DELEGATES ARE DAZED AT SIGHT OF GREAT DAM

50 Carloads Taken to Irrigation Project Early Tuesday

250 MAKE JOURNEY

Waterworks Men Thrilled by Various Phases of Great Scheme

Tired and dusty, but visibly impressed with all that they had seen, 50 carloads of Southwest Waterworks association convention delegates returned here late Tuesday afternoon after an inspection tour of the irrigation works. The all-day trip started about 8:30 in the morning from the Kemp hotel.

It was estimated that 250 were in the party. This included Wichita Falls hosts, as well as the visiting delegates and their wives.

Although the association members had been prepared, in some respect, for what they were to see, they were plainly taken aback when the huge bulk of the storage dam near Maybelle hove in sight. At the chamber of commerce banquet Monday evening, J. A. Kemp had outlined the extent of the irrigation plan and had presented some facts and figures that dealt not in terms of millions, but in billions, of the work.

Watchers Dazed

The mammoth size of the dam, the vast expanse of Lake Kemp lapping against the great retaining wall, the dizzy sink of the spillway, the bustle of the small army of workmen swarming over the dam, the evident power of the hydraulic dredge as it hurled a muddy flood from the sluices—all this left the watchers dazed.

The days' inspection began for some about the middle of the morning. Probably half of the cars in the line drove first to the diversion dam beyond Dundee, where the functions of this were explained by engineers on the work. This is now approximately 50 per cent complete and the construction methods of the working crews were a source of

"Blood and Iron" Plea of Trotsky In British Attack

Associated Press Dispatch

MOSCOW, June 19.—Leon Trotsky, soviet war minister, made a "blood and iron" speech today to the all-Russian congress of metal workers, probably the most important trade union gathering in the country.

Russia's structure in the past has been built on wood, he said, but in the future it must rest on metal.

"In the blood stream of our national economic organization there is little metal," he added. "The next period in our national struggle will be a struggle for metal—more metal in our national economy, more metal in our national character. Long live metal."

Trotsky attacked British policies, past and present.

Arrested Cashier Says He Was "In Hell" For Three Years.

International News Dispatch

WICHITA, Kans., June 19.—The trail of a million and one-half dollars, missing from the bond department of the American State bank of Wichita, is a trail of petroleum.

Oil enterprises of the southwest benefited to the extent of most of that amount through the manipulations of Phillip A. Drumm, cashier of the bank, according to bank attorneys, after a hasty examination of Drumm and the situation at the bank.

This company is engaged in the bulk and retail filling stations. The loan is unsecured, according to attorneys.

TEXAS BRIDE FIGHTS FOR HUSBAND'S LOVE

Latest Photograph of Mrs. Winfield Scott, Jr., Made in Kansas City

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 19.—An innocent school girl, who married a wayward "boy millionaire" out of sheer love and was succeeding in reforming him when he filed a divorce suit—that is Mrs. Winfield Scott Jr., formerly Miss Gertrude Josephine Lane of Kansas City, as she pictures herself.

A heartless "vamp" who was attracted only by young Scott's money, and who caused him to wed her in Kansas City last January after he had known her only 24 hours—that is Mrs. Scott as some of the friends and relatives of her husband, son of a pioneer Texas cattleman, picture her.

Young Scott, worth more than a million and widely known in Fort Worth and other cities as the result of many escapades, put his strikingly attractive wife on a train the other day and sent her back to Kansas City ostensibly to visit her mother. The next day his divorce suit was brought. It charged Mrs. Scott with drinking, smoking cigarettes, using "bad" language and abusing her husband generally.

Mrs. Scott heard of the suit when she reached her mother's home. Then she came right back to Fort Worth, announced she wanted a reconciliation more than anything else, but failing that would fight the divorce case to the limit. She filed an application for $1,250 per month alimony.

"I met him in a New York cabaret party in December, and married him 34 days later," she said.

"She met him in Kansas City and married him 24 hours later," others assert.

Mrs. Scott admitted smoking cigarettes, but said she "didn't drink any more than the rest."

NEGRESS TO DIE IN 19TH FIGHT

Carving Takes Place at Elm Street Dance During Holiday

A negro woman was desperately if not fatally wounded and a negro man was seriously cut late Tuesday night in a knife fight at an Elm street dance hall, where an Emancipation day celebration was in progress.

Eugenie Ragsdale, a cook at the home of W. S. Langford, is in the General hospital lying between life and death and Costello Bartlett, a porter at the Langford Motor Supply company, is at his home in a serious condition.

Police are holding Addie Bunton, another negress, in connection with the affair. It was reported the latter had wielded the knife on the Ragsdale negress after Bartlett had been stabbed and cut by the Ragsdale woman.

Reports last night from the hospital were to the effect that the injured negress was suffering from a long slash across the throat and other cuts about the face. She had only an outside chance for life, it was stated. Bartlett, it is believed, will recover despite a deep thrust in the back, just over the right lung, and long slashes over the forehead and face.

Just what caused the fight could not be ascertained last night from the excited negroes at the dance hall. Witnesses to the affair disagreed to such an extent that no consistent story could be obtained. It was the opinion of police, however, that Bartlett had been cut by the Ragsdale woman who, in turn, was attacked by the Bunton woman.

Assistant District Attorney Jimmie Allred was taking statements from the injured negroes as well as officers early this morning.

One Dies From Shot Fired as Mayor Tries to Quiet 2,000.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 19.—With 2,000 persons before the county jail, where Walter Lee, negro, charged with criminal attack upon a white woman, is confined, and with the number of excited persons increasing every moment, the riot call for the city and county officers was sounded shortly before midnight tonight.

Captured After 24 Hours.

Lee, a negro about 18 years old, was captured by county police this afternoon after a 24-hour man hunt. He is charged with attacking the woman and beating her into insensibility with a sad iron. His capture was effected late this afternoon upon information furnished by a negro who had seen him near the woman's home shortly before the crime was committed. Lee was rushed to the county jail, where he was identified by his victim. He denies his guilt.

At 12:20 a. m. when two shots had been heard within a block of the jail and Mayor Seabrooks' arrival on the scene had failed to quiet the clamoring crowd, a call was sent out for military aid and at 12:30 a detachment of machinegun men reached the jail and took position.

One man was shot and wounded in the general fighting among the soldiers and members of the mob surrounding the jail.

One man in the mob, shot in the abdomen apparently by some one in the crowd, was sent to the hospital at 12:45 o'clock in a serious condition. He died 15 minutes later. His name was Parker.

Chief of Police Henry was struck in the stomach with a brick, but the extent of his injury has not been determined. Lieut. I. C. Helmly Jr., of Battery C, national guard, was struck in the face with a brick at 1 o'clock and disabled.

SQUAD RETREATS BEFORE FIRE OF 50 BOOTLEGGERS

SHERIFF TOO SLOW

Mysterious Vessel Slips Into Port, Unloading Booze Cargo

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 19.—Federal prohibition enforcement authorities, electrified by two of the wildest bootlegging stories that have yet reached their ears, tonight began planning accordingly to mop up Long Island which, it was disclosed, has been adopted as the newest scene of operations of runners plying to and from the off shore rum fleet.

600 Cases Unloaded

The wildest of the stories, almost incredible to the ears of the authorities, although vouched for by Sheriff Amza Biggs of Suffolk county, involved a pitched battle between eight deputy sheriffs and some 50 or 60 rum runners and New York gunmen, in which the deputies finally were driven to cover, while armed patrols covered a fleet of trucks with nearly 600 cases of liquor to New York. This encounter took place at Greenport.

The other story, vouched for by the police, was the story of a battle in which 1,000 cases of whiskey from the rum fleet, in which the police acting as armed mediators, captured the liquor and four men.

Skirmish for Two Days

The fight at Greieport last night according to Sheriff Biggs, was the culmination of two days of skirmishing, which started when an unidentified vessel slipped into Greenport early Sunday morning and unloaded her liquor cargo onto waiting trucks.

The sheriff, advised of the landing, but too late to get men on the spot, sent his deputies out to find some trace of the liquor. It remained for Sidney Smith, a citizen, however, to discover the cache and he paid for it by the loss of an ear, which was shot off as he stood before the house in which it had been stored.

"Smiling Woman," Chicago Killer, Is Found to Be Man

CHICAGO, June 19.—Fred Thompson, who for several hours following his arrest today as the "smiling woman bandit" who shot and killed Richard Tesmer during a hold-up, had police officials baffled as to whether he was a man or woman, tonight was declared to be a man after a medical examination.

Thomson, posing as the wife of Frank Carrick, was arrested in the Carrick apartment, dressed to fit the part of Carrick's wife, which role he is said to have filled for 14 years, later was taken before Tesmer's widow and there identified as the "woman" who shot her husband.

When arrested, Thompson wore bobbed auburn hair, a black beaded dress, black silk pumps and black silk hose. In searching the apartment, several wigs, a loaded revolver and numerous photographs of Thompson in both male and female attire were found.

Numerous suspects were taken before Mrs. Tesmer who had declared she would never forget the features of the woman and the smile on her face as she shot her husband. All tips failed until police received a telephone call today, telling about a man who frequently dressed in women's clothing.

Economy of U. S. Harding Message On Western Tour

International News Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 19.—President Harding intends to drive home with sledge-hammer blows to voters in the grain belt in the next few weeks the fact that the United States government is a paying venture from a business standpoint—and the only first-class government in the world that is living within its income.

The $300,000,000 profit made by the government this present fiscal year, over and above all operating expenses, will furnish the ground work and the main theme for numerous speeches.

This surplus, if the republican political managers have their way, also will be the chief campaign argument of the republican party next year.

Various Types of Game Birds and Their Qualities Described for Fanciers

By AL OLSON.
Extension Department, Maricle Coal and Feed Company, Poultry Editor, The Record News.

There have been several poultry fanciers recently asking me to give them most any kind of information pertaining to pet games. I am not familiar with the training of games or preparing them for fighting, and have only a limited amount of knowledge of the many different breeds.

Today there are a great number of strains of game birds coming in for some reason or other. Birds that are undergoing training are fed entirely different than any other fowl. The feeding of those birds should certainly be left up to the trainer who takes the same great amount of care of the birds in his care as that of a trainer of a boxer. I can only give useful information as to the raising of young chicks and the care of growing and laying birds, and this I gladly will give through these columns to any one who may wish for such information.

