Defense choice: Manpower or arms?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steadily rising costs may force Congress to make "hard choices" in allocating defense funds between manpower and new weapons, a new study warns. Although the report prepared by the General Accounting Office was directed to Congress, its conclusions carry significant implications for President-elect Jimmy Carter. Among other things, the GAO report says there are limits to manpower cost reductions that can be achieved by improving efficiency in the use of defense personnel. "Larger reductions can only be achieved by policy changes affecting strength and pay levels," it said.

During his successful campaign for the presidency, Carter pledged to cut the defense budget by $5 billion to $7 billion, mainly by eliminating waste, improving efficiency, and changing some personnel policies.

Carter also called for a withdrawal of the 42,000 U.S. ground troops from South Korea over a four-to-five-year period, but he did not advocate reducing the size of the Army. He has said nothing about cutting the pay of the Defense Department's 2.1 million military personnel and one million civilian employees.

In the report sent to Congress after the Nov. 2 election, the GAO cautioned that "changing national military policies or lowering pay levels would be controversial and should not be undertaken without careful study."

GAO analysts noted that personnel costs have absorbed an increasing share of the Pentagon's resources since 1964 and now eat up well over half the defense budget.

"Meanwhile, costs of weapons have rapidly risen, causing serious concern that the country may not be able to afford enough of the weapons needed for its defense," the report said.

First time in 56 months

Oil allowable reduced

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission cut the statewide oil allowable from 100 to 99 per cent today, saying it wanted to put Washington on notice and alert the people that the nation is running out of oil.

Texas' wells, with some exceptions, have been running wide-open for 56 months.

Commissioner Jim Langdon said the change in the allowable will have the effect of reducing estimated production by 7,500 barrels of crude oil a day, which is "insignificant."

This "will get the attention of the people in Washington," Langdon told a statewide hearing. "Whether the reaction is good, bad or indifferent," Langdon said, "it is time" people recognize that oil supplies are dwindling.

Commissioner Mack Wallace said, "We are telling the rest of the country we are saving 7,500 barrels a day of Texas oil to use in emergencies."

The 99 per cent allowable is effective Dec. 1.

Wallace described the reduction as a "new step" to "alert the nation" of the oil shortage, which Congress is doing nothing "to alleviate."

Texas, he said, has done "its share during the oil crisis."

Major crude oil buyers asked the commission for 3,989,270 barrels of oil a day next month, an increase of 26,078 from November nominations.

Most of the company representatives told the commission, however, they are receiving less oil than they are seeking.

A Phillips spokesman, for example, noted that his company submitted a nomination for 115,000 barrels of oil a day, but falls short by 24,000 barrels.

Texaco Inc., a spokesman said, only receives about 160,000 barrels of oil a day although it seeks 223,000.

As usual, the commission restricted the huge East Texas Field to 86 per cent production to avoid possible waste.

Texas first went to the 100 per cent allowable in April 1972.

Here are the major buyers' nominations for Texas crude oil in December, in barrels per day, with any changes from November in parentheses:

Amoco 342,500
Atlantic Richfield 180,000
Chevron 72,000 (down 3,000)
Cities Service 112,000
Continental 54,500
Diamond Shamrock 36,000
Exxon 718,000 (down 4,000)
Gulf 150,000
Marathon 49,670
Mobil 345,000
Phillips 115,000
Shell 270,000 (down 4,000)
Sun 223,000
Texaco 223,000
Union of California 95,000

Horses worth $22,500 stolen from trainer

Joe C. Faulkner reported $22,500 worth of horseflesh on the hoof missing to the Howard County Sheriff's Department today.

Stolen from his residence at Knott R. Box 1613, were two mares, each a 3-year-old sorrel with a white star on her forehead. One of the mares was taken from a corral behind his house and the other from inside his barn.

Faulkner believes Mack's Star Baby and Easy Action were taken for brood purposes as both mares are easily identifiable, and Easy Action is tattooed on her upper lip, making resale in this country almost impossible.

Easy Action, who belonged to W.B. Byrd and Drue A. Richman of Brady, was valued at $15,000. She was insured with Lloyd's of London and was being trained by Faulkner for racing. She was out of Agenda, and Easy Jet, who won the All-American Futurity and was syndicated for $3 million.

Both mares have raced successfully, and would be well-known in West Texas.

No cabinet nominations due until after Dec. 1

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter will not name any of his Cabinet members before Dec. 1, his spokesman said today.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said it would be premature to speculate about the names of prospective Cabinet members or others who might hold high positions in the Carter administration.

At a briefing for reporters, Powell also said Carter is "pleased" by Chile's announcement that its right-wing military government released 133 political prisoners Wednesday and its promise to free 150 more today.

"I am sure he would hope that it is a signal of more general liberalization of politics there," Powell said.

Declined comment on a recommendation by Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board against a tax cut at the present time. However, Burns did not rule out changing his mind if the economy fails to recover from its current slowdown.

Powell said Carter's "inclination is to wait and see" what economic indicators look like when the new administration takes office. Carter has said in the past that he will consider a tax reduction next year if the economic slowdown continues.

Carter will meet with Burns on Monday after a visit to the White House to meet with President Ford. Powell said Carter also plans to meet with House and Senate committee chairmen in Washington on Tuesday.

Reported that Carter reviewed suggestions and proposals for requiring his appointees to disclose their finances and to divest themselves of interests that may be in conflict with their government duties.

Powell said Carter also is looking at his own financial matters in the same light, adding that the president-elect is unsure what to do with his financial interest in his family's peanut farm and warehouse.

The press secretary's one hint about an appointment was to say "it is reasonable to assume" that Carter will ask State Rep. Ben Brown of Georgia "to help us in the transition and at some point afterwards in the administration as well."

But Powell said he did not know in what capacity.

Brown, who served as deputy national director of Carter's campaign, said Wednesday in Atlanta that he expects to become the first black appointed to a staff position in Carter's administration.

Action/reaction: Why inside?

Q. Why did the Herald play down the swine flu shots? It was placed in the middle of the paper, where a lot of people didn't even see it. And all area newspapers had it in bold front of the papers.

A. No one at the Herald realized we played it down. We regarded it as Page One news in the beginning but any story consistently played in any one section of the paper tends to lose attention. We like to think the middle of the paper is as well read as Page One. Fact is, some readers take a cursory look at Page One and then hurry inside for what they think is the "meat" of the news. A lot of readers consistently refer to Page 2-A in the Herald as "that page where all the news is."

Offbeat: Game of the times

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — Psst — wanna buy an adult game? Bob Reiss will sell you such diversions as "Seduction," "Lie, Cheat & Steal," and "Compatibility."

Reiss, head of a game company that bears his name, says his most popular offering is "Lie, Cheat & Steal: The Game of Political Power," in which players scheme their way to prominence. The game came out before Watergate, but Reiss acknowledges that the scandal gave sales a boost.

"But it'll be current years from now," he said. "All you have to do is pick up a paper in any town and there's lying, cheating and stealing right in front of you."

City officials attend Muni Confab

By JAMES WERRELL
Big Spring city officials joined nearly 3,000 others from across Texas to gather in Dallas for the 64th annual Texas Municipal League Conference, Sunday through Tuesday.

Those attending from Big Spring were Jim Gregg, city attorney; Bill Brown and Jerry Foresyth, assistant city managers; Stanley Bogard, police chief; Alvie Harrison, fire chief; Paul Feaselle, head of Community Development; Tom Ferguson, director of finance; Ralph McLaughlin, Charles Tompkins, and Harold Hall, councilmen.

Purpose of the conference was to allow civic leaders to grapple with a broad range of public issues confronting Texas local government collectively. Political leaders and municipal experts analyzed a host of controversial issues during the four days of concentrated discussion.

Issues discussed included public utilities regulation, state and federal legislation, voting rights, single-member districts for city officials, liability in lawsuits, collective bargaining and other items which affect the taxpaying public.

Another item affecting the taxpaying public was the cost of the trip. Each local official attending was issued $300 from the travel expense fund of his particular department to pay for the three-day excursion. This totaled $3,000 in costs to the city and for that reason, to the taxpayers.

Expenses included an $85 registration fee for each official. Hotel reservations were made a year in

Dr. W. B. Hardy is death victim

Dr. W. B. Hardy, longtime Big Spring resident and local dentist, died shortly after 1:30 p.m. today in a local hospital.

Services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Survivors include his widow, Ruth, and two sons. More details were not known at press time.

Abandoned girl identified, search now on for mother

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — Authorities are to decide Nov. 29 who gets custody of 17-month-old Angelia Christina McCoy, a blonde, blue-eyed toddler who was found more than a week ago at an Odessa supermarket.

The baby girl, who was standing in a grocery cart when a customer discovered her, was identified Wednesday by her father, Clarence McCoy, jailed in Hobbs, N.M., on embezzlement charges.

Authorities continue to search for her missing mother.

After she was discovered, Angelia was taken to Ector County Children's Services, which then placed her in an Odessa foster home. She was dubbed "Shelley" by the foster parents.

McCoy made the positive identification when Hobbs police picked the girl up in Odessa and took her there.

A woman in Lubbock had seen a story about the girl, checked and discovered she had been a babysitter for Angelia in Hobbs.

Now Angelia is back with her foster parents in Odessa while authorities search for her mother.

A custody hearing was scheduled for Nov. 29 and welfare officials said they would contact Angelia's relatives to see if they were interested in adopting her.

Meanwhile, her foster mother said Angelia was adapting well to her Odessa surroundings.

"The more children around, the happier she is," the foster mother said. She said there were indications the child is familiar with a day-care atmosphere.

She reported to officials that Angelia performed a spinning dance to nursery music when she accompanied her foster mother to a day-care center.

WASN'T HIS TIME — Augustan, Ga. policeman J.R. Rouse holds a gun that an Augustan man allegedly fired at him at point-blank range Wednesday. The gun fired but the bullet lodged in the barrel, the police officer was not injured, and the man was arrested. "I guess it just wasn't my time," Rouse said.

Carter discusses reorganization

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's promised reorganization of the federal government will be carried out in a "very careful, deliberate process" over the next two to three years, a key Carter staff member says.

Carter discussed that proposed reorganization, the economy, and his dealing with the House and Senate in a three-hour meeting with Democratic congressional leaders Wednesday at Sen. Herman Talmadge's home at Lovejoy, Ga., about 40 miles south of Atlanta. He later received expressions of support from some of the legislators present.

Carter, who was repeatedly referred to as

"Mr. President" at the meeting, said later he had asked the legislators to "direct me to make the executive branch more efficient."

Another topic was Carter's expressed desire to forge a bipartisan foreign policy. A Carter aide later said Carter will seek a meeting with Republican leaders to ask advice and "give them a feeling of participation without their feeling that they were being co-opted."

Carter told the Democratic legislators he wants Congress to re-enact the Hoover Reorganization Act which, before it expired last year, gave the president the authority to reorganize the federal government subject only to congressional veto.

The Carter aide described the meeting with nine senators and seven House members during a news briefing under the ground rules that he not be identified by name.

