

Gizenga Is Censured For Defiant Acts

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Congo Parliament by an overwhelming majority censured Antoine Gizenga today for his defiance of the central Congo government. The pro-Communist deputy premier was a virtual prisoner of U.N. and Congolese forces encircling his residence in Stanleyville.

The government announced Gizenga had agreed to end his self-imposed exile and return to Leopoldville by this Saturday after his personal bodyguard surrendered Sunday to Congolese troops. His capitulation came too late to avert the parliamentary wrath.

Lundula's troops trapped Gizenga in his Stanleyville mansion beside the Congo River and gave a 30-minute ultimatum for the palace bodyguard to lay down their arms, U.N. reports said.

U.N. headquarters, after consulting with acting Secretary-General U Thant, announced full backing of the central government's effort to bring Gizenga's forces to heel.

HEART PROGRAM IS SET TUESDAY

A luncheon at the Snyder Country Club will be one of the major appearances in this area Tuesday of Dr. Hugh E. Wilson, noted heart surgeon from Dallas.

OH PSHAW!—The current cold spell in Huntington, W. Va., is just too much for a horse named Fred as he labored in the East Huntington section. The muffer helped keep his head warm, but it didn't ease the chill in his ears. "It's a dog's life, not a horse's," he lamented. (AP Wirephoto)

Big Tariff-Cutting Pact To Be Signed

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The United States and the European Common Market nations will sign a sweeping tariff-cutting agreement on many industrial products Tuesday afternoon, sources close to the Common Market—reported today.

The agreement will be signed by Howard Peterson, special adviser to President Kennedy, and Jean Rey, member of the European Economic Community (EEC) commission in charge of foreign relations.

The pact, it was understood, involves up to 20 per cent reductions in hundreds of tariffs—more by the six-nation market than by the United States.

The agreement was worked out in Brussels with special presidential adviser Howard Peterson representing the United States in final talks with officials of the Common Market—which is made up of West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The agreement will be signed by Howard Peterson, special adviser to President Kennedy, and Jean Rey, member of the European Economic Community (EEC) commission in charge of foreign relations.

Completion of the second stage after 16 days of tough horse trading smooths the way for negotiations with other European nations seeking to join the trade bloc and for possible bilateral agreements with the United States.

The market's goal is a united, economic giant that could compete successfully with both the United States and the Communist bloc.

To face the challenge, Kennedy wants a bold new program. "Under the Reciprocal Trade Act—keystone of the nation's foreign economic policy—the president's authority is now limited to item-by-item negotiations. The enabling act expires June 30."

In his State of the Union message last Thursday, Kennedy requested a new five-year trade expansion act to permit the gradual elimination of all tariffs in the United States and the Common Market countries on all items which the United States and the market supply 80 per cent of the world's trade. It would also reduce gradually duties up to 50 per cent on other goods.

When the deal goes through—and informants indicated it may be near the signing stage—the U.S. tariff reductions would be made under the authority already held by President Kennedy.

Such authority was granted by the 1958 enabling act of the reciprocal trade program. This is the program Kennedy wants greatly expanded to give him a freer hand in negotiating massive tariff reductions with the Common Market.

State Department officials said that one result of the agreement would be that the Common Market would lower its tariffs 20 per cent.

U.S. reductions—limited by the trade act—would be up to 20 per cent.

Republicans Are Tightening Lines

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans are tightening their lines in this election year and President Kennedy is likely to find it more difficult to scrape up needed congressional GOP votes for his new proposals.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana faced realities Sunday when he said he was counting on Republican votes to gain approval of some programs opposed by conservatives of both parties.

Mansfield noted that several key Kennedy bills would have failed in Congress last year if Republicans had not contributed from five to 13 Senate votes for them.

Low temperatures Monday morning ranged from 7 degrees at Dalhart in the upper Panhandle to 51 at Brownsville.

A little warmer weather was forecast for Tuesday.

Moderate to light rain fell in some points in the eastern half of the state.

