Ike Claims Personal Risk Is Inherent

NEW YORK (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower says "the very fact of being President involves certain personal risks, which I believe must be accepted."

The former President wrote in the current Saturday Evening Post edition that the assassination of President John F. Kennedy could lead to demands that would make a virtual prison of the White House, in the interests of safety for the President.

However, he added, "I believe that the American people have too much good sense to do anything that would impair in the slightest degree the essential, traditional character of the office—one of democracy's most vital institutions and the most important political station in the world."

Eisenhower said "it is the very combination of powers vested in the presidency which makes it highly desirable that the President be free to travel widely, to keep personally in touch with the people of the country, and to see with his own eyes what is going on in the world."

However, said Eisenhower, "the hazards the President must face appear to be increasing. We should give greater attention to reducing the risks without limiting the president's necessary freedom of movement."

He said "a thorough study of the problem will show us methods that will reduce the opportunity for would-be assassins to make a target of the President."

Helicopters could take the place of the automobile for certain trips over fixed routes—always an invitation to trouble. New safety features may be developed to provide improved security in motorcades.

Eisenhower said "the shocking event of Nov. 22 reinforces the necessity of keeping the president completely informed, prepared for the possibility that the American people will elect the President. It also is a reminder that the President and vice president never should be exposed together to the same hazards of travel."

Reds Reject Negotiator For Passes

By JOHN G. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists rejected today West Germany as a negotiator on a Red-backed proposal to issue passes allowing West Berliners to visit East Berlin at Christmas.

East Germany's official news agency, ADN, said East German leaders would not even discuss the matter with the Bonn government or any of its representatives.

ADN said the East German regime has notified the governing body of West Berlin, the Senate, that it is convinced the Senate was attempting to wreck negotiations in pulling the West German government into the act.

The agency repeated the usual Communist line that West Germany has absolutely nothing to say about matters to be negotiated between West Berlin and East Germany.

It accused the West German government of trying to make "a cold war issue" out of the matter of issuing Communist passes to West Berliners so they can visit friends and relatives in East Berlin during the Christmas season.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt earlier condemned published reports that the issuance of the Communist passes was practically certain.

"These reports are not good," he said in a statement. "They are unfortunately false."

A number of West German newspapers and a Western news service said the issuance of passes was practically arranged except for minor details.

The wall was built 28 months ago to stop the flow of refugees. Only a few West Berliners—mostly doctors, technicians and artists—have since been allowed to pass through to East Berlin.

The weather was cloudy all over the state with some scattered showers and temperatures in the 60s.

Some stood in line one hundred deep in the capital at Baton Rouge right after the polls opened. In some New Orleans precincts, nearly 1,000 people had bailed in the first 40 minutes.

Political experts predicted a record turnout of more than 900,000 of the 1.1 million registered voters. The 1959-60 primary brought out 842,000 voters and the following runoff drew 901,000—the all-time mark.

Today's primary is the nation's first election since President Kennedy's assassination. If none of the 10 candidates gets a majority of the votes, the two leaders will meet in a runoff primary Jan. 11.

Democratic nomination has amounted to victory since the end of reconstruction 86 years ago.

The assassination of the President marked a sharp turning point in the campaign in the Deep South state where Kennedy was a symbol of civil rights.

Until the assassination, Kennedy was a major issue. Most candidates sought to outdo the others in verbal attacks on the President.

For the last two weeks of the campaign, the candidates busied themselves with promises of better roads, improved schools, more efficiency in government—land issues previously almost submerged by "hate Kennedy" talk.

Deleese's S. Harrison, 51, a former New Orleans mayor making his third bid for governor, appears most likely to be elected in any political recall in the Kennedy issue.

Two other major candidates are U.S. Rep. Willis W. Long and John J. McKeithen.

Long, 40, was backed by his distant cousin, U.S. Sen. Russell B. Long, McKeithen, 45, was a legislative leader for the late Gov. Earl K. Long, and was backed by Earl's widow.

Other major candidates include Robert F. Kennedy, former governor, and Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education.

All candidates profess to favor segregation.

Polls open at 6 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Louisiana has 1,182,676 voters, including 154,247 Negroes.

LBJ Announces Military Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced new measures today that will cut next year's military budget but indicated the total U.S. budget will exceed $102 billion.

Johnson made these and other major announcements at an unscheduled "coffee hour" with reporters in his office. Some of the other points he covered were:

—The President will go to New York on Dec. 17 to address the United Nations and "establish acquaintance" with the delegates.

—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be sent to South Viet Nam again next week to review once more the American contribution to the anti-Communist guerrilla war there.

—Johnson will invite the President of Mexico to visit the United States in the near future.

—Johnson asked about the possibility of good will trips abroad, said, "My own feeling is I'll be pretty much tied down here and I won't be leaving the country."

—The President said he thinks he and members of his administration "have made fairly good progress in...continuity in our transition" to power following the assassination of President Kennedy.

—Johnson's meeting over coffee cups with some 30 newsmen amounted to an informal news conference. Seldom in history has a President talked at length with reporters in an on-the-record meeting of such scope.

The Presidents "coffee hour" was followed by a White House news conference at which McNamara elaborated on Johnson's remarks about defense savings.

Johnson said the defense budget he will send to Congress next month will be lower by several hundred million dollars than the total for the current fiscal year that ends June 30.

The President also announced that he has approved a plan by McNamara to reduce civilian employment in the Defense Department to less than one million for the first time since early 1960.

McNamara later disclosed the number of military and civilian employees in defense headquarters overseas will be reduced by the end of next June by 15 per cent. And personnel of all military missions and military assistance groups abroad will be slashed by 10 per cent.

Both these reductions will be in addition to the cut of 25,000 in civilian payrolls within the United States.

The defense secretary said every effort will be made to soften the impact of the employment cutback. And he expressed confidence that a job opportunity would be offered every employee who may be fired.

Earlier today Johnson took a break 10 minute walk in the northwest Washington area where he has been living for the past three years.

Leaving his Spring Valley house at 9:18 a.m., the President, apparently invigorated by the sunny, 34-degree weather, surprised Secret Service men as well as reporters who were waiting outside to accompany him on the six-and-a-half mile drive to the White House by striding at a fast clip down the driveway and heading down the middle of the road.

Jack Valenti, a Houston public relations man and close friend of Johnson who has been helping out at the White House, joined him in the walk.

A Secret Service man, two reporters and two photographers also joined in, followed by three limousines and six motorcycle policemen.

At one point the driver of a parked pickup truck smiled and called out a cheerful "Good morning, Mr. Johnson." The President stepped over and with a smile gave the man a handshake.

About a mile from Johnson's home, when the Secret Service man was about to block an approaching car from crossing the intersection, Johnson suddenly gave a word and they entered the White House limousine trailing a few yards behind.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have a problem for which there seems to be no solution. I asked my minister, and he just laughed and said, "That's a good one for Abby!" We are very friendly with another couple and we visit back and forth very often. When they come to our house they bring along an in-law who recently lost his wife, and is lonely. This in-law weighs about 400 pounds. He is a very nice person and we truly enjoy his company, but Abby, our furniture is beginning to break down under his weight. Can we diplomatically ask our friends not to bring this man to our home, and explain why? We have had to replace the springs in our best chair, and now the other one is going. Please help us.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: There are no words diplomatic enough to salvage a friendship after asking friends to leave a luncheon in-law at home because too heavy for ones furniture. Go to a second-hand store and find the sturdiest and least expensive chair available. Buy it and call it "his" chair. No one will care what it looks like. They'll love you for it.

DEAR ABBY: We are not kids. I am 25 and he is 29. He says he wants to marry me, but he wants to be sure we are compatible first. So he has suggested that we have a trial living-together period for about three months to be sure. We have gone together for 15 months and it never occurred to me that we wouldn't be compatible when married. He tells me that automobile dealers let you drive a car before you buy it, and candy dealers always give samples, and I can't think of a logical reply. Only I

Harvey Oswald's Widow Wants To Be 'American'

DALLAS (AP) — Somewhere in the rambling Dallas area, the young Russian-born widow of Lee Harvey Oswald, President Kennedy's accused assassin, cares for her two young children.

But it's safe to assume her life is anything but normal, especially since the chain of events that began Nov. 22 with the murder of the President and lightning-like death of her husband 48 hours later.

Since her pro-Marxist husband died in a quick blaze of gunfire in front of television cameras, Secret Service agents have kept her whereabouts secret.

But Friday word got out that Marina, who speaks only broken-English, "wants to be an American and continue to live here."

Mrs. Leona Williamson, a 25-year-old Fort Worth housewife who started a drive for funds to help her son, said so far $7,700 had been received.

The money was turned over to the Secret Service which then took it to Mrs. Oswald.

The agents were quoted by Mrs. Williamson as saying: "She (Mrs. Oswald) just broke down and cried. She said in broken English, 'I didn't leave the people in America, the people anywhere, could be this nice.'"

"A very nice, high intelligent woman who is real enthusiastic to learn the ways of America—she wants to be an American and continue to live here."

The full story of what investigators have learned of the assassination—an act her husband was accused of committing—has yet to be made public. All FBI evidence is now in the hands of the Justice Department and will soon go to the White House.

Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Friday changed his mind about calling a state court inquiry into the assassination, at least for the present time.

In Washington, he said that a state investigation at the present time or in the immediate future might disrupt the nationwide probe.