Carter entered the meeting with a list of discussion topics written on a folded piece of paper. At the top of the list was government reorganization, but the aide said, "Clearly the topic that ran in and out of almost all the discussion was the economy."

Government reorganization was a topic Carter brought up frequently during his campaign, recounting the consolidation of Georgia government agencies supervised as the state's governor and promising he would reorganize the federal bureaucracy if elected president.

His aide said specific legislative proposals were not brought up.

Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., expected to be the next House speaker, said Carter "will have 100 per cent cooperation from me."

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., retiring as the Senate Democratic leader, said, "If the meeting this afternoon is any indication of what lies ahead for this country...the omens are all good."

Few consider murder case closed

CASTROVILLE, Tex. (AP) — It has been 14 months since Castroville construction worker Richard Morales was gunned down beside a desolate road near this tiny Central Texas town.

A state jury convicted former Castroville city marshal Frank Hayes of aggravated assault in Morales' death and sentenced him to two to 10 years.

But few persons — from Morales' family to Gov. Dolph Briscoe — consider the case closed.

The death of Morales, who was killed by a shotgun blast Sept. 14, 1975, touched off demands by Morales' family, Mexican-American groups and state officials for federal investigations — all of whom still await word from the Justice Department.

In Washington, Justice Department spokesman John Russel said the matter is "a high priority in the civil rights division and is still pending."

But Texas Asst. Atty. Gen. Ed Idar Jr., named by Atty. Gen. John Hill to investigate the slaying, said Wednesday, "We've been hoping to hear something any day but as of today we have heard nothing."

The Justice Department first announced it was considering the case July 27. Court testimony said that Morales, 27, was picked up at his home by Hayes and another marshal on an arrest warrant. He was taken to an isolated area where Hayes was left alone with him.

His body was discovered two days later buried in a shallow grave 400 miles away on an East Texas farm owned by Hayes' wife's family.

Texas Ranger Dan North said the body had a large wound under the left armpit and said he found two hoes, a shovel and blood stains in the Hayes' car in Llano.

He later found the shotgun in Hayes' bedroom in his Castroville trailer home.

Hayes, 53, claimed the gun discharged accidentally. He had originally been indicted for murder, but was convicted of aggravated assault.

The demands for a federal investigation to determine if Hayes had violated Morales' civil rights became even louder when jurors in the Hayes trial in San Angelo admitted they had made a mistake and had signed the wrong charge when they convicted the former marshall. Jury foreman Luther Sheldon said the jury had meant to find Hayes guilty of murder by aggravated assault, but misunderstood the instructions from the judge.

U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., Briscoe and Hill asked for a federal investigation.

The request for prosecution of "certain persons" involved in the case was made to U.S. Atty. Gen. Edward Levi by Hill after he reviewed a report prepared by his office.

Briscoe said in July, "The man (Morales) was arrested and taken out on a lonely road. That's in violation of anyone's civil rights."

Hayes' wife, Dorothy, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of concealing evidence in connection with the case and received a one-year probation sentence.

Mrs. Hayes' sister, Alice Baldwin, who, prosecutors said, drove the car in which Morales' body was transported to East Texas, was not charged.

Salvation Army's buckets to appear

The Salvation Army's Christmas buckets will appear on the streets of Big Spring Nov. 27. Service clubs will begin operation of the buckets on Dec. 4.

According to Brig. Robert Ball, Christmas contributions should be especially generous this year because of the high cost of food and children's toys.

Christmas registration of baskets and toys will begin Nov. 29, at the Salvation Army office. Basket and toy days will be Dec. 22, and Dec. 23.

Brig. Ball urges all school groups, Sunday school classes, and service clubs to donate toys in the $1 to $2 class since there is no provision for repair used toys.

The Salvation Army's Christmas Cheer Program is based entirely on local contributions, since there is no United Fund money available at Christmas time.

Brig. Ball said "We are looking forward to making a lot of families happy this year through the generosity of our many faithful friends who support us at Christmas time. Any groups desiring to assist in any way in our Christmas Cheer program should call 267-6141."

Cocaine smuggling inquiry shaping

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal grand jury will convene here in December to investigate alleged marijuana and cocaine smuggling operations, reportedly involving several states.

U.S. Atty. Gerald Gallinghouse said Wednesday the investigation is an outgrowth of the trial of lawyer Albert Bensabat III, who was convicted this week of conspiring to smuggle two pounds of cocaine into the country.

Bensabat and three co-defendants, who pleaded guilty earlier, are expected to testify before the grand jury and could lead the panel to other prominent persons in New Orleans, Philadelphia, New England and California, as well as to cocaine growers and sellers in South America, The Times-Picayune reported today.

Bensabat's attorney, John Martzell, maintains that his client was a pawn in a narcotics investigation aimed at implicating Criminal District Court Judge Jerome Winsberg.

During the trial, a New Orleans policeman testified Bensabat told him that part of a cocaine shipment from Colombia was to be delivered to Winsberg. Winsberg denied any connection with the case and said he had been told by federal investigators they had no evidence implicating him in cocaine transactions.

The judge said he anticipates being called before the grand jury to testify and said he would appear.

Bensabat's wife had been an employee of Winsberg before her husband's arrest. The judge had married the couple in his courtroom.

Bensabat is scheduled to be sentenced Dec. 22, while his co-defendants are scheduled to be sentenced Nov. 24.

City receives $28,367 sales tax rebate

The City of Big Spring has received a check for $28,367.95 from the office of State Comptroller Bob Bullock as its November rebate of the one-cent city sales tax.

In all, $13.2 million is being distributed to 640 Texas cities in November rebates. Colorado City's check for the period totaled $5,469. Lamesa has been notified its share of the one cent sales, after deductions made for service fees, will total $13,805.47.

Stanton will be paid $779.96 while Sterling City will receive $784.16.

The $13.2 million in rebates authorized by Bullock's office this week brings to $252.2 million the amount that the cities have received in rebates this calendar year, an increase of $28.5 million — or nearly 13 per cent — over the same period a year ago.

"This increase in consumer spending is a good sign that the Texas economy is on the right track," Bullock said.

The rebate checks ranged from $2,532.77 for the City of Houston to $501.38 to Springtown.

The city sales tax is collected along with the state sales tax by retailers. The Comptroller's Office rebates to the cities their share on a monthly basis.

Cold front heads for West Texas

By the Associated Press

Rainfall amounts were generally less than one-fourth of an inch, but rainfall was widespread in South and Southwest Texas early today.

Temperatures were expected to be warmer today than during the past several days, but a cold front is expected to reach Northwest Texas late tonight, causing temperatures to drop a few degrees as it heads southward across the state.

Skies were partly cloudy to cloudy and temperatures were mostly in the 40s in South Texas while North Texas had clear skies and temperatures in the 30s. Some readings around the state included 27 at Amarillo, 37 at Wichita Falls, 35 at Texarkana, 36 at Dallas, 47 at San Antonio, 45 at Houston, 49 at Alice, 48 at Brownsville and McAllen, 50 at Del Rio, 45 at San Angelo, 43 at El Paso and 35 at Lubbock.

Forecasts called for fair weather to continue in North Texas and for the cloudy, rainy weather to continue in South Texas. The rain is expected to start spreading northward and eastward tonight and Friday.

Not on order but appreciated

My little boy is four years old, and he had not seen snow that he was old enough to remember since we had been living in southeast Texas until this year.

He wanted to play in some snow, so we planned last weekend to head for the New Mexico mountains, and hopefully some snow.

ALL WEEK long I had been reading the weather story and looking at the weather map in the newspaper, worrying that the mountains might not have a good covering of snow for him to see.

Early in the week, the snow picture looked bleak. The extended forecast by the National Weather Service was for fair skies and warm days. This should have tipped me off that it would snow for certain, but it didn't.

By mid-week, the possibility of a good mountain snow brightened. There was a cold front coming with a big low pressure area hanging around over northern New Mexico. Perfect.

So we left about noon Friday bound for the mountains. Only something went wrong. We were four hours of driving away from the Rockies when it began to snow.

To be specific, the first flakes fell as we reached Lamesa.

"Look," I said to my son, "that's snow. We'll see a lot of that when we get to the mountains."

Wrong again. We saw a lot of that when we reached Brownfield, and it was positively blizzard when we hit Plains near the New Mexico border.

"Are we to the mountains?" my boy asked as he watched the snow pile up on the hood and the ice form on the windshield. I had to explain that it was snowing before we reached the mountains, something I'm not sure he understood since we'd talked all week about going to the mountains to see the snow.

At Plains we decided that a rather serious detour to the south was the only possible hope of carrying on. So we turned toward Denver City, a distance of only 15 miles, but it took us an hour to reach that city of 4,000 people.

By 5 p.m. there was so much snow that going any direction seemed hopeless, so we latched onto a motel room while we could.

NOW I know that Denver City is not what one would normally consider a typical mountain resort, but that's what we pretended it was while we were stuck there last weekend. There certainly was enough snow with a solid 10-inch layer that fell Friday afternoon and drifts up to two and three feet.

There were no ski slopes, no mountain streams, no pine trees, but there was a cafe and a bowling alley. And most of all, there was snow, and that's what we came to see.

I'm not necessarily recommending that you take your next weekend trip to Denver City, you understand, but it wasn't all that bad. It turned out to be a nice little town with plenty of friendly folks.

The jet set may never stop there, but the snowplow set did just fine. We could stay in the best motel, eat in the finest restaurant.

We did make it back to Big Spring through the snow, although the 100 miles took more than four hours to negotiate.

My little boy was really shocked to find snow at home too.

He didn't ask, but I know his young mind was puzzling with this question:

Why did we go through all that to see the snow when we could have stayed home and watched it just as good?

Don Bolles applauded

(Harte Hanks Austin Bureau)

LOS ANGELES — The names were not household words but William T. Farr, Joe Rosato, William K. Patterson, George F. Gruner and Jim Bert were the heroes of a press convention here.

In addition, there was the memory of Don Bolles. Every time his name was mentioned it brought a standing ovation.

BOLLES WAS a reporter in Phoenix, Ariz. He had a reputation for looking into the operations of organized crime and as he wrote in 1974, "into the suede-shoe boys actively separating old folks and other innocents from their bank accounts with all kinds of bogus schemes... the supposedly reputable financiers with a credit ratings who are leading corporations into a pile of bones."

On June 2 Bolles left the newspaper office for an interview. He was found in a restaurant parking lot, his body lying in a bombed car.

The most comprehensive job ever undertaken by the nation's new media was begun and it continues.

Reporters for papers throughout the nation are checking and rechecking leads to try to find the killer.

At first the nation's press was united in its support. Lately some questions have been raised. Jack Kilpatrick, a national columnist whose name did become a household word when he started giving commentary on the CBS 60 Minutes show, warned that the American public might well begin to feel the media has teamed up and make somewhat of a hero out of anyone arrested for the crime.

Others disagree and some have called for a permanent Bolles Investigative Fund to support the investigative effort.

Farr and the four others, who are known as the Fresno Four, were awarded the First Amendment Award of the Society for Professional Journalists. It also was given to Daniel Schorr, whose name has become a household word.

