lucius Beebe, Tallulah Bankhead, Ina Claire, Peter Arno, by the way, have done his first murder with Dixie Hamilton, which Slaughter-Hamilton have accomplished for publication. Of course, the answer can be the short words will be done by Arno. . . . Hearst's son Jim Ripley, whose many homes in a more cosy state of affairs connected with one of them? . . . This actually happened on the last day of Hoboken Glory 300 . . . There were three gorgeous in the room—got somebody made a misfit on the result and names given last a little although they picked the winner . . . Mrs. Hugh Smith (nee Ruth Hale) is on one of the ex-Hall bureau-of-absence duties, the Hollywood conference, and they hear that she will shortly be among Hugh Johnson of Atlanta the City.

Among other Indoor sports in town is that one of the Hays, in Greenwich Village, where they hold the name, Plenty of laughs . . . Hugh Baldwin, who was general manager for the old Standard company of Augustus of $50,000 a year, has just taken a job as manager of a New York theater in Philly at the regular manager's wage . . . I suppose that you observed that in the news and opinions of the N. R. A. and Washington public committees little or no mention was made of the big-time racketeering. Somebody had that covered.

Mrs. Leslie Carter has purchased a site near Santa Cruz and is building the dwelling across the ground . . . Chattanooga is about the only town in the country Mary Boland hasn't made for her county nights at the theater and they go together . . . There are no secrets. If and when, newspapers and magazines, correspondents in Hollywood, Washington and New York will I take to the hardest, Wall St. . . . Sweet gag in Gilbert Seldes's Revues. His fable of a multimillionaire's dream girl who, a few years ago, would remember through the times meeting all the prominent women there in connection with the Hall-Mills case. Then he woke up to find the real girl was the one who was the cook.

Mrs. Belle Mitchell has a new show-in the grounds that she was the daughter. . . . "Mrs. Belmont," they'll now refer to her when. . . . Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" is the best novel to come out of America in years. Don't miss it.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE MENTAL MARVEL—In 1913 M. C. Berg of New York City discovered the boy wonder, Zerah II, in a Leeds, England, slum district. Though Zerah never had any schooling he had a supernatural mind for mathematics and was able to solve any difficult problem in but a few seconds. The boy was exhibited throughout Great Britain and the United States as a featured vaudeville attraction, and his prowess with figures was tested thousands of times, without failure. Physicians who examined the boy could not account for this power, outside of the fact that the boy's brain was abnormal. But in the early part of 1916, when Zerah II was but 19 years old, he commenced to lose his peculiar power and within a year he was absolutely helpless in so far as mathematics were concerned.

FLIGHTY

SYNOPSIS

Gypsy O'Malley, 22, and proud, dark and lovely, lived with her glamour aunt, Irene Brent, lavishly in a home on her wealthy lover's estate on Long Island. She was a financial and social favorite, despite the fact that Gypsy O'Malley, who had just gotten a job as a flying girl, her competition not yet old and still good looking, was rich, extravagant and selfish, and scorned the admiration of men. Her father, Dan O'Malley, in the early 90s, lived in a shack on the Texas plains. To him his daughter, Gypsy O'Malley Gypsy, thoroughly disgusted decided to get a job, after a disappointing day in the city she returned home to find a disabled airplane circling in the darkness and a howling storm. She signaled a path of glowing cigarettes, and the plane, piloted by Ted Coleman, a famous transatlantic flyer, landed safely. Brent offered to teach her to fly. When he was busy, she was introduced by Ted Coleman. When Angel learned that Brent was taking Gypsy out to dinner, she secretly broke an engagement to go with them. Brent and Angel played beside the next day. Sunday, Gypsy was heartbroken that Brent completely went on Monday to the airport. Brent's plane was just taking off. Ted said her he would let her make her first solo flight. Then she helped him fix up an old plane.

CHAPTER VII

"I'll let you solo," Ted had just said. She was going up in a plane alone for the first time. Gypsy thrust her arms around Ted.

"Ted—you darling!"

He gulped hard and held her tightly. She quelled away.

"Now! That's just fair. I was only showing a little elementary gratitude."

"I thought you wanted to neck. Pardon me," he grinned, impishly.

"I'll get my overalls—and you go climb off a cliff." She made a face at him and ran away.

Ted was amused to find how much Gypsy had learned about planes since she had first come to Dunham field. She had deliberately planned to get her into the overalls and help him. Neither with a slip to find out if she knew what it was all about. It made him more certain it was safe to let her solo.

She looked adorable in the brown overalls, much too large for her five foot three, with her brown hair curling in damp little ringlets around her flushed face, streaked with black grease and dust. Like a little girl who had been playing at mud pies. When they had reassembled the plane and Ted had lectured at great length about all the parts that went to make the ship, she dashed back to her dressing room at the office building to get into her flying clothes.