For this reason, he said, "the convening of a court of inquiry at the present time should be withheld."

In another development, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, Lee's mother, said she would like to be an American.

er, again jumped to the defense of her son. She maintained he had nothing to do with the shooting.

"I don't know exactly what happened," she said at a Fort Worth news conference, "but it is possible that while he was in the Texas School Book Depository he may have panicked because he was a known defector."

"He might have run out of the building because he was afraid he might be the first one suspected of having anything to do with it."

Then, she said, "It was only logical for him to get a gun and protect himself."

Authorities have said that Oswald fled the depository building, went to his one-room apartment, changed clothes and armed himself with a pistol.

They said that he then met up with police officer J. D. Tippit who was shot and killed with the pistol.

The mother called the press conference, she said, to clear up some "discrepancies" about her slain son.

The son met death Nov. 24 in the basement of Dallas' City Hall. Night Club owner Jack Ruby fired a single shot into his mid-section as a nationwide television audience looked on.

Ruby remains in Dallas County jail without bond. His trial is set for Feb. 3.

For this reason, he said, "the convening of a court of inquiry at the present time should be withheld."

Time Is Easing Bitterness Since Crystal City Voting

By CHARLES GREEN

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP)—Six months ago, Latin-Americans upset the entrenched Anglo administration of this dusty little South Texas town.

The "Latinos" and "Gringos" still are divided, but passage of time has eased some of the bitterness that broke out immediately following the election.

George Ozuna, the $8,400-a-year city manager hired by the new city council, says the town's economic situation is improving.

Curtis Jackson, the Zavala County attorney and an opposition leader, says business is getting worse.

The political upset last April 2 was engineered by the Political Association of Spanish-Speaking Peoples (PASO) and the Teamsters Union.

It was the first time the political power of Mexican-American voters had been effectively mobilized.

PASO is trying to awaken Mexican-American vote power through the Southwest. If the new administration in Crystal City succeeds, the PASO drive will gain great impetus. A failure could stall it.

The new council says it inherited a mess when it took over administration of the city.

David Shapiro, a $400-a-month administrative assistant to Manager Ozuna, says the old council kept no personnel records, no work rules, no pay scales, no inventory of rolling stock.

"They didn't even have liability insurance on the city vehicles," Shapiro said.

Ozuna makes a point of showing newsmen the water department rolls used by the former administration. One column is headed "American water," the other "Mexican water."

Ozuna also points out that Crystal City has almost 800 pit privies, and a $300,000 sewer plant with only 900 sewer connections.

Many of Ozuna's changes have angered Anglo residents, but some they have approved.

"We've eliminated the car allowance for policemen, and put the men in uniform," he said. "We also bought a patrol car."

The policemen used to wear levis or khakis.

When the new council took over, Ozuna said, Crystal City was losing as much as 48 percent of its municipally-owned natural gas through leaks.

"It's down to about 30 percent now and we hope to have it to 10 percent by January," he said.

The City Council awarded a $4,700 contract for insurance in city autos to an agent in Corpus Christi, and the weekly Zavala County Sentinel quoted Ozuna as saying the agent sold the insurance cheaper than anyone would in Crystal City.

"A check by the Sentinel with local insurance firms shows that none were asked to submit bids to the city," the paper said, pointing out also that the State Insurance Commission sets standard rates anyway.

The council has purchased 52 new street lights. Previously there had been 157 in the city.

Two Words Delay Voting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two words were spoken, and Southern forces won another Senate skirmish against Northern liberals.

The words were "I object," uttered by the wily parliamentarian from Georgia, Richard B. Russell.

"Defeated again," murmured Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., a leader of the bipartisan Northern group's drive to streamline Congress and thus ease the way for civil rights legislation.

Russell's objection stopped the drive in its tracks Friday. Unanimous consent was used to call up a modified version of a resolution providing for a two-house "streamlining" study of Congress.

Clark called Russell's objection a "two-word filibuster" and told the Senate: "We'll be back another day."

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who with Clark had sponsored the streamlining resolution, charged Thursday the Senate was allowing itself to be "led by the nose by a small bunch of wilful men."

Russell replied with scorn Friday, contending the sponsors of the resolution hadn't made a determined effort to push it through.

Phone Trucks Point Route To Ranch

JOHNSON CITY (AP)—Just follow the telephone trucks to President Johnson's ranch—that's the advice natives of this Central Texas area are giving tourists.

"You don't need road signs any more," a Johnson City resident commented.

A newsman counted more than 40 trucks or other vehicles of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. along U. S. 290 Friday between Austin and the LBJ Ranch, 65 miles westward.

One report said there were 55 telephone construction crews on the job, some from the Galveston and Beaumont-Port Arthur areas, more than 250 miles to the southeast.

Officials of both Southwestern Bell and Western Union refused to comment on obvious attempts to greatly increase communications to the ranch in a very short time.

"The only thing I can do is tell you to ask Mr. Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary," said a high telephone company official in Austin, "and please don't use my name." He said queries would get the same answer at Southwestern Bell's main headquarters in St. Louis.

One telephone crew member told reporters that he had heard the telephone company had hopes of completing a new cable system from Austin to the ranch by next Monday.

"I understand the deadline is not until Dec. 12."

Although there have been reports President Johnson might return to his ranch during Christmas time, no definite dates have been announced, except a Dec. 27-28 conference at the ranch with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

President Johnson also has said he would vote, either in person or absentee, in the special congressional election in the Austin area Dec. 17. If he votes absentee he would have to appear in person at the Houston City court house or apply by mail for a ballot by Dec. 13. If the ballot is mailed it could be received as late as noon, Dec. 17.

Salaries of municipal manual laborers had been $30 weekly. The new council has raised this to $40. Shapiro says he thinks most of the opposition to the Mexican administration is based on economics. He feels the old guard fears they will have to pay their employees more because city workers now make more.

A Dallas bond broker recently said Crystal City municipal bonds were a drag on the market.

"We have a bonded indebtedness of $222,000," Ozuna says, "but this man has only about three percent of our bonds. The man who handles the rest said he is having no trouble selling them."

Ozuna admits building permits are off about 40 per cent in value from a year ago, but he claims it is due to a natural dropoff that started before the election.

"No construction is picking up a little and we expect a small building boom in the next three months."

However, attorney Jackson says the outlook is not bright. "People tell business is still falling off and things don't look any better."

Those Ford People Are Indian Givers!

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—How's this for a pre-Christmas surprise—a signed, blank check from one of the world's wealthiest companies.

That's what greeted Robert F. Ogden when he opened a letter from the Ford Motor Co. It was his dividend check; but somebody had failed to fill in the amount.

However, hard on the heels of the check came a telegram from Ford asking return of the check. Somebody must have double-checked.

Death Didn't Part This Married Pair

SPRING CITY, Pa. (AP)—Oliver J. Schubert died Friday after returning from work.

His wife, Elizabeth, made two telephone calls—one to a physician and one to a minister. Then she collapsed and died.

The Schuberts would have celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary today in this Montgomery County community.

Moisture Picture Better In State

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Recent widespread rains have improved the moisture situation in Texas and some improvement in grazing prospects has been noted, said John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, this week.

He added that livestock feeding is still general but heavy in the areas where the dry weather was most severe. The stock water problem has not been solved since few areas have received rains sufficient to give needed runoff.

Moisture continued short in the Panhandle and west grazing short. Harvesting of late cotton has started and will move at a rapid clip since frosts and freezes have defoliated the cotton plants. Condition of livestock and ranges was fair.

Cotton stripping on the South Plains was expected to hit the peak with five days of good weather. Cattle were being moved onto wheat pastures. Ranges and cattle were in average condition.

Moisture was about adequate in most rolling plains counties with more needed in a few. Small grain grazing increased and pecans were being harvested.

Small grains were making some growth in North Central Texas but more moisture was needed. Livestock was in fair condition; supplemental feeding continued and water supply was declining.

Moisture was short in North-east Texas despite recent rains. Some oats and wheat were up since the recent rains. Pastures were below average; the condition of cattle was poor and they continued to lose weight under restricted feeding. Prospects for winter pastures were poor.

Recent light rains added to the improved soil moisture in Far West Texas and have started winter weeds in sheep producing areas. The cotton harvest was slowed by rains. Irrigated small grain provided good grazing and livestock condition was poor to good with feeding under way in the Edwards Plateau. Deer hunting was general, and kills good.

Soil moisture in West Central Texas was adequate except in the Llano and Fredericksburg areas. November rains have improved small grain prospects. Pastures were green but are furnishing very little grazing. Livestock feeding increased. The pecan harvest has passed the half-way mark. Deer and turkey harvests continued excellent.

More showers in Central Texas failed to relieve the moisture shortage in the eastern counties. Soil moisture was adequate in eastern counties. Small grain was furnishing light grazing. The peanut harvest was slowed by the rains. Harvesting of a fair pecan crop continued. Pastures furnished limited grazing; livestock was in fair condition; marketing has slowed since the rains but feeding continued.

Moisture ranges from short to adequate in East Texas, but ranges and pastures were below average.

Moisture in the upper Gulf coast and Southeast Texas continued to improve but a good general rain was needed. Harvesting of all field crops except second crop rice was complete. Rain was needed for subsoil moisture in South Central Texas where winter range vegetation and pastures were making slow growth. Livestock feeding continued heavy. Farmers and ranchmen were feeding livestock. Peanuts and pecans were being harvested.

