SCHOOLS MAY AID HARVEST

A meeting will be held at McClung school tonight to determine whether or not the school will assist in allowing children to aid their parents in gathering the cotton crop, according to County Superintendent W. M. Pecholase, who opens Tuesday and Wednesday in visiting schools at Acuff, McClung, Bledsoe and Ledford.

Only 25 in Attendance

Only 25 of the 80 children enrolled in the McClung school are now attending, according to Mr. Pecholase, and a similar condition exists in many of the other schools throughout the county. A notable exception to this condition however, is the Acuff school, which is continuing classes with only 11 absentees from an enrollment of 157.

Is Problem Each Year

This is the condition which the county schools face each year according to Mr. Pecholase, and the solution to the problem is as far away now as at first. Mr. Pecholase believes that it is a waste of money for a school to continue classes with only a small percentage of the enrollment attending. A short term is one method to allow most of the children to attend, but this will result in lessened teaching efficiency, according to the superintendent.

Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Walker led this afternoon for a visit in Stamford, Rev. Walker is pastor of the 19th street Methodist church.

WESTERN HEADS PONDER OKLAHOMA CITY, TULSA WITHDRAWAL

GEAR ASSERTS LEAGUE'S OKEH MUST BE GIVEN

RELEASE IS SOUGHT BY TWO FOR ENTRY TO LONE STAR LOOP

(By Associated Press)
TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 20.—Tulsa and Oklahoma City are not withdrawing from the Western league without the consent of three fourths of the clubs, Dale Gear, president of the league, declared today. Gear received a letter from Jack Holland, president of the Oklahoma City club, expressing intention to sever connections with the Western league in order to enter the Texas league. No word was received from C. C. McEvoy, head of the Tulsa outfit, but Gear was informed unofficially that Tulsa has similar plans.

When we get something official from Tulsa, we may call a meeting of the league, the chief of the circuit said.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 20.—Two members in rebellion against recent views flying as to whether they can sever their connection with the league to apply for franchises in the Texas league, the Western league today faced a test of the strength in its warring camps.

Consent of League Needed
 Following the dispatch last night a letter from Jack Holland, president of the Oklahoma City club, and L. C. McEvoy, president of the Tulsa organization, to Dale Gear, president of the Western league, declaring their intention to sever connections with the league and apply for membership in the Texas league, Gear asserted at Topeka, Kansas, such a procedure would be impossible without the consent of the Western league.

If the Tulsa and Oklahoma City clubs want to dispose of their franchises, the league president said, they may do so, but the club territories belong to the Western league and can not be transferred to any other. Several club presidents joined in expressing this belief.

Texas Approves Proposal
 At the same time, presidents of Texas league clubs indicated their willingness to receive the two rebellious clubs if they can break away from the Western league with a clear record. They said the Texas league could be made a 16 club organization.

The Oklahoma City letter, declaring that the Western league would lose the customers, as it associates there is a community of interests between Oklahoma and Texas cities.

Jai Alai, Spanish National Game Is Started In U. S.

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Mayor William Hale Thompson, who brought Chicago its first heavyweight championship boxing match, is the official sponsor for the introduction here of a brand new sport, jai alai, pronounced "hi-li."

Jai alai is the national sport of Spain and several other Spanish speaking countries, notably Cuba, and some of the South American republics.

It follows somewhat the lines of tennis and handball, or racquets, except that the players wear a cesta, or basket, on their throwing hand, and it partakes of the speed of those games. A jai alai stadium is being built close by one of the most popular north side cafeterias, whose proprietors are the financial backers of the project.

It is planned to bring forty players, recruited in the Basque provinces of Spain, here for the games. Bonds will be filed with the immigration authorities to cover their proposed stay of six months. They will arrive about December 1.

The major saw games on a Mississippi river trip to New Orleans and became an enthusiast of the sport. J. S. Markstein and F. V. Scrafin, who manage jai alai games in New Orleans, will conduct their exhibitions here.

Frogs And Aggies, With One Victory Each, Drill Hard For Saturday Clash With Farmers Holding Edge On Dope

(Special To The Journal)
FORT WORTH, Oct. 20.—With one victory each and a tie as the record of their annual combats as Southwest Conference competitors the past three years, the T. C. U. Horned Frogs and the Texas Aggies will be pointing for an advantage when they meet on T. C. U. field Saturday afternoon. The Aggies are hoped to take the lead in annual honors with a win over the Purple but the Frogs are determined to make them earn it and, by chance, snatch the laurels from their more highly touted rivals by an unexpected victory.

The Frogs and Aggies resumed athletic relations in 1924 after eight years absence from each other's gridirons. They met often from 1904 to 1915, but then T. C. U. entered the E. L. A. A. and the Aggies, with a much stronger club, became a part of the Southwest circuit, they ceased all relations.

Each Have One Victory
 However, with the entry of the much improved Frog teams into the Southwest Conference five years ago, they again were matched with teams that had been rivals in the "old days." Their clash on the gridiron with the Aggies in 1924 resulted in a 20 to 0 win for the Farmers. The game was played at College Station. In 1925 the Aggies and Purple met on Frog field and the Christians upset the dope and the Aggies simultaneously with a 3 to 0 victory.

Last year the teams met for the first time with each conceding an even chance to win and they proved that they were evenly matched when the contest ended in a 12-12 tie. The game was played at College Station. Fans expect to see one or the other step out in front Saturday.