Her heart was beating like a little drum however as she smoothed her face and hands and combed her hair and buttoned herself into her flying suit. When she ran out to Ted he was standing beside the plane she was to use, looking very serious. She felt her spirits sink.

"I know what you're thinking," she said. "That I'm going to get sick or for an these telegraph wires and things and go blooey."

He winced. "Don't say such things. If I thought so, do you think I'd let you take the ship up?"

"Don't look so serious, then," she scolded up and patted his cheek. "I'm going to be very steady—and don't get excited. It's really very simple if you follow the rules."

"Be careful you," she waved gayly as she gave the ship the gun and started across the field.

Ted gripped his hands until the knuckles were white. He caught his breath as he saw the ship rise. Higher, higher. Why, the kid was doing a beautiful take off! She cleared the telegraph wires like a veteran. He relaxed then and watched—fascinated. By that time a number of the pilots and mechanics were aware that the little O'Malley girl was making her first solo and had gathered around.

Gypsy circled the field, dipped in a saucy little salute, and sped off. Ted winced again as he saw her set off for Manhattan.

"Darn the little monkey," he said to the man nearest him, "I didn't tell her to go to China."

"Ah, let the kid go," the pilot, an old veteran, grinned admiringly. "She's trying her wings."

Gypsy, her heart singing, soared higher and higher. Never had she felt quite so free. Her pretty little world with its cares and woes and humiliation seemed far behind. Even Brent and Angel. The evening before when she had sobbed so hard—and the evening before that when Brent had so completely forgotten her for the baby-faced little Angel.

Laughing gaily, she climbed for altitude—higher, higher — and increased her speed, unconsciously. Why couldn't she go on—on forever?

When she was out of sight, lost in a haze of filmy clouds, Ted, pale with fright, turned and walked to the hangar. He was afraid the boys would see his fear. What was this feeling for Gypsy O'Malley, which made his heart turn cold and his blood stand still when she had soared out of his sight? It was new to Ted. Try as he might, he couldn't laugh it off.

Gypsy, flushed with the triumph of her new life, sailed on. She was almost 2,000 feet above New York City. She banked the ship and looked down at Manhattan island, hazy and immense through the curtain of clouds. The skyscrapers reached up like huge arms toward the plane.

It was a perfect day for flying and Gypsy had flown for nearly an hour, drinking in the beauties of the scene below, when she suddenly realized that Ted was waiting for her back at the field and that he might be worried. With a little frown, she turned and sped back.

Ted was standing, his eyes riveted to the clouds above, when the ship came into view. Gypsy circled the field twice, and came down for a fairly good three-point landing. The plane rocked a little uncertainly and came to a bumpy stop. Ted ran over to her, weak with relief.

His first impulse was to pull her out of the plane and give her a thorough spanking. But when he saw her face, lit with happiness, he joined the admiring pilots and mechanics in the applause that followed her safe return.

Gypsy wanted to cry. But she gave the stick a loving little pat and hopped out. It was a grand world, after all.

Gypsy found herself the center of all eyes at the airport the rest of the day. Pilots and mechanics came up to congratulate her and point her out to visitors.

Her ears burned with pretty compliments. It was wonderful to feel that she had held the silver dawn for something really worth while. At last she felt she was on the right road. And she owed it all to Brent Dunham, who sighed, and a little of the unhappiness came back to mar her joy at the thought of him.

Ted came up to her grinning as she left the hangar to get into her own clothes at the end of the day. He turned the grin out of his face and asked hesitantly, his manner was noticeable that Gypsy prepared to laugh.

"Lady," he began, swallowing with difficulty.

"Speak up, my good man, speak up," she urged sternly, trying not to smile. "I haven't all day."

"Lady—if I wux a poor beggar you'd gimme a cup of coffee, wouldn't yuh?"

"Yes—if you worked for it."

"Well—lady, I done something for you didn't I? Didn't I learn you to fly?"

"Indeed you did. Come over to the restaurant if you're hungry. I'll buy you a cup of coffee." Her eyes twinkled.

He twisted his helmet and gulped for several seconds more.

"I do not crave me food for the body—but food for the soul."

"How about a few animal crackers?"

"Scoff not, fair lady. May I ask a favor—in safety. I would not incur thy wrath."

"Yes, yes—speak and be gone, knave."

Now he really did look ill at ease and his next question came in a rush.

"Gypsy—are you doing anything tonight?"

"No—," she answered a little uncertainly.

"Then, will you please go stepping with me? Don't say you won't. You've turned everybody down on the field and I've been afraid to ask you before."

"Of course, I will, silly," Gypsy laughed. "We'll celebrate my solo. I'd love it."

Relief spread all over Ted's face. It was the first time he had ever asked a girl for a date and cared so much what her answer would be.

