

Kennedy Plans Informal Session With Macmillan

IN THE WEST WITH KENNEDY (AP)—President Kennedy will meet with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for informal talks during Kennedy's late June trip to Europe. The White House announced today that the two leaders last met in the Bahamas in mid-December. At that time, they developed a joint plan, now the subject of much discussion, to strengthen the North Atlantic Treaty Organization with a multinational anti-air force that would include the United States, Britain, France, Germany, Italy, and the Netherlands.

Macmillan, according to diplomatic authorities in London, accepted Macmillan's invitation to make a brief stopover after concluding his visit to the United States. Kennedy was to see the Navy's climatic display at the China Lake, Calif., testing station after flying there from the attack carrier Kitty Hawk via the Point Magu, Calif., missile base.

After that, the next stop on Kennedy's five-day, five-state tour was Los Angeles and a lunch dinner party tonight for the Democratic party contributing to the $1,000 class.

Saturday Kennedy will drop in at a breakfast for Lady Democrats in Los Angeles before flying to Honolulu to cap his fast-moving tour with a civil rights address at a conference of American mayors.

The President spent Thursday night aboard the 80,000-ton Kitty Hawk, craning slowly northward along the California coast at the center of an incessant flurry of activity.

read a statement which began: "It is of some six months since they last met and there are a number of problems they can usefully discuss."

Macmillan and Kennedy will confer in Sussex.

Dewey said in an interview that he considers Rockefeller the logical nominee to oppose President Kennedy in the election next year.

Dewey was supported by more than 2,000 Republicans as he sought Rockefeller and his wife, Mary, from their honeymoon and wished them "long lives, great happiness and success for many years."

Dewey extended these greetings to the Rockefeller family at the annual $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner Thursday at the state GOP.

Rockefeller is a potential candidate for the 1964 Republican nomination for president next year. There has been extensive discussion over whether his recent remarriage has diminished his prospects of winning the nomination.

7 Negroes Arrested In North Carolina

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Seven young Negroes were arrested here today on charges in the aftermath of a race riot Thursday night that left one white man dead and a newspaper photographer wounded by gunfire.

Lexington city officials went into conference to make plans to check off similar outbreaks of violence in this racially tense furniture manufacturing town of 18,000 in Piedmont North Carolina.

Police gave this rundown of the youths arrested:

Charles Poole, 16, Robert Neal Hairston, 18, Sonny Calhoun, 17, Larry Wayne Winston, 16, William Chester Johnson, 18, Joe Poole, 19, and Tolkesell Smith, 22, all of Lexington.

Officials said that Hairston had a home made "zip gun" in his possession when arrested. Winston, officers added, had a single lead shotgun with him and Johnson was carrying a .22 caliber sawed off rifle.

Violence erupted Thursday night on the heels of attempts by Negroes to gain service at segregated cafes, a theater and a bowling alley in the downtown area.

A mob of about 2,000 white men gathered on one side of a street bordering the Negro section of the city of 18,000.

About 160 Negroes assembled on the other side of the street.

Police said the two groups threw rocks, bottles and sticks at each other. Some of the bottles were filled with gasoline.

A Negro girl was struck in the head by a rock. Police cars were pelted with rocks and bottles. Windows were broken in a nearby Negro church.

Queen Is Spared Tedious Session

By RAYMOND E. PALMER LONDON (AP)—John Profumo, British war minister who resigned after admitting an affair with a red-haired party girl, today begged off from a traditional final audience with Queen Elizabeth II.

The queen agreed and this was removed from involvement in the political storm swirling around Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative government. The palace decision to receive Profumo had drawn strong criticism in Parliament.

Referring ministers traditionally report to the queen at Buckingham Palace and hand over their seals of office. Profumo's lawyer announced he had begged leave to be excused and has been told that this request has been granted.

Profumo, 48, quit his post Wednesday. He admitted he had lied to the House of Commons in an attempt to cover up an improper relationship with Christine Keeler, 22, who carried on an affair simultaneously with a Soviet naval attaché stationed in London.

In a copyright interview in the Daily Express, Miss Keeler said she was Profumo once or twice a week for several months in 1961, when she was 19 and he was 46.

Miss Keeler, termed a "catfish" in parliamentary debate, watched in Old Bailey Court as a jury convicted Algis Girdis, a Negro

Market Outlook For Cotton Still Bleak

By OVID A. MARTIN WASHINGTON (AP)—The market for U.S. cotton still deteriorates with serious economic implications for the entire industry.

The outlook is dark because of domestic cotton acreage and farm legislation to help cure what is the one-time king of the world export market, overpricing in relation to its competitors.

