Incumbent councilman...

Head of SACROC learns of transfer

Gene Thomas, superintendent for the SACROC unit and currently serving as both a city council member and director for the chamber of commerce, has received word he will be transferred from Snyder to Denver.

Friday, Thomas was notified by company officials he will be moving to Colorado for a management-level position with the corporation which emerges from the proposed union of Chevron U.S.A. — operators of the SACROC unit — and Gulf Oil Corp.

His move is in response to the proposed merger of Chevron and Gulf, a change now "frozen" pending final approval from the Federal Trade Commission.

Both companies are now working under a "hold seperate provision" ordered by the FTC. Essentailly, this means company business — to include the status of all personnel — is maintained at the same level as when the two major oil companies agreed to the "friendly takeover" of Gulf by Chevron in March of 1984.

Thomas said Monday that his change in position will not be effective until final approval for the merger is granted by the FTC. "Until that happens, I don't have a job in Denver."

The change will also affect his status as a city councilman, a position he is currently unopposed for on the April 6 ballot.

The deadline to file as a candidate for his council seat passed last Wednesday — two days before Thomas received word from Chevron regarding his transfer.

Thomas now finds himself unopposed for a two-year term he knows he will not be able to serve out.

In January, he also began serving a three-year term as a director for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

Regarding his city post, following the April 6 vote, his fellow council members can appoint a replacement for him to place 1 on the council. This individual would

U.S., Soviets begin new round of talks

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union made a fresh start Tuesday on nuclear weapons control, with Soviet negotiators operating from instructions approved by their new leader, Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Signaling conciliation, Victor P. Karpov, head of the Soviet delegation, said if both sides wanted an accord, "You can do that on the kitchen floor, here or somewhere else."

The opening session, which lasted about two hours and 40 minutes, was held up for 12 minutes while the three American negotiators signed a book of condolences to mark the death of Soviet President Konstantin U. Chernenko on Sunday. Today's session at the Soviet mission marked the resumption of superpower arms talks following a 15-month lapse.

On the eve of the talks, Gorbachev, who became Communist Party general secretary on Monday following the death of Chernenko, urged Washington to join Moscow in reducing nuclear weapons stocks and preventing space from becoming an atomic battleground.

Vice President George Bush, departing Geneva for Chernenko's funeral, told reporters: "All mankind desires peace. Today, at this hour, those hopes focus on the commencement of arms control talks here in Geneva." Bush was in the Swiss city for a conference on Africa.

While waiting for the Americans, Karpov told reporters that Gorbachev had presided over the meeting of the Politburo that approved his instructions last Thursday.

"I will adhere to them, you can be sure of that," Karpov told reporters in an unusually lengthy interview.

He said there was no need to return home after Chernenko's funeral on Wednesday because there would be "no change" in the instructions on space and nuclear arms.

"We should start now and negotiate as long as we are here to understand each other's positions," he said.

It was the first meeting between the veteran Soviet arms negotiator and Max M. Kampelman, who heads the U.S. delegation and is new to nuclear weapons talks.

Greeting the American warmly, Karpov said "I hope that our meeting will not be the last one, but one of the first in a series, that we will negotiate, and reach an agreement."

Kampelman, with a broad smile, said, "Our objective is to reach an agreement too. I hope this is a good omen."

SNB's open house to mark 80th year

An open house Wednesday at Snyder National Bank will mark that institution's 80th year in the city — making it the oldest chartered corporation still in operation in Scurry County.

This observance will be during regular banking hours from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The bank dates to 1905. In March of that year, a group of investors led by W.A. Fuller opened Snyder National and in the process absorbed one of two other banks existing at the time — the Snyder Bank owned by F.J. Grayum. The Snyder Bank — established in 1890 — remains the oldest banking facility on record in Scurry County.

After the 1905 merger, Fuller served as the first president of SNB. E.W. Clark was vice president and members of the board of directors were Arthur Yonge, Grayum and H.R. Wellborn, Knapp attorney. Other stockholders were W.E. Connell, M.B. Loyd and John Scarbauer.

Fuller, when he was named president, operated extensive ranching interests north of Snyder. The bank had 163 depositors on the first day of operation and $30,889 in deposits.

Since its beginning, SNB has been housed in three buildings.

The first was located at the current site for local Texas Electric Service Company offices, 2301 Ave. R. The new bank was in this

College considering driver's ed program

Western Texas College — at the request of the local school district — is now looking into the feasibility of teaching the driver's education course for Scurry County youth.

Dr. Don Newbury, college president, told trustees Monday at the regular March meeting that officials at Snyder High School had asked WTC to take over teaching the class.

Previously, WTC had offered the drivers ed class, but during summer months only. The current proposal includes the possibility it could be offered year-round.

Trustees gave the go-ahead Monday night to see if it would be feasible for the college to take over teaching the course on a permanent basis.

According to Newbury, the college would be given the "simulator" now used by the school district — a device which simulates driving conditions.

It is estimated that some 125 students would take the course each year at a cost of $150 each. The course involves 32 hours lab time plus eight hours on the simulator and four hours actual driving time.

In other action, trustees accepted a low bid of $9,314 from Lahman Manufacturing Co. of Hecia, S.D. for one hydrostatic loader and attachments. The other bid was for $19,092 and was submitted by Associated Supply of Lubbock.

All roofing bids received were rejected and the issue was tabled

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Nothing you put into a banana split is as fattening as the spoon."

Mike Banta, vice president at American State Bank, says he has several moments he would like to forget, especially the following:

"The summer after my senior year in high school, a group of guys started going skinny-dipping every Sunday night. We would meet after everyone had taken their dates home. We would plan where everyone would park their cars (to avoid detection) and walk to the public swimming pool.

"This went on for about a month. As our group grew, so did our confidence. We went from swimming to diving off the low diving board to waiting in line to drive off the high board.

"I'll never forget the night we got caught. I was standing on the high board. The police pulled up in three squad cars and put their spotlights on us. Needless to say, one of them focused on me. Have you ever tried to hide on a high diving board? It's not easy.

"Not knowing what to do, I put my hands over my face and jumped into the water. That was embarrassing.

"All but one of us eluded the police. The one who got caught provided the names of the other participants. As punishment for our deeds, we had to tell our parents.

"The most embarrassing moment in my life was telling my parents, especially my mother, who was thoroughly unamused."

Snyder's Mrs. Willie Newhouse, had her most embarrassing moment while working in the school cafeteria in Roby.

"Supt. John White came in and asked for a fly swatter. I went to the deep freeze and started chipping ice to fill a glass for water.

"When I returned to the counter with the water and ice, the superintendent asked, 'Where's my fly swatter?' I still misunderstood and pointed to the glass of ice water.

"Mr. White said 'fly swatter not ice water,' so with a very red face I went back to the kitchen to secure the object he had waited ten minutes for."

Ask Us

Q. — If the state tuition increase is approved, how will this affect WTC students?

A. — The current charge per semester hour at WTC is $6. The proposal — which has now passed a house committee of the state legislature — calls for a hike next fall to $8 and to $12 in 1986-87. From this point, the fee would increase $2 every four years.

In Brief

Open mind

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reagan administration officials are keeping an open mind toward Egypt's new Mideast peace initiative, but question whether it is an effort to draw the United States into back-door contacts with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

If so, it will be rejected, a senior official said Monday.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak planned to meet with President Reagan today to push the initiative, which Mubarak unveiled last week. Mubarak met Monday with Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger and Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

Take hostages

OTTAWA (AP) — Two armed men, calling themselves members of the Armenian Revolutionary Army, burst into the Turkish Embassy today, injuring the ambassador and a security guard, authorities reported.

They said the men had taken 11 hostages.

Sean Brady, a spokesman for Canada's foreign affairs department, said the ambassador's wife and children were among the hostages.

ISD vandalism

A vandalism incident involving broken windows at a local school campus was investigated by police Monday.

No damage estimate was available. The windows are thought to have been broken out sometime between 5:30 p.m. last Friday and 7 a.m. Monday.

Investigators say they found no evidence to indicate the building had been entered.

Snyder city council members have scheduled a work session at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday at K-Bobs.