"Meet me here in fifteen minutes," Gypsy told him, and laughed gleefully at the goofy dance of joy he performed dashing for the hangar.

Why couldn't Brent be like that?

When Gypsy got to her dressing room she discovered that, mysteriously, a spot had appeared down the front of her blue dress. It looked like grease. It was easy to get spots on clothes around the port. When she went out Ted was waiting in front.

"I didn't really think you'd make it so fast," she told him, looking surprised. "How did you dress so quickly?"

"I was inspired. I knew that every minute meant one less sixty seconds in the sunlight of your smile."

"You'll do! And I'm very sorry. But we'll have to drive by home. Look—this great big spot of grease got on my dress somehow. Do you mind?"

"Not at all. Hop in my chariot. You look as though you belonged in a covered wagon."

"The next person that reminds me I really look like a gypsy is a nigger baby. Darn it! Er—perhaps this is a covered wagon. I've never seen anything like it."

Ted puckered his face to weep.

"This is my little Penelope—and don't you go sayin' she don't look as though she's been done right by. I brung her up from a pup."

"There, there little boy," Gypsy patted this face, then burst into a laugh. "Ted, you're a grand cure for the heebie jeebies. I'm awfully glad you asked me to go out with you tonight."

"Just for that sweet talk, sister, I'll tell you Penelope's right name—and her age. She's only seven years old and the name is Flivver. I call her Penelope for short. I've been an awfully good father to her, don't you think? See—she doesn't even keep fleeces."

"I'll advise that you have the finely physicians take a little look at her adenoids, though—just as a precautionary measure," Gypsy dimpled.

"That's hay fever," Ted added seriously. "I've got to find a new home for her. I don't think the barn is a good place at her age. It'll be rheumatis next. Then where'll she be?"

He broke into song!

"Then we'll cut down the ole pine tree-e-e,
And haul it away to the mill—
To make a coffin of pine, for that old gal o' mine—
Oh—we'll cut down the—e-e-old pine tr-ee-ee."

"Stop—" Gypsy wiped her eyes. "You're breaking my heart."

When a Picnic Is Not A Picnic

When is a picnic not a picnic? When the participants get mixed up with a lot of poison ivy or sumac.

And did you know that you can get a bad case of poisoning days or weeks later merely by handling clothes that have been in contact with these dangerous plants?

There are many things that most people do not know about ivy or sumac poisoning, otherwise there would be fewer cases. All the valuable expert information on the subject is detailed in the booklet on Poison Ivy now available to readers of The Record News.

CALIFORNIA OARSMEN GIVE U. S. VICTORY OVER CANADIANS

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

The Morning Mail

R. O. King of the Rochester ball club, writes as follows:

"Would like to have your opinion on the following as soon as possible, in a game between Rochester and Rhineland a few days past.

"First and second base occupied by runners, no outs, batter is struck on shoulder by pitched ball, catcher makes statement to umpire that batter was not struck by ball, but was struck by his mitt. Looked as if batter struck at the ball which hit him, but batter claims he was dodging, and made the motion with his bat as if he struck.

"Batter interprets umpire's decision as a walk and goes to first base, runners on first and second advance to second and third, catcher throws ball to third base and runner is tagged also at second base.

"Umpire reverses decision and calls batter and both runners out. Please give us your opinion of this play and decision."

The umpire was wrong in allowing plays to be made for the base runners, and in calling the batsman out.

If there was any doubt about the batter being hit by a pitched ball, there was certainly none about him being interfered with by the catcher. The catcher, according to your version, admitted striking the batter on the shoulder with his mitt.

So the batter should have been awarded first on the catcher's interference, in which case the ball would have been dead, and no plays would have been allowed for the advancing base runners.

Another Play

Newtown and Hollister fans wrote in a few days ago about a play that was debated for some time. As we remember it, the bases were packed, with none out, when the batter lined out to short. The shortstop heaved to first to nab the runner there, and the first baseman threw to third, getting another runner. Meanwhile, however, the runner who was on third scored before the final out was made.

The team whose runner allegedly scored maintained that the run should have counted, as the runner crossed the plate before the third out was made.

They were wrong in their contention, as the second and third outs were plain force-outs. But plays like that stir up a lot of argument.

Gene Sarazen Fails To Qualify for Pro Event

ROCKVILLE CENTER, N. Y., Aug. 10. (AP)—Gene Sarazen's hopes of capping his United States and British open golf championships with a victory in the professional golf association's tournament at St. Paul Aug. 30-Sept. 3 faded today when he failed to place among the 14 qualifiers from the metropolitan district.

Sarazen, who turned down an invitation to compete at St. Paul without playing in the qualifying rounds, shot a 152 to finish in a seven-way tie for the last three positions.

With the hope one of the qualifiers would decide to withdraw, Sarazen, Leo Diegel, former P. G. A. champion, Tony Manero and Henry Miller, carried on.

