City Planning & Advisory Committee Elects Butler

21 Appointed by Mayor To Study Town Problems

By RUTH COFFEY
Record News Editor

A new corps of unpaid civic aides came to life this week as consultants on city affairs without portfolio.

Twenty-one citizens appointed to the City Planning & Advisory Committee by Mayor H. T. Berman met in City Hall Tuesday evening for an organizational session.

Dan Butler, Colorado City attorney, was elected chairman of the new committee. Wayne Shawn, senior vice-president of City National Bank, was named vice-chairman and Mrs. Frank Derigibus was chosen secretary.

Committeemen drew numbers for length of terms to be served by each. New members of the committee will be appointed by Colorado City's mayor to fill posts vacated by expiring terms.

Three-year terms will be served by R. B. Baker, Bob Reily, A. L. Geer, Rev. C. C. Beck, J. Ralph Lee, Don Benson, Philip Berman.

To serve for a period of two years are Bob Ratliff, Mrs. W. K. Cowan, Bob Robinson, Fred McKay, Mrs. Derigibus, Charles Freeman, Manuel Rivera.

One year terms were drawn by Shawn, John Merritt, Dr. Bill Rhody, Jim Edison, Butler, Jay Adams, and Father Edwin Krzewinski.

Formation of the City planning & Advisory Committee came after a resolution offered to City Council by Dr. John Chinn, councilman. The body was set up for study of all city problems, present and future.

Essentially, the committee appointed by the mayor, will make detailed study of problems demanding quick action and will then make recommendation to City Council. In addition, the committee hopes, Chairman Butler said, to help the city plan for progress on a long range scope by study of problems marked "tomorrow or next year."

"This committee can not appropriate money, build roads, pass ordinances," Butler said. "It is purely a planning and advisory body which will seek to educate townspeople on city problems, help the council and plan for the ultimate good of all Colorado City now and later on."

READY FOR RACE

Six Hats in Ring For School Board

Colorado Independent School Board race developed into a free-for-all this week with the filing of six candidates for two posts on the board.

Last to file, late Wednesday afternoon on the deadline date, was Jim Maddox.

Jim Maddox, who lives with his wife and school-age son at 827 Elm St., operates extensive ranch interests in southeast Mitchell County. Mr. and Mrs. Maddox are also parents of a grown son. The Maddox family are members of Presbyterian Church.

Three other names added to the ballot this week are those of Forrest Yancey, A. M. Holman and Fred McKay. Early filers Curtis E. Latimer and R. Y. Hammond complete the ballot.

Forrest Yancey, Col-Tex Refinery employee since April, 1948, lives with his wife and two children at 942 Rusk St. His son is a fifth grader, his daughter in the fourth grade. Yancey is general repairman and trouble-shooter for electrical equipment which operates the Trust Pipeline. Yancey is a member of St. Luke's Methodist Church.

A. H. Holman is a farmer-stockman in Looney Community where he has lived for 25 years. He is father of two daughters, both graduates of Colorado High School and Abilene Christian College. Active in civic affairs, he was instrumental in the consolidation of Colorado Independent School District. He attends First Methodist Church where he is former member of the official board and former president of the men's Bible Class. Holman is a Lion, a Band Booster and former president of the Quarterback Club here. He is a graduate of East Texas State Teachers College Training School.

Fred McKay, active in First Baptist Church where he is a deacon and superintendent of Adult II Department in Sunday School, is manager of Safeway Store in Colorado City. He and Mrs. McKay, who live at 1405 Eastover, are parents of a son in Colorado High and a son in college. McKay is a Lions Club active member and a member of the Chamber of Commerce here.

Holman's Statement To Voters

A. M. Holman, who filed his intention of seeking election to Colorado Independent School District Board this week, made his campaign statement to the public today.

"If you want to vote for someone with an ax to grind, please don't vote for me," Holman said.

"My chief concern for seeking a place on the board is my untiring interest in the education of our boys and girls. The youth of today will be our leaders tomorrow. So, may we continue working diligently to achieve the highest academic, moral and competitive standards.