The announced purpose of the work session is to discuss FM 1611 — a highway project the city hopes to extend from its current cutoff point at West 37th St. to the Big Spring Hwy.

New generation represented

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the youngest man to head the Communist Party in six decades, stands on the verge of a career that could continue into the next century, if he masters the intrigues of Kremlin politics.

Gorbachev, at 54 the youngest member of the Politburo and a member of the ruling body less than five years, represents a new generation of Soviet leaders — a group unmarked by party service under Stalin's iron rule, well-educated and reared in the postwar years that saw major advances in Soviet living standards.

"Gorbachev seems to be a dynamic and strong person and so ... I hope we will have a chance to engage with him and to work constructively with him," Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Monday. "He's a vigorous young man and we expect to be dealing with him as the future unfolds."

Watchers of the secretive Kremlin don't expect the man who succeeded deceased party chairman Konstantin U. Chernenko, 73, on Monday to make any drastic changes soon.

But his Monday acceptance speech offered some hints about the directions he will pursue.

—Gorbachev pledged to strive for an arms control agreement.

—While stressing Soviet defense would be maintained at a level sufficient to deal a "crushing retaliatory strike" against aggressors, he also said he wanted to transfer the Soviet economy "to the tracks of intensive development."

—The new leader also said the party's "first precept" would be strengthening ties with other Soviet bloc nations and called for "a cardinal improvement of relations" with China.

Western diplomats in Moscow, who spoke only on condition they not be identified, noted that Gorbachev has been part of a collective Kremlin leadership whose views he most likely will continue to represent.

In addition, they said, it takes years before a Soviet leader can amass enough personal power to effect major changes.

But they noted one major difference — whereas Chernenko was, at 72, the oldest man to become party chief, Gorbachev is the youngest since Josef Stalin took power in 1924 at age 45.

"Gorbachev has a lot of time to consolidate his position," said one diplomat.

More tests ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, in otherwise "excellent" health, is undergoing additional tests following the discovery last week of blood in his stool and a new growth in his lower intestine.

Reagan's doctors described the growth as an inflammatory polyp, a noncancerous lesion that sometimes indicates the patient has inflammatory bowel disease or ulcerative colitis.

A White House spokesman said Monday that additional tests will be done before deciding whether further treatment is indicated.

Navy Capt. Walter Karney, who headed the team of military physicians that conducted Reagan's general physical examination at Bethesda Naval Hospital on Friday, said the 74-year-old president's "overall physical and mental condition is excellent." He called it "quite remarkable" that Reagan's blood pressure, at 130 over 74, was lower than a year ago.

But a written statement summarizing the results of the examination said two of four tests for occult, or hidden, blood in the feces were positive.

"Physicians believe this may be from the polyp or from diet and will be monitored," the statement said.

Cowboys Might Take Off Their Hats If They Could Hang Them

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: On the subject of cowboys wearing their hats indoors: In more genteel times, restaurants had coatrooms, which had proper spaces for hats and someone to watch them and prevent their being pilfered.

Nowadays, if a restaurant has a coatroom at all, it is "at the customer's risk" and has no place even to hang a hat. Often not even a peg exists, necessitating either wearing the hat during meals or putting it on the seat of an adjacent chair, subject to being slopped on by careless waiters, or sat upon by incoming customers!

I sometimes hang my hat on any convenient projection from the wall, be it steer horns, false beams or a bookcase. In rowdier places, I have been known to take out a knife, stick it in a wall plank and hang my hat thereupon.

Lucky (and rare) is the home nowadays that has a hall closet, much less one with room for anything but a ski cap. Throwing the coats on the bed in the spare bedroom often results in coats landing atop a hat and crushing it—sometimes the coats even have people still in them!

WILLIAM D.,
DEER PARK, N.Y.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Your column about the cowboy hat reminded me of a story that circulated in the Houston area about the former Houston Oilers coach, Bum Phillips, now coach of the New Orleans Saints.

Bum always wore his 10-gallon hat, which made him easily identifiable on the sidelines at football games. However, he never wore his hat when the Oilers played at home in the Astrodome.

A reporter once asked Bum why he never wore his cowboy hat at a home game. As the story goes, he replied, "My mama taught me that a gentleman always removes his hat when he enters a home, and the Astrodome is home to me."

MARCIA B., TEXAN

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I know why cowboys always wear their 10-gallon hats. An honest-to-God cowboy wears his hat to shade his eyes from the scorching sun, but his face gets tanned anyway, taking on the look of leather. Meanwhile his forehead is as fair as a newborn baby's bottom, and if he removes his hat, he will look silly with his tan face and his pale forehead, so he never takes his hat off unless he's going to bed.

COWBOY'S GIRLFRIEND

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Who said a cowboy never removes his hat? I just saw Gene Autry on the news. He was all dressed up in his spiffy western clothes, including a beautiful 10-gallon hat, but when a lady approached him, I noticed that he took his hat off. Now, there's a gentleman for you!

Come to think of it, John Wayne always took his hat off in the presence of a lady, and so did Hopalong Cassidy, Gary Cooper and George Montgomery.

LOVES OLD WESTERNS

DEAR LOVES: True. All of the above had good manners. Also hair.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Gentlemen cowboys remove their hats indoors and in the presence of ladies no matter where they are. Drugstore cowboys, he just wear western clothes and hang out trying to look macho, never take their hats off.

If you recall the movie "Midnight Cowboy," that guy never took his hat off because he was no gentleman.

MOVIE BUFF

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps I can provide a reasonable explanation for why cowboys wear their hats indoors.

Those hats are so big, there is no place to put them. Also, each brim is shaped individually by the owner according to his personal taste. A real cowboy bends the brim of his hat to suit himself, and when he removes it, he always places it upside down on the crown with nothing touching it to keep the brim from being bent out of shape.

Most restaurants don't want to take the responsibility of keeping these precious hats in the checkroom, so they encourage cowboys to keep their hats on their head.

House votes to extend death penalty in state

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas House members planned a final vote today on widening the capital punishment law to allow the death penalty for mass and serial murders.

The bill, tentatively approved 92-14 on Monday, also would allow execution of defendants previously convicted of murder.

"If one murder is heinous, than more than one is more heinous," said co-sponsor Patricia Hill, R-Dallas.

Currently, the death penalty is allowed in Texas only for murders committed during the commission of specified crimes and for the murder of law enforcement officers and firefighters.

Co-sponsor Tony Polumbo, D-Houston, said the current law does not allow the death penalty for someone who "travels across the state of Texas killing people to find out how it feels to kill people." It also bars execution of someone who kills several people at one time, but does not commit one of the crimes specified in the capital punishment law, he said.

Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice and a death penalty foe, spoke against the bill.

"I cannot in good conscience allow this vote to be taken without speaking against it," she said, adding that she believes someone who has committed a murder should be "shot down like a bad dog."

"But who is to take this life. I could not do it and I cannot ask a state employee to do it," she said.

Bean soup to be included in cookbook

Winter months seem ready made for steaming homemade soup. A somewhat different, and very tasty, recipe is Nine Bean Soup.

JoAnn Littlepage introduced Jean Everett, sesquicentennial cookbook chairman, to the soup. Littlepage received it from the mother of one of her students, Marsha Kubena of Hermleigh.

Kubena sent the recipe saying that a friend, Cathy Belcher, had made her some for Christmas. A good recipe gets around in a hurry.

Nine Bean Soup will be included in the sesquicentennial cookbook. Persons interested in contributing are asked to send their recipes to Everett at Rt. 3, Box 18, Snyder. Individuals should submit each recipe on a separate sheet of paper along with their name, address, telephone number and brief history of the recipe. A photograph may also be included.

NINE BEAN SOUP

2 cups bean soup mix (recipe follows)
2 qts. water
1 lb. ham, diced
1 large onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
½ teaspoon salt
1 16 oz. can tomatoes
1 10 oz. can Rotel

Wash bean mix and place in Dutch oven. Cover with water two inches above the beans and soak overnight. Drain beans. Add 2 qts. water and next four ingredients. Cover and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 1½ hours. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer until beans are tender, stirring occasionally.

BEAN SOUP MIX

Mix together one pound each of black beans, red beans, pinto beans, black-eyed peas, lentils, barley pearls, split peas, navy beans and northern beans.