Moisture in South Texas ranged from short to adequate. Pastures and ranges were below average. Supplemental feeding was increased; livestock were in fair to poor condition and small grain furnished very little grazing. Peanut harvest was 60 per cent complete. Spinach and other vegetables in the coastal bend were making good growth, and flax was up to fair to good stands in that area.

Houston pitchers allowed the fewest walks (378) in the major leagues last season.

Hoffa Lawyer Permian Rig Trial Set For January

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Z. T. Osborn Jr., Nashville attorney for James R. Hoffa, has been charged with trying to fix the jury in the labor leader's trial here last year and in his forthcoming trial here in January.

The charges came in a three-count indictment returned by a federal grand jury Friday and there was an indication that more indictments might be forthcoming.

"I am innocent. I am innocent," Osborn said when contacted in Miami Friday night. "I have the best lawyer in the country, Mr. Jack Norman, Sr. (of Nashville). I am innocent. Mr. Norman thinks I'm innocent."

Osborn became the 12th person, including Hoffa—president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters—to be indicted on jury-tampering charges stemming from the nine-week Hoffa conspiracy trial. The Teamsters is the nation's largest union.

The grand jury, after returning Friday's indictments, said it was necessary to permit the FBI and the Justice Department time to assemble additional data. This led to speculation that similar indictments might be under consideration.

Osborn considered one of Nashville's finest legal minds, was accused in the indictment of directing Harry Beard, a Lebanon, Tenn., lawyer and former state legislator, to offer D. M. Harrison $10,000 to induce his wife to vote for an acquittal in Hoffa's 1952 trial. Harrison's wife was one of the jurors in that case.

That Postmaster Is Just Not With It!
RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Santa Claus ZIP code is 9970, but not everyone in the post-office has heard about it.

Some letters addressed to Santa Claus at the North Pole, with the proper ZIP code, arrived on the desk of Postmaster John G. Mizell marked: "No such P.O. in state named...return for better address."

Cupcake pans should be filled only half full. They look prettiest when baked in paper cups set in pan wells.

Ector County, with 13 active rigs on both the two meet recent counts, was next.

On that count 219 working units were listed, up 10 from the 209 reported a week earlier. The latest total was down 20 from the 239 working rotaries credited to the West Texas-Southeast New Mexico region on the comparable survey last year.

Lea County, N. M., despite a drop of four, down from 36 to 32, headed the list.

Pecos County and Eddy County, N. M., both with 16 on the latest tabulation, tied for second position. This was a gain of three — up from 13 — for Pecos, and of six — up from 10 — for Eddy.

School Space Lecture Also Open To Public

Snyder High School students will have a special assembly period at 9 a.m. Monday to hear Robert McCurdy present a program on space.

McCurdy, a mechanical engineer graduate of Pennsylvania Military College, will present NASA's Spacemobile lecture demonstration.

While the program is sponsored by the Texas Education Agency and is primarily designed for school audiences, Dr. Robert Clinton, principal of Snyder High School said, that any interested person would be welcome to come and view the program.

The lecture - demonstration explains in words, models, and science experiment - the meaning and scope of space and the programs which are being carried out in space exploration.

The program was developed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to provide a living experience in space concepts and activities for school and other audiences. The models and equipment for the lecture - demonstration are carried on specially adapted panel trucks - a Spacemobile unit is the truck, with its models and demonstration equipment.

The equipment includes mechanical and electronic devices with which the lecturer demonstrates basic scientific principles, and shows how these principles apply in the programs and projects for peaceful utilization and exploration of space.

The laws of motion are simply described and the principle of a reaction motor is demonstrated. Simple experiments are performed describing and illustrating solid and liquid types of rocket fuels.

The lecturer retraces the origin and development of rockets, using models and demonstrating equipment. He explains how certain principles were recognized and stated as physical laws by Isaac Newton and others.

He demonstrates the application of these principles to such current programs of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as:

Project Mercury, the mission of which includes orbiting a manned spacecraft, and learning the effects of space flight on man.

Project Gemini, for orbiting a two-man spacecraft, determining effects on man of space flights of about a week, and developing techniques for joining craft in orbit.

Project Apollo, for landing an explorer team on the moon and returning the team safely to earth.

Ranger, Surveyor, and Prospector, which are spacecraft for unmanned exploration of the moon.

Mariner and Voyager, spacecraft for unmanned exploration of other planets.

TIROS, Nimbus, and Aerob, the weather satellite programs.

Echo, Rebound, Relay, Telstar, and Syncom, which are communication satellites.

OGO, OSO, and OAO, for orbiting Geophysical Observatories, Orbiting Solar Observatories, and Orbiting Astronomical Observatories, designed for study of the universe and of earth's space environment.

An operating scale model of a passive communications satellite.

Some See Wild Oats She Grabs Wild Rice

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Mrs. Son McNeil of Reno found herself in a supermarket contest—one going to the woman who scoops up the highest-priced total of groceries in 10 minutes.

Sonja took two tips from her husband, who's a hunter. She scooped her quarry. Her husband reminded her, too, that wild rice goes well with game, and boy, it is expensive.

She concentrated on meats as the race started—61 hams, filet mignon and Canadian bacon—and all the wild rice in the store. Result: In 10 minutes she gathered $673.72 of groceries and won the prize.

Awaits Sub Delivery

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—The Navy prepared today to accept delivery of its 14th Polaris submarine, the nuclear-powered James Monroe, named for the author of the Monroe Doctrine and fifth president of the United States.

The vessel will be formally commissioned on the 22nd anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

Relief pitcher Bill Henry saved 13 games for Cincinnati last season.

life system is a highlight of the presentation. This includes operating miniatures of the plastic Echo satellite, the huge transmitter at Goldstone, California, and the powerful receiver at Holmdel, New Jersey. Radio waves from the miniature transmitter are beamed at the Echo model, rebound from Echo to the receiver and are heard by the audience.

Other equipment is used to show a satellite in an earth orbit; the forces acting upon the satellite and the use of solar cells to provide power in space. The solar cell device is activated by an artificial light or by direct sunlight. The cell converts thermal energy into electrical energy which is used to power a small motor, ring a bell, and energize a miniature water pump.

In addition, there are models of the NASA "family" of launch vehicles, scaled to show the relative sizes, from the comparatively small Scout to the gigantic Saturn and Nova "boosters" which will evolve in that order to give the United States much greater spacecraft launch capabilities to accomplish future large payload missions.

These and other demonstrations, experiments, and exhibits provide an introduction to space science and to our national space activities. As new space accomplishments are attained, new models and equipment are added to keep the demonstration constantly up to date.

The Spacemobile has been designed and developed so that it has flexibility and versatility. In addition to its program in elementary and high schools throughout the Nation, it is used in colleges and universities to participate in space science institutes, seminars, and aerospace education workshops.

Paul Robeson To Return

NEW YORK (AP)—Controversial Negro singer-actor Paul Robeson, now ailing in Communist Berlin, is reported ready to return to this country after living abroad for the last five years.

Negro author Louis Lomax, who spent a week last month in East Berlin with Robeson, said Friday night, "Robeson is coming home soon and I don't mean just physically."

Lomax declined to elaborate. In 1947, Robeson, now 63, was accused by the House Committee on Un-American Activities of supporting Communist front organizations.

The U.S. government withdrew the singer's passport in 1950 because he declined to sign a non-Communist affidavit required by the State Department. The requirement was later knocked out by a Supreme Court decision.

Eight years later, on July 11, 1958, Robeson went to London and made his home there until he went behind the Iron Curtain to seek medical attention.

Abusive Notes Stun Senator Goldwater

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Tribune said today that friends of Barry Goldwater have described the Arizona Republican senator as "stunned and shocked" by the number of abusive telegrams and letters he has received since the assassination of President Kennedy.

The Tribune, in a story from Washington, said that the "outpouring of invective is a factor in the major reassessment which Goldwater is now making of his political future."

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., one of Goldwater's principal backers for a possible bid for the GOP presidential nomination, also has been a target of threatening letters and wires, the Tribune said.

The Tribune said that neither senator could be reached for comment but that associates of the two men described them as "deeply disturbed" by attacks upon them as "right-wing" leaders who in some manner are responsible for Kennedy's death.

Some of the letters are from cranks, the Tribune said, but others are from individuals who reflect the view that right-wing extremism created a climate of hate that made the assassination possible.

The Tribune quoted a close friend of Goldwaters as saying: "He can't adjust to the idea that so many people should hate him. He has no personal feel but he is shaken by these demonstrations of hostility...There is no question but that these attacks upon him have made him wonder if his (presidential) candidacy should be pursued."

Sunday Services Set For Mrs. Vogler, 80

Funeral services will be held here at 2 p.m. Sunday for Mrs. Willie Vogler, 80, a former resident of Snyder.

Mrs. Vogler died Friday in Pecos where she had made her home for about the past 20 years.

The services will be held at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. C. R. Blake, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Pecos officiating. He will be assisted by Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, pastor of the church. Funeral arrangements are under the direction of Bell Funeral Home.

Mrs. Vogler is survived by her husband, Joe Vogler; two daughters, Mrs. Kathleen Blackard and Mrs. Lewis Blackard, both of Snyder; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Business On Increase In Texas

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas business activity rose about 4 per cent in October, the Bureau of Business Research reported Saturday.