"I think we have a fine upgrading schools system and, in order to keep climbing, we must continue the search for

9th Grade Student Wounded

Glenn Standefer, seriously wounded about 6 p. m. Wednesday, was said by members of his family to be improving and resting well at noon Thursday.

Standefer, 15-year-old son of Mrs. Virginia Standefer and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Eual Henderson of 1744 Chestnut St., underwent surgery in Root Memorial Hospital last night after one shot from a 22 caliber rifle pierced his body.

The ninth-grade student, witnesses said, shot himself after driving up in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rip Wallace, 962 East 13th St. and shouting "Look here!" as Mrs. Wallace and her daughter, Joan drove into the driveway.

He was rushed by ambulance to the hospital where three doctors operated for removal of a bullet which entered his abdomen.

His condition, while serious, was not believed to be critical, according to his mother who is laboratory technician at Rhode-Cowan Clinic here.

Mrs. Standefer said Thursday that the incident occurred after the youth had quarreled with the ninth-grade girl he had been dating.

Two for Three In Council Race

City Council candidates still add up to two for three seats to be vacated April 7.

With filing deadline date Saturday March 7, only two citizens had filed intentions of standing for election by Thursday afternoon.

First to file was Henry L. Lewis. Late Wednesday, Dr. John H. Chinn, one of the three councilmen in the 3, whose terms are due to expire in April, filed for re-election to his post.

Friday Is Last Day For Voting Receipt

Tomorrow will be Friday, March 6.

That makes tomorrow an important deadline date for citizens who want to vote in the National Election in November, minus the poll tax receipt.

Until 5 p. m. March 6 any citizen of legal voting age can obtain a receipt granting the right to vote for National offices (only) when General Election time comes.

Exactly 20 Mitchell County citizens have taken advantage of the new registration for non-poll-tax payers up until today, said Montie Hardegree, tax-assessor-collector.

General Election will bring two ballots to this county and to all Texas counties. Holders of poll tax receipts can vote in all city, county, district, state and national elections including primary elections to be held by both Democrats and Republicans.

Holders of the receipts of registration, marked "no poll tax paid, may vote for all National offices — congressmen, senators, the President and Vice-President of the United States.

Repeal of the poll tax on a National scale came about recently with ratification of the amendment making it unnecessary for poll tax or any other tax to be paid for the right to vote in a National Election.

Tomorrow is the last day any citizen in Texas can as the National House of Representative and the Senate

Truman Nix: A Coach With Pride

One thing for certain about Truman Nix, the new head coach for Colorado High:

He's a man of pride.

And you chat only a few minutes with him before learning he wants the same ingredient in his schoolboy athletes pride in themselves, their school, team and accomplishments.

Something more:

Accomplishments for an athletic team, according to Nix standards, can't always be measured on the scoreboard.

* * *

NATURALLY, with his coaching success at Wink with 60 victories against 21 defeats and 1 tie, much of Nix's teams have found pride in accomplishments that tally up on the scoreboard.

Infact, there's a special proudness in the 1963 Wink Class A team than won for Nix his 100th football triumph as a coach.

"But there's more to athletics than that," the happy faced coach quickly adds.

"An athletic program is part of the whole educational program," Nix explains, "and we never want to isolate it from the rest of school.

"For it's just a part of the educational system not any more and not any less important than any part of the total program."

* * *

NIX, WHO will come here in mid-April to begin his duties as head coach and athletic director at Colorado High, conferred with school board members more than once before being named to the position succeeding Sam Christy.

Saturday he joined three other head coaches of San Saba, of San Antonio and of Eldorado — for final interviews among 49 original applicants.

As one official put it, "we'd like to have hired all four." But the nod went to Nix, who at 38, has moved up the ranks to one of the most respected high school mentors in West Texas championship teams in 5 out of 7 years at Wink.

Twice he was beaten by Seagraves for the district title—last fall and the year before. But it was by only an 18 to 20 margin in 1962 and 6 to 14 in 1963.

