Camp Fire Fund Drive Opens Nov. 20

The Camp Fire Girls first city-wide finance drive will open Monday, Nov. 20 and continue through Saturday, Nov. 25, Bobo Castleberry, president of the Camp Fire Council, has announced.

Plans for the drive, by which $300 will be raised, were laid out at a recent Camp Fire Council meeting. Mack Saied, Jr. and Henry Sullivan head the drive committee and they will appoint other workers to help.

'This is the first large-scale financial drive ever conducted in the more than ten years of the Camp Fire organization in Wellington," Castleberry pointed out. "During that time, more than one thousand girls have participated in the program. The organization has been self-supporting, with only the annual candy sale project to raise funds.

"If this financial drive is a success, the greater proportion of the candy sale can be allocated to individual groups for their program materials."

The annual budget for the council has been around $300.

The drive will provide for the expansion of the Camp Fire program offered the girls in this area. It will cover books for the Camp Fire library, films, promotional materials, local and regional training courses, camping equipment, and repairs on the

Comanche District Installs Officers

Comanche District Scouting leaders installed new officers and then heard an address by a leading area Scouter, the Rev. Carl Hudson of Miami, at the annual banquet and meeting held at the community building here Monday, Nov. 13 at 7:30.

Sandy Parsons Jr., long-time leader in Boy Scout work in the Panhandle, installed Lawrence Neece of Clarendon as district chairman, succeeding Zook Thomas who held that office during the last year.

A vice cchairman represents each of the other three counties in the Comanche District and are Thomas, of Wellington; Sharon Lee of Memphis, and Jim Moore of Shamrock.

The District Commissioner will be named later.

A humorous speaker who turns serious to drive home his point, the Rev. Hudson pointed out some of the Satisfactions of Scouting, from the adult leader's standpoint.

One, he said, is the satisfaction of contributing to the creative growth of a boy. Then there is the sotisfaction of teaching youngsters about Americanism and teaching them religious faith.

"There is the satisfaction of giving yourself away," he told the crowd, and in closing, he added, "if you have never given yourself to devoted leadership in Scouting, you have never lived."

Mack Yarbrough of Shamrock, the District Commissioner for the past year, received the Scouters Key Award is recognition for Outstanding Work. The presentation was made by Melvin Jennings.

Arrest Man Wanted Here

Sheriff John Rainey has received notice from the McCook, Neb., police department of the arrest of Elmer Lee Nichols, wanted here on a forgery charge.

Sheriff Rainey said the man, whose home is Concordia, Kan., forged the name of P. J. White to a check which he gave to Slay and Ward in the late summer.

Nichols, 22, first came to Texas to work in the harvest during the summer, returned to Kansas, came back to Texas, and then went to Colorado before going to Nebraska, according to a statement given McCook officers, a photostatic copy of which was sent to Rainey.

Dwight, high school principal at Samnorwood has announced.

Mr. Stalnaker said "In recognition of their excellent performance on the NMSQ test, nearly 25,000 students throughout the United States are being awarded Letters of Commendation.

Rockettes and Rockets Open Season Friday

Skyrockets and Rockettes opened basketball practice Monday, Nov. 13, under Coach James Stavenhagen, and their opening game is slated for Friday, Nov. 17 against the Gould, Okla., boys and girls. Game time is 7 p.m.

Coach Stavenhagen opened the gym during the week end and around 30 boys showed up to practice. The girls have been practicing for several weeks, but no games were scheduled until the end of the football season.

This is Stavenhagen's first year in coaching here and this week he has not had an opportunity to size up his squad, however, early prospects are that the Rocckets will be short on both height and experience. They make up for this in hustle and energy.

"There is a little better height on the girls," he added.

The Rockets have 7 lettermen on their squad: Jackie Daves, Jerry Rainey, Dan Henard, Delmar Duckworth and Oliver Bishop, all seniors, and Craig Bergvall and Lynn McLain, juniors. The remainder of the squad had had B team experience.

Coach Stavenhagen said he

ROCKET BOOTBALL QUEEN

Vicki Glenn was crowned Wellington football queen in ceremonies preceding the game with Childress Friday night, November 10. Her selection was by members of the Skyrocket team, while one of the three captains, Raymond Sanders, crowned the new queen. Her attendants were Ann Orr, escorted by Gary West, and Janet West, escorted by Jackie Daves. West and Daves are the other captains. Vicki, a junior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Glenn.

The contract for a rural fire truck was let by the Wellington city council in a meeting Monday night, Nov. 13, City Manager Bura Handley said.

The truck will be operated on a joint city-county basis, as agreed upon by the two bodies earlier this year.

The contract was awarded to Wellington Farm Service for a GMC truck of the large, heavy duty type. The amount of the bid was $3,653.83, but Handley said that a few additional items will bring it to around $3,700.

Under the agreement worked out, the county will reimburse the city for the cost of the truck at the rate of $1,200 per year.

The city in turn will equip and operate the truck. It will replace the present fire truck in use since 1953 and all usable equipment will be transferred to the new vehicle. Additional equipment will be purchased and installed, including equipment to make it more adaptable to fighting rural fires and especially grass fires, Handley said.

The new truck will be powered to pump in road gear, enabling firemen to fight grass blazes as they drive along.

The old truck was described by the city manager as "completely worn out." It has broken down en route to rural fires several times this year and had to be pulled. It also went out when it was brought to fight the City Grocery fire.

"Over half the calls to fires in the past several years have been rural fire calls, but the mileage put on the truck on these rural calls amounts to more than 95 per cent of the total mileage," the city manager explained.

While the actual selection of the truck was left up to the city, the county commissioners have worked in close cooperation to bring about the improvement of this rural fire fighting facility.

Crown Harvest Queen In Ceremony Saturday

Wellington high school will crown its Harvest Queen Saturday night, Nov. 18, in an elaborate coronation program carrying out the autumn theme.

The identity of the queen will remain a secret until she steps up to her throne, but she will be one of the four beauties nominated by the four high school classes.

