President of New York Life Testifies

TO BUY REAL ESTATE

Declares Desire for Secrecy Caused Absence of Explanation on Records

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—That $235,000 has been paid by the New York Life Insurance company to Andrew A. Hamilton of Albany, that no accounting for this money has been made except by President McCall verbally, and that Hamilton attended the sessions of the legislature at Albany in the interest of the New York Life Insurance company were brought out today by the testimony given by Mr. McCall before the legislative insurance investigating committee. Mr. McCall said various sums making up the $235,000 paid Hamilton had been given him in connection with different real estate deals, but Mr. Hughes after considerable questioning developed the fact that none of the money had been actually applied to such deals. Mr. McCall also said that Mr. Hamilton was not allowed the money to influence any member of the legislature or that he advised such a course. The $235,000, Mr. McCall said, he was sure would be paid by Mr. Hamilton on demand of the New York Life Insurance company. "If not," said Mr. McCall, "I am responsible and I'll pay it." Hamilton received for legal services, it is said, about $100,000 a year from the New York Life Insurance company. On the subject of the New York Life Insurance company's campaign contributions in recent pesidential years, Mr. McCall said they were given for the purpose of defeating the silver platform and for the support of the gold standard rather than the republican party.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance company, was a witness today before the legislative insurance investigating committee.

District Attorney Jerome was an interested spectator at the proceedings today for the first time. He said he expected to make a public statement on the subject of the investigation in a few days. President McCall, after being sworn, said he had been controller of the Equitable before becoming president of the New York company and previously had been superintendent of insurance at Albany.

Drew Checks Almost Daily.

He said it was true he had drawn checks on the New York Life Insurance company's account without the approval of the finance committee. He said this was almost a daily occurrence.

He knew Andrew Hamilton for ten years. Hamilton was not a relative of his, he added. Mr. McCall said he himself was sole judge what checks should be drawn without authorization.

Taking up the $100,000 in checks sent to Albany, Mr. McCall said he gave them to Hamilton. He said in 1903 the company determined to buy a block in the rear of the home office in this city. He sent for a real estate agent to take up the subject quietly, that the New York Life Insurance company should not be known in the transaction. In December, 1903, the real estate man reported he thought the block could be procured for $1,100,000, and 15 per cent of this should be available quickly.

Says Money Was for Real Estate.

"I told him," said Mr. McCall, "that I would put him in touch with Judge Hamilton and pursuant to that I ordered the two checks in question drawn. The vouchers show what they were drawn for." He procured two vouchers and identified them. One was a comptroller's warrant and the other Mr. Hamilton's receipt. The words "for temporary use" were on one of the vouchers. Mr. McCall said this meant the money was to be used for the purpose directed and reported back to the board. He said the $100,000 had been accounted for by Mr. Hamilton.

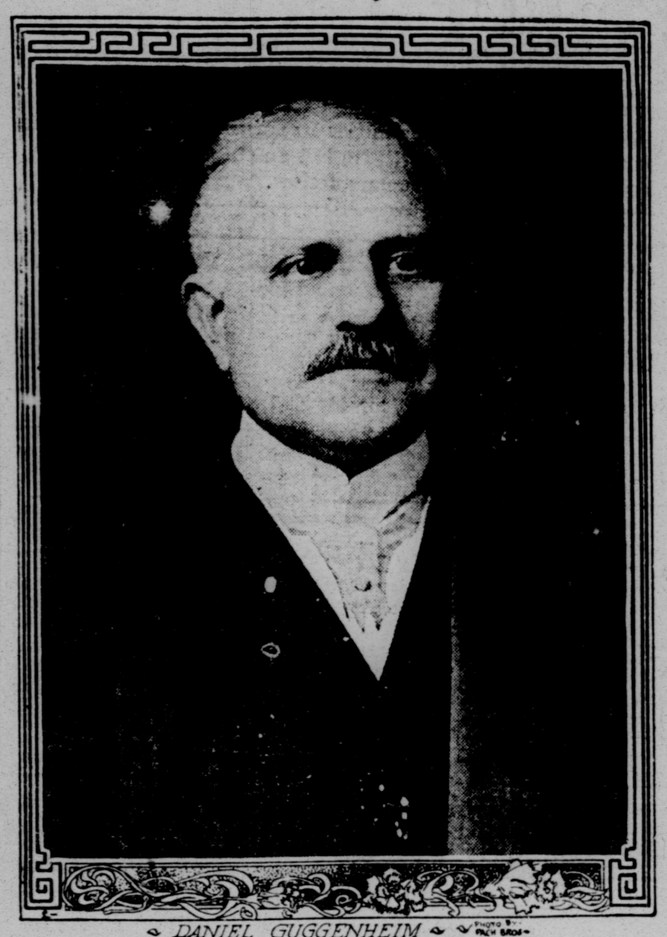
Newly Elected Head of Smelters' Trust



DANIEL GUGGENHEIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—In addition to increasing the dividend on the common stock to a 7 per cent basis the directors of the American Smelting and Refining Company in the first meeting of the new board last Thursday, elected Daniel Guggenheim president of the company, to succeed the late Edward W. Nash. The chairmanship of the board of directors, held by Mr. Guggenheim, was abolished.

Much interest attached to the meeting. The annual meeting was held on Wednesday. Wall street speculators had counted upon an increase in the common stock dividend at that time. When no announcement was made bear leaders hammered the stock down 3 points, from 128 to 125. The promised increase came Thursday with the announcement of a rate of 1¾ per cent quarterly on the common stock, whereupon most of Wednesday's loss in price was regained.

The election of Mr. Guggenheim to the presidency of the huge $100,000,000 corporation was well received in the street. As head of the Guggenheim Exploration Company from its inception and also of the American Smelters Securities Company, a $77,000,000 concern, he was regarded as the logical head of the huge aggregation of smelting concerns.

CIRCUS ELEPHANTS HELP MOVE U. S. MAIL

Pachyderm Quartet Pulls the Wagon Out of Mudhole While Crowd Cheers

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—But for the strength and courtesy of four huge elephants, a two-ton batch of mail stuck in the mud at Sixth avenue and Forty-Second street would have missed its train at the Grand Central depot last night.

The trouble began when a large mail wagon loaded to the top swung down Sixth avenue and ventured a sharp turn at the corner where street repairs had left a strip of soft earth, turned to sticky mud by recent rains. A new driver, employed in place of a striker, was on the wagon and was accompanied by a policeman. He urged the horses into the trap and the wheels sank to their hubs. A crowd gathered and broke three heavy ropes in their efforts to help the horses.

Then the policeman had a happy thought. He sent a messenger to an amusement house near by and asked for the services of the performing elephants. Four were hurried to the scene in charge of their keepers. They were harnessed to the sides of the wagon and jerked it out of the mud with indescribable ease while the crowd cheered.

Earlier in the evening a crowded Madison avenue electric car crashed into a large mail wagon at Fifteenth street and Union Square, overturning the vehicle. The strike breaking driver and a policeman by whom he was accompanied were thrown into the street. Both were severely injured. The motorman was arrested.

DALLAS MAN KILLED; NEIGHBOR ARRESTED

T. W. Habel, Prominent in Union Labor Work, Fatally Shot While at Work in Garden

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 20.—F. W. Habel, 47 years of age, living at 374 Thomas avenue, this city, was shot and killed shortly after 6 o'clock last night. Charles Carroll, aged 59 years, living at 110 Hugo street, surrendered to the officers and was placed in the county jail.

Habel was in his back yard raking the ground to plant a turnip patch and Carroll was in his back yard adjoining when the shooting occurred. The two men had had some words over a dispute between the families, but neighbors who witnessed the dispute thought the difficulty had blown over and had turned away.

When seen at the county jail last night Carroll refused to make any statement regarding the affair. He had a flesh wound over his right eye, which he claimed was caused by a piece of crockery thrown at him.

Habel was a member of the Painters' Union and of the Woodmen of the World. He was prominent in labor circles. He leaves a widow and six children, the youngest barely 1 year old.

Carroll's family consists of a wife and one child, about 3 years old. He has for a number of years been engaged in the restaurant business.

HILLSBORO, Texas, Sept. 19.—The first arrangements for laying the cornerstone for the first brick church to be built in Hillsboro have been completed and will take place next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock with appropriate ceremonies. The church is being built by the congregation of the First Baptist church on their new corner lot on East Franklin street and will be a handsome structure, costing about thirteen thousand dollars. The building is now a good deal above its foundation and will be pushed rapidly until its completion.

FOUR TRAINS CRASH TWENTY-FIVE HURT

One Man Reported Dead as a Result of Double Collision in Nevada

RENO, Nev., Sept. 20.—Twenty-five persons at this hour (1:30 a. m.) are reported injured, and one, George Wareman, is dead, as the result of a terrible head-on collision between two freight trains, followed by the rear-end collision on the Southern Pacific road between two passenger trains at a point nine miles west of Beowawe, between 6 and 7 o'clock last (Tuesday) evening.

The wreck, from the reports given out, was caused by one of the engineers on the freight trains running past his orders. An effort was made to stop the incoming passenger trains with success for the first section of No. 3, though a moment later the second section, said to be in charge of Engineer Ross and Fireman Tinville, plunged full speed into the first section.

The engineer and fireman are reported among those injured, though this is not positively confirmed. Many more deaths are expected when complete details are in. Physicians, nurses and supplies in addition to three wrecking trains are now either at the scene or rushing to it to render aid to the suffering. The officers at Sparks will not give out any definite details. The railroad has just started a special train said to contain four badly injured passengers for the railroad hospital at San Francisco.

CHOLERA IS CHECKED

German Government Announces Victory Over Disease

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The German government has declared that the cholera epidemic has been checked. Ambassador Meyer cabled the state department yesterday from Berlin as follows: "It is announced officially by the German government that cholera has been checked and that any epidemic is entirely unlikely."

This statement will be communicated to the department of public health and marine hospital service in order that it may modify, if it seems fit, the restrictions which it has been obliged to impose upon immigration through the German ports.

MONEY WAS PAID WITHOUT ORDERS

Paul Morton Reports on Equitable Loans

REPAYMENT DEMANDED

Mercantile Trust Co. Said to Have Received $718,264 of Insurance Funds

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—That the Equitable Life Assurance Society paid out $218,264 to the Mercantile Trust Company in connection with certain loans known as the "Turner loans," and that these payments were without authority, so far as the records of the society disclose, became known yesterday when Paul Morton, president of the society, made public a report on the subject submitted by him to the society's directors. These transactions occurred in what Mr. Morton refers to as the "Turner loans."

This loan, Mr. Morton's report sets forth, was carried in 1894 by the Western National Bank, which was controlled by the Equitable Life Assurance Society. The collateral for the loans was objected to by the bank cashier, and Henry B. Hyde then agreed to transfer the loan and collateral to the Mercantile Trust Company, at that time apparently the loans amounting to $661,491. George V. Turner, in whose name the loan stood, was secretary to Louis Fitzgerald, then president of the Mercantile Trust Company, and a close business associate of Henry B. Hyde. The loan was guaranteed by Marcellus Hartley, John B. Searles, Louis Fitzgerald, W. N. Coler Jr. and H. B. Hyde.

On March 21, 1895, the same guarantors renewed their guaranty, the loan having grown to $1,276,478, the increase being due to attempts to develop the property on which the collateral for the loan was made. Part of this collateral was given by John W. Young and consisted of Salt Lake and Eastern railway stock and other Salt Lake stocks. This collateral proved to be of little value. Other collateral consisted of contracts of the Kentucky Mineral and Timber Company and the Amity Land and Irrigation Company of Colorado. Attempts were made to develop the Kentucky property and the Colorado property, and large sums were expended for that purpose, and on July 1, 1903, the cost of the Kentucky property stood at $619,067 and the Colorado property at $2,809,638.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society paid the Mercantile Trust Company $216,618 on these loans on Jan. 23, 1900, and $500,000 on Feb. 4, 1904.

No Authority for Payment

"The records of the society," said Mr. Morton, "disclose no authority whatever for these payments, and the cash entries in respect to them were very obscure."

Mr. Morton also sets forth that on Feb. 1, 1900, the executive committee of the Equitable Life Assurance Society passed a resolution authorizing the president to convey the individual guarantors of the Turner loans the assurances of the society for their protection. On Feb. 14, 1900, the president of the society, Mr. Alexander, made a statement that those loans were made in the interest of the society and assured the guarantors that the society would see that the amounts the company loaned would be repaid with interest.

Mr. Morton referred the matter to special counsel, who have assured him that the Equitable Life Assurance Society is not responsible for the loans. Mr. Morton has also notified the Mercantile Trust Company that he will expect it to repay the $718,264 paid it by the Equitable Life Assurance Socicy. Mr. Morton found that $265,000 was paid by the Equitable Life Assurance Society to the Mercantile Trust Company on the $685,000 loan, the nature of which loan has never been explained.

Counsel have been instructed to begin proceedings or the return of this sum. This loan was carried on an account known as the "K. W. A. No. 3" account.

Mr. Morton also reported to the directors that it would be necessary to charge off $86,488, the unpaid balance of a loan to John E. Searles, who has gone through bankruptcy. The collateral against this $86,488, Mr. Morton declared, is without value.

At the conclusion of his report Mr. Morton stated: "In case any other transactions of this character are developed you will be duly advised."

Mr. Morton found that the Turner loans were made by the Western National Bank before the Equitable Life Assurance Society became interested in the bank. The originals were as follows:

To John W. Young $113,055 on collateral consisting of Salt Lake and Fort Douglass Railroad Company bonds and stocks, Salt Lake and Eastern Railway Company stock, Salt Lake Dock Company stock and Deming, Sierra Madre and Pacific Railway Company stock.

To the Kentucky Mineral and Timber Company $258,394, the collateral being contracts for the purchase of certain lands in southeastern Kentucky.

To the Amity Land and Irrigation Company $264,599, the collateral representing a controlling interest in certain irrigation ditches in Prowers county, Col.

To the total of $636,048 was added interest of $24,444, making the total $661,491.

Value Is Doubtful

Mr. Morton says: "I have been unable to form a definite opinion as to the value of the properties by which the 'Turner loans' are secured. They certainly have substantial value and the officers of the Mercantile Trust Company are sanguine that they will ultimately produce sufficient money for the liquidation of the loans, in any event, the individual guarantors of the loans, including the estate of Henry B. Hyde and Marcellus Hartley, are amply responsible and the trust company by enforcing its rights against them should be able to escape ultimate loss on the loans."

DOCTORS HUNTING FOR YELLOW FEVER GERM

Work of Bacteriologists in New Orleans Watched With Intense Interest

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 20.—Investigations with a view to the discovery of the germ of yellow fever stil lcontinue at the Emergency hospital and the deepest interest is now displayed by the medical fraternity in the work of the local bacteriologists and Dr. Rosenau.

Within the past week eight autopsies have been held at the hospital in connection with investigations, the results of which are to be published when the fever is over.

Generally the fever situation is regarded as encouraging, both in the country and in the city. In the country there are a large number of cases, but now experienced yellow fever fighters are in charge at each point of infection. The fever is practically wiped out at Leeville, where it was worse than any other point in the state. Nearly everybody who remained in town has been sick. The people of Kentwood, La., are in great distress and appealing for relief. Owing to the discovery of two cases in a lumber camp near there Governor Vardaman and the Mississippi authorities will not permit trains to enter Mississippi if they stop at Kentwood. The trains, therefore, are not stopping there and the people are suffering for mail, express matter and supplies. Appeals have been made to Governor Blanchard and the railroad commission.

Dr. Chassaignac wires from Tallulah that many cases are being discharged as cured. The sickness there is more general among negroes than among whites now. All of yesterday's cases were negroes.

Baton Rouge has been able to secure the relief she asked for. The quarantine imposed by the parish has been removed. Planters now will be able to save their crops, which were suffering for want of labor. The steamer Hayne, which left here some days ago, was refused permission to land at settlements on Ouichita river in Concordia parish, Health Officer Reeves fearing the roustabouts might get ashore and spread the fever. Concordia has not accepted the mosquito theory. A meeting of Southern Cypress Manufacturers' Association, scheduled here for Oct. 11, has been postponed until Nov. 22, when it is expected all quarantines will have been lifted.

FIRE IN POOR HOUSE

Hill County Paupers' Quarters Destroyed by Flames

Special to The Telegram.

HILLSBORO, Texas, Sept. 20.—The paupers' quarters on the county farm, consisting of about eight apartments, besides the dining room and kitchen, were entirely consumed by fire yesterday. The rooms were in a row extending east and west and the fire started in the central part, the cause being unknown.

The entire working force on the farm was employed in the effort to suppress the conflagration, but without success, and but for the heavy rain fall of an hour previous, which had thoroughly dampened everything, all the buildings on the farm would probably have been destroyed.

There were about fifteen paupers in the structure that burned, and it was with great difficulty and considerable personal risk that Superintendent Mathews succeeded in rescuing all the inmates. The county had no insurance on the property.

CHARTER IS FILED FOR MINERAL WELLS LINE

Has Capital Stock of $250,000

OFFICES IN FORT WORTH

Cicero Smith and Other Capitalists Are Back of the Project

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 20—Articles of incorporation of the Fort Worth and Mineral Wells Electric Railway Company were filed here today.

The company, according to the articles, has a capital stock of $250,000 and will have offices in Fort Worth and Mineral Wells.

The articles further provide for the construction of an electric road between Fort Worth and Mineral Wells, a distance of fifty-three miles, through Tarrant, Parker and Palo Pinto counties.

The incorporators are Cicero Smith, D. M. Howard, H. N. Frost, E. J. Waldron and Albert Stevenson.

When seen this afternoon Cicero Smith confirmed the Austin report as shown him by a representative of The Telegram. The other gentlemen named as incorporators are all of Mineral Wells.

The route of the line will be through Springtown, Pooleville and Whit. Means of entrance into this city has not been decided upon.

Engineers will be put to work within a few weeks, Mr. Smith says, and will map out the course as rapidly as possible. Officers of the company have not yet been elected, but it is understood Mr. Smith will be president.

Cicero Smith is a resident of Mineral Wells, Texas. His business interests have been confined for the most part to the retail lumber business and banking, being connected with two banks at Mineral Wells, one at Whitt, Texas, and a stockholder in the Western National bank of this city. Besides this, Mr. Smith owns valuable real estate and has been connected with prominent business ventures over North Texas for a number of years past.

The fortune controlled by Mr. Smith is reputed to be from $500,000 to $750,000.

BROKERS ARRESTED ON LARCENY CHARGE

Houston, Galveston and Interurban Company Among the Prosecutors of New York Firm

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Charged with the larceny of $1,800 from the Houston, Galveston and Interurban Railroad Company and with a total larceny of about $23,000 from various other corporations, Charles Augustus Seton and Harrison H. McEniney, composing the firm of Augustus Seton & Co., dealers in stocks and bonds, at No. 43 Wall street, were arrested yesterday. Seton, according to the police, has been arrested before, his picture being in the rogues' gallery in this city and in Cleveland, Ohio. The concern, according to the police, was in the habit of writing to newly incorporated concerns offering to finance their enterprises in New York.

In the summer of 1904 W. B. Slosson, a director of the Houston, Galveston and Interurban Railroad Company, came to New York in response to such a letter and is alleged to have paid Seton $3,500 to cover the cost of engraving $3,000,000 worth of bonds. The bonds were never delivered and recently J. M. Coleman, an attorney of Houston, came here to investigate, and, at the suggestion of the district attorney's office, caused the arrest of Seton and McElhiney.