In those championship years his Wink gridders won three Regional Class B titles the highest competition for Class B schools; Class A bi-district (1960) title and a Class A state semi-final berth (1961) where Wink was defeated by the eventual state champ, Albany.

"PARENTS HAVE an awful lot to do with the success of a youngster," Nix says, "and I want to know parents . . . know 'em well so they will have the right influence.

"I have 3 boys of my own and I want those parents to know I want to coach their boys just as I would want somebody to coach my boys.

"I want my coaching to stay with 'em all their lives.

"So, my coaching has to be good.

"And I try awful hard to practice fairness. That's important to a boy."

* * *

ACTUALLY, Nix's coming to Colorado High is something like a homecoming. For the 5-foot, 9½-inch, 205-pound McMurry graduate, is a native of Loraine.

His wife is a Loraine gal —the former Mavis Webb of the Lester Webb family, a granddaughter of Mrs. J. M. Thompson and niece of Mrs. Keith Miles.

The Nix children — Glen, 14 and high school freshman; Randy, 12, in 7th grade; Dewain, 10, fourth grader, and Candy, 3½, have visited in Mitchell County, too.

But family takes a back seat, so to speak, when the football campaign begins. Yet, Nix isn't a one sport man.

"I'm convinced a school needs a strong overall athletic program," he tells you, with a view of a real athletic director, not just a football coach.

* * *

"In a strong overall program a kid can do what he is able to do and enjoy it.

"My duty is to offer him what he can do.

"And I don't want any one sport to overshadow others."

AT THE SAME time, though, Nix doesn't want one sport interferring with another. He believes in sports by the season.

"In season," he explains it, "that particular sport is No. 1. After that, then the next season's sport is No. 1."

To put it more plainly — the Nix idea is to play football during football season, basketball during basketball season, and right on down the line.

"And I don't want ever to discourage a boy from doing what he wants to do in sports," he emphasizes.

This policy doesn't seem to have hurt team records or individual accomplishments at Wink. For Nix now has coached 5 all-state boys at Wink, watched 3 play in the Texas High School Coaches

SENATOR YARBOROUGH REPORTS

Tax Cut Planned To Increase Job

BY RALPH YARBOROUGH
U. S. SENATOR

The United States Senate voted this week 74 to 19 for final passage of the bill for a tax cut of $11,545,000,000. I have been advocating a substantial tax cut for seven years and I'm pleased to have been among the overwhelming majority that supported this badly needed tax cut.

Why was it needed?

First, to give some relief to American taxpayers overburdened by high taxes ever since World War II.

Second, because our economy has been plagued by a dangerously high unemployment rate, a rate that has never fallen below 5½ per cent in the last six years, a rate certain to rise even higher had there been no tax cut. We have 70 million people employed, and all-time high. Yet, we had 5½ per cent unemployment, between four and five million workers. This tax cut was an effort to create new jobs to alleviate unemployment.

Individuals in Texas will benefit some $467 million in wages from this tax cut. The deductible rate on the weekly or monthly salary checks have been cut from 18 per cent to 14 per cent.

Of equal importance is the fact that this tax cut, with the stimulation of $35 to $40 billion a year more in the Gross National Product, will mean some two million more jobs nationwide when the tax cut is effected than if there had been no reduction. This estimate by the Labor Department and other government authorities takes into consideration the fact that there would have been a further rise in unemployment rate without the tax cut.

The 88th Congress is not relying on this tax cut alone to combat unemployment. We passed five major education bills, the best education record of any Congress since the Orill Land Grant College Act was passed in 1862 and signed by Abraham Lincoln. The Senate has passed a Youth Employment Act, now pending in the House of Representatives to help create jobs for your young people by a Youth Conservation Corps, similar to the old Civilian Conservation Corps camps.

The President has called for a high level commission on automation, because automation is cutting out a million and a quarter jobs a year. The Area Redevelopment Administration, a cooperative program with local government and businesses, has created more than 1600 new jobs in Texas. Fifty-five counties in Texas are eligible to take part. In addition, we have created many thousands of jobs by the accelerated Public Works programs for local cities and towns in Texas and elsewhere.