The Harvest Queen is sponsored each year by the junior class.

The time of her coronation is 8 p.m.

The four candidates are Andrea Carter of the senior class, who will be escorted by Jackie Daves; Frances Hill, junior, escorted by Lynn McLain; Nancy Gibbs, sophomore, with Greg Wood as escort; and Kay Chandler, freshman, with Gary White as escort.

Wayne Sweat, a junior, will be the master of ceremonies. A choral group composed of nearly 20 girls will sing.

This year, the campaign for Harvest Queen is limited to one week only. Fund raising activities began Saturday, Nov. 11, and will continue until Saturday, Nov. 18, the day of the coronation.

Mrs. Bynum Hightower, one of the class sponsors, is in charge of the coronation, assisted by C. A. Crawford and Mrs. Tolbert Painter.

Proceeds from the contest will be used to finance the annual junior-senior banquet next spring, Mrs. Hightower said.

J. A. Hilburn, Former City Man Dies Sunday

James Aubrey Hilburn, 70, former Wellington insurance man and later postmaster at Childress for many years, died in Houston Sunday, Nov. 12. He had been in ill health several years and critically ill about two weeks.

Mr. Hilburn was the brother-in-law of Austin O'Neil, who lives in the north part of the county. His wife, the former Eva O'Neil, preceded him in death in 1957.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Newberry Funeral Chapel, in Childress, with the Rev. Lester Hill of First Methodist Church officiating. Burial was in the Childress cemetery.

Mr. Hilburn came here from Shamrock where he was in the newspaper business. While living here from 1924 to 1928 he engaged in the insurance business. He then published the

Ministerial Alliance Sponsors Joint Thanksgiving Service

The annual community-wide Thanksgiving services will be held Wednesday, Nov. 22 in the First Baptist Church, with the program beginning at 7:30 p. m.

The Rev. Clay Coursey, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, will preach the Thanksgiving sermon, according to the Rev. Kendall White, president of the Ministerial Alliance, which sponsors the service each year.

The Rev. Davis Edens, pastor of First Methodist Church, will be the worship leader, and Gilbert Forrest, minister of the First Christian Church, will read the scripture, followed by the Rev. John Henry Ward, of Fundamental Baptist Church, giving the responsive reading.

Music will be presented by the choir of First Baptist Church, directed by Mrs. Glenn Hickey, and congregational singing will be led by Truman Estes.

The Rev. A. D. Stewart of the Assembly of God will give the opening prayer and the Rev. Glenn Hickey the benediction.

There will be a testimonial period at the end of the service, so that those in the congregation wishing to express their thanks to God for gifts or blessings, or who wish to give other testimonials, may do so.

"These services are an annual event, sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance, to which people of all churches are invited," the Rev. Mr. White said.

Guard Unit to Have Tactical Exercise Sunday

National Guard Company E of the First Battle Group will hold its regular Sunday drill at Shamrock Sunday, Nov. 19, Lt. Bob Lynch, detachment commander, announced.

Both the Wellington and the Shamrock units will participate in a simulated combat or tactical exercise on North Fork river north of Shamrock.

The men form a simulated aggressor force, with a few of the group as the enemy.

Shamrock's Mortar Company will set up its 81 mm. mortars to fire a simulated fire mission. The three rifle platoons will advance on the "enemy" held position.

The rifle companies are eqipped with the regular Army M-1 rifle, a semi-automatic weapon which Lynch pointed out gives all companies more firepower than they had several years ago.

Approximately 90 men will participate in the exercise Sunday, Lt. Lynch said.

Capt. Willard Harrell of Shamrock is company commander.

"Texas Size" Driver Facts

Cutting Traffic Toll Up to the Individual Driver, City Told

Brad Smith, director of the governor's highway safety commission, speaking here Thursday night, Nov. 9, put life in the figures that underscore the mounting traffic toll in Texas, a state where one person out of every two drives an auto.

Then, in the end, he put the challenge to cut this toll squarely up to the drivers of the state's 4,600,000 vehicles, who last year drove more than 40 billion miles on Texas roads and highways.

Smith, who cut short an outstanding newspaper career to enter safety work, was brought to Wellington by the Youth Safety Council of the high school. Present in his audience were a large group of teen agers, beginning with junior high students, as well as community leaders and other adults.

Pointing to the 2,300 people killed and more than 100,000 injured in vehicle accidents last year, Smith said: "The governor of Texas does not believe it is necessary to kill these people."

He praised the town for the award of the National Safety Council won recently by the Business and Professional Women's Club.

But a few minutes later, he said: "Now the acid test is before you. Will the spark remain?"

"You will read in your newspapers and I have written it in mine, that the 'auto ran into the ditch.' Autos can't run in the ditch. They can do only the things their human owners let them do," Smith declared in underscoring individual responsibility of drivers.

As a reporter, he covered the traffic accident 20 years ago in which 29 persons died.

"That is still the worst vehicle crash of any kind in the United States. It is a record Texas can't be proud of," he said.

Smith cited the 611 deaths resulting last year in one car —one person smash-ups.

"In 491 cases there was open easily visible violation of the law—not new laws, but laws we have had for years. The secret of what caused the other 121 is buried with them."

In some Dutch-uncle remarks to the teen-agers, Smith reminded them that one out of every four accidents is to some one their own age. There are 827,000 young Texans with driver's licenses. They form 18 per cent of the drivers but they account for 29 per cent of the accidents in the state.

"The tragedy of being a parent in Texas is the deadly fear that one of these four might be you," he told the youngsters.

Moving rapidly along the line of his talk, Smith said that Texans drove one billion miles more during the first nine months of 1961 than they did last year.

"Danger always rides with

Conservationist Reports

Quail Crop a Little Better Than in 1960

Indications are that the quail crop this year may be a little better than last, Richard DeArment, district game conservationist, said while in Wellington Monday, Nov. 13.

Mr. DeArment, who is stationed at Wheeler, serves an area covering more than thirty counties.