Dutch Sink Indonesian Torpedo Boat

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea (AP)—An Indonesian motor torpedo boat has been sunk by Dutch warships in Dutch territorial waters off New Guinea, a Navy spokesman said today.

The engagement took place when Dutch patrol vessels encountered a number of Indonesian motor torpedo boats, the Navy spokesman said. He had no information on the fate of the other intruding torpedo boats.

The Indonesian hands "have been a total loss as they have not been supported with supplies," he added. "They cannot live in the jungle so they come to villages and the people tell us right away," he continued.

Last Stronghold Of Privacy For Man Doomed By Default

BY INEZ ROBB
 Woman's invasion of the barbershop, the club car and the cocktail lounge, to name a few, has left man, like the whooping crane, with fewer and fewer safe sanctuaries in which to hide.
 Presumably the world is so full of daily alarms that the announcement of an invention foretelling the doom of man's last vestige of privacy passed without a protest, much less rioting in the streets.
 Until a week ago, man had every right to believe that one of the few preserves unalterably masculine was the cockpit of the big B-58 bombers of the Air Force Strategic Air Command.
 But something decidedly new is being added to that cockpit—a masculine female voice that will tell the crew when any malfunction develops in the huge jets. Tapes with some 20 recorded messages—warnings, mainly in the calm, clear and sweet voice of Mrs. Gina Drazin will advise the pilots the split second, for instance, that ice begins to form on the wings or that the reservoir tank isn't full.
 Crews react to oral warnings in an average of three seconds vs. 16 seconds to the conventional warning lights on instrument panels. Furthermore, the unexpected sound of dulcet feminine tones in the all-masculine cockpit commands instant attention and causes the lads to hop to the trouble on the double.
 Obviously, this invention is too good to be confined to the cockpit. Any thinking woman can envision far larger fields for its usefulness.
 For example, men have, to date, kept the locker room sacred to their own devices. Against all the encroachments of the 20th Century feminist movement they have managed to maintain certain of their clubs as all-male retreats. And if, in some of these clubs, there is a room where wives may lunch and dine, there are rooms where they may not.
 One room in particular, even in a coed organization such as the Overseas Press Club, is always sacred to let boys, and that is the card or poker room.
 But if my sex is half as ingenious as it's cracked up to be, tapes, recorded in melodious female tones, will soon be sounding through the nation's locker rooms, et al. I can hear them now! Listen:
 "Not another martini, dear. You are already flying on five wings."
 "Warning: reserve tank full!"
 "Oxygen quantity low and falling."
 "Center of gravity off and slipping fast."
 "The Joneses are coming to dinner at 7:30 p.m. Repeat, the Joneses are coming to dinner at 7:30 p.m."

"George! Put down that glass."
 "It is now 7 p.m. Joneses due in 30 minutes."
 "Falls jammed and landing gear unsafe."
 "Is there a reliable caddy with driver's license who can get George in your station wagon, license No. XYZ 21, and deliver him to 12 Blindfold Lane?"
 "George, this caddy is your friendly chauffeur."
 "George, stop arguing and get in the car!"
 "Put out martini and fasten seat belt for take-off."
 "The Joneses are zeroing in."
 "Landing lights are on at 12 Blindfold Lane."
 "Come in, XYZ 21."
 "Manual guidance system will take over George when car rolls to stop."
 "Ice forming at 12 Blindfold Lane!"
 "Sweat altitude low." Sweat is a classified term, in Air Force lingo, dealing with armaments or weapons.

