Royce Mahon, the Mayor of the City of Loraine, was over Wednesday evening for the Texas Electric Service Co. Quarter Century Club banquet, and we had a chance to visit with him and Mrs. Mahon and with TESCO Vice President Bob Martin during the meal.

Mahon, who farms and raises some livestock down in Mitchell County said he was disappointed that cotton farmers down there did not get enough signed up for a bollweevil control program such as that underway now in Scurry County.

But he was more concerned with Loraine's dog problem

"It looks like everybody who has a dog he doesn't want brings it to town and turns it loose," said the Loraine mayor. He said the city is in the process of revising its animal ordinance so that something can be done about the situation.

Martin said his family had a dog problem in Fort Worth. Their dogs bark at night and disburb neighbors, although they are kept up and off the street. Mahon said a friend of his had found an electronic device which enabled him to give his dog a light electrical shock when he barks. It is radio-controlled and he can operate it while he sits in his living room and the dog is in the yard. It has been effective in keeping the dog quiet.

"That may be what I've been looking for," Martin said.

Mahon, a member of a well-known family with long-time Mitchell County connections, said he is about the only one left there now. His brother, U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon, lives in Fort Worth. And his uncle, Congressman George H. Mahon, maintains his Texas residence in Lubbock now as he continues to serve in Congress.

Katherine Redwine brought her copy of the new issue of "Smithsonian" by for us to take a quick look at an article about Preston Jones, the Texas playwright who is causing quite a stir back East with his three plays now running on Broadway. The Smithsonian Institution's publication suggests that Jones' works may be the turning point which will bring family theater back on the scene. These are plays we referred to recently that are set in this area of West Texas.

That reminds us of the story about the theatrical agent who was approached by a young man who said he did bird imitations.

"Don't waste my time," said the agent.

"Okay, sorry I bothered you," said the young man as he grabbed his hat and flew out the window.–WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Oct. 17, the 291st day of 1976. There are 75 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1777, British General John Burgoyne surrendered his forces to the Americans at Saratoga, N.Y. in what was one of the turning points in the American Revolution.

On this date:

In 1662, England's King Charles II sold the port of Dunkirk to the French.

In 1855, the English engineer and factory owner, Henry Bessemer, patented his process for making steel.

In 1933, the physicist, Dr. Albert Einstein, arrived in the United States as a refugee from Nazi Germany.

In 1945, Juan Peron staged a coup in Buenos Aires and became absolute dictator of Argentina.

In 1968, it was announced that Mrs. John Kennedy would marry Aristotle Onassis.

In 1973, the Nobel Peace Prize was awarded to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho of North Vietnam for negotiating the Vietnam cease fire agreement.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson left on a 17-day visit to the Pacific and Asia, pledging to help build new societies of freedom, peace and prosperity in the area.

Five years ago: The black militant, H. Rap Brown, was in a New York City hospital after being wounded in a shootout after a bar holdup.

One year ago: President Ford rejected a request by New York City for financial aid to avoid default.

Annual Hereford Show, Sale Here

Upwards to 70 Hereford breeders from 16 states will take over the Scurry County Coliseum this week for the 29th annual National Anxiety 4th Hereford Breeders Show and Sale, president Layton Hatter, Jr., of Moody, announced this week.

Treasurer Scott Casey of Snyder is chairman of the committee in charge of putting on the prestigious sale, which is sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and Scurry County Board of Development.

While festivities don't begin until Tuesday night and the sale Wednesday, breeders will begin moving their stock in to the coliseum Sunday, Casey pointed out.

Highlighting the once-a-year sale will be the Annual Banquet Tuesday night at the Snyder Country Club beginning at 7:30 p.m. A board of directors meeting will be held immediately following the banquet. The show begins at 9 a.m. Wednesday.

The Anxiety 4th Hereford sale kicks off at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, with auctioneer Stanley Stout and judge Bob Sale officiating.

Special representatives include James Boyd, American Hereford Association and Hereford Journal; Jack Chastain, Texas Hereford Association; Tom Webber, The Record Stockman; and Elmer Kelton, West Texas Livestock Weekly.

"We are offering a group of cattle that will meet more of the beef producers' needs than any other strain of cattle available today," Hatter said. "We (Anxiety 4th Breeders) strive for size without sacrificing reproductive efficiency. We strive for performance on a modest amount of feed without sacrificing quality, soundness or eye appeal.

"Lean meat, gaining ability, ease of calving, milking ability and strong constitutions are characteristics that have been selected and produced by the breeders of this family of Herefords for over 90 years."

Casey has issued an invitation to all local residents to visit the Coliseum and look over this prestigious breed of cattle.

All sales are guaranteed by the producer with the customary guarantees of purebred cattle. The association acts as a selling agent only. All cattle have been tested for Bangs and TB within the past 30 days, and health papers necessary to transport the cattle will be furnished by the consignors.

Suit Against Nursing Home Settled Here

A $155,000 damage suit filed last March 18 by executors of the estate of the late Bert W. Dickenson against Leisure Lodges, Inc., and LaVerne Stroder, has been dismissed.

District Judge Wayland G. Holt dismissed the suit in 132nd District Court after attorneys for both plaintiffs and defendants signed a motion for dismissal.

The suit was filed after the Snyder Hospital-Nursing Home was closed here last spring and patients were moved to Leisure Lodge. Dickenson had operated the Snyder Hospital-Nursing Home for a number of years prior to his death.

Citizens National Bank of Abilene filed the suit as executor of the Dickenson estate, claiming that LaVerne Stroder, administrator of the facility, and Leisure Lodges, Inc., closed Snyder Hospital-Nursing Home and moved the patients without the knowledge of the executor of the Dickenson estate.

Judge Holt signed the order dismissing the suit "with prejudice," which means the plaintiffs have a right to file again. However, the motion signed by both attorneys stated that all matters in the controversy had been settled and compromised. Terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

Flu Shot Ban Lifted

Restrictions on use of swine flu vaccine have been lifted by state health authorities, the Scurry County Health Unit has been advised.

All swine flu innoculations were halted in the state following reports last Tuesday that some elderly persons in Pennsylvania had died after recieving swine flu shots. Subsequently health authorities said there was no reason to believe that the flu vaccine had caused the deaths.

Paula Pierce, nurse at the Scurry County Health Unit, said the unit here was advised Friday afternoon that swine flu shots may be resumed Monday. However, the only vaccine available here at this time is in doctors' offices. The health unit has not received a supply of the vaccine to be administered at the unit.

Vaccine for use at the health unit is expected to arrive late this month, and a schedule for free inoculations likely will be set up early in November.

Bullock Finds Towns Owe Tax

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday his auditors discovered more than $9 million in additional local sales taxes owed to Texas cities and towns in fiscal 1976, more than double the amount turned up in the two previous fiscal years.

The figure for the two previous years was approximately $4.5 million.

Soto Rites Are Pending

Maria Soto, 59, Route 2, Hermleigh, was dead on arrival at 10:30 p.m. Friday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Funeral arrangements were pending Saturday at the Elliott-Hamil Funeral Home in Abilene.

Mrs. Soto is survived by her husband, Mike Soto, of the home.

Candidates Busy As Big Day Nears

Ford On Whistlestop Train Trip

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

ABOARD THE CAMPAIGN TRAIN "HONEST ABE" (AP) - With an attack on Jimmy Carter, President Ford hopped aboard the "Honest Abe" today for an old-fashioned whistlestop train trip through the Illinois heartland.

The President and Mrs. Ford waved to a large send-off crowd in Joliet, Ill., and Ford assailed what he called Carter's inconsistencies on the issues.

"He'll say anything anywhere to become President of the United States," Ford said of Carter.

Ford claimed that Democratic social programs would add $100 billion in federal spending, that Carter has proposed a $15 billion cut in the defense budget and that the Democratic presidential candidate would increase taxes on all those with incomes above the median.

At almost the same time, Carter was holding a press conference in Kansas City at which he said he had sent a telegram to Ford demanding that he stop misrepresenting Carter's position on those same issues.

As for tax increases, Carter said in a recent Associated Press interview that he would raise taxes on those who earn more than the "mean or median" income and lower taxes for those who earn less. Told that median family income was about $12,000, and persons earning $15,000 were not thought of as rich, Carter said: "I can't answer that question because I haven't gone into it. I don't know how to write the tax code now in specific terms."

Aides said later Carter thought of middle income as up to $25,000 a year.

Ford also repeated a charge he made in Thursday night's press conference when he accused Carter of "slandering" the nation by declaring it was weak militarily and had lost the respect of other countries.

Ford's 10-hour, 200-mile whistlestop tour takes him from northern to southern Illinois with seven speeches scheduled along the way.

At a news conference, Carter read a telegram which he said he sent Ford Friday expressing certainty Ford would not continue to repeat the challenged statements "knowing your concern about integrity."

Carter contended Ford is wrong in claiming the Democratic presidential candidate urges a defense cut of $15 billion, that his social programs would cost $100 billion, that he would end tax deductions for mortgage interest and property tax payments and that he would increase taxes on all those with incomes above the median.

At almost the same time, Ford began a whistlestop campaign train tour in Joliet, Ill., with a ringing attack on Carter's positions. The President included three of the charges — about defense cuts, social spending and income taxes — that Carter wants him to drop.

During the half hour session before embarking on a campaign swing through Ohio, Carter was asked what he would do if one of the countries of Eastern Europe were to revolt against Soviet domination — a question that Ford sidestepped at a televised news conference Thursday.

"I don't know what I would do," Carter replied. "But I wouldn't send American troops in."

Foreign affairs dominated the news conference, in which Carter also stated:

—"I wouldn't go back on the commitment" to protect Taiwan against military takeover but would seek a pledge from mainland China that it would never use military force toward that end.

—"I don't see any immediate prospect of normalization of relations with Cuba" and would not have that as an early goal of his administration, if elected.

—American atomic weapons would be withdrawn from South Korea and American troops would be pulled out over a four-to-five year period, although "adequate tactical air cover" would be continued and the South Korean military forces would be strengthened.

Carter was asked if he was denying published reports that he had suggested possible defense cuts of up to $15 billion. While saying he could not recall saying such a thing, Carter stated, "I can't deny that I ever said that."

Carter Says Ford Is Wrong

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jimmy Carter said today he has wired President Ford to claim Ford has misrepresented his position on four issues and to ask that the President desist.

Council Due To Appoint Mayor

The Snyder City Council is due to discuss the vacancy in the mayor's chair at a special meeting Monday evening at the city hall.

Mayor W.A. Vestal's death last Tuesday left a year and a half on his term of office. John Fagin, mayor pro tem, is serving as mayor until a mayor can be appointed.

The special meeting has been called for 6:30 p.m. Monday.

The city charter provides that in the event a vacancy occurs on the city council, including the position of mayor, the council shall appoint someone to fill the vacancy until the next general election. Thus, the council has the responsibility of appointing a mayor to serve until the city's general election next April 6. At that time, the office of mayor will be on the ballot to fill the post for the remaining year on the current term.

Three councilmen and the mayor are elected on even years and three councilmen are elected on odd-numbered years.

To fill the mayor's post until the general election in April, the council may appoint a member of the council, or it may name someone else, whichever it desires. If a member of the council should be appointed, it would then be necessary to make an appointment to fill the resulting vacancy on the council.

In other business at the special meeting Monday, the council will discuss the expansion of distribution lines into the city by Midwest Electric Cooperative, consider proposals for the operation of the city's irrigated farm at the wastewater treatment plant, and consider bids on highway signs.

Nine Die In Fiery Crash

DEER TRAIL, Colo. (AP) — Nine charred bodies were pulled from a late-model station wagon here Saturday after it crashed off an Interstate 70 overpass into a cement wall and tumbled down the wall in flames onto a farm road, the Colorado State Patrol said.

A man who was thrown clear of the wreck was taken to a hospital in Aurora, Colo., 36 miles to the west. Officials said he was in critical condition with severe head and internal injuries.

"I've never seen nothing that ugly in all my life," said Arden Intermill of the Deer Trail Rescue Squad, who was with the first crew of rescue workers on the scene.

"There's just no description. They didn't even look like bodies. They were burned so bad you couldn't tell what they were except that they had been bodies."

The station wagon had Texas license plates.

The accident occurred four miles west of Deer Trail, where U.S. 40-287 becomes the interstate. Intermill said the car had been traveling west, toward Denver, when it rounded a curve, wavered into the median and crashed under the overpass.

It's Time To Plan Your Mailing For Christmas

It's not too early to begin planning for the mailing of holiday parcels and greeting cards, Snyder Postmaster Jack Tilson has reminded.

"In fact," said Tilson, "The earlier, the better."

In an effort to encourage local residents to deposit Christmas mail early this year, Tilson recommends the following dates for mailing items to the various points listed below:

Oct. 15, International surface parcels to the Far East.

Oct. 25, International surface greeting cards to the Far East.

Oct. 28, Surface mail to Armed Forces in Antarctica, Australia, Burma, Indonesia, Japan, Korea, New Zeland, Okinawa, Phillippines, Tawan and Thailand.

No. 1, Surface mail and space available mail (SAM) to Armed Forces in Ethopia, Iran, Israel, Saudi Arabia and Turkey; international surface parcels to Africa and the Near East.

Nov. 4, International surface greeting cards to Africa and the Near East.

Nov. 8, Parcel air lift (PAL) parcels to Armed Forces in Ethiopia, Iran, Israel, Saudi Arabia nd Turkey.

Nov. 11, Surface mail and space available mail parcels to Armed Forces in South and Central America, Liberia and the Republic of Zaire; surface mail to Armed Forces in Belgium, Denmark, England, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal and Spain; international surface parcels to South and Central America and Europe.

Nov. 18, Parcel air lift parcels to Armed Forces in South and Central America, Liberia and Republic of Zaire.

Nov. 20, Space available mail parcels to Armed Forces in Belgium, Denmark, England, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal and Spain; space available mail parcels to Armed Forces in Antarctica, Australia, Burma, Indonesia, Japan , Korea, New Zealand, Okinawa, Philippines, Taiwan and Vietnam.

Nov. 25, Surface mail and space available mail parcels to Armed Forces in Canada, Greenland, Labrador, New Foundland and the Azores.