ALL RECEIVED it for refusing to reveal sources of information and standing up for a moral commitment in the face of probable imprisonment.

Schorr did not go to jail for refusing to talk to a congressional committee.

But the other FIVE — all residents of California — did in spite of the fact that California has a so-called Shield Law which is to guarantee newsmen the right not to reveal information sources.

The Fresno Four had a story in the Fresno Bee about a city councilman involved in bribery and conspiracy investigations. They had some quotes from a grand jury report that had been sealed by a judge.

After they spent two weeks in jail the judge called them back to see if they would talk. They didn't. He said he felt they wouldn't, so he let them go.

Drops won't end need for surgery

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a cataract in one eye. My doctor is planning surgery several months from now. I have received literature on certain eye drops. This medication, it is claimed, will check the progress of the cataract and, in some cases, will clear it up. I would like to try it, but my doctor will not go along because he knows nothing about it. Do you have any information on it? I am 73 years old. — J.M.

I have no information on the drops you mention. No need to name them.

My immediate reaction is that if such drops were effective you would not have to find out about them through the mail. Your ophthalmologist would be one of the first to know. As far as I know there are no methods to check or reverse the progress of cataracts. Surgery in due time is the only effective cure.

No one enjoys the prospect of surgery of any kind, and this is one reason peddlers of usually ineffective medications have such a field day. I advise you to trust the judgment of your eye doctor in this and stop looking for cures that don't exist.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me about leg jitters or restless leg muscles. They start almost every evening and sometimes in the night. I am so restless I cannot sleep. — Mrs.

M.S. This is a sleep disturbance suffered by many, chiefly women. Why this is so is not known. A circulation disorder related to hormone imbalance has been suspected, but this has not been proven.

Many disorders are associated with restless leg — diabetes, overactive thyroid, lung disease, among them. It is not unusual in pregnancy. Some folks notice the problem more after an active day in which muscles have been overused. A mild mental depression has been involved in some cases.

The jitters at night occur chiefly during periods of light sleep. It is well-known that sleep alternates between light and deep phases, and one would be more likely to awaken with the symptoms during a light one.

Simple analgesics such as aspirin have helped some leg jitters. For others a hot water bottle offers relief.

Of the various remedies suggested and tried over the years, a tranquilizer seems to offer the most effective relief. A short walk before retiring helps some.

There is so much unnecessary pill-popping going on these days that I hesitate to even mention tranquilizers for sundry aches and pains. Leg jitters is a different matter. Where this becomes a continuing source of sleep disturbance, any reasonable remedy is perfectly acceptable, including tranquilizers. There may be other treatable causes for your leg problems. These are discussed in my booklet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." If you'd like a copy send 35 cents to me in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: The Bible says that God is everywhere. If that is the case, why do I have to go to church to worship God? — T.E.

DEAR T.E.: It is true that God is everywhere, since He is the creator of the world. As Paul said, "God made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temple made with hands" (Acts 17:24). For that reason we can pray to Him and worship Him wherever we are. The important thing is not the location, but our attitude of heart.

On one occasion a Samaritan woman tried to engage Jesus in a debate over the proper place of worship; His reply was, "God is a Spirit: and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24).

However, God has also commanded us (both in the Old and New Testaments) to come together with other believers for worship and teaching. We need other Christians, and they need us. We need to hear His Word preached. We need to declare openly that we are part of God's people, and one way to do this is by worshipping with other Christians.

Our worship should not be confined to a church building, but neither should we engage only in private worship. You might look at the example of the early Christians, and the way they came together eagerly to grow together in Christ. "And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayer... continuing daily with one accord in the temple and breaking bread from house to house" (Acts 2:42, 46).

Axis of change

Around the rim

James Werrill

It seems as if the time is past when each generation can have a musical performer or group that it can call its own. Tommy Hart's favorite group, Kiss, may be this generation's, but I doubt it.

IT MAKES me feel old to call the Beatles my generation's group, and the best to come along in decades. After all, my parents said the same great balls of fire things about Benny Goodman, Harry James, Tommy Dorsey et al. Then came Frankie and the now obese Elvis.

Nonetheless, I stick by my guns. Few will argue that the 60s was a decade of change. And music became an axis of that change. And the Beatles were at the center of that axis.

I don't think it is a good idea to over-intellectualize the Beatles' contribution to the revolutionary 60s. A lot of their impact hinged on being in the right place at the right time. They never would have made it five years before.

Their main impact was that they just plain wrote and performed good music. I was listening to Rubber Soul and Revolver the other night and confirmed that their music would last longer in the pantheon of rock and roll than Aerosmith or Black Oak Arkansas or Queen etc. (No offense heavy metal lovers).

I DON'T mean to imply that there is no good music coming out now. It's just that the time is ripe for the equivalent of the Beatles to rise again in the 70s.

Although good music was the Beatles' main attraction, other things entered into the big picture. They had long hair. At least it looked long then. To glance at the cover of Meet The Beatles, makes it hard to believe that hair that short could put a parent into instant coma.

They wore suits without lapels and "Beatle boots." They were irreverent, and disdained authority and conventional behavior before that was fashionable.

In short, they were forerunners of a mild revolution in spirit that was to develop into something much bigger. They became models for rebellion against, to paraphrase Paul Simon, all the crap we learned in high school.

WE HUNG on every word and deed of John, Paul, George and Ringo; when they became knights of the realm (amidst a cloud of pot smoke we later learned); when John claimed they were more popular than Jesus; when Paul was dead ("Listen, you can hear them say it when you play The White Album backwards!"); when they fell in love collectively with the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi (George never grew out of it); when John took up with Yoko; when Paul married Linda; and when they all broke up.

They helped us in our revolution, and were genuinely revolting to a lot of parents. Most of these adult types thought the Beatle boys represented the end of civilization as we know it. Their admirers could only hope this was true.

Again, I am starting to feel old writing this, and I'm not old enough to get nostalgic for the good old days. A steady diet of the Beatles nowadays would be hard to take.

But I feel grateful to the four from Liverpool, and I hope their influence is a lasting one. And I hope the next Beatles aren't long in coming.

Another Woodstock

WASHINGTON — The word has just been passed that Jimmy Carter is inviting 300,000 to 400,000 campaign workers and friends to his inauguration in Washington, D.C. Naturally, those of us who live in the capital are thrilled to hear that so many people will be coming here on Jan. 20. There won't be anything like it since Woodstock.

I BELIEVE Mr. Carter's decision to send out so many invitations proves he doesn't know Washington at all. We really don't have that many hotels in the area. We can handle an American Bankers Convention, and we just manage to accommodate the Daughters of the American Revolution when they come to town every spring. But when you talk about housing and feeding 300,000 or 400,000 people from all parts of the country, Mr. Carter is going to have a problem.

Even if he uses the indoor swimming pool and the Oval Office for sleeping quarters, I can't see him able to put up more than 10,000 people at the White House. Since the weather forecasters are predicting a very cold winter, not too many supporters will want to camp on the Mall or the Capitol steps.

Of course, Mr. Carter could open up the federal buildings and invite people to sleep there, but that would mean displacing thousands of federal employees who are sleeping in them already.

There may be an effort on the part of the Carter Inaugural Committee to ask Washington residents to take people into their homes. I'm not sure how what kind of reaction they would get.

I CALLED up Sen. Bob Dole and asked him if he would be willing to take in any guests coming to the Carter inauguration, and he hung up on me. Henry Kissinger said that, unfortunately, Nancy was redecorating their house in Georgetown, and they wouldn't have any room. The Fords said they would be packing at the time and couldn't take anyone in, and Teddy Kennedy told me he would be happy to put someone up, but, unfortunately, he has only one bedroom.

Even if we could find rooms for everybody, the questions is how could we feed them? There are only 15 Kentucky Fried Chicken stands in all of Washington, 18 McDonald's hamburger outlets, 17 Burger Chops and 12 Hot Shoppes.

The only experience Washington has had with handling so many people at one time was when the Veterans of World War I came to town during the Hoover Administration to protest their lack of bonuses, and Gen. MacArthur was ordered to drive them out of town.

In recent years we've dealt with mobs — during the Nixon Administration thousands of students came to Washington to protest the Vietnamese war. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell handled the problem by rounding everyone up, arresting them and locking them up in the R.F.K. Stadium, which can't handle more than 51,000 people at one time.

Whether Mr. Carter would want to go to this extreme to handle his guests is something I don't know.

WE ADMIRE the President-elect for wanting so many people to come to his inaugural, but we question his judgment in not thinking through what it will do to the town. We have about four places that can handle inaugural balls, so the majority of people will have to dance in the streets, possibly in the snow.

I'm not predicting trouble, but I believe Mr. Carter's first act as President may have to be to call out the National Guard on Jan. 20 and declare Washington a disaster area.

Every President has a right to have the inauguration of his choice, but Mr. Carter may have bitten off more than he can chew if everyone he invites to his swearing-in agrees to come.

If the President-elect decides to go ahead with it, I think he should pardon John Mitchell and make him chairman of his Inaugural Committee. Mitchell may not have cleared the streets of Washington legally, but at least he got the job done.

Coming crisis

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Mounting pressure on President Anwar Sadat from the Egyptian army, the most powerful political force in Egypt, is the real reason Sadat is pressing hard on Moscow to arrange military spare parts for the aging Soviet war machines delivered to Egypt a decade ago.

If there is no Carter administration breakthrough in Arab-Israeli peace talks and if the U.S. continues to embargo arms for Egypt, military backlash against Sadat could force him to do an about-face and turn to Moscow from Washington — a grave decision that would undo almost five years of U.S. diplomacy.

SADAT'S MILITARY PROBLEM is far more politically acute than realized in the U.S. Congress (which systematically denies Egypt military aid despite Sadat's Washington orientation).

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger did little to discourage Sadat's public claims of U.S. pledges for voluminous military supplies following the second Sinai agreement last year. But while Congress was approving more than $4 billion in aid for Israel, including the most advanced U.S. weapons, Egypt received six C-130 transports.

That was a blow to Sadat, whose military commanders believed the Sinai agreement would be followed by a gradual switch from Soviet to American military supplies, starting with U.S. F-5 aircraft.

Moscow, switching vital spare parts on or off for Sadat, recently approved spare parts sales from one of its Eastern European satellites to keep Sadat's MIG-21s flying. But that beneficence could be turned off whenever Moscow chooses.

Accordingly, pressure from the military on Sadat is understandable. Sadat told a congressional delegation in Cairo Nov. 9 that Egypt was ready to sit down with Israel and other Arab states at Geneva to negotiate a settlement — and that Egypt would welcome a U.S.-Israeli security pact to guarantee Israel's borders after settlement.

Texas third in export sales

AUSTIN — Texas moved from fourth to third rank nationally in agricultural export sales of $1.5 billion during fiscal 1976, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has reported.

Last year Texas shared fourth place with Kansas when sales reached $1.342 billion. "The substantial increase this year is significant when you consider the embargoes on grain shipments that hampered trade."

