Pantex busy with dismantling

With large-scale nuclear disarmament following the many changes in Eastern Europe, the Pantex Plant near Amarillo will be busy for the rest of the decade.

Tom Walton, director of information for the Department of Energy at Pantex, spoke to the Hereford Lions Club on Wednesday at the Community Center. He said that Pantex, the only final assembly point for nuclear weapons in the United States, is also the only disassembly plant.

"We expect to be busy for the rest of this decade, and beyond, on the disassembly," Walton said. "With the proposal for scaling down nuclear weapons by President Bush and Mr. Yeltsin, we will have a big job on our hands."

While the components for nuclear weapons are constructed elsewhere, all parts go to Pantex for assembly. The only manufacturing for "bomb

Bush says plan gives access to healthcare

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush, pledging to give all Americans access to "the world's best health care," wants to limit spending growth on Medicaid and Medicare patients to help the uninsured buy health coverage.

Bush today was formally announcing his election-year health care package, which would provide $100 billion in vouchers and tax breaks to the poor and middle class to buy medical insurance, according to administration and congressional sources.

Bush was traveling to Cleveland to make the announcement in a speech to the Greater Cleveland Growth Association. He was then flying on to Las Vegas, Nev., and vote-rich California, where he will promote his health care package in San Diego.

The president wants to pay for the package partly by paring back expected growth in Medicaid health care subsidies for the poor and Medicare programs for the elderly and handicapped.

"My plan ensures that people can find health care, choose health care, afford health care and keep health care," Bush said in a speech Wednesday to the Small Business Legislative Council.

Democrats and some health-industry officials claim Bush's proposed tax credits vouchers will not provide the now uninsured with enough money to meet the cost of health insurance premiums.

And the proposed limits on Medicaid and Medicare spending growth "could be devastating," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Ron Pollack, executive director of Families USA, a private advocacy group for the poor, said Bush's plan would cause doctors and hospitals to shun Medicare and Medicaid patients and cause some increased costs to be shifted to other patients.

Several Democratic proposals would impose limits on all medical costs and guarantee coverage through so-called "pay or play" systems requiring employers to either provide health insurance or pay into a general system where their employees could receive coverage.

Among other things, Bush's plan would:

- Provide vouchers or tax credits worth up to $1,250 a year for individuals, $2,500 for couples and up to $3,750 for families of three or more for the purchase of health care.

- Allow health care tax deductions for middle-income Americans - those with incomes up to $50,000 for individuals, $65,000 for couples and $80,000 for families of three or more.

- For self-employed persons, provide tax deductions equal to 100 percent of their monthly health-care premiums.

- Cap federal payments to states for the $59 billion Medicaid program. Increases over this year's amount would be tied to population growth, plus inflation, plus 6 percent next year. Further increases would be capped to inflation plus 5 percent in 1994, plus 4 percent in 1995, plus 3 percent in 1996 and plus 2 percent in 1997.

- Require higher Medicare premiums for the wealthy. Individuals earning more than $100,000 a year, and couples earning more than $125,000 annually would have to pay $95.40 per month for Medicare, triple the current $31.80, sources said.

- Provide for the publishing of a "blue book" similar to those used for auto sales to help guide consumers in deciding what are fair market prices for various medical procedures.

- Allow small businesses to pool purchases of health insurance plans for their employees.

- Ban state laws inhibiting so-called coordinated care systems, which manage health care for their clients and try to hold down costs.

- Require insurers to cover people with pre-existing diseases, although no mention is made of whether rates would be limited.

- Give states incentives to limit medical malpractice awards.

Sugar experts will address growers

Latest developments in sugarbeet research and leaders from the sugar industry will be in Hereford on Friday for the annual meeting of the Texas Sugarbeet Growers Association.

The meeting begins at 9:30 a.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

The morning session will be devoted to researchers from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. They will review 1991's efforts at the Bushland experiment station.

During the afternoon, growers will hear from TSBGA President Bill Cleavinger; Luther Markwart, executive vice president of the American Sugarbeet Growers Association; Bob Hanna, president of Imperial Holly Sugar; Dennis Printz, Holly agricultural manager in Hereford; and Eddie Thompson, a Holly agriculturist.

Hanna will look at Holly's future in Hereford and discuss the recent completion of the $13 million ion exclusion facility at the Hereford plant.

Markwart, based in Washington, will review ASGA's efforts with the federal government, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Cleavinger will also discuss GATT and other state and national issues.

Thompson will review a new computer system that keeps track of beet production and quality throughout the region. About 42,000 acres of beets are planted in the region annually.

Researchers in the morning program will include Dr. G.B. Thompson, director of the Texas A&M University Research Center in Amarillo; Dr. Charles Rush, TAES plant pathologist; and Dr. Steve Winter, TAES associate professor.

Several companies and organizations plan exhibits at the Community Center. Door prizes, including beet seed, will be given away throughout the day.

Trade pacts could assist more farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas farmers can reap great benefits from the proposed free trade accord with Mexico, provided that the pact is phased in over a period of years, a new study says.

The report was compiled by the Select Committee on the North American Free Trade Agreement, a group of 13 Texas agribusiness leaders appointed last February by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

Perry, who is a member of the U.S. Trade Representative's Intergovernmental Policy Advisory Committee on International Trade, released the study Wednesday at a Washington news conference.

"There's no doubt a free trade agreement will bolster our exporting successes and pave the way for new avenues of growth," he said. "But getting there will require patience, persistence and a strong negotiating position."

His committee, which held statewide public hearings and interviewed farmers and consumers, was the first of its kind nationwide to examine ramifications of a North American Free Trade Agreement, Perry said.

The committee's biggest concern appears to be the elimination of all tariffs on Mexican agricultural products without a phase-in period.

"The major goal of the NAFTA is to eliminate all tariffs," the committee said. "As noble as this objective may seem, the committee finds that removing all U.S. import tariffs without considering a phase-in period on certain Texas agricultural producers may be imprudent."

The panel recommended continuing tariffs on fresh citrus and vegetable products for at least 10 years, with a phase-in reduction of all tariffs at an annual rate of 20 percent beginning with the 11th year.

Trade Representative Carla Hills has said negotiators are debating a phase-out of tariffs over a period of years. Those issues will be among those addressed later this month, when the chief negotiators and all 19 working groups examining individual topics meet in Dallas.

The U.S., Mexico and Canada began negotiating the accord last June. Some lawmakers speculate the agreement could be sent to Congress later this month or in March.

So-called "snap-back" provisions, which would temporarily reintroduce tariffs when an overabundance of agricultural commodities hit the market, also are needed, the group said.

Some agricultural producers from Texas and other states have expressed fears that a trade pact could hurt them, by opening U.S. markets to cheaper Mexican fruits and vegetables. They also are concerned by the lower wages paid Mexican workers.

While admitting that some producers will have to adjust to different market conditions, Perry said a free trade agreement ultimately is good news.

"It means jobs," he said. "For every one billion dollars in increased trade, 22,000 jobs are created - good-paying jobs that have helped our American families achieve goals, plan for the future and realize dreams."