But nevertheless, if you intend to go in the pit game business in a successful way you must produce birds that will make reputations for themselves as fighters and a reputation for yourself as a successful trainer and breeder. I can furnish anyone with the names and address of several good poultry journals pertaining exclusively to pit games.

Quotes Authority.

I have been asked by several to touch on the raising and breeding of fighting cocks. Therefore I am quoting Dal Johnson of the Feathered Warrior.

"This is a question on which the students on game fowl culture, judging from their products, are at many points of variance, yet the man who can, by breeding, stamp in his fowls certain controlling characteristics and at the same time can develop them to the greatest extent of perfection, unquestionably has the qualities of a successful breeder.

"The question to be determined is: what are the respective qualities for pit requirements in a cock? I am disposed to think that in the simple enumeration of these qualities all of us would agree, for whenever I have asked cockers what were the proper components of a perfect fighting bird they would invariably answer, gameness, strength, speed, cutting qualities, science, endurance, and a combination of movement. That is my formula, but I want them combined. I want the spirit, the points in anatomy, and the fighting traits prominent and well developed just as enumerated.

"First is a man who becomes infatuated with a shuffling cock; he goes to work with the single purpose of stamping that characteristic or that trait of fighting in his birds and neglects all other points. In time, he will produce a wonderful shuffler, but with no strength, or endurance, and incapable of delivering a single clear stroke.

"Second is a man equally in love with the reverse style, a sparrer. The product of his long exertion is a cock that can outfly a pigeon, but can't lick a bantam.

Not Like Man Fighting.

"Third is a pretty level headed breeder, but off on one point, he fancies a sparrer and breeds for strength, speed cutting qualities, science, endurance and sparring. The cocks of this man will be fighters and will defeat the vast majority, but when they run up against birds bred exactly like them in every particular, except style of fighting and in this point bred to the combination movement, the sparrers will meet their Waterloo and will in turn be vanquished.

"Cock fighting is not like man fighting. There are no straight blows from the shoulder; no rules against going below the belt; no nine second knock downs, nothing to prevent a clinch and no license to keep off an opponent on the ground. So, also, does it differ from breeding race horses. The breeder of the racer must strive for the development of certain muscles in his horse that will serve him in the movement necessary to his gait. While the breeder of the trotter seeks for the development of other necessaries to the peculiar style of movement in trotting. But in a cock fight, anything counts—get there as you can so you land the stakes.

"I tell you, boys, every rustle, lick, shuffle and roll counts. If ever you needed combined power and a machine capable of doing effective work under any and all circumstances you want it here, and if you have a bird with through with all the strength and energy he has, and never stops till the game is ended.

"By speed I mean a bird that leaves the score like a flash, hits quickly and often, is active and a hustler.

"Cutting qualities is the ability of a bird to use his heels. This is one of the most powerful traits a bird can possess, and one of the most neglected by breeders.

"Science you will understand to mean a bird that keeps his adversary fighting at a disadvantage, dodging his blows and taking any advantage of an opening to land.

"Endurance in a bird, is one that stands up under hard punishment, has good lung power, and makes a good showing after you think him dead. In order to define the last point combination fighting I will give the different movements that in cocking parlance come under the head of "style of fighting."

"First the shuffler is the bird that runs in with his mouth wide open, seeking a bill hold and if successful will hold like a bull dog, and make a terrible shuffle which consists of a succession of rapid half leg blows, the upper or thigh joint being used but little, if any, and hence but little leverage. The weight of the body is not thrown forward, though a bird sometimes sits on his tail and works his body in a semi-rotary motion while the wings are used to assist the legs. This style is very effective when a bird is in close quarters, driven to the wall, or has his adversary down, but it is not sufficient under all circumstances.

Sparrer Prettiest Fighter.

"The sparrer is the prettiest fighter of them all. He does all his fighting in the air, flying like a hawk over his opponent, using all the force of his body and if the gaff lands it goes to the socket. Such fighters do not take a bill hold. This style is what is needed in the first of the game, when it is necessary to force the opponent or to fire at long range, but after getting in close quarters or being exhausted, they are at a disadvantage, and are very different in fighting a bird on the ground. It takes more than a sparrer to get the money.

"The combination fighter is a bird that starts off sparring and shuffles in the air when his heels hit the other bird, which he does without taking a hold. At long range he flies without taking a bill hold, but when he gets to close quarters immediately takes hold and goes to shuffling. This style is rough and tumble fighting. They are cyclones of the pit, and sparring with skill, fighting all over the other bird, a savage, versatile and dangerous fighting machine. Of equal quality otherwise, this style of fighter at work is never exhausted until a fatal shot kills him."

Now, my friends, in conclusion, let me warn you against breeding specialties for the pit. They cannot win, however much of an artist they may be at one thing. The ideal pit bird is many-sided, a versatile bird, with power to fight in various roles.

I shall be able to tell, in my next article, of the doings of our local breeders. Watch for them and read what the different raisers are doing and are intending to do. Be sure you get the Record News as these articles will be very valuable to those interested in the poultry game.

THIRD DAY OF CONVENTION ON

Stanfield Will Make Address; State Engineers to Speak

Leading off with an address by C. A. Stanfield of Topeka, Kan., the Southwest Waterworks association swings into the third day of its twelfth annual convention at 9 o'clock this morning. Meetings will be resumed in the Prothro building, where the various exhibits are on display.

Mr. Stanfield is substituting for T. L. Amiss of Shreveport, who was originally scheduled for a paper on, "Taking the Operation of Waterworks Out of Politics." Mr. Amiss was unable to fill the engagement, and the open has been supplied in his stead.

V. M. Ehlers, state sanitary engineer of Texas, follows the initial paper with an illustrated lecture, "Maintenance of Sanitary Conditions of Water Supply." His talk will deal with city water systems, treated from the standpoint of sanitation. A round table discussion of waterworks matters by the various department superintendents now in the city will conclude the morning session.

After the noon adjournment a paper on "Electricity as Energy for Pumping Water," given by J. W. Carpenter, general manager of the Texas Power & Light company at Dallas, will be the first afternoon feature. Two other papers, one by A. S. Holway, water superintendent of Oklahoma City, and the other by J. W. Rockaday, superintendent at Cleburne, Texas, will also come during the afternoon session. The first will be on "Fair Rentals for Fire Plugs and Reason Therefore," and the second on "The Dollar Value of Meter Maintenance."

One of the big events of the day comes at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, when the Waterworks Manufacturing association is host to all the visiting delegates and local members of the waterworks association. The dinner will be held in the Kemp ballroom, and promises to rival in size that given Monday by the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce.

The program for the affair has not been made public by the committee in charge, but some novel entertainment features as well as worth while addresses are promised.

Burk Hodgeman of the National Watermain Cleaning company is chairman of the entertainment committee in charge of the affair.

GAINES HEADS FAITH LODGE

Al Ellis Is Elected Life Member at Meeting

Sidney Gaines was elected worshipful master of Faith lodge at the annual election of officers held by that organization Tuesday night. Tom Wynn was named as senior warden, Walter Caldwell junior warden, Pat Simmons treasurer and G. W. Curd secretary.

Mr. Curd succeeds Al Ellis who recently resigned from the post.

The lodge conferred signal honor on Mr. Ellis by electing him a life member at the meeting. This is the first membership of its kind given in Wichita Falls and is all the more noteworthy because it is rarely bestowed by blue lodges.

Installation of the new officers will be made next Tuesday night. The appointive offices of the lodge will be filled today after a conference of the new officials.

been made on the strength of oil properties elsewhere in the Mid-Continent oil field district.

Drumm this morning gave himself up to county officials and submitted to arrest. He was arraigned on a charge of making a false statement to the state bank commissioner last November in connection with the condition of the bank. He pleaded not guilty and gave $15,000 bond for his appearance at preliminary hearing here June 20.

Notes totaling on face value some three-quarters of a million dollars, but their worth said to be of a doubtful nature, were turned over by Drumm to bank officials after he had made his confession of defalcation.

"In Hell" Three Years.

"I've been in hell for the last three years," declared the cashier. He is 38 years old and is said to have been employed with the bank for 17 years.

Drumm, making no excuses or alibis, told how he was able to fool the state banking department by hastily transfering to the bank's bond department bonds held by the bank in escrow, bonds of customers, and bonds held for collection. They then were returned to their rightful places after examination.

The shortage is said to be among the largest in bank failures in the history of the state.

Statement of a vice president is that the bank may be able to pay 80 cents on the dollar.

RIDING THE WATER WAGON

As Harrold Johnson Sees the Convention

Luke Ballard has about the best definition of an optimist yet. He says his conception of this cheerful individual is one in a poker game who can look at a pair of deuces and imagine they are as good as three kings and still have sense enough to stay off of them.

Anent the beverage question, some one suggested that water would rot rubber and rust nails—so what would it do to your stomach?

Convention hall was a lonesome and forlorn looking place Tuesday. It was locked up most of the time.

Eggmont Smith blew in Tuesday and began telling about his meters. If you want to know anything more about him just sit around the hotel lobby a few minutes.

Burk Hodgeman, of New York, arrived for the session Tuesday morning. He's in charge of tonight's big manufacturers' banquet.

Jimmy Judge, branded as the 6-ace philanthropist from the wilds of Central Illinois, entertained a few of his friends at dinner Tuesday night and presided with characteristic aplomb. Quite a few of the other delegates also sampled local culinary creations.

The second edition of "Wheezes" came out Tuesday, much to the discomfort of a few of the more popular visitors.

TEA FOR LADIES AT CONVENTION

Mrs. Kemp and Mrs. Shepherd Arranging Entertainment

A tea for visiting ladies at the Southwest Waterworks association convention is to be held at the golf and country club at 4 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced Tuesday by Mrs. R. E. Shepherd, in charge of entertainment for the visitors.

A committee of which Mrs. J. A. Kemp is chairman will act as hostesses for the afternoon. A short program arranged by Adelle Marcus will be given at the club rooms.

It is requested that all visiting ladies to the convention meet at the Kemp hotel at 3:45 Wednesday afternoon where cars will be provided for their transportation to the club grounds. Mrs. Walter Curlee is in charge of the transportation.

PRESBYTERIANS WILL BUILD

Meeting Will Be Held on Thursday to Discuss Enlargement

Announcement of another Wichita Falls church to begin a building campaign is made by the First Presbyterian church in a call issued for next Thursday night to hear plans and discuss the proposed enlargement of the present structure.