The University of Texas agency said the index, adjusted to seasonal variations, was 9 per cent above October, 1962. "At the beginning of the current cyclical upswing in February 1961, the index of Texas business activity began a strong rise which lasted until May 1962," said Francis B. May, statistician of the bureau. "After May the rise seemed to lose vigor. Activity remained on a plateau during the remaining months of 1962. The index began another rise in January of this year, reaching a peak again in May. Since that time it has appeared to be on a plateau, fluctuating in a range of values just below the peak. It may break out of this range of values before the year is over. In any event, the index is currently well above its 1962 levels." The bureau report showed 15 out of 20 selected Texas cities showed gains in October. Those showing gains included the largest cities—Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio. All the largest cities also showed gains over October 1962, except El Paso which was about the same.

The activity report for selected cities included: Abilene up 13 per cent from September and 7 per cent from October, 1962; Amarillo up 9 and up 9; Austin up 2 and up 6; Beaumont down one and up 12; Corpus Christi up 12 and up 16; Corsicana down 6 and up 8; Dallas up 7 and up 11; El Paso down 2 and unchanged; Fort Worth up 11 and up 7; Galveston up 16 and up 25; Houston up 8 and up 8; Laredo up 10 and up 9; Lubbock up 2 and up 18; Port Arthur down one and up 2; San Antonio up 10 and up 8; San Antonio up 7 and up 7; Texarkana up 5 and up 11; Tyler up 9 and up 7; Waco down one and

Security Measures Strengthened

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Department of Public Safety, which is responsible for the governor and his immediate family, has beefed up its security at the Governor's Mansion.

Since Gov. John Connally returned to the mansion from a Dallas hospital Thursday, no visitors have been permitted to tour the building.

Several highway patrolmen now guard the residence around the clock. Previously, only one patrolman stayed on the grounds.

Highway Patrol cars frequently circle the streets adjacent to the mansion, and no parking is permitted on two adjoining streets.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, would say only that he has dispatched "adequate manpower to keep the mansion secure."

Connally is reported to be resting well. He was shot while riding with President Kennedy Nov. 22 in Dallas as an assassin fired at the open car with a rifle.

Connally is able to walk. His right arm is in a cast that will remain with him for 90 days. He said it may be six months before he knows if he can regain the use of his right hand.

Connally spends his time reading his mail, looking through newspapers and magazines and watching some television, a spokesman said.

Symposium For Students Slated

Outstanding students from Snyder High School will attend a symposium on atomic energy featuring some of the nation's leading scientists to be held Saturday, Dec. 14, on the Odessa College campus.

The all-day conference will be sponsored by Texas Electric Service Company and Odessa College.

"It is our hope that this program will not only prove to be extremely informative to our high school students, but will also be an inspiration to those students who may be considering science as a career," B. L. Brown, Texas Electric manager, said.

The program has been arranged by the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation of which Texas Electric is a member. The Foundation, which is composed of 10 investor-owned electric utility companies in Texas, is engaged in a program of nuclear fusion research seeking to harness the energy process of the hydrogen bomb for peaceful purposes, including the generation of electric power.

An outstanding nuclear scientist, Dr. John H. Malmberg, group leader of the fusion research project, will appear on the symposium program. He is from General Atomic's John Jay Hopkins Laboratory in San Diego, Calif., where the fusion research is being carried out.

Other speakers at the conference will include Dr. W. O. Milligan, President of the TCU Research Foundation; Dr. B. H. Amstutz, Associate Dean, College of Engineering, University of Texas; Dr. Harold P. Hanson, Professor of Physics, University of Texas; and Howard R. Drew, Executive Vice President, Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation.

The students will be welcomed by Dr. Jack Rodgers, President of Odessa College and Beeman Fisher, President and General Manager of Texas Electric Service Company. Fisher also serves as a director of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation.

The program will also include a film showing progress in fusion research and will conclude with a panel session on careers in science and college science curricula.

Nuclear fusion is the process which provides the power for the hydrogen bomb and is re-

Viet Youth Burns Self

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A 20-year-old youth doused his clothes with gasoline and burned himself to death in a Saigon Park Friday night. He was the fourth victim of self-immolation within a week.

Police said the youth, Thuan, a telephone operator, explained in a note he committed suicide because he was rejected by his father.

Within the past week, a girl and two men burned themselves to death. The girl committed suicide to protest the war in South Viet Nam; the men took their lives because of illness.

JFK Junior Moves Flag To New Home

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Three-year-old John F. Kennedy Jr. carried an American flag on a stick into his new Georgetown home.

He stood with his mother, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, in a second-floor bedroom window and waved to neighbors and passersby gathered across the street.

Thus the Kennedys left the White House Friday and began a new life back on N Street — the street they left to enter the executive mansion — in a residence turned over to them by Undersecretary of State and Mrs. W. Averell Harriman.

Late Friday night Secret Service men provided about the three-story brick house keeping watch.

After the sorrow of the two weeks since President Kennedy was assassinated, Mrs. Kennedy and the children, John and 6-year-old Caroline, seemed caught up in the excitement of moving.

The family brought with them from the White House familiar and personal items like Caroline's two-wheeled bicycle and a big box marked "John Jr. Toys."

Neighbors watching in the street got a look at Mrs. Kennedy's fur coats and the pink-covered cages of the Kennedy children's pet parakeets.

There was a sad reminder — a bulging briefcase with the initials "JFK."

As they settled into the 11-room, five bath residence, Mrs. Kennedy sent word through her press secretary that she was very grateful to the Harrimans for loan of their house, filled with art treasures.

The former First Lady "now looks forward to many quiet days there," the secretary, Miss Pamela Turnure, added.

The Kennedys had lived in a narrow red brick home at 3307 N Street before they moved into the White House.

The jury took seven ballots to arrive at a guilty verdict. It was reported first split about 50-50.

The jury believed the state's case that:

Eugene Thompson Guilty; Given Life Imprisonment

By GEORGE MOSES
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—T. Eugene Thompson, 34, was convicted Friday of arranging the brutal slaying of his wife, Carol, 34, after one of Minnesota's most sensational murder trials. He was immediately sentenced to life imprisonment.

A six-man, six-woman jury took over a day to convict the dapper attorney of first-degree murder nine months to the day after his wife was fatally beaten and stabbed in their fashionable home in St. Paul.

The state contended Thompson hired the killer for love of another woman and for more than $1 million in insurance. The blond, crew-cut lawyer remained in jail today pending his transfer to the state prison at Stillwater to serve the life sentence imposed by Judge Rolf Fosness. There is no capital punishment in Minnesota.

With good behavior, Thompson would be eligible for parole after 17 1/2 years.

If his attorneys appeal — which they indicated likely — and if the predictably heavy bond is met, Thompson could go free pending a decision by the State Supreme Court. Prosecutor William Randall said he would recommend bond "substantially heavier" than the $100,000 under which Thompson was free during his trial.

The scene in the courtroom when the jury returned topped six weeks of steadily building emotion.

Clerk Frank Archambo took the sealed verdict from the foreman, Sidney C. Becker, 71. After handing it to Judge Fosness, who read it without expression, Archambo read it aloud.

When he came to the word "guilty," Thompson's head dropped.

As each juror was asked, at defense attorney Hyam Segall's request, if this was his or her true verdict, Thompson stared at the jurors.

The jury took seven ballots to arrive at a guilty verdict. It was reported first split about 50-50.

The jury believed the state's case that:

Thompson, father of four children and builder of a thriving St. Paul law practice, was moved to get his wife out of the way for love of his shapely ex-secretary, Jackie Olesen, with whom he admitted having an affair.

Thompson was motivated by money — the more than $1 million in insurance he took out on his wife, much of it in haste in the year before she was killed.

He arranged for the actual killer, a police character named Dick W. C. Anderson, to be admitted to the Thompson home by an unlocked door early the morning of March 4.

He gave Anderson a clear track by disposing of the Thompson pet dog.

He gave instructions via an intermediary, Norman Mastrian, for the killing to simulate a bathtub drowning.

By removing a bedroom telephone, he planned to lure Mrs. Thompson to her doom by a prearranged morning phone call after he had gone to work, forcing her to come downstairs where Anderson was to attack her.

The simulated drowning went awry when Anderson, fortified with liquor and pep pills, missed the kitchen rendezvous, stunned Mrs. Thompson in her bedroom, stripped her, and placed her in the bathtub, but let her slip away from him when she revived.

Anderson pursued her into the bedroom and then downstairs, clubbing her with a pistol that wouldn't fire and then stabbing her with a kitchen knife, to leave her fatally wounded.

Thompson made a $2,500 payoff to Mastrian via another intermediary.

The jury did not believe defense counsel Segall's argument that:

The suspiciously large amount of cash found in Thompson's possession shortly after the killing was money he had kept to hedge against gambling on a trip to Las Vegas with Mrs. Thompson.

He had disposed of the family dog because it was not housebroken, and new carpeting had been installed.

The phone was removed to replace it with a new Princess-type one which Mrs. Thompson had wanted.

New Security For Johnson

NEW YORK (AP) — Police and the Secret Service have set up one of the tightest security plans in the city's history for President Johnson's visit to New York Sunday.

The President will attend the funeral of former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in Manhattan.

He will drive from Idlewild airport in Manhattan and back in a "special limousine," not the bubble-top car in which President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas.

Police refused to disclose the routes the 12-car motorcade will follow.

Howton, LeBaron Plan To Retire

DALLAS (AP)—Bill Howton and Eddie LeBaron, two of pro football's veterans who helped Dallas make its start in the National Football League, will call it quits with the current season.