There is a chance that Charles Lacey, assistant pro to Sarazen at Lakeville, might drop out, leaving the way open for Sarazen to compete for his third major title. Lacey shot a 150 today, two strokes better than his employer.

TEAM ENTERS ROWING FINALS

America Holds Lead In Swimming Events

MARINE STADIUM, LONG Beach, Calif., Aug. 10. (UP)—The United States, represented by the wonder crew from the University of California, won today's featured race for the Olympic rowing program.

The Californians won the second heat of the eight-oared competition, finishing one length ahead of the mighty Canadian crew.

The fight for first place in this heat was by far the most exciting race of the Olympic regatta.

The United States crew was timed in 6:29 for the 2,000 meters. Canada was timed at 6:33.2.

Germany was third and New Zealand fourth.

Duel With Canada

The heat was nothing but a duel between Canada's eight and the Poughkeepsie regatta championship boatload.

Canada took a slight lead after the flurry at the start. The four crews were, however, closely bunched after 350 meters had been rowed.

They were still bunched at 400 meters. Canada and the United States were in a dead heat at 500 meters. Germany and New Zealand were battling for third place.

Canada held a slight lead at 800 meters. Canada, at that time was rowing at 38 and the United States at 36.

When the 1,000-meter mark was reached, the race half over, the United States led by a scant three feet.

Win by Length

The Americans increased this advantage to lead by a quarter of a length at 1,500 meters. Canada then put on a spurt, raised the beat to 42 and was picking up on the Americans at 1,700 meters.

Then Ebright's men put on a magnificent spurt and were going away when they won by slightly more than one length.

The first heat was won by Italy in a surprising rout of the more heavily favored British crew with Japan third and Brazil fourth.

Thus the American and Italian eights earned the right to compete in the final test, while the losing crews, Great Britain, Japan, Brazil, Canada, Germany and New Zealand must row again tomorrow.

They will compete in two heats, with the winners qualifying for the finals.

BUSTER CRABBE WINS 400-METER RACE

OLYMPIC SWIMMING STADIUM, Los Angeles, Aug. 10. (UP)—United States maintained its lead in the swimming events for the 1932 Olympic games today by the brilliant victory of Clarence (Buster) Crabbe, in the 400-meter free style for men.

The Los Angeles boy led five others to the finish line to establish a new Olympic record of 4:48.4.

The other finalists all bettered the previous Olympic mark of 5:01.6, set by Albert Zorrilla of Argentina, in the 1928 games at Amsterdam.

Frenchman Second

Second to Crabbe was Jean Taris of France, who holds the world's record of 4:47. Taris' time today was 4:48.5, one-tenth of a second slower than Crabbe's.

The three Japanese finalists, Tsutomu Oyokota, Takashi Yokoyama, and Noboru Sugimoto, followed Taris to the line in that order.

Crabbe's victory, under the United Press scoring system which gives 10, 5, 4, 3, 2, and 1 point respectively to first, second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places, enabled the United States to pick up one point on Japan, its closest rival.

His 10 points made the United States total 42, while the nine points registered by the three Japanese, gave their nation a total of 37. No other nation has more than six points.

U. S. Divers Win

It was a great day in swimming for the United States, since its three leading women divers, Georgia Coleman of Los Angeles, Katherine Rawls of Florida, and Jane Fauntz of Chicago, managed to take first, second and third in the women's springboard diving, the only other final event of the day's program.

Their victories gave United States 39 points in the women's section. The nearest rival is Holland with 10.

Former Cincinnati Hurler Joins Buffs

HOUSTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—Harlan Wysong, big left hander who formerly pitched for the Cincinnati Red Legs, arrived in Houston today and tomorrow will join the Buffs at Beaumont with the probability he soon will see action.

Wysong saw some service this season at Rochester and Columbus, but has been bothered by a lame arm. He is over six feet tall and weighs around 185 pounds. His return to form would be a big help to the Buffs in their fight for the second half title.

Pressnell Scatters 10 Safeties As Longview Defeats Herd, 6 To 2

LONGVIEW, Texas, Aug. 10. (AP)—The Longview Cannibals took advantage of scoring opportunities here today and defeated the Dallas Steers, 6 to 2. Pressnell scattered 10 hits.

Joining the Cannibals, Tony Kubek contributed the best catch of the season here, making a backhand stab of Holman's drive in the sixth inning.

Longview and Dallas close the series here tomorrow. Score:

SHIPPERS 5, BUFFS 0

BEAUMONT, Aug. 10. (AP)—The Yiddish duo of Isadore Goldstein and Hank Greenberg teamed up here this afternoon to lead the Exporters to a 5-0 victory over the Houston Buffs, Goldstein limiting the mighty Bisons to three scattered singles while Hank cracked out his 29th homer of the season with Fritz aboard in the third. It was Goldstein's first start for the Exporters since his return from Detroit and it wasn't until the fifth frame that the Buffs nicked him for a hit.