Aggies Drill On Frog Formations

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 20.—T. C. U. formations are engaging the earnest attention of the Texas Aggies this week in preparation for the clash at Fort Worth Saturday, Oct. 22. One of the freshman grid squads has been drilling on the Horned Frogs' plays for two weeks and Bible expects to pit the varsity team against the freshmen in scrimmages in order to perfect the Farmers' defense game for the week-end battle.

UMPIRE WORKS HARD TOO, SAY BASEBALL MEN

OLLIE ANDERSON, NOW IN SALLY LEAGUE, IS RECORD BREAKER

(By NEA Service)
ASHEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 20.—Everett "Deacon" Scott may hold the consecutive playing record of major league infielders and Ray Schalk may have caught more major league games than any big league catcher, but in the South Atlantic Association there is a referee, an umpire who lays claim to a record that cannot be disputed.

During his 22 years of service as an umpire, Ollie Anderson, chief of President Brannham's staff, has handled 3231 games without missing a single assignment. Not once during his 22 years on the diamond has Ollie missed an opening day or a closing day nor any day in between where his schedule sent him throughout the many different circuits he has officiated in.

To handle 3231 games without missing is indeed a remarkable feat one that even an umpire can feel proud of, for umpiring in the small or minor leagues, such as Ollie has been in off and on during his long and honorable career is not the easiest task imaginable. Minor league fans have a habit of mobbing an umpire now and then, putting him out of commission for days weeks and over months.

Starting out in the misty year of 1905, Ollie announced the opening day batteries that season and has not missed a single scheduled game since. When the Sally League closes its 1927 pennant race, Anderson, if his luck holds forth, will have handled 3234 consecutive games without a blemish to mar his splendid record.

Alabama Poly Is Facing Bad Year Scores Indicate

(By NEA Service)
AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 20.—Alabama Poly has had some unpleasant football seasons in years past, but 1927 has already been stamped a tough one to talk about.

The Auburn Tigers lost their first game on home soil since 1908 in this season's opener, which was won by Stetson, 6-0.

The loss was followed by a 3-0 defeat by Clemson. The season now holds forth only tough games with little optimism prevalent that many of these games will result in victories unless the Tigers get going in better form.

Real West Texas Spirit Is Shown For Grid Classic

E. W. Provence, business manager of the Texas Technological College, made a business trip to Anton, Littlefield, Amberst, Sudan, and Muleshoe and much to his delight he found that the grid fans of that section are ready to meet the glorious day for West Texas when the Texas A. & M. football club comes to Lubbock to clash with the Matadors on October 23. Many tickets have been sold in these towns according to Mr. Provence and the spirit that is being shown by the citizens of the north-west Panhandle is remarkable towards Texas Tech.

"I found that reports had been given out in these towns I visited yesterday that all the tickets for the Tech-A. & M. game had been sold, which of course, is untrue as we have yet something like 1000 good seats left for sale," Mr. Provence told the Journal this morning. The goodwill of the people towards Tech is wonderful and they fully realize that this college is as much their own as it is Lubbock's. "Should we have pretty weather throughout next week we will have fans from all Eastern New Mexico and every point in the Panhandle," Mr. Provence stated.

Course In Boxing Is Offered At Tech

Thought For Today
His hand shall be against every man, and every man's hand against him.—Genesis xiv:12.

There is no better sign of a brave mind than a hard hand.—Shakespeare.

Teaching Alsations
THE French, being naturally a logical people, are cleverer in their handling of Alsace than were the Germans. When the latter possessed Alsace they did everything in their power to make it a German province. They colonized Germany in the territory. They made German obligatory. They put every obstacle in the path of parents who wanted their children to learn to speak and read French.

The new masters of Alsace are making no such mistake. In the public schools French will be the main language taught as a matter of course. This will be done because it is the language of the nation to which Alsace has been annexed. It will be done also because in after life it will enable the children to move into any part of France or its colonies and speak fluently the current tongue.

On the other hand, from now on German will be taught beginning in the second year of school. Also if the parents desire it, the children will be taught their catechism in German. The French school authorities have wisely recognized the fact that German children have retained the spoken language of most of the people of Alsace and is generally the language of the church for the great crowd.

Being logicians, the French are going to try to force the natives to speak only one language as did the Germans. They are going to make the coming generations bilingual when it will be good for a frontier people who do business both with France proper and with Germany.

Thrown Away
Every year 1,000 children in the United States are moved down to death in the streets by motor cars. It is like wiping out the entire population of a small city.

Reckless drivers are to be blamed. But there are other factors too, and not the least of them is parental neglect. Children should be trained carefully to stop and look before dashing across a thoroughfare.

They should not be allowed to play in the streets which have become as dangerous as the days of the railroad tracks. They should be taught politeness toward drivers. Often we have seen impatient youngsters crossing the street in the middle of a block and by their attitude or words offending drivers to hit them.

There seems to be but an ill of us to "beat the car across the street." If we see a chance to make the opposite curb even though there be only one automobile moving along the street, we are tempted to hurry across ahead of it. Perhaps it is only human.

Drivers have a tremendous responsibility. Near schools or wherever children are congregated the utmost precaution must be taken to safeguard these little lives.

It doesn't all rest upon the drivers.