That means Howton, the famed pass-receiver, and LeBaron, the little man with the big football brain, will be playing before the home folks for the last time Sunday when the Cowboys meet Pittsburgh in the Cotton Bowl.

They will officially put a final cap on their long and colorful careers Dec. 15 at St. Louis.

They announced simultaneously Friday that they were retiring after 12 years. Each is 33 years old and each has been with three teams in pro football.

In 1960, when Dallas first became a member of the league, Howton was obtained from Cleveland and LeBaron from Washington. "This has been part of my life," said Howton. "I love it. Naturally I'm going to miss it. He will live in the league's annals because he is the record-holder for number of passes caught and yards gained in a career. He has taken 502 passes for 8,421 yards.

Howton, out of action much of this season because of injuries, will devote his time to his construction business in Houston. LeBaron, Dallas' regular quarterback for three years, has been No. 2 to Don Meredith much of the present season. "I had to quit sooner or later," he said. "I felt when I was not playing it was time to do it."

Ticket Sales Not Helped By "No Gambling" Rule

By JIM BECKER Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—"Betting or soliciting bets is prohibited at Madison Square Garden."

The warning is in the program now—in big black type. For the Garden College basketball season it came too late.

The yards of empty seats at Friday night's opening double-header showed that.

They announced the house at 12,000. They used to turn that many away. And at that it was the biggest opening crowd at the Garden since 1958.

was about the biggest thing going on in the winter in the big town.

There were 25 or 30 double-headers a season, plus the national tournaments at the end, with an 18,000-plus sellout at most every night.

And then came the discovery that dump was not just another four-letter word. First one gambling scandal, then another.

This year there are eight double-headers scheduled, some featuring teams that would have had to buy tickets to get in in the old days.

Friday Navy whipped Manhattan in nearly dead silence. NYU trampled Tulsa to spirited cheers from the end zone where the students were.

In the galleries, where the kids used to sit and cheer their heroes — whose feet turned out to be clay — a lonely policeman paced. He had no one to watch.

Even the gamblers seemed to have gone somewhere else.

There is no denying that in the long ago certain portions of the Garden looked like the casting office for a movie of a Damon Runyon short story. The point spread was the topic of conversation.

But then it turned out that some of the college boys were doing their dying for the bookies and now there are just a few games and lots of empty seats.

The bouts opened with a pair of under 40 lb. twins, Ronnie and Ray Arguijo, that delighted everyone; and finished with a glove-popping slugfest between Carroll Marsh and Rudy Benitez, which was a no decision 110 lb. bout.

All the bouts were very close and evenly matched as reflected by the voting of the three judges of the results as follows:

Boys fighting to a draw were: Ronnie and Ray Arguijo, and Felix and Danny Rios.

Boys winning split decisions were: Ronnie Porter over Travis Hill, Floyd Jackson over Angel Reyes, Terry Clay over Ricky Rios, Pancho Costello over Charles Porter; Junior Rios over Manuel Campos, Bobby Watson over James Hood, Sammy Romero over James Mata, and Roy Arguijo over Bobby Arguijo.

Boys winning unanimous decisions were: Mickey Gonzales over Kerry Clay, Johnny Alvarez over Floyd Simons, and Ronnie Garrison over Mike Spivey.

Bears Eye Championship

CHICAGO (AP)—"That revenge business is 'greasy kid stuff'—we've got our eye on that division championship, not the San Francisco 49ers."

That was owner-coach George Halas' comment when asked if the Bears would be particularly steamed up Sunday in Wrigley Field against the club which inflicted Chicago's only defeat in today.

12 National Football League starts. Last Oct. 20, the downtrodden 49ers stunned the Bears, 20-14, at San Francisco. That's the sole blot on Chicago's record of 9-1-2 which has the Bears one half-game ahead of runner-up Green Bay in the Western Division race.

In the two weeks still left in the NFL campaign, the Bears meet San Francisco and Detroit, both in Chicago, while Green Bay is at Los Angeles today and at San Francisco a week from today.

AMUSEMENT

The Snyder (Texas) Daily News, Sun., Dec. 8, 1963 11

DEAN MARTIN and Yvette Mimieux carry the central romantic roles in "Toys in the Attic," screen version of the William Hellman award-winning play. It opens at the Palace Theater here on Sunday, Dec. 15.

Boyer Believes Stardom Is Risk

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Being the whole show, says Charles Boyer, "is a kind of responsibility that I could do without."

Boyer's ranking master of suave dramatics accepts the situation, however, as an inevitable hazard of stardom. "Naturally you have to do your damn best," he goes on. "It is a risk which is exciting to me. It is a challenge worth taking."

The elegant Frenchman recently arrived in "Man and Boy," a play by Terence Rattigan about a wily international wheeler-dealer trying to save a topsy-turvy paper empire. The reviews were strictly raves for Boyer, paralleling closely the judgments accorded two preceding exhibits, "Lord Pengo" and "The Marriage-Go-Round." The last play to bring laurel was Boyer's "Don Juan in Hell" in 1951.

In the present instance, the star feels the critics gave unduly short shrift to the script. At the same time he admits that strong properties are precious scarce these days.

"I'm sent hundreds of plays to read — and this present one and 'Lord Pengo' were the only two I could envision doing."

Aware that the length of the current run at the Altkinson Theater depends in great measure on his constant readiness for duty, Boyer, 64, takes great care to diet frugally, rest well and stay out of drafts. As usual in Boyer shows, there is no standby on duty; without him, a performance would be canceled.

One of the aspects of Boyer box-office appeal astutely noted by producers is his popularity with men as well as women spectators. Although Boyer had real-life acquaintance years back with a fairly infamous swindler — "I was a gambler then, but not now" — he feels his current portrayal would have been the same without that living model.

"I'm sure subconsciously we record such things," he amends, "and an actor uses his experiences."

Next season, the star expects to resume television activities, doing a series "The Rogues" with David Niven and Gig Young. Following that there will probably be some feature film work — and then return to Broadway — if the right play comes along.

New Film Brings Back Old Theme

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The new movies —

"Move Over, Darling" is one of the best of the current outpouring of slick comedies, proving perhaps that practice makes perfect.

"This is Hollywood's third go at the fanciful yarn of a wife who returns from five years on a desert island to discover that her husband has just taken himself a bride."

The other versions were "My Favorite Wife" — 1940 — with Irene Dunne, Cary Grant and Gail Patrick as the troubled triangle, and "Something's Got to Give" with Marilyn Monroe, Dean Martin and Cyd Charisse. Only a few weeks work was filmed before Miss Monroe was fired for tardiness.

"Move Over, Darling," with Doris Day, James Garner and Polly Bergen, is another in the line of Doris Day comedies, lovingly coproduced by husband Martin Melcher, and played with such verve that they overlook the essential unreality. Miss Day can bring to each film a professional freshness that conquers feelings of disbelief.

James Garner is ideally suited for this kind of sophisticated farce. His touch is sure. He has the physical aspects for romantic appeal and a voice and delivery that can shade a line for the utmost comedic effect.

In other words, Garner is destined for a long and successful career. He may even become as big as Cary Grant.

The plot is the same as the hilarious 1940 version, with a few modern touches such as a trip through a car wash with the convertible top down.

The supporting cast is hand-picked for maximum support of the stars. There is Thelma Ritter, who seems indispensable for such outings, plus Fred Clark, Don Knotts, Elliot Reid and Chuck Connors as Doris' island playmate. Edgar Buchanan presides over two of the funniest courtroom scenes in years.

"Soldier in the Rain" is a curiosity, a serio-comic film that eschews the usual methods of story telling. Virtually plotless, it is a series of sketches of peacetime Army life as led by some characters who are larger and more offbeat than life.

Because of its formless nature, it may perplex many moviegoers. Yet it is deserving of attention because of its attempt to diverge from the usual mode of film making.

Steve McQueen plays the simple-minded soldier whose idol is Jackie Gleason, one of the great wheeler-dealers among Army sergeants. Together they engage in a number of adventures — alcoholic, romantic and fistie.

McQueen and Gleason play with their usual professionalism, though the former seemed to have less control over his characterization. The real surprise is Tuesday Weld, who gives a dimensional and engaging portrait of dull-witted Bobby Jo Pepperdine.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — An actress' vanity has made a millionaire of Robert E. Gottschalk.

If you notice, many movies these days are filmed in a process called Panavision. The last four Oscar winners — for photography all were made in the process — "Lawrence of Arabia," "West Side Story," "Spartacus" and "Ben Hur."

Gottschalk, who invented the process in 1953 when most studios had their own processes, gives Audrey Hepburn credit for his success.

"Audrey was making a movie at MGM called 'Green Mansions.' She told the studio that she had a square face that was accented in close-ups. She turned down every studio process."

"That's when I was called in. Audrey saw my close-up test and said, 'I wouldn't mind it. I'd like to be like her.'"

Gottschalk, who majored in drama and physics at Carleton College in Minnesota — never dreamed he would put both majors to use.

He credits the success of his process to the fact that, unlike the usual camera shots, his anamorphic lens doesn't add the usual 10 pounds to actress' figures.

"We can add it if they want. In fact, there are some 32-inch chest stars that we can make look voluptuous and have."

Among the Huicholes depicted are Great Grandfather Deer Tail, Grandfather Fire and Grandmother Growth. Being rather democratic by nature, the Huicholes include Christian saints in their rites and ceremonies — complete with symbolic plumes, flowers, rosettes and the Prayer Arrows.