Goldy's great tossing elevated the Bakermen into a top place tie with the Dallas Mavs, who took a 6-2 licking at Longview. Fritz with a triple and two singles led the Exporter attack. Izzy whiffed six as he mowed down the Buffs' batting order. Beckman started for the Bisons but gave way to Heusser in the third, who finished in great style after being shelled out of the box in the first inning Tuesday. Spectacular fielding abounded.

Thursday the Buffs and Exporters will meet in the third and last game of the series. Score:

Dallas To Welcome Babe Home Today

DALLAS, Aug. 10. (UP)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, world's greatest woman athlete, will be welcomed home from the Olympic games tomorrow in a reception unparalleled by any this city has ever tendered a conquering hero.

The Babe, winner of two Olympic events for women and second-place holder in a third, will land at Love field airport to the cheers of at least 10,000 citizens. The American Airways plane on which she was returning tonight will be escorted by army ships from Hensley field.

A huge siren atop the Adolphus hotel, used ordinarily only to celebrate such events as signing of the armistice or a visit by John N. Garner, will begin screaming when the Babe's plane is sighted and will keep up a steady roar until it lands.

Station WFAA will broadcast ceremonies at Love field. Homer Mitchell, president of the Employers' Casualty company, for which the Babe is a stenographer, will be master of ceremonies. Then Miss Didrikson will head a parade through downtown streets, riding in the fire chief's big red automobile. After the parade, she will be honor guest at a luncheon for 600.

PIRATES SPLIT WITH BRAVES

Leaders Snap Losing Streak By Taking First, 5-2

BOSTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—Home runs by Berger and Schulmerich gave the Braves a 3-2 win over the Pirates in the second game of a double-header today after the league leaders had broken a 10-game losing streak by winning the opener, 5-2. French held the Braves to four hits in the second game while the Pirates found Brandt for nine but the two circuit blows, plus a squeeze play, gave Boston the edge. Scores:

DODGERS WIN TWO

BROOKLYN, Aug. 10. (AP)—The Dodgers battled the Cincinnati Reds for 22 innings and four hours and 53 minutes of actual playing time today but they finally came through to win two games, 6 to 1 and 10 to 9, and wind up only one game behind the third place Boston Braves. The second game was the long one, going 13 innings.

Brooklyn had little or no trouble winning the opener behind Van Lingle Mungo's six-hit hurling but the second was an entirely different matter. The only likeness was that Frank O'Doul was a big figure in both clashes. He clouted two home runs in the first and scored the winning run in the second.

Brooklyn closed its home stand against the West with a record of 14 victories and four defeats. Scores:

KEEP COOL WITH O.G.

Science proves Old Gold COOLEST throat-easiest cigarette

A "hot smoke" is a harsh smoke . . . tiring to the throat and taste. Adding to summer discomforts.

Which cigarette is coolest? Laboratory tests* say:— "OLD GOLD."

Science found OLD GOLD a cooler cigarette . . . because OLD GOLD is just pure tobacco . . . made only from the choicest Turkish and domestic leaf . . . with no hot-burning artificial flavorings to irritate the throat.

O. Gs. are finer tobacco quality. Science found this reason for "not a cough in a carload." So will you, if you'll try OLD GOLD.

NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

*THE VERDICT OF SCIENCE

This is to certify that in 75 repeated tests made of four leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette by the Calorimeter method . . . it was shown that OLD GOLD is from 112 to 156 B. T. U's. COOLER than the other brands. Careful measurement of the heat of the smoke further confirmed OLD GOLD'S coolness.

W. C. T. U. To Open Convention On Day President Accepts

SEATTLE, Aug. 10. (AP)—Earl Godwin, national publicity director for the Women's Christian Temperance union, which opens its annual convention here tomorrow said today the attitude of the organization toward the Republican party in the coming elections would depend in large part upon President Hoover's interpretation of the party's resubmission plank.

Commenting on the declaration of John D. Rockefeller Jr., against prohibition after previously aiding the dry cause, Godwin said, "Rockefeller expressed every item of wet propaganda, every wrong notion, in the opinion of the women of the W. C. T. U. the convention will use his statement as a basis of argument at the convention, probably taking it apart, item by item, and paralleling his statement with their answers."

Merchants of 32 States Told to Advertise

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (INS)—Retailers from 32 states, members of the interstate merchants council in session here, today pondered the advice given them by Dr. Paul H. Nystrom, professor of marketing at Columbia university.

"Most retailers must advertise," Dr. Nystrom said. "To stop advertising would be like trying to stop breathing. Certainly when business is declining is not time to quit.

"Retailers who have concentrated their attention on getting better advertising have done much better during recent months than those who have slashed advertising appropriations."