The prisoners were also accused by O. K. Bencke, representing the Fox River Railroad of Manitowoc, Wis., with the larceny of $13,500 paid in 1902 to secure a loan of $2,200,000, and by J. McKinsie of the Manitowoc Power Company with the larceny of $5,500, paid last April in consideration of an agreement to finance the company.

MAYOR WEAVER'S NAME SIGNAL FOR CHEERS

Reform Party of Philadelphia Holds County Nominating Convention

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 20.—The city party, a reform organization, held its county convention today in the Academy of Music for the purpose of nominating candidates for sheriff, coroner and two county commissioners in opposition to the republican nominees announced last Saturday. The nominees named by the convention, it is announced, will be indorsed by the democratic county convention to be held tonight. More than 900 regularly elected delegates were in attendance. No slate had been agreed upon, and only one ward delegation was under instructions.

The convention was called to order by Franklin Edwards, chairman of the city committee of the party. In opening the convention, City Chairman Edwards said in part:

"A band of men have made our fair city ashamed in the face of the world. The government of the city brought a blush of shame to every honest citizen. We stand here to redeem the city of Philadelphia.

"We proclaim the reign of graft in the city of Philadelphia shall cease. I wish to offer a tribute of thanks to John Weaver, mayor of Philadelphia (prolonged cheers), who has done more than any individual to give the people of Philadelphia an opportunity to win their freedom."

INSURANCE OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH FRAUD

Allegations Made in Suit for Receiver and Accounting Against Western Life Indemnity Co.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Charges of fraud by a misapplication of trust funds and attempts to transfer assets to another concern are made in a suit for receiver and accounting filed yesterday against present and former officials of the Western Life Insurance Indemnity Company, an assessment insurance company. I. I. Rosenfeld and W. H. Gray, the latter being the organizer of the association, are prominently mentioned in the bill in connection with alleged fraudulent voting of funds to themselves.

The bill was filed in the United States circuit court by Attorney S. Levinson, representing a number of policy holders. Later Attorney Levinson went before Judge Bethea on a motion for the issuance of a restraining order stopping a meeting of officials of the company to be held Thursday. The motion met with resistance by the defendants.

Gray is alleged to have secured proxies from the thousands of members and thus controlled the directors. By securing this control it is alleged Gray had voted himself the right by contract to draw $1 for each $1,000 in insurance issued. This was done in secret and, although the complaining policy holders recently learned of it, they refused information by Rosenfeld, Gray and others. Besides this many thousands of dollars claimed to have been misappropriated, it is declared that Gray and his associates took many thousands of dollars from the concern without the knowledge of the policy holders.

Each of the defendants is a resident of Lincoln, Neb. The defendant company is the successor of the Knights Templars and Mason Life Indemnity Company, organized in 1884, and has more than $20,000,000 in policies outstanding.

MUST SERVE OUT TERM

Henry Hardy to Be Brought Back to United States

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—A New York state detective will sail for Germany within a few days to bring back to this country Henry F. Hardy, who, for the last thirteen years, has been the inmate of German prisons. Hardy is to be brought back to serve an unexpired term of twelve years in the Clinton prison from which he escaped in 1890. He is declared to be one of the most clever bank thieves ever known in this country. After his escape he is alleged to have robbed two Canadian banks of $7,000 and was next heard of in Germany, living the life of an "American millionaire," as he was called at a fashionable hotel in Frankfort-on-Main. A Baden-Baden banker recognized him as a man who had stolen from his bank cash to the amount of $24,000. He was at once imprisoned by the German authorities and his time is now expiring. Since Hardy has learned that he would be brought back he has written letters to the state superintendent of prisons asking that he be allowed to remain in Germany. The authorities have refused to consider his petition.

Messenger Boys Strike

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 20.—A strike among the Western Union messenger boys was on Tuesday from 1 o'clock until 6 o'clock in the afternoon, about fifteen boys going out. They demanded an increase from 1½c to 2c for each message, which was refused. During the afternoon they kept a lookout about the office to prevent other boys taking their places.

W. B. Kendall, chief clerk in the local office of the Western Union, stated last night that the boys had agreed to return to work at the same rate of pay and that, with one exception, all would be reinstated.

HANLY OF INDIANA A GOVERNOR WHO GOVERNS

Exposed His Personal Friend Because of His Duty to the People

Staff Special to The Telegram.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 20.—"The law of Indiana was violated by the auditor of state. David Sherrick, the incumbent, has for years been my personal friend. But if my own brother had been auditor, my action would have been the same. If the time ever comes when my personal friendships or

GOV. J. FRANK HANLY.

J. Frank Hanly was born at St. Joseph, Ill., April 4, 1863. He was given a common school education. Taught school nine years in Warren county, Indiana. Was admitted to the bar in 1889; practiced at Williamsport, Ind. Elected to state senate in 1890, congress in 1894. Candidate for U. S. senate in 1899. Removed to Lafayette, Ind., in 1896 and formed law partnership with Senator Will R. Wood. Was elected governor of Indiana in the fall of 1904.

interests are to stand in the way of my doing my full duty by the people who have honored me by voting me into the highest office in their power, then I will be ready to relinquish the governorship.

That sentiment, spoken in the office of the republican governor of Indiana by J. Frank Hanly, is typical of the man and his character.

His action in compelling Auditor Sherrick's resignation, and publishing to the world that official's inability to make good the state funds intrusted to his keeping, has met with a great wave of condemnation from "old guard" republicans.

Hanly knew, as well as anyone, David Sherrick's popularity. He knew of his own knowledge, because for many years they had been friends.

But "the law of the state of Indiana had been violated; and though it was like hitting my own brother a death blow, I had to do my duty—it mattered not whether it meant Sherrick's ruin and mine, too—I have been put here to enforce the law, and enforce the law I shall."

"Even in the best regulated families, you have to clean house once in awhile," added the governor. "And I am determined that this house shall be cleaned, no matter whom it hurts, and kept clean while I am governor. I guess at that there are a good many folks that wish I would govern a little less and sleep a little more.

"They say I ought to have waited on Sherrick a while longer; that in twenty-four hours more he would have made good what he owed the state," continued the governor.

"But ten days before I acted he promised to square the matter and did not, and when I saw the list of securities he had, I was confident he could never realize on them. Of course, his friends might have come to his aid, but that would not have exonerated him. He had invested the money of the state in wild-cat speculation, oil and mining stocks, and personal securities of doubtful value. He had disobeyed the law, and even if he had turned over every cent he owed, I was determined he should no longer hold the office."

And how will the wrecked auditor's office be rebuilt?

"I sent for Warren Bigler of Wabash, an old-time friend of undoubted character and responsibility," said the governor. "I told him there were times when the call of duty must be obeyed by every right-minded citizen. I told him the circumstances. I said, 'I want you to take this office for the unexpired term and I want you to promise that you won't be a candidate at the next election. I want your whole mind free to clean up this office and run it solely in the interests of the people. You can't do that if you begin pulling wires for the next nomination. But you must "clean house," find out exactly how matters stand, and if there is anything else crooked we must make it straight, and the guilty must be punished.' And Bigler promised, and I am certain that there will be a clean administration of the auditor's office during his term."

Asks Managers to Wait

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 20.—President Kavanaugh of the Southern league has sent out a bulletin to all managers in the league requesting them not to sign any players for next season at present. Judge Kavanaugh when asked the meaning of this, said:

"It is to keep managers from engaging players with high salaries beyond the ability of the clubs to pay and be self-sustaining. We want the managers to wait until they can get together and agree on a satisfactory salary list. All we want is for all the clubs to be on a self-sustaining basis. We do not care about them making money. We do want them to pay their way, and last season only two clubs did that. With a salary limit binding on all, the clubs will be more nearly equal, there will be more interest in the game and it will be self-sustaining."

"I want to put an ad in your paper," said the weary-looking man. "Make it: Wanted, a situation; any old job.' " "Shall I say 'money no object?' " suggested the clerk. "No; make it 'object matrimony.' If I could get acquainted with a decent job I'd be willing to marry it for life."—Philadelphia Press.

HYMAN SEEN HERE DURING PAST WEEK

He Frequently Carried Large Sums of Money Which He Handled Openly

Through communication with the authorities at Prescott, Ariz., it is learned the Joseph Hyman, the aged man who disappeared from Fort Worth about two weeks ago, has two nephews in that city who are engaged in business there and that one of these left for Fort Worth about Sept. 12 to visit his uncle for the purpose of inducing him, if possible, to take treatment for rheumatism.

M. Alexander of Sixth and Main streets said today that he saw and talked to Hyman during the past week.

"He was in my store," said Mr. Alexander, "and said that one of his nephews was on the way here from Prescott to see him.

"Hyman is reported to be worth more than $100,000. As to the truth of this, I am unable to state positively, but I have seen him walking around the streets with large sums in currency on his person. At one time some months ago I recall that he was in my store and, in paying for a small purchase, pulled out a roll of bills that must have had several thousand dollars in it. I cautioned him, suggesting that he make a deposit of the money, but he was of a very peculiar disposition and looked upon such advice as meddlesome and interfering.

"He has been in Fort Worth for about six months. I understand that he is well-known in El Paso and that he is probably interested in some business venture there. He was in this city for his health."

Joseph Hyman was about 5 feet tall and had a gray moustache. Gray hair and feebleness made him look even older than his age, 62 years.

It is now thought that he left here, meeting his nephew in El Paso and either returned with the nephew to Prescott or went to some health resort.

Similar Case Unsolved

The case of the disappearance of Hyman recalls a similar case which was reported in The Telegram of March 29. At that time the passenger department of the Rock Island railroad received a communication from the wife of J. Richard Stith, who lived at Ayers Cliff, Hamstead county, Quebec, inquiring for her husband through the railroad authorities.

Stith was about 70 years of age and had lived with his wife near Rendon, Tarrant county, for two years. In the latter part of November, 1904, the farm upon which they lived was sold and Mrs. Stith left for Canada, expecting that her husband would follow her there, after certain business matters had been wound up here.

It was learned that he finished his business transactions in Fort Worth, buying a ticket for Chicago on Feb. 13, 1905, having about $1,200 in cash on his person. Since that date he has not been seen by any of his relatives, so far as the railroad has been notified. His baggage was checked through to Chicago and later was secured from the railroad, but by whom could not be ascertained. Fears of foul play were expressed by members of the family.

AUSTIN DAM SITE BEING INVESTIGATED

Stone and Webster Send Engineer to Austin to Look Over Prospects

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 20.—Engineer George B. Evans, who came here to examine the dam property for an eastern syndicate, will remain several days pending the return of Dr. T. U. Taylor of the State university, who has made a special study of the dam, the formation of the foundation, water flow, etc., all being important to Mr. Evans in his report to be made.

Stone & Webster of Boston Mass., sent Mr. Evans to Austin, they having become interested in replacing the dam under the new city charter. Roughly speaking, the proposition is to lease the dam and municipal water, light and power plant for fifty years to some syndicate, which will rebuild the dam, assume the dam bonds falling due in that time, about $1,250,000, and at the end of that period the city to take over the dam, paying just what was expended on it. The syndicate is to have all revenues from the plant during the lease period, and it is to be operated under a system of maximum rates to be agreed upon between the lessees and city council. The citizens generally also insist that the banks of the lake shall be free for everybody and boats permitted to ply the waters without cost.

Mr. Evans, of course, declines to make any statement, except that he will do so upon returning to Boston to Stone & Webster. The latter syndicate is well known in Texas, as it controls the street car lines in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and El Paso and has recently acquired the Interurban between Dallas and Fort Worth. It has a number of electrical, waterworks and street railway plants throughout the United States.

A telegram received at the state department today announcing the arrest, says, The "Carmencita" had been refitted under the name of "Acaulpo" of alleged Mexican registry and with a crew made up of men said to be as "choice a band of robbers and cut throats as has manned a private craft since the days of Captain Kidd."

MISS ALICE RIDES IN YELLOW CHARIOT

Korean Royal Equipage Placed at Disposal of President's Daughter

SEOUL, Sept. 20.—Through streets crowded with white-robed Koreans and lined by the corporal body guard, standing at present arms, Miss Alice Roosevelt, riding in the imperial yellow palanquin, yesterday evening triumphantly passed from the railroad station to the American legation. The roadways had been freshly paved and the shops draped with Korean and hastily hand-painted American flags.

Miss Roosevelt, Rear Admiral Train, Senator and Mrs. Newlands, Misses Boardman and McMillan and Congressmen Longworth and Gillette arrive at Chemulpo this afternoon. American Minister Morgan and staff and a number of high Koreans greeted the party, which proceeded to Seoul by special train.

The imperial car, which is only furnished to royalty, was placed at Miss Roosevelt's disposal.

The court chamberlain met the party at a half-way station on behalf of the emperor, with inquiries as to Miss Roosevelt's health. On arrival at Seoul the party was hailed by a Korean band which played the "Star Spangled Banner." Korean policemen and Japanese gendarmes guarded the roadway, and grotesguely-clad retainers bore lanterns. The passage of the party along the streets was everywhere heralded by the bugles of troops.

Miss Roosevelt and Mrs. Newlands are guests of the American minister, and the rest of the party are staying at the imperial palace.

TOWNSITE FIGHT CAUSES EXCITEMENT

Citizens of Cornish, I. T., Divided Into Factions—District Attorney as Peacemaker

ARDMORE, I. T., Sept. 20.—Cornish, an inland town, thirty miles west of here, is the scene of considerable excitement over a townsite fight. Postmaster Clowdus and others moved the postoffice from the townsite some weeks ago. Judge Dickerson ordered the office returned, but the postmaster complied with the order only in part. The office was moved just across the line inside the corporation, but very inconvenient to the patrons. Information reached here today that Postmaster Clowdus had been removed by the department and he and others, concerned in the removal, were summoned to Chickasha to appear for trial tomorrow on a charge of contempt of court. There are two republican clubs in the town, the McKinley club and the Roosevelt Republican club, and both have made endorsements for a successor to Mr. Clowdus. Only one of the clubs will be recognized by the republican executive committee and the one recognized will probably receive the endorsement of the party organization, which practically means appointment.

District Attorney Johnson and other officials went to the scene of the trouble today. Mr. Johnson broke up a fight there in which four men were engaged and turned two of the participants over to the town authorities. Four citizens of the town were arrested yesterday for conspiracy and were today admitted to bail in the sum of $300 each. It is alleged they ordered a real estate dealer name Brasington from the town. Mr. Johnson addressed the citizens on good citizenship and urged them to be peaceful.

Morrow, who knew Judge Davidson in Georgetown, accompanied Mrs. Davidson to that place. She stood the trip very well, though owing to her advanced age it is feared that she cannot recover. She is about 80 years old.

COTTON MILLS IN TEXAS

All the coton mills operating in Texas have made good money during the past year, in spite of the fact so generally alleged that cotton manufacturing will not pay in this state. The main reason why cotton mills will not pay in Texas is owing to the fact that there is so few cotton mills in the state. It is humiliating to acknowledge that the greatest cotton producing state in the union has so few of these great manufacturing enterprises, but it is a fact that cannot be denied. Some years ago there were some spasmodic efforts made to encourage the building of cotton mills in Texas, and some bad investments were made in that direction. The mistakes made in that manner have exerted a very bad effect on the situation generally, from the fact that it has afforded opportunity for asserting that such enterprises will not pay. That cotton mills do pay in Texas, however, is attested by the following extract from the Brownwood Bulletin:

It is gratifying to those who have all along urged the building of cotton mills in Texas to be able every time a mill makes a financial statement to say, "I told you so." So far every mill that has been managed with the purpose of making money for its stockholders has done so. It requires no prophetic foresight to predict that with the continued development of Texas the profits will continue to grow larger. This is causing nearly every mill in Texas to double its capacity or at least to largely increase it. The Waxahachie mill has just declared another 10 per cent dividend and passed the remainder of the money on hand to the surplus fund and the directory is so pleased that it will at once largely increase the facilities for doing business and increase the cutput of the mills.

The Waxahachie mill's success within itself would be sufficient to demonstrate the fact that cotton mills propery managed will pay in Texas, but as a matter of fact there are a number of others. It is reported that the Corsicana mill has all of its product sold until some time next summer, and other mills are crowded to their full capacity in order to supply the demand. New England mills are turning in this direction for new locations, in order to get closer to the base of supplies, and the Southern Pacific railway people are doing all possible to locate some of these mills on their line. It is a matter worth an effort from the people of Fort Worth to bring one of these big New England mills to this city, and our Factory Club should promptly take hold of the situation and try to work it through. A communication addressed to T. J. Anderson, general passenger agent of the Suthern Pacific railway, at Houston, would doubtless result in that gentleman placing the Factory Club in touch with mills that are considering the matter of removal, and a big cotton mill would be worth much to Fort Worth at this time.

It is understood that the New England people are asking that one-half the capital stock employed in the business be subscribed in the town in which the mill is located, and a proposition of that kind ought to have easy sailing in Fort Worth, since it is demonstrated that cotton mills can be operated so successfully in this state. The Telegram hopes to see the matter of securing a big cotton mill for Fort Worth put through successfully.

A STUDY FOR DEMOCRATS

The investigation being made into the affairs of the various big eastern insurance companies in New York, affords an interesting study for the democrats of the country, thousands of whom are policyholders in these concerns. The New York Life is a company that has been extensively patronized by the people of democratic Texas, and hundreds of thousands of dollars are sent out of this state annually to swell its coffers and at the same time extend protection to the women and children of this state. The New York Life is presided over by John A. McCall, a man who calls himself a democrat, but who acknowledges that he gave liberally of the New York Life's funds in aid of the election of William McKinley as president of the United States, and to encompass the defeat of William J. Bryan, the democratic nominee. McCall is a fine type of the eastern democrat, who prides himself on his conservatism, and whose idea of party fealty is governed exclusively by a matter of dollars and cents. These eastern democrats so-called are always ready to surrender political convictions in exchange for the jingle of the almighty dollar, and this fact was well illustrated in the last national campaign. They were in complete control of the democratic party, named its candidate and made its platform. Its candidate was a representative eastern democrat, trained in the same school with McCall and others of his ilk, and its platform was a namby-pamby affair gotten up in strict accordance with the views of those people. And yet, John A. McCall, the democratic president of the New York Life, again caused to be given $48,000 of the New York Life's funds to aid in the defeat of the democratic nominee for the presidency, and the election of the republican candidate. Is it any wonder that democrats all over this broad land of ours are justly indignant and are watching the investigation proceedings so eagerly with the hope that some method will be found for punishing this reprehensible action? Is it any wonder that democrats all over the country are protesting against the prostitution of sacred funds for political corruption? Is it not about time that these national elections of ours were taken out of the hands of these self-confessed political debauchees and again placed in the hands of the people? Commenting on the result of this investigation, Judge Alton B. Parker—the man who was defeated in the last election by the treachery of the McCall brand of democracy and the indifference of the real democracy, says:

"Yes, I believe I ought to say, now there is no politics to distract the public attention, that the president of the New York Life was not the only such contributor. The officers of other great life insurance companies, such as the Equitable and the Mutual also contributed from the policyholders' funds for campaign purposes last year.

"What has been proved in the case of the New York Life undoubtedly will be proved in other cases. The facts exist and honest and able counsel, backed by an honest committee, will undoubtedly bring them out for the public good.

"That their acts were unlawful and their purposes corrupt, goes without saying. They intended to have the money used as it was, in corrupting the electorate. Mr. Perkins makes the point that John A. McCall, president of the New York Life, is a democrat. Apparently he would have the public assume that when Mr. McCall unlawfully and wrongfully contributed these funds—the company's share, probably as a member of the underwriting syndicate—it was evidence of political virtue rather than misconduct.