SCS Notes

By Ricky Linex
Range Conservationist

If fish are not fed, setting up an inorganic fertilization program can double the annual fish production from farm ponds. Fertilizer added to a pond increases the production of floating microscopic plants called phytoplankton which form the base of the aquatic food chain. The development of phytoplankton creates the additional food needed for fish growth. A light green color should develop a week or so after beginning the program. This color also inhibits undesirable aquatic weeds. Aquatic weeds that are already established in the pond need to be killed before beginning a fertilizer program. Once they are brought under control, proper fertilization will keep them controlled. Control results from the turbidity created by the dense phytoplankton bloom. This turbidity blocks sunlight and thereby shades out many undesirable aquatic plants. This shading effect and the additional fish production are the major benefits of a pond fertilization program.

Fertilization can be accomplished with either the granular or liquid product. The fertilization program begins in early spring by applying 100 pounds of 20-20-5 or 16-20-0 per surface acre when surface water temperatures reach about 65 degrees. An equivalent amount of liquid fertilizer can be used such as two gallons of 10-34-0 mixed with nine gallons of water spread over the pond surface.

Granular application can be made by broadcasting over the water surface in depths of less than five feet. Probably the best method of applying granular fertilizer is with a platform that will hold the sacks of fertilizer near the surface of the water. These platforms can be stationary or floating and allow the nutrients to dissolve slowly into the water to maintain a more even bloom.

Additional application should be made at two-week intervals until enough bloom develops to prevent a white object's being seen 18 inches beneath the water's surface. A piece of board or metal six inches in diameter painted white and fastened to a yard stick will serve as the white object. This white object will be used throughout the fertilization period rather than trying to follow a time schedule for fertilizing.

When the white object cannot be seen at 12 inches do not fertilize. when it can be seen at 12-18 inches, it is time to fertilize. Use 20-40 pounds of the granular or two gallons of the liquid plus nine gallons of water per application. Fertilization should cease after July 1 to prevent possible oxygen shortages.

The bidding was direct, although three no-trump is a better contract. Had South tried to place the contract there by bidding three no-trump over two spades, North would have been happy to pass.

East won the opening lead with the heart ace, cashed the heart king and led the seven to South's queen. The best trump technique now would be for South to finesse the 10, playing West for one of the trump honors. But South was an expert player with excellent table awareness. The only rational explanation for a vulnerable East to pause noticeably before passing the final four-spade bid was that he was considering doubling. Accordingly South played a low spade to dummy's ace and led through the K-J in East's hand to land his contract.

To avoid this kind of giveaway, any player should decide early in the auction what he will do if the opponents bid on to a game contract. Bidding and playing in an even tempo would surely have resulted in a plus score for East against expert South, who knew the normally correct percentage play in the spade suit.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN)

It violates bridge proprieties to pretend you have a problem when in fact none exists. But there is nothing wrong with hesitating and thinking at the table when you really do have a problem. Unfortunately you may be giving your opponents more help than yourself with a long and obvious pause. The advice given by Mike Lawrence in "Winning Bridge Intangibles" is to bid and play in an even tempo. The failure by East to follow this advice kept his side from defeating a game contract.

MR. MEN™ AND LITTLE MISS™ by Hargreaves & Sellers

DENNIS THE MENACE

Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Age is a factor in fertility

DEAR DR. LAMB — I started taking birth control pills seven years ago, after my first baby. I stopped them about six months ago, hoping to have a baby, but I have not gotten pregnant. I have heard that after stopping the Pill for three months, there should be no problem getting pregnant.

I have been taking my body temperature in the morning for about a month and it seems that I'm not ovulating. Do some women never ovulate again? Please help me understand this. I'm very upset about it.

DEAR READER — It is too early to decide whether you have a problem or not. You have taken your morning temperature for only a month, and it may take two or three months to find out if you are ovulating or not. In addition, you have to do the procedure properly.

However, you are seven years older, which sometimes makes a difference. You did not say how old you are. Yes, birth-control pills may affect the normal brain-pituitary gland action that stimulates the ovaries to action and results in ovulation. The three-month figure is about right. However, physicians do not consider a couple infertile until a year of trying has passed. When the woman has been taking oral contraceptives, the time limit is extended to one year and three months. Therefore, you can see why I think you are a little early in deciding you have a problem.

If you are not ovulating, your doctor can prescribe medicines that may stimulate your ovaries, or you could take a fertility pill.

Read The Health Letter 17-2, Female Reproduction Function, which I am sending you, for more information. If you don't soon have some evidence of ovulation, see your doctor and find out if he can help you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I used to snore only when I was uncomfortable, such as sleeping in a car, but now I snore all the time and it disturbs my family. I have no unusual nose or throat problems and I sleep and snore with my mouth closed. What can I wear or use to eliminate this problem?

DEAR READER — Nearly everyone snores part of the time. Loud, disturbing snoring is now believed to be caused by extra folds of tissue in the upper airway. These are like flaps and vibrate with deep breathing. The Japanese have ended this kind of snoring simply by cutting away the excess folds of tissue. Dr. F. Blair Simmons, professor of head and neck surgery at Stanford University, has used the technique and says that all of his patients stopped snoring after the operation. He calls it a face lift of the pharynx.

Dr. Jay Goldstein of Anaheim Hills, Calif., says he treats snoring with protriptyline (10 mg. at bedtime). He reports that this has been successful in about 75 percent of his cases. Protriptyline is an antidepressant, but it also contracts muscles in the pharynx area and tightens the folds of tissue.

Deep snoring associated with periods in which breathing stops can be a significant medical problem. People who experience this need a medical evaluation. Some may even need a hole to be made in the trachea (tracheostomy) to facilitate breathing at night.

Several bills given approval

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill to give public school teachers 25 minutes to eat lunch without student interruptions has been approved by the Senate.

The Senate on Monday also voted to crack down on computer crime, which was described as a recent phenomenon, and to extend the life of the Parks and Wildlife Department, which employs 2,100 people and has an annual budget of $90 million.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, noted that although computer crime is a new problem, at least 35 states have enacted legislation to punish computer criminals.

His bill would create two categories of offenses — breach of computer security and "harmful access." A security breach would be punishable by up to one year in jail, and harmful access, or the damaging of computer data, would be punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

The proposal was sent to the House on voice vote.

Sen. Carlos Truan was successful in winning approval of a bill that would authorize 25-minute duty-free lunch periods for teachers. On Feb. 25, seven senators blocked debate on the proposal.

Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said over 500 school districts now do not allow teachers free time to eat. His bill would authorize the State Board of Education to set guidelines for lunch periods, with exceptions being made in cases of personnel shortages, extreme economic conditions or "an unavoidable or unforeseen circumstance."

A proposed amendment to allow local school trustees to control teacher lunch periods was rejected 18-13, and the bill was approved 29-2, with Sens. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, and Bill Sims, D-San Angelo.

Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Mesquite, had no opposition to his bill reauthorizing the Parks and Wildlife Department, which was created in 1963 through a merger of the old State Parks Board and Game and Fish Commission.

The bill, sent to the House on voice vote, would authorize the nine-member Parks and Wildlife Commission to set hunting and fishing fees, instead of going to the Legislature for changes.

It would establish a lifetime license endowment fund to acquire public hunting and fishing areas and a standard penalty schedule with four types of offenses. The bill also would authorize the department to recover monetary damages for illegally destroyed fish and wildlife and would eliminate mandatory county hearings in all 254 counties.

The Senate d District Retirement System who retire after Oct. 1. The system was created in 1967 and now has nearly 69,000 members, including 8,086 who are retired.

— Allow a legislator, or legislative aide, to obtain state agency information in contested cases if the legislator or aide is not being paid to do so.

— Reauthorize the Office of State Entomologist, which was established in 1899 and currently administers the Honey Bee Disease Control Program. The estimated value of the honey bee industry in Texas ranges from $100 million to $200 million a year.

— Extend the life of the Texas Conservation Foundation, which would be allowed to maintain confidential files on donations.

— Allow the state to petition for a court hearing on the disposal of stolen property if a criminal action is not pending.

— Make optional the examination of all children in a home where child abuse or child neglect has been reported.