Advice To Investors

By Charles W. Storm—Editor of the "News Service of Wall Street"

R. H.—As an owner of National Cash Register "A" stock, I would like to have your opinion of its outlook and information on financial condition of company.

Answer—National Cash Register is in strong financial condition. As of March 21, last, current assets of $25,943,735 compared with current liabilities of $2,630,965, a ratio of nearly 10 to 1. The earnings outlook over the longer term is decidedly good. Since retail trade (the leading consuming outlook) normally is one of the first to reflect improvement in general business, expansion of National Cash Register's business volumes should develop promptly during the next period of sustained industrial recovery.

Mrs. E. C. H.—Please advise me as to your opinion of Timken Roller Bearing Co. stock and its possibilities.

Answer—Thus far in the current depression Timken has experienced better than average profits results, and has laid a foundation for prompt and substantial earnings recovery with the return of more satisfactory demand from its chief consuming lines. Profit margins have been maintained, and all important contracts renewed; the impressive financial position assures continuance of the strong trade standing throughout an extended period of curtailed schedules. Cash and securities (at market) totaled nearly $13,200,000 at the end of 1931, against total current liabilities of $1,144,000, and this favorable position has continued to date. The downward trend in profits in the past two years has been caused by drastic contraction in both automobile out-turn and general industrial activity. Earnings equaled $1.06 a share in 1931, as against $3.12 in 1930 and $5.88 in 1929. Net income in the first half of 1932 equaled only 17 cents a share, compared with $1.02 last year. In view of the probability of unremunerative operations for the remainder of the year, the present $1 dividend rate can not be considered secure. Stock is rated as a speculative investment.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—A renewal of active general buying in cotton today on unfavorable crop advices and strength in the stock market carried December up to 7.44 with all positions making new high ground for the movement. Reactions followed later under realizing and December closed at 7.32. The general list showed net advances of 17 to 19 points.

Opening 6 to 8 points lower in response to lower Liverpool cables, realizing and some southern and foreign selling, the market quickly met new buying from trade and commission house sources. Demand became more active following publication of the weekly weather report which made a bullish impression on sentiment. It was further stimulated by the action of the stock and grain markets. The advance extended to 7.27 for October and 7.60 for May, or 29 to 32 points above yesterday's close, and about 40 points above the morning low. The rise met some selling for far eastern account, and after the more urgent demand had been supplied, prices eased, the close showing reactions of about 11 to 13 points from the best. Brokers who sometimes act for the cooperative interest were credited with selling during the afternoon and some scattered southern offerings were reported both at the opening and again during the later trading.

The weather bureau said the dampness and frequency of rain had revived weevil activity in the more eastern states, also in the central-southern portion of the belt, and that the continued lack of rainfall was being increasingly felt in the west where shedding was reported from dry areas. This strengthened an impression that the crop had been deteriorating since compilation of the government report, while talk of an improving demand for cotton goods also contributed to the advance.

Liverpool reported local and foreign liquidation, influenced by the later troubles in Lancashire. Exports today 25,165, making 123,357 so far this season. Port receipts 10,326. U. S. port stocks 3,352,265.

Futures closed barely steady, 17@19 points higher; spot quiet, middling 7.15.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 10. (AP)—Cotton again made new highs for the present upward movement today in very active trading. At the highest of the day prices were close to a dollar and a half a bale above the close of yesterday. After starting 9 to 13 points down on poor cables and hedge selling prices gradually advanced in active business owing to higher stocks and wheat and active trade and speculative demand until prices gained 37 to 39 points from the lows. There was a reaction of 10 to 12 points in the late trading on profit-taking and the market closed steady at net gains of 14 to 19 points.

Profit-taking in the late trading caused prices to sell off 10 to 12 points from the best of the day. October closed at 7.14, or 16 points net higher for the day, and December closed at 7.30, up 14 points net higher.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 5 to 6 penny points up.

Port receipts 10,326, for week 47,886, for season 91,632, last season 30,226.

Exports 25,165, for week 44,337, for season 145,102, last season 40,436.

Port stock 3,336,222, last year 2,757,565.

Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 67,141, last year 41,256.

Market Ignores Continued Industrial Stagnation And Climbs To New Highs

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (US)—Stock and bond prices advanced to new peaks today. Speculation for the rise swept everything forward, completely ignoring anything in the day's news recording continuance of industrial stagnation.

In bonds, the average gain was unusually large, this being largely due to sharp advances in second-grade rails.

Railroad stocks furnished leadership in the share market's renewed upturn, which apparently was only temporarily interrupted by Tuesday's sluggishness in certain parts of the market.

Utility shares also participated in today's advance more vigorously than did the industrial department, though the average for the latter closed higher on the day.

In its mood to be consistently bullish the market was willing, perhaps anxious, to overlook discouraging news. Therefore, a 13.1 per cent decline in electric power output had no effect even though it compared with a decrease of 12.4 per cent last week.