C. C. Bugler, Dallas architect, who has been selected to draw the plans for the enlargement will be in Wichita Falls Thursday afternoon and night. It is hoped by J. O. Richolt, J. C. Hunt and C. W. Beavers that a large majority of the membership meet the architect while he is in the city and attend the Thursday night meeting. The above is the building committee in charge of the work.

Waterworks Delegates Look Over City and Listen to Lecture

Left largely to their own resources, delegates to the Southwest Waterworks association convention improved the opportunity Tuesday night to see something of the city and get acquainted with those brothers they didn't already know.

The only official number on the program after the supper hour was an illustrated lecture by J. D. Capron, chief engineer of the U. S. Cast Iron Pipe company. The address was given in the ballroom of the Kemp hotel and was attended by a large number of the delegates.

Mr. Capron pointed out methods now used in the manufacture of cast iron pipes and by means of a moving picture projecting machine visualized for his audience all the steps by which pipe is evolved. Starting with the molten metal, the various processes as they are handled in the U. S. factory were taken up one by one. Mr. Capron gave the necessary explanations as the pictures unwound on the screen.

The advantages of a patented new method of making pipe over the old sand mould process was the outstanding feature of the exhibit.

Following this lecture the delegates broke up into small parties for the balance of the night. Informal dinners were the chief feature and local cafes were crowded almost until midnight with groups of two to a dozen. Many of the visitors were taken in tow by Wichita Falls friends, entertained in their homes or taken for auto drives over the city.

Quite a few took advantage of the movies and a surprisingly large number, after the long, dusty trip to the dam, made the acquaintance of local swimming pools.

Fight for Next Convention Rests Between Oklahoma City and Topeka

Oklahoma City or Topeka.

One of those two cities, it appeared last night, is to have the 1924 convention of the Southwest Waterworks association. It is understood that both the Oklahoma and Kansas representatives are planning for a vigorous campaign in behalf of their respective cities.

No public announcements have as yet been made regarding the next convention city, but it was rumored about the hotels Tuesday evening that some concerted drives would start some time today.

Oklahoma City has one of the largest delegations of any outside community at the local meetings, and several members of this crowd have intimated, it is understood, that they wished to bring the 1924 convention to their section. Topeka also has a liberal representation now in Wichita Falls, and there seems to be considerable sentiment favoring the Kansas metropolis for the coming year.

The meeting place will not be decided until Thursday afternoon, and is one of the last matters to come before the convention for settlement.

SOUTH TEXAS HAS SHORTAGE OF LABOR

Reports estimate that 3,000 laborers will be needed in the Panhandle district for wheat harvest July 1.

Chief among the applications granted was that for cancellation of less than car load commodity rates between Houston, Galveston and other ports. Meiklejohn Resigns

International News Dispatch

AMHERST, June 19.—Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, president of the Amherst college, today tendered his resignation to the board of trustees of Amherst college, following a meeting of the trustees.

The resignation followed a demand by members of the faculty, who disagreed with Dr. Meiklejohn's policies, that he retire.

DELEGATES HEAR OF FILTRATION

Williams and Lawton Pilot Visitors Through Local Plant

What a lot of waterworks association delegates didn't know about a filter plant was explained to them Tuesday morning when a brief stop was made at the local station prior to the irrigation trip. As guests of the city water department officials, they were shown through the place from top to bottom.

Tod Williams, superintendent of the department, and F. N. Lawton, general manager of the waterworks system here, worked like Trojans piloting the crowd around, pointing out first this and then that. All the processes by which the raw lake water is purified, treated and made ready for the city water mains was explained in detail by the two waterworks men here.

Although to a number of the spectators, the plant had no features with which they were not familiar, to a like number it did have. And even the veteran experts from other cities united in declaring that this city was well supplied with that thing needed to insure an ample supply of pure drinking water.

DELEGATES ARE

Stop at Maybelle

Only a brief stop was made here, however, and the jaunt continued to the main storage lake at Maybelle. A barbecue luncheon served by the Callahan Construction company came first on the program and was done full justice by the hungry trippers. Following this, R. A. Thompson, chief engineer of the project, went over the entire work and submitted facts and figures relating to the dam, the lake and the territory that is to be irrigated.

The speaker treated in detail the construction process. He mentioned the topography of the territory and explained the theory of the hydraulic dam of which the huge embankment at Maybelle is one of the largest examples in the country.

The inspection tour then started and included a peep at all the salient features. The spillway, as is usually the case, was the most interesting spot. The outlet to the sluices from the dredge, through which the sediment-laden waters that are building the dam are discharged were also watched with interest.

Gates Opened

For the benefit of the crowd the two headgates provided for taking care of excess waters were opened late in the afternoon. The yellow torrent was allowed to race through for a considerable length of time, while the crowd skirted the edges of the concrete box and clung to vantage points near the gates. Later a demonstration of the manner in which the big bronze gates were opened and closed was given.

The return trip to the city started about 4 o'clock and wound up without mishap at 6 o'clock.

Unstinted commendation of the manner in which the transportation problem was handled by Al Ellis was given by those making the trip to the dam. Plenty of cars were on hand at the Kemp early Tuesday morning and all provisions had been made to expedite matters.

FOUR MORE BILLS SIGNED BY NEFF

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, Texas, June 19.—Four additional measures passed by the recent legislative session were approved by Governor Neff today. They include the following: Authorizing dissolution of consolidated school districts; authorizing formation of radio telegraph and wireless firms; requiring $100 fee of congressional and state office candidates to be paid to state executive committees and the Downs bill regulating credits allowed tax collectors for unpaid taxes. Roy Mitchell Appeals in Letter to Court Clerk

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 19.—A personal letter to the clerk of the court of criminal appeals constituted the attempt of Roy Mitchell, Waco negro, for rehearing of the court's decision affirming a death penalty against him for murder. The letter was received today. Mitchell was sentenced to death in a series of McLennan county murders and the criminal court affirmed the first. It was stated the letter did not constitute a motion for rehearing and did not cite authorities for such. The defendant has until Thursday in which to file such a motion.

Hidalgo Judge Appointed

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 19.—Appointment of Judge Hood Boone of Edingburg as judge of the newly created Ninety-third judicial district of Hidalgo county was announced by Governor Neff today. Boone has been judge of the Seventy-ninth district. The governor also appointed pilot commissioners for Sabine Pass and Galveston. Those for Sabine Pass, follow: J. S. Edwards and E. A. Fletcher, Beaumont; S. M. White, Joe Park and Mark Majors, Port Arthur.

Entire Town to Be Swallowed By Steady March Of Etna's Molten Lava

Associated Press Dispatch

COTANIA, Italy, June 19.—The great lava torrent from Mount Etna, bearing in its flow great masses of earth and volcanic stone is advancing inexorably and has already reached the houses on the outskirts of the town of Linguaglossa. Green fields, orange groves and vineyards have been swallowed up, and for miles around the atmosphere is dense with volcanic smoke, and a rain of black smoke and ashes, which is covering the lovely countryside like a pall.

Several of the small houses in Linguaglossa have been shaken down by the frequent earth shocks, and the once smiling little town which until the last it was thought might be spared, is directly in the line of the lava and is doubtless doomed.

The molten stream is traveling about 40 yards an hour and unless some miracle happens Linguaglossa will go under during the night. Confronting it is a lava bed 800 yards wide and nearly 30 feet deep.

The work of clearing threatened towns is being carried out with the greatest energy and admirable organization. Discipline is necessary to induct the terrified inhabitants to abandon their homes.

Airplanes are being used for the first time to watch the progress of the eruption and special signalling stations have been established at strategical points, giving confidence to the people in the fact that they are being protected.

Numberless heart-rending episodes are being enacted in this theatre around Etna. Affection of the peasants for their homeland renders their evacuation difficult and delicate. In one case a woman refused to abandon her vineyard, declaring that her whole life had been given over to its cultivation, that its existence was her existence and its death was her death. When finally she was removed, it was found she had lost her reason.

The exodus of the inhabitants began soon after the first eruption, and a steady line has been traveling in the direction of safety for the past two days. When they started from their homes the people were loaded with household treasures, but gradually along the road these have been abandoned. Many mothers carrying their children or crowded upon little handcarts, are among the fugitives, and in numerous cases stalwart peasants carry on their shoulders aged relatives unable to walk.

Village priests, bearing crucifixes or the statue of the patron saint, accompany the sad procession and encourage the parishioners. The sound of chanted prayers rises above the rumbling of the eruptions and the patter of falling stones and cinders. The stricken people seem in dumb despair.

TEXAS AND ITS FUTURE.
By H. N. F.

Texas is a billion-dollar state. That is, every year from its soil is taken products having a value of a billion dollars. Its assessed wealth is more than $3,000,000,000, and if to this was added the wealth or property that is said to escape taxation, its assessable wealth would go beyond the $4,000,000,000 mark.

Texas has 250 county boards of equalization. To be explicit, Texas has 250 county commissioners' courts. Texas is without a state board of equalization, this regardless of the fact that the constitution declares taxation shall be equal and uniform.

The curtain has fallen upon the thirty-eighth legislature. There was a regular session of 60 days and two special sessions of 30 days each, or 120 days of legislative work for those who constitute the legislative body.

Appropriations approximating $30,000,000 were made. To meet these appropriations there was revenue in sight estimated at $31,000,000 to defray the expense of government and its institutions for two years.

Bluntly, the lawmakers were told by the governor that the appropriations must be whittled down to the total amount of revenue in sight or sufficient additional revenue must be provided to match the appropriations.

For 30 days the lawmakers whittled. They clipped more than $4,000,000 from the appropriation bills. They provided some additional revenue. Far apart were the two houses. A majority of the senate refused by their votes to enact fat revenue raising measures.

A majority of the house was at all times willing to tap the petroleum industry of a couple of million dollars more than that industry will be compelled to pay until the coming of another legislature and perhaps not then.

There are members of the legislature who insist that the whittling of the appropriations has been done scientifically, and that the revenue in sight should be sufficient to provide for all governmental needs.

There are others who say that there is a deficiency of $2,000,000, or that there will be a deficiency before the coming of the fall of 1924 of $2,000,000.

The thirty-eighth defeated an income tax measure; it defeated an intangible tax measure; it defeated many occupation tax bills. Cost of government, state, county and city, is growing greater all the time. This is not surprising.

The people are demanding more. They insist upon improved school facilities; they insist upon millions of dollars a year for the aid of the rural schools; they insist upon modern highways; they insist upon all the modern accessories of civilization, and all these cost money.