Both sides apparently are pleased and no one has complained of being shot since the lamentable incident involving the God of Houston.

Local — forecasters — predicted "occasional showers and mostly cloudy."

Mary T. Moore Solidifies Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The wise crowd had it figured that Mary Tyler Moore would get squeezed out of the picture on "The Dick Van Dyke Show."

The girl with the triple name would have seemed a prime candidate for oblivion amid such hard-shell characters as Dick Van Dyke, Rose Marie and Morey Amsterdam. Yet she has managed to emerge an integral part of the situation comedy, which is enjoying a new burst of popularity in its third season on CBS.

"I knew it would be a hazard working with Dick, Rose Marie and Morey, who had all been schooled in night clubs," she said. "But I thought I could hold my own because I had something the others didn't have — dramatic training."

Mary got the role of Dick's wife thanks to Danny Thomas' long memory. She once tried out for the role of his daughter, but lost out to Penny Parker.

Gas Pipeline Sells Assets

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of George Mitchell and Associates announced Saturday the acquisition of the assets of Southwest Gas Pipeline Co. for $3.7 million.

George P. Mitchell, head of the investment group, said the assets of Southwest Gas consisted of working interests and royalty interests in 35 oil and gas wells, a gas products plant at Mineral Wells and 350 miles of gas lines in Wise, Palo Pinto, Parker and surrounding counties.

The acquisition will be maintained as a wholly owned subsidiary of the CMAH gas products plant of Wise County, owned by George Mitchell and Associates.

Southwest Gas now sells to Mineral Wells, Weather and a number of North Texas gas distribution companies servicing these towns and industrial customers.

Shady Role A Mistake, Says Boone

By JAMES RACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Pat Boone, family man and churchgoer, says he goofed in playing his first shady character.

As Boone fans will recall, eyebrows were lifted when Pat agreed to play a morally bankrupt beatnik in "The Main Attraction" opposite sexy Nancy Kwan.

"The public helped me realize my mistake by staying away from the movie," laments Pat. It was the first Boone movie that wasn't a money-maker.

"I would have preferred staying in the wholesome movies that I first made, but they went out of style. I felt I had to develop as an actor so I took the part. It was too radical a change in my career."

"About the only good that came out of it was that some of the producers around town who saw it know now that I can do serious acting."

Pat now is concentrating on comedy. Producer Andy Stone calls Pat "the singing Jack Lemmon."

Boone just finished "Never Put It in Writing" for Stone. Pat also has done a comedy horror movie called "The Horror of It All," a sort of Abbott and Costello meet Frankenstein thing.

Agriculture Students, Swine Raisers, To Have 'Short Course' Here

Billy Bob McMullen, Vocational Agriculture teacher in the Snyder schools, has reminded area farmers again of the swine short course which will start Monday.

The course, which will be attended by agriculture students and adult farmers as well, will be held Dec. 9-12 at 7 p.m. at the high school vocational agriculture department.

Mr. Joe Tocquigny, swine specialist with the Vocational Agriculture Division of the Texas Department of Agriculture, will be the instructor in the course. He is headquartered at Texas A&M University.

Mr. Tocquigny holds a B. S. Degree in Agriculture Education from Texas A&I College, and an M. S. Degree in Agriculture from Texas A&I. He has been a Hampshire breeder and commercial feeder for the past ten years maintaining a fifteen sow herd.

"Many swine short courses in various parts of the state have been taught by Mr. Tocquigny and all have met with outstanding success," according to H. L. Harris, area supervisor of vocational agriculture. Big of Udair carries a brilliant gold sun disk, the family symbol for centuries.

Texas Wells Completed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission said Saturday 156 oil wells and 26 gas wells were completed in the state during the week.

The completions bring the totals for the year to 7,822 for oil wells and 2,280 for gas wells. During the same period last year, 9,633 oil wells and 3,152 gas wells had been completed.

Of the 167 wells plugged during the week, 98 were dry holes. Two oil wildcats were drilled in both Dist. 3 and Dist. 4. Four gas wildcats were drilled in Dist. 3, three in Dist. 4, and one each in Districts 1 and 6.

The total average calendar day allowable is 2,883,823 barrels, an increase of 39,893 barrels daily over last week.

Day Off For Counters

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Contributions for the family of deceased Dallas Policeman J. D. Tippit passed the $175,000 mark as counters took the day off today.

Some 14 mail bags of letters remain to be counted by the five policemen and three auditors. However, the money-counters are gaining, with about 500,000 letters come in daily and about 1,200 being processed.

Policemen had counted $125,777, while funds from other sources were about $50,000.

Mrs. Shirley Williamson said in nearby Fort Worth that funds for Mrs. Marina Oswald, Russian-born widow of accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, total about $7,700.

Secret Service officials, who are handling Mrs. Oswald's contributions, said donors should send the money to the Secret Service in Dallas. Mrs. Oswald's whereabouts are not publicly known.

Embers Of Borneo Revolt Grow Into Real Bonfire

By JOHN T. WHEELER

BRUNEI TOWN, Borneo (AP) — One year ago a spade-bearded revolutionary who vaguely resembles Lenin triggered an ill-limited, ineptly executed revolt in this oil-rich sultanate.

British troops and tough Gurkhas quickly beat down the flames, but some of the embers were carried to Indonesia.

There the fiercer fanning of President Sukarno's leftist regime has touched off a bonfire which may sweep across this part of Southeast Asia.

Today Indonesian combat battalions, "volunteer freedom fighters" and terrorists bands face British and Malaysian forces across an 800-mile jungled, mountainous border which splits Borneo island. Seventy-five men have been killed in Sarawak battles with Indonesian-based terrorist bands.

Ironically Brunei has escaped most after effects of the revolt. It has no border with Indonesia, and Sukarno's campaign is directed against Malaysia, a federation which Brunei decided not to join. The British territories of Sarawak and North Borneo did and were merged with Singapore into Malaysia.

Little has changed in the 2,228-square-mile British protectorate of Brunei since the revolt touched off by A. M. Azahari. His short-lived revolt, aimed at seizing control of Brunei and neighboring Sarawak and North Borneo, was supported by many of Brunei's 88,000 inhabitants.

Berett of leadership and still operating under a state of emergency, Brunei's dissident elements are virtually powerless.

British troops, planes and armor are on hand in case of trouble. A tagging five-year plan is under way, but little has been done to ease the pressures which led to insurgency: too little of the country's bulging treasury finds its way into the people's pockets.

During 1963 the sultanate is taking in an estimated total of $36.7 million in revenue and exports, pending about $21 million.

The difference will join some $300 million invested in gilt-edged securities which return $12 million each year.

By the standards of oil potentates, Sultan Sir Omar Ali Saifuddin lives modestly. Much political power is wielded by Brunei Shell Petroleum which provides more than half the government's revenue directly through taxes and 37 per cent more indirectly from investments made with past oil millions.

One heritage of the revolt is a vague awareness among sections of the public that their lives could be better.

Gladson, Barnes Marriage Held In Baptist Church

The wedding of Carla Jean Gladson and James Barnes was performed Saturday November 30th at 7:00 p.m. in a candle-light service at Colonial Hill Baptist Church. Dr. Jimmie Nelson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Wedding music was presented by Mr. Ralph Weson, organist and Mr. Carol Wayne Barnes, soloist. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Waylan Gladson, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Barnes of Merkel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie satin. The paneled train was fitted to a wide belt that continued over the shoulders falling to the floor. Her veil of silk bridal illusion was attached to a ring of white seed pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of white gardenia and feathered mums atop a white Billie.

Miss Renee Gladson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Sherene Gladson, Bama Burton, and Billie Jean Stephens were bridesmaids. Their dresses were made of raspberry peau de soie satin with matching shoes and headpieces. They carried bouquets of white roses.

Candlelighters were Stephen Branson of Lubbock and Jerry Barnes of Merkel. Ringbearers were Susan Roberts of Denver City and Max Barnes of Abilene. Flower girls were Linda and Debra Roberts of Denver City. Best man was Skippy Hicks. Groomsmen were Jim and Douglas Toliver of Merkel and Charles Gladson, brother of the bride. Ushers were Jerry West, Glen Bickel, Billie Hicks and Ted Lamb.

The reception followed in fellowship hall. Presiding at the table were Phyllis Gladson, Janice Gladson, and Janice Brown. Linda Hicks of Abilene registered guests.

For travel the bride chose an aqua blue suit with alligator accessories. The bride wore a corsage of gardenias from her bridal bouquet. After a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M. the couple will reside at 4813 Fortieth Street, Lubbock.

The bride is a graduate nurse of Hendrick Memorial Hospital and Hardin Simmons of Abilene. The bridegroom is a graduate of Merkel High School and is employed by West Texas School Supplies.

Reporters Swap Lively Shoptalk

JOURNALISTS IN ACTION, ones devoted so heartfully to Compiled by Edward W. Barrett.

For everyone who reads or listens to the news, there is a fascination in going behind the scenes with the men and women who are engaged in reporting it.

This unusual volume is an opportunity to catch the triumphs and frustrations, to savor the anecdotes of the working press, the intriguing, sometimes hazardous and always challenging job of covering the world and its people. To read it is like sitting in on an after-hours rag-chewing session in which newshawks swap reminiscences about the electric moments, the hilarious or rewarding experiences they have undergone.