Columnist Gleans Items From Mail

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't read his mail:
 The world is an opening envelope, but one of the mysteries science still can't fathom is—why your pet cat says meow when it is hungry.
 Heaven holds a billion stars, but on the clearest night a child can look up and see only about a thousand. Our sun is comparatively a young star—about five billion years old. The age of the oldest stars in our galaxy—the Milky Way—is estimated to be 20 billion years, give or take a trillion.
 How they got started: Bette Davis began as a film usher. Sid Caesar worked briefly as a movie doorman. John Barrymore was a cartoonist. Walter Winchell hooted on the other side of the bright lights before he took per in hand.
 Spice used to be the variety of death. The ancient Egyptians customarily buried peppercorns with their mummified kings.
 Speaking of condiments, did you know that salt is an absolute variety of life? A diet from which all salt was removed would kill you almost as quickly as if you tried to live utterly without water.
 Our quotable notables: "When women kiss, it always reminds me of prize fighters shaking hands."—H. L. Mencken.
 "Strange town. The French village of Aroma is pretty much like any small community except for one thing—its population of 209 includes 148 so-called normal people and 161 inmates of a mental hospital."
 Signs of our times: Seen at an auto repair shop: "We require a 50 per cent deposit from all customers we don't know, and 100 per cent deposit from some we do know."
 Life gets better every year: A new "split personality" electric toaster now can brown each of four slices of bread to individual tastes.
 This reminds me of the best single sentence of advice I ever heard for housewives: "The husband that gets his breakfast downstairs," said Kin Hubbard, "is liable to be late for supper."
 Wisecrack of the week: Actor Oscar Homolka says most women don't save for their old age because they never count on being older than 46.
 The Biblical span of man's life is 70 years—which most of us now can hope to reach after 5,000 years of human civilization. 200 records have established these longevity figures for other creatures: Giant tortoise, 152 years; box turtle, 123; great horned owl, 88; snapping turtle, 57; eagle, 55; toad, 35; bullfinch, 30; English sparrow, 23; wolf, 16; beaver, 12.
 The moral here, in there is one, is: "If you enjoy living, be as busy as a tortoise—and to heck with the sager beavers."
 Lack of prosperity note: A new car is a status symbol in our times but 60 per cent of Americans never own one.

Junior Editors Quiz on CHARIOTS

QUESTION: Were the Romans the first to use the chariot?

ANSWER: The ancestor of all of today's wheeled vehicles is the ancient chariot. It was used in battle, in hunting, in public processions, in games, and also simply for transportation. It had two wheels, each with either four or eight spokes, and usually was drawn by two horses though sometimes two additional horses were added. The Persians and Britons used to extend sharp blades from the axles of their chariots and literally cut down their enemies in battle. The wheels and body of the chariot usually were of wood, and the tires of iron or bronze.
 Most of us are more familiar with the Greek and Roman chariot, which was used mainly for racing and for triumphal parades. It held only one man who stood on a platform, with a semicircular barrier around the front about half the driver's height. In battle, he often tied the reins around his waist to free both hands for fighting. Chariots of the Egyptians and Assyrians were fitted with large quivers for arrows, because their main weapon was the bow. Because virtually all the nations of antiquity used chariots in one form or another, it is impossible to say who used them first.

FOR YOU TO DO: A thrilling description of a chariot race is in the book "Ben Hur," by Lew Wallace. An even better account, since it was written by a man who actually saw chariot races, is contained in Virgil's "Aeneid."

Republicans Still Look For 'Stand'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republicans, after several days of public soul searching in this congressional election year, are still trying to figure out where they stand and what for.

They can't find a hat to fit all of them. They are looking for a formula to beat the Democrats but they've been inept in this department over the past 30 years. The Democrats are a divided lot, too. They sometimes give the impression of being not one party but two parties that merge on some issues and then fly apart again.

The evidence is plain enough that for most of the past 30 years the Republicans have been out of step with public thinking. Since 1932, the Republicans have held the White House for only eight years—under Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It was so popular that if he had run as a Democrat he probably would have won just as overwhelmingly, if not more so. In his case the party label hardly meant much.

The consistent test of public favor showed up in Congress where, in the 30 years since 1932, voters elected a Republican majority only twice, for a total of four years, in 1946 and 1952. In Eisenhower's last six years—including 1956 when he was re-elected—the voters gave Congress to the Democrats.