Wedded Folk
A CRISTY old bachelor of an English, marriageable the other day found a married couple because they had a slanging match on the outside of their home. He said the proper place for that kind of thing was inside the house, with doors bolted, and windows closed, so that it would not disturb the neighbors.

He would have done well to remember an old French woezier which runs something like this: Betrothal period. He talks. She listens. Honey-moon period. She talks. He listens. After life. The neighbors listen.

THE PLAINSMAN

That girl on Broadway says while the slaying of husbands by wives, and vice versa, can not be truthfully categorized as "spits" such occurrences are at least becoming popular pastimes.

San Antonio is vigorously and aggressively advertising to the world the many merits of South Texas. San Antonio in this instance as in many others is far-seeing. More people in South Texas mean more business in South Texas. More business in South Texas means more business in San Antonio. It's all very simple if you just stop to think about it. San Antonio is the commercial capital of South Texas—the hub of the territory and San Antonio, like all forward-looking cities, is boosting its own section to the world.

The Plainsman frankly admits that South Texas comprises a wonderful territory—that an investment in South Texas lands is safe and will prove profitable. To do otherwise would be foolish. Do Rio Laredo, Mercedes and many other bustling cities in South Texas have future to them. They already amount to something and they are just beginning. The more they amount to the bigger and more prosperous will grow San Antonio for to the Alamo city are looking South Texas for aid, for leadership and commercial outlet.

The above two paragraphs are not printed to advertise South Texas. The Plainsman has no ulterior motives in writing them. He doesn't want to urge that a single citizen of the South Plains leave here for a multitude of reasons. This disavowal is being advanced merely to show Lubbock people that another city, so fortunately situated as a sectional capital is doing to help its own and its neighbors' came along. San Antonio and South Texas in this case, are merely examples of what is being done all over the country.

Like San Antonio, Lubbock is a hub of a great section of the country. It is not necessary to pursue the South Plains as a unit, has to offer. We all know that South Texas, with all of its opportunities, can not offer anything like the inducements to the prospective home-maker that West Texas, and particularly the South Plains, is already offering. But what is Lubbock doing now to "promote" the writers over which it rules? What are Lubbock people as an organized group doing to boost the same? You know and I know that the answer is "very little."

San Antonio has a natural advantage over Lubbock in boosting its larger population, swings to advantage to the Alamo city easily. Just because San Antonio, for instance, is larger than Lubbock and can boast South Texas harder by virtue of its size, however, is no reason why Lubbock can not do more than it is doing.

The chamber of commerce and board of city development is doing its bit—it is doing the best that it can without the whole-hearted support of every citizen in Lubbock. Those of us who are not doing our part are the ones to blame. It is time for us to wake up—to get together and in an orderly, systematic way to tell the world about the South Plains. To better carry on this work The Plainsman advises a committee from the board of city development to be known as the Sectional Progress committee and similar groups from both the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs. He advises that these groups meet together, map out a campaign to put the South Plains before people everywhere, and then fall upon the population of the bank and file of Lubbock citizens—to help put it over.

That Men on Avenue Q says that judging from the usual outcome of these "triangle love affairs," two company and three a shroud.

Earl Carroll New York's "Barn-Tan Boy" has been snarled from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta since Mr. Carroll, serving a term for perjury, has influential friends, money and position no one was surprised when his announcement named of his release after serving a third of his sentence. On the contrary it was the terms of his parole which were surprising. Although we have "red-baiting" in the United States Carroll will be sent back to the pen if during the time of his parole he "frequents saloons or other places where liquor is sold or furnished." Just that kind of law enforcement do we have nowadays, anyhow? Our law says we have no saloons and likewise warns people to stay away from them. It looks like a Chinese puzzle to The Plainsman.

Said he: "What ails this bloomin' flute?" I've practiced for an hour. Although I blew the notes in sweet. They always come out sour."

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Candidate For Governor Of Illinois, Will Wage "Bunkless Campaign", Dutcher Says

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Many of us are so excited over the presidential show in the big tent that we aren't paying much attention yet to the many attractive side-shows presented by various state campaigns which will also culminate in the 1928 elections.

Not one of these senatorial side-shows will be more interesting than Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's performance in Illinois and perhaps few will be more portentous.

The announcement that Mrs. McCormick would run for congresswoman-at-large brought the foremost woman politician of her time into her first bid for public office for herself. The wife of the late Senator Medill McCormick is a veteran of many campaigns but now she sets forth in her own right on the same path along which she accompanied her husband.

There are four women in Congress and the whole sex has a right to be proud of them. They have been a good influence insofar as any ordinary, individual new legislator can be an influence.

Most of them succeeded their husbands. Before that, they were not politically prominent. Mrs. McCormick is different. Her importance in the Republican party has been growing ever since she substituted for her father, Mark Hanna, at the age of 15 in a McKinley campaign of 1896.

There is significance in the fact that she is the first woman to run for national office on a state-wide vote in a large industrial state.

There is even more significance in the fact that Mrs. McCormick, pioneer though she is, is extremely likely to be elected. Whether she will be able to follow right along in her husband's footsteps remains to be seen, but there is more than a suspicion that Mrs. McCormick has been eye on the senatorship which Deeney took from McCormick in 1924 and which he must defend again in 1930.

There is every reason to believe that Deeney will be pushed out of the picture when his present term expires, but it is even more certain that Mrs. McCormick, should she run, would face a terrific battle for the seat.