DEQUATE CONTROL OF

The 'Bollworm Complex'

IN MITCHELL COUNTY

This is the second in a series of reports in The Record by agriculture specialists concerning profitable cotton production in Mitchell County. The reports were prepared for the recent clinic in Loraine sponsored by Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative Inc.

By DON R. RUMMEL
Area Extension Entomologist
Texas A&M Extension Development

The control of insects attacking cotton is a major consideration in most cotton producing areas of the United States. Adequate insect control will in many cases mean the difference between profit and loss. Although cotton is attacked by many insects, I will confine this discussion to what I consider the most critical insect problem in our area.

The "bollworm complex" is composed of two closely related species, the bollworm and the tobacco budworm. The larval stages of these two insects are almost identical in appearance. The life cycle and habits are also very similar. The tobacco budworm has been known as a pest of cotton for many years, however, only in recent years has it become a major pest in Texas. Insecticides such as DDT, most of these pests are today much less effective and in some cases completely ineffective at reasonable dosages. Bollworm and bollworm resistance to DDT has been found in many areas of Texas as well as other states. Lower levels of resistance to endrin, toxaphene, and methyl parathion have been noted this past year.

The list of chemicals which are recommended for boll worm control in Texas grows smaller each year. These pests can still be controlled with the available chemicals, however control is difficult and depends more than ever on the ability of the individual farm.

In planning an adequate bollworm control program we should first consider the control of early season insects and the resulting effect on the bollworm population. We consider early season as that period from plant emergence until fruiting. During this thrips aphids and sometimes spide mites and overwintered boll weevils are the pests we are most concerned with.

In mose cases pests can be controlled during the early season before fruiting begins without affecting the boll worm population. In areas where thrips and or aphids are often a problem in early season, the use of a systemic insecticide applied with the seed at planting time might be considered. These materials will usually give from 4 to 6 weeks control of thrips, aphids, and mites.

However, this effectiveness does not extend long enough to control fleahoppers. The cost of these materials, about $3.50 per acre, should also be considered, especially if replanting is often necessary. If the farmer does not depend upon a systemic for control during this period, he should check his field often using insecticides only when necessary.

Fleahoppers which usually appear about fruiting time begins and often continue throughout the season, present a more serious problem. Heavy fleahopper population if allowed to go unchecked will often cause considerable yeild loss. On the other hand the use of insecticides after fruiting begins may upset the natural population of beneficial insects to the extent that an early build up of bollworms is encouraged.

What then should the farmer do for fleahopper control? First check the field often during the early fruiting period for fleahoppers. Check not only for the presence of fleahoppers, but also for the degree of damage to the plant. Fleahoppers will damage the very small forms not the larger squares. An infestation of 15 to 25% in early fruiting cotton is usually considered enough to spray for. However, once cotton is growing off well and fruiting heavily, large populations can often be tolerated without damage to the cotton. If based upon the fleahopper count and damage, control is deemed necessary, then one of the recommended insecticides should be used.

Using insecticides at the minimum rate, the farmer should attempt to reduce the fleahopper population below economic levels so that the cottin can set fruit, but not necessarily clean the field of all insect life. Once the fleahopper population has been knocked down, avoid further use of insecticide, if possible to allow the natural population of beneficial insect to reestablish themselves. The key here is again careful observation of the field and knowing when and when not to spray.

After fruiting has begun, the grower should check his cotton at least 2 to 3 times per week for bollworms and bollworm eggs. Control should begin when 4 to 5 small worms and eggs are found per 100 plants. Keeping in mind the fact that only small worms can be successfully controlled, the farmer should attempt to apply insecticide just before or shortly after egg hatch. A careful check of the field should be made within at least two days after spraying to see if adequate control was obtained. If not, a second application should be applied within 24 hours.