About a year ago a Republican committee began a study to see what ailed the party. At Oklahoma City last week the head of this committee, a top Ohio Republican, Ray Bliss, had gloomy news. He told the Republican National Committee there that in the big cities Republicans were "generally outmanned, outorganized, outspent and outworked" by their Democratic and union opposition.

Bliss outlined a 10-point program for rebuilding the party. His committee—commenting on the 1960 presidential defeat—said Vice President Richard M. Nixon lost to John F. Kennedy because Democrats got tremendous majorities in 27 of the 41 big cities.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a hero to some Republicans and probably a candidate for the party's presidential nomination in 1964, said Nixon lost in 1960 because "we were not Republican enough."

But what is Republicanism? National Committee Chairman William E. Miller of New York said the party should have neither a conservative nor liberal label.

New York's Gov. Rockefeller said the party should have neither a conservative nor liberal label. Rockefeller said the party should have neither a conservative nor liberal label.

"The Republican party must emphasize its position as a dynamic forward-looking movement with answers to the people's problems," Miller said. "It must fight being erroneously labeled as the party which is against change and new ideas." Morhouse said.

The usually happy forecasts on this year's congressional elections were given but the Bliss committee backs in the 1961 off-year elections blew a cool wind over the meeting.

Treasury Set To Borrow A Billion

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The U. S. Treasury is borrowing a billion dollars in new cash today. It shouldn't have to raise the money—but it will be embarrassed.

That new borrowing pushes the federal debt up awfully close to the $28-billion ceiling the Treasury thought would be high enough when it got the debt limit hiked temporarily at the last session of Congress. The permanent level is $28 billion and getting back to that looks well nigh impossible at this stage.

Worse, the Treasury fears now that it might have to go into debt in excess of $28 billion before the June 15 tax collections roll in—and possibly above $30 billion shortly before Christmas, because of the fall slack in tax receipts.

The Treasury's embarrassment is comparable to yours if your banker and other lending sources said you could borrow only so much, and you were near or at that limit. You would be wondering what to do about the expense that vary from time to time and about any emergencies—not to mention your inability to take advantage of a bargain when it fits by.

That's what's behind the ruckus over the federal debt ceiling.

The Treasury says it can't maneuver as it should in the money market to get the best terms of interest and length of payments if it is too close to the ceiling. It also fears that expenditures, foreseen or possible in this quickly changing world, could push it tight against the ceiling, leaving it unable to borrow to pay its bills if it obeys the law.

The Treasury would like no ceiling at all. Barring that, it would like a boost shortly in the temporary ceiling, say to $30 billion, and then later to several billions above that.

This would top the record actual debt of $30 billion during World War II. In 1946 the permanent debt ceiling was set at $27.5 billion, raised to $28 billion in 1958, to $28.5 billion in 1959. But from 1955 on, higher temporary ceilings were mostly the rule and thus adding to the debt if tax collections aren't big enough.

The Treasury thinks that if the ceiling was higher it could choose the borrowing time and the terms more easily. Congressional conservatives think that without the ceiling the administration might be tempted to spend carelessly and then run to Congress for an appropriation to make up the deficit.

Congress itself votes the appropriations and programs that set the size of the Treasury's expenditures. Congress votes the kinds and rates of taxes that provide almost all of the Treasury's receipts. If expenditures exceed collections, the Treasury borrows to pay the bills and the federal debt rises.

Congress, therefore, may set a permanent or temporary debt limit, but the actual size of the debt largely is set by the amount Congress appropriates and the taxes it authorizes. An added factor is the terms on which the Treasury may borrow—how much total interest it pays, boosting its expenditures by that much and thus adding to the debt if tax collections aren't big enough.

The Treasury thinks that if the ceiling was higher it could choose the borrowing time and the terms more easily. Congressional conservatives think that without the ceiling the administration might be tempted to spend carelessly and then run to Congress for an appropriation to make up the deficit.

The argument against setting a debt ceiling, and frequently changing it, is this:

Congress itself votes the appropriations and programs that set the size of the Treasury's expenditures. Congress votes the kinds and rates of taxes that provide almost all of the Treasury's receipts. If expenditures exceed collections, the Treasury borrows to pay the bills and the federal debt rises.