"The truth about it is, and I say it without feeling, but emphatically, that men like McCall have no political convictions that stand in the way of their personal advantage. Such men desire the triumph of the party that will better serve their financial interests and will for contributions past, present and future, continue to protect these men by lenient legislation and by pretense at execution of law which shall tenderly be blind to all their offenses. This party they espouse in the board room and contribute to it of the moneys they hold in trust, and occasionally a little of their own. The underlying principles which divide the great mass of the people into parties, have no effect on such men. Their one inquiry is 'Will the party organization in its hour of triumph remember our generosity and respond to our demands?'"

The fact has been brought out very plainly by this investigation that there is a nest of conspirators in the city of New York who control the politics of this country through the manipulation of gigantic sums of money that have been placed in their hands as a sacred trust by the people of the country who have imagined they were paying their money into these big corporations for the protection of their families. And while they have been making the annual payments on their insurance contracts for this purpose, the money they place in the hands of these people is being used to encompass the defeat of their most cherished objects in striving to bring about political change for the better in the affairs of government. The charges made by Judge Parker have been amply vindicated. The facts brought to light are a complete expose of the political methods of the day, and they are as shameful as they are reprehensible.

The fact that democrats and republicans are working together in this matter of debauching the politics of the country is no justification of the crime that is being perpetrated against the masses. There is no justification for it, and the people should arise in their might and demand that the practice shall cease. Further than that, they should compel it to cease, by placing penitentiary stripes on every man, democrat or republican, who is engaged in the work of debauching the politics of the country.

The unearthing of the scandals in connection with the insurance contributions to the republican national campaign fund, ought to be sufficient to settle the republican party for all time to come in this nation. A party that buys its way into national favor cannot expect to maintain much standing in the estimation of the masses.

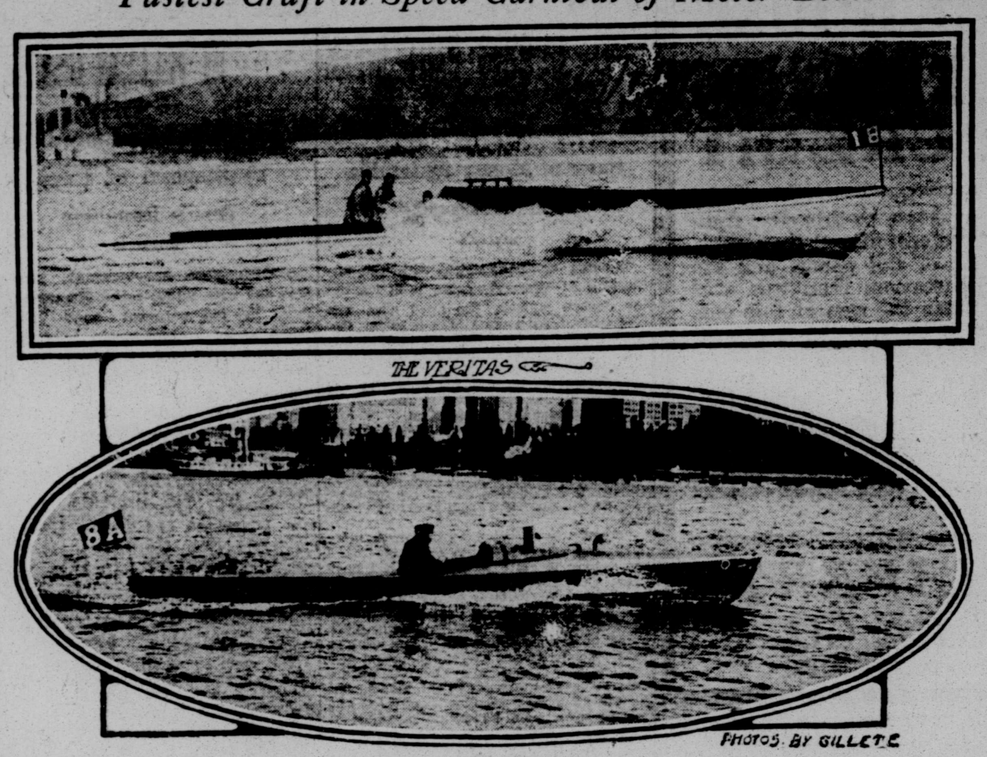
Having arranged the matter of peace with Japan, the czar of Russia has invited the world to a new peace conference at The Hague. It is probable, however, that the czar's peace conference will be looked upon with more or less suspicion in the future.

Eminent New York lawyers express the opinion that insurance officers can be compelled to restore the large sums of company money they have contributed to the republican campaign fund in the past, and policy holders should go after them hard and compel this restitution.

The big Chicago packers seem to be wanting everything else but justice and a speedy trial. They are fighting the indictments strictly on technicalities, and fighting them like grim death.

The federal government seems to have joined in the crusade against the patent medicine men, and is trying to establish the fact that many of their preparations contain too much alcohol.

Fastest Craft in Speed Carnival of Motor Boats



NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Ploughing up the waters of the Hudson, with a furrow of spray towering above the deck and roaring like a Gatling gun in action, the motor boat Veritas on last Thursday traveled thirty miles up and down the river in one hour, twenty-three minutes and twenty-four seconds. It was not a record performance, but it was the best time scored in the opening day's events of the first motor boat speed carnival held under the auspices of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers.

The Veritas, propelled by a 200-horse power Craig engine of eight cylinders and flying the colors of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club, was skillfully handled by her owner, Alexander Stein. Throughout the race for high speeds boats of forty feet length and upward she maintained a pace as consistent as her unbroken roar, leaving the impression among throngs of spectators along the river banks that she is the fastest craft in these waters.

On the handicap the XPDNC, built for the late Frank Croker, and now owned by J. Siegel and G. Gillig of Red Bank, N. J., defeated the Veritas over the route. The latter conceded 14m. 42s. in start to the Red Bank wonder and was beaten by her only 2m. 4s. The XPDNC'S time of 1h. 23m. 24s. was the third best of the day, and it was only lack of horse power that prevented George Gillig from scoring for time as well as for place. A four-cylinder Mercedes engine of seventy-five horse power comprises the battery of the former Croker boat.

CHAPTER XVI.

A Justice of the Peace

But my triumph would be a barren one indeed if I stood there till the devouring flames broke in upon me, and in my extremity I turned to my last resource, the waste water pipe running down past the window. If I could gain the rooms above, there would be no risk of meeting Roger Marske there now, and I might be able to escape through the house before it was fully alight.

With my penknife I cut the cord from the window blind, and, reaching from the window, made a loose slip-knot round the pipe. The other end I fastened to my wrist to give me confidence in my climb. Then, with an unspoken prayer, I clambered out on the sill, and, not daring to look down at the dark waters below, I swung from my foothold to the frail support of the metal tube. It rattled and swayed ominously under the grasp of my fingers and the clutch of my knees, and every instant I feared that it would drag the holdfasts from the decayed mortar, carrying me with it into the oily flood beneath. But I kept on and upwards, thankful that girls have muscle nowadays, and at last I swung myself through the luckily open window of the room from which Roger Marske had tried to shoot me.

The room was full of smoke, warning me, as did the roar of the flames in the lower part of the house, not to try to recover my breath till I was clear of the burning building. Rushing through on to the landing, I found the front stairs burning fiercely, but I discovered a second staircase, little better than a ladder, which brought me to a kitchen, whence an unlocked door gave on to the yard. Hardly knowing how I got there, I eventually staggered out into the lane, just as the flames licked through the front windows, and the Mill House from foundation to roof was illuminated in a lurid glow.

I had no apprehension that Roger Marske would be lurking near the scene of his villainy, but the glare in the sky would assuredly bring some of the nearest dwellers upon the spot before long, and I had no desire to be detained and questioned. The burning of the Mill House and the attempt on my life were minor details of the far graver accusation which I believed myself to be now in a position to bring against Roger Marske, and I wished to lose not a moment in doing so. Arthur's salvation, I was convinced, depended on my striking at the real criminal before the latter learned of my escape, and to achieve that end. I must make myself scarce before the arrival of spectators.

These would come from the hamlet of Chipping Wyvern, and as I should probably be recognized as the person who had inquired for the Mill House, I set off in the opposite direction. It was nearly dark, my watch telling me that it was just 9 o'clock.

"I WISH TO PREFER A CHARGE OF MURDER AGAINST ROGER MARSKE."

Stumbling along the stony lane, I tried to formulate my plans, and here my inexperience, fortified by impatience for my lover's safety, led me into a grave error of judgment. I had reached a point in my investigation where I should have obtained trustworthy advice. The wisest course would have been to take the train for London and confide all that happend to the solicitor who had defended Arthur at the trial. Instead of that, I hesitated between going straight to the police and laying an information with a magistrate.

After walking for over a mile, the lane brought me into a broad, high road, and there, after another quarter of an hour's tramp, chance took a hand in settling the vexed question for me. I came to the lodge gates of what was evidently a large mansion, and as a light streamed from the open door of the lodge I stopped to ask my way to Brentwood.

"A matter of four miles yonder," replied an old man from the chimney corner, indicating the direction from which I had come.

So I had got to trudge four weary miles before I could disclose to offical ears the tremendous secret I was carrying. I had worked myself up to think that when the authorities heard my story, a mere stroke of the pen, or some equally facile method, would reinstate Arthur and put Roger Marske in his place. It was galling to have to wait an hour before utilizing my experiences, and the second alternative occurring to me, I asked: "Can you tell me where the nearest magistrate lives?"

The old lodgekeeper blinked at me queerly as he repled: "You'll be a stranger, then, I reckon. Ivery one knows as the master be Cheerman. Not a common 5 shillings or a week beak, but Cheerman o' Quarter Sessions," he added, proudly. And he pointed a palsied finger to the lights of the great house among the trees.

I set off along the carriage drive, and it was not till I had traversed three parts of it that I remembered that I should have inquired his master's name. As I approached the portico I caught the scent of a cigar, and saw the stooping figure of a tall man in evening dress shown up in the light that came from an open French window.

He must have been watching my arrival, for he came quickly forward.

"You are the young woman from the postoffice, and have a telegram for me, eh?" he inquired.

"No," I answered. "I do not come from the postoffice. I was given to understand at the lodge that you are a magistrate, and I want to speak to you on most important business—swear an information, I think it is called."

An exclamation that sounded like annoyance escaped him, but he atoned for it by a polite gesture toward the open French window.

"If you will be so good as to step in here," he said, "we shall save the servants the trouble of answering the door."

In the shaded lamplight of a luxurious apartment, I saw an old man with a sallow, unwholesome complexion, suggestive of late hours and life in cities.

He seated himself at a great pedestal table, and I at once remembered what till now in my excitement I had forgotten —that my appearance after the climb up the stack-pipe could be none of the tidiest.

"You look as if you had met with ill-treatment. You wish to prefer a charge of assault?" He inquired, taking up a pen and drawing paper toward him.

"I wish to prefer a charge of murder, and also of attempted murder, against one Roger Marske," I answered him eagerly.

Slowly, very slowly, he replaced the pen in the tray, and, joining the tips of his fingers, bent his chin to them he surveyed me with a perfectly sphinx-like countenance.

"Of murdering and of attempting to murder, whom do you accuse—this person?" he inquired presently. In putting the question he worked his face into a curious contortion that was hardly a smile, and I saw that his few remaining teeth were sharp and yellow, like an aged dog's fangs.

"I accuse him of murdering a young lady named Clara Rivington and her mother," I replied, ignoring the second half of his question for the present. "The matter is urgent, because a perfectly innocent man has been convicted of the crime, and will be—hanged if he is recaptured," I added, nearly breaking down.

"Recaptured! The convict's name?" demanded the magistrate in his high-pitched treble.

"Arthur Rivington—the prisoner who escaped from Winchester jail. You must have heard of it," said I.

"Yes," replied my interrogator, dryly. "I have heard of the case. Now be so good as to lay your information against this other one, who according to this extraordinary story of yours, ought to be in the convict's shoes."

So I took a step nearer to the table and poured out my story.

The old man regarded me with keen comprehension. "Then Roger Marske was at your point of departure on this extraordinary errand?" he asked.

"Yes," I answered.

A footman in a plain but handsome livery entered, but paused irresolute on seeing me.

"Well, Saunders, what is it?" his master asked, sharply.

"I beg your pardon, Sir Gideon, but Mr. Roger has arrived from London and sent me to see if you were in your room," was the reply that set my knees trembling as they had never trembled before throughout that fateful day. In ignorance I had made an official confidant of the father of the man I came to charge. This was Sir Gideon Marske, the cabinet minister, and I did not need to look twice at him to see which side he was going to take.

"Inform Mr. Roger that I am here, and that I shall be obliged if he will step this way," he said to the footman.

The Tube of Atropine

On the morning after Janet's departure Herzog elected to remain indoors. His reason was soon apparent in the receipt of several telegrams which arrived at short intervals, all demanding replies.

So absorbed was he in his business that he left me pretty much to my own devices.

Luncheon over, Herzog surprised me with the proposal that we should go out in a boat, my astonishment being greater when he declined the services of the owner of the craft he hired.

"My friend will row me about, and as we shall not go far from the shore you need be under no apprehension for us or for your boat," he said to the boatman. "I am his doctor, and I prescribe the exercise for him."

Motioning me to take the oars, he sat in the stern, and when we had pushed off, his explanation was forthcoming. "Walls and hedges have ears, and I have instructions to give which must not be overheard," he said in a low voice.

I swung to the left and bore away under the shadow of the cliffs, where we were in comparative seclusion.

"Let her drift, and look at this," Herzog said.

He referred to a pill-box which he took from his waistcoat pocket, removing the lid and holding it toward me. It was nearly full of cotton wool, on which lay a tiny tube of India rubber. "Take it carefully; it is a very delicate contrivance," he added.

Holding the box in the palm of my hand, I saw that the tube was bulged at one end. The whole thing was very small, not more than half an inch long.

Iowa, Kansas and Missouri have an immense corn crop and the golden halo of a wonderful prosperity is reflected from the fields of waving tassels, reminding one of the days of Joseph, the Hebrew dreamer, when there was an abundance of corn in Egypt. The returns from the American Egypt are not in, but it is a cold year when that section is not like the Egypt of Joseph and Pharaoh in its abundance of corn. This is a good year for all United States.—San Antonio Light.

Good corn crops in the states named means a good demand for Texas cattle, to eat that surplus corn this winter. Considerable inquiry is already being made for Texas feeders.

THE SCANDAL HUNGER

(S. W. Gillilan in Baltimore American.)

We glance at the reams of political guff,
We skim o'er the baseball and racing track stuff.
We glance at the head of the yellow jack news,
We read the odd items that merely amuse;
We learn how Komura and Witte have progressed,
We read of Tom Lawson, who talks without rest;
Then, yearning for something worth notice to con,
We turn to the page that the scandal is on.

What matters the news of the busy old world?
What matter which flags are triumphant or furled?
What matter the gifts that the wealthy supply
To educate all of the race by and by?
A moment suffices for trifles like these—
They're only the chaff that floats by on the breeze;
We skim them and bid them from notice be gone—
Then turn to the page that the scandal is on.

With pupils dilated, the scandal we read,
Each syllable gulping with buzzard-like greed;
'Twixt reading today's and tomorrow's we prate
Of newspapers' sins at a terrible rate;
We wail and bemoan that they publish the facts
Of frailest humanity's culpable acts;
And then, when our spasm of virtue is gone,
We turn to the page that the scandal is on.

"Um—er—then maybe it would be wiser to get a heavy one," suggested Mr. Nustyle.

"Speaking of dogs," said the man with the striped shirt, "you know what a friendly feeling exists between many horses and dogs. Well, it's nothing to the friendship between a mule and a bull terrier. The bull terrier is noted for his friendship and loyalty. Yes, that's right, he's often deeply attached to man. That's true. I was a contractor a few years ago, and I bought a team of mules and handed them over to a colored man working for me. This fellow had been up from Mississippi only a year or two, and I knew if anybody could get work out of that team he could, for there's kind of a bond of sympathy between the southern negro and the mule.

"I watched the driver and the team for a week or two, and then I became sentimental. All the combination needed was a bull terrier, so I charged $10 on the wrong side of the books for a white pup with a brindle patch over his eye, and gave the brute to the driver. That dog made friends with the driver, and one mule right away, but he didn't like the other mule, and the other mule reciprocated the unfriendly feeling.

"It was fun to watch the dog and that mule. They had it three or four times every day. The dog would wander carelessly back of the mule, with his eyes shut, as though he didn't see the mule—just to tempt him to kick. And the mule never disappointed him, but the dog was wise and would dodge the hoofs every time. Sometimes the mule would shut his eyes, just to lure on the dog. Once in a while the dog would get in a nip and two or three times the mule landed glancing body blows, but they didn't hurt the dog any.

"It was a dandy feud, and I could see from the look in that mule's eye that he was studying up some plot. And he was. One day he lay down and pretended to sleep. It wasn't five minutes before that dog slipped up behind him to nab him, but just as he got to reach that mule gave a short leg jab. You never saw anything like it—not one of those long drawn kicks you can see coming, but a Fitzsimmons hook that starts from the shoulder. He landed square on that dog's mouth, and knocked him 30 feet. But you know how game a bulldog is. He never made a sound. We never could tell whether it hurt him or not."

"Don't you suppose it did hurt the dog?" asked the man with the gray necktie.

"I don't know," replied the man with the striped shirt. "All I know is that for three weeks that dog wouldn't eat a thing but mashed potatoes."

WHERE, OH WHERE, ARE THE BALL PLAYERS OF YESTERDAY?

Alas for batsmen, pair by pair,
The wind has blown them all away.
In vain we seek them here and there—
Where are the ball tossers of yesterday?

What has become of the men who a few years ago electrified the country with their ball playing? Is often asked. Well, here's what some of them are doing:

John M. Ward, once captain of the old New York Giants, is a prominent New York lawyer and golfer. He has handled and won some famous cases at the bar.

Jack Glasscock, once a grand shortfield player, is doing carpenter work at Wheeling, W. Va.

Red Ehret, the once-upon-a-time twirler of fame, is umpiring in the Southern League and dodging yellow fever germs.

Harry Stovey, who stole 120 bases in one season, is pacing a beat in uniform and swinging a club instead of a ball bat.

Clarence (Cupid) Childs, who in '92 tied Dan Brouthers as the leading batsman of the National twelve-club league, is having a hard time holding down a berth in the New York State League.

Billy Hamilton is manager of the Harrisburg Outlaw League team.

Sam Thompson, one of the original Big Four, is in business in Detroit.

Hugh Duffy is managing the Phillies and promises to rank as high in his role as he did when playing.

Jack Stivetts of Boston is driving a brewery wagon in a Pennsylvania oil county.

Mike Tiernan, greatest of old-time sluggers, has a buffet in an eastern city.

Orator O'Rourke, a famous league catcher and fielder, is manager of the Bridgeport, Conn., team and the moving spirit of the organization.

Van Haltren is running the Oakland, Cal., club.

Roger Connor is well fixed financially and is playing a good game with Waterbury, Conn.

"Dummy" Hoy is taking life quietly at Cincinnati. He owns a farm.

Bob Carrouthers is umpiring in the Western League.

And there are numerous others whose whereabouts and station in life are unknown to the writer.

CORBETT'S CONVERSATION

BY JAS. J. CORBETT.
(Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

Probably no challenge ever issued by a prize fighter in the history of the ring stirred up the country at large as that handed out by John L. Sullivan at the conclusion of the theatrical season, March, 1892.

The great fighter had just concluded a tour of the country, which had netted him a big amount of money. He had met and defeated all comers, and was in high spirits when he sent forth his manifesto.