Illinois was the leader in fiscal 1976 with $2.4 billion, and Iowa ranked second with $1.7 billion.

U.S. agricultural exports in fiscal 1976 were at a record $22 billion, 3 per cent over fiscal 1975. Export tonnage at 108 million tons were 22 per cent above that of a year earlier, offsetting the effect of lower prices for some items.

Texas feed grains accounted for the largest contribution to the state's export sales with $497.3 million. Wheat and flour sales doubled those of last year with $319.6 million in fiscal 1976.

Cotton sales at $255.5 million were up $34 million, but cottonseed oil dropped $5.3 million to $42.6 million. Meat and red meat products were $7.8 million above fiscal 1975 with increases also in hides and skins. Poultry products exports also increased, totaling $10.7 million, a record for this commodity and more than twice that of 1973.

Rice sales dropped to the lowest in four years with $105.9 million because of the bumper crop in the U.S. and major importing countries. World carryover stocks remain at record highs also, White said.

OSHA tips draw flak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal safety agency that is drawing up an outhouse regulation has learned a lesson from the uproar over what irate farmers called "the privy on every prairie" rule, an official says.

The experience for the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) appears to have been as sobering as one of those fabled "trips out back" on a frosty morning.

"I'm sure that OSHA learned a lot" from the flap, said Maynard Doffoff, OSHA's special adviser for agricultural affairs.

The furor, which erupted last June, resulted in a congressional curb on OSHA's authority and an awareness within the agency of what is needed to restore its credibility, he said.

OSHA also drew flak for its farm safety booklets — said to be aimed at barely literate laborers — advising, among other things, that wet manure is slippery and that farmers should "speak softly to cows."

OSHA originally planned to require field toilets and drinking facilities within five minutes' reach of my farm-worker. Farmers from around the country ridiculed the proposal as costly and impractical.

Dawson FB units named

LAMESA — The Dawson County Farm Bureau president Harold Hohn named committees for the coming year.

They include membership, Bob Hale; public relations, Don Vogler; state legislative, Dale Merrick; national legislative, Truett Hodnett; economic service, Delacey Frampton; public development, Weldon Shelton; Young Farmers and Ranchers, Earl Hatchett and cotton, Dale Merrick.

Plans were also made to send a delegation to the state meeting in Fort Worth Dec. 5-8.

Medicaid fraud really big

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is being urged to consider severe jail terms for doctors, druggists and nursing home operators found guilty of taking part in the estimated billions of dollars in Medicaid fraud.

A New York state prosecutor told a Senate investigating committee Wednesday that his office uncovered evidence that nursing home operators were padding bills under the federal-state Medicaid program to pay for personal luxuries.

Charles Hynes, New York state special prosecutor for nursing homes, said his office found that nursing home operators treated themselves to mink coats, stereo equipment and paintings by such masters as Matisse and Renoir, claiming in bills to Medicaid that these were all legitimate business expenses.

It has been estimated that abuse and fraud in Medicaid, a federal-state program for the poor, and Medicare, which aids the elderly, cost taxpayers $3 billion to $4 billion a year.

Despite those figures, said Hynes and Samuel K. Skinner, U.S. attorney for Northern Illinois, virtually no health service offenders are ever sent to jail.

Skinner blamed the federal government in large part because the health insurance programs, which together cost about $40 billion a year, were launched with no tests or pilot projects.

Skinner also warned that "it would be suicidal to go ahead with national health insurance," which could cost up to $80 billion a year, until state and federal officials show they can rid Medicaid and Medicare of fraud.

Hynes said that "there still exists a climate in this country where the exploitation of 91 people is a respectable and risk-free profession."

He testified that the kick-back scheme with suppliers worked this way: in order to get a nursing home contract, the supplier would pad its bill by charging for goods that were never delivered, and the nursing home operator would pass the phony bills along to the Medicaid program and end up with the extra cash.

Hynes, who obtained indictments earlier this week of 26 nursing home owners, employees and suppliers, told the Senate panel that up to half the 125 nursing homes in the New York City area may be involved in taking kickbacks from suppliers.

Skinner suggested appointment of state-federal task forces operating in cooperation with U.S. attorneys.

No powder burns found on shirt

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — A Texas Ranger has testified that no powder burns were found on the shirt of East Texas civil rights leader Frank Robinson, who was killed by a shotgun blast last month.

Texas Ranger Bob Prince of Palestine testified Wednesday at an inquest into the death that no traces of nitrate, commonly called powder burns, were found on Robinson's shirt by Department of Public Safety crime lab technicians.

Prince was another in a long list of witnesses to testify in the inquest to determine if Robinson's death was homicide, suicide or an accident. Robinson was found sprawled inside the garage Oct. 14, slain by a shotgun blast to the head.

Palestine Police Chief Kenneth Berry told the six-person jury earlier that a woman told him she spoke over the telephone with a "black male" at Robinson's residence the morning Robinson died.

Prince also testified that traces of human blood were found on the shotgun apparently used in Robinson's death, but that there wasn't enough of the blood to determine its type.

He also told the panel that authorities could not determine if the partial fingerprints lifted from the gun were those of Robinson.

Berry said that after the shooting he went to the home to look for signs of an intruder or for a suicide. He said the telephone rang and a woman who said she was with an insurance company asked to speak with Mrs. Robinson.

"I told her there had been an accident and that Mrs.

Robinson was out of town," Berry said.

The woman called Berry later and told him of her other call to the home.

Berry said he found no signs of an intruder. "Everything seemed to be in order," he said.

The woman caller was also on a long list of witnesses subpoenaed to testify at the inquest, expected to last into next week.

Berry said Robinson's body was found just inside the garage door, with the shotgun across Robinson's left leg, with the barrel pointing to the left. Justice of the Peace Floyd Hassell testified the barrel was pointing to the right.

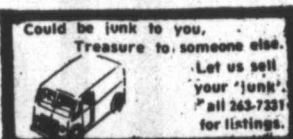

Hassell said he ordered the shotgun to be examined and that only one of the two barrels had been fired and DPS crime lab technician

Ronald Richardson agreed, saying that three shots were fired from the left barrel while an unfired shell remained in the other.

Richardson testified later that three empty Remington shell casings were found near the body. He said a fourth casing, a Western, was found later some distance from the garage.

Earlier witnesses said either three or four shots were heard.

Richardson also said unfired Remington and Western shells matching those casings discovered near Robinson's body were found in the house.

Gilmore well enough to return to Death Row cell

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Gilmore's sleeping pill overdose may have been a sympathy ploy or a genuine suicide attempt, but it probably won't influence his chances of facing a firing squad, the head of the state pardons board says.

Hospital officials said the 35-year-old convicted killer, who has fought efforts to delay his execution, was expected to be returned to his Death Row cell at the Utah State Prison today.

He was found unconscious Tuesday morning after taking an overdose of sleeping pills in what prison officials called an apparent suicide pact with his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, 20. He later developed pneumonia.

After regaining consciousness at the hospital Wednesday, Gilmore jerked the intravenous tubes from his arm, but doctors said the action did not jeopardize his recovery.

Doctors said Gilmore had not taken enough pills to cause death, even if he had not received emergency medical treatment.

Mrs. Barrett remained in critical condition in a coma at a Provo hospital after taking an overdose of pills at her apartment. Doctors said she was unable to breathe without a respirator and might have suffered brain damage.

Her mother said today that she had known of the suicide plot for two weeks and considered Gilmore "another Charles Manson."

a reference to the California cult leader serving a life sentence for murder.

George Latimer, chairman of the three-man Utah Board of Pardons which will consider Gilmore's case, said he "wouldn't think his (Gilmore's) actions would have anything to do with what the board eventually decides in his case."

Gilmore's attorney, Dennis Boaz, said the double suicide attempt was "a moment of truth" that had caused him to stop supporting his client's wish to live.

"As long as I can see that possibility (of Gilmore and Mrs. Barrett to be together)...I know Gary would want to live."

Gilmore had been slated to die last Monday, but Gov. Calvin Rampton stayed the execution so the board could review his case at its regular meeting Wednesday. Gilmore's condition forced postponement of the review, and the board is scheduled to meet next on Dec. 6.

The board will either commute Gilmore's sentence for killing a motel clerk during a robbery or uphold the death penalty and send the case back to the trial judge for a new execution date. Latimer has indicated that the board may have little choice but to grant Gilmore's request to die.

Dr. Wesley Weissert, a psychiatric counselor at the Oregon State Prison, said Gilmore attempted suicide there in 1974 and that the doctor expected Gilmore to try it again.

A spokesman said the convict had access to television, and he said he presumed Gilmore watched news reports of himself and Mrs. Barrett.

Photographs inspected at sex trial

DALLAS (AP) — Photographs depicting sexual acts among a couple and a seven-year-old girl have been admitted as evidence in the trial of the man charged with sexual abuse of the child.

The defendant is Clotice William Stone, 45. His 23-year-old wife, Pamela, faces the same charge but will be tried later.

A babysitter for three of the couple's children testified she found the photographs in the Stones' mobile home April 23 and turned them over to the mobile home park office manager, who notified police.

correctional boards and officials to withdraw a policy banning interviews with Gilmore.

The little girl testified that Stone gave her candy as an enticement to enter the mobile home.

The child's mother testified that she and her husband were neighbors of the Stones and had visited their residence in the past. She said they now live in Southeast Texas.

Buried alive

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Daniel Durham says he looks at life differently now that he has the chips off his shoulders — some 30,000 pounds of them that entombed him alive for 90 minutes.

Durham was dumped into a truck, buried under six feet of wood chips and carried 40 miles while his screams went unheard. Someone even walked over the chips, unaware that Durham was buried beneath.

"All of a sudden I was falling, and then I was buried," Durham said Wednesday. "I may have blacked out a couple times from suffocation. I knew I couldn't last more than five minutes more."

Durham was leveling chips in an elevated bin last Friday when he was dumped accidentally into the truck, which then headed for a fiber company 40 miles away.

Jerry Thorp, supervisor at Lumber Specialty Industries Inc., said Durham had neglected to block the driveway with a board that keeps trucks from backing under the bin while somebody is working in it. Better safety precautions since have been instituted, Thorp said.

"I knew I was going to die," Durham said. "I struggled, I yelled, but nobody heard me. Then I realized I had better save my energy."

Durham said he was nearly trampled and suffocated when the truck stopped at a weigh station. "I could feel somebody walking right on top of me there, but no one heard me yelling," he said.

Unknown to Durham, back at the lumber company Thorp had noticed him gone about 15 minutes after the truck pulled away. Realizing he might be in the truck, Thorp phoned fiber company officials, who contacted the driver by radio.

An ambulance awaited the truck at Longview, and workers dug and clawed Durham free. He escaped with only three cracked ribs and internal bleeding which has cleared up.

"I'm not religious, but I have second thoughts now," he said. "I know God had something to do with me making it."

Executioner role produces inner agony

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — It could happen as early as Dec. 10—the day J.W. Estelle must kill a man.

Man, monkey buried together

BENTON, Ky. (AP) — For 15 years, a spider monkey named Cheetah was Clifford Wade's constant companion. After Wade died last week, the monkey was killed and buried with him.