The breeding stock at the beginning of the nesting season last spring was about the same as a year ago, but conditions during that period this year were better.

The Texas Fish and Game department considers that the hard winter two years ago killed off approximately 90% of the breeding stock, De Arment pointed out.

This was a good thing for the quail population as a whole he said, since only the hardiest birds survived.

Several mild winters had resulted in conditions that allowed weaker birds to exist. "You could find all kinds of variations in quail," the game conservationist said.

From the hunter standpoint, he indicated that there are not many quail to be found, and their location is spotty, although hunting as a whole will probably be a little better than last year.

Junior High Parents Club Sets Open House

The Parents Club of Wellington junior high school will sponsor an open house Tuesday Nov. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Parents and friends are invited to attend and visit the various rooms to see the work of the children.

The junior high band, directed by Tubal Cain, will be in charge of the entertainment. This is the first time this band has appeared in a public program this year.

A short business meeting will follow and will be held in the school auditorium, Mrs. A. J. Fires, president, will preside.

After this, the rooms will be visited and refreshments will be served in the library, Mrs. Fires said.

This is the first meeting the group has held this year, and only one other membership-wide meeting is planned, when the fund raising events will be discussed.

The Parents Club this year takes the place of the Parent-Teacher Association of former years, and it is being tried on an experimental basis for a one-year period, Mrs. Fires explained.

The change was made at the close of last year because of the small attendance at PTA meetings, and this in view of the fact that junior high students lost an hour's work each meeting period.

The largest attendance in previous years was at the annual open house and fund-raising events, and these have been retained, but regular monthly meetings were eliminated.

School Holiday Nov. 23-24

A two-day holiday is slated for Wellington students over Thanksgiving, High School Principal E. W. Clement announced this week. This will be Thursday and Friday, Nov. 23 and 24.

This will be preceded by the second six weeks examinations in high school Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 21 and 22, he said.

America Needs More Candidates

America, as the world's leading democracy, has faced numerous problems but, perhaps, none so important or so great as the present shortage of candidates for office at the grassroots level. Very few people, it seems, can find time to serve on county, city, and school posts.

The salaries, though not high, are reasonable in many instances—but the shortage of outstanding men to fill the various posts is growing more and more acute.

Some people contend that we should jump the pay scales sharply to attract better qualified people; others say that all salaries should be eliminated and the posts should be filled on the basis of community service. Both arguments have merit, depending largely upon the position to be filled. Offices such as county judge, sheriff, clerk and other full-time positions cannot, obviously, be placed in the same category with those of city commissioner, school board member or county commissioner. It is possible that a combination of the two ideas might well provide a practical answer.

We are faced at the same time, with numerous obsolete state, county and city requirements which make public office unattractive to many qualified citizens. "Why" they ask, "should I waste my time bucking a horse and buggy system when there is no chance to improve things?" Without doubt, many points of our state, county, city and school government plans do need re-vamped and modernized.

Filling one of these important offices, especially at the request of one's friends and neighbors, should continue to be the highest honor which any American can receive. Local office holders especially should be considered by the public as community heroes, rather than downgraded as "politicians."

We have always felt that grassroots government, that nearest the people, was the best government America can have. This is still true, provided we continue to attract capable, conscientious people — and treat them as honored citizens. Otherwise, we have little to anticipate.

The problem is greater than most Americans realize. It could easily produce more troubles for our nation than communism and scores of 50 megaton bombs. —The Sunday (Hereford) Brand

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where sensitive President Nkrumah of Ghana has got a new law that he can put people in jail for five years if they criticize his government.

And my jitterous neighbor hopes that Britain's Queen Elizabeth II will be careful not to break this law while she is visiting the mighty Ghanaian republic.

Says, any way you look at it, it would be mighty inconvenient, having to run the British Empire for the next five years from an African jail.

I see where our scientists are now working on what they call a neutron bomb, which is advertised to rub out people without damaging their property.

My dreamster neighbor says a selective type of bomb appeals to him, and he hopes others can be invented for special purpose work.

Like maybe a Blue Bomb which will kill Communists only, and it would be highly educational to see just who would come out against exploding the first one of these in Washington.

I see where Uncle Sam touched the Swiss government for a $46 million loan, but these people are not in the world-shepherd business and want their money back in 90 days.

My moochal aid neighbor says this news may fizzle the deal where we have promised to uplift Latin Americans $20 billion worth, if they will change their way of living by taking up taxes, work, and other North American customs.

Says the Latins may hesitate to get out on a limb with a financial backer who is already going around borrowing coffee money.

I see where there is a habit-hatching campaign going on to wean people from coffee and sell them on wine with their doughnuts.

Some of the more optimistic custom-starters also figure they can some day lead us to replace the old-fashioned coffee break with wine breaks.

Which might promote more harmony over the county, by getting us coffee-primed world fixers to thinking more like some of the Washington wheels who beget new problems between cocktail breaks.

I see where a college dean claims the reading depth of most college graduates is just above the comprehension of an orangutan.

But my mental midget neighbor says if everybody had a high-pitched brain, the world would be in a mess, as we need some people who are not too smart to work.

Says it takes different calibres of intellect for different jobs, and while an orangutan wouldn't usually make a very good college dean, most likely the dean wouldn't make much of an orangutan, either.

I see where General Walker has resigned from the Army, and passed up his right to a nice $1,000 a month pension.

Seems he figures a man's value as a general is damaged after he has been publicly spanked and officially classified as being a little crazy.

But of course this is all due to his suffering from an old-fashioned and nearly extinct condition known as Principles, which the main symptom of is a man does what he knows is right, even if it costs him money.

One Wreck in County in October

The Highway Patrol investigated one accident on the rural highways of Collingsworth County during the month of October, according to Sgt. D. R. Dowdy, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

This wreck accounted for an estimated property damage of $1,900.00.

With the indications that fall has changed into winter, it is time for our driving habits to change with it, Sgt. Dowdy reminded. He said it is a good idea to follow the Boy Scout motto, "Be Prepared."