Credit CB Rage To 'Talk Power'

Editor's Note: The writer of the following has a Ph.D. in psychology and recently got a CB radio for his birthday.

By SALVATORE DIDATO
For the Associated Press

With all the interest in CBs, one must wonder just what causes consumers to plunk down anywhere from $50 to several thousand dollars for a set which gives them the exclusive right to speak with strangers. It's an intriguing psychology.

There's no question that talking with strangers on CB has a wide appeal. When Betty Ford greeted radio buffs with "Hello, First Momma here," she became the most famous speaker on the nation's chattiest partyline.

The citizens' band radio is the fastest growing communication medium since the telephone. Half of the 15 million sets now in operation were bought within the past 18 months or so. By the end of 1976, the industry expects sales to rocket over $1 billion.

One explanation for the rage, no doubt, has to do with our impersonal society. The fact is, we don't have the relaxed, easy manner of relating face to face with others which we enjoyed 50 years ago.

We all need such human contact yet our attempts at it are often awkward and forced. Most of us avoid such confrontations if we can. Maybe it's a paradox that in a nation which prides itself on freedom of speech, the average man still doesn't have much of a chance to express his ideas and feelings to others.

The CB radio is a forum for the little guy who seeks such expression. He's after "talk power," and he doesn't have to risk losing face to people who argue him down. His anonymity is his shield.

The new camaraderie of the airwaves verifies that a CBer will readily speak to strangers about the most detailed minutiae, even when in a hurry to get through traffic. These, ironically, are the same strangers he might not say more than five words to in a bus, coffee shop or hotel lobby.

In addition, willingness to help emerges more quickly toward a CBer who is broken down on a highway than it does toward to someone who, like Kitty Genovese, is imperiled on a city street. The Genovese syndrome (she was murdered in a celebrated case in which more than 40 New Yorkers heard her screams and did nothing) is simply our fear of involvement coupled with a feeling that somebody else will help. But somehow on the highway it's different. The new CB ethos gives us options we don't enjoy elsewhere.

When we CBers are emplored by a stranger in trouble, we feel individually linked with him, yet we can choose involvement without identity. (Most CBers use only their handle). Anonymous Samaritan acts are not only valued but respected. We can relay a message for help, then tune out if we wish.

CB radio is a kind of fantasy "trip" in which we hear what the world is saying, eavesdropping, as it were, on humanity at large. We are risking that we may be bored by the drone of it's chit-chat, but on the other hand, we may possibly profit from it's practical wisdom.

It's an electronic lottery through which all may speak regardless of their status in life. It's the first communication leveler in history. A flick of the switch and "Breaker 2, Breaker 2. What's your handle, good buddy?," invites any banker, farmer or stock clerk of any race, creed, color or educational level to enter into conversation.

Thus, despite the drawbacks of the conversational graffiti which crowds the 23 channels and charges that CB jams television and hi-fi sets, the contagion of chatter continues unabated. And much to the benefit of the public.

For example, in Kansas, deaths caused by sleeping drivers have declined in the past two years. Police attribute it to CB radio callers who report nodding drivers weaving along the highway. In a six-month period in 1974, the Missouri Highway Patrol received 664 CB calls and made 221 arrests, most for drunken driving. Among those apprehended, were 21 wanted criminals. Police there say that CB calls, which pinpoint the site of an accident or fire, help to reduce the response time by one-third compared with three years ago.

Obviously, bringing awareness to others can be a satisfying adventure from some persons. Operating a CB radio meets their needs for power, competence and authority. It's participative radio at its best, and it offers a chance for civic pride over a deed well-done.

It's hard to predict if the CBs will vanish as fast as the hula hoop, but one thing is certain, it does satisfy a need in many to relate to others.

Lonnie Creamer, a heavy-duty trucker from Spartansburg, S.C., seems to sum it all up when he says: "My CB radio is a friendship maker, bringing the whole wide world just a little step closer."

Miss Brock Is In Honors Program

FORT WORTH—Juanne Brock of Snyder is among 138 freshmen participating in Texas Christian University's Honors Program during the 1976-77 academic year.

The Honors Program, inaugurated in 1962, is designed to motivate students qualified to accept the intellectual challenge to strive for academic excellence.

Invitations to join the program are extended on the basis of College Entrance Examination Board scores as well as academic promise illustrated by maintaining at least a B average grade throughout high school. The freshmen invited to join the program and the sophomore, junior and senior classmates already in the program will attend classes smaller and more academically demanding than those in the regular undergraduate program. The classes are designed for maximum interaction and discussion and are taught by faculty especially suited to this type of teaching.

The Honors Program is directed by Dr. Keith Odom, associate professor of English who holds degrees from East Central State College in Oklahoma, Oklahoma State University and the University of Wisconsin. He is a published author and a specialist in the field of English and European novels.

About 6000 B.C. man had settled in the Near East in rich valleys and had learned to domesticate plants and animals.

WTC Has 58 Counties Represented

Fifty-eight Texas counties are represented in the fall enrollment at Western Texas College, Dr. Duane Hood, Dean of Student Services and Registrar, said.

There are also 18 students from states outside Texas and four students from Iran.

Freshmen outnumber sophomores by 797 to 266, and a large number of students (417) are attending college for the first time. Male students outnumber female students by eight. Only one time in its six-year history has WTC had more female than male students. That was in 1975 when female students outnumbered male students by 37.

There are 160 veterans attending WTC this fall, a decline of 15 from the previous fall when veteran enrollment reached its highest level.

Enrollment from counties in the immediate Scurry County area is as follows:

Fisher	45
Garza	29
Howard	2
Haskell	43
Jones	43
Kent	7
Lubbock	15
Mitchell	78
Nolan	180
Scurry	492
Taylor	15

Jaycees Plan 'Superkids' Events Here

Snyder Jaycees were given a report on the West Texas Chapter of the American Lung Association at their luncheon meeting Friday at the Smorgasbord House.

Presenting the program were Georgia Brewer and Beverly Mitchell. They introduced a new program called "Superkids, which is fashioned after the television program, "The Superstars," with youngsters participating in the program to enlist the aid of sponsors who pay them a penny a point scored in the competition. The Snyder Jaycees hope to sponsor a Superkids event here next spring.

The club voted to sponsor a Snyder elementary school classroom in the Multiple Sclerosis "Read-A-Thon" at the rate of $1 per book read up to $100. The money will go to the MS Association.

Several members reported on the area Jaycee meeting held last weekend in San Angelo. A delegation of Colorado City Jaycees made an interclub visit to the local club to promote their "Haunted House" project Oct. 28-31.

The Colorado City visitors included Larry Ivy, Gary Harkins and Richard Westrand. Joel Wendell was a guest at the meeting and Clyde Ferguson, president of the club, presided.

To The Daily News:

We have read with much interest the letter concerning "Jesus Christ Superstar." I don't know anything about the incident Mr. Gaston wrote about, but I do know that anything that portrays our Saviour as the lover of a prostitute is pure blasphemy, and we are opposed to it.

There is no telling how much damage was done by this show to people who are not firm in their beliefs. We are so thankful for pastors who will warn the people against this kind of thing.

To The Daily News:

The first four books of the New Testament are called the books of the Gospel. From these four books are the verses that refer to the woman called Mary the Magdalene. Some ten verses tell the story of Mary Magdalene and her intimate companionship with Jesus. Mary Magdalene had the honor of being Jesus' first conversion of a sinner.

Mary Magdalene had the honor of being Jesus' intimate companion during his entire preaching career. Mary Magdalene was one of the women named that was at the crucifixion. Mary Magdalene had the honor of being the only woman that Jesus revealed himself to. And he appointed her to be his messenger to tell the disciples and the world that Jesus had ascended from the grave. A more appropriate title to the story: Mary Magdalene Superstar.

Library Sets Sunday Hours

The Scurry County Library has announced new hours for Sunday afternoons for the convenience of patrons.

Beginning Oct. 24, the county library will be open from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Sundays. The library will be closed on Saturday, Oct. 23, until 2 p.m. to permit the staff to attend the District Texas Library Association meeting at Western Texas College.

Big Spender On Playboy

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — An unidentified man went on a "Playboy" buying spree and for $714.48 purchased the entire stock of the magazine at two bookstores here.

The current issue contains the celebrated interview with Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter.

Scott Whiteside, manager of one of the stores, said Friday a middle-aged man, dressed in work clothes, paid for the 240 magazines at $1.50 each plus 4 per cent sales tax.

A man answering to the same description then went to another bookstore and purchased its stock of 218 "Playboy" magazines, said Donald Cates, a clerk.

TV Weathermen Inserting Humor

—By MIKE GOODKIND
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George Fischbeck claps his hands, adjusts his unstylish bow tie, kneels and even crawls under tables.

He also details the movement of ridges and troughs and points knowingly at a low pressure area moving eastward from the Pacific.

Then he tells his Los Angeles television audience whether it's going to rain or not.

He has become a well-known television personality, and he is just part of a showmanship trend in television weather forecasting, a trend aimed at raising the ratings of news shows while maintaining the integrity of the weather forecast.

Troy Dungan, a Dallas television weatherman, also wears bow ties. His weather report is laced with tips about lawn care and protection against insects.

In New York, weatherman Frank Field occasionally has to ad lib when anchorman Tom Snyder drapes "a plucked chicken over my pointer or grabs the pointer from me."

Fischbeck says he learned during 23 years as a junior high school teacher that humor is a useful tool in getting across a serious point. He really did crawl under a table once — to demonstrate a safe place to be during an earthquake. When a weather map is placed too low, he'll kneel down to point to features on it.

Nobody knows for sure whether the new weather forecasters are boosting the ratings of nightly news shows.

Rating services, like A.C. Nielsen, rank viewership in no less than 15-minute segments. Who is to say which member of the news stable is bringing the ratings up or down? But the prevailing belief is that a good weather forecaster makes the ratings go up.

"You can have fun with the weatherman, but you can't ever flirt with his credibility," says Jack Cafferty, news director of WHO-TV in Des Moines.

"All the stations want meteorologists, but there aren't too many around," says Sherlee Barish, a New York-based "headhunter," who places weather forecasters with stations nationwide.

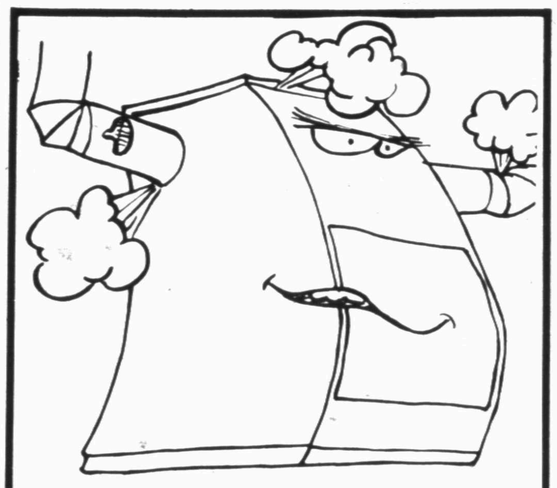

In the largest markets, weathermen earn more than $100,000 annually. In the lower half of the top 20 markets, places like Miami or Seattle, the yearly pay dips to about $30,000.

But Kenneth Spengler, executive director of the American Meteorological Society, says big salaries don't necessarily mean good weather forecasts. "I think some of the worst weathercasts are in places like New York and Los Angeles. I don't know whether it's the influence of the show business people there who make the people believe they have to perform."

The AMS hands out seals of approval to TV weathermen it feels have met a high standard of expertise and presentation. Currently 138 weathercasters, including more than one person at some stations, hold the seal.

Fischbeck's boss, KABC news director Bill Fyffe, believes professional credentials "are important for the matter of credibility. The subliminal knowledge that the person knows what he's talking about."

SCURRYLY SPEAKING

Local Men Fought With Famous G Co. In WWII

(Editor's Note: Scurryly Speaking is the newsletter of the Scurry County Historical Commission, which formerly was issued periodically as a publication of its own, but in recent months has been published as a feature from time to time in The Snyder Daily News. This chapter was written by Drew Bullard from the recollections of John Portis. It recalls the activities of "G" Company of the 36th Division of the U.S. Army, which included men from Scurry County, during World War II.)

By DREW BULLARD

There are wars that a nation should remember. It has been well over 30 years ago that World War II began, but even to a person not born until that war was ended, certain names- Eisenhower, Patton, Bradley, "D" Day, Nazi, Heroshima, Hitler, Kamakazi to name only a few- can call forth strong responses. World War II was a war that is still very deeply embedded in our national consciousness.

It was with interest then that it was brought to my attention that within the 36th Division of the United States Army was the "G" Company which included men from Scurry County. The 36th Division as well as the "G" Company of that division took part in some of the bloodiest fighting of the war and received many decorations and much deserved recognition. It is my purpose here to take a look at a segment of their activities.

At summer camp in Louisiana in 1939, the "G" Company began hearing rumors of their possible mobilization, and to no one's surprise the Company was mobilized on Nov. 25, 1940. At this time the Company included about 106 men from Scurry County. Their camp was at Camp Bowie in Brownwood, Texas. For over a year the men trained in this location under conditions which did not resemble those one might enjoy at the Ft. Worth Hilton. Upon their arrival, the camp was a sea of mud. It had been raining for months and it was cold, but the industrious "G" Company set to work and with shovels, a lot of elbow grease and a little paint they engineered a respectable abode.

At Camp Bowie basic infantry training commenced. It was only a minor inconvenience that the weapons for the Weapons Platoon had not yet arrived. Mortars and machine guns made of pipe and other odds and ends did just as well. An especially unforgettable experience was the field training in the bayou country of Louisiana. For six weeks the Company bedded in pup tents, dined on "C" rations, and endured long marches amidst heat, dust, mosquitoes and snakes. Camp Bowie seemed luxurious by comparison.

After more time in Camp Bowie, their Battalion was picked to go to Fort Sill for training with artillery officers. After a relatively pleasant stay there, they returned to Camp Bowie for advanced instruction and drill. "G" Company was beginning to shape up.

Camp Blanding, Florida was the next stop and the men were greeted by a snow, of all things. Here they participated in jungle training. In addition 1,005 new recruits were received. These men were required to absorb in six weeks that had taken the "G" Company two years to learn. During the weekend the men were usually given some leave time and they used the opportunity to visit such places as the old Spanish Fort, the Fountain of Youth Parks and the Marina.