This has not been a spectacular legislature; it has been a plodding, leaderless, go-as-you-please legislature. Early in the regular session house members organized a legislative farm bloc. This bloc included lawyers, editors and business men, as well as farmers and stockmen. It functioned throughout the entire regular session and the two special sessions.

Its members insisted that new sources of revenue must be tapped and the leaders of the bloc were ready at all times to tap and tap deeply the petroleum industry. They declared that the farmers of Texas and the land of Texas had been carrying the bulk of the taxation load.

A majority of the senators never did take kindly to this proposition and this saved the petroleum industry a couple of millions this year and next year. Motor vehicle owners were not spared.

And the gasoline tax and motor vehicle license tax will produce a combined revenue estimated all the way from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually. It is admitted by the lawmakers that those who use the public highways should be willing to contribute handsomely to their upkeep.

The thirty-eighth legislature refused to call a convention for the drafting of a new constitution; it refused to pass the pet measure recommended by the governor and known as the ouster bill; it refused to pass a platform demand known as the bill creating a state equalization board of tax review which would have made taxation equal and uniform in the state; but the thirty-eighth legislature has constructive measures to its credit.

For instance, the reclamation and conservation act. When the whittling was over a handsome appropriation remained to carry out the provisions of the act and to provide for surveys and maps of the river water sheds of Texas.

Advocates of drastic enforcement of prohibition were very successful. Several measures were enacted which, if enforced, should rid the state of violators of the Volstead act and the Dean law, if it is within the power of criminal statutes to stamp out illicit traffic in the manufacture and sale of intoxicants.

These new laws bristle. They are far-reaching. They are provided with double rows of sharp teeth. Mild indeed is the Dean law in comparison with some of the classes of the statutes manufactured by the thirty-eighth legislature and which have received the approval of the governor.

He was given all he asked in this particular field, with the sole exception of the ouster act, which repeatedly went down in defeat in the thirty-eighth legislature, as well as in the thirty-seventh legislature.

It will go down in history that the thirty-eighth was a leaderless body. This is no reflection on its membership. There was no outstanding leader in the senate; there was no outstanding leader in the house. There are able men in the house, but no outstanding figure dominated either branch of the legislature.

Texas needs a new constitution. Texas needs a modern system of taxation. Texas needs a state board of equalization. Texans should take their schools out of politics. Texas should eradicate what is known as the pork barrel system of providing funds for the maintenance of their higher institutions of learning, as well as the public schools of the state. There should be a mileage tax and the people should vote it direct for the support of education and all the schools, high or low.

All this is admitted by four-fifths of the men who constituted the membership of the thirty-eighth. They say that their constitution is antiquated and outlived its usefulness years ago. They say that the educational institutions of the state, including the rural schools, should be maintained by direct taxation upon the property or wealth of the state, supplemented by light appropriations on the part of the law-making body, should an emergency arise and financial relief become necessary.

They say that pouring money into the penitentiary hopper is like pouring money into a rat hole, but they left the problem where they found it for the thirty-ninth legislature to tackle and solve if the legislative mind two years hence is capable of providing a solution of that problem.

Four-fifths of the membership are agreed that a new constitution would provide for a house membership of 93, leaving the senate membership as it is today, for a continuous session of six months, if necessary, and a lawmaker to be paid an adequate salary instead of the per diem allowed at present.

These lawmakers of the thirty-eighth were most liberal in making appropriations for almost everything in sight, or every demand which was made upon them by powerful minorities representing development associations or welfare organizations.

They were willing to go home and let it go at that, but the governor entertained another point of view. He insisted upon a show-down, revenue in sight to meet appropriations or appropiations pruned down to a place where the estimated revenues would sustain the appropriations without a large deficiency.

Speaking of large appropriations, the tax experts say that the legislature which will organize in this city in January, 1925, will be compelled to go beyond the $45,000,000 mark in making appropriations for all governmental expenses for two years, or an increase of $10,000,000 greater than the total amount appropriated in the closing days of the thirty-eighth legislature.

CHECKING UP.

This instrument checks off the mileage as the wheels of the car go round.

He knows where he is going, and what time he ought to get there.

And he can set his pace according to the information that is supplied by the little machine on the dash.

Most people know where they are going—or at least where they want to go.

But few of them know much about the progress they are making.

And too often this progress, unlike that of the automobile, is the wrong direction—to one side or the other—or even backward.

Checking up is not so easy as it seems.

But it can be done with a little care, and considerable observation of the people that started at the same time and in the same place that we did.

If the majority of them have passed us, it is time to mend our pace, if it possibly can be done.

And if the surroundings we are in are the same surroundings we ago, it is also time to hurry a little.

It is not encouraging for an old man, or a man in middle life, to notice that men who were boys when he was beginning his career are taking positions in the line ahead thing is wrong, either with him or the situation he is in, or with the circumstances which have shaped the journey he is making.

It is a sure indication that some- of him.

But we cannot always have pleasant thoughts.

Just where we are and why we are

Now and then we must realize there, even if it injures our pride, and makes our outlook on life gloomy.

Better a little worry about the future, as a result of checking up than an absolute certainty that the future will bring nothing but an unhappy and an unsuccessful old age.

We each have an allotment of miles at our disposal, and we can, if we choose, travel most of them without undue fatigue.

The important thing is to know we are traveling, and not standing still.

It is better to make that discovery daily or weekly than once every year.

It is wiser to look back over every day and find out whether we have gained or slipped and why.

A daily check-up will take a little time. But the time will be well invested.

We cannot expect more salary at the end of the day, but we ought to expect to be worth at least a little more salary. And if we are, we will stand a far better chance of getting it at the end of the year.

LARGE CROWD SEES EXHIBITION

Water Carnival at Lake Draws Attention Tuesday

A crowd that packed the pool enclosure was on hand at Lake Wichita Tuesday night for the aquatic carnival put on by the management. And none of those who saw the various events were disappointed.

The features of the evening were the fire dives by Joe Moyland and "Red" Hutchinson, both of whom dropped off the 52-foot tower either with their suits aflame or with a blazing pool of gasoline beneath them. Moyland dove through a burning surface and Hutchinson, after soaking his suit with gas, calmly set it afire and plunged to the surface in a series of flips.

The fancy diving for juniors was won by Harold Robinson, aged 12. The stunts of George Washburn, True Cauble, and Cecil Bentley drew rounds of applause from the spectators.

It is announced that another exhibition will be held at the lake next Sunday.

BRIDGE TO KMA POOL CLOSED

No More Traffic Over It After Wednesday for Several Days

A reminder that the Wichita river bridge between Electra and the K. M. A. oil fields would be closed early Thursday morning for a four or five day period of repairs was made Tuesday by County Engineer Isbell.

Mr. Isbell stated that the condition of the bridge now was such as to demand immediate repairs and that for this reason it was decided to start work at once. The structure will be closed at 7 o'clock Thursday morning and traffic will be barred from that time until the needed improvements are complete.

Exceptionally heavy traffic is now going over the bridge, it is reported. It offers the shortest route from Electra to the Archer County oil fields and since developments in that territory have opened up, the bridge has seen a great amount of service.

While this structure is closed, traffic must cross the river on the bridge just south of Iowa Park via the old K. M. A. and Holliday road.

The VANISHING MEN
By Richard Washburn Child

Peter goes to America and ransacks the house on the Hudson for some clew to the mystery. He finds two volumes of "The Explorations of Father Carlos in the Mescalero Desert." He reads Father Carlos' description of "The Lost Pueblo" and the old missionary's reference to an immense figure of "the serpent with feathers like a bird" on a wall. But from each book following that point had been ripped a number of succeeding pages.

From the lower drawer of a desk Peter took out a handful of Parmalee's canceled checks and found one made payable to "Brena Selcoss Parmalee."

Almost viciously he slapped this one over onto its face and stared down at the endorsement on the back, "Pay to Bearer, Brena Selcoss Parmalee."

"That will do," he said, and thrust it in his pocket.

He returned to the lower drawer again, threw out Compton Parmalee's private books of account and went over the items.

At the end of his amateur audit he thrust the books under his arm and left the house.

Then Peter in town again looked up Lanfrew, Parmalee's lawyer, and told part of his story.

"Let it alone," said the lawyer.

"Let what alone?"

"This affair. Let sleeping dogs lie."

"Would you say Parmalee was thinking of suicide?" asked Peter.

"No. I wouldn't," replied Lanfrew.

"He left no word for his wife," Peter went on.

He saw the lawyer flinch.

"To be frank with you, he did," said Lanfrew. "It was too brutal to give her."

Peter leaned forward. "Too brutal?"

Lanfrew said, "Yes. He said to me, 'If I make up my mind not to take her away—if I go on a little journey myself, you tell her that I'll be back in two weeks. You tell her I'm going to cut a knot—that I'm going to relieve the hell I've been living.'"

Peter asked, "Then you thought he blamed her?"

Lanfrew threw up his hands, a gesture which said, "There is no question."

"For what?" asked Peter.

"God knows!" replied Lanfrew. "Some women—beautiful women—are poisonous. Rare cases. They carry a deadly poison, DeWolfe. Some influence, some bane, some corrosive withering, devilish, fatal fluid or vapor or aura—whatever you choose. Who knows what it is? But she—that woman—when you find her, will blast a man like—"

He stopped.

Peter went home to his apartment where he found a cablegram from Brena.

"Do not go any deeper, I beg you. I am in mortal fear," it said. "I am coming to America. All my love."

In return he cabled her:

"Do not come yet. I will cable you again. If you have important news do not be afraid to send it."

He was glad when that was done. There was an additional reason for it; he was not yet prepared to meet Brena Selcoss for the second time. He must first clear that way for relationship that had in it no reservations.

A day or two later Peter had acquired certain information that he had sought.

He had learned from his father the importance of gathering about him good men as his lieutenants and he set out to find them.

From Smallwood, a book man he demanded a perfect copy of Father Carlos' story, within a week!

"The operation will cost a great deal of money," said Smallwood.

"I will bear any expense," replied Peter.

"May I say that the—your desire for a copy of this book must be extraordinary.

"Oh, yes; most extraordinary. Men have gambled away their lives on it. I can't tell how much I want it until I get it. But to get it I will pay what it costs."

From the publishers he went to one Manfred Eldegard. Eldegard was a public accountant whose clients, the surety and bonding companies, said of him, "He is the man who can read figures just as a pianist reads music. He doesn't check up your books. He plays them for you! He can bend over the figure on a corporation's account and smell the truth about the company. If he wants to catch a defaulter he can tell by looking at the red edges of a journal's pages whether one has been there."