Fire Levels Old Hotel

SULPHUR, Okla. (AP)—Fire destroyed the historic old Artesian Hotel overnight and for a time threatened nearby buildings.

Owner Carl Theford said the 10 or 12 guests escaped. In warm months, the 60-room hotel is full to capacity with persons here for sulphur baths.

The fire was first reported at 9:30 p.m. Sunday and was still burning at 6:30 a.m. today. It was brought under control around 3 a.m.

A strong northwest wind spread sparks and flames high into the air. Adjacent buildings were doused with water and did not catch fire.

All but the bath house and annex burned. Walls of the main section collapsed early today. The brick building was four stories tall. The fire apparently started on the second or third floor from an unknown cause.

An accurate estimate of damage was not made at once.

The hotel was first opened to the public in 1905. It had been built at the St. Louis World Fair, dismantled and shipped to Oklahoma.

CONVENIENCE IS THE KEYNOTE of Medical Arts Pharmacy in the Cogdell Center. Lynn Halomaciek, the new owner, is shown in this modern and up-to-date pharmacy. Customers especially like the convenient location and convenient parking offered by the firm. A complete stock of fresh and potent drugs are on hand and expert pharmaceutical service is guaranteed.

Extra Services Provided By Medical Arts Pharmacy

After five months of operation the new owner of the Medical Arts Pharmacy reports steadily increasing business and complete satisfaction with the city of Snyder.

Lynn Halomaciek came to Snyder from Brownfield in August of last year to take over the pharmacy. The store was originally established by Myles Clark in June, 1960. Clark died suddenly in June, 1961.

Halomaciek is a native of Tahoma and graduated from the University of Texas School of Pharmacy in February, 1959. He had been employed in Brownfield since his graduation. He and his wife, Makyle, have two sons, Michael, aged 4 and Bennie, aged 2.

One of the things which influenced Halomaciek to buy the Medical Arts Pharmacy was its proximity to doctors' offices. Seven doctors are located within a stones throw in the area which is becoming the medical center of Snyder. He has found that customers appreciate the convenience of the location and the abundance of free parking.

Several "extra" services are available to customers of the Medical Arts Pharmacy. One is complimentary coffee which is available should they have to wait a few moments for a prescription. Another is the free delivery service, anywhere in town. And a big "extra" is that this delivery service can be had for emergency prescriptions at any hour of the day or night. For savings-minded customers, their extra is the bonus of Frontier Stamps with every prescription, or with any other item from Medical Arts Pharmacy.

Some convenience items are carried by the store, but their specialty is prescription preparation. Halomaciek pointed out that that was the field in which he had been trained, and felt he could serve his customers in that area rather than in merchandising hardware or wearing apparel.

Assisting Halomaciek in operation of the store is Mrs. Vada Barleson, Medical Arts Pharmacy is located in the first building in the Cogdell Center off the Big Spring Highway.

Balloon Breaks Up Over Atlantic

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A huge space balloon broke apart hundreds of miles above the Atlantic today as it was inflating to the size of a 15-story building.

The breakup of the big balloon—dubbed "Big Shot"—showed several pieces of aluminum coated plastic into the ocean about 600 miles southeast of the Cape. The pieces, illuminated brilliantly by the rays of the rising sun, provided a spectacular show for observers.

The 500-pound bundle of plastic sheeting was folded neatly in a canister in the nose of a Thor rocket which blasted off at 6:30 a.m. in an experiment aimed at testing techniques for launching an advanced Echo communications satellite.

A few minutes after the launch, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that the balloon had separated from the Thor and had started to inflate. But a short while later the space agency said that the balloon had split.

The reason for the failure was not immediately known. Technicians planned to study television film relayed from a camera in the Thor booster. The film recorded the 25-minute flight.

Newsman at the Cape saw the beginning of the inflation process as the sun reflected off the gleaming surface. The balloon at first appeared as a solitary star drifting slowly upward in the dark, clear sky.