First Huntsville cop killed in line of duty

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — An offshore oil worker was being held in the shooting death of a Huntsville policeman who was the city's first officer to die in the line of duty, authorities said.

Patrick Curtis Havard, charged with capital murder in the officer's death, was held without bond in the Walker County jail.

Havard is accused in the death of policeman Kevin Williams, 28, who died in a Houston hospital Sunday, 24 hours after he was shot in the forehead and right arm while investigating a reported quarrel between a couple.

A justice of the peace set a $500,000 bond for Havard, but revoked the bond on Sunday after Williams died and the charge was changed to capital murder.

Huntsville acting police chief Michael Morse said Williams was the first policeman in the history of the Huntsville police department to die on duty. Morese said he didn't know when the police department was chartered in Huntsville, but said it has been more than a century.

Huntsville, almost 70 miles north of Houston, has been the Walker County seat since 1846. The town has a population of about 23,000 and is headquarters for the Texas Department of Corrections.

Morse said Williams, who was patrolling alone, was sent to a Huntsville apartment complex about 1:30 a.m. Saturday after a woman called police to report that her estranged husband was threatening her and a friend with a knife.

Two doctors found dead at condominium

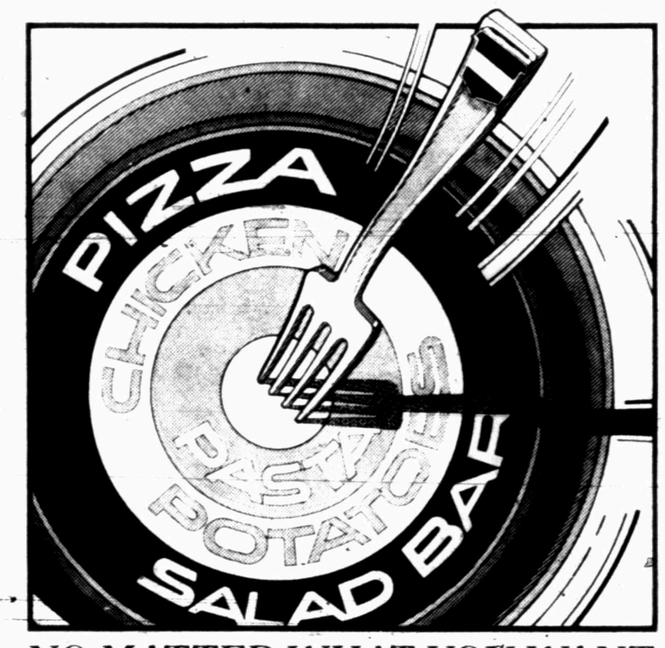

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas County Medical Examiner is awaiting toxicology results before ruling on the cause of death last weekend of a psychiatrist and his psychologist wife.

Fred Henrick Jordan apparently overdosed on drugs and his psychologist wife, Traudl Elizabeth Jordan, died after falling from their high-rise condominium in an exclusive part of town Sunday, police said.

Police said Monday they are baffled by the apparent murder-suicide of the couple in whose condominium was scrawled the word "total" throughout in orange-red lipstick and what appeared to be petroleum jelly.

Homicide investigator P.E. Jones said authorities were not sure if Mrs. Jordan, 58, jumped to her death, or was pushed from her 21st-floor home at about 10 a.m. Sunday.

Reagan ready to meet leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he is "more than ready" to meet with the Soviet Union's new leader, but the White House insists it must be under the same terms that were set — but never met — for talks with three earlier Kremlin chiefs.

Reagan pledged Monday to deal "with an open mind" with Mikhail Gorbachev, 54, the new Soviet Communist Party chairman and successor to Konstantin U. Chernenko, who died Sunday.

In an official message of condolence, the president told the Soviets, "At this solemn time, I wish to reiterate the strong desire of the American people for world peace. Although the problems which divide our countries are many and complex, we can and must resolve our differences through dialogue and negotiation."

Reagan passed up an opportunity to meet Gorbachev following Chernenko's funeral, scheduled for Wednesday, by tapping Vice President George Bush to head the official U.S. delegation to Moscow. Bush performed the same job at the deaths of former Soviet leaders Leonid I. Brezhnev in 1982 and Yuri V. Andropov in 1984.

Other delegation members are Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Arthur Hartman, U.S. ambassador to Moscow.

The president made a five-minute visit to the Soviet Embassy in Washington on Monday to sign a book of condolence, which had been placed on a table in front of a picture of Chernenko draped with black crepe.

Earlier, answering questions from regional editors and broadcasters assembled in the State Dining Room, Reagan expressed pleasure that U.S.-Soviet arms talks were opening on schedule today in Geneva.

Asked if he were anxious to meet with Gorbachev, Reagan replied, "Very much so. And I was with the previous three, also."

Reagan added, "You have to wait ... a new man has to get in place and establish his regime and then I'll be more than ready. Because I think there's a great suspicion between the two countries."

However, White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said, "Nothing has changed from the president's criterion for meeting with the Soviet leader — that being a meeting that would be well prepared with a sufficient agenda for some discussions." In the past, U.S. officials also have said a meeting would have to hold the prospect of tangible results.

Bush was heading to Moscow from Geneva, where he had delivered a speech. Shultz flew from Washington.

Speakes and other officials had suggested that Reagan, himself, might go, but the president appeared against that from the start.

"As of 4 o'clock this morning, I started thinking about it after the phone call came," said the president, who was awakened early Monday with news that a major announcement was imminent in Moscow.

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate State Affairs Committee has approved doubling the size of the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission but drew the line at drawing geographic districts.

The Monday vote was 7-5, barely enouh to send it to the floor for debate.

A subcommittee report proposed enlarging the present three-member body to six members, each getting $15,000.

Prisoners go on rampage, four hurt

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — About 80 inmates went on a rampage at the Idaho State Penitentiary on Monday in a two-hour disturbance that left four officers slightly injured, officials said.

The disturbance ended at 6:15 p.m. when tactical officers fired tear gas and stormed the close-custody unit of the 750-inmate facility, said Eugene Larson, the prison's deputy director. No inmates were injured, but the prison sustained up to $100,000 is damages, said Larson.

The trouble started around 4:15 p.m. when the close-security inmates, upset about a change in hours at the prison commissary, refused to get in their cells for a prisoner count, Larson said.

Classic Paint & Body newest full line body shop in town

Classic Paint and Body, Snyder's newest full-line paint and body shop, can fulfill your every automotive body need, whether that need is cosmetic (such as collision repair) or mechanical (such as electrical window repair, door latch repair, panel alignments, water leak repair, wind noise reduction or window and windshield replacement). The staff at Classic Paint and Body specializes in returning early model automobiles to a sparkling new appearance.

Owner, Joe Dan Jones, has been involved in paint and body work for 8½ years, and has just recently opened his shop for business here in his hometown. He says he is proud to be back serving the Snyder area. During the past 14 years since high school, he has obtained a degree from Texas Tech in Mechanical engineering technology and worked in various engineering capacities for an Oklahoma based oil company.

While in Tulsa, Okla., he became involved in the restoration of antique automobiles after attending the Tulsa Vocational-Technical school, where he got started in the auto body repair work. His painting skills were acquired from a professional antique auto refinisher during his membership in The Early Rods of Tulsa Street Rod Club. Joe Dan explains that a street rod is not necessarily an asphalt burning hot rod, but rather a pre-1948 automobile which has not been modified or altered in any fashion.

Before coming home to Snyder, he was located in southwest Louisiana for three years, working as an operations superintendant in the oil industry. While there, he was an avid member of the Calcasieu Street Rodders Car Club, so you can see that for the past eight years, he has been heavily involved with the type of automobiles which are head turners and show-stoppers.

Steve Lee, Joe Dan's right hand man is also a native of Snyder, and has five years' experience working on all makes of vehicles. Steve has attended many various GM sponsored schools while working for the local Cadillac dealership. His specialty was electronic trouble shooting, installations and repairs.

Together, Joe Dan and Steve would like to help you in any way possible whether it be a complete paint job on your pride and joy, repairing collision damage, or simply replacing trim.

They provide free estimates and insurance claims are always welcome. They are located just east of Howard Gray Motors--up on the hill at 711 25th Street. The phone number there is 573-9381--just ask for Classic.