I had just reached New York, after my long fight with Jackson, and was waiting for the chance to meet John L. I remember well the morning I woke and was shown the following:

St. Paul, Minn., March 5, 1892.—Our season is just closing, and we do not resume again until Sept. 12. This gives me over three months in which to train and fight what will probably be my last big battle.

I hereby challenge any and all of the bluffers who have been trying to make capital at my expense to fight me, either the last week in August, or the first week in September, this year, at the Olympic club, in the city of New Orleans, La., for a purse of $25,000 and an outside bet of $10,000, the winner of the fight to take the entire purse.

I insist upon a bet of $10,000 to show that they mean business. First come, first served.

However, I give preference in this challenge to Frank P. Slavin, as he and his backers have done the greatest amount of blowing. My second preference is that bombastic sprinter, Chas. Mitchell, of England, whom I would rather whip than any man in the world. My third preference is Jas. J. Corbett of America, who has achieved his share of bombast.

But in this challenge I include all fighters.

The Marquis of Queensberry rules must govern this contest, as I want fight, not foot racing, as I intend keeping the championship of the world.

(Signed) JOHN L. SULLIVAN,
Champion of the World.

You can imagine the sensation this created.

Charlie Mitchell, Frank Slavin and all the big men started to talk, but none of them could see fit to place the $10,000 side bet. At that time I was under the management of Wm. A. Brady, and had many friends. I gathered together my money and then asked my friends to risk some of theirs on the outcome. The result was that the challenge was accepted in its entirety, and articles were drawn up and signed as follows:

First—The match is to decide the heavy weight championship of the world, a stake of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) and a purse of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000).

Second—The fight shall take place before the Olympic club of New Orleans, La., on Wednesday, Sept. 7, 1892.

Third—The contest shall be under the Marquis of Queensberry rules, the gloves shall be the smallest that the club will allow, and other details of the contest itself shall be left to the Olympic club.

The challenge and purse and the fight are of great interest now on account of the Britt-Nelson fight which took place practically on the 13th anniversary of the great New Orleans event.

I do not know how many times I have seen it stated in the daily papers that the Britt-Nelson fight would bring more money to the winner than any battle ever fought. I think statistics will show that this battle was the banner money event in the history of the ring.

I am informed by a manager of a Chicago club that preliminaries nowadays receive more money than the principals in the early days of fighting received. It is nothing to pay a couple of dubs, so he says, $50 or more for a limited round bout. Why, I remember once when Peter Jackson asked a manager of a Frisco club to give him a chance to show what he could do for practically nothing. On one occasion I remember of George Dixon offering to give the other fellow all the money to get an opportunity to gain more experience. And you can bet those fellows knew what a straight lead was, too.

Why, it is only a few years back when Young Corbett, Abe Attell, Kid Parker, Young Peter Jackson, and a few others that turned out real champions, would go forth and fight for whatever they could get. They wanted to learn the tricks as soon as possible and that is why they got to the top so quick.

Parson Davies young over to Young Corbett $2 to box Jimmy Barry, a world's champion. Young Peter Jackson received $5 once for fighting Parker. Abe Attell fought two men on the same evening, eight rounds each, for $10.

The time and money they lost then was gotten back in later years when they reaped harvests that the preliminary fighter of today will never receive because he wants too much and gets little chance to fight.

How a little thing often turns the tide in the affairs of a fighter is shown in an experience I once had. Sullivan was in the west and I was asked to go and box an exhibition with him. I gladly did it, little expecting anything but to get my head knocked off. It was on that occasion that I learned for the first time that John L. was like all other mortals. It took a lot of argument with my friends to make them think the same way that I did, but I finally did and I signed articles with the twelve-year champion, knowing that if I didn't win he couldn't, as I could stay a long time with him without getting hit hard enough to stop my thoughts. It would have been a draw.

I did all my training with the one thought in my mind that I couldn't lose. I believe that that preliminary exhibition I had with Sullivan won me the fight at New Orleans, the challenge and the articles of agreement to which are found in the first part of this article.

INCREDIBLE BRUTALITY

It would have been incredible brutality if Charles F. Lemberger of Syracuse, N. Y., had not done the best he could for his suffering son. "THERE'S A REASON"
That's All Right, But What Is It?

A lady teacher in South Dakota says: "I was compelled to give up teaching for nearly four years because of what the physicians called "nervous dyspepsia." Nor was I of any use in the household economy. I was in many respects a wreck.

"I had numerous physicians, one after another, and took many different kinds of medicine, but they did me no good.

"Finally, five years ago, I began to use Grape-Nuts food. I grew stronger in a very short time on the new diet, and was soon able to resume and am still teaching. I no longer use drugs of any kind, my dyspepsia has disappeared and I am a hearty woman—thanks to Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason. Brain work and worry take strength from the stomach and bowels. They become too weak to handle the fried meat, eggs, bacon, coffee and white bread, so partly digested they decay and cause all sorts of trouble which will become chronic if continued. Then the nerves and brain grow weary for they are deprived of the rebuilding elements the food must furnish to replace the soft gray filling of nerve centers and brain which is partly used up each day.

Now comes the mission of Grape-Nuts to supply the "Reason." Made in a peculiar and scientific way of the selected parts of Wheat and Barley, this famous food contains natural phosphate of potash with albumen, which combines with water in the body and makes that gray matter quickly and surely. Then when nerves and brain feel the power of new made and properly made cells, the strngth returns to stomach as well as other parts. "There's a reason." Anyone can prove it.

STATE COMPROMISES OIL COMPANY SUITS

Firms Agree to Pay 1 Per Cent On All Provisions of Kennedy Bill But One

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 20.—Assistant Attorney General Pollard returned this morning from Beaumont where an agreement was reached with the oil companies which enjoined the state officials from collecting the tax under the Kennedy act. The attorney general at this time declined to make public the text of the agreement reached. Judge Pollard said the dispatches sent from Beaumont regarding the agreement reached are incorrect. He said the oil companies agreed to pay a tax of 1 per cent on all provisions of the bill except section nine, which seeks to tax them as wholesale dealers. They will have to pay the tax as producers, refiners and pipe line companies, a test case to be made of section nine. All injunction suits are to be dismissed, six being dismissed today against the Gulf Refining Company, J. M. Guffey Petroleum Company, Lone Acre Oil Company, National Oil and Pipe Line Company, Heywood Oil Company and the Paraffine Oil Company.

The action of the attorney general was forecast several days ago in these dispatches when the Seaboard Drilling Company paid its tax.

IN REEVES COUNTY

Pecos Times.

Sid Cowan came in yesterday morning from Fort Worth, where he went with three cars of fat cows and two cars of 4-year-old steers. The cattle were loaded at Toyah Saturday afternoon and sold Monday, the cows bringing $2.35 and the steers $2.85. Sid said only a light rain fell east of the Pecos.

John Ware came in yesterday evening from T. J. Sisk's pasture, where he has just finished their first branding. John says enough rain fell in that country to put out some water.

Robert W. E. Hirst and G. H. Cato, two cattlemen ranching west of Fort Stockton in Pecos county, were here Saturday delivering a bunch of yearlings to Charley Tolle to go to his ranch along the Texas-New Mexico line. There were 114 head, of which Mr. Hirst sold 63 and Mr. Cato 51 head. They report cattle in their country in good condition, but the range needing rain.

Bud Avant, manager of the N K ranch, and Bob Couch, have bought the N K steers, some 500 in number. Terms private.

Ed Stuckley and Bob Haley were in from the U ranch several days of the past week looking after U land leases. They report a good rain last Saturday over the U ranch, and up to that time the range was getting pretty dry, though cattle were fatter than they ever saw them in the mountains before. Ed expects to go to Old Mexico with Charley Tolle some time this month to spey 1,000 heifers for the Coralitas Cattle company.

Pink Harbert and Coleman Higgins came in Tuesday evening from the Saragosa country. They say a pretty fair rain fell over that country Tuesday—sufficient to start the draws running and fill water holes.

Tom N. McKenzie, ranching in the northern part of Reeves county, was in town trading Friday and Saturday and reports the range getting a bit dry. Tom is around Fort Stockton considerably and reports many improvements of a most substantial nature in the way of residences, business houses, etc., going on down there and says the assurance of the Orient road going through in the near future is going to make them a good town down there. A bank in the near future he says is an assured fact.

Wat Reynolds went up to the Kent X ranch Tuesday night and came back last night. He said a good rain was falling as he came down.

Joe Seay came down from his ranch twenty miles above Toyah Tuesday. He says he had had none of this week's rain up to the time he left the ranch, but thinks a good rain fell there Tuesday night.

Trav. Windham was in from his ranch Tuesday and said his grass was fine but needing rain some.

PECOS COUNTY CATTLE

E. E. Townsend, manager of the Elsinore Cattle Company's big ranch, comprising 300 sections in Pecos county, was at the yards this week, looking after the marketing of an eleven-car shipment of cattle, which sold at satisfactory prices. There were eight cars of steers in the shipment, the tailings from 3,000 head which were sold and delivered last April to Kansas parties. In speaking of conditions in the Pecos country, Mr. Townsend said: "The range is splendid and we had good rains last week, which were beginning to be needed, as the country was getting dry. I do not believe there will be many cattle marketed from there this fall. You know cattlemen there generally dispose of their steers to northern feeder buyers, the bulk of them going to Kansas pastures. This movement last spring was large and left us short on steers of all ages. There are a good many fat cows but the range is so good, the country so lightly stocked and market values so low that I think few will be moved. We will ship some more fat steers during December and January. The Elsinore company buys a great many yearling and two-year-old steers, principally twos, and hold them until they are four or five years of age, selling them as feeders to Kansas cattlemen, when we think we will not be able to fatten them. This year the cattle were fat but the range is so lightly stocked that I think few will be shipped out.

"The Pecos country is gradually building up, but the fact that the expense of getting water there is so great prevents our country from settling up as fast as some other sections of the state. On the Elsinore ranch are six wells, ranging from 600 to 1,000 feet deep, that are all dry. We get our stock water chiefly from large surface tanks which catch the water as it falls. In the rainy season these tanks are filled and enough water is stored in them to keep the stock during dry periods. No farming is done to speak of, except on irrigated lands. There are about 2,000 acres around Fort Stockton under irrigation, and on this land alfalfa, fruit, corn and other grains are produced very successfully. Alfalfa yields an average of about six tons per acre per season on this land.

STARTLING MORTALITY

Statistics show startling mortality, from appendicitis and peritonitis. To prevent and cure these awful diseases, there is just one reliable remedy, Dr. King's New Life Pills. M. Flannery of 14 Custom House Place, Chicago, says: "They have no equal for Constipation and Biliousness." 25c at W. J. Fisher, Reeves' Pharmacy and M. S. Blanton & Co., druggists.

GIVING RACE NEWS

RACE TRACK, GRAVESEND, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Agents of the Metropolitan News Company of Louisville, Ky., began gathering race track news in earnest here Tuesday, for distribution to some 400-odd pool rooms throughout the country. This is a direct result of the Western Union's refusal to allow its agents to furnish the news.

The News Company has its own staff of news gatherers, who file information respecting odds, starters and results after the manner of the old Western Union employes' staff. Poolroom people declare the pool room problem has been satisfactorily adjusted by the agents of the News Company.

FIRST GAME IS SEPT. 30

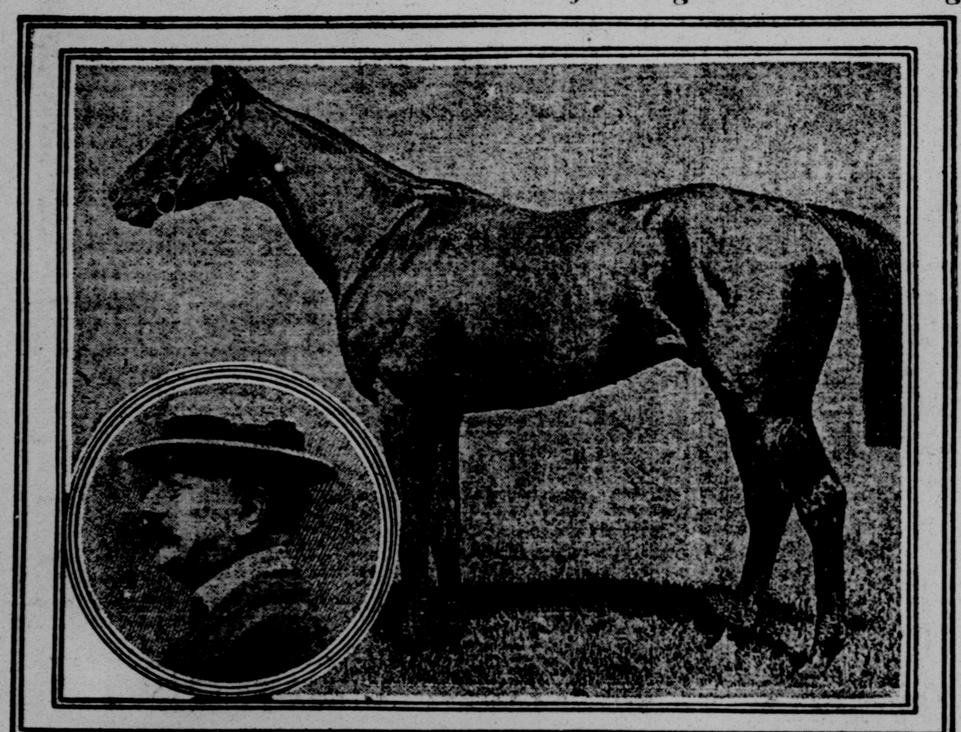
WACO, Texas, Sept. 20.—Between forty and fifty students of the Texas Christian University are hard at work preparing for the first game, which is to be played with Baylor on Sept. 30. Coach Hyde and Captain Knight are both confident of a winning team.

After a year Red Galliher is once more in the game and adds much strength. Frizzell and Grissom are back again. Muse, Martin, Ashmore, Knight and Bloor are in better condition to play the game than ever before.

ROONEY WINS PRIX

PARIS, Sept. 20.—W. K. Vanderbilt's Rooney won the Prix Saint Michel at the St. Cloud races Monday.

Val d'Or, Storm Bound, Lost Chance to Run for England's Saint Ledger



VAL D'OR, BY FLYING FOX-WENDORA and his OWNER, M EDMOND BLANC

The Doncaster St. Leger, the last of the three great three-year-old classics of the English turf, was decided at Doncaster last Thursday, and won by Challacombe, an outsider, at 15 to 1, belonging to W. M. Singer.

The race was robbed of much of its interest by the absence of both Val d'Or and Cicero. Lord Rosebery's Derby winner had to be temporarily thrown out of training and the French horse was storm bound on the other side of the English channel.

The St. Leger is one of the three classics that comprise the "triple crown," the Derby and Two Thousand Guineas being the others. The entrance fee is twenty-five sovereigns each, for three-year-olds, and the distance one mile, six furlongs and 132 yards. It is an older race by four years than the far-famed Derby.

Had Val d'Or started there is not much doubt but he would have been made the favorite, and great regret is expressed that he was unable to appear.

SCENE AT COLMA CLUB WHEN NELSON KNOCKED OUT BRITT

THE KNOCK OUT "BATTLING" NELSON'S VICTORY AT COLMA CAL.

In the fight for the lightweight pugilistic championship, which took place at Colma, Cal., on Saturday, Sept. 9, "Battling" Nelson defeated "Jimmy" Britt in the eighteenth round with a blow to the pit of the stomach, followed with a left hook to the jaw. In this round, which lasted two minutes, Britt was tired, but seemed willing. Nelson soon forced him into his corner, and in rally that lasted a few moments the end came. As Britt went down from the blow on the jaw and lay on the floor, there was a hush as the official timer began calling off the seconds. Britt turned on his back and lay gasping, his tongue protruding from his mouth. "Nine! ten!" called the referee, "Eddie" Graney, and at once the crowd swarmed into the ring, hailing Nelson as the new champion.

SPORTING BREVITIES

One of the minor league teams that suffered from the draft this year is the Bisons of Buffalo. McAllister, Kissinger and Laporte have been sold to New York, and Brockett goes to Cleveland. Joe Delehanty and McManus are to be traded.

The $3 admission fee at New York tracks is reducing the attendance most beautifully.

Owen Moran, the English bantamweight fighter, is willing to come to America to meet Frankie Neil.

"Twin" Sullivan, the New England middleweight, is matched to fight Tommy Burns, western middleweight, 20 rounds at Los Angeles the first week in October.

Abe Attell, the California featherweight, has returned from England. He is matched with Jem Bowker, English lightweight, in London Nov. 25.

Young Corbett still believes he is the greatest fighter of his weight and inches in the world. He's finding trouble making anyone else believe the same way.

Theo. Breitenstein has done so well in the Southern league he thinks he ought to be called up higher.

Clark Griffith has taken more pitchers out of the box this season than any other manager. He chases them to the bench at the first sign of weakness.

Coach Reid of Harvard is training the eleven on radical lines this year. Falling on the ball and breaking through have been tabooed, as a number of the best men were incapacitated early in the season last year by these tactics. The men will be gotten in good condition before rough work begins.

Columbia students are singing the praises of Marcus Hurley, who is showing up as an extraordinary punter.

"Finest set of football candidates in years," is the encouraging word that comes from Cambridge.

Willie Fitzgerald and Eddie Hanlon are to battle again on the Pacific coast, and the winner hopes to get a bout with Nelson.

The turf world is gossiping about the charges made against John E. Madden by his wife. She charges that he raced the mare Applause as a 2-year-old when in reality it was a 3-year-old.

Richard Croker sends out a denial that he is to quit the turf.

It looks as though Joe Gans could not make the lightweight limit, 133 pounds, after all. If he fights Nelson it probably would be for welterweight championship, for which he fought Joe Walcott a year ago.

Battling Nelson and Young Corbett have fought twice. Corbett was helpless in the tenth round, and in the second contest he went down and out in the ninth.

Walter C. Booth, coach at Lincoln, is putting the Nebraska eleven through its preliminary paces.

A few "hurry ups" by Yost: "Hurry up and be the first man to line up; hurry up and get into every play; be the first man down the field on a punt or kickoff; fall on the ball every fumble; learn to control your temper; hurry up when you are about to be tackled."

OKLAHOMA FARMERS PREPARE TO HOLD

Cotton Will Not Be Marketed Until Minimum Price Has Been Agreed Upon

LAWTON, Okla., Sept. 20.—It begins to look as if the Farmers' Union of Oklahoma, with all the vigor of its newly acquired strength, is going to take the authority to demand that the cotton market shall attain a certain price before members of that organization will place their product with the buyers. Indeed, so strong is this sentiment becoming that Horace J. Newberry of Kiowa county, a prominent agriculturist of Oklahoma, has issued a call to the members of a local union out there to meet at an early date for the purpose of "providing means to enable farmers to hold their cotton until the minimum price fixed by the unions of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Alabama, Georgia, Oklahoma and Indian Territory has been attained."

This appears to be a sympathy call and local unions over the territory will be expected to meet for similar action. A prominent member of the Farmers' Union recently stated that the farmers are making plans for a strong co-operation to be placed in effect most particularly during those times when the prices of their products are lower than living prices. For instance, if one farmer is not able to hold his cotton for a higher market, his neighbors who are in a position to aid him will advance him money on easy terms and in other ways carry him over until the time when the cotton may be placed on the market. This scheme is only one small wheel in a magnificent plan recently outlined by J. Harvey Lynch, secretary of the Twin Territorial Federation of Labor, who is writing a small book, entitled, "Co-Operation."