There are two Illinois congressmen at large, Yates and Rathbone, one of whom must go out if Mrs. McCormick wins next year. The two candidates who receive the largest vote of those running for the office, Rathbone is the man marked for political death. He had the hardihood to oppose Thompson in the last Chicago mayoralty campaign, he is no longer popular among Illinois politicians and it is against him that Mrs. McCormick will direct her primary campaign. If she wins in the April

WHAT'S OUR HURRY?
A child's life is lost. It is someone's child, maimed, and mangled, as it reposes on a snow white bird, the marks of violent force showing about its head, despite the artistry of the mortician who has tried to efface them. All the soft, white draperies, artifices of the careful undertaker in charge, who is adept in handling all the minor details in a manner calculated to soften and mellow the pangs of grief, fail to remove from those who view the scene the knowledge that they stand in the presence of death.

The parents are awakening now to a startling thought that the future of their child, for which they had planned and worked, is physically closed; that henceforth the child will be supplanted by memories of the past.

If you should gaze on that lifeless form, realizing that you had been responsible for severing the thread of life, what would your feelings be? And yet, many of us—most of us—take the same chance when we drive rapidly through the streets near our city schools and along the highways near our rural schools. Children are maimed, children are killed in increasing numbers by careless motorists. What if the child darts out of an unexpected place, even—where it has no business! What if it is the child's own fault! Would that quiet a conscience when a tiny, maimed girl hobbled by in your subconscious mind? Would it allay remorse and grief as the lifeless little reprobate is stretched out, paying in full for his folly and thoughtlessness? What's our hurry?—Plainview Herald.

Ninety-five per cent of the people who are in such a rush really do not know where they are going. They are just going. The trouble with the majority of people who are "rushers" are a class of people who really have nothing to do but "go" and that is about all they know. They are in a hurry because they are going, but they are on their way, and the faster they go the better they like it, and the sooner they get to "nowhere else."

When people learn to go only when they need to go, the sooner will the automobile accidents be brought down to a minimum. It is not the people who have business that is rushing them through the world, but it is the fellows who have nowhere to go and nothing to do after they get there.

An Indiana woman, 95, split three cords of kindling. We are hoping the coal supply doesn't run out before we get that old.

Spooling in public in Chicago "must be reasonably clandestine," is the advice of the city's attorney. Quick, Watson, the dictionary!

They sailed. They sailed. Then spake the mate: "This mad sea shows its teeth tonight. He curls his lip, he lies in wait. With lifted teeth, as if to bite. Brave Admiral, say but one good word: What shall we do when hope is gone?" The words leapt like a leaping sword: "Sail on! Sail on! Sail on! and on!" Then, pale and worn, he kept his deck. And peered through darkness. Ah, that night! Of all dark nights! And then a speak— "A light! a light! a light! a light! It grew a starlit flag unfurled! It grew to be Time's burst of dawn. He gained a world; he gazed that world. Its grandest lesson: "On! Sail on!" —Joaquin Miller: Front Columbus.

Flapper Fanny

At the same time she will undertake to make every class of voters see that she understands their problems. Mrs. McCormick ought to be pretty successful at this, for sincerity and an absence of cant and hypocrisy are among her strongest assets. To a friend, Mrs. McCormick recently remarked that she hoped to wage a "bunkless campaign." If she does and wins, her performance will stand out as one of the most astonishing achievements in recent political history.

All told, most secrets are.

FLIERS AWAIT GOOD WEATHER

FINANCES NO WORRY IN PLANS OF TRIO FOR COPENHAGEN JUMP

(By Associated Press)
OLD ORCHARD, Maine, Oct. 20.—Neither money nor weather is worrying Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and her companions here as they wait for the first favorable opportunity to take off for Copenhagen in their monoplane, "Dawn."

Frequent postponements of their flight since early in September have not affected the expedition's plans and the vital factor of safety alone will determine when the big Amphibian will wing its way eastward.

Intentions Made Clear
The former Long Island real estate operator whose flying is backed financially by Mrs. Ange Aacker of Copenhagen and Aiken, S. C., made her intentions clear when she announced that 600 tons of a special gasoline had been placed the fuel tank when it had to be emptied in the lightening of the ship on Monday. Cold, raw weather seems definitely precluded any possibility of a take-off before Saturday and in the meantime the crew will devote its time to correction of the landing gear traction and weighing of the plane.

Two Weeks Remain
Eric Goldsborough, the Danish navigator, estimates that on basis of past averages, two weeks are left in which weather might be mild enough to permit trans-Atlantic flight. Should weather set in in earnest, postponement of the attempt until spring would be inevitable.

could not get across the coveted chalk line. Should the Tigers show the least bit of hesitancy in breaking up the Westerners they perhaps don't seem plenty of misty since the aerial route via Leslie Smith to Kerr, and Leslie Smith to Dohabite in a machine stocking device.

Officials for the game between the Westerners and Tigers have been selected and will be "Ox" Pullington (Baylor university) referee; Paregia (Northwestern) umpire; and George Connolly (Texas) headlinesman.

The Tigers have a 200 pounder at center and two 195 pounders at each tackle—looks like plenty of beef for the local athletes to handle tomorrow.