Agricultural trade between the U.S. and Mexico hit an all-time high of $5.2 billion in 1990, with Texas accounting for almost $1 billion.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, which favors a free trade pact, said in a report last November that lifting tariffs initially could hurt feeder-cattle producers, as well as regional industries such as asparagus and frozen vegetables in California, and avocados in California and Florida.

But U.S. dairy, grains, feed cattle, and seasonal fresh vegetable producers could find expanded markets under the trade pact, the farm bureau report said.

Perry's committee also found it crucial to the success of a trade pact that Mexican sanitary regulations be toughened to meet U.S. standards. Pesticide and quality regulations for both countries also need to be harmonized to the highest standard.

To protect Texas producers and consumers, the panel said it would be necessary to enact regulations making it difficult for other countries to use Mexico as a conduit into the U.S. market.

The group also wants Mexico to improve its border infrastructure, while the U.S. needs to beef up Customs enforcement and its border crossing points.

While labor and environmental issues will not be addressed directly in the free trade talks, the committee recommended that the issue be given a high priority by negotiators.

"Most of the initial apprehension of Texas agricultural producers regarding the NAFTA centered on the vast differences in farm workers' wage rates and safety requirements," the study said. "Labor issues affect all aspects of agriculture and must be taken into consideration during the negotiations."

History books may not be error-free Committee authorizes purchase, anyhow

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas will enter into contracts for about $20.3 million worth of U.S. history textbooks, even though state education officials say they likely still contain some errors.

A special State Board of Education committee authorized the contracts Wednesday.

"We have a superb group of books now," said board member Will Davis of Austin. "It would be very, very cost-inefficient... to try to make them totally error-free."

He said that if there is such a thing as a completely error-free book, "It's one page long and has one word on it, probably."

Since the books came under intense scrutiny in November, publishers and the public have identified 4,289 mistakes in the nine books that will mean $356,300 in fines.

Among the mistakes have been wrong facts, along with such errors as misspellings or grammatical blunders. Publishers will pay the fines to the state in textbooks.

Some members of the special Education Board committee said that a state textbook panel had highly recommended the books despite errors that were caught.

Books currently being used in Texas classrooms are several years old.

These books are for use beginning in the 1992-93 school year. Publishers will be required to provide a correction sheet every six months identifying any new errors, which will be subject to higher fines.

The action came despite a call by state Rep. Kent Grusendorf, R-Arlington, for a one-year delay.

Before the contracts were authorized, he said that he had found more errors in one of them, and hadn't had a chance to go through the others. One error listed Cuba as an American acquisition, he said.

Grusendorf said that if he were as inaccurate in his aerospace business, "We'd have airplanes just falling out of the sky on a regular basis."

But Joe Bill Watkins, a lawyer representing the Association of American Publishers, said, "I expect that these books, when they go in the classrooms in September, are going to be the cleanest books in the history of books."

Watkins said they are "infinitely better" than the books now being used.

Texas Education Agency spokesman Joey Lozano said it was unclear how many of the errors pointed out by Grusendorf had been submitted to TEA earlier by critics.

Watkins said there still is time for errors to be corrected before the books are sent to classrooms.

Books approved for eighth grade and high school are published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.; Houghton Mifflin Co.; Prentice-Hall, Inc.; and Scott, Foresman and Co.

Grusendorf also said he found more errors in a tenth U.S. history book, published by the Glencoe Division of Macmillan-McGraw-Hill School Publishing. Action was deferred on that book.

The history books have been the subject of controversy since they first were considered in November by the Education Board. Then, conservative textbook critics Mel and Norma Gabler of Longview said the books contained more than 200 mistakes.

Publishers were given until Dec. 16 to find errors that needed correction, but the Gablers in January revealed still more errors that they said the publishers missed.

The Education Board last month adopted the nine books on the condition that publishers correct and pay penalties for the errors, and that the special committee decide later whether enough progress was made on finding additional errors to authorize contracts.

No further board action is required on the nine books, Lozano said.

February is Heart Month

Hereford Mayor Tom LeGate signs a proclamation declaring observance of American Heart Month in February as workers for the American Heart Association in Deaf Smith County look on. From left are Ruth Knox, communications chairman, holding Lara Bidwell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Bidwell; the baby's mother, Jo Bidwell, AHA vice president, and Karen Fangman, president. A Neighbor-to-Neighbor drive, emphasizing "What Every Generation Should Know," will be conducted on Feb. 23, with volunteers distributing educational materials as well as accepting donations.

Richards pleads for plant in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards put on quite a show while trying to convince General Motors Corp. not to shut down its assembly plant in Texas, the giant automaker's leader says.

"I must say I'd like to have the governor on our sales force," GM Chairman Robert Stempel said Wednesday, after meeting in Washington with Richards and members of the Texas congressional delegation.

Twenty of the state's 29-member delegation met with Stempel in a bipartisan bid to convince him not to close the GM plant in Arlington, Texas.

Stempel and GM will decide by the end of March whether to close the Arlington plant or a similar one in Ypsilanti, Mich., as part of a nationwide restructuring that will eliminate 74,000 jobs and 21 facilities by 1995.

The Texas meeting came on the heels of a luncheon Stempel had with members of the Michigan delegation.

Richards' sales skills notwithstanding, Stempel said GM would make its decision based strictly on business concerns.

"It's a very tough decision for us," he said. "It's clearly one that we have to make internally."

Richards sketched for Stempel the incentives being offered by state and local governments, including creation of a tax-free zone that would allow GM to cut its state tax bill by $2 million annually and $1 million for workers' training.

The state, which is encouraging GM to convert part of the Arlington production line to the manufacture of natural gas-powered vehicles, also offered $1 million for promotions of natural gas vehicles.

Texas law requires that 30 percent of vehicles in state fleets run on the alternative fuel by 1994.

And, Richards said if GM remains in Arlington, the state would create a $50 million revolving loan fund for public entities that purchase natural gas fleets and refueling stations.

"The governor made a really good pitch for our side," said Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas.

Michigan Gov. John Engler has pledged to match anything Texas offers if necessary for the Willow Run plant's survival.