He listed some tips to help the driver winterize his driving:

1. Frost or ice on bridges means to slow down BEFORE you reach the bridge. It is too late to do anything once you are on the slick surface.
2. Check your exhaust system thoroughly; don't risk carbon-monoxide poisoning.
3. Be extra careful at railroad crossings with windows up; in a closed car you cannot hear the train.
4. Check windshield wipers NOW. They will be carrying an increasing load from now on.
5. Clear ALL fog or any form of precipitation off windows and windshields. Don't just rub a small hole and peep through. Use defrosters to keep the windshield clear.
6. Make a definite, conscious attempt to adapt your driving habits to the changing season. Your life may depend on it.

The exercise, which will involve some 28,000 troops, is designed to develop small unit leadership and test combat readiness. Friendly forces, opposed by an "agressor" force, will be supported by both conventional and atomic-capable artillery. The exercise will also feature assault crossings of the Main River.

Rural Mail Carriers Help Co. Livestock

Rural mail carriers from the Wellington postoffice will leave some livestock survey cards along their routes beginning Nov. 16.

"Information reported on these cards is used to set the yearly inventory of livestock and poultry on Texas farms," Postmaster L. B. Bratten said.

Rural carriers distribute the cards at random in boxes along their routes.

"This means that not every box will get a card," Bratten said. "For this reason, it's important for everyone who gets a card to return it, filled out so that USDA can get a true sample of the state's livestock holdings."

Carriers assisting with the survey are: R. T. Savage, of Route 1; Claude Savage, Route 2; Rufus Sweat, Route 6; and Mrs. Neva Harrison, Route 5."

Facts and figures secured in this survey are the basis for the Texas and National pig crop report and inventories of livestock and poultry on farms as of the first of the year. Stockmen and others may use this information in making business decisions.

Survey results will be widely distributed through Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service releases ,newspapers, farm magazines, radio and television.

"This annual survey has been a joint undertaking of the post office and the agriculture departments since 1924," concluded Bratten.

Mrs. A. N. Wiseman of Albuquerque, N.M., was here during the latter part of the week visiting with friends and attending to business. A former resident of the Rolla community, she was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Trew.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Prince and sons, Leroy and Eddie, are moving to Oklahoma City, where he is employed in the water department of that city. Prince has been there for several weeks.

Proceeds from the supper will be used by the freshmen in behalf of their candidate for Harvest Queen, Kay Chandler.

John Bevers, Veterans Service Officer for this county, left Wednesday for Waco, where he transacted business at the Veterans Hospital.

More Girls Sew in 4-H

CHICAGO.—A new high in the national 4-H clothing program enrollment is predicted this year, according to the National 4-H Club Service Committee, which reports a record 740,000 enrolled in 1960.

Current figures released by several states on over-all 4-H enrollment, already shows an upward trend, a committee spokesman said.

Woman's Place In the Home, 4-Hers Believe

CHICAGO.—Virtually all 4-H Club girls believe that woman's place is in the home, if more than a million engaged in a home economics project could be quoted.

At any rate, the future wives and mothers are preparing early for woman's destined role: that of homemaker. Perhaps more aptly she should be called "homekeeper."

According to statistics released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, some 1.3 million girls between the ages of 10 and 21 in 50 states belong to 4-H Clubs. And judging from interest in projects such as cooking, sewing, interior decorating and home management the young ladies are anxious to learn how to do a first rate job.

Miss Virginia Graves was in Childress Friday night visiting with Miss Marge Maddox. Saturday she went to Amarillo to visit Miss Betty Law.

Barton Groves was home from Quanah over the week end visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Groves.

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Benson

IS INFILTRATION POSSIBLE?

Americans should not think that because Alger Hiss was sent to prison all attempts of the Soviets to plant high level agents in the government were discontinued.

Hiss and other infiltrators have left the government from time to time, but undoubtedly Moscow had long been working on their replacements for them all—knowing that some of them would be detected. It may be too much to hope that tightened security has prevented this. Some are saying that we have even let Communists come in the front door.

Testimony given in a closed session of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee was released Aug. 27 to the effect that Moscow agents had infiltrated the White House and other administration offices. A specialist in psychological warfare, Edward Hunter, said this high level infiltration was showing up in Moscow's "grass roots" movement against the Communists. Have we another crop of agents operating around the intellectual elite of the White House?

They Want Inside

There is no question but that Moscow will do it if she can. The Soviet government will stop at nothing to get inside. Utmost vigilance is needed to keep Communist agents out. Most of all, there is required a true dedication by our public servants to American ideals plus the practice of a strong integrity and the highest standards of personal and public morality.

Even so, there is no guarantee that someone will not weaken under the blandishments of Moscow. There seems always to be some embittered, misled, or warped person ready to accept whatever paltry prize is offered to betray America.

Why? Why will some Americans, blessed with freedom and the choice of so many opportunities, bend an ear to assist a rampaging, Godless despotism? Why in Korea did any of our GI's turn to Communism? These are soul-searching questions for which there are no easy answers. Brainwashing will sometimes do the trick, but I believe we must look deeper for the basic conditions that help prepare the individual for defection.

Serious Neglect

The simple truth is that we have too much neglected to emphasize the building of the Christian character in the home, in the school and in the local and national community.

This is a tragic neglect, for it has eroded our moral fiber and is in large measure responsible for weaknesses showing up in so many self-serving, pleasure mad, reckless persons, both young and old. Riots of college age youngsters make fresh headlines, but what some of their parents do has provided the example.

We have generally neglected to teach love for country and appreciation for the American pattern. Our latest generation has been allowed to grow up poorly trained in American history and uninformed of citizenship responsibilities. Few were taught to read serious news in our newspapers. Most were only rarely aware of critical international problems. Numerous studies and surveys have proven our laxity in this regard in the past 30 years.

Stand Up for America!