After training in Florida they were sent to the Carolinas. In the rough country along the Pee Dee River they encountered more mud, new maneuvers and even a forest fire. Never ones to rest their feet, the Company traveled to Camp Edwards at Cape Cod, Massachusetts and were stationed in pup tents on an island near the camp proper. The NonComs and officers who had been sent to England from Florida for special training rejoined the Company and gave them the same training that commandos receive. They learned to kill with their bare hands and how to disarm an enemy. They received their first amphibious training and participated in speed marches. They soon reached the best physical and mental condition of their lives.

Still, however, there was more training to come. The Company entrucked for A.P. Military Reservation in Virginia. Here they were trained for mountain fighting in the winter time and learned to fire one of the fiercest weapons they had yet encountered- the Bazooka.

Finally on April 1, 1943, they headed overseas. "G" Company's first assignment was guard duty in North Africa. The Allies were closing in on the Germans around Tunis and a few of the enemy were slipping through the lines and getting to Spanish Morocco, which was pro-Nazi. There they would be safe. "G" Company's purpose was to stop this. Tunis was soon secured, however, and the men were stationed at Ain El Turk on the coast. Here men of the Company taught street fighting and demolition work to troops from all over North Africa.

What hardships the Company had endured and what sights they had seen were nothing compared to what lay ahead of them. They were to be part of the first wave in the Salerno Invasion of Italy. At Ain El Turk the Company had already practiced for the invasion, but as their ships sailed toward the Italian coast town of Pastum, their thoughts were sober and their stomachs full of strain and tension. On September 9, 1943 it happened. No more thoughts, only action, and reliance on the reflexes and discipline instilled through countless hours of training.

In the first hours of morning men streamed down the landing nets into the smaller invasion craft and moved shoreward. Waves lapped against the boats; everything was quiet and dark, almost serene. To the left rays of light enveloped the top of ancient active Mount Vesuvius. It seemed a peaceful and contented world where hurt and death had no power, but withiin the space of a few hours harshness, fear, and pain would reign supreme.

The crafts neared the shore; the men were quiet and tense. They felt the scrape of a sandbar and 50 yards later their boat ran aground. The front ramp dropped and shells began to explode. Flares lit the sky and enemy machine guns from the dunes ahead raked the shore. Soldiers raced through the water toward the clattering guns. Men screamed as one of the boats received a direct hit. For "G" Company World War II became reality.

On the beach ahead were barbed wire concentina stretching as far as the eye could see. One of the Company ran to the wire and threw himself across it to become a human stepping stone for those behind. When all had passed over him, he took his knife and cut his clothes to free himself. A machine gun fired continuously up and down the barb wire line. Suddenly a torpedo boat appeared, disgorged two rockets and the machine gun was silent.

The sky brightened slowly and the men were able to see more clearly. Soon they reached a town where they met some resistance but nothing serious. As planned the men reorganized at a railroad about a mile from the beach. John Portis had gathered some of his men and was heading toward the assembly area. The men walked along what appeared to be an irrigation ditch 8 feet across and 6 feet deep. Suddenly a machine gun opened fire on them from a farm house 200 yards away. The men dove for cover into the trench and to their dismay discovered that they were splashing in the sewer ditch of Naples. John remembers that he didn't have any friends for awhile.

After reassembling at the railroad, the men pushed toward their objective of Mount Soprana. Meanwhile the Germans constantly shelled the beaches behind them to hinder the movement of supplies and reinforcements. In the flat country at the base of the mountain the Company fought through enemy tanks and artillery. Reaching the mountain, they climbed to one of the peaks which was their mission to take. Other units were to secure the two remaining peaks. On the road below the peak appeared two tanks, two trucks, and one motorcycle. The men opened fire and destroyed both trucks and the motorcycle. The tanks quickly withdrew. The mountain theirs, the men continued to a small town named Roccodespeddi where they dug in and attempted to rest. They received artillery fire and after dark moved back about 300 yards and spent the night.

At 10 the following night the men were ordered to high ground on their left near Altavilla. Germans pushing into this sector had driven an American Battalion back. The Company moved to their new position and with the aid of Airborne Troops and tank destroyers stopped the German advance. Soon afterward the men were relieved and pulled back to regroup and train new soldiers.

The "G" Company had many wounded and were badly in need of replacements. They were thus held in reserve for some time while other units assaulted the Volturno River. Finally the Company received recruits and their units were brought to battle strength. Their next task was to take the Maggiore Pass which was an opening on one side of the Lire Valley just before Cassino. The peaks above the valley were held by German observation posts whose duty it was to spot the position of any American Armor, men or supplies that moved into the valley below and call down artillery upon them. The fighting for possession of these Alpine peaks was very bitter and dangerous. The mountains were difficult to climb and the combat was done mostly in the bitter cold of winter. The men were forced to live mainly off "C" rations.

"G" Company moved toward their objective in good order, but the Germans came down and closed in back of them. The Canadian troops who were to push through the "G" Company and on toward the peaks above were not able to break through the German lines and the Company was trapped in the foothills. One can imagine the hardship. The Germans fired "screaming-meenies" and artillery. The cold and dampness were extreme. Their only lifeline was the American Air Force which swept above them and dropped food and ammunition. The Germans tried to attack them several times but were unsuccessful. Only after 108 days, on a very dark night, their position secured, did the men move onto the floor of the valley.

This valley was the gateway to Rapido River and Cassino. But before American troops, armor or supplies could be brought forward, a long, low, flat-topped mountain called "Longo" in the center of the valley had to be taken. In hotly contested fighting in which many Germans were killed, the mountain was won. "G" company alone captured around 40 of the enemy.

What I have written here is only the beginning of the story of "G" Company. Many men in the Company were killed and most were eventually wounded. They were among those who fought in the battle of Cassino; they made the beachhead in Southern France and from there fought in four countries. Much time has lasped since their memorable actions, but I think it is important that in this bicentennial year we remember those from among us, not only the men of "G" Company, but all those who fought in World War II.

Snyder Man Named To UTPB Board

Sixteen well-known community leaders from Midland, Odessa, Big Spring, McCamey, Monahans, Snyder, Andrews and Pecos have been named to the first Development Board for The University of Texas of the Permian Basin. University President Dr. V.R. Cardozier announced the 16 as:

J. Conrad Dunagan of Monahans; Mel Z. Gilbert of Snyder; Claude W. Brown of McCamey; James Roberts of Andrews: Joe Pickle of Big Spring; Mrs. Richard Slack of Pecos; James N. Allison, Jr., Ray F. Herndon, Jr., Stanley C. Moore, Charles H. Priddy, and W.F. Roden, all of Midland; and Norvell W. Harris, W.D. Noel, Charles R. Perry, Louis Rochester, and W.M. Schur, all of Odessa.

President Cardozier said the university is "fortunate that these outstanding persons have agreed to serve." He explained that the Development Board members advise the president with respect to development of the University's goals, degree programs, physical plant, community and public services and other aspects to help the institution better serve its constituents. They assist in securing gifts needed to achieve excellence. They help interpret the university and its needs and programs to the public. Additionally they inform the president concerning public attitudes about the university and advise him with respect to communicating with the public.

UT Permian, just entering its fourth year of classes, has been the only UT System institution without a Development Board. As an upper-level and graduate university in its formative years, the university's service to college juniors, seniors and graduate students is somewhat new to West Texas. Dr. Cardozier said the time is now propitious for establishment of the Development Board.

Members normally serve three-year terms, but this initial group will draw lots for one-, two-, and three-year terms, and will elect their Chairman and Vice Chairman. Two formal meetings per year are held normally. Initial meeting of the group will be held in the near future, the president. said.

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

There's a new boy on ABC's "Street of San Francisco". His name is Richard Hatch and he plays Inspector Dan Robbins. Hatch is a lean, tanned and handsome Californian, whose disciplined body has the controlled grace of an athlete. He was born in Santa Monica and grew up around Los Angeles but had to go to New York to get a start at acting. The move was a good one, at least for Richard, because it put him in the right spot to be cast in a major role in the ABC daytime serial "All My Children." Richard's run in the soap opera lasted two and a half years. It paid off in many ways.

MAURICE: At what point in your life did you say I want to be an actor? This is what I want to do?

HATCH: I had always been very fascinated by acting. I was very into athletics. My whole family was but I was always drawn to the plays in school. However, I was too frightened to even try out for one. It was not until I was 20 years old that I got an inclination to take a chance. And that came about by dating a girl up in Beverly Hills. We dated for about a year and I met quite a few people in the business through her. A few people made some offers to me and I didn't know a thing about acting. I had never acted before and I went to meet them. Nothing really constructively happened except that I started to think about it in a serious way. I wanted to know if I had the ability and could make a go of it. That led me to my first acting class.

MAURICE: Do you think fear is one of the things that has held you back on a number of occasions?

HATCH: Oh sure! Fear, insecurity – these are things that many of us grow up with and I certainly had an incredible fear of getting up in front of people. Communication was very important to me but I had a lot of trouble. I was very shy. Acting class was a perfect vehicle for me to learn to express myself and it took me a couple of years for me to get comfortable enough to attempt a scene. So all I can say is that for me it has been a hard road from being very introspective to allowing other people to see what I'm feeling.

MAURICE: Do you think there was a need for love?

HATCH: I think the need for love is a very highly motivating thing for people. Maybe more so for actors for some reason.

MAURICE: Do you remember any embarrassing things that have happened to you?

HATCH: Well, growing up, I remember being so embarrassed not being able to see the blackboard that I constantly made up all these stories, like somebody threw a hangrenade in the room and it exploded and lead got in my eyes and that is the reason I couldn't see. I couldn't face the fact that I had bad eyes. And having never worn glasses, I didn't realize that I was missing. I only knew that I couldn't see the board and everybody else could and I thought there was something terribly wrong with me. And it was not until I was 14 years old that I got my first pair of glasses. I said, 'My God, look what I've been missing'. People used to call me Walter Mitty cause I would walk by people that I knew. I would just pass them by as if I didn't know they were in the same world with me.

I think it caused a lot of unnecessary childhood trauma for me. But I was a very sensitive child – very emotional. I used to be the biggest crier when I was in school. I would cry at the drop of a pin. I remember an incident in the 5th grade. I had taken $2 to this Mexican street downtown when the teacher only wanted us to take $1. She told everyone in front of the class and I totally broke down. From that moment on, I was so embarrassed doing that in front of everybody that I sort of built up a little wall around myself. And acting has been a way for me to break through that wall.

MAURICE: Are there things that you would like to do that you fantasize about doing?

HATCH: My fantasies now are having an incredible artistic complex where I can share with people who think and care about the same things I do and can work constructively and creatively to produce shows, movies, plays, things that have some meaning and have a positive value to life.

MAURICE: If you had one wish, what would you wish for?

HATCH: I'd like to have a little girl some day.

When you replace just one of your car's tires, you'll get better braking traction if you pair the new one with the old tire that has the most tread.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand was sent us by Anders Sjostedt, an exchange student at the University of Iowa. The game was an IMP team match and his team trailed when this hand was dealt.

He sat South and explained that he bid six diamonds merely because he felt that East was going to make his six clubs.

The ace of spades was opened. Mr. Sjostedt ruffed in dummy and led a diamond to his queen. If both opponents had followed the hand would have been a cinch, but East showed out and trumps could not be pulled.

After a lot of thought the queen of hearts was led. West followed with the nine and after considerable thought Anders decided that the nine was a singleton, so he went up with dummy's ace and led back the jack. East ducked and West had to use a trump to ruff. A second spade was led and ruffed in dummy. Now it was a simple matter to ruff out East's king of hearts.

The toughest defense would have been for East to rise with king of hearts and lead a spade. If he led the king dummy would ruff. The heart suit would be dead but South's spades would be winners. If he led low it would be up to South to rise with his queen. Of course, a low spade lead by West at trick one would have beaten the hand, but that play would be just about impossible. In any case, six clubs was played and made at the other table.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The Snyder Girl Scout Service Team and Service Unit met at the Girl Scout Hut, Wed. Oct. 13, for their monthly meeting. Several topics of interest to the public are the Calendar sales and the cookie sales. The calendars will be here in time to be given as Christmas presents or for your own home use. For every calendar sold, the troop gets 50 per cent of the money. This is the best money making project for each troops. We hope that you can use several and will buy them from your favorite Brownie, Junior, Cadette or Senior Girl Scout. If you have not been contacted but would like a calendar, please contact Mrs. Beth Hicks, Calendar chairman.

The annual Brownie Tacky Party will be Oct. 25, 6:30-8:30 p.m. at the Towle Park Barn. Games and songs are planned by each Brownie Troop.

Mrs. Pearlene Stewart exhibited the Girl Scout quilt that her mother, Mrs. Elsie Mize, had quilted and won a blue ribbon at the Abilene Fair in Sept. It depicts all levels of scouting, activities and meanings of "life in Scouting."

Troop No. 302—During our Oct. 8, meeting we made pictures on poster board to show our parents at our investiture ceremony. We planned making cookies at our next meeting.