Arthritis treatment available

ATLANTA (AP) — Many Americans with arthritis endure needless pain, according to the Arthritis Foundation.

Some people think nothing much can be done for their arthritis, so they do not consult a doctor or do not follow the treatment plan prescribed for them by their doctor.

Medication, along with a combination of exercise, joint protection, and rest are frequently part of a total treatment plan for arthritis. These treatments are designed to help control pain and to prevent or delay joint deformity, the foundation says.

POOR MARKS

U.S. students rank lower in math

(Source: Second International Mathematics Study) NEA GRAPHIC

U.S. high-school students scored well below the world average on the recent international math exams. This may be due to U.S. diversity in math teaching: Most countries have standard math courses, while the content of courses here is set locally.

Confirmation vote is delayed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has signaled the State Board of Education that it is unhappy with the board's no-pass, no-play rule for extracurricular activities but the House response is uncertain.

Sen. Bob Glasgow said "hearsay" was that the House would adopt a resolution similar to a Senate resolution that directed the board to change the rule.

The rule states that if a student fails a single course, he or she is ineligible for extracurricular activities, such as sports, for six weeks. The Senate on Thursday said it wanted a weekly review so that eligibility could be quickly restored once a student raised a grade to 70 or above.

The Board of Education said Saturday it would wait and see what the House did, and Speaker Gib Lewis stated Monday, "Let's just say I think the 70 and above pass rule is a good provision of the education bill. I'd like for people to give it a chance."

Lewis commented after the Senate voted 20-11 Monday to postpone for one week the confirmation of members of the Board of Education.

Sen. Ed Howard, who asked for the delay, said, "It wasn't a big thing," but he added that "maybe the fact" that Gov. Mark White's appointments to the board "didn't just go flying out of here this morning will let them (board members) know there may be a little concern on the part of some."

Sen. Hugh Parmer, D-Fort Worth, described the Senate action postponing confirmation as "petulant."

"Sports and band and all those clubs are nice things for kids to be able to do but it is not the purpose of the educational system," said Parmer. "We sent exactly the wrong signal by backing down and passing that resolution the other day."

Glasgow, D-Stephenville, said he thought the no-pass, no-play provision "is abusive on children ... I think it's punitive.

"Even when we put people in the Youth Council (facilities), we have provisions where they get good time, pardon and parole, and they can work themselves out. We passed an education law where regardless of what a kid does he can't redeem himself in any way, and he's just punished for six weeks."

"When you get into the trauma that's been created by this bill, I think it merits some immediate action," said Glasgow. "A high school superintendent told me last week that he thought some kids in his school district were actually suicidal" because of pressure brought on by the provision.

Asked if White should indicate to the board that it should change the rule, Glasgow said "anybody that's running for election next year, I think, needs to be concerned with House Bill 72, because that is the biggest issue I've seen since we tried to tax food in 1972 or 1973."

Actually, the Senate voted 15-14 in 1969 to place food under the state sales tax, but such a statewide storm of protest was raised that the House defeated the proposal 147-0.

White has said he supports the no-pass, no-play rule, but he added that three weeks of ineligibility might be enough.

"Some have suggested as little as a week. That may be too short," White said last week. "That doesn't give the incentive that I think we need. Three weeks might be a better one."

Glasgow was asked if the confirmation of board members would be endangered if the board refused to go along with legislative directions to change the rule, and he replied:

"I'm obviously not going to speak for members of the Senate, but it would cause me some problems with these folks."

Arnold Palmer won his first Masters Tournament title in 1958.

No legal action has been taken

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An attorney for a convicted killer will not try to block his client's execution, scheduled after midnight tonight, a spokeswoman for the lawyer said.

Attorney Peter Torres will comply with a request by convict Stephen Peter Morin's request that no motions be filed to stop the execution, Elonda Navarro, a spokeswoman for Torres, said Monday.

"There will be no legal action taken to get a stay," Ms. Navarro said.

Morin, 37, is scheduled to die by poisonous injection between midnight and dawn Wednesday for the December 1981 murder of Carrie Marie Scott, 21, of San Antonio.

SWC teams miffed over lack of NCAA berths

DALLAS (AP) - Despite their victories during the regular season, Texas A&M and Texas Christian were snubbed when it came to getting picked for the NCAA playoffs and team officials were disappointed.

The Southwest Conference placed five basketball teams in post-season games, but only three in NCAA competition.

Texas Tech, Southern Methodist and Arkansas were invited to the NCAA tournament, while the Texas A&M Aggies were left out despite their 19 victories.

The NIT took the Aggies and Houston, but ignored Texas Christian, which racked up 16 victories, finished fifth in the SWC regular season and made a big splash in the NIT Tournament two years ago by making it all the way into the quarterfinals.

"We're disappointed," said TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth Monday. "I think we're better than some of those teams that got in."

The NIT also took Virginia and Indiana with 15 victories each and UCLA, Louisville, Southwest Louisiana, Houston, Clemson and Cincinnati all with 16 victories.

Texas A&M plays at New Mexico on Tuesday night, while Houston is at Lamar on Friday night.

"We tried hard to get as many of our teams as we could into the field," said TCU Athletic Director Frank Windegger, who is on the NCAA Selection Committee. "A&M needed to get into our (SWC) tournament final because they lost a game to a Division II team and had only one victory against a team in the top 50 (Texas Tech)."

Boston College, the opponent for Texas Tech at 7:07 p.m Friday night in the Midwest Regionals first round at Houston, had only 18 victories, one fewer than the Aggies.

Arkansas, which lost to Texas Tech three times during the season, including a 67-64 Championship Classic finale, will play Iowa on Thursday in Salt Lake City in the Far West Regional. The Razorbacks lost to Iowa 71-52 earlier in the season.

Southern Methodist, losing seven of its last 11 games but finishing with 22 victories, received a bid to play Old Dominion in the Eastern Regional on Thursday at Hartford, Conn.

SMU Coach Dave Bliss said, "We were thrilled to get in. It was a tribute to the schedule we played."

The Mustangs beat North Carolina, which tied for the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season title, and Big Eight Champion Oklahoma.

All-America Team...

McDaniel joins cage elite

NEW YORK (AP) - Xavier McDaniel of Wichita State, who could become the first player to lead Division I players in both scoring and rebounding, already holds a distinction among those selected to The Associated Press' All-America basketball team.

McDaniel, a 6-foot-7 senior, wasn't a unanimous choice in the voting released Monday. All the others were - Georgetown's Patrick Ewing, Oklahoma's Wayman Tisdale, St. John's Chris Mullin and Memphis State's Keith Lee.

Heading into this week's NCAA tournament, McDaniel was tied for the scoring lead with Loyola of Chicago's Alfredrick Hughes. Each has a scoring average of 27.4 points. McDaniel also is averaging 15 rebounds a game.

McDaniel led Wichita State to the Missouri Valley Conference tournament title in an upset over Tulsa, earning the Shockers an automatic NCAA berth. McDaniel has shot 56 percent from the field this season.

"It's a great honor," said McDaniel in Wichita, Kan. "I always got honorable mention wherever I played. But I wouldn't have been disappointed if I didn't make it."

Ewing, Tisdale and Mullin helped the United States win the Olympic gold medal team last summer, an opportunity McDaniel missed when he was passed over on the invitation list. Their teams are top-seeded for the NCAA playoffs along with Michigan.

Ewing, an intimidating 7-foot, 240-pound senior center who no doubt will be the No. 1 choice in the National Basketball Association draft, led the defending NCAA champions to a 30-2 record, including the Big East Conference tournament. He averaged 14.6 points, 9.7 rebounds and blocked 121 shots.

Tisdale, a 6-9 junior center, paced Oklahoma to a 28-5 record this season, including the Big Eight Conference regular season and tournament crowns. Despite being double- and triple-teamed, he averaged 25.5 points on 57 percent field goal shooting and a 10.2 rebound average.

Mullin, a 6-6 senior guard, guided St. John's, the Big East regular season winner, past Georgetown 66-65 last January with his scoring and passing ability.