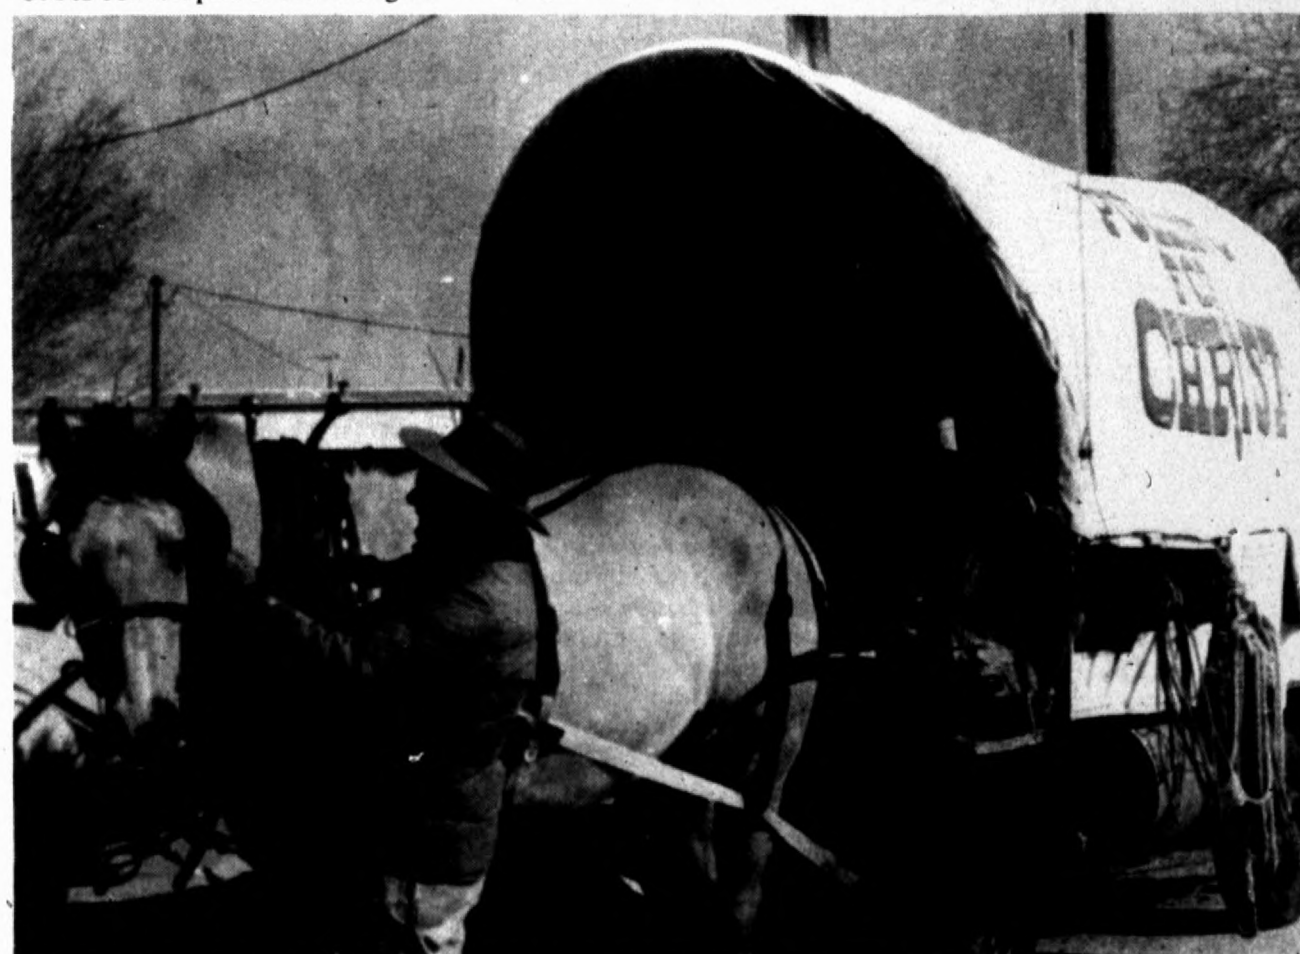

"We think that rather than trying to compete with another state, what we needed to do was make them an offer they just couldn't refuse, that was in the best interest of Texas and just happens to be the very best possible proposal that anyone could offer to General Motors," Richards said.

The Arlington plant employs 3,700 workers. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has estimated the ripple effect from the plant's closing could cost Texas more than 11,000 jobs and $340 million.

The Willow Run plant has a payroll of 2,600, but an Eastern Michigan University study estimates its closing would cost the state more than 14,000 jobs.

If GM decides to close the Michigan plant, it would expand operations at Arlington and add up to 1,200 jobs there.

Life!

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son who is 12 years old is maturing and growing in the normal way. I am referring to weight and height. I am concerned, however, about his genitals. The penis and scrotum are still the size of a toddler. His 6-year-old brother is larger than he is. "Ed's" physical education instructor says she takes a lot of kidding and that he doesn't like to go to class because of the showers.

I have taken this boy to a pediatrician and an endocrinologist. They both laughed the matter off and said, "Don't worry, Mom, he'll have plenty of girlfriends." I don't appreciate that kind of response. It seems to me that a joke is being made of something that is very serious.

I am deeply concerned, Ann. This boy's self-esteem is low enough without being ridiculed about his manhood. Furthermore, I know how important it is to be able to have a satisfying sexual relationship.

Ed is a sensitive child and I really do worry that this problem may ruin his life. I don't know who to talk to about this now that two doctors have laughed about it and made me feel foolish. Can you help?--No Name in Illinois

DEAR ILLINOIS: Although the pediatrician and the endocrinologist meant to reassure you, they could have been more supportive. It should, however, be a relief to now the child has no physical problem and is just undersized.

Please be careful not to transfer your anxiety to the boy. This could be extremely damaging.

Sex therapists tell us that size has very little to do with satisfaction. Also, what appears to be undersized in the flaccid state can be much larger when there is an erection. And remember, he is only 12 and may be a late bloomer. So cool it, Mom. A lot can happen in the next five years.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am an in-home day-care provider. I drive Monday through Friday to my employers' home and work about 10 hours every day.

I depend on full employment as I am paid hourly. My employers have two young children, both in diapers, so I have my hands full. I do the dishes, clean the house and at times do the wash. I take the kids on outings almost every day. I love my job, but it is not considered a REAL job to 90 percent of this world.

We day-care providers have no medical or dental insurance and no hospitalization coverage. We have no coffee breaks, lunch hours, sick days, personal days, unemployment pay, disability pay or pension plans. We get few holidays off and we are taxed but have no retirement plan and no profit sharing.

Grandma or Grandpa shows up every month on a day's notice for the kids, which means I am not needed and I lose a day's pay. If my employer decides to take a Friday off, I am not needed. There goes another day's pay. I have a family, Ann. I believe that if they take a day off or Grandma wants the kids, I should still get paid for that day. Am I right or wrong?--An Iowa Problem

DEAR IOWA: The real problem is that you did not have that understanding with your employer from the very start. Now your best bet is to renegotiate. Tell your employer exactly what you told me and ask to be paid by the week or month.

Gem of the Day (Credit Rita Rudner): Have your children while your parents are still young enough to help take care of them.

An alcohol problem? How can you help yourself for someone you love? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Alcohol, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Local officers give VFW Auxiliary program

The Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #4818 met in regular session Feb. 3 for a program by Terry Brown and Pat Michael. Betty Boggs presided over the meeting.

The meeting was preceded at 6:30 p.m. with a supper for all auxiliary and VFW members.

Following the supper, Terry Brown and Pat Michael, officers from the City Police Department, gave an informative program on D.A.R.E. The officers were presented with a donation to help with their work with D.A.R.E. program.