Spent a point higher.
Sentiment continued mixed as the session progressed. Losses of selling advances in many sections of the list. Safety Cable responded to news of the projected $50,000,000 cable merger with a 2 point advance. CSY quickly sold up 2 1/4 points and Abraham, Steub Houston Oil and Coca sold a point or so higher. International Harvester showed a 3 point gain in the first half hour. Declines of 2 points or more were registered by General Railway Signal and Dodge preferred, while Allied Chemical, McGraw Hill and American Telephone and Telegraph shares also displayed early weakness. The report of the Erie, the first road to report its September earnings, showing smaller gross and net than in September last year and a shrinkage in car loadings caused some selling of the stocks. Missouri Pacific preferred, Atlantic Coastline and Pittsburgh and West Virginia were off a point or so, but New Haven showed independent strength in the early trading. A 12 point jump to 172 1/2 cents in Spanish pesetas featured the firm foreign exchange opening. Demand sterling ruled around $4.85 1/2-1/4 and French francs just below 232 1/2 cents.

Girl Sees Dentistry As Field For Women

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—It should be no more difficult for women to become successful dentists than to achieve success in any other profession, believes Mrs. Olive Regina Meyer, first woman who practiced as a freshman in a college of dentistry.

and said he felt much better. Mrs. Fall, who has been indisposed for two days, also was able to be back in the courtroom. Before the court convened the former interior secretary told newspapermen that his "excellent" letter to Edward L. Doherty as Associate Justice Butler of the court had denominated it would be explained to the jury "even if I have to go on the stand." He added, however, that whether he would testify, the stand had not yet been determined. In the letter to Doherty, written in the middle of 1921, Fall said he had obtained control of the administration of the naval reserves and would handle them as he saw fit without consulting with naval authorities except possibly on the matters of policy. Other inquiries Pursuing his inquiry as to secrecy surrounding the Teapot Dome lease, Roberts asked if there were any inquiries of the interior department as the possibility of leasing the reserves from which Fall is accused of having received $250,000 or more. "Yes, there were a number of such inquiries," Finney replied. Taking up the cross examination, George P. Hoover, chief counsel for Sinclair, brought out that Fall's identification with W. C. Mendoza, ball geologist, as adviser to the secretary in naval reserve matters was due to the fact that Mendoza had favored a "compromise" policy. Going back to the claims of the Pioneer and Belgo companies to lands in Teapot Dome, Hoover was told that the interior department before the Sinclair lease had twice turned down those claims solely on the grounds that the wells they had developed were not producing in commercial quantities when the

Student Meetings To Be Invited To Lubbock In 1928

An attempt to bring the 1928 convention of student federations to Lubbock will be made by a group of approximately 30 students from Tech college who left Lubbock today to attend the meetings being held at Abilene and Dallas. Of the group leaving Lubbock, 35 will attend the Methodist Student federation meeting at Abilene Friday and Saturday; and 15 will go to Dallas to attend the Baptist Student union meeting there. The Methodist group will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Richardson, Mrs. Walter Royalty, Mrs. Sam T. Davis, Mrs. W. J. Miller and Rev. E. E. White.

Court Started By Fall's Plea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Albert E. Fall started today in the District of Columbia supreme court today by making a plea and argument to Justice Siddons during his trial with Harry P. Sinclair on a criminal conspiracy charge growing out of the leasing of Teapot Dome. He told the court it was "fundamental and vital" to the defense in this case that E. C. Finney, assistant secretary of the interior be permitted to give his interpretation of the oil leasing laws passed by congress. Duty to Interpret Law "The law makes it his duty to interpret those laws," Fall said, his voice trembling with emotion. "It is wrong in that interpretation. The United States supreme court will reverse him. So long as he remains within jurisdiction his interpretation is the law of the land." Fall's move was so unexpected that even Justice Siddons appeared spellbound for a moment. Then he broke in, reminding Fall that he had "able and eminent counsel" to represent him. "I have no desire to make a speech," Fall replied. "I have no desire to testify. But, sir, there are lawyers and there are mining lawyers. Judge Finney is qualified as a mining lawyer. He knows what this situation is all about and if allowed to testify he could clear the situation up. Confidence in Lawyers "I have very eminent lawyers, and have the utmost confidence in each and every one of them. But there are some technical matters Judge Finney understands and they do not understand." As Fall proceeded, making gestures occasionally with his right hand, to emphasize his points, Mrs. Fall sat in the front row of the spectators' section visibly disturbed. She wrung her hands during the three minutes her aged husband was on his feet. "Dulcy" reserved seats 7c — Downes.

As We Grow Older
PROPER KIDNEY ACTION IS MORE THAN EVER IMPORTANT

As we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions. The kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. This tends to make one tired and achy, with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions.

Texas Cotton Crop Value $650,000,000
(By Associated Press)

Austin, Oct. 20.—Texas cotton farmers will take in around $650,000,000 for this year's crop, or about $250,000,000 more than the average of the last 10 years, State Treasury W. Gregory Hatcher estimated in a speech Friday night at a banquet honoring State representatives of the Cities Service Company in convention here.

Hatcher's figures, he said, were arrived at from various authorities on the cotton crop.

"The United States Department of Agriculture's figures justify estimating the value of the 1927 Texas cotton crop at approximately $550,000,000 and the Alexander Hamilton Institute estimates the value of the Texas crop in excess of $750,000,000."

Hatcher expressed his belief that the State is "entering upon its greatest era of prosperity."

"The corn and hay crops are both record-breakers and other grain and feed crops exceed the average yield for the past ten years. Cattle and ranges are in better condition and cattle prices are higher than for many years.