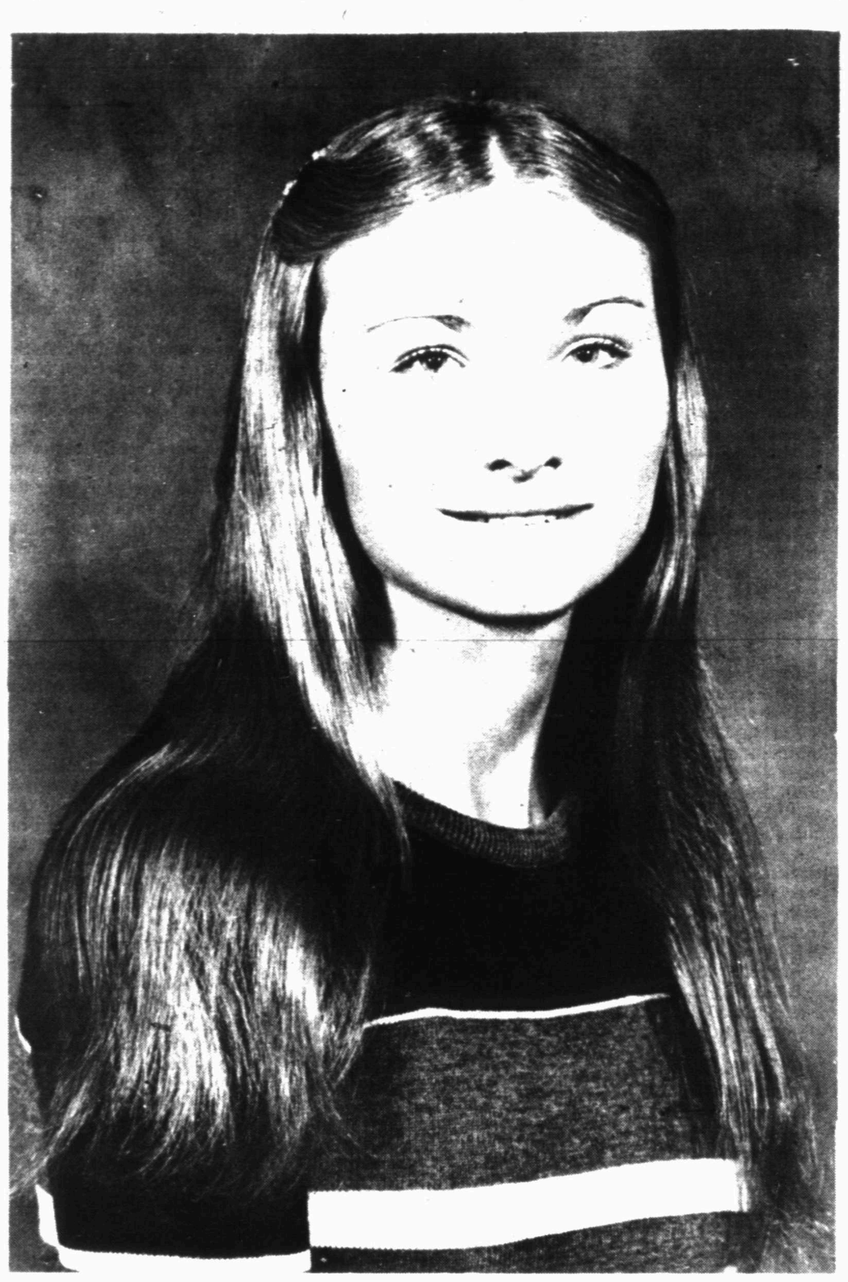

Troop No. 302—Northeast Elementary. At our Oct. 13 meeting we made cookies to serve at our investiture ceremony. We will invite all of our parents, and the new girls who have attended four meetings will receive their Brownie pins. All of the girls will be doing something to help make this a happy time.

Amitie Program On 'Girlstown'

Marshall Cooper, executive director of Girlstown, U. S. A., presented the program at the Amitie Junior Study Club's meeting in the home of Jan Johnson.

In a slide presentation, Cooper showed the three Girlstown campuses at Whiteface, Borger and Austin, and explained the work that is being done at each location.

The Amitie Junior Study Club met on October 12, at the home of Jan Johnson. Marshall Cooper the Executive Director of Girlstown, U.S.A. presented the Program. In a slide presentation, he showed the three Girlstown campuses at Whiteface, Borger and Austin, and explained the work that is being done at each location.

Girls that have complex problems, runaways, delinquents; those that have been neglected or rejected find a home at Girlstown. They come from all over the United States. They attend the public schools in their area, and on campus they learn child care, vocational training plus many other learning activities. "These girls make good lives for themselves through the help of Girlstown," stated Cooper. Through the help of couselors and case workers, many of the girls are helped with their problems and returned to their families to lead normal everyday lives.

Cooper explained that only 140 girls a year are accepted. It takes approximately four hundred fifty dollars per girl a month to meet expenses. It is financed mainly through contributions. The Texas Federation of Womens Clubs has undertaken Girlstown as one of their main projects for this year.

GIFT PRESENTED—Marshall Cooper the Executive Director of Girlstown is being presented a check from Mrs. Mary Williams on behalf of the Amitie Junior Study Club. A large box of personal supplies donated by the club members to be distributed to the girls was also given to him.

CHOCOLATE-COCONUT POUND CAKE

Repeated by request.

2¼ cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter or margarine
1¼ cups sugar
1¼ teaspoons vanilla
4 large eggs
¼ cup milk and 1 teaspoon vinegar stirred together
4-ounce package sweet cooking chocolate, chopped medium-fine
¾ cup flaked coconut
¼ cup raisins chopped fine

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla; beat in eggs well, one at a time. Add flour mixture in 4 additions alternately with milk mixture, beating after each addition just until smooth. Stir in chocolate, coconut and raisins. Turn into a 9-inch angelcake pan that has been lined on the bottom with wax paper. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Cook cake in pan on a wire rack for 15 minutes; turn out on rack; remove paper; turn right side up; cool completely.

HEALTH TIP
from DEAN

Vitamin A offers natural protection against infections, and quicker recovery from ailments. Vitamin A enables the body to protect itself against foreign invaders such as germs, bacteria, fungus—a natural "immune response." Persons susceptible to infection should consult with their doctor about vitamin A supplements. Raw carrots and other orange vegetables are good sources of vitamin A.

Couple To Mark 60th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kuss of Hermleigh will be honored with a reception Sunday, October 24, in observance of their 60th wedding anniversary. The children of the couple will be host to the celebration in the Sons of Hermann Hall, Hermliegh, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Emma Roemisch became the bride of Mathis John Kuss on October 24, 1916 in St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, now known as St. John's Church, in Hermleigh. Rev. Joseph Keller read the ceremony. They were the third couple to be married in St. John's Parish, and they are the first couple to celebrate their 60th wedding in the parish.

Mrs. Kuss was born December 2, 1895 in Flatonia, Texas and Mr. Kuss on January 7, 1893 in Moulton, Texas.

M. J. Kuss was 13 years of age when he came to Scurry County with his parents by train from Moulton. They settled in the Hermleigh Community. Emma was 11 when she and her family left Moulton and moved to Shawnee, Oklahoma. Then later they also moved to Scurry County. Mr and Mrs. Kuss met in Hermleigh, and have lived and farmed in the community all their married life.

Children of the couple are Mrs. Aubrey Williams and Alvin Kuss of Hermleigh, and Albert Kuss of Slaton. They also have 10 grandchildren and 9 great grandchildren.

Bette Davis To Receive AFI Highest Award

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two-time Academy Award-winner Bette Davis will become the first woman to receive the American Film Institute's Life Achievement Award. The award will be presented at a dinner here on March 1, 1977, in a nationally televised ceremony, a spokesman said.

Past winners of the AFI's Life Achievement Award were director William Wyler, actor-director Orson Welles, actor James Cagney and the late director John Ford.

The spokesman said the AFI's highest honor goes to a person "whose talent has contributed to the film-making art ... and whose work has stood the test of time."

Law School Draws Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Women make up more than 40 per cent of the first class at New York's newest school, the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law of Yeshiva University. There are 265 students enrolled in the new law school.

The school's initial faculty is composed of 13 legal scholars and practitioners, one third of whom are women. It includes a husband and wife team: Eva H. Hanks, who has taught at Rutgers University School of Law, and John L. Hanks, who was associate professor of law at Cleveland State University, Cleveland-Marshall College of Law.

CARD OF THANKS A-3

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank all our wonderful friends and relatives who were so kind and helped us through the trying time in the loss of our dearly beloved husband, father and grandfather, Victor Richter. Words are inadequate to express our appreciation and thanks for the abundance of food, the many beautiful flowers, the many encouraging cards, the many kind words and deeds. We could not have endured without the many, many wonderful friends, relatives and God's love to sustain us. Bro. Ken Andress and Rev. Jonathan Jensen, your kind and comforting words reached every heart, and we thank you so much. We want to thank Bell-Seale and staff for being so kind and helpful. We pray for God's richest blessing for each and every one who made this heavy load a little lighter.

Dr. Lamb

Low thyroid and weight gain

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 37-year-old woman and right now I am 60 pounds overweight. My problem is an underactive thyroid.

One year ago I got to a point where I felt no life in my body. I was gaining weight rapidly, my skin color was a yellowish-gray and I had very bad pains and aches all over my body.

My doctor put me in the hospital and took tests. They showed I had an underactive thyroid. He put me on Proloid and Diuril and told me I had to take these medicines the rest of my life.

Doctor, please let me know what caused this as I was pretty healthy and very active. Could it be hereditary? Could it cause bladder or kidney problems? Will it get worse as I get older? Will this medication control it?

DEARREADER-Significantly low thyroid function can cause a gain in weight, along with changes in the skin, sometimes with some puffiness. Muscle aches are common in the presence of low thyroid function.

I must add one word of caution - most cases of being overweight are not caused by a low thyroid function but from eating too much of the wrong foods and not getting enough exercise. If a person with a normal thyroid takes thyroid for simple obesity it is not helpful at all. The normal thyroid just quits putting out the exact amount of hormone the person takes so the result is that the person actually has the same amount of thyroid hormone with treatment as he did without treatment.

In your case where tests have established that you do indeed have a low thyroid function, taking thyroid hormone brings the level of thyroid hormone back to normal. It literally compensates for the abnormal decrease in thyroid function.

Proloid is thyroid hormone obtained from hog thyroids. You should think of it as a replacement for your normal thyroid function. How much you need will depend upon your response and your tests. If your thyroid gland's function decreases still more you may need more hormone until you reach the point that the amount you take is equivalent to the amount that a normal thyroid gland produces.

What caused your problem? We know that a large number of cases with loss of thyroid function are caused by the body literally becoming allergic to itself. In this case the body develops antibodies that counteract the normal function of the thyroid gland and may cause it to degenerate. This is not inherited nor is it an enfection by some virus or germ. Doctors call it Hashimoto's thyroiditis.

The Diuril is to help you eliminate fluid. It has no important relationship to your low thyroid function.

You will need to take thyroid hormone the rest of your lilfe. Adequate amounts of medicine should control your problem. Do not change your dosage, however, without the recommendation of your doctor.

The condition will not cause bladder or kidney problems. If you are having difficulty in that area it is from something else.

To help you with your weight control I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I would appreciate anything you can tell me about my condition. About a year ago I went on a strict diet lost 30 pounds in about three months. Then I began having trouble with my walking and keeping my balance. My regular doctor sent me to a neurologist. He went over me and I didn't have any reflexes in the ankle. This has since improved.

He diagnosed my problem as subacute combined degeneration with malabsorption. For a month he gave me two vitamin B-12 shots a week and now I take one shot a week.

If I understand it right it has damaged the nerves in my spine. My walking has improved somewhat in the last few months. The doctor said I would have trouble with my walking for a couple of years and then I may not entirely get over it. He did say though that he caught it at an early stage and my going on a diet didn't cause it, but may have aggravated it. At first he thought I might have pernicious anemia.

DEAR READER—You are essentially correct in your interpretation of your illness. You had a marked deficiency in vitamin B-12. We have to have this vitamin for our cells to reproduce. We manufacture about 200 million new red blood cells each minute to replace those that have been destroyed. When a person is deficient in B-12 he may not be able to form these new cells and becomes anemic. This type of anemia is pernicious anemia.

Other cells in the body are also affected. You need B-12 to protect the cells inside your spinal cord. Folic acid may correct an anemia and resolve other problems but it won't prevent cord damage. The segments of the cord that are damaged include the cells related to walking. That is why you developed trouble in keeping your balance.

A person who takes folic acid or gets too much in vitamin pills one can buy without a prescription and also has a vitamin B-12 deficiency will not develop an anemia. The patient feels fine while the spinal cord is becoming permanently damaged. If he had an anemia he would feel bad and go to the doctor who could discover the problem before spinal cord degeneration began.

Why would a person get B-12 deficiency if he were taking a daily vitamin tablet containing B-12 anyway as well as folic acid? Simply because some people cannot absorb B-12 from the digestive system. This is particularly true of people who have had surgery of the stomach.

That is why your doctor is giving you B-12 shots, to be sure the B-12 gets into your bloodstream.

How can other people avoid what has happened to you? Don't become a vitamin popper in place of eating a proper balanced diet with all the right vitamins. If you do take vitamins use only the regular daily vitamin preparations and avoid the super vitamin-type preparation a day. If you take too many and they contain even a small amount of folic acid you may be getting enough to mask a B-12 deficiency.

To give you a more complete concept of the role of B-12 I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-5, Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

WTC Publications Earn New Honors

Western Texas College student publications received state awards during the annual Texas Junior College Press Association conference at Texas A&M University last weekend.

The newspaper, WESTERN TEXAN, won third place in sweepstakes competition, and last year's general magazine, PHASE FIVE, received third place Division I honors.

Also recognized were last year's individual TJCPA newspaper winners, including Paul Gilbert and Amy Ellison, first, pictures pages; Ms. Ellison, first, investigative reporting; Gilbert, third, new photography; Sally Smith, first, headline writing; Tracy Moore, third, investigative reporting; Jill Palmer, third, feature writing; and Jeff Box, honorable mention, sports feature writing.

Paula Cornoyer, magazine editor, presided as acting TJCPA secretary during the awards luncheon and business meeting Monday.

Mike McBride, associate professor of journalism, was elected Texas Junior College Journalism Association newsletter chairman for 1976-77.

Other faculty elected were Chuck Choate, Dallas Eastfield College, president; and Dub Daughtery, San Antonio College, vice-president; and Carolyn Dodson, Temple College, secretary.

Students attending were Ms. Cornoyer, Carolyn Davis, Reva Ferguson, James Hill, Weldon Jefferson, and LaDonna Powell. McBride accompanied the group.

Scurry Museum Is Open Today

The Scurry County Museum will be open from 1-5 today, Sharon Sutton, museum director, has announced.

The number of visitors to the museum has increased since the opening of the permanent exhibit gallery last week. Visitors may also see antique furniture displayed in the multi-purpose room and art from the Diamond M Museum in the lobby. A popular item in the museum gift shop is the Scurry County Centennial Cookbook, "Country Doings," available for $6.

The museum will be open from 1-5 on Oct. 24 and 31 and is open each weekday.

The Phoenicians founded Carthage on the northern coast of Africa in 846 B.C. for use as a trading post.

Light Bulb Sale Planned By Lions Club

The Snyder Lions Club will conduct an all-out drive Tuesday to sell electric light bulbs to local residents, Jerry McWilliams, president of the club, has announced.