An Agriculture Department report today made another reduction in estimates of cotton to be sold in markets during the marketing year ending July 31.

Surplus stocks in government hands this year will increase.

This means cotton acreage under a government control program will have to be held at lower levels for several years. Further, this means that land which normally would be used to grow cotton will be used to produce other crops, some of which themselves are in surplus.

The cause of this is the fact that U.S. cotton is priced too high in relation to competing crops, which are sold in "other" parts of the world. Cotton's price is determined by an agriculture department price support program.

Last fall, the department predicted that the cotton harvest would be sold during the current marketing year. But as the season moved along, the agency began reducing the estimate. Cotton was not selling as readily as had been expected.

Meat Thermometer
Meat authorities agree that a meat thermometer is the most accurate means of testing the "doneness" of roasts. To use the thermometer properly, insert it into the raw meat so the bulb reaches the thickest part of the lean meat and does not rest in the fat or the near a bone. When the desired internal temperature is registered, push the thermometer a little deeper into the meat. If the temperature drops, you know that more cooking is needed.

Terms Often Confuse Furniture Shoppers

Two terms used by furniture salesmen cause shoppers much confusion. They are "solid furniture" and "veneer furniture."

Which is better, is the constant query. Well informed salesmen, and most are, readily answer: both are good. Any difference depends on the quality or grade of furniture. This can be judged somewhat though not entirely by the price.

"Veneer furniture is cheap," grandmothers have told their daughters, until this generation of housewives faced with choosing new furniture, is skeptical of correct information. To add to the confusion, the shopper today hears terms as much during bed-room and other wood furniture as made by the veneer method as is made of "solid wood."

Researching the reason veneer furniture had a poor reputation at the beginning of this century is that the glue adhesives and heat and pressure techniques used today were not then known," points out Virginia Reagan.

Penn State's last losing football season came in 1933 when the Nittany Lion had a 3-4 record.

Small Storage Pieces Accent Living Room

Cabinets and chests, small in size and just what the cabinet-maker's art are finding, useful pieces in living rooms these days. They replace large tables, because a central point of a seating group.

Italian, Spanish, and French antiques from the late 18th and 19th centuries were the prototype.

The style of these small pieces in the way of contemporary design is very different, however, and is characterized by a combination of rich, colorful and figured hardwood veneers.

Matched veneers create graceful abstract designs on door and drawer fronts. One high fashion, however, was favored for its home use. Matching or contrasting cabinet grade plywood makes the accent convex-concave in a graceful, convex-concave line of the adaptation possible of less than antique cost. Highlighted mahogany, darling wood of the 19th Century is the face veneer.

One elegant little cedar chest to delight moderns is covered completely with elm burl. This veneer is so rare it is usually only seen as trimming the most muted and swirled texture of creamy-brown tones made more dramatic by the accent of the striped brass escutcheon, to mark it for a distinguished room.

GIVE A MAN A HORSE HE CAN RIDE--

Sound Of Building Boom Is Sweet Music To Spaniards

BY INEZ ROBB
MADRID — The visiting fireman doesn't even have to stick his head out of a window in Spain to discover one of the primary reasons that the Spanish economy, at long last, is off dead-center and moving up, up, up.

I defy anyone to close a window sufficiently tight in Spain or Mallorca to keep out the hurricaning sounds of the hammer and the electric drill. Certainly, I get up with them in the morning and I have a persecuted feeling that they follow me to bed at night.

But the sound of the first big building boom in his memory is sweet music to the Spaniard. In 1962 new industrial plants increased by a fat 20 percent, and equipment for such plants by an equal percentage.

Some indication of the nation's industrial expansion is seen in the 80 percent increase in Spanish imports of machinery in '62 over '61. In the meantime, the domestic manufacture of machinery is sharply on the increase.

As one who has been here four times in the past 10 years, I do not have, in the field of the tremendous increase in housing, much of it subsidized, low income housing. The evidence is all around me. Housing developments in town and on the edge of the city are marked not only in Madrid but in Spain's other cities.

But housing was so badly needed that building has not yet caught up with demand in large urban centers. Just as in 1953, many young couples cannot marry unless they can arrange to live with either the bride's or the bridegroom's parents.

There has also been a corresponding expansion in the construction of irrigation projects and power plants throughout the country. Mechanization is even beginning to make some headway in Spain's agricultural areas, although the human back and Spain's all-purpose beast, the little donkey, still bear the main burden.

"Spain is doing a better job of running its own economy than ever before," said an American businessman who is stationed here. "It's based on self-help, too. Since Spain took a tack in its pantaloons four years ago, cut its wishes to complain to the Ministry of Finance that his professional committee has placed an unfair tax burden on him, he is free to do so. At that point the ministry says, 'We want no injustices. We will send an expert to examine your books and adjust matters fairly.'"