Should this plan be successful throughout the cotton raising states marketing of cotton may be very limited for a few weeks, or until the farmers are convinced that the price will warrant their selling. The Farmers' Union appears to be in dead earnest in this matter and its influence and power may be felt in a short time.

ISTHMIAN ENGINEERS DISCUSS LOCK PLANS

M. Bunau-Varilla Suggests a Scheme for Completing Ditch in Five Years

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—The board of consulting engineers of the Isthmian canal commission yesterday devoted its time to hearing the explanation of the plans for the canal which M. Bunau-Varilla and Linden W. Bates respectively formulated. M. Bunau-Varilla was engaged on canal work as engineer under the French regime and he has given much time to the study of the problem. Mr. Bates is a civil engineer of New York. Mr. Bunau-Varilla told the board under the proposed method the canal could be built and put into operation within five years. It could be deepened to a sea level canal within five years more. A novel feature of his plan is to construct locks from a foundation below sea level. The highest locks on the canal, as finished, would first be 130 feet above the sea level. With the locks built down to sea level depth the work of dredging the canal could be continued without interrupting its operation for commerce. The same locks could be utilized at every depth until sea level was reached, when the locks could be taken out. The plan Mr. Bates proposes is to locate the principal dams on either side of the Isthmus, close to the sea, thus conserving the waters from the streams into two mammoth lakes. He pointed out this would eradicate swamps and tend to revolutionize the health and sanitary conditions on the isthmus.

REPORT OF RANGER'S SHOOTING IS RECEIVED

Private Goff Was Taking Mexican Prisoner to Camp When Fatally Wounded

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 20.—Adjutant General Hulen has received the following official report on the killing of Private Goff of the Ranger force, which occurred in the Brewster county mining district:

"On the evening of the 15th Private Goff arrested at Big Bend Austine Garcia for creating a disturbance in a saloon and trying to fight. In the absence of any calaboose at the mine Private Goff was taking his prisoner to camp, was on horseback and had the prisoner walking in front of him. There is a steep mountain to go up and in going to camp the prisoner wanted to go a different trail and Goff turned his horse to get around him and make him go the way he wanted him to go, and his horse fell on him on the brink of the mountain. His Winchester was in the scabbard on the horse, and when the horse fell on Goff the prisoner grabbed the rifle out of the scabbard and fired at Goff, missed him the first shot and fired a second shot, which struck Goff in the spinal column. Goff had struggled to his feet and stood up and grabbed for his pistol, but was too late and he was struck with a bullet from a 30-40 rifle. At the second shot Goff fell and rolled down the mountain thirty feet. He lived about twenty-four to thirty hours and died.

"Immediately upon receiving a wire of the tragedy I took Privates Bailey and McGhee with their horses and my hack and Dr. Berkeley of Alpine and started for the scene of the trouble. At Mr. Nevill's ranch, some twenty-seven miles distant, I received a phone message of Goff's death and that his body would be started to Alpine, so I waited on the roadside so as to receive the body with my fresh team and hasten into Alpine, which I did, arriving at Alpine about 7:15 in the evening of the 15th. I sent Privates Bailey and McGhee on to Big Bend to join the deputy sheriff and citizens in that vicinity, with instructions to do everything possible to apprehend and capture his slayer.

"It is thought by some he will not cross the Rio Grande. If he does not, we have great hopes of effecting his capture within a week or two. Should he cross, however, I would feel very much discouraged, as I am told by the officers in this country that it is almost impossible to get a prisoner from Mexico under the operations of the present treaty.

"We are very much grieved over the death of Private Goff. In addition to being a very brave and courageous officer, he seemed personally very much attached to me, having served with me some time, some twelve years ago, since which we have continually been good friends. Inclosed find letter from the manager of the mines showing the esteem and regard in which Private Goff was held. Even mere acquaintances, to say nothing of intimate friends, recognized in Goff a man of ability and extraordinary courage. He was one of the quickest men with arms and the best shot I have ever known in the service. He was industrious, well informed, and, indeed, a very capable man.

"Respectfully submitted,

"J. H. ROGERS,

"Captain Company C, Ranger Force."

FORMERLY LIVED IN WACO

WACO, Texas, Sept. 19.—Tom Goff, the Texas Ranger who was killed in South Texas by a Mexican, lived here until about a year ago. He was in his youthful days a ranger and after his marriage was again a member of the organization. It is said that this widow and two children are here now, though they were not located on inquiry. Goff married a Miss Mallory of Waco several years ago. He was a man who stood well here. A man who was well acquainted with him here said yesterday that the Mexican must have had the drop on Goff or he could not have gotten the first shot.

MARLIN CITY MARSHAL VICTIM OF ASSASSIN

Peace Officer Mortally Wounded While Talking to Policeman

MARLIN, Texas, Sept. 20.—Late Monday afternoon City Marshal M. M. Coleman was shot and instantly killed. Eleven buckshot from a shotgun entered his back and shoulders. Marshal Coleman and Policeman Stallworth were walking together along the sidewalk on Live Oak street. Marshal Coleman had a valise in his hand and was going to leave the city on the 4 o'clock passenger train to attend to official business and had just been to the city hall and gotten certain papers pertaining to the object of his contemplated trip. As soon as he was shot Marshal Coleman sank to the pavement, expiring at the moment he fell.

L. E. Allen was standing near and came at once to the side of the dead man. Physicians were soon on the scene and pronounced life extinct. The shot was fired from the street at a point to the rear of the two men.

Policeman Stallworth immediately rushed into the street and arrested Holland Dillard, from whom he took a double-barreled shotgun, one barrel of which had just recently been fired, and the other barrel was loaded.

Dillard is a telegraph operator, but has not been making it his vocation of late.

He is about 25 years of age and has a wife and child. His mother and other relatives reside here.

Major Coleman was born in Missouri and came to Texas with his parents when a small boy. They settled at Marlin and were a prominent family here. He was about 60 years old and had been a peace officer most of the time since the war between the states.

When the war came on he was a mere boy, but he took up arms and went to battle in defense of the south. As a soldier he was brave and true, as a peace officer he had ever been vigilant and fearless. For more than seventeen years he was city marshal of Marlin, winning at each contest by overwhelming majorities. Few peace officers in Texas are more widely known among their brother officers than was Major Coleman. At Galveston, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and other important cities throughout the state he was known and respected by the officers. His wife died some years ago. He has several children residing in different parts of the state.

GOLD COMING TO U. S.

Bulk of Yellow Metal Now Moving Westward

PARIS, Sept. 20.—The turn of the tide of gold toward New York is exciting the attention of bankers and other financiers, who say that this restores the natural movement which has been abnormally reversed for the last two years, partly owing to the war in the Far East.

Officials of the Bank of France, when seen by the Associated Press yesterday, stated that the shipments to the United States were the resumption of usual conditions at this time of the year. The bank itself had not made shipments, but the officials referred to the shipments made by Lazard Freres & Co. as indicating the general tendency. However, the bank did not regard the movement as likely to make serious inroads into the French stock of gold owing to the unusually large gold balance in the Bank of France.

Similar views were expressed by two leading financial economists, Raphael Georges Levy, president of the South African Mines Bank, and Stanislas Simon, head of the Indo-Chinese Bank. They considered it to be practically certain that the Bank of France will not advance the rate of discount because of the American demand for gold.

JUDGES MAKE CHANGES

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 19.—Governor Lanham yesterday appointed Associate Justice W. H. Gill of first court of civil appeals to be chief justice to succeed Chief Justice Garrett, resigned. He then appointed Judge T. S. Reese, as heretofore announced, to be associate justice of this court to succeed Judge Gill. Both qualified today and received their commissions. Attorney General Davidson then officially announced the appointment of Judge W. E. Hawkins of Dallas to succeed Judge Reese as first assistant attorney general. The appointment of Judge Hawkins is effective at once and it is expected Judge Hawkins will be here shortly.

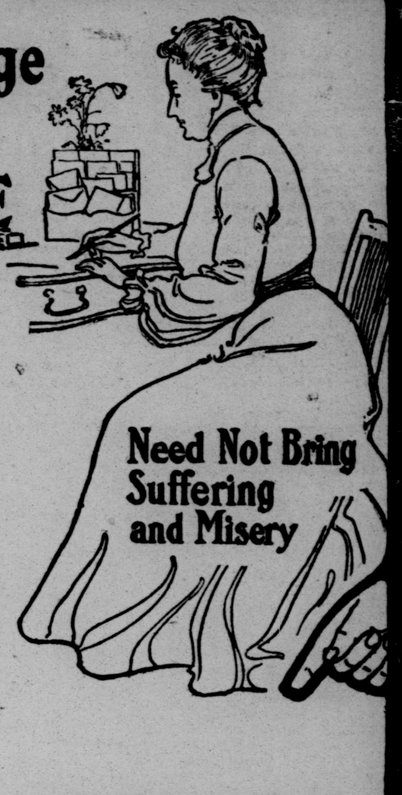
Rather than face the charges which might send him back he took his life.

Change of LIFE



Need Not Bring Suffering and Misery

This perfectly natural change in a woman's life is too often accompanied by painful, distressing symptoms due to female troubles and slight irregularities in her delicate organism.

The woman who passes this change without the development of tumors, cancers, or chronic invalidism enters a new field of happiness and usefulness in the domestic circle and in social activity. Her physical system should receive the necessary assistance at this critical period.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

is exactly suited to woman's needs at this time. It strengthens and cures all derangements of the female organism, it overcomes the hot flashes and dizzy fainting spells, and all other distressing symptoms.

I Was in Bed for Three Weeks

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered a great deal during Change of Life. I flowed steadily for eleven weeks, and it made me so weak I was in bed for three weeks.

I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, although it was against my doctor's will and I had to hide it. I took it regularly until I had taken five bottles, and it brought me out all right, a perfectly strong, well woman. Any one can tell how healthy I am by looking at my picture, and any one can write to me or my daughter about our wonderful cures.

MRS. F. M. MUSHRUSH, East Chicago, Ind.

The whole secret of safety at this time of life is thorough preparation before the change begins. Fortify the system with a course of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This wonderful medicine has carried thousands of women through this danger period.

No such helpful advice to women who are sick can be had anywhere as will be received free by addressing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cures Where Others Fail

For the Little Ones

To Keep Their Digestion Perfect Nothing is so Safe and Pleasant as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

Thousands of men and women have found Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the safest and most reliable preparation for any form of indigestion or stomach trouble.

Thousands of people who are not sick, but are well and wish to keep well, take Stuart's Tablets after every meal to insure perfect digestion and avoid trouble.

But it is not generally known that the Tablets are just as good and wholesome for little folks as for their elders.

Little children who are pale, thin and have no appetite, or do not grow or thrive, should use the Tablets after eating and will derive great benefit from them.

Mrs. G. A. Crotsley, 538 Washington St., Hoboken, New Jersey, writes: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets just fill the bill for children as well as for older folks. I've had the best of luck with them. My three-year-old girl takes them as readily as candy. I have only to say 'Tablets' and she drops everything else and runs for them."

A Buffalo mother, a short time ago, who despaired of the life of her babe, was so delighted with the results from giving the child these Tablets that she went before the notary public of Erie Co., N. Y., and made the following affidavit:

Gentlemen: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were recommended to me for my two-months-old baby, which was sick and puny and the doctor said was suffering from indigestion. I took the child to the hospital, but there found no relief. A friend mentioned the Stuart Tablets and I procured a box from my druggist and used only the large sweet lozenges in the box and was delighted to find they were just the thing for my baby. I feel justified in saying that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets saved my child's life.

MRS. W. T. DETHLOFF.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 12th day of April, 1897.

HENRY KARIS,

Notary Public in and for Erie Co., N.Y.

For babies, no matter how young or delicate, the tablets will accomplish wonders in increasing flesh, appetite and growth. Use only the large sweet tablets in every box. Full-sized boxes are sold by all druggists for 50 cents, and no parent should neglect the use of this safe remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles if the child is ailing in any way regarding its food or assimilation.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been known for years as the best preparation for all stomach troubles whether in adults or infants.

MALARIA UNDERMINES THE HEALTH

When the germs of malaria enter the blood the entire health is affected, and if the blood is not purified of these germs and microbes, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Liver Splotches, Chills and Fever, Boils, Aches and Pains, and a great variety of troubles manifest themselves, and soon the entire system is undermined, leaving the sufferer a prey to a most miserable, weak and nervous condition.

913 W. Market St., Louisville, Ky.

For several years I suffered with Chills and Fever, caused by Malaria in my system, and each summer for several years I would have a relapse. Finally my physician prescribed S. S. S. I took a few bottles; this was about six years ago. It entirely cured me, and I have never been troubled since. I am sure no other medicine could have given me so complete and immediate relief, and I cannot speak too highly of S. S. S. My partner in business is now taking S. S. S. for an eruption of the skin, and a general run-down condition of the system, and although he has taken but one bottle, already commences to feel better.

I. SHAPOFF.

S. S. S. counteracts and drives all the poison from the blood and builds up the system by its fine purifying qualities and tonic effects. It strengthens every part, increases the appetite, helps the stomach and digestion, and by supplying the body with rich, pure blood, cures Malaria and all its disagreeable ailments. Unlike most blood medicines S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It does not contain a particle of mineral of any kind to disagreeably affect the stomach, digestion and bowels, but by cleansing and strengthening the blood, puts every part of the body in healthy condition. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired without charge.

Boston's Mayor, Who Died Unexpectedly

PATRICK A COLLINS

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—News of the sudden death, at Hot Springs, Va., of their mayor came as a tremendous shock to the citizens of Boston. Mayor Collins was regarded here as one of the last of the "old school" in national life.

When the announcement of the mayor's death was received at city hall Daniel A. Whelton, chairman of the board of aldermen and acting mayor, officially notified all the city departments. Soon afterward flags were flying at half staff from all the city buildings and many private buildings.

Under the city charter the mayoralty falls upon a chairman of the board of aldermen until Jan. 1, and Daniel A. Whelton will therefore serve as chief executive.

The death of Mayor Collins upon the eve of the caucus leaves the democratic machine without a candidate for mayor. Prior to his departure for the south Mayor Collins had decided to again be a candidate, the formal announcement being deferred until his return.

OF INTEREST TO THE CATTLEMEN

PACKERS IN NEW SCANDAL

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—A stir was caused in local packing, brewery and other large industrial circles by the report from Washington yesterday that important disclosures had been made concerning campaign contributions to the last republican national committee, and officials of the large corporations interested were unanimous in declaring the report false and malicious.

According to the report from Washington Chicago's share in the campaign contribution was disclosed in connection with the revelations of contributions by life insurance companies made by George W. Perkins of the New York Life. The story was that Chicago packers had been compelled to give $100,000 and that breweries and other large industrial enterprises also contributed through force.

Chicago packers seemed inclined to make light of the charges from Washington. P. A. Valentine was emphatic in disclaiming all knowledge of the matter. "The packers seem to be a logical target for all mud-slinging nowadays," said Mr. Valentine. "If there is a scandal in any part of the country you may depend upon it that some fertile imagination will contrive to connect it with packers in some way. So far as I know this report is absolutely baseless."

Leo S. Joseph of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger was equally emphatic in his denunciation of the charges. "You can safely say that there is absolutely nothing in this report," Mr. Joseph said. "Individually I do not know what members of the packing firms did. Probably they took sides, as they differ in politics. But as corporations, I am positive that not one cent was contributed."

A new phase of the accusation that the packers made large contributions to the republican campaign fund developed when Roger C. Sullivan, democratic national committeeman, hinted vaguely at an understanding between the conservative democrats, the republicans and the large corporations by which the burden of campaign contributions were to be lightened all around.

Mr. Sullivan states flatly that the democrats were given to understand that if a man of Judge Parker's type were put up the corporate interests would keep hands off in the fight.

"We were much surprised and chagrined when we saw how things were going," said Mr. Sullivan. "Personally I am sure that there are grounds for belief that the charges made by Judge Parker were, in a measure, true. I am positive that some, at least of the large corporations did contribute to the Roosevelt campaign fund."

MELVIN SUCCEEDS SALMON

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 20.—While the many friends of Dr. D. E. Salmon, who has been the head of the bureau of animal industry for so many years, will regret the fact that he has had to withdraw, yet there has been a growing feeling for some time that a new policy must prevail in this bureau, and this could only come with radical changes. Since the organization of the bureau until very recently, the bureau of animal industry has been devoted principally to sanitary affairs in connection with live stock. The recent adoption of the policy of breeding experiments has very much broadened the scope of the bureau, and from now on the bureau will be an active factor in the development of the animal industry. The sanitary duties of the bureau are rapidly becoming secondary in importance, and hence the necessity of having a practical executive head. While Dr. Melvin is also a veterinarian, he has put in a large part of his time in the field and is very familiar with western conditions. He is popular with all the officers and employes of the department, and, while conservative, is very practical and should prove a valuable man. While he has been put in the position temporarily, he may prove the right man in the right place.

The experience of stockmen during the past two years with this department has shown them that it may be as great a nuisance and inconvenience, improperly and ignorantly conducted, as it can be of benefit when exerted in a practical and rational way. For this reason the organized stockmen in the future will keep close tab on the bureau and Dr. Melvin's greatest chance of success is to keep close to the stockmen of the country.

FIGHT WITH SNAKE

STERLING, Sept. 20.—Mrs. J. H. Dennis, who resides on the "U" ranch, discovered a large rattlesnake near the ranch last Wednesday, and immediately attacked him with a club. While belaboring the snake, it sprung at her, causing her to retreat, and in her attempt to get away, her feet became entangled in the weeds, which caused her to fall heavily upon her arm. At first it was thought that she had only sustained a dislocation at the elbow, and Mrs. Tom Wagner set the injured member in place; but, Mrs. Dennis continuing to suffer great pain, Mr. Dennis brought her to Dr. Knopf, who, by the aid of the X-ray, discovered that Mrs. Dennis' arm was broken just below the elbow. The doctor at once set the injured member and at present the patient is doing nicely.

CATTLE DYING AT MERKEL

MERKEL, Texas, Sept. 20.—Several stockmen in this vicinity report the loss of a good many head of cattle recently. It is supposed they are dying with fever. Efforts are being made to stop the spread of the malady and prevent further loss.

RANGE NOTES

IN TOM GREEN COUNTY

San Angelo Standard.

Oscar Cain shipped one car of calves and Felix Mann two cars of fat cows to St. Louis Thursday morning, with Fort Worth privileges.

J. N. Cobb of Arden sold to Will Newton of Ozona 1,627 stock sheep at $2.50 for lambs and $3 for grown sheep. Mr. Cobb bought 117 two-year-old steers—grade Durhams—from George Richardson, at $18 per head.

The pasture fire seen from San Angelo to the southeast on Lipan Flat on Wednesday was near the Nine-Mile Waterhole. Men from all directions helped fight the hungry flames and checked the fire before sundown. Not more than a section of pasture was destroyed.

Fires were started in the pastures of R. F. Tankersley's ranch on Spring Creek near Knickerbocker and on Sam Butler's ranch six miles north of San Angelo on Saturday. Quite a good deal of fine grass was destroyed before the fires were extinguished. The cause of the fires not known.

J. F. Tandy, the sheepman, was in the city the latter part of last week from the Tandy ranch between Eldorado and Sonora. He reported sheep as being in elegant condition and that things out his way were in good shape, but that the country was in dire need of rain. Mr. Tandy stated that the present year had been a good one for sheepmen, but that he expected the coming year to be even better.