I am convinced that defections and political aberrations are rare indeed among men of character and patriotism who enjoy a true understanding of America. Love of God and love of country will keep a man looking for ways to serve, as President Kennedy requested in his inaugural address. Rather than asking for handouts and for favors, or what is worse, looking for ways to raid the public treasury, our understanding American will do his best to conserve every resource of freedom and every opportunity for personal responsibility.

Only the informed American can be a fully dedicated American. That is why we have urged on every possible occasion that our citizens must be thoroughly familiar with the distinct advantages of our free system. That is why we at Harding College have held forums and seminars and prepared materials of many kinds for instructional purposes.

Cows Now Get Their Dinner in Wafers

Ready-prepared frozen dinners and K-rations are on occasion accepted bills of fare. While some may think them none too palatable, it can't be denied they are quick, easy and nourishing.

Major equipment companies, state universities and US Department of Agriculture researchers haven't overlooked ol' Bossy either. Up to now two manufacturers have produced working machines for making hay wafers and many others have experimental models, reports Farm Quarterly Magazine, of Cincinnati.

Hay wafers are designed for much the same purpose as the compact meals and rations. They're as nourishing as loose hay, easier to handle than hay—either loose or baled—and best yet, animals like it. Cattle, sheep, hogs, even burros, treat the bite-sized wafer like candy.

The hay wafer is made by forcing forage through a die—like a sausage machine. The general difference between a wafer and a pellet is that the pellet is denser, requiring more power to form, is usually bonded with another feed or molasses or steam; and the hay in a pellet is usually ground. Because of this, pelleting is generally a stationary job.

Not so with field wafering. One company is now offering a working field waferer to selected farmers on a semi-experimental basis and another machine made by a group of farmers, engineers and an equipment dealer, in an unassuming workshop in Woodland, Calif., is no longer labelled "experimental." Both machines do a creditable job of making wafers and use completely different techniques.

Research on wafering machines was begun before World War II and a dozen companies have been working at it in earnest since the early 50's, still there is no machine freely on sale to any farmer at this time.

This slow development has been due to two barriers, one mechanical, the other the cost. It is hard to make a wafer at all. A machine with a 120 to 180 hp engine is required to produce six tons of wafers in the field. A machine capable of handling this quantity of power cannot easily be miniaturized to compete in weight and size with a baler.

Then, all handling problems aren't completely worked out. Transferring from one conveyor to another can cause damage and you get an accumulation of fines from broken wafers. The fines vary from dust to large parts of the stems of plants.

Handling seems best done in large amounts. Hopper bottom trucks, dump trucks and flat beds have been tried. The dump truck may prove best.

A truck can carry 25 tons of wafers per load, against 19 tons of baled hay. That can mean fewer trips in the long run. Right now, it doesn't, as the wafers take almost twice as long to unload as a comparable load of bales to go in the same barn. But, the trucker can cut down on labor with the wafers for there's no man-handling.

The shape of the wafers seems to be important in handling. Smaller wafers appear to be the answer, either round or square, but not flat. Smaller wafers will pack better, too, meaning more tons in a given amount of storage.

There's no doubt that livestock prefer wafers to bales, chopped or loose hay. From the farmer's viewpoint, wafers are an advantage because they store easier, can be handled completely mechanically and fed mechanically. Farmers who have tried them take them at considerable cost rather than returning to older methods.

There are two machines that make good wafers. One may be generally available in 1962.

MARIAN AIRPARK Flight Notes

Out of town spray planes and their pilots went home from Marian Airpark with the frost, but it remains one of the busiest small-town airports in the Panhandle.

Four men have received solo or student licenses during the last month, according to Cliff Hartman. They are Jerry Nix, Mike Glenn, Dale Lockhart and Bobby Winton.

They had an average of about eight hours dual instruction before receiving this license, which will enable them to fly solo.

All four are working toward private pilots' licenses, for which 40 hours of flying is required by FAA.

Herschel Francis has begun a construction project of a new hangar, which will be one of the largest buildings at the Airpark.

Bob Siler, manager of the Tradewind Airport in Amarillo picked up Bill Hughes' twin-engine Beech Travelair to install new radio equipment.

Several pilots, including one from Shamrock and two from Amarillo, brought their planes in for Hartman to check for licensing.

He explained that this check-up includes running an inspection of all moving parts, a compression check on the engine, check of the ignition—in fact a close, overall legal check.

It is required once a year for private planes, but all those for hire, including agricultural spray planes must be checked every 100 hours of flying time. Some of the spray planes have put in this amount of time in not much more than a week this fall, Hartman remarked.

Hartman holds his Authorized Inspector's certificate, or AI ticket as it is generally known, by which the FAA authorizes him to make these inspections. In addition to being an expert pilot, a man must have his mechanic's license, followed by four years experience in that line, then pass a stiff test for his inspector's certificate.

Start Planning for Christmas Mailing—Bratten

"It's time to start planning your Christmas card and gift mailings," Postmaster L. B. Bratten said today as he launched his 1961 "Mail Early for Christmas" Campaign.

Looking ahead to what may be the biggest Christmas season ever, the postmaster said further: "Here are the things to watch to help in getting every Christmas card and package delivered before Dec. 25.

"Check your Christmas card and gift lists carefully. Be sure each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, zone and state. Avoid abbreviations of city and state names.

"For your gift packages, secure heavy wrapping paper, sturdy corrugated cartons, strong cord and adhesive tape. Remember, also, that you can include your Christmas card or letter inside your gift package if you will add the appropriate first class mail stamps to the postage for the package itself.

"Stock up on postage stamps—by doing this soon, you'll save lots of time that might be spent standing in line later on. When you go to the postoffice, ask for a supply of labels which read "All for Local Delivery", and "All for Out of Town Delivery" so that before you mail your Christmas cards you can sort them into two groups, with the addresses all facing one way, thus expediting delivery."

The postoffice will help you plan your Christmas mailings. Get a copy of Pamphlet No. 2 which gives full information about proper packaging and wrapping of parcels.