Nor did announcement that automobile output in July was 41 per cent below 1931 discourage accentuated speculation and advances in the motor shares.

Eastman Kodak, against almost universal forecast no change would be made, reduced its dividend as did also the Delaware and Hudson.

U. S. Steel's unfilled orders were revealed down 68,000 tons in July. These items, however, failed to stem the enthusiasm.

Emphasis was placed rather on such developments as continued strength in silver futures, a new high for wheat, and increasing indications the railroads plan another wage cut.

Volume increased to 4,400,000 shares. Bullishness was reflected in the increasing number of tips gratuitously broadcast.

It was estimated that more than 50 bull pools now are operating, all seeking to capitalize the reviving public participation. These pools are operating in stocks ranging from the supposedly highest type down to the lowliest and most unworthy.

Several bull groups, somewhat distinct from the ordinary type of pool, are attempting to revive faith in the railroad shares.

Their basis of operation is that every weak holding in the rail department has been eliminated.

Eastman Kodak broke seven points on the dividend action but the remainder of the market hesitated only momentarily.

The motor shares came in for substantial activity. Chrysler seemed the favorite, advancing 2⅜ points on large volume, while General Motors had a smaller advance on the largest turnover in any stock.

Practically all the leading stocks closed higher, the gains ranging from ¼ in General Electric to 8½ in Case.

Throughout the morning the tip was universally heard that wheat "would do wonders before the close," this advice being coupled of course with dire threats to shorts in the agricultural implement stocks, the mail order houses and in fact in all stocks.

The bull wheat tip was not fulfilled although the commodity closed higher, but the whole list advanced sharply.

Telephone again registered a tightening against the unlucky short interest looked in this stock. Steel common closed up 2⅜ points, Can 3¼. Rails were led in activity by New York Central, up 2¼, and Chesapeake and Ohio, up 1⅞.

Most commodities closed higher, sugar touching its former peak price and silver futures being up a full cent; four commodities, wheat, cotton, sugar and silver, are higher than a year ago.

The bears are beginning to find the market's pace unbeatable and some of the largest operators on the short side have substantially reduced their short lines. A good deal of this covering took place today.

It was reported that some Europeans have been taking profits. However, the market still is in the throes of a violent speculation whose duration and outcome no one can accurately forecast.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (AP)—Advancing strongly in a revival of big general buying, wheat today withstood onslaughts of profit taking and held most of its gains.

Soaring of securities furnished the chief impetus to speculative purchases of wheat. There were also intimations of good export demand for United States hard winter grades and in some quarters belief existed the government wheat crop report from Washington after the close would contain a bullish surprise similar to that which recently electrified the cotton market.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¼@1⅜c above yesterday's finish, corn at ¼@⅜c decline, oats unchanged to ¼@⅜c higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Corn prices sagged on account of increased rural selling and of poor shipping demand here. Oats reflected vessel charters for 350,000 bushels to Buffalo.

Provisions were responsive to hog market strength.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (US)—The controversy over the domestic spring wheat acreage continues. Private experts had looked for a marked reduction in area owing to adverse economic conditions which resulted in less use of mechanical power and inability to obtain seed in time in the areas affected by drought the past two years. It is considered possible there may be some revision in the government figures.

Continental wheat markets have declined sharply this week, with weather conditions reported much more favorable for the harvesting of new wheat.

Broomhall says that a moderate business in Canadian wheat was reported today, but buying power from abroad is insufficient to absorb the hedges which are now starting at Winnipeg with the early movement of new crop wheat.

Balkan countries continue to report unfavorable wheat yields, with some of the countries planning to replace the short wheat crop with additional purchases of corn.

30 BEAUTIES ENTER REVUE

Annual Contest Opens At Lakeside Saturday

Announcement will be made in the next day or two of the names of more than 30 Northwest Texas beauties who will appear in the bathing revue to be staged at Lakeside park Saturday and Sunday of this week. The revue this season bids fair to be one of the best ever held here inasmuch as there will also be many added attractions featuring the bathing revue chorus, doing a number of new routines of dancing in bathing suits. This is the first time any act of this nature has been offered at Lakeside.

The contestants will compete this year for the title of Miss North Texas, and a number of winners from other revues will make their appearance in the lake revue. It is expected that the winner of the Miss Texas title in the recent revue held in Fort Worth may make an appearance, not as a contestant but as an extra added feature. Saturday night will be elimination contest. One girl will be selected from each group by the judges. These young ladies will appear in the final contest to be held Sunday night.

Entries have already been received from Electra, Graham, Bowie, Olney, Burkburnett, and more than 15 from Wichita Falls.