"Add to all of this the fact that the farmers during 1927 have not borrowed more than 50 percent of the usual amount of money borrowed by them to produce a crop and you can readily see that, though they have suffered severe setbacks for the past two years from short crops and low prices, they have now come into their own."

S. S. VAN DINE, The Narrator

THIS HAS HAPPENED

A woman's gloves and handkerchiefs are found at the scene of Alvin Benson's murder and Markham, taking them to Miss St. Clair, has her brought to his office. He makes flippant answers to her questions but betrays concern when Markham asks if Leacock had not owned a Colt .45, the same type of gun that killed Benson. Vance tells Markham he is certain of the girl's innocence.

HOW BEGIN WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVII

"Naturally," Vance replied. "Since it's an irrelevant factor in most crimes. Every one of us, my dear chap, has just as good a motive for killing at least a score of men, as the motives which actuate the crimes of a hundred. And when anyone is murdered there are dozens of innocent people who stand just as strong a motive for doing it as had the actual murderer. Really, I know, the fact that a man has a motive is no evidence whatever that he's guilty—such motives are too universal a possession of the human race."

"Suspecting a man of murder because he has a motive is like suspecting a man of running away with another man's wife because he has two legs. The reason that some people kill and others don't, is a matter of temperament—of individual psychology. It all comes back to that. . . . And another thing: when a person does something there are dozens of innocent people who are overpowered—he's pretty apt to keep it himself, to hide it and guard it carefully—eh, what? He may even have disguised the motive through years of preparation; or the motive may have been born within five minutes of the crime through the unexpected discovery of facts a decade old."

"So, d'ye see, the absence of any apparent motive in a crime might be regarded as more incriminating than the presence of one."

"You are going to have some difficulty in eliminating the idea of culpability from the consideration of crime."

"I dare say," agreed Vance. "The idea of culpability is just silly enough to be impragable. And yet, many persons would be benefitted by almost anyone's death. Kill Sumner, and on that theory you could arrest the entire membership of the Authors' League."

"Opportunity, at any rate," persisted Markham, "is an insuperable factor in crime—and by opportunity, I mean that affinity of circumstances and conditions which make a particular crime possible, feasible and convenient for a particular person."

"Another irrelevant factor," asserted Vance. "Think of the opportunities we have every day to murder people we dislike!"

"Only the other night I had 10 insufficiently bored to dinner in my apartment—a social deviant. . . . But I refrained—with considerable effort. I admit—from putting arsenic in the Pontiac Canet."

"The Borgias and I, y' see, merely belong in different psychological categories. On the other hand, had I been resolved to do murder, I would—like those resourceful patriots—have created my own opportunity. . . . And there's the rub: one can either make an opportunity or disguise the fact that he had it, with false alibis and various other tricks."

"You remember the case of the murderer who called the police to break into his victim's home before the latter had been killed, saying he suspected foul play, and who then preceded the policemen indoors and stabbed the man as they were tralling up the stairs?"

"Well, what of actual proximity, or presence—the proof of a person being on the scene of the crime at the time it was committed?"

"Again misleading," Vance declared. "An innocent person's presence is too often used as a shield by the real murderer who is actually absent. A clever criminal can commit a crime from a distance through an agency that is present."

"Also, a clever criminal can arrange an alibi and then go to the scene of the crime disguised and unrecognized. There are far too many convincing ways of being present when one is believed to be absent—and vice versa. . . . But we can never part from our individualities and our natures. And that is why all crime inevitably comes back to human psychology—the one fixed, undesignable basis of deduction."

"It's a wonder to me," said Markham, "in view of your theories, that you don't advocate dismissing ninety-ninths of the police force and installing a gross or two of those psychological machines so popular with the Sunday supplement editor."

Vance smoked a minute meditatively. "I've read about 'em. Intriguing toys. They can no doubt indicate certain augmented emotional stress when the master transfers his attention from plous platitudes to a problem in spherical trigonometry. But if an innocent person were harnessed up to the various tubes, galvanometers, electro magnets, glass plates, and brass knobs of one of those apparatuses, and then quizzed about some recent crime, your indicator needle would cavort about like a Russian dancer as a result of sheer nervous panic on the patient's part."

Markham smiled patronizingly. "And I suppose the needle would remain static with a guilty person in contact?"

"Oh, on the contrary," Vance's face was unruined. "The needle would bob up and down just the same—but not because he was guilty."

"If he was stupid, for instance, the needle would jump as a result of his resentment at a seemingly unprovoked third degree torture. And if he was intelligent, the needle would jump because of his suppressed mirth at indulging in such a naive question."

"You move me deeply," said Markham. "My head is spinning like a turbine. But there are those of us poor worldlings who believe that criminality is a defect of the brain."

"So it is," Vance readily agreed. "But unfortunately the entire human race possesses the defect. The virtuous ones haven't, so to speak, the courage of their defects. . . . However, if you were referring to a criminal type, then alas! we must part company."

"It was Lombroso, that darning of the yellow journals, who invented the idea of the congenital criminal. Real scientists, like DuBois, Karl Pearson and Goring have shot his idiotic theories full of holes."

"I am floored by your erudition," declared Markham, as he signalled to a passing attendant and ordered another cigar. "I console myself, however, with the fact that, as a rule, quod scribit, sibi licet."