All of the proceeds from the sale will go to Lions Club projects.

McWilliams said the bulbs will be sold in handy "Project Paks," each containing two 100-watt, two 75-watt, and two 60-watt bulbs at the regular price of $2.50.

"Every household can use light bulbs and this drive affords an opportunity to get a good supply while helping a worthy cause," said McWilliams.

The entire membership of the Snyder Lions Club has been organized to supply friends and neighbors with light bulbs delivered right to their door. Captains of the drive are Ernie Armstrong and Gary Roberts.

THE PASTORAL COUNSELOR

By JOHN ZELL GASTON III

HOW CAN I HELP?

How can I help my neighbor who keeps telling me all those intimate family problems?

Usually the person asking the question sounds like he feels one or both of two things: anger at his neighbor for dumping all this stuff in his lap, or helplessness because he would like to do something about it but he can't figure out what.

If you are asking this question, the first thing to do is to decide how you feel about it. If you are mad, probably the best thing to do is to ask him to tell it to someone else. That will get him off your back. On the other hand, if you want to do something really constructive, something that will really help, take the time and effort to sit and listen. That may not sound like much, but it is. You listen actively. Active listening is much more than; sitting patiently waiting until he runs down and goes away. By active listening I mean responding in a special way. You respond in a way that lets him know that you understand. You do this by giving back to him what you heard him say. Notice, however, that he was actually telling you two things: he was telling you what happened, and he was telling you what he felt about it. Reflecting back what happened is helpful, but if you recognize his feelings, he will begin to think you understand. Keep it simple, like: "that could have made you mad," or "that must have hurt," or "that sounds like disappointment," or "that could make a fellow feel pretty good."

When you recognize both what he has said and what he is feeling about it, he will soon begin to trust you, and will share more and more of his deeper feelings. You may not realize it, but at this point you have given him the gift of understanding love, which is probably the greatest thing one human being can give another. Here it becomes tricky, for the temptation grows to betray his trust. Sooner or later he will unconsciously test you. He will ask you if he is right or wrong, or he will ask you what he should do. You will probably want to answer him with advice. Almost always I want to. I fave fallen for this so many times, and nine times out of ten I have goofed, even though I was sure at the time I was doing the right thing. For me, when theses questions come up, the right answer is, "I don't know enough about it yet." You see, this is an honest answer. It is practically impossible for one human being to tell another all the background he needs to give him accurate advice. By returning his trust, by believing that he has the resources to handle his problems, I encourage him to look at the facts that he hasn't yet mentioned, and possibly to remember some that he has forgotten.

When I can bring myself to really, trust another human being, and help him to trust me and himself, a curious thing begins to happen. He grows. He looks at things and at himself in ways that he never dared to before. He takes another look at his weaknesses and begins to figure how he can use them as strengths. He came to me for help in solving a problem. I gave him, not the solution, but the strength to solve it himself, and that strength stays with him and enables him to solve and over come other difficulties. He has gained a skill which may surprise him in the ways he can use it.

When your neighbor starts telling you all that stuff, if you can't stand to hear it, send him to someone who can. But if you can stand to listen to it, don't give him advice: give him understanding. With that, you might give him a new lease on life.

(Editor's Note—These columns are presented as a public service by the Pastoral Care Center, 1804 Twenty-sixth Street, in the hopes that readers will find in them hints on how to live happier and more effective lives. If you have a question you would like Mr. Gaston to consider in a future column, you may write him in care of this newspaper, or phone him at 573-8222.)

UNITED WITH GOD WE BUILD A SNYDER LANDMARK—BEING DEMOLISHED—MAKING WAY FOR PROGRESS.

IT TAKES FAITH IN GOD AND LOVE FOR THE LIGHT OF HIS WORK FOR A COMMUNITY SUCH AS OURS TO HAVE COME AS FAR AS OURS...WE ARE GOING FURTHER. THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH SEES A NEED TO ENHANCE OUR GROWTH AND FUTURE AS WELL AS THAT OF SNYDER'S!

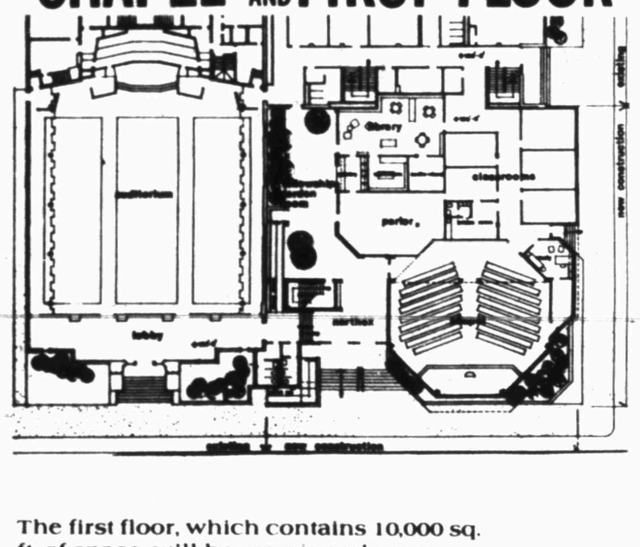

WE ARE STEPPING FORWARD ....BUILDING FOR NOW AND THE FUTURE

SOON TO BE UNDER CONSTRUCTION

A NEW EDUCATIONAL BUILDING AND CHAPEL

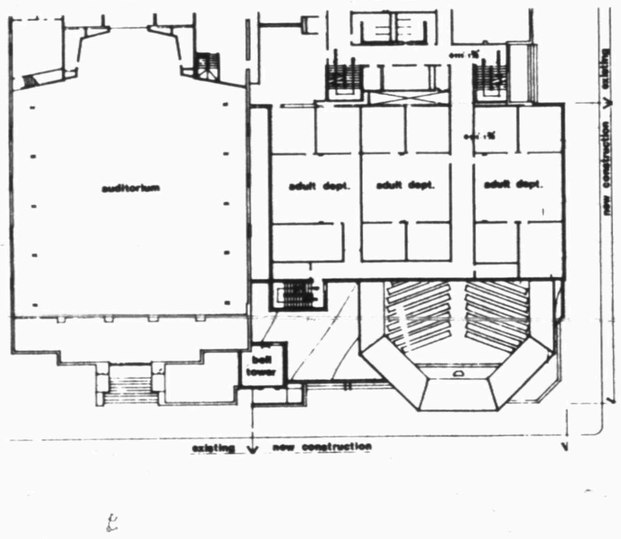

CHAPEL AND FIRST FLOOR

The first floor, which contains 10,000 sq. ft. of space, will house several areas.

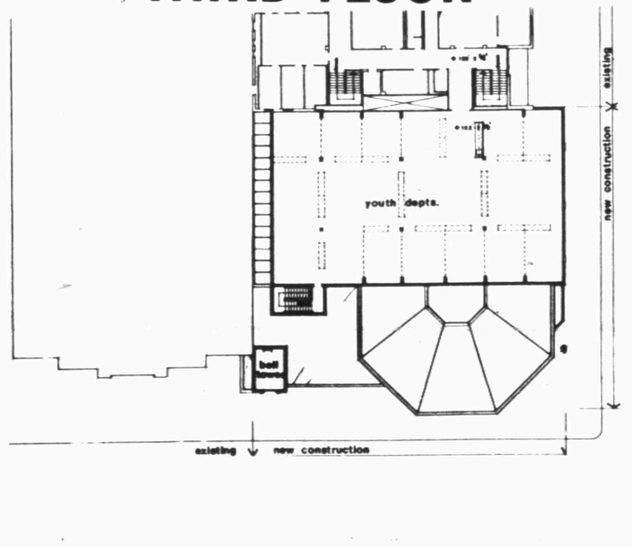

- Seating approximately 220 people, the chapel will be used for weddings, funerals, Wednesday night services, and other worship experiences. The chapel and adjoining classrooms will provide a ground level Bible study area for our Adult IV department. (60 years and older.)
- The library will be twice as large as our current facility and will provide storage for audio-visual equipment.
- The parlor will provide a Bible study area for our Business and Professional Women, as well as meet the needs for wedding receptions, showers, committee meetings, and directors meetings.
- The bride's room will double as a classroom for Adult IV.
- The fellowship and garden room will allow easy passage into the auditorium and will enable one to walk from the front to the back of the church without passing through the auditorium. A kitchenette will be provided between this area and the parlor.

SECOND FLOOR

We are planning the entire second floor for the Adult I, Adult II, and Adult III departments (ages 30—50). Since our average attendance is now 140, we are providing space for 200 adults. The second floor will be serviced by the existing elevator and stairways, as well as a new stairway at the south side of the building. The entire second floor will have zoned air-conditioning and heating. This will allow each department to control the temperature in their area.

THIRD FLOOR

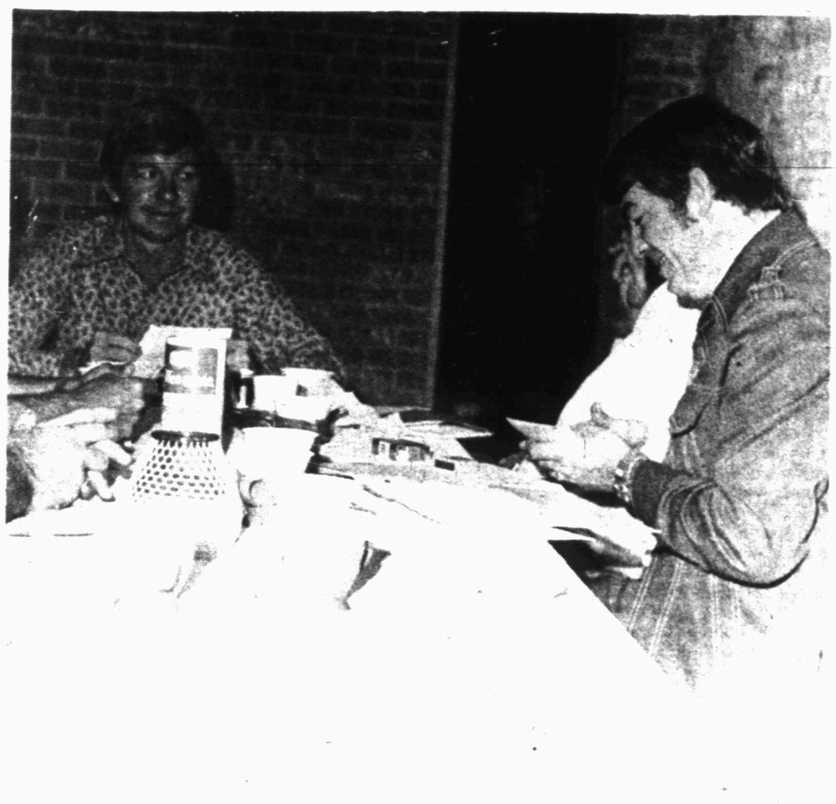

The third floor, with its semi-permanent walls, is designed to meet the changing needs of our youth departments. The departments meeting on this floor are Youth I (7th and 8th grades), Youth II (9th and 10th) and Youth III (11th and 12th). The present attendance for this group is approximately 150. The third floor will easily accommodate 200 young people. This floor will be decorated so as to attract young people.

GOING AFTER NEW MEMBERS—Jimmie Joe Key, left, President of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and one of the team captains in the Chamber's membership drive, and Bill Gilliland, right, prepare to hit the street in search of new Chamber members. The Gold Coaters and Chamber officers and directors are conducting the drive, which will close Friday. They are in a contest with the Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce in the membership drive. (SDN Staff Photo)

It's 'Beat Sweetwater' Week On 2 Fronts Here

It's "Beat Sweetwater Week" in Snyder not only for Tigers but for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Gold Coaters and Board members.

The Sweetwater Chamber has challenged the Snyder Chamber to a membership drive contest. The winner will be bought and served a steak dinner at a date and location to be named later while the loser feasts on cornbread and red beans.

The top 10 membership sellers and their spouses from each community will also travel together to Dallas on a chartered bus Nov. 7 to watch the Cowboys battle the New York Giants.

"We are very excited about the membership drive and the challenge by Sweetwater," membership drive chairman Henry Clark said. "Not only will the contest add a little excitement to the drive, but give community leaders from both towns a chance to get together and form a little espirit-de-corps between Snyder and Sweetwater.

"We tend to treat each other as enemies when, in fact, we are really fighting for the same thing–enhacing the quality of life in our communities. Anything we are able to accomplish helps West Texas and Texas as a whole which helps us compete with communities from out of state which are fighting for the same industries, commercial establishments and new residents as we are."

The contest, the first of its kind in the history of he two communities, will be judged on the number of new members signed up during the week, Clark pointed out. The drive will conclude at 1 p.m. Friday, when Gold Coaters and Board members meet to determine the outcome.

The results will be announced during halftime of the Snyder-Sweetwater football game in Sweetwater.

"We will operate the drive through a team concept," Clark added. "Six captains have been elected to head up five-member teams. The winning team captain and top membership salesmen will receive citations for their efforts as will all members of the winning team."

Local team captains are John Thomas, Frank Taylor, Jimmie Key, Loren Sullivan, Joe Williamson and Bill Clayton.

Other members participating are Truett Bryan, Ed Thrift, Max von Roeder, A.C. Floyd, Basset Keller, team 1; Bentley Baise, Paul Sizemore, Guy Sullivan, Bill Dryden and Joe Sentell, team 2; Jack Cummins, Tommy Deffebach, Clyde Ferguson, John Boren and Mal Donelson, team 3; Milton Ham, Darwin Melton, Bill Seale, Jerry McWilliams and Bill Gilliland, team 4; Jack Cypert, Bill Hood, George Patterson, R.C. Patton, and John Cameron, team 5; and Ernest Sears, Mel Gilbert, Hubert Cargile, Henry Clark and Roy Kidd, team 6.

Several personal challenges have also been made for the contest. Joe Williamson has challenged John Boren, Guy Sullivan, Joe Sentell, Tommy Deffebach, and Ernest Sears; Henry Clark has challenged Darwin Melton and Bill Gilliland; and John Thomas has challenged Truett Bryan and Mal Donelson.