Suddenly, several other bright objects appeared to surround it. Observers thought initially that these might be parts of the rocket and the canister which carried the folded balloon.

The fragments climbed upward for approximately the intended maximum altitude of 950 miles before starting a quick descent, leaving vapor trails in their wake.

"Big Shot" was to have inflated to a diameter of 135 feet, which would have made it the largest—but not the heaviest—space vehicle ever sent aloft.

NASA has a backup Thor and balloon and expects to repeat the shot as soon as today's trouble is pinpointed.

If the second shot is successful, a similar sphere will be rocketed into orbit later this year as Echo II.

Rites Set Today For Ernie Kovacs

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ernie Kovacs, the mustachioed comedian who once said every moment of life should be enjoyed, lived and treasured, will be buried today with simple Presbyterian rites.

Ernie often said he didn't want to leave with the usual fanfare of Hollywood funerals, so his widow, singer Edie Adams, arranged the brief church rites and private burial at Forest Lawn's Hollywood Hills Cemetery. There will be no eulogy.

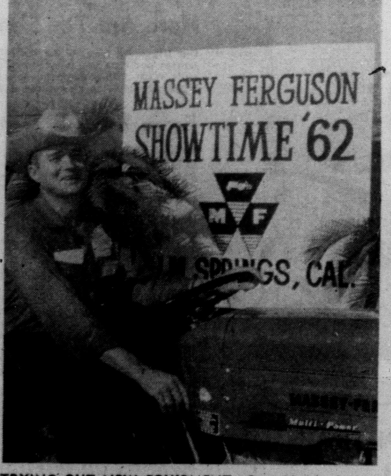

The 42-year-old comedian was killed early Saturday when his compact station wagon skidded into a telephone pole.

Jack Lemmon, Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Billy Wilder, Dick Quine and Joe Mikasios will be active pallbearers. Kovacs' father, Andrew Kovacs, and the comedian's brother, Tom Kovacs, will be honorary pallbearers.

Miss Adams, badly shaken by the accident and under heavy sedation, was able to leave her bed Sunday. She spent some time with the Kovacs' three children and with her mother who flew here from Englewood, N.J.

The two older girls, Betty, 15, and Kippie, 13—Kovacs' daughters by a previous marriage—were taking their father's death very hard, a friend said. Mia Susan, 2, is the only child of Kovacs' nine-year marriage with Miss Adams.

Stacks of telegrams from friends and fans piled up at the comedian's $600,000 home.

TRYING OUT NEW EQUIPMENT—Sam Head of Head Tractor Co., Massey-Ferguson dealer in Snyder, is one of more than 2,000 M-F dealers who field-operated a multi-million dollar array of new farm and industrial equipment in Palm Springs, Calif. The equipment is for 1962 introduction by Massey-Ferguson. Dealers were guests of the company at a banquet featuring the Lawrence Welk troupe.

More Data Sought On Wool Imports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State and Treasury Departments take the position that new tariff rates and revised depreciation schedules on machinery must be given full trial before import quotas or similar relief can be considered for the domestic wool textile industry.

Their position was stated in letters made public today by Rep. Thomas Lane, D-Mass., who had complained to executive departments that the industry continues to suffer from imports. He urged the administration to adopt recommendations of a wool textile advisory committee for stringent import quotas by countries and types of fabrics.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, in his reply, disagreed with an assertion by Lane that the administration has done little to deal with increased textile imports.

In fact, Dillon wrote, a number of actions have been taken, among them moves under a presidential directive to revise the depreciation schedules on textile machinery.

"The Treasury," Dillon said, "has now completed its study of technical factors involved, and has put into effect a more liberal schedule of depreciation allowances on most types of textile machinery, and to the equipment used by the garment industry, is nearly ready to be put into effect."

Dillon assured Lane that the cabinet level textile committee would give careful attention to proposals of the wool textile advisory committee, but pointed out that substantial increases in import charges were made effective Jan. 1, 1961, and that there had been a substantial decline in the rate of imports of woolen goods during 1961.