Vance smoked his cigar in silence, looking thoughtfully out through the window at the lazy June sky.

"Markham," he said at length, "the number of fantastic ideas extant about criminals is positively amazing."

"How a sane person can subscribe to that ancient hallucination that 'murder will out' is beyond me. It rarely 'outs,' old dear. And if it did 'out,' why a homicide bureau? Why all this whirling dervish activity by the police whenever a body is slain? . . . The poets are to blame for this bit of lunacy. Chaucer probably started it with his 'Mordre wol out,' and Shakespeare helped it along by attributing to murder a miraculous organ that speaks in lieu of a tongue."

"I was some poet, too, no doubt, who conceived the fancy that our corpses bleed at the sight of the murderer. . . . Would you as the great protector of the faithful, dare tell the police to wait calmly in their offices, or clubs, or favorite beauty parlors—or wherever policemen do their waiting—until a murderer 'outs'?"

Poor dear—if you did, they'd ask the governor for your detention as a participant in the crime, or apply for a sanity hearing."

Markham grunted good naturedly. He was busy fitting and lighting his cigar.

"I don't know what case Vance was referring to; but there are several instances of this device on record, and writers of detective fiction have often used it. The latest instance is to be found in G. K. Chesterton's 'The Innocence of Father Brown,' in the story entitled 'The Wrong Shape.'"

"It was Pearson and Goring who, about 20 years ago, made an extensive investigation and tabulation of professional criminals in England; the results of which showed (1) that criminal careers began mostly between the ages of 16 and 21; (2) that over 90 per cent of criminals were mentally normal; and (3) that more criminals had criminal older brothers than criminal fathers."

"Sir Basil Thomson, K. C. B., former assistant commissioner of metropolitan police, London, writing in the Saturday Evening Post several years after this conversation, said: 'Take, for example, the proverb that murder will out, which is employed whenever one out of many thousands of undiscovered murderers is caught through a chance coincidence that captures the popular imagination. It is because murder will not out that the pleasant shock of surprise when it does out call for a proverb to emphasize the phenomenon. The policeman who is brought to justice has almost invariably proved to have killed other victims without exciting suspicion until he has grown careless.'"

Lockwill had been right in saying the deer hound was close upon the heels of the quarry. That had been indicated by the mad excitement of the hound's baying, which was actually blood-chilling. The dog appeared, now running by sight, as the snow white buck bounded across the stump-dotted clearing. With a magnificent leap, the deer sailed over a tangle of "slashes."

The watching boys were electrified by the spectacle, but their sympathy was wholly with the fleeing deer. "It's a shame!" cried Willie. "I hope he gets away!"

"A shame and a crime!" agreed Jack, his blood leaping hotly in his veins. "It's against the law!" Then he dropped his shotgun and snatched the rifle from McNally's hands.

Lockwill threw the rifle to his shoulder and fired at the dog as the deer vanished into the woods beyond the clearing. But the moving target was small, the shot necessarily hasty, and Jack missed. The aroused boy quickly pumped another cartridge into the chamber of the rifle, and fired again. Again the humming bullet was wasted. Then both dog and deer were gone. (To Be Continued)

OFFICIALS RAP POLLUTION OF TEXAS RIVERS

SOME INSTANCES CITED AS DANGEROUS EVEN TO HUMAN LIFE

(By Associated Press) PORT WORTH, Oct. 20.—Charges that an appalling situation has developed along a large number of Texas rivers, a situation that endangers many instances to the health of the people, as well as to human life, were made here in a statement by Judge J. H. Smith, Austin, who is in charge of the anti-pollution campaign being conducted by the State Fish, Game and Oyster Commission.

Remedy Is Sought
The statement was coupled with an announcement that the commission is determined to remedy this situation in accordance with provisions of the state anti-pollution law which was passed several years ago, amenable where possible, and through the courts where necessary.

Describing the condition along a large number of streams, Judge Smith declared that refuse of various kinds being discharged into rivers has killed fish, driven away wild ducks and other field birds, made water unfit for irrigation and positively dangerous for cattle to even wade in.

Worse than killing of fish, however, in this case is the fact that conditions for propagation of fish are rendered almost impossible in that most of the plant life upon which fish feed is destroyed.

Fish Disappearing
"Although we do not find large numbers of dead fish, save after a particularly heavy discharge of refuse into streams," said Judge Smith, "we know what is going on, for the fish are disappearing from such rivers."

Most of the stream pollution problems have developed with the oil industry in Texas, according to Judge Smith, and practically every section of the state where there is a semblance of an oil field is affected. There are other sources of pollution, however, arising in cities he said. Among the later is the practice of certain industries in dumping refuse into streams instead of treating it in a modern disposal plant, he added. The city of Fort Worth is said to be an offender in that having outgrown its sewage disposal plant, only a portion of the city's sewage is being turned in to the Trinity.

Practice Just Beginning
"Industrial development and the practice of dumping refuse into streams is just beginning in Texas, and what we see here is only a witness to the future, unless some thing is done," said Judge Smith. "In fairness to the farmer, the stockman, the sportsman and nature itself, all companies, industries and cities should study the science of modern methods of disposing of their refuse."

In line with the announced policy of curbing the fight on stream pollution to the courts where necessary, the second charge of polluting the Trinity river and its tributaries was filed here recently against officials of the Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil company of Fort Worth, this charge being the seventh of its kind filed here recently.