With a soft left-handed jump shot and accurate foul line proficiency (82 percent this season), he became the Redmen's leading career scorer this season with 2,350 points. He averaged 19.5 points with 52 percent field goal shooting and led the Redmen to a 27-3 record.

Lee became the leading scorer and rebounder in Memphis State history this season. The slender 6-10 senior averaged 20.4 points and 9.6 rebounds in leading the Tigers to the Metro Conference titles, regular season and tournament, with a 27-3 mark.

Len Bias of Maryland, Kenny Walker of Kentucky, Jon Koncak of Southern Methodist, Johnny Dawkins of Duke and Mark Price of Georgia Tech were selected to the second team.

A.C. Green of Oregon State, Roy Tarpley of Michigan, Dwayne "Pearl" Washington of Syracuse, Sam Vincent of Michigan State and Hughes made up the third team.

The All-Americas were chosen by a 10-member panel of AP and newspaper sports writers without regard to position. Players drew five points for a first-team selection, three points for second and one point for third. The individual balloting was not released.

Aggie's Brown exits team before tourney

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Texas A&M University guard Kenny Brown, the Aggies' leading scorer this season, has decided to leave school and quit the post-season tournament-bound basketball team, the school announced today.

Brown, a junior from Memphis, Tenn., who averaged 17.4 points per game and had started all 29 A&M games, told Choach Shelby Metcalf of his decision Monday.

He did not make the trip to Albuquerque, N.M., where A&M opens play in the National Invitational Tournament tonight against New Mexico.

"Kenny Brown just got tired of playing college basketball and have made a decision to leave A&M," Metcalf said. "We wish Kenny all the best."

Brown indicated that he will not transfer but will return to his hometown of Memphis and possibly tryout in a pro basketball camp next season.

Brown is the 10th leading scorer in A&M history with 1,159 points. His 506 points this year tied the eighth best ever for an Aggie.

Tigers blast Central; set for SHS tourney

Snyder's Tigers swept a doubleheader from the San Angelo Bobcats here Monday, extending their winning streak to six games and their record to 7-2.

The Tigers, ranked 10th in the state according to this morning's poll, defeated the 'Cats 11-4 in the afternoon and 8-6 in the nightcap.

Snyder controlled the first game completely as senior Charles Bollinger pitched five innings of no-hit action.

San Angelo got one run across on an error in the second inning, another in the sixth and two more in the seventh.

Bollinger went the distance for the Tigers. He gave up five hits, but only one earned run. He walked one batter and struck out seven.

Snyder scored in almost every inning. Bollinger and Jay Mayo each got four of Snyder's 16 hits for the game.

The Tigers opened book in the first when Bobby Velasquez singled, stole second and came in on a single by Mayo. Jay Parker later singled in Mayo.

Velasquez scored again in the second. He singled and came across on a triple by Bollinger, who later scored on a wild pitch.

In the fourth, Mayo doubled and Bollinger cracked a single to send him home. Then, in the fifth, Cain drove in Willie Greathouse, who had reached base on an error. Cain also scored on an error in the inning.

Mayo and Bollinger both got their third hits in the sixth inning. A sacrifice by Parker moved the runners up, and Greathouse knocked Mayo home. Cain singled to get Bollinger in and Webb scored on a passed ball.

Snyder's final run came in the seventh with Todd Odom walked and came home on another single by Mayo.

In the nightcap, it was San Angelo that took early control. The Bobcats scored a run in the first stanza, three in the third and two in the fourth.

"I was just glad we were going to split with them at that point," said Coach Albert Lewis. "You don't expect to be able to come from behind trailing 6-1 against a 5A team."

But the Tigers did come back. Webb, who had come on in relief of Don Osborn in the fourth inning, set the Bobcats down in order in the fifth, sixth and seventh. Meanwhile, Snyder began mounting its second 16-hit attack of the day.

Snyder had gotten one run in the third when Mayo reached on a fielder's choice and scored on a single by Cain. In the fourth, Snyder loaded the bases on two singles and a walk. Two outs later, Chris Fryar slapped in two runs. Ricky Hunter followed with another two-run hit which left Snyder trailing only 6-5.

Snyder quickly tied the game 6-6 on singles by Bollinger and Webb in the sixth inning.

In the seventh, Michael Carter, running for Fryar, reached third on a bunt by Hunter. Carter raced home on a sacrifice fly by Velasquez, but was caught at the plate. The Tigers were able to keep the threat alive, however, as Hunter made it around to third on the tag-out, and then scored on a double by Mayo. Bollinger later singled to add the final run.

Bollinger came up with seven hits in the two-game series while Mayo had six.

Kenneth Pickering had started on the mound and went one and two-thirds innings before giving way to Osborn.

"Our pitchers were doing a good job but they were walking too many people," said Lewis. "Finally, Webb settled down and kept them quiet for the last three innings."

Webb is now 1-1 for the year. Bollinger is 2-0.

Next action for the Tigers is the Snyder Tournament, which begins here Thursday at Moffett Field. The Tigers are scheduled against Kermit at 7 p.m.

Rozell 'thanks' USFL at NFL yearly meeting

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - National Football League owners, who rarely have anything good to say about the United States Football League, are uttering a few words of thanks at their annual meeting to their 3-year-old rivals.

Because the USFL is losing so much money the NFL is making more.

After a year of complaints that the salary spiral which began when the USFL was created would turn most NFL teams into money-losers by 1986, the NFL on Monday suddenly changed its position. Commissioner Pete Rozelle declared that "way over a majority of the teams were in a profit situation" in 1984 and were likely to remain so in the foreseeable future.

Rozelle gave due credit to the USFL, which a year ago was on a spending spree that saw it sign about a third of the top graduating college seniors and drive up the salaries of the two-thirds nabbed by the NFL. The new league also forced NFL teams to pay more to keep their own free agents, leading to what Rozelle said was a 40 percent increase in costs since 1982.

But this year, after sustaining more than $100 million in losses in its first two seasons, the USFL is sitting on its checkbooks. It has signed just one prime senior - Heisman Trophy winner Doug Flutie for a reported $8.5 million over six years, although Ed Luther, the San Diego Chargers' back-up quarterback, signed with Jacksonville of the USFL last week for a reported $650,000.

"I don't think there will be the kind of bidding for players this year that there was in the past," Rozelle said.

Moreover, NFL general managers here say they expect to pay little more this season for rookies than they did last year. One reason, they point out, is that this year's draft has few standouts at the top, but is relatively deep, meaning that the difference in ability between a first and fifth rounder is less than it has been in the past and the salary scale may reflect it.

Among other developments Monday:

- Rozelle said the league will probably expand to 30 teams from the present 28 in the next few years. But he said it wouldn't be considered until the league knows the fate of a series of bills in Congress on franchise shifts and the USFL's $1.32 billion antitrust suit is resolved.

- The competition committee presented a 66-page report on rules changes to the owners headed by a package to cut down the length of games. But Rozelle acknowledged that they probably won't do as much to increase TV ratings as would more competitive games in prime-time.

SHEPHERD DIES

Steve Earwood, media relations director for the National Hot Rod Association in Gainesville, Fla., said Shepherd was in Ardmore testing his car in preparation for the Gator Nationals, scheduled this weekend in Gainesville.

According to track manager Johnny Laird, Shepherd's car had just passed the finish line when the parachute opened and the right front of the car became airborne.

The car flipped several times, throwing Shepherd from the vehicle, Laird said.

Girls win local golf tournament

Snyder girls shot a 381 here Saturday to win the Snyder Tournament by 20 strokes.

The single-day, 18-hole tournament was held at Snyder Country Club.

Leslie Light shot an 83 to earn co-medalist honors with Abilene Cooper's Michelle Hanack. Cooper did not compete as a team in the tournament.

Andrews, runnerup to Snyder in last year's District 2-4A race, placed second with a 401. Paducah shot a 408 for third, followed by Abilene Wylie with a 458. Others were Big Spring, with a 461 and Andrews No. 2 with a 534.

In addition to Light's score, Xalyn Harris shot a 93, Michelle Holder a 98, Camille Reed a 107 and Angie Lay a 116. Lea Ann Thompson also competed in the tournament, but not on a team. She shot at 100.

Harris' 93 was fifth on the medalist list, behind Penny Truelock and Tricia Staggs of Paducah. Truelock shot an 86; Staggs a 92.