By careful checking, a farmer can determine the necessary interval at which to apply insecticides. In most cases the interval will be 5 to 7 days for several sprayings. If good control has been obtained and additional egg laying is not evident, this interval can often be extended. However, under heavy infestations 2 to 3 day intervals may be necessary. Under very heavy infestations, or where poor control appears evident, Methyl parathion at the rate of ½ to 1 pound per acre added to one of the recommended insecticides will improve control.

The following points should be carefully considered in bollworm control:

1. Follow a carefully planned early season control program. Use insecticides based upon careful checking, avoiding the unnecessary use of chemicals. Don't rely upon beneficial insects entirely but give them the chance to work for you when possible.

2. Check fields closely for bollwims; catch the worms when they are small, 1-3 days old. Keep a close watch for bollworm eggs.

3. Once a control program is started, be ready to follow a schedule. Close observation will tell you how often to spray.

4. Use a recommended insecticide at the recommended rate, making sure that the spray machine is properly calabrated and that you are getting good plant coverage.

5. Under heavy infestations or when a kill is missed, use maximum rates and add Methyl parathion.

In summary, the successful control of the "bollworm complex" will depend on a good, well-timed spray program; and the utilization of natural populations of beneficial insects. There are no miracle insecticides available this year which will solve the problem. The possibility that the "bollworm complex" will continue to develop resistance to present chemicals is not at all unlikely.

The development of a new class of chemicals, as opposed to the present chlorinated hydrocarbons, carbamates, and organophosphates might solve the problem for the time at least. Research on a polyhedral virus which attacks bollworms and budworms also appears promising. Until such new methods are perfected, we will have to get along with what we have.

MEET IN MEDALLION ROOM

County Health And Welfare Discussed For Hesperians

Health and Welfare in Mitchell County were topic for discussion at the Friday afternoon meeting of the Hesperian Study Club in Medallion Room of the Lone Wolf Coop building.

Mrs. Mike Hammans spoke on health in the local schools of which she is official nurse. Welfare in Mitchell County was the subject of a talk by Mrs. Bonnie Burt of the local Red Cross organization.

School nurse, Mrs. Hammans, told of the dental check-ups each school child receives in October. A local dentist donates one day to the examinations. Reports are then sent to the parents of each child that they may check further if the report shows that dental care is needed. Mrs. Hammans said that twenty to thirty percent of parents respond to these report.

"We do not have a city-wide health council organization in our town, but there is some work being done by the county on part time public health nursing," Mrs. Hammans told club members.

The school nurse described health safeguards that are practiced in the schools. Each school has first aid supplies readily available for scratches, bumps and bruises, which are tended by the teachers. If a child is injured more than a scratch, the school nurse is called to administer first aid, Mrs. Hammans said.

"We have well balanced meals in all of our cafeterias. Mothers do not help but our teachers do," she said.

Mrs. Hammans told of the nap period set aside for first graders the first two months of the school term. Each child brings a small rug or mat to rest on after lunch each day. The nurse told next of weighing and measuring each child in the first three grades twice a year, in September and May. She said that these figures are listed on report cards as well as permanent individual records.

She said that although the classroom teachers do not give vision and hearing test, they are always on the alert for these deficiences. When a child shows signs of visual or hearing difficulties, the nurse immediately goes to the school and tests the child. All children in the school system receive a vision and hearing test sometime during the year, she said.

Medical examinations are not made except on special education students and these students whom school officials and the school nurse believ are in need of medical attention and whose parents are not financially able to pay for it, the nurse said. After gaining the parents' consent, the child is taken to a doctor and examined free of charge. If medicine or surgery is needed, local service clubs are asked for funds to pay for the care necessary. Mrs. Hammans reported that she had never been refused of financial aid by these clubs.

Another job handled by the school nurse is that children who show emotional immaturity and need extra attention and affection.

"The Heaf test for tuberculosis is given each year to the third, sixth, ninth and twelth grades. These are given by me and the positive ones are X-raved. Before I give the TB test I obtain the signed consent of the parents. The TB Assn. furnishes the vaccine," Mrs. Hammans told her audience.