F. B. Hill arrived Wednesday to visit with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilson until Christmas. He will celebrate his 96th birthday here on Dec. 20.

Scott Reports on Foreign Policy Briefing

D. E. Scott, the Crossroads Reporter and staff member of The Wellington Leader, reported to Rotarians on the Foreign Policy Briefing Conference which he attended recently in Dallas. He was speaker at the luncheon meeting Tuesday

"I thought that by going to the Foreign Policy Briefing Conference and hearing six top ranking State Department officials, including the No. 2 man Chester Bowles, that I might find out what our Foreign Policy is . . . having suspected for years that we don't have one.

"My personal conclusion," he told Rotary members later in the talk, "after hearing the speakers and reading the armload of State Department propaganda pamphlets handed to us at the meeting are:

"Apparently, the Foreign Policy of the State Department is (1) surrender of U. S. sovereignty to African-Asian-Soviet dominated United Nations; (2) give-away of U.S. wealth to foreign countries we have wronged in the past by working harder and getting richer than they; (3) disarmament, to bring World Peace through one-world government and the abolition of all individual freedoms."

Thanksgiving Transition

The very first Thanksgiving Day was celebrated in Plymouth Colony for quite a simple reason. Colonists and friendly Indians shared that first feast in gratitude for a bountiful harvest after a winter of great hardship.

Now, three centuries and forty years later, we are thankful for the growth of our Nation. We are thankful for its great strength which stands as a fortress of protection for free people in a world filled with tyranny and oppression.

Let us, as good Americans, express these thanks and rededicate ourselves to preserve and maintain this spirit of freedom.

Float Trips a Combination of Work & Fun

AUSTIN. — "If you have been on a float trip you know what is meant by adventure." So says Aquatic Biologist John N. Dorchester in his article "Let's Take a Float Trip" in a recent issue of Texas Game & Fish Magazine.

Float trips hold plenty of excitement and hard work, but the author says the hard work can be decreased, and gives several tips for doing so.

It is advisable to select a time when the river is on a rise or above its normal elevation, and the kind of boat used is important. A comparatively lightweight, stable aluminum boat, with welded seams is recommended. It is wise to have a companion meet you with a car and boat trailer at the end of the trip, rather than trying to buck the current back upstream to the point of launching.

Dorchester gives advice on the kind of equipment needed, and says that it is best to go prepared for trouble. He gives some colorful instances of the kind of trouble he encountered.

He also describes some of the excitement and says the adventure lies in the unexpected and "in trying to outwit the powerful but seemingly peaceful forces of the river."

Firemen Honor Neighbor Units

Members of the Shamrock and Childress fire departments and their wives were guests at a steak supper on Monday evening, Nov. 6 at the community building. Hosts were the Wellington fire department and city council members.

Eighty-nine attended the supper, including nine firemen and their wives from Childress and 14 firement and their wives from Shamrock.

Bobcats Take It 30-12

Fine Rocket Play Marks Final Game

By Max Courtney

The Wellington Rockets again last Friday night took defeat, this time at the hands of the Childress Bobcats, 30 to 12.

This game resembled in very many ways the Rockets' game with the Quanah Indians the week before. Wellington walked away with the first down department, towering over the Bobcats 19 to 12. Childress did however pull away from the Rockets by 38 yards in yards gained with 274.

The Rockets pushed way ahead of the Bobcats in sportsmanship also, proved by a gang fight which erupted between the two teams midway of the fourth quarter that resulted from a blow by a Childress back to a Rocket who had just tackled him. It was very plain and obvious the color of the jersey that started the brawl which lasted some three or four minutes. Childress reserves on the bench at the time also converged on the field to add to the confusion against orders of their coaches, while Wellington reserves stayed off the field as told.

Wellington's safety men were very keen and alert and intercepted several Bobcat passes. The first quarter proved to be Wellington's Waterloo. They allowed in this period of time 16 points to be scored on them, along with only 6 in the second and 8 in the third, by digging in and fighting for every inch of their gained territory. Doing their own scoring, 6 in the first and 6 in the last.

Gary Holliman romped with the pigskin for Wellington's first tally while Jackie Daves received a pass from Richard Mauldin for the second. The Rockets showed excellent offense but at the speed of the Childress backfield and size of the line, couldn't help but let their defense sag several times.

The Bobcats were also a top contender for the 5-AA crown this year, being beaten only by the mighty Quanah Indians during the entire season. The Rockets produced about all they had in this, their last 5-AA game of the season, also Childress' last for the year, and possibly the last AA conference game Wellington will see for quite a number of years in district play until the school district becomes more heavily populated.

This however will be a move that has been needed for the last several years. What could a town possibly expect from a coach or a team with 22 boys out to make a squad when another, such as Perryton last year had 150 seeking a position on their team?

We have long been outclassed and unable to go for that reason, which is the same in all our district schools as in Perryton except maybe Shamrock, which has enough boys to produce a fairly strong team for the district play.

Without doubt this move should place us high in district competition next year and maybe even a crown, now that there is at least a chance.

The boys playing this year, several of which will surely win district honors and a couple more that should go even higher are Richard Mauldin, Lynn McLain, Jackie Daves, Chester McLain, Gary West, Craig Bergvall, Gary Holliman, Bob Hudson, Raymond Sanders, Delmar Duckworth, Skippy Duncan, Herman Childress, Bob Antoon, Rommie Forbis, Joe Rudy, Ronnie Ketchum, Herb Duncan, Joe Henard, Bryan Hatch, Dan Henard and Larry Flint.

Coaches were Frank Lindsey, Kenneth Grunewald and James Stavenhagen; managers were Phillip Hughey and Lanny Ford.

For 1962...an all-new kind of Ford!

the car that's just right for just about everybody

You've never seen anything like it, because there's never been anything like it . . . until today. On the outside the new Ford Fairlane 500 measures a quick 197 inches from stem to stern. A good foot shorter than the cars from which it borrowed its name, it calls the snuggest parking places home. At the same time, on the inside the new Fairlane 500 is every inch as big as some of the biggest Fords ever built.