First complaint charged pollution by waste oil and the second by dumping sulphuric acid into the creek.

In previous filings, officials of four oil refineries near here and of the Minton Packing company and the City Packing house were charged with violating the anti-pollution law.

Shiny fabrics, even black, appear to increase the size of the yearner, and should be avoided by large, stout women. Coarsely woven, thick or fuzzy materials increase the apparent bulk of the figure. Soft, clinging materials should be chosen. Light and bright colors are not so good as dark, neutral colors for the woman of large build.

ADVICE SOUGHT IN CONTROL OF TRAIN WRECKS

ELIMINATION OF GRADE CROSSINGS OFFERED AS BEST SOLUTION

(By Associated Press) DALLAS, Oct. 19.—Andrew R. McDonald of the Wisconsin Railroad commission, in his report as chairman of the committee on the safety of railroad operation, at the convention of the National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners here, recommended that the association instruct its committees to make a comparative study to determine where money might be best spent, whether on train control or in the elimination of highway grade crossings.

Official Report
"Latest available official reports," said commissioner McDonald, "show that about eighteen times as many persons are killed and about four times as many injured at highway crossings as in train collisions. During the last year for which official records are available, 2,296 persons were killed and 4,533 were injured at grade crossings. During the same period 124 deaths and 1,742 injuries resulted from collisions between trains."

"Our committee, therefore, recommends that the association instruct the safety committee to determine, if possible, whether or not the expenditure of money necessary to install further train control might better be spent in the elimination of grade crossings.

"The average cost of installing train control is in the neighborhood of $1,900 per mile, including the installation of automatic equipment on locomotives. As of June 1927, automatic train control had been installed on 7,212 road miles, and 5,890 locomotives had been equipped at a cost in excess of $29,998,000. If all class one and class two railroads are going to be ordered to install train control, the cost will reach $750,000,000."

Accidents Now Few
"It should be borne in mind that the accidents which it is designed to prevent by the installation of train control are very few when compared to the accidents resulting from grade crossing collisions between trains and highway traffic. It is possible that the expenditure of money could be more advantageously made in the interests of safety by extending automatic block signals rather than by extending train control.

Waterproof Cover Invented By Mother

BALTIMORE, Oct. 20.—Necessity has been the mother of many household inventions, but it isn't often that the busy housewife has time to develop and patent an invention formally, as Mrs. Ada I. Coleman has done.

Mrs. Coleman, who is the mother of five children, has received two patents on a waterproof cover designed to fit any schoolbook.

"The idea came to me some years ago," she explained. "One of my children came home crying because her books were not covered. Long experimenting with oilcloth produced the cover.

Almost any combination may be used for fruit cup or fruit salad, but there should be included, if possible, something pleasantly acid, such as orange, grape fruit, or tart, steamed apple. Some of the best fruits to include in a salad are canned pineapples, peaches, fresh or canned; cantaloupe, cherries, fresh or canned; apricots, dates, prunes, figs, Marshchino cherries and Malaga or Tokay grapes. A few nuts are an agreeable addition, as also are berries in season. The fruit should be cut in small, attractive pieces, and they should not be stirred about or they will look mushy and shapeless.

Call Issued For Recreation Club Fixtures For Vets

LEGION, Texas, Oct. 20.—Cooperation of chamber of commerce and other civic organizations throughout Southwest Texas to acquire necessary furniture and equipment for a recreation club at the veterans' hospital here has been called for by the Veterans club of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The club was organized on April 11, last, to provide recreation for more than 300 veterans hospitalized here.

It was estimated that approximately $5,000 will be needed to remodel and equip the club house, which was the former Red Cross hall. One thousand dollars of this amount had been pledged.

The hospital serving organization has allotted twenty cents a member a year for the club's maintenance.

"How best can I trade in my present car for a new car?"

WHEN you are ready to trade in your present car for a new car, you naturally want full value for your present car. But most of all you want full new car value.

It will therefore pay you to consider varying trade-in allowance offers in the light of these basic facts:

- 1 Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: i.e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 2 Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 3 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
- 4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.
- 6 Remember that you are making a purchase—not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply using your present car as a credit against the new car's purchase price.

WINTER CONOCO ETHYL GASOLINE

Science offers the Ideal Fuel for cold weather driving

A FUEL that starts quickly—without excessive use of the choke—then follows through by delivering smooth sustained power. That's what science offers you in Winter Conoco Ethyl Gasoline.

This ideal cold weather fuel was produced through the combined efforts of the Continental Oil Company's refinery experts and the engineers of the General Motors Research Laboratories. It is the fuel which recognizes no competition in meeting the present needs of the motoring public.

Winter Conoco Ethyl Gasoline delivers everything which you have a right to expect from your motor fuel—power, rapid acceleration, less gear shifting, better hill climbing and no knocks. In fact, the development of Ethyl Gasoline has made possible the new high compression automobiles. Winter Conoco Ethyl Gasoline performs perfectly under high compression whether that condition exists through the increasing of the compression ratio by the motor car manufacturer or through the natural formation of carbon deposits in the cylinders.

So why not get all the benefits of high compression? Why not sail along for smooth knockless miles behind a sweet purring motor? Why not save dollars in repair bills by spending a few extra pennies for this supreme winter gasoline?

For remember this special winter fuel costs only 3c more per gallon than regular Conoco Gasoline.

Ask for it wherever you see the Conoco Sign.