There are 62 contributors, all of them alumni of the Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia University. Their brief essays were assembled by the school's dean in observance of its 50th anniversary. The range of experience is really astonishing.

There are pieces about the Big Stories of our era, of war, revolt, disaster and remarkable personalities. There are old-timers who recall great journeys to report such things as the murder of the Russian czar, as well as newcomers confronting new problems of the 1960s. There are articles from those who have worked on big and middle-size newspapers, as well as the small

Guests Appreciate Lint-Free Napkins

Holiday guests will thank the thoughtful hostess who provides table napkins or cocktail napkins that don't shed lint on dark wool clothing. The secret is a light touch of starch to smooth down the surface fibres and prevent lint from shedding. To starch napkins and other table linens, whisk the freshly-washed, damp dry linens with spray-worked on big and middle-size on starch. Roll up, then unroll immediately and iron.

Folding Doors Are Unusual Christmas Gifts

If you're having a tough time selecting a Christmas gift for that special woman in your life — or man — here is an exciting and unusual suggestion. Beautifully his or her bedroom with designer-styled pre-hung folding closet doors.

Sound impractical? Not really. Pre-hung in their own aluminum frames, folding doors take only 10 minutes to install completely. Only common hand tools are needed. The entire door unit is taken from its carton and slipped into the closet opening. Fasten it to the wall with nails and clip on pre-cut moulding strips (supplied with each unit). The job is completed. All hardware is factory-applied.

There are four attractive patterns to choose from, to complement traditional or modern decor, called "Hermitage," "Plantation," "Montmartre," and "Carrousel."

Exterior surfaces of pre-hung folding doors are durable, easy-to-use polymer (used for making telephones) in an oyster white matte finish that can be repainted if desired.

Your special gal or guy will thank you all year long for other thoughtful features that are a part of your door Christmas gift. For example, the doors have no floor tracks to catch heels and trap dirt. When opened, the full-width of the closet is exposed for easy access. Doors require only a minimum amount of wall space to fully open them, which simplifies furniture arranging.

Some alternate suggestions for beautifying the home: folding doors can be used on storage closets in dens and recreation rooms. They will be the center of decorative interest when used to close off a pullman-type kitchen or to hide a washer-dryer alcove.

The Gardeners Corner

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

DO YOUR EVERGREENS

Water them thoroughly before severe cold weather sets in. This is especially important in areas that suffered autumn drought. Many plants, especially in the Northeast, did not get enough rain during their late growing season — the time of year when many gardeners become lax about watering and depend on nature. These plants are likely to go into the winter under unhealthy conditions.

Water your ornamental and foundation plants well before deep freeze. Then, after the freeze, provide a protective mulch. Give your broadleaf evergreens a windbreak of plastic or wax spray or shelter them with wooden structures.

The death of your evergreens is more likely to be from drying out than from the cold. The less moisture there is in the ground around your shrubs, the more will have to come from the foliage.

Our annual gift of bulbs from Holland, where my brother Henry is principal of the American Section of the International High School, arrived early this year and were in the bulb garden late in October.

Because of the extremely dry weather, we watered the bulbs thoroughly before we set out the bulbs. Before covering the fat bulb and other spring flowering bulbs, we added a generous dose of peat moss to help hold the moisture and to break down the clay soil.

Drought also adds to the problem of what to do with the falling leaves that increase fire hazard and mess up your grounds.

Rake the leaves into shallow windrows and go at them with your lawn mower. This will chew the leaves into valuable mulch for your garden and lawn. It takes too long for your whole leaves to become good compost and a thick layer of wet, frozen leaves is not good mulch because this will prevent air from reaching the roots.

Seventy-year-old John P. Ogbury, who has been mulching leaves this way for many years, says you must do it slowly, raising the cutting blade or blades of your machine a bit.

This mulching operation is fine when the leaves are dry.

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS VICE

Priscilla Denson And Douglas Vice Marriage

The Avenue D Baptist Church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Priscilla Denson of Snyder and Mr. Douglas Vice of Denver, Colo., on November 24th, at 2 p.m.

Rev. Bobby Phillips, pastor officiated at the double ring service before an altar bedecked with baskets of white gladioli.

Mrs. Gary Vice presented selections of wedding music. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Denson, 24-26 Sunset, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Vice, 3301 Avenue A, Snyder.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a three-piece white double knit wool suit with black accessories. She carried a white Bible and white imported linen handkerchief.

Satire Stabs Mommies

THE CHILD WORSHIPPERS
By Martha Weinman Lear.

Just for laughs, Mrs. Lear's book is so funny. But in the midst of all this ho-ho-ho, don't you feel that knife sticking in your ribs?

Her theme is child monsters and their mommies, a live topic these days. At the heart of her prose foray is the professional Good Mother, who shoves and pushes her little darlings into precocious participation in practically everything.

There are brats who are started in kindergarten too early, to beat the neighbors, of course. There are the premature dancing lessons, the over-promoted birthday parties, the summer camps that offer French lessons, the vacation trips of the togetherness type, clothing fads in which toddlers ape their elders, and scads of over-organized "activities" for bored small fry.

The author has examined the horrors of competition in getting offspring into kudos - decorated private schools; the smothering of young children into special classes for the gifted; the calculating campaigns of toy purveyors and dyed - wash companies; the canny machinations of television merchandisers, who know how to tease the kids into hoarding for more to buy, buy, buy at the supermarket.

Mrs. Lear's main point is that highly competitive mommies have pushed their little monsters into becoming status symbols, only to feel the boomerang of juvenile revolt.

The author is a fine wielder of ridicule, a weapon of humor. But this weapon also happens to be the knife that you parents may be feeling down there in your innards.

DO IT YOURSELF?
The tycoon had suffered all the reverses he could take and was very despondent. Climbing into his car, he said to his chauffeur: "Drive over a cliff. I'm committing suicide."

Curried Cauliflower

- 1 large head cauliflower (about 1 1/2 pounds after trimming)
 - 2 cups boiling water
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 - 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
 - 1 teaspoon curry powder
 - 3 tablespoons flour
 - 1 cup chicken stock
- Separate washed cauliflower into flowerets and turn into a medium saucepan with the boiling water and salt. Bring to the boiling point; boil gently, uncovered, for 5 minutes. Cover and continue boiling gently for 5 to 10 minutes or until tender.
- Crisp: drain if necessary. In a small saucepan melt the butter over low heat; add onion and curry powder; stir in flour. Add chicken stock; cook and stir constantly until thickened; pour over cauliflower; reheat. If sauce is thicker than you like, stir in a little drained cauliflower liquid or chicken stock. Makes 6 servings.

The Philosophic Darrow

CLARENCE DARROW: VERDICTS OUT OF COURT. Edited by Arthur and Lila Weinberg. Darrow, certainly one of the most written-about and talked-about men in American history, speaks for himself in this 440-page collection of writings and speeches by the famed trial lawyer.

Perhaps the most significant thing about the book is the reminder it provides that Darrow was a determined and eloquent fighter for many causes and quoted in the introduction: "He was more of a philosopher, humanist (despite a cynical demeanor, whose views spilled over into the legal realm)." The selections also emphasize Darrow's use of the shock technique, that is, saying something calculated to antagonize or alarm his audience in order to obtain and hold their attention.

He was quite willing, for example, to tell a mass meeting on Labor Day that most of the working men who marched in the parade that day didn't know side of Darrow's life will appear why they were marching, to preface this book more if first tell an Irish audience that Irish-

LADIES HONORED—The senior ladies of the Thirty-seventh Street Church of Christ were honored with a Christmas luncheon Friday noon at the home of Mrs. Charles Wolfe, 2300 Thirty-second Street. Each guest was presented a corsage as she arrived. The youngest honoree present was 58 and the eldest 89. Pictured from left are: Meses. W. H. Martin, Annie Martin, A. J. Jones, Lillian Ferguson, S. H. Knight, Lillian Hardy, C. E. Trussell, P. E. Harkins, Joe Hackworth, B. B. Reese, M. C. Millholton and Maudie Davis.

FASHION-WISE—It's a wise Santa who knows that little girls are made for fluffy, wool sweaters as all grown-ups are. They'll love the new up-to-the-minute fashion air of this frothy V-neck beauty in brushed wool and mohair, in a lacy mock cable stitch. Comes in delectable colors to pick up the glow of young complexions, and always so practical besides, because it's sturdy.

Two Wheels Beat Four

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NANTUCKET, R. I.

Young people who complain about the high cost of car upkeep should investigate another mode of travel, such as the trusty old bicycle.

After watching bicycle brigades on the island of Nantucket, once the whaling center of the world, one is convinced the bicycle is here to stay and is a mighty useful vehicle. It may even be the most fun for travel.

Young visitors ride bicycles everywhere. You are considered gauche if you use a car, one college boy pointed out. There are few classy chassis here, although there are plenty of cars, and old homes that reflect money and good taste.

"I pestered dad for a sports car, but when I get back home I'm going to promote bicycles in my crowd," says Jan Johnson of Virginia. "It's a great way to keep in shape." She says a bike is the simplest form of mechanism, wheels and axles, practically nothing to repair. At church, movie house, snack bars, restaurants, library and museum, there are bike parking spots. And it isn't just teenagers who ride them. When mother, dad and family get off the ferry from Massachusetts they head for one of the many bicycle shops, put in their bid for rentals and, like ducklings, go off with dad in the lead.