"He said he wanted to be buried with the monkey, and that's what he got," said date Robert Excel White or James Owen Livingston, both of Waco, will enter a room at the state prison in Huntsville and become Earnest Collins, the administrator of Wade's estate. "The monkey was his best friend, his companion," Collins said Wade, 75, expressed the wish a few days before he died last Friday. Cheetah was put to sleep by a veterinarian and placed in Wade's coffin.

perhaps the first person to be executed since the death penalty was upheld by the Supreme Court. They were sentenced for killing a Collin County grocer and two teenage customers in May 1974.

In Texas, the death instrument is the electric chair.

The law specifies that Estelle, director of the Texas Department of Corrections, must throw the switch that snuffs out life with a massive jolt of electricity. Estelle has long carried a "tough guy" image as a prison administrator, but an interview Wednesday he was filled with long, reflective pauses, revealing the inner agony of a man cast into the role of executioner.

"I don't think anybody's prepared for a situation like that," Estelle said. "I've stated my position publicly that were the death penalty put on a referendum ballot, I would support it."

After a long pause, Estelle admitted that he has talked about the subject with his pastor. "I hope I'm a religious man ... I have talked ... with my pastor, yes sir," Estelle said. Asked what was discussed, another long pause ... "That's a part of my private life that doesn't go with the contract."

What goes with the contract is knowledge of the fact, a knowledge that creeps into pauses in the day's work. Estelle tries to fight off contemplation. "It's unpleasant, but ... an unpleasant sort of a thing to dwell on," Estelle said. "I find myself in agreement with the consensus of the people of Texas that it's an appropriate penalty. I think my thoughts and concerns are as much for the families of the victims as they are for the convicted."

Estelle said he would not discuss his feelings with other prison officials who might be in the same situation, but admitted that friends try to talk with him about it. "The subject has been broached on several occasions ... but I don't view it as a topic for social conversation."

Nor does Estelle view it as a topic suitable for family talk. "I try to leave my work outside the front door," he said.

Estelle said the normal practice is for the governor to grant a 30-day stay of execution, but the apparent inevitability of the matter makes the anticipated delay as torturous as the fact of execution.

"I don't," Estelle started, then faltered. "It's a duty and an obligation," he said. "I think I can handle that."

Florida man faces rape rap

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Authorities at San Angelo filed aggravated rape charges Wednesday against a Florida man in connection with the rape last September of an Angelo State University student.

Named in the charge was William Ronald McMullen, 28, of Jacksonville, Fla. McMullen, who has not been arrested, is also wanted in Abilene in connection with an alleged abduction and rape.

A San Angelo police spokesman said McMullen is also wanted in St. Augustine and Green Cove Springs, Fla., on murder, kidnapping and rape charges and in Baton Rouge, La., on a charge of escaping from prison.

The San Angelo charge stemmed from an incident in which an Angelo State student told officers she was forced to drive to a remote spot near O.C. Fischer Lake where she was raped. She said the man took $10 from her purse and forced her to drive him back to San Angelo.

Removing heads to save loot?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City officials here will remove the business ends of 355 parking meters in the Ohio State University area for the school's weekend football with Michigan — a move they think will save up to $25,000.

The Division of Traffic Engineering figured it would be cheaper to spend $200 to $300 for labor to remove the meter heads than to replace them. After the OSU-Michigan meeting here four years ago, celebrating fans tore the heads off.

Church wants prostitution legalized

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Legislature should legalize prostitution, according to the opinion of the congregation of the Richardson Unitarian Church.

Herb Croner, chairman of the church's Social Action Committee, told newsmen Wednesday that the legislature should make provisions for legalized and controlled prostitution which would make exploitation of the profession by criminal elements impossible.

Croner said the congregation "goes on record strongly condemning the Dallas city ordinance which empowers non-legally trained person (police officer) to judge whether or not a person is prostitute or a panderer."

The Dallas City Council recently passed an ordinance to combat open prostitution in the Cedar Springs-Oak Lawn area.

Croner, whose seven-member committee was authorized to take the stand by a recent majority vote of the church's 75 members, said that a section of the city could be set aside for "declared prostitutes" to practice their trade.

He added that it would be illegal for them to do business outside that area.

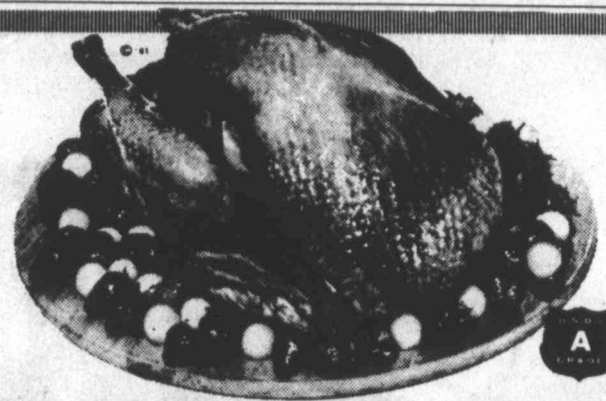

"Other Unitarian churches in the area may not share our viewpoint on the issue, Croner said.

Flight plans of Southwest

DALLAS — Southwest Airlines will not implement a flying schedule in and out of the Midland Air Terminal until at least next May, even if plans for the airlines' expanded services are approved by the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

Lamar Muse, Southwest president, said it would take at least that long to set up arrangements for flights. The Texas Aeronautics Commission will act on Southwest's request to serve Midland at its Dec. 1 meeting.

Southwest now owns six airplanes which fly out of Dallas, San Antonio, Houston and Harlingen.

A MATTER OF TRADITION — There are countless ways to prepare a turkey, and for most people, turkey it will be on Thanksgiving Day. It's what goes with the bird that can make a meal. Shown here is acorn squash, a fall favorite, stuffed with peas and onions.

Recipes to compliment your bird

Turkey time around the bend

Year after year, as in the first Thanksgiving feast, the golden browned turkey remains the master of the holiday ceremonies. Though the feast is much the same, there is a difference in the appearance and the eating quality of the turkeys. Today's bird is designed for, and 'specially grown for, our modern methods of cooking. It is plump and attractive, and tender and juicy for mighty good eating.

Thanksgiving brings family and friends together to enjoy a festive meal and exchange the latest news. The bountiful table may be in grandmother's dining room or in the small apartment of the newly marrieds. Nevertheless, it is an exciting moment when the turkey appears for carving.

Tender, juicy turkey is delicious whether it's stuffed or not. An unstuffed turkey can still have the traditional Thanksgiving glow with minimum preparation time, if you give it a new twist.

When minutes count, skip the stuffing and fill individual squash cups with your favorite vegetable to compliment the Thanksgiving turkey. Shown here are acorn squash cups filled with buttered, sage-flavored peas and onions.

It's also helpful to remember that roasting time for an unstuffed turkey is 30 to 45 minutes shorter than for the same-size stuffed turkey.

An easy method to test a turkey for doneness is by pinching the thickest portion of the drumstick. The meat should feel soft. (Be sure to protect the thumb and forefinger with paper or cloth.)

BAKED ACORN SQUASH FILLED WITH BUTTERED PEAS AND ONIONS

Yield: 6 servings
3 small acorn squash
2 tbsps. softened butter
¾ tsp. salt
10 oz. pkg. frozen peas
5 oz. jar pearl onions
2 tbsps. butter

1 tbsps. brown sugar
Cut squash in halves. Remove seeds. Rub inside and out with butter. Season each with ½ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon brown sugar. Place cut-side-up on a baking sheet. Bake during the last hour of the turkey roasting time.

Meanwhile, prepare peas according to package directions. Add onions during the last 5 minutes. Drain. Add 2 tablespoons butter. Stir until melted. Fill each squash with ½ cup of buttered peas and onions. Serve on turkey platter.

CRANBERRY EGGNOG PIE

Yield: One 9-inch pie
one 9-inch pastry shell, baked one 1-lb. can jellied cranberry sauce
2 tbsps. cold water
1½ tbsps. unflavored gelatin
¾ c. milk
2 tbsps. sugar
2 eggs yolks, slightly beaten
2 eggs whites
¼ tbsps. sugar
¼ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. rum extract
½ c. whipping cream
¼ tsp. salt

Whip jellied cranberry sauce to smooth consistency. Spread evenly in bottom of baked pastry shell. Chill in refrigerator until firm. Soak gelatin in cold water. Let stand about 5 minutes to soften. In the top of a double boiler scald milk, sugar, and salt over simmering water. Stir a little of the hot mixture into the beaten egg yolks.

Immediately blend into milk mixture in double boiler. Stirring constantly, cook over simmering water until custard thickens, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and thoroughly blend in softened gelatin. Chill until thickened.

When egg yolk mixture is almost thickened, beat egg whites until frothy. Fold sugar and nutmeg into egg whites, and continue beating until stiff. Fold beaten egg whites and rum extract into gelatin mixture. Beat whipping cream to a medium consistency. Fold into egg mixture. Pile eggnog filling over cranberry layer in pastry shell. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours.

MUSHROOMBERRY SAUCE

Serves 6
1 can (10½ oz.) beef gravy
2 c. fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 can (6 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
In a saucepan, combine sauce ingredients and simmer for 10 minutes or until cranberries are tender. Serve sauce with hens, or game, poultry or meats.

CRANBERRY SAUCE

Yield: 1½ cups
2 c. cranberries
1 c. water
1 c. sugar
¼ tsp. allspice
¼ tsp. cinnamon
Combine cranberries, water, and sugar in a saucepan. Bring to a boil and cook until skins pop, 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in spices. Cool. Spoon sauce into pastry cornucopias and arrange around roast stuffed turkey.

BUTTER PECAN SQUASH CASSEROLE

4 lbs. (4-5 c. cooked) acorn or butternut squash
¼ c. (½ stick) butter
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. ground coriander
1 tbsps. grated onion
½ tsp. crushed rosemary salted pecans, coarsely chopped
Cut squash in half, remove seeds. Place cut side down in a large shallow baking dish. Pour in boiling water to a depth of ¼ inch. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven 30-35 minutes or until tender. Reduce oven temperature to 325 degrees. Scoop out squash into a large mixing bowl and beat until smooth. Beat in butter, onion, salt, rosemary and coriander. Turn into 1½-quart buttered casserole, sprinkle chopped pecans around edge and dot with butter. Return to oven for 30 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Makes 10-12 servings.

OYSTER STUFFING

¾ c. regular margarine or butter
1 can (8 oz., 1 c.) oysters, drained, cut into small pieces
½ c. finely chopped onions
½ c. finely chopped green pepper
1 pkg. (7 oz., 7 c.) herb seasoned croutons
2 c. coarsely crumbled corn bread
1 tsp. poultry seasoning
3 c. chicken broth or water
1. Melt margarine in medium-size frypan over medium heat. Add onions, celery and green pepper. Cook until vegetables are tender but not browned, stirring frequently. Stir in oysters.
2. In large mixing bowl, mix together croutons, corn bread, poultry seasoning and oyster mixture. While tossing gently, add chicken broth. Spread evenly in 13x9x2-inch baking dish, pressing lightly.