Hoover Observes His 58th Birthday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—Busy with a round of conferences throughout the morning, President Hoover was reminded this afternoon that today was his 58th birthday when a group of youngsters gathered on the south lawn of the executive mansion singing "Happy birthday, dear president, happy birthday to you."

A group of Washington Boy Scouts, now vacationing at Camp Roosevelt on Chesapeake bay, presented the president with a croaker, caught by them last night. They also gave him a bridge set constructed at the camp.

Simultaneously, a group of Brooklyn Boy Scouts presented Mr. Hoover with a scroll. Accepting each gift, the president said:

"Thank you, boys. I appreciate the sentiment behind this as much as the gift itself."

Later, the chief executive moved to another spot on the south lawn of the executive mansion where he received an elaborately frosted birthday cake, a gift of officials of the United States Lines.

R. F. C. Aid Plan Left To Individual Railroads

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Railroad executives today decided that the matter of accepting the plan of the Reconstruction Finance corporation for renovation of equipment, as a means of expanding employment should be put to the individual roads.

The proposal of borrowing from the reconstruction corporation for this purpose was considered at a meeting of the Association of Railway Executives and, after the meeting adjourned in the late afternoon, it was said that a statement might be issued later.

It was said, however, that the general decision had been to refer the matter to the individual roads. It was understood that there had been considerable disagreement among the executives, some holding that in view of the low volume of traffic, better equipment was not needed, and that the plan would only put the carriers further into debt.

Communist Activities In St. Louis Feared

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10. (AP)—Chief of Police Joseph Gerk announced today he has "authentic information" that the Communist party intends to send a corps of 400 workers to recruit to their party members of the jobless and liberty parties, who will hold a convention here Aug. 17 and 18.

The chief of police said an effort will be made by the Communists to induce the "Blueshirts" to participate in a Communist directed parade. Gerk expressed the opinion Communist leaders who were routed in a recent disturbance at the city hall might try to engineer another outbreak and allow the members of the jobless-liberty parties to take the blame.

Pageant Of 21 Scenes To Recall City's History For Jubilee Crowds

A detailed review of Wichita Falls history in 21 scenes will be presented in the historical pageant during the 50th anniversary program, Sept. 26-28, according to a tentative draft of continuity for the occasion adopted Wednesday by the committee in charge.

The continuity was prepared by Miss Juanita Kinsey and was presented with the aid of high school students. R. E. Shepherd is chairman of the committee. Plans call for a brief view of each scene depicting some outstanding event in the history of this section. The story of each scene will be related in story form by a pioneer character recalling the events for a group of grandchildren. The story will be complete through 1932.

Titles of the various scenes as outlined by Miss Kinsey are: Before white people came; coming of the first priest; buffalo hunt; arrival of the first covered wagon; arrival of the first family; first school; first church; drouth dance; Indian relation; Indian raids; first train; town lot sale; signing petition for county organization; bank robbery; first Christmas tree; first birthday party in 1884; opening of first opera house when "The Bohemian Girl" was presented; discovery of first oil well April 1, 1911, thought to be a joke; introduction of pioneers; world war camps; and Washington bicentennial.

Improperly Loaded Gun Fails Negro Prisoner

Lack of technical knowledge about pistols on the part of a negro suspect held at the city jail probably saved some one's life recently, officers believe. The negro was arrested at the union depot Wednesday afternoon for investigation by Detective F. M. Dowdy. A search of the suspect revealed a .44 caliber pistol strapped to his leg beneath his trousers. The gun had been loaded with rim-fire bullets while the weapon was a center-fire model. An attempt had been made to fire all of the bullets, officers said.

RITES SAID FOR W. FERGUSON

Funeral services for Wesley Ferguson, 19, of Iowa Park, fatally injured in an oil field accident Tuesday night, were held at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the home of Jasper Ferguson, 1500 Buchanan, with the Rev. Finis Crutchfield, Floral Heights Methodist church pastor, officiating.

The body will be taken overland to Bells, Texas, Thursday morning for burial rites in charge of the Merkle Undertaking company. Young Ferguson suffered a fractured skull about 6:45 o'clock Tuesday night at the No. 1 Sisk lease near Allendale school. He was found stretched on the ground near the spudder rig by the driller, E. L. Copeland, and it was believed he was struck by the "pittman" shaft. The shaft is a heavy revolving arm used in operating the well machinery.

The youth was brought to a local hospital by a Merkle ambulance and died at 10:15 o'clock. Ferguson was employed last Thursday on the W. P. Ferguson and H. S. Gray interests. He was a nephew of Mr. Ferguson.

Young Ferguson was well known in this city, having graduated from the Wichita Falls High school in 1930. He attended Texas Technological college at Lubbock during the past year.

Survivors other than the uncle and cousin, W. P. and Jasper Ferguson of this city, are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson of Iowa Park and a brother, Paul Ferguson. The family moved to Iowa Park two years ago from Bells.