The tournament was the final non-district action for the Lady Tigers, who open 2-4A play in Monahans on March 23.

Lewis happy with ranking

Coach Albert Lewis was surprised, but happy this morning when he learned his Snyder Tigers are ranked No. 10 in the state in the latest Class 4A state baseball poll.

"We'll, our hitting looks like it's starting to come around and when we get one or two more guys hitting well for us, we're going to be tough," Lewis admitted. "We'll have to have at least four pitchers this weekend for the (Snyder) tournament, but when we get into a regular routine, our pitching should be real strong, too."

Andrews had started the season ranked fifth in the state, but the Mustangs are no longer ranked. Whether or not the extra pressure affected Andrews or not, Lewis doesn't think it will bother the Tigers, who have won six straight games.

"We're used to people throwing their best stuff against us anyway," said Lewis, who has never lost a district championship while at the Tigers' helm.

"We're real pleased with the ranking. We're surprised, I don't know why," he laughed. "But we're real pleased."

North Carolina fugitive arrested in Texas

WINNIE, Texas (AP) — A year on the run ended Monday for a North Carolina fugitive who claims he once posed as a nun to escape lawmen while serving a Hawaii prison sentence.

Chambers County sheriff's deputies arrested James Adrian Harper of Greensboro, N.C. about 1:15 a.m. at a truck stop near this Southeast Texas community. Deputies also took Harper's 17-year-old stepson and a 14-year-old Florida girl into custody, but have not filed charges against the teen-agers.

"He told us he's been in and out of jail and correctional institutions since he was 12 years old," said Deputy James Golleher, who arrested Harper after a routine license plate check showed the car he was driving was stolen and used in a North Carolina armed robbery.

Golleher said Harper surrendered peacefully to county lawmen, who later found a .32-caliber pistol in the car's glove compartment. A North Carolina man on March 3 reported the car stolen, while a West Virginia shoe store had reported the pistol stolen, he said.

"Harper said he was tired of [illegible] his boy to end up like him," Golleher said. "He told me that he's wanted in North Carolina and Texas but that he never hurt anyone. He told his stepson to take a good look at his rap sheet (criminal history) and "not to cross the law or he'd end up like me (Harper)."

Justice of the Peace John McAdams said Harper told him that his name was Robert D. Cohee when deputies brought him to the Winnie sub-courthouse for a 1:45 a.m. arraignment.

"He was a real polite, nice fellow," McAdams said. "I read him his rights and he was very cooperative about answering our questions. Of course, everything he told us was a lie."

Golleher said Harper later told deputies his real name at the county jail, urging them to check with nationwide criminal warrant and arrest records. "Harper said we'd better put some more paper in the teletype because 'he was wanted all across the country,'" Golleher said.

"We thought he was joking, but his rap sheet came back and it's about seven feet long. Most of the warrants were for robbery, car theft and some were for aggravated assault."

Golleher said the list of warrants naming Harper includes a February felony escape charge from Honolulu.

Chapman Lamb, a Hawaii corrections department spokesman, said Harper, using the name of James D. Carpenter, escaped Feb. 29, 1984 from a Honolulu hospital two days after pleading guilty to two robbery charges.

Lamb said Harper collapsed in a courtroom complaining of chest pains moments after a judge sentenced him to 20 years in prison for the 1982 robbery of a pair of tourists in Waikiki.

Golleher said Harper told him that he disconnected himself from the medical equipment and crawled out a hospital window.

"Harper said he walked to a convent that was nearby and found a nun's habit. He told me that he shaved off his mustache, put on makeup and the habit and took a plane over to the mainland," Golleher said. "He said he watched a lot of television, maybe that's where he got the idea."

Sheriff C.E. "Chuck" Morris said Harper remained in the county jail Monday awaiting extradition to North Carolina on armed robbery and car theft charges stemming from a March 3 incident in Greensboro.

According to a police report furnished by the Greensboro News Record, the car owner Richard Patrick Davidson, 21, of Greensboro, had stopped at a convenience store when a man approached him and repeatedly asked for a ride.

Mattox denies making threats

AUSTIN (AP) — The doubling of tuition for state colleges and universities drew closer to reality after a House committee approved the bill that could increase the fees as early as this autumn.

The House Higher Education Committee on Monday approved a bill introduced by Rep. Wilhelmina Delco which calls for a tuition hike from $4 to $8 per semester hour in 1985-86, to $12 in 1986-87. The bill would provide for $2 annual increases for four years thereafter.

Mrs. Delco's proposal also would increase tuition for out-of-state, foreign, medical and dental students enrolled in state-supported institutions.

"This sets a policy for tuition beyond financial constraints," said Mrs. Delco, D-Austin, chairman of the committee. If made into law, the bill would add $155 million to state revenues.

Student groups from the University of Texas at Austin, Texas A&M University, University of Houston and Texas Southern endorsed Mrs. Delco's bill over one introduced by Rep. Gary Thompson, D-Abilene.

Thompson's bill proposes to raise tuition so it would equal 15 percent of the total cost of education. His bill also would set aside 15 percent of the revenues raised through the increase for scholarships.

Doubling of college tuition said in sight

AUSTIN (AP) — Denying that he ever threatened a Houston law practice, Attorney General Jim Mattox says he assured the firm again and again that he had no intention of hurting its lucrative bond business.

"I ... told them repeatedly that there was no embargo on their bonds and their bonds would be approved," Mattox said during a full day on the witness stand Monday.

Mattox, who is charged with commercial bribery, said he never threatened Wiley Caldwell, chief of the bond division of the Fulbright & Jaworski firm.

"I never did that, so help me God," Mattox said.

Mattox is accused of telling Caldwell that he would withhold his needed approval of the firm's public bonds unless another of its lawyers stopped trying to question Mattox' sister in an oil rights case.

But recalling his series of conversations with Caldwell, Mattox said no threat was made.

"I never told them I was not going to approve their bonds," Mattox said. "I never told them I was going to put them out of the bond business in any way."

Under state law, the attorney general must approve most municipal bonds before they can be sold.

Testifying a month to the day after his trial began, Mattox recounted events leading up to the June 17, 1983, phone call in which Caldwell alleges the threat was made.

Questioned by his defense attorney, Mattox addressed key points raised by prosecution witnesses during nearly four weeks of testimony.

Commercial bribery is a felony, punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

pending further study. College officials say five buildings at WTC need roof work.

During the monthly president's report, Newbury presented an update regarding the recently completed Oil Belt Region V tournament.

Roy Baze, board president, informed the board that Trustee R.C. Patton had resigned from the Scurry County Museum Board. Following past practices, a college trustee has always sat on that board and a replacement will be sought.

A replacement will also be sought for Gary Terrell who had been serving as legal counsel for the college. Terrell is moving to Lubbock and will be closing his local office April 1.

The next regular college board meeting will be April 8.

Trustees attending the meeting were Baze, Dr. Bob Hargrove, Bill Wilson, Jr. and Howard Sterling. Absent were Edwin Parks Jr., Bill Jones and R.C. Patton.

At that time, a new bank building was constructed on the northwest corner of the Snyder square. For 41 years it remained so, until the present building was erected on the northeast corner of the square in 1957. The current facility was enlarged and remodeled in 1979.

For many years the Fuller family maintained controling interest in Snyder National Bank and various family members served as president: W. A. Fuller from 1905 to 1916, P.L. Fuller from 1916 to 1924; M.A. Fuller from 1924-1939; and William Fuller from 1949 to 1953. Other presidents include A.D. Erwin from 1939 to 1949; A.C. Alexander from 1953 to 1957; Roger Mize from 1957 to 1969; and E.W. Schrader from 1970 to 1973.

Roger Mize returned as president of Snyder National Bank in 1973. He also serves as chairman of the board and is the largest single stockholder in the bank today.

At the annual meeting for the bank Feb. 19, the bank's total capital was in excess of $13 million with total assets now figured at more than $98.7 million.

At that same meeting, two new directors were named to the board, E.D. Walton and Bruce Kallemeyn, a bank vice president.