As Eldegard turned the pages of Parmalee's account books he began to utter "chu-chu, chu-chu" between his teeth.

"What's this Credit Account X.D?" he inquired.

"That's the one that occurs most often," said Peter.

DeWolfe looked at the expert searchingly. He said: "Do you see anything else?"

"Yes—some one has been here before us. Perhaps it was you, eh"

"No," replied Peter. "What do you see?"

"I see that someone who had a reason has put copy paper and carbons under these pages and copied these handwriting entries by running a stylus over the original entries. Sometimes the carbon and paper went askew; that's why you see these little blue marks. Did you think it extrordinary that I observed that?"

"Oh, no," said Peter. "Not at all. How could I? It was the first thing that made me wonder about the story these figures can tell. I may want you to go wherever the trail leads—Dallas, New Orleans."

* * * * *

"Here I am," he said.

"You don't mean—" exclaimed Peter.

"Yes, I did find one," said the bookman. "Not so far away, either," and he placed on the table a third copy of Father Carlos' Explorations!

Peter flapped over the pages. Thirty-one, two, three, four, five. Thirty-six! Thirty-seven!

"All here!" he shouted.

"The way presents no obstacles to progress save the sand, which is loose for the feet of horses," Father Carlos, the Jesuit explorer, had written. "This region of fine sand blown by winds from the Mesa begins at the valley that we have called the Dry Cup and by me is so marked upon the drawing. Thence it runneth straight north for a distance of one hundred and five.

"Here was found a vast mound, some of our party saying below a great rock was to be found. The course from this mound is northwest; one we have followed by great good fortune, like a miracle, there being only impassable clefts in the plain to the right and to the left and only one entrance into the Great Cleft, where is the ruins of the City—part upon the level ground and part upon the southern wall of the Mesa."

Peter turned to the map.

At the end of twenty minutes of study he drew a deep breath. These pages then were those which Parmalee had sought—and found, the same as those which he had torn out of the book; they had been associated with some strange Call.

Was the Call to that region or was the Call something that followed his search for this quaint old volume and its possession?

To Peter it appeared now that one more pieces of material was needed to fill the pattern. He had been reluctant to seek this piece, but now there was too much confirmation to allow anything to stand in the way.

From a friend he had heard of the man he wanted for this next step, and to this house he went.

The man he had come to see met him in a typical doctor's office.

The physician, acting from habit, put on his glasses, took out a cardcase and said in a carefully nutured tone of sympathy:

"What's the matter?"

"Nothing is the matter," replied DeWolfe. "I'm not ill. I came to consult you in your other capacity."

"Well," said the doctor, "handwriting has been my hobby nearly 22 years. It began curiously enough by a triviality—an attempt to read character through penmanship; it has ended in a scientific inquiry, the development of method, a system of rhythm measurements. Scarcely a day goes by that I am not consulted by the prosecuting authorities in many cities. I testified in London in the famous Speere murder case."

"Well?" said the doctor.

From his memoranda book DeWolfe took out two pieces of paper.

One of them was that with the symbol of the feathered serpent and the two words, "This Sign," which once had been in the possession of Jim Hennepin. The other was the check drawn by Compton Parmalee to the order of his wife, Berna Selcoss Parmalee, which she had endorsed. He placed this indorsement up and not down as he put the two pieces of paper side by side upon the table.

"That," said the doctor, putting a forefinger upon the words, "The Sign," "is an excellent example of an attempt to disguise penmanship."

"That is not the problem," said Peter.

"What is it?"

"The problem is whether the same hand wrote the words on these two pieces of paper. Did they?"

"Did they?" repeated the doctor, scornfully. "Did you expect an answer to that—at once—in a minute? It requires measurements, it requires the microscope, to pick out the arcs. That is all. I could get at it tomorrow morning and in a few hours—"

"Tonight," said Peter, firmly. "It is worth a thousand dollars for me to know tonight."

The doctor swallowed.

"You want a yes or no answer?"

"And I want you to telephone me. No matter what hour, I shall be waiting. Here is my number. No matter what hour. You understand. A thousand dollars."

At half past four in the morning when Peter was staring out at the first color in the eastern sky, filled with strange chill of a sleepless night, his telephone rang at last.

He had his answer.

At half past four in the afternoon a few days later Brena Selcoss walked into the office of Colby Pennington, Peter DeWolfe's friend and lawyer. She had come directly from the pier on the North river. Her face was white.

"I am a friend of Mr. DeWolfe's," she said. "I have sent a wireless addressed to him here."

Pennington held up the undelivered envelope.

"Are you Miss Selcoss?" he asked. "Peter is out of town."

"Out of town?"

"Why, yes. He went off in a hurry—some hurry and flurry. I believe he had received some kind of message."

Pennington stopped.

"For God's sake, what's the matter?"

Brena Selcoss, leaning forward in her chair, had thrown her arms upon his desk and in the curve of one elbow she had buried her face.

For a moment she appeared as lifeless as if she had been struck a crashing blow upon the head.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Kahn Bldg., Eighth and Indiana

Will It Be Possible to Irrigate Any Other Land Than Is Now Included in the Two Irrigation Districts?

FOURTEENTH INSTALLMENT.

This is the concluding article in answer to the above question.

We have shown that there is plenty of land which can be irrigated. The tracts that can be irrigated cheapest lie in Archer county, along Holliday creek and in the Lake creek valley.

We showed how the demand for water would probably exceed three acre feet per acre delivered, but if this amount of water is allowed the water supply will not be adequate in a succession of dry years for the irrigation of so much as 100,000 acres of land.

If only one and one-half acre feet delivered is allowed there would be no danger of ever having a water shortage for a period of five years of minimum rainfall on 100,000 acres and 150,000 acres could probably be irrigated with but no more danger of a water shortage than confronts most western irrigation projects.

The average rainfall and one and one-half acre feet of water equal almost four acre feet per acre. The maximum rainfall in any of the past 30 years has not equaled this amount. In years of maximum rainfall there is plenty of water for practically any crop that can be grown here.

In years of minimum rainfall one and one-half acre feet of water added to the rainfall gives about three acre feet per acre.

Economy in the use of water will be necessary from the first both from the standpoint of irrigating the maximum acreage and to prevent water logging of the land.

In our judgment, if economy is employed in the use of water it will be possible to eventually irrigate about 90,000 acres in addition to the land already embraced within the two districts already formed.

DOZEN BANDITS HOLD UP STATION

BABY PEGGY'S FIRST BIG PICTURE RELEASED—

"Carmen Jr.," the last of the first series of six Century comedies starring Baby Peggy, has been booked over the entire Loew circuit in New York, which proves its phenomenal success.

In this picture, Baby Peggy mimics the renowned Carmen of old Spain, and the popular Valentino.

In Hollywood, where it ran the gauntlet of nine previews, those who saw it said it was the best character Baby Peggy had ever "miniatured." She is so tiny!—and yet she carries her mantilla and her big droppy hat with the spangles with all the grace and poise of Carmen at her best.

WONDER DOG DEVELOPS FRIENDSHIP FOR MAN—

While Strongheart takes his work very serious-, he doesn't let it interfere with his friendships when he isn't working. Off stage the wonder dog has real affection for John J. Richardson, the heavy in "The Phantom Pack." Strongheart's next starring vehicle. But during working hours they are bitter enemies.

During the filming of a scene, Richardson tries to kick the dog and Strongheart springs for his throat. Strongheart did it "with blood in his eye"—so much so that Richardson hit it for the tall timber on top of some shelving in the store in which they were at work.

It took Trimble, the director, five minutes to get Richardson down for a retake, but the moment it was over, Strongheart came up to Richardson, muzzled his head in Richardson's hand, and put out a paw, as much as to say, "Shake, old man, you know I didn't mean any harm."

FORMER SENATOR PLAYS IN HISTORICAL FILM—

Cornelius M. Cole, senator from California during the years Abraham Lincoln was president of the United States, and who sat upon the speaker's stand at Gettysburg when Lincoln delivered his immortal address, will once more sit upon the speaker's platform at Gettysburg when the Rockett-Lincoln Film company reproduces that historic scene for their photodramatic life of Abraham Lincoln, now in production under the direction of Philip E. Rosen.

Senator Cole is the oldest and most distinguished authentic witness of Lincoln in his time, and his advice has been of inestimable help to the producers of the Lincoln feature.

GASTON GLASS DECLARES THAT'S HIS NAME—

Gaston Glass, who is playing the end of this week at the Olympic in "The Girl Who Came Back," wants the world to know that his is not a "nom de film," but his real name that has been handed him by his father and numerous other remote ancestors.

Glass says he hates the idea that some screen folks have of slighting their families and discarding a perfectly good name all for the sake of euphony.

NEB AND BEL ARE JUST A COUPLE OF CURS—

"Nebuchadnezzar" and "Belshazzer," two little yellow curs belonging to one of the extras, have become great favorites around the Metro lot, where Rex Ingram is producing one of his recent pictures. The dogs look very much alike.

"Nebuchadnezzer" died, apparently without any excuse whatsoever, and was duly buried. But Ramon Novarro didn't know it.

Next morning when Ramon reported on the set, he began to tell Ingram of some of the antics he had seen "Nebby" performing a few minutes before.

"Oh, no, you didn't see 'Nebby,'" said the director. "He's dead."

"Dead?" replied Mr. Navarro. "Why, he can't be dead—I was just playing with him!"

"Well, if he's not dead," answered Mr. Ingram, "he's has a dirty trick played on him. They buried him!"

Spudders Argue But Whip Houston 6 to 1

FIELDING OF BUFFS WOBBLES WOEFULLY, WITH 6 ERRORS BEHIND PITCHING OF SELLS

Pitcher Stauffer of Wichita Waves Goodbye in Seventh When He Tangles With Sperber and Cecil Coombs Is Ousted in Ninth.

HOUSTON, June 19.—The Spudders maintained the top rung in the Texas league Tuesday as a result of their winning the last game of the series from Houston here Tuesday by the score of 6 to 1. Stauffer and Sells engaged in a pitching duel and Sells allowed one more hit than his opponent, but the Buffs' fielding was pitiful, six errors being chalked against them before the close of the game.