A list of over 400 prospective members has been drawn up prospect cards have been issued to each team captain. Throughout the week, prospective members will be contacted and given information concerning the chamber and the reason behind their investment. Those individuals and businesses not contacted which would like to invest should call the chamber or any of he team captains and members.

Current members wishing to increase their membership investment to the chamber should also call the office, according to Clark.

"The chamber has done an outstanding job in Snyder and Scurry County," Clark said. "But the job of recruiting industry, fighting anti-business sentiment in government as well as the coordination of community projects gets bigger each day.

"It is only through the efforts of each and every business person in the area that we can adequately compete with other towns for new industry and additional commercial concerns, and have a voice against big government and organized labor on the state and national level. The chamber will continue its fight to preserve the free enterprise system but its effectiveness will be determined by the financial and personal support given it by the community.

Texans Facing A Large Ballot

Anybody who thinks the election of a U.S. President is the only business on the Nov. 2 ballot had better take another look.

Texas votes not only will help elect a new national leader but they will choose a U.S. Senator from Texas, pick 24 Texas Congressmen, name a new Railroad Commission member, decide a hot controversy over a new Texas Supreme Court judge, and maybe change the state constitution.

That's just the beginning. Voters also will pick 10 members of the State Board of Education, 15 state senators, 150 Texas House members and a host of local government and judicial officials.

There's no election for governor and other top state officials this year because they now serve four-year terms. Their turn comes in 1978.

Almost 700,000 new voters have registered since last spring which should make close to six million who are eligible to vote.

However, the actual turnout is the big question. Recent national polls have indicated a lot of voters have not been turned on by the presidential debates and may stay home.

In 1972 only about 3.44 million of the more than 5.5 million eligible voted. Republican Richard Nixon won about 2-to-1 in Texas. In 1968, only 3.06 million voted, with Democrat Hubert Humphrey carrying the state by a narrow margin.

Presidential politics has attracted most attention during the campaigns but in recent weeks two other controversies have found headline space.

In the race for Place 2 on the Texas Supreme Court, Houston attorney Don Yarbrough, the Democratic nominee, will be the only name on the ballot but he faces determined write-in campaigns from two others who claim he is not fit to hold the high judicial job. They are Houston attorney Tom Lorance and State District Court Judge Sam Houston of Denton.

The other recent controversy centers on two proposed changes in the state constitution. Both are supported by Gov. Dolph Briscoe but Proposition No. 1, which would authorize another $400 million in state bonds for water projects, has drawn hot protest from environmentalists. Proposition No. 2, which would authorize $100 million in state bonds to help local governments improve sewage facilities, has no organized opposition.

Here briefly is how the various races will look on the Nov. 2 ballot:

Presidential—Texans will have a chance to vote for Democrat Jimmy Carter, Republican Gerald Ford, American Party Thomas J. Anderson, Socialist Workers Peter Camejo or independent Eugene McCarthy. Former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox failed in a last minute attempt to get on the ballot as a candidate for the American Independent Party.

U.S. Senator—The choice is between Democrat Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Republican Rep. Alan Steelman, American Party Mrs. Marjorie P. Gallion of Crane, or Socialist Workers Pedro Vasquez of San Antonio.

Railroad Commission—Candidates are Democrat Jon Newton, Republican Walter Wendlandt, Raza Unida Party Fred Rodriguez Garza, and Socialist Workers Pat O'Reilly.

Congress—Twenty contests for the 24 seats involving 21 incumbents. The candidates include 23 Democrats, 18 Republicans, seven American Party candidates, two Socialist Workers, and one Raza Unida Party member.

State Board of Education—There are only three contested races in the 10 congressional districts involved. Two of them are in the San Antonio area and the third in Harris County.

State legislature—There are eight contests in the 15 state Senate seats up for election, including seven incumbents. All are Democrat-Republican affairs. There are a total of 61 contests for House seats, including 31 incumbents. The candidates include 61 Democrats, 51 Republicans, four American Party members, 10 Libertarians, and two Raza Unida Party members.

Class Of '57 Is Seeking Addresses

The Snyder High School graduating class of 1957 is seeking addresses of a number of its members as it makes plans for a 20-year reunion.

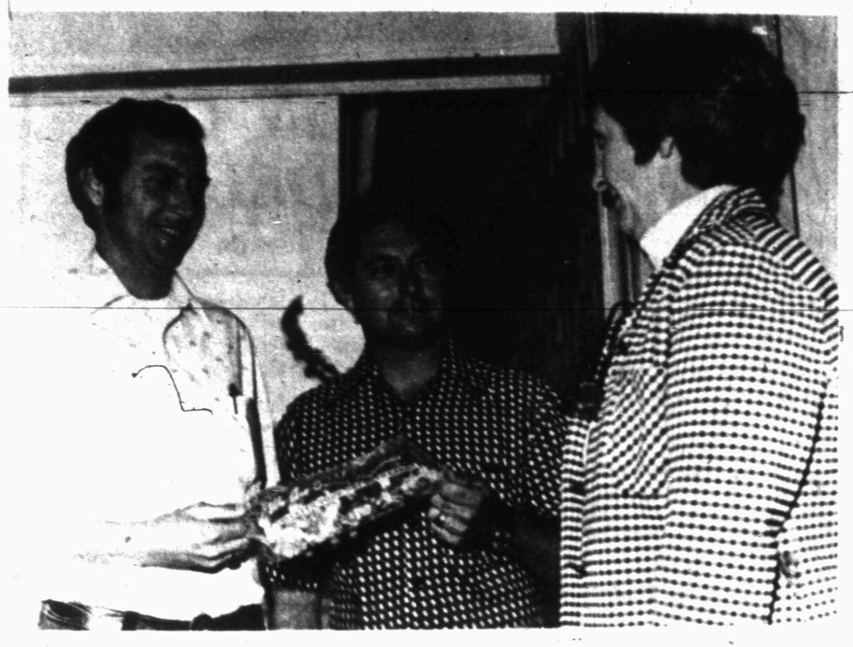

Mrs. Ted Crenwelge, a member of the planning committee, said that over the past 20 years, many of the class members and even their relatives, had moved out of the Snyder area and that contact had been lost.

"We were in school during the oil boom, and many of our classmates and their families moved on," said Mrs. Crenwelge.

Anyone who has addresses of any of the missing class members is asked to call 573-5586, 573-6408, or 573-5311.

Addresses are needed for the following: Sue Griffin Ferrell, Karleen Roberts, Beverly Scott, Kay Banks, James Bowen, Carol Cannon Caldwell, May Taylor, Janice Davenport Thompson, Oleen Butts White, Jackie Mobley, Linda Stevenson Blakley, Linda Coffee, Paul Bailey, Francis Bonella, Kenneth Duncan, Gene Goodson, Ismael Gonzales.

Also, Josephine Guillen, Letha Love, George Ann Mottesheard, Leonard Roach, Jeannette Seaton, Bill Smallwood, Tom Taylor, Kathryn Tatom, Ladyne Tingle, Mary Lois Wharton, Wiley Denson, Floyd Blackwell.

CANDY SALE BEGINS—Bill Forbes, left, president of Sunrisers Kiwanis Club, and Mike Graves, treasurer of the club, got a head start on Halloween candy sales the club is sponsoring this year as they make their sales pitch to Joyce McCoy. The club members will begin making the rounds of the town selling the candy Monday. They say it is excellent for "trick-or-treat" use.

Cattlemen Groups Meet To Hear Merge Plan

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Leaders of the nation's two largest cattlemen's organizations are expected to hear a plan Monday to merge their 28,000 members into a single group to work for beef industry goals.

The boards of the American National Cattlemen's Association (ANCA) and the National Livestock Feeders Association (NLFA) will meet in a joint session here for a report from a committee appointed last spring to study the merger proposal.

"The boards will meet together to hear the report but we cannot say now what the report contains or what the boards may decide to do, if anything," said Don Magdanz, NLFA executive vice president.

George Spencer, ANCA executive vice president, also declined any comment on the committee's report and said it would be explained after the meeting in a news conference.

The study committee, comprised of five members from each organization, was authorized last spring to evaluate consolidation but the ANCA and the NLFA have refused to issue progress reports or other information on the committee's work.

However, two industry sources, who asked to remain anonymous, said the committee will recommend a merger of ANCA and NLFA to give cattlemen "a single, united voice in Washington" to lobby for industry proposals or to fight legislation that could hurt beef producers.

One goal of the merger would be to reduce policy conflicts between the two organizations, such as occurred earlier this year when the U.S. Department of Agriculture proposed a new beef grading system.

ANCA supported the government plan, which reduced the amount of fat necessary for higher grades of beef, but the proposal ended up in a court battle after NLFA and other groups filed suit to block its adoption.

"Many people feel that on this issue and others we should have reached some agreement among ourselves before going to Washington," one source said. "When we fail to do that we end up working against each other."

The two organizations have held informal discussions on a merger for about five years.

WHAT IS A MEMORY BALL?

When you cup a Memory Ball in your hand, you will experience all the unspoken words that give Christmas a special meaning. Conventional tree decorations reflect light, color, and dimension but each Memory Ball is a miniature story, captured and preserved forever.

The smallest child can read the Christmas Story winking back at him from the branches of his tree. From pictures of sleeping children cuddled in a chair waiting for Santa, to priceless religious paintings from a secluded monistary are offered for your mind to feast on. Slowly turn a Memory Ball in your hands and watch snow falling on a Western Ranch scene or look into the eyes of an impish Santa bent under the weight of toys on his shoulders. Memory Balls hold the promise of what we hope to find each year at the holiday season.

We are privileged to have many designs from artists paintings and drawings done exclusively for the Memory Balls

Panthers Win 40-20

HOBBS—The Hobbs Panthers deafeated McCaulley's Eagles, 40-20, in a District 3-B Six-Man football battle here Friday night.

Fullback Mike Anderle led the Hobbs scoring with two touchdowns and six extra points on three kicks from placement.

Hobbs halfback Mike Martin also scored two touchdowns. Other Panther scores were a 13 yard touchdown pass from Jim Ratliff to end Willis Ogden and and a 22-yard pass from Ratliff to Don Deman.

McCaulley's James Kemp scored two touchdowns, and he also completed a 45 yard pass to James Jeffery. Kemp kicked a two-point conversion from placement.

Hobbs now is 1-1 in district play, and McCaulley is 0-2.

Hobbs will be at Highland next Friday night.

Chiefs, Tors Set 3-3A Pace

The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes were the suprise of the week in District 3-AAA football action Friday night. The Tors knocked off previously unbeaten (in district play) Dunbar, 21-0.

Lake View continued to show it has title hopes with a 27-0 triumph over the Snyder Tigers. In the other district game, Lubbock Estacado shut out Brownfield, 31-0.

After three weeks of league play, Lamesa and Lake View are the only unbeaten untied teams with 3-0 records. Estacado is 1-2 and so is Brownfield. Snyder and Sweetwater are 0-2. Dunbar is 1-1 in league play.

SITTIN' ON THE SIDELINES

By BUCK SITTON

One of the best football fans in Snyder is Peggy Vernon, who operates the Circle Inn Grocery west of town with her husband, Gene.

Peggy's mother and Grant Teaff's father are brother and sister. Also, Peggy's father and Robert James' mother are brother and sister. That makes her first cousin to two ex-Snyder boys who have made their mark in the coaching profession.

Grant Teaff, of course, is head football coach at Baylor. Robert James, who used to coach at Lamesa, is now the head football coach at San Antonio McArthur High School.

Peggy went down to San Antonio to see McArthur play San Antonio Jay the other day. McArthur won and now is 5-0 for the season. Jay is 4-1. Jay's coach is Robert James' brother, Doug James. Also, Peggy Vernon's younger brother, Jerry Trice, is on Robert James' staff at McArthur. That makes Trice first cousin to both Grant Teaff and to Robert James.

Jerry Trice has a couple of daughters who are going to school in Snyder. Carmen is in Junior High School, and Jerilynn Trice is a 3rd grader at North Elementary.

★★★

There are several other former Snyder boys who are in the coaching ranks now. Billy and Jackie Stewart, sons of Mrs. Charles Stewart, are both active in coaching. Billy is first assistant at Arlington Sam Houston, and Jackie is head coach at Sudan.

Bernie Hagins, another Snyder boy, is coaching a Class AAA school at Lockhart in South Texas.

At last report Leslie Brown, who made All-State at Snyder High School, was in Houston where he is an active coach. Tim Marcum, another Snyderite, is coaching at Ranger Junior College.

Several other Snyder boys are coaching. David McGinnis, who played football for Snyder High and Texas Christian University, is an assistant coach on the staff at the University of Missouri.

Larry McNair, the son of Wacil McNair, editor of the Snyder Daily News, is on the coaching staff at Irving High School along with former Tiger Coach Wayne Tyrone.

Darrell Aldridge, who was a teammate of Larry's at Snyder High, is coaching at Irving Junior High. Benny Ward, who played basketball for the Tigers and Angelo State University, is assistant basketball coach at Irving McArthur.

Eddy Phy, former Snyder athlete, is a backfield varsity coach at San Antonio Highlands, and he is also the assistant varsity basketball coach.

Tim Mebane, former Tiger gridder, is coaching football at LaFeria.

★★★

Several other former Snyder coaches are still active in the profession. Don Robbins, who was an assistant at Snyder, now is head coach at Big Spring. Ken Scott is at Alpine, and Jim Bartlett is at Marfa. Jerry McLeod is head coach at Merkel. Grayson Wetzel has left the coaching profession and now is a principal in the Brady School System. Gene Gibson, former basketball coach here and at Texas Tech, is selling insurance.

Fish Bite At Spence

Volume was comparatively light but the variety of catch was good for fishermen at Lake E.V. Spence during the week.

There were reports of several nice strings of channel catfish, together with some black bass and striped bass, and a few crappie.