Bill Craig, VFW commander, thanked auxiliary members for the work on behalf of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The meeting was opened according to the ritual. Roll was called, minutes read and approved, and the treasurers report given. Bills were presented and paid. Committee reports were given and several donations were voted on and approved.

District 13 Convention will be Feb. 8-9 at Littlefield. All members are urged to attend.

The Voice of Democracy banquet will be March 2, at the Post Home at 6:30 p.m. Special guests will be the local Voice of Democracy winner, Chelli Cummings, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Don Cummings.

Members present were: Betty Boggs, Martha Bridges, Leone Baum, Mildred Deyke, Jo Irlbeck, Erma Living, Essie Martin Ruth Morris, Terry Rhine, Valerie Artoad Marie Goheen.

VFW members present were: Bob Baum, Bob Morris, Tony Irlbeck and Tom Goheen along with the two special guests Terry Brown and Pat Michael.

NEW YORK (AP) - Country singer Garth Brooks says his womanizing didn't ruin his marriage; it made it stronger.

"I'm not telling anybody, 'If you're not happy, go out and screw around because your wife will become a dynamo for you,' but I got to be honest with you, that's what happened for me," he said in an interview with USA Weekend.

Brooks, 29, said his infidelity led him and his wife, Sandy, to separate briefly after six years of marriage.

"Then I finally straightened up," he said.

The couple are expecting their first child in July.

Cornelius, Binder sign with Texas, Angelo St.

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Two Hereford volleyball players signed national letters of intent today to continue their careers in college. Shantel Cornelius signed with national power Texas and Brek Binder signed with Angelo State.

Binder committed to Angelo State recently, but she said she's wanted to go there for a long time, and she didn't seriously consider any other school.

"First of all, the academic excellence of the school: I think I can play volleyball for four years, but I'll need my education for the rest of my life," Binder said, listing among the reasons for her choice the schools location, beautiful campus and friendly players and students.

"Secondly, the volleyball program: it's a strong Division II school, and I chose a smaller school wanting more playing time."

Cornelius chose Texas over many Division I schools. She committed during a recruiting visit to Austin in December. She also visited Texas Tech, Rice and Louisiana State and canceled visits to Houston and Washington after committing to UT.

"I think the most important thing that had an impact on me was that everything in the program and the university just clicked with my personality," she said in December.

"I always favored (playing at) Texas a little bit more than other universities just because I've always wanted to play there."

"I'm glad I'm going to Texas," she said today. "When you play in college it's such a job, and if I went somewhere where I didn't enjoy playing it'd be hard to continue my career."

Cornelius' high school career was impressive. She was named to the Texas Girls' Coaches Association All-State team after her junior season and is expected to receive that honor this year. She was the Most Valuable Player of District 1-4A the last two seasons, and also was named Newcomer of the Year and Sophomore of the Year.

She was selected to play in the TGCA Volleyball All-Star Match this summer in Fort Worth.

She set numerous school records in her four years as a varsity player. She owns career marks in kills (761), successful attack attempts (1,570), total attack attempts (1,738), kill percentage (.438), successful attack percentage (.903), solo stuffs (309) and digs (462).

She set single-season records in 1991 for kills (343), kill percentage (.478), successful attacks (590) and stuff blocks (118).

She owns single-match records for kills (30), digs (17) and stuff blocks

(13). All of those were in different matches against District 1-4A rival Dumas.

Binder also left a mark on the HHS record book. In only two years on varsity, she set for 886 assists, a school career record. She also owns single-season marks in assists (482), sets (1,026), successful serves (420) and points scored on serve (273), all set in 1991. She also made first-team all-district the last two years.

More importantly than statistics, these two won. The Lady Whitefaces earned trips to the playoffs during all four of Cornelius' years, during which the team won 92 games and lost 25. The team advanced to the regional finals in both of Binder's seasons on the team, finishing with records of 22-7 in 1990 and 26-5 in 1991.

Both said they were appreciative of the support given to them during their high school careers. Cornelius even said community support was partly responsible for her getting a scholarship to Texas: community provided money which allowed her (and Binder) to play in a Junior Olympic Volleyball Association tournament in California.

"That's where I got all my exposure and I wouldn't have been able to play that without the donations and financial support," she said.

Cameron's newest recruit

T.J. Samples (seated) signs a letter of intent to play football at Cameron University. With the former Herd offensive lineman are his family and coaches. They are (standing, left to right) Coach Stan Carter, T.J.'s brother Chris, father Jay, mother Debbie and Coach Danny Haney.

Samples picks Cameron

Hereford High School senior T.J. Samples signed on Wednesday a national letter of intent to play football at Cameron University.

"I liked their coaching staff and their campus," Samples said. "I liked the way they looked on film and their attitude towards everything."

Samples, an offensive guard for the Herd, said he will probably redshirt during his first year.

Samples was a first-team all district selection for Hereford in 1991. He graded out at 87 percent, recorded 32 pancake sacks and allowed only three sacks.

Greg Porter, the offensive line coach at Cameron attended the signing. Cameron, a Division II school, is located in Lawton, Okla.

Ags reap golden harvest

DALLAS (AP) - In the national signing day Olympics in the Southwest Conference, Texas A&M took the gold medal, but Texas, Texas Tech and Baylor crowded the victory platform with solid silver performances.

The SWC, led by the defending champion Aggies and their recruiting coordinator whiz Tim Cassidy, did a solid job of keeping most of the Lone Star State's talented players home.

Each SWC school had something to shout about, although Houston coach John Jenkins gagged his sports information office and wouldn't officially release his signings. With decreasing attendance and combating the Houston Oilers, for newspaper space and radio-television time, the Cougars stance bordered on the baffling.

The other seven schools got the signings by fax machine or express mail and released the names, satisfying new NCAA rules, the media and alumni.

The medal ceremony:

GOLD - Texas A&M. R.C. Slocum outdid his two previous top 10 national classes with a bluechip class of Texans. "This class was more significant than the previous two because we continue to get good players who want to go to a good program where they are already good players. It was quality across the board. And we beat out Miami, Notre Dame and Oklahoma for a lot of 'em. We must be doing something right," Slocum said. "We got top-notch guys, premium players. And they are all Texas players. I wanted Texas guys. I get irritated when someone tells me the best athletes are in Florida." Linebackers, defensive backs, linemen, running backs, the Aggies got them all, including highly regarded quarterback Corey Pullig of Deer Park. Nineteen of A&M's 23 recruits were considered top 100 prospects in Texas.

SILVER - Texas. John Mackovic was proud of his first Texas recruiting class and well he should be. Quarterback Shea Morenz of San Angelo Central, wide receiver Mike Adams of Arlington Sam Houston, linebacker Patrick Hayes of Tyler John Tyler and linebacker Brian Linder of Bridge City were just a few of the true bluechips signed by the new coach. "We got real quality," Mackovic said. "We had to get a quality quarterback and wide receivers to go with our offense. Of course, it was important to get Shea for the future of our program. Shea has a tremendous future. We went after skilled players and got them."