Stauffer was ejected from the game in the seventh inning when he and Sperber engaged in a fistic combat in front of the plate. Sperber accompanied him from the park. Cecil Coombs, who played second base in the absence of Al White, was sent from the park in the ninth inning for disputing a decision. Girgsby took Coombs' place at second and Jonnard took Grigsby's place in right field. Weiss played in center field for the Spudders. Carlson pitched the final two and two-thirds innings for the Spudders, and contrary to the form he showed Monday, had the Houston crew at his mercy, only seven men facing him, as there was a double play pulled while he was in the box. He also connected for a triple in the ninth inning and scored the final Spudder run.

Stauffer in Hot Box.

Sell retired the Spudders in order in the first, but Stauffer got into hot water when the Buffs came to bat. The first man to face him was Sperber, and he singled. Schultz and Mueller walked, making the bases dizzy. Schmandt hit to Stauffer, who threw to Bischoff, cutting the runner off at the plate, and Bischoff in turn threw to Cotter, who doubled Schmandt at first. Bell knocked a line drive to Berger, which retired the side. Not a run was scored against Stauffer in this frame, although the bases were full with none out.

Stauffer got in bad again in the third, but escaped without a run being scored against him. Sell, first man up, singled and was sacrificed to second by Sperber. Schultz walked, but Mueller popped to Cotton and Stauffer threw out Schmandt.

Wichita scored the first marker of the game in the fourth inning, when she pushed a run across the plate as a result of a walk and two hits. Coombs walked and Tanner singled, Coombs stopping at second. Cotter, in an attempt to sacrifice, forced Coombs at third, but Girgsby singled, scoring Tanner. Weiss and Berger were easy outs.

Wichita Falls put another run across in the fifth, when Bischoff singled, was sacrificed to second by Stauffer, and scored when Stansbury threw Bescher's easy grounder over first base. Coombs flied to Sperber and Tanner struck out.

Houston scored their only run of the game in this frame, when Vick doubled, and after Sell popped out, scored on Sperber's triple to center. Sperber was run down between third and home when the Buffs got their signals mixed and Schultz failed to bunt on an attempted squeeze play. Schultz singled to left, but Mueller flied to Bescher.

Wichita Falls put two more across in the seventh without a hit being registered. Sell threw out Bischoff, and Stauffer struck out. Bescher was safe on Stansbury's error, and he and Coombs both scored when Coombs' fly to right bounced out of Sperber's hands into the bleachers for four bases.

Sell struck out for Houston, but Sperber walked. Sperber and Stauffer engaged in a little fistic combat in front of home plate, both being chased from the park.

Carlson took the mound for Wichita Falls and Helstrom ran for Sperber. Schultz relieved conditions by hitting into a double play, Coombs taking his grounder, tagging Helstrom and throwing to Cotter at first, who completed the double play. Goodwin went into right field for Sperber.

Wichita Falls scored one in the eighth when Grigsby walked, stole second and scored on Berger's single.

The final marker of the game was put across in the ninth inning, as a fruit of Carlson's triple and Schultz muffing Coombs' fly. Tanner popped to Schmandt and Coombs was caught off second. Coombs was put out of the game for protesting the decision. Grigsby played second the final half inning, and Jonnard took Grigsby's place in right field.

GIBBONS' MANAGER OFFERS $20,000 BET AGAINST DEMPSEY

International News Dispatch

SHELBY, Mont., June 19. — Exchanging amenities for the first time in five years, Jack Kearns and Eddie Kane, arch enemies and respective managers of Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons, today engaged in an impromptu duel of words, which culminated in an offer by Kane to chance $20,000 on his man's chances. Kearns, however, wasn't listening. He never bets on fights, he says.

Kane's obvious faith in his man and the apparent sincerity of his offer was the sensation of Shelby today.

The clash came during a conference over motion pictures of the fight when Kearns made a chance remark that the champion probably would be a 4 to 1 favorite.

FLY CHASERS LEAD MAJORS

Two veteran and slugging outfielders are leading the American and National league hitters by healthy margins. Zach Wheat of the Dodgers is setting the pace for the Heydler circuit while Harry Heilmann is showing the way for Ban Johnson's proteges. Both are well over the .400 mark.

South Methodist Nine Defeated by Texas Co., 7 to 3

The Texas company's nine maintained their lead in the Twilight league as a result of their victory over the South Methodist nine Tuesday by the score of 7 to 3. Sonderford, pitching for the winners, was in fine form and only allowed six hits while his teammates were collecting 11. The South Methodists played ragged ball in the field, making five errors which helped materially in the Texas company's scoring. Davis was the heavy hitter of the day, the snappy catcher for the winners securing three hits out of four times at bat.

"ACE" GOING STRONG

Ace Elliott, phenomenal first sacker who was grabbed up by the Cubs to fill a vacancy at the initial corner, worked with the Spudders the earlier part of the season, and is going like a whirlwind in the big loop now. Since reporting at Chicago he has worked steadily, and so far has played airtight ball in the field.

Elliott got his chance as a result of the illness of Ray Grimes, regular first sacker, and has made good use of it, proving beyond doubt his ability to stick with the fast company. His speedy fielding in his first game, a week ago, brought a wave of comment from the scribes, and he has kept in the limelight with fast work in the field and a long row of hits that assures him of a steady birth.

In Monday's game he accounted for two runs by poling the ball to the center wall for two sacks, helping the Cubs add another to their string of wins. He is getting from one to three safe hits a day, and looks mighty good on the initial sack for the Cubs. Grimes will be out of the game all season, and will probably have some keen competition if he reports for his old position against Elliott next year.

Wheezes From The Press Coop

Big Ed Stauffer has shaken the jinx that has been hanging over his shoulder since he struck the Texas League. In the past five days he won three games and seems to have hit his stride. Recognized as one of the best pitchers in the league Stauffer started out with the handicap of having a jinx and this threatened for a time to ruin his chance but with a grim determination he has shaken it off and should prove the ace in the hole for the Spudders from now to the end of the season. He has now won 5 and lost 5 and is pitching good ball. Yesterday's little encounter with Sperber showed that Stauffer's heart is in the game and when that is said half the outcome of the game is assured.

The Spudders were the only team in the Texas League that played errorless ball Tuesday and they did this with two fielders playing second base and a catcher playing in the outfield. One can easily see now how the Wichita Falls crew is leading the league in fielding.

Carlson performed an unusual feat yesterday. Eight outs were made by the Buffs while he was in the box for the Spudders, yet he only faced seven men. He went into the game in the seventh with one out and one on base and the first man he faced hit into a double play. Quite a different reception from what he received from the Houston nine Sunday.

Luque, the smiling Cuban, pitched his ninth win out of the last ten starts yesterday when he defeated the Brooklyn crew 1 to 0 in the 11th inning. He has not been scored on in the last 25 innings. Pitching with no wins behind him, the big Cuban demonstrated that the jinx that has been following him for the past three seasons has been lost and that he is on his way to set a record in the National League. Luque has the unlucky faculty of pitching when the Reds are not hitting and the majority of his games have been lost by one or two scored. Yesterday he pitched for 11 innings without having his teammates make a run but they came to the rescue and put one across in the last frame. He only allowed five hits in the 11 innings.

Wichita Falls opens a series with Galveston today that will probably determine the winners of the first half, as she comes home for quite a few games after the Galveston series. The pitching staff is in good condition, the men hitting when hits means runs, playing a grand game in the field and doing everything possible to bring a pennant to Wichita Falls. They are handicapped by White's absence but Coombs is filling the place in fine shape and Art Weiss will have a chance to show his wares in the outfield. The Spudders have won 10 and lost 4 games on this road trip and are eager for the contest with Galveston. Meine will probably hurl for the Spudders today.

VILLA TO FIGHT FRANKIE GENARO ABOUT SEPT. 15

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 19.—Plans are under way, according to Tom O'Rourke, Polo Grounds matchmaker, for another world's flyweight title bout, bringing together Pancho Villa, new champion, who toppled Jimmy Wilde from the throne last night, and Frankie Genaro of New York, who won the American 112-pound crown from the Filipino last March. Villa has signed a contract for the match, which O'Rourke plans to stage about September 15.

White Comes Home With Bad Ankle And Cecil Coombs Takes His Place

Al White, Spudder second baseman, is scheduled to arrive in Wichita Falls today and will probably be out of the line-up for several days as a result of a sprained ankle he received in an attempted slide into the home plate in the second game with Houston Monday.

Cecil Coombs took White's place at second Tuesday and Weiss took Coombs place in center field. Coombs is rated as a good infielder and White's absence from the line-up will not be felt as much as one would at first think. Although White has not been hitting but .250 he has been fielding like a demon and it was unfortunate that his accident should occur when the Spudders are fighting a grim battle for the league leadership.

Art Weiss, lately from the Cubs, and last year with the Spudders for a brief time, will take Coombs' place in the middle garden and there is no doubt but what his stick work will help in the next few days.

18-Year Alabaman Trims Cream on Birmingham Links

ROEBUCK COUNTRY CLUB, Birmingham, Ala., June 19. — Glenn Crisman, 18-year-old boy of Selma, Ala., proved himself the superior of the cream of the South's amateur golfers by shooting the lowest score, a 73, in the qualifying round of the Southern Golf association's 21st annual amateur tournament. A score of 83 was required to get in the champion division, while 87 was needed for the first flight, play in which will begin tomorrow.

The team trophy was captured by the Roebuck contestants, who had an aggregate score of 319. They were followed by the Druid Hills club of Atlanta, with 321, the Atlanta Athletic club finishing third, with 325 and Bellemeade, Nashville, fourth, with 328.

GRAHAM METHODISTS WIN GAME 8 TO 2

GRAHAM, Texas, June 19.—With the score 0 to 0 until the fourth inning, the Presbyterians again blew up and allowed the Methodists to win by the score of 8 to 2. This put the Presbyterians definitely out of the running in the race for the league cup. The batteries for the Methodists were Smith, and Blaxton, for the Presbyterians, Thompson and Price. Warrent, of the Methodists, knocked a home run, sending in two men ahead of him.

STOCKS FIRMER BUT SPOTTY

Several Leaders Tumble to New Low Point Records

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 19. — Stock prices displayed a better tone in today's active dealings on the New York stock exchange but there were indications of frightened and forced liquidation and short selling throughout the day, which gave the market a spotty appearance. Several of the leaders tumbled to new low records before sufficient buying support set in to stem the tide of selling orders.

Official denial of the widespread rumors that several brokerage houses were in financial difficulties did much to dispel the pessimism that was so prevalent in yesterday's late dealings.