National Secretaries luncheon

Many aspects to emotional maturity discussed

The capacity to accept reality depends on how well you learned to accept frustration as a child, said a noted psychiatrist here.

"Emotional Maturity" was the theme of the talk given by Dr. Maurice Watts, clinical director of the State Hospital, at a noon luncheon for the National Secretaries Association Wednesday.

Emotional maturity is only one of the many aspects of complete maturity in an individual, Watts first stated. "We see people who might be mature in one area and not in another."

Dr. Watts cited classic examples such as the intellectual genius who is a 'social idiot,' leaders in business who fail as fathers or efficient housewives who are unable to make love. "These are paradoxes of emotional maturity," he stated.

Watts gave seven criteria for the emotionally mature person. Included are the ability to function under difficulty, the capacity to change, the ability to handle tension and anxiety, the ability to get satisfaction out of giving rather than receiving, capacity to get along with others and capacity to handle guilt and hate feelings.

Children, said Watts, have a fantasy world to fall back on when the going gets rough and it's considered normal. But if an adult begins to resort to this during difficult times, "we begin to think in terms of illness."

One of the best escape methods people have found is to go to sleep, Watts said. Many people contrive illness to avoid responsibility. Still others, instead of retreating, will jump into a situation and fight. "We don't really solve anything by fighting. This has been the basis for many wars and crimes."

"As adults, we must say, 'I want what I want when it's feasible to get it,' not 'I want what I want no matter what,'" Watts added.

The capacity for change also plays a big part in emotional maturity. "Many of us are quite rigid, but the more we have the capacity to go along with situations that arise, the more mature we are. We need the capacity to grow in any situation," Watts said.

"One great handicap children face is having parents that cannot change. Or those (parents) who bend over backwards and give too much. This doesn't mean that we are really adapting either. As parents, there's a great responsibility to realize that our children's world is new to us and that we must have the capacity to change with it."

The old attitude of "I'm going to pick up my marbles and go home" won't work in adults. These are the people, he said, who simply cannot adapt to new situations.

Concerning tension and anxiety, Watts surmised that perhaps only five per cent of those who complain of aching backs actually have anything organically wrong with them. The other 95 per cent of back aches are brought on by tension.

"Tension can produce a type of aggression where individuals become hard to get along with. A variation is the person who becomes passive," Watts said.

"Passive aggression is far more difficult to cope with. We used to call passive people 'God sakers' because they were always saying, 'for God's sake do something,' but never do anything themselves."

Watts defined rationalization as "something you tell yourself to allow you to do something that you're going to do anyway."

One mental hygiene practice is to find a mission for the common good so large that you cannot possibly finish alone. As far as getting along with other people there continues to be a lot of scapegoating, with hurting and bickering. "Emotionally mature people operate by wanting to make other people happy."

It's been said that all basis of mental illness is hate," Watts stated. "All of us have basic instincts toward hate. But as we grow, we should learn to control it."

Finally, said Watts, we need to learn to love. The lack of love plays a big part in the make-up of the people who reside at the State Hospital here and other hospitals like it. "Anytime one deals with emotional illness, they are dealing with a lack of love."

Clubhouse

Harvest sale set Saturday

Cactus Chapter of ABWA is having their annual Harvest Sale, Saturday November 20, from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. in Highland Mall. Handmade crafts, homemade and home baked goods for Thanksgiving and Christmas gifts. Also, the drawing for 1/2 beef will be at 6:15 that evening.

Christmas party set

The Pride of the West Friendship Club conducted its annual Thanksgiving dinner Friday at noon in the home of Mrs. Ina Hamlin.

Mrs. C.A. Smailey and Mrs. Frank Wilson were hostesses.

Mrs. A.W. Moody gave the invocation. The table was laid with white linen and centered with a hand decorated horn of plenty filled with fruits, and surrounded with autumn leaves and miniature turkeys. Plate favors were miniature corsages made from ears of corn.

Committee reports were given during the business meeting.

The Christmas meeting is slated for 2 p.m. Dec. 9 in the home of Mrs. John Jackson, Vealmoor. Mrs. L.A. Griffith, Mrs. Tip Anderson Sr. and Mrs. Hamlin will serve as co-hostesses.

Each member is to bring gift not exceeding $2.50 for exchange.

Desk, Derrick club convenes

Big Spring Desk & Derrick Club members, meeting Monday evening in the home of Marguerite Cooper, elected officers for 1977.

Mrs. W.E. Barnett is the president-elect. Serving with her will be Mrs. Kaye McDaniel, vice president; Miss Cooper, recording secretary; Mrs. Weldon Boggus, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Dory Hefner, treasurer. They will be installed at the Christmas party, December 13 in the home of Mrs. R.C. McDaniel.

In an informal program discussion led by Mrs. Leon Kinney, the group looked briefly at prospects facing the oil industry. Among these is the urgent need for national priority to reducing U.S. dependence on foreign energy sources. In mid-December, it was pointed out, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) will meet, to decide at that time upon a possible price hike for world oil.

Mrs. John Rains, president, conducted a business session.

Mrs. Francis Plowman was co-hostess for the meeting.

Own fertilizer is important

The Rosebud How to Grow Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. Curtis L. Beaird on Nov. 16 at 9:30 a.m. The program was given by Bruce Griffith, Howard County Home Extension Agent.

Mr. Griffith discussed a fertility program which he said is essential to a fruitful garden. One should have a proper balance of adapted fertility to one's respective climate. He recommended a soil test to determine the proper balance of nitrogen, potassium, and phosphorus. Mr. Griffith commented that, "Too much fertilizer is as bad as not enough."

Mr. Griffith suggested that one make his own fertilizer. He said to make a compost container, either a hole, bin or bag. The materials used to compose a compost mixture should be mixed together for six months or longer. Benefits of the compost are nitrogen and the physical quality of your soil which contribute to a rich and flexible compost mixture.

Mr. Griffith also discussed cultural practices such as good tillage of soil, which should be loose and pliable in addition to good irrigation practices. Water every ten days or two weeks completely. It is recommended to water in depth thoroughly once every two weeks rather than light surface watering every other day.

The next meeting of the Rosebud How to Grow Garden Club will be on Dec. 7 at 10:00 a.m. at the Big Spring Country Club. The program is entitled, "Roses in the Garden" to be given by Mrs. O.S. Womack followed by a Christmas luncheon.

Thanksgiving luncheon

The City Home Demonstration Club held its annual Thanksgiving luncheon in the home of Mrs. Frances Zant Friday.

Mrs. Waymon Etchison and Mrs. T.M. Dunagan served as co-hostesses.

A Thanksgiving motif was carried out on all tables. The tables were covered with floral tablecloths of orange, brown and yellow. Cornucopias filled with dried foliage of orange and brown were centerpiece. Mrs. Granville Dawson made small Pilgrim hats as favors.

Mrs. Marvin Sewell gave the invocation.

Mrs. Etchison presided at the business meeting. Guests introduced were Mrs. Miller Harris, Mrs. Floyd Earl and Miss Janet Sargent, county extension agent. Members answered roll call by naming their favorite kitchen gadget.

Mrs. A.L. Lancaster announced that the City Club will be responsible for refreshments for the Council Christmas party on Dec. 14 at the Kentwood center. It was also announced that an "Estate Planning Meeting" is slated Dec. 13. Gary Condray of the A&M Extension Service will be the speaker.

Mrs. Merle Hodnett and Mrs. C.F. Dohoney attended a leader training meeting on "meat alternates" in the agent's office Nov. 15, it was announced.

The club members made a monetary gift to the State Hospital Christmas gift fund. Mrs. Dohoney won the hostess gift. The club Christmas party was planned for 2 p.m. Dec. 10 in the home of Mrs. Dawson. A Christmas tree with an exchange of gifts is planned for the meeting.

(His) self-control is on his mind

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the woman who kicked her 24-year-old brother-in-law out of the house because she didn't want to leave him alone in the house with the 18-year-old sister prompts this letter.

When our children were small many years ago, my husband and I had sitters occasionally, and no matter what time we came home my husband made ME drive the sitter home while he stayed with the kids. He always said, "No young punk with hot pants will ever have the chance to say that I made a pass at her!"

Abby, maybe I was dumb, but the thought that one of our sitters would unjustly accuse my husband of such a thing never even entered my mind. Nevertheless, he refused to drive a sitter home. But the fact that I, his wife, was driving alone after midnight didn't seem to bother him. How do you figure it?

STILL ANGRY

DEAR STILL: I can't say what was in the minds of these sitters, but it's obvious what was on your husband's mind.

DEAR ABBY: I see in your column that readers are submitting names for couples who are shacking up together. Well, you can quit searching. I have the perfect name. "Newlybeds."

JACK DENTON

DEAR JACK: "Friends" is still my choice, unless the Quakers object to being confused with those who are feeling their oats.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, Nell, who lives 200 miles from here, was divorced last year. She has a 4-year-old son, Terry, whom I love very much. Nell used to call me on the phone and tell me (not ask me) to meet Terry at the bus and keep him for the weekend. Naturally I always did.

Last week when Nell called to tell me to meet Terry at the bus, I told her I couldn't do it as I had made plans to go away for the weekend myself. I could tell she was irritated. Well, yesterday she sent me a telegram telling me to meet Terry at the bus again! I tried phoning her to inform her that I was going away again, but I couldn't reach her. Now I'm stuck.

How can I get out of being a weekend sitter for my grandchild when it's not convenient? With her sending telegrams and not answering her phone, I'm over a barrel.

BOILING IN LA JOLLA

DEAR BOILING: Tell your daughter that she is NOT to send any more telegrams instructing you to meet her child at the bus. And furthermore, she should phone you and give you a fighting chance, or she'll lose her free sitting service permanently.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

The 'worst' 9-1 team in the NFL

Pike march to Super dreary?

Editor's Note: Like the bully on the beach, the winning Dallas Cowboys aren't impressing anybody. "They're kicking sand in the face of 90-pound weaklings," is the prevailing opinion after struggling success against the New York Giants and Buffalo Bills.

Dallas' 9-1 record draws jokes that the Cowboys are the "worst" 9-1 team in the National Football League. Are the Cowboys on the verge of a massive sinking spell? Are they just a paper Super Bowl contender. Here's an analysis by Southwestern Sports Editor Dennis Freeman, who has covered every Cowboy home game since 1967.

By DENNIS H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — A blue and white sign over the door leading to the Dallas Cowboy practice field says "The Winner Never Stops Proving It."

The Dallas Cowboys have proved they are a winner for the 11th consecutive National Football League season but as middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan puts it: "At times we've been underwhelming!"

The silence after Monday night's 17-10 victory over hapless Buffalo finally got to quarterback Roger Staubach.

"It's like a wake around here," he said to nobody in particular.

The Dallas Cowboys are 9-1, lead the National Conference Eastern Division by a full game over St. Louis, and have virtually clinched a wild card playoff berth.

But after Monday night's victory they were greeted by such local headlines as "A near miss now, but big trouble then?" or "Cowboys go marching on—worriedly."