Ira G. Yates, the well-known horseman, returned this week from New Mexico and Arizona, wher he has been for the past two months. Mr. Yates purchased during his absence nearly 1,200 head of horses in the two territories, to be used on his large ranch in Eddy county, New Mexico, about eighty miles west of Midland, Texas. In discussing conditions in that part of the country he visited, he stated that cattle were in fine shape and that the ranges were good. However, cattle are scarce, as most of the stock has been sold to western buyers. "Almost all of the steers have been sold," said Mr. Yates. "There is a scarcity of ones and twos and in many places they have been sold off clean to western buyers. Both of the territories are very lightly stocked, owing to the heavy losses of last year on account of the drouth and all of the steers being sold this year. The cattle have been shipped from the territories."

IN DEAF SMITH COUNTY

Hereford Brand.

As a slight indication of the volume of live stock going out from Hereford nowadays, it should be stated that there have been orders placed for sixty cars for next Sunday's shipments. This being the shipping point for a large area of country, there will perhaps more cattle go out from here this season than from any other point in West Texas. It is pleasing to note that the majority of the cattle which pass this way are well graded, usually of the celebrated Hereford breed.

Since our last report, the following shipments have been made to the northern markets from this point: Felix Franklin, one car cows to Kansas City; Wilson & Kibbe, one car fat cows; Murchison & Thompson, eleven cars mixed cattle; Henry Von Linen, two cars cows and calves; T. D. Hunt, four cars fat cows; W. E. Hicks, wo cars cows and calves; Selman & Bracket of Kansas bought four cars yearling steers from local parties and shipped to Kechley, Kan.; Fagon & Kright bought 614 head and forty-eight head of yearling steers from R. N. Mounts and J. H. Kelley, respectively, at the fancy price of $19.

R. N. Mounts and J. H. Kelley, two of our foremost stockmen, broke this season's record on last Saturday, when they delivered to Fagan & Wright of Kansas 662 head of yearling steers at the high figures of $19. Of the number above mentined, Mr. Mounts sold 614 and Mr. Kelley forty-eight head. This is said by cattlemen to be the best all-round herd which has been shipped from this point this year, and so far as is known here the price received is a record breaker for the entire Panhandle. Neither of the above named gentlemen does things by halves, to which fact, alone, is attributable their being able to sell yearling steers at the good price of $19.

IN MIDLAND COUNTY

Midland Reporter.

Dr. N. H. Ellis this week sold his ranch and cattle sixteen miles east of Midland to J. V. Stokes. The deal was closed yesterday morning, and aggregates a consideration of $17,400. There were eleven sections of land and 618 highly graded Hereford cattle, well known as having come from S. E. Townsend's famous old figure "2" herd. The cattle sold at $15 around.

The heavy rain that fell Thursday evening and yesterday morning was of course very acceptable, though the Midland country was in no wise distressed over a lack of it. Plenty of grass for the winter everywhere, and this rain will make it green right up to frost. Doubtless considerable surface water was put out, too, and this comes as a great blessing during the still season.

About the only draw back to West Texas range conditions is a lack of water. There has been but little wind in the past few weeks and stock water in places has run quite low. Grass is plentiful almost everywhere, and our ranchmen are making every effort to stop the dangers of a shortage of water. Many gasoline engines are being placed on the range to take the place of wind.

There are not enough cattle in the Midland country this season to eat up anything like all the grass there is and will be on the range this winter, and in consequence our stockmen ought to be entirely independent. The usual stuff we sell to the northwest buyer and northern feeder should bring a fair price or held for a more favorable season, and we doubt not that it will be. It will be little use, we think, for the other fellow to make any ridiculous propositions this season.

IN STERLING COUNTY

Sterling News-Record.

W. L. Foster shipped two cars of cows and a car of calves to market this week.

H. A. Bagwell sold his half section ranch to P. M. Gressett of Runnels county this week for $1,500.

During the thunder storm Wednesday evening, lightning set fire to the grass in Mike Sullivan's pasture and burned off a considerable area of grass. The timely arrival of the rain put out the fire just as it reached J. T. Davis' pasture north of town.

This is how a pair of big, baggy ducking overalls once saved me from serious, if not fatal consequences. In the fall of 1889, I purchased at the Montvale 'sto" of an indifferent stock, a pair of overalls which fitted my person in a very generous manner. Donning these big trousers, I found that the seat was exceedingly voluminous, but hung very low, and looked as though a Dutch family had vacated the premises. With the legs of my panties tucked into a pair of cowboy boots I mounted a horse and proceeded to a roundup to be held in the "half circle S" pasture that morning. I had ridden to the top of Hattie-Nan mountain, west of Billy McEntire's ranch, and finding the southwest side so steep, I dismounted and proceeded to walk and lead my horse down the mountain. When I had gone about half way down the rocky slope, I came to a "jump off," or a perpendicular rock, which I had to step off after the manner of a stairway. Here the horse began to pull back and snort as if he thought something bad was under those rocks, and afterward I found he was correct in his suspicions, for just as I threw my leg forward to step down, my horse pulled back and for a moment I stood suspended, a monster rattlesnake sprung up from behind the rock and drove his fangs hard and fast into the baggy seat of my new ducking pants, where he hung as if fastened by a wire. Letting out a terrible yell, I turned loose the bridle reins and began a race which, even now, I often run in my dreams and, on waking, shudder as if old Cerberus had been chasing me through the regions of Pluto, with that snake hung to me like the tail of a cow, and his body whipping my legs, I went tearing down that mountain at a rate of speed that would make a scared coyote howl with envy. After running about a hundred yards, I leaped a bunch of catclaw bush which caught the snake and tore him loose from me; but I kept right on for about two hundred yards further before I made up my mind that I was safe. As soon as I could regain my breath and listen, I could hear the big rattler singing a challenge to mortal combat. Guided by the sound of the snake's rattles, I cautiously approached the monster and dispatched him with a bullet from my Winchester, which I had, in the meantime, recovered from my saddle. He measured six feet four inches and I took sixteen rattles from his tail.

IN SAN SABA COUNTY

San Saba News.

Gip Stark of Shiloh was in San Saba last Thursday arranging the papers in a land trade with J. B. McNurlin. Mr. Stark sold Mr. McNurlin his 1,214-acre farm and ranch near Coy, Mils county, for $4,400, taking Mr. McNurlin's ninety-two-acre farm near Shiloh at $2,000.

Messrs. Kelley & Hagan purchased from E. Campbell his river farm and ranch consisting of 1,060 acres of land. This tract consists of 509 acres of pasture land and 551 acres of fine river valley land. They have sold to T. Y. Elton about 400 acres of the pasture land at $10 per acre and we understand the remainder of the tract will be put on the market at once and cut into small tracts to suit purchasers.

IN HARTLEY COUNTY

Channing Courier.

Messrs. J. B. Brown, S. A. Brown, D. Rector and J. D. Harrold recently purchased ranch property, including the Louis Simmons place, and will immediately erect residences and improve their property. The household furniture arrived yesterday and was stored in the large warehouse in East Channing.

Last Monday night, about 12 o'clock, there was heard a roll of thunder in the air—delightful music, indeed, to the sweltering citizenship of Channing. The thunder was but a prelude to one of the most glorious rains of the year. All night long and far into the next day, the rain came down, not violently, but with a gentle, continuous persistence that penetrated deep down to every thirsty tree root, while the fields and gardens were lifted into new life of green and growth, which will continue until frost comes.

IN SCURRY COUNTY

Snyder Light.

F. M. German returned from Colorado last Saturday, where he spent a few days getting field notes preparatory to surveying the O'Keef ranch between Dunn and Colorado. Mr. German will begin surveying the property Monday, and after it is finished it will be platted and put on the market. It is to be sold on easy terms.

Scurry county has been visited by fine rains, and for several days last week we experienced a rainy season. We have a fine fall season, which will make good grass and late feed stuff. The consensus of opinion among farmers is to the effect that cotton has been greatly benefited. The crop now is more promising than at any time during the past thirty days. Owing to the lateness of the season there is not much apprehension as to the boll worms.

MRS. STUART ROBSON (Nee)

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Stuart Robson says she is getting thin in vaudeville.

"I like vaudeville," she said the other night after her turn was over at the Alhambra. "It's hard work, two performances daily, but you're your own manager, can select your own plays and drill your own company without risking anyone's money."

She paused for breath, which didn't come, so she went right on without it.

"I'm appearing in a sort of modernized Lady Teazle scene, and it keeps me going. My! I have to put lots of ginger into it. I do everything but jump over the chairs.

"Vaudeville may be hard work, but it's much better than all str stock. I saw some of that sort of work lately. Do you know some of the actors would walk to the wings with their parts in their hands, studying them until they walked on."

RAILROAD RUMBLING

The statement made a few days ago in The Telegram that the object of the incorporation of the Gulf, Santa Fe and Northwestern was to build the Texas division of the cut-off that is to form the new transcontinental line between Galveston and California of the Santa Fe system, has just been confirmed by General Attorney Terry of the Gulf system of the Santa Fe, who further says that the line is to be built at once.

E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe, is at the head of the new company. The statement made by Mr. Terry is significant in view of the fact that a New York dispatch denies that any such move is contemplated by the Santa Fe.

BEST RAILROADS

Winchell Declares America Far in Advance of Europe

"The railroads in the United States are the best in world. Europe can no longer boast of having the best constructed, the best equipped and best operated railroads. The railroads in Europe are not to be compared with ours in many particulars."

This is the opinion of Ben L. Winchell, president of the Rock Island system, who has just completed an extensive trip through various European countries.

Further speaking of this matter, President Winchell, in a Chicago interview, said:

"In the last quarter of a century American railway managements have turned the tables upon their European friends. Twenty-five years ago the European roads, those in France, Germany and England especially, were far in advance of American railroads in points of construction, if not in equipment and operation. I rode on all of the famous railroads in Europe, and not one of them can excel, if they equal, the construction of any one of the large American systems. Furthermore, they are not to be compared with some of our best standard roads. As for comfort in travel, the American roads are so far ahead of the foreign roads that there can be no comparison. A great deal of the best service across the water would not be tolerated by the American public if given to them at home."

IN A CIRCLE

Express Company Injuctions Would Make Ends Meet

The new express classification order of the Texas railroad commission regulating express companies doing business in the state, will possibly be resisted by the express companies, who are said to be getting ready to institute injunction proceedings against the commission. The order is effective Oct. 1.

It is said that the new classification brings the entire situation back to where it stood when the companies enjoined the rates two years ago in the federal court.

PULLMAN RESERVATIONS

Cash Payment to Be Required with Berth Order

The custom of granting space reservations in Pullman sleepers without being paid for in advance is to be changed, according to a statement made here.

Division Superintendent Martyn of St. Louis has gone to Mexico to confer with Pullman officials there as to the advisability of doing away with this custom.

District Superintendent Leamaster and Agents F. M. Carley and C. Z. Magnan of Fort Worth also conferred with Mr. Martyn regarding the proposed change, but what conclusion was arrived at has not been announced as yet.

The Pullman company adopted the system on the Pacific coast some time ago and it is now understood that an attempt is being made to extend the practice all over the entire system.

PORTER HAS GRAFT

Passenger Complains of Hold-up for Berth

A new graft is reported on passenger trains out of Denver and Colorado Springs that is to be laid before the management of the Pullman company. It is worked by the porter in a Pullman car. Referring to the matter a passenger who arrived here over the Denver Road said:

"I have been worked many times, but not so completely as I was Sunday last as I came from Denver. Boarding the train, I asked for a lower berth. The colored porter told me there were none unless the parties who had previously secured them did not show up. In this case he thought it possible that I could have one of them. After the train had passed several stations below Denver I again asked the porter regarding a berth, having noticed that another passenger was given a berth during the interim.

"You see, boss, he gave a $2 tip. If you want one on the same basis I can get you a lower, but you must not say anything to the conductor." The tip was not forthcoming.

It is learned that similar grafts are being practiced on other trains out of Denver and Colorado Springs. It is expected the company will immediately take steps to prevent such imposition on the public.

COTTON MOVING

International Expects Heavy Traffic From Taylor

M. L. Morris, traveling passenger agent of the International and Great Northern railroad, is in Fort Worth today from Palestine headquarters. He reports that there is a heavy movement of cotton from points along that road at this time and believes that the shipment of the staple over the International this season will be the largest in many years. From the town of Taylor along the International he anticipates that the total receipts this season will reach 25,000 bales. This estimate of course does not include the movement over the Katy from that point.

Mr. Morris says that good rains fell in Austin and Georgetown Tuesday night which will be of great value to cotton.

He adds that picking is under way with a rush but that labor is difficult to get. Many Mexicans are being employed. They are secured from the Laredo country. Plantation managers are also employing all the negroes they can secure, but this class of labor is also difficult to get. They move from one section to another and refuse to remain at any one point for any specified length of time.

PASSENGER AGENT RETIRES

News has been received here of the retirement from the traffic department of the Southern Pacific at San Francisco of General T. H. Goodman, who has been general passenger agent of that company for the past thirty-seven years. He leaves the company Sept. 30 at his own request on a pension. The functions of the office vacated by General Goodman will after the above date be looked after by Charles S. Fee, passenger traffic manager.

CATTLE SHIPMENT

E. F. Tillman, live stock agent of the Frisco, who has been off duty for some time, is in the city today. He spent most of his vacation on his ranch in Sutton county. He reports that conditions in that part of the state are excellent and cattle doing well. "There will be a large shipment of cattle from the Sutton country this fall," said Mr. Tillman, "provided, of course, that prices are fairly good." He says that general conditions over that part of the state never looked finer than now.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

The Rock Island passenger department today issued its regular monthly revised pocket card. It shows the changes in arrival and departure of all trains from Fort Worth up to date.

R. C. Fyfe, assistant general freight and passenger agent of the Cotton Belt, with headquarters at Tyler, is in Fort Worth today.

Commercial Agent Dillon of the Santa Fe is out of the city today.

Live Stock Agent J. I. Conway of the Santa Fe has gone north on business.

It is stated at the local freight office of the Santa Fe that farmers along that line are inclined to hold their cotton for 11 cents. In consequence the movement at this time is not heavy.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

Cool Weather Starts Plans for Early Games

First football game of the season in this city probably will be seen Saturday at the Fort Worth University campus. Coach Enoch J. Mills having plans under way to secure a practice game with Carlisle Military Academy.

The team is already working hard. Coach Delaney is at the head of the team. They expect to have a much stronger team than last year. After only three days' practice the team is showing up in playing form and has remarkable endurance for the time of year. They expect to play any team that comes near their weight. Captain Loone says that the team is much faster than last year's team.

Members of the high school squad are also beginning work for the year, while the society clubs are discussing the organization of elevens. Talk of an all-city eleven is also being heard.

POLYTECHNIC NOTES

DAVIDSON LOSES; WILL TRY AGAIN

To Re-submit Franchise With Elimination of Features Held Responsible

Application of Sam Davidson and others for a heat, light and power franchise was defeated in the referendum election Tuesday by a vote of 531 against it and 227 for it. The vote was probably the lightest ever cast in an election of importance here. Vote in each ward was against the grant.

Vote by wards was:

	For.	Against.
First ward	29	61
Second ward	42	72
Third ward	9	41
Fourth ward	42	71
Fifth ward	9	44
Sixth ward	32	91
Seventh ward	14	34
Eighth ward	23	60
Ninth ward	27	57
Total	227	531

In several wards, opening of the polls was delayed by tickets being delivered late. In these places the polls remained open after closing hour a sufficient time to make up the difference.

Sam Davidson is quoted as saying after the election:

"I will make application for another election on a franchise that will differ from the one defeated. I do not believe that the voters of Fort Worth defeated this application for a franchise because Sam Davidson was asking for it, but because they didn't like the manner in which the application was couched. Just what I will base my next application on I have not yet decided. However, I believe that I will eliminate from my next application those features that have raised the protests against the granting of the application voted on today. I will ask the council to order a second election just as quickly as I can get the petition out and signed in accordance with the city charter on this subject and of course the exact time can only be approximated."

AMUSEMENTS

Like a leaf torn out of the Arabian Nights is the entertainment Adelaide Herrmann and her company are giving this year. Herrmann the Great was undeniably a great magician and his repertoire of tricks was probably the largest accumulated by any one man since the days of Robert Houdin, but Herrmann never got together such a series of beautiful stage pictures as Mme. Herrmann has devised. The Sleeping Beauty illusion is a marked improvement over Herrmann's conception, and the entire list of feats which Mme. Herrmann essays are given with a graceful skill which aids materially in defeating efforts to "see through them." A good-sized matinee and a big night audience at Greenwall's yesterday applauded both performances generously. The four American trumpeters' specialty made a great hit and came in for many encores.

RICH STOCK COMPANY

The Rich Stock Company open a seven nights engagement at Greenwall's opera house tonight, presenting for the opening bill "For Her Sister's Sake." Change of bill each performance: Popular prices to prevail throughout the engagement. Matinee prices, adults 20 cents; children 10c; night prices, 10 cents, 20 cents and 30 cents. Ladies free tonight when accompanied by a person with a paid 30c ticket, if purchased before 6 p. m.

NEW TROLLEY LINE WAITING ON TIES

Mile and a Half of Rails to Arlington Heights Have Been Laid at Present Time

Work of building the electric line from Fort Worth to Arlington Heights is being pushed as rapidly as possible under the circumstances. The slowness in arrival of material is causing some delay in constructing the road. However, one and a half miles of the line is already completed and the remainder of the four miles will be finished just as soon as the rest of the ties reach Fort Worth, having been delayed by the fever quarantine which has interfered with the running of freight trains in Louisiana from which country the ties are coming.

Under the quarantine regulations freight trains are not permitted to cross the Louisiana border. This being the case shipments cannot reach the line without necessary delay. At the headquarters of the company today it was announced that two cars of ties arrived Tuesday and other shipments are due to reach here during the present week.

All the rails and electric poles have been spread along the right of way and every detail is completed for finishing the road from the west city limits to Lake Como.

Grounds for the pavilion have also been put in shape for the preliminary work of construction and just as soon as material reaches here construction will commence. The intention of the company is to have the pavilion and bridge across the lake finished as soon as possible, and the general improvements of the heights property is to be kept moving until it has been put in first-class condition.

The pavilion will be one of the best ever constructed in the south and will contain all the latest improvements known to architecture.

LIKE A CANDLE IN A DRAUGHT

The Final Scene in a Dramatic Tale of Love and Selfishness

(Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

"Miss Ireson to see you, sir."

Reuben Shaw looked down at the envelope he had just blotted.

"I will see her."

As the outer door of his chambers closed behind the attendant, Reuben

KISSED HER SAVAGELY

Shaw reached one hand to a picture that hung beside him, and turned its face to the wall.

A determined little figure in gray stepped forward, and the door closed once more.

"Good morning, Reuben," observed his visitor quietly.

Reuben Shaw did not move.

Miss Ireson, after tapping one foot impatiently on the worn carpet a moment, crossed it swiftly and bent over him, putting one hand on the back of his chair, the other on his knee. For a brief second Reuben took no notice of this lover-like gesture, then he caught her in a clasp that made her wince, and kissed her savagely.

Miss Ireson, with an incongruous air of half-pitying ownership, dropped a fiery salute upon his forehead, and released herself.

"Now we're friends again," she remarked, with the same air of tolerant possession, "but you've crumpled somebody's letter shockingly. I am very sorry, sir," with a mock curtsey, "but—why, it's for me!"

"Read it," he said hoarsely, and fell to pacing up and down like a woman in pain. Thirty years after he could shut his eyes and see that gloomy, paper-littered room, with the trim, small figure in the gray gown throned upon his big chair, reading the scrawled pages, and growing whiter and more rigid with every line.