Oils were rather unstable because of unfavorable trade conditions, the Pan-American issues, California Petroleum, Producers and Refiners, General Asphalt and a number of others falling to new low prices for the year.

Rails held up well in the first few hours of trading, but they gave way in the afternoon reaction and many of them closed at net losses on the day.

Call money held at 5 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates showed marked improvement. Demand sterling advanced 5-16 to $4.62 5-16, and French francs climbed 7½ points.

German marks rallied from .0006¾, the extreme low established yesterday .009 cent.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 19.—An opening decline in the cotton market was followed by rallies, but prices weakened again under a renewal of July liquidation with that delivery selling down to 26.30 during the afternoon, or 37 points net lower, and into new low ground for the movement. Near month weakness combined with better weather reports led to considerable selling of new crop months, but after the early decline to 23.82, October rallied to 24.25 and closed at 24.13. The general market closed irregular, net 17 points lower to 13 points higher.

The market opende steady at an advance of one point on July, but generally five to seven points lower and soon showed net losses of 10 to 18 points under continued liquidation. The market primed up around midday on covering. There were reports of a better tone in the stock market, which probably helped the rally, and there may have been some buying on southern advices claiming that there was an improved demand for new crop shipments. There was also some buying of new crop months here, believed to be for trade account, and more numerous complaints of boll weevil helped to offset the better weather news.

July sold up to 27.00, or 42 points net higher, and October advanced to 24.25, making net advances of 14 to 25 points on the new crop positions, but the market then weakened under a renewal of July liquidation. Last prices were several points up from the lowest on covering.

Exports today 8,517, making 4,544,826 so far this season. Port receipts 5,510; United States port stocks 334,846.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Comparative weakness of July oil today was a result of heavy switching from that month to later deliveries by brokers. The strength of lard and corn was also an influence, helped other months in cottonseed oil, closing 5 to 19 points net higher; sales 24,600 barrels. Prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow spot 11.35; July 11.09; September 10.99; December 8.76, all bid.

Grain Price Said To Be Under Cost Of Producing It

Special Dispatch to Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., June 19.—If Oklahoma wasn't already sold on the proposition of co-operative marketing the price of wheat on the local grain curb would give such a project added impetus according to farmers who were today offered 85 cents basis for their 1923 wheat.

They declare this price way below cost of production and the grain is not selling to any extent. One car of grain has been shipped from Grandfield by the Oklahoma Wheat Growers' association to Kansas City, according to information received today. This will be the first car of Oklahoma wheat offered this year, the association officials declare.

WHEAT RISES AFTER SLUMP

Liberal Purchasing for Europe Causes Recovery

CHICAGO, June 19.—Although rains in the spring crop belt had a bearish influence on the wheat market today and December delivery touched a new low price record for the season, the effect was afterward counterbalanced by liberal purchasing for Europe. The market closed unsettled at a range varying from half cent net decline to 3-8 cent advance, with July 107 1-4 to 1.07 3-8 and September 106 5-8 to 1.06 3-4. Corn showed 3-8 to 1 5-8 cent gain, oats 1-8@1-4 to 3-8 cent advance, and provisions 2 to 8 cents.

Corn and oats derived their strength from the fact that public elevators here have only 228,000 bushels of corn and that rural offerings are meger.

Provisions at first lacked support, but later rose with hogs and grain.

DALMAR WELL BEING WATCHED

Well Drilled 26 Inches in Sand Encountered at 1,015 Feet

ARCHER CITY, Texas, June 19.—Much interest is being manifested here over the Dalmar Oil company's Crawford and Plowman No. 3, Lot 71, H. Corsine survey. The well has been drilled 26 inches into the sand encountered at 1,015 feet. Bailing has been started and the well is expected to be put on the pump by Wednesday. A conservative estimate is that the well will be good for 20 barrels daily. The oil is of a better grade than other producers of the field. The pool is three miles north of Archer City.

Bridwell and Heydrick's No. 1, Block 72, Geraldine townsite, is rated as 400 barrel producer. Depth is said to be 1,570 feet. The well is in the Freeman-Hampton pool.

The test of Green and Key's, block 16, Lulu P. Hunt, sub-division Edward's land, will probably have to be abandoned. While attempting to pull casing Monday, casing parted 150 feet from bottom of hole. The derrick will be skidded 25 feet and a second test started. The sand in the No. 1 was found at 1,402 feet.

Derrick timbers are being hauled to northeast corner of block 98, Clark and Plumb sub-division No. 4. The test is being put down by Lansing and Monninger. The location is four miles from the Green and Key's well.

GROWERS OPEN MEMBERS DRIVE

Meeting Held at Waurika For Purpose of Adding 2000 Farmers

WAURIKA, Okla., June 19.—The Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association is putting on a big drive for new members in Jefferson county. A number of workers began an intensive drive Monday, June 18, at 10 a. m. A big meeting was called at the courthouse for the campaign.

The plan is for an increase of 2,000 new members and can be put over with the right kind of effort. The association made from $15 to $20 per bale for its members last year and can do as well or better for the en-

The Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association is not a political organization, but an association of farmers for the purpose of providing an orderly way of marketing cotton. All cotton farmers should be interested.

Churches Dismiss.

All the churches of Waurika dismissed regular services Sunday night in order to attend a union service in which Elgin Groseclose, a former Waurika boy who was in missionary work in Persia and Russia for two years, spoke.

Farmers Buy Carbon.

Farmers of Jefferson county have an opportunity to purchase carbon bisulphide, which is used for prairie dog extermination, by application to A. B. Tucker, who is in charge of the work, to County Clerk Arner and County Agent Cox, as there has been 1,000 gallons of it received last week.

Mr. Tucker states that in all cases after the drive has been made that there are a few dogs left which will not eat the poisoned grain and that the carbon bisulphide is the best thing to use in order to get rid of the ones that are left. The fumes are heavier than the air and thus penetrate the recesses of the holes, when it is placed in them.

$45,000 in Warrants Out.

In a recent audit of the county's books it was found that there were outstanding warrants to the amount of approximately $45,000, covering a long period of years. The county commissioners, on last Monday made a contract with E. D. Edwards of Oklahoma City, through his representative, J. G. Ryan, to take care of this amount in funding bonds.

The bonds were contracted for on the basis of $45,000 at a premium of $1,000 and accrued interest, the bond buyers to pay all the expenses of the procedure in selling the bonds. It will be necessary for a suit to be brought against the county in district court, and if judgment is allowed, the judgment will then be turned into funding bonds and the bonds delivered to Mr. Edwards.

There was much discussion and rather a stormy meeting in the commissioners' court on Monday, as the White Taylor company claimed that they had been promised the bonds early in the spring.

Unpaid taxes and the fact that some real estate is stricken from the rolls each year after the estimates are made is partly responsible for the existing deficit.

The law requires that an allowance of 10 per cent be made each year for uncollected taxes, but this has not been sufficient.

Capital Changed.

John H. Bartlett, acting postmaster general, has signed an order designating the capital of Oklahoma as Oklahoma City, Okla. Hreretofore the department has insisted that it was Oklahoma, Okla., although very few people paid much attention, resting secure in the knowledge that a flon and will preach for them Sunday morning and evening until September 1, at which time he will resume his studies at Norman. Mrs. Schmidt came to Waurika this week and she and Mr. Schmidt will be domiciled for the summer in the home of L. B. letter addressed either way would reach the capital.

Accepts Pastorate.

Rev. Schmidt, a student of the University of Oklahoma at Norman, has accepted the pastorate of the Presbyterian church during the vaca- Upham.

Buys Tailor Shop.

Ed Crewe, manager of the Empress theater, has purchased the Royal tailor shop of J. C. Price and will get possession Monday. He will have an experienced tailor in charge. Mr. and Mrs. Price will return to Sayre, Okla., where the parents of both reside.

Buys Interest in Gin.

Earl McCraw, who has been manager of the Waurika gin for the past five years, closed a deal this week whereby he became owner of a one-half interest in the gin. The gin was formerly owned by the Chickasha Cotton Oil company.

The Waurika gin is one of the best gins in this section of the country and Mr. McCraw has made a splendid manager. The fact that the company sold him a one-half interest testifies to the success he has made of the business.

Waurika Personals.

Mrs. George Horne and little daughter, Elsie Wayne, left Friday night for a visit with the former's parents at Wellington, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sparks and daughter, Miss Winnie Belle, left early Sunday morning for an overland trip to Quanah, Texas, where they will spend the next two months. Mr. Sparks will travel for the Fort Worth Cotton Oil Mill company over Western Texas, and Mrs. Sparks and Winnie Belle will visit the former's brother, Judge J. C. Marshall, and Mrs. Marshall at Quanah and also her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Marshall, who live on a ranch near Quanah.

Waurika to Celebrate.

Waurika will celebrate July 4 with a free barbecue. The finance committee reports that enough funds have been raised to make the affair as successful as that of the two preceding years. There will be a mass meeting held within the next few days and the various committees will be named.

The city council is to meet in call session July 1 to pass a paving resolution that will include Main street and a block each way for all the side streets for four blocks. There is a question as to whether paved territory shall be laid out in one or two districts and that will have to be settled by the property holders. The engineering contract will probably be let this week. The new paving law goes into effect July 1 and it is under this new law that the council prefers to pave. The width of the paving, the kind and the amount yet have to be definitely agreed upon, but the property owners are together on the proposition.

Sells Insurance Business.

J. H. Webb, who sold his insurance business last week to Mrs. C. A. Holding, will remain in Waurika until After July 1, assisting Mrs. Holding, after which he will go to Oklahoma City and will engage in the general mercantile business with Rev. Moss Weaver, a former Methodist pastor of this place but who is now preaching at Healdton. Rev. Weaver will close the conference year's work and then remove to Oklahoma City. Waurika friends of both parties wish them well in their new business venture.

Accident Averted.

A serious accident was narrrowly averted Saturday afternoon when a Chandler car, driven by Mrs. Earl McCraw, lost one of the rear wheels. Mrs. McCraw, with a crowd of women and children, had been to the swimming pool and was on their way home when the wheel left the car and rolled considerable distance. Fortunately they were driving slowly and aside from a shaking up no damage was done.

Little Miss Norma Marshall returned to her home in Quanah, Texas, Friday after a week spent in Waurika visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. R Sparks, and Mr. Sparks.