To date, not a single complaint has been filed.

Columnist Opens His Mail Early

BY HAL ROYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

A California survey of 500 drivers arrested speeding in the wrong lanes found many of them were unconsciously expressing hostility after matrimonial quarrels.

"On the other hand, psychologists have found: bowling is a ready and harmless release for the anger and frustration raised by friction within the family. If you're mad at someone, you merely look at the head pin, whisper the name, throw the ball and — whammo! Down it goes, symbolically, and you feel better."

President John F. Kennedy at the age of 14 joined his older brother and another school pal in writing a letter to the commander-in-chief to request permission volunteering to serve in that famous desert military unit.

Some manufacturers estimate that in the next five years 50 percent of road vehicles will be rented or leased rather than individually owned.

This year is the 180th anniversary of man's first air voyage. On Nov. 21, 1783, two Frenchmen flew a balloon for two hours and 10 minutes over the rooftops of Paris. They traveled six miles and reached an altitude of more than 3,000 feet.

Less than 30 percent of the world's three billion-plus people are Christian.

You can save up to 30 percent or more by sending your son or daughter to a college in the South or Midwest—instead of an Ivy League-type school in the Northeast.

No insurance company would issue a policy on the "Mona Lisa" during its visit here, because the masterpiece was considered priceless. However, 20 companies now have banded together into a syndicate to offer insurance on art treasures to be brought here during the New York World's Fair.

The spider is the latest occupational victim of the space age. Spider webs once used as cross-hairs in optical instruments, are being replaced by lines etched directly on the glass.

Psychologists say one of the best ways to relieve your own tensions in living is to help someone else in trouble.

It was Thomas Carlyle who advised, "Make yourself an honest man and then you may be sure there is one racial less in the world."

To Silence Phone Tape

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Muenchen, Muenchen, Muenchen, says a voice at the other end of the telephone line.

It's a tape recording letting you know you have just dialed into the Munich exchange from somewhere else in West Germany and now can select the local number you want.

But too many people get homesick and dial their hometown just to hear its name, says the German post office. Others like to hear names of towns over the telephone just for fun.

Therefore, the post office gradually will discontinue the recorded city identifications in its direct dialing system. Cologne will be the first on June 16. The other eight cities with taped names will be silenced later.

Remembering the tapes will not change the operation of the direct dialing system that links most West German cities and West Berlin without the aid of a human operator.

However, only silence will greet the homesick Bavarian who dials 0811, the code for Munich, from other German cities.

Junior Editors Quiz on GREECE

QUESTION: What was the Golden Age?

ANSWER: The earliest myths of the ancient Greeks tell of the creation of the universe—first, of a black hole called Chaos. Out of this came Uranus (Heaven) and Gaia (Earth). They had 12 children, the Titans. One of these overthrew Uranus and ruled instead. He was sometimes called Saturn and sometimes Cronus and is often represented as a bent old man with a sickle, symbolizing the harvest. His reign was spoken of as the Golden Age, when everyone was happy and innocent; the earth bore its fruits without being tilled.

Later came a real period in Greek history which we speak of today as the Golden Age. The city state of Athens became prosperous and under the leadership of Pericles, a fine general and brilliant statesman, entered into a time of such progress that its achievements are said to be among the most important foundation stones of our Western civilization. The foundations of democracy were laid at this time; art and architecture rose to beauty unknown before. Thought, philosophy, education—all flourished in Athens. Athenians exercised their bodies as well as their minds. And yet, this brilliant period came to an end. (Historians say that the Greek states quarrelled so violently among themselves that they tore each other apart and were taken over by the Roman Empire.)

FOR YOU TO DO: Look up in an encyclopedia the names of three styles of Greek architecture, which reached a high point during the Golden Age.

Thanks, Dad!

It is Father's Day! May we honor the guy whose heart is as tender as a woman's... the fellow whose respect is as genuine as that of a mother. This nationally celebrated day for Father didn't come too soon. For Dad is the guy who dared the wiles of the forest and the death-dealing miseries of the prairie, to insure added comforts for Mom, and Sue, and Dan. The taming of the west is actually the story of gruff old 'Pop' in his triumph over difficulty and danger to make a finer future for those he loved. He was the hardy pathmaker for our feet. Gifts for Father? Yes, but much better would be a gracious, kind word of thanks for all his sacrifices through the year. On this celebrated day, say a prayer to the great Father God, for happiness and comradeship, that will soften the burdens of the remaining years, and make the last ones truly his most Golden Years.