SILVER - Texas Tech. Spike Dykes said "it's the best class since I've been here. I feel we did better in Lubbock and West Texas than ever before. We have a lot of guys who have a chance to be impact players. We're really pleased." Tony Daniels from Odessa Permian and Dallas Carter's Anthony Armour are two impressive linebackers landed by Dykes, who needed to shore up his defense. One of the interesting players signed by Dykes was nose tackle Tiger Townes of Navarro Junior College, who is the son of former Dallas Cowboy Willie (Baby) Townes.

SILVER - Baylor. Grant Teaff closed with a rush, signing seven junior college players, getting two of Oklahoma's best players, and signing such Texas schoolboy talent as running back Brandell Jackson of Brenham, offensive lineman Curtis Draper of Lubbock Estacado, defensive back Tony Blockett of Garland Lakeview, and Class 3A player of the year Andrian Robinson of Edna, who passed and ran for more than 2,000 yards and had 14 interceptions as a free safety on defense. Teaff also re-signed quarterback Eric Gray, who led Aldine to the state 5A title in 1990. "I'm really pleased," Teaff said. "We got some good junior college players which we don't usually do and we got a lot of diversity. We were able to recruit to our needs. For us, I'd put a gold medal round our neck."

BRONZE - TCU. In 32 days of recruiting, Pat Sullivan didn't do bad. He got McKinney quarterback Max Knake, running back Jeff Godley of Arlington Sam Houston and Chad Avery of Midlothian, a 225-pound tight end.

Santiago wins arbitration

SAN DIEGO (AP) - After trying for three years, Benito Santiago finally came up a winner in arbitration.

Santiago became the highest-paid catcher in baseball when an arbitrator on Wednesday awarded him a $3.3 million salary rather than San Diego's offer of $2.5 million.

Santiago, who can become a free agent after the 1992 season, made $1.65 million in 1991, when he hit .267 with 17 homers and 87 RBIs.

"It is the most rewarding arbitration victory I've ever had because the evidence was so difficult to explain," Santiago's agent, Scott Boras, said after arbitrator William Rentfro announced his decision.

Joe McIlvaine, the Padres' general manager, said: "Last year, Benito went and was a loser; he went this year and was a winner. Our feeling is very simply like in ball games, you win some and you lose some."

"I hope his winning will spur him on to even greater heights this year."

The decision gives Santiago the second-highest salary ever in arbitration, trailing only Doug Diabek's $3.35 million victory last year. The salary tops the previous high for a catcher, $2,833,333, the figure Mickey Tettleton will average during his three-year contract with Detroit.

Boras and the Padres presented their evidence Tuesday during a 6-hour hearing in Los Angeles.

Santiago's request for $2.5 million last year was turned down by arbitrator Rolf Valtin, who instead picked the team's offer. In 1990, arbitrator Thomas Roberts gave Santiago $1.25 million rather than San Diego's offer of $750,000.

Meanwhile, three other players settled Wednesday and four others had hearings, leaving 66 remaining in arbitration.

Outfielder Tommy Gregg, who batted just .187 for Atlanta last season, agreed at $347,500, an $82,500 raise. Outfielder Greg Briley and Seattle settled at $570,000, a raise of $305,000.

Outfielder Junior Felix, who missed 90 games last season because of injuries, settled with California at $590,000, a raise of $280,000.

California outfielder Luis Polonia had his hearing in Los Angeles before arbitrator William Gould, and New York Mets pitcher Jeff Innis had a hearing in New York before arbitrator Richard Kasher.

Arbitrator Ira Jaffe heard two cases in Chicago: Cincinnati outfielder Glenn Braggs and Chicago White Sox pitcher Ken Patterson.

Magic decides to play in Olympics

RALEIGH (AP) - Despite recent protests from some Australians, former NBA star Magic Johnson says he will play for the United States in the Barcelona Olympic Games.

"It's nothing in my mind that's going to stop me from playing," he said Wednesday when asked about playing in the Olympics. "There's never been a doctor who said you could catch the virus from playing basketball."

Johnson's plans to play in Spain recently were criticized by the Australians, whose team doctor said his country's players should boycott the games if they had to play against Johnson, who has the virus that causes AIDS. That position later was changed, but the decision has been left to its individual players.

Johnson also told an audience at St. Augustine's College he intended to play in Sunday's NBA All-Star Game in Orlando, Fla., a decision that has been criticized by some NBA players.

Earlier this week, Charles Barkley of the Philadelphia 76ers said he didn't think Johnson should play in the game. However, Barkley's objection was because Johnson hasn't played this year, not because of he has the AIDS virus.

But a poll of NBA players showed 96 of 132 players believed Johnson should play in the game.

Johnson said he felt fine and would play in the All-Star Game.

"There have been no problems," Johnson said. "My wife and baby are healthy. I'm looking forward to playing in the All-Star Game.

"I am going to be playing because the fans voted me to play," he told reporters later. "And because I'm feeling pretty good. I run four miles a day and play basketball for three hours."

Fans voted Johnson to a starting position on the Western All-Star team. The NBA created a 13th spot on the team for Johnson.

At the gathering, Johnson also warned young people to be cautious of the AIDS epidemic.

Clippers hire Brown

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Larry Brown and Danny Manning are being reunited.

Manning was the key player and Brown the coach on the University of Kansas team which won the NCAA championship in 1988.

Now, Manning is one of the key players on the Los Angeles Clippers and Brown will be their coach.

The Clippers confirmed Wednesday night that Brown has been hired to succeed Mike Schuler, who was fired Sunday night. The Clippers lost 10 of their final 15 games under Schuler.

"Larry's been successful every place he's been," Clippers general manager Elgin Baylor told television station KCOP in an interview at halftime of the Clippers' game against the Los Angeles Lakers Wednesday night. "Larry Brown is an excellent coach."

"I think he brings to us what we need, the toughness. He's demanding, but fair. Larry's a very good teacher. You talk to players who have played for him, they like the teaching, the patience he's showed. I just think he'll do an excellent job for us."

Baylor said the parties have agreed to a five-year contract, including this year.

Brown, who was fired by the San Antonio Spurs Jan. 21, reportedly will earn $750,000 a year with the Clippers, which would make him one of the NBA's highest-paid coaches. That figure also is double what Schuler was making.

Brown, 51, will make his debut for the Clippers when they entertain Houston next Wednesday night.

Brown is returning to Los Angeles, having coached UCLA to 22-10 and 20-7 records during his two years there, including a trip to the NCAA championship game in the 1979-80 season.

He first became a head coach with the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association, then coached the Denver Nuggets both before and after they moved from the ABA to the NBA. He later coached the New Jersey Nets.

Brown's dismissal in San Antonio marked the first time he had been fired in his 20 years as a coach. His record was 153-131 as coach of the Spurs.

Night of upsets claims Duke, Oklahoma St.

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
Associated Press Writer
Duke was defeated. Oklahoma State was overwhelmed. Arkansas lost, too.

It was a very bad night to be a very good team Wednesday as the No. 1, No. 2 and No. 5 teams in the Associated Press college basketball poll all lost.