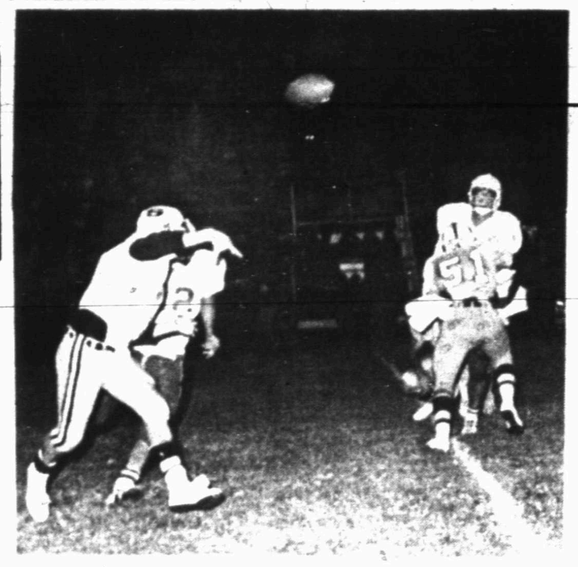

Reports included:

Y.J.'s Marina—Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schwager, Odessa, 35 channel cat to 3 lb.; Charles and Ann Cherell, Robert Lee, 12 channel cat to 3 lb.; Larry Layman, Big Spring, three black bass to 3¼ lb; and Jim Crownover, Odessa, 5½-lb. striper.

Triangle Grocery and Bait—Jack Raye and R.C. Rainwater, Snyder, 8-lb striper and three channel cat to 1½ lbs.

Hillside Grocery—O.H. Gibbs and party, Hobbs, N.M., 15 black bass to 2½ and seven crappie to 1½ lbs; John Page, Robert Lee, 8-lb. striper; three channel cat to 2½ lbs.; Gene Holcomb, San Antonio, 4-lb. 10-oz. striper and 10 black bass to 2½ lbs.

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. has rejected a proposal by major universities to establish a "super" football division apart from the three established divisions.

Western Golfers Drop To Second

ROSWELL, N.M.—The Western Texas College golf team dropped from a first place tie with New Mexico Junior College to second place in the conference with a third place tie at Roswell, New Mexico Friday in the third Western Conference Golf Tournament at the New Mexico Military Institute golf course.

Odessa College won the tourney with a 291 or 7 over par. New Mexico JC was runnerup with a 295. WTC and Amarillo each carded 301 or 17 over par. Howard College shot 304, Midland 305, Clarendon 320, NMMI 323, and Frank Phillips 340.

Point standings after three tournaments: New Mexico JC 24, WTC 22½, Odessa 18, Howard 18, Amarillo 17½, Midland 15, NMMI 10, Clarendon 6, and Frank Phillips 4.

Individual scores for WTC: Freshman Chris Brown 72 or 1 over par; Sophomore Donnie Loerwald 74, Freshman Terry Kendrick 77, Freshman Miller Scott 78, Sophomore Brown McCrory 79.

Brown was third in the tournament.

Coach Bob O'Day said that he wasn't unhappy with the team score of 301 considering the weather conditions.

"Odessa College and New Mexico Junior College just played better. A norther blew in early Friday morning before the tourney began. Winds gusted between 30 to 35 miles per hour during the tourney and there was a chill factor of 30. Playing conditions were very tough."

Longview Wins, 22-12

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Longview recovered from a 12-0 halftime deficit to defeat Tyler John Tyler 22-12 in a battle of East Texas giants that highlighted Texas schoolboy football action Friday night.

The third-ranked Lobos had to face a standing-room only crowd of 14,000 at Tyler, but they held the fourth-ranked Tyler Lions to minus five yards rushing in the second half while scoring 22 points.

Mustangs Beat Gail, 29-6

WILSON—The Wilson Mustangs thumped the Borden County Coyotes 29-6 here Friday night in a District 3-B eleven-man football contest.

Wes Wilke scored three touchdowns for the hosts on runs of 6, 15 and 17 yards. Their final score was an 8 yard pass from Carlton Henderson to Phillip Bednarz.

Borden County got its touchdown on an 8-yard pass from Joe Zant to Ty Zant.

Powerful Chiefs Rip Tigers 27-0

The Lake View Chiefs, with probably the best football team in the history of their school, broke open a tight defensive battle with power and speed in the second half to score a 27-0 victory over a band of game but outmanned Snyder Tigers here Friday night

It was a close contest during the first half. After a scoreless first period, the powerful Chiefs got on the scoreboard in the last 26 seconds of the first half. They added a touchdown in the third quarter and two touchdowns in the fourth period.

A preview of what was to come occurred in the first quarter when the Tigers tackled the Lake View punter on their 10 yard line on fourth down. Snyder did't gain an inch on the tough Chief defense, and this golden opportunity to score didn't materialize. Clay Peterson was stopped for no gain on first down, Tim Falls was thrown for a three yard loss on second down, and a pass fell incomplete on third down. Ricky Beard attempted to kick a field goal from the 23 on fourth down, but the snap from center was bobbled and the Tiger fullback was swarmed under by a host of Chief defenders at the 30 to end the Tiger threat.

A couple of minutes later, Hubert Thompson came up with a fumble recovery at the Chief 27. But, again the tough Chiefs rose to the occasion and cut off the drive at the 23 yard line.

Following a fumble recovery in the second quarter at the Tiger 47 yard line, the Chiefs drove the distance to the goal in seven plays. The touchdown occurred when quarterback Todd Butts, who played an outstanding game for Lake View, pitched the ball out to John Mayberry. The halfback lofted a pass for 13 yards to flanker back Lee Rodgers in the end zone for the touchdown. Butts' extra point kick made it 7-0 with 26 seconds remaining in the half.

Snyder made its best drive of the night following the touchdown. Peterson returned the kickoff 16 yards to the 21. Falls gained 19 yards to the 40, then hit James Wells with a 33 yard aerial to the Chief 27 as time ran out.

Maberry, the Chief's halfback, charged over right guard from the one yard line with 3:08 remaining in the third quarter to climax a 25 yard touchdown drive following a short Tiger punt. Butts' extra point kick made it 14-0.

Earlier in the period, the Chiefs drove from their 42 to the Tiger 5 when they were stopped by a fumble recovery by Ricky Fritz.

The entire fourth quarter was played in the Snyder end of the field as the Tigers failed to cross the 50 yard line except in the final seconds when Lake View tried to run out the clock on a fourth down run.

Butts, displaying his quarterback wizardry, charged up the middle, cut to the left and raced 43 yards for a touchdown. His extra point kick made it 21-0 in favor of the Chiefs with 9:25 remaining in the game. The drive started at the Lake View 46 and required only three plays.

Following another short Tiger punt later in the period, the Chiefs drove 38 yards in four plays. The touchdown resulted from another halfback pass. After Butts pitched out to Maberry, the halfback hit Rodgers in the east corner of the end zone with a six-yard scoring pass.

The gallant Tigers, still trying their best although they were 27 points behind, broke through the Chief defenses and blocked the extra point kick.

The Tigers also were hampered by a couple of key penalties. Late in the fourth quarter, Doyle Browning got off a 55 yard punt, and Earl Clayton recovered a Chief fumble on the play at the Lake View 25 yard line. But offsetting penalties nullified the play, and the Tigers were thrust back into their own end of the field again.

Butts was the leading ball carrier in the game with 96 yards on 25 carries. Ricky Beard netted 75 paces for Snyder on 15 carries.

Next Friday night, the Tigers journey to Sweetwater.

M&M ELECTRONICS

IS NOW TAPE TOWN

SONY. PIONEER. CRAIG. Sansui AR CENTREX by PIONEER maxell. SUPERSCOPE. TDK.

Snyder now has a Tape Town audio specialty store. Beginning today, M&M Electronics officially becomes a Tape Town shop.

Bill Collier, the store manager, said the change reflects the progressive strides made by the M&M Electronics store.

For years, the M&M Electronics store was a record player and radio shop, Collier said. Now, however, the shop has evolved into an audio specialty store worthy of the Tape Town name.

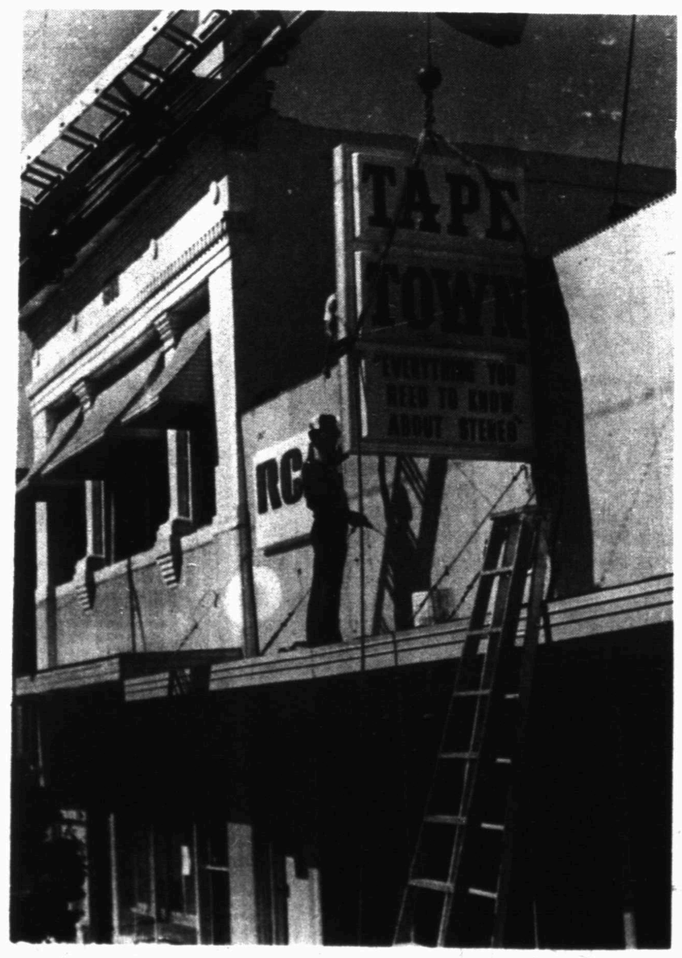

Billed as the store featuring "everything you need to know about stereo," the new Tape Town shop features a wide selection of stereos, stereo accessories, speakers, albums, tapes, radios and televisions.

Some aspects of the M&M Electronics store will remain unchanged. The prompt and courteous service will be the same. Also, the same friendly and helpful employes will remain. And most importantly, you can buy the same high quality and dependable audio equipment from Tape Town that you came to expect from M&M Electronics.

Some businesses sell audio equipment only as a sideline endeavor, but when you buy from a Tape Town shop, you can be assured of getting the best merchandise at a reasonable and affordable price. Audio equipment is Tape Town's only business, so it has to do a better job.

With the new Tape Town, Snyder has joined the ranks of Abilene, Odessa, San Angelo and Big Spring—the other West Texas cities with Tape Town stores.

When you buy from Tape Town, you can be assured of getting sound savings and a resounding deal.

SHAKES LOOSE—Royce Corbell, Ira's 181-pound senior back, shakes loose for a long run during the Ira-Hermleigh football game Friday night. Hermleigh spoiled Ira's Homecoming, 60-12.

Cardinals Spoil Ira's Homecoming, 60-12

IRA—Led by talented Tim Peterson, the Hermleigh Cardinals flailed Ira's Bulldogs, 60-12, here Friday night to spoil Ira's Homecoming celebration.

The victory leaves Hermleigh with a 5-1 season record and a 2-0 mark in District 3-B (Six-Man). Ira now is 2-4 on the year and 0-2 in district play.

Ira scored first in the game on a 15 yard pass from Fred Kesner to Jimmy Byars in the first quarter. The try for extra points failed.

Hermleigh tied it up later in the period on a 32 yard touchdown run by Tim Peterson. A few moments later, Peterson shook loose on a 50 yard touchdown run, and Joe Roemisch kicked the two extra points for a 14-6 Hermleigh advantage as the first period came to an end.

In the second quarter, Dan Warren tallied on a five yard run for Hermleigh as the visitors took a 20-6 lead at halftime.

In the third period, Peterson turned in a 38 yard touchdown run, and Tim Dacus kicked two extra points for a 28-6 lead. Later in the quarter, Peterson scored again, this time from eight yards out. Joe Roemisch's extra points kick made it 36-6 in favor of Hermleigh.

Ira scored a touchdown on an 18 yard pass from Joe Hall to R.D. Phillips. The try for extra points failed as Hermleigh led 36-12.

Still in the third quarter, Peterson completed a 65 yard pass and run play to Tim Dacus. The extra point failed but Hermleigh was ahead, 42-12.

Peterson turned in a 52 yard touchdown run late in the third quarter, and Carroldon Burleson ran for the extra point and a 49-12 Hermleigh lead as the third quarter ended.

In the fourth period, Burleson turned in a 42 yard TD run, and Stanely Warren ran for the extra point as the count soared to 56-12 in favor of Hermelgih.

Late in the game, Hermleigh's Tim Dacus kicked a 4-point 28-yard field goal.

Peterson rushed for 263 yards. Carroldon Burleson gained 112, and Stanley Warren netted 104 yards.

Two Join Blue Jays

TORONTO (AP) — Two new coaches have joined the Toronto Blue Jays staff, the expansion American League baseball team announced.

Manager Roy Hartsfield said Don Leppert of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Harry Warner of the Minnesota Twins' organization have signed with the new team. They join pitching coach Bob Miller and batting instructor Bobby Doerr, whose appointments were announced previously.

No TV For Jets, Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The nationally televised game between the New England Patriots and the New York Jets Monday night will not be shown locally because it was not sold out 72 hours in advance, a spokesman for the National Football League team said.

As of Friday evening, 16,799 tickets remained and the 50-mile blackout rule will be enforced, the spokesman said. The game will be shown nationally on ABC's Monday Night Football.

"YES, I'M THE BABYSITTER... BUT... BUT I DIDN'T REALIZE YOU WERE THAT MRS. MITCHELL!"

Checked His Guns On Wedding Night

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N Y News Synd Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I just read about the girl who spent most of her honeymoon writing thank-you notes for her wedding gifts. Well, I've got that one beat.

On my wedding night the dude I married sat up all night loading and unloading shotguns. When I finally got him to come to bed, all he did was fall asleep.

I should have known he was a dingbat right then and there, but he'd been awfully good to me before we were married; he was a perfect gentleman, and he never laid a hand on me.

He's a millionaire and hardly ever works. He bought me a car, a real fur coat and a diamond watch. I think he's a dope eater because he's high for a spell then fades fast. He's 40 and I'm 24, and have my whole life ahead of me. The big problem is that he doesn't care one thing about sex and I do. He swore if he ever caught me with another dude, he'd kill me. I'm his fifth wife. Should I stick around or not?