The new Fairlane 500 is priced way under previous Fairlanes, well under many compacts. But Fairlane economy doesn't stop with a pretty price tag. It runs to amazing gas savings—with the world's first economy V-8 or the nickel-nursing Fairlane Six. Routine service is reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, only twice a year or 6,000 miles on the rest. And it adjusts its own brakes.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

The rains this fall have put this area in about the same position we have enjoyed for the past three years bringing excellent prospects for another good wheat crop. This has been followed by bumper feed and cotton crops. The early moisture is important to the cotton grower for it gives a better chance for early planting which is an important step in fighting the boll weevil.

Forecasts indicate that Christmas buying in the U.S. will reach a new peak this holiday season and it should be very good here. The stores are ready and have a world of attractive items on display or that will be on display soon.

It is amazing to note how much building and remodeling has been done here in recent years. The following was written on the eve of the ex-students reunion, but was left out for some reason or other. It might be worthwhile for our own people to take a second look at what has been done.

If you can find time we think it will be a pleasant experience to visit the stores and business firms of your old home town. Since many of you have been here about 80 per cent of the business buildings have been remodeled or had a face lifting. The latest are two of the drug stores which are as fine as any in the Panhandle and more so than most even in Amarillo or Lubbock.

Harrell's Ben Franklin Store is in the process of being done over. The remodeling in recent years includes both banks, three hardware stores, practically all clothing stores, most grocery stores, auto stores, utility firms, service stations, beauty shops, barber shops and many others.

The newest and most modern business building is that of the Greenbelt Electric Co-op just west of the Community Building. The newest church building is the Bowie street Church of Christ, and many of the other churches have been remodeled. The school gym and band house and the elementary school buildings are also new. Visit as many of these as you possibly can while you are here.

Mrs. R. L. Porter phoned me up recently to inquire why I had not written something about the breath-taking beauty of the October foilage in Wellington. I replied that I had. It was directed to the ex-students and a considerable part of it was about our attractive remodeled business firms but that after looking at that pile of debris on the northwest corner of the square I did not have the heart to put it in the paper. Well I feel better now so the following is what should have been in a column a couple of weeks ago.

Louise and I took a tour over the town Tuesday, Oct. 24, to enjoy the scenery. Here is a partial list of the many species of trees that grow here in profusion: maple, sycamore, elm, lombardy poplar, silver leaf poplar, silver leaf maple, cottonwood, ash, hackberry, bois d'arc or osage orange, locust, mimosa, pecan, walnut, catalpa, paradise, chinaberry, and John Sherman has an oak tree. Then there are the fruit trees: peach, cherry, pear, apple, plum, prune, persimmon, apricot, and George Henry has a lemon tree and a lime tree growing in the Greenbelt REA building. And of course there are the many varieties of evergreens.

The chinese elm trees have proved to be a pest and the mimosa trees that are growing in such numbers may turn out to be an equal nuisance. John Sherman says he is afraid to take any out to his farm for fear they will take the land like the mesquite. The mimosa is a distinctive tree and the flowers have a delicate beauty all their own, but one tree makes thousands of seed every year and their germination seems to be 100 per cent.

City Grocery Has Reopining In New Site

City Grocery, destroyed by fire Wednesday, Oct. 25, is back in business on a full scale basis and will observe that event in its grand reopening sale Friday and Soturday, Nov. 17 and 18.

Actually, City Grocery opened it's doors for business in its new location on the east side of the square just five days after the fire.

"We opened the doors to move in merchandise and people came in and started buying," declared the owners, Luther Sullivan and Raymond Patton.

The store is now located in the building with 50 foot frontage formerly occupied by Higdon Auto Sales and the Chamber of Commerce.

In charge of the work was Malcolm Hinkle of Pampa, whose business is the servicing of refrigeration equipment, but also specializes in putting back in business stores destroyed by fire, windstorm and other calamities.

In record time, fixtures were moved in and wholesale firms with whom the store deals regularly joined in the operation.

This is a record reopening for any store destroyed by fire in the history of Wellington, as far as memory of local residents goes.

While all merchandise was burned, the business records of City Grocery were found intact by the owners when the debris cooled sufficiently to recover the safe in which they were placed. This enabled Sullivan and Patton to pick up business operations where the fire had stopped them.

Only minor repairs were necessary on the building itself, and this consisted principally of opening up the front or display area with the back section formerly used for storage.

All employees of City Grocery joined in to help prepare the business for reponing. These incclude, besides the owners, Mrs. Raymond Patton, Mrs. Vercie Rippetoe, Roy Bounds, Leroy Robinson, Bill Langford, James McDanel, Lanny Lewis, Graham Bowen and Mike Dillon.

NEWS LETTER from Congressman WALTER ROGERS

FALLOUT SHELTERS

The subject of fallout shelters seems to be one of the major topics of the day, generated by two sources. One is the fear of the damage that would be done to the human body by radioactive fallout from the explosion of a nuclear bomb. The other is the concerted advertising campaign which has been put on by enterprising operators who are making good use of scare tactics to sell their product to the public.

The general fear gripping the human race everywhere with relation to the dangers involved creates a fertile field for scoundrels, tricksters, and mountebanks to ply their trade. Hence, it would be well for those anticipating building a bomb shelter, whether for blast or fallout, to be sure that the proposed contractor has the skill and abilities he advertises. Radio, television, and the press are being widely used in many areas of this country, especially the metropolitan areas, to sell these shelters at prices ranging from as little as $150 to as much as $15,000 for the luxury model.

The mail has brought in many requests for plans and specifications for a fallout shelter. Such a document was printed in June of 1959 by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, commonly known as the OCDM, and may be obtained through the U.S. Government Printing Office for the price of ten cents. The demand was so great that the document had to be reprinted in November of 1960.

It contains some very pertinent information with regard to the construction of fallout shelters and also suggestions as to equipment, medical publications and other matters of interest and importance. It sums up in five steps what every American should learn for protection.