The Cowboys are in the "soft" part of their schedule. They've played the New York Giants, Buffalo and get Atlanta this Sunday. So why aren't they rolling?

"It's hard to get up for teams who aren't winning," says Dallas headmaster Tom Landry. "The most important part of our drive to the Super Bowl last year was when we beat Los Angeles and St. Louis back-to-back. That made our season.

"That's why I can't judge the team yet this year. Right now we are playing defense as good as any team in the National Football League with the exception of Pittsburgh. We're having that's my fault and I think we can correct that. We thought we were ready the last two weeks but we weren't. That can be fixed."

Landry has shaken up his offense, naming tailback Preston Pearson and fullback Scott Laidlaw as his permanent starters. Regular fullback Robert Newhouse has been having a sub-par season because of a groin injury.

In fact, the entire Cowboy rushing game has reached the embarrassing level. The team is averaging only 2.5 yards per rush in its last three games. Dallas has spiraled from first in rushing to sixth in the National Conference.

"We had an ironic situation against Buffalo," says Landry. "They were crowding us at the line of scrimmage. We had it set up to go long to Golden Richards should they blitz us like that. Then Golden gets hurt and we have to put a rookie, Beasley Reece, in there."

"Beasley got mixed up on some of his patterns. Roger thought he was going to run past patterns and, instead, he ran streaks. The blitz was coming so fast that Roger had to throw to the spot."

LOOKING FOR A HOLE — Doug Dennison, 21, of Dallas, looks for a hole in the line as teammate Blaine Nye, 61, prepares to block Ken Houston, 27, of Washington, during game in Washington Sunday. The Cowboys won, 20-7.

Now, when Roger throws to a spot on the other side, he knows Doug Pearson will be there. That's the experience working for you."

Buffalo's O.J. Simpson took note of the fact that the Cowboy ground game doesn't have the punch to get out of the playoffs.

"Dallas is tough, but they don't have the offense to go back to the Super Bowl," said Simpson. "Their defense is good enough."

Veteran Cowboy running back Preston Pearson said, "This team has all the talent in the world but it has to play to its potential."

The Cowboys are well aware that what happened to Pittsburgh when the Super Bowl champions suffered lack of intensity and lost four games early in the season.

In fact, Landry gave the team a tongue-lashing two weeks ago. Complacency was one of the themes.

"We had trouble early in the year but I believe we are on the verge of getting where we want to be," says defensive end Harvey Martin. "We're getting the sacks now. The offense just has to get it together."

Staubach, who has been bothered by such ailments as the flu and a broken little finger, says "We know what we have to do. We'll be OK."

Landry says the encouraging note is that the Cowboys have been winning while playing poorly.

"I remember last year when we didn't play well and lost three or four games," says Landry.

In fact, that's been the history of the team—to start fast from the gate, slump in the middle and come on strong at the end.

The only change is that the Cowboys have been winning during their "slump" this year.

St. Louis, the only team to beat the Cowboys, comes calling Thanksgiving Day.

"That game decides the season, anyway," says Landry—without alarm. "I'm not overly concerned. Of course, I don't get concerned easily."

The only thing that really concerns Landry is losing. And his team has never been 9-1 before.

"Writers just don't have anything to write about when we're winning," he smiles when asked if he does, indeed, coach the "worst" 9-1 team in the NFL. "You guys never appreciate good records."

The paper Cowboys? Hardly.

Lots Of Work

with Marj Carpenter

Would like to say a few words in behalf of "The Sound of Music".

A musical like the high school choir department puts on here each fall takes hours and hours of work. They don't just run up there a couple of nights before the program and run through the songs.

Friday and Saturday night will feature performances of "The Sound of Music". This is a familiar musical to most persons who probably saw the great movie a few years back.

Or if you've been really lucky, maybe you saw the musical on Broadway. Now, the locals aren't going to claim to be as professional as either of those but they plan to put on a good show. And they will.

They even called on a couple younger children, less than high school age, to participate as younger members of the family in the story.

That is really a lot of fun for the younger members of the cast. I remember that when I was in the fourth grade, my teacher selected me, one other girl and one boy to play the parts of orphans in a production called "Daddy Long Legs" which was given by the high school Little Theatre.

It's strange. I've forgotten the details of productions or musicals that I've been in since that time, but the practices and the play "Daddy Long Legs" remains firm in my memory.

There was one scene where I was to climb up on a stool and put up dishes and drop a cup and break it. I never had so much fun. I dropped cups and dropped cups, and half the time they'd bounce around on the floor and fail to break. The director got upset with me and I took to throwing that cup down and sometimes it still wouldn't break.

I had to break the cup so that the orphanage matron could shake me in the next scene. Finally, we broke a cup and glued it back together lightly. That way it would easily shatter.

I remember the final dress rehearsal when the director gave the three kids involved a candy cane and said, "They did good and they can go home. The rest of you stay and rehearse it again."

So I know how many hours the younger members of the cast, Brenda Shirey and Ginger Brooks are putting into the effort. Cynthia Pierra looks like a kid, but she's a charming senior.

I have another reason for having a weak spot for "The Sound of Music." Years ago, my three children and I were at Breckenridge Park in San Antonio and found out they were having a live production of "The Sound of Music".

Wall senior seeks crown

Miss Regina Nelle Arons of San Angelo will represent 18 counties in this area at the Texas Farm Bureau Queen Contest Dec. 6 at the Tarrant County Convention Center in Fort Worth.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charley G. Arons, Regina will compete with 11 other district winners for the state crown. She is the reigning Tom Green County and District 6 Farm Bureau Queen.

Selection of the 1976 queen is one of the activities scheduled for Texas Farm Bureau's 43rd annual convention. The state winner will receive expenses for herself and a matron escort to attend the American Farm Bureau Federation convention to be held in Hawaii January 9-12.

Miss Arons is a 17-year-old senior at Wall High School. She is head-drill leader, reporter for the student council, and on the yearbook staff.

The young beauty is a certified judge of women's gymnastics, but is also an active competitor in gymnastics. She teaches dancing, has won awards in 4-H sewing and cooking competition, and has placed in district UIL competition in poetry reading.

Her hobbies include trampolining, tennis, fishing, hunting, swimming, and horseback riding. Miss Arons also makes all her own clothes. Her plans for the future include modeling school after high school graduation.

THE WEDDING SCENE

... from "The Sound of Music"

Music" at the Sunken Gardens. We went to the event.

And had a wonderful time. The girls and I sent Jim Bob, who was ten, off with money in his hand to find us some refreshments. He came back with hot tamales and we all got tickled. But those were the best hot tamales and that was the best musical. It was a wonderful evening.

when they were traveling through Switzerland together, they purchased and brought back a music box that plays "Edelweiss", one of the lovely numbers in the musical. It's one of my favorite belongings.

They don't serve hot tamales, but I'll bet the Big The girls remembered how much fun we all had that evening and years later

Spring Choral Department serves up a good version of "The Sound of Music" here Friday and Saturday nights. I plan to see Saturday's version when I'm through ridin' fence this week.

She takes care of 'old people'

CLEVELAND (AP) — When 79-year-old Winifred D. Koch finished raising 17 children, she began to get lonely. So, "I started raising old people," she says.

Mrs. Koch raised six children of her own and 11 of her late husband's by a previous marriage. She then accepted youngsters for brief periods from an orphanage.

Now she is vice president of the Full Time Club for the elderly in the Cleveland suburb of North Olmsted, where she lives.

She also helps take care of her grandchildren — "I think there are 48," she said, "I quit counting." Mrs. Koch said she has "just a few" great-grandchildren. Sixteen.

Bicentennial unit will show here

In a Department of Defense effort to bring the American Revolution Bicentennial closer to the people of the United States, four Armed Forces Bicentennial Caravans are touring the nation this year and will be at Highland Shopping Center Dec. 6 and 7. There will be no admission charge.

The country has been divided into four geographical regions, similar to the National Standard Time Zones, and one Operating Location has been set up in each region. The Operating Locations are situated at Sacramento, California; Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Dayton, Ohio; and Washington, D.C.

The joint service staff of Operating Location Three, at Tinker Air Force Base, Oklahoma, has the responsibility of programming, coordinating, scheduling and conducting a six-vehicle caravan tour throughout the states of Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Texas and Wyoming, during the 18-month celebration period.

Using a variety of audiovisual techniques, the mobile museums represent the four major military services, and graphically illustrate the Bicentennial theme — "The History of the Armed Services and Their Contributions to the Nation."

The vans depict not only contributions each service has made toward the freedom we enjoy today, but also contributions the services have made to the civilian community. These include such areas as technology, economics, education, environment and social services.

King charged with theft

COLORADO CITY — Roy D. King, 27, Sweetwater, is in the Nolan County jail charged with felony theft. He is under a $5,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Thomas Justice.

The arrest was made after Mitchell County Sheriff Bill McGuire along with two Nolan County deputies, Ben Archimedes and Frank Conrad Jr. recovered about $1,000 worth of stolen merchandise from a house in the south side of Colorado City.

The assortment included rifles, shotguns and a color television set. Sheriff McGuire said the arrest of the man may clear up several burglaries in Colorado City, Mitchell County and Nolan County.

Area mothers of multiples are invited

The Odessa Mothers of Multiples will have their next regular meeting from 7:30 to 9 p.m., Monday, Nov. 29, in the Texas Electric Reddy Room in Odessa.

All area mothers of twins, triplets or other multiple births are welcome to attend. Expectant mothers of multiples are also eligible to be on hand.

Fed 'watchdog' admits mistakes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A watchdog account for the federal government says Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. needs no more than $29 million in additional annual revenue to earn a 7.62 per cent rate of return on its investment of $3.9 billion in Texas.

But Bell attorneys said accountant Woodrow Dooley later revised his figures during a break in the Public Utilities Commission hearing on Bell's rate increase request and acknowledged some mistakes during subsequent cross examination.

Bell is asking the Public Utilities Commission for $298 million in rate increases.

Accountant Dooley said Wednesday the 7.62 per cent rate of return is the midpoint of the range recommended by Mark Langsam of the General Services Commission.

Dooley also testified that Bell's end-of-period financial adjustment "understates revenues and overstates expenses."

According to Bell attorney Jon D. Lawrence, Dooley later said he had understated the telephone company's expenses by $40 million and had failed to include in an income tax calculation $72 million in additional revenue and $32 million in expenses.

Dooley testified that he was abandoning his previous testimony, according to Lawrence.

Lawrence said his accountants refigured the calculations using Dooley's method and came up with a $113 million recommendation instead of the original $29 million recommended by the GSA.

Dooley said he is a staff accountant with the Regulatory Law Office, Office of the Judge Advocate General, Department of the Army.

He added that he testifies before utility commissions interests of the federal "to protect the consumer government."

Diabetes third leading cause of death in U.S.

Around 600 people in Big Spring have diabetes and are not yet aware of it. This estimate is based on statistics disclosed by the National Commission on Diabetes in its report to Congress last December.