The pretty good teams had a pretty bad night also, with No. 21 Oklahoma, No. 23 Florida State and No. 24 Georgia Tech falling.

In the night that wasn't, No. 9 North Carolina upset No. 1 Duke 75-73, Nebraska knocked No. 2 Oklahoma State from the ranks of the unbeaten 85-69, Tennessee defeated No. 5 Arkansas 83-81, Colorado stopped No. 21 Oklahoma 70-68 in overtime, Maryland downed No. 23 Florida State 93-85 and Clemson crushed No. 24 Georgia Tech 95-78 in overtime.

Duke was done in by a North Carolina team, ranked ninth, that didn't make a single field goal in the final 9 1/2 minutes. The Tar Heels' Derrick Phelps scored the final points of the game by hitting two free throws with 44.5 seconds remaining. The Tar Heels brought an end to Duke's 23-game winning streak - the nation's longest. North Carolina also snapped Duke's Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season winning streak at 11 games.

Nebraska 85, No. 2 Oklahoma St. 69

In Lincoln, Nebraska, Cornhuskers point guard Jamar Johnson picked the perfect night for his best collegiate performance.

The sophomore, who sat out last season under the NCAA's Proposition 85 rule, scored a career-high 25 points.

The Huskers (15-4 overall, 3-3 Big Eight) opened an 18-11 lead with 11:30 remaining in the first half. The Cowboys (20-1, 4-1) repeatedly cut the lead to one or two points before Johnson hit a 3-point field goal with 2:38 remaining and the Huskers never looked back.

Tennessee 83, No. 5 Arkansas 81

Arkansas (17-4, 6-2 Southeastern) had one last chance to tie or win, inbounding the ball under its own basket with 16 seconds left. After Houston blocked Day's 3-point attempt to set off a mad scramble at half court, the Razorbacks' Robert Shepherd came up with the ball but missed a 12-footer and Day missed a tip attempt.

Tennessee (13-7, 5-3) grabbed the rebound with four-tenths of a second left and had its upset.

No. 8 Ohio St. 86, Wisconsin 72

In Columbus, Ohio, Chris Jent scored a career-high 27 points and Jim Jackson had 26 as Ohio State (15-3, 7-1 Big Ten) came back from a seven-point second-half deficit. The victory moved the Buckeyes back into a tie for the top spot in the Big Ten with Indiana.

No. 12 Missouri 81, Iowa State 71

In Columbia, Mo., Jevon Crudup scored 19 points and Melvin Booker added 17 as Missouri beat Iowa State (16-5, 2-3). The Tigers (15-3, 3-2) used an 18-4 run in the second half to seal the victory.

No. 15 Michigan 81, Northwestern 58

In Ann Arbor, Mich., the Wolverines (13-5, 5-4) extended their dominance over to Northwestern (8-11, 1-8) to 15 consecutive games as Jalen Rose scored 12 of his 14 points early in the second half. The Wolverines struggled to lead 24-23 at halftime, but pulled away in the second half.

No. 18 Alabama 74, Texas A&M 61

In College Station, Texas, Laurrel Sprewell scored 18 of his 24 points in the second half as Alabama (18-4) beat Texas A&M, handing the 3-14 Aggies their 10th straight loss.

Colorado 70, No. 21 Oklahoma 68, OT

In Boulder, Colo., Donnie Boyce made two free throws with 12 seconds remaining in overtime to seal Colorado's upset of Oklahoma (14-5, 2-4). The win snapped a 24-game Sooner winning streak over the Buffaloes (10-8, 1-4) dating to Jan. 13, 1982.

No. 22 LSU 70, Florida 50
In Gainesville, Fla., Shaquille

O'Neal scored 23 points, grabbed 15 rebounds, blocked six shots and drew 14 fouls to lead LSU (14-4, 7-1) past Florida (10-9, 3-5) in a Southeastern Conference game.

Maryland 93, No. 23 Florida State 85

In Tallahassee, Fla., Walt Williams scored 38 points - his seventh straight Atlantic Coast Conference game with more than 30 - to lead Maryland (9-10, 2-7) to the upset win over Florida State (14-6, 6-4).

Clemson 95, No. 25 Georgia Tech 78

In Clemson, S.C., Clemson (12-6, 2-5 ACC), scoring every time they touched the ball in the extra period, came within one point of the national record for points scored in an overtime period in their victory over Georgia Tech (15-7, 3-5). The Tigers scored 24 points, one less than the national record of 25 last reached by Wisconsin-Green Bay in 1987-88.

Red Raiders surprise Frogs

By The Associated Press

With a little help from the Texas Tech Red Raiders, the Houston Cougars moved into a three-way tie for first place in the Southwest Conference title race.

Will Flemons scored 23 points Wednesday night to lead the Red Raiders to a stunning 63-57 victory over the conference-leading Texas Christian Horned Frogs. The Cougars got 17 points from Craig Upchurch as Houston defeated Southern Methodist 67-50.

That left TCU, Houston and Texas

all tied for first place with 5-2 conference records.

Latrell Sprewell scored 24 points to lead the 18th ranked Alabama Crimson Tide to a 74-61 non-conference victory over Texas A&M on Wednesday night.

Jordan-less Bulls bow to Suns

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Bulls minus Michael Jordan equalled another loss on a six-game road trip that may have ended their hopes of an unprecedented 70-win season.

All-Star Scottie Pippen had 26 points and 12 assists, Craig Hodges scored 21 points as a replacement for the suspended Jordan and Horace Grant had 19 points and 16 rebounds. But it wasn't enough to win on the road against Phoenix. The Suns, matching a franchise record for consecutive victories at home with 19, got 26 points from Jeff Hornacek to beat the Bulls 126-114 Wednesday night.

Jordan was suspended for one game for bumping a referee in a triple-overtime loss to Utah Monday night. Under league rules, he was not allowed at the arena, so he left Wednesday morning for the All-Star game at Orlando, Fla.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Seattle 95, New Jersey 85; Cleveland 110, Philadelphia 108 in overtime; Miami 126, Golden State 124; Detroit 102, Milwaukee 94; Boston 98, Houston 85; Orlando 109, Minnesota 102; the Los Angeles Lakers 100, the Los Angeles Clippers 95; and Sacramento 100, Utah 98.

Bride-elect honored

Sherri Cowart was honored with a bridal shower Saturday afternoon, Feb. 1, in the Antonion Room of St. Anthony's School. Miss Cowart and Jim Hund plan to wed Feb. 14. Welcoming guests with the bride-elect were her mother, Sandra Cowart, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Alice Hund, at right.

Sherri Cowart feted with bridal shower

A bridal shower was held for Sherri Cowart, Feb. 14 bride-elect of Jim Hund, Saturday afternoon in the Antonion Room of St. Anthony's School.

Greeting guests with the honoree were her mother, Sandra Cowart; her grandmother, Billie Martin; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Alice Hund; and his grandmother, Mary Noggler.