Current SNB officers, in addition to Mize, are Rex Robinson, executive vice president; Cecil Boren, Edna Anderson, Bruce Kallemeyn, Kate Owens and Darryl Calley, vice presidents; Scott Gassiot, cashier; Jannelle Orr and Janie Sullenger, assistant vice presidents; and Nelda Allen and Lana Heffernan, assistant cashiers.

Special activities require special care

While fire is a year-round hazard, different seasons — and different activities — pose different risks.

As fuel prices have risen, more and more Americans are using wood stoves for at least some of their heat during the winter. Here are some safety tips on using a wood-burning stove:

— Make sure that all stove ashes are thoroughly cooled before disposal. Then, dispose of the ashes in a metal container with a tight-fitting lid.

— Always keep children away from wood-burning stoves or any other supplementary heating system.

— Do not dry cloth or clothing by hanging it near a hot stove.

FIRE!

PREVENTION
PROTECTION
ESCAPE

Using a kerosene heater can also be dangerous. The fire can use up the available oxygen in the room and create deadly carbon monoxide fumes. There is also the danger of an accidental fire caused by spilled kerosene coming in contact with a hot surface.

Electric heaters pose their own problems. Here are some tips on using them:

— Never use an electric heater in a bathroom. Water or dampness can produce a deadly electric shock.

— Check the wiring in your home to make sure that it can handle the extra power needed to operate an electric heater.

— Portable heaters should be kept at least 3 feet away from drapes and other materials that might burn, including your clothes.

A roaring fire can be warm and cozy on a cold winter night. But there are some things to watch for when using fireplaces.

— A fireplace requires a good draft to prevent the accumulation of smoke and toxic gases.

— A protective screen should be placed in front of the fireplace to keep sparks from popping out.

— Chimneys should have spark arresters to prevent sparks from touching off fires on wood shingles or in leaves that accumulate in gutters.

— The damper should never be closed while hot ashes remain in the fireplace. This can cause a low-level explosion from heat buildup. A closed damper also prevents deadly carbon monoxide fumes from escaping.

At Christmas time, many fires can be prevented by observing a few safety rules.

— The safest natural tree is one that has been dug up with its roots still embedded in soil. If you choose a cut tree, keep the base of the tree in water and check the water level daily. But artificial trees are much safer.

— Natural trees should be kept no longer than 15 days.

— Lighted candles should never be used to decorate a tree, nor be permitted anywhere near it.

— All electric decorations should be carefully checked each year and always turned off before you go to bed or leave the house unattended.

— Pets should be kept away from trees.

— Metal trees should never be decorated with electric ornaments.

The home barbecue also requires fire safety precautions.

— Loose clothing should never be worn near the barbecue grill.

— Do not add charcoal starter fluid to the fire after it has started.

— Keep the area around the grill free of flammables.

— Trim the limbs of trees near the barbecue area.

— Keep a box of baking soda at hand to smother an out-of-control fire.

— Never use charcoal barbecues in an enclosed space.

Even though a boat is usually surrounded by water, fires can break out on board. Follow these safe boating tips:

— Refuel only in a well-lighted place.

— Prior to refueling, all engines, motors, fans and heating devices should be shut down; all flames extinguished; and all ports, windows, doors and hatches secured.

— Fuel tanks should never be filled to capacity.

— Anything that spills during refueling should be wiped up immediately.

— Fuel should be kept only in approved metal containers with proper caps.

— Sniff the air before starting an inboard engine.

— Inspect bilges for fuel leaks or odors. Bilges should be kept free of combustibles, too.

Anmother recreational activity with special hazards is campaing. Here are some fire safety rules:

— Never use candles or gasoline-pressure lanterns in a tent, and never set up a tent too close to the campfire.

— Always refuel any heat-producing equipment at least 15 feet away from a tent. Store flammable liquids at least 30 feet away.

— Never cook inside a tent.

— Don't hang a bare electric light bulb where it may touch the tent.

— Use tents that are made of flame-resistant material.

— A campfire should always be made in an area that is first cleared of leaves and other debris.

— Don't build a bigger fire than you need.

— When finished with the campfire, drown the flames with water and stir the ashes until you have gray, cold mud.

Residents of mobile homes of any kind should follow the fire prevention and safety measures recommended by the National Fire Data Center.

— Don't cook in a recreational vehicle while it's moving.

— Always fuel stoves or lanterns outside RVs.

— Avoid accumulating and storing combustibles.

— Install at least two smoke detectors in a mobile home, at least one in an RV.

— Prepare a fire escape plan and carry out periodic fire drills.

— Escape windows are critical in mobile homes.

— A portable space heater should not be refueled inside a mobile home.

— Heaters and stoves should be cleaned at least once a year by competent specialists.

— Never overload electrical outlets.

Writers strike to continue one week

LOS ANGELES (AP) — West Coast members of the Writers Guild of America voted today to suspend contract ratification and continue a week-old strike against film and television producers for another week, a union spokesman said.

The announcement followed a [illegible] who began voting at the Hollywood Palladium after East Coast members cast ballots in New York City on Monday night.

"The writers' strike will continue for an additional week," union publicist Joe Sutton said today. "A motion was brought from the floor to delay the vote, and there will be a meeting a week from tonight, and a vote will be taken at that time."

Sutton said he was told of the action by WGA negotiator Alan Mannings.

The results of the vote by 182 guild members on the East Coast had not been released to avoid interfering with the vote on the West Coast, said a union spokeswoman in New York, speaking on condition of [illegible]

Union spokesmen and representatives of the Alliance of Motion Picture and Television Producers had been confident members would approve the tentative agreement reached Friday after nearly 17 hours of bargaining.

Television producers had prepared to resume shooting of the top-rated "Hill Street Blues" and "The Cosby Show," which were left in limbo by the strike, which enters its eighth day today.

Both sides returned to the bargaining table with a federal mediator on Thursday after talks broke off March 1. The old contract expired Feb. 28.

The guild and the alliance refused to release details of the agreement until WGA members voted.

But a union member who would not be identified by name said the guild agreed to accept the producers' terms on the key issue of videocassette percentages. Under those terms, writers will receive a percentage of the producers' gross on sales, instead of a percentage of the much higher distributors' gross.

According to a contract summary obtained by The Associated Press, the tentative pact would provide increases totaling 19.7 percent in writers' fees over three years.

The writers would receive a 6 percent increase, effective March 1, another 6 percent in the second year and a 6½ percent increase in the third year, according to the summary.

Fees for movies longer than two hours and for movies of the week would increase 30 percent over three years, rising by 7.5 percent in the first year, 7 percent in the second year and 13 percent in the third year, according to the summary.

Under the old contract, writers received $14,782 for a half-hour sitcom, which includes the residuals for one rerun. For a two-hour movie, they received $44,566, including a residual for a prime time rerun.

The writers' return would allow networks to go ahead with episodes endangered by the strike.

Administrators are told to take charge

DALLAS (AP) — Secretary of Education William J. Bennett urged a return to the basics and told school administrators to take control of their curricula because the government won't do it for them.

In his first speech to an education group, Bennett on Monday criticized curricula in the nation's schools as having "no coherent design" and as being the product of economic trends, social concerns and college entrance exams.

"The American people can either continue to drift along with a curriculum they did not design — or they can give it some serious thought," he told the annual meeting of the American Association of School Administrators.

"The federal government is not going to do it," he said.

Former Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro also addressed the educators. She said the Reagan administration's proposed cuts in college loan programs are shortsighted and jeopardize the nation's future.

"Nowhere are budget cuts more short-sighted ... than in the field of education," Ms. Ferraro said.

Ms. Ferraro, who taught in the New York City public schools for five years, said a cutback in student loans would create a "two-tiered" educational system in which the very poor will still get assistance and the rich will still be able to pay for their college educations.

The middle-class, she said will suffer the most from the proposed cuts.

"The average American family will be left out in the cold," she said.

Bennett urged a return to the basics: English, history, mathematics and science.

"Teach good time-tested things," he said, "and good, time-tested things will be remembered."

The education secretary told administrators to "bring the public together to start deliberating what we want our children to learn."

"If you don't do it, someone else will," he warned.

Bennett did not discuss some of the more controversial budget cuts proposed by the Reagan administration, which has suggested ending guaranteed college loans to students from families who make $32,500 or more.