EVERYTHING BUT LOVE

DEAR EVERYTHING: So far, your marriage reads like a Hitchcock thriller, but you'll have to write the ending yourself. Stick around if you like, but a man who threatens to kill is more than a dingbat. He's dangerous.

DEAR ABBY: While watching a baseball game with two of my girlfriends, some boys from another town asked us how old we were.

One girl said she was 13, and the other said she was 14. They're both 12.

The girl who said she was 14 was trying to get a boyfriend. I think if a girl wants a boyfriend she should give her right age, don't you?

TWELVE AND HONEST

DEAR TWELVE: Honesty is always the best policy. Lying about one's age can become habit-forming. Teenagers add a year or two, but after 40, they start subtracting.

DEAR ABBY: With reference to the letter from the woman who said she liked her neighbors but was satisfied with her own religion and resented their trying to sell her on theirs (Mormon).

That sweet woman had only to say to the young missionaries, "Thank you, but no thank you," and that would have been the end of it.

We as members are asked to extend friendship to neighbors, to tell them about the Gospel and to be missionaries wherever we are, in the way we live and act—by example.

Our missionaries apply no pressure, knowing that man was given his free agency to choose his own religion.

We are converts to the Church of Jesus Christ Latterday Saints, and can attest to the fact that our conversion has brought harmony, happiness and fulfillment to our entire family.

GLAD WE LISTENED

Landers, Wayne Head Campaign

NEW YORK (AP) — Syndicated columnist Ann Landers and actor John Wayne have been named leaders of the American Cancer Society's crusade which gets under way next April.

Miss Landers will be national chairman of the annual educational and fund-raising campaign, and Wayne, who lost a lung to cancer in 1964, will be honorary chairman, the society said Friday at its annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The society's highest award was presented to Dr. Irving J. Selikoff, director of the Environmental Sciences Laboratory of Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York; Elwood V. Jensen, director of the Ben May Laboratory for Cancer Research at the University of Chicago; and band leader Lawrence Welk for his volunteer work.

SCD Officials Plan Programs

Directors from the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District were among the nearly 800 conservation leaders in McAllen for the 36th Annual Meeting of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation District Directors which closed Thursday. W.L. Wilson, Jr., Chairman, Big Spring and Leon Sterling, member of Snyder, represented the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation district.

Also attending was Soil Conservation Service, District Conservationist Erwin Pavlik of the Snyder Field Office.

The theme of this year's meeting was "Resource Management-Present and Future."

The purpose of the meeting was to review developments affecting conservation programs and to plan future conservation district programs and activities.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen told the conservation leaders that many well-meaning laws are passed by Congress with no practical value except to extend the bureaucracy.

The key to most legislation, the senator told the 36th annual Texas Soil and Water Conservation District convention held in the McAllen Civic Center, is whether or not it is voluntary.

Bentsen also said he believes a land use planning bill is wrong and that he is opposing such legislation.

Bentsen, keynote speaker of the three-day convention, which got underway Tuesday afternoon, was introduced by Dee Brune of Sealy, association president.

Other conservation and legislative leaders addressing the three-day convention were Representative Bill Clayton, Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives; General James M. Rose, executive director, Texas Water Development Board; David A. Witts, attorney and general counsel, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association; Mel Davis, adminsitrator of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, Washington, D.C. and Dee Brune, president, Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

During Thursday's business session the directors elected Kenneth Kuykendall, Cherokee, President; and Charles Wood, Lubbock, Vice President.

Humphrey Will Get Treatments

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey will receive drug treatments to attack any cancer cells that were not removed by surgery, but his doctor says "we're quite hopeful we got it all."

Dr. Willet F. Whitmore said Friday that pathology tests showed no evidence that cancer had spread beyond the area removed during surgery at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center on Oct. 7.

Humphrey's bladder and some adjacent tissue were removed. Whitmore said a spread of cancer into lymph nodes was detected and "a systematic regional lymph node dissection was performed ... There was no evidence of spread beyond the perimeter of the surgery."

Whitmore said the Minnesota Democrat "continues to do exceptionally well recuperating ... When I left his room, I looked back and said, 'Wow! You really look great.'"

Fat Converted Into Money

NEW YORK (AP) — A total of 40,423 pounds of fat was converted into $60,000 by dieters in the United States and Canada who lost weight to earn money to feed starving children in countries that CARE, International serves.

More than 1,000 overweight persons participated in a Diet Workshop Lose-a-Thon for Care, earning the money by enlisting sponsors to make a contribution for each pound lost.

Nicaragua was first visited by the Spaniards in 1522. It became independent in 1838.

Plains Cotton Damaged By Record Low Temps

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Record low temperatures in parts of the state, particularly in the High Plains damaged a sizeable portion of the cotton crop.

Early estimates indicated about 11 per cent of the crop was damaged, especially in the area north of Lubbock, noted Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The cold weather also damaged late cotton and sorghum in the Trans-Pecos area, he said.

Harvesting of cotton, corn and sorghum is in full swing over North Central and Northeast Texas, with the cotton harvest increasing in the Rolling Plains and West Central Texas. A considerable amount of corn and sorghum still is to be harvested in the Panhandle and South Plains.

Peanut harvesting is active over much of Central and Southwest Texas, with yields generally good.

The cold weather did bring a slowdown in screwworm activity.

Pfannstiel said the citrus harvest is increasing in the Rio Grande Valley, with the crop looking good. Some fall vegetables are being harvested there as well as in the San Antonio-Winter Garden area and in the Coastal Bend.

District Extension agents reported the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: The killing frost late last week was one of the earliest on record. It will reduce cotton yields and will also affect late sorghum. Sugar beets should be harvested soon. Most of the wheat crop has been planted; the dryland acreage is large this year.

SOUTH PLAINS: Corn harvesting is at the halfway point, with sorghum harvesting well under way. The sugar beet harvest is starting. Wheat planting is active, with early stands looking good.

ROLLING PLAINS: About 75 per cent of the sorghum crop is out. About half the cotton acreage is open. Peanut harvesting is active in Stonewall County but has not yet started in Hall and Motley counties. Recent cool weather has boosted small grains. Ranges are in good to excellent shape.

NORTH CENTRAL: The cotton crop is fair to good, with harvesting about 30 per cent complete. Peanut yields are also fair to good, with 10 per cent of the crop in. Planting of wheat and oats is about 40 per cent complete; early fields have armyworms. Range and livestock conditions are good.

NORTHEAST: Some late fields of sorghum remain to be harvested. The sweet potato harvest is about complete. Soybeans are maturing. Pastures are in excellent shape. Early planted small grains look good. Livestock marketing is up.

FAR WEST: Cold weather last week will reduce cotton and sorghum yields and grasses. The cotton crop ranges from 10 to 70 per cent open, and sorghum harvesting has been active. The pecan harvest is about to start; prospects are good. The last cutting of alfalfa has been completed. Fall shearing of sheep and goats is about complete.

WEST CENTRAL: Sorghum harvesting and some cotton stripping is in progress. Recent rains have delayed the peanut harvest. Pecan shucks are splitting. A short crop is expected. Small grains look good.

CENTRAL: The cotton harvest is up to 75 per cent complete in Hill County while peanut harvesting ranges from 15 per cent complete in Comanche County to 40 per cent complete in Hill and Erath counties.

EAST: Some corn and sorghum are still being harvested. Fall vegetables are doing well. The pecan crop will be short. Rain is still needed in some locations for pastures. Grazing conditions are generally average.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: The soybean harvest has started. Yields are good on the second rice crop. Planting of wheat and oats is active; Armyworms are damaging. Grazing is average.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Cotton harvest is about complete with yields from none to excellent. Early fields of wheat and oats look good. Some pecans have been harvested; the crop is light over the area. Livestock are in good shape.

SOUTHWEST: Recent rains have delayed both the peanut and cucumber harvests. Planting of wheat and oats is about 75 per cent complete. The light pecan harvest is getting into full swing. Ranges are in top shape.

COASTAL BEND: Harvesting of the fall peanut crop is about 40 per cent complete. Pecan shucks are splitting.

SOUTH: The citrus harvest is progressing well.

DEFOLIATION AND DESICCATION:

This is the time of the year when producers get a little nervous with all that open cotton in the field and they start thinking of defoliation or desiccation. But this is good, producers should be looking, checking and counting to determine when that right time is to defoliate or desiccate.

A large part of the county cotton has turned that fall purple color and some of it may be done, but before you apply that desiccant, check one more time.

The application of a true defoliant will only cause cotton leaves to fall. It does not kill the plant. This is used very little in our area because we do not use spindle pickers as a method of harvest, and this is the main use of a defoliant.

The desiccants are arsenic acid and paraquat. These are sold under several different trade names. When desiccants are used, we are trying for plant kill so that stripper harvest can be started soooner.

For the use of Arsenic Acid it is recommended that 75-80 percent of the cotton should be open and the remaining bolls to be harvested are mature. For paraquat the recommendations are for 85 per cent or more of the bolls to be open and the others mature.

The only way I know to be sure of these figures is mark off a distance, count all open and green bolls, then count only the green bolls. The total number of green bolls divided by the number of total forms (open and green) will give you the percent green bolls. If this is more than 25 per cent you should wait awhile before desiccating. If its 25 per cent or less start your desiccating or call your applicator.

Application rates are important as well as the amount of total solution applied. For arsenic acid the recommended rates are 1-1½ quarts in 10-15 gallons of water for ground rig, 3-10 gallons water if applied by air. You need to use 1-2 pints of paraquat in 10-30 gallons of water by ground rig, 3-10 gallons by air.

Now you can't graze your cotton fields after application of either arsenic acid or paraquat. Care should be exercised to avoid drift of the chemical to other crops. It will cause desiccation of other plants as well as cotton.

After application of these desiccants, wait four days before harvesting on arsenic acid or 3 days following paraquat.

One more word on disiccation. Don't ruin a crop of cotton in a half day by desiccating too early, because it took all year to grow it.

DALLAS FAIR:

We are going down to the State Fair next week with several of the 4-H club members and their parents. Scurry County 4-H Club members will be exhibiting 7 steers, 1 heifer and 4 lambs.

For Sunday, Oct. 17, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're very easy to get along with today, but you are also responsible. Managing people is your long suit.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Base today's activities around things the entire family can participate in. Let the children include a few select friends, too.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) All will appreciate the fact you are not the one who makes idle promises today. What you'll say you'll do, you will.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Material prospects continue to look encouraging. Gains will result through your own hunches or from deals set up by others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not likely to take things at face value today. You're equally interested in what's behind the facade.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The good that you've done is coming home to roost. The returns are apt to far exceed your investment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A bright idea may occur to you today as to how to revitalize a situation that seemingly held no promise. It's worth trying.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your chances to reach important goals today are very good. Aside from your own initiative there's something extra going for you.

SAGITTAIRUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's wise at this time to start looking ahead a bit. Plan now for the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're very likely to get what you want today, but don't expect anything to be handed you on a platter.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't dodge a difficult decision today. It won't go away by ignoring it. Look at your problems squarely.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may have a few additional responsibilities today. They're not beyond your capabilities. Take pride in your work.

Your Birthday

Oct. 17, 1976

Before tackling new projects this year, make the ones you're presently involved in pay off first. You're much nearer to the profit column than you may realize.

For Monday, Oct. 18, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're popular today, but a word of caution: You're apt to spend more than you can afford!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Keep your nose to the grindstone today. Idleness may lead you to butt into another's business — with unpleasant results.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might as well take the day off. Something depressing will take your mind off your work, causing you to do a poor job.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your real enjoyment comes from the family today. Friends will only be a disruptive influence and cost you money, besides.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Put your good ideas to work early today. Later, outside influences could dull your productivity.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's money to be made today and you know how to make it. Being boastful, however, could change your luck.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) While you are very self-confident today, do avoid persons who have a glib tongue. They'll use flattery to get into your wallet.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You can realize some secret ambition today, but do it on your own. A partner would only frustrate your desires.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's likely you'll be in touch with someone distant today. Take care that daydreaming of the past doesn't interfere with your work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Ideas you have for changes at work are excellent today, but keep it strictly business in dealing with others. It's not a day to socialize.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The family won't be sympathetic to a joint venture you're contemplating. Choose another time to tell them about it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Roll up your sleeves today, as much can be accomplished. Avoid gabby friends if at all possible.

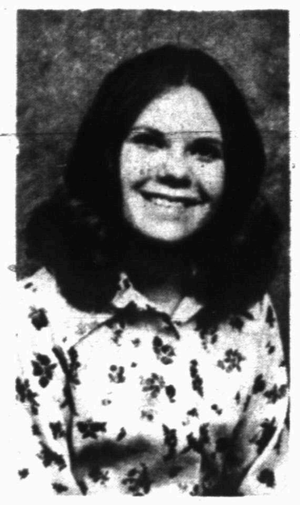

Your Birthday

Oct. 18, 1976

Some unusual opportunities will occur suddenly this year that could increase your income. You'll be willing to work hard.

USC Professor To Address SPE

Todd M. Doscher, Professor of Petroleum Engineering at the U. of Southern California in Los Angeles and a 1976-77 Distinguished Lecturer for the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME, will be the guest speaker at the October meeting of the Snyder Section of SPE. The meeting is scheduled for Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Snyder Country Club.

Doscher's speech, entitled "Oil Recovery–Past History and Future Directions," will assess the future of petroleum production and energy availability. He will discuss new oil recovery processes and analyze the recovery potential of each process. Doscher also will examine the influence of social, political, and economic constraints on energy research and development programs.

Doscher is a graduate of City College of New York, Case Institute of Technology, and the U. of Southern California and holds degrees in chemical engineering and physical and colloid chemistry. He joined Shell Oil's Production Research organization in 1951, where he worked on fluid injection, production operations, and secondary oil recovery. Other positions Doscher has held include Assistant to the President of Shell Development Co., Division Engineer with Shell Canada, and Project Manager for heavy oil development and Consulting Petroleum Engineer for Shell Oil Co. Doscher left the Shell organization in the spring of 1976, when he took his present position at the U. of Southern California.

The Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME is an international and technical and professional organization for engineers, scientists, and managers in the exploration, drilling, and production phases of the petroleum and natural gas industries. SPE has more than 25,000 members located in major oil producing areas of the world.