These are (1) attack warning signals and what they mean; (2) your community plan for emergency action; (3) protection from radioactive fall out; (4) first aid and home emergency preparedness; and (5) the use of CONELRAD—640 or 1240 on AM radio—for official directions.

This question of fallout shelters and civil defense generally brought forth a report from the Committee on Government Operations of the Congress. In this publication several pages were devoted to comments on the Soviet civil defense program. These are rather interesting, in view of the remarks allegedly made by Mrs. Khrushchev to one of the "Marchers for Peace" who purportedly walked from San Francisco to Moscow. As reported in the newspapers, Mrs. Khrushchev indicated to one of the marchers that bomb shelters were not being built in Russia and no general stepped-up civil defense program was being pushed. These statements, however, are in contradiction to the evidence brought before the Committee on Government Operations. At those hearings evidence was produced that Khrushchev had boasted of 22 million fully trained persons serving in civil defense and that the organization was being expanded. This would mean that about 10% of the Soviet people were a part of the civil defense operation. It was estimated at those hearings that the budget of the Soviet civil defense activities would range between $500 million and $1.5 billion. It was also estimated that the Soviet Union had spent approximately $3 billion in the last decade on civil defense activities.

It might be pointed out that the Russians in Moscow have a built-in shelter and have had the same for some time. I refer to the subway, underground, or matropole as it is called in Russia. This subway is 43 to 45 miles long, and approximately 100 feet deep. Plans are in the making to expand this operation by some 35 miles. Several years ago I was told by Russian officials that the subway was so arranged throughout the city that it was available to substantially all of the people of Moscow within a time period of approximately 15 to 20 minutes. In other words, they were pointing out to me that any Russian desiring to move from one part of the city to another could avail himself of this public transportation in a few short minutes. I would also point out that this subway is probably the cleanest thing in Russia. It is maintained in a spotless fashion and all of the stations are constructed of marble from one of the Soviet republics. It is entered in most instances by escalators in banks of approximately six to twelve. Whether or not the Soviet government had in mind the use of these stations as fallout shelters in the event of war, they may deny; but I can assure you that a better shelter could not have been built for this specific purpose. Hence, the words of Mrs. Khrushchev do not impress me.

There are many other things pointed out in the report about the Soviet system. However, our major concern should be our own welfare. The problem should be approached on a sound and practical basis. It should not be a vehicle through which unscrupulous individuals or organizations could prey upon a fearful public. Neither should it be the basis of creating an overstaffed government department for political hacks.

RADIOACTIVE FALLOUT

Many questions are being asked and much concern is being evidenced with relation to the fallout from a nuclear explosion. The people should be given every possible bit of information on the subject. Hence I have tried to gather together a few facts to pass on to you concerning the problem.

It appears that radioactivity comes from two sources: the explosion of a nuclear bomb, or the explosion of a thermonuclear weapon or hydrogen bomb. Both create radioactive fragments. The most important or perhaps the most dangerous are Strontium 90, Cesium 137, and Iodine 131.

The thermonuclear weapon adds another radioactive element, to-wit: Carbon 14. When such an explosion occurs at or near the earth the dust particles are of course made radioactive. If such a weapon is exploded high in the air, the radioactivity of ground dust is minimized.

Radioactivity can give you cancer, shorten your life, make your hair fall out, give you anemia, make you sterile, or affect heredity so that you or your offspring will produce malformed children. Such tragic results, however, depend entirely upon the dosage absorbed by the individual.

Although the overall amount of radiation one gets from fallout is less than 4% of the natural radioactive dose absorbed day in and day out from cosmic rays, water, bricks, rocks in the ground, etc., this does not mean that there is no danger from fallout. It is here that the four elements, to-wit: Iodine 131, Strontium 90, Cesius 137 and Carbon 14, become important. Fallout radiation, although no greoter than natural radioactivity, insofar as dosage is concerned, could contain more concentrated amounts of one or all of the elements referred to, which would increase the danger.

In other words, Iodine 131 could be taken into the body by drinking contaminated milk. Although milk presently contains Iodine, it is the position of one group of scientists that the Iodine content would need to be increased approximately 1,000 times that which has been detected in the past before serious worry should be indulged. It has been suggested that since radioactive Iodine has an average life of about 12 days, the use of aged or powdered milk would measurably minimize any possible danger.

Strontium 90 causes bone cancer or leukemia. There is a continuing controversy between scientists as to the dose of Strontium 90 necessary to produce either. It has been concluded by tests that the average American carries approximately 2.5 micromicrocuries of Strontium 90 for every gram of calcium, a micromicrocurie being one millionth of a millionth of the radiation given out by a gram of Radium. The worry level has been set by the International Commission on Radiation Protection as between 200 and 2,000 micromicrocuries. We in this country as a whole are a long, long way from any worry level or likely worry level at the present time.

Carbon 14 affects the genes, the heredity-controlling units inside your germ cells. Linus Pauling, a Nobel Prize chemist, has estimated that there will be 100,000 genetic deaths throughout the world in the next few generations as a result of Carbon 14 from tests of nuclear weapons up to 1958.

It was also estimated that Carbon 14 has a life expectancy of 8,000 years. It is not like Iodine 131. It doesn't go away.

Cesium 137 also produces genetic defects. But it would appear from the information I have that the possibility of damage from Cesium 137 is much more remote than the other elements above named.

I pass this information on as scientific data that has been produced by scientists and translated by able newspaper people. Personally, I am in somewhat the same position as the President of the Pampa Rotary Club in the early days of the Atomic Age. He had procured the services of a scientist to address a dinner meeting of the club. The scientist warned us of the top level secrecy of atomic information, but proceeded to outline in such detail the intricacies of the science that only Einstein could have understood him. When he concluded his long dissertation our President hastened to thank him for his time and effort and to assure him that none of our members would reveal the secret of how to split the atom.

Here for the week end to visit Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson were their daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Jimmy Henegar and Karen of Tyler.