"'Yours very sincerely, Reuben Shaw,'" she repeated in a scornful, far-away voice; "'yours—very—sincerely.'"

"If ever you ceased!" she said; "then you do love me still! No, no!—let me think what it says."

She went off upon a strained, high recitative, innocent of full stops.

"It says that you love me, and will never love anyone else; that your people are poor and that you are poor, and that I am poor, and that your mother wants you to marry some one who is very rich and very fond of you; that you are going to do it for your people's sake, and that you are only 'mine very sincerely, Reuben Shaw.' He is a wise man and a lawyer, this Reuben Shaw." Her voice broke suddenly; she lifted her shoulders and burst out laughing. The carneal merriment ended abruptly.

"What is that picture with its face to the wall? Some woman, Lawyer Reuben, n'est-ce-pas?"

She ran across and turned it round.

"Ah, the rich woman, Reuben Shaw, by her diamond rings and lily-white hands. Tell me, is it not she? What is her name? Since she is to supplant me I have a right to know."

"Isabel," said Shaw, bewildered into candor by her rapid changes of mood.

"'Isabel' already! Very well, Miss 'Isabel,'" and she set the portrait back against the wall with a long look at the pictured face.

"Do you know," she began gaily, "that I came here this morning on legal business, Reuben? Listen. My great-uncle, a very rich old man, who was a squire or something of that sort in Kent, has died, and there is no relation nearer than I. I saw his death in the papers. I am going to put in my claim, and so I came to ask if you would take my case, and make me a rich little woman, Reuben dear."

She studied him acutely while she built up her careful sentences—a wedded desperation of fear and love quivering in her voice—and saw with relief his indecision verge upon surrender as her accustomed influence regained its hold. He snatched her to him.

Miss Ireson flung her arms about him feverishly, and with a shuddering sigh, relapsed into quiescent enjoyment of his caresses. He bent to kiss her, but she put up a resolute hand and covered his mouth.

"Say you hate the Isabel creature," demanded Miss Ireson.

"I hate the—— a moment, dear. Here is Hayes about something." He put her into his chair again.

"Well, Hayes?"

"Sir Alfred Scott to see you, sir. He says it is exceedingly important that he should speak with you for a few moments."

"Very well, Hayes, I will come down to the hall," said Reuben Shaw, and the door closed silently.

* * * * *

"What are these things, Reuben?" asked Miss Ireson, when the door opened again.

"What things, my darling? Oh, don't touch them—they are some of the evidences in a murder case of mine. Mind, for God's sake, Ruth! that dagger is poisoned. Don't laugh, darling. See, this tiny bottle holds the same poison as is on the blade."

"What sort of poison is it?" persisted Miss Ireson.

"You morbid craeture! The sort of poison that if I took a sip of it—don't be afraid, little woman, I'm not going to—would let me walk from here to the Tower without feeling anything wrong. Then I should go out like a candle in a draught. Come and sit down and talk business. About this great fortune of yours?"

Miss Ireson leaned against the side table, playing with the deminutive green bottle. It was a second before she answered.

"I lied to you, Reuben, my dear; I wanted you to make much of me once more before—Oh, I am only a poor little milliner, dressmaker, typewriter—what you will—after all. Now go and marry the Isabel creature and pay your family debts."

She drew the cork of the phial and tossed a few drops into her mouth.

Reuben Shaw leaped up, horrified.

"Nay, do not trouble to show me down," Miss Ireson protested laughingly, as she opened the door and stepped through. "Remember, I can get as far as the Tower before I go out like a candle in the draught. Good morning, Lawyer Reuben, and—goodbye."

FRUIT AT THE BREAKFAST TABLE

Nature Provides Its Own Remedies Which, if Used Judiciously, Insure Perfect Health at All Times

Aside from the pleasure of eating seasonable fruits before beginning the first meal of the day, this custom has undoubtedly arisen from the well known fact that nearly all fruit and more particularly plums and PRUNES contain natural laxative principles which act directly on the stomach and bowels.

Constipation, that dread and troublesome complaint which is undoubtedly the basic cause of nine-tenths of the dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, etc., so prevalent among our people today, and, which if neglected, surely leads to more complicated and serious organic diseases, can surely be prevented, and when not too far advanced, can be absolutely cured by the judicious use of the modern laxative and cathartic California Prune Wafers.

They are not a patent medicine in the ordinary sense of the word, being compounded from fresh California Prunes, which every intelligent person knows is truly nature's laxative.

A dainty little wafer, always the same, compounded in a highly concentrated form from fresh California Prunes, they are a natural dissolvent, acting on the contents of the stomach and bowels and not on the organs themselves.

They regulate the Liver and Stomach, Cleanse the System and Purify the Blood, Cure all Bowel Troubles, Biliousness, Bad Breath, Bad Blood, Wind on the Stomach, Bloated Bowels, Foul Mouth, Headache, Indigestion, Pimples and Dizziness.

Every household should have its family package of CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFERS, and at the first signs of approaching illness, or when under the weather, take a couple of Wafers, and the doctor's bills will soon be much smaller than they are now.

You can eat what you please if you follow each meal with a CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFER, which quickly dissolves the most indigestible food, and helps to carry it through and out of the system in a gentle and healthful manner, without the slightest pain, griping or nausea. 100 Wafers for 25c.

TEXAS REQUISITION HONORED

No cocoa equals Lowney's in strength. Some are blacker — colored chemically — but inferior in real strength.

Lowney's Cocoa is not loaded with ground cocoa-shells, flour, starch, or other adulterants.

It consists of nothing but the choicest cocoa beans ground to flour fineness.

The result is the most delicious, purest and finest flavored cocoa possible.

Such cocoa as Lowney's, if made abroad and duties paid, would cost double the Lowney price.

Report to the People

"How are you coming on," a prominent man enquires about the movement for industrial peace.

It's not exactly an easy job to stop strikes, insure steady work in the factories or prevent interference with electric and railway transportation, but a practical working plan has been discovered and is now being applied in town after town.

Yes it works, and works in a sturdy, dependable and result-producing way.

The actual operation is worth more than a hay wagon full of theories. Step by step the conditions were met and the problems solved. The labor unions assumed the form of trusts for the sale of labor. They seek better conditions for workmen but are generally managed by men for personal money-getting and these men hold their power by forcing up wages as high as the public will stand. That in a way is right enough, but the methods are oppressive.

They use persuasion, threats, intimidation, assaults, violence and various means to force workmen to join the trust, for large membership means power and large incomes to the manipulators. Then when these trusts became powerful enough the common people were treated to a most extraordinary display of oppression and tyranny.

Industries have been stopped causing loss of literally hundreds of millions of dollars to owners, work people and the community. Property has been burned, blown up and wrecked in other ways. Tens of thousands of American citizens have been assaulted and hundreds have been murdered by these labor trusts in their bloodthirsty efforts to force all the rest of humanity to implicitly obey their "orders."

These outrages have been from ten to 100 times the volume of the overt acts toward the Negro, that brought on the civil war. We spent money enough to almost bankrupt the nation and the precious lives of fathers, brothers, sons and husbands enough to people it in that struggle to avenge the wrongs and insure the liberty of the black man. But the white slave of the labor trust—what about him? What about the losses, abuse, tyranny, assaults and murders? What about the thousands of decent white men and women, tied hand and foot, unable to work, move or act, except by contribution to and with consent of the trust? Human liberty and constitutional rights of an American citizen are denied them. It got so bad people were afraid to openly protest against the tyrannies because of the "black hand" style of far-reaching acts that made life a misery or wiped out the individual altogether.

Then it dawned on some of us that the people—the 780 out of every 800—were not members of the labor trust, but really had to bear the oppression of the minority and be ruled by them. There are only about 20 union members in every 800 citizens. But the compact organization of the few made it possible for the labor trust, in many cases, to force their tyranny on the unorganized majority. The next natural thought was—organize the people for their own protection.

That was an inspired thought.

So to put it into practical operation a big convention in Chicago two years ago formed the Citizens' Industrial Association of America. It progressed slowly for, however badly hurt, people do not quickly understand practical reforms. But one after another towns organized associations for protection and found they got it. In July, this year, the National Association headquarters was moved to New York and the work has been growing rapidly. Many more organizers are needed that the operations be rapidly extended. But any town or city can set up a good practical Association by some one man who has the interest of his town at heart, calling a few property owners together. Elect temporary officers, send to the National Association for constitution, by-laws and detailed instructions, then have a larger meeting and permanently organize. Select a good working official who can interest others and build up the association. The cost is practically nothing if the active man will give his time, although it has been found best to pay a salaried man who will do things. Every merchan becomes interested because he prospers best when the factories are going. Every clerk, doctor, lawyer, manufacturer, teamster and independent workman likewise. Even the thrifty, law-abiding union men will help in enforcing industrial peace and maintaining the law if they can be assured freedom from union punishment, and the Citizens' Association can in a practical way insure that. How do we prevent strikes?

Each local Citizens' Association is thoroughly in earnest in demanding that no strikes occur, but all differences be placed before the local "Industrial Jury," made up of equal numbers of workmen and employers. The findings are made public and thus the voice of the people is expressed, carrying with it public opinion that greatest of all powers in this country.

Does it work?

You should see the results. Do the working people want steady work and steady wages? Do the merchants, clerks, lawyers and teamsters as well as other citizens? Do the manufacturers appreciate steady peace? Do the railroad owners care to have each town on the line humming along day by day and the railroad employes living in satisfied peace? Is it worth while for people in a community to enjoy a steady flow of prosperity in place of the badly broken condition of industrial warfare now and then fixed on many communities? To produce effective work the National Association must have financial means to carry the clerical force and employ a small army of competent organizers in the field. Some prominent men, keen to detect the practical workings have contributed liberally.

Manufacturers can afford to contribute from $100.00 to $10,000.00 each. "A strike is as bad as a fire" and this is simply a very easy and certain form of strike insurance. Merchants can well afford to expend $5.00 to $25.00 a year towards the work. Philanthropic people with a motive for helping their fellows can invest their "public good" funds in no more practical way and the working man and common citizen of small means who feels a desire to do his little share toward a great national movement for industrial peace, can send $1.00, 50 cents of which makes him a member at large of the National Citizens' Industrial Association and the other 50 cents pays for the "Square Deal," the monthly magazine devoted to the work. The Square Deal tells in plain words what a square deal is and applies that principle to everything it prints. Each month the current questions of the day are treated and commented on, analyzed and clarified so that the "Common Man" may get facts! fact!! facts!!!

The rank mental poison spread among workmen and the public generally by the yellow journal and the violent labor papers, seems to rot the mind of the steady reader until it has about as much capacity to think sanely as a worn out rubber shoe. Anarchy and lawbreaking is being taught by these riot breeding papers to such an extent that any thoughtful man would be startled to know the facts. The condition of unrest, is cultivated by the yellow and labor papers, constantly teaching the wage earner to hate every man who owns a house or has saved a dollar. The outbreaks of violence and violent talk against police protection, the civil courts and all officers and laws that exist for the protection of the common people, shows plainly the tendency towards Socialism and Anarchy which will grow like weeds in an uncared-for garden. Men who have regard for the sacred mantle of liberty fought for, won, and handed down to us, are patriots enough to stand together and save this fair America from the chaos hinted at by the lawbreakers. But they cannot give force to their views acting as individuals. Organization must meet present organization with superior force. When the citizens are organized they do the work and insure industrial peace. It is the business of the National Citizens' Association to organize local Associations in every community. Experience has taught the way and the results show how practical the methods are. Are you a patriot? Do you believe in steady industry? Do you want the common people to have the organization and power to rule notwithstanding the "orders" and manipulations of the labor trust or any other trust? Do you believe in maintaining the law and insuring industrial peace? If so, be you merchant, workman, clerk, lawyer, teamster or railroad president, join the Citizens' Industrial Association. It costs you 50 cents to be a member at large and 50 cents for the monthly publication, the "Square Deal," which keeps you alive as to facts. Send $1.00 bill in envelope; it's safe, almost without fail. If you have any doubt send money order. Do your little share and if your further interests are worth insuring, send in addition a properly computed sum for the work. If you are big enough mentally to build a big business, you have mental caliber sufficient to tell you what to do.

Will the money be honestly handled? The Association put the writer at the wheel to steer the ship and I am "most always around" and do not hesitate to give my personal guarantee, that when the finance committee make the semi-annual inspection, we will, like Uncle Abe Lincoln when he kept postoffice up at Salem, have properly receipted bills and the balance of the money to a cent, "in the sock." I receive no salary or other compensation and expect none. Now then, the practical working machinery for industrial peace is placed before you. Some good men are furnishing fuel to run it moderately. By liberal support it can be made a national power for general peace.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Early London cables continued bearish on American stocks, this having no effect on Wall street, as the recnt engagement of gold caused a more cheerful feeling regarding the monetary situation and imparted some strength to market during the early trading.

All issues exhibited a firm undertone. Canadian Pacific and Reading were especially active, and the market in general recovered from yesterday's depression.

The afternoon session was very active, Canadian Pacific was distinctly the feature, during the last hour this issue touching 176½, a gain of 4⅝ points, but closed $1.00 less at 175½. Reading also advanced 3⅛ points on the day.

The general market showed an advance on the day and closed strong.

IN DONLEY COUNTY

Clarendon Banner-Stockman.

C. E. Thornton of Memphis was here Saturday. He reports the sale by himself, father and brother to T. M. Pyle of this city and Mr. Andrews of Claude of their entire land and cattle holdings in Hall county. There were nine sections of land and a number of cattle represented in the deal, and the total consideration was $23,000.

Eight cars of cattle, belonging to different parties, went from this place to Kansas City and St. Joe Saturday. Following were the shippers: J. E. McCombs, one car of cows and calves to St. Joe; L. C. Beverly, one car of cows to St. Joe; C. E. Ryan, two cars of cows to Kansas City; McClelland & Derrick, two cars of cows to St. Joe; LU Cattle Company, one car of cows to St. Joe; G. C. Ferguson, one car of cows and one car of calves to Kansas City and St. Joe.

The Denver Road will again put on its special stock train next Sunday. The train will leave Amarillo at 6 o'clock Sunday morning and will land the cattle on the Fort Worth market at an early hour Monday morning.

IN MITCHELL COUNTY

Colorado News.

Sheriff Johnson arrested a negro here Saturday wanted at Seymour on a charge of horse theft. The sheriff at that place arrived Tuesday and conveyed the prisoner back.

The News is reliably informed that C. A. O'Keefe has determined to cut up his ranch just north of Colorado into tracts of 160 acres and put same on the market, as soon as it can be surveyed. This is one of the finest bodies of land in west Texas, much of it being well improved, and extending from within a mile and a half of Colorado to a line north of Dunn in Scurry county, containing about 28,000 acres. The Colorado river runs through the center of it. The contract has been closed with F. M. German of Snyder to survey and map the entire ranch at once. And the tracts will range in price from $5 to $15 per acre, payable one-fourth cash and the balance on easy terms. Captain R. A. Jeffress of Colorado has charge of the sale of this land. The placing on the market of this land means more to the town than another railroad. It means that 172 families will be settled near Colorado to add to the trade of the town.

IN HOWARD COUNTY

Big Springs Herald.

Harry Abney on last Saturday sold to J. O. Bigham two cars of calves.

Hall, Jarmon and Stokes, Colorado cow buyers, are canvassing Glasscock and Reagan counties for fat cows and steer yearlings.

Joe Routh bought of Mr. Moore in southwest portion of the county four sections of school and six railroad sections; also 110 head of cattle at $13 around.

Still there is some trading lands down here and cattle buyers are beginning to come in after fat cows at $15 and $16. Glad to see them worth it and hope the buyer will make some money on them also.

Again the weather clerk came to the rescue of the sun-baked bosom of Texas. Monday afternoon this section was visited by copious showers and again on Tuesday and Thursday afternoon the performance was duplicated. The rains extended into Dawson and Glasscock counties also. The rains came at a very opportune time, as every form of vegetation was beginning to feel the effects of Sol's fury. Verily, west Texas is the favored spot of the state this year. Other parts of Texas have been flooded, visited by drouths, but out this way everything is most favorable for the tillers of the soil.

IN SUTTON COUNTY

Sonora News.

Dock Simmons sold nine mares at $37.50 to Todd of Eldorado.

Dudley Yaws bought from Rec. Thompson his blue ribbon yearling Hereford bull for $150.

T. W. Whetstone sold his three-section ranch, one well and improvements to Paul Nixson of Nix for $3,250.

L. E. Davis of Brady sold ten bucks to Tom Adams at $12.50 and eighteen to Walter Whitehead at $10 per head.

T. D. (Dock) Word arrived in Sonora with a fine bunch of twenty-nine Durham bulls, registered and high grade from Hill county, in time for the carnival. There are some beauties in Dock's herd and some that do not look so well that have the "papers." Most of these bulls were bought for himself and neighbors, but he has some for sale that may be seen on his ranch twenty miles west of Sonora. Anyone wanting registered or pure blood, first class individuals had better hurry, as they wont last long after his neighbors to the west see these animals.

Young Rec Thompson, manager of the Thomson Bros., ranches in Schleicher and Sutton counties has not been holding that responsible position for the past seven years without the necessary ability—and necessary knowledge—not much. As a simple illustration of this young man's up-to-dateness, he had a bunch of fine Hereford cows, calves and young bulls on exhibition in Sonora for the carnival. Rec knows the people down here admired and knew the Hereford and he was not ashamed to show his. The smaller stock men and those who want better blood without danger of fever, know now if they did not before, that it is not necessary to go away from home for the best blood.

A. D. Warren is a stockman who believes that his neighbors are stockmen and recognize the trials and difficulties incident to moving fine stock in the summer time and going up against the water question that has tried the veterans this year. Knowing that the experienced eye could detect and see the cause of the deficiencies, he sent to the carnival a few cows and a number of bull calves. They were not in show shape and no one knew it better than A. D. Warren, nevertlieless a finer bunch of Durham cows was never seen in the Sonora country—the stockman's paradise. Twenty years ago the foundation of this herd of Durhams of the Cruksbank Bates strain was shipped to Texas from Missouri—all registered—and nothing but registered bulls have been in the herd since. Blood will tell is a well known proverb or axiom—Good or bad blood will tell just as sure as chickens come home to roost. The calves did not look well and there was no time to prepare for the show, still the knowing mind of the experienced stockman could easily see what was in them. Mr. Warren was unfortunately compelled to return to the ranch the evening before the carnival and consequently did not exhibit any of his fine Durhams in the show ring. The man who knows blood, and wants blood should see the Warren herd.

IN FISHER COUNTY

Roby Banner.

Good rains have fallen in some portions of the county in the last few days which will do a great deal of good.

Last week the grass in Dr. Bertram's pasture was set on fire by burning cinders from the Orient engine and was not put out until it had reached over in F. M. Long's and G. H. Bunton's pastures. Results were: Dr. Bertram, two sections; F. M. Long, one section; G. H. Bunton, 200 acres.

IN NOLAN COUNTY

Sweetwater Reporter.

E. Boatright brought a couple of cars of cattle in from the ranch and shipped them to market Monday.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, Nolan county received a fine rain, which was badly needed. Nearly every part of the county has all the rain that is necessary for the cotton crop and late feed crops. Cotton is making from a quarter of a bale to a bale per acre, and feed stuffs are fine. Grass is the best we have ever had at this time of the year.

"You have only two months longer to live," the physician told him.

"Then don't say anything about it, doctor," said the consumptive sport. "I can get a whole lot of bets on that proposition."—Chicago Tribune.