Replying for Undersecretary of State George Ball, Asst. Secy. Frederick Dutton became more specific. He pointed out that as of Jan. 1, 1961, duties on all types of wool fabrics had been raised from 37 1/2 to 54 per cent.

For imports of the lower value, largely reworked woolen fabrics from Italy, the new duties averaged about 96 per cent and in some cases as high as 119 per cent.

"The new duties," Dutton said, "are almost equal to those of the Smoot-Hawley tariff of 1930."

Last year Ball announced a new wool tariff of 38 per cent of value across the board, plus 37 1/2 cents a pound specific duty on the value of raw wool content, plus an increasing duty on fabrics that are below $2.00 a pound in value. He summarized that a 38 to 60 per cent ad valorem duty plus a specific duty of 37 1/2 cents approached the Smoot-Hawley tariff of 50 to 60 per cent.

Dutton said imports of woolen fabrics—woolens in general and wool fabrics in particular appear to have been somewhat smaller in 1961 than in 1960.

For the first 10 months of 1961, he said, imports of all wool manufacturers equaled $211 million, or about 10 per cent below imports for the 1960 period.

"Imports of wool fabrics, however," Dutton noted, "were down by 31 per cent to $54 million."

In view of recent increases in the import duties, Dutton concluded, "it is probably too early to attempt any prediction about the future level of imports of wool textiles. At the present time, however, it is felt that the only reasonable course to pursue is to wait until we can ascertain more clearly the results of the recent tariff increases and the need for further action."

Sen. Martin In Race For Lieut. Gov.

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro became the fourth candidate Monday to announce officially for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Other Democratic candidates in the race are: Sens. Bob Baker of Houston, Jarrard Secret of Temple, and Preston Smith of Lubbock plus Republican candidates Kellis Dibrell of Houston and O.W. Hayes of Temple.

Martin, a state senator since 1948, said the basic plank in his platform would be "to put the state on a sound fiscal basis and keep it that way."

The 45-year-old attorney has been chairman of special legislative committees to study problems of the aging in Texas and served as chairman of the Governor's Committee for the White House Conference on Aging since 1959.

Major legislation sponsored by Martin included a bill which led to the state's new contract with Blue Cross of Texas to provide medical aid to recipients of old age assistance.

Martin also is sponsoring Gov. Price Daniel's abandoned property bill in the current special session.

Skindiver's Shark Joke Backfires

By HUBERT J. ERR
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A brawny, six-foot skindiver told his wife, "I probably won't be back. I figure a shark will get me."

Floyd Pair Jr., 26, a Sacramento, Calif., milkman, was at the Golden Gate. He was one of a party of 100 Sacramento area divers who had chartered four boats for the purpose.

At about 11 a.m. Pair went over the side of the boat. New Merrimac, a black skin suit taut against his body, oxygen tanks on his back, face mask in place, spear gun in his hand.

"I went down to about 40 feet," Pair recounted. "I chased a fish, lost him, decided to surface."

"Then it hit me, just as I surfaced. At first I thought it was a seal. But a seal doesn't have a mouth that big. It was brown, and every inch of 14 feet long. It hit me from the right side and started shaking me like a dog plays with a bone."

"I saw that it was a shark. I remember thinking first that it didn't hurt. Then I half remembered something I had read by a German deep sea expert, Hans Hass.

"Hass said to make a lot of noise and hit an attacking shark in the face."

"I spit out my breathing mouthpiece, began yelling, 'Shark! Shark!' at the same time I began jabbing at the shark's snout with my spear. He let loose of me and took off."

Two other divers helped Pair back to the New Merrimac. In minutes the water was cleared of other divers. A helicopter was called and took Pair to San Francisco's Franklin Hospital.

Doctors described Pair's wounds as serious but not crippling. He suffered gaping leg wounds and a deep bite into a buttock.

A doctor said Pair's femoral artery just missed being severed. "If that had gone, he'd have gone too."