Theresa Bates invited guests to register and Allison Farr and Carol Hund served refreshments of cinnamon rolls, miniature cheese cakes, almond bars, fruit punch and coffee.

The refreshment table, which was covered with a white lace cloth and appointed with crystal, was decorated with red candles. The floral and ivy centerpiece with red accents was given to the bride-elect from the hostesses.

An Oster Kitchen Center was also presented to Miss Cowart from the hostesses: Carolyn Evers, Joann Jesko, Dorothy Brorman, Pat Simnacher, Valerie Artho, Wanda Jesko, Wilhimine Fetsch, Debbie Fetsch, Carolyn Hund, Donna Weaver, Leona Schilling.

Also, Betty Koelzer, Oleta Diller, Karen Martin, Joyce Schlabs, Barbara Franks, Francie Farr, Bernadette Kalka, Ann Lueb, Jaimie Brorman and Charla Schlabs.

A patient's right to decide

A new federal law that took effect Dec. 1, 1991, will help to increase your control over medical treatment decisions.

According to the Health Care Financing Administration, you now have the right to fill out a paper, known as an "advance directive." The paper says in advance what kind of treatment you want or do not want under special, serious conditions, conditions that would prevent you from telling your doctor how you want to be treated. For example, if you were taken to a hospital in a coma, would you want the hospital's medical staff to know your specific wishes about decisions affecting your treatment?

The new federal law requires most hospitals, nursing facilities, hospices, home health care programs and health maintenance organizations (HMOs) to give you information about advance directives and your legal choices in making decisions about medical care.

Generally, an advance directive is a written statement, which you complete in advance of serious illness, about how you want medical decisions made. The two most common forms of advance directives are a living will and a durable power of attorney for health care.

A living will generally states the kind of medical care you want or do not want if you become unable to make your own decisions. It is called a living will because it takes effect while you are still living.

A durable power of attorney for health care, in many states, is a signed, dated and witnessed paper naming another person, such as a husband, wife, daughter, son or close friend as your agent or proxy to make medical decisions for you should you become unable to make them for yourself.

If you have an advance directive, make sure someone, such as your lawyer or family member, knows that you have it and knows where it is.

For further information, please ask those who are in charge of your health care.

Hints from Heloise

Q. You once explained how to fade blue jeans and I didn't cut it out. Please run this hint again so I can try to get my jeans faded without such a big expense.
— V. Moore, Belton, Texas

A. Fading dark blue jeans using diluted bleach is relatively simple. You can do this in the washing machine or in the bathtub.

In the washing machine, follow the directions on the bleach container for bleaching clothes, but be absolutely sure you add the bleach to the water, mix, then put the jeans in.

For the bathtub method, fill the tub with enough water to cover the jeans. Add the bleach, mix well and lay the jeans into the bathtub. You may need to weigh them down with some plastic shampoo bottles, being sure you wear rubber gloves. Leave them for about 30 minutes, then turn them and leave another 30 minutes.

When the jeans have faded to your liking, wash and dry them as usual.

FAST FACTS

Other uses for old mattress pads:
• Make into bedding for your pet.
• Cut into knee pads for gardening.
• Use instead of batting when making quilts.
• They make great padding for pot-holders and place mats.
• Make into a portable changing pad for baby.

BOOK LENDING

Dear Heloise: After lending out several hardbound books and having them returned with the cover scuffed or dirty, I came up with this idea.

When a friend or associate asks to borrow a book, before lending it out I cover it with a book cover made from a brown paper grocery bag. This has solved my problem! — Henry S., New York, N.Y.

Be sure and keep a note of who has what book and you'll be sure to get the book back in good shape. — Heloise

CARE PACKAGES

Dear Heloise: To eliminate giving those knickknacks or "one more scarf" type gifts, I have begun sending care packages.

I make up a box (or a clothes basket is handy) of things useful to that person, such as hair-care products, favorite canned goods or boxed foods.

I give these as gifts for birthdays, get-well wishes and so forth and they are always appreciated, especially by the elderly who are on a limited budget. — Darlene Deel, Palatka, Fla.

SOUND OFF

Dear Heloise: Why do all microwave ovens, regardless of shape, size and price, open from the right? With freezers and refrigerators, clothes washers and dryers, you have a choice of left- or right-opening (or the doors are reversible).

Some pre-existing kitchens have situations or designs that cannot accommodate or utilize doors which open from the right. Why don't the manufacturers get on the ball? — Ruth Loyer, Ewing, N.J.

I hope they are listening, but in the meantime look for a brand that opens downward like a traditional oven. — Heloise

Since everyone suffers minor accidents occasionally, every home should have a first-aid kit. Here are a few suggestions to help you put one together.

• In case of fever, you'll need a thermometer and acetaminophen or aspirin.

• For scrapes and cuts, keep various sizes of adhesive bandages, sterile gauze, blunt-end scissors and medical tape handy. Include some antiseptic for cleaning minor cuts and antibiotic cream to help heal.

• If your household includes children, syrup of ipecac (used to induce vomiting) needs to be included. ALWAYS check with the poison-control center before using. It should never be used when caustic or corrosive substances have been swallowed. Also, it's very important that the poison-control center's phone number be taped to the first-aid kit and also kept by the phone. Don't forget Grandma's too!

• Other good items to include are:

cotton swabs, tweezers, a mild laxative, sunscreen, antiseptic ointment, diarrhea/upset-stomach remedy and rubbing alcohol.

Not all mishaps can be avoided, but being prepared can make them seem less stressful. — Heloise

Washington, D.C. has a higher percentage of Black persons than any other major American city, about 70 percent.

Clinton may have 'avoided' draft

NEW YORK (AP) - Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton was given a Vietnam draft deferment for a reserve officers training program that he never joined, The Wall Street Journal reported in its editions today.

An official of the local draft board where Clinton was registered was quoted by the newspaper as saying the future Arkansas governor had told her he would "pull every string he could think of" to avoid being drafted.

Opal Ellis, former executive secretary of Hot Springs, Ark., draft board, said Clinton approached her in 1969 and "told me he was too well educated to go."

The issue of Clinton's conduct in connection with service in the Vietnam War, which he opposed, is not unprecedented. Vice President

Dan Quayle's participation in a National Guard unit during the war was an issue during the previous presidential campaign.

Clinton graduated from Georgetown University in 1968 and went to Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar but was still eligible for the draft because graduate school deferments had been eliminated in 1967.

Mrs. Ellis, a Republican, said Hot Springs was so proud that a hometown boy was a Rhodes scholar that the local Selective Service board told him he would not be drafted until the fall of 1969 so that he could study at Oxford.

Clinton returned to Arkansas in the summer of 1969, knowing that he faced being drafted. He told the Journal he doesn't recall any confrontation with Mrs. Ellis and denied using strong-arm tactics to avoid the draft.

Anyone who says he did, Clinton is quoted as saying, "has, at best, a faulty memory."

But Clinton said he did decided to "look around" for other options. He took officer's training exams for the Air Force and Navy but failed them because of vision defects and hearing problems.