COTTON

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Cotton was influenced by the unexpected strength exhibited in the early Liverpool cables. The local market opened steady with October 16 to 17 points higher and December and January 10 to 11 points up. The session ruled quiet and fluctuations were narrow. The general sentiment continues to be bearish, although the October situation still dominates the market.

There was considerable selling during the day, but the market was not affected to any extent and the close was steady at 10 to 13 points higher for active months. Spots are 10 points higher at 10.85c for middling. Sales amounted to 610 bales.

IN IRION COUNTY

Sherwood Record.

Roy Hudspeth has bought the August Schwalbe ranch, cattle and horses.

At Boston last week 425,000 pounds of Texas wool sold at 25 to 27 cents per pound.

All stock out this way will enter the winter months in very favorable condition.

About twenty or thirty Mexican sheep shearers went through town forepart of the week.

E. W. Bennett of Ozona has sold his entire stock of cattle, about 165 head, at $12 per head.

The dry weather and scarcity of wind has made water with the stockman a little scarce out here.

Will Newton has bought 1,627 stock sheep from J. N. Cobb at $2.50 for lambs and $3 for grown sheep.

Big flocks of sheep belonging to Messrs. Shelton and Will Noelke were driven through town this week.

Looks as if it would be a practical idea for stockmen to have a gasoline engine on hand for emergencies.

J. N. Cobb has bought 117 2-year-old steers from George Richardson at $18 per head. They were of the Durham grade.

Albert Kincaid has sold to Jones Miller and son Will 1,600 sheep to be delivered after shearing at $2.25 for lambs and $3 for grown sheep.

It pays to show your live stock at the fairs—that is, if you have something good. When you show you advertise, as you give a real, live demonstration then.

Ed R. Smith shipped two cars of cows and one of calves, and John McKay shipped a car of young horses from San Angelo Friday. Both parties shipped to Fort Worth.

Jeff Mills has sold his two ranches, some twenty-five miles west of town, to Lewis Farr of San Angelo. There were no stock included in the deal.

Sam G. Oglesby of this city, who left week before last for California to buy bucks, telegraphs back home that he cannot buy bucks there that will suit the trade of west Texas.

Mr. Schneeman, a well known stockman of Ozona, has recently arrived with a double-deck load of fine American Merino yearling bucks, which he purchased in Portland, Ore. He expects to use these rams in strengthening his flocks and selling a few to his neighbors.

The Angora goat industry in Texas especially in west Texas, is growing year by year. Not only are more Angoras produced, but those in the business have been infusing new and better blood into their flocks by the purchase of improved bucks.

IN MITCHELL COUNTY

Colorado News.

S. Z. Simpson of Cuthbert sold John Lovelady 150 calves which the latter shipped to Fort Worth Monday.

Babe Simpson, manager of the Nunn ranch, was in town Monday. He brought in 200 head of cattle which were shipped to the Fort Worth market.

IN WARD COUNTY

Barstow Journal.

The Texas Stockman-Journal appears this week in its old newspaper form, and it is right up to the minute with stock news comment.

Dr. G. T. Walton sold three car loads of 2 and 3 year old mules Thursday shipped from Pecos and were as fine a lot of mules as have left the valley.

WEDNESDAY'S REVIEW AND SALES

Receipts of cattle today reached 4,000 head, but a trifle short of Monday's run, and totaling 11,500 for the first half of the week.

Steers

Steer cattle on the beef order still continue short, and buying of these is limited, since some loads in the yards were ordered out. Beef steers from the same lot that sold at $3.65 on Tuesday brought the same today. Other beef steers of lighter weight sold at $3.20. Feeders were in good demand, selling at $2.50@3. Representative sales:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.
74	990	$3.20	26	936	$3.05
24	998	3.15

Cows and Heifers

A big run of poor cows in the yards induced an easy market. Buyers were indifferent about purchasing and the market lacked snap. Early selling was made with tops at $2.25, with the bulk at $1.70@2.05. Canners were a drag. Sales today:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.
28	827	2.10	27	728	1.80

Bulls

Bulls selling steady with feeder buyers taking all lights in sight. One sale was made of a stag weighing 1,060 pounds at $2.50.

Calves

The calf supply increased some over Tuesday's run, and common and heavy calves declined 25c, while choice vealers had a more healthy tone, selling up to $5. Bulk of vealer sales went at $4@4.25. Representative sales:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.
50	250	$1.00	134	171	$4.23

Hogs

Receipts of hogs were good, and they were mostly from Texas. The recent drop in prices has had the effect to drive Oklahoma shippers to Kansas City, where the spread favors the shipper who lives near the dividing line. Top hogs came from Oklahoma and rought $5.45, another raise of 10c in the market. Heavy Texas hogs sold at $5.20@5.27½. Pigs advanced a quarter, selling up to $4.75. Sales today:

A small wagon load of very choice Shropshire wethers and lambs sold at $5 for the former and $5.50 for the latter.

TRADE ITEMS

There is no economy in letting a brood sow get thin in flesh. If kept in good condition, by the time the pigs are weaned she can be mated again and raise a second litter in the same season.

Sheep are said to be driving cattle out of Medicine county, Mont., and cattlemen are moving across the border into Canada.

Dogs killed thirty of a flock of sheep at Winsted, Conn., recently, leaving about twenty young lambs motherless. These are being raised on the bottle.

A fair value for goat's milk, estimating cow's milk on a butter fat basis of 5 cents per quart, would be 20 cents per quart.

One that can afford to keep a good milch goat and buy a package of oat meal a day need not fear hunger or doctor's bills.

During the summer, while the mares are being worked, especial attention must be paid to the feeding of the colts. Never let them suckle the mare when she is heated. Always draw a little of the milk before putting the colt with the dam.

Many of the farmers of the west are leaving the alfalfa field for seed. This is wise. High priced alfalfa seed has retarded the planting in west Nebraska for some years. When we once get great fields of alfalfa the stock industry of the west will take on a new life. No crop will pay better than alfalfa.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

THOMAS & McCURDY,

506½ Main. Phones, old 876, new 876.

THIS seems to be a prosperous year for Texas, and where such is the case, money being easy and everybody feeling secure, we cannot expect any scare or feeling of uneasiness that would be sufficient to cause any decline in prices of real estate. Therefore, if you contemplate investing in real estate, in city or country, we believe prices will range higher rather than decline, and that it will not be wise to wait, and especially is this fact emphasized by the steady advance in prices for building material, etc. Below we give a few residences that are reasonable in price and terms easy. If these do not suit, we have many more, some of which will doubtless please you, and we would be pleased to have you call and let us show them. Two buggies at your command:

1—7-room cottage, Hemphill, every modern convenience, handsomely finished in every respect, large lot. Price $6,000, terms. Another on Hemphill of 8 rooms, every modern convenience and very large lot, $8,000; easy terms. Both of these south of Magnolia, just a few blocks, the prettiest section of this popular street.

2—Two-story 8-room, Quality Hill, plastered, every convenience, barn, etc. Only $4,500, and you can name terms.

3—New 5-room cottage in Ballinger st., modern convenencies, $2,200, $600 cash. You can't duplicate this for the price.

6—Two 5-room cottages, east front, corner lots, barns, conveniencies, $2,500 and $2,650; terms.

7—This number is the prettiest cottage on May street. We do not believe the most critical can suggest a single improvement. There are 5 rooms, large reception hall, a rear hall, bath room with the handsomest fixtures to be had, wide circular gallery, back porch, hot and cold water, electric lights, gas, barn, servant's house, etc. This house is strictly perfect in workmanship and finish, has pretty iron fence, Bermuda lawn, cement walks, gas, east front, near car. MAN ABOUT TOWN

R. I. Parks, a former student of the State University, whose home is at Dublin, and who is a draftsman, has returned to Texas from Panama, where he was employed in the engineering department for a year or more. According to his statements, the situation, in so far as bad health and bad sanitary conditions are concerned, has not been exaggerated in the newspapers. He appears thoroughly disgusted with the country and says that he is content to return to Texas and take chances in securing a less profitable position rather than remain in Panama.

He was stationed at Cristoval, a suburb of Colon. He reports that there are still several Texas boys who are employed in engineering work in Panama, including J. A. Card of Abilene, F. W. Cater of Temple and Messrs. White of San Antonio and Brown of Austin. The salaries paid, he says, are satisfactory, but the health conditions are anything but encouraging, although he says yellow fever is not feared as much in that country as in New Orleans.

George Mulkey and sons, K. A. and W. W. Mulkey, with their families, have returned from Graham, where they went to attend the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Major and Mrs. J. W. Graves. The celebration took place Monday and among those present were twenty old settlers as guests. Major Graves is 76 years of age, and his wife is 66. Both are hale and hearty. Major and Mrs. Graves have twenty-nine immediate relatives—two sons, three daughters, three sons-in-law, one daughter-in-law, fourteen grand children and four great grandchildren, and all were present at the reunion. Major Graves founded the Cleburne Chronicle many years ago, and has been a resident of Graham for the past twenty years. For twenty-five years he has been the proprietor of the Graham Leader.

H. St. John of Cisco is in the city, looking after an excursion that is to be from Cisco to either Dallas or Fort Worth. It will be in the form of a trade excursion and he is seeing men in both of the towns to see what inducements each city will offer to the excursionists. He says that he will bring 500 people from Cisco and vicinity for a day to do trading, and he wants to see whether Fort Worth or Dallas would be the best for their purpose.

CARTRIDGE CAME OUT WRONG WAY

Negress Shot by Companion Who Was Attempting to Empty Revolver. Were Friends

Eliza Slusher, 27 years of age, was shot and seriously wounded by Lawrence Welch, 20 years of age, at 1029 east Nineteenth street, Tuesday night, through the accidental discharge of a revolver which he was trying to remove the cartridges from. Both are negroes.

They had been friends for some time, and, according to the story as told by the man, the girl who was packing her trunk to go cotton picking, asked him to take the cartridges out of the weapon.

Welch secured help immediately after the accident and quietly submitted to arrest by Officers Chaddick and Snow.

HUMANE SOCIETY AFTER BAD HABIT

Expectoration on Sidewalks to Be Made Subject of Educational Campaign

At the annual meeting of the Fort Worth Humane society held Tuesday night, the society took up the matter of spitting on the sidewalks, evidences of which are seen daily despite the ordinance enacted upon the subject, and a resolution looking toward education of the public in the matter was passed.

Officers of the organization will be elected at a called meeting of the board of directors, chosen Tuesday night as follows:

J. F. Cooper, W. G. Turner, A. A. Lock, C. C. Cummings, George Carter, E. P. Maddox, A. E. Want, William McVeigh and G. S. Hart.

It was the sense of the members of the society that the organization be incorporated, and the secretary was instructed to take the proper steps to have the organization granted a charter. The report of the secretary shows a balance on hand of $12, with a membership enrolled of 108 regular with three honorary members.

During the year twenty-four cases were taken up, eleven by letter and ten personally by the secretary. Three could not be seen on account of the insufficiency of the address.

Of the cases attended to seven were prosecuted, three convicted and fined, three admonished and dismissed and one on the docket of the courts yet.

MILLERS MEET HERE

Wheat Situation Discussed Without Any Action

Members of the State Flouring Millers' Association met in this city Tuesday afternoon for a discussion of the wheat situation and other matters. Members of the organization from this city report that no action was taken in regard to the matter.

Considerable Oklahoma wheat will be shipped into this state, a number of prominent millers being connected with the Texas Grain and Flour Company, which has a representative at Enid, and others having elevators of their own in that territory. Any expressions as to what will be done to bring wheat in Texas, they say, are merely the expressions of the intentions of individual millers.

Song Recital Given

An interesting song recital was given at St. Paul's M. E. church Tuesday night, the occasion being the introduction of Miss Mabel Palmer, vocalist, and Mr. Edward Harrison, violinist, both of Fort Worth University. An excellent program was rendered by the two, accompanied by Mrs. F. L. Jaccard.

FACTIONS SPLIT HANDLEY CHURCH

Baptists Now Have Two Organizations

MEMPERSHIP PUZZLING

Question of Property Not Involved, Both Bodies Using Same Building

Redevelopment of the board and anti-board faction struggle in the Baptist church has occurred at Handley, threatening to again bring into prominence the difference between missionary channels, known generally throughout the state as the Carroll and Hayden factions.

Organization of a board church at Handley last Sunday has precipitated the struggle in that place and members of the old church formed as the missionary Baptist church of Handley declare the organization proceedings not only improper but illegal. In this connection they have raised the interesting point to be settled by specialists in church government as to whether a person can belong to two churches at one time.

Double membership or no double membership, the new church has been organized and the old church now threatens to exclude its former members, five in number, who, they declare, are enrolled under the new church—The Second Baptist church of Handley. The old church had a total membership of nine, five of whom are said to have been taken by the new organization.

No struggle as to church property will occur, the place of meeting being a community church used for all religious worship at the place. That strong feeling exists is shown by the statement of a partisan of the old church made in the presence of Elder W. M. Savage, Tuesday afternoon, that the organization of the new church was a mutilation by the board party of its own child. It is claimed that the original church was organized by a board party man and that two of its pastors have been from that side.

Elder Savage says the original church will continue its course excluding the members aiding in the other organization upon grounds of contempt.

Church Stood Neutral

The Missionary church of Handley was organized Nov. 30, 1902, by J. T. Bussey. Mission matters soon became threatening in the church and the following resolution is spread upon the minutes of the church meeting April 9, 1905:

"Whereas, Our denomination has become so divided as to create two mission bodies in our beloved state and thereby separated us as churches and brethren co-operating in the great work of missions, be it

"Resolved, That we, the church at Handley, do not bow or subscribe to either body, but as independent members each shall have the right to contribute to either body of their means as they choose without directly or indirectly being reflected upon for their position. We, therefore, invite all true Baptists to come and help us in the great work of saving souls."

Attempt to Organize

In the third Sunday of April or May, this year, Elder Savage says, a meeting was held at Handley without notice. Organization at this time, he says, was postponed indefinitely.

Next step, he says, was taken Tuesday, Sept. 12, when a number of preachers met at the Handley church for the purpose of arranging for an organization. It was then stated, he says, that the clerk and pastor of the original church were to be notified of the meeting and purpose but that this was not done. This meeting, he says, was attended by the pastor and deacon who heard of it through outsiders, and the famous resolution was then explained and discussed, after which the board party said they would not go into such a church but resolved to organize a straight convention church. A committee, he says, was then appointed to choose a presbytery and set a time for organization.

Protracted Meeting

The Missionary church, it is asserted, then began a protracted meeting Friday night and Elder Savage says it was announced at this meeting that the 11 o'clock hour Sunday being that for the Presbyterians, the Missionary church appointed 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon for their services. Despite this notice, he says, during the preaching service Sunday, several elders, an evangelist, and others arrived on the ground and after the sermon, which, he declares, they did not come in to hear, organized the new body.

New Organization

This new organization is declared by the Missionary church to be defective, it being pointed out by them that to make a legal organization, it was necessary either to dissolve the old church or let the members participating in the new organization withdraw from it and get their letters. As effected, they claim, the new organization participated in by members then in the old church forms a pure case of contempt.

As showing knowledge that the members were still in the old church, Elder Savage declares letters were received from some persons taking part in the organization, ministers present vouching for others. He says that he was then asked if the Missionary church would grant letters to its members participating. He says he answered that he was unable to speak for the church. This incident, he says, clearly shows they recognized the existence of the Missionary church and appreciated the step being taken.

As a result it is urged the members of the Missionary church participating in the new organization are in the position of being at the same time members of two churches subscribing to the same covenants and Articles of Faith.

Elder Johnson of the Second Baptist church was not at his home in Handley Tuesday afternoon.

A statement is being prepared by the new organization regarding the formation which will be given the press.

Contest Still On

Another day has been torn off the calendar and another list of misspelled words in The Telegram Liners has been compiled by the enthusiastic contestants in the prize offer. The offer has been met with unusual favor and is being made the subject of much favorable comment. As announced, three prizes will be given—two pairs of $5 shoes and a $4 shirtwaist, either of which may be exchanged for an order for a similar amount on any Fort Worth merchant.

TEXAS CROP CONDITIONS

Scattered Showers Not Enough to Put Ground in Condition for Fall Plowing

GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 20.—Following is the government's weekly crop bulletin report for the week ending Sept. 18: The weather was generally warm during the day, but the nights were moderately cool. Scattered showers occurred during the week, but they were generally too light to be of much benefit to vegetation. In a few localities, however, good rains fell and crops have been revived considerably in those localities. The scattered showers in the northwest, following upon the good showers of the previous week, placed crops generally in good condition. Over most of the state the ground is dry and hard and plowing and preparing for fall crops and winter grain have been delayed. Where showers fell this work has been carried on quite extensively.

Cotton—The average condition of the cotton crop has not undergone much change during the past week. In the northeastern, western and northwestern districts there has been some improvement, though the improvement in growth and putting on squares in many northeastern counties has been largely counterbalanced by damage by worms. Over the central and southwestern districts the crop has deteriorated slightly, though in a few localities slight improvement is noted. Young bolls and squares are still shedding, but less generally than last week, and fewer bolls are opening prematurely. There has been but little change in the prospects for a top crop. Boll weevils are increasing in number, and in some counties are doing great damage. Other pests are damaging the crop also. But little damage to open cotton has resulted from showers, but many correspondents say that rain at the present time would be more harmful than beneficial to the cotton crop. Bolls are opening rapidly in the middle and southern portions of the state, but in the northern portion they are opening more slowly. Picking is being pushed with little interruption by showers. In the north it has not yet become general.

Corn—Late corn continues to suffer from the dry weather, though improved in localities by showers. Early corn continues to be harvested, with a generally lighter yield than had been expected.

Rice and Sugar Cane—Rice generally continues to do well, though damaged considerably in some localities by dry weather. Much of the crop is ripe and harvesting is in progress under favorable conditions. Sugar cane continues to do well, though it is suffering considerably from drouth in some sections.

Miscellaneous—Gardens, pastures, forage crops, potatoes and fruit have suffered from the drouth. Pastures are drying up in many sections, though grazing is still generally fairly good. Stock water is becoming scarce over an increasing portion of the state, especially in the southwest. Stock is generally doing well, though it is deteriorating in some localities.

What Men Like In a Girl.
Broad Hips, Full Bust, Personal Magnetism, Sweet Disposition Health and—WRINKLES in Her Brain.

If a girl has the attractive qualities that men like, if she always has plenty of men or boy friends—GOOD ones—it is a sign that she is one of earth's choicest possessions, a well-sexed, unselfish, sweet tempered, lovable, WOMANLY girl—fitted to be the MOTHER of good children, for the general good of the world.

What are those things that attract a man, in a girl?

Third: Sweet disposition—ability to be a pleasant companion.

Fourth: HEALTH.

Fifth: Wrinkles in her brain—i. e., capacity for intelligent thought.

Don't make a pretense, as many girls do, of not caring what men think of you.

The whole scheme of nature is based upon intelligent sex selection, from humans down to plants and flowers.

Take Wine of Cardui, if you feel you are lacking in responsiveness, if you are weak, irregular, if any part of your health apparatus is wrong.

Study the principles of proper—NOT FADDIST—exercises, diet, baths, etc. Don't go to extremes, but keep the natural, moderate, middle way, trying to build up whatever seems to be lacking.

Remember that your functions should operate naturally, regularly, painlessly, and that, when anything is wrong in that direction, it very seriously affects your general health.

Remember, that there is a pure, harmless, gentle medicine, which exerts a specific, curative action on your functions and restores their working, viz: CARDUI.

Remember that Wine of Cardui is not an experiment, but has proved a SUCCESS in relieving and curing the female disorders of over a million girls and women. Why not yours?

Try it.