Though Nantucket looks like the place where the bike was invented, Roger Young, who operates an enormous bicycle shop says his dad opened it in 1931 with two bikes. Today 600 bikes are rented and 12 employees service the place. Some young people ride tandem bikes; families often have little carrier seats in the rear for tiny tots.

Everyone has a basket strapped in front of a bike and in it they are likely to carry groceries, books, picnic lunches, and in summer, skin diving equipment, bathing suits. Automobiles do not impede the progress of bicycles here. Cars and bikes went their way down narrow lines, much to the amazement of newcomers. Traffic is heavy during the peak season, but cars and bicycles move rapidly at a steady pace. In some sections there are bicycle paths, one about six miles long.

Dry yeast should be softened in water rather than in milk; it should be thoroughly stirred to make sure it has dissolved.

American blue cheese, a specialty cheese that is rapidly gaining favor with many budget-minded homemakers, can be used in many ways during the holiday entertaining season. This mellow blue-marbled cheese can be used in dips and dunks, sauces, casseroles with leftover turkey, and in fancy sandwiches. In addition, American blue cheese is well known as a dessert cheese.

American blue cheese, which is made in the heart of the dairyland, can be obtained at supermarkets and other stores that sell cheese. Since only a little tastes like a lot, American blue cheese can be used regularly.

Kenya Prepares Itself For Dignified, Mature Switch

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
Nairobi, Kenya (AP) — The passport throughout Kenya is "Uhuru" — Freedom — and crowds at mass rallies shout "Harambee!" — Let's get going.

For Britain's most prosperous colony in East Africa, Uhuru is approaching rapidly. Next Thursday the Union Jack will go down and the black-red-green flag of independent Kenya will rise.

The terror of Mau Mau terrorists and the efficient, tough British repression are virtually forgotten. Kenya is preparing to take independence with dignity and maturity.

Some white settlers are leaving, handsomely reimbursed by the British government for property taken over by the Kenyan authorities. Many others plan to stay, to see how the future shapes up.

With a population of 8½ million, 160,000 of them Asians and 65,000 Europeans, Kenya is perhaps the most sophisticated and modernized of British African colonies. The country's sterling reputation is estimated at $45 million.

Its gleaming, orderly capital is virtually unparalleled in Africa, except for South African agricultural products, may be cities. Its government, which has been running the country for several months, has a score of experts considered of international class.

Yet some serious problems, permitted to continue without remedy, may disrupt the equilibrium of the new nation.

The foremost is deeply rooted tribalism, the basis of political life.

The Kikuyu and Luo control the Kenya African National Union-KANU—the leading political party. Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta is a Kikuyu. Oginga Odinga and Tom Mboya, two leading nationalists and ministers, are Luos.

Several score lesser tribes are hostile to the Kikuyu and Luos. If their leaders decide to wage political warfare against the government on the basis of tribal lines, Kenya may be in trouble. The two dominating tribes represent a minority of Kenya's African population.

Independent Kenya will inherit a debt with international organizations of some $190 million. The country's sterling reputation is estimated at $45 million.

The main export commodity, except for South African agricultural products, may be cities. Its government, which has been running the country for several months, has a score of experts considered of international class.

Kenya government. The present plan is to buy up most European farms—with Britain's help—and turn them into 16-acre holdings for African families. One area, however, is to remain solely for large-scale permanent holdings.

A major headache for the government is the rapidly rising population—a problem common to most African nations. Each year there are 70,000 more youths thrown on the labor market, swelling the ranks of Kenya's unemployed population. There is a constant pressure on the educational facilities, with an annual increase of 30,000 school children.

Internationally, Kenya's main problem is the claims of neighboring Somalia to its northeastern regions. In recent weeks, Somali terrorists have been harassing police and army posts in the turbulent area, forcing the Kenya government to reinforce military garrisons.

Kenya's position is that not an inch of its territory will be given up. Somalia wants to conduct a self-determination vote in the area where 150,000 Somali prisoners live.

Kenya has announced it intends to sign a mutual defense pact with Ethiopia, against which Somalia also has frontier claims. There are indications that the three nations may want to negotiate rather than plunge into a frontier war.

Mars at one time may have had an abundant supply of oxygen, which literally rusted away. Astronomers speculate that the oxygen combined with iron in rocks to produce the vivid red deserts of the planet.

Report Due On Biggest Oil Study

By MAX B. SKELTON
SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A progress report on what may become the most comprehensive oil conservation study in history is to be made Tuesday.

Governors of nine states will be in attendance when the report is placed before the 33-state Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

A special committee of eight governors began the study in April at the request of Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall.

The objective is improved oil conservation procedures but the general subject involves factors that could prompt controversy.

Udall, in an April letter to Gov. Matthew E. Welsh, D-Idaho, the commission chairman, made reference to two factors that prompted a sharp 1960 controversy within the interstate group that serves as a forum on oil and gas conservation practices.

A short-lived study aimed at equitable sharing of domestic crude production by the various states caused stormy and, at times, bitter debate at the commission's 1960 annual meeting in Denver. The study was abandoned after Wyoming threatened to become the first state ever to withdraw from the oil compact.

The 1960 meeting then reaffirmed a traditional policy that individual oil states can accept or reject any recommendation submitted by the commission.

Udall, in asking Welsh to appoint the special governor study committee, said domestic production, as the major component of total U.S. crude supply, is subject to a control system upon state statutes.

"Several factors have worked together to limit the effectiveness of this control system," Udall said.

"Among these are the state regulatory statutes in light of present day technology, the limited participation of some producing states, and the increased flexibility of interstate purchasing and transportation facilities."

The 1960 dispute developed after some states, including Texas, contended they were losing crude markets to non-producing states and that some major crude purchasers were favoring states which do not limit crude production to market demand.

Welsh has said the ultimate goal of the current study is to assist the states in more effective conservation regulation.

"Recommendations will be made to the member states on what the governors' committee believes if the best possible conservation program in the light conservation are beginning to fade away."

He said some of the taboos of present technological developments, Welsh said.

Memories Of Darkest Nazi Days Hang Over Christmas In Germany

By HANNS NEUBOURG
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Memories of the darkest Nazi past will be haunting the German Christmas season this year.

The largest war-crimes trial ever held before a German court opens Dec. 20 for 23 men charged with murder or complicity in the death of millions of prisoners at Auschwitz concentration camp.

The defendants include 23 former SS (Elite Guard) officers and men who helped guard and run this largest of Nazi death factories. Set up in German-occupied Poland, it was designed to exterminate the Jewish people and others proclaimed "unworthy of life" by Adolf Hitler and his henchmen.

The 23rd defendant is a former Auschwitz inmate who won Paraguayan citizenship. The confidence of his Nazi bosses.

The trial recalls that of Adolf Eichmann, convicted in Israel two years ago and hanged for crimes against the Jews. In Frankfurt, however, the big wheels are missing. One is dead, and the other is believed to be in Latin America.

Richard Baer, last commander of Auschwitz, died last June while awaiting trial. Baer for years lived under an alias as a lumberjack in north Germany. He was finally traced and arrested late in 1960.

The other widely known Auschwitz figure is Joseph Mengele, the camp physician, who "selected" the gas chamber victims. Mengele, part owner of a machinery plant in south Germany, fled to Latin America after the war and acquired Paraguayan citizenship. The Frankfurt prosecutor has offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to his capture. The top Frankfurt defendant is a former SS captain, Robert Mulka, 68, who was an adjutant to Rudolf Hoess, first Auschwitz commander.

Hoess was hanged in Poland in 1947. His detailed Auschwitz diary, to be part of the evidence in Frankfurt, estimated that 4 million people were murdered in the camp.

Mulka and several others, including three doctors and the chief camp pharmacist, were among the Auschwitz bureaucrats, as distinguished from the camp guards who join them in the dock.

Figuring among these is Wilhelm Roger, 36, alleged inventor of the "Boger swing," used during interrogation. The prisoner Young has not declared his intentions for 1964, but is expected to be made to lie on his back to seek re-election.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, became a candidate today for the U.S. Senate, where his late father gained national and international renown.

The 46-year-old Cincinnati announced at a news conference his candidacy to run for the Senate seat now held by Democrat Sen. Stephen M. Young.

Young has not declared his intentions for 1964, but is expected to be made to lie on his back to seek re-election.

Junior Editors Quiz on GRAPES

QUESTION: How were seedless grapes started without a seed to plant?

ANSWER: In the year 1879, the first seedless grapes arrived in California, brought by a man named Thompson from Australia. The seeds had been nearly bred out of the grapes, and the variety became known as Thompson seedless. It was soon found that these grapes, while being very good for table use, were also perfect for the production of raisins. They are now among the most popular and widely used of California grapes. But how were these grapes propagated, if the seeds were so nearly bred out of them?

The answer is that Thompson brought not grape seeds to America, but cuttings from the vines which were bearing these grapes. This is how grapes are grown. In the winter, grape growers cut pieces about 12 inches long from the canes, or parts of the vine which become brown in the fall. Cuttings are selected to have 5 or 6 buds. Such cuttings are stored over the winter; when spring comes, they are planted in nursery beds and allowed to develop roots. Then in the following spring, the new vines are set out in the vineyard. The growers carefully cultivate around them and prune the shoots back. In winter,

FOR YOU TO DO: Slice a Thompson seedless grape and you can see how free the inside is from seeds. You will see how they can be dried to form raisins.