Smallpox vaccinations are required of every child in local schools and the DPT shots are recommended along with the Salk and Sabin polio immunization, she said. Those children unable to pay for the smallpox vaccination receive it free. The vaccine is obtained by the county health doctor from the state health department and is administeded by the school nurse.

Mrs. Burt said that there are three welfare organizations locally, the County, Red Cross and Salvation Army. These organizations cooperate with churches and clubs in welfare operations for the town and county. Cases are discussed by all of these organizations to prevent duplication, she said.

The speaker said that Mitchell County does not have a county welfare department; that county welfare is decided by the county judge and the commissioned s court. Also there is no surplus commodities program here as in surrounding counties.

Welfare agencies in Colorado City and Mitchell County include Department of Public Welfare, Old Age Assistance Aid to Dependent Children, Blind and Total Disability Compensation, Child Welfare and Social Security, Mrs. Burt said.

She told of help given to servicemen and their families and exservicemen and their families by the Red Cross, also of the work being done for civilians. Welfare is given to persons in need of every race, she said.

Leader for the day's program for Hesperian members was Mrs. Raymond Perdue. Mrs. Bennett Scott was hostess. Guests attending were Mmes. Lessie Costin, J. D. Gibson, Charles Williams, C. P. Gary, Hammans, Burt.

Meeting was attended by members, Mmes. Lynn Halbert, J. E. Hale, Perdue, Otto Jones, J. A. Sadler, O. L. Simpson, F. N. Thomas, C. C. Thompson, Sam Thompson, J. W. Watson, E. H. Winn, Scott, M. E. Miller, S. O. Wulfjen, Misses Mable Smith, Clydine Stickney.

Mrs. Jones will host the next club meeting on March 13. Program will be on Texas.

Hesperian Officers for '64

Mrs. J. W. Watson, center, president-elect of the Hesperian Study Club, poses with other officers-elect of the club for the 1964 study season. Mrs. Sam Thompson, left back row, will be First vice president, with Mrs. J. E. Hale, right back row, as treasurer. Mrs. Charles C. Thompson, left front row, is the newly elected second vice president. Mrs. E. H. Winn, right front row, handles publicity for the club. Other officers for the new year are Mrs. J. D. White, recording secretary and Mrs. Perry Barber, corresponding secretary.

Grandma, a spry old lady, is left to "guard" the money while the family attends a school play.

Chevelle 300 6-Passenger Station Wagon

Chevelle balanced performance is best!

Passing, cornering, threading through traffic, sudden stops—Chevelle excels all around! Chevrolet's new surprise package has what it takes to meet any driving challenge: Six or V8 engines, hefty brakes, Full Coil suspension—and a trim size that makes the most of them!

Chevelle means performance aplenty—standard 120-hp Six or 195-hp V8—and optional at extra cost, a 155-hp Six, a 220-hp V8, a new 327-cu.-in. V8! But Chevelle's performance means more. Chevelle's a foot shorter than the big cars. And the space Chevelle saves in size comes off the ends, not the middle. So it rides like you want a car to ride.

Chevelle lets you choose Powerglide*, 4-speed manual*, or 3-speed manual transmission. Knowing how people like the custom touch, we wrote out a long list of extra-cost options.

Knowing all this, what's keeping you from a test drive? Certainly not your Chevrolet dealer!

COMMITTEE—

First problem on the agenda at the Tuesday evening meeting was a study planned by the committee of sewerage line extension needs in the city.

That problem, a perennial puzzle not solved because of cost and rocky terrain in South Colorado City residential areas, has brought delegations and petitions to City Council for at least a decade. City Planning & Advisory Committee will tackle all phases of the sewer line extension headache.

Bob Robinson was appointed by Butler as chairman of the Sewerage Study Committee with Rev. Beck and Ratliff as co-workers. The committee will report at the next meeting of City Planning & Advisory Committee.