KINLEY HEADS UNIVERSITY CLUB

Bobo, Ripley, Marrs, Haney and Ferguson Also Selected

At the regular University club luncheon Tuesday at the Y. W. C. A. Judge R. O. Kinley was elected president of the club for the next six months; Julian Bobo was elected first vice president; B. G. Ripley second vice president; J. P. Marrs secretary-treasurer. E. P. Haney and W. R. Ferguson were elected directors of the club. It was decided at the meeting yesterday that there would be no more meetings held until the second Tuesday in September. This plan was adopted because of the warm weather and because of the fact that the Y. W. C. A. will be closed the remainder of the summer.

Superintendent J. W. Cantwell was the chief speaker at the meeting yesterday. "Education is next in importance to clothing, shelter and food, and yet there is as much money spent in the United States every year for the purchase of candy as there is spent in the advancement of the educational system. Few people realize there are 80,000 illiterate people in Texas and that there are five million illiterates in the United States. Despite these alarming conditions five times as much money is spent for luxuries in the United States yearly as there is for education."

Dr. Cantwell declared that many people were complaining about the amount of money spent for education, these people not realizing that the value of a dollar has depreciated to half its value before the war.

In conclusion Dr. Cantwell made an appeal to the members of the University club to assist him and the school board in making the educational system in this city stand among the best in the state.

TOWN STUFF'S BOOK REVIEW.

"Pair of Dice: Lost."

The latest work of Prof. Ezra Britancia Bookknowledge, head of Tuskegee department of ancient Ethiopian games. The greatest literary effort of Prof. Bookknowledge since his epochal "Read 'Em and Weep," which was one of the 10 best sellers a few years ago.

In "Pair of Dice: Lost" one is reminded of the wonderful descriptive qualities of a great English author who attempted a similar epic known to a few as "Paradise Lost." In his search for the missing dice, the noted Tuskegee authority begins away back in 711 B. C. (Before Cards) and traces them up to the twentieth century, where they were located in the possession of a negro stevedore on the docks at New Orleans.

A NEW CONTRIB.

The following letter was received from an ardent reader of Home Town Stuff:

Typographical errors in newspaper advertisements are a continuous source of mirth. Humorists use them as a basis for many of their funny stories and most of them are so ludicrous that they always get a laugh. Here's a help wanted ad that recently appeared in a newspaper.

"Girls—White, 156 years old, to wrap bundles and learn assorting." G-L & C. C."

The contributor who sent in this advertisement states that she knows of one girl who called in answer to this ad, and explained that although she was only 97, she had had some experience along these lines and hoped that her youth would not exclude her, further stating that she was young and learned quickly. She offered the suggestion that her grandmother had done this kind of work and was in a position to help her become more proficient in her tasks during her spare hours at home.

While waiting in a local cafe for the waiter to serve my dinner I overheard the following from an irate diner:

"There was an old man from Siberia,
Sat for hours in a large cafeteria,
Says he: "Heres the rub,
They don't bring you grub—
I'll beat it right back to Siberia."

Twinkle, twinkle, little sock,

HIS AD PAID.

Z tells Y he wants X to send to Pasteur institute at Austin.
Y tells Z nothing doing and to leave X on body where it belongs.
Z waxes wrath and goes out with gun, crippling leg on body going with X.
Y and family come to court and ask Z be arrested for trying to sever X from body and ship to Austin.
X still on body horizontally from tail on same body.
Y still trying to protect X.
Z saying X is going to be his trophy, court or no court.
X plus Y plus Z equals devil of a mess in Wichita Falls.
Bulletin: Preceding above alphabetical allegory. Late last night it was reported Y had X and rest of body in an ammonia atmosphere (packed in ice) so that Z cannot boast that he had carried out his threat.

CITY SPRAYS TREES IN PARK

Machine Put to Work When Bagworm Menace Spreads

Work was started Tuesday by the city park department spraying bagworm infested trees in the various parks of the city. The spraying machine owned by the department was reconditioned and immediately put to work.

It was stated by Pat Bunnenberg, superintendent of the department, that the situation regarding the trees was growing serious and that the city would have faced a tremendous loss had not a fight been started on the bag worms.

Reports from residential districts of the city indicate that the bag worms in those sections are being gradually eliminated by spraying and that losses here will not be as serious as was at first feared.

Three Judges Try Homestead Suits Involving Bakeries

Court officials of the district courts here were remarking Tuesday on a rather peculiar coincidence that has developed during the past two days. It was found that some time during Monday and Tuesday all three of the district judges were engaged in the trial of civil lawsuits involving homestead rights of bakeries.

Judge Martin of the Eighty-ninth district court started such a case Monday and Judges Wilson of Thirtieth and Napier of the Seventy-eighth heard some evidence of the same kind Tuesday.

It was remarked that homestead cases are not frequent in the courts and that three in progress at the same time, all involving litigation in which bakeries figured, was unusual.

Barker Case Continues

Trial will be continued today of the case of W. E. Barker vs. V. E. Stampfli, on trial before Judge P. A. Martin of the eighty-ninth district court. Testimony was concluded Tuesday afternoon and argument in the law of the case started.

The suit is one involving the homestead rights of a bakery business.

Little Grain Sold

Some grain was reported to have been brought in to the local elevators Tuesday, but still the real grain market season has not begun, according to local dealers. A few wagons came into the city yesterday, but not enough to warrant saying that the grain market has opened.

Wheat has remained at the same level for some time, selling at 95 cents on No. 1 wagon wheat. Oats are selling at 40 cents per bushel.

It is expected that a large amount of wheat will be brought into the city today as the threshers are reported to be in operation in this district.

Crowd Gathers at Station Here to See Klan Special and Get Surprise

When the ku glux klan special to Munday pulled out from the union station Tuesday afternoon, there were seven coaches but only three of them were filled to capacity.

There were also 200 or more men aboard.

There was also a good sized crowd present that had assembled for the purpose of recognizing some of the local klansmen. "I have always had a hunch old Bill was something in the klan and I came down to see him get on the train," was the opinion of some of the onlookers.

But Bill wasn't there. Neither was there anybody else from Wichita Falls, as far as can be learned. Then where did the Wichita klansmen board the train and who were the 200 klansmen that came to the station and so nonchalantly climbed aboard and did not try to conceal their identity?

The trainmaster on duty when the special left was asked these questions. "I don't know who those men were. One of them said they were from Oklahoma but I don't know. Guess if the Wichita bunch got on they caught at the junction or somewhere down the line."

"Those empty coaches looked pretty suspicious didn't they?" the trainmaster was asked.

"Yep, but I don't know anything about it," was all he would say on the subject.

According to a letter received at the Record News office, Wichita Falls klansmen could board the train at the union station at the south end of Lamar street, or the factory junction on the lake road and at Maybelle. Evidently the Wichita delegation got aboard at all of these last places and passed on the union station.

According to the letter, the Wichita klan degree team was to have charge of the naturalization ceremony. A 25-piece band from Devol was to make the trip on the Wichita Falls special. The only other stop was to be at Seymour.

RED CROSS HEALTH CENTER AT BURK

A Red Cross Health center will be held at the Corner drug store at Burkburnett next Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4, according to Miss Dorpat, Red Cross nurse, who will be in charge.

All the mothers of Burkburnett are asked to bring their children to be weighed and measured and to receive instruction as to feeding and taking care of them through the summer months.

C. W. BRADLEY BURNED

Reports from the hospital last night stated C. W. Bradley, who was brought to the hospital Monday night, following an accident in the K. M. A. field in which he was badly scalded, was resting well. Bradley, who is employed by H. A. Rathke, drilling contractor, was badly burned about the face and arms by steam escaping from a boiler. He will be confined to the hospital for several days.

Gainesville Klan Will Parade on July 14

The Record News is in receipt of an announcement from the Gainesville Klan, No. 151, stating this organization will hold its regular annual parade and celebration in that city July 14 next. The announcement states from 300 to 1000 aliens are to be naturalized into the Klan at that meeting.

Barbecue will be served following a parade in which both men and women are to participate, according to the announcement.

Package Car Out of Oklahoma City Here

Announcement by the Rock Island that a through package car out of Oklahoma City to Wichita Falls is being operated 3 times a week has been received here.

The new package car service comes as a result of an agreement made by the Oklahoma traffic association and the Oklahoma City Jobbers' and Manufacturers' association to send all shipments to Wichita Falls and vicinity by this route. The car is to operate Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays and should the tonnage justify, will be run more often.

This new package car service will save shippers 24 hours and is a great convenience in every respect.

Choc Beer Seized

Four dozen bottles of choc beer were confiscated Tuesday afternoon by members of the sheriff's department in a raid through the northwest fields. One man was arrested in connection with the find and is now held in the county jail.

Officers reported that this was the first whiskey found in the northwest fields in some time.

TAX RAISE TO BE DISCUSSED

Complaints Expected to Be Aired Before Board Today

A number of complaints are expected to be made to the city equalization board today when that body meets to hear complaints on valuation raises in the city. Meetings will be held Wednesday and Thursday in the city council rooms in the basement of the Morgan building.

The board concluded its work of equalizing taxes two weeks ago and notices were sent out to property owners whose assessments had been boosted. State statutes require that 10 days elapse between the time the notices are mailed and the hearing of protests on the raises.

It was estimated by city officials that several protests were expected.

Emancipation Day Celebration Here Lasts For 48 Hours

Even a 21 to 0 defeat handed the Wichita Black Shedders by the invading Denison Red Snappers failed to dampen to any appreciable extent the enthusiasm of this city's colored population when it launched Tuesday night into the second stage of its two-day emancipation celebration. The local prides were beaten, romped on, thumped and drubbed by the rampant Denison cracks in the afternoon feature, but despite this there was plenty of pep and ginger when the big dance started Tuesday night.

Commemorating their liberation from slavery, the negroes started Tuesday morning on the emancipation day celebration. A parade in the afternoon and picnics galore throughout the day provided most of the entertainment. The negro park on Elm street was a gala appearing site with flaring streamers, flags and gaudily decorated booths.

Picnic parties swarmed the place all day and at night, to the tunes of a tireless jazz orchestra, the dancers started the struggle.

Grading for Paving

Work is going ahead rapidly on the rough grading for the courthouse square paving project. Tractors and laboring crews have been busy Monday and Tuesday on the Travis and Sixth street sides of the building and have now nearly completed operations there.

It is understood that actual paving operations will begin as soon as the grading is complete.

Air mail service, with trips three times a week, is son to be started between Warsaw, Poland and Constantinople.