Diabetes is now recognized as the third leading cause of death in the U.S. but most people are unaware of its seriousness or of its warning signs. Recognition of the warning signs is particularly important because early diagnosis and good control with diet and medication (usually insulin) can often postpone the serious complications of the disease.

the more severe form of the disease, usually strikes adolescents and young adults and is characterized by the sudden appearance of constant urination, abnormal thirst, unusual hunger, the rapid loss of weight, irritability, obvious weakness and fatigue and nausea and vomiting.

It is especially important for parents to be able to recognize these signs because they appear suddenly and a child can go into a diabetic coma just days or even hours after the symptoms first appear.

Adult-onset diabetes is milder and more gradual in its appearance. As a result it can go undetected for years while it causes its damage to the system. It usually occurs between the ages of 35 and 60 and the most common signs are drowsiness, itching, a family history of diabetes, blurred vision, excessive weight, tingling, numbness, pain in extremities, easy fatigue, skin infections and slow healing of cuts.

The American Diabetes Association recommends an immediate visit to your doctor if any of these symptoms should appear. People in the high risk groups—overweight, over 40 or with a family history of diabetes—should be tested for diabetes at least once a year.

Little knowledge could save someone you love

George had just been promoted. So the family celebrated with a big dinner.

George had just taken a bite. His brother told a joke. George laughed. Everybody else laughed, too. Nobody noticed at first when George stopped laughing. Four minutes later, George was dead, choked to death on food.

Because nobody in his family knew a simple, easily performed technique that would have saved George's life.

It's called the Heimlich Maneuver, named for the doctor who devised the technique, and it has saved countless lives. So new, however, is this knowledge that too few people have learned it.

But now the world's largest chain of seafood restaurants, Long John Silver's, Inc., has taken up the task of educating everyone who will listen in the Heimlich Maneuver.

The company has devoted extensive manhours and much money in producing printed materials and educational films about the Heimlich Maneuver. Key executive personnel have been designated to promote and distribute this public service educational program.

With the permission and blessing of Dr. Henry Heimlich, a renowned thoracic authority who invented this revolutionary procedure, Long John Silver's is carrying this educational service to schools, by donating all materials for teaching in health and first aid classes.

Speakers, armed with films and materials, are available for civic group meetings at no charge.

Sankey brothers bounce to wins

DENVER, Colo. — A host of top professional cowboys who have qualified for the upcoming National Finals Rodeo competed at the American Royal rodeo in Kansas City, Mo., which ended Sunday.

The rodeo paid winners more than $30,500, and in nearly every event, the richest checks went to 1976 Finalists.

The Sankey brothers, Lyle and Ike, of Rose Hill, Kan., won first overall in saddle bronc riding and bareback bronc riding respectively. Lyle emerged in saddle bronc with 205 points scored on three rides, and won $1,052. Ike took the bareback contest with 217 on three, winning $1,370. Both will compete in their events at the Finals, Dec. 3-11.

Rick Bradley of Burkburnett, Tex., who has qualified for his first Finals in steer wrestling, won first in the Kansas City event average for $2,307. Bradley also took first in two of the three go-rounds, and had a total time of 13.5 seconds on all three.

In calf roping, 1973 world champion Ernie Taylor of Hugo, Okla., split first and second in the average payoff with Edd Workman of Mineral Wells, Tex., who is destined for his first Finals in the event this year. Taylor won $1,224; Workman won $1,338 over the three go-rounds. Both roped three calves in 29.9 seconds.

In bull riding, Butch Kirby of Alba, Tex., won first with 148 points on two rides, good for $1,000.

The rodeo earnings from Kansas City will count on 1977 PRCA standings.

Division Leaders:

SADDLE BRONC RIDING — Monte Henson, Mesquite, Tex., $34,283.

BAREBACK BRONC RIDING — Joe Alexander, Cora, Wyo., $48,156.

BULL RIDING — Don Gay, Mesquite, Tex., $33,316.

CALF ROPING — Roy Cooper, Durant, Okla., $37,370.

STEER WRESTLING — Tom Ferguson, Miami, Okla., $48,554.

Iranian students returning home

RAMSAR, Iran (AP) — Unemployment in the United States and Europe and Iran's booming oil economy are luring back many of the Iranian students who went abroad to study and refused to come home.

At present, a majority of the approximately 137 student pilots training at Webb Air Force Base are from Iran. However, because they are under direct influence of the Shah, the student pilots are not among those who don't return.

Some of these stay-away students formed the nucleus of dissident groups abroad opposing the government of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and staging noisy demonstrations and at times violent attacks on Iranian diplomats and embassies.

Some of the "truant" students, as Iranian officials call them, claim the Shah is running a police state, stamping out dissent and curtailing personal freedoms.

"We will have a brain gain instead of a brain drain," insisted Abdol Hossein Sami, minister for science and higher education, who came to this Caspian Sea resort to attend Iran's annual education conference. "Unemployment and inflation abroad and more job opportunities and better living conditions in our exploding economy are calling them home. There has been a 40 per cent increase in returning students, some of them gone for more than 20 years."

Iran's worldwide truants, students who refuse to come home, have been a source of personal embarrassment to the Shah.

Demonstrating Iranian students are frequently on hand whenever a government minister or the Shah himself visits a foreign capital. Slogans like "Down with the Fascist Shah" and "Release 40,000 Political Prisoners" are scrawled in Farsi, the Persian language, on the subway stations of London, Paris and Brussels. Iranian students demonstrators have occupied embassies and consulates in Stockholm, Bonn, Amsterdam and Berne. An Iranian diplomat was beaten up in Rome.

The sorry state of higher education in Iran, with only 30,000 places for 300,000 applicants and many of the best teachers leaving for higher paying jobs in the industrial boom, drives students in droves to the U.S. Consulate in Tehran.

Tests passed by Hilario

Navy Seaman Apprentice Eliseo R. Hilario, son of Mr. Eliseo Hilario Sr. of 411 N.E. Ninth, Big Spring, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Among the subjects he studied, were seamanship, close order drill, naval history and first aid. A 1976 graduate of Lamar Senior High School, he joined the Navy in June 1976.

L. D. BARRETT

Technical training

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Lavoy D. Barrett, son of retired Air Force MSGT. and Mrs. Joe H. Barrett of 199B Hunter, Big Spring, has been selected for technical training at Chanute AFB, Ill., in the Air Force survival equipment field.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., and studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Barrett graduated in 1975 from high school in the Philippines.

Captain gets Florida duty

DAYTON, Ohio — Capt. Raymond A. Malinovsky, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Malinovsky of R. 715 Cypress Ave., Johnston, Pa., has received his master's degree at the Technology Institute of Technology.

Located at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, AFIT provides accredited graduate-level resident education for selected Air Force members in scientific, technological and other fields.

Capt. Malinovsky, who majored in civil engineering, is being assigned to Hurlburt Field, Fla., for duty as a civil engineer with a unit of the Tactical Air Command.

A 1965 graduate of Johnston Central Senior High School, the captain received his bachelor's degree and commission in 1969 upon graduation from the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

His wife, Gloria, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ballou of 2501 Carol Drive, Big Spring.

There they wait all night on line for a visa, sleeping on the sidewalk and battling to get to the windows. Ambassador Richard Helms had the student visa operation moved to a garage on the embassy compound to control the sidewalk scenes.

"This is America's biggest visa operation," said Vice Consul Mary Ginn Kennedy. "On an average day we see 200 people; by the end of the crush this month we will have issued about 11,000 visas." She paused to lecture a desperate student who had altered his grades to show he had attained the minimum 13 academic points out of 20.

"We do not accept fraudulent documents," she told him. "You have changed your grades, and I don't care how long you have waited, we cannot give you a visa."

Other embassy officials are convinced there is fraud going on, too, at the opposite end of the application blank. "We are investigating several third rate American schools, hungry for foreign applicants, who hire local agents to solicit well-off Iranian students. They send over stacks of blank I-20 forms, which are supposed to indicate acceptance of students whose marks they haven't even seen," said an embassy man who declined use of his name pending the completion of the investigation. He called it "a racket."

DARLA JOHNSON

She is assigned to Keesler AFB

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Darla R. Johnson, daughter of Arthur R. Johnson of Norwood, Colo., has been assigned to Keesler AFB, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks training at Lackland AFB, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Johnson will now receive specialized training in the administrative field.

The airman is a 1976 graduate of Norwood High School. Her grandmother, Mrs. Lorraine F. Johnson, resides at 710 S. Seventh, Lamesa, Tex.

Capt. Fernald gains medal

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. — The U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal was presented to Capt. Laurence N. Fernald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence S. Fernald of 721 Alameda St. N. St. Petersburg, Fla., in recent ceremonies at Plattsburgh AFB, N.Y.

Capt. Fernald was decorated for meritorious service as an instructor pilot at Ellsworth AFB, S.D.

He now serves as an FB-111 pilot at Plattsburgh, with the 35th Bomb Wing, a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

The captain, a 1964 graduate of Northeast High School, received his B.S. degree in 1969 from Troy (Ala.) State University and was commissioned later that year upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex.

The captain's wife, Barbara, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Adams of 1504 Chickasaw, Big Spring.

Draws duty in Illinois

SAN ANTONIO — Airman William A. Mikie, son of retired Air Force Master Sergeant and Mrs. R. L. Mikie of 978 E. 15th St., Colorado City, has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks training at Lackland AFB, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Mikie will now receive specialized training in the aircraft equipment maintenance field.

The airman is a 1976 graduate of Colorado High School.

Airman Lee earns honors

WICHITA FALLS — Airman First Class Timothy P. Lee, son of Mrs. Wayne A. Thrift of 2608 Prescott, Waycross, Ga., has graduated with honors at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force technical training course for telephone equipment installation repairmen conducted by the Air Training Command.

Airman Lee, who learned to install and repair telephone equipment, is being assigned to Randolph AFB, Tex., for duty with a unit of the Air Force Communications Service. Completion of the course enables the airman to receive academic credits through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Lee's wife, Nora, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alberto Alvarez of 1205 Elm, Colorado City.

Cannoneer hits targets

FT. SILL, OKLA. — Army Pvt. Jesus Rodriguez, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Rodriguez, 810 S. 3rd, Lamesa, recently completed training as a cannoneer under the One Station Unit Training Program at Ft. Sill, Okla.

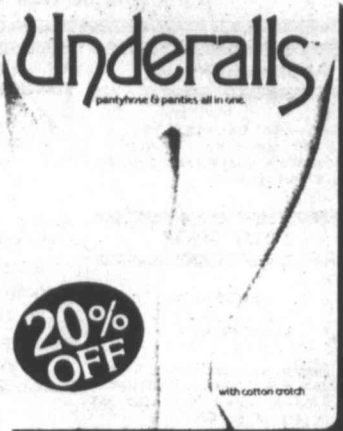

OSUT is a 13-week period which combines basic combat training with advanced individual training.

Students learned the duties of a howitzer of gun section crewman and received instruction in handling ammunition, setting fuses and preparing charges, communications and maintenance. Pvt. Rodriguez is a 1974 graduate of Lamesa High School.