As the draft deadline loomed,
Clinton said he met with an Army
ROTC recruiter at the University of Arkansas and agreed orally to join the officer's training program at the law school there.

Based on that information, the Hot Springs draft board in August 1969
reclassified Clinton from 1-A to 1-D, downgrading his status from "available for military service" to the status granted to those in reserve units or taking military training, the Journal said.

But Clinton never attended law school at Arkansas nor participated in ROTC. Instead he enrolled at Yale, but not until 1970 after attending Oxford another year. And even his mother does not remember her son ever planning to attend law school at the University of Arkansas, the Journal reported.

"I was under the impression when he came home from Oxford that he was going to go to Yale," Virginia
Kelly, Clinton's mother, said.

Clinton informed the Army ROTC recruiter at the University of Arkansas, Col. Eugene Holmes, that he would not be participating in the program so Holmes had Clinton's draft status returned to "available for military service" status.

His status was changed on Oct. 30, 1969, less than a month before a new draft lottery system based on dates of birth went into effect on Nov. 26, 1969.

Clinton's lottery number based on his birthdate was 311. No one with a number higher than 195 was ever called by the Selective Service System, the Journal reported.

Candidates for Fiestas Patrias draw topics

Three Hereford girls will be competing for the 1992 Fiestas Patrias Queen title later this year, including (from second from left) Gloria Herrera, Vanessa Gonzalez and Gabriela Gamez. They met Wednesday with Lupe Castillo (left) and Janie Alejandre (right), members of the Fiestas Patrias Committee at San Jose Catholic Church, to select topics for presentations they will make in August to select the queen. Isabel Rodriguez is the current queen.

Prison board says no to Garrett stay

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Attorneys for Johnny Frank Garrett have a last chance for an appeal before the U.S. Supreme Court after the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles refused to recommend a commutation of Garrett's death sentence, scheduled to be carried out next week.

The board Wednesday took just 25 minutes before making a near-unanimous recommendation that Gov. Ann Richards not halt the execution of Garrett, convicted of raping and killing a nun in Amarillo 10 years ago.

Garrett faces lethal injection, before dawn next Tuesday.

The board considered two hours of testimony from six witnesses called by Garrett's attorney, Warren Clark, who tried to show Garrett was the victim of abuse and was mentally incompetent.

"Not every case deserves this hearing. I know that. This case is different. Johnny Frank Garrett is unique. His case is unique," Clark said.

But Potter County District Attorney Danny Hill used only about 15 minutes of his allotted two hours to tell the board that Garrett deserved to be put to death.

The board voted 17-0 with one abstention. None of the board members would comment after the decision on the advice of board Chairman Jack Kyle.

Garrett was convicted of raping and strangling 76-year-old Sister Tadea Benz, a Franciscan nun, after breaking into the St. Francis Convent near his home in Amarillo on Halloween night in 1981. He was 17 at the time.

"I don't think you feel good about somebody being executed," Hill said, after the board announced its decision. "But you do feel that justice is served."

"My position is that he didn't have any mental defect except that he isn't normal. No normal person would commit that act. He attacked her with such violence. He bent the knife in her. The death penalty is proper in this case," Hill said.

Last month, Garrett came within an hour of being put to death when Richards stopped the execution, citing a clemency request from Pope John Paul II.

Garrett supporters had suggested the board recommend to Richards that the death sentence be commuted to life without parole.

Clark said he would now take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court, where the appeal was pending at the time Richards halted the scheduled lethal injection.

"That's our last appeal," he said. Asked how optimistic he was that Garrett could be saved, Clark replied, "I'm not."

Three psychiatrists and two Catholic priests, including the Bishop of Amarillo, along with one of Garrett's former teachers testified before the board and more than 100 people who attended the packed hearing in the courtroom at the Criminal Justice Institute at Sam Houston State University.

In addition, one of the psychiatrists showed a 30-minute excerpt of a 3 1/2-hour taped interview made last month in which, she said, Garrett displayed examples of multiple personality syndrome.

On the tape, Garrett, who called himself Aaron, said that Garrett did not kill the nun but Aaron did.

"I think he's simply too crazy to kill," Clark said.

Clark said he wanted to bring Garrett, 28, before the board, but board officials worried about security in transferring the inmate the 15 miles from death row to the hearing site at Sam Houston University.

Tech collection includes huge Kennedy stockpile

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - One of the most complete collections of files on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy has been stored for years at Texas Tech University - and virtually untouched, a school official says.

"It's no great secret," David Murrah said Wednesday, gesturing toward about a dozen stacked cardboard boxes. "We've had some of this stuff since 1967, and no one has been by to see it."

Murrah, director of Tech's Southwest Collection, said the collection of 12,000 documents and photos includes photocopies of police reports, security information, autopsy reports and photographs of Kennedy and the alleged assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

The treasure of information was donated by former state attorney general and Tech alumnus Wagoner Carr.

The files are available to the public, and Murrah expressed surprise that Kennedy researchers hadn't stumbled onto them. It's hooked up to about 6,000 libraries via computer.

Tech photography professor Hershel L. Womack Jr. said Wednesday some of the documents aren't accessible at other places. Those include some unedited notes in the Warren Commission, he said.

When Carr, 73, discovered the university had not publicized his files, he wrote to President Robert W. Lawless, reprimanding Tech.

"I think it's become a pretty important issue because of the recent JFK movie and all the publicity revolving around it," Carr said Wednesday from Austin.

The documents focus only on the investigation in Texas.

"These were records I accumulated during my time as attorney general," Carr said. "Other than the file in Washington, this is the most complete file of all evidence compiled from the Texas angle."

Following the assassination, President Lyndon Johnson asked that Carr conduct a Texas Court of Inquiry. He was assisted by Leon Jaworski, Watergate prosecutor from Houston, and Dean Robert Story, former dean of the Southern Methodist University Law School.

Carr said he agreed with the commission's findings and said Oliver Stone's movie "JFK" disturbed him. The movie questions whether Oswald was the lone assassin.

"I want to get out truth out, particularly because the younger generation has not had the opportunity to know what the facts are," he said. "To raise all of these false alarms to this generation - they never had the opportunity to read the Warren Commission report and know our angle of the investigations in the '60s - is a tragic misuse of a movie."

"A lot people don't want to believe that Oswald shot the president, but it happened," Carr said.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company recently filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) for approval to redefine the location of the demarcation point, or demarc. The demarc is where Southwestern Bell Telephone wiring connects with customer-maintained wiring.

This request will not increase customers' service rates. This request simply changes the point within the wiring where Southwestern Bell's maintenance responsibility ends and the customer's maintenance responsibility begins. As before, customers will be able to connect their own wiring directly to Southwestern Bell's network at points up to the new demarc.

Southwestern Bell is seeking approval of this new demarc location to bring its tariff into compliance with a Federal Communications Commission Order in CC Docket 88-57.

More information will be included in customers' bills beginning February 1, 1992. Persons who wish to comment on the application should notify the PUC by March 20, 1992. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, TX 78757, or you may call the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.