Also set for the near future is to be an appearance by Bennett Reeves, consulting engineer of Parkhill-Smith Cooper, Lubbock firm which serves Colorado City as consulting engineers. Reeves will bring facts and figures relative to sewerage expansion and city development in general.

All the committee's 21 members will serve on a Petition Committee. All members will receive copies of a petition recil, one declared not in proper form when studied by City Attorney John M. Worrell Sr.

The entire committee will also receive soon a briefing on the city's financial condition in order that problems, plans and dollars can be kept in balance, Butler said.

J. Ralph Lee was appointed a one-man committee to keep the new citywide committee informed on progress of the move to obtain access roads in the Interstate 20 area.

Chalked up for future work by City Planning & Advisory Committee is a problem marked "adequate housing, building development to encourage and stimulate growth of Colorado City," the chairman said.

Three city officials attended the first session of the newly organized board. They were Dr. Chinn and Skeet Harkins, city councilmen, Fred Merritt, city manager, and Worrell, city attorney.

"I HAVE a strong feeling that mental attitude is just as important as physical."

"I want a boy to have desire to participate and excell where he can.

"Not every one can participate in the same sport and I encourage my boys to participate in different sports."

What about discipline?

Apparently, it has never been a problem to Nix, who with his wife, finds plenty of time for active church work as well as school and sports. He's superintendent of the intermediate department of the Wink Baptist church and Mrs. Nix is leader for the church's Young Women's Association.

"There are lots of things an athlete can't afford to do," Nix believes.

* * *

"THE FIRST thing he must decide is whether or not he wants to pay the price. Will he sacrifice.

"This he must decide himself. It isn't all physical either. A lot is mental because he must think and act as an athlete.

"So, if a boy decides he wants to be an athlete, then the disciplinary problems take care of themselves."

Nix is proud of the fact that he has had to kick only 2 boys off his football teams in all the years he has been coaching—from 1949 when he was an assistant at Hamlin, to his tenure at Rule, then at Andrews, a short fight later at Hamlin as head mentor and, then at Wink.

"Any time a boy is old enough to be an athlete," he makes it plain, "that boy is old enough to know right from wrong."

* * *

That's where Nix's idea of pride comes in again. His teams have a habit of developing pride in doing the right thing for athletes without a lot of unnecessary "don'ts."

"We do have a curfew," the coach stated, "and the night before a game we want the boys at home except for school activity or an emergency.

Nix teams operate with a multiple split T offense that varies with a flanker and T formation both run from straight and pro type formations. Defensively, his team basically used a 5-3 defense, rotating from that.

* * *

He likes a well balanced offense using the pass as a weapon, not for desperation or frustration.

"We've averaged about 10 or 12 passes a game, I suppose," over the last couple of years," he recalled. "We've thrown as many as 20.

"But I've been blessed with passers most of the time."

One thing for sure, Nix keeps a definite time schedule for his football workouts.

"My boys before they go out to the practice field," he says, " will know what they will be doing every minute in the workout.

"They'll know when they will quit, too.

"We never stay out over 2 hours 15 minutes. And that time is usually cut down as the season progresses.

Every 30 minutes during a workout Nix stops his squad for 5 minutes of rest. During that 5 minute break the players take one salt tablet and 10 ounces of water, then rest on one knee while the coaches talk.

The rest schedule with salt and water is a policy developed on advise of doctors who consulted with the University of Texas football coaches.

"This cuts down heat fatigue and the possibility of heat stroke," Nix reports. "Besides, we think it makes for a lot better attitude on the field.

"I think a kid has the right to know what he is going to do before he goes out on the practice field. Knowing, he can better condition his mind to what he is going to do."

But Nix's concern for his boys doesn't end at the practice or game field. It goes on and on . . . right to college.

That's why he has been active in responsible assignments with the Texas High School Coaches Association since 1958. That's why he is a member of American Football Coaches Association and on personal speaking terms with coaches in colleges all across the state.

"I like for my boys to have every opportunity for college," he emphasizes.

And those college acquaintences don't hurt at all when colleges start looking the high schools over for those athletes who'll receive athletic scholarships.
